Our Last Day in Southern California

After reaching Redlands, while it was rather late, we called on a former citizen of Brownfield, Mrs. Ruth Brown, who with her brother and his wife, occupy some nice apartments on Olive street. We found her folks, both Texans, to be very nice people, and they entertained us very nicely. Ruth holds down a good job with a beauty parlor which is run in connection with a department store. It was a late hour when we retired at the Holden home, and we had planned a picnic for the next day.

By nine Sunday morning, the gang begin to arrive, Luther and family, Hartwell and family, Bill and family. Roy and wife were to have come up from Los Angeles, and R. V. from up in the northern part of the state, but by some means, they missed connection. We left for a cove back between two mountains some six or seven miles from town. Here the trees and grass were green, the wild flowers in bloom, the birds singing, and the bees—well they'd sting. It was a lovely place for a picnic as you could find. A great flame comes down out of that high mountain, surges among some big turbine engines, which in turn creates power and lights for the cities, and on it comes, down a concrete trough with open top, racing and singing into a pool at our feet that was as clear as crystal, and ice cold. The surrounding terrain was rock and real sand, and no soil to soil your clothes.

Much time was spent exploring the country, but just past us were invited to "fall" ladies sure had provided what would tickle your palate, brought in a lot of real sun tomatoes from the "ranch," —did we devour our share of them? After lunch some more exploring, and some of the ladies formed a nudist colony, but off to themselves, of course, and took sun baths on the sand back in the thicket. We men were commanded to give that thicket a wide berth, and did. Others tried their skill at mountain-climbing, Miss Ruth proving the best as she went out of sight up a fire ranger path. The kids had great time wading, but the water was most too cold, and more time was spent on the sand.

Somewhere past mid-afternoon, the crowd returned to town and spent the rest of the daylight hour sightseeing the pretty parks and school and university grounds and making pictures. That was a day spent and long to be remembered by us Texans, especially. All hands stayed for dinner and till late bedtime, as we Texans were to hit the long, long trail homeward next day, and had it in mind to drop down through the Imperial Valley and El Centro, into Arizona at Yuma, and into Glendale Monday night. That meant a jaunt of more than 500 miles.

So, we went to bed rather early, as Alpha also had to catch an early car for Los Angeles next morning. So, this will have to satisfy you for this week.

E. BROWN THANKS VOTERS

To the Voters of the City of Brownfield:

Through the columns of the Herald I wish to thank each and every one for their loyal support in the recent city election.

E. Brown.

BROWNFIELD MAKES ATTRACTIVE WATER RATE

The little city of Brownfield is able to offer her citizens a much more attractive summer water rate than does Big Spring.

The summer rate from April 1st to September 1st, gives one 10,000 gallons at a rate of $2 per month. Minimum 5,000 gallons $1.50. All excess of 5,000 gallons at 10 cents per 1,000 gallons.—Big Spring News.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC

To the Tax Collector:

You will recall that from time to time since 1930, the Legislature has been suspending interest and penalties on Delinquent Taxes. Last May, the last measure of this kind was enacted, which provided a 2% penalty on all ad valorem taxes delinquent on February 1, 1933, (later they included the split tax payments which became delinquent on July 1, 1933), if paid by December 30, 1933, and 4% penalty, if paid by March 31, 1934; and 6%, if paid by June 30, 1934. After this June 30, 1934, expiration date, the old law prescribing 10% penalties and 6% interest per year, will again be in force.

This means that on and after July 1, 1934, this year, the penalty and interest you will be required to charge will not be 6%, but will include 6% interest per annum from the date it was first delinquent, plus 10% penalty. For example:

30% will be added to 1930 Delinquent Taxes

24% will be added to 1931 Delinquent Taxes

18% will be added to 1932 Delinquent Taxes

(A delinquent cost will also accrue in addition to the above).

In as much as the tax paying public may not understand the law, I suggest that you give this matter as much publicity as possible, in order to bring to the attention of the tax payer the great saving, if they take advantage of the remaining period, which expires June 30, 1934.

With kindest regards, I am,
Yours very truly,
Geo. H. Sheppard,
Comptroller of Public Accounts.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R. ABOLISHES COMPANY UNION

Company unionism on the Missouri Pacific railway has passed out of existence and the former officials of the mechanical department association as well as the trustees of the system are urging the men to join standard labor organizations, stating that not only will the workers receive proper protection but the best interest of the Missouri Pacific will be promoted by the re-establishment of the standard unions on the system.

SOME RAILROADS ENJOYING PROSPERITY

The first 27 railroads to report for February show net operating income of $9,812,000; almost three times that of the same month in 1933. The exact gain is figured by experts at 193 per cent.

This isn't doing so bad in the face of present conditions.

Senator Arthur P. Duggan Here Friday

State Senator Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield, and candidate for Congressman of the new 19 district, which also includes this county, was here last Friday, visiting among the people. Mr. Duggan has been a great help to the people of this county at Austin. It is said by our county officials and others who have had business down there with the highway or other departments and commissions, that Mr. Duggan was always ready and willing to go with them, and render every assistance possible.

