

"Dealing Out" Some American History

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

WAY back in the Seventeenth century to the Cardinal Mazarin was entrusted the task of preparing a young prince for his future career as king of France, that career which was to make Louis Quatorze (Louis XIV) forever famous as the "Sun King" and "Le Grand Monarque." Mazarin found that his royal pupil was not nearly so much interested in the studies which should fit him for his high position as were to make the French court notorious and which were to lead eventually to the downfall of the House of Bourbon.

One of the young prince's favorite diversions was to "playe at cartes" and the cardinal decided that he might as well take advantage of that interest by introducing an educational element into the pastime. So he ordered a maker of playing cards to devise some cards from which the prince could learn such things as geography and history while he was playing the game. Soon there was delivered to the cardinal two sets of cards, one was a historical set and bore the pictures of famous queens and the stories of their careers. The other was a geographical game, each card representing some country with a short description of that land and illustrated with a symbolic figure, dressed in the native costume.

Among the countries depicted thus were certain parts of North America, two of which, Virginia and Florida, are shown in the illustrations (No. 7 and 8) accompanying this article. Naturally, the symbolic figures of these two are Indian maidens, but it is interesting to note that the "native costume," as shown on these cards printed back in 1664, is not so different perhaps—at least, in one case—from those of today. Take a look at "Florida" above and, except for the bow and arrow, you might almost think that you were looking at the picture of a bathing beauty at Palm Beach, Miami or some other seaside resort!

It is perhaps futile to speculate upon how much the young prince learned from these educational cards and it might be jumping at conclusions too hastily to ascribe to them the awakening of his interest in foreign countries which made him an imperialist and led to France's colonizing experiments in the New World. But the fact remains that "of all the French monarchs of the Seventeenth century Louis XIV was the first and only one to take an active and enduring interest in the great crusade to the northern wilderness. He began his personal reign about 1660 with a genuine display of zeal for the establishment of a colony which would by its rapid growth and prosperity soon crowd the English off the new continent.

and this zeal kept on to the end of his reign."

Although these cards of the French king, which are preserved in the museum of the United States Playing Card Company in Cincinnati, Ohio, were perhaps the first thus used to inform Europeans about the New World, they were not the only ones. In the same museum is another set which "deals out" some American history to the visitor. It is a geographical card game made in England in 1675. (No. 1 and No. 3 in the illustrations above.) On one of them (No. 1) is given the following quaint description of New England:

New-England by some is Counted a Part of the Great Region Canada. It is bounded with Virginia on the South, where is the Late Conquests of the New-Netherlands, at present Called New-York, with a good City of that Name here is Maryland where is the town of Baltimore and Carolina where is Charles-Towne but the Capital of this government is Boston and other Considerable Towns are New-Plymouth, Bristow, Barnstable &c. The Church government is Presbytery &c. This Country abounds with all sort of Fancticks where they may find Room to Plant in. Especially towards the West It being a Country not well discovered full of Woods & Savages. Inhabitants therefore not bounded when their Forces have Strength to advance. Other Plantations belonging to the English toward the North are New-Found-Land whose Chief Town is Tortus most Considerable for the Fishing Trade North Wallis South Wallis, the Isle of Cumberland &c. are great Regions inhabited by the English but are little inhabited as yet.

In a country "abounding with all sorts of Fancticks" one would naturally expect to find the "blue-noses" frowning upon such frivolous things as playing cards, but the fact is that they were manufactured in this country, even in Puritanical New England. Isalah Thomas, in his "History of Printing in America," mentions James Franklin as a Boston printer and tells how he printed "upon cards" verses that the youthful Benjamin had written about Black Beard, the pirate. Ben himself, afterward, refers to them as "miserable ditties" but at that time they had a large sale.

No less interesting than the historical material to be found on the faces of the playing cards is that found upon the backs of the cards. In the Colonial days it was the custom to use the plain backs of the cards for various things. In the Cincinnati museum are cards with the backs printed and used as cards of admission to entertainments, lectures and classes at the University of Pennsylvania, from 1705 to 1771, and as invitations to teas and assemblies and balls. Some also bear directions for figures of square dances and others various patriotic games. One of the most interesting is that shown in No. 2. It is a silhouette portrait of Joseph Hopkinson by the famous artist, Charles Wilson Peale.

In 1824, when Lafayette came back to visit the country whose independence he had helped to gain, a New England card maker, Jax H. Ford, issued a set of playing cards in honor of the distinguished Frenchman whose portrait, surrounded by symbolic designs, was printed as the ace of spades, as shown in No. 4.

Among the interesting exhibits in the museum are the playing cards of the Civil War period in which the patriotic motif is strong. Instead of having the usual suit signs of spades, clubs, diamonds and hearts, flags, shields and other patriotic emblems were used. An example of this is No. 6 of the illustration above in which the bewiskered general is the "king" of whatever suit is designated by the flag up in the corner. The "queen" of the flag suit was the symbolic figure of Columbia. Another card of this same era is shown in No. 5, in which the figure of the Monitor, famous for its victory over the Merrimac, was substituted for one of the conventional suit symbols.

A Silly Handshake

When King Edward VII was prince of Wales and on a visit to Paris he suffered from a carbuncle which forced him to lift high his right elbow when shaking hands. All the courtiers and dandies of his day immediately copied this gesture and some people today still believe they are smart when they hold their arm high in that way.

One night while he was attending

Monarch's Vanity

King Henry VIII, who was proud of his own broad shoulders, set the fashion in garments to accentuate this breadth. You will see this illustrated in the many portraits of him by Holbein.

You Know the Type

Not a bad sort of nifty comes from the London Humorist, which speaks of a certain blunt, outspoken man—in fact, one who as a bridge partner calls a spade three spades.—Kansas City Star.

Takes Many to Handle Liner

The crew of a large Atlantic liner numbers about 800 members. Six hundred of this number are in the steward's department and in the strict sense of the term are not sailors.

THE IRRESISTIBLE SALESMAN

(© by D. J. Walsh.)

"HUMP, thump, thump! Somebody knocking at the kitchen door. Portia Watson thrust her head out of an upstairs window. 'Who's there?' she demanded. The face that looked up at her was unexpectedly winning, the sill escaped from her hand. As it snowed down the young man reached and caught it. Twisting it into a ball, he flung it back to Portia, who caught it. The scowl with which she always greeted strangers of this kind gave way to a smile. When Portia smiled she was mysteriously charming, something she had not been at eighteen.

"What do you want?" she asked more gently.

"You!" he challenged her, heading back. He was colored like a ripe chestnut in the sun. Barched his shirt was open at the throat, his sleeves were rolled up. He grinned and his teeth flashed white in his ruddy, boyish countenance. "Come on down a minute, lady. I got something here you'll be interested in."

"Can't nother I'm busy. Besides, I never buy of peddlers."

"Come on down, please, lady!"

Portia hesitated. Suddenly she left the window and ran downstairs.

When she reached the kitchen door she found him playing with Smoky. Portia's gray cat was voted a pest by the neighborhood. He caught bird lings, he scratched the tentatively caressing hands of infants, he growled on moonlit nights. Ill humored and badly behaved was Smoky at best, yet here he was flopping like a fish on the stones of the back walk, purring at the peddler's feet.

"Nice cat!" The boy gave Smoky a friendly nuzzle. He straightened up and pushing toward Portia a baby carriage which he had taken from the green truck waiting at the curb.

A wave of indignant red flooded Portia's face. She gasped.

The young peddler pushed the baby carriage back and forth before his prospective customer. It was woven of reeds and it had cunning peek windows in its tan-colored top. Smoky curled about the wheels of the vehicle. At last he leaped into the carriage.

Portia darted agonized glances at the adjoining houses. Mrs. Grant and Maria Cole were both out, but likely to return home at any instant. If either of them saw her she would never hear the last of it. She there was a look in his eyes that convinced her that he would thump on the back door until she came out again. By that time everybody in the neighborhood would know that a peddler was trying to sell Portia Watson, spinster, forty years old, a baby carriage.

Better to buy the thing and get rid of him quickly.

"How—how much is it?" she asked weakly.

He gave a price that was reasonable. Portia ran and got her purse. She emptied the contents of his brown palm. One cent short, but he let that go.

"Anybody at home next door?" he inquired.

"N-no. But you can sell a carriage at No. 8 Oak street if you hurry right over there," she panted.

"Thanks I'll do that." He leaped toward the green truck.

Portia dragged her purchase into the house and locked the door. Almost at that very instant Mrs. Grant drove home, with her Maria Cole, whom she had picked up downtown, where they were both pursuing their morning's marketing.

Saved! Portia sank limply into a chair. She snatched off her pink dusting cap and with it wiped away beads of perspiration from among her curl-pins.

Conscience began to stir. Why had she sent the peddler to No. 8 Oak street? She tried to think why that particular spot had leaped into her mind. It was a casualty. She hadn't the least idea who lived at No. 8 Oak street.

Twenty minutes before Portia had been contentedly putting her bed room to rights. Now everything in her life seemed to be upside down. If only she hadn't looked out of the window into a pair of dark eyes, which made her remember keenly something she hoped she had forgotten long ago.

She must get rid of that baby carriage. Her club met at her house that night. There was no place to hide the thing from the dozen women who would swarm all over the place.

Portia dashed upstairs. She wrenched her hair from curl-pins, did it in a neat way. She powdered her nose, changed her clothes.

