HUD Invites Final Application For City Street Paving Funds

The city of Floydada has been invited to submit a full application for $44,797.49 in earmarked funds under the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Small Cities Program, Congressman Charles Stenholm reported Thursday.

The funds were set aside for the community pending the submission by the city council of a full application which meets all the specifications and requirements of the program, Stenholm said.

Upon acceptance of the application, Floydada will be issued the funds for use in the area of paving and drainage. The object of the small cities program is to develop viable urban communities through provision of decent housing, a suitable living environment and expanded economic opportunities, Stenholm noted.

Accordingly, communities are funded to take a wide range of activities to meet this goal.

Floydada city manager Bill Feurbacher welcomed the news of the invitation to submit the final application for the funding.

The area of Eighth Street from Houston to California Avenues is the highest priority for the paving funds, Feurbacher said. That area included the Senior Citizens' Center intersection at Eighth and Georgia.

Feurbacher said he would call a special meeting of the Floydada City Council to authorize sending in the application.

"It's going to be an awful lot of paperwork," the city manager said, "but it's going to be worth it." He anticipated no trouble getting the council to approve submission of the final application.

Before any further action can be taken, the city must hire an engineer to determine the cost of the road repairs the city plans with the HUD money.

"If it costs too much to do what we want," Feurbacher said, "we'll have to either go back and ask JUD for more money or drop one block from the paving plans."

The city was refused an earlier application for Federal money to be used for street repair and paving.

Commissioners To Sign Jail Contract, Allot Revenue Funds Tuesday

The Floyd County Commissioners court will hold a Special Meeting Tuesday at 9 a.m.

Items on the agenda will include consideration of the EMS Grant presented by Caprock Hospital, City of Lockney, Floydada and Lockney Hospitals at 9 o'clock.

At 10 a.m. a contract will be signed for the Floyd County Jail and at 11 a.m., the court will meet with Mrs. Jonelle Fawer, county tax assessor-collector, to discuss implementation of S.B. 621, the new "Property Tax Code."

Beginning at 2 p.m. bids will be opened for the renovation of the agriculture building.

Other business will include discussion of District Judge Miller's request concerning the need of commissioners court authorization to set the jury fee at $7 per day instead of the current $6 per day.

Also, the county judge will deliver the proposed revenue sharing budget to the court.

Football Reminder

Seventh and eighth-grade boys who want to come out for the football team should get their physical examinations before school registration, says coach Mike Brownlee. Team hopefuls also should not wait until school starts to begin getting into shape for the football season.

A selection of shoes is available at the school for those who want to purchase them, Brownlee added.

Bullsnake Causes Power Outage In South Plains Area Friday

Electricity customers in the South Plains, Silverton and Lone Star communities were surprised Friday morning to discover their power off, but not as surprised as the bull snake that caused the outage.

