

THE BROUGHTON FARM TURNS OUT GOOD SYRUP

All Hands and the Cook Are Now Busy Out on That Farm in Putting Up Eatables For the Winter. All Farm Crops Of this Section Produced Abundantly

Well, they are at it on the Dave Broughton farm again. That is, they are at the old late summer and fall trade of turning out good old Terry county licks, better known as country sorghum. Just why "country sorghum" we are not prepared to say, for we never heard of any being made in cities. Anyway, they are making them out in the country here in Terry which are as good and sweet as one ever saw.

Sorghum is good for the human family. They would be better off if they would eat less meats and beans, especially dried beans, and more sorghum syrup with good old country butter stirred there in, and the concoction then spread with the knife upon the surface of a hot biscuit and eaten with some gusto. Sorghum molasses have that essential called vitamins by us moderns, as well as a host of sugar which some of the ladies now avoid, but they do not contain enough of the later to be real fattening. They just put one in good order. If molasses have ever hurt anyone, it was an over indulgence at the making vat while they were hot and no bread and butter to mix therewith.

Richard Castleberry of the Broughton farms was in the past week with a supply of these molasses or those molasses, and kindly left a bucket with the Herald, knowing that we were unable to buy and pay cash, for which we thank him. We have seen lots of molasses, but none of a better quality. True, we have seen some as bright before and just as pretty and shiny to the eye, but to the taste, none better. Nothing strong about them, but a flavor par excellence. Richard informed us that the Broughton farm would make in the neighborhood of 1000 gallons, and so well pleased were they that he ordered 1000 labels to put on each gallon can, and they will be sold for a dollar a bucket. Well, a thousand dollars worth of molasses from one farm is not half bad in this day.

Richard informed us that Ben Broughton was helping them, and that he acknowledged that no better syrup had ever been made by the Broughton brothers here or back east. They were fearful that they would not be good this year or turn off much, as the latter part of the summer was so dry, but he says the turnout is fooling them. In fact, the water in cane does not count anyway, for that must come out to the last drop in the evaporation, or they would spoil. It is the syrup and sugar that remains after all, and cane seems to contain just as much of that element of dry years as any other year.

If you are fond of good country sorghum, drive out to Dave Broughton, 7 miles north of town some afternoon late, and get a can or two.

Terry County Banks In Splendid Condition

We are pleased to call your attention to the condition of the three Terry county banks in this issue. Give them a close perusal, and remember that the peak of loans has been passed, and from this on they will be gradually reduced, while the deposits will mount. The loans have not run high any part of the year, in comparison with many banks in west Texas. In fact, we suppose that it has taken less than 125,000 to make this crop, and the rest of the loans are old ones, or with business men in the towns.

We have heard it estimated that it would take but $5.00 from each bale of cotton produced in the county to liquidate all the farmers owe for making this crop, and the rest of the amount of each bale can be spent in liquidating other debts, land notes, etc. Some will of course have to be laid aside for taxes and other matters, which will have to be met. But at the wind up, Terry will be found to be in very good condition. The peak of deposits will probably not be reached until Christmas, possible not until late in Jan. or Feb. when the corn begins to roll in.

It is true that cotton is not bringing as much as last year, but with 30c ginning instead of 40c, and picking about half what it was last year, the farmer is getting almost as much clear money as he did last year out of his cotton, and he will, we believe get much more out of his feed than last year. True, the cotton picker will not have as much to spend as last year, but a lot of cotton picking money finally leaves the county anyway. Just what they need while here is all that is spent here unless they are home people.

Rev. E. V. May Trains At Ft. Sam Houston

Rev. E. V. May spent quite some time this summer after his revival meetings were over at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, where he took some lessons as army chaplain, and upon returning, he informed us that he had somewhat considered entering the service, as there was an opening at present down there, and he had every reason to believe he could pass the examination.

There are some things as army chaplain, says Rev. May that is attractive to a young minister. There is good and sure pay, and the work is not hard, but at times one will get up against matters that is not so attractive. The army is not so rigid on what one preaches, but at times it requires a great deal of diplomacy to get by and satisfy one's own conscience as well as the satisfaction of the one they wish to help.

He is yet undecided whether he will take this work, or go back into local work somewhere.

A Missionary From China to Speak Here

At the First Presbyterian Church there will be a missionary from China on October 13th. Please announce that the entire community is welcome to this unusual opportunity. The hour has been changed from 2:30 to 4:00 P. M. so that school-children can avail themselves of this privilege.

The meeting will be held at the Presbyterian Church. We have such few opportunities to hear active missionaries, that the entire community ought to turn out for this address.

The descendant of a family that has given uninterrupted missionary service in China for nearly one hundred years, will speak in First (Brownfield) Presbyterian Church, Monday, October 13th at 4:00 P. M. He is the Rev. Wilnot D. Boone, Presbyterian missionary at Tsinan, China.

Mr. Boone is engaged in city evangelistic work in Tsinan. He is especially interested in the student group, although he is in actual contact with people of all classes. During the absence of other missionaries, Mr. Boone has twice served as acting principal of the Hamilton Memorial Academy (a high school for boys.) He is also treasurer of the mission station.

While life has been harder for the vast majority of the Chinese people by the turmoil of recent years—war, banditry and famine—yet these people are plodding on their ancient way, sowing and reaping, buying and selling, marrying and giving in marriage.

During recent military maneuvers in Shantung Province, which included the occupation of Tsinan by Japanese troops for a time, Mr. Boone stayed in Tsinan. For a considerable period he was the only missionary of the Tsinan Station in the city, with the exception of members of the Shantung Christian University faculty across the city. His long familiarity with China enables him to present the present situation in a sympathetic and constructive manner.

A. L. Walker Buys a Six Section Ranch

A. L. Walker, formerly of Terry county, recently purchased the Arthur Stearns ranch property of five or six sections of land to the southwest of Spur twelve miles and has moved with his family to the ranch.

In the deal, the consideration not being given, Arthur Stearns acquired other ranch property on the Plains, to which he and family have moved.

The Stearns ranch is one of the finest and most desirable small ranch properties now remaining in the country.—Texas Spur.