Back downstairs, out to the shed, where she kept the old touring car which her brother had left behind for her when he married. Ordinarily she hesitated to put the breath of life into the ancient engine, but her very desperation now lent her courage. She backed the car up to the kitchen door. When she had covered the baby carriage with a blanket she hoisted it into the tonneau. At least two pairs of wondering eyes watched her as she whisked away.

Portia raced for open country. But when she reached a lonely spot the engine went dead.

Portia got out and inspected the works. She didn't have much idea of them. She looked around for a house. None in sight. In a distant field was a man sitting on a mowing-machine drawn by a pair of black horses. She waved to him frantically. He ran to her rescue.

When he climbed over the stone wall into the road beside her she nearly collapsed. They stared at each other in astonishment, neither expecting to find the other there. But he spoke casually.

"Having engine trouble, Portia? Let's see if I can help you."

It was their first meeting in twenty years. Maria Cole had whispered into Portia's ear something about Charlie Russell which Portia had been silly enough to believe. She had pitched into Charlie. He had sent both her and Maria to the worst place he could think of. He was through. After that there were no more happy evenings for Portia, no more happy things for her hope chest. Charlie married another girl. But before this happened Portia had learned that Maria had lied out of jealous spite.

After rummaging through the engine Charlie shook his head.

"I'll tell you what you better do, Portia. Let me tow you over to my place. 'Tisn't far, just out of sight round the bend. My boy Frank's a crackjack at machinery. He'll be home to dinner. That's pretty soon now."

Portia had to consent. But she did some tall thinking while Charlie hastened after his team. She was miles from town. Also she was miles from Emmy Hutson's, to whom she was taking the baby carriage. Emmy was poor and she had just had a baby.

The black team, led by Charlie, tugged the car, steered by Portia, through a busy lane, up to a pleasant white house.

"There you are!" Charlie laughed.

"Now, I'll just tell our housekeeper that she's going to have somebody besides Frank and me to eat her chicken and cherry pie this noon. Come, have a seat in the porch hammock, Portia. You look warm and tired."

The same old Charlie, a bit domineering, but oh, oh, so kind. Portia sank into the porch hammock. Emotion fluttered her. She hadn't heard that Charlie's wife was dead. But there were so many Russells in that locality, the fact might have escaped her. Or, possibly, it had happened while she was out West with her brother Jim last year.

Thunder of wheels. A green truck whirled out of the lane into the doorway. Out jumped the peddler. He saw Portia. "Well, say! Am I seeing double? Or is it you, lady?"

And now Portia understood everything. This was Charlie's son. No wonder she had found him irresistible. "That old hen you sent me to 'bout 'round 'round 'round 'round 'round 'round."

In the end it all came right. Frank not only fixed Portia's car, but he delivered the baby carriage to Emmy Hutson.

On the screened-in back porch there was a regular dinner party.

"Frank's a whiz at peddling," Charlie said. "Earned his own college money that way. He could sell a fur coat to a Sandwich Islander."

The chestnut-brown boy and the woman with frosted dark hair exchanged an understanding smile.

OLD FOLKS SAY DR. CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice.

He treated constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a combination of senna and other mild herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle will last several months, and all can use it. It is pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. Elderly people find it ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

For over 50 years it has been the household remedy for all forms of

Malaria Chills and Fever Dengue

It is a Reliable, General Invigorating Tonic.

Fine brains direct the world, but average brains carry it on.

Refuse substitutes. Demand Red Cross bluing. Large bottle 10c. All Grocers.—Adv.

Science is always willing to admit its shortcomings.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

Any drug store has the genuine, prescriptional product.

PHILLIPS Milk of Magnesia

Keep your Hair Young & beautiful

Use N & S Tonic and Restore

It is a beautiful, lustrous hair. Use N & S Tonic and Restore. It is a positive and efficient treatment for dandruff, faded and falling hair.

It is a basic remedy, treating with rich, creamy "Chemical Food" that penetrates and nourishes the roots of starving hair.

It is a gentle antiseptic that kills infection and dandruff—nourishes and builds the tissues.

Endorsed and recommended by physicians, and used by thousands for more than forty years.

It is a hair tonic on a money-back guarantee. Get a bottle today and enjoy the full pleasure of beautiful, lustrous hair.

At your druggist, or order direct, N & S Central Laboratories, Coaling, Oklahoma.

HAIR TONIC and COLOR RESTORER

Indians Sell Homer Summa to Athletics

Homer Summa, who for seven years cavorted around the right field pasture at Dunn field for the Cleveland Indians, is no longer a member of the tribe. He was sold to the Philadelphia Athletics. The consideration was purely cash. Billy Evans tried to have Ed Rempel or Jimmy Dykes figure in the deal, but couldn't convince Connie Mack. Rempel would have made the Indians a good relief pitcher and Dykes is one of the best utility men in the majors.

The sale of Summa is in line with the policy inaugurated by the new owners of the Indians when they took over the club. Old faces for new is the motto of the present management. In a few years it is hoped to entirely rebuild the team. Since the aggregation of last year could finish no better than seventh it was apparent some drastic changes would have to be made and several have already been completed.

Summa for seven years has played right field very capably for Cleveland. He is a conscientious athlete who has always given his best. It is baseball history that when some veteran player after years of service is assigned to bench duty in favor of a younger player that he is never very happy in his role, said Manager Billy Evans. Usually he is not a good influence, as it is only natural that his pride should make him feel that he is as good as if not better than his successor.

"Philadelphia was the only club interested in Summa. We would have much preferred a deal involving players, but Connie Mack had nothing to offer."

Mack's outfield will consist of Bing Miller, Al Simmons and Haas, with Summa in reserve.

European Crossings Are Given Right Protection

Only 8 per cent of the grade crossings used by motorists in the United States are protected, as compared with 80 per cent in France. Great Britain makes an even better showing in the percentage of protected grades. The 26,000 protected grades in France have real gates as well as day and night watchmen. The same is true of Great Britain. On the other hand, of the 27,000 grades in the United States 7,902 have crossing gates, 5,710 audible and visible signals, and 1,602 just visible signals.

Scholar Takes Able Obstacle

One of the cadets attending the equestrian school at Tor Di Quinto takes a double obstacle with his mount during the visit to the school by King Victor Emmanuel of Italy.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

YOUNG MOTHERS

It was so lovely down by the river. It was one of the nicest of all places to have a picnic.

At least that was what Ada and Joan thought. The river was not very wide but it was very lovely. It took such a winding course and its banks on either side were so filled with trees. There were beautiful weeping willow trees and they looked so graceful as they bent down over the water.

In one place where it was not so shady there were a row of poplar trees, standing up so straight, looking right up at the sun. Now the willows were quite different. They loved to hang down over the water.

They liked shade and coolness and the water looked so green and dark and cool under them.

It was near one of the largest willows that Joan and Ada liked to go best of all.

Still, they did love all of the river. Far, far beyond where they lived the river ran along until it met a bay and then emptied into the sea.

But Ada and Joan had never been that far. They had gone down quite a little distance in a row boat and then they had motored along the valley road which showed them a good deal more of the river.

In some places there were bridges and in one place there was a dam and the water dashed over it with great excitement.

But down under the willow tree where Joan and Ada were having their picnic this afternoon it was very quiet and the water was very quiet.

They had brought their dolls with them and the dolls were given make-believe food to eat.

They ate the make-believe food which was upon little saucers and plates in so dainty and nice a fashion.

They spoke with their mouths full and often Joan would say to Ada: "I don't think grown-up people have such perfect manners as our doll children."

Then Ada would say to Joan: "I quite agree with you. Our children have perfect manners."

Joan and Ada had sandwiches and bananas and ginger ale for their picnic.

Food did taste so deliciously out-of-doors.

And then Joan said: "I must tell you what I heard my mother say last evening. I think she knew I heard it and she didn't mind at all."

"You know my mother remembers she was young once."

"Do tell me," said Ada.

"My mother said she had hated crusts all her life. She said it was very hard for her to urge me to eat them as she had always hated them—and that she didn't feel she was being too wasteful."

They both enjoyed hearing this. Yes, certainly, Joan's mother had not forgotten she had been young once.

"Well, I must tell you what my mother said," Ada told Joan.

"Do tell me," said Joan.

"My mother said she had always hated going to bed early and that she hated it now."

"She said she just loved to sit up a little later reading or talking just as she had when she was young."

"She said often it was hard to send me to bed although she knew I must have the sleep because she said she had always hated to go to bed herself and still did."

"Oh, wasn't that wonderful to admit that," Joan said.

"It is splendid that we have mothers who remember they were young once and what they felt like then."

"It makes everything so much easier."

And they both heartily agreed and their doll children agreed.

It was really such a nice picnic down by the river, and such a nice, nice conversation.

Mixing Colors
Roy—Papa, what kind of berries are those?
Father—Blueberries, my son.
Roy—Blueberries! Why, papa, they're red.
Father—Yes; but only while they're green.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Life is likely to be pretty dull on Easy street. It's too easy.

Millions use Red Cross balm. Large bottle 10c. All good grocers sell it.—Adv.

One is born to be his brother's keeper, but he shouldn't know it.

WHEN damp days, sudden changes in weather, or exposure to a draft makes joints ache, there is always quick relief in Bayer Aspirin. It makes short work of headaches or any little pain. Just as effective in the more serious suffering from neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism or lumbago. No ache or pain is ever too deep-seated for Bayer Aspirin to relieve, and it does not affect the heart. All druggists, with proven directions for various uses which many people have found invaluable in the relief of pain.

