Giant crowd gathers Saturday for 'one of best' Old Settlers Days

The courthouse block and adjacent areas were a beehive of activity Saturday as the annual Floyd County Pioneer Day — "Old Settlers" — unfolded.

Ruth Pitts Battey was recognized as the Pioneer Woman of the Year, the Pioneer Man was H.E. (Hubert) Frizzell and the Pioneer Couple were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Huffman. Tribute also was paid to the late Frank Brown.

One of the best parades in the reunion's history advanced from the Baptist Church in Floydada, around the courthouse square and on to the west before disbanding. Parade entries passed for 30 minutes.

"This is the best attendance we've ever had...at least in many years," a person who has worked with the association for many years stated.

A crowd had already gathered around the courthouse square when the Fourth Cavalry posted the colors in an impressive 9:30 a.m. ceremony in front of the courthouse.

Frances Staniforth, president of the Floyd County Pioneer Day, conducted most of the festivities. Other officers for the year included R.C. Mitchell, vice president; Gayle Reay, secretary; and Frizzell, treasurer.

During the business meeting, Frizzell paid tribute to the late Frank Brown before Lon Davis introduced the pioneer couple, man and woman.

Mrs. Staniforth mentioned that the county was born May 28, 1890, and was celebrating its 98th birthday.

NEW OFFICERS

Polly Cardinal, chairperson of the nominating committee, recommended the following persons as officers to plan the '89 reunion: Frizzell, president; Travis Jones, vice president; Ms. Reay, secretary; and Norman Muncy, treasurer. The slate was unanimously elected.

Lovene Moore was in charge of an impressive memorial service. She read the list of those who have succumbed since the last reunion. Mrs. Moore noted that 162 names appeared on this year's list, one more than the previous year.

President Staniforth expressed appreciation to the Boy Scouts, the sheriff's department and police department, Andrews School, Higginbotham-Bartlett, the board of directors and others for assisting with the gala day.

Following the business meeting, the group was treated to another colorful "Lone Star Ballet," involving dancers from the "Texas" production.

Lengthy lines formed for the traditional, catered barbecue lunch. Country-western music was presented during the meal. Old settlers were treated to complimentary meals.

Third graders from Duncan Elementary School in Floydada entertained the group with excerpts from "Floyd County from a Tumbleweed's Point of View." Beth Faulkenberry directed the City swimming pool will open Thursday

With warmer weather arriving, it's time for a refreshing dip in the city-owned swimming pool.

The pool will open today (Thursday) barring a list-minute complication.

Rilla Sue Woody will manage the pool.

The tentative schedule will be 1 to 6 p.m. six days a week with the pool being closed on Monday. Family night is to be from 7 until 9 p.m. Thursday.

Also being planned are morning swimming aerobic classes for adults only.

Mrs. Wood should be contacted at the pool, phone 983-8105, or at home, 983-2706, to arrange parties.

Persons interested in swimming lessons should inquire at the pool. Daily admission is to be $1.50 for adults and youngsters above six years and $1 for children six and under.

Pam Woody and Duncan Woody, along with their mother, will serve as lifeguards.

Floydada Swimming Pool has been repainted, according to City Manager Gary Brown.

County visit on senator's development tour of state

Gramm to visit Tye Company

During a series of economic development visits across the state, Senator Phil Gramm will be in Floyd County this Saturday.

Sen. Gramm's visit is billed as a non-partisan visit.

County Judge Bill Hardin, mayors Parnell Powell of Floydada and Dan Smith of Lockney and Bill Hale, president of the Floydada Economic Development Co., are to meet the senator at Floydada Municipal Airport at 1 p.m. They will accompany Sen. Gramm to the Tye Co. plant in Lockney, arriving "about 1:15."

Here, the senator will meet John Tye, president of the Tye Co., and then advance to the "break room," where he will be greeted by "15 to 20" persons from each of the county towns.

Tye will brief the group about the company's history, past expansions, innovative designs, competitive edge, economic impact on Floyd County and a description of the manufacturing process.

The tour is to include a walk-through of the sheet metal process, the drill press area, a large welding room, warehousing facilities and the final assembly area. Appearing in the assembly room will be several completed pieces of equipment for the senator to observe and be briefed on their design.

A reception table will be set up in the final assembly room. There Tye will ask the senator to address the group, followed by a time of reception.

Members of county and city governing bodies, chambers of commerce and development company personnel and "a few leading agri-business people" have been invited to tour the facility with Sen. Gramm.

Following the reception, the senator will be returned to the Floydada airport for his departure.

Juveniles involved in residential criminal mischief and burglary

A woman entered a vacant house in the 300 block of West Jackson and confronted three juveniles inside the dwelling last week.

The juveniles allegedly had thrown bright yellow paint on walls and carpet, knocked holes in sheetrock and broken mirrors. The damage estimate was placed at $345 from the criminal mischief.

The police department's investigation continues.

A second case involving juveniles was the burglary of a house in the 600 block of West Grover. The structure was not occupied although furnishings were inside.

