UP $2 MILLION FROM PREVIOUS YEAR

Floyd Bank Deposits Over $34 Million

According to the December 31, 1975 bank call, Floyd County's two banks had deposits of $34,034,598.81, up more than two million dollars from the December 31, 1974 call, when the total was $31,946,364.96.

The latest bank call showed loans at the Floyd County banks totalled $13,710,813.74, slightly over the 1974 total of $13,463,549.73.

Deposits at the Floyd County banks thus kept pace with those at other banks in the area, most of which also showed increases in deposits.

Floyd County bankers agreed that the rise in deposits indicated that the so-called "recession" has not affected this area as much as other parts of the country.

Deposits on December 31, 1975 at First National Bank in Lockney were $12,826,980.22, compared to $11,997,287.25 a year ago. Loans were $5,694,120.49, up slightly from $5,361,433.52 in 1974. Gene Collins, Jr. at Lockney FNB said the higher loan total might be attributed to the 1975 grain crop not yet being sold.

At First National Bank in Floydada, deposits on December 31, 1975 were $21,207,558.59, compared to $19,949,077 in 1974. Loans were $8,016,693.25, down slightly from 8,102,116.21 the previous year.

Vital Statistics In County See Little Change

Very little change was noted in vital statistics for 1975 in Floyd County. Marriage license were down, births up, deaths up and divorces granted were two less than in 1974.

Births showed an increase of 22 for both hospitals in the county, but this number does not mean necessarily that the babies were born to Floyd County residents.

Births in the county showed a total of 377 for 1975. There were 355 babies born in the county in 1974. Deaths in the county were up by eight. There were 85 deaths in the county for 1975 and 77 in 1974.

Divorces in the county declined by two. There were 33 divorces granted in 1974, and 31 granted in 1975.

Not as many people married in Floyd County in 1975 as in 1974. There were 122 marriage licenses issued in 1974 and only 99 issued in 1975.

ENERGY CONSERVATION

Many homeowners could cut their homes' energy waste in half and substantially reduce their heating and cooling costs, simply by installing such readily available improvements as caulking and weatherstripping, storm windows and doors, and building insulation.

If all the 40 million owner-occupied homes in America had these improvements, the country could save the equivalent of 500,000 barrels of oil per day.

The attic accounts for a major percentage of home energy waste. Insulation provides the best way to economically reduce this waste.

Even as little as six inches of Fiberglas attic insulation, installed in an average size uninsulated attic (1,000 square feet) can save a homeowner from $50 to $200 a year on fuel bills, and in most cases pay for itself in just a few years or less.

Once a homeowner has saved enough in fuel to pay for the insulation he installed (and the pay-back period is likely to shorten as energy costs continue to increase) every subsequent year is money in a homeowner's pocket—instead of money through the roof.

In severe climates, or in areas where energy costs are unusually high, The National Bureau of Standards (NBS) says that 12 or more inches of insulation can be economically justified. Even in milder climates, says the NBS, about 10 inches of insulation may be economically justified at current high energy prices.

For exact recommendations on how much insulation is right for a given home, experts advise homeowners to consult local building supply dealers.

To insulate doors and windows against heat loss or gain, experts advise the use of caulking and weatherstripping and storm doors and windows.

No College Classes Here Due To Lack Of Federal Funds

According to Leon Harris of the local Occupational Center, there are no college classes conducted in the area as last year, due to a lack of federal funds.

In order to receive a government grant there must be a minimum of 30 students per class enrolled, and that number was not reached, according to Harris.

Kathy Green of the Community Action Center.

Mrs. Green said however, that even though classes will not be taught in Floydada, she has information on classes which are being conducted in Plainview and their schedules.

Anyone interested may contact her at the Center by calling 983-3134.

For 92,135 of these job openings.

At the end of the fiscal year, more Texas employers were covered by the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act than ever before—207,631, up 5,783 from the previous fiscal year. These employers paid $15.6 billion dollars in taxable wages to workers in the year ending June 30, 1975.

In spite of national economic problems, the Texas labor force registered a 3.2 percent gain from August, 1974, reaching an estimated 5,367,900 workers.

Commission employees made 413,583 job placements during the year, at the same time handling the heaviest unemployment claim load in the history of the agency and performing the other regular responsibilities of the agency.

Although job placements declined slightly during the year because of employment cutbacks, the TEC emphasis on increased services to Texas employers and on the placement of applicants in productive employment remained evident. The agency made 1,334,390 referrals to jobs. Veterans were hired

Dr. Hejl also said that through January 8 APHIS will continue to cooperate with Texas in carrying out the brucellosis program, including the payment of indemnities to owners of infected cattle.