ASPIRIN

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing Co. of Monroeville, Pa., U.S.A.

CAN'T PRAISE IT ENOUGH

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her So Much

Kingston, Mo.—"I have not taken anything but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for 13 months and I cannot praise it enough. I weighed about 100 pounds and was not able to do any kind of work. My housework was done by my mother and my out-of-doors work was not done. I have taken four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and now I am well and strong and feel fine. I got my sister-in-law to take it after her last baby came and she is stronger now. I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. HATTIE V. EASTIN, R. 1, Kingston, Missouri.

STOP THAT ITCHING

Use Blue Star Soap, then apply Blue Star Remedy for Eczema, itch, tetter, ringworm, poison oak, dandruff, children's sores, cracked hands, sore feet and most forms of itching skin diseases. It kills germs, stops itching, usually restoring the skin to health. Soap, 25c; Blue Star Remedy $1.00. Ask your druggist.—Adv.

Radio Receiving Sets Have Been Installed on Autos

Motoring over smooth stretches of highway to the tune of your favorite jazz band is a dream which will be realized within the next 12 months, St. Mayer, vice president of the American Motorists' association and president of the Automobile club of Illinois, predicted in Washington the other day.

"A few months ago a prediction that automobiles of the future will be equipped with radio receiving sets would have been considered extravagant," Mr. Mayer declared. "At the present time, however, such is not the case, for already one company has announced that it is ready to go into the production of receiving sets specially constructed for automobile installation.

"The uses of radio seem to be without limit. By signals, transmitted over radio waves, airplanes are dispatched, ships communicate with other ships and with the shore, passengers on moving railroad trains speak directly with their homes or offices, and policemen patrolling large cities in moving cars are given notice from their headquarters of the commission of crimes. These are actual accomplishments.

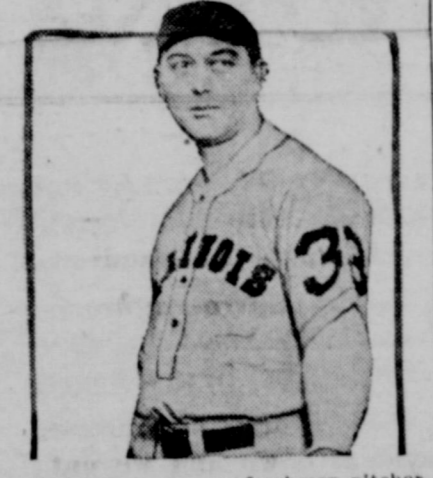

"Engineers have found a way to shield the receiving set from the interference of ignition systems in automobile and airplane engines and have also discovered a method of overcoming noises generated by the moving car or plane through the use of a filter. Not even the beauty of the car will suffer through the radio installation, for engineers have found that it is possible to place the antenna in the roof of the car with the loud-speaker concealed in the framework of the body."

"There is one serious objection, however, to the installation of radio receiving sets in automobiles," Vice President Mayer points out.

"The driver might become engrossed in some entrancing melody or soothing lullaby and neglect his duties at the wheel. It can hardly be expected that the installation of radio sets in automobiles will proceed unchallenged by law for this reason."

Coach Carl Lundgren

Thirty years ago a freshman pitcher from Marengo, Ill., entered the University of Illinois and gained fame, first as a college pitcher and later as a member of the world's champion Cubs. He was Carl Lundgren, now coach of the Illinois nine. Now Marengo may furnish another pitcher to the Illinois as Dick Fissinger of that town is among the slab artists on the team.

Second Car Needed for Outdoor Sports

American enthusiasm for golf and other outdoor sports has been one of the major factors in placing two or more automobiles in thousands of American homes.

Few golfers care to ask a member of their household to accompany them to the course and return for them after the game is over. Two cars to the family eliminate this situation and add materially to the transportation convenience of any family.

Pet Skunk Excellent as "Watchdog" for Motor

A new and unique use for that aromatic but valuable fur bearer, the skunk, has recently come to the attention of the United States Department of Agriculture. The superintendent of road construction of the Cocoonino National forest in Arizona had been having trouble, because of pilferers, to keep anything of value in his car when he left it parked. The situation had become so irritating that he was at a loss as to what measures to take to stop these petty thefts. A little skunk, which the superintendent had found when a kitten and tamed until it had become an interesting pet, proved to be the solution of the problem as an effective deterrent against marauders. When he left his car for any length of time the superintendent would also leave the skunk chained to the wheel. Strange to say, nothing further came up missing, and the little animal proved as valuable as any watchdog.

THE MOTOR QUIZ

(How Many Can You Answer?)

- Q.—What should be done if the ammeter does not register "charge" when engine is running at normal speed?
A.—Consult the repair man immediately.
- Q.—Why should a car be cleaned up?
A.—To remove dirt which causes wear and prevents proper lubrication.
- Q.—How has the oil filter helped the motorist to economize on oil consumption and car maintenance cost?
A.—The oil filter has made it possible to use the oil longer, and as it removes foreign matter from the lubricant, engine wear is minimized.
- Q.—When a spark plug insulator becomes covered with dry black soot, what should be done to remedy it?
A.—Clean or replace the plug. If soot is habitual, change to a hotter plug; also have carburetor inspected, and be sure the choke hasn't become stuck.

Cochet Defeats Menzel

An action photograph of Cochet, the champion of France, who recently defeated Menzel, the German champion.

Baseball, Automobile, Racing and Other Sports

- When Bubbe: Hargrave gets into the game at St. Paul he bats in the cleanup position. He is the manager.
- Every man, woman and child in Nebraska must take out a license if they want to operate an automobile.
- Gordon Slade, sensational shortstop of the Mission club, is a former star at Oregon Agricultural college.
- All Ohio State University football games will be broadcast this fall.
- New York fight experts liken Fidel La Barba to Packey McFarland, of Chicago. McFarland was a lightweight.
- Because of the increased demand for American automobiles in Mexico, that country bought more from the United States last year than it had in any previous year since 1926.
- The hit-and-run driver is about on a plane with the well poised.
- Day by day Chick Hafey stores up evidence to prove he is the hardest right-handed batter in the National league.
- Al Tyson, forced out of the Brooklyn outfield by a broken leg, is now trying his hand at pitching for the Scranton club.
- Joek Hutchison scored a hold-in-one in the 1921 British Open Golf championship, enabling him to tie Roger Wethered for the title and then win the play-off.
- "Light Horse" Harry Wilson, famous West Point football player and all-around athlete, will enter the aviation service at a salary of $125 a month upon his graduation.
- Figures compiled for 28 leading cities of the country show that 93 per cent of the cars stolen during 1928 were recovered.
- The motorist who finds the relocated controls of his new car somewhat awkward need not be concerned. Familiarity comes quickly.
- Reinstated as an amateur, Duke Paoa Kahanamoku, noted Hawaiian swimmer, today holds the same distinction he boasted 20 years ago—the fastest amateur swimmer in the world.
- Charley High, sold by Columbus to Minneapolis, hit a home run with the bases full on his first appearance in a Miller uniform.
- Jess Doyle, Toronto International league pitcher and former member of the Detroit staff, has been sold to Fort Worth of the Texas league.
- Since it was first organized, the National league has had 24 different clubs as members. It had 12 teams at one time and six at another time.
- A fortune awaits the inventor of Neversneak brakes.
- Helen Hicks, girl star, formerly was manager of the boys' golf team at Lawrenceville high, Long Island.
- Speed maniacs will be interested to know that tornadoes travel at the rate of 500 miles an hour, and see what happens!
- Over a period of a number of years, a Mexican soldier will find that he has worked for as many managers as Rogers Hornsby.
- The distinction of inventing the catcher's mask is claimed by Addison Howe, who played for the St. Mark's school team in Southboro, Mass.
- Speeders Encouraged

First Stage-Sleeper Is Costly

A side view of the huge car, which cost $30,000 to build, showing the compartments used for day travel made up for sleeping during night travel.

The Friona Star

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY.

W. W. WATSON, Editor and Manager

SWANN-WARREN PUBLISHING COMPANY, INC.

PUBLISHERS

1201 N. 1st St. Friona, Texas

Subscription Rates

Yearly, $1.00

Six Months, .60

Three Months, .35

Single Copies, 10c

Entered as second-class mail matter, July 12, 1920, at the post office at Friona, Texas, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

COGITATIONS and APHORISMS of JODOK

There is little danger of any community going on the rocks when its bank deposits more than triple in three weeks. I understand that at just what has happened here in Friona this season.

I asked a man recently if any land is being sold in this locality now. He said there is considerable being sold. I asked him if many people were coming in to improve this land and he said there is quite a number coming in.

That means that more homes must be built, more business places opened and more school room space added and perhaps more teachers employed.

Those were just commonplace questions, and I asked them simply for information because I was interested and did not intend to infer anything else.

The gentleman apparently very willingly gave the information asked for and also vouched this additional information: "You people do not need to worry—just sit steady and you will have the necessary people to get what you want four years from now."

About 400 cars of wheat already probable 400 cars yet to go, is not a bad record for a small city with a sparsely populated territory. I do not think any of our people are ashamed of it. I surely am not.

That was good advertisement and just the kind our town should have. Let us just keep on making that kind of impression on each visitor we have.

It is a pretty hard thing to put any new idea over on people until they have been allowed to suffer from the effects of an old idea or condition.

