The Rev. Michael O'Connor's

Perspectives

BY MICHAEL O'CONNOR

Poor Proctor and Gamble. Somehow the rumor got started a couple of years ago that P&G was owned by the Rev. Moon and his Unification Church. Then, shortly after, it was said that some of P&G's officials had appeared on the Donahue program and talked about their involvement in Satanism and explained that the symbol of the moon and stars was a symbol of Satanic worship.

How that rumor got started no one seems to know. But it has caused the company a good deal of grief and money. People who heard and believed the rumor began to boycott products made by Proctor and Gamble. The company contacted the producers of Donahue, got a letter from them stating that no such program had ever been produced. Then they copied that letter, as well as one from the Rev. Donald Wildmon (the leader of the National Federation for Decency, the Coalition for Better TV, and an arch enemy of the devil and all his works,) put those together with a history of their symbol and sent out a mailing to people all across the U.S. The message was that the Proctor and Gamble Company was not owned by Rev. Moon or his church, the heads of the corporation were not involved in Satanism, and the symbol had nothing whatsoever to do with anything demonic.

The effect was apparently negligible. Now the company is suing various people in the country whom they have somehow identified as spreaders of the rumor, and/or organizers of boycotts, and are trying to end their nightmare through legal means.

It won't work. As a matter of fact, I'm afraid it may hurt the company more than it helps. It is sad that a company should go to all this effort because of irresponsible rumors. What is even sadder is that it won't stop the rumors.

I will never understand the power of negative talk, but something like this will never go away. There are too many folks who would rather believe a lie than check out the information.

There have been rumors that Madelyn O'Hair is petitioning the FCC for an end to religious broadcasting. While I'm sure that would please Ms. O'Hair no end, the FCC stoutly denied that such a petition exists, or that they would consider it if it did. Besides, that one has been around since my college days, almost ten years ago. Yet just a couple of months ago I saw it again in the newsletter of a respected friend.

Other rumors abound, a pre-fab temple in Jerusalem, rabbis having identical dreams of the Messiah's coming, none of which have been proven. Still they persist, because of the perversity of our thought. We need to be careful about the stuff we buy into. Check these things out carefully before believing, and then leave room for new information. The only way these kinds of rumors will end is if we quit believing them and quit spreading them.

GETTING A CLOSER LOOK—These two rodeo fans just couldn't get close enough to the action. However, the thundering of the bull's hooves made them want to stay safely behind the fence.

Area F.Y.I. meeting August 9

For a number of years Dr. W. Cleon Skousen was encouraged by many of his friends to launch an educational program where whole families could be taught the desirability of returning to the success formula of the original Constitution and the teachings of the Founding Fathers. Thus the idea for the Freeman Institute was born.

Dr. Skousen and the Freeman Institute has tried to put together the Founding Fathers' original success formula. That is what was taught in the "Miracle of America" Seminar which was held in Plainville in February of 1981. This is a program of positive, constructive campaign of education to help Americans get the United States back on its Constitutional track.

Benjamin Franklin once said, "A nation of well-informed men, who have been taught to know and prize the rights which God has given them, cannot be enslaved. It is in the region of ignorance that tyranny begins."

With this in mind the Founding Fathers put together a system of government that was so effective in promotion freedom and producing prosperity that it became the hope of the world for the next 150 years. By 1905 this tiny nation of the United States, by following the Founders' Formula and with only 6% of the world's population, was producing over one-half of the world's wealth.

However, Dr. Skousen states that beginning in early 1900, the whole world, including America, began experimenting with other formulas that have been tried repeatedly during different times in history. As the United States followed these failure formulas more than 100 major problems developed as the principles of the Founders were abandoned.

The goal of F.Y.I. (For Your Information), which is a group of area concerned citizens, is to educate anyone who is willing to listen and get involved to help turn this Country around and back to God and the original freedoms that were taught by the Founders of this Nation.

Lockney, Floydada distressed

This article was published in Regional Forum, a monthly newsletter sent out by SPAG in the Vol. 13, No. 7, dated July, 1982.

Last month, readers were informed about the Urban Development Action Grants (UDAG) program which may be used to stimulate economic development activity. Since then, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has revised the minimum standards used in identifying "distressed" communities.

Only "distressed" communities, or communities with pockets of poverty, may apply for UDAG funds. To be declared a "distressed" community, a city must meet minimum standards in three or more of the following areas: age of housing, per capita income, population lag/decline, job lag/decline, and poverty.

Cities in the South Plains region which are listed as "distressed" as of June 8, 1982 include Amherst, Anton, Crosbyton, Floydada, Hale Center, Lockney, Lorenzo, Matador, Meadow, Morton, New Deal, Olton, O'Donnell, Petersburg, Post, Ralls, Roaring Springs, Ropesville, Slaton, Springlake, Spur, Sudan, Tahoka and Wilson.

South Plains cities which were on the "distressed" list, but no longer meet the required minimum standards, include Dickens, Earth, Edmondson, Idalou, Muleshoe, Plains and Wellman. These seven cities have until September 30, 1982 to establish eligibility and must submit an application by November 30, 1982. Otherwise, they must wait until, and if, they again meet the required minimum standards.

For full details on the minimum standards for "distressed" designation or establishing eligibility, contact Sylvia Clark or Sylvester Cantu at (806) 762-8721.