Senator Duggan informed us that he was recently out at Phoenix, Arizona, and found that the Panhandle gas fields are being tapped to supply gas to that section. Already it is going to St. Louis, Chicago and intermediate points, not to mention Denver and that section. In other words, Texas is literally being drained of its natural resources without a penny income to the state. If elected to congress, Mr. Duggan promises to work for a bill that will allow each state to protect its own resources at the state line.

He says that some now hold that inasmuch as this is considered interstate commerce, that one state has no right to hold up oil or gas at a state line for tax purposes, but he believes that a new law or amendment can be passed that will allow each state to tax natural gas that goes out of the state. He believes that such a law would bring at least a million dollars per year into the coffers of Texas.

If something like this is not done, one of these days we are going to see the Panhandle and other gas producing sections of our state drained of gas, and we will be sitting high and dry out here, and will have to go back to coal or freeze.

Banks Advertising For Loans Something New

The fact that the First National Bank of this city advertised for farm loans recently has created quite a lot of comment, as such has not been seen or heard of for the past several years. The Herald has had inquiries for copies of the paper containing the ad from business men, traveling salesmen and others that make this city.

Mr. W. R. McDuffie informed us that with the land banks and other federal departments making so many loans to farmers, that it was a matter of business with banks to ask for share of the business or have none, and that his bank was in position to make some good loans to local farmers. Of course he wants secured loans the same as always. Of course you will get your loan through quicker at the local banks.

It is rather rare too, for banks to advertise to buy warrants that have for the past few years had a very slow sale in this section.

TEXAS GOES INTO SECOND PLACE MINERAL PRODUCTION

Accounting for 17.1 per cent of the entire mineral production of the United States, Texas for 1932 went into second place among the States with a total value of $389,963,183, in round numbers only $35,000,000 behind the Pennsylvania total. California was third, more than $113,000,000 behind the Texas record.

Petroleum, sulphur and natural gas—in the production of all three of which Texas has a dominant lead—accounted for the Texas advance in rank, and the substitution of gas and petroleum for fuel had much to do with Pennsylvania's decrease.

All Old Trustees Are Re-Elected

Unlike the city election on Tuesday, April 3, the election for trustees of the Brownfield Independent School District last Saturday was a tame affair there being only 101 ballots cast, whereas there could have been more than in the city election, as the school district extends out in the country a few miles. But the people seemed to be pleased with the present administration, and only one other name was placed on the ballot.

We learned two weeks ago that the present trustees were again getting the district on its feet, when Clyde Coleman, secretary informed us that the district was now running on a cash basis for the first time in two years, and meeting all current expenses. At the same time, he informed us, they are meeting several thousand dollars of old debts rather fast. It is now believed that with the present economy plan, and a good crop with fair prices in the district, that another year will see the Brownfield Independent well on its way to normalcy, with all debts due liquidated, and money to pay the teachers at all times without discounting.

This is certainly some change from the conditions that existed a year ago when teachers received only about 50 per cent of their salaries, and school vouchers had to carry a heavy discount. And, too, with better conditions, we stand in on fear of cancellation of our fine affiliations with other schools and colleges. The results of the election Saturday, according to Mr. Coleman, is as follows:

Walter Gracey	85
Claude Hudgens	75
Clyde Lewis	71
Jack Holt	53

There were a few scattering votes for others, mostly about one each, that had been written in.

Fowler Decides to Enter Sheriff Race

A. T. (Arch) Fowler called on the Herald this week, and stated that he had decided to make the race for sheriff, tax-collector and assessor of Terry county, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July. He stated he had no long statement to make, as he had been a citizen of the county some 20 years, and was known to most of the citizens. He further stated that most of his neighbors and friends know his record and experience as a peace officer and as a citizen, and that they can tell others that wish to ask about him.

He will later make a canvas of the county, at which time he will endeavor to meet the voters face to face, so that they may ask any question of him they wish. He respectfully asks that you give his candidacy due consideration before making up your mind how you will cast your vote at the primary in July.

DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Little Alice Joyce Davis, 7, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Davis of this city, passed away Monday evening at 8:30 from the effects of double pneumonia. Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon, with Rev. J. B. Vinson in charge. The body was laid to rest following in the Brownfield cemetery.

New City Officers Take Offices Monday

A Herald representative together with several other citizens, were on hand Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, to see the new city officers installed. After a few preliminary remarks, and the business wound up for the day, Mayor W. A. Bell called for the secretary to read the results of the election, which indicated that L. C. Wines was elected Mayor, E. Brown, City Marshal, and Ches. Gore and Tom Cobb, Aldermen.

A vote was then taken on seating them, which carried, whereupon oaths were passed out to the elects to be signed. At this juncture, Mayor Bell made a nice little talk, in which he congratulated his successor, and promised a 100 percent cooperation with him in order that the business of the city be promoted. Cliff Fitzgerald then turned the keys of his office over to Gene Brown, thanked him for his help, and promised to lend Mr. Brown his assistance at any time.

The Herald certainly appreciates the fact that we have men big enough that although defeated, they can promise their successors full cooperation for the advancement of the city. It is believed that the new line up will prove entirely harmonious in every way, and that there will not likely be any changes in the utility or clerical force of the city at this time. We left the city office at the time the new officers were installed, but learned that a very harmonious meeting was held.

