

GRAHAM CRACKERS

—WHG

The great debate is over. Squaws it was—Squaws it is—Squaws it will be.

This mandate comes from (as it properly should) the Friona basketball girls themselves. Coach Duggins tells us that the gals have decided that the team has been referred to as Squaws so long, it would be a mistake to change the name now.

This suits us fine. Who said it?—“A rose by any other name would be as sweet.” That’s our outlook. At least, we had fun tossing the idea around a little.

Krueger has been listening to KGNC at Amarillo. Either that, or somebody gave him the idea. He wants to put up a couple of sirlin steaks to the persons who can come closest to guessing when the next rain will come.

Moisture, he says, should measure one-fourth inch or more to end the contest. He says that if we will promote the idea, he will toss in the sirlins. If we can get Buddy Lloyd to use the official rain gauge at Consumers and be the contest judge, we’ll try this out. We’ll take it up with Bud before next week’s paper. In the meantime, if there are any hungry weather prognosticators in the audience, you can start making your calculations. (Note: The above was written before the rain this week.)

Sometimes June Floyd, our society editor, runs across things that are downright interesting—even to a crusty old news editor, who thinks he’s seen everything.

This may have made the rounds before; if it has, it was so long ago we have forgotten about it. As you will note, this is a new twist on The 23rd Psalm:

The government is my shepherd, I shall not work. It maketh me to plow up my green pastures, It leadeth me beside the ballot boxes. It destroyeth my soul. It leadeth in paths of subsidy for my vote’s sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of dictatorship, I will fear no Republican. Thy pensions and thy promises they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me at the expense of thy taxpayers. Thou annoimest my head with paternalism. My bank account runneth over. Surely public money and bureaucracy shall follow me all the days of my life and I shall dwell in a government housing project forever.

Something we have found it hard to understand is how one week, President Eisenhower can introduce and recommend a national budget of almost 72 billion dollars, and the next week, beg businesses and employees to go easy on prices and requests for pay increases.

This he has just finished doing, however, with the explanation that he is trying to curb inflationary forces. Stopping inflation is a very commendable undertaking, but it is hard for us to see that the chief executive is making a very good example of himself.

On the one hand he has introduced the biggest peacetime spending plans in the nation’s history (and what is a better way to spur inflation than government spending?), and on the other has asked everybody else to put the brakes on.

Ike, say his supporters, wants to be “liberal” with the affairs of the people and “conservative” in the financial departments. Such a policy is impossible. The two aims are incompatible, since the people and the nation’s finance are one and the same. We previously have endorsed much of Mr. Eisenhower’s activity in government, but if this is a glimpse of his touted “New Republicanism” we want nothing of it.

It’s that season of year again. The dust is beginning to roll, and we can figure on it being thusly—except for “unusual” days—for another two to three months.

We reiterate, for about the twenty-ninth time, that Panhandle weather is lousy, especially in the spring. Let the chambers of commerce say what they will—the next 10 weeks will bring misery to farmer, businessman, worker, and housewife alike.

The only thing we can say in favor of such bum weather is that we have the finest people in the world living here; only the fittest can survive.

For ourselves, we’ll say: after 24 years, we’re accustomed to it, but we’ll be danged if we have learned to like it.

NEW MOTEL UNITS—This is the new east wing of Smiley’s Courts on Highway 60 in Friona. Most of the addition is up and workmen are starting on the inside details. The concrete in the foreground was a floor in the old Friona Motor Company building. Much of it will be used to serve as foundation for a new cafe in this location. Smiley Fulks says he plans to go ahead immediately with construction of the cafe.

No Reversible Error Says Supreme Court

Participants in a suit between the City of Friona and Paul Strickland had just as well turn the calendar back. The plaintiffs and defendants are right back where they started months ago when a dispute arose concerning right-of-way easements for the Strickland Shamrock Service Station, which faces Highway 60.

The city was seeking to obtain right of way for the state, which was then just planning the four-lane road which has been completed for several months.

The Texas Supreme Court this week refused an application by the city for a writ of error. That writ, had it been obtained, would have indicated the court of civil appeals erred in its judgement in October, when it reversed a County court decision on the controversy back in 1955. The court, in effect, gave Strickland this “round” in the legal entanglement.

The action by the city to obtain a writ of error was the last hope the city had to win the case. The result of the supreme court’s action does not, however, eliminate the possibility of additional litigation.

Technicalities brushed aside, Strickland and the city are “back where they started,” with no one having a clear-cut court decision. The service station operator says he is entitled to much greater

Final Rites Held For Lt. Tim Magness

Funeral services for Lt. Tim Magness, who was killed in a plane crash near Jean, Nevada, last week, were held at the First Baptist Church Monday afternoon at 2 p. m. Dr. Marvin L. Boyd, pastor of the First Methodist Church at Midland, Texas, was officiating minister.

Magness, who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Magness, was born in Friona August 16, 1932. He graduated from Friona High School with the class of 1949, and received his degree from Texas Tech in 1954, with a major in music.

Pallbearers were Dean Hall, Charles Osborn, Bill Brewer, Lt. Wayne Bainum, John Taylor, and Charlie Nolan. Lt. Bob Smyth of Warren, Indiana, accompanied the body from Las Vegas to Friona.

Immediate survivors include his wife, Marjorie; his parents, two sisters, Deniese and Jacquelyn; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Gibson of Sagerton and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. J. D. McMillan of Friona.

Some of the out of town relatives who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Gibson of Sagerton, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Bell of Old Glory, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Harris of Aspermont, R. O. Gibson Jr. of Stamford, Mrs. Nita Darden of Stamford, Mrs. June Glover of Lovington, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Hale of Lubbock, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hale of Midland;

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gibson of Idalou, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Scales, Dick and Danny of Lubbock; and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ross of Lubbock.

Burial was in Friona Cemetery under the direction of Claborn Funeral Home.

Mrs. Marjorie Magness will be at home temporarily with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Scales of 3710 21st Street, Lubbock, Texas.

compensation for property damage than the city has allowed—$250, $400, and $500 at various times. The city commission has been reluctant to pay more.

Whether the parties can settle their differences without additional court battles remains to be seen. The city has made an application for a re-hearing, but City Attorney Bill Sheehan does not regard this as significant. “It’s just a formality,” he says, “and only a matter of time until they (the supreme court) will send it back.”

Grade School Girls Take Second, Boys Consolation In Meet

Friona grade school basketball teams represented their school well at a grade school invitational tournament at Sudan last weekend. The girls brought home second place honors, and the boys won consolation.

To win second place, the girls first dropped Dimmitt 22-15. Muleshoe was the next victim, falling in a close one, 12-11, to the home town aggregation. Sudan was the finalist team, and defeated Friona 31-18.

Don Watkins is grade school girls coach.

The boys had the misfortune of meeting Dimmitt in their first round. Dimmitt, which went on to win the tournament, dropped Friona 30-20. Friona rebounded to take Muleshoe 32-21, and then whipped Lazbuddie for consolation honors, 27-10.

“They looked pretty good,” commented Coach Tom Jarboe of the boys.

Other schools represented at the meet were Morton, Anton, and Amherst.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Collier spent Friday in Amarillo visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wiggins and family.

Squaws Remain Unbeaten

Friona’s Squaws remained unbeaten in conference play Tuesday night, after upsetting Sudan 43-35 on the Lamb County court. Temporarily, at least, the “pressure is off” for the local sextet, which now appears to have an excellent chance to capture district honors.

The game was regarded as something of an upset because the Sudan team had previously forced the Squaws into an overtime on the local court. Friona won that one by a scant three points. That was on January 11.

The usual margin of from 5 to 10 points that is conceded for home courts indicated, on paper at least, that Sudan was due to win.

The Chiefs dropped their game in a close one to the Hornets, 35-37. Sudan had taken the Redskins 28-17 on the local court two weeks ago. This loss about removed fans’ hopes for a district boys championship.