Remedial Students Define Snow

Students of Remedial Reading, 7th and 8th grades of Debra Marley, in Floydada Junior High, listed their definitions of snow just before the holidays. Some define snow very serious, other playful, while one described it as Christmas is fun but it only comes once a year and it is Christ's birthday by Yolanda. Sorry we couldn't make out the last name. Listed are a few more:

Pat Lee says snow is nice and cool, you can play in it, so lets make a snow man; one was unsigned but read snow is wet and cold, you can throw it, eat it, and make a man out of it; Robert Irlas says its cold and he likes to make snowballs out of it; Jimmy Martinez describes it this way, snow is fun, sometimes, snow is like white fire, when falling looks like white cold sand;

Teresa Irlas says snow is white and bright, it can melt with the sunlight and dance through the night; Margie rage this season. Skirt lengths of course are below the knee again, and for stylish look, your coat should be, too. If you still have a mid coat, you're in luck, it will fit in perfectly with current styles. But if you're planning on buying a new coat, in addition to selecting one with the proper length, remember to choose one loose enough to go over the bulky sweaters and check to see if the collar and neckline are appropriate for showing off your favorite scarves.

AN area minister remark recently, "Come to church Sunday, then go home and watch the Cowboys play ball!" Speaking of football, I read where the Bi-district trophy won by Caprock High School at Amarillo, must be given to Lubbock High, but they get to keep their district trophy they earned. UIL rules tells it like it is.

WE won't have to get our pliers and screwdrivers when it comes time to change our car tags this year. Instead of metal plates we will be issued small red, white and blue stickers which are to be placed in the upper left-hand corner of our present plates. So now, we won't have to "tell" our husband to get those new plates on, we can do it ourself.

THE Union City Methodist Church in Georgia has done some research and come up with this announcement: "There is no excuse for you not going to church this Sunday."

The Methodists give these

- 1. A cot in the foyer for those who say Sunday is their only day to sleep.
- 2. Medication for those with eyes too tired from watching the Saturday evening show.
- 3. Helmets for those who say, "The roof might fall in."
- 4. Blankets for those who think the sanctuary is too cold; fans for those who think it is too hot.
- 5. Hearing aids for those who think the organ is too soft, and cotton for those who think it is too loud.
- 6. A portable television set conveniently placed for those who can't miss the football game.
- 7. Free television dinners for those who can't cook and attend church, too.
- 8. Isolation booths for those who can't stand crowds on Sunday but are not bothered by this phobia while shopping the rest of the week.

That just about takes in everybody except those "sinners" who don't want to be "saved," come Hell or Salvation!

Trapping Season Underway

Lubbock - Many Texas sportsmen are cleaning their rifles and planning for next fall but a few are participating in an ancient winter sport, trapping.

Fur prices are showing a comeback as the trapping season progresses with one buyer paying $43 for a large prime bobcat. Most buyers are paying $20-$40 for bobcat; $7-$8 for coyote and $5-$10 for raccoon.

Competition between buyers and trappers is increasing as the prices move up with trappers hauling their furs to the highest bidder. Only top dollar is being paid for prime pelts that are either brought in as a carcass or cased the way the buyer wants it done.

The open season for taking pelts for mink is November 15 through January 15; muskrat, November 15 through January 31 and all other fur-bearing animals, December 1 through January 31.

Fur-bearing animals include: badger, beaver, fox, mink, muskrat, opossum, otter, raccoon, ring-tailed cat, skunk (polecat) and wild civet. Bobcat and coyote are not considered fur-bearers and can be taken any time of the year but prime pelts on these two animals occur from November through March.

A license is required of those who take for the purpose of barter or sale of pelts of any fur-bearing animal in Texas. Special licenses are available for residents and non-residents as well as retail and wholesale fur buyers. A resident trapping license is available for $5 and the non-resident license is $200. The fur-bearing license is required for the sale of pelts only and a Texas hunting license must be obtained when hunting out of your county of residence if you are 17 years of age or older and not over 65 years of age. Hunting regulations apply to both hunters and trappers alike as does the requirement of permission from the landowner before hunting or trapping.

A few sportsmen are bagging coyotes and bobcats by using a varmint caller. The use of a high-powered rifle in the vicinity of livestock can be dangerous and varmint hunters should clear the use of these firearms with the landowner.

Livestock owners know that an excess of coyotes can deplete their herds and trapping and controlled hunting of these animals is beneficial.

More information about trapping and varmint hunting is available from your local game warden or any P&WD office.

If you buy artichokes, look for plump globular ones that are heavy in relation to the size.

FSB Ended January 3rd

Federal Supplemental Benefits (FSB), created by Congress to assist unemployment benefit claimants who have exhausted their regular benefits, came to an end in Texas January 3, 1976.