Part of the stolen merchandise has been recovered, and the youngsters believed to have been involved were referred to juvenile authorities.

Police were notified about 1 p.m.

Thursday, according to Sgt. Harold Snell, of a dog biting a child, who is almost four years old. The incident reportedly occurred in the 100 block of West Kentucky.

Officers were told that the child, who was inside the dog's house, was bitten on the left side of the face. Charges have been filed against the animal's owner for allowing it to run loose. The girl reportedly was treated at Caprock Hospital and released.

Police was summoned to the 200 block of West Virginia about 8:27 p.m. Friday due to domestic disturbance. This was a dispute between a husband and his wife. No charges were filed.

No injuries were reported in a two-vehicle accident about 4:06 p.m. Saturday at Second and Missouri. A 1981 GMC pickup was being driven

Possible rabid skunk killed here Tuesday

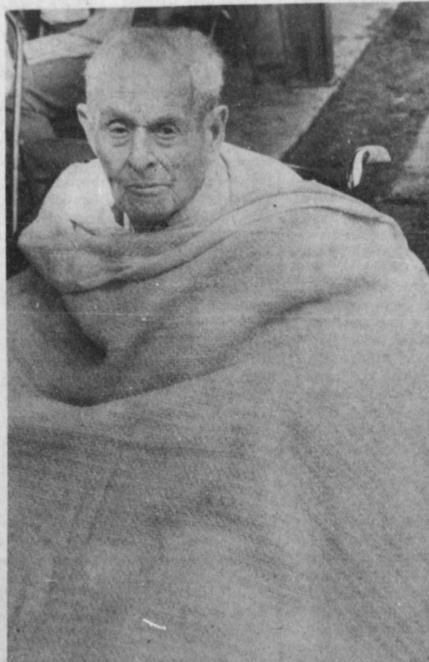

City Manager Gary Brown is advising parents to warn their children to "stay away from skunks and any stray animal which approaches them" after a skunk which was destroyed Tuesday in Floydada could have been rabid.

The city manager "sent the animal's head to Austin" for rabies testing.

"We may be getting excited over nothing, hopefully," Brown told The Hesperian.

DISTEMPER CASES

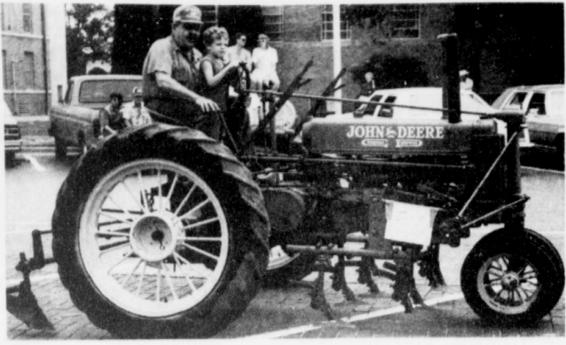

The city manager adds that "we have had a couple of confirmed cases of distemper in dogs" within the city. He advises pet owners to have their dogs and cats vaccinated against distemper.

OLDEST AND [ONE OF THE] YOUNGEST—Warrnie Hilton, a spry 106, had to be the oldest person attending the '88 version of Floyd County Pioneer Day. Among the youngest was Lindsey Dee Leatherman [being held by her mother], daughter of John and Dee Leatherman, who was born in April. Staff Photo youngsters. After this 1 p.m. presentation under the pavilion, "yesterday's fashions" were modeled. Some garments 100 years and older were shown, as were others of more recent vintage. The film depicting Floydada businesses during 1948 was shown at Hale's Department Store. Due to "glare," it was moved inside the store.

One other change was that the Fourth Cavalry tents remained on the Davis Gin yard rather than being relocated Saturday to the courthouse lawn due to wet grounds.

Jo and Olen Lyles were in charge of "one of the best parades we've ever seen here." It started about First Baptist Church promptly at 2:30.

Next on the agenda, at 3:30, was the Country Caravan show by South Plains College in Levelland. Hundreds of persons sat under the pavilion and on the square to hear the country-western musical.

Mrs. Stanforth announced parade winners during intermission.

Rains abbreviated the dance at the rodeo grounds slab, about midnight. The dance at Massie Activity Center unrehearsed as planned.

Numerous "side events" added to the festivities.

Officers and the board of directors express "sincere appreciation for the cooperation and participation" to make the event a huge success.

RUTH PITTS BATTEY

A spry Ruth Pitts Battey wore a warm smile as she was introduced by Davis as Pioneer Woman of the Year. She was flanked by family members.

Following is Davis' introduction of Mrs. Battey:

"Mrs. Battey was an early resident of Florida, having been born in Panama City in 1890. When she was four years old her parents, John Thomas Pitts and his wife Neta, moved to Bowie County, Tex. "Due to a devastating outbreak of malaria, the family soon went to Abilene, Tex., where Mr. Pitts was a cattle raiser until 1902. At that time, the family moved to Crosby County and in 1906 moved on to Floydada.

"John Pitts was in the real estate business here in Floydada until his death in 1918. The Pitts had nine children, and Ruth was the second born of these children.