BUDGET DELAYED AGAIN AS CITY MEETS PROBLEMS

By W. H. Graham Jr.

Supposedly, the big job of the year for the city commission will be working out the 1957 budget for Friona. However, that sizeable chore got derailed again Monday night as the city dads worried

Trade at Home Series Concluded

A hard-hitting, to-the-point series of advertisements on a “trade at home” theme, sponsored by Friona merchants, has come to an end.

With this week’s paper, The Star will terminate the running of the full-page promotion, which has lasted over the past 26 weeks. Written by D. E. Scott of Wellington, author of the well-known “Crossroads Report” carried by many daily newspapers, the series has won the acclaim of business people and consumers all over the Southwest.

The Star wishes to publicly thank the many promotion-minded Friona merchants who made the series possible. This series of advertisements helped tell the truth about why trading at home is smart for home-town shoppers.

Feb. 10 Set As Date For Methodist Revival

The Friona Methodist Church has scheduled a week-long revival meeting to begin February 10.

Dr. Ray N. Johnson will officiate at the services through the week and will also give the devotional for the Men’s breakfasts to be had on Monday and Tuesday at 6:30 a. m.

Dr. Johnson has been a North-west Texas Conference evangelist for approximately three years. As pastor, he has previously served the First Methodist Church in San Angelo, the Munger Place Methodist Church in Dallas and the First Methodist Church in Vernon.

In charge of the singing services will be Rev. David W. Binkley, pastor of the First Methodist Church at Memphis, Texas. Rev. Binkley will direct the singing for all services and will conduct morning devotionals for the youth of the church at breakfast services each morning at 7:30.

Rev. Binkley is formerly of Friona, having occupied a pastorate here in 1946. Recently, he has been associated with the First Methodist Church in Anson and the Fairmont Methodist Church in Abilene.

The morning worship services for the meeting will be at 10:30 a. m., the evening worship services at 7:30 p. m.

A cordial invitation is extended to citizens of Friona to attend the revival.

The meeting will end with the evening services on February 17.

with other more pressing problems of a growing city. It was the second consecutive meeting in which the commission was unable to even mention the budget because of other worries.

To start off the evening was a lengthy discussion on transient peddlers. That subject was revived, coincidentally enough, by the fact that as the commission met, a team of magazine salesmen was canvassing the town.

There were three instances in which residents came to the meeting to report the peddlers’ activities. They were seeking the help of local police officers, who usually attend the commission sessions, and were on hand Monday night.

Clerk Roy Wilson showed “credentials” of the peddlers (which had been filed earlier that day) to Mayor A. W. Anthony and Commissioners J. G. McFarland and Oscar Baxter.

Local ordinances which might discourage the unwanted activity were aired, and their ability to stand up in such instances was discussed. The so-called “Green River” peddlers’ ordinance (which had been considered by the city last year from time to time) was mentioned again. It would control all door-to-door peddling—not just that engaged in by persons regarded as transients.

“The only thing I know to do is to have the city attorney dig into it and see what can be done,” was the remark of Mayor Anthony. The commissioners concurred, and no other action was taken at the meeting.

The next subject on the agenda for the evening was introduced by Mayor Anthony. He referred to reports that had been taken to him that indicated there was disharmony in the local police and court departments.

New License Plates On Sale Tomorrow

With a new look, 1957 license plates go on sale in Parmer County tomorrow (Friday), announces Lee Thompson, county assessor and collector.

White with black lettering and a star in the center, the color combination is a deviation from the traditional black and gold, which Texas vehicles have worn for many years.

The new car tags for the county will all have the same prefix letters—BX—this year. Last year’s tags had the letters, BN, BP, and SJ. The BX is only for the cars, and pickups, trucks, and other vehicles will have different prefix

Mother’s March Derives $190 For Polio Drive

A door-to-door drive by Friona mothers Tuesday night netted about $190 for the March of Dimes effort, according to Ethel Ruth Spring, one of the workers.

Residents of the community were asked to turn their porch lights on to indicate when they had a contribution to make to the drive. Mrs. Spring indicated she felt the results of the drive were satisfactory.

Friona Legion Sets March of Dimes Dance Saturday Evening

Friona’s fund-raising activities for the March of Dimes aren’t over.

The American Legion Post has announced that its annual March of Dimes dance will be held Saturday night, February 2, at the Legion Hall.

Leo Reed, vice-commander, this week said that the dance is scheduled to begin at 8:30 to 9 o’clock, and will continue throughout the remainder of the evening.

PTA MEETS TONIGHT

All parents and other interested persons are invited by Ella Lamb, president of the local PTA, to attend the lecture on Mental Health which will be given by Wilson Lane of Amarillo at the auditorium at 7:30 p. m. this evening (Thursday).

The railroads handled 4,612,000 (billion) letters and parcels for Uncle Sam during the 1956 holiday season. That’s 50,000 standard mail cars full.

Black Community To Have Program Monday for Dimes

Members of the Black Community Rural Neighborhood Progress Club have set Monday, February 4, as the date for the community-wide March of Dimes party in the Black Community center. The program is scheduled to start with a buffet supper at 7 p. m.

According to information furnished by Mrs. John Benger, the committee on arrangements urges everyone in the community to make a special effort to be present to do his bit in the project. Each person is asked to bring a covered dish and a “white elephant” article for the auction which will follow.

Special guests for the evening will be Cotton John Smith of KGNC at Amarillo and Dr. Paul Spring of the Parmer County Community Hospital staff. J. R. Braxton, president, invites the public to attend.

“D” DAY TODAY FOR TAXPAYERS

Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer: to-day is “D” day.

January 31 is the last day in which you can pay your 1956 taxes (without penalty) to the city, school, county, and state. It also is the last day you can pay your poll tax.

Patrons of the Friona School District have until midnight tomorrow (Friday) to get in their last-minute census reports. There’s $77 at stake for the school for every student reported.

Readers probably won’t care to be reminded that the deadline is here: they have their worries in the big Christmas and holiday bills, plus perhaps an “ante up” invitation from Uncle Sam.

They do need to remember, however that today is poll tax deadline day, period. They can’t be obtained later.

This difficulty has arisen in recent weeks when Night Patrolman Herman Helton and Jim Roberts have had disagreements on several points of enforcement—most of the trouble having to do with procedure.

Also, friction between the police department and corporation court (the city’s court) was brought to light. Walter Lovless, who is city judge, was present at the meeting—by request of the commissioners—in addition to officers Roberts and Helton.

Mayor Anthony, who had been studying the difficulties previous to the meeting, summarized things as he saw them, and made the recommendation that Helton be named “head man” in the city’s police department.

Anthony explained that under present conditions, there is no one delegated with the authority to have the “last word.” He added, “Everybody’s business is nobody’s business.”

Judge Lovless told the commissioners that Roberts was reluctant to serve some citations (to summon persons to his JP court), and Roberts replied that it was impractical to “drive all over the country for the $1 fee” that was attached to this service.

Roberts, who divides his time as a deputy for the county and a city police officer, told Judge

Fire Department Feed Scheduled For Tonight

Friona firemen and guests are reminded that today (Thursday) is the day for the fire department’s quarterly social supper.

Immediately following the supper, the group will retire to the skating rink for an evening of entertainment.

Ernest Hock Resigns, Will Go to Edinburg

Ernest C. Hock, for the past 15 months educational director of the Friona Baptist Church, tendered his resignation at the church Sunday. He announced that he has accepted a call to Edinburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Hock, who came here from Littlefield, will move to the Texas Valley city next week. However, their daughter, Barbara, who is a senior student at Friona High School, will continue her studies here until graduation.

Save Money--Save Time: It's $ Day Monday!

THE STAR'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

About Those Peddlers

One of the greatest nuisances which confronts a small, prosperous-looking friendly community such as Friona is the door-to-door transient peddler. The peddlers were at it again in Friona Monday night, much to the consternation of our citizens.

With a corps of slick-tongued salesmen, some of whom were "crippled," and all of whom use questionable but usually legal sales tactics, the group canvassed the town in search of a few fast bucks. As always, they got some, too.

