TYE DONATES DRILL--J.M. Tye (c) founder of The Tye Company in Lockney, donated his first grain drill to the Hale County Farm and Ranch Historical Museum in Hale Center in ceremonies held at the Tye

Company on Friday, May 3. With him at the ceremonies were his sons Steve (l) and John (r) and employees who have worked for him throughout the years. Tye also donated an Oliver 55 tractor. Staff Photo

J.M. Tye honored for contributions to farming Tye donates drill to museum

Lockney-- J.M. Tye built his first grain drill in 1964 and 32 years later this shiny green drill and an Oliver 55 tractor has been put on loan to the Hale County Farm and Ranch Museum in Hale Center. This drill was the beginning of the Tye Company in Lockney.

Tye was recognized for his contribution to the farming community in ceremonies held in Lockney on Friday, May 3 and at the museum in Hale Center on Saturday, May 4.

Approximately 100 employees and former employees were present when Vernon Hall, drove the Oliver 55 tractor pulling the drill into the plant. Tye's son John told those present the history of the drill and tractor.

Tye cut pieces of cardboard into full size shapes on his living room floor and put them together for his prototype. He had originally planned for it to be four rows but found that the tractors of that day would not be able to lift it when it was filled with seed so he reduced it to a three row unit. This was the first drill to incorporate a three-point hitch and raise up at the end of the rows for turning.

The building of this drill led to the opening of the manufacturing plant which has grown from a small building to a multi-building complex that has shipped equipment worldwide.

J.M. Tye recognized several of his former employees and told of their contributions to his endeavor. The employees, in turn, recounted stories about Tye and the company.

Sam Thompson, who started to work at Tye's in 1965, stated, "Most of the plans for the equipment and buildings were drawn on the concrete floor with a piece of chalk before they were put on paper." He continued, "J.M. Tye was the best to work for. What he told us he would do, he did."

This first drill was purchased by Buck Kellison of Lockney. When he retired from farming he pulled the drill out of his farm sale and brought it back to Tye. Tye offered to pay him for it and was told that it wouldn't bring anything at the sale anyway and he wanted to give it back.

For many years Tye was the only manufacturer of the three point hitch drill in North America. Tye designed machines to place seed in the ground. His line ranged from drills as narrow as 48 inches wide to hydraulically folding drills as wide as 40 feet. They were both the three-point hitch and pull-type machines in conventional as well as no-till configurations. The units were sold nationwide and exported to numerous locations worldwide.

In 1977 The Tye Company introduced the Tye Pasture Pleser, a machine designed to plant seed in a seedbed that is unprepared, such as a pasture, sod or unplowed wheat stubble. The machine was designed to renovate pasture land used for livestock grazing.

The success of the Tye Pasture Pleser led to the introduction of the Tye Stubble Drill to be used in planting no-till wheat, soybeans, grained sorghum and other drilled grains. The drill utilized double disc openers and independent spring-loaded coulters.

In 1980 Tye developed the No-Till & Drill attachment to allow those owning a conventional Tye drill to adapt it to a no-till or minimum till planting situation. This attachment also enabled wider and large applications or no-till double disc drilling.

The Tye Company grew from a small manufacturing plant that first manufactured a three-row drill to a company that shipped equipment nationwide in its thirty-one year history. Now a part of that history will be on exhibit at the Hale County Farm and Ranch Museum for all to see.

UMC sending PA instead of doctor Battey and Heflin elected to hospital board

By Juanita Stepp
FLOYDADA -- CHD Trustees met in special session on Tuesday, May 7 to canvas votes from the May 4 Election. Four candidates sought election to two posts on the board.

Lee Battey garnered 108 votes. Rob Heflin received 76 votes. Ralph Jackson had 74 votes, and J.R. Turner got 60. A total of 197 ballots were cast in the election.

Motion to accept the results of the election as reported by Election Judge Lorena Newberry was made by Carmel Eastham and seconded by Rob Heflin. All voted in favor.

Heflin and Battey will be sworn in at the May regular session of the board.

Board members also discussed the coming change at the clinic with Dr. Antoine Albert leaving on May 18. Board President Tom Farris and Board member Denise Payne reported on a meeting they had with Al Bendeck, UMC representative in charge of clinic operations. According to Farris, UMC intends to place a Physicians Assistant in the clinic at Floydada at this time.

Bendeck reportedly told Farris and Payne the clinic is not generating enough income to warrant placing a second physician. Dr. Salmon Ahmad has indicated that he is willing to supervise two PAs, but only on a temporary basis. Both he and the board want two doctors for the clinic.

Bendeck also asked Farris and Payne if CHD would consider sharing the cost of recruiting a physician and possibly paying a portion of the salary when one is found. No action was taken on this at the Tuesday morning session as it was not an agenda action item.

Farris told the board the clinic is seeing as many patients and grossing as much as any of the other clinics UMC is involved with but Cogdell Clinic is expensive to operate.

Heflin stated that a PA as a temporary replacement for Albert might work, but added that he was fearful Dr. Ahmad would be overworked if the situation continued for more than a short time.

"I do not want to see Dr. Ahmad leaving because he is the only doctor," said Heflin. "We do not want to be in the situation where we have no doctors again."

Farris suggested that the board place discussion of the situation on the regular meeting agenda later in the month and contact UMC to ask officials there to participate in the discussion.

The board agreed before adjourning the meeting.

Whirlwinds named district champions

By Bill Gray
FLOYDADA - Floydada clinched its first-ever district baseball title in the fifth year of the revived program with a 11-3 victory at Shallowater last Friday. The Whirlwinds will close out their regular season and their final District 2-3A meeting with Friona at Preston Watson Field on May 7.

A win over the Chieftains would give the Whirlwinds an impressive 17-4 season record (8-2 in district action) and momentum as they enter the Bi-District round of the state playoffs against Sanford-Fritch, the number two seed from District 1-3A. The time and place of the playoff game is yet to be determined.

Floydada's 11-3 victory over Shallowater was not the offensive game that the final score indicated. The Whirlwinds were hitting .326 as a team for the season, but only managed three singles and four earned runs against a series of Mustang pitchers.

