"Friends" break ground for Unity Center

A dream broke ground Monday, July 12, when Floyd County Friends Board members turned the soil with golden shovels officially starting the construction of the Unity Center.

A large crowd gathered to witness the event and lend their support, once more, to the building of the 30,000 square foot multi-purpose building in Muncy.

The fund-raising project, which began in March of 1995, is responsible for raising over $600,000 and making this project possible.

According to Board Member Martin Stoerner the dirt work and site preparation should begin this week.

"The water for the center will come from Lake Mackenzie's pipeline which is located on the east side of highway 70," said Stoerner. "Tunneling under the highway should also begin soon."

Stoerner said the concrete slab would be poured around August 1st and would have to cure for 2 weeks.

The building will be shipped on August 23 and is set to arrive here on August 25. "The construction should begin immediately and take about 10 to 12 weeks," said Stoerner.

Inside work, after construction, will include finishing restrooms, concession area, wash racks, bleachers, sound systems, and electrical work. Outside work will include parking area, sewage system, lighting and sign work.

"With everyone working together and weather permitting, we hope to celebrate the Grand Opening by Jan. 1, 2000," said Stoerner.

Friends Board Member Jon LaBaume gave a detailed description of the Unity Center (see separate story). All but 10,000 square feet will be devoted to the James and Eva Mayer Arena. "The remainder will be used for the FNB Lockney Auxiliary Building," said LaBaume.

Board Member and chief grant writer, Dora Ross, spoke to the crowd and thanked those who had made the project possible through foundation and corporation grants. "We received 8 grants totaling $336,000," said Ross (see box with list of grants).

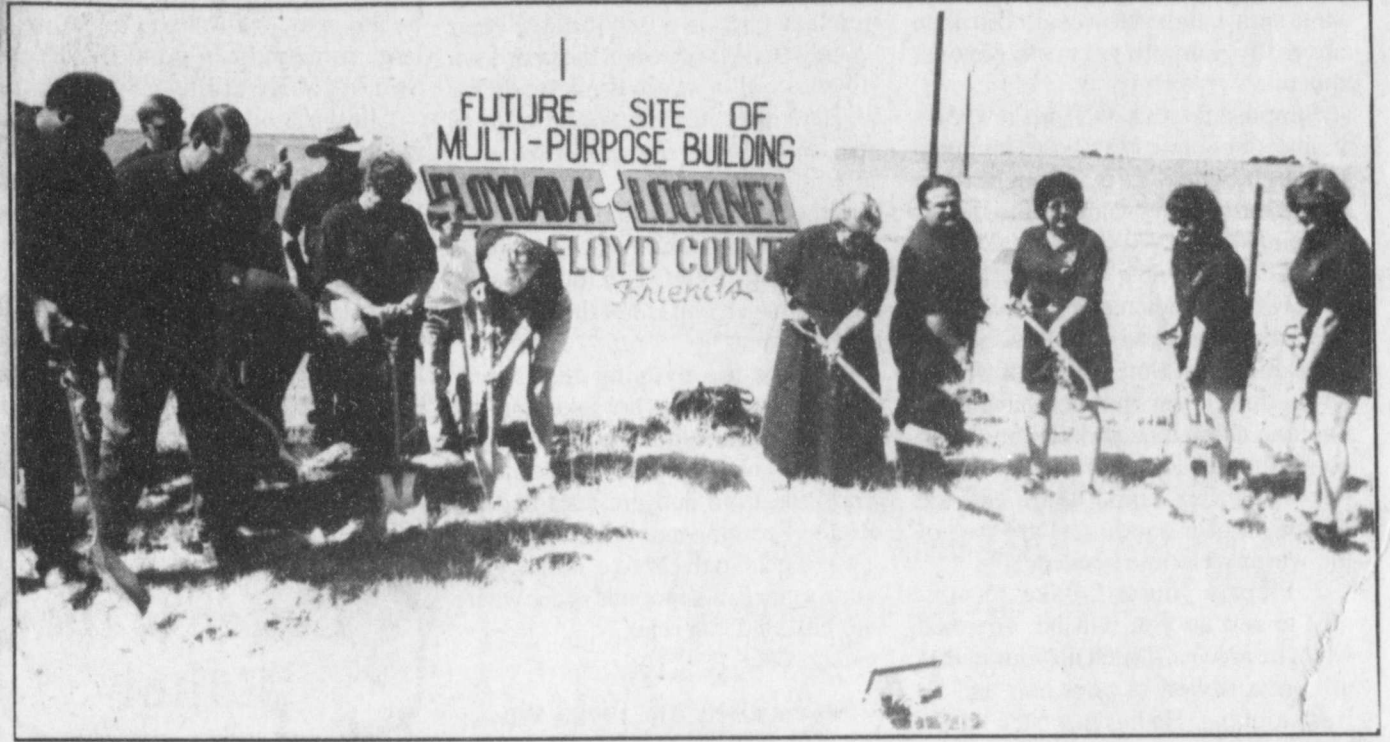

"We applied for our first grant May 31, 1996. It took 2 years, 9 months, 23 grants, and lots of local donations to raise the $600,000 to get us here today," said Ross.

Board member Shawnda Foster thanked the major local contributors, such as: Herman Graham, Ervin Graham and Dennis Ross, Producers Co-op, the family of Keith Jackson, Jim and Denise Doucette, RC & Louise Fawver, Floyd County Stock Show Association, Ray Lee Equipment, Lowe's Pay-n-Save, the family of Paul Hrbacek, and FNB Lockney.

