

VFW To Take Steps On Home Defense

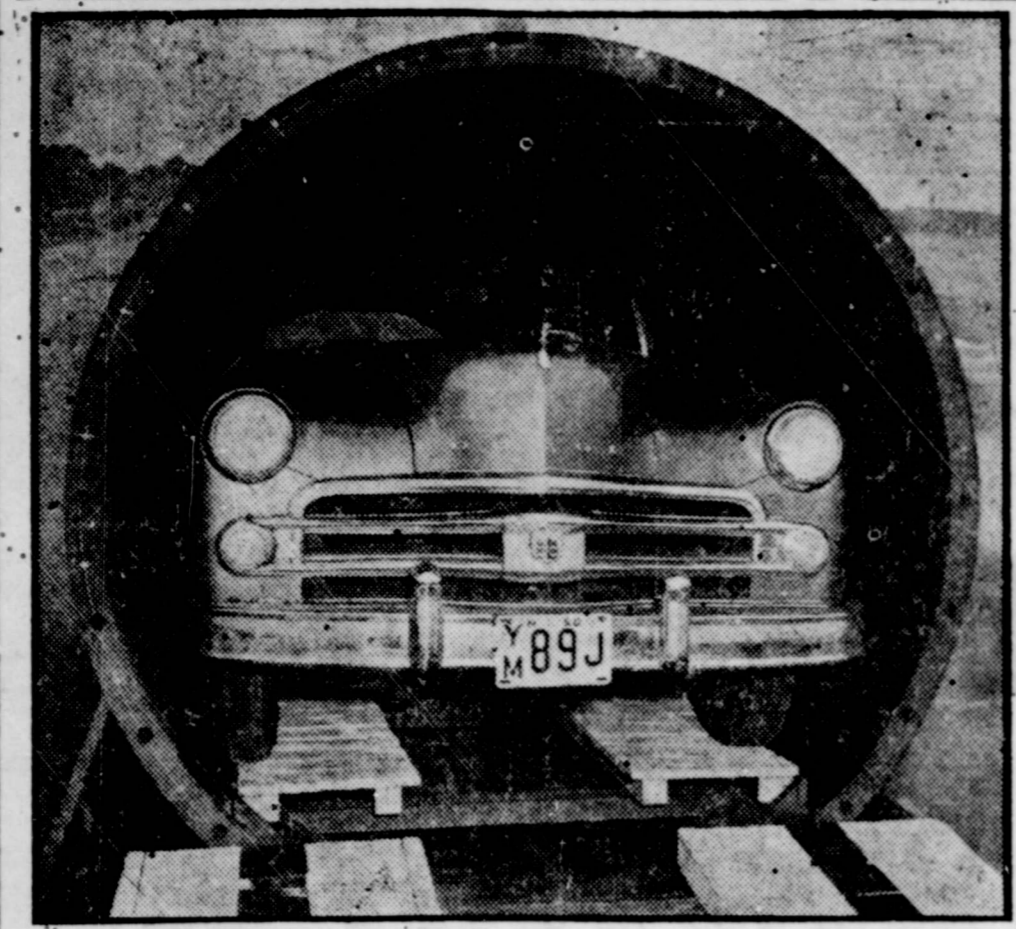

One of the first official acts of J. T. Rutherford, Odessa, new commander of the Department of Texas, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, was to invite all commanders of recognized veterans organizations to meet at the earliest possible date in Austin for the purpose of coordinating manpower of the organizations into a home defense force capable and ready to cope with any emergency that might arise because of current troubled world conditions.

At the same time Commander Rutherford has directed commanders of the 400-odd Veterans of Foreign Wars posts in Texas to proffer the services of their individual units to city and county officials for use in case of any emergency that might arise.

"After a conference in Austin between the commanders of all our recognized veterans organizations, we should be prepared to present a united front of Texas veterans to the Governor and Adjutant General for any service that might be required of us," Commander Rutherford said.

"We are not alarmists and will do everything possible to combat any undue war hysteria, but as men who have served honorably in our armed forces in times of war we veterans must and will be prepared to see that all goes well on the home front regardless of what the present Korean conflict might lead to," the VFW commander added.

AIRBORNE CAR—A preview was held at Atlantic City, N. J., of a thrill show in which a regulation stock car is fired from the mouth of a huge 35-foot cannon. The helmeted daredevil pilot has no worries about unpaid insurance premiums for, at the end of a 65-foot flight through space, the vehicle lands upright on a specially-constructed runway.

Will Fall 2 Miles Before Opening Chute

It'll be eyes up for spectators of the Corpus Christi Air Fiesta July 29 and 30 when Jack Huber, human comet, will fall two miles before opening his chute.

It's not that Huber isn't punctual. He delays things just for the thrill of it. After giving a fast go-by to two miles of atmosphere, he pulls the ripcord at about 1,200 feet. Then his diaphragm-shaped parachute, the only one of its kind, opens up to take some of the wind out of his sails.

To keep Huber from being bored, Ray Miller, aerobat, circles in an upside down flight position, his small plane sending out a stream of smoke.

Information About Army Selectees

Selectees reporting to U. S. Army induction centers in Texas will be processed in two stages, officials of the Southwestern Recruiting district, U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force, announced today.

The pre-induction stage begins with a reception and roll call, followed by an orientation to acquaint the selectees with general processing procedure. Next, a written mental examination is taken by each man. This determines whether he is initially qualified for military service.

Later in the day, a thorough physical examination is given, including chest X-ray, blood tests and general condition. Upon completion of the induction processing, registrants will be advised that they have been classified into one of the following categories: accepted, status undetermined pending further investigation, or rejected. In all cases, registrants will be furnished transportation home and those scheduled to return for induction will remain home no less than 21 days nor more than 120.