Drug Enforcement Administration advances war on "angel dust"

BY LLOYD BENTSEN

As the reports on our nation's war against drugs become more discouraging, one bright spot has developed.

According to the Drug Enforcement Administration, we have made dramatic strides in the fight to eliminate "angel dust."

When "angel dust," or phencyclidine hydrochloride (PCP), was developed in the mid-50s, it was seen as a promising anesthetic for use in operating rooms. Research, however, showed that the drug produced horrifying psychotic reactions. It literally drove people mad, so it was barred completely for use on humans.

By the mid-70s, "angel dust" was fast becoming one of the most abused drugs in the nation since it could be produced at such a low cost -- only $1 per "hit." Between 1976 and 1977, the DEA reported that confiscated dosage units had doubled, from 1.7 million to 3.5 million. This was happening in spite of appalling reports of derangement caused by the drug.

One young man under the influence of "angel dust" pulled out his own teeth with pliers; another gouged out his eyes to avoid seeing grotesque visions; a third youth drank rat poison to kill the rodents he believed had infested his body; and a fourth gnawed his forearms almost to the bone because of "voices" telling him his hands had offended him.

It took six police officers to arrest another young man brandishing a knife who kept such a "death-like" grip on the weapon that officers had to hit his hand with night-sticks. They shattered the knife handle, but the youth still clutched the blade when he finally was subdued. Later examination showed his hand was broken in four places.

These horror stories could not be allowed to continue.

In 1978, I authored and passed through Congress the Psychotropic Substances Act, making it difficult for drug dealers to purchase the chemical piperidine, a key ingredient of "angel dust." My bill also substantially increased penalties for trafficking in the drug.

Since the law went into effect in 1979, the results have been heartening. Within a year, emergency rooms reported a 24 percent decrease in cases involving "angel dust." Black market prices for piperidine skyrocketed a hundred-fold, and the average sentence for "angel dust" traffickers went from two years to six years.

Just recently, the new DEA deputy director Jack Lawn told me the best news yet. He told me that we'd had the most dramatic reduction in "angel dust" by legislation, that he'd ever seen in any drug before.

Hospital emergency cases involving use of "angel dust," he said, have now been cut in half -- from approximately 10,000 in 1978 to about 5,000 last year.

That's doing pretty well, as I see it. But I won't be content until we've wiped out this menacing drug entirely.

Health-Fitness program needed

Health Fitness, a preventive medicine program opened as an extended arm of Lockney General Hospital, has run into financial difficulty. Open since January 25, Health Fitness has been well received in the community.

Dixie Johnson reports that the membership has increased some in the last week. She stated she was confident membership has been curbed during the midst of vacation and harvest peaks.

But Health Fitness at its 116 South Main Street location, has to be maintained on a self-supportive basis. Therefore the pulse-monitored exercise program staff is making an all-out effort to increase its membership by August 15 to insure the community its services.

This week new hours begun to be observed in order to serve as many clients as is feasible. 30 minute sessions are offered from 6:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. 5 days a week. Members participating in the program designed for heart and lung fitness range in age from 10 to 82, according to program coordinator, Lori Winter.

Discounts are offered to senior citizens, businesses and families on the modest monthly rate of $30.

Mrs. Johnson reported some of the recorded losses in body fat locally were 36.5% to 24.7% in 6 months, 35.1% to 26.9% in 6 months, 35.9% to 30.4% in 6 months, and 34.4% to 29.5% in 4 months.

"The Health-Fitness Center is an ideal place for participation in regular daily exercise in pleasant surroundings. It is a fine facility for our community. Let's keep it open!" comments Eleanor Schacht.

Margie Savage wrote. "Before starting at Health-Fitness I could barely ride my bike around the block without having to stop and rest. After only a month of daily exercise at Health-Fitness I could ride a mile.

"Now, after 6 months, I feel in great shape and ride about 5 miles every day.

"On a recent vacation I could do all the hiking and sightseeing I wanted to without tiring.

"Because I put myself on a diet, I've also lost about 25 lbs. and can maintain it much easier with daily exercise.

"Keep the Center open — it's great!"

R.C. Mitchell stated, "Lockney Health Fitness Center program has done wonders for my health situation. Since beginning the program in January I feel better generally than any time in several years. The program has been instrumental in lowering my blood pressure to almost normal levels. I really appreciate what the program has done for me."

"I have enjoyed the Health-Fitness very much. My general health has improved because of the regular exercise and feel it has been well worth the time and effort. I will be very happy to see it continue," wrote Hazel Johnson.

"Health-Fitness is great," said Opal Blount. "I feel so much better when I take the exercises. It has really helped my hip, even though it hurts afterwards. I think in time that will get better. Hope I can continue to take them."

Dorothy Shipp said. "Exercising each day helping me to keep my body healthy, plus giving me the extra energy for my daily activities."

"Health-Fitness just starts my day off right!" concluded Doyleene Dipprey. "It gives me more energy and I feel better all day!"

Readers' Survey

TURN TO TALK BACK

L. Leshner, Director of Commerce, is often wrong when Mr. Gallup or Harris would finally get to calling you.

If you have given up on the prospect of seeing one of their scientific samplings in the press and politicians take such stock, here is your chance to be part of an admittedly unscientific survey. Please take this opportunity to talk back to the following questions. After a reasonable length of time, I'll discuss the results in a future column, and I'll send them to Mr. Reagan and key members of Congress.