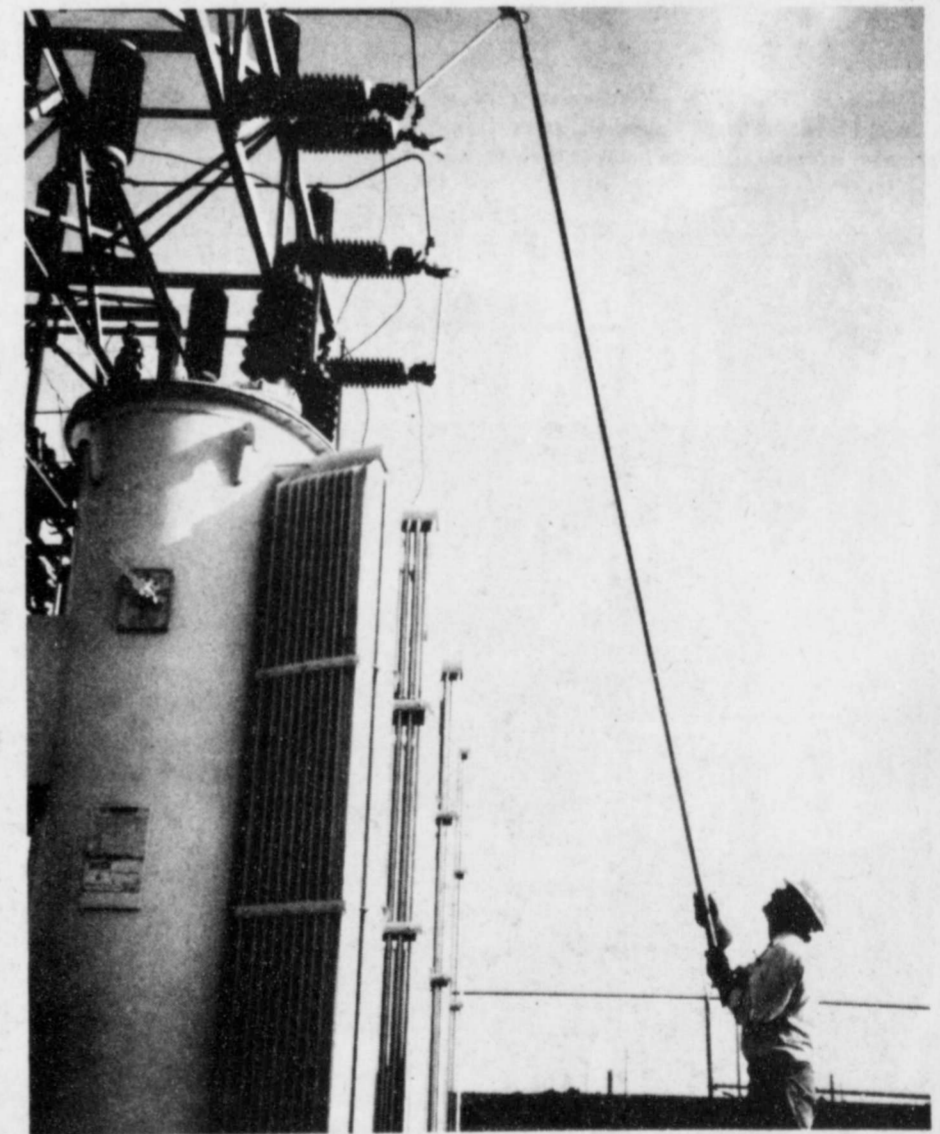

According to Stan McClendon, service advisor for Lighthouse Electric Cooperative, at 6:15 a.m. the snake apparently crawled onto the South Plains substation power plant in search of birds to eat.

Unfortunately for the snake, as well as an estimated 300 residents of the three communities, the animal touched a high-voltage line feeding the substation. Since the snake's tail was still in contact with the plant's grounded frame, a short circuit resulted that blew out power to all three substations.

It took Lighthouse personnel approximately two hours to remove the dead snake and replace the blown fuses and insulators. Service was restored to all the affected areas by 8:30 a.m., McClendon said.

This is not an uncommon occurrence, McClendon said. "We've also had cats and other animals get into the power lines."

Rail Depot Could Be Saved

The railroad depot may get a new lease on life, if local citizens are able to save the old structure.

"However," Sowell continued, "we'd be pleased to work with any local groups who could possibly use the depot for civic or cultural purposes. If we get some response, we'll get in touch with our main office about it."

Several individuals and groups in the city have expressed interest in using the Building or part of it for such widely diverse purposes as a new library, a youth center or a cultural center for the city.

A spokesman for Rep. Charles Stenholm agreed that the time has come for action on saving the historic structure.

"We haven't been able to determine if the railroad had filed an application for discontinuance of the site, the spokesman said. "If several citizens or groups would draft a letter to the state railroad commission protesting the proposed demolition, the action could be temporarily halted until a final decision on the matter could be made."

The citizens would have to set out their reasons for asking that demolition be halted. The railroad commission would then supply a formal letter of protest blank for the citizens to file.

What could be done after that would depend on local response. One possible route to take would be to apply for a grant from the Texas Historical Commission for reconstruction.

Anyone with suggestions for uses for the old depot should mail or drop them by the Hesperian office. A meeting will be called, if there is enough response, to draft a letter of protest to the railroad commission.

County 4-Hers Visit South Dakota

Members of Floyd County 4-H are enjoying a week of rural life near Huron, S.D., Aug. 7-10.

While in Huron, the group lived in homes of 4-H families. The Beadle County 4-H Achievement Days were held while the Floyd County youngsters were visiting. Earl Broseh and Keith Hight showed a lamb for a boy, and Jill Whitfill and Melanie Foster did some tasting and judging in the culinary department. The South Dakota youngsters also had competition in crafts, canned goods, method demonstrations, livestock, and clothing projects, including the dress revue.

Most of the group went on a side-trip to De Smet to tour the girlhood home of author Laura Ingalls Wilder.

The group arrived home Sunday. Enroute home they viewed the Corn Palace in Mitchell, South Dakota. Panels high on the exterior walls of the coliseum-type building hold murals made of ears of corn. Corn stalks also decorate the exterior of the building. One panel was a scene of pheasant walking near a fence. Both red and yellow ears of corn were used to create the scene. Another panel was of ducks flying on a lake. The panels go all the way around the building. The local group was told that the murals are changed each year.

Next June 4-Hers from Huron, Beadle County, will be coming to Floyd County.

Sponsors on the auto trip to South Dakota were Kenneth and Juanita Broseh and Merlene Whitfill.

Text, photos, drawings and maps give the background of the Spanish shipwreck off Padre Island in 1554.

The artifacts featured in this display include cannons, silver coins, gold bullion, an anchor, a crossbow, and the oldest known astrolabe in existence.