The Herald stands ready at all times to assist the new administration in the way of publicity it can.

Approval of Cotton Contracts Rushed

College Station—Every effort is being made by district cotton review committees and the state review board to rush county cotton contract approvals through to completion in order that Government checks may begin pouring into Texas in April if possible, says the Extension Service at Texas A and M College. The first payment of 1934 benefits should amount to more than $15,000,000 in Texas.

The long drawn out campaign showed up the making of final county summaries and their checks and approval by district committees and the state review board, it is pointed out. Clerical forces have been doubled in district offices to speed the approval process, which cannot be completed until county figures are put in line with known production data of the U. S. Bureau of Crop Estimates.

State's Neglect of Cripples Rebuked

AUSTIN, April 5.—The legislature's penury of granting $10,000 a year for the treatment and care of 20,000 crippled children—while it was dealing out over half a million dollars for cattle fever tick work—has been rebuked from both within and without the legislative halls.

Senator Margie Neal has accepted state chairmanship of the White Cross seal campaign, officially endorsed by President Roosevelt and Governor Ferguson as an outgrowth of the Roosevelt birthday benefit program and in messages to civic and other groups has protested the legislature's failure to deal in any adequate way with this human problem.

Texans Apparently Like Tennessee Snuff

DALLAS, April 4.—No cigarettes for grandma or grandpa. She or he will take snuff, thank you.

J. A. Thomas of Memphis, Tenn., traffic manager for the American Snuff Company, said his company ships 1,000 pounds to Texas a month.

Governor Gives Parhurst Pardon

Austin, March 31.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today granted a full pardon to D. A. Parkhurst, convicted of criminal assault in Lynn county in October, 1933, and sentenced to five years.

Herald Carrying a Two Page Booster Ad

A Mr. Parks was here last week and got up a double-spread booster ad for the Herald, which is in this issue. Before he started out, we had an understanding with him that he would use no "high pressure" methods to sell the space, and so far as we have been able to learn, he did not, but treated each customer fairly and squarely, stating facts, and did not bore them for an ad after they told them they did not want one. He came to us well recommended by other papers of this section, was the only reason we permitted him to go ahead.

We will state however, that this was the first or second time in the history of the Herald that we have ever permitted this method of advertising, and still don't intend to make a habit of it, unless we get it up ourselves. However, we will state that we have enlarged the ads that everyone is getting full space for his money.

To the readers of the Herald, we ask that you read these ads as well as the other ads that appear from time to time in the Herald, and patronize them. We will state further, that if you have no ad in the two page spread or elsewhere in this issue, we have no hard feeling

THE FORD CAR AND W. B. (RED) TUDOR

Red Tudor, proprietor of the Tudor Garage as well as the Ford Sales and Service, is the oldest automobile sales agency in the city, and the name "Tudor" and "Ford" are as inseparably wrapped together in Brownfield almost as man and wife. In fact, they started together here way back about the U. S. A. was tangling up with the Old Kaiser. He and his good wife through prosperity and depression have served the people of this section with this famous car, and have at all time been willing and ready to make satisfactory adjustments when they were deserved or needed, and this has been rare, for Ford Automobiles seldom demand adjustments.

Their repair department has always been in charge of men who know every working part of the Ford car, and how it should function, and if these workmen cannot make good, they are changed for men who can.

The Progressive Review indorses the Tudor (Ford) Sales and Service Company.

THE PASSING OF
MISS RUBY HOLCOMBE

In the untimely passing of Miss Ruby Charlene Holcombe all Brownfield and surrounding communities were grieved and shocked. Some three weeks had passed since her serious operation, and she was expecting to be moved from the sanitarium in a day or so. But on Monday before her going on Wednesday, complications set up, so Wednesday, March 28 at 2:30 p. m., the grim reaper took her "spirit to God who gave it."

Miss Ruby was loved and respected by her entire acquaintance. She maintained happy and sunshiny disposition always—even until the last. Her popularity was attested by the large audience that attended her funeral and the profuse and most beautiful floral offering.

Miss Ruby Charlene Holcombe, the daughter of Mr. A. C. Holcombe, of this county, was born in Howard County, Arkansas, December 1, 1912, and came with her parents to Terry County, Texas, in October of 1919.

living the remainder of her life here. She was graduated from Brownfield High in 1929; attended West Texas State Teachers College a year and one summer; was teaching her second term with Brother Alvin Mitchell in the Harmony school. In May, 1933, under the preaching of C. R. Nichol, in Brownfield, she became a member of the church of Christ, in which she completed a beautiful, faithful, Christian life.

Funeral services were conducted from the meeting house of the church of Christ in Brownfield on Thursday, 3 p. m., March 29, by the minister, O. M. Reynolds, assisted by Brother Alvin Mitchell. A quartette composed of Dick Chisholm, Bessie Chisholm, Ira Jones and O. M. Reynolds, sang "What A Friend;" "God Will Take Care of You;" and "In the Sweet Bye and Bye." The speaker emphasized sin in the world has caused all death and trouble; that this is a land of dying; that life is very brief and uncertain; that, therefore, the "one thing" in life is to "fear God and keep his commandments."