Which course should Congress pursue to reduce large budget deficits that have been projected for the next several years?

- raise taxes
- cut federal spending
- do both
- do neither

Which view best expresses your own:

- Congress has already cut spending as much as it can without hurting large numbers of Americans who depend on government assistance.
- The surface has barely been scratched. Many more billions in wasteful and unnecessary spending could be cut while still maintaining the social safety net.

Should Congress cancel or delay the 10 percent tax cut scheduled to take effect for all taxpayers in July 1983?

- yes
- no

Which view best expresses your own:

- The business tax incentives enacted last year amount to an unfair "giveaway" at the expense of the poor.
- These tax cuts are necessary to encourage business expansion, speed recovery from the recession and create jobs in the private sector.

- 5. Civilian federal employees, including members of Congress, are not now required to pay into the Social Security system. Should they be required to participate in Social Security along with the rest of the work force?
— yes
— no

- 6. Nearly all analysts agree that Social Security faces a serious financial crisis. Do you believe that slowing the growth of benefits by limiting future cost-of-living increases should be considered as one measure to prevent the system from possible bankruptcy?
— yes
— no

- 7. With which position do you most agree:
— Any attempt to remove the confusion and red tape from the current Clean Air Act amounts to an effort to weaken that law.
— Reasonable reforms can be made to reduce the regulatory burden on business and encourage the creation of jobs without sacrificing clean air standards.

- 8. Do you believe President Reagan is pursuing the right course by attempting to restore economic prosperity by cutting government spending, taxes and regulation?
— yes
— no

- 9. Do you support or oppose a constitutional amendment to require a balanced budget?
— support
— oppose

- 10. On January 1, 1982 every American worker became eligible to deposit up to $2,000 per year ($2,250 for a worker with a non-working spouse) into a tax-deferred individual retirement account (IRA). Have you set up an IRA to provide for your retirement? If not, do you plan to?
— already have
— plan to
— don't plan to

MRS. DAVID WRIGHT WITHROW

Candlelight ceremony joins Jones, Withrow

During a candlelight ceremony, wedding vows were exchanged between Miss Merilee Elaine Jones and Mr. David Wright Withrow on Thursday, July 22 at 7 o'clock p.m. in the Casa View Church of Christ, Mesquite, Texas.

Charles Brazell, minister of Casa View Church of Christ officiated. The scripture reading Psalms 100 was delivered by Ed Rhodes.

Merilee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Duane Jones of Mesquite and David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eutice W. Withrow of Dallas. Merilee is the granddaughter of Leslie F. Cox of Lockney and Wesley W. Jones of Breckenridge, Texas.

The nuptial area was centered with a brass arch candelabra covered with English Ivy with spiral candelabras holding white tapers on each side. Arrangements of lavender gladiolas, miniature pink carnations and English ivy accented with large lavender bows were on either side of the nuptial area.

As the parents of the groom and mother of the bride were seated, "Sunrise, Sunset" was sung. Other selections also provided by the choral group from Seagoville Church of Christ included, "There's a Sweet, Sweet Spirit", "We Want to Praise You Lord", "The Wedding Song", "With This Ring", and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." The congregation sang "Bind Us Together Lord." Keith Floyd sang, "Flesh of My Flesh" as a solo.

The full sleeves were decorated with three rows of lace ruffles. The full skirt swept into a chapel train with the hemline edged in a row of lace. Her veil was of two tiers of chiffon illusion attached to a head-band styled cap that was covered in lace and pearls. A row of lace matching her dress edged the veil.

She carried a bouquet of gardenias, white roses, white miniature carnations, English ivy and Queen Anne lace.

Matron of honor was Dana Shuffler of Garland, Texas. Vicki Brooks and Rhonda Arnwine both of Mesquite were bridesmaids. Danna Withrow, sister of the groom, was junior bridesmaid. Karye Withrow, sister of the groom, was flower girl. All wore identical evening length dresses of lavender chinzeil print. The round neckline was accented with a ruffle that fell over the shoulders. The couple are the children of the Rev. and Mrs. Fred D. Blake, of Winslow, Arkansas, and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Bill Sue of Floydada.

The church was adorned with an archway covered with greenery and ivory colored silk mums. At each side of the altar was greenery mixed with mums. Small floral arrangements accented each window sill. An ivory unity candle sat in the middle under the archway.

Ruffled chantilly lace and multi-ruffled hemline were also featured. As a headpiece she wore a matching lace veil. Her cascade bouquet was of silk burgundy and dusty rose colored roses.

Following tradition, the bride carried an old handkerchief belonging to her grandmother; something new was her bridal gown; something borrowed, was a pearl necklace and earrings, belonging to the groom's mother; and something blue was her garter.

Both the bride and groom wore pennies bearing the years that each were born in, in their shoes.

Bridal attendants were Cindy Brazel, of Plainview, who presided as maid of honor and Kimberly Pegram of Dimmitt, bridesmaid.

Their dresses were of burgundy polyester crepe with handkerchief length hemlines. Burgundy lace cape-like bodices gathered at the waist and were tied with ivory and dusty rose ribbons streaming down from the waist. Vows were exchanged by Dena Casey and Joe Hinkle Saturday afternoon, July 17 in a traditional wedding ceremony in the First Baptist Church of Lockney. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donice Casey of the Sterley community of Lockney and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hinkle of Floydada.