Our city dads met with considerable rebuff when they tried to enforce an ordinance a year ago which interfered with the convenience of some of our people. Now some of these same people are asking that something be done to relieve the town of some nuisances.

A nuisance is often not considered as such when the people are few and scattered, but becomes quite prominent and oppressive when the population becomes more congested.

I understand the city dads will make another effort to annihilate these nuisances. How many of us good citizens will put our shoulders against the load and help push it over?

Do you know, I like to live in a town where every mother's son of them like an interest in doing good things for the town and take hold with a vim that makes thing hum. That is the best growing tonic a town can have.

Another thing that shows a healthy pulse and a clear respiration for a city and surrounding locality is a constantly growing of its bank deposits.

I hear some people say that we are living in a fast age now, and many say it is entirely too fast.

These productions seem to apply to social life and customs as well as to business methods and modes of travel.

I for one cannot see why social customs should be considered fast any more than those of any other time. The trend of affairs seems to be forward rather than backward and social customs should keep pace with other things.

I have been hearing more religion or rather theology and it occurs to me that that is about the most backward thing we have to contend with today. Why should theology or religion keep pace with all other conditions?

International Sunday School

Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

July 28, 1929.

THE STORY OF DANIEL

Golden Text: They shall be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever.—Daniel 12:3.

Introduction.

We come to the study of a great statesman of Israel who lived through the long years of the Babylonian captivity and served his God with loyalty and faithfulness. His Hebrew name was Daniel, which signifies "the judgment of God" or "God is my Judge."

We do not know just how old Daniel was when taken prisoner by the Chaldeans in 605 B. C. He must have been quite young for his ministry in Babylon lasted for 67 years. Daniel and his companions were taken in 605 B. C. Ezekiel and another company were taken in 588 B. C. and the final

I heard a good man say recently that sense ignorance is the one great obstacle standing in the way of religious advancement. And the real cause of this ignorance is that so few people ever do any thinking for themselves.

We will never have a democratic government in the truest sense of the word, he says, until this mass of ignorance with its accompanying superstition is wiped out by sincere individual thinking.

A man who passes through Friona every day says the town has more business for its size and more traffic on its streets than any town he passes.

It is strange the different tastes different people have for different things—smoking a pipe for instance.

I heard a man say he was entering his third week without smoking; another man said: "Just that much time lost. You never will get it back. I do not want to ever lose that much time from my pipe."

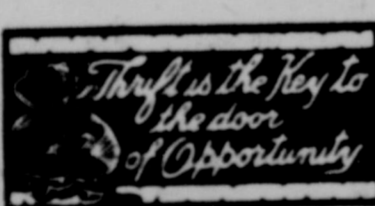

Another man cannot even bear the odor of that man's pipe. He does not like tobacco in any form. Another man likes his pipe all right but would just as soon have a ten-cent cigar.

So it seems to be in other matters. Some women are never satisfied unless their homes are "all spick and span" at all times, while others like them all topsy-turvy and the blither the better.

Some men like a clean, orderly town, with business places, residences and vacant lots all clean and orderly, while others like all kinds of litter and fire hazards at the rear of their buildings; open and filthy toilets and shortcut trails across their neighbors' vacant lots that will mar both the appearance and value of the lots.

This is one kind of advertising that will do a town no good, but which the visitor will not fail to see.

MONEY TALKS

The Money You Save Is What Puts You Ahead

FRIONA STATE BANK FRIONA, TEXAS

blow came in 587 B. C. when all the remaining ones who were worth the taking were carried away. "Shelam" is an old word used to speak of a man's death.

Chapter of the Book of Daniel. The Book is not intended to give an account of the life of Daniel. It gives neither his lineage, nor his age, and recounts but a few of the events of his long career. Nor is it meant to give a record of the history of Israel during the exile, nor even of the captivity in Babylon. Its purpose is to show how by his providential guidance, his miraculous interventions, his foreknowledge and almighty power, the God of heaven controls and directs the forces of a future and the history of nations, the lives of Hebrew captives and of the mightiest of the kings of the earth, for the accomplishment of his divine and beneficent plans for his servants and people. One of the most impressive features of the Book is his utter confidence in God and his refusal to appeal to the sword (Ps. 149:6.) It counsels to patience (Dan. 12:12). Without human hands, God's kingdom comes (Dan. 2:34) and his enemies are destroyed (Dan. 8:25). In the most skillful way, the Book reaches its splendid climax. It moves steadily on, from a distant past in which God's servants had been rewarded and his enemies crushed, down through the centuries in which successive empires were all unconsciously working out his pre-determined plan, and on to the darkest days in history—so dark, because the glorious and everlasting kingdom of God was so soon to dawn.

Four Select Young Men. Daniel and several other young men were taken as captives. The king's order went forth to choose out of a picked group of Jews certain ones who should be honored and trained to be members of his group of wise men. These chosen ones must be sound in body and able to look upon. They must be pleasing personality and active mind—quick to answer and quick to answer. They must be "skilled in all the sciences and understanding." They were thus well equipped to begin with and equip their minds so that they take their places alongside "Chaldeans" or the "wise men" and his friends manly honored in being chosen candidates for his high office. They were picked men who were worthy of standing in the king's court. They were the Jewish representatives in the court of Nebuchadnezzar.

Tests. These young men were commanded to eat food and drink the wine that the king's servants prepared. Four years this was to continue then they were to be presented before his majesty for the examination. This plan was a signal honor and a favor seized upon with eagerness. They should they refuse to eat the word of the king?

To paring the "king's meat" would have involved the risk of eating (what was forbidden by the Jewish law) what had not been slaughtered according to the Jewish law, what had been offered to idols.

Bank Fixed Purpose. "But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself." The "purpose" of the heart of Daniel is exceedingly commendable (1:8). He had his heart and mind fixed. He would not defile himself. Fortunately the steward was willing to allow the rules to be broken for a shortening time. They were to have "pulse" to eat and water to drink for ten days. The word translated "pulse" is used for any kind of vegetable. They were to leave all meats for the period. The steward was familiar how at the end of ten days the steward was convinced of the wisdom of their course and the meat and wine diet is removed. It was a glorious victory and we can well pause for a few minutes in our lesson period to hold up the character of Daniel as worthy of emulation. He dared to do what he knew to be right at any cost. Look at the reward!

King Nebuchadnezzar's Dream. In chapter two we have the account of a very unusual demand. The king has had a dream and he is greatly puzzled because he cannot recall it. It must be interpreted, but how can it be done? He calls his wise men together and demands the interpretation. They must tell him both the dream and its meaning. He declares that dire calamity will come to them unless this is done. It seems to us that he was absolutely unreasonable in his requests. How will the magicians do such an impossible thing? They declare at once that it is beyond the power of any living man. Whereupon the king in a rage orders his soldiers to kill every member of the "Chaldean Society." Daniel and his companions are in this condemned group.

The Four Praying Young Men. It is a beautiful picture to see the four Hebrews in a quiet room talking out the strange request and praying quietly but fervently for the answer. They beg that the "God of Heaven" may hear them and give them the solution. The prayer continued on into the night until in a vision God answered the prayer. "God was willing to hear and bless his chosen ones even though they were in a strange land and the request was very much out of the ordinary. Daniel's Hymn of Praise. We do not wonder that Daniel 240 acres improved land, located within three miles of Friona. Price $35.00 per acre. Can give immediate possession.

(Continued On Last Page)

M. A. CRUM, FRIONA TEXAS

Have Served You the Past 26 Years. E. B. BLACK CO. Furniture and Undertaking Ambulance Service—Day or Night. Hereford Texas.

Magnolia Petroleum Co. TAKE A TIP —from us that it is tough luck to have anyone tell a pack of lies about you, but it might be tougher if the whole truth was told about you—it's tough either way. —You can take this tip from us that our MAGNOLIA GAS and OIL are tip-top in power and satisfaction. Every gallon assures competent performance combined with a mileage increase that will amaze you. It will pay you to investigate. FRIONA TEXAS

Auction Sales Are Profitable Two Buyers Are Better Than One

The more buyers you have bidding against each other for whatever you are offering for sale, the higher price you are going to get for it.

You Know That Is True

So when you want to sell your livestock, household goods, farm machinery or even your farm, town lots or a stock of merchandise, why deal with just one buyer, and take only what he offers, when you could easily have a number of buyers bidding for the property? If you want all you can get for your property, of any kind, when you sell it.

Hold An Auction Sale

You get more buyers and you get more money. As an auctioneer of a number of years of experience, I know how to bring the crowd of buyers to your sale; how to arouse their interest and how to get them to buy. Ask some of those for whom I have held auction sales.

Everyone Has Money Now

"The early bird gets the worm" and the early seller is going to get the money. Write or see me now if you plan on holding a sale.

