FIRST ANNUAL BOOSTER TRIP TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY WAS A GREAT SUCCESS FOR ALL

Under the auspices of the Pecos Chamber of Commerce and headed by its president, D. W. Bozeman, a body of some thirty odd representative Pecos business men spent Tuesday and Wednesday on a "Booster Trip," visiting Toyah, Balmorhea, Saragosa, Fort Stockton, Imperial, Buena Vista, Grandfalls, Monahans, Pyote and Barstow.

The party was fitted up with eight cars, a band, red caps and whistles and had no trouble in making their arrival at each place known. All in all it was a most enjoyable trip from start to finish despite the warm, dry weather and accompanying dust.

The caps were worn by the visitors at each stopping point and the whistles were distributed among the children and some of the grown-ups.

The trip was made primarily in order to renew acquaintances and again warm up the ties of old friendships and make new friends and also to note the conditions of business in general, out side of our own home town. Another purpose was that of getting together and, if possible, uniting our entire citizenship in the rebuilding of this entire section as a whole, since that which tends to the betterment of one section will also benefit the neighboring town and community. It is believed that some good was accomplished, especially along the latter lines. The party represented practically every line of business in Pecos and had plenty of talent in the line of oratory, which latter was well represented in the persons of the Revs. C. A. Johnson and J. M. Garner, D. W. Bozeman, J. A. Drane, Mayor B. A. Toliver and H. H. Johnson. In the absence of the Mayor of Toyah, Dee Davis made a very appropriate address of welcome which was heartily endorsed and a very pleasant time was spent there with those splendid people, than whom there are no better anywhere.

From there the party went to Balmorhea and were there served a splendid dinner by the hotel there under the management of Mr. Linton who was accommodating and obliging and made the guests feel at home. Some of the party took dinner with Mr. Crenshaw who runs a restaurant which also has a reputation for furnishing good meals. An hour or so was pleasantly spent here, in which Judge and Mrs. Ross and son, John, participated, which made the occasion even more congenial. The crops in Toyah valley are fairly good, although the worms have in a small way injured both the cotton and alfalfa crops, and since they have had plenty of water are in a fairly prosperous condition.

Saragosa was next visited and the people there were glad to see the Pecos Boosters and extended them a warm welcome. It had been the intention of these good people, headed by that splendid gentleman and merchant, E. A. Humphries, to furnish a watermelon feast but they were unable at the last minute to make connections with the melons. Saragosa people are a happy lot and seem to be glad they are living and in that favored section.

The next point to be visited and where the party spent the night was at that prosperous and thriving neighboring city on the south—Fort Stockton. Stopping at Stockton Hotel, which is not only a beautiful building from the outside but on the inside as well, and well and beautifully furnished, the entire party was bountifully fed and comfortably housed for the night. This hotel is the property of Potts and Sibley, with Dr. Sibley in charge and he is a most courteous and obliging gentleman and is making a success of the business. County Judge R. D. Blydes, the Rev. F. L. Glisson, who is also secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Jas. F. Rooney and J. H. Head, Superintendent of Schools, were especially courteous and acted in behalf of the citizenship of that town. At the banquet table were seated the entire Pecos party. After the feast an hour or more was spent in speech-making in which D. W. Bozeman, the Revs. J. M. Garner and C. A. Johnson, J. A. Drane, B. A. Toliver and L. W. Anderson of Pecos participated. Glisson, Head, Rooney, Judge Blydes and others of Fort Stockton responded in well chosen words. This gathering showed a spirit of fellowship and earnestness of purpose and a desire for the upbuilding of West Texas as a whole and our section in particular which is enviable. A discussion of the Red Bluff proposition and its advantages to this particular section was led by Vernon L. Sullivan and his encouragement was received with enthusiasm and applause. The writer also, with many others, visited the Fort Stockton school building which is one of the best, as well as the best equipped, schools the writer has ever inspected. It would require more space to even approximate a description of the building and its equipment than is deemed best in this article. On leaving Stockton Wednesday morning the party visited the oil wells in the Stockton field and there saw plenty of signs of oil and the men at work on the Quinby well. The writer was informed that it was expected that the old Troy well would be uncapped this week and allowed to flow. This well, when first brought in, was reported as a five thousand barrel well.

Imperial and Buenavista had been hard hit by drouth and lack of water in reservoirs and are in a mighty bad fix, yet their spirit is a long way from broken. They have a fine country and will be o. k. when the Red Bluff is in. Grandfalls, having more water, has fairly good crops and the yards at both gins were crowded with wagons loaded with the fleecy staple waiting for their turn at the gins. These people were apparently happy and prosperous. John Hudson, who has charge of the Garrett bankrupt stock there, is growing fat and "sassy" and looks "natural" behind the counter.

The people at Monahans, Pyote and Barstow were there in force and appeared to enjoy our visit and were very cordial.

Returning home, the party put on a grand auto parade for the benefit of our home people.

HARDING MEMORIAL STAMPS HERE

Postmaster R. E. Johnson informs the ENTERPRISE that he now has on hand 10,000 Harding Memorial stamps which he will place on sale Monday morning.

There has been a rush for these stamps all over the country and the postoffices are only allowed a limited number at the present time. The number, says Mr. Johnson, which will be sold to one man on the retail market will also be limited, so that each patron of the postoffice will be enabled to get some. No need to be in a great hurry, yet if you want some of these stamps, it would appear not to be wise to delay the game too long.

MILLER-TACKETT.

Ed Miller and Mrs. Tackett, both of Barstow, were united in marriage Tuesday night at the Methodist parsonage in that city by the pastor, the Rev. J. W. Rayner. After the ceremony they drove over to Pecos, and spent the night at the Orient Hotel, leaving on the early Wednesday morning train for El Paso.

Ed Miller is a prominent merchant farmer of Barstow and one of her most progressive citizens.

NEW MEXICO CONFERENCE TO MEET AT MARFA SOON

The annual meeting of the New Mexico Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will be held in Marfa next week. The local Methodist church in Pecos will be well represented if all attend who have expressed the intention of going. The delegation will be headed by the pastor, Rev. L. L. Thurston, who has served the church in Pecos for the past two years in a most acceptable manner to most of his congregation. There have been few, very few, Methodist pastors in Pecos, whose sermons were better and whose work was more faithfully performed. The Rev. Thurston is truly a man of God and while gentle and considerate, he has never failed to fight sin in any of its forms. While a great majority of his flock would be delighted to have him returned to Pecos for another year it is generally believed that he will be sent to a better field, where the remuneration will be sufficient to take care of his large family. In all probability the salary, which has been barely sufficient to keep the wolf from the door, will be reduced another year. Should he be returned to Pecos another year, his flock will rejoice and do their utmost to assist in making his paths pleasant and should he go somewhere else we all hope it will be a better work and with better pay. He has not only a large family but a splendid one—all of the highest type of young manhood and womanhood—who will make a creditable showing in any community.

PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION TO MEET

The Parent-Teachers' Association will hold its first regular meeting of the year in the high school auditorium Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock October 5th. The school is one of the most valuable assets of a community and should have the hearty co-operation of all parents and this can be given in no better way than by becoming a member of the Parent-Teachers' Association, attending the meetings and assisting in the work. Every parent and especially every mother, is cordially invited to attend this meeting and every other meeting during the year. There is always an interesting program given. At this meeting it will be given by the primary department. There will be special music by Mrs. Lillian Butler. A discussion of co-operation of parents and teachers in securing home study led by Mrs. W. W. Dean, but in which all are asked to take a part.

BAPTISTS TO HAVE REVIVAL

Rev. J. M. Garner, pastor of the local Baptist church, reports that he has made an engagement with Dr. Samuel Jndson Porter, pastor of the First Baptist church, Oklahoma City, to hold a revival meeting in Pecos. The meeting will begin Sunday, Oct. 7. Those who know Dr. Porter repute him to be one of the best preachers in America. He was honored by his denomination two years ago by being the one who preached the Convention sermon for the Southern Baptist Convention. Dr. Porter was one of the speakers at the Paisano Encampment this year and won the hearts of his hearers. The local church is to be congratulated on being able to secure the services of a man of the calibre of Rev. Mr. Porter. Dr. Porter is author of several very popular books also.

SOME APPLES

Mrs. Lou Matthews, who is this week visiting the Randals, brought from Hilltop, Arizona, some fine specimens of apples. One of these exhibited at the ENTERPRISE office weighed 17 ounces and measured 14 3/4 inches in circumference. Mrs. Matthews states that there are many orchards in that section with just as fine apples.

SURROUNDED IN WEEDS, WOUNDED BY PURSUERS

Sweetwater, Sept. 23.—The climax to the man hunt which absorbed the entire attention of authorities of several West Texas counties for the past 24 hours, ended suddenly late Sunday afternoon when officers, plunging boldly into the shoulder high weeds which masked the draw into which the fugitive had been driven, discovered the dead body of L. H. Martin, wanted in connection with the hammer murder of Mrs. Lelah Beall of Abilene, late Saturday afternoon, just west of Clyde in Callahan county.

Near the outstretched hand of Martin lay his revolver. Powder burns on his vest led officers to believe that he had taken his own life rather than be taken alive.

There were numerous holes in his hat and clothing and wounds in arms and legs, indicating that some of the numerous volleys fired by officers into the draw had found their mark.

FIND RIDDLED BODY

Discovery of the exact location of Martin came early in the afternoon when W. H. Holcomb, one of the searching party, came upon him in the weeds. Holcomb said: "Throw 'em up." His reply was a shot and Martin was lost in the weeds.

Shortly the draw was surrounded, and officers began shooting into the weeds. Then flaming gasoline was used in an effort to drive the man from his refuge. After a long silence, Sheriff Yarbrough of Nolan county, and others took up a commanding position and Chief Johnson of Sweetwater, Deputy I. W. Terry and Deputy Franklin of Mitchell county, the sheriff of Callahan county and others plunged into the draw.

Discovery of the body was made by Capt. Sidney C. Mason of the Sweetwater National Guard unit.

The body was taken to a local morgue.

There was $112.52 in wallet, some keys, a knife and a silver watch found in the clothing on the body. No disposition has been made of the remains.

In addition to the officers above named, Sheriff John Bond and Deputy St. John of Taylor county, Sheriff Tom Condra and Deputy J. C. Card of Scurry county participated in the hunt.

The officers maintained the search all night and throughout Sunday. Auto loads of grim-faced men with Winchester and heavy gauge shotguns, sawed off and loaded with buckshot, shot hither and thither in and out of the city as the dragnet of the law closed its inexorable meshes around the hunted man.

BUYS CIGARETTES

Shortly after 3 o'clock Sunday morning Martin walked into a local cafe and purchased a package of cigarettes. He was instantly recognized as the man suspected of slaying Mrs. Beall, and the authorities were immediately notified. A search of the city was then made.

Late Saturday night authorities drove out on the highway to intercept Martin, who was known to be driving a high-powered machine. He made his escape, only later to collide with a farm wagon. The latter was wrecked, and his machine was rendered useless, having become tangled in the wreckage of the wagon.

Martin again made his escape, disappearing across fields only later to be surrounded in some weeds, where he was located, fired several shots at his pursuers, was wounded in return, and finally found dead.

RAMSEY NO. 1 TO ATTEMPT TO PULL CASING TOMORROW

The oil news of the Pecos field is meagre this week and remains about the same as last.

With boiler trouble and a job of pulling casing in order to correct some trouble in the well, the Bell well has made little, if any, progress during the week.

The Ramsey No. 1, or Toyah-Bell, well crew has been busy this week milling out the broken combination socket, which work was finished today, a new socket and slips arriving this afternoon and it is reported they will take hold of the casing connection tomorrow morning and expect no trouble in removing same from the hole in short order.

The standard derrick, 82 feet high, at the Hershenson well has been completed and modern camp conveniences are to be installed. The old abandoned well has been converted into a water well and will furnish water for the new well some 200 feet away. They will use a Clark gas engine. It is stated that drilling will again be resumed at this site as soon as machinery can be set up. The engine has been purchased.

BISHOP DICKEY IN CARLSBAD

Bishop James T. Dickey, D. D. L. D., of Waco, Texas, the bishop in charge of the New Mexico conference, arrived in the city from Artesia where he presided at the dedication of their beautiful Methodist church, Sunday morning, and preached to a good sized congregation at the local church in the evening. He was not expected in until later in the week, but owing to the heavy storm in Roswell that afternoon, was unable to make the trip there at that time, and so came down to Carlsbad accompanied by Mrs. Dickey and Rev. J. C. Jones, presiding elder of this district, and Rev. J. B. Cochran, presiding elder of the Albuquerque district.