Amarillo Editor Endorses New Railroad

The recent announcement of the Texas and Pacific railroad that it was disposed to build three hundred and thirty-three miles of new track in the Panhandle has struck a popular chord in far-away places. It is said that even President Hoover has taken the trouble to endorse the project—in the interests, of course, of the unemployed, and Governor Moody has recommended that the Interstate Commerce Commission give the application favorable consideration. While the proposition came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky and nobody was looking for it, the people of this section didn't lose a minute in getting busy. Towns all along the proposed line are arranging to get the right of way and have appointed committees to appear before the Commission when the application is heard. The railroad company declares its intention to begin work at once, if allowed to build and it would appear that it has chosen a very auspicious time to ask for a permit, so far as favorable consideration of the project is concerned. Moreover, the fact that a big railroad company like the Texas and Pacific has such faith in the Panhandle region that it is willing—even anxious—to invest some thirteen million dollars in construction work, should make the calamity howlers ashamed of themselves. Every railroad in this section has been building more trackage for the past five years and they are not doing it for fun nor for their health. While the new line will be opposed by the three systems which are already here, it will serve virgin territory in a large measure. All of the counties on the west side of the Panhandle have little or no rail-transportation and it has seemed for years, that the Santa Fe would build from Friona or Muleshoe, or even Seagraves or that the Rock Island would extend its line south from Dalhart but if the T. & P. be allowed, to build, that will give these counties north and south outlets, Texas and Pacific officials have given their assurance that their main trunk line will be brought into Amarillo and this city's importance as a shipping center precludes the indulgence of the idea that any railroad would build so close as Vega and not come here. Nevertheless, should the line not build into Amarillo, this city could not afford to actively oppose its construction. It means too much to the development of this section and certainly, Amarillo is not going to put any obstacle in the path of progress of any portion of this area. Lubbock also, will be served by an extension of the proposed road from some convenient point on the route which taps the main line of the T. & P. at Big Spring and will pass through Lamesa, Brownfield, Littlefield, and Dimmitt with Vega as its terminal.—Southwest Plainsman.

Terry County Receives Seasonable Showers

Most of the past week was anything and everything else but crop gathering weather, and little progress was made in getting out the crop. Most of the mornings were wet foggy and disagreeable, but it seemed to have ended Sunday night with a blowing, cold rain from the north. While Monday of this week was mostly cloudy, Tuesday morning opened up with a clear sky and the wind in the southwest, which gives promise of some fair weather for awhile at least. The rain all told amounted to nearly an inch.

While the rains hindered gathering, it has put life into grass, and will greatly stimulate winter pastures if frost stays off for awhile. It has also put down the dust menace for awhile which will be an aid to health. Some looked for a little frost Monday night, but if there was any, it was only in low places, as we have had no complaints of anything being killed or in any way hurt from that source. Cattle are still doing good, and with a better winter pasture, they will likely go until winter without any feed save natural pastures.

The Herald is glad that most of west Texas dry belt has received seasonable rains in order that they will be able to provide winter pastures for their starving herds.

Big Grocery Deal Closed Here Saturday

One of the biggest grocery deals in the history of the city was consummated last Saturday when the local M System became the purchaser of the Helpy-Selfy, which belongs to W. R. Lovelace. We did not learn the consideration, but understand it was a cash deal. The new management will take charge of the Helpy-Selfy next Tuesday, we understand.

Mr. Lovelace has always enjoyed a good business here, but he has always been a more or less outdoors man, buying cattle and hogs, and Mrs. Lovelace has had to do most of the store managing. For some time they have had their business on the market in a quite way in order to take work and worry off Mrs. Lovelace.

"The M" System here is owned principally, we understand by Davis & Humphries of Lubbock, although local people have stock in the store. It is our understanding that the Helpy-Selfy will still be conducted at the old stand as store No. 2 of the "M" System here, the latter of which has always been a very popular place to trade. The Herald hopes that Mr. and Mrs. Lovelace will continue to make this their home.

McSpadden Gin in Fine Condition For Season

While not an old gin as gins go in Terry county, the Harrison-McSpadden in this city has almost been made anew this summer, and will enter the season as a first class up to the minute plant. Indeed, it is one of the newest plants in the city, having only run some six seasons. But this year, the stands have all been put in anew with the very latest manufacturers have in stock. That it, the saws and brushes and all vital parts that go to make up a first class gin, have been put in brand new during the summer, and are in tip top shape for the season.

The writer was shown the working part of their big Lokey cleaner, which is some 20 feet long, and which upon a hurried examination might look complicated, but upon close examination, is quite simple, and a child can understand why it picks all the cotton from the burs and leaves a clean sample of cotton to reach the gin stands. An sugar shaped conveyor brings the cotton into the cleaner or burrying machine, where the bolls come in contact with a big roller full of spikes the size of a 40 penny nail. This in turn forces the burs up against a steel outfit which also turns that has sharp spurs not unlike old fashioned potato graters. This takes all the lint over, but does not permit the passage of the burs, sticks or stones. On the other side of this picker is the brushes that takes the cotton from it and sends it helter skelter to the gin stand in the form of nicely clean cotton, with the fiber unharmed. The conveyor takes the burs on out toward the boiler room where they are used to produce steam. They are cleaner when they emerge than if they were hand picked.

They are also buying maize at this gin, which they consign to the Sweetwater Grain Co. Mr. McSpadden informed us that as soon as the first car was shipped down there and worked up, they would then get a real market price on this product. They were paying $16 for maize Saturday and getting quite a lot of it but it appeared to be very green yet.

Business Men Advise Joining the Co-ops

Bankers and business men of Brownfield are advising the farmers to send their cotton through Texas Cotton Co-operative Association, which leaders say "is something that never happened before in the history of the co-operative movement in this section." A large number of farmers are already shipping their cotton the Association, and what we would like to see every cotton grower of Terry County sign the New Contract and ship at least half of their cotton to the Texas Cotton Co-operative Association. This office is open to every farmer and business man in Terry, Yoakum, and Gaines County.

Dock Powell has been on the lift for several days, and like poor cattle, had to be tailed up by his friends for a few days last week. We are glad to report him improving.

SOME BEAUTIFUL WINDOW DISPLAYS IN BROWNFIELD

It Takes an Artist to Decorate Them, and a Lazy Merchant Takes No Pride in Displays. Lessons Learned Away Are Put in Practice in the Home Town.

There never was we believe a town in the country of the size of Brownfield where the merchants took more pride in their window displays than right here in the city of Brownfield. Indeed, many of them compare very favorably with the best in the larger cities size of windows considered. This shows a marked pride, and has had its effect on making Brownfield one of the best small town trading points in this section of the state. People these days don't want to go to a town to do their trading in which the merchants are grouchy and careless and indifferent. They want to feel at home when they enter a place to do business.

The time is passed when one shops in the bantering and bargaining style of the olden days. Then it was that the customer believed the merchant was after his goat and he in self defense had to banter and counter banter to get even. Now most all merchants worthy the name have one price for all, and the school children can go in and do just as well trading as any adult member of the family. And no merchant worthy the name is going to palm off old shop worn stuff on children or the feeble minded these days any more than they will the best and most highly respected individual of the community.