Ray Barber, Auctioneer Superior Sales Service Hereford, Texas Phone 241

Crawford's

FOR YOUR FOOD SUPPLIES AND DRY GOODS

Beans, Butter, Bacon, Bread, Bluing, Bananas, Bottle Drinks. Buttons, Boys' Play Suits, Baby Shoes, Bloomers, Berries, Breakfast Foods, Brooms, Bow Ties, Better Goods, BIG VALUES

T. J. CRAWFORD

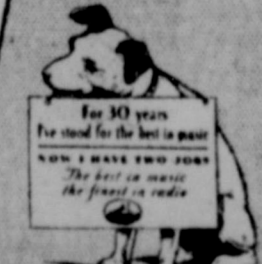

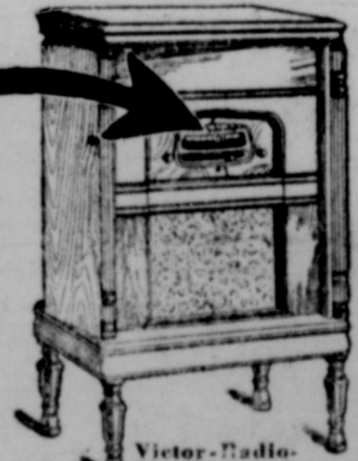

The new Victor-Radio-Electrola has taken this town by storm. "Beauty of tone never before approached"... "Lovely cabinets harmonize with home furnishings"; such enthusiasm is universal! Interchangeable units—all accessible. Micro-synchronous balance. Marvelous improved dynamic speaker. From air or record—whisper to full orchestra at the touch of your finger!

The best news of all: You can easily afford this supreme instrument now. A small payment down and we put it in your home. Also Victor-Radio separately in exquisite console. Come in for a completely new idea of what radio can do! Don't delay!

Now—Micro-Synchronous radio!

The most amazing value in the history of RADIO

The new Victor-Radio with ELECTROLA

Without Tubes $275

new in principle new in design new in performance

CITY DRUG STORE

History Contests
In Demonstration
Clubs Announced

A new contest will be offered Texas Home Demonstration girls in the nature of a record and history contest, and is to be under direction of the Extension Service of the A. & M. of Texas and United States Department of Agriculture, according to an announcement. The home demonstration agent will have direct charge of the history and contests must be members of regularly organized girls' home demonstration clubs.

Several prizes have been offered to the highest scoring club members including the H. G. Hastings company will give $25, $15 and $10 as first, second and third prizes to the highest ranking garden club girls. The Universal Mills will give $25, $15 and $10 as first, second and third prizes to the highest ranking poultry club girls, the Texas Jersey Cattle club will give $25, $10 and $10 as first, second and third prizes to the highest ranking dairy club girls.

To Keep Records.
The best twelve record books, properly attested, with histories from each county will be sent to the district agent's office. These records and histories shall include all the productive demonstrations that are represented in the county and each home demonstration agent shall designate her first, second and third prize winners in the productive phases.

All data necessary to the awarding of these prizes must be in the hands of the district home demonstration agent not later than January 1, 1930, and the awards will be announced as soon after that date as practicable. Awards are to be based on the following score card: production, 50 per cent; food preparation, 12 1/2 per cent; food preservation, 12 1/2 per cent; clothing, 12 1/2 per cent; home improvement, 12 1/2 per cent.

MUST PAY ATTENTION TO THE HESSIAN FLY

"While it is true that the Hessian fly has not destroyed as much wheat this year as usual, this does not mean that it will not be back in full force next year. There are enough scattered flies over the wheat belt right now to make the country literally live with them next year," says H. M. Bainer, director, the Southwestern Wheat Improvement Association. "Control the fly," he says, "The fly is now in a dormant state, resting in the old wheat stubble, waiting for this summer's volunteer wheat, in which it will carry over until the main wheat crop is ready this fall. The fly can be controlled by plowing under the stubble and by keeping down all volunteer wheat so the summer brood will not have anything to live on. Fortunately the same tillage operations that

CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S PLANE MEETS WITH DISASTER ON BERLIN FLIGHT

The Chicago Tribune plane's flight to Berlin ended abruptly last Saturday, July 13, when the "Untin" Bowler, in which Robert Gast, Parker Cramer and Robert Wood, aviation editor of the Tribune, were attempting to blaze a new air trail from Chicago to the heart of Europe, was swept to sea by a gale and sank among the ice of Hudson strait. There was no one on board the plane at the time.

The "Untin" Bowler had been caught in ice floes and narrowly escaped destruction several times since landing at Port Burwell last Tuesday, July 9. It was anchored to the ice about a hundred yards from shore when a huge piece of the ice broke from the middle of the stream, carrying the plane with it to the open water where it sank. Everything possible had been done to keep the plane intact for the long flight across Greenland and Iceland to Berlin, but the tide, the ice and the gale which the "Untin" Bowler encountered were too much for it. The crew had only three hours of good flying weather in the ten days that elapsed between the plane's takeoff at Lake Reul, Ont., and its loss in the icebergs at Port Burwell.

The Bowler went down with both pontoons lashed to the lower wings with rope. A wire strut had snapped in two. The gale had ripped the fabric from a lower wing. There were big rents in the tail surface, water had poured into the hull through the hole pierced by jagged ice, and the bracing wires and struts of the plane had been pinched by ice cakes. While it would have required several days, yet the pilots believed it would have been possible to repair the ship, and the damage to the plane are most favorable for wheat production are best for controlling the fly. Early deep plowing, such as will thoroughly bury the stubble, in which the fly is located is the best remedy. If time does not permit early plowing, then the land should be tandem disced or one-wayed at once, with the idea of plowing it later. This will not

Big Steer
Badly Nted

Wanted—a big steer
So popular was an illustration of the three prove changes of beef cattle over the last half century, as was shown at the 1928 national Live Stock Exposition, the management has decided to repeat it this year if a steer resembling the old animal which was often not to market until four or five years old and that weighs over exceeding the ton mark, is found. If there is anyone in Iowa in possession of a steer that could be fitted for the International type of old by the time show is in session Nov. 15-Dec. 7, the management spaces that it will be interested in considering its purchase. Communications should be addressed B. H. Helde, manager of International Live Stock Exposition, whose headquarters in Chicago Stock Yards.

can be destroyed will control the fly. Another instant step in controlling the fly is to sow the wheat too early in the fall. Too early sowing is as bad as volunteer. Sowing should be done until the greater part of the fall broods come out. For definite information as to when this takes place the farmer should get in touch with the county agent or with the Agricultural College. While the individual farmer can control a fly to considerable extent, yet an account of the danger of invasion from one field to another, is far better that the control through community cooperation.

Leave your printing order with the Star office and get it what you want—and get it NOW.

CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE—Have good McCormick 15-30 tractor for sale. Paced right and in good shape. MAURER MACHINERY CO.

HOMELESS—One good 15-30 International tractor and Sanders one-way plow. BLACKWELL'S.

WANTED—Plowing—to-do. Any kind, one-way, sod or old land breaking. H. C. MOORE, Box 72, Texico, New Mexico. Reference: J. W. Magness, Friona, Texas.

LOST—Giant Zerk Grease gun, between Friona and J. H. Key farm south of town. Notify JACK BROWDER, Friona.

FOR SALE—Two half sections extra good land; nearly all in cultivation, well fenced; a granary; located about 20 miles northwest of Friona. Price reasonable, with terms. Write E. W. HACKMAN, 1302 W. Wildwood Ave., Fort Wayne, Ind.

WANTED—A home for a good, gentle milk cow; priced right. BLACKWELL'S.

FOR SALE—One Hart-Parr 18-30 tractor. Also one No. 3 J. B. Hammer mill. See or call W. M. Standford, at Browning Feed Mill, Friona.

FOR SALE—At our pens in Littlefield, yearling ewes, $10 each, aged ewes $4.50 each. Also feeder lambs for fall delivery. R. M. BOYER, Littlefield, Texas.

FOR SALE—One four gallon cow with heifer calf. This cow will be three in December. See CARL C MAURER.

I always find it at Blackwell's.

Every farm has a lot of stuff lying about—useless to you, but the very thing other farmers need. A twenty-five cent want ad in the Friona will dispose of it to your advantage—and profit.

Women to Participate In Prizes Distributed

College Station: Five liberal women of Texas, selected as representatives of the highest type of wife, mother and community builder will be honored with the title and gold pin of Master Farm Homemaker at the 20th annual Farmers Short Course at the A. & M. College of Texas July 29 to August 3. The award will be made this year for the second time.

The award will be bestowed by the Farmer's Wife, national farm women's magazine of St. Paul, Minn., on each group of five Texas rural women selected by that journal in co-operation with the Extension Service of the A. & M. College of Texas. Announcement has been made that more than 100 outstanding rural homemakers throughout the nation will be so honored this year. Recognition of the farm wife's job as one of the world's most important lines of endeavor is an aim of the Master Farm Homemaker movement.

Outstanding farm women from virtually every section of Texas have been nominated for the honor of this state this year and have answered more than 500 questions concerning their home making methods for the judging committee named by Miss Mildred Horton, state home demonstration agent of the Extension Service. Miss Bess

M. Rowe of the farm magazine will come here to confer the honor on the winners.

Ham Lambert to Have Farm Sale July 30th

Col. Ray Barber, proprietor of Hereford, announces that he will hold a public farm sale on Tuesday, July 30, for Ham Lambert's farm located two miles north of the farm located two miles north about 30 miles south of Hereford. The sale offering, Col. Barber says, will consist of horses, mules, milk cows, farm machinery and many other items too numerous to mention. The sale will start at 10:00 o'clock Tuesday morning, July 30. Free lunch will be served at noon.

TO SEE WELL
SEE WOR-RELL
Exclusive Eyesight Specialist
Half block off Main, East of Barry Hardware
CLOVIS, NEW MEXICO

SALT—ICE—SALT
We Sell
Salt, Ice, Mill Feeds, Dairy and Poultry Rations.
We Buy
Cream, Eggs, Poultry, Hides
H. P. EBERLING AND COMPANY.

Anniversary Sale!

