Necklines Are On Up-And-Up, But you Won't Know It, Boys

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — GUYS AND DOLLS: Hollywood's found the answer to TV's south-bound neckline. It's called the Nightgown Look, men.

Black lace on flesh-colored crepe, satin or silk and the only thing that plunges in the Adam's apple of the male who gets an eyeful of it.

Designer Bill Thomas introduces the fashion eyebrow-raiser on Linda Darnell in "The Lady Pays Off."

Whispers Bill: "The nightgown look started with Rita Hayworth in 'Gilda' and disappeared. Now it's back and it's going to be BIG. Even house dresses will have the Nightgown Look. It keeps the boys guessing. They won't be sure whether it's material or flesh under that lace."

James Mason was photographed for one of those TV commercials saying, "See me at my best on a television set."

"I should have re-written the line," he's grinning. "All of my pictures playing on television are 10 years old. I should have said, 'See me at my best—in my youth—on a television set.'" to U. S. moviegoers in a plot about a plot.

Sophie Tucker's still bristling because Hollywood labeled her "another Marie Dressler" when she made "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry" way back in 1937. That's the reason, Sophie snorted, that she's avoided movie cameras. She says:

"I don't want to be anybody but Sophie Tucker. I've knocked myself out for 45 years. Why should I be another Marie Dressler? Or another anybody? I'm Sophie Tucker, honey."

Don't call him Baby — he's six feet tall, 18, and his name is Ronald LeRoy Overacker. But at the age of nine months, he was Baby LeRoy, the only actor who ever stole a scene from W. C. Fields.

Now a Los Angeles junior college student, handsome Ronald LeRoy blushes when the kids toss "Baby" at him. He told me:

"I kept it quiet all through high school but I'm stuck with it now." No, he has no acting aspirations. He "retired" at the age of a year and a half and says, "I don't even remember working in the movies."

Texas Transient Held For Swindling Slain GI's Parents

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— A 29-year-old transient of Rockdale, Texas, is being held here on charges of mail fraud by swindling parents of boys killed in Korea.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Angus D. McEachern said Lewis A. Hickey has been writing friendly letters to the parents, representing himself as a GI buddy of their dead sons. McEachern said Hickey writes that the son owed him $32 and that he holds a wrist watch as security, to be returned upon repayment.

The parents of Pfc. Harold R. Liles of Linden, Texas, turned their letter over to postal authorities. Inspectors J. G. Hudson and N. N. Edwards then disguised themselves as bums and lived for a week on skid row. They arrested Hickey Friday when he received an answer from Liles' parents.

The inspectors said Hickey had an envelope full of casualty lists from Texas, Oklahoma, and Los Angeles. McEachern said Hickey receiving money from six parents. However, the prosecutor said investigations showed more than 50 persons had been defrauded.

Dissatisfied Buyer Of Automobile Shoots Salesman In Back

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— A dissatisfied buyer who plastered his automobile with signs reading "This Car Is a Lemon" was charged Saturday with shooting an auto salesman in the back.

Police Capt. Archibald Lemmie said Cosimo Rosso was accused of attempted murder in the wounding of salesman Elmer Bahan, 38.

The shooting occurred Friday night after Rosso had driven his car several times around the agency selling the same make car.

The policeman quoted Rosso as saying Bahan had stopped and threatened him. He claimed, said the officer, he decided to show Bahan a gun to scare him.

Rosso maintained he shot Bahan accidentally as the latter walked away. Lemmie reported, and he mentioned that "I shot him in the back. That's the most awful, awful thing that could happen."

DALLAS —(AP)— Negotiations with airline pilots postponed the scheduled inauguration Sunday of one-plane airline service from Houston to Los Angeles.

Officials of American Airlines, Braniff Airways and Continental Air Lines announced the postponement Friday night.

Pilots protested the announced plans for the flight did not give them enough flight time. Generally, a pilot's pay is based on flying time.

The plans called for Braniff to operate the flight from Houston to San Antonio, where Continental would take it to El Paso, and American on to Los Angeles. Passengers would not have to change planes.

Thanks, Jack!

Midlanders, citizens of the Permian Basin Empire and of many other sections of the nation owe a debt of gratitude to Police Chief Jack Ellington for a job well done in building Midland's Police Department. He has developed it from a one-man affair to its present efficiency. Ellington and his department have held crime to a minimum in this area, and won thousands of friends for Midland and his department.

Although the resignations of Ellington and Milan N. Plavsic as director of public safety came as a surprise to many Midlanders, events actually have been building up to it for months—in fact ever since the Department of Public Safety was created under the Mayor Neely administration.

Plavsic, undoubtedly a capable peace officer, perhaps has not had a fair chance to prove his qualifications here. He apparently was brought to Midland for a particular job, which for some reason never developed, placing him in somewhat of an embarrassing situation. The experience has been an unfortunate one for him.

Ellington, however, had the opportunity and proved his capabilities and qualifications as a police chief in a most satisfactory manner. His work with the Midland department the last nine years has been excellent in every way.

The chief, too, has been handicapped under the Department of Public Safety set-up, which actually resulted in Midland's having two police chiefs. It was a somewhat confusing situation to the public and particularly to Police Department personnel, who apparently never were able to find out just who was in charge. But Ellington, through it all, seems to have remained the "real chief" to most of the city's policemen.

The popular and efficient Chief Ellington also has hundreds and hundreds of other friends here who regret to see him leave the department. And it is most unfortunate that a man who has given such loyal and devoted service to the City of Midland finds it necessary to terminate his services thusly.

City Manager W. H. Oswalt said he did not demand the resignations of either Plavsic or Ellington, "but merely pointed out the situation to them." What else, may we ask, was left for them but to resign? The two men did just that.

Yet, even with the resignations, conditions have not cleared entirely. Both "chiefs" remain on the payroll until July 15, and just what effect that will have on the morale of the Police Department we do not know. We only can hope for the best.

We do know, however, that the City of Midland owes Ellington a debt of gratitude for the commendable job he has done in organizing and operating a first-class police department in Ever-Growing Midland. The task has not been easy, but the sincere and conscientious Ellington has done the job and done it well. He has worked long and hard, day and night, to build a law enforcement department which is the envy of many Texas cities.

Check, if you will, the crime records of other cities of similar size and circumstances and we believe you will find that crime and violence here have been and are far less than that of the other communities. That in itself is a credit to Midland's alert Police Department, which for almost eight and one-half years has been headed by Jack Ellington.

Although Ellington will be missed in the department, it is hoped the remaining members will carry on in the same efficient manner until the new chief, Rube Hemingway, is on the job. It then is hoped they will rally behind him to continue giving Midland and its citizens the same high-type of police service and protection to which they are entitled. The City Council, too, must back up the Police Department, giving it whole-hearted support and cooperation.

Who's Emotional?

In a recent speech at Harrisburg, Pa., in which he defended the Administration's course in Korea, Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan branded Senator Robert A. Taft and other GOP MacArthur backers as "hot-headed" emotionalists. Bob Taft "hot-headed?" Could be. Could it be that Leo Durocher is a simpering sissy and Andrei Vishinsky is the reincarnation of Lord Chesterfield.

A wealthy philanthropist says it's hard to give away a million dollars. We must try that some time!

What's the sense of living too fast if it is going to lead to fasting to live?

The easiest way for a lot of folks to reduce would be to live within their means.

It serves a political candidate right when he runs on a bluff—and then falls over.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: "Train of Europe" helps unite European countries; "No Vacancy" for Senator McCarthy; Korean war has strengthened our defenses.

WASHINGTON—Three years ago a series of trains ran through Western Europe as a symbol of friendship from the United States. They were not sensational trains in their appearance—merely long lines of grimy boxcars with an American flag draped around the engine and placards featuring more flags and messages from the American people tacked to the car doors.

But because these trains carried the friendship and carefully collected food of the American people, the "Friendship Trains" were welcomed with enthusiasm in France, Italy, Germany, Austria—wherever they went.

Today another train is touring Europe which also carries symbolic meaning and which is attracting great interest.

It is made of old passenger cars which were bombed during the war, and which now have been put together piece by piece, painted blue and silver, and which contain exhibits giving the story of European unity—unity which Europe long has sought to achieve and without which it has suffered war and tragedy.

"The Train of Europe," as the European unity train is called, was built under direction of Marshall planners in the N. A. M. plant, a German firm in Nuremberg. In six of its cars are large, electrically lighted charts showing the combined strength of Europe when pooling its water power, its steel, its fuel and its industry generally.

Though the train was built in Germany, it was designed in Paris, in itself one small step toward unity. The train now is drawing tremendous crowds in Germany, next will go to Austria, Italy, Belgium, Holland, the Scandinavian countries and France. It is one of the most important symbols of peace and unity since V-E Day.

McCarthyism
Senator McCarthy is pressuring Republican leaders to give him another important committee assignment, now that he has been bumped off the Senate Appropriations Committee.

However, McCarthy has been told the only vacancy is on the unimportant District of Columbia Committee, and he now is squawking to high heaven. He even has called his old friend Senator Bob Taft, a few names that can't be repeated here. He accused Taft of being ungrateful and letting him down, and now is threatening to use his seniority to bump able young Senator Nixon of California off the Senate Labor Committee.

Political Diplomacy
Handsome Dick Patterson, likable, newly appointed ambassador to Switzerland, wasn't satisfied with that important post and hung around Washington a month trying to wrangle the lush job of ambassador to Cuba.

Patterson is a Democrat and a political appointee. In fact, one reason he got his job was because he picked the new building to house the Democratic National Committee, and financed its purchase. Despite this, Patterson's sponsor in the Senate has been a staunch Republican, Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin.

Wiley, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, even worked a neat double-play for Patterson. In order to give Wiley time to try to obtain the ambassadorship to Cuba, Wiley held up his confirmation as ambassador to Switzerland—on the pretext he wanted to investigate Patterson's qualifications.

After several weeks' delay, Chairman Long Tom Connally of Texas brought up Patterson's name in the Foreign Relations Committee.

"We have held up this appointment at the request of the senator from Wisconsin," he said, and looked inquiringly at Wiley.

Military men point out, however, that our actual dead have been around 11,000 men—which is one-third the number killed in automobile accidents during the same period of time.

The approach of the annual Canadian-American tournament (Montreal, May 24-27) reminds me of a hand played by Ferry Sheardown, whose foursome won the team event last year. Sheardown, who held the South cards, didn't want to bid the slam in hearts until he was virtually pushed there. However, the more the enemy bid clubs the more it seemed that the North hand would be weak in clubs—with strength where it could be used.

As it happened, of course, North had the ace of clubs—an almost useless card. If he had held the ace of diamonds instead of the ace of clubs the heart slam would have been a cinch.

Sheardown had to make the best of the situation—which he proceeded to do in fine style. His first move was to play a low club from dummy and ruff in his own hand.

He next drew trumps with the ace and jack, after which he returned a low spade from dummy. This put East on the horns of a dilemma. If East played low, South's queen would win. Then dummy would be entered via the ace of diamonds and the ace of clubs would be led for declarer to discard his remaining spade. The rest, of course, would be easy.

If East put up the ace of spades at once, he could not prevent declarer from setting up one long spade in the dummy. South would be able to discard one diamond on the king of spades, a second on the long spade, and a third on the ace of clubs.

In short, the key play comes right at the first trick. Declarer must not take the ace of clubs because he doesn't know whether to discard a spade or a diamond. What would have happened if West had opened a diamond instead of the useless club? That, Sheardown says, would have wiped the smile right off his face. Fortunately for enterprising bidders, the opening lead is not always a killer.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Mike DiSalle Bounces Back In Spite Of Verbal Beatings

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Price Stabilization Director Michael V. DiSalle now is the senior defense agency official in point of service in Washington. He's been here five months.

Resignation of William H. Harrison as head of Defense Production Administration and transfer of Stuart Symington from National Security Resources Board to Reconstruction Finance Corporation give Mike DiSalle the seniority. But there was a time after he first came to town, when many wisecracks said he wouldn't last long. Mike has said from the first that he was perfectly ready, willing and able to go back where he came from—Toledo, Ohio—any time he wasn't useful. The indications now are that he'll be around longer after many of his detractors and critics are gone.

His family thinks he should get out while the getting is still good. DiSalle's mother and father were vacationing in Florida last Winter when he slapped the ceiling price on raw cotton. The things his parents heard said about their bambino down South were things that shouldn't be said about anybody.

Papa and Mama DiSalle urged Mike to go back home and resume the practice of law. It was at least a decent and respectable way to make a living, and he wouldn't always have to be taking abuse.

But the Honorable Price Stabilization director has all the characteristics as well as something of the shape of a tennis ball. The harder you sock him, the harder he bounces back.

Statistics Give Him Cheer
So in spite of all the beatings he has taken from people who don't like what he is doing, Price Boss DiSalle today can point to some facts which indicate his program is working.

The wholesale price index, which went up 27 points from last June to February, has leveled off since then at a fraction above 183.

The cost of living index, which rose 13 points from June to February, has risen only 7/10 of one point since then, to 184.5 as of March 15.

Not all of this can be credited to controls which started going in at the end of January. Part of the slow-down on price rises is psychological. The wild buying spree is spending itself out. But the controls haven't hurt. They offer some protection for the future. And the economy seems to be sound. Look at the stock market.

The big storm of opposition over the cotton ceiling price order is passing. When it first was issued, cotton bloc congressmen screamed that it would destroy the incentive to produce. Yet present indications are that a crop to yield some 16,000,000 bales will be planted. If that much is picked, all the hullabaloo will have been for nothing.

The same kind of a yuck-yuck now is being raised by the livestock producers, feeders and meat industry, but this has not overly impressed Congress. First approach of the most lobbyists was to try to persuade Congress not to renew price control authority at all. The effort didn't get any place.

Arguments against meat controls are the same as arguments against cotton controls: Regulations are unenforceable. They'll create black markets. They will destroy incentive and cut production.

Tied Up With Wages
The answer given is that the ceiling prices being imposed are well above parity (the so-called fair price), so no producer should lose money. The meat ceiling price, for instance, is 15 per cent above parity, at 152.

The wage ceiling imposed is 10 per cent above what has been set as a base level. And if the wage ceiling is to be held to a 10 per cent increase, the economic stabilizers can't let meat prices rise further.

The reason is that meat is a symbol of most. There's a psychological element to meat price levels, which gets more consideration than the economics of it.

If the livestock producers and feeders withhold cattle from the market in protest against price regulations, then OPS will be in trouble. But if the meat situation works out as the cotton situation apparently is working out, everything will be all right.

DiSalle's program for stabilizing all prices now is nearing completion. In three months, his agency has issued some 25 major regulations. After the beef order comes real, pork and lamb price regulations. Then a wholesale price regulation.

An export regulation has been issued and progress is being made on a regulation to control import prices. Luxury goods will have to be brought under control as a wage issue and other prices are involved. An order to regulate service industry prices is on DiSalle's desk at this writing and may be issued before this gets into print. That will about complete the basic price control structure.

For the comfort of alarmists, DiSalle isn't going to ask for subsidies, and he isn't going to buck the farm parity price issue.

Little Davey scowled as he was handed a quarter with instructions to put it in the collection at Sunday School. As each little fellow gave his contribution, he gave a verse of Scripture.

ROLLY-POLLY introduced herself to Lucilla as Mrs. Colps. Mrs. Colps lived on West Ninety-Third.

"I'll have to hurry plenty when I leave here afterwards, to get home before my husband, so he won't start asking, 'Where've you been?'"

Lucilla stared at the guileless face under the close-cropped black curls. "You mean he doesn't know anything about it?"

"Unh-unh. Does yours?"
Lucilla said hurriedly, "My husband thought it was a good idea for me to take an exercise course."

"But he doesn't know you'll be a New Woman?" The round blue eyes were solemn and direct. "Does he?"

Lucilla shook her head.
"You want to surprise him?"
She hesitated. Did she want to surprise Arthur? What's more, did Arthur want to be surprised? Basely, she returned the question unopened.

At that moment, a cubicle curtain was pulled back, and a girl strolled out, moving with a languor that matched her heavy-lidded eyes. The woman started at this latecomer in the strapless, two-piece, turquoise sun-suit, and the atmosphere changed as abruptly as if cold northerly winds had just landed on the eastern seaboard.

The girl was plump in the way a Renoir nude is plump, moistened with the juices of desire, and lazily ripe. Her hair, the silky, polished color of redwood, fell to her magnificently white shoulders. She smiled, and it was the most enticing of her fruity lips, not unfriendly, unless one considers seductiveness unfriendly. When she spoke, it was as startling as if a tiger had squeaked. It was a metallic squeak, and very penetrating.

"You kids leave your jools in the locker room!" She was unclipping a two-inch-wide bracelet, and every woman in the room must have thought, diamonds and emeralds? hoping not, but grudgingly convinced it was so.

Q—Where did the first coconut palms grow?
A—It is not definitely known but there is a theory that they may have been spread around the world by ocean currents. Great numbers of coconut trees grew along the seashore, and when nuts drop to the beach, high tides may carry some of them out into the ocean and when washed ashore the nuts take root. Coconut trees are found on thousands of islands, also in Asia, North America, South America and Africa.

In Case You Wondered, The Rain-Making Parson's Here

Midlanders can expect more rain any day now that the Rev. Eddie Clayton, Texas parson who has gained nationwide fame as a rain-maker, is back in the city.