"She completed her schooling here and attended West Texas Teacher Normal College in Canyon, working for a degree in mathematics. She was teaching school at the Lakeview Community when she met David Battey and they eloped to Plainview and were secretly married. The did not divulge this marriage for quite some time as school boards of this era did not allow married women to teach.

"Later on Ruth and David moved to the Harmony Community of Floyd County and there reared their two children, David Jr. and Dorothy Jeanne.

"Ruth became interested in poultry production while her husband was doing the farming and they worked with Texas A&M College on their breeding program. She and David were among the first breeders of the broad breasted turkeys in the state, and they were recognized for their accomplishment throughout the Southwest.

"Probably one of the things which Ruth would remember is the year they supplied a 42-pound dressed turkey to the A&M football team.

"The Batteyes were longtime members of the Methodist Church, and Ruth involved herself in every activity of the church. Not only was she a leader in the church, but she gave of her time to the Home Demonstration clubs and to the 1922 Study Club.

"Mrs. Battey has a great host of friends and admirers and therefore Ruth, the Floyd County Old Settlers take great pride in naming you their Floyd County Woman of the Year, and we present you with this plaque in recognition of this honor."

Data about the Huffmans, Frizzell and Brown are printed in The Beacon section.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor:

I wish to thank the members of the Pioneer Association for the lovely plaque and recognition given me at the Pioneer Day celebration Saturday. I have been proud to attend school, teach and live in Floyd County since 1906. It has been a wonderful home for me and for my late husband, David S. Battey. We were glad this was our home to raise our family.

The work of the Pioneers Association officers and directors means a great deal to all of us "Old Timers." They are to be commended for a job well done. Saturday's celebration was entertaining and efficiently done. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Ruth A. Pitts Battey

I, Chrystelle Leach Hawkins, am a fourth generation former resident of South Plains, or Sunset Community. My great-grandfather, O.B.D. Childress, was in the community when my grandparents, the J.D. Childresses arrived in the fall of 1896.

My mother, Stella Childress Leach Campbell, was always proud that she was born in a dug-out in 1897. My grandmother, "Aunt" Alice Childress, would always say, "But it was a very nice dug-out." Its two rooms had been plastered with white canyon caliche.

Mother was also proud that I commenced first grade in the same wooden building that she had attended. She could remember when native grass was nearly as tall as the antelopes that played in it.

At least one Childress youngster attended the community school ninety years ago in 1898.

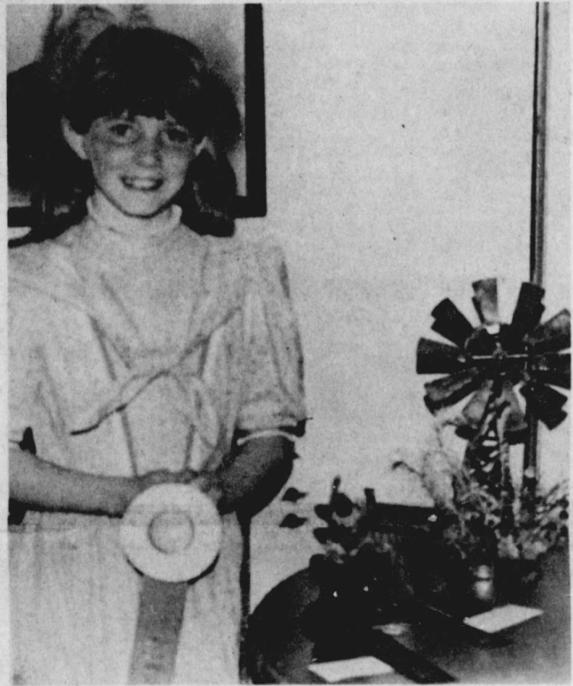

Ruth Childress Smitherman is the only surviving child of J.D. and Alice Childress. She lives in Floydada as does her son, Philip. Her son, Larry, lives in Austin.

Mrs. Roy Childress and Louise live in Granbury. Ralph Childress' surviving children are Wayne of Tau, Texas, Patsy of San Marcos, and June of Maine. Minnie Childress Orman's surviving children are Virgil of Sacramento, California, and Macyl of Burnet, Texas. Stella Childress Leach Campbell's children are Charlene and Jean of Stamford and Chrystelle of Rotan.

Maggie Childress Hunt lived most of her life in New Mexico and reared her children there.

Does anyone know whether I can contact George Kinerium? He wrote a biography from an interview with my grandfather. It has been an invaluable treasure to his grandchildren.

Single DWI arrest during Old Settlers

From a criminal standpoint, the Old Settlers week-end was "extremely quiet."

The lone arrest made Saturday or Sunday by law enforcement agencies within the county was a 27-year-old Anglo male, charged early Sunday morning with DWI (driving while intoxicated) and unlawfully carrying a weapon.

A 33-year-old Hispanic male was cited Friday for public intoxication, disorderly conduct and aggravated assault on a peace officer.

Last Wednesday, a 22-year-old Hispanic male was apprehended for DWI and driving while license suspended.