AUCTION

In commemoration of our fourth year in Friona, we are having the biggest sale in the history of the town, beginning July 31, and ending August 3. Prices slashed to rock-bottom: prices you've never dreamed about—a sale Friona has never seen before. Merchandise bought right especially for the sale. Make your pennies do what dollars did before.

AUCTION

Every afternoon at 2:30 and at 8:00 at night we will have an Auction Sale by Col. Ray Barber. YOU NAME THE PRICES on the goods sold. Your one chance for a bargain feast. Be sure to attend and tell your friends and neighbors about it. We will have on sale and auction off goods in every line of our immense stock — Glassware, Dishes, Aluminum, Enamelware, Paint, Suit Cases, Watches, Jewelry, Gloves, Tools, Tinware, Refrigerators, Harness, Windmills, Wire, Gas Engines, Furniture, Rugs, Toys—dozens of items.

PRIZES

Prizes will be given away each day—Something new every day.
BE SURE TO BE THERE!

Blackwell Hardware & Furniture

"ALWAYS DEPENDABLE"

Guessing Games

They were a lot of fun when we were youngsters, those guessing games. Guess who this is! Guess the number of beans in the pot! Guess how long the pendulum will swing! Sometimes we came pretty close to the right answer. Sometimes we were a long way off. Which ever we were, we all had a good time, and the worst guesser got as much of the evening's refreshments as the best.

How far away those guessing games seem now! And how they have lost their appeal. Perhaps it's because we learned, as we grew older, that to know is better than to guess. Guess which is the best package on the grocer's shelf! Guess which bolt of cloth is pure wool! Guess which talking machine will give us most satisfaction! No guessing for those things wasn't so much fun. We wanted to be certain. And that was one of the reasons we turned to advertising.

Advertising takes the guesswork out of buying. It lets us know what is best and what is cheapest and what will last longest. It does away with unsatisfactory uncertainties. The advertisements in this newspaper tell a concise, interesting and accurate story about articles you need. Reading them is the surest and quickest path to wise buying. It eliminates guessing!

By Reading the Advertisements Regularly and Buying Advertised Goods, You Take the Guessing Out of Spending Your Money!

HATE

By
Arthur D. Howden Smith

Copyright, 1928
ARTHUR D. HOWDEN SMITH
WNU Service

STORY FROM THE START

Capt. Lion Fellowes' American merchant ship is sunk by a British frigate off Portugal in the War of 1812. The crew surrenders, but Fellowes reaches shore exhausted. His life is saved by an English-speaking girl.

CHAPTER I—Continued

The slim woman stooped over Fellowes, and he looked up into a pair of velvet brown eyes, dewy and compassionate, set in a lovely, oval face. "Poor soul," she exclaimed in English, innocent of accent. "We saw your misfortune from the castle. But why did you remain on your ship?" "I don't strike," he whispered. A shadow mantled her olive features. "All the world at war, and America must trust her infant into the maelstrom! But we'll not talk politics, sir. I'll have you carried to Padre Antonio's."

Four of the hairy peasants, very uneasy and deferential now, lifted the American upon their shoulders, and tramped off at a fast gait up a winding path in a vent of the cliffs. But Fellowes knew little of that climb, for the rough handling tortured his battered frame, and most of the way he was unconscious.

When he came to, he was lying in a huge, canopied bed, warm and drowsy. His wet clothes had been removed, and liniment applied to his cuts and bruises. Moving tentatively under his covers, feet rustled among the rushes, and the girl of the mantilla appeared beside him, no longer cloaked, her figure showing to advantage in a gown of woolen stuff as brown as her eyes. At her elbow was the enormous woman, who had attended her on the beach, a creature so stout as to seem a colossus. She dropped a hand on Fellowes' forehead. "Ah, your fever is going," she said approvingly. "You'll do well, sir."

"Thanks to you," he murmured. "No, no! Thanks to yourself—and such aid as we could render."

"I'd have had—knife in throat—but for you," he insisted.

"We won't speak of that. Our peasants, alas, are little better than savages. But there is something I must say to you, sir. I am obliged to leave this place, Perenna, in the morning. There is no one here who speaks English. So, if you will tell me your wishes, I will explain them to Padre Antonio. He has the money-belt you wore, and will return it at your pleasure."

"Where do you go?" asked Fellowes.

"To Lisbon." She caught her lip in her teeth, as if regretful of the statement. "If you will be advised, sir," she hastened on, "you will journey into Spain. The British control all northern Portugal, and their authorities in Lisbon will not be partial to a shipwrecked American."

He hesitated.

"I think I'll try Lisbon."

"As you choose." She was almost haughty. "But you will require rest and refreshment in the meantime. The Padre understands."

"Now you must sleep, sir."

"But I haven't thanked you! And I want—"

"'Tis late, and I rise with the sun. Good-night, sir—God fetch you safe home."

She was gone. And fretful as he was, a power stronger than his will pushed shut his leaden eyelids. He awoke to a stamping and shouting in the street below. Mindful of his rescuer's departure, he managed to stumble out of bed, and hobbled to a window. His curiosity was rewarded. A stately coach, six stalwart Andalusian mules hitched to the pole, stood at the priest's door, that functionary, himself, in the act of ushering the two women into it.

The girl leaned from the coach window to give some parting message, and called to the coachman perched high on his box. The ponderous vehicle swayed off, the mules' hoofs clacking daintily. Fellowes, more weary than he had reckoned, was content to crawl back to bed. He must discover who she was, he told himself, yielding to sleep again. The Padre should know.

He was awakened by the priest tapping his shoulder, proffering a cup of chocolate.

The chocolate put new strength in him, spurred him to inquire the girl's identity. But he could make nothing of the Padre's Portuguese, the Padre looked blank at his English, and the most Fellowes could gather was that a certain Donna Cara was a great lady, a good lady, if somewhat unusual in her conduct. He supposed the girl to be Donna Cara, but he wasn't by any means sure of it. All he could be assured of was that she had gone to Lisbon. Very well, then, he decided. And the third day of his stay he announced his intention. The Padre seemed disturbed, but after considerable debate, he shrugged his shoulders, produced Fellowes' money-belt and a hairy-face named Rojas, who looked like a bandit and passed for a muleteer.

The fourth day Fellowes rode forth of the village. At the top of the narrow street, he halted to look back for the last time. His eyes were upon the rocks where the Satchem had gone to her doom, a doom so complete that the only vestiges remaining of the brig were scattered bits of wreckage lodged in inaccessible crannies of the cliffs.

CHAPTER II

A Licensed Trader

The diligence from Beja deposited Fellowes at the ferry-landing opposite Lisbon. The river was crowded with shipping, and his heart leaped in his throat at sight of the legend, "True Bounty, New York," printed across the broad stern of a ship. His mind barked overseas, to the sprawling town on the tip of Manhattan Island, a little, red-brick town, bowered in tulip trees and chestnuts, that he'd left a year and a half ago, and to the sleepy village he called home, huddled between the pine forests of Long Island and the Great South Bay.

He wondered how an American ship, flying American colors—the Stars and Stripes flaunted proudly from the mizzen yardarm, as if in defiance of the White Ensign displayed by the King's ships—could be here in the Tagus. How had she gotten in? And more important, how would she get out? A small boat lay alongside her, and as he watched, a lank stoop-shouldered man descended into it. Saul Chater! No wonder he'd been thinking of Babylon. And Chater's presence meant the True Bounty was an English ship. Ben Inglepin's, of course. Ben had married a Portuguese, and very naturally, specialized in the Peninsula trade. In that, as in everything else, differing from Joshua.

Fellowes chuckled as he remembered the whimsical feud between the brothers. They had been enemies from the day the firm of Inglepin Brothers was dissolved in '93, after Joshua had declared General Washington was plotting to return the country to the British Crown. Joshua believed in Jefferson; Ben cursed him for a demagogue. Joshua considered Washington had been "that libertine, Hamilton's puppet"; Ben all but said his prayers to the General's memory.

The ferry bumped into the quay, and noticing Chater's boat heading for the same landing, Fellowes, as Ben Bounty's master, Chater was the last American he would have chosen to meet in a foreign land, but the fellow was an American, and what was more, came from Babylon. Fellowes recalled the day the New Englander had appeared in the village, buyer of the farmlands across Sampawam's creek from the Manor. Fellowes' father, whose ancestors had held the Manor since the conquest from the Dutch, insisted the village must give Chater fair treatment.

Fellowes knew his father had come to detest the man, but he, himself, had seen little of Chater. For he had taken to the sea in the hope of replenishing the family fortunes, undermined by years of ill-paid diplomatic service, and particularly since his father's death, was seldom at home. Now, he reflected, there'd be nothing to lure him from Babylon, unless he could obtain a privateer. All his spare funds had gone in the wreck.

He banished such thoughts, however, as Chater stumbled up the landing-steps. It would never do to let the New Englander suspect the extent of his misfortunes. So, proffering his hand, he mustered a cheery smile.

"How are you, Captain Chater?"

"Well, well, now," Chater whined nasally. "If 'taint Lion Fellowes! Last I heard, ye'd sailed for Canton."

"I was wrecked a couple of weeks ago," Fellowes explained. "Driven ashore by a British frigate, south in Algarve."

"That was pesky luck. Ye got to be careful in wartime, Cap'n Fellowes."

"D'you call this careful?"

