BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY REFUGE AND FORTRESS—He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress; my God; in Him will I trust. He shall cover thee with His feathers, and under His wings shalt thou trust; His truth shall be thy shield and buckler.—Ps. 91:1-2, 4.

PAY UP YOUR BACK SCHOOL TAXES It is to be hoped that the appeal of the city school board that delinquent taxes owed the Cisco independent school district will not go unheeded. The schools of Cisco are performing an excellent service, and delinquent taxes are rightfully due them. The schools need all the money it is possible for them to collect, and it is therefore up to the citizens of Cisco to see that they get it. The need for funds this year is particularly pressing because of the increased attendance and additional teachers found necessary. It is therefore very urgent that all who owe back taxes to the schools pay them at once. President F. D. Wright has set himself a worthy task in undertaking to leave the school board with less delinquent taxes owed it than ever before when the next year rolls around. Being a lawyer, he knows the legal steps that can be resorted to in collection of the funds. It would be regretful, indeed, if the school board should be forced to seize and sell Cisco property for back taxes, but it is possible that a few such sales would have the effect of stimulating school tax payments. However, it is to be hoped that loyal citizens will come to the aid of the schools without necessity of being forced to pay the just debts to the system, and the Daily News believes they will when they are apprized of the seriousness of the situation.

HAS $800 CASH

The Petroleum Producers association has $800 in cash, but more than $1,000,000 in claims against it. This company was the one of which Dr. Frederick A. Cook of North Pole fame was the president. Dr. Cook is still in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, but the several millions of dollars that was put into the company is gone.

THE BEST DRESSED WOMAN

Money, rather than taste, according to Paul Poiret, French fashion creator, is the reason why American women are now the best dressed in the world—from an Occidental point of view. Yet he had little fault to find with them, even so. His first complaint had to do with flesh colored hose. They are monotonous, he says, and not so becoming as dark hose. He should be encouraged here. The light hose are still popular, of course, but the dark ones are slowly gaining favor, as any keen observer may discover. His second complaint dealt with the length of skirts. They should end five inches below the knee, he maintains. It is a matter of art rather than morals, but in this as in other matters the American woman continues to assert her independence. Paris may declare a certain length skirt right and fashionable, but in these days Paris has no influence in America. American women are "conservative" when it comes to the changes gently suggested by Paris. There have been no recent fashion changes in this country. This rather looks as if the unbelievable had come to pass and American women were dressing to please themselves rather than to follow fashion dictators. They have found certain styles comfortable and becoming and they stay by those cheerfully. It is a hopeful sign or not, according to whether one likes or dislikes the clothes upon which American women have fixed their approval.

PICTURE MESSAGES

Radio transmission of photographs is an established fact, although the process is still a bit clumsy and expensive. It is sure to have a big development in the next few years. One phase of this development, suggests the president of the Radio Corporation of America, will be the transmission of messages by the same mechanism used for pictures. That is, instead of the message being spelled out letter by letter, a picture of the message will be sent. This can be done already with fair success. As the process improves, it should be possible to transmit the messages more quickly than by the present telegraphic method, and also more accurately. Not only can a typed message be sent, "verbatim, litteratim and punctuatim," but a written message just as well, showing signatures and handwriting characteristics. There is another possibility no less interesting. Obviously news may be transmitted in the same way. The front page of an American or European newspaper, for example, may be flashed across the ocean, reproduced photographically and reprinted on the day of its issue, any language being handled just as easily as any other.

TWO ENDINGS

Here are two little pictures from real life that I wish you would look at if you have the time.

A pretty girl stenographer and a new young man bookkeeper decided that life would be a huge, empty, worthless thing without each other. But they determined that they would not get married until they had their own home.

They bought a neat little place, so much down and so much a month, and put in the furniture a piece at a time. Finally the home was all complete except for the draperies. He bought the goods at wholesale and she made them up. And one evening they went over and hung them. Now they would be married. That night the girl was taken ill. The next morning she was rushed to the hospital. By noon she was dead.