The Shallowater starter, Todd Jordan, allowed only one Whirlwind hit (a single by Tomas Barrientos in the first inning), but issued 9 bases-on-balls. The 'Winds drew 11 total walks from Mustang pitching, which, coupled with six errors, were the main difference in the final outcome of the game.

Floydada starting pitcher Chris Enriquez allowed five hits, gave up two earned runs and walked one Mustang, as he registered his fifth win against one setback. Enriquez worked six innings before being relieved by Angel Aleman in the seventh inning.

The Whirlwinds scored a run in each of the first two innings. They

Drought is affecting Ogallala's recharge rate

By Kori Kellison
(Editor's Note: Research for the following article, by Texas Tech journalism student Kori Kellison, was made possible by a grant from the Reader's Digest Foundation.)

The Ogallala Aquifer underlies the High Plains of Texas and provides water for many functions carried out in the area. The lack of rainfall and extensive use of water from the aquifer is causing a shortfall in the annual recharge rate, according to the groundwater districts of the High Plains area.

Eric Pierce, an intern for the Ogallala Regional Water Management Plan, said, "The depletion rate of the Ogallala Aquifer is exceeding its recharge. The area is also in a drought that will not improve these conditions."

"The drought, which may be severe will likely continue, in one form or another, into at least 1998 or 1999," Weather Data Inc. officials reported.

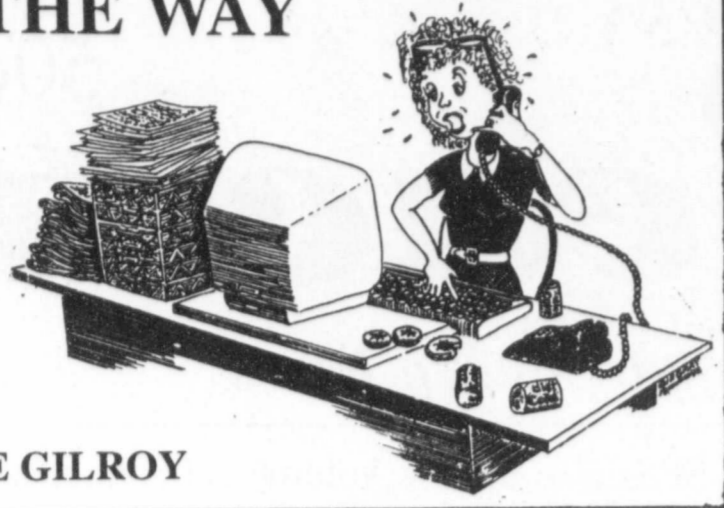

Because of these conditions, a water plan for the Ogallala Aquifer is being developed through a commit-

Our centennial edition is coming along great! Thanks to the very hard work of the girls that work here, the knowledge and assistance of Nancy Marble at the Floyd County Museum and the unbelievable amount of help we are receiving from former editor, Jim Reynolds, we just might make our deadline.

We've still got a lot to do and I'm getting very tense. I'm going to be OK on May 23rd after the paper is on the newsstands. I feel sorry for the women I work with and for my family. They are all putting up with a lot of hair pulling and nail biting.

I apologized to everyone a month ago for what I would be like now. I also told them not to expect me to think about being sorry for being on edge now. They would just have to live with the earlier apology and I'll try to remember to apologize again when this is all over.

Mark your calendar for our birthday party on May 24, from 2:00 - 7:00 p.m.

Well the dreaded TAAS tests are over. I say dreaded because of what I've heard before. Actually in our house they weren't dreaded at all. My third grader eagerly awaited the TAAS tests. He felt very important getting to take the TAAS. When he came home I asked him how it went. He said, "It was FUN!"

I asked him if he was nervous and he looked a little puzzled. I should have kept my mouth shut.

By and large Brandon loves school—even if he does get his "name on the board" on a regular basis.

I also remember liking school but my husband has no fond memories. He has to remember to keep any comments about his past school experiences to himself so he won't influence Brandon.

We've all got some bad memories from school. There was a bully kid or a bully teacher. You may have felt stupid because you just couldn't grasp a concept or because of rude remarks from classmates or worse yet, from the teacher. There was the problem of your clothes not being as nice as the other kids, of being out of style, or not having a boyfriend or girlfriend.

As parents we want to protect our children from anything or anyone who could hurt them. We want to be able to follow them around and heal any hurts—emotionally or physically.

When we send them off to school we depend on our teachers to love them and teach them. I can't think of a more awesome responsibility than the one we place in our teachers hands.

I received a "Ann Landers" column in the mail the other day which is what got me started thinking on all of this. I don't know who sent it to me, but I did think it was worth sharing. You may have seen it already. It appeared in the March 23 issue.

It is a short essay by Haim Ginott, a teacher and psychologist:

"I've come to the frightening conclusion that I am the decisive element in the classroom," said Ginott.

"It's my personal approach that creates the climate. It's my daily mood that makes the weather. As a teacher, I possess a tremendous power to make a child's life miserable or joyous. I can be a tool of torture or an instrument of inspiration. I can humiliate or humor, hurt or heal. In all situations, it is my response that decides whether a crisis will be escalated or de-escalated and a child humanized or de-humanized."

Fortunately we are blessed in Lockney and Floydada. Most of our teachers truly care for the children. The ones that don't should try another profession.

Teachers have a very stressful job. I couldn't handle it. I'm sure I would strangle at least one child a day (probably my own). I lack the patience a teacher should have, but I sure appreciate the ones who are making school someplace my child truly enjoys.

The Lamplighter

By Ken Towery

We see by the papers where the Governor has named his tax committee. We don't expect very much to come from it, and hope we are wrong.

The citizens Tax Committee on Property Tax Relief is supposed to find out how Texans want to finance their schools, in order that the present inordinate property tax burden might somehow be lessened. The committee is supposed to begin a series of "town hall" meetings this month, and eventually hold hearings all around the state.

We really don't know how it will accomplish its mission, since it is not supposed to solicit suggestions from the citizens, nor is it supposed to write a report, or give the Governor any advice. It will, according to news reports, lay out three alternatives and ask citizens statewide which they would rather have: a property tax, a value-added tax, or a consumption tax. (The latter two options are, in our opinion, merely variations of the same thing.) The Governor insists the committee not include a state income tax as a possible alternative.