Tuesday was the busiest day last week and early this week. Three entries were recorded.

A 30-year-old Anglo male was involved in a motion to revoke probation from Randall County.

Simple assault was the charge against a 27-year-old Hispanic male.

That same day, a 21-year-old Black male was involved in a revocation of probation.

Fishing luck

Darrel Jensen of Tule reeled in a 4 pound channel cat up Tule Creek. He was using minnows for bait.

Johnny and Jason Rowan of Canyon were using black rubber worms as bait to catch 3, 2 1/2 and 2 pound largemouth bass. They were fishing on Dead Man's Creek.

Crank bait was used by Bob Coker of Earth to catch 3 and 3 1/2 pound largemouth black bass. The site was up Tule Creek.

David Hooper of Halfway used purple and black spinner bait to catch a 3 3/4 pound largemouth bass. The catch was made in the mouth of Tule Creek.

Water temperature Monday was 68 degrees, according to Cactus Cove Marina personnel, and the depth was 109 feet at the dam.

Golightly returns as FNB artist

The First National Bank of Floydada is proud to present a return exhibitor, Dot Rude Golightly. Golightly is a Lubbock artist and a former Floydada resident who will be familiar to some as a former Floyd County Librarian.

Moving to Austin in 1958 then to Kingsland in 1965, Golightly turned her energies back to art after having set aside her interest for several years. Deep in the Texas hill country, her talents flourished.

"My husband Lee bought me a sturdy pair of boots, a good easel and supplies and encouraged me to spend days in pastures blanketed by wildflowers or on the lake shore. He was my most ardent supporter and my best critic," says the artist. "I loved especially the bluebonnets, but everywhere I looked I could see God's Handiwork."

The artist's education in her field includes a year of art at Plainview High School and a year at Mary-Hardin Baylor in Belton as well as many workshops and "lots and lots of practice."

Golightly has tried several mediums. "Watercolor is interesting and exciting to try, and I am enjoying doing some pen and ink work," said the artist, "but my first love is oils."

The artist has also done work in other art forms, such as basketry and quilts. "I am working on my eighth quilt. This is not my favorite thing, but I just wanted to prove to myself that I can do this, too!" Golightly's son-in-law gave her a plaque that reads, "Old quilters never die; they just go to pieces." "I'm not about to let that happen," she said.

Golightly has won many honors through the years. One she is especially proud of is recently being voted a lifetime Kingsland Art Assn. member. She still visits the hill country when possible.

When asked if she will continue to paint, the artist answered, "I'm 79 and holding. I can hardly wait to be 80 in July. Then I hope to write children's books and do my illustrations in pen and ink!" Her philosophy of life is as beautiful as her works of art: "The world is so beautiful, and it is so much fun just to LIVE!"

The bank invites everyone to come by during regular business hours at the bank to view the works of this talented lady. The exhibit will be on display throughout the month of June.

BECKER TRIBUTE—The new Soil and Water Conservation Service offices were dedicated Friday afternoon to the memory of Weldon Becker, a former board member. Sales tax removed from feed for game animals in Texas

State Comptroller Bob Bullock says that sales tax will no longer be charged on feed normally eaten by farm and ranch animals that is also used to feed Texas game animals.

"It doesn't make sense to tax feed that farmers and ranchers use to support the native wildlife population when other farm animals get to eat the same stuff tax-free," Bullock said.

Bullock said removal of the sales tax on hay, corn, oats and other feeds that can be eaten by deer, turkey and other wild animals will promote progressive wildlife and conservation practices.

According to Bullock, Texas farmers and ranchers who lease hunting acreage will benefit by being able to provide supplemental feed during drought conditions or when animal habitats have been reduced.

Land owners will find it easier to buy feed under the proposed rule, since they will no longer have to declare the type and location of the animal eating the feed.

"We've had some confusing situations because of the current rule — for example, corn bought to feed deer is taxable, but corn bought to feed cows isn't," Bullock said.

Feed for domestic farm animals and work animals will remain exempt from the state sales tax, but feed bought for pets such as cats and dogs is still taxable, he added.

Pinto beans new cash crop for Panhandle

"The simple frijole is a new cash crop for Texas farmers which can pump an additional $66 million-a-year into the state's economy and create nearly 1,400 new jobs," Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said. Hightower made the comments as he helped deliver and unload one of the first commercial truckloads of Texas-grown pinto beans to Fleming Food Company in San Antonio.

"Although they are a staple of the Hispanic, Black and Southern Anglo diets, Texas imports over 100 million pounds of pinto beans a year—largely from Colorado. However, the Texas Department of Agriculture has been working for several years with a group of farmers who are now producing Texas pinto beans in commercial quantities and are selling them throughout the state to major retailers and wholesalers, such as Fleming," Hightower said.

Joining Hightower and others on the loading dock of the company distribution center at 4300 Industrial Park was Gary George, a farmer from Perryton in the Texas Panhandle who expects to sell the San Antonio food wholesaler 315,000 pounds of pinto beans this year.