This is not to be confused with the Texas Employment Commission's regular unemployment benefits program, which remains unchanged," says Henry Zittel, Administrator of the Commission.

Under Federal statute, the FSB program became operative after January 3, 1974 in any state whose rate of insured unemployment is less than 5 percent. The insured unemployment rate in Texas for November was 1.7 percent.

Claimants who qualified for Federal Supplemental Benefits on or before January 3, 1976, can continue to draw these benefits as claims dated through April 30, 1976.

Those claimants who qualified for Federal Supplemental Benefits on or before January 3 and who have not drawn all of their benefits, will be notified in Floyd County Texas Farmers Union is taking part in the national and statewide membership drive. The drive will be climaxed by National Farmers Union emphasis week, which takes place the second week in February.

Also during February, a group of Texas farmers will be taken to Washington D.C. for grass roots lobbying. Vernie Moore stated that some of the participants in the drive will be Floyd County farmers.

For more information, contact officers Herb Frenzel, Louis Pyle or Chester Carthel, or directors Jervey Younger, John Dunlap, Vernie Moore or Ray Ford.

What One Person Can Do

In the early 1940s, a visit to a friend dying of cancer started Elizabeth Blackwell on a path that was to change the history of medicine.

"You are fond of study, Elizabeth," the woman told her. "You have health, leisure, and a cultivated intelligence. Why don't you devote those qualities to the service of suffering women? Why don't you study medicine?"

Elizabeth acted on her friend's suggestion. She left her family in Cincinnati and took teaching jobs in Kentucky and North Carolina to earn money for medical school. She applied to 29 medical colleges before Geneva College in New York accepted her. The students voted to admit her because they considered the whole question a joke on the school's administration. But Elizabeth's intelligence and persistence won over her classmates and the faculty. And on January 23, 1849, she graduated first in her class.

Dr. Blackwell had to go to Paris to practice her skills. She was forced to train as a mid-wife. Back in New York, she overcame a vicious campaign attacking her morals and medical skill. "I understand now why this life has never been lived before," she said. "It is hard, with no support but a high purpose, to live against every species of social opposition."

She kept on. She founded a hospital and medical college for women in New York City, then repeated the process in London. Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, who died in 1910, once summed up her source of strength this way: "In the midst of immeasurable woes of society I can work with unflinching courage and clear conviction that good is stronger than evil, and there is a grand moral purpose in creation, infinitely larger than our tiny intellects can grasp."

Such vision is basic to any effort to change the world for the better.

The Floyd Philosopher Still Unable To Write-Digs Out A Column From His Mooty Files

Editor's Note: The Floyd County Philosopher still hasn't recovered sufficiently from surgery to be able to write a column this week; consequently, he had a friend run through his elaborate filing system and pick out a column that was years ago just to see if it would still stand up. Here it is. What do you think?

Dear Editor:

Why don't you and me go into the public opinion poll business? I got this idea last night while I was looking over a copy of the Lubbock Avalanche Journal which my dog dragged into the yard yesterday afternoon and left there overnight. I didn't like the taste of it I guess, although I don't know why, you ought to see some of the bones he chews on.

At any rate, over on an inside page there was the result of the latest Gallup Poll. After surveying people clear across the nation, the Poll discovered that the "most urgent problem facing the average man and his family today is money." Of all family problems, it found, "the high cost of living over shadows all other worries of the American people today."

This is the reason you and me ought to start our own public opinion poll. I could have discovered the same results without interviewing a single person or using even a postage stamp, and if you can sell the poll to other newspapers, everything we take in will be net profit, and I can sure use my part to help meet the high cost of living. You bought any tractor parts lately? Been to the hospital? He placed a picture tube? Fed a growing boy? Bought any dog food?

There are some things a man just knows automatically, and one of them is that regardless of how much he earns, his family is always one jump ahead in needing a little more. Every time he gets into a new income bracket, he discovers his family has been there for months already.

Another thing about this poll we ought to start is that we could use it over and over. Not only is it true that the average consumer is in an economic squeeze today, he was in it in an economic squeeze yesterday, he was in it in an economic squeeze the day before, and he will be in one ten years from now. By the time you own one car, your family needs two, and when you swing that, your television comes in and the family next door has a speedboat.

Let's get this poll going. My tractor is running out and my TV set is flickering.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Lee Joiner reported they had received 50 inches of rain at their place during the year of 1975. Over on the coast of Oregon 100 inches of rain was recorded.

We had a call from our niece, Mrs. Bill Pierce, this Monday morning, calling from her home at Everett, Washington, saying they arrived home safe at midnight Sunday. They had been on a two weeks vacation to Texas, Oklahoma, and also Oregon. On this trip they saw every member of her family and every member of his family including her aunt and uncle.