County Schools Eligible For Education Funding

Floyd County has become eligible for $13,313.03 additional Title I funds under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act as amended by Public Law 95-561, Financial Assistance to Meet Special Educational Needs of Children according to Rep. Charles Stenholm.

These funds will enable the local educational agencies to provide more effective programs of instruction, especially in the basic skills of reading, writing and mathematics to meet the special educational needs of educationally deprived children, Stenholm said.

The school districts within the County will be receiving additional information from the Texas Education Agency as to their eligibility for these funds.

Darryl Lindsey Is New Telcot Manager For Cotton Co-op Assoc.

Darryl Lindsey has joined the Plains Cotton Cooperative Association staff to fill the newly created position of Telcot manager, C.L. Boggs announced last month.

A native of Floydada, Lindsey was a regional executive with IBM in Dallas prior to affiliating with PCCA. He formerly served as IBM's representative for PCCA's account while in Lubbock and has worked with Telcot since its outset in 1975.

"We feel that the designation of a Telcot manager will benefit our internal operations significantly, particularly since Telcot has become a multi-service system in addition to marketing," Boggs said.

"It is our good fortune to acquire the services of Darryl, who is thoroughly familiar with the Telcot concept."

After completing high school in Floydada, Lindsey spent a year at Texas Tech and transferred to the University of Texas where he earned both his BS and MS degree in mechanical engineering.

He began his career with DuPont, doing research and development and other engineering projects in Tennessee, Kansas, and Victoria, Tx. He affiliated with IBM as a marketing representative in 1974 and began working with PCCA's account the following January. He was promoted to regional marketing representative for IBM in Dallas last October.

Lindsey and his wife, the former LaJuana Rimmer of Floydada, have two sons, ages 10 and 8. Mrs. Lindsey's father, Kenneth V. Rimmer, farms in the Plainview area. Lindsey has an uncle, Lowell Calloway, who farms in Briscoe County.

Energy Initiative Funds Available

COLLEGE STATION — Energy initiatives aimed at helping small towns and rural areas cope with future energy problems through 1981 were recently announced by President Carter.

Federal funds totaling $300 million will help renovate 100 small-scale hydroelectric projects across the country, says Jack L. Jones with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The projects would generate about 300 megawatts of power. Eight federal agencies are involved in this Department of Energy program.

Nearly $11 million will enable construction of 100 small gasohol (alcohol used for transportation fuel) plants, adds the community development specialist.

The Department of Energy and the Economic Development Administration will allocate $1.25 million in grants to help about 20 economic development districts. The districts will plan integrated economic development and energy programs, giving special attention to alternative sources of energy, such as hydropower and wood-fired power generators, notes Jones.

Robbie Sparkman Takes Floydada Band Position

Since Robbie Sparkman was a freshman or sophomore in high school, her ambition has been to become a band director.

Her dream was realized a year ago when she took a position as junior high band director at AAA school Beeville.

Now she's taken a new job, and if she had the time, she might be pinching herself to see if she's truly wide-awake because she's the new director of bands for the Floydada schools.

The daughter of George and Jean Sparkman of Lockney has trained herself well for the position. She completed studies in 1978 for a bachelor of music education degree at Texas Tech University. While at Tech, she played a baritone in Dean Killion's marching band and an alto saxophone in the concert band.

While at Lockney High School, Robbie was a drum major for three years, while playing the alto saxophone in the concert band. She also was in the stage band the first year it was organized. She was graduated from Lockney High School in 1974.

Robbie's busy now making arrangements for a successful band year. Her freshmen band students began Wednesday, and the others will join them Monday for practices. She expects to have a 100-member band in the near future.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN — Do you "own" your automobile? Most of us would answer this question the same as if someone asked, "Do you own your house" or "Do you own the furniture and appliances in your house." It is quite normal for us to consider ourselves the owner of goods for which we have paid and of which we have taken possession. And, although this is true of most consumer goods, it is not true of automobiles, whether they are new or used.

Many years ago the Texas Legislature found that theft of automobiles and the sale of encumbered automobiles—those on which there is an outstanding lien—were serious problems. In response to these problems the Certificate of Title Act was passed.

Although the Certificate of Title Act has been on the books since 1939, several recent investigations by the Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division indicate that many consumers are unaware of its effect.

First, the Certificate of Title Act provides that the ownership of a motor vehicle does not pass from seller to buyer unless the seller transfers a "certificate of title" to the buyer. Secondly, the Act provides that a certificate of title must contain certain information including the name of the owner, a description of the vehicle and the name of any person or company claiming a lien on the vehicle. These two provisions make it very difficult to sell a stolen vehicle. They also insure that anyone who has loaned money for the purchase of a vehicle will be paid back before the vehicle changes hands.