Upon returning for induction processing, records of the men will be checked for completeness and the selectees then will receive another orientation talk during which they will be informed as to the purpose and significance of the induction, processing steps ahead, and location of personal counselors who will assist them with their problems.

After this, records will be issued to each registrant and they will proceed through the remainder of their processing, including another physical to determine if disease is present, or intercurrent illness or injury has developed. If accepted at this point, the oath of enlistment is administered and the new soldier is on his way to the training divisions.

The Army is presently operating training centers at Fort Ord, Calif., and Fort Riley, Kans.

CIVIL SERVICE WANTS MORE STENOGRAPHERS

The Civil Service Commission announces an examination for the position of Stenographer at entrance salaries ranging from $2450 to $2875 per annum. Employment will be with various Federal agencies in the state of Texas.

Mrs. Ann Poling, 609 Delaware St., Indianapolis, Indiana, who was suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B, B₁₂, Iron, and Niacin, smiles as she pours herself another cup of coffee. Mrs. Poling says life lately is like it used to be years ago... "that is, of course, since I've been taking HADACOL." She can't get over what a difference HADACOL has made in her outlook on life.

Mrs. Poling says: "Three months ago a good friend of mine told me about HADACOL—she knew how much stomach distress I have had. Any type of food that was fried or that had acid in it I just couldn't eat. It affected my sleep, too. In fact, I couldn't have been in a worse condition. When I ate what I wanted to I felt miserable and when I didn't eat these things—I didn't have a proper diet and still felt bad. Then, when I started taking HADACOL, I felt better immediately. I've got a bottle in the house now—and will continue to keep HADACOL from now on. I have told many folks about HADACOL—and they all thank me for telling them about HADACOL. They all have gotten wonderful results from HADACOL like I have. Now I eat anything I want and get a good night's sleep. I can't praise HADACOL enough. I've got HADACOL Can Help You, Too! ... as it has helped thousands of others whose systems lacked Vitamins B, B₁₂, Iron and Niacin. Yes, even hundreds of doctors have recommended HADACOL to their patients. The HADACOL formula is so effective for stomach distress, nervousness, insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis, and a general run-down condition caused by such deficiencies.

Make Up Your Mind ... to give HADACOL a chance to help you, as it has helped countless thousands of others. Remember, there are no substitutes for HADACOL. Always insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk involved. Buy a bottle of HADACOL, either the trial size, $1.25, or the large family or hospital size, $3.50, and if HADACOL does not help you your money will be refunded.

Hail Damage Wide In Northern Terry Area

Shortly after the noon repast at the Stricklin home Sunday, the Phillip Rogers family being our guests, someone suggested that we see a bit of country north of Brownfield and particularly that part that has been wiped out by hail storms in the past two weeks. So we loaded into the Rogers bus, and lit a shuck for Ropesville. Before nearing that little city, we began to see signs that wiped the prospects of a cotton crop from the anticipation of the people of that area this year.

The crops are good but a bit late in the Meadow area, but at the half way point to Ropesville, we begin to see cotton and maize reddened up pretty badly, and the further one goes the worse it gets. In Ropesville we noted that there was quite a bit of debris scattered around, although the people had several days in which to clean up. A large steel grain elevator was dented badly, which was under construction. A large mercantile building being constructed of tile, and almost finished, but the sides particularly were almost leveled.

From there we took farm-market roads to Levelland, and if you

The Hoarding Has Started . . .

It is easy enough to stand back on ones hind legs and say that it is not fair to hoard things and to buy items that might become scarce, or exceedingly high, should war come, but there are few people who are not doing so. Most every one has different ideas as to which items are likely to become scarce and therefore most everything that is not perishable is getting scarce. It is little consolation should real scarcities come, to be without such items and see the folks who hoarded them sitting around enjoying the use of them.

From all accounts there has been a lot of merchandise sold that is evidently going to back closets, attics and basements. Unconfirmed reports are that the sale of sheets has stocks of sheets have been frozen, that black pepper is very scarce and that most all the stocks of electric refrigerators have been exhausted. The sale of sugar has increased considerably although there has not been as much demand for it as some merchants anticipated and coffee is being bought at a very rapid rate and the women are going after nylon hose in a big way.

All of these things seem selfish and hogish, but the timid person who holds back will get little credit for doing so at a later date. If such things are going to be scarce there should be some way devised to distribute them fairly, but as usual the man who has the ready cash can get things the man without it cannot secure.

Such actions will no doubt bring on rationing and all the worrying details that such things require. It will cause the printing of millions of dollars worth of rationing slips, cards, etc., and make petty rascals out of a lot of merchants and business men who will be slipping things from under the counter to their favorite customers, but such are the things that war and the possibilities of war bring on.—Slaton Slatonite.

young stuff from Levelland to Morton.

Also from Morton south, the crops are fine, though in spots they were blown or hailed out or just did not get early rains to get crops up, likely the latter. But the young crops look flourishing. After Lehman is passed, most of the country from there to Plains is ranches. They have mighty fine grass and the high grade beef cattle are fat and sleek.

Best Yoakum was also bothered with late drought, and the crops are all young, and one sees very little cotton until this side of Tokio. Evidently much of the land will go into wheat again. When one gets as far east as the County Experiment farm, the crops look fine on into Brownfield, and much better than those we saw elsewhere.

This 132 mile Sunday afternoon drive is both revealing and disheartening. But we imagine many of these young crops will look quite different in two or three weeks.