Recitation of the double ring vows was directed by H.S. Calahan, Jr. of Abilene, great uncle of the bride.

The Bosserts also provided music for "Endless Love" during the ceremony, and "Walk Through This World With Me" after the lighting of the unity candle.

A candle arch accented with tropical foliage and gypsophila tied with mauve satin was centered above the nuptial area. Spiral candelabras with sprays of silk roses in tones of mauve and burgundy flanked either side of the archway. A matching unity candle nestled in a ring of roses completed the setting for the ceremony.

If one is to believe football forecasters, including Dave Campbell's Texas Football, all the members of District 3-AAA might as well send letters planning for the '83 campaign right now!

According to several state-wide polls, the new kid in our block (Post) is not only tabbed as the district favorite, but is rated the #1 AAA club in the State of Texas!! However, Texas Football is the same publication that picked Tulia to take all the 3-AAA marbles in 1981 (the Hornets finished as also-rans with a 4-6 record).

District championships are won on the gridiron and not in the minds of sports prognosticators. Nevertheless, the ratings have to start someplace and it is quite a compliment to have a member of our district placed on that lofty perch.

In 1981, this writer picked Floydada and Abernathy to finish in a tie for 2nd place behind Tulia. As all know, Floydada won the title with a perfect district record, followed by Abernathy, with Tulia far down the line. While I will go along with some of the writers in saying that Post will be fielding their strongest team in years, I still can't buy that #1 stuff!!

My crystal ball tells me that when the dust has cleared, after a close and tension-filled season, the Whirlwinds will again be sitting in the 3-AAA throne room! With Slaton and Post added to the district, and because of the new playoff format (sending the champion and runner-up into the playoffs), the 1982 season should give the followers of 3-AAA a great deal of excitement. Here is my forecast for 1982 (with teams listed in their predicted finish):

(1) Floydada: 1981's Bi-District Champs, with a fine 10-2 record will be a hard act to follow. All-Stater Bruce Williams returns for his senior campaign, along with versatile Donnell Weeks and bullish fullback Mike Salazar.

The quarterback slot, vacated by Todd Beedy, is up for grabs, but the heir-apparent is Mark Hatley. Hatley showed great promise on last year's JV, but is yet to establish himself in varsity competition.

The depth at QB will be one of the big questions marks going into two-a-days. Receivers Grant Turner and Calvin Coleman return and should make able targets for the rifle-armed Hatley.

The defense will be hard pressed to equal last year's stellar unit, but boasts some outstanding veterans such as Richard Vela, Walker Brooks, and Wayne Morren. The success of the '82 Winds will depend mainly on the development of offensive and defensive linemen, where there have been depth problems for the last several seasons.

As in '81, overall depth could give the coaching staff fits. Injuries, or the lack of, could spell the difference between success and failure.

Look for the Winds to go 8-2, with the title on the line in the district finale at Slaton on November 5th. The Tigers and the Winds haven't met on the gridiron in over twenty years, so it should be a memorable finish.

(2) Slaton: The Tigers move into 3-AAA with a potent offense and an impressive record in recent years. With 9 returning starters, including lineman Jerry Thomas (6-1, 220) and Jeff Ferguson (6-1, 235), Slaton has the size, speed, and depth to be a real contender. Predicted record: 7-3.

(3) Post: Picked by many pre-season polls as the #1 team in AAA, the Antelopes are another newcomer to 3-AAA. David Thompson's gang will be a real title threat, with the key to their success riding on the October 22 game at Floydada. Thompson, formerly an assistant in Floydada under L.G. Wilson, has had trouble whipping the Winds in Floydada, and 1982 will be no exception.

Almost the entire offense returns, spearheaded by fullback Richard Cisneros, linebacker Toby Craft, safety Will Kirkpatrick (son of former Texas Tech QB, Jack Kirkpatrick), and Tim Tannehill, who returns at quarterback. There is no question that the Lopes will be in the thick of things, and with the two-team playoff format, it's a pretty good bet that they'll not be turning in gear on November 6th. Predicted record: 8-2.

(4) Childress: The last time Charlie Johnston's troops didn't play football after Thanksgiving, we still had 32-cent gasoline, Nixon had never heard of Watergate, and the Class of '83 was still in kindergarten...that is, until the 1981 season, when the Whirlwinds opened district play with a convincing 31-6 victory over the Bobcats.

Last year, the Bobcats stumbled to a 5-5 season and 1982 should just about be a repeat of that effort. However, Childress is mighty tough to beat at home (where the Winds and several other contenders must face them in '82).

With the new playoff format, given a break here or there, it wouldn't take much for a playoff-seasoned coaching staff to lead the Cats into smelling post-season play. Predicted record: 6-4.

(5) Lockney: One of these years, the Longhorns are going to turn things around, and 1982 could just be that year! The Horns are hungry and in '82 they could spring some big surprises. (If you don't believe that Lockney can't rise for an occasion, just ask the folks from Idalou!) Twice in the last three years, the Longhorns have upset the high-flying Wildcats, and they probably have some more tricks up their sleeves this fall.