The "title" owner of a motor vehicle, in the absence of fraud, is entitled to reclaim possession of an automobile even though someone else has paid for it.

Problems involving titles and the ownership of automobiles most frequently arise in the sale of used cars. The Division's investigations indicate that a typical scenario for such problems goes something like this: A consumer purchases a used car from a dealer or individual. The seller promises to transfer the title within a few days or weeks. (Transferring a title from the previous owner does take some time.) Since the consumer has possession and use of the automobile, the fact that the title never arrives goes unnoticed. And, the lack of a title is not discovered until (1) the automobile is repossessed by its title owner or a lienholder, or (2) the consumer applies for new tags and discovers that his automobile is owned by someone else. At this point it frequently is too late to take effective action because the few car dealers who engage in this practice are not long in business.

The responsibility for obtaining a certificate of title for an automobile is the consumer's. Most dealers perform the service of transferring a title for their purchasers, but if something goes wrong and the title is not transferred properly, you may well find your new car back in someone else's garage.

To protect yourself from being victimized by this practice, demand to see the title to the vehicle before you pay for it. And, once the transaction is completed, particularly when buying a used car, make sure that you obtain the title to the automobile immediately.

If you have any questions about certificates of title, call the State Highway Department office nearest you. And, if you have a complaint to report regarding the sale of automobiles without certificates of title, contact the Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The results of a Texas Monthly poll on Gov. Bill Clements and the Texas Legislature are in: they include good news, bad news and one real surprise.

The good news, at least for the Governor, is that over 60 percent of the persons interviewed believe Clements was effective in influencing the Legislature and federal government. Almost 49 percent rated Clements as "good or very good" overall.

The bad news, at least for the lawmakers, is that only about 40 percent of the respondents rated the Legislature as "good or very good." House Speaker Bill Clayton did better than his House colleagues, receiving 50 percent approval for his leadership, while Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby was thought to be "very good" by about 46 percent.

The surprise? When asked what issues should be brought up in a special session, voters overwhelmingly preferred "energy." The much-mentioned issues such as initiative and referendum, presidential primary, and more tax reduction did not even score in the double digits, while energy was thought important by 50 percent of those questioned.

Kubliak: More Energy
Will energy be included in the Governor's promised special session in 1980? State Rep. Dan Kubliak, advocate of gasohol and other alternative energies, asked Clements to include "rapid development of alternative energy" at a press conference in June. The Rockdale legislator said he has received encouragement but no commitment from the Governor's Office on the issue.

The poll also showed:
—Most Texans, 64 percent, prefer a "same day" presidential preference primary.

—Over 50 percent of the voters disapprove of the actions of the 12 state senators called the "Killer Bees" who fled the Senate to defeat a separate primary bill.

—A majority of Texans, 54 percent, feel a consumer should not be able to sue a seller for more than a defective product costs, though by some to indicate voter approval of recent amendments to the Consumer Protection Act.

—A whopping 76 percent disapprove of the recently passed law increasing home mortgage loan rates.

—Sixty-two percent favor initiative and referendum powers for voters.

The recent 5.1 percent pay hike for teachers was thought to be too low by 54 percent of the respondents.

NEWS 'N' NOTES

(by Sharon Hillis)

JEANS — WHICH FOR YOU?
Whatever "jean look" you want to create, the jean-fashioned menu has it — so choose those that flatter you.
With jeans still a "staple" in the clothing "diet," more varieties are on the scene from the very bland to the very gourmet.
To look your best and feel your best, consider how jeans make you look and choose the right ones for you.
Think color first.
Light colors generally make an area look larger, while darker ones look smaller.
One way to look slender starts with choosing traditional navy-blue denim. However, watch out for the now-fashionable bright, eye-catching colors, unless you want added emphasis.

Think texture next.
Medium weights are the most flattering. On the other hand, today's shiny looks "add" pounds.
Consider line and shape, too. They're created by seam ing.
Generally, the slimmer the leg cut, the wider the hips look.
For added height, look for lengthwise topstitching, piping and slanted pockets.
For more width, choose jeans with crosswise patch pockets, especially those that are brightly decorated. You will also look shorter in jeans with this feature.
Finally, don't overlook the back view — it's just as important as all other considerations in choosing jeans.

Solomon asked for the gift of wisdom...and in the asking, revealed discernment, the beginning of the gift of wisdom he valued.

Many today value knowledge but lack the discernment which distinguishes the higher gift of wisdom. Without discernment knowledge becomes god, in all its incompleteness. This, then, is the dilemma of many who consider themselves "intellectual."