It's all very strange, but perhaps it is the only way to go. Especially if one doesn't want to make waves, if our "leaders" want to follow rather than lead.

The Texas tax structure is an abomination, in our own view. It is a major contributing factor in the gradual destruction of small towns all across the state. It has been "studied" by just about every governor since Allan Shivers. Mostly, the studies have resulted in some tinkering around the edges, if anything at all. And while all those studies have been going on, the state has been changing drastically. There was a time when most of the children who attended our public schools were the children of property owning tax payers. It made sense, in a round-about way, for property owners to foot the bill. We do not know what the situation is today, in that regard, but we would guess it is entirely different. Our classes are crowded with the children of illegals, people who pay no property tax and have little prospect of ever paying property taxes. Still, property owners are expected to shoulder the burden of an increasingly expensive education establishment.

Surely, something ought to be done. But what?

In the first place, the only reason to have any sort of tax upon the citizens is to achieve some socially desirable goal. That can be safe streets, and safe homes. It can be for the defense of our country. It can be the health and welfare of our citizens. It can be the health, welfare and education of illegal immigrants. (To many, in the welfare and education industries, this is a very desirable goal.)

It can even be to pay unwed teenagers to produce more babies, and set them up in separate, subsidized housing, thereby making happy those in the lumber and baby industries. (To a substantial segment of our voting population, that has evidently been a very desirable social goal since the days of the Great Society.)

Once the goal of social desirability, or social necessity, is determined, we can get a handle on how much money the government needs. Then, the next battle is over who should pay the bill. That's when we get into that "don't tax me, tax that fellow behind the tree" argument. It's also when lobbyists earn their pay, and when bureaucrats lose weight, sweating while politicians decide their fate.

Personally, we don't see how we can do much with the tax structure until we come to grips with policies that drive tax collection. That is where political leadership fits in. If we adopt a policy that says the Texas tax payer is morally bound, and should be legally bound, to provide education and welfare for every foreign citizen who is successful in breaking our laws and entering the country illegally, (the Catholic bishops say so, and evidently our Governor thinks so) there is literally no way we can even come close to estimating how much money our government will need to meet those services. And if we don't know how much money we are likely to need, how will we determine what course to take when it comes to taxes?

Lastly, of what value is a committee that is, according to press reports, precluded from issuing a report, or advising the Governor who appointed it, or even soliciting suggestions from those citizens who appear before it?

Governor Bush is quoted in the press as saying, "If they (the committee) go around the state, and no one shows up, it's pretty clear that it won't be as big a deal as I anticipated."

The question arises: Given the options before them, why should anyone even bother to show up?

The Governor has named some good people to the committee. They are successful people, busy people. How they will take to the strictures placed upon them is anybody's guess. We would think they are in for a good bit of frustration. The people of Texas would too, had they not already become somewhat immune to the process.

Drought affecting Ogallala Aquifer

tee comprising a variety of interest groups.

The committee is made up of members from the cattle industry, municipal leaders, Texas Tech faculty, Texas legislators and employees of the area water districts. A. Wayne Wyatt, manager of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, is co-chairman of the committee. Dr. Lloyd Urban from the Texas Tech Water Resources Center also serves as co-chairman for the committee.

Wyatt said, the plan divides different groups of major water users into target groups. The groups include municipalities, irrigators, livestock, manufacturing, and steam-electric cooling and mining. Research about the different groups is being done to find their level of water use and the supplies available to them. Also, the efforts each group makes to conserve water is being studied. New methods are under development to insure the most efficient water use.

Water plays a major role in the success of this agricultural economy. The committee reported that 90 percent of the water pumped from the Ogallala each year is used for agricultural purposes. This is not unacceptable, however, considering the impact irrigation has on crops.

In the High Plains, irrigated cotton averaged 44 percent more pounds per acre harvested than dryland cotton. This figure is based on information included in the 1993 edition of Texas Crop statistics.

To conserve water used for irrigation, researchers have developed surge valves, Low Energy Precision Application (LEPA) pivots, and the reduction of open ditches.

According to a report by Leon New from the Texas Agricultural Experiment station, LEPA center pivots and subsurface drip systems increase efficiency to about 98 percent with appropriate planning, preparation and management.

Surge valves typically improve furrow irrigation efficiency an average of 10 to 40 percent, dependent on soil type, land slope, length of run and management. Surge irrigation is inexpensive to adopt in relation to its benefits. Some growers have cut irrigation amounts with surge valves and good management by 50 percent, according to New's report.

Pierce said, "Another experimental method to provide water is the concept of precipitation enhancement. Precipitation enhancement is the attempt to change or control natural development of precipitation cloud forms in the lower half of the earth's atmosphere."

Cloud seeding is designed to increase the number of nuclei around which moisture in the air can grow together and form raindrops, George W. Bomar, Senior Technical Specialist, Water Planning and Assessment Division of the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission in Austin, said.

A report by the Ogallala Regional Water Management Committee said, implementing a precipitation enhancement program can provide water for public water supplies by making additional water to be captured in the public water reservoirs, additional water for crop production, and runoff to be collected in playa basins. A portion of the water collected in the playa basins would recharge the aquifer, while other portions could be used for livestock and wildlife.

The committee is considering the resources the area already has and what they can build on.

The Ogallala Regional Water Management Plan affects every citizen in the 47-county area underlain by the Ogallala, including Floyd county. Wyatt said, "Everyone is a player and stakeholder, we all have something to lose if the High Plains runs short of water."

Business Of The Week

SABRINA STEPP AND JOE STEPP

After being located in several different buildings around the courthouse square, "Joe's" has really settled into his new home at the corner of 100 S. Main and Missouri Street.

This space was formerly the Sears and Roebuck store but since it's purchase by Joe Stepp, of Dougherty, the building now houses a variety of useful lawn and gardening supplies and Joe's locksmithing and small engine repair shop.

In the spring the store is a favorite spot for those eager to bring color to their lawns. Joe's has a steady supply of customers who keep him busy ordering and re-ordering bedding and house plants.

The store will also keep you supplied with seeds, fertilizer, potting soil, root stimulator and a host of lawn and garden supplies.

Joe also rents tillers and chipper shredders.

When Stepp first opened his own shop in 1990 he specialized in the locksmith trade. Selling and repairing lawnmowers and other types of small engines was added later that first year. In 1995 Joe opened his now popular flower and garden shop.