As soon as it was learned that Bishop Dickey was in the city, the telephone was used to notify the people and a good congregation resulted. An unusual display of beautiful dahlias brightened the little church, and a full choir greeted the speaker. The old hymns that speak of hope and faith were sung, and in addition Mrs. A. A. Davis gave the beautiful solo "Open the Gates of the Temple," with Mrs. A. A. Kaiser accompanying. The bishop is one of the great preachers of the Southern Methodism, eloquent and earnest and preached a wonderful sermon, full of love of the Master for all created beings, and had the undivided attention of his hearers from first to last. Had his arrival in the city been generally known the church would have been taxed to hold the people.

Dr. and Mrs. Dickey and Reverend J. C. Jones left Monday morning for Roswell as it was thought the roads had dried off sufficiently to allow their trip to that city overland at that time.—Carlsbad Current.

Bishop Dickey was in Pecos about a year ago and presided at the sessions of the New Mexico Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Our people who heard him will remember with pleasure the splendid and uplifting addresses he gave from time to time. He will be in Marfa next week, to hold the annual meeting of the New Mexico Conference.

J. W. Reinhardt fell from a ladder the early part of the week, breaking his leg. Mr. Reinhardt has been working at a gin at Barstow since the cotton season opened. The many friends of the family will regret to hear this sad news, but hope for his early recovery.

Phil S. Elkins is critically ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Tom Harrison.

County Surveyor A. M. Randolph is again very ill.

COMBINED ORCHESTRAS PRESENT SACRED SONG SERVICE HERE SUNDAY

The Sacred Song program given at the First Baptist Church of Pecos last Sunday by the Barstow and Toyah orchestras was well attended, the huge auditorium of the church being filled to its capacity. A large number from Toyah and Barstow motored over to assist in the singing.

The program was exclusively musical, similar to that held at Barstow several weeks back, and to the one to be held at Toyah next Sunday. Mr. Clarence Magee, director of the First Baptist Church choir of San Antonio, and a brother of Dr. C. J. Magee, gave several vocal selections, and the Baptist Male Quartette very creditably assisted in the program.

Mr. Magee has a marvelous voice, and it was a treat to Pecos to hear him. He sang simple, every-day songs, but with his superb voice, and his equally magnificent personality, he made, of them songs to be long remembered by his hearers.

Mr. Magee highly praised the orchestra, and its directors, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Harp, whose work among us has been a labor of love for good music, and for the upbuilding of the intellectual and moral life of Reeves county. "If you want good music," said Mr. Magee, "freeze to our good brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harp."

The Baptist Male Quartette, consisting of Messrs. J. W. Brooks, A. C. Taggart, Ralph Williams and R. B. Norman, entertained its hearers with three beautiful sacred hymns. Their voices blended well, each of the four being an accomplished singer, and they were well received by the audience.

Thirty-six instruments comprised the orchestra, and that they played up to expectations may be gleaned from a chance remark overheard after the services: "I didn't know those little kids could play like that."

The orchestra executed the hymns with precision and ability, playing practically by sight, and all of them playing extremely well. Although none stand out above the others, we cannot help but remark on two little eight-year-old Toyah girls, Josephine Grisham and Helen Butram, lead violinists of the Toyah Junior Orchestra. These little girls were really remarkable, both in their ability and their execution of the many difficult passages.

The Barstow and Toyah orchestras were assisted by three instruments from the new Pecos orchestra: Mrs. Jimmie Crawford and Miss Bettie Blanche Harrison, violinists; and Jimmy Crawford, clarinetist.

The ENTERPRISE was unable to secure a complete list of the players on this occasion, so will have to forego the pleasure of publishing the same.

It is to be hoped that very soon the orchestras will be able to play at one of the other churches in Pecos, and that the Pecos orchestra will have a larger representation at the next program.

MRS. HUBBS' HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

Prompt action of the Pecos Volunteer Fire Department on Thursday morning at an early hour saved the residence of Mrs. J. T. Hubbs. Barney Hubbs, who was occupying the residence, had been cleaning up preparatory to the arrival of his mother, sister and brother and had left a small pile of trash in the kitchen. He is unable to account for the fire unless perhaps he had stepped upon a match which later ignited the trash.

According to Barney, the damage done will approximate $500, which is covered by insurance.

Rev. F. A. T. Eller made a trip to the Ruidoso country the first of the week and on the return brought with him the remainder of the family who have been summering in that delightful locality, Mrs. Eller and the eldest and youngest child.—Carlsbad Current.

A SHIP WITH A SOUL

Just five years ago, plus a few months, they marched us from train to ferry at Jersey City. We were infantry, and green infantry, too, bound for a foreign land for a fate beyond our control or knowledge. As the ferry glided out of its slip conjecture was rife as to what transport we would get. The pug-nosed ferry veered toward the left and then headed straight up the Hudson toward Hoboken. Almost immediately there became visible three gigantic stacks, and the upper part of a great hull, grey and sombre in the distance. The realization of what ship it was struck every one immediately. Whispers ripened into stronger voices: "It's the Leviathan! We get her!"

Shouts—there were none. Army discipline took care of that; but the hearts of those doughboys-to-be were gladdened on that very solemn occasion by the prospect of sailing to France on the "Queen of Transports." She had a history, this ship, and she was making more history right then. The Army and the Navy were working together—and doing it well. We were soon at Hoboken on the opposite side of the Leviathan's pier, and a few minutes later every man had walked up the gang plank, received his bunk check, and gone tramping down the stairways to his bed below the water line. They were sights to see—those bunks below the water. Three high they were, stacked from just above the floor to just below the ceiling. They were made of heavy canvas, supported by iron poles on each end. They couldn't have got them closer together; for 12,000 troops were to be taken over, plus a crew of 1,400 men. That's a small city—13,400 human beings. Our first night on the Leviathan was spent as she lay at her pier in Hoboken. It was a restless night, hot and sticky below deck, where most of us were as the result of the order, "All men below deck until further notice."

The next morning we felt a slight vibration. The engines had started and we slowly backed to the middle of the Hudson. Some of us were lucky to be near port holes, so we saw this great cradle of the seas, with thousands of troops as cargo, point her nose down the bay and slowly make her way toward the Atlantic.