The self-styled rain-making preacher, who distributes New Testaments and spreads the gospel wherever he is, returned here following a 10-day junket in the previously dry Del Rio-Eagle Pass and Lower Rio Grande Valley sectors. "Everywhere I went, it rained," Reverend Eddie said. "Del Rio, a quarter of an inch; Eagle Pass, about the same; Laredo, a young flood; McAllen, a half; Victoria, good rain. Everywhere, it was the same. Brother Clayton was in town."

And then, when he arrived in the Midland territory, Mr. Clayton said he quickly could see evidences of his recent visit to Midland.

Prayers Answered

"Pasture and farm lands were wet and water was in the roadside ditches," he observed. "My prayers once again had been answered."

While visiting here about 10 days ago, Mr. Clayton told a group gathered in a coffee shop it would rain within seven days. It rained on the fifth day, with more moisture falling since then. The rain-maker modestly takes credit for the needed moisture. He has been coming to Midland regularly the last year and a half or two years.

"It takes money to purchase Testaments and to carry on my work, and the good people of Midland have been kind and generous in helping me carry on my program," he said, then added:

"They always are more generous when it rains."

Letter Writer

The Rev. Eddie Clayton gained national publicity a year or so ago when he announced as a candidate for President of the United States. He later withdrew and advised President Truman accordingly.

Beating President Truman at his own game, the rain-making parson recently addressed another letter to President Truman, suggesting that he resign as President of the United States. Clayton suggested in the letter that Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas would be a good man for the job.

While awaiting an answer from the White House, Mr. Clayton is busy distributing Bibles, preaching, praying for rain, and accepting contributions.

Fast-Moving Show

Overall plans for the staging of the big show were nearing completion Saturday. Clarence Scharbauer, Jr., president of Midland Fair, Inc., promised rodeo patrons rugged, fast-moving events designed to provide top entertainment for men, women and children.

Scharbauer said rains last week put the rodeo grounds in the best shape ever, and that the grandstand and entire rodeo plant has been cleaned thoroughly from top to bottom. A few fences have been moved, better to accommodate the cutting horse contest, and new lights have been installed.

"Everything is in perfect readiness for the show's opening," the fair association head said.

Everett Colborn, producer of the show, sent word from his ranch headquarters at Dublin, Texas, he will bring to Midland the roughest, toughest livestock ever seen in West Texas. He said the specialty acts this year will be better than ever.

Cowboy Events Listed

The cowboy events to be seen at the rodeo include saddle and bareback bronc riding, calf roping, bull riding, steer wrestling, wild cow milking and cutting horse contest.

Reserved seats will be available at this year's Midland Rodeo for the first time in years and will go on sale this week. J. T. Baker is the ticket sale chairman.

The World Championship Midland Rodeo, the Southwest's largest outdoor rodeo, is affiliated with the Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Shivers Doesn't Plan To Answer Queries On Tax, Road Views

AUSTIN—(P)—Gov. Allan Shivers said Saturday he will not answer five pointed questions on his tax and rural roads views. He said he has answered four already.

The governor predicted the Legislature might wind up its work within a week.

His reason for not replying to the questions by the County Judges and Commissioners' Association, he said, was because he has "answered all except one of them in the past."

The lone question he has not responded to at any time is whether he would sign the Sewell Natural Gas Tax Bill backed by rural roads enthusiasts.

The reason for his stand: "I never say whether I'm going to sign a bill until it gets to me and I can see what form its in."

Other Questions Submitted

Other questions submitted this weekend dealt with the governor's position on state financing of all-weather school bus routes, continuance of the farm-to-market road program and use of surplus road bond assumption funds for country roads, and the merit of the Sewell bill.

"I've answered all those questions—and to the county judges," Shivers said while chatting informally with reporters.

Asked if his remarks were "for the record," the governor said he didn't care whether they were "on or off."

Shivers' statement that the legislative session might end in another week indicated at least a hope on the Administration's part that a compromise on the explosive taxation issue may be near at hand.

If such is the case, it was not reflected by remarks of the conference committee attempting to reconcile House and Senate differences in the omnibus tax bill.

Close-mouthed committee members kept mum on their progress and continued a closed-door study of the state's $65,000,000 tax problem.

None of the 10-man committee would say specifically what views were expressed during Saturday's session.

Coffee Shop Has New Owner

Claude E. Kuykendall now is the owner-manager of the Crawford Coffee Shop in Hotel Crawford.

He purchased the business from Jerry Matijek.

Kuykendall has had more than 20 years' experience as a cafe operator in Oklahoma, California and in Fort Worth before coming to Midland.

The Crawford Coffee Shop is featuring lunches for office workers and large dinners at night and serves the public from 8 a.m. to 9:45 p.m. Dinner features include steaks, chops, seafood and chicken and the merchant lunches are served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Kuykendall personally supervises the preparation of all food.

No Club Speeches

Although he has appeared on numerous institute programs sponsored by the State Bar, Turpin, unlike many attorneys, never has made a speech at a luncheon or service club.

And never has the Midland attorney sought or held public office. In fact, he never even has been a notary public. However, he is serving as a director of the State Bar and will complete his term this year. He permitted his name to be placed in nomination for president of the state association because, he says, it is an honor to head a lawyers' group.

Turpin's candidacy is endorsed by the Midland County Bar Association, which has more than 60 members.

Cool Cash Haul Made By Thief

If money would keep as well in a beer cooler as does the foamy brew, Bob Parrott would have been a happier man Saturday.

Parrott, who operates the Recreation Club at 211 West Wall Street, reported to police Friday evening the theft of $470 in small currency and silver.

He said the money represented the day's receipts and that he had hidden it, as usual, in the beer cooler.

During the night, someone broke into the place and escaped with the money.

Former Lubbock Grocer Drowns

SAN ANGELO—(P)—James H. Weatherford, 66, once a Lubbock grocer, drowned Saturday near Kirby Dam and the North Concho.

Mrs. Charlie Evans, who was with him, told authorities Weatherford slipped into the water while setting trotlines. She said he uttered no cry and that she was unable to reach him. She was unable to drive Weatherford's car and said she walked almost an hour seeking help.

The body was sent to Lubbock for interment.

Widow Is Awarded $66,000 Judgment

FORT WORTH—(P)—A $66,000 judgment against the Texas Electric Service Company was awarded Mrs. Lillian Holt of Grand Prairie by a 48th District Court jury Friday.

Mrs. Holt's husband was killed April 29, 1949, while working on a utility electric pole near Eagle Mountain Lake.

She claimed the company was negligent in energizing the power line at the time her husband, Drexel Morgan Holt, Jr., was working on it.

And She'd Done It, Too

Midland's pioneers are of sturdy stock.

That was proved recently when Mrs. Mollie McCormick, one of the city's first citizens, who is "77 years young," broke her arm in a fall at her home.

She calmly got up from the fall which broke the arm at the wrist and called a friend to take her to the hospital. Then she changed her dress and sat waiting for the friend to arrive.

She walked to the car, and at the hospital, she walked to the emergency room.

Mrs. "Ma" asked for Dr. Jack Walton, a native Midlander. When he hurriedly came, she said: "Jack Walton, if you hurt me, I'm going to wear you out."

Iran Officials Give Icy Reception To Britain's Warning

TEHRAN, IRAN—(P)—Iranian officials gave an icy reception Saturday to a British note warning that refusal to negotiate oil differences would bring "the most serious consequences."

Premier Mohammed Mossadeq refused to receive British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd behind the locked doors and boarded-up windows of his office in the Parliament Building. So Shepherd delivered the note instead to Foreign Minister Bagher Kazemi.

The nervous premier has barricaded himself to thwart purported assassination plots. He has vowed to stay in seclusion until the giant Anglo-Iranian Oil Company has been taken over under the nationalization law he pushed through Parliament.

Iranian officials said privately the note—on which the United States had been consulted by Britain—was "just the same old nonsense."

The British proposed sending a high level mission—possibly headed by Earl Mountbatten, a cousin of King George VI—immediately to reach a solution on the future of the British-owned company.

Pays Visit To Shah

Shepherd delivered the communication to Kazemi at a 35-minute conference. Shepherd said their talk was friendly. The ambassador then drove to the Royal Palace and had an hour's talk with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, an act which underlined the inaccessibility of the premier.

Informed sources said there appeared little chance Mossadeq will agree to negotiate. He has rebuffed one offer.

The next move seemed to be up to the premier. Sooner or later, if he persists in his present course, the parliamentary board empowered by Iran's oil nationalization law to take over physical possession of the world's largest refinery and rich oil fields will have to act.

The board has been marking time for a week, and so far has come up with no concrete plan for getting possession of the company's books or otherwise implementing the law.

Britain gave no clue to what the "serious consequences" of such action would be. Tehran papers have given prominence, however, to the alerting of parachute troops in Britain and the unconfirmed reports that they might intervene to protect British property and lives.

that is theirs and want sincerely to discharge their duties."

He then explained what had taken place within the Department of Public Safety.

"It's regretted that the results were what they had to be," he added, "but that was the course of action that had to be taken."

"Now, the air is cleared. There is no hammer or axe hanging over your heads. The security of your job depends on how you do your job."

"I don't want you all to worry about it and think that you're next and that the people who work under you are, somewhere down the line."

Hard To Determine

His voice began to falter, but Oswalt continued:

"Sometime those in a managerial capacity find it extremely hard to determine just what is the right thing to do . . ."

He paused as his voice broke. There was complete silence for four full minutes as the others in the room shifted nervously in their chairs.

"I hope you will overlook that," Oswalt finally apologized in an unsteady voice.

"I guess that is part of the job of trying to discharge the duties of my office in the best way I can."

"The council is thoroughly in accord with the action that has been taken."

"Your own security is not involved."

"That is all."

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And Worries On The Farm

Old Mac Donald who has a farm now was sitting on the steps with his head between his knees. "Worry, worry, worry," said Old MacDonald.

"Now, now, now," said Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend. "Old MacDonald, you have nothing to worry about."

But Old MacDonald answered he did not have something to worry about. He was afraid that robbers might come to the farm sometime. Yes, and so now he needed a watchdog to watch the ham and bacon in the little house where Old MacDonald kept them. Oh, but the watchdog had tried to eat the meat himself, and so "Worry, worry, worry," said Old MacDonald again.

Yes, and he said he had another reason for worry. If robbers came to the farm sometime, they might go to the barn where the corn was, and carry the corn away. Old MacDonald had tried at first to have the Old Gray Goose for a watchdog to watch the corn and frighten away any robbers. Oh, but the Old Gray Goose had eaten the corn herself, and so this was another cause for worry. "Worry, worry, worry," said Old MacDonald with his head between his knees.

"Now, now, now," said Daddy Ringtail. "Old MacDonald," said he, "why not let the Old Gray Goose be a watchdog now to watch the ham and bacon. She would never want to eat it. She would rather wait for corn for breakfast."

"Wonderful!" said Old MacDonald. "Watchdog now will keep the robbers from getting my corn."

But then, of a sudden, Old MacDonald said all over again: "Worry, worry, worry." He was worried for fear there would never be a robber for the dog and goose to frighten away.

Well, he was right, you know. A robber never did come. Old MacDonald worried about it all day long, because he really was having a day for worries, poor fellow. But the very next day, the worries were gone. I am happy to say. Happy day!

Two Spraberry Discoveries In SE Midland Are Finaled

Sinclair Oil & Gas Company No. 1-A Midkiff and Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 Preston have each been completed as Spraberry discoveries in Southeast Midland County.

The Sinclair producer was completed for 328 barrels of 38.1-gravity oil per day flowing through a three-quarter-inch choke. No water was made with the oil.

The other, which is two miles southeast of the Midkiff-Spraberry field, was finalized from open hole at 7,186-7,232 feet. That section was hydraulically fractured with 3,000 gallons.

Tubing pressure during the test was 50 pounds.

Location is 1.980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 2, block 38, T-3-S, T&P survey. Three miles northeast of the No. 1-A Midkiff-Magnolia No. 1 Preston was completed as a pumper from the Spraberry for a daily potential of 116 barrels of 38.2-gravity oil.

Production is from perforations at 7,114-7,202 feet and from open hole at 7,220-7,310 feet. Both the perforations and open were hydraulically fractured.

Gas-oil ratio for the discovery during the completion test was 62:1.

Location is 680 feet from west and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 14, block 37, T-4-S, T&P survey.

Albaugh Slates Two Deep Wildcats On His SW Mitchell Block

Ray A. Albaugh of Midland has filed applications with the Railroad Commission of Texas requesting permits to drill two 8,500-foot wildcats in Southwest Mitchell County.

Both explorations will be on a solid block of approximately 4,000 acres of leases which Albaugh owns in that region.

Drilling is slated to start on both prospectors by May 23, according to information contained in the applications.

Although No. 1 Mary Chalk estate will be 330 feet from south and east lines of section 90, block 29, W&NW survey. It is less than one-quarter of a mile east of the Howard County line, and is 15 miles south of Itan.

Albaugh plans to drill this project to 3,100 feet with cable tools. The idea of that being to try to develop production from the upper limes of the Permian formation.

If the No. 1 Chalk fails to get commercial production by the time it reaches 3,100 feet Albaugh will move in rotary and carry the wildcat on down to 8,500 feet to explore the Ellenburger and all zones between 3,100 feet and the Ellenburger.

Although No. 1 Will T. Scott, et al, will be the other Southwest Mitchell County wildcat. It is located 2,310 feet from south and east lines of section 11, block 17, SPRR survey.

That makes it one and three-quarter miles east of Albaugh No. 1 Chalk, two miles east of the Howard County line and 13 miles south of Itan.

To Start Soon Albaugh plans to start drilling on this project with rotary tools by May 23.

The Albaugh block includes sections 10, 11, 12, 27, 26 and the north half of 25 in block 17, SPRR survey and sections 90 and 91 in block 29, W&NW survey.

All of the acreage is in Southwest Mitchell County, except the west halves of sections 90 and 91, which are in Southeast Howard County.

All of the acreage adjacent to and surrounding the Albaugh leases is held by major oil companies.

Sun Test Seen As Long Extension To Central Kent Pool

Sun Oil Company has a three-quarter of a mile southeast extension to the Clairmont-Lower Pennsylvania field in Central Kent County in prospect at its No. 1-C Bibby Wallace.

That exploration, located 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 2, block 98, H&TC survey, and one and one-half miles south of the town of Clairmont, recovered 6,725 feet of clean oil and five feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud in a drillstem test at 6,734-68 feet.

The tool was open one and one-quarter hours. Gas surfaced in 15 minutes. There was a fair blow of gas for the remainder of the test period.

Recovery was the 6,725 feet of free oil and five feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud. There was no formation water.

Operator is preparing to cement 5 1/2-inch casing at 6,839 feet. After the plug cures on that casing the hole probably will be drilled deeper.

Top of the Pennsylvania line is at 6,722 feet. Top of the pay is at 6,736 feet.

This indicated new producer is three-quarters of a mile southeast of the opener of the Clairmont-Lower Pennsylvania field.

Permian Basin OIL & GAS LOG

James C. Watson
Oil Editor

County wildcat, after developing shows of oil and gas, and making salt water in the Pennsylvania line.

The project ran a one and one-half hour drillstem test in the Pennsylvania line at 9,130-9,230 feet. Gas surfaced in 51 minutes. No fluid came to the top while the tool was open.

Recovery was 100 feet of gas cut mud and 4,400 feet of oil and gas cut salt water.

The top part of the water column was gas cut and part of it was oil and gas cut. There was a little free oil in the bottom of the tool.

Most of the fluid unloaded from the drill pipe while it was being pulled.

Operator is now making hole below 9,292 feet in lime.

Top of the Pennsylvania line in this wildcat was called at 8,993 feet. Elevation is 2,967 feet.

The Barnes wildcat is 680 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 16, block 33, T-2-N, T&P survey. It is 14 miles northwest of Big Spring.

It is two miles northwest of Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1 Burton, recently completed discovery from the Pennsylvania line.

The Stanolind discovery topped the Pennsylvania line at 8,870 feet. Elevation is 2,630 feet.

Forest Abandons Crespi Wildcat In N-C Midland

Forest Oil Corporation and associates have abandoned and plugged their No. 1 Pio Crespi, North-Central Midland County wildcat. That project has been standing shut-in for several months.

The wildcat was eight miles southeast of the city of Midland and 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 17, block 28, T-2-S, T&P survey.

It drilled to a total depth of 7,790 feet in the Spraberry section. Top of that formation was at 7,420 feet. Elevation was 2,717 feet.

Extended Testing A string of 5 1/2-inch casing was cemented at 7,375 feet. Electric log surveys showed there was about 75 feet of thin scattered oil bearing streaks of sand in the open hole.

Those zones were tested over an extended period, both by swabbing and by pumping. Formation water was developed along with the oil and operators were never able to eliminate the water.

Small amounts of oil were produced but it was finally decided that the project could not be completed as a commercial producer and the plugging was ordered.

West Stepout Staked To Kent Salt Creek

Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware and Republic Natural Gas Company will drill their No. 1-B Girard Trust as a west stepout to production in the northwest side of the Salt Creek field of Northwest-Central Kent County.

Location is 680.3 feet from west and 660.4 feet from south lines of section 11, block 1, H&CN survey and seven miles northwest of Clairmont.

That puts it 2,721 feet west of the same concern's No. 1-A Girard Trust, a drilling project.

Midland Tex-Harvey Gets Oilers, Drillsite

Ted Weiner, Trustee and Barnett & Rector have each reported potential for a new producer in the Tex-Harvey field of Central-East Midland County, and Amerada Petroleum Corporation staked location for a project in the same field.