The response to the garden part of his shop has encouraged him to expand what he will be offering. Customers will now be able to order trees from Joe's and he will also carry shrubs.

The Christmas season brings beautiful Christmas trees and poinsettias to Joe's. Easter lilies are available in season, and beautiful hanging baskets are plentiful.

He is assisted in the shop by his daughter Sabrina, and his wife Juanita.

Floydada Police Report

In last week's police report this newspaper apologizes for the error in reporting on an April 28 disturbance.

In reporting the incident only one name was given. We were going to check on the rest of the information before the story was pasted on a page. Unfortunately the story went to press without completing the story.

The incident was reported as a disturbance between two men in the 300 block of E. Kentucky. The police were called to the scene and the men were given the opportunity, by police, to file charges against each other for disorderly conduct.

In last week's story we reported that Amado Morales, 43, of Floydada, has filed disorderly conduct charges against ????. The question marks should have said, Andy Martinez, 22, of Floydada.

Martinez, in turn, filed Disorderly Conduct charges against Morales.

Also on police activity, on May 1, at 4:55 p.m. police were called to R.C. Andrews in reference to a fight. As a result an 11 year old boy was taken before the city judge.

May 4, at 12:09 a.m. in the 400 block of N. 10th Street, police observed a disturbance. The officer stopped and while he was getting the information, he observed a woman strike another woman in the face. Police arrested Jerlean Ledbetter for assault. After she was taken to the county jail, the officer went back to check the back seat of the patrol car and found a small amount of marijuana stuffed in the back seat. Ledbetter was subsequently charged with possession of marijuana.

May 5, at 5:50 p.m., at 9th Street and Price, police investigated an accident. According to the police report, a pickup hit the rear end of a car and then fled the scene of the accident. The driver of the car was taken to the hospital where she was treated and released.

Police found the pickup involved in the accident in the 900 block of S. Main. The driver, Heladio Herrera Saldana, 39, of Floydada, was arrested and charged with Failure To Stop And Render Aid, Tampering With Physical Evidence, No Insurance and Driving an Unregistered Motor Vehicle.

May 7 police arrested Jennifer Head, 19, and David Hitt, 17, for outstanding warrants, for theft, from Hale County.

Also on May 7, two fifteen year old girls were brought before the city judge for fighting at Floydada High School.

MINOR INJURIES SENDS TWO TO HOSPITAL-- Maria Sepulveda and Esmeralda Sepulveda were both transported to W.J. Mangold Memorial Hospital following this traffic accident on N.E. 8th (Hwy. 378) in Lockney. According to Lockney Police, Donald Henderson, of Lockney, was traveling south on 378 in a Chevrolet pickup. Sepulveda, driving north in a 4-door Buick, was attempting to pull into a driveway in the 500 block of N.E. 8th, and pulled in front of Henderson. He was unable to stop the pickup and struck Sepulveda's vehicle. Both Maria and Esmeralda were treated for minor injuries and released from Mangold Memorial.

Happy 73rd Anniversary Mom & Dad

73 years have passed since that young man rode his horse through rocks and sand to take a bride to be his own, to share his love and make a home.

The bride was so beautiful in her gingham dress, her hair so full, she knew he was the only one to share her love and make a home.

Together they did make that home for their daughter and only son they always made us fill so secure and taught us how to endure anything that came our way.

So Mom and Dad, I just want to say, that you are the dearest people on this earth, and I love you with all my heart

You gave us all that you had to give and I can't even start to thank the good Lord up above for all your care and tender love and for all the things you say and do and for giving me parents such as you.

Happy Anniversary!

Sue Lovell has recently spent two weeks in California. April 20, she attended her 50th year high school reunion. It took place at David Starr Jordan High School at Long Beach, California. She and her classmates had a great time visiting and touring Long Beach and seeing all the changes that have taken place over the past 50 years.

After the reunion, Sue visited her friends, who use to live in Lubbock but now live at La Habra, California. From there Sue traveled on to Santa Monica to visit her sister, Lu Artz, who lives in an ocean front condo. They attended an "Early California Historical" drama at Hermit, California, which has been running for the past 68 years in April.

Sunday morning, May 5, the youth at the First Baptist Church sponsored a breakfast which was served to the senior adults. There was a large crowd. A get-acquainted game was played and the youth choir sang two beautiful songs. It was "Senior Adult Day" at the First Baptist Church with the senior adult choir singing during the morning services.

May 5-9 at Plains Baptist Assembly was the 23rd "Senior Adult Encampment" week. Several of our senior adults attended either part or all day activities. The camp minister was Walter Goodnight. Several missionaries spoke. The "Singing Women of West Texas" brought some of the entertainment.

Our sympathy to Thelma Jones relatives. Her funeral was last Monday, April 6th. She was a charter member of the organization of Senior Citizens here in Floydada. She also wrote the Senior Citizen News for several years. We will miss her.

Our sympathy to the family of Winnie Neal.

Remember to pray for the families who have lost loved ones, for the ill, for those facing surgery and for RAIN.

VOLUNTEERS HONORED—The Floydada Nursing Home honored volunteers who serve the residents at their facility with a luncheon at Nielsons Cafeteria, Thursday, April 25. Thirty nine certificates of appreciation were presented. Special recognition was given to Dolores Cannon for her nomination as Volunteer of the Year from Unicare Health. ## Cannon honored for outstanding service

FLOYDADA - On April 25th, Floydada Nursing Home honored the volunteers who serve the residents of the facility with a luncheon at Neilsons Restaurant. 39 certificates of appreciation were awarded to recognize those who have rendered volunteer service at the center over the past year. Jane Martinez, Activity Director of the facility, organized the event and gave a welcome to the volunteers.

B. A. Hyatt, Interim Administrator, then spoke to the group and stated that Unicare Health Facilities which operates the nursing home wishes to reach out to the community and give something back, not just take from the local community. He expressed hope that this volunteer appreciation lunch would become an annual event.

Mr. Hyatt stated that the clientele served by the nursing home is the generation that plowed the sod, built the roads, strung the wire and gave us the greatest civilization and culture that the world has ever known. "We owe a debt of gratitude to the seniors of our land," he stated. He continued on to say, "The corporation can not provide all of the needed services to the residents. Paid staff can care for the physical needs, but it is only by the love and service rendered by friends, family and volunteers that the deep social needs can be met."