Friona's police officers and city officials were harried with many, many calls from irate citizens, who wanted the shysters run out of town. This attitude is certainly understandable—however, so far as legal means are concerned, the city was left with no recourse.

These professional magazine subscription jockeys know their business. There isn't any stut-tering around. They also know their "rights" when it comes to the legality of their actions, although the morality of them is always subject to suspicion.

Under the U. S. Constitution, transient peddling is classed as interstate commerce and subject, therefore, to control by the ICC. And what the ICC has dominion over, no city interferes with.

What can be done?

The first thing that is needed to control these operators, The Star feels, is to make their forays practically fruitless. If the citizenry would but resolve not to be fast-talked into taking these subscriptions, the end of such activity would soon be at hand. Complete control by this means is unattainable, but the willpower and firmness to say "No" and mean it could certainly be improved upon.

At least, if you do buy a subscription, don't play "chicken" to the detriment and confusion of your neighbors. If you give a peddler a check just to get rid of him, and then after he is gone, call the bank and stop payment on the instrument, you are not only showing your lack of courage to turn the salesman down yourself, but you are likely to leave one of your friends holding the bag.

Slick salesmen don't like to do business with banks. Instead, they will usually take your check and beat it straight to some unsuspecting local merchant who, recognizing your signature, will honor the check. Then, if payment is stopped, guess who gets stuck? That's hardly fair.

Something else that we think can be done: We think the city should issue certificates of some kind to show that the person doing the soliciting has registered at the city hall.

The reason this is not done now, we understand, is because previously, the city commission has felt that when such a paper was issued to a peddler (and the city HAS to permit them to do business—they can't stop them), the showing of this paper by the salesman to the housewife would cause her to think that the city had endorsed the activities of the peddler. Actually, quite the reverse is true. So, the city now only requires them to report to the city hall and get permission to work the town.

We believe that these permits should be issued because, for instance, when a housewife answers the door she can ask that the peddler show his permit. If he has none, she immediately knows he is operating in violation of the law, and officers may be summoned.

As it is, the homeowner can only ask if the peddler is authorized. If he says "yes" there is no way to check him. Besides, if he is telling the truth (and most do stop by the city hall) then it does absolutely no good for the local citizens to summon the city officers. They can't do anything.

However, they could arrest the peddler if he solicited subscriptions and did so without the prescribed license.

Uncertainty and lack of education in these matters has caused many calls to local officers which have been of no benefit except to increase the confusion.

Clayton Sanders Is Selected No. 1 Sesame Seed Farmer

Clayton W. Sanders, of Oklahoma Lane, who is Texas' and the nation's No. 1 sesame farmer, is going out for new production records when he plants his third big crop this spring. He is going to plant all of his 320-acre farm except 20 acres to the ancient oilseed, which became a new cash crop in Texas in 1953, and shoot for 1,500 pounds of clean seed per acre.

Sanders is the country's top sesame farmer by virtue of both total tonnage produced and yield per acre. His 300 acres of sesame in 1956 yielded 1,250 pounds of excellent seed per acre, and his gross income from the crop will exceed $125 per acre. He also produced the top tonnage in 1955 when he grew sesame on his entire 300 acres, plus 225 acres leased in New Mexico.

He and his father, Sam Sanders, form a father-and-son combination who team up to solve many of their sesame farming problems. Sam Sanders grew 225 acres of sesame on the same land in 1956 which his son had leased in 1955 and plans this year again to plant this same acreage to the new crop on the High Plains.

The Sanderses have decided that the key to top production of sesame is a simple recipe of three ingredients—thick sand, high fertility and plenty of irrigation water. Clayton Sanders, who fertilized lightly last year, believes he will fertilize with a combination of nitrogen and phosphate, probably 13-39-0, this year. "I'll plant it thick late in May," he said, "pour the water to it, and hope for 1,500 pounds per acre."

The younger Sanders' farm is in Farmer County 12 miles east of Farwell. His father lives at Idalou but farms 3½ miles southwest of Texico in New Mexico.

Clayton Sanders first became interested in sesame in the spring of 1955 when he attended one of a series of production meetings conducted by Texas Sesame Seed Growers, the organization which is carrying on an extensive production and marketing program to better the position of the domestic sesame crop.

Sesame sounded like the answer to his needs. He had just purchased half a section of land; his bottom allotment was very small (12 acres), and he did not think he could count on grain sorghum for a satisfactory basic income on high priced land which needs to gross $100 per acre every year.

Despite the fact that it was his first year of sesame growing, the younger Sanders produced 1,000 pounds per acre on 160 acres of his 525-acre crop. The rest of the farm produced less, and the farm in New Mexico only grew 440 pounds per acre. "The stands were thin, and we did not irrigate enough," Sanders said. "With a good stand and plenty of irrigation water, the story would have been entirely different."

"I knew I could do better," he said, "so in the spring of 1956 I thought about what I had learned from my experience, then went back to the Texas Sesame Seed Growers' specialists for more information and planted sesame again."

To be certain that the fertility level of his soil was adequate, he put down 70 pounds of anhydrous ammonia before planting time at a cost of $8 per acre. He felt that this was sufficient since his gently rolling, heavy sandy loam farm is naturally very fertile.

Even though he planted four pounds of seed per acre in 30-inch rows to insure an adequate stand, rains in May and early June made it necessary for him to replant.

The fine stand which eventually emerged in mid-June, after the usual slow start, "began to grow faster than careless weeds and became a very pretty crop," Sanders said.

He began irrigating when the sesame started blooming and irrigated a total of three times in addition to the preplanting irrigation. He is firmly convinced one more irrigation would have resulted in a considerably higher yield of seed.

The crop was farmed about like grain sorghum. It was rotary hoed, knifed once, cultivated once, and finally the irrigation middles were run. The crop matured in 110 days from planting date—which is faster than usual for this section of the state.

The field was cut with three-row broadcast binders during the first week of October and Mexican nationals were employed to place the bundles in shocks. Twenty to 40 bundles were placed in each shock in an effort to prevent them from being blown over by the wind. He believes now, however, that 20 to 25 bundles will stand up well and will be easier to handle at combine time.

The bundles were somewhat slow to dry in October and as a consequence, the field remained in the shock for about seven weeks before combining was begun. Sanders believes that earlier planting of sesame and smaller shocks would dry more quickly, but states that no significant loss of seed resulted from shattering while the sesame was waiting to be combined.

Cecil Tabers, custom combine operator from Muleshoe, did the combining, using two Model 90 self-propelled Massey-Harris combines to harvest the heavy-yielding sesame. Both machines were equipped with large wooden platforms which made the combining much easier and quicker and prevented loss of the valuable seed.

In a meeting described as "very important," members of the Friona School board will assemble at the school Monday night (February 4) to give further consideration to the needs of expanding in some manner the physical facilities of the system.

Invited to attend the meeting have been representatives of Butler-Kimmel, Lubbock architect firm, and Edwards Investment Company, investment specialists from Oklahoma City who have handled previous bond issues for the district.

Specifications on several expansion possibilities under consideration by the board will be submitted by the architects, together with their estimates on the cost of the several projects.

C. W. Sanders Named No. 1 Sesame Farmer

His combining cost was approximately $8.25 per acre and his total harvest cost about $13.50 per acre. He says it costs between $30 and $35 per acre to grow and harvest a sesame crop. On the basis of these figures he averaged about $90 an acre for his crop after all expenses were paid.

"I think sesame is a lot better money making crop than grain sorghum," he says. "We have wiped the harvesting problem, and there is less risk in harvesting sesame than wheat or sudan because sesame can stand so much punishment after you get it in the shock."

Sam Sanders, following his son's example, feels that his 1,000 pounds of sesame per acre on the 225 acres of land over in New Mexico is pretty good, but that he can do better in 1957. He plans to follow the same farming practices which have worked out so well for Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Claborn attended the Hereford Chamber of Commerce banquet last Thursday night, Claborn is president of the Friona chamber.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Ethridge represented Friona at the Clovis Chamber of Commerce banquet last week.