Ted Weiner, Trustee No. 3-1 M. H. O'Daniel, at the north edge of the field, was potentialized for a daily flow of 594.78 barrels of 38-gravity oil and no water.

Open hole section from 7,142 to 7,242 feet was hydraulically fractured. Gas-oil ratio was 630-1 and tubing pressure was 200 pounds. The 24-hour potential test was gauged on a 9/16-inch choke.

Germania-Spraberry field of North-east Midland County.

Operator staked location 660 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter of section 7, block 36, T-2-S, T&P survey.

It is to go to around 8,500 feet with rotary tools.

C-W Glasscock Area Gets Another Test

One mile east of the closest production in the east side of the Tex-Harvey field of Central-West Glasscock County, Olson Brothers, Inc. No. 1-2B Wraga will be drilled as an 8,000-foot Spraberry test.

Drillsite is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 28, block 36, T-3-S, T&P survey and 22 miles southeast of the City of Midland. It is projected to 8,000 feet.

Hockley Anton West Gets South Stepout

One location south of production in the Anton West-Clear Fork field of Central-North Hockley County Sunray Oil Corporation will drill its No. 2 Lily Palmer.

It will go to around 6,900 feet to test for production in the regular pay of the field.

Drillsite is 660 feet from north and east lines of labor 11, league 663, State Capitol lands survey and six miles northeast of Witharral.

C-E Dawson Field Gets New Producer

Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware No. 2-D P. W. Jeter is a new producer in the Spraberry-Deep field of Central-East Dawson County.

The oiler was finalized at the extreme north edge of the field for a daily flowing potential of 215.74 barrels of 39-gravity oil and three and six-tenths per cent water.

Gas-oil ratio was 324-1 and tubing pressure ranged from 100 to 175 pounds. The 24-hour gauge was made on a three-eighths-inch choke.

Pay was topped at 6,568 feet and hole was drilled to 6,533 feet.

Location is 690 feet from south and 885.5 feet from east line of section 36, block 34, T-3-N, T&P survey.

Open hole section was shot with 331 quarts of nitroglycerin.

N-C Midland Test Making More Hole

Moore Exploration Company No. 1 Baumann, North-Central Midland County wildcat, three miles south of the city of Midland, is drilling below 11,151 feet in shale.

It has drilled through the Pennsylvania line and found no shows of possible production in that formation. It is now going deeper under a permit to go to a possible bottom of 13,500 feet, which should take it into the Ellenburger.

Slight signs of oil and gas were logged in the Spraberry and in the Dean sands of the Permian.

Location is 467 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of the east 200 acres in section 14, block 38, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Delta Gulf Finals Oiler At Huldale

Delta Gulf Drilling Company No. 1-B H. F. Thomson estate was completed for a 24-hour flowing potential of 449.52 barrels of oil. This potential was calculated from a 23-hour flow of 412.19 barrels of oil. The flow was through a 1/4-inch choke.

Convincing Case Required To Get Steel Allocation

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Oil and gas operators are learning they must make a convincing case to get approval of their request for tubular steel under the defense allocation program.

The Petroleum Administration for Defense (PAD) has turned down about one-fourth of the applications for drill pipe priorities in the third quarter of this year.

It says the rejections primarily were for two reasons:

1. Drill pipe on hand or in use by the applicant was in suitable condition to permit continued operation through the third quarter.

2. The total tonnage of drill pipe available during the quarter will be less than the quantity requested.

The PAD said it gave about 400 operators and drilling contractors the priorities they requested on drill pipe orders for the quarter.

Applications for priorities on oil field tubular goods for fourth-quarter delivery must be filed before July 1. Applications involving drill pipe must be submitted not later than June 1, because of the manufacturing requirements, more time than do rollings of casing and tubing.

Government Desires Oil Industry To Carry Out Big Drilling Program In U. S.

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK—(AP)—The government wants the oil industry to drill 170 million feet of holes in the U. S. this year. Trouble in Iran, at Russia's doorstep, adds urgency to the task.

Some of the wells drilled will be rank wildcats, with the chances of striking oil regarded at one in nine by the industry. Others will be drilled in known oil-bearing fields, where the chances are rated one in five.

The industry places the cost in the billions. That's because there's a lot more to drilling for oil than just hiring a rig. It's now a costly, if scientific, gamble.

Steel shortage could hamper the attempt but the government has promised to allocate 1,800,000 tons of tubular steel for the record 44,000-well goal.

Both the industry and the government agree the holes should be drilled because the nation needs new sources of petroleum. Civilian consumption of gasoline, fuel oil, diesel oil and ship bunker oil is rising. Military demand could rise much faster in an emergency.

More important is the threat of the loss of the Middle East's rich oil fields should the trouble in Iran spread or the Reds march into Arabia. Should that happen, the United States might need badly whatever oil the 44,000 holes might tap.

Desires Increased Rate

Oil men estimate that every week the United States drills as many wells as the Russians plan to drill a year, according to their latest five-year plan announcements. Even so, American military would like to see our rate stepped up.

Last year more than 43,000 holes were drilled here, for a total of 160 million feet, the American Petroleum Institute reports.

Costs of drilling a well vary widely. A 10,000-foot exploration well may cost from $200,000 to $1,000,000, whether or not it taps oil, depending upon location and the nature of the operation.

The Humble Oil & Refining Company, an affiliate of Standard Oil (New Jersey) struck an average of all the wells drilled in Texas in 1949. When costs were lower than now. It reports the average well was 5,840 feet deep, took 39.8 days to drill, and cost $77,845.

Comparatively Shallow

This average 1949 Texas well is comparatively shallow for the United States as a whole in 1951. The deepest producing well is 15,530 feet. And one of the deepest ever drilled in the United States went down to 20,521 feet in Wyoming and proved to be a dry hole.

The average well drilled in Texas in 1949 required 76 workmen. The list starts with one geologist, four operators, one petroleum engineer.

It includes four rotary drillers and 17 helpers, and such specialists as two gamma ray logging crewmen, three mud logging crewmen, two casing perforation crewmen, and so on—it's a more complicated process than digging for water in the backyard.

The drilling also requires bulldozers, trucks and passenger cars. The average well took 5,840 feet of tubing, 6,500 feet of drill pipe, 5,840 feet of string casing, 200 feet of conductor casing.

The crew used anywhere from four to 50 drill bits, 19,000 barrels of water, 23,880 barrels of butane, 35 tons of cement, 15 tons of drilling clays and 45 tons of weighting material.

Many Run Own Rigs

Many oil companies run their own rigs, but much drilling is done by outside operators. Some 765 rotary drilling contracting firms run 1,977 rigs, do a million-dollar-a-day business and have 400 million dollars tied up in equipment.

All together, the industry last year added 2,562,685,000 barrels of petroleum to the nation's proved reserves, which the American Petroleum Institute now puts at 25 billion barrels. The institute says the nation's 467,778 producing oil wells are pouring out around six billion barrels of oil a day. That's 248 billion gallons.

The products run your cars, trains, planes, tractors, ships. They heat your homes, power your factories, and enter into hundreds of chemical, plastic and synthetic goods.

And they are indispensable to national defense. Hence, the desire for 44,000 more holes in the earth.

A Part of API Program

The OIIC is a part of the American Petroleum Institute, national trade association of the United States oil industry.

Cooper said Saturday that the Midland County committee is prepared to make available speeches, moving pictures and other forms of information on the oil industry for any organizations, groups or meetings which might desire such services.

Requests for any of those items may be given to any member of the committee, he said.

New Plant To Be Built By Shell At Houston To Make Large Amount Of Benzene

More than 19,000,000 gallons a year of benzene—now in critically short supply and urgently needed in the defense program—will be made from petroleum in a new plant to be built by Shell Oil Company at its Houston refinery.

One of the most useful "building blocks" in the chemical industry, benzene is used in making synthetic rubber, nylon, detergents and plastics.

According to F. S. Clulow, vice president in charge of manufacturing, the new plant is Shell's second. The other, in which Shell made the first benzene ever produced in commercial quantities from petroleum, is in California. It was first operated in 1947, during a temporary shortage, and has been in full production since March, 1950.

Will Make Toluene

The new plant will also make 30,000,000 gallons a year of toluene concentrate, an ingredient of high octane aviation gasoline.

As raw material, the plant will use a gasoline fraction in the distillation of crude oil. This will be put through a "plating" unit, which processes it at a temperature of about 900 degrees Fahrenheit and a pressure of about 250 pounds per square inch.

The chemical reactions in the plating unit take place in a hydrogen atmosphere and in the presence of a catalyst containing platinum.

Aside from its importance in increasing the supply of benzene, the chemical reactions in the plating unit take place in a hydrogen atmosphere and in the presence of a catalyst containing platinum.

Persons who have accepted membership in the group include James Mims, Jess V. Lindsey, Mrs. Joe Beakley, Mrs. Joe Chastain, George B. Hoy, Charles M. Chase, E. M. Braselton, William B. Neely, Dr. V. P. Neisler, Reese Cleveland, Richard E. Gile, W. D. Anderson and R. F. Peters.

Cooper said that other members might be added to the committee in the near future.

The Midland County OIIC will sponsor distribution of factual, accurate and authentic information about the oil industry in Midland County.

The county committee is a part of the West Texas area setup of the Oil Industry Information Committee, Marvin Miller, of Big Spring, a vice president of Cosden Petroleum Corporation is area chairman.

James C. Watson, of Midland, oil editor of The Reporter-Telegram, and operator of the Permian Basin Oil News Service is area vice chairman.

Allen J. Watis, president of the landmen's organization and W. Dave Hendon, president of the geological society, have invited all oil scouts, and oil company engineers and production men in this area to attend the program.

There will be no admission charge.

Thompson, President Of Contractors' Association, To Address AIME Group

A. W. (Andrew) Thompson of Houston will address the May gathering of the Permian Basin section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers in Midland Monday night.

Thompson's address will follow a dinner meeting of the organization in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer.

The affair will start at 6:30 p.m., with a 30-minute "get-together session." Dinner will be served at 7 p.m., and Thompson will speak at 7:45 p.m.

Subject of his address will be, "Evaluating of Training Programs," President Of AAOWDC.

Thompson is currently serving as president of the American Association of Oil Well Drilling Contractors. He is president of Thompson-Carr, Inc., drilling contractors which maintain offices in Houston, Midland and Odessa.

The contractors' association has been sponsoring for several years a series of training programs for various groups in the oil well drilling business.

Those programs are operated to develop a better understanding of their jobs by the various employees and also to produce more efficient and satisfactory operations in drilling oil wells.

Started With Texaco
Thompson is a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. After serving in the United States Army during World War I he went to work in 1919 for The Texas Company as an engineer at that concern's Port Arthur, Texas, refinery.

In 1920 he was transferred to the Southern Oklahoma division of the Wolverine Oil Company, a Texaco subsidiary, as a field engineer.

He was made assistant division superintendent for Wolverine at Tulsa in 1922 and served in that job through 1923.

In 1924 he joined Mohawk Drilling Company at Ardmore, Okla., as a partner. He stayed with that concern until 1928 when he became president of Mandeville & Thompson, Inc. of Chickasha, Okla. That corporation engaged in contract drilling and also was in the general oil development business.

In Drilling Business
In 1939 Thompson became president of Thompson-Carr, Inc., and has remained with that company since.

For the last several years the concern has had most of its drilling rigs working in the Permian Basin.

In addition to being president of the American Association of Oil Well Drilling Contractors, Thompson is a member of the National Petroleum Council, a member of the board of directors of the American Petroleum Institute, national vice chairman of the API rotary drilling committee; a member of the central committee on vocational training of API and a member of the division of production of API.

Wilberger Strike Is Dubbed 'Bugscuffle'

AUSTIN—(AP)—"Bugscuffle" may be a goofy name for an oil field, but there's one thing sure: There'll never be any confusing it with any other name.

That's just what I. R. Sheldon had in mind when he named the new Wilberger County discovery.

Finding new names for new oil fields is old business to Sheldon, who is head of the Railroad Commission's mapping department. So far he's done just fine. Texas has some 2,000 fields and the names are not anything alike.

There has to be a good reason for every name, though Sheldon emphasizes. Take the Bugscuffle field, for instance.

The field takes its name from a nearby crossroads. Years ago, two cowhands were standing at the crossroads watching a couple of tumblebug duels. One of the cowpokes happened to remember that the crossroads didn't have a name.

Bugscuffle was the only possible choice.

Dudes later called the crossroads title to Marriott, but the new field designation clinches the fact that there'll always be a Bugscuffle in Texas geography.

Sheldon said he likes to give fields names that will stick down through the years.

"If possible, a topographic feature is good—anything that's permanent," the mapman explained.

The Double Mountain field in Stonewall County is a name that suits Sheldon fine because nearby Double Mountain will be around for quite a while.

"There used to be a lot of Indian fight around there," he noted.

Human vanity and the power of Texas women have fouled up Sheldon's maps, though.

Oil men by the dozens have named fields after themselves. And they've named scores of others for the women in their lives.

Minnie, Emma, Ivy, Imogene, Clara Driscoll and "Sweetie" Peck, are just a few of the ladies who left the woman's touch on Sheldon's maps.

Dallas Geophysical Group Gives Funds To SMU's Library

The Dallas Geophysical Society has contributed initial funds for purchase of geophysical publications to be deposited in Ponder Library on the campus of Southern Methodist University in Dallas, according to Robert M. Trent, director of the SMU libraries.

The SMU library has been chosen as the official depository for geophysical publications which will be made available to geophysicists of the Dallas area. Thomas R. Shuart, geophysical consultant, is president of the Dallas Geophysical Society, a local section of the Society of Exploration Geophysicists.

Dr. Milton B. Dobrin, of Magdol Petroleum Company, chairman of the local section's projects committee, said that collectors and book sellers around the world will be contacted to obtain complete files of books and periodicals on geophysics in all languages.

Many rare and out-of-print volumes dating back to the middle of the nineteenth century are needed to establish this library. Dobrin said, and the latest methods of reproduction in miniature such as microcarding and microfilming will be used to obtain copies of the valuable scientific books and magazines.

Oil Men Eye Manpower Problem As They Gear For Full Mobilization

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON—(AP)—Oil men are keeping close watch for a worrisome manpower problem while gearing the industry for possible full mobilization.

Drilling contractors began calling for relief weeks ago. Huge expansion programs now under way or proposed in other phases of operations are causing concern over future manpower supplies.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics says rising demand for petroleum products and increasing capacity indicate new employment records will be set in the industry in 1951 and 1952.

A National Petroleum Council Committee on manpower last week made recommendations involving employees affected by Selective Service and reservists programs.

It suggested that the oil and gas division of the Interior Department urge the Petroleum Administration for Defense establish a unit to review requests for occupational deferments. It also said it would be exceedingly helpful if the Defense Department could establish a unit of rotation whereby employees drafted or called to active duty are returned to the industry after serving a specific period of time.

Would Study Orders
The PAD's review unit, upon request from employers in the industry, would study orders affecting key employees and make recommendations to draft boards and military authorities.

The manpower committee said oil and gas employees totaled 538,368 on December 31, compared to 515,471 two years earlier.

Male employees on December 31 were placed at 490,281. Of this number, only 177,073 were said to hold assignments which would require less than one year to train replacements. Males under 26 years of age totaled 49,268. Reservists and national guardsmen within the industry totaled 23,065.

PAD last week announced it has recommended 87 petroleum refining projects to cost $446,500,000 for accelerated tax amortization.

Numerous other refinery projects were under way before PAD made its February call for sharp increases in basic refining capacity within the next five years, with a goal of 700,000 barrels to be added by the end of next year.

To Require Months
Such new refining facilities will require months for construction but, upon completion, undoubtedly will boost plant employment sharply.

In January, United States refineries had 201,800 employees. Refinery capacity approximately 6,900,000 barrels daily.

In 1939, national plant capacity totaled 4,628,646 barrels. Refineries had 102,700 employees.

During World War II, employment jumped to 173,500 in 1945 and has kept climbing. Plant capacity in 1945 stood at 5,315,856 barrels daily.

PAD's call for 1,600,000 additional barrels of basic refining capacity by the end of 1956 would mean a total of about 8,500,000 barrels daily.

E-C Upton Test Is To Plug Back, Test

Solho Petroleum Company No. 1 A. P. Hill, East-Central Upton County wildcat, is at total depth of 12,476 feet in Ellenburger and is preparing to take electric logs and then plug back to the Spraberry and test the shows in that zone and try to complete as an oil well.

The project made a little water in a drillstem test at the total depth. There were no shows of oil or gas in the Ellenburger.

No. 1 Hill is located 660 feet from north and west lines of section 2, block K, D&SE survey, about three miles west of the Pembroke-Spraberry field.

Ellenburger-Wildcat Set For SW Fisher

American Republic Corporation and Magnolia Petroleum Company have staked location for their No. 1 Ernest L. Smith, wildcat in Southwest Fisher County.

The venture will be drilled to 8,000 feet for a test of the Ellenburger. Rotary tools will be used to drill, beginning at once.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 680 feet from west lines of section 196, block 3, H&TC survey. That makes it six miles west of Longworth.

Phillips To Construct Sulfur Extraction Plant Near Goldsmith

Phillips Chemical Company will construct a large sulfur extraction plant in West Texas, according to an announcement Saturday by K. S. Adams, chairman, and Paul Ends-cott, president, of both Phillips Chemical Company and its parent, Phillips Petroleum Company.