Special recognition was given to Dolores Cannon, and Jane presented her red roses to honor her as an outstanding volunteer. Mr. Hyatt read a statement that is being sent to nominate Dolores for the honor of "Volunteer of the Year" for Unicare Health Facilities national award which will be given out in June of this year. The winner of the national award who will be chosen from nominations from the many Unicare facilities over the nation will be honored at the Unicare Annual Conference held at the Marriott Lincolnshire Resort in Lincolnshire, Illinois this summer.

(Editors Note: The following is a copy of the nomination essay that was entered to nominate Dolores.)

Dolores Cannon is a breath of inspiration to the residents of Floydada Nursing Home. She is so much a part of the resident life that it may appear to some that she is part of the staff.

Mrs. Cannon started coming to visit a family member, but also shared her caring mannerism with others, and when her loved one was no longer a resident she realized how much the others needed her, and continued her visits month after month, and years went by until she has fulfilled eighteen years.

Dolores cuts hair, gives shampoos and renders personal service in a way that is special. She is on hand three or four days a week, and more often if there is special need. She logged well over one hundred hours in 1995, and doesn't even begin to log all the hours she spends in caring service.

Mrs. Cannon was named "Citizen of The Year" in 1995 at the annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet on May 2, 1995 which indicates that her benevolent spirit reaches the entire community, not just the Floydada Nursing Home. She is loved and respected in her home town for what she does for others, but more than that she is loved for who she is. Her gracious personality radiates to all she meets and the staff and residents of Floydada Nursing Home - are delighted to nominate her for "Volunteer of the Year."

Lockney scouts enjoy campout

By Kana Kennedy
Lockney Cub Scouts spent an enjoyable weekend, April 26-28, camping at the Scout camp in Post.

More than a usual number of Lockney Scouts attended this campout. Fourteen Scouts and 11 leaders attended.

The many activities enjoyed by the scouts included hiking, fishing and the safe usage of BB guns and bows and arrows. There was also a lot of good food to eat.

Most of the scouts agreed that the most enjoyable part of the campout was sleeping outside.

If this sounds like something you would like to do, you need to join the Scouts.

Some of our upcoming activities include our annual parent-son cake and cookie auction, summer swimming, a campout in June, and a 3-day Day Camp at Broadway Street Park in Plainview.

We always have a great time and if you would like to enjoy the fun with this gang you can join anytime. You don't have to wait until the beginning of the school year to join. We will be having our annual graduation ceremony the 23rd of May. Anyone is welcome to attend.

If you would like more information on joining the scouts, call Kana Kennedy at 652-3666. You and your parents can attend a den or pack meeting before you join, if you would like to check it out for yourself.

FJHS participates in reading challenge

FLOYDADA - Many fun activities will happen at FJHS on May 13 - 17 as part of the Accelerated Reader National Reading Challenge Week. The week has been set aside for schools nationwide to acknowledge their students' reading accomplishments and to celebrate increased enthusiasm for literature.

Teachers at FJHS are planning to celebrate their students' reading progress beginning Monday, May 13.

FJHS will kick off the week with a reading day when students, teachers, secretaries, principal, teacher assistants, custodians, etc., spend the entire day reading accelerated reader books or other reading material.

Tuesday is the most exciting day, thanks to FJHS Principal, Monty Hysinger. He will be dressed up as "Mrs. Doubtfire", thanks to the students reaching their 10,000 points plus.

Jackie Lucio, who has earned over 500 points will also be "Principal for a Day" on May 14.

May 15 will be the awards assembly where FJHS will also recognize outstanding readers.

May 16, is the "Banana-Split Party" for all students who have earned 100 or more points all year.

On May 17, the PTO will hold an auction for all items left in our Reading Store.

The students at FJHS are very excited about the upcoming National Reading Challenge Week and have earned a fun time.

One part of the school's reading curriculum is the Accelerated Reader Reading Management Program. Students earn reading points based on the reading level and difficulty of the books they've read, and the number of questions they answer correctly on computerized book tests.

Over 1,000 schools across the U.S. are participating in National Reading Challenge Week. The publisher of the Accelerated Reader, Advantage Learning Systems, Inc., is sponsoring the week to draw attention to the efforts of dedicated student readers everywhere.

"This week is designed to celebrate the achievement of students who put aside other distractions and focus their attention on high-quality children's literature," said Judith A. Paul, director of Advantage Learning Systems, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. "Not only are these children demonstrating improved reading skills, but they are discovering the true joy of reading.

"We're also acknowledging the efforts of hard-working, dedicated reading teachers who have committed themselves to improving their students' reading abilities. To hear a student say 'thank you for helping me become a better reader' is the best year-end present a teacher can get," Paul said.

FHS Senior Spotlight

By Cindy Hambricht

PRISCILLA PERALEZ

One of our FHS Senior Spotlights this week is Priscilla Peralez, daughter of Monica and Raymond Peralez. She has been part of the Floydada schools for 12 years. Priscilla has been Junior Class Vice-president, Senior Class Secretary/Reporter, Student Council Representative, and a cancer survivor for 3 years.

Priscilla's best memories of high school are of all her friends and her enjoying themselves. This she will miss. One thing Priscilla would have changed in the past 4 years would be to have had a better attitude towards everything and everyone. Her favorite movie is "The Color of Night", her favorite color is hunter green and she likes taking trips to Minnesota and Arizona.

Priscilla admires her parents, because "through all the rough times we've all been strong."

Priscilla plans to attend college, but this time she is not sure where or what her major might be. Her motto is "if you can't fight with your friends who can you fight with?"

MELISA GARCIA

One of the FHS Senior Spotlights this week is Melisa Garcia, daughter of Virginia Garza and George Garcia and niece of Barbara and Robert Perez. She has attended Floydada schools for 13 years. She has been involved in band, which went to State

Melisa's best memories of Floydada High School are the band trips. She says she will miss the closeness of the teachers and students. If she could have changed one thing in the past four years, Melisa would have studied harder and made better grades. The television show, "Fresh Prince of Bel Aire", the movie "Philadelphia", LORD OF THE FLIES, and "Dennis the Menace" are some of Melisa's favorite things.

