What the Great Democratic Landslide Means and What Caused It.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

BUSINESS depression, hard times, unemployment, dissatisfaction of the farmers with farm relief, local political conditions, and last, but not least, the wet and dry issue, all contributed to the Democratic landslide on election day. The Democrats declared the people of the nation had thus registered their emphatic disapproval of the administration of President Hoover. This the Republicans denied. Take your choice.

In the new congress, it appears, neither party will have a constitutional majority in the senate, and the same condition may prevail in the lower house. The Republicans will have 48 senators, the Democrats 47, and the Farmer-Laborites 1. If the last mentioned, Shipstead of Minnesota, votes with the Republicans, they can organize the senate. Otherwise it would take the deciding vote of Vice President Curtis.

Unless a recount gives the Eighth Indiana district to Vestal (Rep.), instead of to Balf (Dem.), the membership of the house will stand: Republicans, 217; Democrats, 217; Farmer-Labor, 1. A constitutional majority is 218.

In both houses the progressive or radical Republicans will hold the balance of power in matters of legislation and by coalition with the Democrats can continue successfully their habitual course of hampering the national policies of their party.

NINE gains of senate seats which the Democrats are sure of at this writing were made in Massachusetts, West Virginia, Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky, Kansas, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Colorado. They lost one seat in Iowa, where Representative Dickinson defeated Senator Steck. Three administration senators who were beaten were Allen of Kansas, Robison of Kentucky and McCulloch of Ohio. However, two anti-administration senators lost out—Pine of Oklahoma and McMaster of South Dakota. Two administration senators who were victorious in hard fights were Metcalf of Rhode Island and Hastings of Delaware. Hastings ran as a dry in a notoriously wet state, and against him was all the influence the anti-prohibitionists could muster, but he decisively beat Thomas F. Bayard, former senator, wet and a Democrat.

There was much rejoicing among the wets. They elected four new wet senators: Lewis of Illinois, Bulkeley of Ohio, Coolidge of Massachusetts and Gore of Oklahoma, and they claim Metcalf of Rhode Island will vote wet. However, three dries replace as many wets: Dickinson of Iowa, Huey Long of Louisiana and White of Maine. As for the lower house, the wets claimed a gain of about 70 members. Of course the dries will continue to control both houses by heavy majorities, but the leaders of the wets assert the election presages the eventual repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

Heavy wet majorities were shown in each of the three states, Illinois, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, where there were referendum votes on various phases of the prohibition question.

SOME of the election results were spectacular. For instance, in New York state Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, was re-elected governor by the unprecedented plurality of 725,000 votes, completely swamping his Republican rival, Charles N. Tuttle. The "Buggy Warrior" thus becomes the outstanding figure of the Democratic party and a potential candidate for the President's nomination in 1932. He supplants Al Smith as a getter of Empire state votes both metropolitan and rural. There was a Tammany tidal wave in New York city, but Mrs. Ruth Pratt, Republican, was re-elected to congress, defeating her Tammany rival and Heywood Brown, columnist and Socialist; and Representative La Guardia, also Republican, retained his seat.

James Hamilton Lewis, picturesque and able Democrat, swept Illinois like a prairie fire, having a plurality for the senatorship of about 720,000 over Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican, who straddled the liquor issue, and Mrs. O'Neill, independent dry, who was a very poor third. This was the climax of one of the most interesting campaigns in the country. The Democrats also captured almost all the offices in the state and in Cook county, which includes Chicago.

Pennsylvania clung to its rock-ribbed Republicanism and Gifford Pinchot, radical and ardently dry Republican nominee for the governorship, was elected despite the defection of many of the party's leaders and the adverse vote of Philadelphia. Ohio seemed to indicate its wetness by electing Robert J. Bulkley, wet Democrat, to the senate; but on the other hand George White, Democrat, who was chosen governor, is a dry. Wisconsin, as usual, went La Follette, electing young Philip F. of that family its governor. Like his brother, Senator LaFollette, he is nominally a Republican. Democrats of Indiana elected nine congressmen, to four Republicans; among the latter is the veteran Will R. Wood who has represented the Tenth district for many years. Mrs. Otis T. Wingo of Arkansas easily won the seat in congress held by her late husband.

THERE will be no sorrow in Washington or the country at large over the elimination of Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama. Forced from the Democratic party because he opposed Al Smith two years ago, he ran for re-election as an independent and was thoroughly beaten by John Bankhead, the Democratic nominee. His peculiar role in the senate, as the source of sensational news stories, may be partly taken by Huey P. Long of Louisiana. Mr. Long intimates that he will complete his term as governor of his state before taking his seat in the senate.