Largest Gathering Rural Youth In World Expected at State Fair

One hundred thousand 4H club boys and girls, Future Farmers and Future Homemakers, the largest gathering of rural youth in the world, is the goal set for Rural Youth Day at the Mid-Century Exposition of the 1950 State Fair of Texas, Ray W. Wilson, manager of the Fair's Rural Youth activities program, has announced.

This group of young and enthusiastic future farmers, future homemakers and ranchers will swarm the grounds of the greatest state fair in the world on opening day, October 7, as guests of the State Fair, Wilson said.

The farm youngsters are expected to converge on Dallas from every corner of Texas. They will be admitted free to the Fair and will be furnished with a free lunch, provided by Dallas business leaders and the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

The State Fair regards its rural youth project as one of its most important education undertakings. From a healthy start in 1946 when 30,000 boys and girls attended the Fair, the event mushroomed to a record attendance of 75,000 in 1949, Wilson said.

On Friday night, Oct. 6, recognition will be given 50 outstanding Future Farmers, Future Homemakers, 4H club boys and girls in the Honor Award dinner in the Crystal Ballroom of the Baker Hotel. The dinner will be

During the recent National Celebrities Golf Tournament in Washington, D. C., Gordon MacRae, star of NBC's "The Railroad Hour," noted the following incident. Famous people in several walks of life, Gordon among them, were playing in the tournament, and all were asked to register at the Golf Shop on the grounds of the Capital's Army and Navy Country Club. A corporal, assigned to screen each person registering, challenged a pleasant-faced, mild-mannered chap who said he was in the tournament—but who had no credentials. After a brief discussion the man left—to return identified. Then, the red-faced corporal discovered who the man was—Frank Pace, Secretary of the Army!

One of radio's most popular daytime serials, NBC's "When A Girl Marries," has just finished its eleventh year on the air—and Mary Jane Higby and John Raby have also completed their eleventh years as the show's heroine and hero. After all, the Davis' lives had undergone little change, since their closest friends, played by Jeanette Dowling, Michael Fitzmaurice, and Marion Barney—also from the show's inception—were still there!

Service Office News

C. L. Lincoln
American servicemen totally disabled during the current fighting in Korea may be eligible to have their National Service Life Insurance premiums waived, if their total disability lasts six consecutive months or longer, according to an announcement made today by Robert W. Sisson, manager of the VA regional office.

The waiver would go in effect upon application after the six month period was over, and would remain in effect as long afterwards as total disability continued.

The waiver provision is not confined to those suffering total disability in action in Korea. Veterans who hold NSLI are eligible for waiver of premiums if they become totally disabled before age 60 and while their policy is in force and remain so for at least six straight months.

Total disability, as defined in an NSLI policy, is "any impairment of mind or body which continuously renders it impossible for the insured to follow any substantially gainful occupation."

Waivers of premium payments are not granted automatically. Instead, application to VA must be made, if possible, immediately following the six consecutive months of total disability.

A person who applies for waiver of premiums should continue to pay his NSLI premiums regularly as they fall due, until he receives notice from VA of "Entitlement to Waiver," Sisson stated.

Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin announced today that inductees, enlistees and reservists who leave jobs in private industry or with the federal government to perform active service in the armed forces are eligible for reemployment rights as a result of Public Laws 572 and 599, 81st congress, which extended the Selective Service Act of 1948 until July 9, 1951.

Secretary Tobin explained that reemployment rights apply to the person who enlists in the armed forces prior to July 9, 1951 if it is his first enlistment after June 24, 1948 and for a period not more than 3 years unless extended by law, and to the reservist who enters upon active duty between June 24, 1948 and July 9, 1951 if released within 3 years after entering upon active duty or as soon after the expiration of such 3 years as he is able to obtain orders relieving him from active duty.

Of special interest to reservists is the fact that the Selective Service Act of 1948, as amended, extends reemployment rights to persons who enter upon active duty in the armed forces in response to an order or call to active duty; the Secretary said. Whether with or without his consent, a person going on active duty does so in response to a call to active duty. The statute draws no distinction between the reasons behind the call.

The Bureau of Veterans' Reemployment Rights in the Department of Labor has responsibility for handling reemployment rights under Section 9 of the Selective Service Act. Persons seeking information about such rights should address their inquiries to Robert K. Salyers, Director, Bureau of Veterans' Reemployment Rights, Room 7318, Department of Labor Building, Washington 25.

SUNSHINE STORMING

By Old Ho
Well, folks, it's all over but the weeping wailing and gnashing of teeth. The shouts, if any, died down Saturday night. Maybe the shower washed them out. With the exception of a few state races, and some four county and precinct sprints in the second lap, the has-beens will return to their old trades. Most of them happily are good sports, and any howling you hear may be just coyotes.

In the main the trackfest was fair and square, with all hands and the hindmost laying their legs down. Just the last week, we heard some reports that sounded bad, such as aiding and abetting the local bootleg fraternity, and even a hands off policy for cash in a bawdy house deal. Whether there was anything to it, we wouldn't know. But it sure scandalized bad.

The last week of the heat was without such accusations that we heard of, much to the relief of some that feared trouble. Could be that the speakers were cut short on time the last week, and there was no time to muddy the usual placid waters. We did, however, hear some talk of trades, after the election, but one almost always does hear of such.

Frankly, we never had a man to approach us to buy our vote or to make a deal that you support a certain guy and I'll support your candidate. We just don't know what our reaction would be if such ever happened. But we had just as soon some political schemer tried to buy our vote as to trade us out of our franchise. Come to think of it we have a second growth Tennessee hickory walking stick, and we might forget and use it on said trader.