The person Melisa most admires is her aunt, Barbara, because "she has been there for me all the times I have needed her the most".

Melisa plans to attend college after high school graduation and pursue a career in nursing or physical therapy. The motto she would like to be remembered by is "believe and achieve".

PAT PANCARDO

Another FHS Senior Spotlight this week is Pat Pancardo, daughter of Maria Garza. Pat has attended Floydada schools for 12 years.

The one thing Pat would have changed about school would be to have made the lunch time longer. Her favorite color is black and her favorite class is Parenting and Child Development.

The person Pat most admires is her mom.

After graduation Pat would like to pursue a job working with children.

MARIBEL CERVERA

Maribel Cervera, daughter of Gabriela and Jose Cervera, is a FHS Senior Spotlight this week. Maribel has attended Floydada schools for eleven and a half years. Prior to that time she was in Dimmitt. When she was a freshman at FHS, she was a member of a track team that became District Champions.

The best memories and the things Maribel will miss the most are the same. They are her friends. If she could have changed one thing in the past 4 years, she would have tried harder and worked more. Maribel has many favorite things, such as "Party of Five", TV show; "Ghost", movie; IN LOVING MEMORY by Danielle Steel and sports.

Maribel most admires her parents, because "they're always right."

Maribel wishes to attend college after graduation, but she doesn't know where, probably Amarillo. She would like to pursue a job in business or nursing.

Whirlwinds earn district championship

missed opportunities in both innings to add to the margin by stranding three in the first and left two on base in the second. However, the third inning belonged to Floydada. The 'Winds scored 7 runs on only one base hit (a single by Aleman). Four Shallowater errors and four wild pitches led to the Mustang downfall. Six of Floydada's runs were scored with two outs.

Floydada added another run in the top of the fourth. Chad Hinkle led off with a walk, advanced to second on a wild pitch, and eventually scored on another wild pitch. The Mustangs staged their most serious threat to get back into the game with 2 runs on 3 hits and a Whirlwind error in the bottom of the inning. Shallowater added another run in the fifth inning, but could make no further headway against the Whirlwind defense.

Floydada closed out the scoring with another run by Hinkle in the sixth inning. Joe Sanchez collected the Whirlwinds' final base hit in the inning. Coach David Kennedy summed up the victory which assured the Whirlwinds' their first district baseball title. "It was an ugly affair," said the coach, "But, I couldn't be prouder of a bunch of kids. We only had three hits, but scored 11 runs by taking advantage of their mistakes. I want to give the kids credit for sticking with it - we had some slow times in the middle of the year, but they stayed with it. We got our focus and intensity back. We're where we wanted to be all along, and everyone's looking

Floydada 8, Dimmitt 7

Home runs by Angel Aleman and Monty Anderson accounted for five of Floydada's eight runs as the Whirlwinds twice came from behind to edge Dimmitt 8-7 at Preston Watson Field on April 30. The victory improved Floydada's overall season record to 15-4. More importantly, the Whirlwinds' improved to 6-2 in the district race - two full games ahead of the rest of the pack, with two games remaining in the regular season.

Anderson's fourth-inning home run with a man on base came after the Bobcats had taken a 6-5 lead in the top of the inning. Aleman, the starting pitcher, helped his own cause with a 3-run homer in the bottom of the third inning. It was Aleman's first round-tripper of the season.

Tomas Barrientos continued his assault with the bat by going 1-for-3 and an RBI. He also scored a run. Michael Mercado, batting over .400 for the year, was 2-for-3 and one run-batted-in. Jason Henderson and Joe Sanchez collected the other Floydada hits. Aleman struck out three Bobcats while allowing 7 hits and 4 earned runs in 3 2/3 innings of work. Chad Hinkle picked up his fourth win against one loss in 3 1/3 innings of relief. Hinkle struck out three and walked five, but only gave up one earned run on two hits.

Colleges requiring fewer basic courses

By Edwin Feulner
Ever wonder why most young people—even those who have attended prestige colleges or universities—don't seem to know a whole lot about life or the world around them? It could be because in the headlong pursuit of top-rated sports teams, expensive, over-specialized research facilities, and—let's be frank—money, America's most prestigious colleges and universities have forgotten their basic task: to teach students something about history, literature, mathematics, the natural sciences, foreign language, philosophy and English. The reason most "Generation Xers" don't come away from college with such a "bottom-line" education is simple: It's no longer required of them. I don't make this accusation lightly. According to a study just released by the National Association of Scholars (NAS), America's leading schools of "higher" education have eliminated most of the core academic requirements once considered essential to a liberal-arts education. At the 50 colleges and universities identified by U.S. News & World Report as "America's best," the commitment to a structured general education "has largely vanished" over the past 30 years.

during the late 1960s and early 1970s when the rage in higher education was a radical libertarianism based on notions of "relevance" and the assumption that a special insight belonged to youth," the NAS study states. As a result, colleges and universities today "can no longer guarantee that students acquire a basic knowledge of their civilization and its heritage."

IS IT SMILING??—This Duncan youngster kept her eye on the expression of this gentle calf who didn't seem to mind the attention it was getting from lots of kids during Duncan's Old West Day.

In short, there has been "a purging from the curriculum of many of the required basic survey courses that used to familiarize students with the historical, cultural, political and scientific foundations of their society," the NAS study shows. Of course, the study merely quantifies what many of us have been observing about American education for decades: U.S. educators have forgotten what education is all about. According to NAS President Stephen Balch, America is "in danger of losing the common frame of cultural reference that for many generations has sustained our liberal, democratic society."

According to the NAS study, the number of top schools that require what we used to call "freshman English" has dropped to just over one-third. Only 12 percent still require math; only 34 percent require students to study science; only 2 percent require the study of history; only 4 percent have required courses in philosophy; and not a single one of the top schools requires students to study great literature.

Even the school year has been shortened, from an average of 191 days in 1964 to only 156 classroom days in 1993. "To a considerable extent, the structured curriculum was dashed to pieces

Lockney JV team ends season with win over Ralls

By David Sutterfield
LOCKNEY--The Lockney junior varsity baseball team ended their season Saturday with a 14-0 win over Ralls. Miguel Guerrero pitched a two hitter. He did a great job on the mound, and he had great support from the field.