This plant is designed to extract from natural gas almost a quarter of a million pounds of elemental sulfur per day and will be located in the Permian Basin oil field near Goldsmith. The output will be used by the company in connection with its ammonium fertilizer plants at Adams Terminal near Houston.

Sulfur is essential for vulcanization of rubber, for insecticides, for drugs, and for other important chemicals, as well as for the production of sulfuric acid used in commercial fertilizers, steel production, paper and newsprint, oil refining, and in practically all chemical manufacture. Limited reserves of elemental sulfur make it necessary that other sources be found.

The cork oak tree takes 20 years to produce usable bark.

Midland County Has More Active Rotary Operations Than At Any Prior Time

Midland County reported a total of 80 active rotary rigs in operation on May 15, 1951. That is the largest number of active operations ever credited to Midland County. Only 79 were active in the county on May 1 of this year.

Washington Oil-White House Steps In As Mediator In PAD'S Scrap With Justice Department

WASHINGTON—The White House stepped in as mediator last week in the Petroleum Administration for Defense's seven-month fight to shake off crippling regulations of the Justice Department.

The problem of the regulations, affecting the operations of industry advisory committees, was taken to President Truman by Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman and his trouble-shooting oil consultant, Maj. J. R. Parten of Houston, president of the Woodley Petroleum Company.

In a 30-minute personal visit, the two explained they prefer industry men to serve as chairman of such groups as the National Petroleum Council and the Gas Industry Advisory Council.

The Justice Department ruled last October, however, that advisory committees under the Defense Production Act, should have a full-time government employe as chairman.

Compromises to resolve the issue have been under study, and it could be that the President was hinting at one of them that could develop.

While Parten and Chapman refused to comment after their talk with the President, the President himself spoke out the next day at a press conference. He would like the NPC to remain as it is, he said.

SEG Tulsa Section Elects New Officers

The Geophysical Society of Tulsa has elected new officers for the year 1951-1952, according to Hugh Thralls, vice president of Selamograph Service Corporation and retiring president of the society.

The Tulsa section of the Society of Exploration Geophysicists elected E. W. Gemmer, chief geophysicist for Carter Oil Company, president; Craig Ferris, partner in E. V. McCollum & Company, first vice president; Dr. J. E. Hawkins, research director of Selamograph Service, second vice president; J. C. Rollins, interpreter for Frost Geophysical Corporation, secretary, and Clare N. Hurry, geophysical operations assistant for Carter Oil Company, treasurer.

Texas Crude Flow, Completions Rise

AUSTIN—(P)—Texas' permissive daily crude oil flow jumped 10,500 barrels last week with the completion of 276 new oil wells, the Railroad Commission reported Saturday.

The allowable increase raised the total average permissive flow to 2,961,277 barrels a day.

The new completions brought the year's total to 4,019 leading last year's completions for the same period by 11.

Twenty gas wells were completed during the week to boost the year's total in that category to 386, leading last year's 283 for the period.

Texaco Spots Deep Test Near Saunders In C-W Lea Sector

HOBBS, N. M.—The Texas Company has spotted location for its No. 1-A State which is to be drilled as a 9,000-foot Pennsylvanian wildcat in Central-West Lea County, 900 feet east from south and east lines of section 10-14-32e.

Drill site is two miles north of Texaco No. 1-AN State which was completed as a two miles north extension to the Saunders field.

Los Nietes Company staked a 12,000-foot Devonian wildcat in North-east Lea County as No. 1 Elliott-Federal.

It is 600 feet from south and east lines of section 27-11s-32e and six miles northeast of the Gladiola-Devonian pool.

One location southeast of Devonian production in the Bagley-Devonian field of Northwest Lea County, Amerada Petroleum Corporation staked location for its No. 1 BTL.

Contracted to approximately 11,000 feet, the test will be drilled 600 feet from south and east lines of section 2-12s-32e and 13 miles west of Tatum.

Gulf Oil Corporation spotted location for its No. 1-D-G State as a 12,000-foot Devonian project in the undeveloped area between the Denton-Multrap field to the south and Ralph Lowe No. 1 Dickinson to the north.

The test is 1,900 feet from south and east lines of section 2-12s-37e, and 11 miles northwest of Lovington.

The Bough field was topped at 5,633 feet, elevation 4,117 feet. No. 1 Federal-Davis was completed from total depth of 9,664 feet.

Tornado—

scores of surrounding towns and cities.

All through the night the workers poured in—old men and Boy Scouts, military and military reserves, Red Cross, Salvation Army, special disaster units.

Then came the unorganized, just wanting to do anything they could—a grimy man with a day's growth of beard would push his way into City Hall—disaster control headquarters—and shout:

"I got three trucks out here. Where you need them?" And G. H. Roach, Jr., civilian defense director, or any other one of numerous superintendents, would say:

"We got a job for you. Follow that man right there." A youngster still in his teens, perhaps in uniform, would arrive from a nearby town well past midnight. He would buttonhole an official.

"You need any help?" "How many men you got?" "Eight."

"That man right there'll show you what to do."

And off they'd go to clear debris, guard the area and do the acts of help and kindness a disaster calls for.

And Olney citizens, a rugged group with a heritage of the oil fields, the cattle ranches and the huge farms, didn't sit back and hold their hands.

They plunged right in, taking care of their own.

The Red Cross and other agencies set up a housing agency in the City Hall to care for the homeless.

Not a victim asked help. All were sheltered by friends and neighbors. Spencer Mays of Graham, Young County Red Cross disaster relief chairman, said he was amazed at the manner in which Olney took care of its own.

Col. Delbert B. Freeman, of the Fort Worth Army Engineers, arrived Saturday to offer equipment. He admitted Olney had taken care of itself well.

Electric power was restored to many sections during the day.

Gas was turned into the mains about 8:30 a.m. Saturday, but workers had to go from house to house to check connections and automatic controls before homes and businesses could receive service.

Blue-Black Terror. As the tornado, a snake-like, blue-black terror, struck, it ripped out power and telephone lines and twisted and broke gas lines which were above the ground. Gas was cut off to prevent further disaster.

Emergency generators were set up in some places. A small section of the city had direct power. The water supply never was affected.

If you ate supper Friday night and breakfast Saturday morning, it probably was cold. At relief kitchens, coffee was boiling hot, but some units had to resort to blow torches to heat it.

No one went hungry if they went to City Hall or the hospital.

At the hospital, the Salvation Army was the difference between possible hunger and plenty. From surrounding towns, they sent their relief trucks rolling. Food and coffee were cooked enroute. They fed the hospital patients until the hospital kitchens again were operating.

Hot Chocolate Milk. A little boy lay on his hospital bed in the early morning hours.

"Mama, I want some hot chocolate milk," he pleaded. His mother and father sat helpless. Then someone remembered the Salvation Army.

Within a minute, workers directed by Major William T. Johnson of Fort Worth, who supervised Salvation Army work, had a glass of the hot beverage in the grateful hands of the sick little kid.

J. B. Green, a field director of the Red Cross, was rushed to the area. His headquarters are at Sheppard Air Force Base, Wichita Falls.

He said Saturday afternoon that the Red Cross stood ready to aid persons who were in need to restore their homes.

"If a man has no money," he said, "we will consider what aid we can give him in rebuilding his home."

The disaster area is about 200 yards wide and extends the width of their little North Texas prairie city of 3,750 population.

Closed To Sightseers. The tornado struck the grammar and high schools. A few students were cut by flying glass but none were seriously injured. There was minor damage to the hospital.

Many homes no longer exist. A few boards scattered in the yard or parts of a foundation are the only reminders that this once was a comfortable residence of a happy family.

Other homes had roofs off. Some apparently were not damaged. But a close inspection showed that stresses and strains had so warped and twisted the walls, roofs and floors that repairs were impossible.

Thief Misses 'Key To City'

The dirty footsteps of crime have tracked the floor of the mayor's office.

Mrs. Earnest Shepperd, who operates the cigar stand in the Leggett Building, reported to police Saturday that thieves had broken in and taken a dozen key chains, with tiny knives attached.

Backers Of Sewell Gas Tax Plan Start All-Out Freeze-Out

AUSTIN—(P)—The capital city is on the verge of seeing one of the biggest waiting games in Texas legislative history.

Dogged backers of the Sewell natural gas tax bill Saturday began moving into an abandoned fraternity house. They vow they'll live there and keep the Legislature in session until the Senate gives in and accepts their tax plan.

The barny, two-story house at 1700 Rio Grande Street was bustling with moving-in activity Saturday.

A van-load of beds, lamps, chairs, dressers—volunteered by a hotel manager—was expected any minute.

A sympathetic housewife dropped by to offer her victory garden to ease the food shortage.

A telephone was being installed. And the plumber was on the way. The cooperative housing plan is designed to save money. Legislators now are drawing $5 a day. The gas tax backers fear the pinch of living expenses is the big loophole in their freeze-out strategy.

Hold Slim Majority

They now hold a slim majority in the House, but they're afraid some of their weaker supporters may get discouraged and vote for a compromise so they can go home. A handful of votes would turn the tide.

Nineteen House members have signed up to live in the roomy old house. More are expected.

"We can take care of a majority of the House," joked youngling Clyde Whiteside of Seymour, one of the floor leaders for the Sewell plan.

Sewell, a young Blooming Grove lawyer who lost his eyeglass in World War II action, will continue to live along with his wife and child.

"But Jim'll be dropping by to see us all the time," explained Rep. Doug Crouch of Denton, another staunch rebel.

Crouch, 29, and Whiteside, 24, are about typical of the inhabitants of the improvised dormitory. Most of Sewell's supporters are fairly young and many of them are serving their first terms in the Legislature.

Resignations—

to investigate the situation. Until late Thursday night, he conferred with Ellington, Playvic and Fire Chief Jack Walker. Friday morning he summoned the council hastily to a special meeting.

Events Move Swiftly. The three principals were interviewed separately and the council then voted to leave disposition of the problem to Oswald, at his request.

Then followed the swift parade of events.

When the resignations were made public, 19 police officers, some of them on duty, filed into the city manager's office to demand that Ellington be kept as chief of police.

"They threatened to turn in their badges in protest but Captain Hemmingsway, talking to Lt. Wilkerson by long-distance telephone, urged them to remain on the job until his return."

The men went back to their posts. As news of the action spread through the city, there were reports that other City Hall shakeups would follow.

But Oswald summoned department heads into a meeting Saturday and assured them, "There is no hammer or axe hanging over your heads."

Playvic Submits Letter. Although Ellington was reported out of town, Playvic was at his office Saturday morning, preparing his letter of resignation.

The text of his letter follows: "It is apparent that differences in personalities between various members of the Police Department and myself have created friction in the force which may have an adverse effect on its ability to properly discharge its duty to the public. Because of these differences, certain principles, I feel that it is in the best interest of the department that I tender my resignation effective on or about July 15, 1951."

"I have not been able to start all the programs which have been previously discussed, and I think the matter of a traffic safety education program is very important to the community. However, in leaving, it is with a feeling of pride that I may point out to you the compliments which the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Texas Department of Public Safety tendered the city for recent improvements in its public safety work."

"My principal regret will be in leaving such a fine city and the association with others whose ideals of public service I admire and respect. The satisfaction of working under your capable guidance and leadership has been a gratifying experience for which I am sincerely thankful. Please accept my appreciation and convey to the official family my best wishes and thanks for their cooperation."

Pickett Urges Guarding Liberty

More citizen participation in civic affairs to keep the country's freedom secure, was urged here Friday night by Mayor Perry Pickett in addressing a meeting of the Permian Basin Chapter, Texas Society of Professional Engineers.

The meeting was held at Donoho's Restaurant with President S. P. Kroeker of Odessa, presiding.

Pickett, whose theme was "Defenders of Freedom," recounted the nation's losses in all wars—2,500,000 men. The monetary loss, he said, would build a church, school and library in every city of more than 10,000 population. Pickett urged his listeners not to complacently regard their liberties but to guard them vigilantly.

The speaker was introduced by H. E. Bahr, Midland.

Midlanders Taking Advantage Of Lake Colorado Resort

Midland fishermen and would-be fishermen are going in droves to the newly-opened Lake Colorado near Colorado City to get in their hours on the banks and in the boats.

Tex Carleton, sporting goods dealer here, said sale of fishing equipment and licenses "has been accelerated quite a bit since Lake Colorado opened." He said approximately 200 fishing licenses have been obtained from his store since the Colorado resort opened May 1.

"But that's no indication of the number of licenses sold," he said, "as many others bought theirs elsewhere, and the regular fishermen got theirs in September when they went hunting licenses."

"90 Per Cent Are Midlanders" Bob Drake, Midland man who leased sites for the Colorado City lake said that "approximately 90 per cent of the sites went to Midland residents."

Cars loaded down with fishing equipment and boats leave Midland in droves each weekend. Many of the Midlanders rent boats at the lake upon arrival.

The Colorado lake is loaded with bass and crappie, and reports of catches have been exceptionally good.

Rockets Win Extra-Inning Contest 12-9

It took the Midland Indians three hours and fourteen minutes to do it, but they finally managed to lose a baseball game to the Roswell Rockets by a 12-9 score here Saturday night.

Leading 9-4 going into the final inning, Midland allowed the Rockets to tie it at 9-11 before the inning was over and eventually take the win in 11 innings. Catcher Ray Sanders singled off loser Bill Reed in the eleventh to drive in two runs and break a 9-9 deadlock. Midland couldn't make the ripple in the final frame, as Roswell had added another insurance run they didn't need.

Texas A&M, Arizona Meet In Playoff For NCAA Tourney Spot

COLLEGE STATION—(P)—Texas A&M and the University of Arizona meet in Tucson, Ariz., May 23-25 in the NCAA baseball playoffs. The winner of two of three games will represent District 6 in the National Collegiate Athletic Association National Tournament. Officials of the schools agreed Saturday on the dates. The Aggies will reach Tucson at noon Tuesday and work out. The series winner goes to the NCAA tournament in Omaha.

Dr. Lloyd Messersmith, chairman of the NCAA District Six Selection Committee told of the arrangements.

The Aggies tied the University of Texas for the Southwest Conference championship Friday by sweeping a two-game series and was given first choice to meet Arizona, champion of the Border Conference, for the right to represent District Six in the tournament. Texas has been the national champion the last two years.

Texas previously had told the NCAA it would forfeit any claim to a place in the tournament should the Aggies beat them in the last two games. They told Messersmith earlier in the day, however, they would play Arizona should the Aggies decline.

Boston Sox Hand Feller 9-4 Licking

BOSTON—(P)—The Boston Red Sox subjected four-game winner Bob Feller to his initial 1951 setback by scalping the Cleveland Indians 9-4 Saturday to sweep a two-game series.

Feller was charged with all but one of the Red Sox' 14 hits, including homers by Dom DiMaggio and newly-acquiredatcher Les Moss, before being relieved by Lou Brissie. It was Cleveland's fifth straight defeat.

A triple by Johnny Pesky, which drove in two runners and boosted the Red Sox into a 7-4 lead, blasted Feller from the mound with one out in the seventh.

Wobbly Opening
Feller opened in wobbly fashion by spotting the Red Sox a 4-0 lead after the second inning. In that frame Moss, who joined the Red Sox Friday, homered and Tom Wright singled with the bases loaded.

Feller then regained his usual form and was back on even terms when Al Rosen provided all of the Cleveland runs with a grand-slam homer off starter Mel Parnell in the fourth inning.

After Sam Chapman singled and Bob Kennedy doubled with one out, Parnell was replaced by Harry Taylor, that relief flinger quelled the Indians' only uprising by passing Jim Hegon purposely to fill the bases and then forcing Feller to ground into a double play.

DiMaggio's four-bagger moved the Red Sox ahead again by a 5-4 margin and in the seventh, Ted Williams scored Pesky with a fly to deep right field.

The score: R. H. E.
Cleveland 000 400 00—4 8 2
Boston 130 010 31x—9 14 0
Feller, Brissie, Gromek and Hegon; Parnell, Taylor and Moss.

Garner Listed As Tournament Threat

LUBBOCK—(P)—A special four-ball tournament will open the Women's Texas Golf Association state tournament here Sunday with over 150 of Texas' top female golfers hitting the greens.

Qualifying rounds open Monday in the chase for the title vacated when Betsy Rawls of Austin turned professional.

Top contenders is Polly Riley of Fort Worth, who recently copped Southern Women's Amateur title. Her chief competition is expected from Pat Garner of Midland, Betty Dodd of San Antonio, Mrs. C. D. Lee of El Paso, Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite and Mrs. L. M. Keating of Houston.

His mount, the brown son of By Jimmy Little Rebel, wore a one-eyed blinker over his right eye to keep him from drifting to the outside fence. He boomed down the stretch with a flash to whip C. V. Whitney's Counterpoint by seven big lengths at the wire.

Bold's time for the mile and three-sixteenths was a snappy 1:56 2/5, just 2/5 off Capot's Preakness and track record.

Counterpoint, at 25-to-one, the longest in the field for this 75th Diamond Jubilee Preakness, finished three-quarters of a length ahead of the Hampton Stable's Alerted.

The race smacked Bold into the confused three-year-old picture, and provided a stiff challenger for the Kentucky Derby winner, Count Turf.

BIG SPRING—Abe Beckman, golf pro at Ranchland Hill Country Club, Midland, scored a hole-in-one on the Big Spring golf course here in the West Texas Pro-Am tournament Friday.