"Before the Texas Department of Agriculture helped Gary George launch into pinto bean production, he was losing money, or barely breaking even, on his large cotton and grain operation in the Texas Panhandle," Hightower said. "With pinto beans as an alternative crop, George expects to gross between $300-500 an acre in additional income."

George is presently delivering the dried pinto beans to Fleming in 50-pound bags, using his own equipment

SCS office dedicated to Becker during Friday afternoon event

Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation's segment of new quarters it shares with the ASCS office was officially dedicated to the memory of Weldon Becker during a Friday afternoon ceremony. Becker was a SCS director.

"Weldon was a man of vision, a good director, a fine Christian man who wanted to see many accomplishments from the directors and our staff," Jon LaBaume, district soil conservationist, told members of the Becker family and others gathered for the ceremony. "He was a true friend to me and a joy to work with on the board. I know the directors who served with him, Leslie Nixon, Junior Taylor, Keith Jackson and J.O. Dawdy, will echo my feelings on this."

LaBaume pointed out that Becker served on the SCS board "a little over four years before his untimely death.

Mazie Becker, the honoree's widow, responded briefly after the engraved plaque was unveiled. The plaque bears a picture of the honoree and the following wording: "Weldon Becker: To the memory of Weldon Becker who served as a director of the Floyd County SWCD Board of Directors, this SCS office is respectfully dedicated."

Mrs. Becker and sons Stephen and Neal, along with grandchildren, were present for the ceremony. They saw the plaque permanently placed on the SCS wall.

LaBaume explained that he and Tom Moore, former county executive director of the ASCS office "tried to have our

EC 'desires' ag reform

The European Community (EC) was created in emulation of the U.S. to enable its member states to better compete economically with the U.S.

They brought down trade barriers within Europe and standardized rules, regulations and policies. Trade within Europe now functions as does interstate commerce in the U.S.

Many Americans who do business in Europe, however, contend that trade barriers were not removed, just shifted to the perimeter of the continent to exclude U.S. products, especially agricultural goods like corn, wheat and soybeans.

There exists persistent and serious concern that certain EC trade policies provide barriers that exclude some U.S. farm products entirely or, at least, render them uncompetitive.

Willy De Clercq, the EC commissioner for external relations and trade policy (the EC's foreign minister, in effect), acts as the group's spokesman. He recently visited Chicago, which he described as the "soybean capital of the world," and the Chicago Board of Trade, the world's bellwether market for soybeans.

Soybeans were one of the topics De Clercq touched upon in his remarks at a luncheon of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. Oilseeds are a commodity that the EC's Common Agricultural Policy has encouraged farmers to grow by providing above market support prices and limiting imports. That approach has drawn sharp protests from the American Soybean Association, perhaps the most vocal critic of the EC among American producer groups.

De Clercq called those protests "unjustified since the EC takes more (U.S. soybeans) than anyone else."

He said, "The EC remains the U.S. farmer's best customer. We take nearly a quarter of U.S. farm exports — more than Canada, Mexico and Korea combined."

He pointed to the recent shift in the EC's Common Agricultural Policy. "We have adopted 'stabilizers' which cut support prices when certain production levels are reached," he said, "and a setaside program to limit production. There has been no comparable U.S. move, only more export enhancement."

American Farm Bureau President Dean Kleckner, who was in attendance at the luncheon, asked whether the EC might not consider "decoupling" support payments from production as the U.S. has recently done. De Clercq warned that the steps toward reform of the Common Agricultural Policy were difficult enough to accomplish.

"We agreed on something (agricultural policy reforms) that was considered impossible three or four years ago. Politics is the art of what is possible. Don't push too hard." He compared the U.S. farm population of about 2 million to Europe's 12 million. Europe's farmers still have enormous political clout.

The importance of reducing the EC's agricultural budget forced the reforms. "We don't want to spend just for the pleasure of spending," said De Clercq, echoing Congress's concern for fiscal shortfalls. "There are other important things besides agriculture for which we need the money."

"We must curb production. By curbing production, we curb the possibility of export and improve the situation for prices."

He said the EC's plans for setaside called for 20 percent of arable land to be removed from production for three to five years. "We hope it will bring about a better balance between supply and demand."

When he spoke in Chicago, De Clercq said, "We stand firmly by our commitment to reform domestic and world markets." Yet the EC member countries retain their individual sovereign powers and are not afraid to veer away from the common course.

The solid "commitment" has dissolved into dissension. Led by France, several EC members have refused to accept the lowered support prices and demanded higher ones instead.

FmHA lists proposed new rules for lending

Proposed rules, which could assist hundreds of farmers who are behind on their Farmers Home Administration loans, have been issued, according to FmHA Texas State Director J. Lynn Futch.

The new regulations will carry out portions of the Agricultural Credit Act passed by Congress last December. "There will be a 30 day comment period and additional time for any appropriate changes before the regulations become effective," Futch said.

One of the changes would allow FmHA to reduce the delinquent debt of certain borrowers to help them stay in business. There are approximately 5,000 delinquent borrowers in Texas, many of whom should be assisted with this Program once implemented.