May we confess a few tears, some checked quickly, others not so soon. Voices were a little husky as we slipped by the Whitehall Building, and one lad said: "Gee, there goes my old office." But there is always a redeeming sense of humor among American troops, and it saved us from any protracted heartaches or sentimental brooding.

We had not sailed long before the men began to know their way about their own sections of the big vessel. The troops started to talk with the sailors of the crew. Rumors held sway. One sailor started the rumor that the Kaiser had offered a reward of $20,000 to the submarine captain who would torpedo the Leviathan on this trip. That news didn't set right with the soldiers at first, but inevitable joking killed any grave effects of the rumor. For the first two days any who felt anxiety were reassured by the sight of four American battleships zigzagging continually in front and back of the Leviathan. And the entire first day an armored balloon acted as sentry about a mile in front of us.

"Abandon Ship" drill was a regular thing—and always at unexpected moments. A quiet snooze, a much-needed shave, a shower bath—any of these occupations and many others were rudely interrupted by the clarion call of the "Abandon Ship" bugle. Every man was trained what to do. Each officer had a post. And a few minutes after the sound of the bugle twelve thousand troops found their way to the upper decks, clad in their life savers, ready for any contingency. These drills were efficient and well done, but, thank Heaven, they never changed from just practice to the actual need.

During the hottest days all the troops received a cold-salt water bath on the great expanse of the promenade deck. A hose would be turned on them until they were cool and refreshed. At night all men were below deck, excepting the guards who were stationed at every door and exit. For those of us who had guard "tricks" in the middle of the night there seemed to be many nightmares. There were no lights, and finding one's way down a long companionway or through a narrow hall, with no lights whatsoever, furnished many exciting moments. One's nerves, no matter how good, received preparation for the greater tasks that were to come in the front lines.

A few of us whose nightly guard duties called for passing by the "galleys" or kitchen, found favor with two big hearted mess sergeants, and each night we received at their generous hands a beefsteak sandwich. Those sandwiches always seemed to take an hour out of our "watch."

The Leviathan on that trip, her second as a transport, made Brest, France, in seven days flat. Riding in a canoe could have been no smoother. She glided through the sea as gracefully as a swan, even when zigzagging her way from left to right through the submarine zones. During her labors as a transport the Leviathan was stripped for action. Every frill had been eliminated. All decorations had been dismantled, and every inch of space was devoted to that one purpose; getting troops to France. As a few of us inspected her at her pier a few days before she sailed on July 4th of this year as the flagship of the American Merchant Marine, this great vessel furnished a marked contrast to her war-time make-up.

Luxury had been substituted for utility, and she had been prepared for dress parade instead of a dangerous duty. There where guards had done their tedious hourly watches stood liveried attendants ready to make comfort a certainty. Those great wide decks where long lines of troops had stood with life-savers fixed, ready for a call to the life-boats, now contained rows of easy steamer chairs.

Below deck, too, all had been changed. Where thousands of troops once ate from their metal mess kits was established a kingly dining room with splendid decorations. And so on seemingly ad infinitum, there was a complete transformation. A grey, sombre, business-like transport had been transformed into a luxuriously bedecked caravan of ease and comfort. Even those battleship-grey stacks purposely made dull in wartime, now were painted vividly in red, white and blue.

Yes, there she was, magnificent, majestic, a thing that inspired. To thousands who saw her only in dress parade uniform she was merely the essence of luxury. But hundreds of others, who knew her intimately as the greatest soldier-ferry in the history of the world, felt that her great hull contained a something inexplicable, with which are associated hours of strained nerves, mayhap fear, thrilling moments, and a love engendered only through contact during tense periods of anxiety and arduous duties. To those the Leviathan, even though transformed, was more than a palace of the sea,—it was something with a soul.—Charles E. Murphy in the Texaco Star.

DANGERS IN THE DARK

In its report to the district court the Tom Green Grand Jury last week had the following to say about the evils of the joy ride in the dark:

"We desire, also your honor, to direct attention to the parking of cars at night on or about the various highways that lead from the city of San Angelo. It is common knowledge that such a condition exists, and we submit that it is a blot on our civic life and should be stamped out, and stopped as we would a plague.

"In this great land of ours; in the splendid commonwealth of Texas, and in this sun-kissed Concho country, San Angelo and Tom Green county, the home is the very foundation upon which rests every feature of our national, state and civic life, and it stands to all reason that anything, large or small, which tends to undermine the home is tampering with the very tap roots of the American civilization.

"With this basic truth before us, we earnestly submit, that every moral safeguard must be thrown around the home to the end that our boys and girls have the uplifting influences that obtain among a highly cultured and dominantly Christian people. Parents should at all times have the confidence and affection of their children and should at all times day or night have knowledge of their whereabouts and particularly whom their children associate with and the places they visit.

"Speaking from a general point of view, it is a well known fact that there is a tendency to flout the laws of the land. There is a large section of our people who have small respect for the law, and make no special effort to disguise the fact. This, of course, is wrong and should not, nay, must not, be. The law is all-powerful in this country and those entrusted with its enforcement should at all times and under all circumstances see that it is enforced to the letter. No man or group of men, regardless of who they may be, should be freed from the penalty his offense against the law demands.

"W. S. Metcalf, Foreman."—San Angelo Standard.

HOW AND WHEN

Lincoln is quoted as saying at one time, "Doing the right thing at the wrong time is almost as bad as doing the wrong thing." Knowledge is dangerous power, when not co-ordinated with self-control.

How may a thing be done, and when is the time to do it? This is always a single question. How and when travel together. They are a natural-born team.

They have a special message for young people. Youth is so often fearful lest he will miss something. He rushes from one delight to another. He rushes from school before he has the necessary knowledge to cope with the world. He rushes into the first business that comes along fearful of failing to land a job. He rushes away from anything that resembles discipline, because discipline seems slow and old-fashioned.

How and when are two friends of every man or woman, whose advice is worth counting. Knowledge and self-control are the rewards of life they hold out to all. There is a time for everything. Learn to hold the reins upon yourself, and learn the time to say yes and no.—Big Spring Herald.

HOW THEY GET THAT WAY

First Egg: "I am tired of being in this hot water."
Second Egg: "Never mind, you'll get hardened to it."

NUTTY

Twice as many Americans were driven crazy by liquor last year as in 1921. This is claimed by numerous insanity authorities, including Dr. Horatio M. Pollwock of New York State Hospital Commission.

It means that booze is steadily getting more poisonous, rather than that people are drinking more in spite of prohibition.