Board Member De Chance highlighted the local efforts of the fund raising projects of the cotton bale donors, Cyanimid Products harvest points, Il Penseroso and 1990 Study Club Unity of Lights, El Rancho's fajita feast, donors and guests of the benefit galas, Casino Night, vaudeville show, memorial donors of over 500 families, and countless other donations.

"More than 1,000 people helped us in so many different ways," said Chance. "Every single dollar counted."

Speaker of the House Pete Laney, as well as Floydada Mayor Bobby Gilliland and Lockney Mayor Gary Marr were among the officials in the crowd. Representatives from the Lub-

LISD Board hears report from band director and revises the dress code

LOCKNEY--The Lockney ISD met in regular session, Thursday, July 8, to hear a report from the band director, discuss the dress code and accept resignations.

Charlie Cross, newly hired band director, met with the board to express his ideas for building up the band program.

When asked by one of the board members how long he planned to stay, Cross laughed and replied, "I would not come to Lockney if I were not going to stay longer than a year."

He continued, "Lockney has a long tradition of good bands and I want to contribute to that tradition. With continuity things will get better. Kids need to be encouraged with positive motivation."

"The numbers will grow. I know we have lost quite a few members, but the door will be open when they want to come back. I like to see the kids do well in all activities and sports. The well rounded students are the better students."

"I was quite pleased with the number of instruments the school has and the excellent condition the uniforms are in. They have been well taken care of."

"We will begin band on August 3 and will be meeting at night. When school starts the rest of the work will be done in class, and it will be quality time," he stated.

Junior High Principal Terry Ellison brought dress code recommendations before the board and three of the four were approved. Those are, 1. Camouflage clothing will not be allowed for everyday wear in LISD; 2. Laser lights will not be allowed at school or any school activity; 3. Girls shirt tails, designed to be worn inside, must be tucked in even if they are wearing it as a jacket over a t-shirt.

The board discussed the fourth recommendation that would allow the school to have a set of clothes to put on students who do not come to school in clothes that follow the dress code.

Ellison related that it took time to take those students home in order that they change clothes. "And if you send them home sometimes they do not come back."

The suggestion was made that there be extra clothes at school that the students could wear until the end of the day, or that the school system purchase several pairs of coveralls that could be put on over the students clothes. The other suggestion was in-school suspension for the violation.

The item was tabled until more study could be given the issue. Resignations were accepted from Ruth Reed, second grade teacher at elementary school, and Karoline Ashmore, English teacher at high school.

Teachers who were hired include Sherri Neff, high school English; John King, high school science; and Charlie Cross, band director.

After discussion on the salary increases for the auxiliary staff, the board voted to adopt a salary scale which would give each aide an increase based on her step scale.

The board revised the salary scale for the administrators which will keep their salaries at the same daily rate they are currently.

The board authorized the application for a Title VI Class Size Reduction Grant. If approved for the grant the school could receive up to $21,800. "The grant has no strings attached and I feel we should apply for it. If we get all or part of the money there are several places we can apply it," Superintendent Raymond Lusk stated.

Athletic Director Chad Terry reported all coaching positions are filled and letters have been sent to the students to apprise them of what will be going on, and when. He stated that an additional letter will be sent before two-a-days start.

Board member Bernie Ford asked Terry how they would handle the students with asthma who carry inhalers and could get in trouble with their breathing during athletics.

Terry told the board that Coach Elam is certified in CPR and a new state law requires coaches to be CPR certified. "Elam will teach the class to the coaches and we will be aware of any difficulties that arise with the students," he stated.

A new mower for the school district, was approved by the board. According to Terry, "The old mower for the football field, track and baseball field was worn out." "We have not used it to mow the baseball field at all," he stated. "The cut is just too uneven."

Present at the meeting were board members, Bernie Ford, Mike Mathis, Jesse Garza, Dan Smith, Jim Martin and Louie Bybee; Superintendent Raymond Lusk; Junior High Principal Terry Ellison; Athletic Director Chad Terry, Band Director Charlie Cross; and the Hesperian-Beacon reporter.

Gold medal goes to FHA

LOCKNEY--Lacey Aston, Lindi Miller, and Kenzie Stapp were three of the 260 Texas delegates to attend the 1999 FHA National Leadership Conference, July 2-9 in Boston, Massachusetts. Lacey, Lindi, and Kenzie traveled to Boston with their advisor, Treena Aston. They represented more than 24,000 members of the Texas Association and were approximately 5,200 delegates throughout the nation attending the five-day conference.

Brandon Abbott, national president from Jonesboro, Texas, presided at the conference. The youth developed meeting theme, "Gateway to the Future" and was carried out as the members were encouraged to discover ways to build a successful future and become strong leaders in their families, careers, and communities.

Lacey, Lindi, and Kenzie participated in STAR events (Students Taking Action for Recognition competitive events). They competed in the category of Focus on Children. Their project involved teaching young children at Lockney Elementary School the importance of saving money for the future. Their project entitled "Money Doesn't Grow On Trees" was conducted throughout this past school year.

These three students along with other class members have been trained as tellers by the Lockney FNB to operate the savings bank at the Lockney Elementary School and Lockney Junior High. The children's bank is called Longhorn Cash Corral. The bank opens every Friday morning before school to take deposits from participating students.