In related actions, the agency also issued proposed regulations to:

- *Make it easier for farmers or their families to lease or buy back homesteads that have been lost through foreclosure or conveyance;

- *Set up a program to help members of minority and socially disadvantaged groups to purchase farmland and develop an outreach program to carry it out;

- *Establish a new administrative appeals unit distinct from the rest of the Agency to handle borrower grievances;

- *Certify and participate in state mediation programs.

Quantity and quality promised consumers

The United States cotton industry is capable of meeting the challenge of a 10 million bale increase in world consumption by the year 2000, and has the potential to produce 22 million bales to meet that demand, National Cotton Council president Billy Dunavant told Far East textile executives.

Speaking at a U.S. Cotton Seminar at Cheju Island in South Korea, Dunavant said the production figure could be reached if yields continue improving at the current trend.

If the U.S. does reach that level of cotton production, Dunavant pointed out, it would likely mean 8 million bales consumed by U.S. mills and 14 million bales available for export — or nearly double the current level of exports.

In addition to meeting world demand from a production standpoint, Dunavant said the U.S. will push harder to guarantee the quality of U.S. cotton.

"We in the United States cotton industry know as you do that an adequate quantity of cotton is useful only if its fiber characteristics meet your needs," Dunavant told the seminar audience.

The five-day seminar brought together U.S. exporters and 150 major textile executives from Japan, Korea and Taiwan. Important issues such as world cotton prices, improvement in fiber characteristics, effects of ginning on fiber quality and new technology to measure fiber performance are among the topics being covered during the meetings.

The Council president pointed to areas such as cotton breeding, production research and fiber research as proof that the U.S. is becoming more responsive to delivering the cotton fiber demanded by textile manufacturers in the world.

Rapid changes in textile manufacturing, Dunavant said, demand that the U.S. produce a cotton fiber that is stronger, finer, cleaner, more uniform, and more mature. He also stressed the importance of devoting more acreage to new varieties which should produce more uniformity in cotton qualities.

"We are fully committed to providing you, our customers in Korea, Taiwan, and other parts of the world, with the quantity of cotton you need...in the qualities you desire," said Dunavant.

Textile and apparel trade bill strongly supported by producers

While U.S. cotton producers are out in the fields planting seed, their wives are going to bat against uncontrolled cotton textile imports.

"These foreign countries are playing hardball and they're jeopardizing our family farms," said Janie Braswell, whose husband grows cotton in Morgan City, Mississippi. "Cotton textile imports are taking more than $1 billion a year away from our country's cotton growers. The national economy is being impacted, too, and we're telling this story to American from coast to coast."

Mrs. Braswell is Mississippi chairman of the National Cotton Women's Committee, an organization dedicated to promoting U.S. cotton. Most of the group's attention today is focused on the textile import issue.

Through the "Grown and Made in the USA" campaign, these volunteers are encouraging consumers to purchase U.S. cotton apparel made in the U.S. of cotton grown in the U.S., and urging retailers to make more of it available in stores.

The campaign is jointly supported by Cotton Incorporated, the National Cotton Council, and The Cotton Foundation.

To help them in this campaign, Mrs. Braswell and other committee officers just completed a week-long orientation on current cotton research and promotion efforts and pending farm and trade legislation. They were briefed by Council and CI staff and also met with American Textile Manufacturers Institute representatives and key Capitol Hill staff in Washington. Included was an update on the textile import situation and the textile and apparel trade bill scheduled for Senate action later this month.

The trade bill calls for a global quota system that would allow textile and apparel imports — already at record levels — to increase one percent annually — the same growth rate as the U.S. market.

"Imports of cotton, wool and man-made fiber products have skyrocketed 170 percent since 1980, closing 1,000 plants and leaving 350,000 U.S. textile and apparel workers and farmers unemployed," Mrs. Braswell said.

Drive safely

School's out and there's no cares or worries for tomorrow's lessons. Many children get excited while playing and forget the rules of life.

Major V.J. Cawthon, regional commander of the Department of Public Safety, is calling on all Texas motorists to drive with extra care this time of year.

Children seem to forget safety rules and run into the roadways unexpectedly, not realizing that the oncoming car is in the local vicinity. Since the younger children do not know the law, it would be wise to always expect the unexpected and be prepared to give him the right-of-way.

A Gift to the AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

MEMORIAL PROGRAM strikes a blow against cancer.

The trauma season . . .

By Bill Holland, RN, BSN
Chief flight nurse/program director
Flight for Life

Trauma season, the time of year that keeps emergency services the busiest, is rapidly approaching. Warmer weather precipitates injuries and accidents. Traditionally, "accidents" are viewed as being the result of chance or bad luck. However, accidents are caused by specific factors and many are preventable.

Injuries and trauma are growing national problems and are the leading causes of death for persons under the age of 45. In the United States, trauma ranks as the fourth leading cause of death—surpassed only by heart disease, cancer and stroke.

The committee on Trauma Research has estimated that this year 140,000 Americans will die from trauma. Or, stated another way, 15 people will die each hour.