The old-time rum-hound who "saw snakes" had it easy compared with the victim of bootleg hooch. Dr. John A. Houston, head of a state hospital for the insane in Massachusetts, reports:

"The patients who now come to us after alcoholic drink has rendered them insane are in a condition almost wholly different to that of patients whom we took in before prohibition.

"Our alcoholic insane today are in a much more confused mental condition and they are very sick physically. They do not have the hallucinations and fears which characterized the alcoholic insane in former days. But the most notable thing is their awful physical sickness.

"This is, of course, due to the poisonous drink which they have taken. They are in such a condition that they are really, at least for a time, a puzzle to the diagnostician."

There have always been a great many grades of liquor. Drunkards in the old days knew that certain brands of whiskey "packed more headache", than others. At the bottom of the list is bootleg, and that is why so many veteran drunkards, knowing liquor and sampling the sort that circulates today, have gone on the water wagon.

Even when comparatively 'pure' bootleg liquor at its best is green liquor. In saloon days every self-respecting bartender apologized if the whiskey was less than seven years old.—Abilene Reporter.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas: To the Sheriff or any Constable of Reeves County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Mrs. P. T. Hammond and P. T. That the said note was executed as part payment on a certain tract of land described as lots 13, 14, 15 in Block 32, Town of Pecos City according to a plat of said town recorded in Vol. 2, page 259 of deed record of Reeves County, Texas, a vendor's lien was reserved in said conveyance by R. N. Sewell and in said notes to secure the said note. Plaintiff prays for judgment against the said defendants for the amount of his debt, principal, interest and attorney fees and cost of suit and for foreclosure of his said vendor's lien and for general relief.

THIS WEEK

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The United States built a giant dirigible, in ENGLAND. It fell, killed 62. Another built in ITALY, fell, killed 34. Last week, the United States Zeppelin, ZR-1, built here, by the American Government, flew over New York and started for Philadelphia, having first traveled 100 miles over New Jersey. Those who think the Government can't do anything and must always hire private assistance, take notice.

That great machine, looking like a silver coated fish, slowly traveling through the air above New York, was a warning to the six millions of that city, and the whole country.

In the morning, with the sun obscured by clouds, the air giant was barely visible. Had the captain chosen to go a few thousand feet higher, it would have been absolutely invisible.

Such a traveler coming out of the misty dawn, above the edge of the ocean, would first make itself known by dropping enough bombs to destroy New York, enough deadly gas to kill three-quarters of the inhabitants.

The next war will be an air war. This country should be ready for it.

Important. Bad news for farmers in rapid spreading of the eel-worm disease, imported from South Africa. The eel-worm, fatal to alfalfa and other plants, in two years has spread from Eastern Oregon to California and Colorado.

Kansas, great alfalfa state, Colorado, and other states, should fight this enemy as they would Asiatic cholera. The tiny deadly pest might cost farmers hundreds of millions yearly.

Yesterday you could buy a thousand million marks for $100. In 1914, one thousand million marks were worth $250,000,000. German money, then worth two and one-half million dollars, is worth $1 now. That's what war does when you lose. But that won't discourage the next war-like nation.

The castle of Wartborg is closed for lack of money to keep it in repair. The public can no longer see the room in which Luther translated the Bible, nor the big black spot on the wall made by him when he threw the inkwell at the devil.

American Lutherans perhaps will contribute to repairing the old castle and supply ink to freshen up the ink-stains, which have doubtless been made fresh many a time in the past. It is a pity to let old stories die.

American school children saved $9,500,000 in the last school year. The money is nothing, the saving habit is everything.

To teach children that poverty is slavery, and can be avoided by reasonable saving, is the first duty of parents. The second duty is to teach children that after they have saved, they must help others.

Exercise your eye muscles, and avoid automobile accidents. That's the advice given by Dr. Needles. When you are in a car going forty miles an hour, you go about fifty-eight feet every second. Unless your eye can roll from side to side at least twice a second, you can't keep track of both sides of the road and travel safely at that speed. Prize-fighters, fliers, automobile drivers, all require eye exercises to strengthen the eye muscles. At best, they get weak with old age. And a closed car requires better eyes than an open car.

MAKES THE FIRST ONE-MAN VOYAGE ACROSS ATLANTIC

New York, Sept. 28.—Some place beneath the name of Columbus in the marine hall of fame, must be recorded the name of Alain J. Gerbault, Laval, France, 1923. The 29-year-old Frenchman sailed into New York harbor last week in a thirty-foot sailboat—the first man ever to cross the Atlantic alone in such a small wind-driven craft.

For 142 days, battling storm, hunger, thirst and illness, Gerbault kept a spark of confidence burning. He sailed from Gibraltar April 5 and arrived in New York September 17. With the cup of victory still at his lips, he paused to say, "—and now to cross the Pacific."

Alain J. Gerbault is a soldier of fortune. When two friends at Paris doubted his assertion that the Atlantic could be sailed by one man in a 30-foot boat, he decided to show them.

Gerbault is the fifth ranking tennis player of France and has contested in international matches. During the war, as a French aviator, he is credited with bringing down ten German planes. Only Alain and a brother remain of the Gerbault family. They own a lime factory at Laval, France. The brother is the business man.

"Just call me a sailor," said Gerbault here this morning. "The sea is my home—and I'll soon be heading out across the Pacific. Hazardous? I don't think so. You always pull through somehow, if you handle your boat like a sailor should."

Veteran mariners declare Gerbault's feat one of the most daring and unique in the annals of the sea. Ninety-seven days he was out of sight of land, tossed about on mountainous waves in a boat whose deck dipped water when four men crowded onto her after he docked here Monday.

BATTLED GREAT STORM

Forty-eight hours he lay sprawled in the bunk of his tiny cabin, unconscious from a fever which struck him down during a gale which battered the little craft, sweeping her deck clean of rigging and flooding the dozen or so feet of cabin space.

Twenty-four hours he battled the fury of the Atlantic which broke his bowsprit, loosened his mast and ripped his sails—a storm which reached cyclonic heights and was reported some weeks ago at the time by incoming transatlantic liners.

Provisions he'd stocked for a 100-day trip ran low two weeks from New York because of delay by terrific gales while beating his way across the southern portion of the Atlantic. Two-thirds of his water spoiled and was cast overboard, poisoned by the wood in the newly made kegs.