(TO BE CONTINUED)

Small Farms in India

"India is essentially a country of small holdings," says Sir Verney Lovett, author of "India." "In many parts of the country the land is held mainly by families of peasant proprietors. In other parts the bulk of the land is owned by large properties, but even in such cases the tenant in chief has generally been protected by a series of rent acts which not only insure him fixity of tenure during his lifetime but often grant the right of descent of the tenure to his heirs on his death. The disruptive tendencies of the Hindu and Mohammedan laws have profoundly affected agricultural economy through encouraging the minute subdivision of land." Fragmentation is the rule.

On or Off?

Tom, age five, was getting ready for bed when he suddenly asked: "Dad, must I get scalded with my shoes on or off?"

Dad didn't seem to understand what it was all about so Tom explained: "The nurse comes to kindergarten to scald us and I don't know whether I should keep my shoes on or take them off."

SHEER VELVET SUER WRAPS; DRESSY AFTERNOON ENSEMBLE

COME summer, come winter, come fall, it must be admitted that autumn or spring transparents clothes, as fashion now de-velvet continues to wield its magic, are answering the mandate of the world of fashion. If number of our dress problems, seems the more we say about these, the woman who entertains and is exquisitely sheer velvets which pre-entained cannot afford to ignore casting their glances on the beauty importance of having in readiness throughout the realm of dress, the for two or more, as occasion demands we want to say. Really and truly 47-48-up.com

One of the most striking themes, which has to do with the shimmering, this summer, more than ever, style colorful "finger-ring velvets," is that of a more showing a special fond- the summer wrap. Summer evening for a more lace as a medium for fashion's particular stress on a re- afternoon ensemble. There is no doubt about the exquisite appearance of an all-lace costume such as is pictured below. Not only is the face itself a beauty factor in the make-up of this costume, but it is styled to the nth degree of chic.

A FAVORITE SUMMER WRAP

Attention is especially called to the pattern flounces which define the hem- the jacket which tops it. It confirms the message from style centers, that circular flares are the latest move in fabric treatments. Another point made much of in modern fashioning is that of carrying the same thought throughout the entire costume. To explain, if a skirt is finished with a circular flounce or flare, the same movement is repeated on the bodice or the accompanying jacket or both. Along this line of thought, stylists placing plaited jabot drapes on the waist or blouse carry a unified idea clear through by embodying similar plaited drapes on the skirt. This method applies as aptly to the handling of scallops or tucks or whatever the fabric treatment to be stressed. In other words, sophisticated styling relates each part of a costume to the other, like a theme in music which runs throughout the entire composition.

Not only are laces in neutral tones such as gray and beige in favor for the making of daytime ensembles, but fancy also turns to lovely soft colorings, especially grayish greens, and misty blues, also orchid which is a perature evenings. However, the part the coat plays as a separate wrap for midsummer days with fluttery frocks is no less distinctive. No flowered chiffon dress is complete without a sleek, handsomely colorful velvet wrap to go with it.

ALL-OVER LACE AFTERNOON ENSEMBLE

A further use of gay velvet wraps is slated for autumn days, in that they will be worn with plaited skirt of the same velvet, over contrasting blouses of metal cloth, lace and the like.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.
(© 1928, Western Newspaper Union.)

So good to eat and such an effective regulator

— that millions eat it as their favorite bran cereal

NOW YOU'LL LIKE BRAN!

POST'S BRAN FLAKES

WITH OTHER PARTS OF WHEAT

Also people work hard and play hard to forget their troubles. Don't think it is all gusto.

POISON IVY

Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh

Money back for first bottle if not suited. All dealers.

Negro Jews

There are enough negro Jews in New York city to maintain a Hebrew synagogue where services on Friday, Saturday and Sunday are conducted in the Hebrew language by a colored

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love the pleasant taste of "California Fig Syrup." A teaspoonful never fails to clean the liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Fate is a female who gives men the laugh for believing in her.

Health Giving Sunshine

All Winter Long

Marvelous Climate—Good Hotels—Tourist Camps—Splendid Roads—Gorgeous Mountain Views. The wonderful desert resort of the West

Write Crook & Chaffey
Palm Springs
CALIFORNIA

PLAIN MACHINE SEWING, steady legitimate work, whole or part time; weekly pay. No selling. Write today. Enclose stamp. Tempo House Dress Corp., 153 W. 25th St., N.Y.

RICH MAN'S CORN HARVESTER
Poor Man's price. Only $25 with bundle tying attachment sold in every state. Free catalog showing picture of harvester. Process K. L. Co. Salina, Kansas

Oklahoma Directory

MERIT MILK MAKER

Best for Dairy Cows
That Good Feed Satisfies Their Need.
HARDEMAN-KING CO., OKLA. CITY.

"Our Best on Every Head"

The National Commission Co.
of Oklahoma, Inc.
STOCK YARDS - OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.

Ship Your Live Stock to the OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCK YARDS OKLAHOMA CITY

FILMS DEVELOPED FREE
and Prints 3 cents Each on Trial Roll.
THE CAMERA COMPANY
Desk M. Oklahoma City, Okla.

Prest Machine Works Co.

Machinists and Electricians
Motor Repairing a Specialty

Oklahoma City, Okla.

MERIT EGG MASH

Best for Laying Hens
That Good Feed Satisfies Their Need
HARDEMAN-KING CO., Oklahoma City
W. N. U., Oklahoma City, N. 29-1929.

Well, Isn't It?

Just Overheard—She believes that the best possible stepping stone to matrimony is a diamond.

BLACK FLAG POWDER KILLS BUGS

Roaches, ants, bedbugs, fleas, flies, mosquitoes, moths, etc. Black Flag kills—quickly, surely! It's the deadliest insect-killer made. (Packed in glass, it keeps its strength). 15 cents, and up.

Black Flag also comes in liquid form

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.
(© 1928, W. F. Co.)

OUR COMIC SECTION

Along the Concrete

THE FEATHERHEADS

Felix Had a Bright Idea

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

Tadpole Has Learned a Name

ATWATER KENT RADIO

NEW BATTERY SET!
Screen-Grid
Electro-Dynamic

Greatest Improvement in Years!

HEAR IT—SEE IT—READY NOW!

Little Doubt That Her Resolution Was Sincere

A Willshire Sunday school teacher had been explaining to her class that religion was not just a Sunday affair but should be applied to weekday life as well. "Just the way that New Year resolutions are to be borne in mind and carried out all the year," she said.

Since most of her little folks confessed that they had made no resolutions, she decided to inaugurate them on the spot and pledge the class to try to make them come true. The smallest child in the class wrote vigorously for several minutes and then handed in the following resolution:

Resolved that I will either go to grandma's this summer or have a birthday party.—Los Angeles Times.

Vanishing Oxen Teams

Although oxen teams have not entirely disappeared from New England farms they are well on the way to the vanishing point. In early lumbering operations oxen were invaluable in the Maine and New Hampshire logging camps. But now they have been replaced almost entirely by horses, and in some localities by motor tractors.

Bimbo—I suppose you've had a lot of chumps dancing on your feet tonight? Flapper—No, you're the first one.

Then again, the early bird may have to serve his wife breakfast in bed.

Chinese Products

An instructor drawing on the general knowledge of her pupils asked for the products of China. A girl eager to recite received the opportunity and said: "Tea and laundry marks are the most important ones."

Give a kid toys, but let him make a few of his own.

Easier

Suzanne, age six, was taking tea one afternoon with a neighbor. On seeing the writing desk she decided to write a short letter to her hostess. The letter ran as follows: "Dear Merriman—Tommie has the henpox. SUZANNE."

On being asked why she had called chickenpox henpox, she said: "Well, it's much easier to write."

Conceal scuffs this easy way

A touch or two of the dauber conceals scuffs like magic. Color is restored uniformly to faded shoes. More than 50 long-life shines—50 cents. Colors for black, brown, tan and white shoes—a neutral polish for others.

BARTON'S DYANSHINE
SHOE POLISH

So It Goes

Speaking of the retired sea captain in Maine who drowned in his bathtub, we see where an Akron flyer, who had broken 35,000 feet in altitude tests, fell down a few stairs and cracked an arm.

Oh, That Kind

Kiwans—What sort of people are the Skimpoles?
Rotarian—Nothing much—the kind of people that have to ride in rumble seats.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Very Simple

Lady—I am returning the clock you sold me because it does not keep correct time.

Clerk—It is a good time-keeper, madam. Ven de liddle han' iss on four, an' de clock strikes twelve, it iss a wery 'fine w' clock.

The Vital Question

Mrs. Benham—He has been disappointed in love.
Benham—How long has he been married?

On your toes with POST TOASTIES -quick, rich energy

Busy day ahead? Begin it right with Post Toasties. There's an ample store of brisk new energy in each crisp, appetizing mouthful. Easily digested energy that turns quickly into zest for the day's work. And it's so good to eat! Pour the crumbly, golden-brown flakes out of the handy package into the saucer. Then add cream and sugar if you like. We've found that rich, natural corn flavor and the toasted crispness make a perfect combination. Everyone likes it!

Ask your grocer for the genuine Post Toasties in the red and yellow package.

POSTUM COMPANY, INC., BATTLE CREEK, MICH.

© 1938, P. Co., Inc.

CHRISTIAN ADVERTISERS

Methodist

Sunday school 10:00 a. m.
Worship and sermon, 11:00 a. m.
Epworth League, 7:30 p. m.
Sermon, 8:30 p. m.
CARTER C. PORTER, Pastor.

Baptist

Sunday school 10:00 a. m.
Worship and sermon, 11:00 a. m.
B. Y. P. U., 7:30 p. m.
Sermon, 8:30 p. m.