Pat Anthony Wins Homemaker Contest

Announcement was made in high school assembly Wednesday that Patsy Anthony is winner of the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow award in Friona High School.

She received the highest score in a written examination on homemaking knowledge and attitudes. The test was given to senior girls in the graduating class.

Patsy's exam paper will be entered in competition to name Texas' candidate for the title of All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and will also be considered for the runnerup award in the state. For her achievement she will receive an award pin designed by Trifari of New York. It was presented to her by Principal Raymond Cook.

General Mills sponsors the program. A total of $106,000 in scholarships will be awarded and each state winner will receive a $1500 scholarship. The runnerup will be given a $500 scholarship and the national winner will be the recipient of a $5,000 scholarship.

Patsy, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Anthony Sr., has been an FHA member since 1954. She has been active in the work of this organization, and was a delegate to the National FHA convention in Chicago last June.

CARD OF THANKS

Words are inadequate to express the appreciation we feel for the many kindnesses which have been shown us during our recent sorrow.

We are deeply grateful for the food, floral offerings, cards, letters, contributions to the memorial fund, words of encouragement and prayers of our friends and neighbors. None of them went unnoticed. Mrs. Marjore Magness, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Magness, Deniese and Jacquelyn

Northside HD Club Meets In Hough Home

The Northside Home Demonstration Club met Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Hough. Mrs. Hough and Mrs. Meryle Masie gave a demonstration on work simplification.

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served by Mary Roberts and Gladys Wright to Lauretta Brookfield, Zonah Bass, Dorothy Hough, Velma Lovett, Nellie Ray, Helma Ruth Shelton, Inez Sherey, Olive Massie, and Lucy Faye Cocanougher.

Mrs. Buster Lunsford and children of Farwell were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Watkins and Butch.

Higher production costs and large milk supplies will prevent any general uptrend in the 1957 net income for dairymen, says Extension Economist John G. McHaney. Improved technology and quality of cattle point to a higher rate of milk production per cow.

Good lawns don't happen. They are the product of considerable time and effort, says extension agronomist E. M. Trew. He lists a fertile soil, adapted lawn grasses and drainage along with proper watering, fertilization and mowing as essentials for establishing an attractive lawn.

Texas farmers in 1957 will continue to be in a price-cost squeeze, but crop restrictions and increased agricultural exports may tend to relieve pressure created by large surpluses of cotton and wheat, says extension economist John G. McHaney.

Make a list of your furnishings

Yes, we'll agree it's a dull chore. It's boring.

But every home owner ought to take time to make an inventory of his household furniture, clothes, books, etc. Now, tonight.

The average home owner guesses only a fraction of the real value of his things. The reason is, he acquired them one at a time over a period of years.

You should KNOW the worth of your possessions and increase your fire insurance on them to cover replacement at today's prices.

Don't guess. Make a list.

Youth Charged With Forgery

Chas. Lovelace, Farmer County sheriff, reports that Glynn Horn, a colored youth, has been brought to Farwell after being picked up in Friona by officers. He has been charged with forgery of a check on Deon Awtry of Friona.

Lovelace says he is also wanted in Clovis on a similar charge. The youth has been arraigned and bond set for $1000, and the case has been bound over to the grand jury, reports the sheriff.

FRESHMEN WIN

Friona freshmen boys won from Farwell in a game played there Thursday afternoon. The score was 39-32. That gives the boys an undefeated season, and they stand a good chance to remain that way the rest of the year.

No definite game commitment for this week has been made, says Coach Roy Simmons.

Seedling disease has cost Texas growers an estimated 426,000 bales of cotton during the past five seasons says a report from the Cotton Disease Council. Local county agents can supply information on the best known practices for halting these losses.

The Rhea Men's Club met Thursday evening for their regular business meeting. Following the meeting, the group played darts and Raymond Schueler served refreshments.

Friona, Farwell Split Two

A scoreless third quarter for the Friona Chiefs put the Farwell Steers on the road to a 42-30 win in a District 3-A contest at Friona Friday night. The win gave Farwell a split for the evening as the Friona Squaws topped the Farwell lasses 75-48 in the first game, of the twin bill.

The boys game was a low-scoring affair until the final period. Farwell jumped off to a 7-4 lead in the first period but the Chiefs came back to knot it up 18-18 at halftime. Being unable to connect for any points in the third period, the Chiefs fell behind the Steers 23-18 at the third-quarter mark, and a 19 point fourth quarter gave the Farwell team the win.

David Willard led the Steer scoring with 15 points and Johnny Lovelace netted 13. Weatherly and McLellan were high for the Chiefs with eight each.

In the preliminary game it was Friona all the way, jumping to a 22-9 lead in the first period and increasing it to 43-27 at halftime and 67-40 at the third-quarter mark.

Angela Williams and Mary Ann Walls each hit 16 points for Farwell and Johnnie Hand, Phyllis Dean, and Boggess led the winners with 24, 23, and 22 points respectively.

Both local squads begin the second round of district play at Sudan Friday night.

High school students at Friona Schools raised $47.80 for the March of Dimes last week, reports Raymond Cook, principal. The money was taken in during "Chinese Auctions," Thursday afternoon.

The auctions were held in the high school gymnasium, and nine cakes were auctioned off to various classes which bid on them.

After the bidding, the classes adjourned to the cafeteria where the prizes were eaten and a party was held.

The school home economics department made two of the cakes, Loretta O'Brian furnished one, and six student faculty congress girls baked one each to make a total of nine.

Principal Cook said this week he considered the response to the idea "pretty good."

B Team Loses To Farwell

Friona B boys basketball team lost a game to Farwell Thursday afternoon, 42-24. It was played there.

Quarter scores were: 8-10, 18-19, 32-20, and 42-24. Oddly enough, the Friona team led all the way up until the third quarter, when they fell behind in scoring. Friona hit only one point that quarter; Farwell made 14.

Bradley made eight points for the visitors and Williams bagged 12 for Farwell.

Springlake Visits Tomorrow Night

Springlake will be visiting here tomorrow (Friday) night for conference basketball games as the season moves into the last stretch. The Wolverines and their sister team dropped a doubleheader to the Chiefs and Squaws earlier in the season.

Those games were played on the 15th, and saw the Chiefs on top 49-44 and the Squaws win 69-34. Local fans are hoping for additional victories for the local teams, inasmuch as this duo of games will be played on the home court.

Morton also will be visiting in Friona next week. They will come for games Tuesday evening, both of which will be conference contests. Friona split the first series with Morton, the girls winning, the boys losing.

One Day Grace In School Census

Examination of the regulations on the annual school census this week by Dillie Kelley, Friona Schools superintendent, reveals that patrons have one day of "grace" in getting the returns in. Previously, it had been thought that today (Thursday) was the deadline, but Kelley says that it will be possible for entries on the census to be made up until midnight tomorrow (Friday).

"We want to make a last-minute appeal to anyone who may not have filled out a census blank, and urge them to do so before the deadline" requested the school administrator.

He pointed out that each child reported on the census entitles the local district to $77 in state educational funds. Blanks for the census are obtainable either at the school or at the tax office (Ethridge-Spring Agency).

Rebecca Class Meets With Mrs. Cogdill

The Rebecca class of the First Baptist Church met in the Bill Cogdill home Thursday afternoon. During the business meeting, plans were made for assistance which will be given to some needy Latin American families. The study was based on the book of Leviticus. Mrs. Charley Turner led the dismissal prayer. Refreshments of cake, mints, hot tea, and coffee were served by the hostess to Mesdames C. W. Dixon, Charley Turner, L. R. Dilger, Bert Chitwood, Elmer Euler, Eva Roberson, and J. M. Bradley.

The ever-increasing importance of fertilizer to the agricultural industry of Texas will be stressed from many standpoints during the annual Texas Fertilizer Conference scheduled for A & M's Memorial Student Center, January 8-9, 1957.