Beckman scored his ace on the third hole, a 172-yard par-three affair. He used a seven iron to accomplish the feat. It was Beckman's sixth hole-in-one in his career.

Bronchos Down Jeff In Bi-District Tilt

ODESSA—(P)—The defending state champion Odessa Bronchos Saturday won their opening bi-district game with El Paso Jefferson 13 to 7 before 1,100 fans here.

The Bronchos scored 10 times in the first inning and then coasted the rest of the way. Southpaw Garland Fuqua was the winner. El Paso starter David Mendoza was shelled in the first.

Odessa Right Fielder Frank Gee hit a single and two triples, driving home four runs, to pace the Broncho attack.

ST. LOUIS—(P)—Nippy Jones, recalled from the minors a few days ago, drove in five runs on a pair of doubles and a single Saturday to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-4 victory over the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

Jones singled a run home in the first inning, doubled across another in the third and set three mates scurrying home in the fifth with another two-bagger.

The defeat cut Brooklyn's lead over the runner-up Boston Braves to four percentage points. The victory pushed the Cards from sixth place to fourth in the hot pennant scramble.

Don Newcombe started for Brooklyn and surrendered all Cardinal runs. Chris Van Cuyk finished up and allowed only one hit over the final three innings.

Rotary Takes Lead

Jerry Matajcek had no trouble at all Friday night in pitching the Rotary Engineers to the league leadership in the City Major Division of the JayCee Softball League.

His Rotary teammates grabbed a 14-run lead in the first inning and allowed him to coast to a 26-7 win over Shell Oil. Matajcek fanned eight and allowed eight hits. It was his fifth win. Shell was leading the league until the Friday night debacle.

Toby Hilliard smacked a home run with the bases unoccupied in the fourth inning for Rotary, and Jim Watson repeated right behind him. Will Salmon was the loser, going out after the first inning when Rotary scored its 14 runs on five hits, five walks and three Shell errors.

In the other Friday night game, Standard of Texas blasted Rendezvous Cafe 16-3. Hal Sherrard led the Standard batting attack with four hits in four trips, including a home run in the second inning with two men on.

Midland's Pat Garner Captures Women's Invitation Tourney Here

As expected, Midland's Pat Garner Friday breezed to an easy 7 and 6 decision over Mrs. E. J. Phister, Houston, to cop the Fourth Annual Women's Invitation Tournament at Midland Country Club.

Thus blonde Miss Garner added another title to her already impressive tournament record. Established as the top amateur woman golfer of West Texas, Miss Garner recently won the Ladies Club Tournament over the same course.

She never was extended during the tournament, easily defeating the four women who challenged her for the tournament title.

Friday, Pat's long game was beautiful. She finished the first nine one stroke under par and sent long soaring drives down the fairway in erasing the Houston woman.

Glora Ezell Wins
Another Midlander—Glora Ezell—captured championship consolation honors by taking Mrs. Spear Ellison, El Paso, 6 and 5 Mrs. Ezell won the same tournament last year but was upset by Mrs. E. G. Shows, Odessa, in first-round championship play this year. After entering the consolation bracket she never seriously was threatened throughout the remaining games of the meet.

Grabs First Flight Title
Mrs. R. K. White, Midland, captured the first flight title by edging Mrs. Felix Runian, Houston, 1-up in a close match.

Melba Connel, Roswell, was the first out-of-town winner. She defeated Mrs. L. W. Meadows, Los Angeles, 4 and 3 for the first flight consolation crown.

Mrs. W. B. Wallace, Kilgore, nudged Mrs. A. H. Fulton, Midland, 1-up for the second flight title while Mrs. George Shelton, Jr., Midland, played nice golf in taking Inez Conway, Odessa, 1-up.

Mrs. S. B. Bonney of Carlsbad won over Mrs. Roy Lockett, Midland, 2 and 1 for the third flight crown as Mrs. C. R. Inman of Midland defeated another Midlander—Mrs. Don O'Shaughnessy—3 and 2 for that flight's consolation honors.

Other results saw Mrs. Sneed Lery, Fort Worth, whip Mrs. Curtis Allen, Kermit, 2 and 1 in the fourth flight, while Mrs. Gidd Faircloth, Kermit, defeated Mrs. Milton Loring, Midland, 3 and 2 for the fourth flight consolation prize.

Prizes To Winners
Mrs. Frank Aldrich, a Midland woman, defeated Mrs. Jack Kelly 1-up for fifth flight honors and Mrs. Jim White ousted Mrs. Jim Willis 2 and 1 for fifth flight consolation.

Prizes of sterling silver were awarded all flight winners and consolation winners.

The five-day tournament attracted a field of 87 golfers. Many of them will enter a women's tournament at Lubbock next week.

Commission Proposes Split Hunting Period

McALLEN—P.—The Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission proposes that the duck hunting season open two weeks earlier in North and West Texas than in South and East Texas.

The commission met here Friday and approved a resolution to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service for the split season for ducks and geese.

The state would be divided into a South and East Texas zone and a North and West Texas zone.

CONGRATULATIONS!—Pat Garner, right, accepts the congratulations of Mrs. E. J. Phister, Houston, after the Midland miss captured the Women's Invitation Golf Tournament at Midland Country Club. Pat defeated Mrs. Phister 7 and 6 in the championship final match.

Longhorn League—Even Weather Can't Cool Off Colts Who Notch 18th Straight

By The Associated Press
Even the weather can't cool off the San Angelo Colts. Rain stopped them for two days but they came back from the rest to take up right where they had left off.

The Colts are stampeding through the Longhorn League with little indication they will be stopped. After being idle Wednesday and Thursday nights, they went back into action to notch their eighteenth straight victory Friday night.

The easy ones or the hard ones, they are all alike to San Angelo. Their latest was a 4-2 win over Sweetwater behind the five-hit pitching of Indo Beltram.

John Tayoan homered with a mate aboard in the first inning and they were on their way. Tayoan ran his string to 26 straight games in which he has hit safely.

Vernon Holds Pace
Vernon, in second place in the pennant race, held the pace with a 6-2 win over Big Spring. Two hits and a walk got one run for the winners in the first inning. Four hits and an error accounted for two more in the second.

Ed Jacome, Midland pitching ace, notched his seventh win of the season in hitting the Indians 10-8, 7-1 win over Roswell. A three-run fourth inning sealed up the game.

A squeeze play in the eleventh inning gave Odessa a 9-8 win over Artesia. Elroy Barrera laid down the bunt to score Leo Eastham from third.

Jacome Hurls Indians To 7-1 'Re-Opening' Win As White, Prince Hit Homers

Harold Webb's Midland Indians turned in their sharpest performance of the season here Friday night and trounced the third-place Roswell Rockets 7-1 in a successful "re-opening" of the season.

The pattern of the game was strangely familiar. One month ago the Indians opened the Longhorn League season against the same team, winning 6-3. Then, Veteran Eddie Jacome won his first game of the year, allowing eight hits. Friday night he gave up 10 hits, scattering them well for his seventh victory of the season. Jim Prince, big Indian first baseman, repeated in the re-opening victory too. In the first contest against Roswell he smacked a home run with the bases empty. He did it again Friday night.

Hayden White, center fielder, also parked one out of the park. White homered in the sixth inning scoring Eddie Melillo ahead of him. It was his third of the year. Prince blasted his fifth four-bagger of the season in the seventh.

Campbell Comes Through
Midland had heroes galore in the re-opening contest. Dick Campbell—who went into the game with an anemic .103 batting average—doubled in the fourth inning with the bases loaded to send the Indians in front 3-1. Catcher Kenny Jones went three for four at the plate, two of them doubles. And Shortstop Stan (Sooter) Hughes handled 12 assists successfully and also participated in three of four Midland double plays.

Roswell went in front in the third inning on a single by Della, third baseman, who scored after first baseman Kenna singled and went to third on Rudy Escobar's error. But with two down, Jacome forced Hill to pop up to Prince.

Then came Midland's three-run fourth inning. Kenny Jones doubled, Jim Prince walked and Gordon Tanner also was given a base on balls by Roswell pitcher Bill Graheda. With the bases loaded, Eddie Melillo reached first base on a fielder's choice as Jones was forced at the plate. Hayden White also went to first on the same kind of play as Prince was forced out. Then Campbell caught one of Graheda's pitches, saw it clear the fence only to bound back into the playing field after hitting a light pole. But Midland was up there 3-1.

'50 And '51 Teams Will Vie Tuesday

1950 vs. 1951!
Experience vs. organization!
Power vs. speed!

That's what Midland football fans will see Tuesday night at Memorial Stadium when Coaches Thurmon L. (Tugboat) Jones, Red Rutledge and Audrey Gill send their 1951 MHS football hopefuls against the 19 seniors who made up most of last year's grid eleven here. Game time is 8 p.m.

The 1950 eleven will hold a wide edge in experience, but probably will be on the short end of the organization part. The '50's too probably will have a bit more power, although the 1951 team could surprise with a power game of its own. The coming-up Bulldogs are believed to possess more speed than last year's powerful but cumbersome eleven.

Band Will Play
Midland High School's Band will be out in all its glory for the affair, and regular paid referees—the best in West Texas—will be on hand to run the contest on the field.

Coches Tugboat Jones has announced he'll probably start the following lineup for his 1951 eleven, who will be clad in white jerseys: Center: Loren Roberts, junior, 163, pounds; Guards: Pete English, junior, 180, and Dalton Beverly, junior, 200; Tackles: Stan Coker, junior, 215 and Red East, sophomore, 165; Ends: Robert Kelsing, sophomore, 155 and Bill Mims, freshman, 165.

Defensively, sophomore Bill Leonard, 165, will come in at center in the line, with the rest of the lineup remaining the same.

Jones' offensive backfield will have M. A. Rose, sophomore, 135, at tailback; Dick Spencer, sophomore, 142, or Ralph Brooks, junior, 178, at fullback; Larry Friday, 170, sophomore, at blocking back and Roy Kimsay, 175, sophomore, at wingback.

On defense, Brooks will back up the line with Kimsay going to safety. Friday will hold down one halfback with Dan Black, junior, 155, going into the other defensive halfback slot.

The Purple-shirted seniors expect to field an offensive lineup of W. H. Black, 160, and Duane Bush, 175, at ends; David Vanderpool, 175, and Bob Wood, 200, at tackles; Larry Culp, 200, and Glenn Baker, 170, at guards; Jimmy O'Neil, 200, center; Jack Burris, 160, tailback; Reed Gilmore, 165, fullback; Bob Melton, 150, blocking back and Charles Crowley, 160, wingback.

Billy Medart will play defensive halfback. Bob Burks will see action at center, guard and back. Graham Mackey will get in some defensive end work. Billy Grissett is slated for some wingback play. Leo Hatfield will play back and end and Fred Underwood is expected to play regular defensive tackle.

Adults will be admitted to the game for 60 cents. Children's tickets will be 30 cents each.

Cuban Keed Wins Welter Crown

NEW YORK—P.—They whooped it up for Kid Gavilan in Havana and New York Saturday. The Cuban had a rougher time with his jubilant countrymen than he had with Johnny Bratton in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The flashy Hawk of Cuba won the world's welterweight championship by outclassing Chicago's Johnny in their 15-round title scrap. The decision was unanimous and decisive.

It was Cuba's first boxing champion since the days of Kid Chocolate in the early thirties.

Crane Wins 4-2 In 12-Inning Game

MONAHANS—Crane's Gulf Oilers went into a tie for the Permian Basin Softball League leadership here Friday night gaining a 4-2 victory over Monahans in a marathon 12-inning affair.

Both teams scored runs in the fourth inning and were poised edged until the 12th when Eiley led off with a double for Crane, stole third and scored on Goodwin's bunt. Goodwin moved to second on a long fly ball, stole third and scored on a bunt by Watson.

Boyd Reece went the distance for Crane. He gave up five binges. Junior Brown was the losing pitcher, giving up his hits in his 12-inning stint.

Children Hobbyists

DOLL COLLECTION—Starting at the age of seven months, Carol Ann Douglas has collected approximately 40 dolls. She is the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeLo Douglas, 506 North Big Spring Street. Carol Ann and her largest doll, Alice in Wonderland, are dressed alike. The doll is three and one-half feet tall. Her smallest doll is four inches tall. The collection includes dolls from Japan, Cuba, Mexico, Greece, India and Bermuda. A few of the most unusual dolls in Carol Ann's collection are an ivory Buddha, a Tonkinese fisherman, Dresden ballet dancers and Charley McCarthy. She also has storybook dolls and a collection of animals.

INDIAN BEAD WORK—Sheryl Lee Grimm, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Grimm, 204 Ridgela Drive, makes a beaded Belt with tiny vari-colored beads. Instead of collecting things for a hobby, Sheryl's hobbies are more on the creative side. With beads she has made belts, key chains and head bands. Her other hobbies include copper foil work, leather tooling, designing and music. Sheryl is in the seventh grade at John M. Cowden Junior High School.

TROPICAL FISH—Gwendolynn Campbell arranges seaweed in one of her aquariums. In these aquariums she keeps many varieties of unusual tropical fish. She began this hobby four years ago. There are 31 popular varieties of tropical fish, and Gwendolynn has a number of them in her collection, including Guppies, Mollies, Wag Tails, Bettas and Zebras. Some of the fish have big banjo eyes, exotic colors and fascinating habits of courtship, nest building and fighting. Some of them resemble neon lights in the dark. Gwendolynn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wayne Campbell, 201 Circle Drive.

HOBBIES GALORE—Jerry and Martha Nell Chastain are hobby enthusiasts. Their hobbies include both collections and creative work. Jerry, left, at present is making a hobby of her painting. Hooking rugs is Martha Nell's latest hobby. Other hobbies the girls constantly are working on include, knitting, needlepoint, sewing, drafting house plans and collecting dolls. Jerry, 10 years old, and Martha Nell, 12, are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Chastain, 1307 West Tennessee Street. The girls' interests in hobbies come natural—their mother is the owner of The Hobby House.

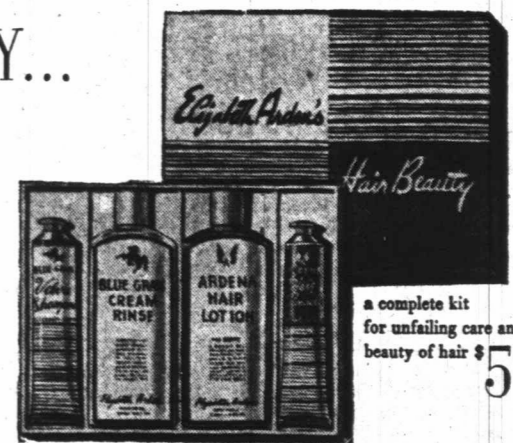

MODEL CARS—Billy Summers works diligently on his hobby of making model cars. He has made these model cars for two years. Some of his finished products are pictured above. He also makes model airplanes and does leather tooling. Billy is the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Summers, 206 West Cowden Street.

Diploma-Time Gowns For Future Use

A graduation dress, next to the bridal dress, is the high point in a girl's life. Here is white organdy (left) for a formal graduation. Off-shoulder necklines has a starched cuff. This dress can go dancing when the ceremony is over. Silk gauze (center) in pale blue makes a graduation dress now, evening dress later. The strapless bodice is topped by a small Quaker shawl. Short afternoon or evening dress (right) in wide-ribbed pique is one-piece, has square-bib collar edged in tiny white ball fringe.

NEW YORK — For most girls, graduation day, no matter what the school, is tremendously important. The graduation dress, therefore, assumes an aspect not achieved by any other dress ever, with the exception of the bridal dress.

Should the dress be long — or short? White or pastel? Silk or cotton?

In some instances, these things are decided by the school authorities. But if they are left to the graduate, she can have her dress long or short, white or pastel, silk or cotton, billowing or slightly tailored. And she can have it at the price that's right for her particular purse.

A graduation dress must, for the average girl, serve as a Summer evening dress once the excitement of commencement exercises has died away. Mousse starched silk organdy, simple enough for graduation, pretty enough for evening, makes such a dress.

Designer Cecil Chapman has given it a tailored, classic top with high-collared neckline and short, cuffed sleeves. A full skirt is caught in folded drapes at one side. They part to reveal lace-trimmed pleated ruffles on the hem of the underskirt.

For the very formal graduation, this same designer has used white organdy. An off-shoulder neckline has a starched cuff that falls into a small cape collar at the back. A vaulted bodice, etched with corded seams, has a row of small rhinestone buttons to the waist. The floor-length skirt is very full.

A simple dress in wide-ribbed white pique, by Emily Wilkens, is short and can be worn either afternoon or evening. A wide, round neckline is made pretty by a narrow, square-bib collar edged with small white ball fringe. The fitted bodice buttons in back, pinaflore-style. The very full skirt is worn over crinolines petticoats, as are most of these dresses.

Elegant, fragile silk gauze is turned by Cecil Chapman into a mid-length dress with lightly-fitted, strapless bodice. Shoulders are concealed, for daytime wear, by a tiny Quaker shawl that has a raised, ruffled collar. Its sash crosses in front and ties in a bow at the back.

Women Age Faster Than Men? Oh, Come Now, Your Honor

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

A LONDON magistrate recently overruled a mother who objected to her 15-year-old daughter marrying a man 10 years her senior on the grounds that he was too old for her.

Said the magistrate: "Everybody knows that a difference of 10 years is not much, because women age much quicker than men, and by middle-age the difference will not be perceptible."

That may have been true in Grandma's day, but it certainly isn't true today.

Women are out-living men today. Does that indicate that women "age much quicker than men?"