Window displays these days are an art to be studied, and the small town merchants and their clerks make this a prime study when they go off to market to see how the experts in the large cities who are paid high salaries to trim the windows, do the job. Returning home, the new goods are made to grace the windows of the store, and are changed every few days in order that a goodly sample of the whole line can be shown the passer by.

While window decorations are good, they generally fall flat without the more important aid,—advertising. Advertising goes out in the byways and highways and creates a desire for goods in the minds of prospective purchasers, and when they arrive in town, the beautiful windows further entice them into the store where the shopping can be consummated. Therefore, let the merchants of Brownfield remember this, and back up their window displays with some real invitations to visit their store. It will pay you.

Dad Tudor is Bruised When Car is Ditched

Dad Tudor was rather badly skinned, bruised and otherwise hurt last Friday morning while going out to the farm 12 miles south of the city to carry two Mexican cotton pickers. He had gotten out some four miles south of town and reached the high grade, which had become soft with rain. He explained that he got out to near the edge of the road which was soft and crumbly, and that his car went into a deep ditch.

The next thing he knew, he said the Mexicans were trying to extract him from the wreckage, but his legs were so mixed up with the stirring apparatus that he asked them to wait until he got his legs untangled. His neck seemed to have been quite strained, and was bothering him quite a bit Saturday. Indeed, Dad looked rather patched up when local physicians got through dressing his many wounds. The car was not badly hurt, we understand, not the Mexicans, as they had a nice soft place to fall on Dad.

While very sore Saturday, Dad still had a grin on his face and he was joking about the matter.

C. of C. Secretary Says Fair a Good Average

The County Fair is over and while not up to expectations in some departments, was after all above an average in activity. It was especially good in the agricultural and dairy cattle exhibits. As stated in the Herald of last week the 4-H community exhibits were high class and the writer takes this method of expressing his appreciation of the different exhibiting clubs and to the county president for his active assistance in promoting interest in the affair. Earnest appreciation is also expressed to all other exhibitors and to superintendents of various divisions. The fact that we had no county agent, placed double responsibility on the shoulders of the secretary and he really feels that everything taken into consideration that the County Fair was pretty well put over. No premiums have been paid, as the writer has been engaged in activities concerned with the new railway connection, but hopes to have the records in such condition as will enable payments of premiums to begin within the next few days. If you don't get your prize money as soon as expected, don't get uneasy, it may be delayed but it will finally reach you.

Nothing Made With Rodeo Says Moreman

In conversation with Roy Moreman, who had charge of the rodeo during the recent Terry county fair, he informed us that he came out at the little end of the horn. He gave no reason, but intimated that money was scarce with people, and perhaps they were too busy with gathering their crops to attend anything much. We might also suggest that as the rodeo had to be held so far from town, might have had something to do with the attendance.

To say the least of it, no fair so far that we have heard of this year had the attendance of last year, or any recent year. In fact, most of them, if not all have lost money this year. This was true of the Abilene, Lubbock and Amarillo fairs, we are told, so we could not expect that a county fair with free admission and depending on donations of the business men could succeed much. But we are all looking for better times when the people will all have a big grin on their faces and yell for the cowboy to ride 'em.

City Putting in Three New Light Standards

Three new light standards are being put in this week by Eunice Jones and workmen, all of which will grace the south side of the square, and make that portion of the city look 50 percent better. He says he asked for several others, but that was all the city council could grant at this time.

Brownfield with some 80 or 90 lights out in the residence section, is now probably one of the best lighted cities of its size in this section of the state. There are some 25 or 30 ornamental light standards in the business section. We understand that some five or six traffic lights will be put in the business section some time in the near future, which will add to the attractiveness as well as the safety of motorists.

Brownfield Postoffice Shows Good Gains

Postal receipts for the past three quarters of 1930, shows a gain over 1929 for the same period of time, according to postmaster, J. H. Carpenter:

June Quarter 1930 $2774.78
September Quarter 1930 $2665.36

This is a gain of $980.03, over the same period of 1929.

Some Pitiabie Stories Come From Dry Belt

The Herald meets up with some one most every day who has a tale of misfortune from the dry belt in central and western Texas where a failure of crops have stood like scare crows over them for the past three years. Sometimes one wonders if the situation is not a bit over drawn, but again, when one hears it from the lips of serious minded men and women, as well as from the press of that section, it makes an impress on the mind as if one were in a horrible night mare.

There was a young man at one of the gin plants last Saturday. He was reasonably well dress, and an intelligent and seemingly well educated farmer. He asked about the delivery of a car of dry maize. He was informed that it would be almost next to impossible to find a car of dry maize at this time, as it was all still green, but later on they would have plenty for him. After a further short conversation with the maize dealer concerning a future delivery, we engaged him in conversation.

He and his father, he said farmed more than 400 acres in Nolan county, and this, he said was the third straight failure. If we understood him aright, year before last they made some 20 bales of cotton and about seven tons of maize. Last year they got seven bales of cotton and three or four tons of maize. This year they will get seven bales of cotton, and not a grain of maize.

Mr. McSpadden informed us that his partner, Mr. Harrison made some 400 bales of 4000 acres in Jones county three years ago, about three hundred last year and will get less than 200 bales this year. He sold 93 head of work mules for $30 around on credit. They would have brought him on $20 each cash. Mr. Harrison says he knows good farmers who have good farms paid for that are off this year picking cotton to buy food and winter clothing with this year.

This is enough to put shame to every citizen of Terry county who has been crying hard times. We don't know what the word really mean, and should close up for awhile.

2000 DUCKS DIE FROM POISON

O. D. Cardwell, game warden of this district, who resides at Post, and S. D. Turner of the Amarillo district were in Ralls again this week looking into the 'dead duck' proposition. They report that examination of the dead ducks by chemists and others reveal that the ducks have been poisoned through disease contaminating the waters of the lakes in the Cone and Farmer communities brought about by people throwing dead chickens and turkeys in the lakes when they were dry or in the bar pits and the hard rains washed them into the lakes.

Messrs. Cardwell and Turner have gathered and burned two thousand ducks in these communities. They urge that the farmers burn all fowls that die of disease instead of 'dumping' them in the lakes and bar-pits. They say that this should be done as a safeguard to health as well as the pollution of the lakes.

Let's cooperate with the game wardens in this respect, folks, and clear up the lakes of pollution as well as ridding our own premises of disease dangers.—Rall Banner.