Among the new senators of quite different caliber will be Dwight W. Morrow who was elected by New Jersey Republicans; Secretary of Labor Davis, sent to the senate by Republicans of Pennsylvania, and Robert J. Bulkley, the choice of Ohio Democrats. Mr. Morrow and Mr. Bulkley, both wets, are looked on as Presidential possibilities two years hence.

Thomas J. Walsh, Montana's veteran senator, was returned to the upper house, but he had no easy time defeating Judge Albert Galen, the Republican aspirant.

California escaped the Democratic flood and James Rolph, Jr., known sometimes as "Sunny Jim" and sometimes as San Francisco's perennial mayor, captured the governorship with little difficulty.

Nebraska's new governor is Charles W. Bryan, brother of William Jennings Bryan. He held the office once before and was the Democratic vice presidential nominee in 1924. He defeated Gov. Arthur Weaver by a rather narrow margin.

COMMENT by some of the party leaders is interesting as representing widely divergent views depending on party affiliation.

Chairman Fess of the Republican national committee said no outstanding issues controlled the results, which he viewed as a "crazy quilt." It was to be expected, he added, that the Republicans would lose 35 seats even without the disturbance caused by the economic depression.

John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, termed the Democratic sweep a "notable victory on clean-cut political issues." He announced he would do everything in his power to have the Democratic party view the tariff as an economic rather than a political question, "thus removing from business minds all cause for alarm and uncertainty as to how business will be treated in the event that this election and future elections give control of congress to our party."

Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, asserted that "everything considered, the result must be taken as a vindication of the national administration." Explaining this, he said no administration had ever gone into a congressional election under such adverse conditions. The results, he added, were "convincing evidence of the abiding faith of the thinking people of the country in the leadership of Herbert Hoover."

The view of Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, was:

"The Democratic campaign was conducted on the issue of the failure of the administration to meet its responsibility and carry out the promises on which it obtained election two years ago. Embraced in a subsidiary to this main theme were such items as the enactment of an indefensible tariff and the breakdown of the farm-relief plan of the administration, which had pledged itself to rehabilitate the agricultural industry."

WHILE the representatives of 32 nations were gathering at Geneva for the conference of the League of Nations' preparatory disarmament commission, efforts were being made to bring about an agreement between France and Italy without which the parley would admittedly be futile. American Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson took the lead in this attempt to get the two nations together and after conversations in Rome and Paris he announced that France had formally agreed to resumption of its naval negotiations with Italy. These were to be strictly secret and held during the sessions of the commission. It was understood in Paris the Italians had consented to bring forward the actual figures of their proposed building program for comparison of those of France, and that there was a chance of an agreement based on strategic needs and building capacity in 1930, with such questions as parity being excluded.

Dispatches from Rome, on the other hand, said Italy had made no fresh offers for settlement of the matter and that France must take the initiative. The Italians still insist on parity with France, and the French still reject that proposition.

IN FORMAL ceremonies lasting but a few minutes, Dr. Getulio Vargas assumed office as provisional President of Brazil, and immediately announced the members of his cabinet, all the factions of the revolutionary movement being represented. His minister of finance is Jose Maria Whitaker, of English descent, who has been a strong opponent of Washington Luis' coffee marketing scheme. His appointment means the certain reorganization of the government's financial policy, and especially the revocation of artificially sustained coffee values.

SINCLAIR LEWIS, American novelist, has been awarded the Nobel prize in literature, specifically for his novel "Babbitt," which is regarded in Sweden as his masterpiece. The money value of the award is $46,300, and Mr. Lewis, interviewed in New York, said he would accept it "with a feeling of the highest honor, gratification and pleasure." He intimated he would spend the money on himself and his family. The presentation ceremony takes place in Stockholm on December 10.

GAS explosions and fire in a mine of the Sunday Creek Coal company at Millfield, Ohio, entombed 96 men, of whom 76 were killed. The others were brought out alive and taken to hospitals, many of them seriously burned. The disaster occurred just after an inspection party had descended to the lower levels, and all its members were among the dead. They included William Tytus, president of the company; Howard Upson, field manager; Hubert Lancaster, chief engineer, and other officials.

The terrible accident took the lives of a considerable percentage of the little village of Millfield. It was estimated that approximately 300 children were left fatherless, but there was a ray of hope for the dependent families left destitute. Gov. Myers Y. Cooper ordered representatives of the industrial relations department to forget "red tape" and arrange for immediate payment of workmen's compensation funds.

