The Lamplighter

By Ken Towery

If, for one reason or another, you were unable to catch one of the Floyd County Arts Association's productions of "Harvey," you missed a truly remarkable performance.

I couldn't swear to it now, but I seem to remember a character in one of Uncle Remus's tales who advises us that "everybody needs a hiding place."

At any rate Harvey, a giant (six feet, one and one-half inch) white rabbit belonging to the mythical Pooka family, becomes the personal hiding place for Elwood P. Dowd, a kindly, decent man who tends to drink a little more than he should, now and then, and who has discovered that companionship with Harvey is preferable to the struggles of ordinary and rational humans. The problems this causes to his family and friends, until they too finally come to appreciate Harvey, makes up the story.

I suppose our readers have suspected for some time that critiquing dramatic productions is not our long suit. But even a novice knows what he likes, and I liked what I saw. The entire cast was great. But I thought the performances of Dallas Ramsey as Elwood P. Dowd, and of Sara Probasco as his nervous, worried, uptight sister (Veta) were truly outstanding. By the time the play entered its second Act, I began to think of Mr. Ramsey as a shorter version of Jimmy Stewart, or Stewart as a taller version of Ramsey. And the sterling performance of Sara elicited appreciative applause from the audience time, after time. All in all it was a great production, one in which the Director (Cecil Osborne, Pastor of the South Plains Baptist Church) can take a great deal of satisfaction.

I think it would be good to constantly remind ourselves that the small towns of Texas have just as much talent, and just as much wisdom, as their larger counterparts. It takes just as much skill to repair a car, or fix a leak, or administer to the sick, in a small town as it does a large city. Mary Martin did not become good just because she went to Broadway, she went to Broadway because she was already good back in Weatherford, and other places. In point of fact, it is much more difficult to truly excel in a small town, as opposed to the huge city. The people who did their thing on the stage in "Harvey," are the people we see when we go about our daily tasks. There is, for instance, John Quebe, who farms in the Providence community, and who played Dr. Sanderson, assistant to Dr. Chumley, played by Don Chesshir, who operates his own heating and air conditioning company. And there was Darlynn Hambricht, as Mrs. Chumley, and Dewane Franklin as the cab driver, both of whom employed by the Floydada Independent School District, she as secretary to the Superintendent and he as a teacher in the Junior High. Also from Junior High came Bernice Walters to fill the role of the high society type gal named Mrs. Chauvenet. Connie Bertrand turned in an excellent performance as Myrtle Mae, the eager-to-get-married daughter of Veta, and niece of Elwood. She too is a local product, attending school in Lockney and Floydada and now the mother of two daughters. Then there was Gary Brown, who in everyday life is a Vice President over at the bank, but who on this night was Mr. Wilson, the rough hospital attendant who finally makes Myrtle Mae happy. And Allison Robertson, who played Ruth Kelly, secretary to Dr. Sanderson, and Don Probasco, who played Judge Gaffney. In real life Don is a professional locksmith in South Plains. He owns and operates the Pro-Lock Shop there.

We can only imagine the pressures operating on all these folk, knowing, as they did, that if they fell on their face, they would face the consequences next day. But they didn't fall. Far from it. They did well. They can be proud, and we can be proud of them, and proud of a community that made it possible.

Besides, I don't know another place in the world where one can get an excellent meal of prime rib, and be fussed over by the lovely and gracious Martha Farris, along with a host of others, all for a few bucks.

VOCATIONAL STUDENTS WIN—Rolando Cisneros, Leonard King, Eliseo Ovalle, and Dana Cooper competed in Corpus Christi with class projects and won 2 Blue Ribbons, one 2nd place and one 3rd place.

Students win at state

Four Della Plains General Mechanical Repair Vocational students made a trip to Corpus Christi on April 19 and 20 to enter their class projects in state competition. Instructor Al Galloway accompanied Leonard King, Rolando Cisneros, Eliseo Ovalle, and Dana Cooper to the contest.

King made a wrought iron porch railing for his family's home here in Floydada. He won a blue ribbon for his project. Rod Davis, who was unable to attend the contest, won a blue ribbon for his table project in the competition. Cooper received a second place for the bench press he plans to use for workouts this summer. Cisneros received a third place for his construction of a utility truck.

Galloway complimented the boys on their exemplary behavior at the competition and stated, "We are very proud of these students and their work. It has been a pleasure to work with them, and see the projects take shape and grow into something of prize winning quality."

Caprock offers home care

With the approval of the Hospital's Board of Directors, Friday morning, April 19, Caprock Hospital District will be entering the home care business. The new program was considered because of rising cost of health care. Recent Federal legislation has encouraged hospitals to establish programs for "homebound" elders in need of health care, which can be provided at a fraction of the cost of hospitalization and is covered, in most cases, by Medicare, and/or other third-party payors.

Even though, Caprock Hospital District Home Care Services received its temporary license on Friday, April 19, the program anticipates opening its doors and being able to see its first patients by the end of May. The program will provide the following services through its employees and contractors: (1) skilled nursing care, (2) physical therapy, (3) occupational therapy, (4) speech therapy, (5) medical social services, (6) home health aide services, and (7) medical equipment and supplies. The Home Care Service will serve seven counties including Briscoe, Hall, Hale, Floyd, Motley, Crosby and Dickens counties. The service program will operate as a non-profit, tax exempt entity.

The main requirements for patients are that they be homebound and need only intermittent care. Frequently, the patient will have recently checked out of or been dismissed from the hospital. The Home Care program must also be under the care of a physician who has approved a specific treatment plan for that patient.

The service will employ registered nurses who will handle the initial visits, do intravenous therapy, draw blood for lab tests, and teach new diabetic patients how to give themselves injections.

LVN's will give medicine, do patient teaching, and provide observation and evaluation data. Home Health aides will do bathing and other personal patient services.

Speech, physical, and occupational therapy personnel will be on-call for assistance, while a respiratory therapist will be available for consultation and emergency treatment. A medical-social worker will also be available on a on-call basis. This is certainly not a program that replaces physician's care in any way. We want to reinforce our patient's close patient-physician relationship.

Joining in the commemoration of this momentous anniversary is Floydada based Lighthouse Electric Cooperative, Inc. Lighthouse will be holding the 46th annual meeting of its membership on Saturday, April 27. The business meeting will begin at 1:00 p.m., preceded by a catered lunch at 11:30 a.m. for members and guests with registration beginning at 11:00 a.m.

President Cecil Baxter will call the business meeting to order. Three directors are to be elected during the business session. Nominees to be voted on by the membership are: Louis Lloyd and Carmel Eastham in District 2; L.B. Brandes and Johnny James from District 5; and Harold Burk in District 8.

Musical entertainment will be provided by Richard Sudduth and his group from Crosbyton. There will be entertainment for the youngsters during the business meeting, and a nursery will be provided for younger children.

Prizes will be drawn throughout the meeting for Lighthouse members. The grand prize, to be drawn at the end of the meeting, will feature the lucky winner's choice from among several appliances.

Among the several activities being planned for this year's annual meeting are a photograph exhibit picturing the history of REA called "The Heritage Gallery," and an exhibit of photographs taken at past Lighthouse annual meetings.