Over 70 million individuals will sustain non-fatal injuries, leaving 1200 disabled every hour. The most alarming statistic was the direct and indirect cost to society. It is estimated that trauma costs will exceed $80 billion by this year, or $228 million per day.

Trauma prevention starts by recognizing the causes of factors that enhance the potentially preventable process. There are three commonalities in the population of trauma victims. The most frequent variable is ingestion of alcohol. Over one-half of all trauma is alcohol related.

Age is the next variable, especially in fatal injuries. The age group between 15 and 24 accounts for the highest number of fatal and non-fatal injuries. The male population is at greater risk for fatal injury than females. Males are involved in twice as many accidents. One in three males in the 17-year-old age group will sustain injury this year requiring the attention of a physician.

When efforts to prevent "accidents" fail, care must be provided for the trauma patient. Factors that will determine the survivability of trauma are status of the airway, dysrhythmias, hemorrhagic shock and fractures (especially to the cervical spine).

Teamwork, communication, and a well-organized plan of care are the key to decreasing the staggering number of deaths that occur each year. Thirty-two percent of all trauma deaths occur within the first hour after injury.

Rapid response by local EMS can drastically reduce the morbidity and mortality due to trauma. When the trauma situation requires medical intervention, call Flight for Life. The trauma teams in St. Mary's emergency and surgical departments are available to treat trauma victims immediately. St. Mary of the Plains Hospital and Flight for Life are resources you can depend on when seconds count.

VA News

Editor's note: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors. Full information is available at any VA office.

Q — Am I entitled to VA compensation if the condition for which I apply existed prior to military service?

A — Veterans may receive compensation for a pre-existing condition if the condition was aggravated during service beyond the normal progression of the disability. You should apply for compensation for any disability that might fit this category so that a determination of eligibility can be made.

Q — What are the periods of eligibility for VA's Dependent's Educational Assistance?

A — Unless extended under certain conditions, the period of eligibility for an eligible child is the 26th birthday. Generally, the period of eligibility for spouse or survivor extends to 10 years from the date the veteran was first found to have a service-connected total disability permanent in nature, the date of death of the veteran, or the date the VA determines death was due to a service-connected disability, whichever is later, or 10 years from the date the serviceperson was listed as missing.

Carriker nominated by county chairmen

At a district executive committee meeting held May 14 in Seymour, Democratic county chairmen voted 18-11 to place the name of Steve Carriker on the ballot for the office of State Senator, District 30.

A previous motion to nominate the winner of the special election set for August 13 as the Senate nominee, was defeated 27-3. Both Carriker and Rep. Charles Finnell, Holliday, were reported as favoring the decision to have the county chairman name the nominee for the November election while Helen Farabee, Wichita Falls, wanted the winner of the special election to be the nominee.

After the chair's decision, the special election August 13, will have no impact on the party's nominee for the November ballot. The election will only decide which of the three candidates will fill Farabee's unexpired term from August until January 1.

Farabee resigned from the Senate in February to become general counsel to the University of Texas System. Gov. Bill Clements then called a special election for August 13, to fill the unexpired term.

Under state law, if a candidate removes his name from the ballot after the primaries, it is up to the county chairmen of the respective parties to nominate a candidate. The nomination must be made 60 days prior to the November general election.

However, Farabee has stated that he will not remove his name from the ballot until after the August 13, election. In another development concerning the cloudy race, Secretary of State Jack Rains ruled Thursday, May 5, that if Carriker is nominated and accepts the nomination for the Senate seat, he will give up his current House seat to Republican Rod Wall.

Rains said that Carriker cannot be on the November general election ballot simultaneously as a candidate for both state representative and state senator.

Because Carriker has a Republican opponent in the representative race, Carriker cannot be replaced by the Democratic Party in that race, Rains said.

The Texas Election Code allows political parties to replace candidates who have withdrawn only in cases of catastrophic illness or if the withdrawal would leave the race without any candidates of either party.

In the Republican Party, Wichita Falls businessman Bobby Albert is expected to seek the nomination for the District 30 seat. The GOP will also choose its nominee by a vote among the county chairmen in the district.

Memorial Day: a special day

On this Memorial Day, America once again honors those who died to keep this nation free.

There are more than a million of them.

There are a number of legends and folklore stories about the origin of Memorial Day.

Waterloo, New York, claims to have been first to pay tribute, honoring its Civil War dead on May 5, 1866, by closing businesses and decorating graves of fallen soldiers with flowers. Boalsburg, Pennsylvania, also lays claim to be the birthplace of Memorial Day. There, two women met for the first time while decorating graves with flowers on a Sunday in October 1864. The women agreed to meet at the cemetery the following year.