THE TWELFTH ARMISTICE DAY

Tuesday, Nov., 11th—Armistice Day marked the twelfth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, which silenced the guns along the western front in France and throughout our home land, as well as in the Allied countries, the day was devoted to program in memory of the countless thousands of our boys who went so gallantly at the call of their country. Many beautiful tributes were paid the World War Veterans,—those who came back and those who died for their countries cause.

The stirring military music, the singing of the familiar songs of the days of 1917 and 18, turned back the pages of memory and we recall the stirring scenes at Camp Bowie, where many of the Callahan County boys trained and went over seas with the 36th Division. On several occasions we visited the camp and watched the boys in training. We recall one scene particularly and that was on a Sunday evening just one week before the 36th Division left for over sea service, where we watched "Guard Mount" Thousands of boys in khaki were on the parade ground, and how proudly they marched to the military music. The thought came to us then, how many of these boys will come back to home and loved ones when the war is over?—many of them did not, and some of them are now sleeping under the clear skies, on the green hillsides and amid the flowering fields of France, in the quiet hush of peace, where they will sleep forever in God's keeping.

Armistice Day is a nation's pitifully sincere attempt to honor a debt which is beyond our power to pay.

Problems of Empire

Texas in area and natural resources often has been called, and rightly, an empire. It is the coming empire State and within a generation will be admittedly a leading Commonwealth in the Union.

But this coming leadership demands that those who control the destiny of the state should have vision and foresight sufficient to plan in a large way a program as a guide for action in later years. Topsy "just grew" but scientific growing is based on intelligent surveys of situations and wise judgements.

Texas has enormous natural wealth, but the wealth from the production of it enriches outsiders; little remains within the State. It has much capital in its financial centers, but comparatively little of it is invested in Texan industries. The purchasing power of its almost six millions of population is huge in amount, but the goods purchased mostly come from outside the State.

Through ignorance the fertile lands of Texas are declining in fertility because of erosion and a one crop system; its magnificent forests have been shamelessly wasted and practically no attempts made to reforest cut-down areas suited only to timber. Texas is an empire of natural wealth for themselves with small forethought for the future generations of Texas. The best wealth of Texas consists of the energy and brain capacity of its people. Among these is much dormant talent that should have opportunity for expression in action. But more than half the population are so poor that their standards of living are necessarily low. In consequence their children are worked prematurely, and, obtaining merely the rudiments of education, they become stunted in body and mind—the greatest waste of a wasteful State.

What Texas needs is a definite program set for the younger generation to accomplish in the next 25 years. The resources of Texas should enrich Texas and Texans. Its farming population should own their lands, not be tenants in a condition quite like serfdom. Its empty forest lands should be reforested and exempted from taxation for the period of growth. Small industries should be established in every village and town of the State to supply work and to put on sale Texan-made goods. "Made in Texas" should be a guaranty of excellence in material and manufacture. Above all, the younger generation should be free to acquire a general education, combined with a training for vocations on the farm and in the future industries of Texas.

Texas needs local Chambers of Commerce, civic improvement societies and city planning. It needs a new Constitution, a reorganized government, wise legislators who can think in terms of an empire State. It should place obligations on its professions to give to its people health good laws, spiritual insight. It should aim to develop that broad intelligence that appreciates the value of the artistic in connection with vigorous applications of the many varieties of science to the problems of the State.

Talk Texas, think Texas, help make Texas famous for its comfortable homes and its wide-awake intelligent citizens. Dallas News.

the management on all matters. Here is a piece of machinery representative of all communities of West Texas and at the same time a set-up with a strong, centralized executive control thus enabling the doing of work with dispatch and efficiency.

Working in close touch with the management is the secretaries' advisory board made up of one secretary from each of the ten districts. The traffic advisory board, consisting of the traffic managers of West Texas communities, makes possible the executive board securing at all times the best advice and counsel available on West Texas traffic problems.

Noticeable in this arrangement is the fact that the organizational machinery of the West Texas chamber is easily and quickly responsive to the will of West Texas, yet is sufficiently centralized to enable effective administration and is thoroughly responsible. Another impressive thing is the high type and character of the and committeemen in the organization. They are leading citizens in their respective communities federated together through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for the benefit of the territory.