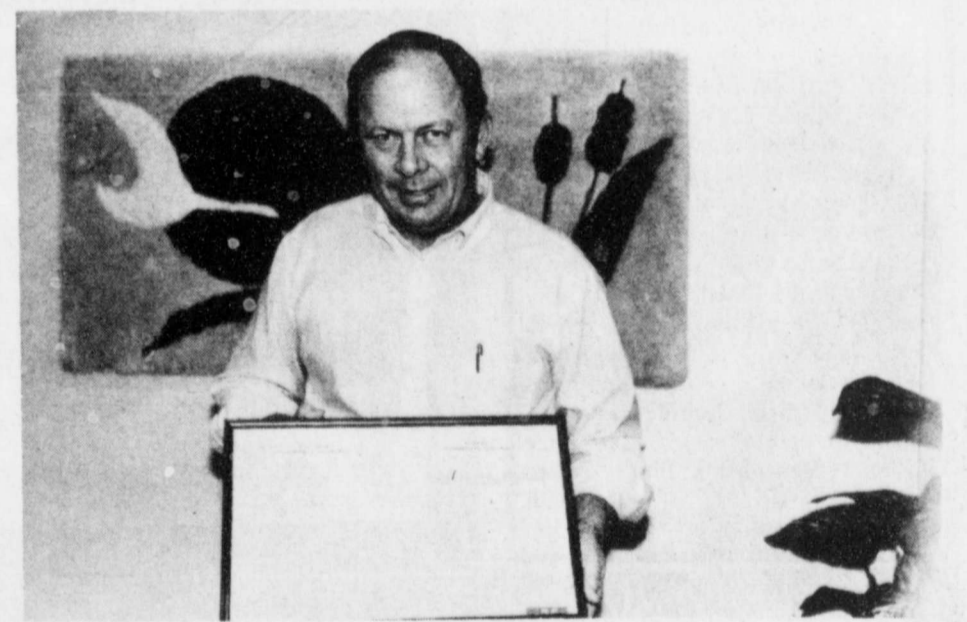

Planning this year's annual meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Denny Graham of McAdoo, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Rainwater of Floydada, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Gilly of Floydada, Mr. and Mrs. Max Ham of Quitaque, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Leach of Plainview, Mr. and Mrs. Paige Underwood of Petersburg, and Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Dawdy of Floydada. A special committee composed of Janice Lloyd, Cheryl Dawdy, Kathy Leach, and Lori Gilly planned the 50th anniversary special activities.

Originally known as Floyd County Rural Electric Cooperative, the organization installed the first meter in this area in 1937 or 1938 near Petersburg according to Lighthouse manager Alton Higginbotham. This original meter is on display in the lobby of the Floydada office.

Following a long period of steady growth during which service was extended to several counties, a contest was held to select a new name, avoiding one county be denoted above others in the service area. Lighthouse Electric was chosen after submission by a member consumer who felt that the

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,
 My dad, Warner Johnson, checked into the hospital Christmas day, just a few hours after the kids left. Dad was having trouble swallowing. The doctors said that the lump they detected was almost certainly not malignant, but it was, as were over a dozen other lumps. One of them had attached itself to the jugular vein. To have removed it would have left Daddy paralyzed over half his body. That would surely have killed him. The kids all came back, maybe for the last time we thought, to see him. I was crushed. Daddy was strong and spirited for someone 71. This could not be happening, but it was. Fortunately, through the miracle of modern medicine, we were given hope.
 I called Mother last week. The checkup showed that we were again blessed. Daddy's cancer was gone. For that I gave thanks and give it every day. And to all the friends and relatives who came and who called and who prayed, thank you.

The end of 1984 and the beginning of 1985 didn't look so good, but now all is quiet and good.
 Our deepest THANKS again to all.

Sincerely,

coming of electricity had made her home "like a lighthouse on the Plains." Lighthouse merged with Hall County REC out of Memphis in 1978, expanding the service area to all or part of 12 counties. Service now extends to Briscoe, Childress, Collingsworth, Cottle, Crosby, Dickens, Donnelly, Floyd, Hale, Hall, Motley, and Swisher counties.

With 40 employees in the Floydada facility and five more in the Memphis office, Lighthouse not only provides electric service to thousands, it provides service and sales of water heaters, and mercury vapor light rentals. The cooperative works closely with all customers, residential or business, to extend the best service available to all. Presently, the cooperative serves 7200 customers with 4000 miles of lines.

A convenient access to modern power available only to "town folks" was a dream until the 1930's. On May 11, 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt created the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) by executive order. The following year, a Democrat from Texas, Representative Sam Rayburn, and a Republican from Nebraska, Senator George Norris, sponsored the Rural Electrification Act passed by Congress. This measure insured the continuation of REA and established a direct loan program to provide financing for qualified applicants willing to provide electric service in rural areas.

REA was again extended by the Pace Act in 1944. This act also established a fixed interest rate and a fixed payment schedule for borrowers. The legislation was clearly intended to assist in the electrification of all rural areas. In that vein, all contracts for loans have contained "an area coverage" clause requiring the borrower to serve all consumers within a given area no matter how sparsely populated the area is.

The direct loan program was replaced by the Rural Electric and Telephone Revolving Fund in 1973. The fund is still used to provide for an insured loan program and for guaranteed loans under the Rural Electrification Act of 1936 as amended.

Rural electric systems obtain loans through these programs and from the Bank for the Cooperatives. In an effort to supplement these funding opportunities, rural electric systems have organized a financial corporation of their own. The self help effort is called the National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corporation. Lighthouse manager, Alton Higginbotham, was recently elected to serve as president of the board for the 16-year-old corporation.

Looking to the future, Higginbotham said, "The rural electric services as a whole, and Lighthouse Electric in particular, intend to continue to provide the very best service at the best cost we are able in the same efficient manner we have in the past." He continued by saying, "Funding at this time is adequate, and I feel that with proper management that will not change in the future."

growing health care fields. Since being a part of the Medicare package in 1965, the services have been expanded to include a much wider scope.

This rapid growth is explained by two major factors: (1) Americans are living longer with more than 11 percent of the total population currently qualifying for Medicare benefits, and (2) the rising cost of health care reflected in the share of the gross national product spent on health care, 10.4 percent in 1982 and growing steadily each year.

The primary goal of home health care is to allow patients to remain in their own homes for as long as they can comfortably and safely receive the level of care appropriate to their illness or disability. Often the familiar surroundings and presence of loved ones can speed recovery. Home care staffs focus on assisting the patients and family to manage this care as independently as possible. Complex care has been provided by families, with the proper training, to keep their loved ones at home.

In keeping with the focus on independence, home health care is usually not provided on a long term basis. The FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED OUT—This was the scene at 308 West California the afternoon of April 23. The Floydada Fire Department was called to investigate what appeared to be a fire in Warrnie Hilton's garage. It turned out to be only an overheated automobile engine and a burst radiator hose. There were no injuries and the incident was quickly taken care of.

Probations revoked

Willie Craver, 36, was sentenced to not less than two years and not more than three years to the state penitentiary for making a false entry on government records, a felony in the third degree.