Two weeks ago, when crazed by thirst and lack of food he was hailed by a great ocean liner bound for New York, which wanted to pick him up—or at least tow him in. He thanked the captain but refused. Victory was in sight. He was given provisions and left to his fate.

NEVER THOUGHT OF FAILURE

Lose hope? Not this sailorman Gerbault!

"During the height of that twenty-four day storm my mast was battered loose, my bowsprit broken and I was drenched to the skin, which brought about the fever, but I always figured that if the worst should happen—the mast toppling—I'd rig up something with a sail and put in for nearest land, Bermuda. The twenty-fifth day, about the middle of July, the storm subsided and I continued for New York. I rebuilt the bowsprit, tightened the mast, mended the rigging and sailed on. I knew I'd reach New York somehow."

Coming over he wore only heavy, woolen trousers, a slipover sweater, no socks or shoes. Since April 5, when he started his trip from Gibraltar, he had been barefooted. He doesn't like any kind of footwear while handling his boat.

UNEXPECTED EXPENSE

Irate Father—"But how can you support my daughter Mary on $18 a week?"

Suitor—"Surely you don't intend to charge Mary and me rent!"

BY A VOTE OF SIX TO ONE

(Baird Star)

"The result of this election," cried an enthusiastic citizen in front of Will D. Boydson's store Saturday night, "has made me glad that I live in Baird, Callahan county, Texas, United States of America—the best town, in the best county, in the best state, in all this wide, wide world!"

That is super-Americanism for you. The speaker had voted for the Good Roads Bonds and this was his extravagant expression of joy over the six to one affirmative result of the election.

It was a glorious victory, but not altogether unexpected by those who had sounded the depths of public opinion on the question. The rejoicing was far flung, extending from the southwest boundary of Palo Pinto county to the northeast boundary of Mitchell county.

This was the vote:

	For	Against
Baird	425	50
Clyde	307	31
Eula	35	7
Putnam	109	53

Total 876 141

Whole number of votes cast 1017.

The people of Eastland county on the east and Taylor and Nolan counties on the west—of the two first named in the broader degree—had been on tenterhooks all day, but, when the glad news of "Victory" was flashed over the wires, there was universal rejoicing, and the bond issue election to be held in Taylor and Nolan counties shortly will no doubt result in as glorious victories as was Callahan's.

Editorially commenting on the result of the election in this county, Tuesday morning's Abilene Reporter has this to say in part:

"Callahan county has done the handsome" by voting $200,000 in highway bonds for the construction of its link of the Bankhead Highway. That is, the northern portion of Callahan has. The State and Federal Highway Departments will add $400,000 to that sum to complete the work.

"Three counties—Taylor, Callahan and Nolan—were offered a two to one proposition by the departments. Callahan has accepted; Taylor county votes on acceptance October 16 and Nolan on October 20.

"If the people of Taylor and Nolan counties are as good business men as those of Callahan, the Bankhead Road will receive one hundred miles of hard surfacing in the next year or so.

"It is a worthy example Callahan has set."

Monday's Cisco Daily News has a display on its first page concerning Saturday's election in Road District No. 1, in the course of which it says:

"Six to one is the way Callahan voters answer knockers against highway improvements. There was much apprehension felt in Cisco and all of Eastland county over results of the election which was held in Callahan county last Saturday.

"Various pessimistic reports came to the ears of boosters in this county. It was said that the people of Callahan would defeat the $200,000 bond issue, but they didn't. Callahan, by her actions Saturday, has entered the list of progressive counties, and can be relied upon to build good roads.

"Had Callahan defeated this bond issue it would have practically meant the death of the Bankhead Highway as a tourist route. It would have meant the deflecting of traffic over the north highway away from Cisco, Eastland, Ranger, as well as Baird.

"With the successful issue of the election Saturday, whereby Callahan county voted $200,000 bonds, that county has made a good investment. By expending $200,000 on the Bankhead Highway, Callahan will receive $400,000 additional road funds from the State and Federal Governments.

"The estimated cost of construction of the Bankhead Highway through Callahan county is $600,000. Of this sum the Federal Government will contribute $200,000 and the State will furnish a like sum. Thus, Callahan has made a good trade. The county gets a highway across it and only has to pay for one-third of its construction. The money is spent in

FINANCIAL REVIEW

Prepared For The Enterprise By The First National Bank In St. Louis.

Building construction has been gradually declining since May according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation; the latest drop being 5 per cent for August from that of July. In comparison with August, 1922, in the 27 states for which last year's records are available, there was a 15 per cent decline for the past month.

The total of $298,629,000 building contracts for 36 states was divided among the following important items: Private residences $126,871,000, or 42 per cent; public works and utilities $62,664,000 or 21 per cent; business buildings $37,457,000 of 12 per cent; educational buildings $25,861,000 or 9 per cent; and industrial buildings $19,359,000 or 6 per cent.

Contemplated new work in the same 36 states for August totaled $508,484,000, having declined 20 per cent from the new work figures for July. This gradual decline in construction volume has been accompanied by a gradual decline in cost levels.

Contracts awarded during August in New York and Northern New Jersey totaled $81,747,000, or 28 per cent of the amount reported for the 36 states. The more important items being $49,375,000 for residential buildings; $7,781,000 for business buildings; $8,953,000 for educational buildings; $7,700,000 for public works and utilities; and $3,334,000 for industrial buildings.

SHIRT-TAIL FARMING

The memory of many a Southwestern farmer rings back clearly to the day of shirt-tail farming, when all hands made a practice of shedding every other article of clothing and going forth to plow in the long-tailed hickory shirts of yesterday. Solomon was not arrayed like one of these! Shirt-tail farming was of a day when discomforts, poverty, inadequate equipment, and lack of many of the bare necessities of life, were the daily refrain. Son modeled his agriculture after dad and was well satisfied. Lizzie never envisioned the possibility of biscuits better than mother used to make.

As soon as the boys began to keep their shirt tails tucked in, their farming improved. They pulled themselves up out of the furrow and into the driver's seat of a gang plow. They straightened out the weary backbone and cocked an ear for promising tips from the county agent. They hitched up their ambition a notch or two, along with their sagging trousers.

America will never go back to shirt-tail farming. The road of agricultural progress that stretches ahead is one for the high-powered machine and the strong-hearted man; one who is fully clothed in scientific agriculture, one who is open-minded, keen-eyed and disposed to forget the bumps of the past in order to prepare for the ruts of the future. The sooner farmers discern the possibilities of modern methods, the sooner will they be able to profit by putting them in practical application. —Farm and Ranch.