When she was told that she was dead he would not believe it. The body of the girl was prepared for burial and sent to her home. He went there to see her, still contending that she could not be dead. Sorrowfully members of the family met him at the door. They took him into the darkened room where she lay in her coffin. She had been pretty in life, but she was beautiful in death. Her soft golden curls clung to her white forehead, her cheeks were dimpled, there was a smile on her lips. The young man bent over her, looked at her searchingly, and called her by name—then he realized that she was dead.

Something within him snapped and he fell across the coffin, breaking the glass. He was taken away a raving maniac. That was a month ago. Today it is necessary to keep his hands confined, to prevent him from tearing his hair out by the roots and clawing the flesh from his face. Could anyone picture a more pathetic, more tragic ending to a love affair? Yes, one could.

Here is the other picture. Another young couple apparently were as devoted to each other as the couple just mentioned. They too had long planned on their "love nest" as they called it. They had prepared it in advance, with loving labor and sacrifice. Just as had this other couple. They had worked on it evenings, and at odd hours and off days. Finally their paradise was ready. And they were married.

After a couple of years, and there was a baby in the house, the man began to show indifference and to neglect the wife. She discovered that for some time he had been cutting up high jinks with another woman. She pleaded with him, threatened him, argued with him.

He would not give up the other woman and frankly told her he would not. So one night when he was out, as he usually was, she shut herself and her baby in a little back room, stopped on the chinks and turned on the gas.

When they were discovered the baby was dead, but physicians resuscitated the wife. However, the gas she had inhaled produced blood poisoning, from which she was desperately ill for months, and which so affected the muscles of her once pretty face that her mouth was twisted around under one ear and remained that way.

All the wild ideas of unbalanced agitators the world over in their ignorant and pitiable quest for happiness through revolution, confiscation of property, and crime, cannot overthrow the eternal truth that the one route to happiness through property and government is over the broad and open highway of service. And service always means industry, thrift, respect for authority, and recognition of the rights of others.—W. G. Sidley.

Breckenridge Man Victim of Bandit

BRECKENRIDGE, Oct. 28.—One of the most daring robberies committed here in recent months was reported to police last night about 7:15 o'clock after a hi-jacker took $65.95 from G. C. Patterson, service car driver, took possession of his car and made his escape.

Mr. Patterson, proprietor of Pat's Service car stand, stated that the man came to his place of business early in the evening and stated that he wished to engage a car. Mr. Patterson went as driver of the machine, going first to an address in Rhodes Terrace. From there the stranger directed him to drive out on Texas street. After having the machine brought to a stop the passenger pulled a gun and ordered the driver to "stick 'em up." Mr. Patterson then tried to get possession of the gun, but their strenuous scuffle ended with the gun in the possession of the hi-jacker. After searching Mr. Patterson's pockets, taking $65.95, the man took his place at the wheel and ordered him to run for a considerable distance.

Mr. Patterson immediately reported the hold-up to local police. The car was located early this morning on East Third street where it had been abandoned. No clue has been found to the identity or whereabouts of the robber.

Texas-S. M. U. Battle at Dallas Will Feature Southwest Conference Games This Week End; Aggies to Meet Tech

Conference Schedule

Friday
 S. M. U. vs. Texas at Dallas.
 Baylor vs. T. C. U. at Waco.
 Arkansas vs. L. S. U. at Shreveport.
 Rice Institute vs. Southern at Houston.
 By Frank F. Graham
 (International News Service Correspondent)

DALLAS, Oct. 28.—The invasion and occupation has begun. University of Texas students and Texas Exes are arriving on every train, over the highways and through the by-ways, with orange and white arm bands and pennants proudly displayed and with stickers on windshields and handbags screaming "Smash S. M. U." "Hide 'Em Texas," "Bent the Mustangs" and other expressions of patriotic defiance. But these are the advance guard.