Approximately 275 students currently have savings accounts in the Longhorn Cash Corral and earn regular passbook savings interest on their money. At the end of each six week period the depositors receive a bank statement showing deposits and inter-

Clevengers win vacation

Curtis and Arlene Clevenger, of Floydada, were the grand prize winners of the Friends of the Library trip-of-choice fund raiser.

The couple will be treated, courtesy of Lowe's Marketplace, to an all-expense paid vacation to the location of their choice.

The couple's name was drawn at the final hour, Thursday, July 8th, in the community room of the First National Bank.

The Clevengers were presented with a congratulatory certificate which informed them they may choose the trip of their choice, anywhere, anytime, until March 2000. They can make plans with the travel agent of their choice, and the Friends will pay that travel agent up to the maximum of $2,000 on their trip.

Because Lowe's Marketplace donated the money for the trip, the library building fund will be able to keep the $6,000 generated from the sale of the tickets.

"We are indebted to Lowe's for making this possible," said Martha Farris, chairperson of the fund-raising event. "We are also very grateful to all those who participated in the event through the purchase of tickets and those Friends who spent many hours selling the tickets."

The final drawing for the fund raising trip was brought to a close with an all day celebration, Thursday, in the community room of the First National Bank. The room was decorated in a travel theme and refreshments were served throughout the day.

During the day the final 25 names were drawn and placed in a smaller hopper which ultimately held 75 names drawn throughout the fundraiser. The final winner was drawn from those 75 names.

At 2:00 p.m., Johnny Summers, regional manager for Lowe's Marketplace drew the name of the grand prize winner.

Tony St. James, of KFLP, was on hand to interview Arlene Clevenger after she received notification of her win.

She was also presented with a travel bag filled with catalogues and brochures offering suggestions for interesting destinations from Travel Agent Anna Leta Bradshaw, and a handy travel alarm clock from Duckwall's Variety Store.

PICK YOUR VACATION SPOT--(L-R) Arlene Clevenger is congratulated by Lowe's Marketplace Regional Manager Johnny Summers, after he pulled her winning ticket from the hopper. She will be able to take a trip of her choice with all expenses paid--up to $2,000, courtesy of Lowe's Marketplace. The money was donated to the Friends of the Floyd County Library to be used as a fund raiser. The organization raised $6,000 which will be applied toward the building of a new library. Staff Photo

I love e-mail!
I love funny jokes and column ideas from everybody else.

I love not having to be creative every week!

At first glance this e-mail will appear to be just for giving the 90's woman a laugh. However, you men are really going to get nostalgic over this one!

Supposedly this is from a 1950's Home Economics textbook intended for High School girls. It taught them how to prepare for married life. It was probably written by a man!

1950's Wives

1. Have dinner ready: Plan ahead, even the night before, to have a delicious meal--on time. This is a way of letting him know that you have been thinking about him, and are concerned about his needs. Most men are hungry when they come home and the prospects of a good meal are part of the warm welcome needed.

2. Prepare yourself: Take 15 minutes to rest so you will be refreshed when he arrives. Touch up your make-up, put a ribbon in your hair and be fresh looking. He has just been with a lot of work-weary people. Be a little gay and a little more interesting. His boring day may need a little lift.

3. Clear away the clutter. Make one last trip through the main part of the house just before your husband arrives, gathering up school books, toys, paper, etc. Then run a dust cloth over the tables. Your husband will feel he has reached a haven of rest and order, and it will give you a lift too.

4. Prepare the children: Take a few minutes to wash the children's hands and faces if they are small, comb their hair, and if necessary, change their clothes. They are little treasures and he would like to see them playing the part.

5. Minimize the noise. At the time of his arrival, eliminate all noise of washer, dryer, dishwasher, or vacuum. Try to encourage the children to be quiet. Be happy to see him. Greet him with a warm smile and be glad to see him.

6. Some DONT'S. Don't greet him with problems or complaints. Don't complain if he's late for dinner. Count this as minor compared with what he might have gone through that day.

7. Make him comfortable: Have him lean back in a comfortable chair or suggest he lie down in the bedroom. Have a cool or warm drink ready for him. Arrange his pillow and offer to take off his shoes. Speak in a low, soft, soothing and pleasant voice. Allow him to relax and unwind.

8. Listen to him. You may have a dozen things to tell him, but the moment of his arrival is not the time. Let him talk first.

9. Make the evening his. Never complain if he does not take you out to dinner or to other places of entertainment; instead try to understand his world of strain and pressure and his need to be home and relax.

10. The Goal: Try to make your home a place of peace and order where your husband can relax.

My response: The 1990's Wives

1. Have husband fix dinner if he is hungry. Enforce the "do it yourself" rule.

2. Prepare yourself. Put your feet up on the coffee table and rest. Refer to #1

3. Step over clutter.

4. Tell husband what rotten things the "little treasures" have done today and tell him to "deal with it".

5. Minimize noise by leaving the house for own personal quiet time. Refer to #1.

6. Refer to #1

7. In a low "soothing" voice, tell him to "do it yourself".

8. Let him talk first. But never let him talk last.

9. Make the evening his. This is another good time to leave him with kids for your own personal quiet time.

10. The Goal is to teach what the phrases "Leave me alone," and "Do it yourself" really mean.

Kid's Nutrition Question & Answer

Q: My kids want me to stock up on sports drinks this summer, but I don't think they need them when all they do is play. Do they?