Mrs. Hubbs and son, Burch, and daughter, Miss Grace, came in yesterday from San Antonio where they have spent the past year.

Callahan, thus the county, by the expenditure of $200,000, that sum at home—or practically all of it—and is enriched an additional $400,000 from outside sources."

BOOM "STATE PRESS" FOR THE NEXT GOVERNOR

To The Dallas News:
Our great State has been worn and torn in recent years by political factions until a great many have lost sight of the true functions of Government and it would seem that we have degenerated to the point where our State Government is claimed almost entirely by rival factions of self-seeking politicians. We vote to honor some political favorite and cooperate with him in the construction and operation of a political machine until we have reached the sad condition that, whatever needed legislation we are by rights entitled to, can be obtained by our meekly bowing before the altar of politics. If there was ever a day that we called our public servants to office, that day is not now.

Would it not be glorious for grand old Texas to draft into its service a citizen from the great ranks of its citizenship? One who has harbored no selfish political ambitions, one who in the whole course of his life has lived above the strife of factional politics, one who is capable and worthy, and make him Governor of Texas, not to do him honor or that he might leave a great name to posterity, but that Texas might have his great unselfish service. Service, and service alone, is the correct principle upon which our public servants should be chosen. There is such a citizen in Texas; yea, there are many but there is one in particular who possesses every element of leadership and true greatness. He has not been and will not become a political aspirant, his great mind towers above the unstable thoughts and vacillating policies of the politician, but let any of the elements of true greatness be named, then apply that to him and he will be found to possess it. He would fill the Governor's office with the gentleness of Harding, the humor of Lincoln and the scholarship of Wilson. No man in the entire State is better acquainted with the life, the environments and the needs, the thoughts and ambitions of the people in every precinct in the State than he. This knowledge has been obtained by reason of his close study of all the newspapers of the State, both urban and rural, for the last twenty years. No one who ever formed his acquaintance has doubted his integrity, and his co-workers—the press of Texas—have at all times recognized his strong character and great ability.

His vision of human affairs is broad and sympathetic, his personality is amiable and distinguished, his courage qualifies him to adopt without reservations Crockett's motto, "Be sure that you are right, then go ahead." He despiseth not the poor, because they are poor, neither does he despise the prosperous because they are prosperous, nor does he fondle and flatter the rich because of their riches. He looks to the bright light of human character and spends his efforts toward the uplifting of his fellow man.
Georgia had her Ben Hill and Henry W. Grady, of whom she will ever be proud, yet she did not harness to the fullest extent the greatness of Grady. Tennessee had and utilized the great Bob Taylor, whose pleasant humor was a veneer or varnish covering a great statesman and philosopher. This splendidly equipped citizen whom the people of Texas should draft into the Governor's office is the Hon. J. J. Taylor, who talks daily to the people of this State and other States under the title of "State Press."

The editors of Texas know his greatness and his worth, they know that if the people of Texas call him as their chief executive that statesmanship would be in the saddle, that it would not be a good day for the professional politicians and that our State would ever be proud that she had discerned and utilized one of her greatest citizens, and there would be a new era, an era of hope, peace, intellectuality and statesmanship; his messages to the Legislature, written in his own inimitable style, would be masterpieces of statesmanship. With such a Governor his noble spirit would permeate every branch of our State Government. Let us draft him, applying the doctrine of "selective service" to him, and we can render Texas no greater service. There is one populous county in Texas where he is best known, from his youth, and if given the opportunity ninety-five out of every hundred voters will help us muster him in. May Texas do this great thing!—J. E. Garland in Dawson County Journal, Lamesa.

The Herald endorses every word of Judge Garland's letter and we know that if Joe Taylor can be persuaded to enter the race he can be elected, for the entire press of the State would back him to the limit. He is a statesman, a scholar and a man with good old common sense as well and would make a Governor that all Texas would be proud of. Boy, come on and let us force old State Press to throw his hat in the ring; place him in the Governor's chair and rid our state of the political ring that has been in charge the past twenty years.—Big Spring Herald.

The ENTERPRISE is for J. J. Taylor for governor of Texas first last and all the time. But what would become of the Dallas News? He would make as good governor as writer, and that would give us the best governor Texas ever had. Suppose for one time the Texas Press Association show the people just what it can do when it has to do something for the good of Texas. If the press of Texas says J. J. Taylor—J. J. Taylor it will be.

If a committee from the Parent-Teachers' Association, or the school children, ask you for your dues any time within the next week, remember the needs of your children and that of other children at school, and pay it—only 50c for the school term. If you are not a member of the Association and are asked to join, do not fail to do so, for in co-operation there is strength. Give your name to the committee and pay dues then, if convenient; if not, bring it with you when you come to the meeting Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, Oct. 5th at the school building. You will be given a cordial welcome. Come to the meeting, whether or not you join the Association. You will lend support by your presence and be glad you came.

The writer wishes to call the attention of parents again to the needs of our already splendid public school. Supply these needs as was called for in last week's ENTERPRISE, and thus bring our school equipment up until we are second to none. Look through your book cases and see if you cannot spare the book called for by the committee. Look over your rubbish piles and see if you cannot spare the ropes, chains, saws and scrap lumber called for. If you prefer it, contributions in cash will be accepted and very much appreciated.

An ENTERPRISE reader has called the attention of the writer to complaints being made by tourists of uncivil treatment by an officer of the city. Tourists, although they may inadvertently violate some minor city ordinance, are entitled to civil treatment—especially the ladies, and if impossible to pass up the offense, should politely be asked to appear before the honorable mayor. It pays to be gentle at all times and to all people—no matter the race—so long as they will stand such treatment.

ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA AND DANGER

Medicinal Virtues Retained and Improved — Dangerous and Sickening Qualities Removed. Perfected Tablet Called "Calotabs."

The latest triumph of modern science is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines thus enters upon a wider field of popularity, purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation, headaches and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy, but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water,—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver, a purified system and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original, sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, trial size. Your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—Adv.

MY CITY AND I
My City is where my home is founded, where my business is situated, where my vote is cast, where my children are educated, where my neighbors dwell and where my life is chiefly lived.

It is the home spot for me. My city has a right to my civic loyalty. It supports me, and I must support it.