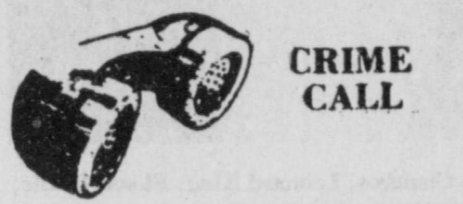

Ray Coleman, investigator with the Department of Human Resources, testified at the 110th Judicial Court on April 24th, that Craver had defrauded the state of Texas of $727.00 in food stamps. According to Coleman, Craver, "signed a food stamp status report in July of 1984 stating that he was not working when he in fact was employed. Craver then drew food stamps amounting to $727.00."

Craver was currently on a three year probated deferred adjudicated sentence for bribery of a police officer in April, 1983. The probation was revoked, and he will serve that three year sentence concurrently with this week's three year sentence accessed.

John R. Hollums, district attorney, stated that, "one of the conditions of Craver's later parole will be that he repay the state of Texas."

George Miller, Judge of the 110th Judicial Court, also revoked probation of Billy Mac Warren, 31 years old. Warren was on probation for escape from a penal institution (Floyd County Jail) in September of 1983. He will now serve a two year sentence in the state penitentiary.

PROBASCO HONORED—Sara Probasco was recently nominated for the Texas Panhandle Award for Distinguished Service. The local woman is active in all areas of the arts in Floyd County.

WT honors Probasco

Floyd County resident Sara Probasco was one of more than 60 women honored at West Texas State University in Canyon, Texas on Saturday, April 20th. These Panhandle and South Plains women, who have distinguished themselves in the fields of education, medicine, business, community service, and other areas were among the nominees for the Texas Panhandle Award for Distinguished Service. Ten of the nominees were recipients of the awards at the 10th annual luncheon.

The Floyd County Friends of the Library submitted the nomination of Probasco because of her talents, enthusiasm, and her many endeavors and accomplishments. She has been extremely active in the development of the arts in Floyd County and is the driving force behind the Floyd County Arts Association. Probasco helped organize the Texas Assembly of Arts Council and served as the first chairman of the South Plains Region. She has been involved in little theatre, children's theatre, and local dinner theatre productions.

The Floyd County Sesquicentennial Committee, which Probasco chairs, has been instrumental in bringing the Texas Independence Express train to Floyd County for the 1986 celebration. Probasco has a strong interest in the historical side of Floyd County as well. She serves on the board of directors for the Floyd County Friends of the Library, the Floyd County Historical Museum, the Floyd County Historical Commission, and Floyd County's Crime Line.

Probasco owned and operated a gourmet party catering service and held a real estate license and a junior high teaching certificate. She also has a degree in interior design. Her present occupation is mainly concerned with stained glass creations, but she also gives instruction and conducts workshops in the same field. She is also a member of the South Plains Hobby Club.

On a more personal note, Probasco lives on a Floyd County farm with her husband, Don. The couple has eight children and eight grandchildren. The family attends the Presbyterian Church.

Eight former winners were inducted into the newly established Hall of Fame. One of these ladies is known to many in this area. Dr. Mary Bubliss of Plainview was among the initial inductees in the continuing observance of the 75th anniversary of WTSU.

Bands present concert

The Floydada High School Band and the Junior High Band presented their Annual Spring Concert on Sunday, April 21. Under the direction of Paul Stapp, a variety of music was performed for the enjoyment of parents and other listeners.

The Junior High band led off with a rousing rendition of "Thunderdrum March" and followed with the jaunty notes of "Sea Chantey." The two pieces were written by John Kinyon, as was the next number, "Carnival for Clarinets." The last tune played was "Joshua."

The High School Band performed a more extensive program ranging from "Imperial March" by K.L. King to Michael Jackson's "Thriller," featuring Teresa Gentry on clarinet. "Windstar," written by Claude T. Smith, featured a trombone solo by Stacey Smith. Diana Wilson played a coronet solo in "A Thousand Hills Overture," also by Smith. She was also featured on the flugelhorn for the performance of "Stuck On You," a popular song composed by Lionel Richie. The group also did "Air" by Johann Sebastian Bach, "Lethbridge" by James Ployhar, and "The Curly Shuffle" by Peter Quinn.

Annual presentation of band awards was made during the concert. Jim Ritchie received a 1st division award he won at the solo contest earlier this year, and Tiffany Gentry was recognized as being outstandingly helpful. She was also among the three students from Junior High who vied for and won positions on the All Region Band. The other two were Kathy Lopez and Laurie Garcia.

High School band members receiving recognition included the twirlers, the flag corp, the band boosters, the band officers and class representatives, and band manager, Kevin Carter. Lars Alkemade, the foreign student attending school here this year, was noted as an excellent student and a fine musician. Seniors performing for the last time were also introduced. They included Lane Cheek, Lana Fannon, Roger

Power outage caused by malfunction

The power outage which afflicted Floydada and much of the surrounding area on Monday, April 22 at about 11:15 a.m. was the result of a breaker malfunction on the lines supplying power to this area. According to City Manager, Bill Feuerbacher, the malfunction occurred on the Crosby County lines which feed power to Floydada's power plant.

The interruption of service lasted about half an hour before repairs were made. "The problem was not with us," said Feuerbacher. "It was on other lines and was repaired as quickly as possible."

Almost half the newspapers in the world are published in the U.S. and Canada.

Cross country cyclist makes Floydada stop

Steve Gleasner, from Charlotte, North Carolina, stopped briefly in Floydada on his journey across the United States. He began the trek from North Carolina on February 16 and hopes to at least reach Washington state or possibly Alaska before winter weather sets in.

The 23-year-old college graduate is a free lance writer and keeps an extensive journal of his adventures on the road. "I wanted to do this when I was 13, but no one would let me," said Gleasner. "Now I am old enough to do it on my own." Gleasner camps out and eats basic rations supplemented by an occasional meal from an "all you can eat" establishment.

His bike is an ordinary 10 speed with heavy duty tires outfitted with a deer skull with antlers attached to the handlebars. He averages 60 to 80 miles a day and says he sometimes gets lonesome, but is basically a happy, solitary person.

CROSS COUNTRY RIDER—Steve Gleasner enjoyed a visit with Floyd County Treasurer Glenna Orman when he stopped briefly in Floydada on a break from his journey across the United States on Friday, April 19.

Carr-Taylor recite exchange of nuptial vows

Cole Chapel of the First United Methodist Church in Denton, Texas was the site for the exchange of marriage vows between Cristina Lynn Carr and Gregory Blake Taylor. The 3 p.m. ceremony was officiated by the Rev. John Mollet, pastor, on April 13, 1985.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Karner of Denton and Mr. Peter J. Carr of Richmond, Virginia. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. C. Joe Taylor of Tulsa.

The altar area was centered with a one arch candelabra, flanked by two graduated candelabra. Two sprays of fresh gladioli adorned in pink and wine sat at the front of the church. Completing the altar scene were two arrangements of pink and wine silk feathered flowers. Sprays of pink silk rosebuds with baby's breath marked the pews.

Presented in marriage by Phil Karner, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight taffeta, styled with a wedding ring collar over sheer yoke with hand-beading on lace motifs on the yoke.