GONE ARE THE DAYS OF ITS USEFULNESS

But Old Besty Ann has been a mighty faithful car. For two whole years she has suffered untold agonies for my pleasure (sniff, sniff). But now it does seem that she is bound for the place where all good cars go—to the second-hand market. But before she departs from her earthly worries, I am going to dedicate a little song to her memory, to be sung to the tune of "America." (You've heard that song haven't you?) Here it is:

My auto, tis of thee, short cut to poverty, of thee I chant, I blew in a pile of dough, on you two years ago, now you refuse to go, or won't or can't. Thru town and countryside, you were my joy and pride, one happy day. I love thy gaudy hue, thy radiator cap so new, now down and our for true, in every way, To thee old rattle box, came many bumps and knocks, for thee I grieve. Badly thy top is torn, frayed are thy seats and worn, a cough effects thy horn. I do believe. Thy perfume swells the breeze, while good folks choke and sneeze, as we pass by. Thy motor has the flu, thy spark plugs missing too, thy windshield has turned to blue, and so have I. Gone is my bank roll now, no more 'twould choke a cow, as once before. Yet if I had the "mon", you just bet your life son, I would buy a new car and have more fun. Amen.—Floydada Hesperian.

Tremendous Power from the Wind

THE Aermotor Co. is now making a self-oiling windmill 20 feet in diameter. If you have a well 1000 feet deep, or if you want to raise a large quantity of water from a shallower well, this is the windmill you need. This new Auto-Oiled Aermotor weighs nearly 2 1/2 tons without the tower. It is a giant for power.

Whatever your water requirements may be there is an Auto-Oiled Aermotor of the right size for the work. They are made from 6 feet to 20 feet in diameter. Use the smaller sizes for the shallow wells and the larger ones for the deep wells or large quantities of water. Our tables, sent upon request, tell you just what each size will do.

The Improved Auto-Oiled Aermotor, the genuine self-oiling windmill, is the most economical and the most reliable device for pumping water. It works every day and will last a lifetime. Every size of Auto-Oiled Aermotor has double gears running in oil. All moving parts are fully and constantly oiled. One oiling a year is all that is required.

The Auto-Oiled Aermotor is made by the company which originated the steel windmill business. For full information write AERMOTOR CO. 2500 Roosevelt Rd. CHICAGO Branch Houses: Dallas - Des Moines - Oakland - Kansas City - Minneapolis

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Alexander Drug Co.

Swat all the amendments say Jim Ferguson, and he says this in a spirit of jealousy and hate more than from any reason that he gives. To swat the one in which a number of West Texas counties ask to be allowed to tax University land in their counties is a grave injustice to these counties. In some of them, 27 percent of their taxable lands are owned by the State University, and they get not one penny tax from these lands at present. We followed Jim in the last primary, but here we balk.

Sir Thomas Lipton is an old man, but he is still a sport and is asking no recognition except what comes to him on merit. He lost the American cup for the fifth time this year, and at first announced that he would never contest for the cup again. Thinking to please him, Will Rogers and other American citizens begin raising funds to buy Sir Thomas a cup. This seems to have peeved his sporting blood, and now he says he will come back to America next year and try to raise the cup. Bah! for him.

There ought to be a law. We Americans have gotten so in the habit of saying "there ought to be a law" that we are burdened with laws and laws now until we violate a lot of them every day that we know nothing about. Now comes the agitation to reduce the cotton acreage by law, and the next thing we know, the legislature will try to control our eating and sleeping hours and our general conduct. The American people are already too much legislated. Besides no such law would do any good in Texas unless adopted by all other cotton states.

Old King Cotton is no longer the king in Terry county, or for that matter most of the south. King Cotton is dead! Long live Diversification. The old king has been highly respected and tolerated for more than a century in the south, but this autocratic reign is at an end. He was put out in Terry county two or three years ago. In fact, he never has had a great hold on the people of Terry county, for this is a diversifier's paradise. For several years past, more money had been made out of the feed crops than the cotton crops, and here we go again.

There is absolutely nothing the matter with Terry county, and you can write this home to the folks if you wish. We are making a good cotton crop, and will get almost as much out of it as we did last year, as it is being ginned and picked for less. We are all getting about all we want to eat, more perhaps than most of us really need. We have good health, good neighbors and good land to work. Good churches and good minister to preach to us. Fine schools and good teachers. What else do we need? We also have excellent corn and maize crops. Sometimes we get rather sore at our government the way it acts on certain things, but we perhaps find later that they were right and we regret that we have been too hasty. But just why it is that our government has no funds to help the drouth stricken people of the country, but had 20 million dollars to rush to Havana, Cuba to stop a bank run, is hard for us "lay" citizens to figure out. Of course, it is understood that the 20 million dollars rushed to Havana by airplane is to be paid back. Also, we might say that the drouth areas are not asking for charity. They want to borrow some money to tide them over until they make a crop.

The Lovington, N. M. Leader in its last issue expresses some fear that the cheap price of crude oil will tend to stop oil development in that section. This may prove true for awhile, but we have never seen cheap crude remain that way long at a time. It is there in the wells, and by cutting production, the demand for it will come again before we really expect it perhaps. The same is applicable to cotton. We have seen it go to the bottom many times but something happens in a few years to put it up. If we were a speculator and had some money we did not need, we would buy just as much of this nine and ten cent cotton as we could handle, build a shed over it and ring the bell with it inside of two years.

The Lions' Clubs of the United States are now carrying on a campaign to break the buyers strike of the country. This organization claims that if people would begin in the next week or two to make normal fall purchases, the depression would be over in two weeks time. This idea, they say, would start up full time employment in factories, store would begin to buy more, and the unemployed would have more money to spend for products of the farm, and in just a few weeks, we would forget the depression. They claim that there is a nation wide buyers' strike, not organized to be sure, but a strike just the same. In other words, the Lions Clubs claim that the people in general have just lost their nerves temporarily, and if the ball of buying is started to rolling good, the nation will be back to normal at once.

Cleanliness is next to godliness, just as good old John Wesley said it was, but the scientists who say cleanliness is a preventative of disease and gives assurance of health, run afoul of history and statistics that knock their theory into a cocked hat. In my coming-up days no boy was expected to take a bath between leaf-falling time and barefoot time, and when a boy did bathe, during the hot season, he bathed in the creek, without a towel to dry his hide. Rude, barbaric, unsanitary age, you say? Well; not one of those boys ever had appendicitis, neither did one find it necessary to have his tonsils or adenoids removed. And all the green plums and peaches in the land wouldn't have given one of those boys cramp colic or caused any disturbance in his internal economy.—J. H. Lowery.