Congregational

Sunday school 10:00 a. m., F. W. Reeve, superintendent.
No preaching services this day.
Christian Endeavor 7:45 p. m.

Church of Christ

Church school 10:00 a. m.

JUNIOR B. Y. P. U. PROGRAM

Understanding our church covenant, Imogene Short.
Love one another, Erna Beasley.
Love our church, Eva Dilger.
Give our money, Alfred Wendel.
Read God's word and pray, John Tom Beasley.
Phono Solo, Eva Dilger.
Live pure lives, Madaline Beasley.
Win the lost, Geneva Carter.
Live Temperate Lives, Maurice Carter.
Review, Lettler.

The Junior B. Y. P. U. met July 21, with twenty present. Maurice Carter won in the memory work drill. Let us try to have our weekly verses read. Everybody be there at 7:00 o'clock.

REPORTER

BAPTIST LADIES AID.

The Baptist Ladies Aid are meeting every evening at 8:30 at the church in a study course. Manual of W. M. W. methods is our first study.

Rev. Robinett our pastor is teaching the class and we are sure with him as teacher, explaining everything so thoroughly and interestingly we will not want to miss a single lesson. Everybody invited.

REPORTER

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(Continued from Page 4.)

Broke forth in praise to the one who had given him such a signal blessing. God is the source of all knowledge and light, and it is because of this that he has made clear to Daniel the dream and its meaning. He does not claim any credit for the "discovery" at all. Verses 23 is a model prayer of thanksgiving. It is direct and open. He is pouring out his soul to his God for a blessing that he recognizes as extremely valuable. It is a boon too great to expect. He does not intimate that he deserved it at all but he is rejoicing and praising the name of a good God who has dealt out mercy with a lavish hand.

Daniel interprets the King's Dream
The king had dreamed of a great and shining image. It had a gold head which represented Nebuchadnezzar himself, the mightiest of monarchs. Its arms and breast were of silver, the central parts were of brass, the legs were of iron and the feet were partly of iron and brass. These represented the world kingdoms that should follow the Babylonians, becoming progressively weaker and inferior in every way. Then the king saw a great stone cut without any human agency out of a nearby mountain, rolled down upon the statue and smote the feet. Thereupon the entire image fell and was dissipated into dust which the wind carried away. This stone stood for the power of the one true God, who would destroy the kingdoms of this world in time, and set up in their place the Kingdom of heaven, which is to stand forever.

"This wonderful dream and the superb interpretation were at once perceived by the king to be the truth. He proclaimed Jehovah as the God of gods, the Lord of kings, the Revealer of secrets, and exalted Daniel to be second to himself, the chief administrator of the central province in the realm, containing the capital city, Babylon. Moreover, he placed Daniel over all the divisions of the wise men, who would be glad to serve under him, since he had indisputably saved their lives.

Star Advertisers are sincere in their efforts to make buying easier for you. Read their messages.

Event to Remember

An elderly employee of a London profit sharing company, on receiving his first profit warrant, turned to the manager and said: "Goodness and mercy have followed me all the days of my life, but this is the first blessing that they have ever bestowed upon me!"—Christian World.

Patronize Star Advertisers

"Woolaroc," Famed Trans-Pacific Plane, In Hereford for a Few Hours August 2

Invitations pouring in on Frank Phillips requesting him to make a farewell flight of the Woolaroc before its permanent retirement on his ranch at Bartlesville.

Col. Arthur Goebel who flew the Woolaroc from San Francisco to Honolulu August 17, 1927, in 26 hours to win the $25,000 Dole prize.

On invitation of Mayor E. S. Ireland and T. E. Seigler, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Hereford, the famous "Woolaroc," the plane in which Col. Art Goebel flew from Oakland, California, to Hawaii in 1927, will visit Hereford Friday, August 2, and will be here from 2:20 to 2:50 p. m.

Everyone is invited to see this famous plane when it comes to Hereford on its farewell tour. Landing will be made at the field just north of town.

A reception committee will be appointed by Mayor Ireland and Mr. Seigler to welcome the visitors. From here the plane will be flown to Canyon and Amarillo.

The "Woolaroc," the plane that helped make flying history when it won the Dole prize by beating the group of other planes which started from Oakland over the ocean to Honolulu, will have one final flight before going into a museum.

Two days ago Frank Phillips, banker of Col. Arthur C. Goebel's flight across the Pacific, announced that he was retiring the plane to a permanent hangar he is building on his ranch outside Bartlesville, Oklahoma. The announcement brought to him more than two hundred telegrams from secretaries of Chambers of Commerce, officials of luncheon clubs, city officials and personal friends, all begging him to let the plane make one more flight before retiring it. Many of the wires and letters said that citizens of the middle west have had little chance to see a trans-oceanic plane. It would be a great thing for them, it was stated, to see a plane so important in aviation history, and with so much romance and human interest attached to it.

Mr. Phillips has acceded to the many requests and has persuaded Col. Goebel to fly the Woolaroc on a farewell tour.

SORE, BLEEDING GUMS
Only one bottle Loto's Pyorrhoea Remedy is needed to convince any one. No matter how bad your case, get a bottle, use as directed, and if you are not satisfied druggists will return your money. City Drug Store.

Four-Cent Tax On Coline Is No Effective

Effective night, July 16, the gasoline tax in Texas was increased from two cents per gallon to four cents per gallon. This tax of four cents per gallon is to apply on gallons of gasoline excepting those the Federal government, as is exempt from all state gasol tax, as in the past.

In regard to persons or firms who buy gas for use in stationary engines, tractors, motor boats, aircraft or for other purpose than use in motor vehicles operated intended to be operated in air or in part upon public highways, roads and streets, the law prescribes that the tax must be paid by the purchaser at the time of purchase, but also provides that such tax thus collected shall be refunded upon proper claims presented by the purchaser.

The purchaser who asks for refund must, the 25th day of the following month make a report to the State Comptroller at Austin, showing the number of gallons of gasoline purchased, required, as well as maximum amount of refund; and within two months from the purchase of motor fuel on which refund is claimed, and not thereafter. The purchaser must also file with the Comptroller an affidavit on form provided by the Comptroller, attaching thereto original invoice or ticket covering the purchase or purchases on which refund is claimed, and attach thereto a filing fee of one dollar. If the claim is found to be correct, same must be paid within sixty days from such date. No refund will be made where gasoline is used later than six months after date of purchase.

Form for affidavits required by the Comptroller are expected to be available in the near future and will be supplied to the customers of gasoline distributing agencies at the time purchases of gasoline are made.

All persons purchasing gasoline who believe they are entitled to an exemption from the four cent state gasoline tax should write to Comptroller Sam Houston Terrell, Austin, who will furnish them with the necessary blanks which must be filled out and filed with any application for a refund of the tax.

two years ago. It will have the same engine a Wright Whirlwind J-5.

Between fifty and sixty towns will be visited between July 31 and August 12, on a set schedule, which will be followed with railroad agency. Col. Goebel and Mr. Phillips both expressed regret that all interested cities could not be included in the itinerary because of lack of adequate landing facilities. The "Woolaroc" being large and having been built for long distance over-ocean flying, can only be accommodated by the larger landing fields which are in excellent condition.

LEE PLAY SUITS
Overalls—Coveralls
Star Brand Shoes.
M. J. B. Coffee
Tree Tea, Black and Green Tea
Sally Ann Bread.
F. L. SPRING

The Appearance

Indicate both your prosperity and your civic pride. The few dollars spent in paint pay enormous dividends in satisfaction and pride of ownership, as well as preventing deterioration.

PAINT NOW
See J. E. Tommy
Friona Texas

There Is Intense Satisfaction

In the realization of the fact that you have
SPEED, COMFORT, ECONOMY, ENDURANCE, SERVICE
In Your Possession

All these factors you have when you own
A New Ford Car
See them at our sales room south of the railroad.

FRIONA MOTOR CO.

Friona Texas

Star Want Ads Get Immediate Results.

Drs. Heard & Wiltshire
Office in Bank Building
Every Thursday.

JUST FOR YOU---

We have just received a complete assortment of LADIES AND CHILDREN'S SHOES In all the latest styles and finishes—they will suit you. Also a splendid assortment of ready made house dresses in attractive styles and colors. See our line of bath towels. Fresh and Cured Meats. Great West Flour, Always.

RUSHING'S GROCERY

PLAYING FOR TIME

—Is often a paying business or occupation, but that is not necessary of detrimental since

NOW IS THE TIME
To supply yourself with one of those handsome and serviceable cars

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX
A Six In the Price Range of a Four See Us For Demonstration.

WILKISON CHEVROLET COMPANY

Santa Fe Grain Co.

WANTS YOUR GRAIN AT TOP PRICES

We have plenty of unloading space and
PLENTY OF CARS!

Santa Fe Grain Co.

Friona, Texas.
G. (Preach) Cranfil, Manager

TEXACO

Gasoline, Keresene, Oils and Greases

Our new plant in Friona is now fully established and all our equipment installed and we are now ready to serve the public with any of the above named commodities, delivered anywhere, any time.

We Have Stocked a Complete Line of the CELEBRATED TEXACO

Products for either fuel or lubrication. Our place is located at the north side of the railroad track, a block west of the Friona State Bank. We solicit your patronage and will merit it by giving YOU BOTH SERVICE AND QUALITY.

THE TEXAS COMPANY