Women today work much harder than men at staying young looking. They diet more conscientiously, spend far more time on their looks, give more thought to seeing that their clothes are becoming, and seek youth in other ways. So if men have any natural edge on women in maintaining their youthful looks longer, women make up the difference by the attention they give to staying young.

Furthermore, women today don't need to age mentally the way they often did in the days when a woman's job was finished once her children were grown.

Look at the white-haired women holding down jobs, doing community work, taking courses to learn new skills, leading busy social lives. They are finding the answer to staying young mentally.

There is nothing wrong in a girl falling in love with and marrying a man older than she.

But the reason why such a marriage will probably work out all right isn't because she is going to age quicker than he is. You can bet your bottom dollar she isn't going to. For one of the advantages of marrying an older man — from a woman's view — is that the marriage probably offers security as well as love.

And women don't grow old fast on security. It gives them just that much more leisure and money to work at staying young. (All rights reserved, NEA Service, Inc.)

Driver Teaching Course Planned

AUSTIN—Approximately 50 high school teachers will arrive May 28 at the University of Texas to study one phase of attack against a blight that killed more than 2,400 Texans last year—traffic accidents.

In an intensive five-day course, they will study how to train high school students to understand and operate motor vehicles.

Already the university short course has paid off. Statistics show high school students who have had no driver-education course have twice as many accidents as those who have had high school teachers' qualified instruction.

Teachers taking the university short course will learn how to use scientific devices to test a driver's muscular reactions, vision, and depth perception, how to explain effectively the physical forces involved in a motor vehicle's operation, and how to help high school students develop the right attitude toward driving.

Midlander Says She Watched Panama Battle

The daughter of a Midland couple experienced the excitement of the recent Panamanian revolution. She is Mrs. Ray M. Golden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Davis of Hillcrest Acres. Her husband, Lt. Ray M. Golden, of Seymour, is ROTC instructor at the Balboa, Canal Zone, schools.

Mrs. Golden wrote her parents that she watched the shooting from a hilltop and heard the rifles and machine guns firing.

"We felt quite safe and excited," she said.

The revolution resulted in depositing President Arnulfo Arias following a bloody four-hour battle between his followers and the national police. Seventeen have died as a result of the shooting.

Mrs. Golden said the battle was staged clear of the American zone, although some bullets fell in the area.

"They dared not come into the American zone," she said. "Our army would have flattened them in 30 minutes."

"I like Barcetrate very much. It has done wonders for me," writes Mrs. T. V. Faye, Route 4, Box 180, Fort Worth, Texas. "When I commenced to take Barcetrate, I weighed 145. I had high blood pressure. I have now taken four bottles and lost 20 pounds, do not have high blood pressure, sleep and feel fine. It is a wonderful medicine."

Many people have reported amazing results with this same recipe. It's easy — no trouble at all and costs little. Just — your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Barcetrate four times into a pint bottle and add 12 ounces of canned grape-fruit juice. Then take two tablespoonsful

Faintly reminiscent of the dignity and grace of living of centuries-old China, this Davis-created furniture group combines the modern spirit of functionalism with a unique softness of line and detail which makes it come alive in your home.

These Leisual Modern pieces are painstakingly fashioned from Solid White Ash in your choice of two smart finishes — a striking dark shade called Pewter Ash and a Davis-developed Almond Ash which accents the interesting grain of this fine native wood.

You'll find that the simple lines of these quietly graceful Leisual Modern pieces carry an air of distinction and good taste into any home. They mix well with period pieces, are eminently capable of setting a decorative motif in their own right... and as you see, the Leisual Modern group carries a very modest price tag for such truly fine furniture.

Midland Civic Music Association To Have Business Meeting

The Midland Civic Music Association will have its annual business meeting at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the City-County Auditorium. An election of 11 new members of the board of directors will be held. These board members will succeed those whose terms expire this year.

The association recently concluded its season having presented six outstanding concerts. Artists giving concerts, under the sponsorship of the association, were Iva Kitchell, dance satirist; Kirsten Flagstad, Lawrence Winters and Ellabelle Davis, San Antonio Symphony, the Salzedo Ensemble and Leonard Pennario, pianist.

During the 1950-51 season the association had more than 1,900 members, making it the largest cultural organization in West Texas. The membership campaign for the 1951-52 season will be held during the month of October. The membership will be limited, due to the seating capacity of the high school auditorium.

Persons who were unable to get memberships last year are urged to send in applications early. All members are asked to be present at the Tuesday meeting.

Natural Loveliness Best For Grad

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

The last days of their senior term are likely to become a problem in arithmetic to most girls, as they struggle to divide their time between fun and studies, multiply their meaningful moments, subtract from their list of must-dos, and all to their everyday classroom beauty.

This last consideration is an important one, since graduation is one of the peak events in any girl's life. Every graduate wants to look her best as she claims the spotlight of attention before family, friends and faculty.

This applies not only to that tremulous moment when she accepts her diploma, but to Commencement Sunday as well when she shares the family pew and the night of the Senior Prom when she whirls with her best beau.

In your quest for special beauty for these occasions, make certain you don't become too experimental. This is not the time for a startling new hair-do or a bold change of make-up. Leave the guinea-pigging to your final sessions in the lab, and depend upon extra grooming and common sense to achieve extra loveliness.

Well in advance of the day of days, choose the clothes you're to wear. If yours is to be a long-white-dress graduation, select one that is appropriate to the occasion, becoming to you, and sufficiently versatile that it can serve later for evening wear. These rules also apply if you're planning to purchase a new formal especially for the senior dance. Any necessary fittings or changes should be taken care of before the final hurly-burly begins.

If caps and gowns are the order of the day, try to acquire them sufficiently in advance to allow you a bit of time for parading about at home in the unfamiliar garments.

It'll give you a sense of poise when you march down the aisle or onto the stage.

Experiment with the cap before your bedroom mirror until you decide what angle is most becoming. If it's a bit too loose, a tiny inside tuck is a better solution than a hasty pinning-up job at the last minute.

Whether you plan to arrange your hair in your usual casual style, pin-curling it at home, or whether you decide to entrust your coiffure to a beautician, have your shampoo a couple of days before the big event. Your curls will appear softer and more natural if they're not too freshly set.

By all means avoid an elaborate arrangement. Chances are it will appear over-sophisticated and unbecoming, and the drastic change will cause you to feel self-conscious about your looks.

You'll want your makeup to last through the ceremony, so do a job that will resist the ravages of heat and time. A good bet for a soft mat finish is an all-in-one foundation and powder which is easy to apply, requiring no water. A wafer-thin mirror case of this make-up can be carried along for a last-minute checkup before the grand march begins.

As added insurance against warm-weather nose-shine, smooth on a tiny bit of vanishing cream before applying the foundation. Cream will help hold your lipstick, too, even against the nervous wetting that strain may induce. Apply your lipstick twice, blotting with tissue after each application.

Do your make-up in a clear natural light if graduation is a daytime one. If it's scheduled for the evening, a trial run the night before, experimenting with your looks under the lights, will not be amiss. In either event, remember you want to look like you, not a painted mannequin.

If you're to wear a white dress or robe, a bit of rouge may be flattering, and a warm pink lipstick will be feminine and attractive. A black robe, however, will call for a bolder, brighter lipstick. Under night lights, you may find a blue-red lipstick preferable.

As a final step, turn slowly before a full-length mirror, checking stocking seams and petticoat length as well as tidiness of shoulders and shoes. Then arm yourself with a smile as you go forth to end one era and begin another.

The MATURE PARENT

Broken Homes Need Not Create Problem Children

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

We are too quick to blame "broken homes" for children's problems. Jimmy was the child of a fatherless home. He grew up happy and secure. Harry also was the child of a fatherless home. He grew up so insecure and confused that he had to be sent to a correctional school.

When Jimmy was three, he had a tantrum in the park because his mother wouldn't buy him some popcorn. She closed her knitting bag, picked him up and strapped him firmly into his stroller. Half-way home, when he had stopped screaming and struggling, she smiled at him and said: "Now we can go back to the park and finish the game."

When Harry was three, he had a tantrum in the grocery store. He struck his mother and shouted, "Give me the cookies or I'll hate you." She hurriedly bought Harry his cookies.

These two mothers were in the same boat. The homes of both were broken. Why did one broken home produce well-adjusted Jimmy and the other, maladjusted Harry?

Jimmy's mother did not need the reassurance of a three-year-old child's approval. She was the widow of a World War II pilot who had won the DFC, and she had been loved; losing her husband had not impaired her confidence in her ability to hold love.

Harry's mother dared not risk his good will toward her. She was divorced, and she had ceased to credit her ability to hold love.

Broken homes make children insecure only when those who live in them are insecure.

It's time we understood that a parent's reactions to the loss of a wife or husband have some bearing on the child's reactions to the loss of a mother or father.

The removal of a parent's physical presence from a home does not destroy a child's security. If it did, Jimmy would have been as unadjusted a boy as Harry. Harry's unadjusted behavior was not due to his "broken home," but to the broken confidence of his mother—to fears induced in her by her humiliating and hurtful experience.

When a youngster is separated by divorce from one of his parents this separation does involve problems of re-adjustment. They can be solved if we are alert to the real destroyers—the resentments and uncertainties divorce leaves in its wake.

It is not easy for a parent suffering from the emotional upheaval of divorce to move with assurance on the discipline of her youngsters. She is in a shocked and weakened state. If she herself is not aware of her own tendencies to retreat from her responsibilities, those who love her should help her. Then, unlike Harry's mother, she may not be tempted to indulge her own need for comfort and reassurance at the cost of her children's growth.

To achieve such self-knowledge and control in the midst of hurt and suffering is an achievement of love. Its reward is the real comfort, the real reassurance of our children's increasing trust, respect and love. (All Rights Reserved, NEA Service, Inc.)

JACOBY ON CANASTA
By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

In our last article we watched a canasta expert begin the play of a hand. Now we look again to see how the play was developed. The player to the right has just made the initial meld from his hand. He has melded:
Joker-K-K-K, 8-8-2.
Both sides need 120 points, the discard pile has grown to a hefty size, and our hero holds the following cards after he has drawn a card:
A-A, K-K-K, Q-Q, 8, 4-4, 2-2.
Our expert can make the count of 20 points if he wants to do so. He would have to meld:
A-A-2, K-K-K, Q-Q-2.
This would leave him with an eight and a pair of fours, with a discard still to be made.
Does he do so?
No. He is unlikely to make a canasta in kings considering the fact that the other side has already melded three kings. The aces and queens are a sheer gamble, so it doesn't seem likely that a canasta can be made very quickly.
In the absence of a good lay for a fast out, our expert doesn't want to reduce his hand so sharply.
If he doesn't meld he must, of course, discard. What should he throw?
Kings and eights are out of the question. Anything else may give the pile away to the next player if that worthy has a matching pair or even just one matching card and a wild card.
The only possible course is to discard a deuce, thus freeing the pack. This gives up the count, of course, but it is better to give up the count temporarily (or even permanently) than to give up a large pack.
Now our expert can probably discard kings safely. He should be safe for the next three rounds at least, after which the play will probably indicate additional safe plays.
It is unlikely that the other side can make a canasta and go out because their kings are hopeless and the eights are none too promising. There is a very good chance that our expert can keep discarding safely until his side wins the discard pile. That will probably win the whole game, considering the size of the pack and the fact that both sides are in the 120-point range.

Colorado River Maps Published

WASHINGTON — Four new large scale maps covering quadrangles along the upper Colorado River above Colorado City, Texas, where water is in critical supply recently have been published by the Geological Survey, Secretary of the Interior, Oscar L. Chapman announced.

The maps are the first of sixteen quadrangles included in a mapping project initiated about two years ago at the request of the Texas Water Conservation Association, the Texas Board of Water Engineers, and other local organizations, interested in developing a water supply for this area.

Each map covers a rectangular area extending about seven miles east and west and nine miles north and south. Each of these maps cover about 38,000 acres and are published on the scale of 1:24,000 (one inch equals 2,000 feet) with a contour interval of ten feet. They are printed in four colors and are an accurate representation of the physical features of the land, showing all streams, hills and valleys with elevations about sea level.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Draw Pearson says: Another Truman letter upsets White House aides; Chinese Communists soon may face terrifying new weapons; Interior Department's solicitor is uneasy.

WASHINGTON — President Truman is being ultra-careful about writing letters these days—so much so that some of his assistants almost get him into worse trouble trying to protect him.

The other day word was noted around the Capitol that the President had written a letter to Congressman John McGuire of Connecticut jokingly offering him the "Roosevelt concession at the Vatican" when asked if the United States sent a new ambassador to his Holiness the Pope.

There was an immediate furor in Capitol lobbies. The President, it was rumored, had put his foot in it again.

Careful checking by this column, however, revealed that though the President had written a letter, it was only a protective letter. Perhaps even more interesting, checking revealed the skittishness of some White House aides regarding any letter signed "Harry S. Truman."

What actually happened was that Congressman McGuire, a Democrat, called at the White House with other members of the House Commerce Committee, and afterward stayed behind to talk to the President about sending an ambassador to the Vatican. Truman has had this under consideration for some time, but has been under vigorous political pressure from Protestants on one side and Catholics on the other.

The President listened carefully to McGuire, then jokingly remarked that when he did appoint an ambassador to the Vatican he would give McGuire the rosary concession.

McGuire was amused and repeated the remark to several people, among them journalist Al Steinberg, who was doing a series of magazine articles on the White House. While at the White House preparing his series, Steinberg mentioned the remark to a presidential assistant who both pooch-pooched the story and almost hit the ceiling.

It was after this, and apparently to cover up any misinterpretation that might be given to his remark, that the President was urged by this aide to write a letter to Congressman McGuire, which read:

"Dear John: Your suggestion about a representative at the Vatican and a good business in rosaries gave me a good laugh."

Note—President Truman, a Baptist, has been criticized by some Protestants for appointing more Catholics to the Cabinet than any other President in history—Attorney General Howard McGrath, Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin, and Secretary of Navy Francis Matthews. By appointing a Committee on Religious and Racial Tolerance, he worked against intolerance toward all faiths.

New Korean Weapons
The Army is preparing to throw some terrifying new weapons into the Korean war—if we finally decide to shoot the works in Korea. Here is what the Chinese Communists soon may be facing:

1. It is up to the President to order the use of atomic weapons in Korea, but the Army now is training atomic artillery crews—just in case. These crews are learning to operate two field artillery pieces, capable of firing atomic shells which would wipe out an entire regiment with one shot. One atomic gun is a giant howitzer. The other a long-range artillery piece. Both are so large they must be towed by locomotives.

2. If the Communist Air Force joins the Korean war, the Army will unleash a spectacular, new anti-aircraft gun that is fired by remote control. In other words, several guns can be planted close to enemy lines, yet operated by remote control without any gun crews anywhere near the guns. The first of these 60-mm., air-cooled, anti-aircraft guns already are being tested in Korea.

3. The Army's new, light super-tank already is being put through the paces in Korea. The first two tanks off the production line were rushed overseas immediately and are now being tested under combat conditions. This aggressive little tank is capable of outfighting anything of its kind in the Russian arsenal.

In addition, it is no military secret to report that the government is rushing research on a variety of new weapons, including guided missiles, atomic submarines, supersonic planes, and nerve gas.

Radioactive No-Man's Land
Most revolutionary of these is radiological warfare, or the use of radioactive rays. By contaminating military objectives with radioactive rays, it would be possible to conquer an objective without killing a single person or destroying a single building. The radioactive dose could be made as deadly as desired. In other words, the dose could be made light enough so that it would have to be observed by the civilian population for three or four days before causing death. This would give enemy civilians plenty of time to clear out, and the advancing army could move in as soon as the radioactivity wore off.

Radioactive contamination also could be used to halt a ground attack down a narrow neck of land, such as Korea. This could be accomplished by spreading a stronger dose and creating a radioactive no-man's land into which no soldier could advance without certain death.

Processes already have been developed to produce these radioactive rays independent of the atomic bomb. However, the same effect could also be achieved by exploding an atomic bomb underground. This would contaminate the ground, and create a radioactive no-man's land. The effect would be that of an atomic mine which, if exploded in the face of an advancing army, should be able to halt the advance cold.

To test this principal, underground atomic explosions already are scheduled on the barren Aleutian Islands.

Texas Lawyer
It is a rare thing for a Texan to admit to an inferiority complex in any form. However, Mastin G. White, the solicitor of the Interior Department, confesses to a slight uneasiness every time he enters a certain office building in Washington.

White, a native of Tyler, Texas, has a close friend, Norman Morrison, formerly of El Paso, whose law offices are in the Union Trust Building. Once, when Morrison's wife and young daughter, Mary Helen, were taking the elevator to his office, Mary Helen suddenly exclaimed:

"Mother, do you know that Mr. White can't visit daddy in this building?"

"Nonsense," said Mrs. Morrison. "Why not?"

"Pointing to a sign in the elevator, the little girl replied: 'Well, it says very plainly there—no Solicitors Allowed.'"

Petroleum Dealers Warned Of Deadline
LUBBOCK—Service station operators who sell most of their gasoline at a margin of more than four cents a gallon have until May 25 to file statements of their ceiling prices with the Office of Price Stabilization, W. O. Daniels, director of the fuels and chemical branch for OPS in this district, said Friday.

The statements should be filed with the district Office of Price Stabilization, Broadway Building, 1202 Texas Avenue, Lubbock, Texas.