And we think just a bit more of the man, if possible, that tries to buy or trade in votes as we do of the wart who will sell or trade. To us neither are worth two whoops in hades to either themselves or their country. But they say it takes all kinds to make up this old world. Frankly we think we could easily dispose with the trades in the voting right of citizens.

We failed to get all our men in; we always do. But some way or other we have lived over the election, and in a few weeks forget which way we voted. We imagine that this is about the same way it effects most of us voters. And and round is over, and this will include the candidates.

Branching off the subject of election to rain, we have quizzed many the past week about the amount of rain we have had since the entrance of July, the quiz being on the amount. Usually the month of July can be depended on for plenty sunshine and little moisture. May or June, likewise August or September are the wet months, if any.

In our quiz program, we have the first person to say they have ever seen as wet July as this one has been. True, we have confined most of our quizzing to farmers or ranchmen as usually they notice rainfall more than the average townman, and their business is greatly effected by the amount of moisture they receive. Up to now, all have answered that they have never seen as much rain here in July.

It is true that right here in town we have had a minimum perhaps for the county, but we have had better, than 4 1/2 inches up to this writing by USWB measurement. Nor have we ever heard of as many flash floods over the south Plains as we have had this year.

There has been many of them, a few in Terry county, and some of the lakes are brimming full. Some of the towns, Ropesville, Levelland, Anton and Littlefield in particular have had deluges in every sense of the word. And some of the farm areas in and around these towns. Floydada is the last up to now to feel the effects of a flash flood. That happened last Sunday night with some 4 1/2 inches of rainfall in the matter of a couple of hours.

And then there is the hail. Wellman area has had two this spring, and we believe they have rapped Ropesville a couple of times. Numerous other areas have had at least one bad one.

But speaking of July rainfall, even in 1941 when the county had some 40 inches of rainfall, July was very moderate with its rain. May, that year, was the champion, pouring out 12 1/2 inches in Brownfield.

Most of the farmers are getting a bit ringy about all this wet weather and no sunshine. In the meantime the crop of weeds are doing their stuff, and it might take an axe instead of a hoe in a few more weeks to down some of them. Along with the weeds, wet, cloudy weather

FLYING NEWS AND VIEWS
By EDWIN E. DUNCAN

If there ever was a time that a hard surfaced runway would have really looked good, it was this past week. Consistent rains kept the runways in a sea of mud, and flying was brought to almost a standstill. On several occasions where flying was an absolute necessity, the planes were taxied out to the farm-to-market road on the west side of the field and it was used for a runway. Numerous times this week the large visiting planes, representing oil companies and such like, would make passes at the field, and seeing large puddles of water on the runways, would continue on to larger towns before stopping.

And the funny thing about the whole story is that CAA wants to give money toward helping Brownfield have a black top runway. They agree to give half of a designated amount if the town and county will agree to take care of the other half. And if the town and county can figure short cuts on their own half, all the better. CAA will still pay half of the originally agreed amount. It's just up to the city and county officials as to whether or not Brownfield is to have an improved airport.

In investigating this matter the first thing I ran up against was this: The city of Brownfield owns a 320 acre airport 4 miles east of town. Why not improve this one? But CAA says no. According to their records, that field is no longer an airport, and is too far from town to receive Civil Aeronautics Administration aid. All they require is that the field be within a certain short distance of town, and that the city or county own the piece of ground where the strip is to be built. It is not necessary that the city or county own the whole airport, but only the ground under the strip.

My question was "Why not improve the airport now in operation?" I understand there is a possibility that the city might be able to make a trade for a small portion of the land now being used by the airport if they want to use it for expansion purposes.

Just where there is really a hold-up in this program of community expansion, I can not see. Unless it is still in the fact that there are still a few among us who are afraid of expansion. What would this country be today if the states and counties throughout the nation had not worked together to build roads for our automobiles? Suppose we would have had to have waited for the automobile manufacturers to build the roads? So, why should we leave the airport expansion program up to the aviation industry? Other towns and counties are working with the government for their own good. Why can't Brownfield and Terry county?

Well, here 'tis Friday again, and the old girl is 46 years old, and covers all the ground she stands on. She has a heck of a lot of stamina, considering the kind of leadership she has had for the past 41 years as of June 1, 1950. The Herald was really born in December, 1903, over at Gomez, and was then the Terry County Voice. After June the next year, 1904, when Brownfield had won the county seat fight, the Voice moved, lock stock and barrel, to a flat prairie with a draw nearby, and got into one of the few buildings in the new capitol. But as it was a new home, so, Editor Long thought best to change the name of the paper, also, and the "Voice" was hushed, and the Herald heralded, to the four corners of the new babe county. Along in January five years later, a cotton picker came out of Jones county and decided to work on the sheet awhile, and if he liked buy the blamed thing. The real owner was the late W. R. Spencer, and as the then editor had made no payment, principal or interest, he encouraged the new comer to buy. The change of ownership took place June 1st, 1909—and they lived happily ever after, despite ups and downs—mostly downs. The Herald should have had a birthday last December, but so many issues had been missed by former owners, the birthday came later and later. Back in those days no country editor ever issued Christmas week, and some were frequently lost on account of illness. Four issues were lost during the flu epidemic of 1918-19. So, here she century mark.