A: The added carbohydrates and minerals in sports drinks only benefit athletes engaged in continuous, high-intensity aerobic workouts that last for 90 minutes or more. For most children, sports drinks offer little advantage over plain, cool water, says Becky Gorham, a registered dietitian with the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine.

Active kids do need to "tank up" on fluids before going out and rehydrate every 15 to 20 minutes while playing during the summer to help prevent heat-related illnesses.

If the availability of sports drinks encourages your kids to drink, you might consider compromising with a home-made "sport drink." Combine caffeine-free herbal tea, a little sugar, a bit of salt and a few ounces of orange juice. Chill in individual bottles. Or, just stock the refrigerator with plenty of bottled water to tempt their kids on the go.

A view from The Lamplighter

By Ken Towery

We see by the papers where our Governor has been rather successful, to put it mildly, in his early fund raising efforts, with slightly more than $36 million in the bank. That's substantially higher than the "more than $20 million" reported a few days earlier.

The rest of the Republican hopefuls, including my old friend Pat Buchanan, trail badly. In fact, Bush has raised more than all the rest put together. Even throwing in Al Gore leaves Bush still on top. And we are not even sure that Gore will end up with the Democratic nomination.

Former Senator (and former basketball player) Bill Bradley seems to be gaining on the Vice President in both polls and money raised.

But back to Bush. It really ought not be this way, with money looming so large as a factor in political success. Still, it's a fact of life.

Clinton used that technique in his race for reelection, raking in money from everywhere by whatever means, legal or illegal. Money poured in from Indonesia, from China, from the Israeli lobby, from the Lincoln bedroom, from fundraising events held in the White House, from Hollywood, from the rich and famous everywhere. Clinton, and the Democratic National Committee, gave back those questionable dollars they got caught with, but many voters didn't seem to care, and still don't.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

When I received the copy of my home state paper, once again I saw heartbreak and sadness from death to destruction on the front page.

What a heartache for the farmers of Floyd County. Even though I've been gone for 50 years, part of my heart is still in the farmland of Texas. I live here in the foothills of the Great Smokey Mountains of North Carolina, near Asheville. Sometimes I feel too secure here sheltered in the hills and trees and have to be reminded that none of us from north to south; east to west, are exempted from tragedy and heartache, but still so blessed to live in America.

We are constantly reminded of the power of the Almighty Creator-Author and Giver-Sustainer of all things.

Yes, the road must be hard for all you farmers, but have courage, we all need you three times daily in every home in America and some foreign lands to survive. God be with you as you struggle against the elements to survive.

I enjoy getting news from my home state,
Callie Holmes Jackson
Columbus, North Carolina

The money was used early and effectively. It put Bob Dole, the Republican nominee, on the defensive and his campaign was so inept it never recovered.

About all the Dole campaign could do was complain about Clinton tactics. Most of the national press, ever concerned (it constantly tells us) about the role of money in politics, did not seem to take notice of where the money was coming from, as long as the beneficiary of that money was Bill Clinton.

There is a difference, of course, between then and now. True, Bush has raised a ton of money, more than anyone else in history at this point in a presidential campaign. But no one has suggested that the Bush money is coming from questionable sources. At this point there is no Indonesian money, no China money, no Lincoln bedroom money, no seats sold on taxpayer funded airplane trips for commercial benefit. About half the money, according to reports, has come from Texans.

Most of the money seems to be coming from people who are either fed up with the Clinton-Gore administration and don't want to see it continued, or who simply want to ride in the parade of a winner, which they perceive Bush to be.

The Bush story is nothing short of a political phenomenon at this stage. Millions of people nationwide are supporting him without even knowing what he stands for. They do, however, know what the Clinton-Gore ticket has stood for all these years, and they are tired of it. They yearn for someone to restore a sense of honesty and integrity in the American Presidency. How far Bush can go on the wave of unhappiness with Clinton-Gore remains to be seen.

A small sidebar on this story is indicated in a survey of voters here on the South Plains conducted recently by Southwest Research Associates, headquartered in Lubbock. Voters were asked, without suggestions and without prompting, who they favored in the upcoming Presidential elections. The name of George W. Bush came up 64 percent of the time.

The other possibilities, including Gore, Bradley, Dole, Quayle; whoever, garnered a smattering of votes.

But the funny thing about the survey is that in another question, people were asked what their normal voting preferences were. Thirty-seven percent said they "mostly" preferred Republicans, while 32 percent said they usually voted Democratic. About 20 percent said they were undecided, didn't know, or wouldn't say. (The survey included voters in Floyd, Hale, Crosby, Lubbock, Garza, Hockley, Lamb, Lynn, and Terry counties.) That means, quite obviously, that an awful lot of "usual" Democrats are inclined, at this stage, to vote for the Republican Bush. The Governor, who received 260 "votes" of the 404 voters polled, even got 17 percent of his total vote from those who identified themselves as "Hispanic." (He got 74 percent of his total vote from those who identified themselves as "Anglo.") It probably should be noted, however, that Black voters stayed away from Bush in droves. Only 1.7 percent of his 260 votes came from those voters. Gore, on the other hand, got more than half his total from Hispanics and Blacks. Even so, Gore got only 6 percent of the 404 voters polled.