Dealers whose margin on gasoline is not more than four cents a gallon are not required to file a statement.

May 25 is also the deadline for all gasoline and oil retailers to be pricing under Ceilg Price Regulation 13, the OPS petroleum order, Daniels said. Dealers are required to post their ceiling prices for each grade of motor fuel and lubricating fuel.

When no dew follows a hot day, rain may be expected.

Spanish Club Has Annual Banquet

ANDREWS—The annual Spanish Club banquet was held recently in the elementary school cafeteria. The entrance was decorated with an archway entwined with greenery, crepe paper streamers and balloons. The tables were covered with white and centered with colored candles. Robert Forbes was master of ceremonies. Alma Smith sang "To Think You've Chosen Me." Carolyn Morrison, pianist, played "Malgueña." Jan Ellis did a tap dance, and Shirley Ham and Sonny Oswald sang "America" and "You Wonderful You."

Shirley Allen, Mary Beth Haught, John Thames, Sonny Oswald and Oliver Shirley entertained with several numbers. Oliver Shirley and Doyle Parker, dressed as beggars, sang "Mexical Rose" and "I'll Sell My Ship Alone."

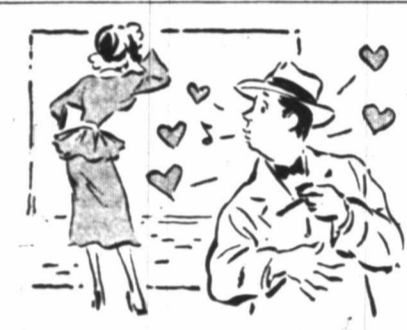

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Smith, club sponsor, Mrs. T. D. Hamilton and Mrs. M. O. Woolson.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON—

Poage Terms As Folley House Refusal To Vote Guayule Rubber Program

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON —(AP)— To Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco, the House refusal to vote a proposed large scale guayule rubber program is "utter folly."

Vice chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, Poage headed a subcommittee which studied the feasibility of commercial production in this country of rubber from the latex-bearing shrub of the Southwest.

Under present high prices of natural tree (Hevea) rubber from the Far East, it should be economically sound to grow guayule, he says. He feels it would be cheap insurance if viewed from a national defense standpoint.

"Under present world conditions," Poage said, "when we might find ourselves cut off from supplies as we did in World War II, it seems to me to be utter folly to neglect a great expansion of this domestic source of natural rubber."

The Senate Armed Services preparedness committee headed by Texas Senator Lyndon B. Johnson has recommended a vigorous guayule program contemplating planting of large tracts in Texas. Poage lambasted the House Appropriations Committee for not making a similar recommendation.

"If it hadn't been for the penny-wise, pound-foolish attitude of some of the leaders of that committee," Poage asserted, "we would have right now at least 30,000 acres of guayule ready for harvesting at the time for peak yield."

Accepted By Congress

He referred to the fact the Appropriations committee about three years ago made the decision, which Congress accepted, that led to abandonment of the guayule program started in World War II. Plants just reaching the latex-bearing stage were uprooted.

In approving the Agriculture Department appropriation bill for the year beginning July 1, the committee vetoed this year a suggestion that funds be provided for a greatly expanded guayule program. The House went along with the committee on this.

The $500,000 recently allocated by the Munitions Boards to the Agriculture Department to stockpile guayule seed and conduct limited planting on government-owned lands—none of which are in Texas—should be sufficient, the committee reported.

Proof that Texas civilians are keenly interested in flying is shown in figures released by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Second only to California, Texas had 6,998 civil aircraft registered as of January 1. Of this number, 4,410 were active, 2,588 inactive.

Registration in California was 10,298, including 6,480 active and 3,818 inactive.

The total for the United States was 91,517 of which 60,085 were active, 31,432 inactive.

Planes were registered from all except 35 of 284 counties. Dallas led the list with 894, including 513 active and 381 inactive. Other counties with more than 100 planes registered as active included: Bexar, 284; Cameron, 127; Harris, 412; Nueces, 105; Tarrant, 290; Wichita, 107.

Senator Tom Connally (D-Texas) and Senator Alexander Wiley (R-

Wis) had invitations to a White House luncheon which they had to turn down. The reason: a roll call vote on the question of opening the MacArthur hearing to opposing views and knew they could go to the luncheon without affecting the outcome of the vote, each decided to stay in the Senate chamber to cast his vote. Notwithstanding this, some reports got out that Connally did not vote. This prompted Connally to issue the following statement:

"In his broadcast of May 4, Fulton Lewis, Jr., commented at some length on what he said was my failure to vote that same day on the motion of the Senator from Nebraska (Wherry) to take up a resolution for open hearings on the MacArthur affair.

"The record shows, of course, that that statement is palpably false—though it is no further from the truth than most of the other things, Lewis says."

Connally was on the winning side in the 41 to 37 vote to reject the Wherry motion to open the MacArthur hearings to the public.

The wife of Air Force Col. Hightower Smith of Fort Worth, who recently was assigned to duty at the Pentagon, cites this experience to show that there are some pretty friendly people in the capital city.

She left her car parked on a downtown street while shopping. With her hands full of packages she looked in vain for her car when she was ready to go home. She couldn't remember the exact spot.

"I walked for blocks," she said, "and finally hailed a taxi. I told him my trouble and asked him to just cruise up and down the street.

"We hadn't gone half a block before I spotted that good Texas license plate. The driver grinned and said 'that could happen to any of us.' He refused to accept a cent."

Total farm income in Texas in January and February was $234,749,000, a drop from the $296,440,000 for the corresponding two months of 1950.

Cash receipts from marketing of livestock and livestock products brought $106,103,000, as compared with only $86,529,000 in the January-February period of 1950. Income from sales of crops, however, dropped from $209,911,000 in the first two months of last year to $128,648,000 for the January-February period of 1951.

Southwest Farm Income Registers Phenomenal Hikes

DALLAS—(AP)—A combination of higher prices and wide variations in acreage and production has caused Southwest farm income to register phenomenal boosts from the 1920's to the 1940's, the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas shows in a recent report.

Comparisons of the periods 1924-26 and 1947-49 show cash receipts from the sale of cattle and calves up 416 per cent and wheat up 387 per cent.

Receipts from sale of sheep and lambs, dairy products, rice, hogs and corn rose more than 200 per cent in each case.

Income from sale of peanuts increased 17 times, sorghum grain 11 times, grapefruit 16 times, and oranges 14 times.

The bank points out that some of the sharp percentage increases occurred where production was in small scale during the 1920's. In contrast, cash receipts from the sale of cotton showed a net increase of only 21 per cent, despite very large increases in prices.

Wet or green lumber should not be painted as paint does not adhere well to wet wood and is likely to peel off.

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

Well, podner, conditions generally in this section of West Texas are much brighter now than last weekend—due to the drouth-breaking rains which have covered much of the area.

The moisture ranged from a half inch to more than six inches in this immediate section.

Ranchers and farmer Friday put on their Sunday smiles and headed for pastures and farms to see 'how much they got.'

There is no argument that additional moisture is needed in most areas, but DSG, who finally hit after three or four months of weather predicting, believes more rain is on the way???

Keep your slickers handy, podner.

South Midland County, blessed with the big rains Wednesday night, really should blossom out now for the first time in a long period. It was one of the driest sections in West Texas. Lakes now are full and the range country soon should be covered with green grass and weeds. Many sheep had been moved out of the area in recent weeks. The feed bills were tremendous, too.

The rains put everything in top shape for the staging of the 17th Annual World Championship Midland Rodeo, May 30, 31 and June 1, 2, and 3. Don't forget the dates.

Buyers were plentiful at the Midland Livestock Auction Company sale Thursday, but sellers were scarce. The market was strong and active on 200 head consigned. Some classes were $1 to $2 a hundred higher than the week before.

Fat calves and yearlings brought $32 to $35. Cliff Hazlewood of Stanton sold a group of good quality fed steers that averaged 685 pounds. They brought up to $35.50 and averaged $33.65. Mediums went at $28 to $32. Fat cows cashed at $26 to $29, mediums $23 to $26, canners and cutters $17 to $23. Bulls auctioned for $26 to $39.50.

Stocker steer calves cleared at $33 to $35.50 and heifer calves at about the same price. G. P. Mitchell of Kermit got $35 a hundred for his 360 pound heifer calves. No light calves were offered.

E. B. Dickenson, veteran Midland-Martin rancher and Hereford breeder, says he used to spend mucho dinero in telephoning back to the ranch every time he was away from home and saw clouds in that general direction. But seldom was it raining at his ranch when he contacted the cowboys there.

"Finally I got tired of all those long-distance calls and told the boys to wire me when it rained at the ranch no matter where I was at the time," Dickenson said.

"I haven't been out a penny for telephone calls or telegrams on account of rain in years."

Three or more inches of rain reportedly fell on the H. G. Bedford ranch in Andrews County early last week, placing range lands in top condition in that section.

Harvey Conger says the rainmaker is not treating him right. His ranch in the Goldsmith country has been just in-between the north and south rains of the last week or 10 days.

"It is dry at the ranch, and you can quote me on that," Conger told DSG.

Too bad the Goldsmith area couldn't have gotten some of the excess moisture that flooded the Panhandle country.

The annual Sterling City Horse Show is scheduled June 2 in that city, according to Marilyn O. Hoffman, secretary of the Sterling City Horse Show Association.

Show entries should be in by May 26 in order to appear on the printed program.

A jackpot roping and girls' barrel race will be held at night, following the afternoon horse show.

Chemical control of mesquite on range land is receiving a great deal of attention by ranchmen and by various agricultural agencies.

More than 6,000 acres of range land in Reagan County will be sprayed this Spring with ester of 2,4,5-T. According to County Agent E. O. Nevills, this chemical will be applied by airplane at the rate of two-thirds of a pound of 2,4,5-T to one gallon of diesel oil and three gallons of water per acre.

Most Texas range lands are producing only 50 per cent of their former capacity. A. H. Walker, Texas A&M extension range specialist, reports.

This condition is due to overgrazing over a long period, drought, and brush infestation, Walker said. Sixty million acres of Texas range land are infested with various brush species, of which mesquite is the most important.

The condition of early Spring lambs generally was favorable May 1 despite cool weather during most of April and slow growth of pastures and ranges in many sections, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports. In California, early maturity and good quality of the feed were responsible for early lambs being in good weight and finish. In Texas, moisture and feed conditions continued only fair, and the development of lambs was delayed. In the Pacific Northwest, dry weather in April delayed the growth of pastures, and early lambs made slow progress. Pasture development was late in the Southeastern States where the condition of early lambs was slightly below average. In many areas larger numbers of ewe lambs are being kept for breeding than in recent years.

Agriculture and business are depending more and more on each other, declares Dr. T. R. Timm, agricultural economist for the Texas Extension Service.

One of the main reasons for this development is the increasing commercialization of agriculture.

Dr. Timm points out, for example, that cash annual operating expenditures by farmers have increased from five to 18 billion dollars in the last 15 years.

Farms produce 71 per cent more per person on them now than they did 15 years ago. Production per person during the last 15 years has increased at a faster rate in agriculture than in industry. An industrial revolution is taking place in agriculture, says Dr. Timm.

Farmers have found it more profitable to do only what they can do efficiently and trade with those who produce and distribute other goods to greater advantage. This is one of the main reasons, Dr. Timms says, for such a high standard of living in the country today... both on and off the farm.

Sheep raisers who practice improved production and breeding methods are well paid for their efforts.

Rearing and breeding for flock improvement, grading wool at the shearing pens and selling on quality basis all contribute to higher profits for the ranchmen. A study made recently by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station shows these three practices work together for wool improvement.

In general, sheep that produce higher quality wool also have heavier fleeces—more wool which brings a better price. From a study of almost 20,000 sheep in Sutton County, it was found that Fine Staple fleeces averaged 8.2 pounds, Fine French Combing averaged 7.2 pounds and Fine Clothing averaged 6.3 pounds.

Of 75 sheepsman whose wool was graded at the shearing pens, 24 who systematically had practiced upgrading for staple length received an average price of $1.1 cents a pound for their wool. The 47 ranchmen who had done no systematic sorting and breeding received 75.3 cents a pound—5.8 cents a pound less.

Gay young blades of grass no longer enjoy their wild nightlife at the expense of domesticated members of the plant community in at least one bean patch.

By spraying a field of beans with a light petroleum oil at night instead of during the day, an oil company has wiped out weeds without damage to the bean plants on its experimental farms. These experiments may lead to a brand new kind of weed control.

Shrewd scientific detective work on the habits of crop leaves forms the basis of the experiments. Because the leaves of beans and many other crops close their breathing pores when the evening sun goes down, a nocturnal oil bath does not affect them. On the other hand, the grasses remain wide open to attack by oil after dark.

Volatiles Oil Used
This spraying technique uses a volatile oil that evaporates before sunup, when the beans and many other crops resume normal growth, unhampered by the grass whose tissues have been destroyed overnight.

The new spray still is experimental. Two difficulties must be resolved before practical application. In the first place, the oil is inflammable and might be a hazard in some farming operations. A second question is how many farmers would want to stay up nights to keep grasses down?

Farm Ownership Is At Record Peak In Southwestern U. S.

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Staff

The people who actually operate Southwestern farms — who plow, plant and harvest—today own more of the land they operate than at any time since records have been available.

This fact was determined by the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture after exhaustive research.

This definite trend away from tenancy and toward ownership began between 1935 and 1940. It continued unbroken throughout the war years and into the post-war era.

The federal government has long aimed at making easier the ownership of farms by the farmer. In Texas, where a little different situation exists, the republic and later the state have taken the same view.

But their efforts sometimes failed badly.

For instance, the federal government attempted to create an owner-operator system in Oklahoma when the territory was opened for settlement.

But in less than one generation—26 years—the Oklahoma land was held predominantly by non-operating owners.

In Owner Class
In 1930, only one farmer in every four remained in the owner class. The other states in the region—Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas for purposes of the study—were in much the same situation.

The published University of Arkansas report states that "from the standpoint of the farmer's financial ability, opportunity for achieving ownership during the past decade perhaps has never been equaled. Farm operators in the region have reaffirmed their tenure goal of ownership through extensive purchase of land from non-farmers, and through retirement of two-thirds of their land indebtedness."

The report breaks down the figures into four classifications. Possibly the best picture is given by the figures on the landlords.

In Texas, 22.8 per cent of the farm owners in 1930 were landowners, who rented out all the land they owned. They possessed 27.5 per cent of the land and their holdings averaged 739 acres.

Oklahoma's landlords were more numerous. They comprised 28.3 per cent of the owners with 29.3 per cent of the land averaging 395 acres each. The other figures, in the same order: Arkansas 8.9, 5.9 and 109; Louisiana 8.9, 8.2 and 94; and Mississippi 9.3, 15.6 and 294.

Types Are Defined
The report defined the other types of ownership as:
Owner-operator—owns all the land he operates and operates all the land he owns.
Part owner-operator—operates all the land owned and rents additional acreage.
Owner operator-landlord — owns all the land operated and rents acreage to others.

Of the five states studied, Texas ranked only ahead of Oklahoma in owner-operator percentage, probably because of a whopping 15.9 per cent of the land owned by corporations. This corporation ownership is a hold-over from the early days when the gigantic cattle ranches, many owned abroad, were developed and when huge grants of land for specific purposes were made. Later oil companies and other types of firms became large land owners.

In Texas, 39.9 per cent of the farmers were owner-operators, compared with 70.9 in Arkansas. The other figures: Louisiana, 64 per cent; Mississippi 62.7 and Oklahoma 35.8. The regional percentage was 48.7.

Figures Even Wider
When acreage is considered, the spread in owner-operator figures even wider. Texas owner-operators held only 18.4 per cent of the land slightly ahead of Oklahoma, which reported 18.3 per cent. Arkansas again led with 60.2 per cent of the acreage owned by the farmers. Mississippi reported 51 per cent and Louisiana 45.3.

But Texas owner-operators held larger acreages on the average. The figures: Texas 282 acres, Oklahoma 195, Arkansas 140, Mississippi 139, and Louisiana 74.

The Arkansas report, which was made with the cooperation of the farm agencies of the other states and the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed that "part-owner-operators" in Texas accounted for 8.1 per cent of the owners with 10.8 of the land, Oklahoma 13 and 7.9; Arkansas 6.3 and 10.5; Louisiana 6.3 and 2.4; Mississippi 3.4 and 1.7.

The owner-operator-landlord figures are: Texas 29.9 per cent of the farmers with 43.3 per cent of the acreage; Oklahoma 22.9 and 44.5; Mississippi 24.6 and 31.7; Louisiana 20.8 and 44.1 and Arkansas 13.9 and 23.6.

An Editorial

Play Fair And Square At Examination Time

As we have gone through the years, most of them spent in school, we have formed our character and acquired numerous habits, some temporary, some permanent, some good, some bad, and each leaving an indelible mark upon our character.

There is one particular habit that numerous students, boys and girls, seem to pick up very early in their school years. That is the habit of not playing fair and square at exam time. Once acquired and practiced, this habit can be almost impossible to get rid of.

A student who copies another's work all year will find it impossible to get through an examination by himself, because he simply does not know the work. Perhaps he thinks it doesn't make any difference, that it is easier to look on someone else's paper and get the answers.

Yes, it is easier, but is it fair? Look at it this way: you are stealing from that person, you are a thief, as you are stealing his knowledge, that he has worked long and hard for. You could have the same thing that he has, but are you too lazy to work for it? People who think that they will never have to work for anything in the world will someday have a very sad awakening.