Known as the minister to the intellectual, Dr. Francis Schaeffer has written Escape from Reason, He Is There And He Is Not Silent, Genesis In Space And Time: The Flow Of Biblical History and now he and his wife Edith have co-authored a book entitled Everybody Can Know. Designed to take the family through the Gospel of Luke, it explains clearly ideas and concepts that are considered in greater depth and complexity in Dr. Schaeffer's other books. This is a book to share with family or friend, chapter by chapter, in daily or weekly sessions. Its purpose is to stimulate creative study of the scripture within the family.

Fun was on everyone's mind this past week. Wednesday afternoon the residents were honored by a visit from the Cecil Boyer Gospel Quartet from Hereford consisting of volunteers who sing only for nursing homes. The members of this quartet are Homer Garrison, J.B. Noland, Cecil Boyer and wife, Eunice Boyer. We are happy they have consented to visit us the second Wednesday of each month.
Another form of entertainment was the Tuesday afternoon bingo game. Attending were Alpha Kit-chens, Myrtle Burke, Lavell Edwards, John Turner, Dora Johnston, and three visitors, Joyce Gray, Louise and Albert Lopez. Myrtle Burke was the lucky blackout winner and shared her prize of cheese and crackers with the other players.

Howard Phenix and Bill Holt are in the Lockney General Hospital. Ethel Frizzell rejoined the family Friday.
Our Special Thank You to: Mrs. Fred Fortenberry for the sack of clothes; and Nita Holland, Geneva Stansell, and Nell Wilson for plastic bowls to hold popcorn. We appreciate being in their thoughts.

Ms. Clifton tried it. This is her story . . .

I walked into Pat Walker's Figure Salon in Lubbock, ready to try one more time to lose weight. I had tried everything else, even to having surgical staples put in my ears.

After my courtesy treatment, the counselor explained the Pat Walker figure correction program to me. When she assured me that the program was guaranteed, I felt I had finally found the solution to my figure problems.

When I began my program at Pat Walker's Figure Salon, I weighed 178 lbs. and wore a size 20 dress. Today I weigh 126 lbs. and wear a size 8 dress. My life style has changed completely because today I can do "skinny" things. I can't wait for summer so I can lounge around the pool in my new size 8 bikini!

In spite of Tammy's obvious competence, she says it is sometimes hard to gain the confidence of customers who expect a male attendant. She added with a smile that often when she asks if a customer wants to fill up, he or she will say without thinking, "Yes, sir." Tammy considers all of this just part of her job and says she "likes meeting the public and seeing people that

Lockney Whozit Guessers

Mr. Phillips Guesses Right

Only one guess as to the identity of last week's Lockney Whozit — and that guess was right.

To make a guess on the new Lockney Whozit, call 652-3318.

The owner of these pictures is hoping someone will have to identify all of the people who were actors in some kind of community play. The pictures were made in front of Lockney High School when trees were still in the yard. Call 652-3318 to tell us these people's names.

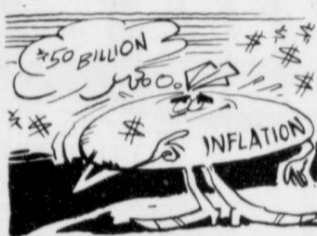

FLOYDADA WHOZIT

Many people should be able to recognize this Floyd County farmer, pictured here as a youngster.

LAST WEEK'S FLOYDADA WHOZIT

No one correctly identified last week's Floydada Whozit — the 1924 Lakeview School basketball team. Members were Homer Hambricht, S. N. Adams, Hambril Ataway, Irvin Newberry, Olen Harris, Adolphus White and Haskell Connelly. One youngster did make a good try, guessing the 1959 Lockney High basketball team.

Surprising to some is that the U.S. now imports more than 8,400,000 barrels of oil a day at an annual cost of over $50 billion — an outflow of American dollars that contributes heavily to inflation.

Producer Price Index

--July 1979

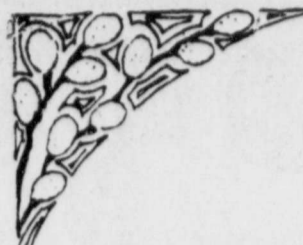

PRODUCER PRICE INDEXES — JULY 1979
WASHINGTON — The Producer Price Index for Finished Goods rose 1.1 percent from June to July on a seasonally adjusted basis, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported. The July advance was considerably larger than the increases in either May or June. Price increases for intermediate (semifinished) goods and crude materials also accelerated.

Among finished goods, prices for consumer goods rose much more than in June; Food prices were unchanged following 3 consecutive months of falling prices, and prices for finished consumer goods excluding foods rose even more than in recent months. The increase in capital equipment prices also accelerated.

Before seasonal adjustment, the Producer Price Index for Finished Goods rose 1.1 percent to 215.8 percent (1967=100). Over the year, the Finished Goods Price Index increased 10.1 percent. The finished consumer goods excluding foods rose 12.8 percent, and capital equipment prices were 8.9 percent higher than a year ago. The Producer Price Index for intermediate goods increased 13.1 percent over the year, and prices for crude materials advanced 17.1 percent.