Scout News

Brownie Troop I met at the First Baptist Church Monday afternoon. These Brownies are working on the flag ceremony. Dixie Chitwood, who was hostess, served cookies to twelve Brownies and two leaders, Valoris Osborn and Ruth Terry. One member of this troop, Barbara Neff, has moved to Rockport, Texas.

Brownie Troop IB elected new officers at their Monday afternoon meeting. They are Glenda Mingus, president; Kathy Jones, secretary; Connie McKinney, song leader; and Judy England, reporter.

After the business session, the girls had a buzz session about their pets. Mrs. Ray White was a visitor. Shirley White served doughnuts. The two leaders, Mary Sheehan and Gay Jordan, and 15 Brownies were present.

Troop VIII met at the Congregational Church Monday afternoon. After a game session, the girls worked on the aluminum trays they are making. Wanda Ready, who was hostess, served cookies and pops to the leader, Helen Potts, and the following Scouts, Mary and Martha Knight, Linda Crow, Sharon Reeve, Linda Johnson, Cynthia Guinn, Brenda Deaton, Willene Baxter, Susan Perry, Cordelia Parr, and Joye Ann Ingram.

HIGH YIELDS IMPORTANT

High acre yields are more important than ever. Grain and forage supplies on most Texas farms and ranches are at a very low level because of the prolonged drought. Top yields are needed from next year's crops and pastures not only to replenish these supplies but also to help whip the cost-price squeeze, says M. K. Thornton, extension agricultural chemist.

"Thinking of Irrigation" is the title of a new Texas Agriculture Extension Service publication. Copies are available through the offices of local county agents. It was prepared especially for those contemplating an irrigation system for their farm.

National egg production in 1957 is likely to exceed record output of 169 million cases by about 2 percent. The lower egg prices of late 1956 are expected to continue through the first quarter of the new year.

GAME RESCHEDULED

The grade school games (boys and girls) originally scheduled with Sudan here, for Monday of this week have been moved up to this (Thursday) afternoon, reports Coach Tom Jarboe. The games will begin at 5. Postponement was made because of the Tim Magness funeral.

Local Residents Attend Banquet

Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Douglas and Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Bingham attended the annual Lubbock Real Estate Board banquet and installation of officers Friday evening. The guest speaker was Charles H. Lank, the Lum of the Lum

Abner team. Lank is now executive vice-president of Continental Oil Company.

SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Noel Wood, who is hospitalized due to a heart attack, is making satisfactory progress and expects to be dismissed soon.

The third annual short course, sponsored by the Department of Agricultural Engineering and the Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A & M College System, on grain drying and storage will be held on January 31 and February 1. All sessions scheduled for the day and a half meeting will be held in the Memorial Student Center on the A & M campus.

City Budget Delayed As City Dads Work

Loveless that he sends postal cards to persons out of town for the citations. "I tell them I have papers on them and ask them to come in," he said.

Crossfire then developed between Helton and Roberts. That had to do with the custody and jurisdiction problems involved in the "pickup" of a man in Friona last week who has been charged with forgery.

The man passed a check in Plains Hardware on Deon Awtry. It was determined to be fraudulent before the passer could leave town. At the time of the detection, the man was in the Bi-Wipe Drug awaiting the arrival of a bus which would take him out of town.

Businessmen, anxious to stop the man before he got away, were unable to reach Roberts, and Helton was called at his home. It was daytime and not Helton's regular working hours.

Helton responded to the call, picked the man up, and took him to the city jail. Shortly thereafter, Roberts arrived, released the man from jail and as a deputy took him into custody for the county.

This had raised questions in the mind of Helton and Judge Loveless over procedural matters.

Mention of this case triggered an episode of a few weeks back in which several men, suspected by Helton of driving while intoxicated, had been picked up by him and jailed. Roberts pointed out that DWI cases exceeded the jurisdictional boundaries of city court.

What constitutes evidence sufficient for a DWI charge then broke into the discussion, and Roberts told Helton he did not think the latter officer had sufficient reason to cause a DWI charge to be made.

The talk drifted along to the subject of police records, of which the city has had few since it installed a jail. Mayor Anthony said, "I want to have a record made of every person who is jailed and what the charge is." His request was verified by the remainder of the commission.

The commissioners asked Roberts what the outcome of their request that Friona be given a full-time deputy by the county had been, and the officer gave little hope for such a possibility.

(Sheriff Chas. Lovelace told The Star Wednesday that he wants to meet with the county commissioners "in open court" when they are in session, and that he has not taken the matter up with them in that manner. "We are still discussing it," he said.)

Judge Loveless said he would like to see a full-time daytime deputy in Friona, and Commissioner McFarland added his agreement.

The discussion moved back to the strained relations in the police department, and Roberts summarized his attitude with the remark, "It's okay with me any way you want to work things out." He said, however, "I went over to Hereford and got Herman to come help us out. If you didn't want to use me, you should have told me then." He was addressing the commission.

Roberts defended his action in taking the man to Farwell last week by saying, "Anytime I pick up one that belongs to the city, I bring him here."

Eventually, the commissioners decided to make Wilson (who serves as city manager although his official title is clerk) head of the police department and the officers responsible to him. That motion was offered by Baxter and it carried unanimously.

The two-hour debate over law enforcement over, the city dads were reminded of another painful problem: about $6,000 in delinquent taxes for the city. They were asked by Clerk Wilson as to what should be done about it.

The commissioners decided to send letters to delinquent taxpayers, reminding them once again that their payments are behind and that the city contemplates collection action.

Wilson pointed out that the city expects to have an additional $1200 to $2000 become delinquent February 1.

"It isn't right to let them get by with that," remarked Mayor Anthony as he pointed out that most citizens pay their city obligations promptly and without fuss.

No formal decision was made by the commission, but the trend of their talk seemed to indicate they are prepared to bring in an attorney and start legal action to recover back taxes after a reasonable warning on delinquencies has been given.

Delinquent payments on property assessments for curb and gutter along Highway 60 (when it was widened to four lanes through Friona) were discussed. The city here has $1600 in delinquent payments.

Again, the city dads agreed that the best thing to do was to write warning letters, and then start collection proceedings.

City Attorney Bill Sheehan was checked at his home by telephone and he reported that the city had lost its latest round in the Strickland right-of-way dispute. The city dads took this news without much sign of emotion and passed on to other matters.

Clerk Wilson told the fathers that the city is losing money with its grave opening and closing services (the city owns Friona Cemetery), and suggested that the fee be increased from $25 to $35.

His request was approved, and the price per lot in the cemetery now becomes $85 ($50 for the lot itself).

A petition was presented from Parmer County Community Hospital for street lights on Cleveland Avenue (running north from Highway 60 past the hospital.) Three lights will be required. The city okayed the petition.

The commissioners looked over a situation in which the city found itself blocking activities by the Santa Fe Railroad because of a conflict in building and plumbing codes.

The railroad was at work constructing three outdoor type privies near the section crew houses recently, when the city spotted the work and intervened at an early point.

The man supervising the job stopped work pending a decision by the commissioners on what to do in this situation. "I can't see how we could ask everyone else to comply and let the Santa Fe go," commented Mayor Anthony, and the commissioners agreed.

They upheld Wilson's stop-work order on the privies.

Clerk Wilson submitted a survey of time which he says the city uses for services it performs for Pioneer Natural Gas Company. This was a revival of a subject which brought considerable discussion at the last commission meeting.

Wilson has told the commission that the work for the company (the city gets $125 per month for it) has made it difficult for the city employees to get their regular work taken care of.

He has requested that the commissioners terminate the service and request Pioneer to go elsewhere for help, and the commissioners have instead considered increasing the charge for this service to a point where they think it could be profitable for the city.

"I believe we can show where it is costing us $125 a month to do the work," said Wilson. The commissioners instructed the clerk to correspond with Pioneer and request an increase to $200 monthly.