WE BELIEVE IN AMERICA

We get a little tired sometimes of hearing people run down America. In the newspapers and magazines that come to our attention we see many articles which appear to have been written for the purpose of making readers believe that the United States is on its last legs, that we have got to discard everything that has been done in the past and change the whole nation over into something modeled on Russia or Italy or Germany, or we're going to be sunk. And there is no end of the books, novels and others, whose sole theme is that we Americans are a pretty low-grade, incompetent set of ignoramuses, lacking in "culture" and intelligence, not to be compared with the enlightened and highly-utlized citizenry of other nations.

We do not believe the authors of these books, stories and articles mean precisely what they seem to imply. If we thought so for a minute we would be glad to join a movement to banish them to other countries that they think are so superior to our own. Rightly understood, much of this sort of talk springs from the peculiar American passion for self-improvement. It has its roots in the same urge that sent our ancestors from other countries to this one, the urge to find a better way of life. These gentlemen see defects in our civilization—which everyone must admit there are—and by magnifying those defects hope that the public will be sufficiently stirred up to do something about them. But the net effect of these diatribes upon the young and impressionable is to make them feel inferior to the people of other lands, and to regard their country as rather a low sort of place in which to live.

There is nothing wrong with America! We say that in the full knowledge that there are still a great many people who have a hard struggle to make both ends meet. Whatever is wrong with America, we are ten times better off than the people of any other country we know anything about. And, whatever, may be wrong with our country, there is a distinctly American way of fixing it, and the American people now, as they have always done in the past, will find and apply their own remedies, which will not be remedies prescribed by either Dr. Stalin, Dr. Hitler, or Dr. Mussolini.—State Line Tribune.

RED GOOSE—THE OJIBWA INDIAN BOY

By Carlyle Emory

An Indian Story for Boys and Girls

By a clever trick, Red Goose burns an arrowhead on a stick like the birthmark on Betty's left shoulder. This impresses Twisted Nose, who goes to see if Betty really has the brand on her skin . . .

Now go with the story.

Twisted Nose was approaching with Betty, and as the men from the Fort saw the little daughter of their Commander, alive and safe, they sent up silent prayer of thankfulness.

"What did Twisted Nose find?" asked Red Goose.

The Big Sioux pushed Betty away from him. "Ugh!" he said "Ojibwa is right. Arrowhead on shoulder like he says. That is bad medicine for Sioux. Take Paleface away quick!"

"It worked!" chuckled Bill to himself. "Boy, oh boy! What a clever youngster that kid is!"

And so, two days later, the searching party returned to the Fort with Betty, none the worse for her thrilling adventure.

Captain Roberts could hardly believe his eyes when he saw the men riding to the Fort with Betty up in front of Red Goose on his pony.

He rushed eagerly to meet them and hugged his little daughter so closely to his breast, he almost hurt her.

"But tell me," he said, "How in the world did you ever get her away from the Sioux?

"We didn't get her away, Captain," said Bill, grinning from ear to ear. "You can thank Red Goose here that your daughter is back home safe and fine as a fiddle. That kid has more brains than all the Sioux in the country."

Captain Roberts insisted on hearing every single detail of the story, and when at last the story was finished, he hugged Red Goose just as tightly as he had hugged his daughter.

"What can I do for you, Red Goose," he said, "I can never repay you, of course, but isn't there some way I can show my gratitude and appreciation?"

"Betty is safe. That much more than anything you could give Red Goose. Red Goose promise to bring Betty back. Good brave never breaks a promise."

"Can you beat that youngster?"

Chevrolet Has High March Production

Detroit, Mich., April 1.—Chevrolet's production during March set a new high mark for the year to date and shattered all monthly production records for the past 3 months, M. E. Coyle, president and general manager of Chevrolet Motor Company, announced today. March also established a first quarter's output unap- proached in the last 4 years.

Output for the month was 110,266 cars and trucks, the third largest March output in the history of the company, and the largest March since 1929.

Production for March, Mr Coyle said, was 2851 per cent of the production in March, 1933. Production for the entire first quarter was 223,010 as compared with 148,336 in the corresponding period last year.

The Herald has received the catalog and premium list of the 7th annual Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show, which will run from April 16-19 inclusive, and of course will be held in the home town of the show—Plainview. The list of premiums is unusually full this year, and gives promise of being one of the best yet held. Terry county people should attend this show by all means if possible.

Now that we are again getting the schools back on their feet, let's all give our whole hearted support to the trustees and faculty that they may continue to improve. These men and women have worked faithfully to get the school finances in good shape. While the teachers in many instances have taken drastic salary cuts, had to double up on work as some teachers had to be discontinued, and all last year had to take discounts to get checks cashed, the have done so without murmur and complaint, showing their absolute loyalty to old BEHS.

On the other hand, the trustees have burned midnight oil pouring over ways and means to meet the situation, have met it like men and are conquering. Should we not give them our moral and financial support so far as we are able.