Shower welcomes Bishops

Masters Warren and David Bishop, adopted sons of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Bishop, were honored with a clothing and toy shower Thursday evening, April 18. A large crowd of friends and relatives attended, and many more sent gifts.

The refreshment table was covered with a yellow cloth. A yellow potted mum, tied with a rainbow ribbon centered the table. A sheet cake decorated with brightly colored icing balloons was served with frozen slush punch.

In keeping with tradition as something old, the bride wore a gold bracelet, which had been given to the groom's maternal great-grandmother, the late Mrs. W.W. Merrell, by her groom on her own wedding day.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Kellie Mossburg, cousin of the bride of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. She was attired in a dress of pink taffeta with scalloped lace neckline.

Acting as best man was Ronnie Cunyus of Dallas. Seating guests were Byron Brock, cousin of the groom of Lubbock, and Pete Carr, brother of the bride of Marshall, Texas.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Dale Peters of Denton, organist. A reception following the wedding was held at the Hickory Creek club house in Denton.

Sister of the bride, Lisa Karner, presided at the register. The bride's table was laid with a white cloth and held a silver candelabra along with a four-tier wedding cake.

The two top tiers were supported on crystal pillars and decorated with pink and wine roses cascading from top to bottom. A dancing bride and groom figurine highlighted the top layer.

The groom's table, also draped with a white cloth, was completed with a silver candelabra and crystal and silver appointments. The groom's cake had a top layer in the shape of the state of Texas.

International sorority observes 54 years

On April 30, 1985, here in Floydada, Alpha Sigma Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, in concert with 12,500 chapters of 250,000 members throughout the world, will celebrate their Founder's Day.

During the Depression, Walter W. Ross thought that young women needed more in their lives than work, responsibility, and hardship. He thought a social and cultural outlet was needed and that he was the man to see that it was provided. His efforts brought seven young women in Abilene, Kansas, together on April 30, 1931, to form that sort of organization.

Throughout the fifty-four years of their history, the members of Beta Sigma Phi have enjoyed programs for cultural studies and numerous social events; they had a difference in their lives. As they enjoyed these opportunities for personal growth, they came to devote much of their time and effort to service; they came to make a real difference in the world around them.

A typical year finds the chapters donating over three million directly to charities, reflecting over two million work hours. Early, the chapters created their own international funds for purposes they selected. Their International Endowment Fund has donated over two million to health research groups, to homes for underprivileged children, and to many other worthwhile causes.

Basic to Beta Sigma Phi, however, are the socials for its members. One of the most important is their Founder's

Day celebration. Each year a theme is selected to both challenge and to exemplify each member. This past year the theme has been "Paint A Living Masterpiece."

Alpha Sigma Upsilon met on April 20, 1985, at 7:00, at the 50 Yard Line in Lubbock to observe Founder's Day. The chairman of the celebration was Rhonda Guthrie. Sheryl Derryberry was selected for the honor of presenting the special message from the International Executive Council of Beta Sigma Phi. Other members taking part in the program were Vikki Yearly, Neva West, and Ginger Warren. Awards were given to: Tommy Ogden for Man of the Year; Neva West for Pledge of the Year; Barbara Edwards for Program of the Year; and Alice Ogden for Girl of the Year.

Members and husbands attending were: Janice Nichols, Sheryl Derryberry, Neva West, Rhonda and Larry Guthrie, June and Jimmy McLaugh, Karen and Jackie Elliott, Vikki and Max Yearly, and Ginger and Jerry Warren.

BIRTHDAY HONOREES—Bennie Wilson, Florence Curry and Charlie Spence were honorees for the April birthday celebration. Leon Marble was unable to attend.

Residents celebrate birthdays

by Lorilla Bradley
We hardly think of April
Without refreshing showers...
And, too, a birthday party
Along with lovely flowers!

Mr. Spence we welcome
...He counts from '91...
When '42' he's playing
That's when he's having fun.

Our Mrs. "Beno" Wilson
...Whose years are 85...
Always looks so pretty
For guests who may arrive!

To Mr. Leon Marble
We wish a happy day
And may his time be better
In every sort of way.

To Mrs. Florence Curry
...She counts from 1909...
We give a great big welcome
At this her special time!

Let's serenade these people
With the good old birthday song...
So everybody ready
And come out good and strong!

Thursday, April 18 was birthday time at the Rest Home with ladies of the City

Park Church of Christ hosting. Residents and guests were ushered into the dining room where the honorees were seated at the "honor" table. We are so sorry Mr. Marble was unable to attend.

The table was covered with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of silk flowers in shades of pink and royal blue in a brass bowl. Places were marked with special birthday cards and each honoree was presented a fresh carnation corsage (ladies) or boutonniere (men) by Williams Flower and Card Shop. The thoughtfulness of James and Cindy is so deeply appreciated by everyone involved in these parties. The poem was read and all joined in singing the birthday song. The Hesperian photographer came for the "picture taking" just before the party began. We surely appreciate their cooperation in this.

Special guests helping our honorees celebrate their party were Sam Spence, Jessie Stewart, Jo Bryant, Tonya and Micah Hagood, Shirley and Sabrina Varner and Dolores Cannon. The delicious refreshment plate consisted of a beautifully decorated birthday cake, angel food cake and a tangy fruit punch. The next party will be Thursday, May 16th, 2:30 p.m. Please come and be with us.

Probasco slates nutrition series

As a public service a video series on human nutrition will be presented by Peggy Probasco on Monday nights in her home on the Sandhill Highway.

"I have become interested in this because of some startling statistics. The top three causes of death in the United States are heart disease, stroke, and cancer—all of which are diet related. This means that if we learn how our bodies work and what fuel they need, we may be able to prevent some of these diseases," she said.

This video series is the best and most effective short course on nutrition available anywhere. It features Dr. James Scala, a renowned nutritionist, and is based on a University of California extension course, "Basics of Nutrition," taught by the professor. The series consists of six half-hour segments and provides easy-to-understand information in a lively and entertaining format. One may be interested in only one or two of the segments or the entire series.

The series is sponsored by Shaklee Corporation because of its recognition of the importance of good nutrition. It was created as a service to help people become more knowledgeable about nutrition and food choices. Although the series is underwritten by Shaklee Corporation, it is in no way a commercial message. It is an objective presentation of nutritional facts vital to every American.

Since the series will be shown in six separate segments, one may take one or all. The full six segments will be $20.00 with a test at the conclusion. After completing the requirements, a certificate will be awarded from the Shaklee Corporation. If anyone would like to sit in on one or more of the segments, the cost will be $5.00 a session.

The seminar will begin next Monday night, April 29, at 7:30 at the Probasco home on the Sandhill Highway. It will be necessary to make reservations because of limited space by calling Peggy Probasco at 983-5246.

Pit conducts a smashing business

By Juanita Stepp

Thrasher Pit, located eighteen miles east of Floydada and four miles north-east of Highway 70, is an unusual business in this predominately agricultural area. Appian Corporation, a company based in Hereford, Texas, and formerly known as Jake Diel Dirt and Paving, operates a rock crushing pit on the site.

A Lubbock resident and longtime company employee, Donnie Wheat, commutes daily to oversee the production of several types of material used in the construction and maintenance of highways, parking lots, and driveways. In addition to crushed rock of varying sizes, the plant produces hot mix, cold mix, and highway precoat.