Window Shades Save Energy

Window shades overcome "fuelish" windows to save energy during hot-weather months, says Pat Seaman, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

One-fourth of the energy used for heating and cooling in the United States — the equivalent of 1.7 million barrels of oil per day — is squandered through windows.

Only an uninsulated attic wastes more energy, she explains.

What does this mean in dollars and cents? Between 40 cents and $1.40 is added to fuel and utility bills each year, according to government experts, for each square foot of single-pane glass in a typical home.

Standard, inexpensive, light-colored, opaque window shades can "barricade" the flow of heat, the specialist continues.

During the summer, sunlight is deflected by a drawn shade and kept out of the room resulting in dramatic energy savings — all summer long.

HOW TO SLASH SUMMER HEAT GAIN

Window shades are a smart dollar-and-cents investment in these energy-conscious times. They are inexpensive, virtually maintenance-free, have long service life, and perform their energy-saving chores with a minimum of effort. Equally important, energy-wise window shades can fashionably complement any room decor, Ms. Seaman adds.

For a colorful lift, decorate window shades with fringes, tassels, or glued-on stripes or bright-colored fabric.

Are you getting all you should from your insurance? If you have possessions such as jewelry, works of art, or a stamp collection, you may want to insure them separately. Protection on these items is normally restricted by the standard homeowners policy. The amount of coverage is usually limited.

The Employment Situation

WASHINGTON — Total employment rose in July and unemployment was virtually unchanged, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported. The Nation's overall unemployment rate was 5.7 percent, little different from the June rate of 5.6 percent and similar to those which have prevailed since August 1978. The overall unemployment situation for blacks and whites was unchanged from June.

Total employment — as measured by the monthly survey of households — rose by 450,000 to 97.2 million. In contrast, nonfarm payroll employment — as measured by the monthly survey of establishments — was about unchanged over the month at 88.8 million. Over the past year and also since March, however, the two surveys have registered comparable net growth in nonagricultural employment. Both the unemployment rate, 5.7 percent, and the number of unemployed, 5.8 million, were about the same as in June, and have remained near these levels since last August. An increase in the rate of joblessness for adult men (to 4.1 percent) was about offset by a slight decrease in the rate for adult women (to 5.5 percent). Married women and women who head families both experienced slight declines in their unemployment rate, while the rate for married men increased. The jobless rate for teenagers, which had declined 1 1/2 percentage points in June to 15.3 percent, was unchanged in July.

FARM & RANCH NEWS

Texans Plant More Cotton, Less Sorghum

COLLEGE STATION — Texas farmers have planted more acres to cotton, soybeans, rye and sunflowers this year but less to grain sorghum, corn, oats and rice.

The change is largely a shift in different crop acreages, as total crop acreage in 1979 changed little from that in 1978 acreage, points out Dr. Carl Anderson, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The big shift is a 550,000-acre increase in cotton and a 500,000-acre decrease in grain sorghum, according to the June acreage report of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

More than half the nation's 13.9 million acres of cotton are in Texas, notes Anderson. Farmers in Texas planted 7.5 million acres to cotton, up 8 percent from the 6.95 million in 1978 and 13 percent more than the 6.65 million two years ago.

High cost of irrigation water is a major factor pushing cotton acreage up, believes the economist. With cotton, farmers can stretch water further and still maintain cash flow at a higher level than with grain sorghum or corn. Too, the price of cotton in early 1979 was more favorable than grain.

Anderson contends that the strong interest in growing more corn that arose in the mid-1970's is dwindling. Most of the acreage and yield increase occurred on the irrigated High Plains area. But after reaching a peak acreage of 1.8 million in 1977, growers are planting about 1.3 million this year. Farmer, Castro, Hale, Lamb and Deaf Smith counties accounted for more than half of the 1978 Texas corn crop.

Interest in growing more soybeans continues, with 900,000 acres planted in 1979, up 100,000 acres from 1978 and 1977. In contrast, only 375,000 acres were planted to soybeans in 1976 and only 114,000 acres were planted in 1971.

Anderson explains this tremendous increase in soybean acreage with the fact that the soybean is one of the most versatile crops in America. It is used for animal feed as well as human food and serves as a raw material for many industrial uses. Compared with other crops, soybeans generally cost less to produce, biologically fix their own nitrogen, and are relatively free of crop pests.

Increased interest in growing sunflowers stems from the need for an additional cash crop with low water and plant nutrient requirements, development of sunflower hybrids, and interest by food processors in Texas sunflower oil which has a high oleic acid content. This crop exhibits good cold and drought tolerance, is adapted to a wide range of soil and climatic conditions, and tolerates higher levels of hail, wind and sand abrasion than many other crops normally grown in Texas, explains the economist.