Impressive also are the business-like methods of the organization. Beginning at the headquarters office at Stamford, this is most noticeable. The office building has been remodeled, repainted and refurnished, and is a headquarters of which West Texas can be proud. Modern accounting records have been installed; office supplies and stock are systematically cared for, and now an entire new filing system is being put in. Number of employees has been reduced to a minimum and they are at work constantly all occupied on positive development projects.

No paid membership solicitors are used, the entire set-up being based on the premise that any concern that produces dividends will have no trouble in securing operating funds. When employees go into the field, they go for the purpose of performing some definite service for West Texas. Their business-like methods and plans command attention. A definite plan for the administration and operation of "West Texas Today," official publication of the organization, has been adopted which resulted in its being self-sustaining. The entire arrangement is based on the program of showing profitable returns or dividends on all investments of time, money, thought and effort expended through the body.

On the work program, the most noticeable change is observed. Instead of waiting for problems and propositions to present themselves, the organization now has a definite program, based on handling territorial problems. The W. T. C. C. assumes that local and individual community matters will be handled by local chambers of commerce and the regional organization will serve as their federation for dealing with regional projects. Most thorough and complete are the studies already made by the organization on certain territorial problems.

From the industrial survey, which equipped the chamber with detailed and dependable information on West Texas, the facts on what West Texas produces were secured and when published astounded even West Texas. These facts are used in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce poster a million and a half of the stamps being circulated throughout the United States.

In the study made on state revenues and expenditures as pertaining to West Texas counties, it was discovered that West Texas paid over 50 per cent of the taxes of Texas and received back less than 30 per cent. The study made by the organization on mistatements and inaccuracies in public school geographies of the United States has brought about a statewide movement to effect correction. As a result of a study on the drought situation, the W. T. C. C. was put in a position to take a leadership in securing for the affected counties Red Cross aid and reduced railway rates, and the facts produced by the study are now being used as a basis for securing assistance through federal appropriation.

The entire work program is carried on under three divisions. The first has to do with the protecting and expanding of those things already in West Texas through the Protection and Expansion Bureau; the second with getting new advantages for West Texas, through the Development Bureau, and the third, giving publicity to, and information about West Texas, through the Publicity Bureau. Serving with those three bureaus are twelve committees. The manager and his assistant carry on the work in each division.

Just one year ago the organization met for its 1929 convention at El Paso. A deficit of $28,000 had accumulated and brought the convention into a prominence that it otherwise would not have deserved. That was soon wiped out, and the organization's ledgers went into black ink and have been there ever since.

Again, six months later, the organization met in convention at Abilene in a convention where several previous convention records were broken. There were more bands and more entries in the speaking contest. Cost to Abilene for entertainment was less than $500 and the expense to the West Texas chamber was practically nothing. The bills had been paid; a cash balance was in the bank and the work program on which the organization is now engaged was developed.

Truly, the record of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce during the past 12 months is a glowing tribute to the progressiveness, energy and forcefulness of West Texans. With its organization well equipped and prepared with widespread confidence and respect at high level, the West Texas chamber has come back in a pronounced and impressive way and is now launched upon the highest plane of service in its history.

Some Cotton There

The Nueces county cotton crop will exceed 150,000 bales this year, as compared with 122,048 last year. Despite the low price of the product and the small profit, if any, to the growers, that amount of cotton helps make business lively at Corpus Christi and other Nueces county towns.

Cannery Enlarged

The Donna cannery, already a large plant, is being enlarged to take care of its increasing business. The time will come in Texas that a canning plant in a fruit and vegetable community will be regarded as essential as a cotton gin is to a cotton section. Farsighted towns are learning that now.

THE EFFECT OF CONSTITUTIONAL LAW CANNOT BE ANNULLED BY STATUTORY LAW

"For the promise that he should be the heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the RIGHTEOUSNESS OF FAITH."

"For if there had been a law given which could have given life, verily righteousness should have been by the law."

"And this I say, that the covenant, that was CONFIRMED BEFORE OF GOD IN CHRIST, the law, which was FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY YEARS AFTER, CANNOT DISANNUL, that it should make the PROMISE OF NONE EFFECT."

"And if ye be CHRIST'S, then are ye ABRAHAM'S SEED, AND HEIRS ACCORDING TO THE PROMISE." Paul.

West Texas Chamber of Commerce

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has just finished its first year's work after its reorganization at the El Paso convention a year ago, and it would not be amiss to survey the results of that reorganization and take a peek into the future at what this fine regional powerhouse of progress proposes to do for the upbuilding and development of its territory.