Production begins with a stripping process in which native rock-bearing materials are removed from the earth with bulldozers and scrapers. The material is then fed into a jaw crusher which smashes it and separates out undersized rock (called round rock). The crushed rock obtained by the process is called cobb rock. The materials are moved by means of conveyor belts, stackers, and front loaders to stock piles or into a cone crusher which further sizes the crushed rock.

Sizing is accomplished by passing rock along a series of shakers and screens, allowing the various sizes of rocks to drop onto conveyor belts which carry them to the proper stock pile to await further processing or sale. Further processing includes being sent through a wash plant which remove dirt, sand, and undersized rock fragments to bring the rock into conformity with state specifications. Various sizes and shapes of rock are required to meet different needs and perform different roles in the building of roads and paved lots. State inspectors make on-site inspections to insure the maintenance of proper standards and the delivery of quality product to all job sites.

Hot mix, a substance manufactured by combining crush rock, screenings, and asphalt at high temperatures is a finish coat used on paved roads. The mixture is spread on roads to provide a smooth surface. Cold mix, also prepared under heat by combining crush rock and screenings with asphalt, is made with the addition of flux oil and water to allow the mix to be stored and used as needed for patching holes in road surfaces. It does not set up until it has been packed solid under pressure.

Precoat, commonly called seal coat, is rock coated with oil. It is applied to roads over an asphalt base where traffic and heat combine to form a renewed finish on the cracked surfaces of stressed pavement.

A fleet of over thirty rented eighteen wheelers make approximately four trips each per day to disburse finished products to areas served by the pit.

Appian's 20 plant employees have experienced only minor injuries during the past five years the pit has been in operation. Two women are employed in the operation, one in a clerical capacity and the other as safety inspector. The remaining employees man the crushing plant, hot mix plant, wash plant, and a variety of heavy equipment needed to produce the product created daily.

Soil conservation practices are being implemented as the area is worked in an effort to return the canyon which contains the pit to a near natural state as each area is completed and a new site opened. Wildlife and grazing cattle continue to flourish as long hours of work in all types of weather turn big rocks into little rocks that help speed the modern mobile society down the highway each day.

DID YOU KNOW?

Here are some unusual facts about sleep that shouldn't catch you napping. Did you know:

*While the average sleep time for adults is between seven and eight hours, only 60 percent of us fall within this range. Surveys indicate that a good night's sleep for the other 40 percent is less than seven or more than eight hours, and that for a few people less than five hours or more than ten hours is normal.

*A sleeping person changes the position of his entire body at least 80 times during eight hours of slumber. He moves his head, arms or legs more often than that.

*Tossing and turning during sleep could be because of hard spots and pressure points common to innerspring mattresses. A unique mattress has been developed by Somma Mattress that features individual water-filled vinyl cylinders which distribute body weight evenly.

*During an eight hour period of sleep, you'll probably have from three to five intervals of dreaming sleep. These intervals last a total of about 100 minutes. Interestingly, the later dream periods last longer than the earlier ones.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. ("AT&T Communications"), in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC") hereby gives notice of its intent to implement a new schedule of rates for its services. The new rates will be effective May 14, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the PUC. All customers and classes of customers would be affected by the proposed rates.

AT&T Communications has filed a reprice of its tariffs designed to more closely recover access and other costs for WATS and 800 Service and all private line services including Channel Services, Foreign Exchange (FX), DATAPHONE® Digital Service, and OCC Facilities.

Also proposed is the institution of a charge for Directory Assistance to begin to recover access costs incurred for such service and increases in rates for operator assisted AT&T Long Distance calls. The initial minute charge for all AT&T Long Distance calls and additional minute rates for AT&T Long Distance calls 51 miles or less are proposed for increases to reflect the access charges approved by the PUC for such calls.

The proposed new rates for all services would result in an increase in adjusted test period revenues of $139 million or 12.7 percent.

A complete copy of the proposed tariffs are on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Seed Planting

Each spring, gardening enthusiasts play a needless waiting game because they believe it is too early to plant fruit and vegetable seeds. New hope has arrived for these restless gardeners with the introduction of polyester garden blankets which hold in warmth and reduce the possibility of seed damage caused by light frost. This new development also provides an added bonus by promoting faster germination and higher yield.

The lightweight blankets increase soil temperature by allowing sunlight to transmit through while holding in moisture. They also protect seedlings from insects and small animals. Water and liquid fertilizer can be applied easily without removing the blanket, which can stay in place for four to five weeks after germination.

HOME ECONOMICS TODAY

WHERE ARE YOUR VALUABLE PAPERS?

Important money matters - insurance, savings, investments, real estate - create lots of paperwork. Once you sign those papers you may forget about them. And then when you need them the most they may be no where to be found.

It's just good household management to periodically take inventory of your valuable papers. It will help you locate the papers when they are needed, direct someone else to them in case of emergency and evaluate your financial affairs on a routine basis.

Prepare an inventory of valuable documents on paper or your home computer. Review it at least once a year and update it whenever important changes occur.

You might also want to prepare an inventory for an older relative, since you could be the person who needs to locate his or her important papers.

An inventory could include the following categories:

- * A family record listing names, birthdates and where the birth is recorded for each family member.
- * The name, address and telephone number of persons who should be notified in case of serious emergency.
- * The name, address and telephone number of a person to whom you have given power of attorney.
- * The names, address and telephone numbers of your family advisors. These may include an accountant, banker, broker, financial planner, insurance agent, doctor, clergy and attorney.
- * The location of your valuable papers including wills and instructions, personal paper, property papers and real estate papers.
- * A list of all financial accounts, including the name and address of the firm, the identification or account number and in whose name and account is carried. This may include accounts with banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions.
- * A list of real estate and business interests you own, including mortgages. Basic information for each property would include the kind of property, location, ownership situation, the date acquired and purchase price.
- * A list of your stocks, bonds, securities, mutual funds, property insurance, life insurance and annuities; accident, liability and hospital insurance; and other personal property you own, such as household furnishings and automobiles.

* Information concerning social security, retirement, pension and profit sharing plans. Dates of employment and employers are frequently needed for filing applications and settling estates.

* A list of money owed, and owed to you, size of debt and terms of payment.

Making an inventory of valuable papers is a major task. Once you set up a system, however, updating as changes occur is not as formidable. If there was an emergency in your life today, would someone know what to do?

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas, effective May 6, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. The Public Utility Commission of Texas has received the application as Docket 6200.

While proposals as to specific rates vary, it is expected that the requested rate schedule will furnish a 10.5 percent increase in the Company's unadjusted test year intrastate revenues or a 9.7 percent increase in test year revenues as adjusted for test year customer growth and annualization of test year rate increases. The rate application seeks an annual increase of $323.9 million in revenues. All customers and classes of customers of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company within Texas will be affected by the proposed changes.

Most rates proposed for increase would increase by about 18.5 percent, including local exchange rates. However, there are some exceptions. For example, those customers residing in cities that will be reclassified into larger rate groups will experience local exchange rate increases greater than 18.5 percent. Also, the rate increases proposed for private line services in El Paso, due to a proposal to restructure such rates, are greater than 18.5 percent.