"I'm scared they'll take us up," said Wilson. He read off a long list of things the city is falling behind on. "If they do," replied McFarland, "it looks to me like we can hire some part time help to handle the extra work and let them (the extra labor) help you with some of the regular work that you've been behind on."

It was past 11 o'clock, and no one even mentioned the city budget as the commissioners filed out of the meeting room.

Inspection For Grade Building

Friona School's oldest building—the grade school—will get a "physical" pretty soon (possibly this week) to determine if the unit is structurally sound. Engineers from Lubbock will check details of the building and report to the school administration on its condition.

"I feel sure that the building will prove to be substantial," said Supt. Dillie Kelley this week. He added that the reason for the check is because since the school board is considering major revisions in the system's physical plant, they want to know the exact condition of the building. An inspection of this type has not been taken in recent years.

Last week, engineers went over the present heating system in the high school, and pronounced it adequate and in good condition to supply the needs of an addition to that building—if such an addition is decided upon by the board and the district patrons.

The whole countryside had taken on a "new look" Saturday morning. The trees were a beautiful, glittering sight, the wires looked like glass ropes, and a few flakes of snow were on the ground. Residents of this area almost never have the opportunity to see such sights as these.

The amount of moisture received was probably negligible, but what a little damp weather does for the people just cannot be measured. We have often wondered if people who live where snow and cold weather are common-place are always as alert and energetic as local people are when the weather gets bad.

Working in a newspaper office is far from a dull job, and we enjoy it very much. However, it has its bad moments, too. This past week has been "hectich." Maybe it was all the result of the bad start it got off to due to all the tragic incidents which occurred last weekend. Monday and Tuesday it was hard to find any cheerful news for the paper.

Then later in the week, a lot of confusion arose due to the new dictating machine which we have. The machine is a wonderful thing and will solve a lot of problems for us and learning to operate it has really been fun. Our difficulties have arisen from our own mistakes.

Think we will suggest to the manufacturer that the spools on which the tape is wound be numbered or come in different colors. Since all of the spools are identical, we got the ones that had been filled confused with the ones that had not.

The only disastrous effects of the confusion were some shattered nerves, and a few telephone calls.

The presence of the new machine has also caused a few amusing incidents. One day we were engaged in a telephone conversation with our editor. The report being given had some rather unusual details and upon his insistence we kept reading faster and faster—thinking all the time that he would surely lose out. The surprise came when he played our part of the conversation back to us. Like most everything else, the machine brought us some pleasure in spite of the inconvenience it caused. Perhaps it would be more nearly correct to say the inconvenience our inability to use it correctly caused.

One of the things which we admire about the people who live In And Around Friona is the frank manner in which they express their ideas, even though they are different than yours. What we can't understand is why they start running backwards when a suggestion is offered that the ideas be put in writing over a signature.

Several persons are strongly opposed to the suggestion that the name of the local girl's basketball team be changed. Anyone who desires to express an opinion on this subject, is invited to do so. This invitation also goes for letters on any subject our readers care to write about.

Won't somebody please give us some information? We have heard conflicting stories about our street cleaning equipment. Is it true that the City of Friona has adequate equipment for the cleaning of the streets?

The response to our January Clearance Sale has been good. We welcome all the new readers and invite them to offer any suggestions that they may have on how we can improve the Star.

Of course, the regular subscribers have a standing invitation to offer suggestions or comments also.

The BIBLE Says

"BELIEVE ON THE LORD JESUS, AND THOU SHALT BE SAVED, THOU AND THY HOUSE." (Acts 16:31)

To be saved is something which all seek in varying degrees. Some are sincere in their search to the extent that they put forth a great effort to know what to do to be saved. The above quotation is in answer to a question by such a seeker.

The men who answered the question for the man knew what it took for him to believe. They "spoke the word of the Lord unto him" and gave him something to believe. Faith in God and in Christ comes by understanding testimony concerning them. (See Romans 10:17) A simple belief of facts, alone, however, is not sufficient for salvation. The commands contained in the gospel are to be obeyed.

When this seeker after salvation believed in Christ he obeyed the command to be baptized. He did it immediately. It was the middle of the night but it mattered not. He both believed and was baptized. Was he saved?

Jesus, who died for our sins, and who set forth the conditions upon which we may enjoy forgiveness of sins, said, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that disbelieveth shall be condemned." (Mark 16:16)

"Easier" Schedule Faces Chieftains For Coming Season

"Any schedule that doesn't have Stinnett on it is an easier schedule than one which has Stinnett," remarked Football Coach Colie Huffman this week as he surveyed the coming year.

The coach was asked by a Star reporter to compare the 1957 schedule with the one just completed. That is when he made his reference to Stinnett, which blanked the Chiefs 27-0 in 1956, then went on to win their district, then bi-district, regional, and finally state in an easy rout of Hondo.

Friona picks up three "new-comers" to its schedule the coming year. They are Sunray, Amherst, and Happy—all non-conference contenders. The District 3-A conference remains unchanged from last year.

Sunray, another tough "oilfield town" aggregation from the North Plains, starts the season for the Chiefs, in a game played here September 6. Amherst also will play here the next weekend, and the Redskins will go to Happy the third week in September.

Whiteface, a team which dropped the Chiefs 19-0 last year, will again play the Chiefs, this year too on foreign soil—as was the case in 1956. October 4 is the only breather for the Chiefs.

White Deer, which beat Friona 33-13 in a Homecoming game here last year, will play host to the Chiefs October 11, and then the wearers of the red and white will settle down to competition with their neighbors, the Bovina Mustangs. Bovina fell 52-6 last year.

The Friona-Farwell game, the first conference tilt on the schedule, comes October 25, and will be played here. Farwell won that one 7-0 last year, and went on to take district.

November 1, it's Sudan then (conference). Sudan won 33-6 in 1956.

November 8, the Chiefs travel to Springlake (conference) to play a team which beat Friona 19-6 last year.

The final game, as was the case in 1956, will be with Morton. It will be played here November 15. Friona won 26-13 last year.

That makes a total of 10 games on the schedule—evenly divided as to the battlegrounds. Five will be at home, five away.

Lions Hear Ginsburg Speak on Taxation

"Tax Planning" was the subject of an address given before the Friona Lions Club by Robert N. Ginsburg Thursday evening. Ginsburg, a certified public accountant who has recently moved to Friona, spent most of his time talking about items on the field of taxation that were especially applicable to his audience.

"Taxpayers have the right to minimize their taxes," he told the group, as he pointed out some legal but often overlooked means of reducing the individual income tax bill.

Several members of the club participated in a brief and informal discussion that followed Ginsburg's remarks. He answered a number of questions in this session.

There were 26 Lions Clubbers present.

The illustration here is a corn plant, but the same differences would be noticed in the case of grain sorghum.

Landscaping Trees Available Again

Parmer County farmers who want to landscape their farms are again offered young evergreens through the Texas Forestry Service, advises County Agent Joe Jones.

“Don't get discouraged if you lost some of your trees in previous plantings,” the agent says. “It's not uncommon to have heavy losses with the first bare rooted trees you try to grow.”
He offered these suggestions on how to get maximum survival on plantings:

1. Don't let the roots freeze or dry out before trees are set.
2. Set trees in moist dirt and water immediately.
3. Provide some kind of windbreak. This should be done the day the trees are set out.
4. Water well every week or 10 days during the first year.
5. It is usually best to grow young trees in a bed near the house the first year. Be sure trees are not too close together.
6. Don't order more trees than can be taken care of properly.
7. Plan your windbreak well before you set trees out.
8. Don't order trees unless you want them bad enough to do the things necessary to make them live.

Application blanks are available at the agent's office. Species include Arizona Cypress, Austrian pine, Chinese elm, Ponderosa pine, red cedar, and honey locust. Price is $1.50 per hundred.
The shipping season ends April 1.