It is hard to single out individual players because they all played the best game of the year. We wished that we had more games to play because we have improved so much. Coach Norwood said after the game, "This was a great hitting exhibition. We were swatting the ball like a cow swats flies." We, as coaches, were extremely proud of these young men and look forward to seeing them all back next year.

Cookbook author to give demonstration

Local cookbook collectors and enthusiasts are invited to meet cookbook author Carole Curlee on Saturday, May 25 from 1-4 p.m. in the Community Room at the First National Bank of Floydada. Those attending will be treated to samples she has prepared from recipes in her two most recent cookbooks. They include "A Casually Cared for Affair, or Who Forgot the Chocolate Cake" and "The Mexican

"FOCUS ON THE FAMILY" with Dr. James Dobson

QUESTION: I'm beginning to recognize a "blind spot" in my attitude toward my wife. I have always felt that I had done my job as a husband if I provided adequately for my family's financial needs, and if I was faithful to her. But am I also responsible to help meet her emotional needs?

DR. DOBSON: That's right, especially today when homemakers are being subjected to ridicule and scorn. Hardly a day passes when values of motherhood are not mocked or undermined.

* The notion that motherhood is a worthwhile investment of a woman's time suffers unrelenting bombardment.

* The concept that a man and a woman should find their identity in each other, rather than as separate and competing individuals, is said to be intolerably insulting to women.

* The belief that divorce is an unacceptable alternative has been abandoned by practically everybody.

* The role of the female as helpmate, bread baker, wound patcher, love giver, home builder and child bearer is nothing short of disgusting.

All of these deeply ingrained values, which many of today's homemakers are trying desperately to sustain, are continually exposed to ridicule. And the women who believe in those values are virtually hanging by their thumbs! They are made to feel stupid and old-fashioned and unfulfilled, and in many cases, their self-esteem is suffering irreparable damage. They are fighting a sweeping social movement with very little support from anyone. Let me say it more directly. For the man who appreciates the willingness of his wife to stand against the tide of public opinion—staying at home in her empty neighborhood in the exclusive company of jelly-faced toddlers and strong-willed adolescents—it is about time her husband gave her some help.

I'm not merely suggesting that you wash the dishes or sweep the floor. I'm referring to the provision of emotional support, of conversation, of making her feel like a lady...of building her ego...of giving her one day of recreation each week...of taking her out to dinner...of telling her that you love her. Without these armaments, she is left defenseless against the foes of the family—the foes of your family!

Dr. James Dobson is a psychologist, author and president of Focus on the Family, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the preservation of the home. Correspondence to Dr. Dobson should be addressed to: Focus on the Family, P.O. Box 444, Colorado Springs, CO 80903.

Dr. Dobson is brought to you courtesy of West College & 3rd Street Church of Christ, Lockney.

5 Reasons To "Try" Deep Canal Hearing Aids

1 Custom molded to fit completely into your ear canal.

2 Use your index finger to insert the instrument deeply beyond the visual opening. A tiny clear cord is attached for easy removal...

3 Once inside, the deep canal aid can be your secret.

1 Acoustic advantages: Because it fits deep within the ear canal, your ear's natural acoustic features can work to their greatest efficiency.

2 Elimination of the volume control: The special features of a deep canal aid eliminate the use of the volume control wheel common to most hearing aids.

3 Comfort: A shell precisely made from a mold of your ear usually results in a deep canal aid that is very comfortable to wear.

4 A fit for active people: The sureness of a deep canal aid's fit makes it ideal for use during exercise and vigorous work.

5 Appearance: This may be the most popular feature. A deep canal aid is virtually invisible when worn.

Farm bill brings sweeping changes

The 1996 Farm Bill brings sweeping changes away from depression-era government supports, but the dust will settle with income bolstering market strategies, Texas A&M Agriculture Program officials believe.

"The greatest demand will be for programs that teach marketing techniques such as forming marketing clubs and hedging," said Dr. James Richardson, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station policy economist. "We're not telling anyone to fold the tent and go home."

The Farm Bill outlines a historical transition in policy away from the subsidies provided by government to maintain steady farm incomes to the so-called "right to farm" measure that allows producers to make decisions as support payments are phased out over a seven year period.

The measure will save an estimated $13.2 billion over that time, and some fear that the savings for taxpayers will come at the expense of lost farms. But Agriculture Program leaders said planning in advance and trying new ventures can reduce the chance for loss.

"Our whole effort is in the strategic opportunities and looking at solutions for agriculture producers, agribusinesses and rural communities," said Dr. Ed Hiler, vice chancellor and dean of agriculture at Texas A&M. "We are committed to contributing to the solutions, and we have some experience already with that type of situation."

Hiler noted that when wool and mohair producers lost their government support programs a few years ago, the Agriculture Program — through its Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Texas Agricultural Extension Service agencies — worked with the state's producers to get a marketing co-operative and processing plant put together.

"There is no question that this new farm bill will lead to more value-added opportunities for Texas producers," Hiler said. "And that is something that we've been pushing for years."

Richardson said the new bill means a completely new way of decision making for producers. And, he said, without the guaranteed price supports from government, the variability of Texas farm income is likely to increase by some 30 percent, meaning farm income could be at times one-third less or one-third higher depending on market and world events.

"We will have to find new ways of balancing the risk," he said. "We have to come up with better marketing strategies."