Down in Abilene a few weeks ago the picture shows opened on Sunday. The preachers and church workers united in urging the county and city officials to enforce the Sunday laws, which prohibit picture shows on Sunday. County and city officials got busy and began filing complaints against the proprietors and operators. For several weeks the war was on. Juries convicted the show people in almost every case tried. Then the show people filed an injunction suit against the officials. The upshot of it all was that the show people came into court a few days ago and agreed to close their doors and obey the law hereafter if the officials would dismiss the cases pending. The proposal was promptly accepted and hereafter Abilene is to have no picture shows on Sunday. This law ought to be enforced everywhere or repealed.—Tahoka News.

That's right. If we are going to have blue laws, let's make 'em genuine indigo. Let's close all the ball parks, all the golf clubs, all the drink emporiums, all the cafes and drug stores, all the filling stations, all the trains and boats. Let's do a good job or none. We can even do without a Sunday paper if necessary.

A cat never cries over spilled milk.

Don't fool with medicine which cleans only PART of bowels, but let Adlerika give stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and get rid of all gas!—Alexander Drug Store.

WOULD TRY TO RUN 'EM OUT

We know a piece of land in Texas that is assessed at $5.00 per acre. It has on it some millions of tons of a mineral that sells in a refined state in the markets around $30.00 per ton.

Yet, if some corporation with plenty of money should come to Texas, make the owner a fortune, raise the tax assessment on the land to $1,000 per acre, and make a great fortune for itself, as would be fully deserved, some Texas politicians, as soon as it got good at work, would begin to howl about, "the danger of corporate wealth and control."

Some day the people of Texas who are trying to do something to bring money to Texas to develop our vast natural resources, and thus bring prosperity to all the people and the government are going to rise in their might and decimate the horde of political coyotes that kill enterprise for the pleasure of killing—Southwestern Resources.

SHAMBURGER

Able-bodied men and their families who refuse jobs picking cotton most certainly should not be on the list of charitable organizations of our town, and receive food and fuel. This week one man was heard to say that he would not pick cotton at 50c a hundred while charities were feeding his family. Another said he wouldn't work at all if his family couldn't be paid more than $5 or $6 a day for the whole bunch for picking. It may be that it is hard for a man to be satisfied with a few dollars, but that is better than nothing. And most certainly there will be no aid from charity for those who flatly refuse to work. At least there should not be.—Memphis News.

Mr. Bob Owens, of Rotan, is moving a stock of dry goods here and has leased the Dock Powell building on the west side of the square. He is the man you have been wondering about for some time.

NEW PRIMARY ELECTION LAW PROBABLE

For some time there has been agitation in Texas for a change of the primary election system, under which a candidate must receive a majority of all the votes cast in order to obtain a nomination of a political party. The present primary election law provides that where there are more than two candidates for a nomination to any office, and no candidate receives a majority of the votes cast, the two leaders must contest for the nomination in a second primary, to be held one month after the first primary. Those who have urged a change in the system favor what is known as the preferential primary system, such as is now used in several States.

Under the preferential system voters would cast their votes for first, second and third choices in the event there were three or more candidates. In determining the nominees the first choice would be counted, then the second and then the third. In races where no candidate received more than one-half the votes cast, the second choice would be added to the first, and if necessary third choice votes would be counted. In addition to cutting down the expense of elections, it is claimed that the preferential system would be of benefit to the voters by permitting them to finish the job of nominating officials at one election, and would aid in the selection of candidates more on the basis of judgement than partisan favor.

A bill to substitute the preferential primary for the present primary system has already been drawn by a member of the Legislature and will be introduced at the next meeting of that body.

Mr. Baker and family, of the Wellman section, attended church here Sunday.

LUCIOUS FIGS ARE CROWN IN CROSBYTON

Even though there is an unprecendented drought prevailing in our county, there is always something growing in Crosby county even under adverse circumstances that surprises us, and in this instance it is delicious figs that have been grown in Crosbyton this year by Mrs. W. R. Davis in her home grounds in North Crosbyton. Mrs. Davis has five fig trees of the Ramsey variety which have borne a large quantity of large, delicious figs the past five years. This year, even though the drought has prevailed, has been no exception.

Mrs. Davis cuts the bush back each year and gives winter protection by covering with leaves or cotton seed hulls. The new shoots that put out in the spring produce a crop of figs each season. Fresh figs are highly prized for making preserves and should be grown more extensively here.—Crosbyton Review.

No other institution in the world exacts so little and returns so much as does the newspaper. At $2.00 per year it costs the subscriber only 4c per issue, and we defy anyone to point out where the subscriber can spend 4c and get an equal amount of pleasure and real value. It is hard to imagine any newspaper so worthless that some item of information in it, some bargain advertised, or some service performed that is not worth more to the subscriber in real money than the cost of his subscription. Money is also put into the pockets of non-subscribers when the paper leads a movement which saves the taxpayers money, supports any movement which brings trade to town or when the paper hammers for local improvements where the spending of a dollar today that two may grow in its place tomorrow. It is false economy to do without the home paper.—McLean News.

TRACES OF ANCIENT RACE FOUND IN CARLSBAD CAVE

The following which is given out by the United Press and published in the Denver Post of Monday gives an account of another interesting feature of the Carlsbad Caverns:

"Discovery of another gigantic cave near the famed Carlsbad Caverns National park in which was found remains of an ancient race believed to antedate the primitive Basket makers was claimed here Monday night by James White, veteran explorer of the southwest.

White, the original discoverer and explorer of the Carlsbad Caverns, noted for their natural splendor, brought four mummies—those of a man and a woman and two children, a boy and a girl—to Carlsbad for display to bear out his findings.

He said the mummies were found in an almost perfect state of scientific preservation, similar to those of the ancient Egyptians. Besides the mummies, he also brought to Carlsbad other mummy and fighting equipment which he claimed to have excavated in the cave.

Evidence that the Basketmakers inhabited the southwest thousands of years ago was undergrown passages a few years ago by Carl Livingston, scientist and explorer. White said he believed his discoveries would prove the Basketmakers were preceded in this region by an even older race.

White explained it will take considerable time to attempt to trace the origin of the ancient race, and that other authorities will have to be consulted.

Other explorers who have spent considerable time in the caverns said White's discoveries undoubtedly were the greatest ever made in the southwest, and probably would result in additional evidence of historical value as the surface of his findings has only been scratched.

Until arrangements for the protection of the discoverer have been made, White said he would not reveal the exact location of the burial cave.

NATURAL GAS AVAILABLE SOON AT SEAGRAVES

A full crew of workers and a ditcher have been busy the past week laying mains to carry gas to the citizens of Seagraves.

Rapid progress is being made with the work and the entire town should be laid before the end of another week.

