YOU MAY HA EREA the "Victory Tour" this summer by the Jacksons, of whom the sopranovoiced Michael Jackson is the leader.
What you may not have heard is that the tour is designed to fleece their fans out of millions of dollars, and set the entertainment group up for early retirement if they choose. In their appearance in Dallas this advertised their tickets at $$ 30$ each, and they could only be ordered by applying for four-ticket blocks. Those wanting tickets had to send a, mail order for 5120 into the Jacksons headquarters.
The concert will be held in Texas Stadium, which will hold 43,000 fans for each night's concert. Naturally, there are millions of young fans who Jacksons in person.
Those lucky enough to be selected by the computer to receive tickets for the Dallas concert were to get their tickets two days ahead of the concert. tickets two days ahead of the concert.
Those living 400 miles away had lots of notice as to how to plan their weekend, didn't they?
The ticket applications were made several weeks ago. The Jackson promotion promises to refund the money to those who do not get tickets "within four to six weeks." That's where the scam comes in.
Reporters following the entertainment business say the ment business say the Jacksons cashed all of the money orders immediately, and while their fans will eventually get their money back, they will have the use of this pile of cash, estimated to be as much as 1.2 billion dollars, for a couple of months. dollars, for a couple of months.
One writer who is followin situation estimates that the Jacksons should make in the neighborhood of $$ 16$ million on this investment, from their Dallas appearance. And this is OVER and ABOVE what they will make on the concert itself.
Now, if this isn't enough to make you want to go and rip the tapes out of your kid's cassette, how about some more?
The
The money order had to be accompanied by a coupon printed in newspaper advertisements. But in the height of arrogance, the Jacksons told newspapers they had no intention of paying for the ads. The intention of paying for the ads. The newspapers were to print the advertisements free, or not at all. Papers in several places, such as Tulsa, Topeka, Wichita and St. Louis old the Jacksons to go jump in the the Dallas-Fort Worth area ended up running the ads. They justified their move by the fact that they would sell housands of extra copies containing he Jackson coupent.
dangerous precedent.
That's not all. The Jackson management is asking for free stadium rental in their appearances. Again, a couple of Texas places, including the Cotton Bowl and the including the Cotton Bowl and the Astrodome, told the Jacksons "Thanks, but no thanks." The Cotton Bowl manager told them it would not be fair to other promoters Jacksons. In addition, most facilities Jacksons. In addition, most facilities would receive a percentage of the sales of merchandise, but not from the Jacksons.
About all Texas Stadium and the city of Irving is getting to keep, to help pay for the clean-up after the three concerts, is the profits from the food and drink concessions. Oh, yesthey have also raised the parking fee at Texas Stadium from the usual $$ 3$ to $$ 5$ for the event.
We also heard that the Jackson Dallas hotel, and immediately began to dicker with the management for a bigger discount than was customary for the hotel to give.
Auoted as saying, "The Jacksons want the sun and the moon." The irony of the situation is that in many instances, they are getting it. The Jacksons will be millionaires several times over from their Dallas concerts. And you thought Texas was lucky to get one of the Jackson concerts? That's just what they wanted you to think