All-State linebacker Kyle Brock is one of the best at his position in the area, and will anchor a swarming defense that returns more starters than anyone in the district except Post. A new coach and a new system could make Lockney a thorn in anyone's side and they are not to be taken lightly. No doubt...the Horns could be real spoilers for anyone's championship dreams. Predicted record: 5-5.

(6) Idalou: A close loss to Floydada prevented the Whirlwinds from regaining Abernathy for the title. A lot of rebuilding was done in a hurry if they are to return, headed by star quarterback (6-2, 205) and defensive end (6-2, 250). The offensive was anchored in the shoulders of Allen Brock in 1981. Predicted record: 4-6.

Good rains over our community measured from an inch to over two and a half near Blanton Hartsell's and Joe Thurston's. A welcome gift. This soybean and feed growing really takes the water.

The late cotton harvest that is anticipated may not be so late. Jerry Battey, Jr. reports already finding cotton bolls in their fields.

Mrs. S.G. Appling came home Thursday after a 25 day stay in Caprock Hospital. She planned to stay this week with the Wayne Applings. She has back trouble, with a slipped vertebra and other complications. Wayne and Bertha were going to take her to the doctor in Lubbock this week.

Austin and Ashleigh Williams took their grandmother, Mrs. Q.D. Williams to the Tuesday matinee performance of the Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus at the Lubbock Coliseum. Such beautiful costumes, so clean and perfect requires tremendous behind the scenes coordination to match the talent of the performers.

Smoky Quilantan and his riding lawnmower have stayed ahead of the rains, making their lawn and surrounding acres a beauty spot in our community this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bishop spent the weekend at their ranch at Roaring Springs. Howard recently returned from the state capitol where he and other landowners in the Roaring Springs area pled for water conservation.

Mr. and Mrs. Monte Williams and daughter, Amanda of Ft. Sill, Oklahoma arrived here Friday evening for the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Q.D. Williams. They attended the Floydada Rodeo Saturday night. Kellie is in her senior year at Cameron University at Lawton, Oklahoma, majoring in Elementary Education and foreign languages. Her summer school closed this past week. After visiting with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Galloway, Mrs. Nancy Goodwin and James Williams took her to Lubbock Monday afternoon where she will spend a few weeks visiting her parents, Col. and Mrs. Elton Brian. Col. Brian is now stationed at Reese Air Force Base, and due to his rank and responsibilities the family will live on base.

When little Bruce McHam was a year old he fell and hit his teeth on the edge of the coffee table, and broke his teeth off nearly to the gums. As he walked and did all the usual falling and bumping a growing child experiences, he broke and chipped more teeth. Finally last week at Highland Hospital he underwent oral surgery and now has crown and caps to make them look like new teeth. His mother, Mrs. Wayne McHam, reports her two year old son is enjoying his new teeth.

How not to get caught

As the economy of tight money, high unemployment and other financial pressures cause many people to seek alternative incomes — or even "instant wealth," some will fall prey to con artists, warns Bonnie Piernot, a family resource management specialist.

"In numerous cases, the persons offering 'Get-rich-quick' schemes, are, in fact, con artists operating for personal gain rather than to assist others," she says.

Piernot is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

How do you spot a fraudulent scheme — and how can you be sure?

"Being informed" is the most important protection against gyps and frauds, Piernot stresses.

"Don't confuse 'being informed' with being educated," she cautions. "Even a well-educated person can be deceived by the con artist."

'DE-CODE' ADS

An informed person is one who can read and interpret or "de-code" advertisements and promotional literature. Reading the copy, asking questions and reading between the lines are all important here.

For example, if something is "free," there should be no cost at all to the consumer — postage, handling fee should not cost the consumer anything, either.

CHECK UP ON AD CLAIMS

Advertisements should prove — or justify — claims of instant wealth, success, so-called "big customer demand" for the product and product value. Or you should be able to check out the claims yourself locally — by contacting local retailers, the Better Business Bureau or the Texas Employment Commission.

In addition, remember that if a product or service is worthwhile and valuable, it still will be available after you have conducted an investigation of the product and the seller — so don't rush into the scheme before you have taken those precautions, Piernot says.

ASK QUESTIONS

Ask questions. This is important when considering many of the "get-rich-quick" schemes. Everyone should ask about the following points:

- 1) any restrictions guaranteed or your procedure
- 2) service product in case of business to sell product,
- 3) availability of home-business merchandise,
- 4) the company's actual size, volume of product,
- 5) all conditions of product,
- 6) how long the product and
- 7) name and address of satisfied customer.

Finally, a person's "instant wealth" item, product or service whether it is an investment or self-employment or a sales pitch, Piernot advises.

Ask the Better Business Bureau, the U.S. Postal Service or information they have on offer. If they have a careful about your involvement, she says.

Body reaction to heat

[Editor's Note: This is the first of a three-part series on working in hot environments.]

Many Texas residents work under hot, humid conditions. Summer heat is a particular hazard to agricultural producers and others who must work long hours under the sun.

High temperatures and high humidity not only cause discomfort but could be potentially dangerous to the health and safety of individuals, says a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Humans must maintain a fairly constant internal body temperature regardless of external conditions," says Dr. Gary Nelson. "A human body is like a furnace which burns fuel (food) that manufactures heat. To safely limit internal temperatures, the body must shed excess heat. It does so by varying the amount of blood circulating near the skin surface and the evaporation of moisture through the skin and sweat glands."