Sunflower acreage is up more than 50 percent in Texas this year from the 45,000 acres planted in 1978. About 30,000 acres were actually harvested in 1978 with a yield of 727 pounds per acre. This production of 21.8 million pounds was valued at $2,214,000. This was a sharp decrease from the 300,000 acres planted and 235,000 acres harvested in 1977.

TO IRRIGATE, OR NOT TO IRRIGATE — Clouds above Floydada this week appear to echo the question that farmers all over the county have been asking themselves: "Should I be dropping a large amount of showers on local crops?"

Pest Management Newsletter

THE REVISED prediction for bollworm egg laying indicates that bollworm activity should increase greatly within the next week. Please note that this is somewhat earlier than what was previously expected. A few scattered eggs and worms are being found at the present in Crosby and Floyd Counties. COTTON

Many fields are reaching peak bloom. Cotton has made excellent growth over the last few weeks due to adequate moisture. Unfortunately that's just the way bollworms like their cotton — succulent and blooming. The scene is set for a potentially devastating bollworm year.

Bollworm egg lay prediction — August

With the addition of new data from the light traps we have arrived at a new predicted peak egg lay for August. An increase in bollworm activity should begin about the 15th. Peak egg laying will occur by the 20th and may last for several days after that. The numbers of bollworms that will result from egg laying cannot be accurately predicted. Each field will be different depending on the attractiveness of the cotton and numbers of beneficial insects present. Since most fields are in about the same shape, eggs may be spread thin over the whole area with only a few fields reaching the economic threshold. The intention of this prediction is to alert you that if you are ever going to check your cotton — now is the time to start.

Fields should be checked at least twice a week to enable you to catch egg laying in time. At least 100 1/2 grown or larger squares (not yellowed or flared) should be checked in each field. Since egg lays can be spotty at least four sites, representative of the field, should be checked. While examining squares for damage, egg and worm counts should be made. Count separately the number of white and brown eggs per 100 plant terminals. Eggs that are brown are within 24 hours of hatching. By counting eggs you can determine what level of worm infestation you can expect in the next day or so, and just how much control is coming from beneficials. If you find 20 or more eggs per 100 plants and beneficial activity is low, excessive square damage could result following egg hatch.

Cotton that is next to sorghum that has been treated has a greater potential for bollworm problems due to killing of beneficial insects.

Newly hatched bollworms are difficult to detect. Small worms, 1/4 inch or less, are most easily controlled. Worms up to 1/2 inch can be controlled to some extent. Large worms are usually inside the bolls and are not exposed to insecticides when treated. Prior to first treatment 10 or more small bollworms per 100 plant terminals could cause excessive fruit loss.

In addition to the insecticides mentioned with the attached information are several biological insecticides that will kill worms without harming beneficials. These materials are Dipel, Bactur, Thuricide, and Elcar. These materials have a bacteria Bacillus thuringiensis, as the active ingredient. Elcar contains a virus. Effectiveness can be enhanced if these suggestions are followed:

1. Apply against low to moderate populations of small worms.
2. Use 3 to 5 gallons of water per acre

if by air or 15 to 20 with a ground rig.

3. Use a spreader-sticker such as Bivert.

4. Apply late in the day if possible to avoid as much exposure to ultra-violet rays in sunlight and breakdown of the material.

5. Most effective when beneficials are present in high numbers.

With these microbials worms stop feeding soon after ingesting the material but do not die for 1 to 4 days. Check your fields for results about 72 hours after treatment.

SORGHUM

Greenbugs are reaching the economic threshold in fields that have not been treated. In some fields which were treated too early you can expect these pests to build back up to damaging numbers before the end of the season. Parasitic wasp activity continues to be spotty but a slow increase in these beneficials has been noted.

SUNFLOWERS

Fields that are starting to bloom should be checked early in the morning or late in the evening for sunflower moth activity. Initiate treatment when the field is approaching 20% bloom and the adult moth is present. I have recently discovered some extremely heavy egg lays from the Painted Lady Butterfly on sunflower leaves. Last year one field in Swisher county was completely defoliated by the larva of this insect. They are also known to feed on developing heads. Fields that have not yet bloomed should be watched. Defoliation at that stage will result in yield loss. In many cases beneficial insect activity usually takes care of most of these eggs and small worms.

Weed Research To Be Highlighted At TAES Field Day

LUBBOCK—During the 70th Annual Field Day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES), weed research will be one of the highlights of interest to area farmers.

The Field Day is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 11 at 1 p.m. at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center, three miles north of Lubbock International Airport on F.M. 1294.

Due to the high amount of rainfall and the late cotton crop this season, there has been a great deal of interest in weed control and the new application equipment, according to TAES weed scientists Dr. John R. Abernathy, Wayne Keeling, and Jess Davis. These weed scientists will be presenting the latest data on weed control on the Texas High Plains.