It will probably be 30 days before connection can be made with the company's line at Brownfield but Seagraves should be able to turn on gas not later than Nov. 1.

This will afford our people a much needed service and one we have been working for several months. There is no necessity as convenient as natural gas for both heating and cooking and no doubt many of our people will avail themselves of this service.—Seagraves Signal.

SHERIFF WARNS ON ILLICIT LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Continuing his campaign of ridding Lamb county of illicit liquor traffic, Sheriff Len Irvin and his deputy, J. L. Wairaven, have made several arrests the past two weeks of parties alleged to have violated the liquor laws.

The latest arrest was made Friday, when T. T. Cooper of Sudan, was taken into custody and placed in jail at Olton, awaiting the action of the next grand jury.—Littlefield Leader.

Corvallis, Ore.—The epidemic of endurance tests finally has reached the farm tractor.

Sale of the Brownfield-Hobbs line of the Carlsbad Cavern Coaches, by C. W. Jones and associates to Garrett C. Abbott of the Pioneer Motor lines.

Sale of the Red Star Coaches owned by L. L. Watson of Lamesa to the South Plains Coaches, owned by Joe Bowman.

It is expected there will be some changes in bus schedules to come up before the hearing. Several truck line sales also are reported as being scheduled.

Mark Marshall, director of motor transportation bureau of the commission, will conduct the hearing. It is probable that one of two of the commissioners will be present.

Sessions begin at 9 o'clock in the ball room of the Hotel Lubbock.—Lubbock Avalanche.

UNION SCHOOL HOUSE

Rev. Geo. Turrentine will preach at the school building at three P. M. All are cordially invited to be present.

Mrs. P. W. Watts, of Tullia, Texas, went through a very horroing experience at that place one night recently. It seems that Mr. Watts had gone to the gin and was late getting back. The rest of the family had retired for the night, but some of them woke and heard the mother making a peculiar noise, and went to her room. They found cotton saturated with chloroform in each nostril and her hair cut close to her scalp. Mrs. Watts formerly lived here, and is the mother of Mrs. Laurence Green. Officers have not solved the crime up to this time.

A great many Brownfield and Terry county people attended the South Plains fair at Lubbock, and all pronounce it good. Probably more would have attended if the weather had been less inclement.

Prof. P. F. Lawlis of the High school, dropped in this week to renew his Herald.

THE BON TON BAKERY

A WORD TO JOHN D. MOORHEAD

By J. B. Cranfill

The article with the caption, "A Rejoinder," signed by John D. Moorhead, has been lying on my desk for several weeks and is of a quality difficult to deal with patiently. Why this man should in his old age, after the lapse of almost fifty years, parade the fabrications he has published in your paper is difficult to psychologize.

There are two creatures that merit and receive the contempt of all mankind—the vulture, which feeds on carrion, and the hyena, which exhumes and feasts upon the bodies of the dead.

If all that Moorhead has published about me were true he must be a man of strange complex, who, after the lapse of these long years would lay bare before his public the shortcomings of any man, who, whatever might have been the errors of his youth, has, through the after years, sought to lead an upright and benignant life.

But the gravity of Moorhead's offense grows into inconceivable proportion when his statements concerning me are largely pure fabrications. He says truly that my father was a good man—a better man than I am, if there was ever a truer, more generous or a nobler man than my father I have not known him.

Among other false statements, Moorhead says: "The Cranfill I have in mind was on the Democratic ticket once for Cattle and Hide Inspector, and carried the Coryell City and Osage boxes."

There never was a Cranfill who ran for any office in Coryell county. There were three Cranfills at different times who lived there—my father, my brother and myself. All of us were doctors. My father closed his medical activities at Turnersville, and both my brother and I practiced medicine there.

I think, however, it may be more convincing if I give the testimony of Pleas M. Post, now and for long years district clerk of Coryell county. Concerning these old days he says:

"There was a Mike Holmes here, but as I remember him he was a harmless kind of fellow, being his own worst enemy. As for the holdup, that is pure fabrication. Such a thing was never heard of here and I know you never ran for any office in this county. Also, there was no Tom Potts—only Dick, Thornton and Bob."

A letter from Thorton Potts is of the same tenor.

One of the statements of Moorhead is the following:

"I was present at the (prohibition) rally in June, 1887, at Fort Worth, sat on the same seat with you (he means me) during the addresses of Cullen F. Thomas and Dr. B. H. Carroll."

Cullen F. Thomas did not deliver an address at Fort Worth in 1887 for the simple reason that he had never seen Texas at that time, having come to the State in 1888. In 1887 he was a school boy in Tennessee. If any one doubts the veracity of this statement, let him write Cullen F. Thomas, Dallas National Bank Building, Dallas, Texas.

There are a number of other errors in this deliverance, but I have said enough. I have proven by competent witnesses the following:

1. John D. Moorhead was never at any time held up in any way whatsoever, by Mike Holmes, D. B. Kennedy and J. B. Cranfill.

2. There was no speech by Cullen F. Thomas in 1887 at Fort Worth or anywhere else in Texas.

3. No Doctor Cranfill was ever a candidate for Cattle and Hide Inspector or any other office in Coryell county at any time. Moorhead says that the Doctor Cranfill he knew was such candidate, and if that statement be true he never knew me nor my father nor my brother, all of whom practiced medicine in Coryell county, but he says he did know my father and me.

4. Concluding this word to Moorhead, I am still mystified concerning his attacks upon me. I seem to remember him, but I cannot remember that I ever did him any special kindness, thus incurring his enmity; nor can I remember that he and I had ever had any misunderstanding of any kind. Doubtless he has cherished some personal grudge against me for nearly fifty years and it is just now oozing out of him. If he had come to me face to face when we both lived in Gatesville we could have settled any matter of that kind in very short order.

His statement that W. B. Fakes wanted to file a complaint against me is just as true as his statement that Cullen F. Thomas made a speech in Fort Worth the year before he ever saw Texas, or that he (Moorhead was held up by Mike Holmes, Kennedy and me, or that I ran for Cattle and Hide Inspector in Coryell county, or that the best place now to go would be to the Potts brothers for bootlegging contraband liquor.

W. B. Fakes was one of the best friends I had in Gatesville and would not have filed a complaint against me if I had been guilty of wrongdoing, to say nothing of filing a complaint against me for something that was never heard of in Gatesville and that had its genesis and habitat in Moorhead's imagination.

The generous thing concerning all of these assaults of this man is to think of them as having emerged from a doddering senility in order either to get even with an active prohibitionist, now that he is confessedly wet, or to even up some old grudge of the yester years that he did not have the nerve to disclose when we both lived in the same town.