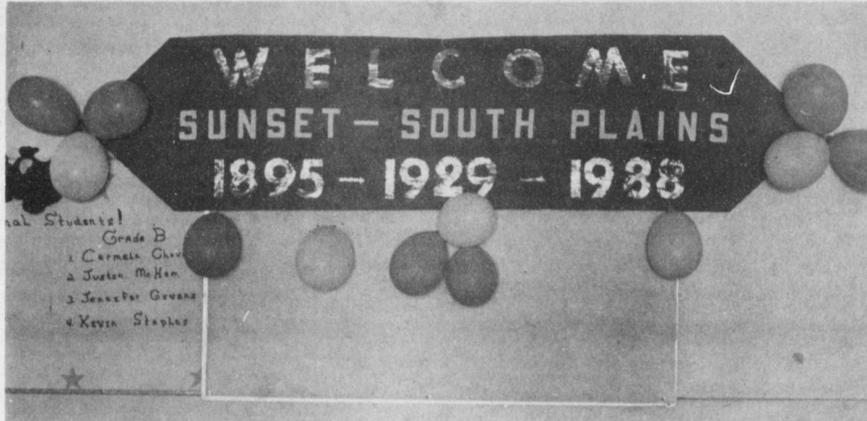

In the South, tradition has it that women visited battlefields and decorated the graves of Confederate soldiers. One such incident is said to have taken place in a cemetery in Columbus, Mississippi, in 1867, when a group of Confederate widows, mothers and children decorated the graves of their dead.

When they had finished placing the flowers, they saw the nearby grave of Union soldiers. These graves were bare and forgotten, and in an act of compassion, the women and children decorated them, too. Word of this act spread and touched the heart of a nation. A year later, the Grand Army of the Republic, the Union's veterans organization, called on all members to observe May 30 as a special day — a day to decorate the graves of comrades who had died in defense of their government.

Decoration Day rites were held in both the North and the South.

In 1882, Decoration Day became Memorial Day. From then on, each May 30, and now the last Monday in May, has served as a salute to the military dead of all America's wars.

Patriotic ceremonies are held at the 111 National Cemeteries operated by the Veterans Administration. The honored men and women who fought and died for this country — from the snow-covered fields of the American Revolution to the steamy jungles of Vietnam — gave us something very special.

"YOU LOOK FAMILIAR" -- That statement was repeated countless times during the giant South Plains School reunion on Sunday, May 29. The gathering of former students and teachers and their families was a forerunner of the school's closing on Tuesday. John Wilson of Floydada, who started to the Sunset School -- which preceded South Plains School -- in 1914, was the oldest ex-student present. Although persons traveled from three states for the reunion, Kay Cummings of Houston traveled the greatest distance. Three generations of a trio of families, some of whom are pictured, who attended South Plains School are: Kendall Cummings, his offspring, Kay Cummings, Zacha Gregory and Kelvin Cummings and Kelvin's offspring, Ken Cummings and Victoria Cummings; Arby Mulder, his daughter and son, Kathy Taylor and Nathan Mulder, and Nathan's offspring, Penny Poole, Cindy Mulder, Jimmy Mulder and Cory Mulder; Carleen Daniel Johnson, her offspring, Carlton Johnson, Shari Smith, Denise Cochran and Deneen Marricle, and Carlton's offspring, Tanner Johnson and Velvet Johnson. Two hundred and 74 persons registered, but "there probably were 300 there," according to one person. South Plains School opened in the fall of 1929.

Monte Hasie speaks in Floydada

Monte Hasie, Republican candidate for the State Board of Education, District 15, made a campaign stop at A.B. Duncan Elementary School in Floydada on May 21. District 15 is composed of the South Plains and Panhandle areas. It is bounded on the southwest by Ector and Andrews counties.

The district voted heavily to return to an elected board in last year's general election.

Hasie said, "We sent a message to the rest of the state that we must be dealt with, and this is an opportunity send them another message that West Texas is united." He emphasized that having a voice in Austin for West Texas, and retaining and compensating teachers are two of the key issues in this year's election. "People from West Texas want someone to stand up for their interests," said Hasie, a Lubbock businessman. "They do not feel like they have that representation."

The State Board of Education was an elected entity until 1985 when the House Bill 72 education reforms set an appointed board in place. State voters, however, supported the switch back to an elected board. Hasie, a Republican, will face the Mark White-appointed in this November's general election.

Hasie also said the state must find a way to attract, retain and compensate teachers. The appointed board has mandated so many programs without funding on the local administration and local school boards that tax increases have been required in many instances. The ones to be penalized have been the teachers and administrators because such a large portion of local budgets is salaries. The state does the best it can to compensate teachers, but "there's not enough money to pay good teachers what they're worth," he said. "The 15 people on the board are in an influential position."

He said the state board is one of the most powerful boards in Austin because it has the authority to implement and interpret legislation dealing with education. Hasie said the number 1 consideration of the state board should be quality education. "House Bill 72 spoke to quality education. However, the loss of local control that came with House Bill 72 is a concern. Local school districts must now follow strict mandates regarding the school calendar and class size." "They need flexibility in implementing the program," he said.

Hasie has served as a trustee for the Lubbock Independent School District for 12 years, seven of which he served as president of the board. He is vice-president and financial consultant with Thomson McKinnon

MONTE HASIE

Securities Corporation and has served as an advisor to the State School Board for two years. He is a 1955 graduate of Lubbock High School and a graduate of Texas Tech University.