This afternoon more than 1,000 students and Longhorn followers leave Austin by special trains, on the highways, and in "private" cars on the slower freights. Every city in the state is sending its quota of former students to witness the conflict. Fully 10,000 supporters of the orange and white and as many fans of red and blue allegiance will view the game tomorrow when the Steers and Mustangs battle on Owenby field here.

Never in the history of the University of Texas have the Longhorns been so eager for victory as now; never have the Mustangs been so determined to repel an attack as they are to send a defeated Steer squad back to Austin. These are the elements that go to make good football when opposing forces are so evenly matched as are the two teams tomorrow's classic. All the battle that has been woven into the spirit of the orange and white, all the daring that has been added to the red and blue of the Mustangs—these are the factors that conspire to give the not-to-be-disappointed spectators a wonderful game.

On a basis of the season's performances, it would be hard for an impartial judge to pick the winner. Records of the two schools are almost on a parity. Both started poorly when they met their first real competition, Texas tying with T. C. U.—the team which could not score against the oh so weak Aggie aggregation, please—and S. M. U. losing to the Centenary Gentlemen—whom the powerful Baylor eleven also was unable to beat.

Texas reached the heights of glory when the Steers defeated the highly touted Commodores of Vanderbilt, and S. M. U. demanded the respect of a sport-loving nation when the Mustangs so valiantly and effectively repelled the attack of the mighty Missouri Tigers and sent them back home with the worst beating Coach Gwynn Henry's Bengal Cats have suffered under his tutelage.

S. M. U. won from the Rice Owls, 24 to 6; Texas plucked the Birds 27 to 0. The Mustangs have scored 181 points while allowing opponents 36; the Longhorns have marked up 167, holding the enemy to 12. Last year S. M. U. won from Texas, 21 to 17—but do not ask a Longhorn fan now.

But the most unkind cut of all has been dealt the Steers with the passing of the year. They have lost Mack Saxon, Rufus King they tell us, is out with a broken jaw, and other players of last year are gone. With a backfield composed almost entirely of rookies Texas must cope with the veteran core of the Mustang Longhorn factory. The S. M. U. backfield undoubtedly has the edge on that of the Longhorns in offensive play—even though the "Terrible War" Chris Cartwright, he goes. But in the line, from tackle to tackle, Texas figures slightly ahead. The superior defensive play of the Longhorns should counteract what advantage the Mustangs have in the offensive. Although S. M. U. has scored many more points than Texas, the percentage of scoring over opponents favor the Steers. The Mustangs have scored 5 to 1 over the enemy this season; the Longhorns, almost 9 to 1.

Advance information indicates that both teams will take to the air in offensive play. Both go into the fracas with almost a full crew.

Tonight the meeting of the Mustang, wild and untamed, will mingle with the howling of the Steer. Tomorrow night—but this we must leave for the depositions, or wait until tomorrow night.

A. and M. at Lubbock
 This afternoon the Aggies from A. and M. fresh from a dose of one "inspired team" meet another in the Matadors of Texas Tech. at Lubbock. All season long Tech has been looking forward to this game, and those of the Matadors who indulge in the practice have been praying for victory. Others, if such there be, have been hoping.

Dose figures the Aggies to win by about the margin they were supposed to have won from the Frogs last week, but with less work this time. Last year Texas Tech, the team without a conference, lost to the Aggies. This year they were defeated by T. C. U. The Matadors have a bare chance to win—if they play hard and take all the breaks.

Baylor-T. C. U. Game
 Next to the S. M. U.-Texas clash, ragers Saturday's battle between the Bears of Baylor and the Horned Frogs of T. C. U.—the team that aims to lie with the best and beat all the rest.

Saturday morning a few train loads of T. C. U. roosters and followers of the Fort Worth team will journey down to Waco to be in at the killing, if any.