An outstanding record of achievement, based on a new-but absolutely fundamental-conception of regional commercial organization activities, has been produced by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce during the past twelve months. The full financial deficit has been wiped out and a substantial cash balance built up. A work program reaching down deep into the real needs of the area has been formulated, adopted and put into operation, and widespread confidence and respect in the organization has been inspired.

Now, with its house in order; with a notable list of accomplishments already credited to it and with the foundation laid for actual, positive, far-reaching, creative operation, it is starting on its second year under the new arrangement, and during that period West Texans may expect even greater and better results than those so far attained.

To the casual, outside observer three distinctive features of the new arrangement-organizational structure, business-like methods, and the work program are especially noticeable and impressive.

Under the organizational structure arrangement now in effect each town or city selects its own representatives on the board of directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The entire territory served by the body is divided into ten districts and the local directors of the W. T. C. C. in each region selects a district director who acts as an executive head for the sub-regional chamber of commerce composed of his district. Together with the president, two vice-presidents, and the immediate past president of the West Texas chamber, these district directors make up the executive board of the organization.

Policy determining functions are delegated to the full board of directors, while the executive functions are in the hands of the executive board, which operates in close contact with

Fall Clean-Up On Boll Weevils Urged

The following recommendations to clean up the boll weevil have been issued by R. R. Reppert, extension entomologist of Texas A. & M. College:

1. Weevils that develop late in the fall are most likely to live until spring.
2. The weevil becomes inactive about the time of the first killing frost.
3. While in the inactive winter state the weevil can live for several months without food.
4. Weevil infestation starts from the few weevils that pass the winter.
5. Boll weevils breed only in green squares and bolls.
6. Boll weevils eat green cotton only.
7. Killing cotton growth early removes the food of the weevil. If the growth of cotton is killed as early as two weeks before frosts, practically all weevils will starve before going into winter quarters.
8. Killing cotton growth early also prevents new weevils breeding, thereby permitting only the older ones to enter winter quarters. Very few have enough strength to live until spring.
9. Destroy all cotton growth as soon as cotton picking is complete.
10. Kill the plant by setting a plow shallow and turning out the stalks, or by some equally effective means. Merely chopping or clipping the stalks will not answer for the stumps will throw out new growth ideal for weevil food.
11. Do not burn crop refuse on the fields. Texas farms need this material returned to the soil in the form of humus.
12. Your clean-up will help your neighbor just as his clean-up will help you. You can't succeed without your neighbor. Profitable control demands community-wide co-operation.

To clean soiled playing cards, dip a small sponge in spirits of camphor and rub lightly. This restores the newness.

Wildcats Drop First Game of Season To Baird

Rising Star Record—For the first time this season the Rising Star "Wildcats" went down in defeat Friday afternoon. The Baird "Bears" winning the game by a score of 6 to 0 in one of the hardest fought games seen here in the past several years.

Just why the "Cats" went down Friday is rather hard to say, unless it was just too much McIntosh. However we do not believe that the "Cats" played the game they were capable of playing in the second and third quarters. In the last half they looked like a million dollars and up until the whistle blew had the Baird fans quaking in their boots. Twice the "Cats" had the ball in the shadow of the Baird goal post, losing once on a bad pass back from center and another time when big "Puss" Byerly juggled and dropped a short pass across the goal line, which was right in his mits. The "Cats" covered themselves with glory twice in the second quarter when the big Baird "Bears" had the ball within inches of the goal line and were held for downs.

Baird is far and away the best team the locals have met, and the keenness of the competition might have had something to do with their undoing. It was the first real stiff team they have met. Baird has a fine bunch of huskies, well coached and full of fight and any team who handles them is just pretty good. In the six years that we have been here this is the first year Baird has really put out a team. This is due to the work of Coach Coleman, who hails from A. C. C., and really knows his football. We understand that the club will lose heavily this year by graduation, and that is where the "Cats" come in. Next year the "Cats" will have the same team on the field with the exception of one or two men, and should go somewhere and do things.

BAKERY RECEIVES NEW MACHINERY

This week we installed some new and modern machinery. It was considerable expense to us but we did so in order to make a loaf of bread that would compare with the best that any Bakery could offer. The result is satisfactory, our bread new ranks in quality with any that can be hauled here from other towns. Every loaf is guaranteed.

In selecting your bread this Saturday please use ours if you have not been doing so. If it meets your demand for good bread then specify our bread when ordering from the stores.

If you will support us by using what we bake we promise to operate a Bakery in Baird that the citizens will be proud of.

Thanks in advance.