The report from Mrs. Jewell Teague this Monday morning was that he is getting along nicely and hopes to be home soon.

How Americans Have Fun - And To Spare

What's one way most American teenagers have found they can have a ball, and at very little cost? By bowling! More than half the nation's 25 million 12- to 17-year-olds think bowling is really the thing to do on a date, according to a recent Harris poll. The poll, conducted for the National Bowling Council, also revealed that bowling more than 36 percent of the population, and of this group, nearly one person in three bowled at least once last year. According to the survey, there are now 65 million bowlers in the United States, the highest number ever, and a striking 25 percent more than there were four years ago. That makes bowling the nation's largest participation sport for all ages. The Harris survey clearly reveals that bowling is one popular game, whether you are 17 or 77.

By Mrs. J.E. Green

January 5, 1976

Christmas and New Years are over for now. We have had some snow flurries, but the sun comes out and snow is soon gone. We have had low night temperatures, but it is January now and schedules are getting back to normal.

It has been a good time with loved ones. Our sympathy is with those for whom it was otherwise.

The church musical programs and S.S. parties and trees beautifully remind us of what Christmas is all about.

Mrs. Lorene Newberry visited Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Batteny. Shelby Cook, Fred's son-in-law, in the Baptist Hospital in Amarillo, seems about the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Conway of Plainview visited Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Carpenter. The Conways are back from a plane trip to San Francisco where they visited their daughter and family during the holidays.

Leo Frizzell, who has been in Lockney Hospital for some time, is scheduled to be returned to the Lockney Rest Home today.

The Marion Carpenters visited Saturday with his parents, the Claud Carpenters, and early Sunday left for Oklahoma City where they visited with their grandson, Larry Boteler and family.

Mrs. W. L. Hartline left Saturday for Phoenix, Arizona, where she is visiting a few days with their son, Dub and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Spence visited on New Years with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Spence. Mrs. Towler came Friday.

Company at Mrs. Ava Jackson's last Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. Neal

Handling Sick Children Takes Understanding

College Station Sick children need special care and understanding, Mrs. Ilene Miller, a family life education specialist, says. "Parents can best help young children learn how to cope with unpleasant situations—such as illness—by being honest with them. For example, if the child needs to see a doctor, get a shot or take unpleasant-tasting medicine, prepare him for what will happen," she advised.

Mrs. Miller is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She advised parents to explain that it probably will hurt when the doctor or nurse gives him the shot and that it's all right to cry if he feels like crying.

"You can also give the child some control over an unpleasant situation. Ask if he would rather stand up or lie down for his shot or if he would rather have the shot in his right or left arm. Would he rather have juice or water after he takes his medicine?"

"Don't try to embarrass your child into taking medicine or being brave if he has to see the doctor. Teasing him and making him feel like a baby because he resists, doesn't help the situation and disregards the child's feelings," she pointed out.

Parents can be firm, yet accepting, of the child's dislike for shots, medicine or staying in bed.

"For example, when giving the child eardrops, eyedrops, suppositories or medicine by mouth, tell him the medicine will help him get well. Let him know you are sorry he has to take medicine and you know he doesn't like to stay in bed, but these things will help him feel better.

"Young children may feel guilty and worry about their illness. It's hard for them to understand why they feel so badly. The illness may seem like punishment for some thing they have done. If your child asks questions, answer as truthfully as you can and reassure him that he hasn't done anything wrong," she said.

She reminded that sick children often have shorter attention spans and tire easily. Toys and activities will help keep the child entertained during his illness. Provide a variety of activities—puzzles, books, puppets and other toys to play with in bed.

"Avoid messy materials which require extensive cleanup that would tire the child. A new toy might interest a sick youngster. Consider surprising your child with a bright mobile, a new book or a record," she suggested.

An old saying has it that ladies who propose during a leap year and are not accepted may wear a silk dress.

In the 11th century, one man was supposed to be floating in the air that he was asked not to do with everyone else, lest he distract them.

Inflation Fighting Ideas

Can a nuclear power plant help balance your budget? Or, to put the question a bit closer to your pocketbook; can a nuclear power plant help lower the price of peas at your neighborhood supermarket? The answer is "yes!"

Nuclear power is the cheapest way to generate electricity, and if a super-market gets its electricity in this way it will mean lower electric bills for them, a saving that they can then pass on to you!

A lot of Americans don't realize it, but nuclear power is with us today. Right now there are 55 nuclear reactors operating across the United States and another 75 operating around the world!

In Chicago, for example, 30 per cent of the electricity is generated by nuclear power. In the Boston area, that figure climbs to more than 30 per cent!

The government has recently published an energy development plan that gives a top priority to harnessing the atom to produce low-cost electricity!