When any man or body of men try to dictate how any individual shall vote, the idea usually backfires on them. Indeed Texas is not ready for boss rule yet. This was proven last Saturday when that old bird, J. E. McDonald, that the autocratic State Democratic Executive Committee tried to keep off the ballot, but overruled by the Supreme Court. A lot of forks of the creek folks still believe in having ideas of their own in Texas, and if they don't want to wear a brass collar, that is their business. Some, like this writer, have not always gone along with McDonald, but we have always admired his spunk and independence. Two years ago the Washington Bureaucrats tried to have him put away accusing him of lobbying without a license. He was just trying to get what he could for the farmers. His fun in with the Executive Committee was for the reason that he had failed to support the nominee of presidential conventions in the north, and dictated by northern left-wingers. McDonald openly supported Tom Dewey in both races. Most Texans are of the opinion that the pledge, as stated at the top of the primary ballot, covers only the nominees of that primary. And we have an idea that Mr. McDonald believes just that, and does not cover some convention held in some northern city two years from now. They might nominate some colored gentleman, and we look for just such, if Barkley should pass on or get tired of the brass collar. There is no telling to what length HST and his cohorts will go to appease minority groups for their votes. This would prove a very bitter pill for the Collarites in the south. Talk about fighting it out in the party. There is no such thing now as a national Democratic Party. Did you happen to hear or read Harry's address at the Mercantile American Labor party rally in New York recently? They were praised to the moon, and as most people know, most of them voted for Henry Wallace and his left-wing party two years ago. HST wants this shabby bunch of so-called Americans to line up for him two years from now.

It would be a pretty good idea for the average American to sit down now and then and compare the accomplishments of the Government Planning Board for the past several years, to the private planning of industry for the past 50 years. In 1900 we had some 8,000 motor cars in the United States, and the consumption of gasoline was some 80,000 gallons. Just about enough gas to keep the cars of 1950 running some 2 1/2 minutes. Can you imagine Henry Ford appearing before the planning board, had one existed, back about 1910, and asking for billions of dollars of capital and hundreds of thousands of laborers to go into mass production of cars? Henry would have been placed on the lunatic fringe. Or suppose the head of the giant General Motors or Chrysler approached the board, about the first question they would have asked, is "where will you get the gasoline to run all those cars if made?" But the American oil industry did not seek out any government planning board. Instead, they decided there was plenty oil under the earth in the good old USA. They put up the kale, hired men and bought machinery and dug out the oil, as enough oil and gasoline must be supplied to run some 40 million cars, trucks and buses not to mention farm tractors as the years went by. The oil industry, like the motor manufacturers asked for nothing except a hands off policy by the government. So, today, the nation is on wheels, thanks to private enterprise.

The Home Plan

The Texas Teachers Association is our authority for the statement that Texas school children are much healthier than they were a year ago. This is the frank opinion of L. P. Sturgeon, state associate commissioner of education. This, Mr. Sturgeon stated, has been brought about by the enactment of the Gilmer-Aikin laws that provides for the hundreds of health programs in school districts that had none previously. It also provided for expansion of the old health programs. More than a million school children who had not previously been given health safeguards against diseases, such as smallpox, have been immunized during the year. Also epidemics of diseases were discovered and halted in their early stages. General health checkups of children resulted in the treatment of tens of thousands of ailments or physical defects never suspected by their parents. Naturally, this health plan for school students will be expanded as the years go by, and the control of ailments and defects will reflect greatly on the health and longevity of future generations.

Perhaps most of our readers

Herald last week that was run and will be paid for by the Lubbock-Crosby County Medical Association. In the ad, the association strenuously denied that they had ever ordered any physician belonging to the association, to take their ad out of any newspaper. As that association is out of the area of the Herald, we would not know just what happened, but evidently most all doctors in the two counties have stopped their professional cards. Some of the newspapers are saying that a certain manager of a well known Lubbock clinic, had to take the rap. We do know, but in this area, physicians voted to stop their cards several years ago. A good friend, and one of the members at that time so informed us. No cards of any medical doctor has run in any newspaper in this area since that date. But after this almost nationwide boycott, the medics are now frantically appealing to the press to help them in their fight against socialized medicine. This appeal, of course, does not come from local physicians, but from the state and national associations. The medics know that the press think as little of socialism in any form as they themselves. The press, or most of it, elect to fight socialism in any form in their own way. They are calling on the medics for nothing—and do not crave their advice either locally, regionally or nationally. While most newspaper men and the medical profession are friends and neighbors in many instances, the medics have gone their way. There will be no co-operative fight against socialized medicine between the press and medics.

Speaking again of Ag Commissioner J. E. McDonald, we saw an ad in a nearby newspaper that shows the drift of people away from regimentation. After declaring McDonald a friend of the Texas farmer; that he was honest and not a politician, the ad went on, and we quote: "Some of the Bureaucrats and their bootlicking 'yes-men,' ganged up with the 'Dreamers' and 'Visionaries,' working with the 'Red-Lovers,' 'Five-Percenter,' and reckless spenders of the tax payers' money, are doing all in their power to defeat Mr. McDonald because they CAN NOT dictate to him and force him to betray the Texas farmers. They don't like him because he will not 'go-along' with the scheme to regiment and exploit the farmer. We need more men of the character, integrity and mental alertness of Mr. McDonald in public office. He will serve the best interests of all, and will fight the attempt to make PEONS of Texas farmers."

ISRAEL ZONES

JERUSALEM, Israel.—(P)—Arabs living in the Upper Galilee sector of Israel want the government to abolish military zones. A delegation called upon the deputy speaker of parliament. It reported 12,000 Arab residents had signed a petition saying they were suffering economically because it was almost impossible for many to move from village to village because of military restrictions. Israel has an Arab population of 165,000. Of these, 120,000 are Moslems, the remainder Christian Arabs.

A Discussion Of The Welfare State

By Red Smith
 Man's fear of the uncertainties of tomorrow is older than history. To overcome it he has tried everything from soothsayers to saving bonds. He is to be forgiven, then, for so avidly welcoming the welfare state which promises to remove all these uncertainties, not only for all time but with no effort on the part of the individual.