Stung again by-jucks. The Herald along with other Texas and New Mexico newspapers received a nice fat order together with a nicely engraved check that in our case ran considerable over the half hundred mark from a teacher's agency at Denver. It was our intention to start the ad and investigate later, and had even talked with the Dunn-Bradstreet representative who was here last week, and who referred us to the Amarillo office, who he said would be glad to give us any information wanted. But that night we received the Texas Press Messenger, publication of the Texas Press Association. They had the Colorado Press Association to investigate this outfit, and advised all papers to lay off them. The real head of the outfit had been debarred from use of the mails, but was doing business in the name of his son-in-law. If any of our teachers have written this outfit, we advise them to stop all correspondence until they investigate further. Also, all newspapers who failed to see a copy of The Messenger just as well stop the ad and tear up their predated check.

Terry County is one West Texas county that has no paved highways. It is one of the most prosperous in the west, too, but one can almost tell to the foot of the road when they strike Terry County dirt. It is either a country road, or else it is a dump of soft dirt. The road between Seagraves and Brownfield, has for years been the sort spot for motorists, and we know of many people who drive automobiles, who go many hundreds miles around rather than drive 25 miles, and miss Brownfield entirely. There is no doubt a reason for the backwardness of this county in road matters, but no one seems to know the reason. Anyway, Terry County has the distinction of having the worst roads of any county in West Texas.—Wink Times Herald.

The above is from the pen of James L. Dow, erstwhile Lubbockite, but now sojourning at Wink. The family of Col. Dow still live in Lubbock, and of course he makes a trip to see them occasionally, and naturally through Brownfield is the nearest route. A fellow doesn't have to reread his article to tell that he is rather at odds with our highways, and believe it or not, he is telling the God's truth on them. But Jimmie, there is some work being done and we hope some day before very many you can come through Brownfield over paved roads when on your way to see the better half an dthe young Dow's.

THE "NO" MEN

During the last two years or three years, there has been created in every business office a group of "No" men whose chief object while at work is to prevent the expenditure of money.

In correcting the extravagance of former days, these men have become handicap to the progress of the company that employs them. Instead of thinking about making money, they are thinking about holding on to money. They refuse to spend $1,000 to make an annual profit of $1,000. Until their point of view is changed there will be few sales for cut-cost machinery, or other worthwhile purchases.

A recent article in "Sales Management," one manufacturer confesses that he came to his senses, and in the course of a year of hard times allowed his superintendent to buy new machinery costing $11,000. The profit from the investment is so satisfactory that he is now ready to spend as much or more, if the advantage can be demonstrated to him.

"I have come to the conclusion," he says, "that the general habit of someone saying 'No' to every salesman is one of the perils of business today. Some of these salesmen must surely have something for us. I predict that in every industry the third-rate competitors who are alert men, seeking the new and eager progress, will overtake the old established houses that have acquired the 'No' complex."

The time is here when salesmen must be allowed to tell their story, not out of courtesy, but out of fear that what we refuse to hear may be told to a competitor, who will buy and thereby win a profit that we will miss.—The Latch String.

OUR 23 YEAR COLUMN

On the front page was an article stating that Gov. O. B. Colquitt had appointed Judge W. R. Spencer as District Judge of the new 72nd judicial district, and that he would hold his first term at Plains, beginning the following Monday. Also, we noted that week was the Herald's 7th birthday. Bob Russell, of Plains, was reported to be very low. We noted editorially that the statewide prohibition election had not yet got very warm in Terry county. It was to be held sometime in August.

(This is the property now occupied by Hudgens & Knight hardware and furniture, and the auto was a very second hand looking two cylinder Buick.) Jim Burnett had returned from Dublin, where he had just buried his aged father. RESOLVED: Whereas, it had become the habit of some of the business men and county officers to get down late we find it very inconvenient to get seats, and we hereby condemn this slovenly practice. Therefore, be it resolved by the Bench armers Association that the committee of three named below wait on these business men that we may get earlier hours and better seats—signed, Jack Coble, R. R. Hughes and W. J. A. Parker. C. F. Bell of Marshall, was here visiting his sons, Will Alf and Herbert.

Below we will give the population of a few south Plains counties by the census of 1910, to compare with present populations.

County Agent's Notes

Cotton, corn and wheat acres contracted for retirement in Government contracts this year may be taken out of production in strips along terraces or contours. R. C. Reed, county agent, has been advised by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The contracted acres need not be in one solid block but may be scattered in these strips, he says. This gives the farmer the opportunity to lay out a complete terracing or contouring system for his farm, and to complete the work of building terraces in his spare time during the year. If there is no legitimate use for these strips within the terms of the contract, they may be left bare during the growing season and sowed down to small grains in early fall to prevent winter blowing, he adds.

A simple way of fitting the contracted acres to the terraced strips is to first measure the total length of the terrace lines. Multiply this distance by the average width of the strip to be left out along the terrace, say at least 30 feet. Divide the sum thus obtained by 43,560 (square feet in one acre) and you have the acres taken out by the terraced strips. If the farmer desires to take out more land than this, he may increase the average width of strips to suit. If these strips take out more land from production than he has contracted or can spare, he may plant on enough of the terraced strips to get the desired result.

J. A. Taylor was in from the Tokio section, Wednesday.

Concerning the remarkable authenticity of RKO-Radio Pictures' dramatization of Louisa M. Alcott's classic, "Little Women," George Cukor, who directed it, says:

"We believe that of all the stories in the world, this was one at least that would be made by authenticity and ruined by dramatic license. The book is 65 years old. Today it remains a best-seller. Twenty-millions of people have read it. In view of these facts we felt that such a remarkable volume should stand on its own merits.