Put another way, Hispanics made up 24 percent of the total pool surveyed. Nearly half that 24 percent (47.5 percent) went to Bush. Black voters, on the other hand, made up only 4 percent (15 individuals) of the 404 sample. Bush got 24 percent of those 15 individual Black voters.

Forty-six percent of the Black voters said they were undecided or declined to voice a preference. The rest of the Black vote was divided between Al Gore and "others."

What does all this mean? Or, more precisely, what do we think it means? It means, apparently, that if Bush does not "stumble", he's got it made. Or should have it made. With 36 million dollars (and counting) in the bank, he will be able, or he should be able, to maintain his position as leader of the pack. Steve Forbes, with his own private wealth, will be able to go head to head with Bush, but at this stage Bush has vast support among key elements of the electorate. He will be able to define himself as he and his team wish him to be defined. And that is one critical factor in this race that has yet to be determined.

Just how does he wish to be defined?

The term "compassionate conservative" sounds good, and can hardly be argued with. Everybody is in favor of compassion, and most Americans, outside the national media and a few other elite groups, will define themselves as conservatives. But when the two words are lumped together and used to describe a political philosophy, we come up looking through the glass darkly.

Take the issue of immigration. Bush has, in the past, indicated this is an issue that does not concern him greatly. He has, in fact, spoken favorably of leniency insofar as "legal" immigration is concerned, and has not made a big issue, either, about illegal immigration. That may be a "compassionate" position to take, as far as immigrants are concerned, or as far as Silicon Valley or the National Association of Manufacturers is concerned, but would it be compassionate from the standpoint of those citizens who must pay the bills caused by an unrestricted flow of immigrants? Or from the standpoint of those whose jobs might go to lower paid immigrants? In other words, compassion toward whom?

This is just one example of the haze that surrounds the term "compassionate conservative." There are many others. We can hope that with more than $36 million in the bank, the Bush campaign staff, or maybe even the Governor himself, will fill in some of the blanks.

Lacey, Lindi, and Kenzie feel that this project has been very successful. There has been approximately $15,000 deposited into the savings bank in the past two school years. The three students won second place at region and first place at the state competition. Winning first at the state level enabled them to advance to the national competition with their presentation and received excellent scores earning them a gold medal.

During general sessions, youth sessions, and group events, members received information dealing with the dangers of teen violence, the organizations declining membership, and society's perception of FHA/HERO.

During the business session of the conference members from all states voted on a name change and dues increase of one dollar. The name change was heavily debated on both sides but two thirds of the states voted in favor of the change. The new name will be Families, Careers, and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA). The students feel that the name change will have a positive effect for the organization image.

LOCKNEY--Looks like we are into the "dog days of summer" and it seems my brain is getting fried. Anyway, I could not think of much to write so when I came across this the other day I decided it would give you something to think on.

"What We May Live Without"
We may live without poetry, music, and art;

We may live without conscience and without heart;

We may live without friends;

We may live without books;

But civilized man cannot live without cooks.

He may live without books - what is knowledge but grieving?

He may live without hope - what is hope but deceiving?

He may live without love - what is passion but pining?

But where is the man who can live without dining?

Alvarez and LaBaume united in marriage

Rosemary Alvarez and Coy Jeral LaBaume exchanged marriage vows during a 5:00 p.m. ceremony on Saturday, July 3, at the First United Methodist Church in Tullia. Trey Morgan, minister of the Central Church of Christ in Tullia, officiated the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Steve Alvarez of Tullia, and the late Oralia Alvarez, and Jon and Elaine LaBaume of Floydada. Grandparents of the groom are Ashel McDaniel of Silverton and Emma LaBaume of Stephenville.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white bridal satin with a sweetheart neckline accented with tiny pearls. The gown had a fitted bodice embellished with beaded lace and enhanced with crystal sequins, with sleeves that tapered to a point on her hands.

The gown was buttoned down the back with satin covered buttons. A border of lace embroidered with tiny seed pearls and sequins accented the cathedral-length train. Her tulle pouf veil accented with iridescent beads was attached to a pearl tiara. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, picic carnations, and baby's breath entwined with tulle.

In following tradition, the bride wore a blue lapel pin belonging to a family friend, Neoma Ozment. Something old was her mother's wedding band included in the bridal bouquet and the bride's tiara is the one her mother wore on her wedding day, December 28, 1957. Something new was the bride's wedding dress, purchased as a gift by her father. Something borrowed was a gold necklace with a pearl drop belonging to the bride's oldest sister, Cruz Jasso.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Sylvia Alvarez, sister of the bride, from Mesquite. Bridesmaids were Monica Moreno, niece of the bride from Mesquite, Rebecca Patton of Silverton, Judy Vega of Canyon, Alice Wilborn, sister of the bride from Amarillo, and Lucy Anzaldua of Tullia.

The bridesmaids were attired in royal blue bridal satin, full-length gowns with a sweetheart neckline and bow accenting the back made of blue silk organza. Each carried a bouquet with a large white rose surrounded with greenery and a royal blue silk organza bow.

Samantha Jasso and Evelyn Jasso, nieces of the bride from Pampa, served as candlelighters. They wore navy floral dresses. Serving as flower girls were Selena Moreno, niece of the bride from Tullia, and Kortni Lindley, cousin of the groom from Memphis. Serving as ring bearers was Breanna Wilborn, niece of the bride from Amarillo. They were all attired in white dresses.