Back of this bulwark he expects to be free from the dangers of old age, unemployment, sickness, crop failure and whatever other trials a capricious fate and the competitive market place might hold for him.

In the past, families or communities have tried to set up such bulwarks for their own unfortunate or inefficient. The enterprising individual has tried to set them up for himself.

But it seems reasonable to suppose that the entire people, banded together, can do a better job than any individual, family or isolated community. It also seems reasonable that a man, freed from the burden of planning for tomorrow, might so apply himself to production today that everybody would benefit more greatly from his efforts.

In its early stages, the welfare state may seem to justify these promises. Some things it can do and do well. Unfortunately, the very excellence of this accomplishment is the first step toward the downfall of the welfare state. This is because, in helping the few, the welfare state brings an economic gain to them at the expense of the many and they in turn demand a correction of their worsened position. As individuals, being human, we are also selfish.

The essence of the welfare state in the early stages, is the idea that the individual's income should not depend primarily, or at least exclusively, on his own efforts. The traditional close tie between one's welfare and his economic worth to society is cut by the state's doing two things:

1. It takes from the efficient and successful to give to those of opposite characteristics.
2. It sets up areas of protection, semi-private preserves free from the invasion of competitive pressures.

In those areas a chosen few may be saved from their own misfortune or ineptitude.

But human need is an infinitely elastic concept. The unfairness of aid to the few soon brings protests. The farmers feel their misfortunes, for instance, no less acutely than do factory workers, coal miners or ribbon clerks. Nor are the misfortunes of horticulturists less acute than those of corn, tobacco or cotton farmers.

So, to satisfy all, what started as an effort to put a floor under catastrophic price slides in depression for a few major crops must be extended to a host of commodities and lead eventually to a proposal for a Brannan plan, under which virtually everything in good and bad years alike must be protected. Justice is not a matter of numbers—equal justice to all.

Meanwhile the farmer, safely guaranteed against price declines, turns to all-out production, determined to get the good price for bigger volume. Soon the government, responsible for crop prices, cries out against such all out production. There must be acreage limitations. Then the farmers buy more fertilizer to grow the same volume on the limited acres. Better cultivation, a little more fertilizer, and putting the rows a little closer together—thus the farmer conforms with the letter of the agricultural rule book, but violates the spirit. So the government slaps marketing quotas on each farmer, or piece of land, and imposes a 50 per cent penalty on all produce marketed in excess of the quota.

The farmer scratches his ear and wonders, Why not raise, on the land made idle by the government rule book soy beans, which are not covered by an acreage or marketing quota? Soon there is a surplus of soy beans. The government bureau examines the rule book to see if the scarcity economics can't be applied to the beans. Sure enough, one or two of the general provisions of the law, as interpreted by the rule book covers the beans. Lawsuits follow. One court says yes, another no. It goes to a higher court. Congress covers the gap. A few congressmen don't come back, but the struggle between wit and welfare goes on—the beneficent state in action.

REDS MUST SAY IT RIGHT
 VIENNA —(P)—Hungarian Communists are going to school to learn the proper way of saying "Josef Stalin" in a speech. According to reports from Budapest the intonation and inflection must be just so. Moreover, it is never just plain Stalin. He must be referred to as "The Great Stalin."

Like-wise it is always the "glorious" or "liberating" Red army. Russia is always referred to as "the world's leading power."

DRAMATIC ACCENTS TO WARM THE HOME

Danish hand-blown vase and bowls, with bubbles and applied knobs of glass. (Inset shows Danish candelabra.)

Household accessories and tableware that set a keynote of welcome and warm hospitality are being exhibited at the First United States International Trade Fair in Chicago, August 7-20.

Whether your tastes run along modern lines or cherish traditional patterns, the craftsmen of America and over 40 other countries have conceived designs to please you and which are being shown at this first international exhibition of its kind ever held in this country.

Some of the outstanding achievements in new and original designs and applications of classical tradition have been made by silversmiths and glass workers since the end of the war.

Glass ranging through all the colors of the rainbow, from deep, sophisticated smoke tones to the clarity of the clearest crystal, has been fashioned into a gamut of designs, from the intentionally casual to classical formality.

Silversmiths have also created some of the most original ware today, in addition to further developing the dramatic flair of the popular Florentine, Renaissance and Classical periods, according to their displays at the Fair in Chicago, August 7 to 20.

'Winchester 73' Is Blazing Epic of Screen

"Winchester 73," which will open soon at the Rio Theatre, is a fast moving, action packed frontier saga with one of the finest acting casts assembled for this type of film in many years. Such stellar performers as James Stewart, Shelly Winters, Dan Duryea, Stephen McNally, Millard Mitchell, Charles Drake, Will Geer, John McIntire and John Alexander are among those who make this picture one of the most exciting to come out of Hollywood.

The Universal-International picture takes its title from the famed 1873 model Winchester rifle which has been called by historian "The gun that won the West." How many of these prized firearms passes from hand to hand in the film until it reaches the trigger finger of the man destined to claim it for his own, is skillfully told in an exciting and thoroughly entertaining manner.

James Stewart gives an excellent characterization as Lin McAdams, a fast man on the draw who is searching the western frontier for the man who killed his father. Stewart wins the prized repeating rifle in a marksmanship contest held in Dodge City in 1876, only to lose it to a succession of men and finally regain it from Dutch Henry Brown, played by Stephen McNally, the man for whom he has been searching.