Commission Sets Buske Land Value At ${ }^{\text {s }} 15,700$

The condemnation hearing, on the $40 \times 1100$-foot property owned by the Buske estate adjoining the city and the new Millard Warehouse complex on the eastern edge of Friona, was held Thursday morning at Friona State Bank
Following the hearing, the three-member commission, D.C. Herring, M.C. Osborn and Roger Wilcox, in setting a fair market value on the property, put the value at $$ 15,700$.
Earlier this year the city had offered the Buske estate $$ 5,000$ for the property. The offer was turned down, and a counter offer made by the estate
At this point, following a verbal negotiation, the city began the condemnation proceedings
The City Council will hold a special called meeting on Tuesday evening, July 19, to consider the matter.
City Manager Beelee Goodwin said the city has two options: (1) pay the judgement price, or (2) appeal the decision to the District Court.
"We'll eventually recover whatever price we pay, since the city receives a percentage from the other utility companies," Goodwin said. The city manager also indicated that the city might do some negotiating with the other utilities, such as the electric and gas companies, saying the city "took it on the chin" on behalf of all the utility companies.
The hearing was conducted at the Community Room of Friona State Bank, with attorney Charles Aycock representing the Buske estate, and City Attorney Richard Collard representing the city Witnesses were called by each side, as in a regular civil court.
In the hearing, Buske pointed out that he had objected, as a taxpayer, to the city buying land for a company. "I didn't think he city should stand the cost (of buying the land)
"It would have been much better for the taxpayers if Millard had bought the land, and then dedicated the portion back to the city (for the street)," Buske said
He said that when someone suggested that there might have be a fund drive to buy the land from the Buskes, he also objected to this approach, because he felt this would sound like blackmail. Buske's legal representative, Aycock, pointed to the fact that Southwestern Public Service Company had located a service pole within the 40 -foot strip of land, without having an easement to the property. The estimated cost of putting the power line across the property was $$ 25,000$; and Aycock said it had been further estimated that it would cost $$ 45,000$ if the electric company had to go around the strip of land
When asked if the electric company asked Buske's permission to locate its pole on his land, his answer was "No."
"I told the city to get some help (in regard to utility easements). I didn't think it was right for the city to absorb all of the cost," Buske said.
Buske told the commissioners that he assisted in the sale of the Flores residence, a green stucco house, which was moved off the Millard site. The house sold for $$ 25,000$.
"I told the Millard people I thought this was too much to pay, but they said 'buy it,' so I closed the deal. I then helped them sell the vacant house, and they moved it," Buske said.
Buske indicated that had it not been for the payment of the $$ 25,000$ by Millard for the house, "We wouldn't be here (at the hearing) today."
He also indicated that a part of the problem in the initial negotiations with the city was that he had thought at first that the city was interested only in an easement across the property, rather than in buying it.
"I told Richard Collard (City Attorney) 'I have some doubt as to just what they want. Would you get them to put it in writing? , " Buske explained. He stated that then, when he received the written offer from the city, he and his estate had less than 24 hours to make a decision.
Buske underscored the fact that he had been dealing with Millard originally on the sale of the 40 -foot strip of land. "At first they were interested, but later (after the city intervened) they said they could get ever Aycock had made the point that the City of Friona officials, in promising to get water and sewer service to the new project, may have made Millard officials think they were being promised access to all utilities.
Aycock said he was attempting to show that his client, Buske was not, as many people may have thought, trying to impede progress on the Millard Warehouse facility.
He asked Mayor Clarence Monroe about Buske's role in securing the tax-free bond which Millard is using to do the construction work. "I understand he did all the ground work on the bond. He took the ball and ran with it," Monroe said.

Commissioners Set Land Value....

Continued From Page

Testifying on behalf of the city were Mayor Monroe, Ron Davenport, City Manager Beelee Goodwin, and Curt Baird, who charge of construction for the Millard project.
Those testifying for the city attempted to show that the purchase price paid for the industrial site, on plots of ground where there were no improvements, were sold at $$ 4,000$ per acre or less.
The $$ 4,000$ per acre figure was the price paid for the bulk of the property, almost six acres, to Friona Industries, according to Davenport, FI president.
After being contacted, Davenport said he had hit upon the $$ 4,000$ per acre figure as an "average" figure paid for industrial sites across the nation. "I felt the only value of this property was that it was adjacent to the railroad spur," said Davenport. Monroe and Goodwin detailed the city's attempts to buy the 40 -foot strip of property from the Buske estate.
After turning down the city's offer of $$ 5,000$ for the property, Buske had offered the city to dedicate a 16 -foot strip of the property, south to the corner of Eighth Street, and grant the city an easement for water and sewer lines across the rest of the strip. (It was explained by Buske and his representative that the city already owned 40 feet of property on their side, and they felt that the additional 16 feet, or 56 feet in all, would have been enough to pave the street.)
But the council had turned down this offer, feeling the city needed the entire 80 -foot strip. "Also, we felt we didn't want to have to go through this (a hassle over an easement) every time we needed to cross this property," Monroe said.
Concerning the charge by Buske representatives that the Millard property, for which the city was attempting to settle easement problems, was located outside the city limits, city officials showed a petition from Millard asking to be annexed to the city. Attorney Aycock noted that the petition was "conveniently received today" (the day of the hearing).
This was followed by a discussion showing that Millard had announced its intentions to come into the city early in the planning stages.
Monroe also denied a question from Aycock "Does the City have an agreement that it will intervene on behalf of the other utility companies?"
Goodwin testified as to the reasons the city started condemnation proceedings: (1) the need for a street, (2) the drainage problem in that area, (3) to provide complete service to the complex, and (4) to form a contiguous boundary for the complex property with that of the present city limits.
Baird, research and development engineer for Millard, detailed the steps, along with purchase prices, in acquiring land for the industrial site.
He pointed out that Millard had paid more for the house that was moved, because the company could gain considerable yardage of dirt fill which was needed, and felt it had saved $$ 12,498$ in hauling expenses alone, leaving a net cost, after sale of the house, of $$ 8,902$.
Where Millard has laid a 50 -foot concrete street, the company had to purchase additional land from Dr. Gary Cash and Bob Clark. In the case of the Clark property, a chain-link fence and heavy equipment had to be moved, and this led to the company