The groom selected a black tuxedo with tails, a black vest with a design of royal blue and a black bow tie. The groomsmen, ushers and father of the bride were all dressed in black tuxedos with a royal blue cummerbund and bow tie.

Acting as best man was Nick Long of Floydada, and honorary best man was the groom's father, Jon LaBaume of Floydada. Other groomsmen were Charles Childre, brother-in-law of the groom from Allen, Charlie Schur of Knox City, Cary Wilborn, brother-in-law of the bride from Amarillo, and Jim Minton of Lubbock. Ushers were Rudy Alvarez of Lubbock and Ruben Alvarez of Amarillo, brothers of the bride.

The altar area was decorated with three brass candelabras entwined with white tulle and accented in the center of each with a large white rose and royal blue silk organza bow. The foyer of the church covered with a white battenburg cloth with framed photographs of the bride's mother and groom's grandparents entwined with white tulle and a candle lit for each.

A reception following the ceremony was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with a gathered, floor length white lace table cloth. The four tier cake was white vanilla with the bottom tier being four layer cakes surrounded with greenery and baby's breath. The bride and groom figuring on the third tier was the same one which topped the bride's parent's wedding cake. Pink punch was served from a silver punch bowl. The centerpiece of the table was a cut crystal vase that held the bridesmaid's bouquets and the bride's bouquet was placed in front of the vase. White lattice work intertwined with English ivy and white tulle bows formed the backdrop of the bride's table.

The groom's table had a royal blue and red plaid top cloth with a pleated royal blue skirt. A large chocolate cake topped with chocolate covered strawberries and an assortment of canned soft drinks were served. The centerpiece for the table was a corner doll, attired in the groom's Levi's and a western shirt given to him as a toddler from his granddad, Ashel McDaniel, peering into a pen of ceramic pigs. Also, the table had several pictures of the groom from his childhood.

Serving at the bride's table were Virgie Trevino and Mary Alvarez, cousins of the bride. Serving at the groom's table was Alison Ward. Serving in the houseparty were Jackie Bebout, Tara Eudy, Vickie Littlefield, Jessy Schur, Megan Schur, Molly Long, Melissa Long, and Sasha Alvarez and Stephanie Jasso, nieces of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will make their home in Plainview. The bride is employed by the Hale County Adult Probation Office. The groom attended Clarendon College and South Plains College and is employed by the Texas Department of Criminal Justice in Tullia.

Pre-nuptial courtesies extended to the couple were a bridal shower in the home of Betty Baker in Floydada and in the home of Yolanda Moreno, sister of the bride, in Tullia. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents in the fellowship hall of the church. A Texas-style bar-b-que, catered by the groom's mother, was served.

County commissioners purchase new TLETS system computer for the Sheriff's Department

By Darwin Robinson

The County Commissioners approved the purchase of a new state TLETS system computer for the Sheriff's Department.

"The new computer will take the place of the old computer system that is not Y2K compliant," Judge William Hardin told the commissioners.

Commissioner Lennie Gilroy made the motion to purchase the new Pentium-III computer from Glenn R. Gant of Crosbyton for $3,600.00. It was seconded by Commissioner Craig Gilly and unanimously approved.

"The price of the TLETS computer will be added into the Sheriff's Department budget next year," Judge Hardin said.

Austin Williams, dispatcher for the sheriff's office, told the Hesperian-Beacon, "The TLETS system gives us immediate access to license information, weather reports and other I.D.'s. It is also connected to the national network that links up with the Department of Public Safety and the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

In other business, three Floyd County veterans were named by the commissioners to the Texas Veterans Land Board County Committee.

Gilroy made the motion to appoint Floyd County veterans James Williams, Paul Teuton and Royce Gilmore to the board for one year. Gilly made the second and it was unanimously approved.

One farm work contract was approved in Precinct No. 3 for the construction of a ranch road to a house 25 miles Northeast of Floydada.

Commissioner Jon Jones made the motion to approve an official bond for Mandy Emert, an employee in the County Tax Office. It was seconded by Commissioner Ray Nell Bearden and unanimously approved.

The certification of the 1999 County Appraisal Roll was also unanimously approved by the commissioners. The motion was made by Gilroy and seconded by Bearden.

Jones made the motion to accept the recommended Election Judges and Alternates presented by County Clerk Marilyn Holcomb. It was seconded by Gilroy and unanimously approved.

The list consisted of: Precinct No. 1, Judge Patty Probasco, Alternate Drew Ann Lloyd; Precinct No. 5, Judge Herman Graham; Precinct No. 7, Judge Judy Macha, Alternate Mary Turner; Precinct No. 9, Judge Ernest Stewart, Jr., Alternate Mamie Wood; Precinct No. 11, Judge J.A. Two items on the commissioner's agenda were passed over until a Special Announced Meeting on Thursday, July 15th, at 2:00 P.M.

They were: (1) a request by the Lockney Housing Development to waive $3,527.00 of 1999 taxes to be used toward maintenance expenses, and (2) to adopt a .25% increase change to the Texas County and District Retirement System, which will cost the county about $1,400.00 more per month.

Other items on the Thursday agenda include: open bids for the sale of surplus equipment and a budget workshop for County Department Heads.

County Treasurer Mary Shurbet read three reports to the commissioners. They were a quarterly report from April 1 to June 30, 1999, a monthly report from June 1 to June 30, 1999 and a quarterly investment report from April 1 to June 30, 1999.