Nelson explains that as the brain senses an increase in blood temperature, the heart beats faster, expanding blood vessels and sending more blood to small capillaries near the skin's outer layers. This blood, circulating close to the skin surface, can then transfer excess heat to the surrounding cooler atmosphere.

If this is not enough to cool the body, then the brain senses continued overheating and signals the sweat glands to shed large quantities of fluid to the skin surface. Sweat cools the body as it evaporates from the skin.

"However, as outside temperatures approach normal skin temperatures (high 90s), body cooling becomes increasingly difficult," says Nelson. "If air temperatures are as warm or warmer than the skin, blood brought to the surface cannot shed its heat. Under these conditions, the heart continues to pump blood to the surface, but perspiring becomes the only effective means of maintaining a constant body temperature."

The body also has difficulty giving off excess heat when humidity is high. Sweating does not cool the body unless the moisture evaporates, and high humidity slows evaporation, explains the engineer. Since humid air contains a high percentage of moisture, it cannot easily absorb more. Wiping sweat from the skin also prevents cooling from evaporation.

In high heat, hard work becomes harder. The heart pumps a torrent of blood through enlarged circulatory vessels, sweat glands pour liquids and essential dissolved chemical compounds such as salt onto the skin, and below the skin's surface, the production of metabolic heat continues. Since so much blood goes to the skin, less goes to active muscles. As a result, strength declines and fatigue comes sooner.

"Working in a hot environment may also have psychological effects," notes Nelson. "Workers who must perform delicate or detailed work or operate complex machinery may find their accuracy or performance suffering. Those who must think and process information may have lower comprehension and retention."

Certain safety problems are common in hot environments. These include slippery, sweaty hands; dizziness and fogging glasses. Hot objects and surfaces also present possible burns from accidental contact.

Accidents are more frequent in the heat due to lower physical performance and mental alertness, says Nelson. Increased body temperature and physical discomfort promote irritability, anger and other emotional states which could cause workers to act rashly or carelessly or distract them from hazardous tasks.

A masonry foundation. Never allow weeds or sand to collect in the area between the tank and the ground. Proper ventilation keeps moisture from collecting and helps avoid corrosion.

Never place a tank inside or next to a building. State law requires that tanks be placed a minimum of 10 feet from a building. A licensed lp-gas dealer can't fill a container that doesn't meet this requirement.

The manufacturer's nameplate on an lp-gas container is very important. It assures the consumer that the container was designed to meet safety rules. A licensed dealer can't fill a container that doesn't have this nameplate, and the information on it, visible. To protect it from rust and corrosion, put a heavy coat of grease or a clear, acrylic sealant over the plate.

These simple steps will insure the safe operation of your lp-gas tank and add years to its life.

Summer is a good time for routine maintenance

If you are one of the one million Texans who depend on lp-gas for heating, air conditioning or cooking, long summer days are a good time to think about routine maintenance of your lp-gas tank.

"Few people realize that an lp-gas container needs proper care to last," said Hugh Keepers, director of the Liquefied Petroleum Gas Division of the Railroad Commission. "They are very costly and a few simple maintenance steps can save consumers the cost of replacing their tanks."

Start your summer maintenance by giving your tank a coat of good quality, white metal paint. Aluminum tanks don't have to be painted. The reflective surface helps reduce the temperature in the tank, keeping pressure from building up. Painting also protects the container from rust and corrosion.

Make sure your container is mounted correctly. Lp-gas tanks should always be level, above ground and mounted on

Charles M. Gibson receives degree

For the first time since 1935, the year of its first graduation, the University of Houston did not hold a general, campus-wide graduation ceremony, choosing instead to recognize 1982 graduates through smaller ceremonies in the individual colleges on the central campus.

Chancellor Barry Munitz explained that the individual colleges began honoring their graduates in separate ceremonies following the general commencement four years ago to better recognize all the students receiving degrees.

Munitz said, "The faculty, students and administration all desired a more personal recognition of the graduates, an event where the families could meet the faculty. It was apparent the college commencement ceremony each year, that a meaningful system of convocation had been

Sustaining Members to be enrolled in Lockney

To finance the scouting program in the Haynes District of the South Plains Council, Boy Scouts of America, Sustaining Members will be enrolled in Lockney this month.

These Sustaining Members are people in the community who desire to see scouting continue to grow in Lockney.

Sustaining Members throughout the council provide about 50% of the total annual operating budget.

This year's chairman is Mr. Jerry Cooper, longtime supporter of Scouting.

According to Mr. Cooper, it takes about $71.50 to support one boy in the council. Since Lockney's scouting program includes 46 boys the community Fair Share goal is $3,000.

Anyone wishing to support one boy may send their checks payable to the Boy Scouts of America, to Mr. Jerry Cooper at the Floyd County Insurance Agency.

The South Plains Council provides scouting service to youth in 20 counties.

RANCHERS ROUNDUP DRAWING NEAR

Only a short time remains for Floyd County ranchers to make plans to attend the International Ranchers Roundup.

The Ranchers Roundup gets underway Tuesday, August 10 and runs through Thursday, August 12 in Del Rio. Details about registration and motel accommodations are being coordinated through the Del Rio Chamber of Commerce by phone (512/775-3551).