John D. Moorhead and every survivor of my Gatesville days know that during my years there I was at death grips with the twin devils, the mobs and the saloons. I organized twelve temperance councils in Coryell county while I lived there and for several years every time I left my gate in the morning I confronted the prospect of being brought dead on a litter before nightfall. If there are those concerned about my life there, I gladly refer to Quince Ellis, Rabb Dickey, T. C. Potts, Pleas M. Post, of Gatesville, and Y. S. Jenkins, now of Pasadena, Calif. Nearly all of the citizens that Moorhead and I knew at Gatesville have passed away, and I wonder whose bones he will dig up next.

The last thing in Moorhead's attack is his invitation that I look at his tongue, which I decline, but it would seem that God had him and the like of him in mind when He inspired James to set these words down

LET'S CUT DOWN EXPENSES

Yep, that's the way to get by during this time of financial depression and short crops. Lets cut our wearing apparel to 5c gingham dresses, 5c socks, 65c overalls and go barefooted. Let's park our cars and all walk. Lets cut our drug bills to castor oil and epsom salts, lets cut out our telephone and electric lights. Lets stop the school and unincorporate the town. Lets fire our county officials and cut out taxes. Lets do away with the newspaper both local and State. Quit reading magazines and depend on our mail order catalogues and free almanacs for our information and entertainments. Lets fire the preachers and the Sunday school teachers, yep, lets cut expenses. Of course when we do this we will get by. Sure the garage man and filling station men would have to go elsewhere as well as the telephone folks, the electric light folks, the editor, the teachers, the preachers and all the dry goods and grocery men the county officials and the doctors naturally would, and the first thing we would know this country would be deserted, but that would be alright, anything to cut expenses and get by during these times. It is a great idea lets do it. Its in the same class with the proposed Red Cross grain proposition and the intermediate credit bank idea. If we will just fall for it and put it over quickly our troubles will be ended just like a man's troubles are ended when he blows his brains out on purpose and topples over into hell.—Jayton Chronicle.

For the contour

Elizabeth Arden emphasizes the need of moulding and strengthening the muscles of the face, to keep the contour line young and firm. She recommends that you pat your face and neck briskly with Venetian Special Astrin-gent, to lift the sagging tissues, and to bring a swift tracing stream of circulation to these muscles. Then pat again with Venetian Cream Skin Food to supply the needs of the sunken tissues and build up a firm contour.

OTHER FOLKS BELIEVE IN US

So much has been printed since the end of the war about the position of the United States as a creditor nation, that most of us never stop to ask whether we still owe anybody anything.

It remained for Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, to point out the other day that besides being the greatest creditor nation of the world, we are also the greatest debtor nation.

In other words, the United States is the financial center of the world. "No country in history has ever owed so much to foreigners as we Americans owe today," said Doctor Klein. He did not mean, however, that this a national debt. He was talking about debts owed abroad by American business.

We have always owed money abroad. The railway system of the United States was built in the beginning and largely financed since by selling the bonds and much of the preferred stock in Europe. We are not the only people who have always been ready to bet on the future of America. When the late Arthur Stillwell wanted money with which to build the Kansas City Southern he could not get it in America, but found it in Holland. When the Pennsylvania Railroad needed a hundred million dollars with which to build a terminal on Manhattan Island and dig a tunnel under the Hudson River, it borrowed the money in France against its bonds. Those are only two out of thousands of examples of the way foreign capital has been invested in the United States in the past.

There was a lull during and after the war, but now Europeans are pouring money into our enterprises with even greater eagerness than before. Apparently foreign investors think this is a better place to invest than at home.

At the end of 1929, Doctor Klein points out, the total European investment in American industry had climbed to seven and one-half billion dollars. These investments are in all sorts of industries. Twenty out of the 23 artificial silk plants in the South are owned by European capital. Perfumery industries, photographic supplies, many great chemical plants, as well as railroads and other familiar forms of foreign investment are on the list of American securities which are liked abroad.

All that is nothing to worry about, but the contrary. Doctor Klein is right when he says that "foreign investments here have served in the past and will continue to serve in the future as strengthening, sustaining elements."

Ed Thompson was in Monday with a mess of roasting ears, a pumpkin and a fryer for the Herald family and informed us that he had out nearly five bales of cotton. Ed and wife have just about kept the Herald family above starvation this summer.

PUT 'EM IN THE COTTON PATCH!

The cities and towns of Texas are filled with bums, and people who don't work and won't work, and yet there are thousands of acres of cotton that require immediate picking! We have traveled recently more than four hundred miles through the cotton sections of South Texas and we can say that there are thousands of acres of cotton that should have been gathered weeks ago. If it should happen that we have a hurricane on the Texas coast it would do immeasurable harm and no chances should be taken on losing the cotton that is open by not having it picked.

In times past our municipal authorities have exerted themselves to send the floating population to the cotton field and they should exert themselves along this line again. Why should people be permitted to lay around the cities and towns and beg and steal and complain of hard times and no work when there is plenty of good, healthful work in the open at good wages.

Not long ago a fellow who owed us a dollar and a quarter, on being asked why he did not go to the cotton patch, said he could pick 500 pounds a day, but he was waiting for the price of picking to come up to $1 per hundred. Plenty like him would rather eke out two or three dollars a week in the city than make 75 cents per hundred, or $3.75 per day picking cotton and with no extra expenses, and cheaper living.

It has been eleven years since a West Indian hurricane hit the coast of Texas. We may have another. The cotton should be picked right now.—Southwestern Resources.

SCIENTISTS GIVING VARIED USES OF HONEY

Ancient literature, telling of the adaptations of honey to suit the varying tastes and needs of past centuries, provided clues which scientists are now following to revive old uses and to develop the present possibilities of the product.

The early Romans in their writings often mentioned the honey bee and honey. Among the products they mentioned frequently are water honey, salt-water honey, water mead, rosin honey, honey foam and honey vinegar.

The United States department of agriculture is studying the chemical properties of honey and methods of inducing chemical changes in it that will open the field for new honey products. Specialists are perfecting methods of making honey candy, and some manufacturers already have secret processes for making this confection. Many housekeepers now use honey to sweeten beverages, cereals and cakes, and generally in cooking. It is also used as a syrup on waffles and hot cakes. Eminent physicians proclaim that honey contains the most beneficial of sugars.

FAMILY STRAIN

Little Mary was left to fix lunch, and when mother returned with a friend she noticed Mary had the tea strained.

"Did you find the lost strainer?"
"No, mother, I couldn't," replied Mary, "so I used the fly swatter."
Mother was nearly swooned, so Mary completed it with, "Oh, don't get excited mother! I used the old one."