RESOLUTION

Since Bro. J. H. Burnam our beloved moderator is going to move into another part of the field, therefore: We the Callahan Baptist Association, do herein express our regrets because of his going. For many years he has been one of our most faithful workers among us, having served several years as Moderator. We will miss his wise council and tender fellowship.

We pledge faithfully to him, our prayers and earnestly covet his. We shall wish him well in his new acquaintances, but shall anxiously hope for his early return to us. We can ill afford to give him up, but we trust the Lord will supply us with another good leader to take his place.

We commend him to the fellowship in service of the good Rannels Association, where he is going and feel sure that soon a place of service will be given him over there.

The Tuberculosis Christmas Seals

Austin, Texas, Nov. 6, 1930—The phrase "Red Cross Seals" is a misnomer, according to a joint statement issued by the National Tuberculosis Association and The American Red Cross, a copy of which has been received by the Texas Tuberculosis Association.

The proper term is Tuberculosis Christmas Seals. The seal is no longer sold by the Red Cross and has not had any connection with the Red Cross since 1919. It is manufactured by the National Tuberculosis Association and distributed by the state associations and their affiliated chairmen.

The proceeds of the sale in Texas are used to carry on the health work of the tuberculosis societies in this state. They have been sold each year since 1911, in Texas. The Texas Tuberculosis Association, which was formally known as the Texas Public Health Association, is planning an increased sale of the little seals this year in order that they can adequately support an increased program of activity.

The Red Cross raises its money through the annual roll call and through special contributions in time of disaster. By agreement between its National headquarters and the National Tuberculosis Association the Roll Call is limited to the time between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving and the public sale of Tuberculosis Christmas seals begins the day after Thanksgiving. At that time thirty-two million seals will be offered to the citizens of Texas and it is expected that they will find ready sale.

Uncle Sam To Hire 288,490 New Clerks In P. O. Department

The campaign to rid the jobless horde of want in the lean winter months advanced with definite strides the past week as the federal government made plans to create more opportunities for work and outside agencies began functioning to relieve local distress.

Plans of the postoffice department to place 288,490 additional persons on its payroll during the Christmas holiday season beginning December 13 were outlined last week by Postmaster General Brown. In this manner about $ 6,700,000 will be distributed to needy breadwinners, President Hoover previously having signed an executive order waiving civil service qualifications of workmen in order to make the widest distribution to the most destitute.

General Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans affairs, said the veterans bureau would award contracts within a few weeks for hospital units costing $7,000,000, which would provide work for 4,500 men. The hospitals are to be located at Indianapolis, Indiana; Waco, Texas; Camp Custer, Mich., and additions are to be undertaken at Northport, Long Island; Somerset, N. J.; and Tucson, Ariz.

Bids are opened today for a $5,270,000 office building for the house of representatives in Washington as another unemployment relief measure.

Piano Scholarship At Simmons University

With application blanks mailed to the president of 500 high school senior classes in Texas, plans are going forward for the first annual awarding of $16,000 in piano scholarships at Simmons University by the John Sebastian Bach Music Foundation, according to Prof. Irl Allison, director. The winner of the $60 scholarship in Callahan County will be determined by the record filed on the application instead of through county contests as previously announced. Each county in the state will send a winner through this method.

Any senior in high school of junior who plans to enter college next year will be eligible. The committee of judges will decide the winners not only by the music record of the student but on the basis of scholastic record as well. The student must also file intention to pursue a four year college course, taking the B. A. degree, major in music, or the Bachelor of Music degree.

Students who win the first year scholarships will be given preference over all others during their four college years. The finals to determine the $200 scholarship winners will be held at Simmons in the fall as previously announced. Application can be turned in from now until May 10, 1931. They may be obtained by addressing Prof. Allison. County winners will be notified as early as possible after May 10th.

STRANGE CASE OF LUBBOCK MAN SPEAKS FOR CRAZY WATER

Thought To Be Hopeless Yet He Lived to Tell His Story

Three weeks ago today, I came to the Crazy Water Hotel on a stretcher from the city of Lubbock, Texas, with what the doctors called Typhoid Spine, and they told me that there was no medicine that would cure me. I started drinking Crazy Water and taking the baths, and on the 12th day after arriving, I took to the wheel chair and on the 17th day I started walking on crutches and can now walk without them, so I feel if Crazy Water will do that for me I cannot say enough for it.

I. F. Holland,
Lubbock, Texas.

The new million dollar Crazy Water Hotel at Mineral Wells, Texas, covers an entire block of ground. It is modern, fire-proof and complete in every detail.