This year's Roundup features about 100 Australian, Mexican, and American noted ranching experts and industry leaders who will discuss every facet of the ranch operation during the three days of general and concurrent sessions.

The theme of Roundup '82 is 'Effective Ranch Management' and it's basic purpose is to help ranchers preserve their livelihood. One noted speaker will outline several basic cost-cutting measures and tax incentive techniques which most ranchers normally overlook.

Although one of the Roundup's basic goals is to "pool" technology and information for producers to use, the idea exchange among participants also rates as a key objective.

Ranchers can solve many of their problems by visiting with other producers who may have already encountered the situation. This interchange is very important. Ranchers can use help and advice from experts but they can also help each other out a lot, too.

Ranchers will also learn about implementing various kinds of wildlife supplemental hunting activities which have proven very successful in other parts of the country.

Many ranchers are passing up lucrative hunting lease fees which add up to millions of dollars collectively across the state. Wildlife biologist and ranchers from six southern states who have enjoyed considerable experience in alternative hunting opportunities will discuss their efforts during wildlife concurrent sessions.

Headline speakers include Ramond Lett, chief USDA policy maker; Terry Mitchell, Australian Department of Agriculture; Charles Scruggs, Progressive Farmer vice-president; Bob Bliss, Friona Industries cattle feeding division manager; Susan McBee, Texas State Representative; John Merrill, T.C.U. ranch management program director; and Allan Savory, founder of Savory Grazing Method.

A special program for women involved in the ranching business is attracting a lot of attention among IRR female participants.

Instead of a fashion show, tours or other types of entertainment for the women, the IRR coordinators decided to add a program that would help the ladies directly with ranch business management and family communications. This all ties in directly with preserving the family's ranching livelihood.

The IRR is the largest, most comprehensive educational activity organized by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Anyone that would like more information about this activity should call or come by the Floyd County Extension Office.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serves people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

GARDEN SPRAYERS

At some time gardeners must spray their vegetable plants to protect them. Pest control is a hard fact of life, especially where gardening is concerned.

Some gardeners make costly mistakes. Plants can be damaged if too much spray material is applied. Or if not enough is applied, insects and diseases may not be controlled. Improper care of spray equipment is also costly since frequent replacement of sprayers is expensive. Let's look at the kinds of sprayers available and the proper maintenance of this equipment.

First of all, decide what kind of sprayer is needed. Factors such as garden size, intended use, garden location and layout influence the decision. The main sprayers used are the compressed air and hose-on types. Compressed air sprayers are mobile, self-contained units which are pressurized by periodic pumping. These come in various gallon capacities and have galvanized, plastic or longer lasting stainless steel tanks. The hose-on sprayer is attached to a hose from which it receives its spray pressure.

There are advantages and disadvantages with each type. The compressed air sprayer is completely portable, but its portability and effectiveness are directly proportionate to the strength of the person toting it. A 5-gallon sprayer is heavy, and unless you are fairly strong do not try it. A 2-gallon sprayer is lighter, easier to handle and adequate for small gardens. With smaller sprayers, the gardener can mix exactly the amount of pesticide needed and not over-spray plants with extra mix.

Care of the compressed air sprayer is most important. Rinse the sprayer, tank, nozzle and hose after each use to avoid clogging during the next use. Store the compressed air sprayer bottom side up with hose drained. This prevents water from settling and pooling in the bottom of the sprayer after rinsing. Improper storage of the sprayer can cause rusting in the tank which will then flake and clog your nozzle. Some industrious people coat the insides of their sprayers with oil for prolonged storage. If you can afford stainless steel or plastic tanks, they last much longer than regular galvanized ones. If you have a plastic tank, be sure to store it out of the sunlight because the ultraviolet radiation in sunlight will eventually cause the plastic to deteriorate.

The hose-on sprayer is used by many people and abused by many, too. It is popular because it is light and does not have to be repressurized by periodic pumping. Problems arise in mixing ingredients, in portability, and in calibration. Hose-on sprayers operate on the principle of siphoning a concentrated spray material and mixing it with a stream of water. Problems occur in siphoning and mixing the concentrated spray material. For something to be siphoned, it must be liquid; yet many insecticides and fungicides are in a wettable powder form. The powder can be suspended in water but sometimes thorough mixing is a problem. Because the hose-on sprayer siphons suspensions and not large particles, premix wettable powder pesticides in a small bowl. This insures that all large particles are broken up and will not clog the siphon hose. Use a small strainer to filter out larger particles when pouring the mixture into the sprayer tank.

Also, remember you are mixing a concentrated spray for a hose-on sprayer. If the jar says 6 gallons, put enough concentrated material in that small sprayer jar to be siphoned and diluted into 6 gallons. To be accurate calibrate the sprayer periodically. Use a gallon container, fill the hose-on sprayer into the container. Theoretically, the sprayer should be empty when the container is full. If not, you have a problem and may be putting out too much or too little spray material.

In summary, get the sprayer that is easiest for you to handle and best fits your gardening situation. Regardless of the type chosen, follow certain procedures and maintenance for maximum efficiency. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Rex Allen to present award

Western recording and movie star Rex Allen, who grew up on a ranch near Willcox, Arizona, will be master of ceremonies September 17 when the National Golden Spur Award is presented to Willcox rancher J. Ernest Browning, a man Allen has known all his life.