Life is not a bed of roses, and school is the best place to learn this before you get into the world, where an important decision may mean the difference between a job, and starving. Remember that!

You will have no one to lean on after you get out of school but yourself, so you two had better become good friends while you can.

Who's Who At MHS

Everybody Must Know W. H. Black

By now, surely everyone has heard of THE W. H. Black! But, just in case some of the MHSers have not, here are a few clues which will be of help in identifying him.

W. H. is an 18-year-old senior in "dear 'ole Midland High"; he is six feet tall, has hazel eyes and dark brown hair—and "freckles"! He is better known around MHS as "Buba."

His birthday is on December 11. This year W. H. is taking English, algebra, typing, bookkeeping, and at present is in training for football—Spring training, that is! He also has a very hard period, which is fifth period study hall!

This year W. H. lettered on the "A" football team, "B" basketball, and on the track team. (He won first place in District and tied for first in Regional in the pole vaulting contest.) He has lettered on the track team and "B" basketball team one year previous, also.

W. H. likes hillbilly music very much, as do many of the MHSers. Most of all, though, he likes Ernest Tubbs' singing.

He likes to spend most of his time either hunting or fishing.

W. H. says his pet peeves are DO RIGHTS!

His favorite color is blue—his favorite food (he says) is frog legs—but that is hard to believe—especially after the way he said it!

He doesn't prefer any particular globe.

Band Holds Outing

The MHS band always keeps busy one way or the other! They are either doing something socially, or something to entertain others.

Saturday night the band parents gave a barbecue for the band members and their dates. The members seemed to have had an extremely nice time at the barbecue.

The band is going to play at the Interscholastic football game, which is to be held on May 2. They are going to wear Western clothes.

They are going to be in the parade on May 30—graduation day. The parade is announcing the opening night of the Rodeo. Also, the band intends to play each night at the Rodeo. They are wearing Western clothes for this performance, too.

Rancher Kills Big Bobcat With Club

MISSOULA, MONT.—(AP)—When Louis Albert found a bobcat in his woodshed, he didn't go for a revolver or rifle. He just picked up a handy club and dispatched the animal with a solid blow to the head.

The retired rancher who lives west of here, has the pelt, more than three feet long, to show the predator no longer exists.

W. H. Black

he plans to do—maybe go to the Army—maybe to college. He would like to go to either TCU or Texas Western.

The thing he has enjoyed most in high school is going on athletic trips—and of course, he likes the weekends!

Globe Is Presented To School Library

A large 16-inch Rand-McNally all-steel globe which gives both physical and geo-physical information will be a permanent feature of the school library starting next fall.

The National Honor Society donated the money for this globe and in doing so contributed a piece of equipment that will be of benefit to many students for many years to come.

Humphrey Haunts School Buzzing With Last Days

Midland High School is fairly buzzing with activity as the end of the 1950-51 school year rolls around. The seniors are busy with plans for Class Day and Commencement and everyone claims that there just is not enough time to do everything. But in only one more week everybody will have all the time they want—three long months!

Have you noticed the new look on the faces of the MHS student body? We must say that Spring (?) has a peculiar effect on the kids. Everyone has a new care-free expression; "freedom" seems to shine in every smile and every eye. We know that the students just hate to see Summer vacation coming up with no homework, studies, or teachers. Poor kids, we do feel so very sorry for them!

We must tell you about the trip that Girl Scout Troop 8 made to Mo-Ranch, which is located near Kerrville. The girls set out on Friday, May 11, about 7:00 a.m. and settled down for a long ride to the ranch. The bus on which they were traveling rang with song most of the way and a high-class (?) band was organized. They appropriately named themselves the "Dateless Dozen Minus Six Plus Two" and gave forth with some rather new renditions of some old favorites. (Needless to say the old favorites are not such favorites anymore!)

Around 2:00 in the afternoon the bus rumbled into Mo-Ranch and all the girls jumped into their swim suits and dashed for the river. Several daredevils climbed a twenty-foot slide and thus entered the water; others just safely jumped in the water from the pier. A hearty meal was eaten by all that evening. After supper a few of the girls decided to go canoeing so off they headed for the river again. Nancy Steedman and Sarah Hendricks reached the river first and got the one and only canoe. As Nancy started to climb into the boat, Sarah accidentally tilted it and Nancy landed in the water for the second time—but in shorts!

The next day (Saturday) was spent down by the river just sunbathing or swimming. The slide was in continuous use by Margie Cramer, Patty Hamman, Gloria Anguish, and Peggy Charlton. Various methods were invented to go down the slide backwards, lying down, and every way imaginable to make it more exciting. Sue Johnson, Mary Nell, Mary Jo Hejl, Marijann Forrest and Jane Stuart retired to the swimming pool for a somewhat safer swim. The little band was invaded upon that afternoon by the Senior Class from Woodsboro and from that time on all thunder broke loose.

It was a continuous struggle to see who would get to play on the pool table after supper—Troop 8 or the seniors. Troop 8 usually got to play first, they could eat faster! Bowling was also a popular sport and many kids practiced on their game. In the evening a skating party and a dance were organized so everyone could do what they wanted.

Daffy Tabor and Jane Umberson followed everyone around, one playing the tonette and the other playing the ukulele. Several methods of murder were devised for them but none seemed to work. Mrs. T. A. Hendricks and Mrs. E. W. Anguish served as chaperons and kept an eye on all the doings and the doers.

All-in-all everybody had a wonderful time and really hated to come home.

Back to school doings—the A Cappella Choir sang for the Lions Club on Wednesday. They are winding up a busy year which will be climaxed when the choir members receive their letters and sweaters. They have

Hidden Elements Determine Strength, Comfort Of Home

How strong and how comfortable will a new house be? The answer depends largely on an element of the building which rarely is seen expect during construction — the sheathing.

Sheathing is the material applied directly over the framework. When a structure is sheathed, it becomes more than a "skeleton" and begins to look like a house. In the process it acquires some of the major qualities of a modern dwelling, if given the benefit of a proper material and good work.

Multiple-duty performance by sheathing is well illustrated in the insulating board type of sheathing, which predominates in many building markets. Insulating board sheathing fills four vital functions at once — it builds, braces, insulates and blocks winds and moisture.

Sheathing May Insulate, Too In its function of building, the sheathing "boxes" the framework, tying the framework together and providing a continuous base for an exterior sidewall finish, like wood clapboard, shingles, stucco, brick veneer or asbestos-cement siding. Insulating board sheathing supplies outstanding bracing strength to the structure to help it resist wind pressure and other stresses that can cause a building to lean, or even collapse. This sheathing is a rigid material and it gives highly effective structural support.

A distinctive "plus" value of insulating board sheathing lies in its insulating ability. At a cost usually less than for ordinary sheathing, the material provides the year-around comfort and the fuel savings of insulation. It checks heat flows by means of countless tiny air cells locked between its plant fibers. Helps Block Out Wind

At the same time, this sheathing material protects a house against wind infiltration and air leakage through sidewalls — another comfort factor. This composition of the product itself and the methods of applying the units combine to form a barrier devoid of knotholes, cracks and similar openings. Asphalt treatment makes the material further resistant to air and moisture penetration.

Shortly after its application, insulating board sheathing is hidden from view but that is only the beginning of its services in helping provide a sturdy dwelling that will give comfortable shelter through seasonal extremes of weather for years to come.

Lazy Folks Keep Business Going

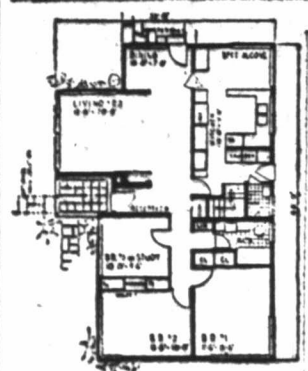

CHICAGO — (AP) — J. O. Reinecke, an industrial designer, is happy people are lazy.

"If they weren't, we'd starve," he said.

He designed such things as a foot pedal drinking fountain, automatic cigarette lighter and powered orange squeezer.

"When enough people buy these new gadgets we create to make life easier, we just can't help being happy," Reinecke said.

ATTRACTIVE DESIGN—

Featuring three well-proportioned bedrooms, this house of contemporary design is narrow enough for a 50-foot lot, even with a side driveway and detached garage. The L-shaped combined living and dining room is designed so that it may be merged with an outdoor living area in the rear yard. Bedrooms are arranged so the sleeping quarters may be closed off from the rest of the house. A streamlined kitchen is another feature.

Relative Cost Of Housing Declines; Other Costs Rise

While all other items in family living costs have risen since 1939, the cost of shelter and fuel have declined, according to the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. Shelter today takes only 11.2 cents out of the consumer's cost-of-living dollar, compared with 18.1 cents in 1939; fuel 3.5 cents compared with 6.4 cents.

On the other hand, food has climbed from 33.9 per cent to 44.8 per cent; clothing from 19.5 to 22.8 per cent; house furnishings from 4.3 per cent to 5.9 per cent, and miscellaneous costs have risen from 35.9 per cent to 32 per cent.

Boats Tossed From Window As Test

GEORGETOWN, ONT. — (AP) — Leonard J. Bell, who manufactures a line of small boats in this town near Toronto, has a novel way of testing the durability of his product.

Occasionally he shoves a 15-foot boat out of a second-story window. Instead of going "crunch" the boat bounces. They're plastic boats made of fiber glass bonded with synthetic resins.

Bell has government orders for several of the craft to be used in the Arctic because they don't even get brittle at 80 degrees below zero.

'CALFACADE'

DES MOINES — (AP) — It was a 24-hour run on the Babe Sheridan Farm at Gambell one day recently. In those 24 hours, 18 cows gave birth to calves. The cows were purchased as range animals by Sheridan last winter. The 18 calves will be fed for market while the cows will be kept on the farm, Sheridan said.

CLEAN GIVEAWAY

HALIFAX — (AP) — Because he was wearing gloves on a warm night, a man attracted attention of a police constable here who arrested the stroller and a companion on charges of breaking and entering a dry cleaning store.

All In The Family

MISSOULA, MONT. — (AP) — The police chief's wife showed the force how it's done here. While Chief of Police James J. Doyle and his men were looking for two runaway girls from Drummond, Mrs. Doyle found the pair in a drug store.

Taking the girls with her, she encountered Chief Doyle and Public Safety Commissioner Bruce O. Mefford about a block from the drug store. She took the two girls to her home while Chief Doyle went to police headquarters to notify the parents.

Indian Government Hopes To Add Radios

NEW DELHI — (AP) — India's government-operated radio network must adapt future program plans to 76 regional languages spoken by at least 200,000 persons.

Information and broadcasting Minister R. R. Diwakar told Parliament the government's All-India Radio now caters to 14 Indian languages, many of their dialects and English.

One million radio sets within two years is the target of government campaigns to spread interest in radio. In August, 1947, Diwakar said, there were 206,283 sets in the country, with an increase of 10,000 monthly.

Operator Asks For Number, Gets Bark

MARION, ILL. — (AP) — "Number please!" the Marion operator asked. "Woof, woof," came the reply.

Her second try brought barks again. On a hunch she had the sheriff listen and the telephone woofed back at him. Sheriff Ora Kirby drove to the telephone's garage location. He found it locked. A bird dog was beside the telephone which it apparently had knocked from a table.

Kirby called the owner who unlocked his dog.

Kitchen Check-List Eliminates Fire, Accident Hazards

Young moderns are rediscovering the kitchen, giving it a "lived-in" charm reminiscent of the cheerful rooms which made those of grandmothers' days memorable. But with the kitchen's return to new importance comes the reminder that it's also the most dangerous room in the house. Statistics on record with the nation's mutual fire and casualty companies show the kitchen is the source of most fires and is the area responsible for hospitalizing almost one in five of all persons hurt in home accidents.

As an aid to today's housewife whose family and friends gather in the kitchen while she works, Dale K. Auck, expert in charge of fire prevention engineering for the Federation of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies, recommends a brief refresher course in accident and fire prevention.

"Accidents and fires can cause a serious strain on the family budget not only in money paid out for doctor and hospital bills," the insurance official maintains, "but in reducing the premium savings which mutual insurance companies return to policyholders."

Precautions Listed

Virtually all of the hazards in a kitchen can be eliminated with a few simple precautions, points out Auck, who offers a dozen suggestions for safety in a kitchen checklist for the intelligently cautious homemaker:

1. Keep cupboards and shelves within easy reach. Many serious falls are caused by attempts to reach articles that are too high. If high shelves are necessary, use a small stepladder, rather than a chair or some makeshift climbing support.
2. Try to locate the range away from traffic so that pot handles and open oven doors will not be bumped accidentally.
3. Store kitchen utensils and cutlery out of children's reach; wash knives separately.
4. Wipe up immediately any liquid, such as water or grease, that spills on the floor.
5. Good Lighting
6. Illuminate the kitchen well at all times.
7. Disconnect electric appliances when not in use.
8. Inspect pipes, flues, wires and cords periodically, call an experienced service man to make repairs when you suspect trouble.
9. Be sure gas burners are adjusted and free from leaks.
10. Keep all flammable material—curtains, pictures, decorations—away from the range.
11. Ventilate the kitchen when the range is in use.
12. Keep matches out of reach of the children.
13. Make certain contents of ash trays are out before they are emptied into wastebaskets.

Hospitals 'Request' Management By Reds

HONG KONG — (AP) — This is what happened to 35 American-financed hospitals in Communist China since the Reds on January 1 ordered them "liberated from imperialist influences."

Three were taken over by the Reds; 24 more "requested" the government to operate them. Three asked joint operation by government and private sponsors. Three have been approved for independent operation. Two are sitting tight and have made no requests.

In most, but not all cases, the American subsidies have been cut off. The Communists have sought to gain control of the institutions without losing the money, if possible, but insist on control even though it means loss of revenue.

HOME OWNERS QUESTION BOX

Q—Please tell me how to clean cane chair seats.

A—Scrub the seat with hot water in which salt has been dissolved — a tablespoonful to each quart of water — and then dry with a clean cloth. Place the chair in the open air to complete the drying.

Q— I plan to cover the single roof of my home with asphalt shingles. The old shingles are curled and broken, and I would like to know how the old roof should be prepared to receive the new covering.

A— First, remove all loose or protruding nails and re-nail in new locations, also nailing down those loose shingles from which nails are missing. Split the curled or warped shingles and nail down the segments. Replace any missing shingles with new ones. Then, to provide a smooth deck for the new shingles, apply beveled wood "feathering strips" or "horsefeathers" along the butts of each course of old shingles.

Q— I plan to build a small garage of either concrete or cinder blocks. Which would be most satisfactory?

A— Either is suitable. Concrete blocks are made of Portland cement, sand and gravel, while cinder blocks contain cinders in place of the other aggregate. Cinder blocks consequently are lighter in weight than concrete blocks and have greater insulating qualities.

Acid Said Cause Of Engine Wear

The engine of the average automobile makes a pint or more of acid in a normal day's use and it is the corrosive action of this acid, rather than friction, that causes most engine wear.

This was revealed here Friday by Shell Oil Company scientists at a meeting of 300 employees of the company's Midland area. The meeting was held in the Yucca Theater and 100 employees of the Westex Oil Company, distributor of Shell products in this territory, also attended.

A team of marketing experts, headed by Earl M. Shelton, a division retail manager, dramatized methods of improving service to the motoring public. The group introduced a new motor oil as an improved version of the Shell X-100 brand. Courtesy Ureid

This new product was the result of recommendations of leading automobile manufacturers for a heavy duty motor oil that would stand up under extreme temperatures and operating loads.

The importance of keeping the service stations spic-and-span, in addition to courtesy and extended hours of operation as a convenience to motorists, was stressed.

The meeting was one of a series being conducted in all sections of the nation to acquaint company employees and dealers with new products and methods of presenting them to the motoring public.

How To Give Auto Tires The New Look

AKRON, OHIO — (AP) — Passenger car tires that are dirty and dingy after Winter and Spring driving can be made to look bright and black again in a few minutes.

Only a little effort is required to do the trick, reports the E. F. Goodrich Company. Use a tablespoon of detergent in a pailful of cold water and whip up some suds. After washing the tires with a rag or stiff brush, rinse them well with clear water. Dry with a clean cloth to regain the new look. Avoid using gasoline, kerosene or any other petroleum product.

Hard wood makes better coals for a campfire than soft wood.

Rubble Marks Site Of Early Furnace

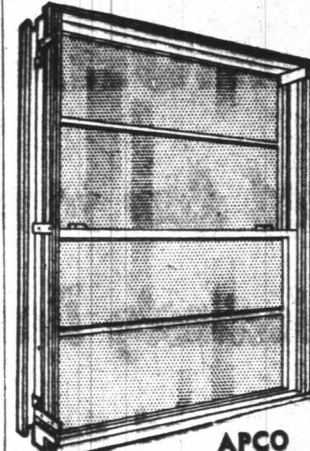

ZELIENOPLE, PA. — (AP) — Almost hidden by Spring foliage in a wooded section near this Western Pennsylvania town is a pile of rocks which mark the site of one of the nation's first iron-making furnaces.

The rockpile is all that's left of the once famous Bassenheim furnace. It was built in 1813 by Baron Frederick William Detmar Basse in an effort to recoup a fortune he lost in the Napoleonic Wars.

The baron failed to regain his fortune and the furnace was abandoned in 1827. The baron returned to Europe and died there in 1836. Now the remains are almost rubble.