Both teams are in fair condition. "Blaske" Williams, captain of the Frogs, probably will not get to play, but "Rags" Matthews, acclaimed the conference's best wingman, will be in there. Washam and his supporters in the east are reported in fair shape, and Woe Wolf should be one of the most consistent individual gainers in the game.

The unexpected showing the Bears made against Centenary last week—Centenary, the team that most doubted the wild Mustangs—has commanded a new respect for the Bears. Because of that, few persons, those governed by patriotism or otherwise, are predicting any easy fight for the Frogs, and some are prophesying dire calamity. No team of the conference has shown such marked improvement with a little aging as have the Bears—but then there were few that so much room for improvement.

If that's a good word, if T. C. U. goes down to Waco tomorrow expecting a walkover, the team that likes to lie will get walked over by those rook old Bears. The Frogs don't seem to be bothered with overconfidence, however.

T. C. U. has not exhibited a very brilliant offensive—certainly nothing to equal the one-man drive of Woe Washam—but oh what a defense. And all the week long they have been working on that offense, realizing that the penalty for playing all conference games in a tie is a 500 mark. For the past two years Baylor and T. C. U. have tied.

Louisiana State university has been borrowed this week, as it were, to play a conference game with the Razorbacks from Arkansas. The game was necessary to make up the four required in the conference.

Conference interest does not center so strongly on this game, since

INDIGESTION GONE
 Tennessean Was Worried Considerably Until, on Advice of An Acquaintance, He Began To Use Black-Draught.

Sewanee, Tenn.—"For several years," says Mr. J. L. Russell, of this place, "I suffered continuously with spells of indigestion. Everything I ate disagreed with me, and I was in a bad way.

"Nothing did me any good until I found Black-Draught. One day a man in a store where we traded told me to try Black-Draught. He said he knew of it relieving indigestion, so I decided to give it a trial.

"In my case it seemed to go right to the very root of my trouble. It straightened me out, and ever since that time, over thirty years ago, I have used Black-Draught.

"When I have a spell of indigestion coming on, I begin on Black-Draught. I take several small doses, in a regular course, and I find it will usually have me well in less than no time. Now I never suffer—I take Black-Draught.

"I also found it fine to break up a bad cold. In the winter time, I always keep a box handy, so when I sneeze, or feel chilly down my spine, I take a few doses of Black-Draught, and that wards off the cold."

Arkansas is so far away from the rest of the crowd. Last week the Porkers drubbed the Missouri Miners while L. S. U. edged out the Mississippi Aggies. The Louisiana team showed strength in the early part of the season, to hold the Crimson Tide of Alabama, for three years king on the Southern conference throne, to a scoreless tie.

Arkansas, in its only conference game, lost to Texas Aggies by the narrow margin of 40 to 6. Even so, the Porkers are the only team scoring on A. and M. thus far.

ERSKINE SEDAN IN RECORD RUN IN HIGH GALE
 Rice Institute Owls, who have managed to win the game and tie one, meet Southwestern university Pirates from Texas' "Big Six" at Houston, Saturday. The team should be about evenly matched.

Southwestern is leading in its conference, by virtue of a win over St. Edward's university at San Antonio, last week.

After fighting a 55 mile gale that swept in off the ocean for most of the night and traveling at mile a minute speeds over slippery water-cooled lands through a 14 hour downpour of rain, a fully equipped stock Erskine sedan completed a 24 hour run on the Atlantic City speedway, Oct. 25, after turning in the amazing average of 54.1 miles per hour for a total distance of 1298.4 miles. Such a performance has never been equalled by any car listing under $1,000. Close behind the sedan followed another Erskine—a coupe—also fighting the wind and rain to complete the 24 hour run at an average speed of 53.2 miles per hour. At the end of the run, the Erskine sedan went an additional five miles at an average speed of better than 61 miles per hour to prove past all doubt the fine mechanical condition of the car at the finish. These remarkable performances were made under the sanction and observation of the American Automobile association and upon completion the American Automobile association technical committee examined both of the cars and pronounced them strictly stock models in all respects.