Dan Duryea, one of Hollywood's top "heavy" actors, plays a top supporting role in the film as one of the men who briefly and illegally hold the rifle. Actor Mitchell gives an excellent characterization as Stewart's side kick who rides under the name of "Hi Spade." Others in the topnotch supporting cast include Anthony Curtis, Rock Hudson, Gregg Martell and James Best.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Edwards of Dustin, Okla., and former residents of Terry county, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Money Price and other friends.

Behind the Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK, July 28—The Korean war is the major key to business prospects again this week, and perhaps for many weeks or months to come. With U. S. troops still on the defensive, no quick mop-up of the Red-led North Korean forces is in sight, and the home front is reacting accordingly. Retailers, for instance, are already beginning to feel the war's impact as some consumers rush to stock up, New York buying offices are urging the retail men to move cautiously, however. To quote a top executive of one leading firm: "It would be far better for all retailers to play a conservative role in this present situation than to speculate on merchandise and have large stocks on hand which may or may not be desirable at some future time."

One Retailer's View
 Macy's, the world's largest store, took a foresighted step last week when it bought space in New York papers to tell people the facts about shortages. "There's no important shortage of ANYTHING," said the copy. "Our own counters are bulging with merchandise. In many many lines, there's a surplus. . . . We believe any talk of genuine shortages is nonsense—and dangerous nonsense!" Here's a message worth noting by both customers and retailers. As Macy's pointed out: "America's productive capacity is at such a high level that it can cope with just about everything except a stampede of hoarding and panic buying."

No Drought Now

Until last year, Kansas was one of the only three "dry" states left in the country (Oklahoma and Mississippi are the other two). In March, 1949, however, the Kansas legislature finally succumbed to the pleas of the state's citizenry and legalized liquor. How do Kansans feel about the situation, after a year of being free to step into a liquor store and buy whatever beverages they want? Approximately four out of five of the replies stressed the fact that public reaction to legal liquor is favorable.

WINE, WOMEN, BETS BRING FEW FRAUDS

LOS ANGELES —(P)— Wine, women and gambling are seldom the real cause of embezzlement, says Dr. Donald R. Cressey, University of California sociologist.

This finding is contrary to the popular beliefs on the subject, he says. He thinks embezzlement usually starts when a man gets into financial trouble—he cannot talk over with others—usually because he is ashamed of it. He usually thinks of his frauds as "borrowing." Then he suddenly realizes it is stealing. Then he frequently gives himself up, Cressey said.

COEDS THINK GAL'S PLACE IS IN HOME
 LUBBOCK, July 28—Coeds at Texas Tech evidently go along with the old saying. By a 2 to 1 majority, they believe the woman's place is in the home.

Mrs. Jean Jenkins, head of the Tech placement bureau, reports that 200 of the 275 women spring graduates are now either married or engaged.

Ohio Lady Renews For Her Herald

When the writer bought the Herald more than 41 years ago, there was a McCormick on the list. We can't remember that the Herald has ever gone to press since that time that there was not a McCormick, of Columbus, Ohio, on our list.
But right now, we are getting checks and the paper is going to Retta B. McCormick, the second or perhaps the third generation. It would be interesting to hear which generation of subscribers she represents.
Also, if the good lady has time, she might tell just when her ancestors bought Terry county land, and how much they paid for it. It is a well known fact that most of the Ohio subscribers we have had on our list over the years, bought their land from the capital syndicate, or from railroads.
It will be remembered that the state gave so many sections of land to railroads to build so many miles of rail lines down in east and southeast Texas, the railroad companies in turn peddled the deeds to the land out in the north, where laboring people and other had some spare cash, at from 25c to 50c per acre.
One Ohio man, now living in California, if still living, the Rev. D. D. DeLong, once told us, when he visited here from his home, then in Chicago, that he and wife were young school teachers in Ohio, when they bought their land. We believe he stated that they paid 50c per acre for their land.
There is Dr. Henry Hansburger also of Columbus, D. W. Weaver of Hanover, A. O. Eberley of North Lawrence, Ohio, and others that might write an interesting story on when their families became possessors of Terry county land, and how much they paid.
We feel sure they are all busy people, but a short statement from them based on the above facts, would be interesting reading to Terry county people, particularly.

Just Some More Bunk We Thought Of

The milk truck of Tennessee Dairies, Inc., drove up beside us while we were waiting for a light to change recently. Thinking to be smart, we lowered as how he got to Texas with his morning's milking awful quick. "Came through on one of them flying saucers," he responded with a grin. And we might add, without losing a drop. For the benefit of the reader out of Texas, we might add that these huge dairies and distributors of milk are as Texas as the Alamo. But a Tennessee boy did originate them down in the Dallas area, but they now cover the state of Texas.

Cerebral Clinic To Be Held August 14

A clinic for the examination of cerebral palsied children will be held Monday, August 14. Five specialists will be present at the Center to examine children.
Cerebral palsy is a condition which may be present from birth or may be caused by childhood diseases such as whooping cough or measles, or by head injuries. Under treatment, many of these children improve to the extent that they can take care of themselves, attend school or become employable. Treatment begun at an early age is most effective.
Parents interested in bringing children to the clinic August 14, are requested to register the child at the Center at some time before the clinic date. Further information may be obtained by contacting Dr. Esther Snell, Director of the Treatment Center, 3502 Avenue N, or by calling Lubbock 6541.

LEE TANKERSLEY HAS VERY LITTLE LIMP

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Glover were over from Roswell, N. M., this week, visiting friends and relatives. The Glovers being old timers, a Herald representative tied into him for a short conversation. Not a few former Brownfield people now make Roswell their home.
Among others is Lee Tankersley, who most of the old timers will remember as a very fine youth, with a decided limp in one leg, and a natural born pianist. Vance stated that Lee had gone to the Scott & White hospital at Temple not so long ago to see what they could do for him.
The bonesurgens went into his thigh, cut out a lot of deteriorating bone and replaced it with new, healthy bone. Vance stated that Lee had very little limp now.