MUCH BELL-YACHING

We think that the Creator's master stroke was when he placed bellies on human beings. Else from whence could have come all the aching that most of us are prone to put out. Some time we think, after listening in on the wails and moans of the disgruntled individuals up and down the streets of our own city, that all the bellyachers settled in Ralls. We are not excusing ourself on this deal, for we join in with them in a shrill tenor voice at every chorus and put out our very best shrieks and moans over hard times, dry weather, cheap cotton and every other ill and business handicap we can think of. But when we happen to make a little trip around in other parts of the country and engage those citizens in conversation, we find that Ralls has only its part of the bellyaching brigade. We talked to folks this week in Lorenzo, Brownfield, Seagraves, Seminole, Hobbs, N. M., and other cities. Without exception we found that things were "Mighty Tough." Some of them admitted they had good crops, but said the low prices and "Hoover Prosperity" had knocked their dampers plumb down and that there was no business. At Hobbs the citizens seemed to think that the slump may be just temporary and will be getting better right away. Everywhere they were bellyaching and we have decided that the year 1930 was set apart for the special benefit of all achers and grippers. Anyway they are using it faithfully and without ceasing. Of course, all the fussing and fuming will do lots less good than more work and stricter enforcement of economy regulations, but if letting out the wails is of any satisfaction, they may not wait louder and longer. Any way do it just as long as we can possibly have time and money to stand around on the streets and howl. Of course, when the hog-sides and frijoles play out and the meal and flour barrels are empty it might show more common sense to work a little. But until that time we say: "Never."—Ralls Banner.

HOGG BEQUEATHS $25,000 TO TECH

Texas Technological college was bequeathed $25,000 in the will of Will C. Hogg, Houston capitalist and philanthropist, who died recently in Germany, according to an Associated Press story of filing of the will for probate Saturday in Austin.

Whether the bequest to Technological college was designated for a particular purpose was not learned here. The gift was one of many which the will provided for advancement of education in Texas.

A Chicago man the other day took an extra big drink of whisky and shortly began to see reptiles, also animals in assorted colors. So he rented a room and opened a museum. Many people paid 35c admission and when they saw only an empty room, they called a policeman. The policeman was going to arrest him, but the man got him off in a corner and gave him a drink. The policeman then gave the man $300 for a half interest in the show.—Ex.

NO DANGER THERE

Mrs. Brown was in the kitchen helping Nora, the cook, prepare supper. "It's an old saying," she remarked to Nora, "that too many cooks spoil the broth." What do you think?"

"Sure, ma'am," she replied, "there's only wan cook here."

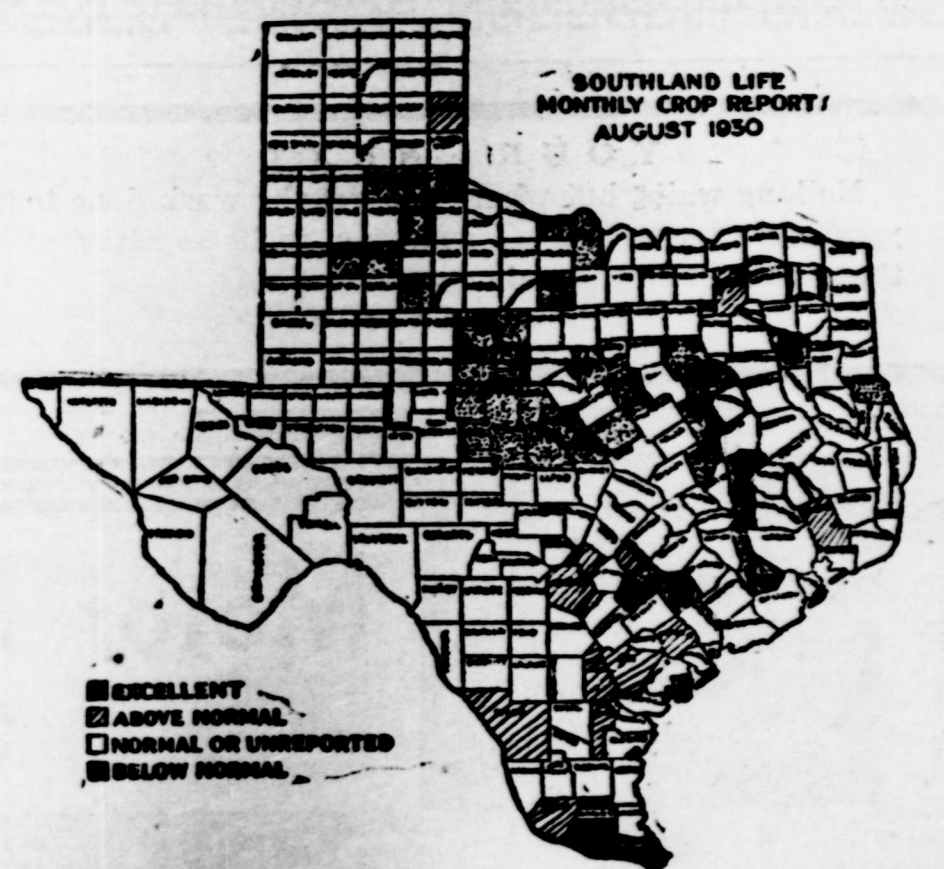

"Now," said the teacher, "which boy can name five things that contain milk?"

"I can!" shouted a freckle-faced youngster. "Butter an' cheese, an' ice cream an' two cows."

Rastus—"Didn't you tell me dat procrastinate mean to put off?"
Sambo—"Sho' Ah did."

Rastus—"Well, boy, you was wrong. De street car conductor gave me de hoss laugh when I tol' him to procrastinate me at 21st street."

FREE SPACE GRAFTERS

During the present epidemic of free space grafting, most of which falls flat, how do you suppose that scheme would work if carried out in all parts of the paper?

Some firms go to the expense of hiring a high-powered ad writer to get up copy, and then pay a high rate to have first-class mats made of the ads. The best service is then carefully packed and Uncle Sam gets a rakedoff postage for carrying the material to the publisher.

If that does not break into print, it is a waste. After the firm has gone to the expense of preparing the material for publication, it falls down on the job at the last minute and the publisher to print the stuff free of charge. In other words, the most important part of the job is neglected and the scheme falls flat.—Clarendon Leader.

The Herald got a bunch of 2x12 mats this week from way off somewhere which cost the originators a lot of money, but were dumped in the waste basket. Something like $100 of space these big manufacturers asked a little county paper to donate free.

Personally, it is our own belief, that a man who wrestles an alligator deserves to be bitten on the arm.

Correct this sentence: "I know you owe, but keep the money; I don't need it right now."