"We are also going to take a good look at the new types of herbicide application equipment," Abernathy said. Included in the Weed Control presentation will be the different types of rope-wick applicators and spot spraying equipment.

The Weed Control stop on the field tour will also present information on the control of perennial weeds such as Texas blueweed, lakeweed, nutsedge, whiteweed, and johnsongrass. Additional stops on the Field Day tour will include soil fertility, cotton breeding, water use efficiency, and grain sorghum breeding. Grape vineyard tours and soybean research will be among the added attractions this year.

The annual Field Day is a cooperative presentation of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, High Plains Research Foundation, USDA-Science and Education Administration, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and the National Weather Service Agricultural Meteorology Office. Professional staffs of these organizations, state and federal agencies will be on hand during the Field Day to answer questions and discuss topics of interest with farmers, home owners and gardeners.

Cotton Today

SAMPLING CHANGES PROPOSED: The U.S. Department of Agriculture is proposing changes in cotton warehouse sampling procedures. The proposal, to be effective with the 1980-81 crop, would limit sampling to one cut per bale side on initial receipt if the bale had not been sampled previously at the gin. The rule would not prevent cutting additional samples later. If more than one sample is desired when a bale is received, they may be drawn from the initial sample holes. The action was recommended by the Joint Industry Bale Packaging Committee last March. ENERGY MEETING SET: The National Cotton Council's Industrywide Energy Committee and Producer Steering Committee will hold a joint meeting on energy in Dallas August 16-17. White House Associate Director for Domestic Policy Lynn Daft is scheduled to brief the cotton groups on the President's energy plan and what it means to agriculture in Anson, Texas, in the Producer Steering Committee.

COTTON EXPORTS: The week ended July 23, 1979, saw cotton exports totaling 5,299,900 bales valued at 1,800 million dollars. Exports for the current year ago, compared with 1978-80, totaled 6,920,000 bales valued at 2,632,000 million dollars. Exports for 1979-80 were China, 68,800; Hong Kong, 14,800; U.S. Department of Commerce announced 57.7 percent target price for cotton. AND COTTON YEAR: The nation's first extension station on cotton was cotton farm in 1906.

Conservation Techniques Told In Report

Techniques and management practices for water conservation in the Texas High Plains area are included in a report just completed as a joint project of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 and the Texas Department of Water Resources.

Titled "Summary of Techniques and Management Practices for Profitable Water Conservation on the Texas High Plains," the report provides combinations of physical and managerial practices for High Plains farmers designed to increase water use efficiency in the area, and to protect the productive life of the Ogallala aquifer, as well as offering a possibility for increased farm income.

The report examines three major areas of field water conservation. The first, rainfall and moisture utilization, discusses limited and basin tillage practices, terracing and leveling measures, and playa lake water storage. A number of types of irrigation equipment systems and efficiency guidelines are offered, and the report also suggests a variety of management practices to be used by High Plains farmers for improved water use efficiency.

Intended to serve, in part, as a "how to" guide, the report includes information about estimating and comparing energy sources costs and consumptions of four different systems, and examines efficiency capabilities of side roll, center pivot, and hand-moved sprinkler systems, as well as furrow irrigation.

Supporting graphs are included to document and illustrate the results of application and conservation techniques for a variety of High Plains crops.

Copies of the report may be obtained free of charge from the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, 2930 Avenue Q, Lubbock 79403.

All is not lost, pricewise, for cotton producers in 1979, says Donald Johnson, executive vice president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock. True, 1979 production in the U.S., assuming "normal" weather, is expected to exceed combined exports and domestic consumption. But production on the High Plains, which boasts about 30 percent of the nation's estimated acreage for harvest, is highly suspect. The crop generally is two to four weeks late, and temperatures in the fifties during September could prove disastrous. And the same is true, perhaps to a lesser degree, of crops in the mid-South and Southeast. It's true also that crop reports are good from most major foreign cotton producing countries. But there again crops in those countries, as in the U.S., are far from being ready for harvest. The Russian crop for example is about as late as that on the High Plains. And the growing season there is such that the crop's vulnerability to adverse late-season weather is as critical as anywhere in the world. This may explain why Russia, which is expected to export something like four million bales, has shown no inclination to become an aggressive export seller. According to Cotton Outlook magazine "Russian high grades show no propensity to weaken and Moscow is a seller for deliveries in the year." Aside from the present yield reduction in the world's major cotton producing areas, Johnson notes that either late this year or next, the cotton crop in some industries, the crisis could be a month. "Should the market fibers in Japan find it the raw materials in the Johnson reasons. The Japanese textile increase its cotton production opportunities." Johnson emphasizes there will be no price. "But with the wind, plus others, U.S. producers should be getting a better idea of what predicted price-depression in fact develops."