RAIN IS JUST NOT NEWS THESE DAYS

Well, for the last week or so it has rained every night, not much sometimes and not a flood at any time—but it rained. Unlike back in April and early May no one is asking his neighbor, "do you reckon it will ever rain?" All we have talked with say they never saw as much rain in July in this country.
Up to now the rainfall for the month of July is over 5 inches, and the normal is around one inch. Evidently the Weatherman forgot to open his spigots back in April and May, and now is pouring it on.
A lot of times we have a wet April and May, sometimes a wet June and August, but a wet July is very rare. It again demonstrates the old saying that you never can tell what the weather is going to do in west Texas.

Knowing Preston Smith of Lubbock as we do personally, and Robert Calvert of Hillsboro by reputation, we have an idea the neither appreciated their ads in the Star-Telegram last Friday being jammed in beside a big whiskey ad.
This is the 45th racing season for Belmont Park.

TOWER TUMBLES—In Germany's Soviet sector, Communist authorities ordered the famous Goergen Church destroyed, charging that the historic tower was near collapse. Days later, sticks of TNT beneath the church were detonated by the Reds. The resulting explosion muffled the protests of irate Evangelical clergymen, and their beloved bell tower toppled to the ground.

We Have a Bum Lot Of Undercover Men

An Editorial
Our State, Military and Spy systems seem to be years behind the times. They are just not on their toes, or else they just don't know what it is all about, or don't give a hang. They were the worst fooled bunch this side of Podunk over the movements of North Korea. And up to the time the Reds hit across parallel 38, they seemed to think a half trained and poorly armed south Korea could hold those hords of well trained northerners, armed to the teeth.
And our diplomatic corps. What a bunch of Know-Nothings, See Nothings and Hear Nothings. All they know is to wine, dine and dance. The yaps we had in Germany during the 30ties, when Hitler was making all kinds of preparations to subject the world, were born 30 years too late. Hitler just entertained the simpletons very lavishly, and they stayed in the good hotels and had a good time.
About the latest quirk of the moronic minds that dominate Washington, is to send a woman to one of the west European countries as ambassador. All the reputation the woman had was to lavishly entertain in Washington. And that is all she is doing in Europe. She wouldn't know it if they were manufacturing cannons right under her window.
We are just suckers, and will remain that way until we clean the present rabble out of Washington. They just sit back, laugh and jest, and we now have had our second Pearl Harbor. The Reds prepared while we wine and dined. This business of running the government of 150,000,000 people is a big deal, and it takes business men to run it.
Yes, we will finally drive the Reds out of south Korea, but at what a cost in young American manhood. And with anxiety and anguish to thousands of American homes, far from their boys.

The Wilkinsons Here From Grandview

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilkinson, their son-in-law, wife and little daughter, were here Tuesday afternoon from Grandview, the first time since they left here early last spring following a bad wreck near Tatum, N. M., and several weeks hospitalization here. Both looking well, but Mrs. W. has one arm still slightly paralyzed.
They had started over to Tatum to visit their son, but he was to meet them here for a dinner at one of the cafes. Mr. Wilkinson stated positively that he was going to let his son-in-law do the driving after they got over in New Mexico this year.
The writer and wife called on the visitors at DeLuxe Motor Inn, for a nice long chat. As a farewell shot, Mrs. Wilkinson presented us with a nice lot of old Johnson county Elberta peaches. Whoops! peaches and cream. The peach crop was light down there this year.

SKYSCRAPER STAGES A COMEBACK

NEW YORK (AP)—The skyscraper, long thought to be on the way out, is staging a comeback. Modern office rental rates are changing the minds of architects and building managers about the economic height of buildings.
An interesting example is afforded by a new 42 story structure at 1407 Broadway, New York. Originally planned as a 24 story structure covering all the land area, the design was changed to 42 floors with a base covering only 65 per cent of the land.
Reason for the change, says S. M. Hirsch, president of the building organization, is that tenants are willing to pay premium rentals for light and air afforded in tower floors.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Frost of Lawton, Okla., spent last week end with Mr. and Mrs. Jete Lackey.

Miss Creola Moore left Wednesday for Ardmore, Okla., to visit Donnie Washington who is in a hospital there suffering a broken neck received July 3.
Mrs. J. L. Langford and Gene and Mrs. Frank Gray are spending this week with their daughter and sister, Mrs. Marshall Loyd and family in San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill McKinney and Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Klofanda attended the wedding of Miss Dorothy Harbaugh and Dean E. Smith at Lubbock Monday night.

While the ring's defective sight can hardly make out a motionless man at a distance of more than 40 to 50 yards, the animal's sense of smell is so keen that it can detect the presence of a man a quarter of a mile or more away.

Howard Payne College Now 60 Years Old
Had a letter from the Public Relations Dept. of Howard Payne College, at Brownwood, last week. It will be remembered that Rev. A. A. Brian, the former pastor of the First Baptist church here is now Vice-President and head of the Public Relations department. Howard Payne, a great old college, starts its 61st year on Sept. 12th, being established in 1889.

The Baptist General Convention own and operate the college, and while already having a strong faculty, they are adding many more this year. The college will have in its faculty 11 doctors, 22 masters and 13 bachelors. The endowment now stands at over 1 1/2 million dollars.
Among the new buildings to be erected this year or as soon as they can be completed will be a $225,000 library, a $300,000 dormitory for women and a stadium to cost $200,000. The ten year plan includes a new administration building to cost $625,000.