Plains Cotton Growers need assistance

By Shawn Wade

Plains Cotton Growers officials have been busy communicating the drastic nature of the current agricultural crisis to legislators and congressional aides in Washington as High Plains producers try to manage their way through a complex set of circumstances which has flooded commodity prices and demand for U.S. agricultural products worldwide.

PCG officials have noted that while cotton isn't the only commodity that faces a serious problem, their membership continues to voice the need for immediate action on several key issues. With market prices expected to decline further producers will need every advantage they can gather to offset their production costs.

PCG is advocating action on several items. The first is the immediate funding of the Step 2 marketing program to encourage the sale of cotton instead of having it entered and possible forfeit to the marketing loan program.

The second item being discussed is the detrimental impact payment limitations for Loan Deficiency Payment (LDP)/Marketing Loan Gains have on producers ability to realize a minimum effective price for their commodity. PCG is encouraging the implementation of changes allowing a producer to receive LDP payments on their entire production instead of being limited to LDP's up to a predetermined amount which often leaves a producer unprotected on a significant portion of their production.

Lastly, PCG notes that despite the immediate implementation of these important reforms it will also be necessary for Congress to consider some type of monetary support in the form of supplemental Ag Market Transition Act (AMTA) payments or some other type of economic disaster assistance program.

House Ag Committee Chairman Larry Combest has responded that he will continue to seek all avenues of support to help producers get through this difficult time. He has repeatedly noted that timing will be critical in the effort to obtain meaningful support for agriculture that will meet the critical need that exists.

Combest presents FCIC reform proposal

By Shawn Wade

House Agriculture Committee Chairman Larry Combest of Lubbock presented "Phase One" of his Federal Crop Insurance reform agenda to commodity organization representatives at a meeting held July 8 in Lubbock.

Combest plan was well received and addressed a majority of the problem areas within the current program. Combest noted that he hoped that "Phase One" of his reform plan will be finalized and passed by Congress in time for implementation during the 2000 crop year.

"Phase Two" of Combest's reform agenda will take longer and involve what he calls a fundamental reworking of the entire crop insurance program.

Impetus for the short-term reform plan comes from the addition of some $6-6.5 Billion in additional funding for crop insurance that resulted from the work of Chairman Combest and Congressman Charles Stenholm of Stamford.

The centerpiece of Combest's plan is an increase in subsidy levels for all levels of insurance coverage. Combest noted that his overall goal was to address the primary frustration of producers who need higher levels of coverage at prices they can afford.

The bulk of the money being considered in the Combest plan would be used to increase premium subsidy levels by thirty percent or more. He explained that overall subsidies would be increased to levels above the effective subsidy rates for the 1999 crop year that were the result of the infusion of the 1998 Disaster Assistance funds.

Combest noted that his isn't the only proposal being considered and that other ideas will be looked at as the Bill is completed so that the final package will provide producers with a product that offers better protection at more affordable rates.

World Trade Organization is very important to U.S. cotton growers

By Shawn Wade

Cotton producers and allied industry people need to stay abreast of the progress of activities by the World Trade Organization as negotiations begin for the development of new rules to govern international trade.

Cotton, and the rest of U.S. agriculture, has a big stake in these negotiations as they will help shape the future boundaries of the international marketplace.

Among the key points of interest to cotton are: Development of rules regarding the downstream subsidization of cotton and textile production in countries that compete directly with U.S. products; Development of science-based rules for trade in genetically altered agricultural commodities; Development of science-based rules for trade in genetically altered agricultural commodities; Developing increased market access in other countries for U.S. goods and raw materials; and, the fact that negotiations for China's accession as a WTO member have not been completed so as to be able to hold that country to a uniform set of trading rules and regulations.

Trinity Lutheran Church hosts day camp

Trinity Lutheran Church of the Providence Community hosted a Christian Day camp for 60 area children last week. The camp was extended to the children of Floyd and Hale County due to the generous donation of funds made available by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bilbruck.

The camp was led by five college students from the Briarwood ministries with the assistance of six local youth counselors.

The college students are pursuing degrees in Veterinarian medicine, education, psychology, etc. and are conducting day camps from different locations each week during the summer.

One of the college students is a foreign exchange student with World Camping Ministries. He is here from Tanzania and is fluent in four languages including his native Swahili. The children in his group really enjoyed their opportunity to learn about the customs and language of Africa, along with their Christian camping experience.

The children enjoyed Bible study, songs, and crafts. Each camper had the opportunity to tie-dye the camp t-shirt and wear it to the closing ceremony on Friday.

The camp was kicked off on Sunday night with an old fashioned ice cream social and concluded with a water-day of swimming and slip-slide fun.

Thursday the staff was honored with the attendance of five of the Lutheran pastors of the Lubbock, Clovis, and South Plains area, who chose to have the monthly pastor's meeting in conjunction with the Day Camp.

Many of the women of the congregation of Trinity worked under the direction of Mrs. Thelma Boedeker to provide two snacks, lunch, and many water breaks for the children and staff. The campers and staff have Reverend Caryl Miller to thank for bringing this concept of the Christian Day Camp experience to Trinity and the area.

47th annual McCoy Community reunion

By Flora Day McNeil
Marking the 47th reunion of McCoy Community and surrounding areas, a beautiful day was enjoyed by 30 persons spending time in hugging each other upon their arrival at Lighthouse Electric in Floydada.