The people of Tahoka last Friday rejected beer sales by a vote of 49 majority, which leaves Brownfield the only damp spot from Littlefield 70 miles north, to Big Spring, 100 miles south, and from Tatum, N. M., 65 miles west, to Paducah 125 miles east.

Mrs. Davis who was run over by a hit and run driver, was able to be carried home last Friday.

says, "Huh? I mean - er - I didn't understand your question."

Is it love? We wonder. Pete is not the only one around high school that shows symptoms of 'spring fever.' Everyone seems to be in a doze; even Mr. Wester acts a little different of late. Imagine!

The boys have originated sweater names to call their best girl friends, and the girls have also changed their attitude toward the boys. Is it spring fever that has caused the change?

The Seniors seem lazier than ever. They say it is or was the trip to Carlsbad and the play practice.

Have you noticed the smiling faces and dreamy eyes of the students? We hope our students are not in love—

Mr. Daniels said he asked some student a question concerning economics and his answer was "Tweet, Tweet."

There have also been many tardies lately. Mr. Wester wonders if they stopped on the way to pick daisies, or to wade in the ponds of water! As a matter of fact, we all wonder. Is this Spring Fever?

Beware! You may be the next victim.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club met at their regular club period Monday, April 9. The members enjoyed a talk on "Occupations of Colonial Days" by a club member, Johnnie Mae Jenkins.

The picnic was postponed on account of so much sickness among the club members. The members are sorry to report that they did not get to attend the pageant held at Leveland, April 7.

Various business matters were attended to and the club adjourned.

HISTORY CLUB

Monday, April 9, the History Club met and heard two Seniors give an account of their trip to Carlsbad Cavern. The two Seniors to give their interesting talk were, Martha McCloud and Austin Green. In addition there was a further report from that venerable Senior, Mr. Penn.

SPRING MADNESS

Wonders of wonders! The English room has become popular. It was quite a shame the way that place was being shunned. The only time it was entered was for imperative recitations or for an occasional excuse. Even the English professor became embarrassed for the sake of his room. After watching the pupils go by day after day without so much as a glance toward the room, the professor decided something had to be done.

It was last Saturday when the change began. The high school was quiet as the professor tip-toed up the hall and entered the room. He listened a moment. Not a sound! He was alone.

Quickly locking the door he went to work. He proceeded to dust this way and that. The dust flew in torrents. He tacked up a different set of pictures. Then he moved a small table from one corner to another. Upon this he placed a large supply of magazines. From somewhere he produced a pot plant with a beautiful pink flower. He placed the plant upon a corner of the table, to be knocked over by the first careless student.

On he worked and soon emerged from the dust to view a remarkable change. Sighing in well-earned satisfaction, he unlocked the door and stepped out.

Monday morning the students were listless until they dragged into the hated English room. There were cries of wonder. Their eyes took in the sight—flowers, new pictures, everything clean, even the blackboards. How wonderful! How different!

Now the teachers are peppered with requests from the students to be allowed to go to the English room.

GIRLS SWEATERS AWARDED

Thursday, April 5, the basketball girls in Brownfield High School got another thrill that comes in a life time.

Mr. M. L. Penn the girls' basketball coach issued as reward for this year's basketball season, ten attractive sweaters.

The sweaters were given to the following girls: Francis McPherson, Some tried to sleep, but others were Sallie Stricklin, Mattie Jo Gracey, Virginia May, Naomi Drury, Mary Jo Neil, Minnie Hazel Gore, Faye Jenkins, Clydene Polk, and Ethel Pipkin.

The girls won a lion's share of honors for B. H. S. and this reward was meant as token of appreciation to all who had a share in making the team's record one to be looked upon with pride.

SENIORS ENTERTAINED

The Seniors and the teachers of Brownfield High School were entertained with a banquet by the ladies of the First Baptist church, Friday evening, April 6, 1934.

Everyone present was given a paper cap, and then they marched into the banquet room. There were forty seniors present. Every person found a whistle or paper. Everyone seemed to be having a good time while eating.

Mrs. L. R. Pounds gave the welcome address, and the president of the senior Class, Woodrow Chamberlain, gave the response.

Two Brownfield boys, dressed as negroes, told some jokes while all the guests were eating. Mr. K. W. Howell then told some jokes on the different members of the Senior class and the faculty. The two negroes, who were Wilton Lambert and L. J. Dunn, then sang two songs, "Puddin' Head Jones," and "Lazy Bones." After this Mr. Howell continued with the jokes on the different people who were present.

Mr. W. A. Little gave the main address. It made many of the Seniors think about their future and their plans of life.

Mary D. Thomas then led the song, "The Eyes of Texas," in which everyone joined and the banquet then ended with everyone in a good humor. The room was beautifully decorated by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lewis. This entertainment made every Senior feel that they were appreciated by the citizens, because of the reception which they gave them, and because of the wonderful time they had during the banquet.