Tractors Added To Research Station

Farming activity at the High Plains station of the Texas Research Foundation was stepped up January 25 with the delivery of a second tractor and equipment from the Minneapolis-Moline Company. The first tractor with equipment was delivered by the John Deere Plow Company on January 11 and since that time has been used in deep breaking the land in preparation for the soils and crops research.

Dr. Johnny Davis, associate head of the station, says “We're getting started later than we had hoped to, but until the lease agreements on the land were signed, we could do no land preparation. Now that we are underway and have two tractors, the land preparation will go much faster. We hope to obtain a third tractor so all our research can be done on schedule.”

The tractors and farm equipment used on the research farm at Halfway are supplied by the manufacturers on a lease basis rather than purchase.

After the testing demonstration, a discussion period will be conducted. The meeting starts at 7:30.

THE HAPPY HOMEMAKER

At this time of year, a lot of farm people change places of residence. If you happen to be one who is changing your address this year, don't overlook the fact that as a mother you should make an effort toward helping your child or children adjust to a new location.

Of course, if your children are pre-school age, you have very little to worry about. Fortunately, most children feel like the little boy who was asked, “Son, where is your home?” His reply was, “Oh! Just wherever my mother is.”

With older children, though, it is different. Too many parents make the mistake of planning a move and keeping everything “hush-hush” until everything is cut and dried then announce to the children that the move will be made on a certain date.

Like a lot of other things, children need to be prepared for a move. If mothers take time to explain to the children that a move is being planned, that they will go to a new school, and a different Sunday School class, a lot of difficulties can be avoided.

Sometimes the mothers share the children's idea that to move is an unpleasant thing. This makes the move doubly hard on the father. In such a case, the mother should make every effort to make whatever adjustment necessary and to help her children do likewise.

This could be done by thinking about and pointing out to the children the pleasant things which are bound to happen. There is a very enjoyable side to making a new home, as well as the unpleasant side.

You might point out to the children that even though they move away from their friends and playmates, they will soon make new ones. Making new friends can be a wonderful experience, so if it is your lot to be one of the homemakers who are beginning your career in a new place, make the most of it for yourself, as well as for the rest of the family.

When you want to mail a letter and the only stamp you can find is one that will not stick, just moisten it lightly then rub it gently across the flap of an envelope. Enough glue will stick to the stamp to keep it in its proper place without doing any harm to the envelope.

If you have ever wondered about what kind of brown sugar you were supposed to use in a recipe that calls for brown sugar, think we have the answer for you. In a leaflet we read recently it was stated that it was a general practice to specify any degree of brownness except the light brown. Hence if you are not supposed to use the light brown variety, the recipe should specify which one you are supposed to use.

As most mothers of children know, it is hard to think of things to keep them busy with when it is necessary for them to stay in bed. If it is necessary for a child to stay in bed over a long period of time, he will enjoy a bedside garden. The garden can be easily made with a coffee can or almost any kind or size can that is available. Flower or vegetable seeds need only warmth and moisture to sprout and will come up within a few days. Several varieties can be planted in the same container. This makes it more interesting when they begin to come up.

Someone has said, “Children are those creatures who are sent to bed at night when they are not sleepy, then made to get up the next morning when they are.”

Those of us who have small children in school could take a tip from the ladies who serve our children in the cafeteria. The foods which the children consistently refuse to eat could be added to our shopping list with the idea in mind of teaching the children, by our example, to eat them.

Good eating habits, like so many others, should begin at home. If we have gotten into a rut by serving the same things over and over again until the children hardly eat anything else, it may be time for us to make a new beginning.

If you think you are spending too much for groceries, it might be wise for you to check up on how much of the grocery bill is actually for groceries and how much is for “maid's work.” Most of the items on the grocery store shelves which are higher than they were a few years ago are items which are designed to take the work out of cooking.

When we buy ready-mixed, pre-cooked or partially cooked products we are paying someone else to do the work for us and not for the food. Those of us who cannot afford to pay for this “maid service” will just have to do without these items.

If present indications are carried out, the 1957 turkey crop could exceed the record crop of last year. Producers are urged to study the demand and supply situation in planning for the year ahead.

“The Place Where Most People Trade” Friona, Texas—Wednesday, January 30, 1957

Ralph Smith and Earnest Anthony went to Springfield, Missouri, to get some IH pickups for the Parmer County Implement Company last week. All the transport drivers are on a strike. When the Friona men got to Springfield they went into what they thought was the truck company office and after they'd inquired about driving the pickups home they got their pickups out in a hurry. They'd heard of what happened to fellows who tried to break a strike.

Modern Ag'culture Day Set

A special farmers meeting, called "Modern Agriculture Day," is just over the horizon. It is, believes County Agent Joe Jones, a meeting that many farmers of the area will be interested in attending.

The meeting, which will be Tuesday, February 12, at the high school auditorium in Friona, is sponsored jointly by the Burlington Railway and the Extension Service. Four speakers noted for competence in their fields will be on the agenda.

Trends in modern agriculture will be emphasized through the program, and recent developments, plus a look into the future, will be highlighted. The session begins at 1:30, and is expected to last until 4 p. m. or a little later. No field tours are planned.

THE PARMER FARMER

The third and final map of a series on underground water storage for the High Plains has been released by the High Plains Water District. This map shows the decline in feet of water table from 1938 through 1956.

Most landowners will be relieved to know that Parmer County shows less decline than any other in the District, in proportion to the water in storage. Records of the District indicate that our table has dropped from 10 to 20 feet all over the county. There also are "spots" in the county where the decline is figured to be from 20 to 40 feet in those 18 years.

The largest of these four spots is shown to be in a northwest-southwest direction with Friona at about the center of the decline. This spot is about 20 miles long and from five to eight miles wide.

However, compared with other counties which have resources and development anywhere near as great as ours, Parmer County is in a very favorable light. Hale County indicates the greatest depletion of resources. Declines there range from 0 to 80 feet, with most of the heavily irrigated area dropping about 50 feet. There are no such areas in Parmer County.

Greatest decline on the Plains is in a small area west of Lockney in Floyd County. There, hydrologists have measured a decline of over 80 feet in the 18 years!

With the greatest storage of any county on the Plains, and with the most favorable depletion records of any too, this vicinity should continue to enjoy very favorable consideration from prospective land buyers.

Our optimism about conditions, however, should be tempered by what we can plainly see has happened in the older irrigated areas. These conditions will, inevitably, come to us. Our goal should be to lengthen the time that complete depletion arrives by sensible use and conservation of our greatest natural resource.

With proper utilization, we should measure the use of our underground water in terms of generations instead of years. This is the greatest challenge to the ingenuity of High Plains farmers that there is, the need to make a little money from year to year notwithstanding.

The Veterans Land Board asked us this week to remind veterans of our area that they have until February 5 to submit bids on 56 tracts of land which the Board has for sale.

Land Commissioner Earl Rudder, who is chairman of the Board, says vets are not required to obtain an application number to purchase any of these tracts.

The lands to be sold are located in all sections of the state, and have been forfeited by original owners who purchased the property through the veteran's land program.

For further information, inquire of the VLB at Austin.

Railroads of the country have spent $12,000,000,000 (billion) since the close of World War II on improvements, equipment and research. About $1.3 billion was spent in 1956.

If your curtains shrank after the first laundering and now hang short and uneven along the bottom, adjust the hems just as you would on a skirt. Remove stitching from bottom hems and press the fabric flat. Then hang the curtains on the rod and arrange pleats or gathers in place. Use a yardstick to measure the distance from floor to window sill, or to level desired. With the yardstick and pins, measure the distance across and place pins horizontally along the bottom of each curtain, just as dressmakers do in "hanging" a skirt on the wearer. After pinning, remove curtains from rod, turn hem up along line of pins and pin in place. Press and hem.

Some of you may be having trouble with decrease of steam coming from your steam iron. The cause of this is usually because of minerals accumulating in your steam iron, so try this—put a mixture of vinegar and water (half and half) into the reservoir. Heat for about 30 minutes at 30 degrees F. (rayon setting). After the iron cools, flush the reservoir several times with clear water.