Cameras were repeatedly flashing all during the day from the first greetings until the end of a perfect affair. The history books of all these years were also shared. Those present were able to review the happenings and the attendance of the many former residents of the area. Many, many listed are no longer with us due to moving away or death.

Much time was spent in looking at the many pictures and identifying them in order that the chairman could compile them in a proper album. All this was made possible thru a generous gift from Bob Harless and others.

The group voted to have the reunion next year on July 9, 2000 with Flora McNeil and Carolyn Jackson as chairman and co-chairman respectively. The chairman presented the idea of making copies of the copy from the Hesperian-Beacon and send to everyone next year instead of the usual invitation. This was approved by those present who were as follows: Mava Peterson of Lovington, New Mexico, Elaine Culpepper Wilson, H.G. and Bennie Ruth Jackson Sprawls, John and Nancy Warren, Georgia Pittman Stark, Thurban Thacker, Faye Allen and Charles Hulsey all of Lubbock; Bill and Jean Warren of Amarillo; Carolyn N. Davis of Petersburg; Bob Harless of Sanger; Carolyn Jackson of Lockney; James and Ann Lou Payne Sinclair and Pat Rendon of Plainview; Jim Wilson of Edmondson.

Those present from Floydada were: Margaret Holmes, E.M. and Faye Jackson, Dub and Betty Threadgill and Katie, Marie Tardy, Roger and Bo Dean Pate Poage, LaNell Tardy, Lewis Lloyd and Flora Day McNeil.

During the meeting Flora McNeil read over "Memories from the McCoy Area" which had been sent to her by reunion participants.

Betty Griggs Deaver says, "I remember: the gin and hearing its whistle early in the morning and getting to go through the gin a time or two."

"I remember: the school building is pretty clear in my mind. The big stove in the corner to keep us warm with all classes meeting in two rooms and the big room where we had programs, a stage and curtains, etc."

"I remember: the teacher's living quarters in the school and the "big snow blizzard" when we had to spend the night at school with all six girls sleeping in Miss Pittman's bed!"

"I remember: the church and learning about God, accepting Christ there and being baptized in an irrigation "holding pond" at Leonard Smith's. I remember the many friends and neighbors, the best memories of them all, and the Saturday nights when the Days or Cummings would come to listen to "Grand Old Opry" and play 42."

Dorothy Brock Hansen writes that, "I remember: the fond memories of living in the McCoy community and attending school there and the three teachers. The ones I remember the best were Mildred Raley, Helen McKinney, and Thelma Kinnard. I remember: that Miss Rally also gave me music lessons."

Former teachers, Dock and Winnie Staples write, "I remember: our softball team made up of boys from 7th down to 2nd grade. We loaded our 35 Ford coupe and Miss Violet Pittman got the rest into her 38 Chevrolet."

"I remember: we won lots of ball games among the other two teacher schools but we always lost to Dougherty-the only school with three teachers. Our third and last year at McCoy, 1940-1941, we got the jump on Dougherty the 1st inning but they slowly and surely gained on us until the last inning."

"I remember: they got to bat last. We were one score ahead, with two outs and two players on base. A big Dougherty boy hit a long drive to right field where our new player and poor catcher, ran to try to catch the high fly. I was afraid to look-but I did. He caught it and we won the game by one score! Everybody from McCoy was hollering and laughing and hugging each other. I remember Leonard Smith hugging me!

"I remember: Winnie made McCoy Midget sweat shirts for all the players. They cost a dollar and she cut and sewed a big "M" on the front."

Excerpts from a document for her grandchildren, written by Elaine Culpepper Wilson, said, "I remember: in the summer time we brushed our teeth outside, using a mixture of salt and baking soda. It tasted awful. Baths were in a #3 wash tub, using a bucket of cold water and a kettle of hot water heated on the kitchen stove. In the winter time, baths were almost always done in the warm kitchen."

"I remember: riding my horse to school. We wore overalls over our dresses and had to take the overalls off during the day. There was a "stable" on the northeast corner of the campus, just beyond the windmill."

"I remember: we had lots of three-act-plays, both by the school kids and the grown-ups. I remember the free sample packages of Kleenex and Lifebuoy soap. They must have visited our school."

"I remember: recess was fun. Totally unorganized except for baseball, with kids free to be kids. We jumped rope and played jacks. There were many kids' games like Red Rover, Hide and Seek, King of the Hill, Kick the Can (Don't you know our mother's hated that game?), Flying Dutchman, Drop the Handkerchief and inside games like I Spy, Hull Gull, Poor Kitty and on and on."

"I remember: quiltings held in the homes. Most homes had quilting frames that could be attached to the ceiling and let down when it was quilting time. I remember that parents would often let kids take eggs to "the store" and trade for a sweet treat."

"I remember: canning food was a chore in the summer, but often neighbors shared this job, and it was more pleasant when we traded out like this. I remember few people wore hand-me-downs because each person wore out what they had. Our general motto for those days (and I think it is a pretty good one for today) was: Use it up; Wear it out; Make it do; Do without."

It is fun and enlightening "to remember" and it is too bad that everyone does not have the opportunity to remember these types of experiences even for a short time-I believe that their outlook on life and reality would be a great deal different!

In thinking about all these facts, I would like very much to dedicate all these times we have remembered to those whom we have passed on during this past year. In remembering the funny things, may it remind us of the happy times we had with our loved ones. If I have omitted anyone in the surrounding area, please help me and add their names to our list.