TRIP TO CARLSBAD

Last Saturday morning April 7 at 4:45 o'clock the Senior Class started on their adventurous trip to the Carlsbad Cavern. Of course the Seniors can stand almost anything—even to losing a lot of sleep. They left Brownfield very light hearted and thrilled over this great chance they had fallen heir to. They overtook daylight between Seagraves and Seminole; before reaching Hobbs, however, one of the tires went down. Of course that was hard luck, but those Seniors did not mind a flat tire. By the time they reached Hobbs, every place between there and Brownfield knew that they were Brownfield Seniors, out to have some fun. As everyone knows A. T. Fowler is very delicate and also timid, but for once he was not so timid. Several of the boys and Mr. Penn started smoking and A. T. who couldn't take it, began to see things double, and the first thing we knew he had hit his head against the top of the bus and cut it, not so bad; but if it had not been for those mean boys I'm sure A. T. would have never done such a thing as that.

The longest road that the Seniors will ever know about is from Hobbs to Carlsbad. At first they didn't believe there was such a place as Carlsbad, but presto they landed upon the streets of that city. Some wondered if they had dropped from some place. As the crowd left Carlsbad it began to rain a little, but they were almost to their stopping place and they didn't care how much it rained.

As they were talking of the scenery the mountains began to close in upon them, and this frightened President Woodrow, for he began to pray that he might get out alive and live to tell this great story. Then before they knew it, they were climbing, and what sharp turns! Those turns were not curves they were perfect squares.

When the top was reached the trip was ended, for just below was that huge entrance to the cave. Mr. Penn, the Senior sponsor, bought their tickets and bid all good-bye. It was a very hard job to get to the entrance, but all of them made it okay, or at least none were left.

All the Seniors put together could not tell how beautiful the rooms in the cave are, and the best advice they can give you is to go see it for yourself. They reached the dining room about one o'clock and there they enjoyed their lunch, for they had walked just about three miles.

When all started back they thought they would never reach the place by which they had entered. When the first ray of light was seen, that was really a happy crowd. After all were out, and they began to get together to start home, somehow they couldn't find Mr. Penn. When they did find him, he had come out on the elevator—he said it was too much for him.

Those Seniors were ready to come home, for all of them surely were tired. Instead of retracing their way back home they went by Roswell. Some tried to sleep, but others were determined to see that no one goes to church any sleep. They arrived in Brownfield at 4:00 o'clock Sunday morning. Souvenirs were secured at every stoppage place, and at Hobbs souvenirs were so scarce that Martha McCloud went into a nearby garden and since they entered high school. They got a green onion. Due to the scarcity of the like along the way, we found plenty at Carlsbad and the Cave. Almost enough glasses, salt and pepper shakers, and even sugar bowls were secured to start a nice sized hotel. Please don't ask how they got them because they have been taught that there is both good and bad place, and when they were making their gatherings, they failed to remember this. All the Sen-beer is bottled, pasteurized, labeled and packed—ready for the tables of the finest hotels, homes, restaurants and clubs in America.

BUDWEISER

Whenever you taste Anheuser-Busch Beers you will sense at once the quality which brilliantly sets them apart from other brews.

Such quality is not derived alone from skillful brewing . . . nor alone from fine and modern brewing equipment . . . nor alone from choice ingredients. It is the result of a combination of all three.

As for skill, Anheuser-Busch employees have an abundance of it under the personal management of the fourth generation of the Busch family. There is 81 years of fine brewing experience behind every drop of Anheuser-Busch beers.

As for equipment, Anheuser-Busch has the world's largest and most modern and efficient brewery. It has a yearly capacity of 2,500,000 barrels. It has a lagging or aging capacity of more than 600,000 barrels at one time. It has the largest and finest bottling plant in the world—a plan where 1,000,000 bottles can be filled, capped and cased every 8 hours and in whose basement 130 railroad freight cars may be accommodated.

The laboratory, which watches over Anheuser-Busch products, is one of the finest, best equipped and best staffed in this country. One or more Anheuser-Busch chemists and executives in the production end make annual research trips of from two to four months in Europe.

From a mechanical standpoint the Anheuser-Busch Brewery today is in better condition than when it was operating at full capacity before prohibition. Old machinery has been junked and replaced with the modern type. The legalization of beer did not find this brewery unprepared to resume operations, because Anheuser-Busch made real beer throughout the 14 years of prohibition. In order to make the cereal beverage sold during prohibition, it was necessary first to make the same good old BUDWEISER of today and of the days before prohibition. After this real beer had been made it was de-alcoholized to meet legal requirements. As a consequence of this continued brewing, Anheuser-Busch kept up with all new developments, both in method and mechanics, perfected in European breweries where there was no prohibition law.

The brewery is independent of utility companies since it has its own power generating plant and its own coal mines to provide fuel and operates its own railroads as well.

Maids and Matrons Present Copies of Famous Paintings To Public

Pictures On Exhibit In The Leader Bldg., Through Saturday

The fine arts program of the Maids and Matrons Club was held this year in the Leader Building on Main in order to take care of a number of invited guests to a tea and a special showing of copies of famous paintings. These reproductions are also on display to the public for the remainder of the week, including Saturday.