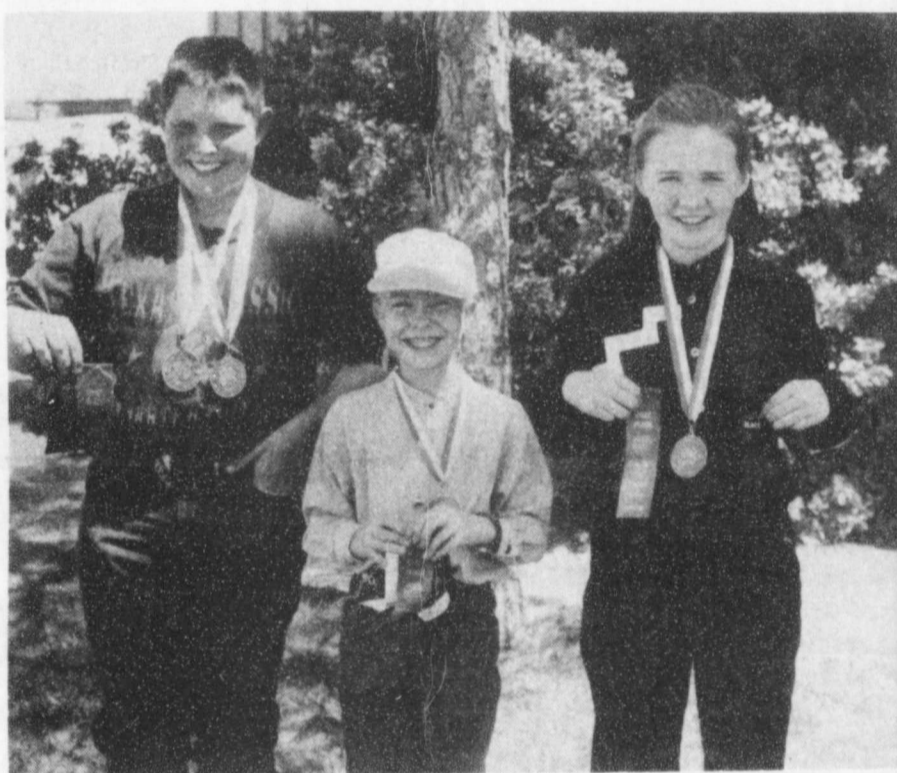

For cotton growers, the governmental transition payments will taper off from about 9 cents per pound this year to 5 cents per pound by the year 2002, he said.

Richardson said that the state's producers probably will not begin to feel the effect of the new measure until the turn of the century, but that gives growers about three years to make changes to secure their operations.

"There will be significant structural pressure on moderate-sized farms," Richardson said. "And the greatest pressure will be on wheat, rice, cotton, peanuts and dairy farms. Those are the ones that need to start planning now."

He said farmers and commodity groups need to increase their emphasis on international markets, for example.

Farm Service Agency takes action to help livestock industry with programs

The USDA's Farm Service Agency has taken action to ensure the future of the livestock industry in Texas. Texas farmers and ranchers have been approved for livestock assistance under several programs that will give producers who have suffered severe losses due to drought a chance for the future, according to Harold Bob Bennett, State Executive Director of the Farm Service Agency.

"Texas farmers and ranchers are receiving the earliest assistance ever provided by the USDA. The Farm Service Agency is committed to ensuring that Texas producers receive every possible benefit available to assist them in overcoming the emergency that has been created by severe drought", Bennett said.

The Texas State FSA Office began obtaining USDA approval of livestock assistance in January 1996. 53 Counties were approved for emergency grazing of Conservation Reserve Acreage to provide feed for livestock. Ray Joe Riley, Chairperson of the Texas State Farm Service Agency Committee stated, "Emergency Grazing will continue in these counties until September 30, unless there is substantial improvement in pasture conditions." Mr. Riley indicated that special consideration was made to ensure that there were no adverse environmental impacts of grazing CRP.

On February 23, 1996, President Clinton declared an emergency in the State of Texas, based on damage and losses caused by extreme fire hazards.

As a result of this emergency declaration, 115 Texas counties have been declared eligible for FSA Emergency Loan assistance. In addition, these counties received special USDA assistance for fighting fires and ensuring the safety of threatened communities.

USDA has continued to provide assistance as early as possible. Most Texas counties were ineligible for emergency livestock assistance until after March 1, due to the normal grazing dates for pasture. Since March 1, the Texas State FSA Committee has taken action that has resulted in 218 Texas Counties being eligible for emergency livestock assistance through May 31, 1996.

"Texas farmers and ranchers have suffered significant losses due to the drought that has plagued the entire state," said Bennett. "The employees and committees of the Farm Service Agency are committed to helping as many producers as possible through this emergency."

The Farm Service Agency continues to work with the office of the Governor and is taking steps to provide drought relief at the earliest possible date.

For more information concerning drought assistance, contact your local office of the Farm Service Agency.

Farmers need Mother Natures help

By Shawn Wade

Planting time has arrived and High Plains cotton producers will be looking for Mother Nature's help in getting the 1996 crop off to a healthy start.

According to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) the majority of the area's dryland cotton acreage appears to have good sub-soil moisture. The situation of most concern right now is the moisture contained in the top 6-12 inches of the soil profile.

Producers are waiting for a "planting rain" to help them get the crop established. The majority of cotton on the High Plains is typically planted during the month of May. It is expected that the majority of the area's irrigated acreage will be planted during the optimum planting period.

Dryland producers have less leeway, but should be able to stretch the planting window. Hopefully, the rainfall they need will come in the next thirty days. According to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service Specialist Kater Hake.

"Right now I am fairly optimistic about the 1996 crop's yield potential," explains Hake. "In the dryland areas south of Lubbock we have a much better subsoil moisture situation than we did one year ago. Irrigated acreage should continue to have good potential barring an outbreak of detrimental weather or higher than expected insect pressure."

Hake cautions that the area still has a long way to go before the end of the season

Sign-up for the newly enacted Market Transition Program has been scheduled to begin May 20. Acreage that has participated in at least one of the past 5 years is eligible to be included. This ONE TIME sign-up period ends July 12.

Producers signing the seven-year contract with USDA are guaranteed fixed, but declining, payments on contract acreage through the year 2002. Specific provisions are still being developed by USDA and should be ready by the start of the sign-up period.

More detailed information about the Market Transition Program will be published as it becomes available. (TAEX), dryland cotton planted through the end of May can maintain most of its yield potential.

"The majority of our area has received only about one-half inch of precipitation during the first four months of 1996," explains Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President. "We need rain and we need to get it before the end of this month to take full advantage of the deep moisture that we have."

Planted cotton acreage for the area is estimated to be close to last year's 3.2 million acres. Approximately 50 percent of the area's cotton acres are now considered irrigated. This shift from dryland to irrigated is the result of an upswing in the utilization of higher efficiency pivot irrigation systems.

So far it appears less than 15 percent of the area's crop has been planted to date. The majority of this acreage is concentrated in the southern half of the area. The next week to ten days should bring out even more planters according to TAEX Cotton