News that Texas Wheat Growers Association agreed to dismiss pressing for their proposed two-price system for wheat until the USDA's Soil Bank plan has had time to prove itself is, we think, good news. The association was begun with the support of Farm Bureau leaders back in 1952, we believe it was. The first meeting we knew of was held in the Amarillo Hotel. From that grew the National Wheat Grower's Association, of which Mr. Kendricks, one of its first leaders in Texas, is president.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

In a few days most of you will be receiving a district News Letter on farmstead wind breaks. We have been having inquiries on trees and planting arrangements lately and we hope this letter will be of help to you in planning your windbreak.

The district, in cooperation with the Lubbock County Soil Conservation district, is making Arizona cypress seedlings available to you again this year. These trees are potted and will be of very good stock. They will do better than most trees you get that are bare rooted. They will cost 30 cents each.

People who got these trees last year have had good luck with them.

Those of you who are interested in larger trees may purchase Arizona cypress from 18 to 24 inches high for $1.00 each. These trees are ready to go now. We can take your order now for these. The delivery date on the potted Arizona cypress will be on or around May 1, 1957.

Interstate Commerce Commission report of November 21, 1956 disclosed that 89.8 percent of trucks last checked had one or more defects or deficiencies.

Farmers Union SPEAKS

By W. L. EDELMON

It is interesting to note that the budget recommendation made by the president did not change after he visited the drought area. The budget had been prepared before his visit to this area and was not subsequently changed.

A most significant change has been made, however, from the Republican past in his "modern Republicanism" he promises to establish in his second term. The general direction that it lays out in U. S. foreign policy and programs extends in a completely new direction from that followed before this by a big majority of the president's party as well as that of his first term.

The "Fortress America" concept of former President Hoover, which calls for America to isolate itself and arm behind its shores, without seeking allies, was dramatically tossed aside when the president declared in the presence of Mr. Hoover in his recent Inaugural address:

"No nation can longer be a fortress, lone and strong and safe. And any people, seeking such shelter for themselves, can now build only their prison."

Three main points in the president's statement closely correspond to the position endorsed in the Farmers Union's action program adopted by delegates at its national convention last March:

1. Support for the United Nations.
- (NFU convention delegates declared: "We urge expansion and improvement of the functions of the United Nations and its specialized agencies such as the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).")
- (In his Inaugural address, the President declared: "We are... pledged to honor, and to strive to fortify, the authority of the United Nations. For in that body rests the best hope of our age for the assertion of that law by which all nations may live in dignity.")

2. Aid by the United States to help eradicate poverty and human misery in other countries.

(The NFU convention declared: "We urge enactment of long term legislation directing the use of the tremendous strength of U. S. food, technology, and capital toward aiding the wholesome economic development of less fortunate nations of the world.")

(President Eisenhower stated: "We must use our skills and knowledge, and at times our substance, to help others to rise from misery, however far the scene of suffering may be from our shores. For wherever in the world a people knows desperate want, there must appear at least the spark of hope, the hope of progress—or there will surely rise at last the flames of conflict.")

3. Aid by the U. S. to other people in attaining and preserving justice.

(The NFU convention stated: "The U. S. must live up to its responsibilities as the world's most fortunate independent democracy by shaping a foreign policy that will dignify and promote the attainment of human rights and aspirations... the U. S. should demonstrate its willingness to lead the way to permanent peace with a positive program aimed at abolishing the reasons for war, including—but not limited to—efforts to ease and ultimately eliminate starvation, human exploitation, feudalism, dictatorship, bad tenure systems, discrimination and all other injustices and threats to permanent peace consistent with non dictatorial and non-oppressive governments.")

(President Eisenhower stated: "In too much of the world there is want, discord, danger. New forces and new nations stir and strive across the earth, with power to bring by their fate, great good or great evil to the free world's future.")

("We look upon this shaken earth, and we declare our firm and fixed purpose—the building of a peace with justice in a world where moral law prevails...")

("...we are called to act a responsible role in the world's great concerns or conflicts... We cherish our friendship with all nations that are or would be free. We respect, no less, their independence. And when, in time of want or peril, they ask our help, they may honorably receive it; for we no more seek to buy their sovereignty than we would sell our own...")

Although we heartily endorse the above portion of the President's changed program, there are two significant phases of an adequate program that have not been declared:

1. We strongly urge that U. S. economic aid and technical assistance "must be kept entirely separate from the necessary military devices of foreign policy."

2. Farmers Union has urged that international programs to stabilize prices of agriculture products and other raw materials at fair levels are basic to world economic development and peaceful stability.

Stabilization of prices at a fair price is the exact opposite of free markets which will be dominated by cartels at the expense of the producers. Exploitation, poverty, and unrest are just as certain to be the consequence of an international cartel-dominated market for raw material producing countries as the so-called "free market" is for the U. S. farmers.

INCREASED RETURNS

Range management demonstrations conducted last year under the supervision of local county agents involved 3,469,105 acres of Texas rangelands and because of the improved practices used, increased the returns or savings to ranchmen by approximately four and a quarter million dollars, say extension range specialists A. H. Walker and G. O. Hoffman. A total of 10,734 ranch operators in 225 counties received assistance during the past year on range management problems.

You can run your MM engine at full-load, full-time with a generous power reserve. Large piston displacement together with conservative piston speed and high combustion pressure produce heavy duty, long-life performance.

Claim Exemptions For Self, Dependents

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax filing. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Accountants and the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service.)

Many people overpay their taxes because they cheat themselves on personal exemptions.

Here is how to count your exemptions (each one takes $600 off your taxable income):

One exemption for yourself, two if you are 65 or over, two if you are blind, three if you are both 65 and blind. The same applies to your husband or wife.

If your husband or wife died during 1956 you can still file a joint return claiming the exemptions including those for age or blindness, to which the deceased would have been entitled at the time of death.

Who Qualifies
One exemption of $600 can be taken for each person who fits the definition of a dependent. This $600 is not doubled for age or blindness, however, as in the case of your personal exemption.

To count for an exemption, the dependent must:

(1) Have less than $600 gross income for 1956 (except that this does not apply to your child if he is under 19 or is a full-time student).

(2) Have received more than half of his support from you, unless you file a Multiple Support Agreement (see below).

(3) Not file a joint return.

(4) Be either a citizen of the U. S. or a resident of the U. S., Canada, Mexico, Canal Zone, Panama and in some cases, a serviceman's child living in the Philippines.

(5) Live with you (absence while attending school does not interfere) or be a close relative as defined in the instruction book or be a cousin receiving institutional care for a mental or physical disability who had lived with you before going to the institution.

Multiple Support Agreements
If you shared with others in the support of a dependent, but none of you provided more than half the support, you may still be able to arrange among you for one of the group to have the $600 exemption. You might agree, for example, to take turns in having the exemption from year to year.

The one who claims the exemption must have contributed more than 10 percent of the support, and he must be a member of a group who altogether provided more than half support, and that person must have been entitled to claim that dependent except for the requirement of providing more than half support.

In order for one of the group to have the exemption all other members of the group who contributed more than 10 percent must sign declarations that they will not claim the dependent. The Internal Revenue Service provides Form 2120 (Multiple Support Agreement) for this purpose.

Children and Disabled Dependents
There is a deduction of as much as $600 for care of children under 12 while the breadwinner works. This child-care deduction is available to mothers, widows, divorced and legally separated persons, who are allowed to deduct expenses paid to someone other than a dependent for the care of a son, daughter, stepson or stepdaughter under the age limit. This regulation also applies to any dependent of any age who is mentally or physically incapacitated.

A working wife is entitled to this deduction if her husband is physically or mentally incapable of providing support. Where the husband is not disabled, the working wife may also take the child-care deduction only if a joint return is filed, and the $600 limit must be reduced by the amount the couple's gross income exceeds $4500. It should be kept in mind that you can't take this deduction if you take the standard 10 percent deduction.