Hostesses for this occasion were Mrs. W. H. Dallas and Mrs. Redford Smith; Mrs. Tom Cobb was program director. Mrs. Edgar Self, Mrs. J. H. Dallas and Mrs. Garrett Daugherty in Dutch costumes, served punch from underneath a large Dutch windmill. Mrs. Dallas and Mrs. Smith presided and served cakes at a lovely mirrored table, centered with lilacs and tulips and a rock border. Each guest was given a lilac boutonniere. Miss Olga Fitzgerald presided at the free will offering table.

The club president, Mrs. M. E. Jacobson in her own gracious manner gave a very interesting talk on art and artists of different periods. Mrs. I. M. Bailey acted as master of ceremonies and Mrs. Von Tunglen gave piano numbers throughout the program.

Tableau of some of the pictures depicted were:

"Little Red Riding Hood" posed by Marion Wingerd.

"Madonna of the Street" posed by Mrs. Weir and small daughter, while Mrs. Roy Herod sang Brahms "Lullaby."

"The Water Carrier" posed by Mrs. Rentfro.

Mrs. Joe McGowan, Miss Laura Lee Jones and Mary Dee Thomas then favored the group with two numbers, "Sundown" and "I'm Longing For You."

"The Chief's Blanket" by Cause was portrayed by Mrs. Ledbetter, while Mrs. Von Tunglen played "Indian Love Call."

"The Spanish Flower Girl" was then portrayed by Mrs. Herman Heath, while Mrs. Herod dressed as a gay cavalier played "La Paloma" on her accordion.

Whistlers Mother was portrayed by Mrs. J. H. Dallas, while Mrs. McGowen sang "Mother Machree."

Mrs. Penn then favored the audience with the poem "When Earth's Last Picture Is Painted" by Kipling.

There are 150 pictures on display. Large prints in their natural colorings, and most of them have attached a brief history of the artist and picture. Not many of us may ever have the opportunity to see the originals of these copies and the public should avail themselves of the chance to see these excellent likenesses.

These prints are so accurate that they show even how some of the paints are checking; however, critics say the colorings are as they were when first applied.

The exhibit, as we have mentioned before in this article, will be open daily throughout the week including Saturday and admission will be 10¢.

Vernon Lundstrum from Linsdale, Kansas, is here visiting his sisters, Mrs. M. E. Jacobson and Althea Lundstrum.

Mrs. M. E. Jacobson, Althea and Vernon Lundstrum were Lubbock visitors last Friday.

A COLLEGE EDUCATION

We felt so proud and happy when our boy came home from college. His education all complete.

A store of useful knowledge. He was so big and handsome. His clothes so nice and trim. It made our hearts rejoice indeed. To sit and look at him.

Come walk around the farm with me, And look at our crop of hay. He said that he was very tired, And could not go just yet, Somehow he didn't act just right When I said to him next day, As he struck a match and applied it To the end of a cigarette.

That night at the family altar, As we all knelt down to pray, We expected him to join us, In the good, old fashioned way. He gazed at us in anger, Then in a voice harsh and gruff Said, "do you and mother really Believe in that old stuff?"

He told his mother he had learned From professors at the school, That all religion amounted to Was just the golden rule. That the Bible was only history That was written long ago, And found to be a legend By professor, so and so.

We paid his bills without a grunt, By economy, toil, and strife. We find he is a football star, With no other aim in life. He went away a bright-eyed boy, From church and Sunday school, But he came back to live with us An atheist and a fool.

My other boys will stay at home And work behind the plow. If they try to go to college, There will be an awful row. I had rather have less knowledge, And I don't care how they look, If they have a reverence for God And read the dear old Book.

—W. A. Pool, 312 S. Lee, Altus, Okla.

Judge Geo. W. Neill, who has for the past few months resided in Lubbock, was down one day last week. Judge is doing abstract work in that city.

PLUS SIGNS IN BUSINESS

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of United States Steel, says that he not only "thinks" but "knows" that recovery is under way. Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors, adds that there is business revival with "irresistible force." This is convincing testimony from authorities high in the business world, but it is not so convincing as the cold figures of the Federal Reserve Board showing that, at last, member bank reserve balances have begun to drop, attended by an upturn in notes discounted. It looks like the long anticipated and badly needed revival of bank credit is under way.

Unless this country is to step suddenly into some radically different financial order, the whole recovery program depends on a restoration of the normal functions of banking. Beginning back in 1932, the Federal Reserve banks bought Government securities until their holdings reached unheard-of figures. The price of gold has been boosted to $35 an ounce, silver has been coaxed by governmental encouragement from 25c to 40c an ounce and the boosted arbitrarily to 64c, and radical changes have been made to facilitate the issuance of currency by both Federal Reserve and National banks. All of these things have effected a slight rise in the price level. Other radical steps might be taken. Silver might be monetized and fiat currency printed. These things would effect a greater increase in the price index. They might cause a runaway eventuating in panic.

The fact remains that this country knows best how to do its business with credit money, and the automatic expansion and contraction of that credit is the safest governor of the Country's business activity. True, this governor on our country's engine of commerce has been unsteady, allowing the machine at times to race and then cutting it to a snail's pace. But improvements have been made in this governor and, if given a chance, it will control the engine better than it could be controlled by a throttle in the hand of bureaucracy.

It has been questionable recently whether the normal function of banking could be revived in time to stave off Government control of credit. It is encouraging that the figures show an expansion of credit through private channels. —Dallas News.