A complete copy of the new rate schedule is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas and with each affected incorporated municipality served by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. The Commission staff has contended in the past that all rates are subject to change as a result of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's rate application. This filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for local exchange service, intraLATA long distance, intra-LATA interexchange private line service (which includes foreign exchange service) and to decrease certain access service rates.

Notice to Customers of Other Telephone Companies

This filing includes, but is not limited to, proposals to increase rates for intraLATA long distance and for intraLATA, interexchange private line service (which includes foreign exchange service) and to decrease certain access service rates. Changes in such rates would also affect customers of other telephone companies because such companies provide certain services in accordance with rates specified in Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's tariffs.

Notice to All Customers Concerning Access Charges and Certain New Service Charges

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, as a part of this filing, is also proposing to reduce certain access rates charged such customers as AT&T Communications, Inc., MCI and other carriers. The resulting reduction in revenues is proposed to be offset by revenues from two new service charges, late payment charges applicable to business customers only and for certain operator services such as busy line verification, plus stimulation of access service charge revenues. Since this portion of the filing, if granted, would have essentially a zero net revenue effect on Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is proposing that this portion of the filing be expeditiously handled by the Commission and not await Final Order.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Aviso Público

En conformidad con las disposiciones de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company anuncia mediante el presente aviso su intención de establecer un nuevo arancel de tarifas telefónicas en Texas, con vigencia a partir del 6 de mayo de 1985, salvo disposición en contrario de la Comisión. La Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas a registrado esta solicitud bajo el Docket 6200.

Si bien existe variación entre las propuestas en cuanto a las tarifas precisas, se anticipa que el arancel tarifario solicitado aumentará en un 10.5% los ingresos intrastatales no ajustados de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company durante el año de prueba, o sea, un aumento del 9.7 por ciento en los ingresos del año de prueba, después de realizar el ajuste por la expansión de los usuarios y por la anualización del aumento de tarifas para el año de prueba. El objeto de esta solicitud de tarifas es lograr un aumento anual en los ingresos de $323.9 millones. Los cambios propuestos afectarán a todos los usuarios y grupos de usuarios de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company en el estado de Texas.

La mayoría de las tarifas que resultarían afectadas por el propuesto aumento aumentarían aproximadamente en un 18.5 por ciento, incluyendo las tarifas de centrales locales. Sin embargo, existen algunas excepciones. Por ejemplo, los usuarios que residen en ciudades que se reclassificarán para formar parte de grupos tarifarios mayores experimentarían aumentos más elevados del 18.5 por ciento. Por otra parte, los aumentos de las tarifas propuestas para servicios de línea privada en El Paso aumentarían en más de 18.5 por ciento, como resultado de una propuesta para reestructurar tales tarifas.

Una copia completa del nuevo arancel de tarifas se halla archivada en las oficinas de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos en Austin, Texas, así como en cada municipalidad incorporada afectada que tenga servicio de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. En el pasado, la Comisión ha sostenido que toda tarifa se halla sujeta a un cambio cada vez que Southwestern Bell Telephone Company solicite nuevas tarifas. El registro de esta tarifa incluye, pero no en forma limitativa, las propuestas de aumentar las tarifas por servicios de centrales locales, de larga distancia intraLATA y por servicios de línea privada interLATA entre centrales (incluyendo servicios de centrales externas) así como las propuestas de reducir ciertas tarifas de servicio de acceso.

Aviso a los clientes de otras compañías de teléfono
 El registro de esta tarifa incluye, pero no en forma limitativa, las propuestas de aumentar las tarifas por servicios de larga distancia intraLATA y por servicios de línea privada intraLATA entre centrales (incluyendo servicios de centrales externas) así como las propuestas de reducir ciertas tarifas de servicio de acceso. Los cambios en dichas tarifas también afectarían a los clientes de otras compañías de teléfono, puesto que dichas compañías proporcionan ciertos servicios de acuerdo con las tarifas especificadas en los aranceles tarifarios de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Aviso a todos los clientes con respecto a los cargos de acceso y a determinados cargos nuevos de servicio

Al registrar esta tarifa, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company también propone reducir ciertas tarifas de acceso que se les cobran a clientes como AT&T Communications, Inc., MCI y otras compañías de larga distancia. La consecuente reducción de ingresos se piensa compensar por medio de dos cargos nuevos de servicio (cargos por pago atrasado que se aplicarían solamente a usuarios comerciales, y cargos por ciertos servicios de operadora, tales como verificación de línea ocupada) además de la estimulación de los ingresos por cargos por servicios de acceso. En vista de que, en caso de otorgarse esta parte del arancel tarifario registrado, su efecto real en los ingresos de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company sería igual a cero, ésta propone que la Comisión tramite dicha parte de la tarifa en forma expeditiva sin esperar la Orden Definitiva.

Toda persona que desee intervenir o participar en el presente proceso debe notificar a la Comisión lo antes posible. Las solicitudes de intervención, participación o información deben dirigirse a: Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Para obtener mayor información debe llamar a Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division, (512) 458-0223, o (512) 458-0227, o al (512) 458-0221 si requiere teletipo para personas con impedimentos de audición.

Landscape & Gardening

PREPARING GARDEN SOILS

The soil in your garden beds is the mainspring, or key, to successful gardening. Spring days will allow the opportunity to prepare soils in anticipation of planting.

The success or health of any plant depends directly on the soil in which the plant is growing. Basically, the soil holds the plant in place in an upright position and provides necessary moisture, oxygen, and food for the plant. As simple as this may seem, many backyard soils do not supply these essentials for proper production, be it in the vegetable garden or flower bed.

The best method of assuring plants of adequate moisture is to incorporate generous amounts of humus or organic materials into the soil. Organic materials such as peatmoss, leafmold, compost, processed bark, and animal manures, are of a coarse texture which insures good soil aeration or oxygen, proper drainage or movement of water through the soil and proper water retention, as well as prevention of soil compaction and often times food for the plant.

Proposed planting areas should be well spaded and worked prior to adding organic or humus materials so as to remove all undesirable weeds and grasses and to better work the organic additives into the bed area. The organic material may be spread evenly over the surface to the cultivated soil, then turned into the soil.

The amount of organic material required for a garden bed depends on the conditions of the existing soil.

Heavy clay type soils or very sandy soils demand greater amounts of humus or organic materials to insure proper aeration, drainage, and water retention. The amount will depend on the depth and size of the proposed planting area. With experience, the gardener can feel the soil and recognize the desired tilt and soil texture for desirable plant growth. The soil should appear and feel "fluffed" and loose in texture.

Perhaps the most popular and best organic material for soils is sphagnum peat. This material is loose and coarse in texture and long-lasting in the soil. Normally, peat is bought in a compressed bale or block. Because of its dry, compressed conditions, it should be spread and fluffed over the bed area, moistened, then worked well into the soil. The average soil will require two to four inches of peat over the soil surface to be spaded in to provide a desirable soil texture.

Animal manures, compost, and leafmold not only provide organic matter, but slowly available food for the plant as well. Because they are not as coarse as peat, usually more is required for a good soil mix. Oftentimes, when available, well rotted manures, compost, or leafmold is added to a peat and soil mixture.