The honor will be bestowed on Browning of the Mule Shoe Ranch at the National Golden Spur Award and Prairie Party, beginning with a reception at 6:30 p.m. Friday, September 17, in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the National Golden Spur Award to Browning for a lifetime of achievement in the ranching and livestock industries. Browning will be the fifth to receive the award, a golden OK spur encased in a crystal piece designed by Steuben Glass.

Allen said Browning "has been the number one citizen of our town ever since I can remember." Browning and Allen's father operated a garage together for awhile in Willcox. Allen also attended school with Browning's son and daughter.

Browning is a founder and former president of the American Quarter Horse Association, a cattleman noted for breeding and production of herefords, a member of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame Board of Trustees, and a former director of both the National Cattleman's Association and the Livestock and Meat Board.

"As a boy," Allen said, "what I remember most about Ernest was he always had the best horses and best looking cattle of anyone in the county."

"He's such a softspoken man that I doubt he's ever had an enemy in his life and when he said something, he meant it."

Allen, whose voice and face are recognized by millions because of his western songs, his movies, his television shows and his film narrations, will be making his second appearance at the Prairie Party. Last year he attended the premier of "The Rancher: An American Heritage," a slide show presentation he narrated.

Other events scheduled for National Golden Spur Award weekend include Livestock Day and a symposium on railroads of the Southwest September 17. Ranch Day will follow on September 18 at the 14-acre Ranching Heritage Center of The Museum of Texas Tech University. A national exhibit of west-

John Deere to unveil new line of tractors

Deere & Company will unveil a new line of John Deere farm tractors that it says will enable a farmer to do his work faster yet use less fuel for each acre worked.

The company is introducing ten new models, the largest number of new models it has ever introduced at one time. They range in size from 45 to 190 horsepower. They will be shown publicly for the first time at the National Corn Growers Association convention.

The company said field tests have shown that the new tractors will use as much as 15 percent less fuel than their predecessors for each acre worked, depending on the conditions and type of work being performed.

Most of the improved fuel economy will come from a combination of mechanical front-wheel drive and a new 15-speed power-shift transmission which makes it a simple job to keep in the proper gear. The front-wheel drive is available on all models and power shift on the five largest.

Mechanical front-wheel drive puts up to 40 percent of the tractor's power through the front wheels to improve traction, reduce wheel slippage, and improve fuel economy.

The mechanical front-wheel drive offered on the new tractors effectively deals with the problems of poor maneuverability and turning radius that have been serious drawbacks to front-wheel drives in the past. The front-wheel drive option on the new series of tractors have a patented new feature called Caster/Action. The front wheels caster 1.3 degrees and in turning tilt to the side to clear the tractor's frame. This allows front wheels to turn 50 degrees, providing maneuverability similar to that on regular two-wheel-drive tractors.

The five largest tractors, from 100 to 190 horsepower, can be equipped with the new 15-speed power-shift transmission, which represents the industry's furthest advancement in effortless, on-the-go shifting. As the tractor moves through the field, it can be shifted from gear to gear effortlessly with one finger without clutching. Field tests have shown productivity can be increased as much as 15 percent by matching the proper gear to varying ground conditions while working in the field.

Fuel economy also has been improved with such features as fans that speed up or slow down depending on engine cooling requirements, turbochargers designed to allow fuel to burn more efficiently at varying loads, low friction pistons and new sealing rings in the main clutch of the power shift transmission which reduce parasitic power loss.

A new electronic warning system on the five largest models monitors ten critical vehicle and engine functions and provides both visual and audible signals when the operator's attention is required.

In the new line the company will be offering its Sound-Gard body on its smaller models for the first time. The company said sound levels will be comparable to levels in the other John Deere models.

The new tractors will be shown this summer and early fall at a number of fairs and farm shows. They will be available this fall at Deere dealerships.

The John Deere dealer in Floydada is Floyd County Implement Company.

Brown warns farmers about solicitations for pesticide sales

Farmers being solicited by telephone to buy Knock-Out pesticide are warned to be aware that the product may be grossly misrepresented. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said.

"We have received several calls from scattered locations in the state from farmers who have purchased the pesticide after telephone solicitations and have found that it does not live up to the sales pitch," Brown said.

The telephone salesmen have stated that it is as good as or superior to another well-known, commonly used herbicide (Roundup). The most recent telephone solicitation have been from Alpine Farm Products in Long Island, New York.

Knock-Out is registered for sale with the Texas Department of Agriculture with a label specifying a 1.8% active ingredient. "There is nothing illegal about selling the product, but its performance is being misrepresented. The pesticide being compared contains 41% active ingredient."

Brown urged farmers before ordering such pesticides from out-of-state firms to compare the active ingredient percentage on products formulated for the same purpose. "There is still no assurance that the contents meet label specifications on purchases resulting from such telephone solicitations."

They should also check the local prices. "The cost of the product is often the same or more than they would pay locally."

Pesticides sold by such out-of-state dealers could lack the proper precautions for use on the label. There is no assurance that the pesticides are not contaminated or that they have not been diluted.

Brown advised farmers to buy from dealers they know. "ones that they can complain to if the product does not work as it should."

If farmers have purchased pesticides from this company and still have the containers, they are requested to notify the Texas Department of Agriculture.