Processed barks are available in a number of grades or sizes and are popular and useful as long-lasting soil conditioners and decorative mulches.

Commercial fertilizers may also be added when preparing soils in advance of planting, if they are applied at least two weeks prior to planting. The best formula is a complete and balanced fertilizer such as 8-8-8, 10-10-10, or 12-12-12, at the rate of approximately one-half cup per square yard of soil area. Fertilizers, like organic material, should be well worked and distributed into the prepared soil.

If time does not allow for a fertilizer treatment prior to planting, the wise gardener will wait until plants are well established and growing before applying the raw fertilizer at the same rate.

Prepared annuals, perennials, and vegetable beds should be dug to a 12 to 18-inch depth. Areas for trees and shrubs should be prepared 8 to 12 inches beyond the width of the plant's existing root area. All planting beds should be raised slightly above normal ground level to allow for settling and to insure surface drainage.

The extra time, expense and labor of properly prepared soils are well worth the effort in good plant growth and production, less soil compaction, and summer watering. The wise gardener abides by the theory: "It is by far best to plant a two-bit plant in a two-dollar hole, than a two-dollar plant in a two-bit hole."

FmHA farm loans are 90% complete

The Texas State Director of Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), J. Lynn Futch, has announced that approximately 90% of the farm loan applications received from farmers to finance their '85 crops have been processed. Field personnel are using all of the tools available such as the Debt Set-Aside Program, limited resource loans, subordinations, rescheduling, and reamortization to assist farmers in developing a workable farm plan. The State Director estimates that more than 95% of the Texas farmers, who farmed in 1984, were able to get financing if they chose to continue to farm in 1985.

Futch reported that FmHA has made more than 4,300 farm loans in the state for about $286 million this year. Applications continue to be processed. The fiscal year ends September 30, 1985.

Management Newsletter

By Dale W. Spurgeon
Extension Agent - Entomology

With cotton planting time approaching, I'd like to take this opportunity to mention a few things that may make cotton production and pest management a little easier for some of you this year. Many producers do not fully realize the importance of "crop management" in relation to "pest management." Actually, "crop management" is but one part of pest management. To illustrate this, I will briefly describe some of the cotton crop management practices we can use to reduce the occurrence, or at least the severity, of our pest problems in cotton.

The basic idea is to raise the most cotton with the least amount of inputs in the shortest time possible. In other words, maximize efficiency. If either yields are limited or inputs unnecessarily high, the amount of time and money devoted to pest management are limited, as are returns from pest management efforts. Also, the longer a crop is in the field, the more opportunity pests have to attack it. It is obviously easier to say this than to do it. But there are some things we can do throughout the season to move closer to that maximum efficiency.

We can start with high quality seed. Quality seed results in a fast growing vigorous plant. Next, plant at a moderate seeding rate. Four to six seeds per row ft. (quality seed, of course) is adequate for optimum yields. In addition, moderate plant populations (we'd like to be in the neighborhood of 40,000 plants per acre) tend to result in earlier fruiting, faster fruiting, and possibly even faster fruit development than do very high plant populations. Lastly, when at all possible, plant under good soil conditions. We'd like to have a 10 day average soil temperature at 8 inches of depth of at least 60° F. before we plant. Cotton seeds won't even germinate at less than 54° F. We are normally going to start seeing good planting conditions sometime around May 10. If you are in a situation where you feel you absolutely have to start planting before you have good conditions, by all means plant your best quality seed first. It has the best chance of resulting in a stand you can save under poor conditions. Do not fall into the old trap of compensating for poor quality seed by increasing seeding rates. This tactic generally results in far too few, or far too many plants.

Now you may ask, "how does this relate to pest management?" First, consider that poor seed vigor, thick plantings and poor planting conditions add to seedling disease problems, which often mean both stand loss and yield loss. In addition, these same factors (which affect how fast the crop takes off) may affect susceptibility to thrips damage. It is easy to see that a vigorous plant growing under good conditions can withstand a larger number of thrips with less damage than a sick plant under poor conditions. These same factors even carry over to affect fleahoppers and bollworms. The earlier (in days from emergence, not necessarily by the calendar) and faster a plant fruits, the less susceptible it is to fleahopper damage. Also, early set and rapidly developing squares result in early bolls, a longer period of boll set, higher yields and a head start on bollworms.

Possibly the most important practices we can manipulate are our irrigation practices. I have actually seen an untimely irrigation ruin a cotton crop.

I've also seen irrigations that definitely increased bollworm problems. Bear in mind that there is no set number of irrigations required to raise a good cotton crop. Conditions such as available soil moisture, temperature, rainfall and even variety and plant stand affect the number and timing of required irrigations.

I realize that many of you with limited water must "start early and stop late." In many cases poorly timed irrigations do more damage than good. In a few cases, these irrigations not only did not result in yield increases large enough to pay for the irrigation, but also resulted in poorer grades and increased ginning costs. If you are not in a situation where you can devote part of your farm to dryland production, consider some "water-stretching" practices. Furrow diking has been shown to consistently result in at least a 10% yield increase. Diking may also push back the time when you need to apply that first (and often only) irrigation. Alternate-row irrigation may allow you to cover more acres in a given amount of time. It also does not result in cooling the beds down as much. This means less loss from surface evaporation, a shorter "slow down" period in cotton growth after irrigation, and in some cases a reduction of verticillium wilt problems. In some fields where alternate-row watering is difficult because of level ground or cracks, furrow diking can help. Lastly, don't feel that you need to "get all your rows out" when irrigating. Under some circumstances you can cover more acres, and thus get more return, by not pushing water completely to the end of the rows.

I hope many of you will find my comments to be helpful. This is most likely the last Crosby-Floyd Pest Management Newsletter you will receive this season. I have recently accepted a research associate position at Auburn University and my last day as an Extension Agent-Entomology in Crosby and Floyd Counties will be April 26. Since you will not be receiving this newsletter in 1985, I have requested that each of you be placed on the mailing list of Focus, a pest management newsletter written by Dr. Leser and Dr. Morrison, Extension Entomologists in Lubbock. I would like to say that it has been a pleasure to serve you. I hope you have found our experiences to be as rewarding as I have. I wish each of you the best of luck in the upcoming season.

Wildlife stamp print received

COTTON
At planting, TEMIK[®] aldicarb pesticide controls 6 major early-season cotton pests for up to 10 weeks, including thrips, mites, aphids, lygus, fleahoppers and leafminers. Plus, it provides outstanding control of nematodes. Control of these pests result in stronger root systems and more vigorous plants which can produce higher yields and earlier maturity.

MILO
Chinch bugs, greenbugs and nematodes can suck the profit right out of milo production. That's why you need TEMIK[®] aldicarb pesticide. Foliar sprays often do not get to the chinch bugs that cluster on the lower part of stems and leaves or to the greenbugs that feed on the underside of leaves. And such treatments work only on contact and only on the insects present. They cannot control below ground pests such as nematodes. TEMIK, however, controls soil-borne nematodes both on contact and systemically, and suppresses chinch bug and greenbug populations for 4 to 8 weeks after application.

Social Security News

By Terry J. Clements

Were you turned down for social security or supplemental security income (SSI) benefits? If so, you should be aware of your right to question decisions made on your case.

In deciding whether you can get benefits and how much your check should be, social security carefully considers all evidence and information. Then it sends you a notice explaining its decision.

If you disagree with a decision, generally you must file a written appeal within 60 days after receiving a notice. The people at any social security office can help you complete the appeal forms without charge. You also have a right to be represented by a lawyer or other qualified person of your choice.

There are four appeal steps which usually must be taken in order. The first one is a reconsideration. This is an independent review of your case by persons who were not involved in the original decision.

The reconsideration is generally conducted without your being present.

If you disagree with the reconsideration decision, you may request a hearing before an administrative law judge of the social security administration's Office of Hearings and Appeals. At the hearing, you can submit new evidence, question any witnesses, and examine the evidence on which a decision will be based.

If you disagree with the administrative law judge's decision, you may ask for a review by the Appeals Council which meets near Washington, D.C. If you believe the Appeals Council decision is not correct or if it declined to review your case, you may file a suit in a Federal district court.

If you wish to know more about your appeal rights, you may contact us at 1401-B W. 5th Street or call us at 293-9623.

South Plains News

By Mrs. Murray Julian

South Plains, April 22, Monday:

Day after day we have been getting wind and then more wind. So far we have escaped the bad storms they have had down south from us. We are grateful for that. Some of our farmers are beginning to plant their cotton, and others are ready to start. It's the time of year, too, when lawns are beginning to need cutting.

There are seven more weeks of school left. I am sure all the pupils will be glad to see that day when the doors close for the summer.

The family of Bobbie and Sylvin Kinnibrugh with all their kith and kin are planning a big week-end next Saturday, as they have a family reunion at the Massie Activity Center in Floydada. Sunday the family crowd will be here with Mr. and Mrs. Sylvin and Bobbie Kinnibrugh for dinner.

We attended the drama of "Harvey" on Sunday afternoon. The three act play was presented Friday and Saturday nights of last week, along with a Sunday afternoon matinee, at the Floydada Duncan Cafeteria. We thoroughly enjoyed the play and are proud to give praise, especially to Sara and Don Probasco of South Plains for all the work they and everyone else has done the past weeks, as they practiced and practiced. Our pastor Cecil Osborne of South Plains directed the comedy and we would like to say how we all enjoyed it from start to finish.

Mrs. Ruth Smitherman was taken to Central Plains Hospital last week-end, and has been there this week, suffering with a stomach problem. We are hoping that she may get to come home very soon.

An ice cream social was held Sunday evening after church services at the South Plains Baptist fellowship hall. Freezers of ice cream, cakes and sandwiches, and other delicacies were served to those who had been at the services. It was a happy time of visiting with other church people of the community and with pastor Cecil Osborne and wife, Joyce.

At Sunday morning Baptist Church services a visitor and friend from Lubbock were Bodie Joe Teague and friend Marla. They had been here to spend the week-end with his grandmother, Mrs. Mamie Wood.

Boy Scouts and their fathers packed food and other equipment and went to the canyon east of South Plains where they spent the night Friday and cooked and did scouting activities.

CLAY HAMILTON

Hamilton to visit Norway

Clay Hamilton, son of Bobbie and Charles Hamilton of Floydada, has been chosen one of three representatives from Texas in the International 4-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) program. There are approximately 35 young Americans being sponsored for the six month exchanges with countries abroad. Hamilton will visit Norway.

Hamilton earned a B.S. degree at Texas A&M University and has done graduate work at Stephen F. Austin University. During nine years of involvement in the 4-H organization, Hamilton received many honors, including the Gold Star Award. He also had state-winning record books in sheep and cotton.

Having recently served a two year stint as an assistant county extension agent in Nacogdoches County, Hamilton is eligible for promotion to county agent, but is considering a return to graduate school. He "looking forward to this sixth month assignment before making a decision" about his future.

As an IFYE representative, Hamilton will spend the months from June to December living with various host families in Norway. He said, "This will afford the opportunity to gain a better understanding of customs and languages in other countries, as well as being able to work with young people in the host country."

Hamilton will have much information and many interesting events to share with other 4-H'ers when he returns.

County receives rebate

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Wednesday sent checks totaling $48.9 million in local tax payments to the 1,003 cities that levy the one-percent local sales tax. Bullock cautioned against attempts to draw conclusions about the Texas economy based on one month's rebate figure but added the April payments "are in line with our projections for the state."

Houston received a check for $8.5 million, for a total $48 million in 1985. Dallas' check for $6.1 million brought this year's payments to $35.4 million and San Antonio's April payment was $3 million for a 1985 total of $17.3 million.

Austin's check for $2.5 million pushed the year's total to $13.6 million. Fort Worth received $1.9 million bringing 1985 payments to $10.3 million, while El Paso's payment was $1.1 million for a total $6.5 million.

Floydada received $4,767.26 to bring the year to date total up to $33,596.44, a 23.26% increase over the same period in 1984. Lockney was the recipient of $1,727.40 for a total of $14,577.59, showing an increase of 11.03%.

Plainview received $57,122.60 to elevate their year to date total to $345,967.14. This is an increase of about 6% over 1984 at this same time. The city of Lubbock was reimbursed a total of $728,868.60 to bring their current total to $4,264,113.46. This represents an increase over the 1984 figures of 7.66%.

Matador received $659.62 for a total of $6,544.34 for the year. This is a 19.67% increase over the 1984 totals at this time. Crosbyton got a check for $1,564.33 to make their total for the year to date $17,119.32, an increase of over 33%.

April checks represent taxes collected on sales made in February and reported to the Comptroller by March 20.

National Consumers Week, 1985

By the President of the United States of America
A Proclamation

America's economy has been revitalized by the highest level of consumer confidence in nearly twenty years. Our free enterprise system and the high productivity of American workers have made such economic growth possible, providing the American consumer with an unprecedented choice of goods and services.

As the range of consumer choice increases, competition compels our businesses to provide even greater value for consumer dollars. Increasingly, business leaders respond to consumer expectations by improving the quality, safety, and effectiveness of their products. Competition also generates reliable servicing.

This year's slogan for National Consumers Week, "Consumers Should Know," highlights the right of consumers to information about the products offered them. Knowledgeable, selective consumers make their dollars count. In that way, families not only enjoy better products but are able to put more money aside for future needs. Those savings translate into business investments, and that means growth for our Nation's economy.

Buyers and sellers alike should recognize the basic rights of consumers: the right to choice among products and services; the right to information enabling them to make sound purchases; the right to healthful and safe products; the right to be heard when products do not meet standards. Government at all levels will continue its responsible stewardship of consumer safety as well as its vigorous prosecution of illegal and deceptive practices. But in the final analysis it is the knowledgeable consumer and the responsible business person whose decisions will determine the success or failure of products and services in the competitive marketplace.

In celebration of National Consumers Week, I encourage schools, community organizations, labor unions, businesses, the media, and consumers themselves to help further public awareness of consumer issues and services. I urge American consumers to take advantage of this opportunity to seek and use the wealth of information available to all.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the week beginning April 21, 1985, as National Consumers Week.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this fourth day of March, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-five, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and ninth.