My city wants my citizenship—not partisanship; friendliness—not offishness; co-operation—not dissension; sympathy—not criticism; my intelligent support—not indifference.

My city supplies me with law and order, trade, friends, education, recreation and the rights of a free-born American. I should believe in my city and work for it.

rors, and wholesale perjured testimony, and if conviction happens, then appeals; and if perchance conviction should be affirmed, then a gracious pardon by his excellency, the Governor. No matter how heinous the crime, how plain the facts, nor how righteous the verdict of the jury, the doors of the court of criminal appeals stand wide open, free, with no let nor hindrance, and wherein is a "mare's nest" of "Technicality Eggs," a labyrinth and laboratory of scientific hooks upon which to hang some reversible error. It appears that there are now about 400 cases now pending in the court of criminal appeals, waiting for erudite hairsplitting misconstruction and misapplication of "common sense and common justice." Courts of Appeals, civil and criminal, should be abolished entirely and the verdicts of juries should be sustained and enforced.

THE SERVANT QUESTION

In India she had Mahmut, a Babu boy, as servant. He had been with her about a month when he asked for leave of absence, in order, he said, to go home to see his wife. Babu boys are educated in the native English schools, and they are particularly proud of their ability to both write and speak the English language. Well they may be. The following is a sample.

Mahmut had overstayed his leave by two weeks when this letter arrived:

"Hight priestess of the Sun Moon and Stars,
Mem Sahib—
My absence is impossible. Some one has removed my wife. By G—! I am annoyed.
Less than the dust,
Mahmut."

TEXAS IS ONE OF THE BILLION-DOLLAR FARM TRIO

Three states stand out boldly from the rest in the value of crops, says Caroline B. Sherman, market technologist for the department of agriculture in The Nation's Business.

Official estimates show that Texas, Illinois and Iowa raised farm crops in 1922 aggregating in value 1 1/2 billion dollars. With an estimated total value of American farm crops in 1922 of approximately 8 1/2 billions we find Texas contributing more than 7 1/2 millions, Iowa more than 450 millions, and Illinois more than 419 millions. On a ten year average Texas contributes a still larger amount—more than 850 millions—while Illinois leads Iowa during this longer period by an average of nearly 20 millions.

Rice, of which Texas grew nearly 6 million bushels last year, is not grown at all in Illinois and Iowa. Sweet potatoes might also be placed in this class since the year's totals credit only 440,000 bushels to Iowa and 855,000 to Illinois against 8,715,000 raised in Texas.

Iowa raised a comparatively few bushels of grain sorghums; Illinois is not credited with any in the final totals; but Texas raises considerably more than twice as many as any other state in the Union. Nearly 40 million bushels of grain sorghums were raised in Texas last year.

Texas scores heavily in truck crops as onions, cabbage, spinach, tomatoes, watermelons, and many other vegetables and fruits come from southern Texas to northern markets in large quantities. But these truck crops are not included in the totals here studied.

Cotton is the great outstanding crop. It is cotton production that sends Texas so far ahead of all other states, not only in the South but in the whole country, in its aggregate value of farm crops. The Texas crop of 1922 was well in excess of 3 million bales; it was 2 million bales larger than the cotton crop of any other state, and it constituted approximately one-third of the entire amount of cotton produced by the whole country.

The huge agricultural output of Texas is in line with its vast area of farm land, and Iowa has 33 million, but Texas has more than three times their area, for Texas cultivates farm lands amounting to 114 million acres.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWSY NEWS

The Student's Council of Pecos High School held its first meeting September the twenty-first with the President of the High School, Joe Brown, presiding. The council consists of two representatives from each class: W. D. Cowan and Lucille Prewit from the Senior class; Joetta Cowan and Tillman Durdin from the Junior class; Frank Wilson and Edith Hudson from the Freshman class; and Gordon Stine and Edna Poer from the Sophomore class.

The object of this council is to promote self-government as far as is possible. This form of self-government is one of which the students of Pecos High School should be proud. Mr. Marrs, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who visited the school four years ago, spoke in the highest terms of the work done by this council. The presiding officer of the council at this time was Archie Ross, and the council did some very good work in disciplining the students of the High School. We expect equally as good work to be done by this council this year as in former years.

The Pecos High School has advanced another step in a literary way last week when it took up the recitation of standard selections of prose and poetry in unison. Mr. Norman began with "The Recessional" by Rudyard Kipling, and the student body is readily taking interest in the rendering of the poem in the most pleasing way possible.

The Superintendent informed the student body that he had ordered literature on this subject, and when it arrives the High School will take up this work in earnest. The value is great, and with a good English course it will be still greater.

There is a move on foot to establish inter-class debates, and another to make a debate a part of the regular program of the "Keeping-Up Club." Either or both of these moves will be beneficial to the participants and the hearers. We have always been classed, and there is a little foundation for it, as an athletic school, and not as a literary school proper. Class Debating would help to erase this classification. It would help those who wish to enter the Interscholastic League debates, and put the school on a better literary basis.

The move is a good one and everything that can possibly help it should be done. All colleges and A-1 High Schools have these debates, why not Pecos High School? We are as enthusiastic, as energetic, as fully equipped mentally to carry on such societies as any one. Why not? Let's pull for it.

The "Keeping-Up Club" is to be renewed again this year. The classes will compete in getting up the best programs; the seniors having the first try. This plan will probably make for better programs than if the whole school participated, as class loyalty will prompt many to do their part where loyalty for the whole High School will not.

This is but another step in a literary way for P. H. S.

OUR LITTLE FOLKS

There are ninety-two pupils enrolled in the Primary Department. Work has started very satisfactorily and the pupils are enthusiastic over their work.

Friday, October 5, the pupils of the Primary Department have been invited to furnish entertainment for the Mother's Club. The teachers are planning to use some of their daily work at that time. All parents and friends are cordially invited.

GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club was organized September 17, 1923, with 14 members present. Since then we have had 5 more to join. We are now working on some choruses, but are planning to give some cantatas or operettas in the near future. Come and join us, girls, and let's make our club one of the best in the State. This club is now two years old. We did splendid work last year but expect to do still better this year. Mrs. Lillian Butler is our official director and is doing much in training our voices.

Our present members consist of: Sopranos—Ruth Allsup, Ione Krauskopf, Edith Hudson, Della Mae Hudson, Tommie Ross, Mary Magee, Bettie Harrison, De Ette Green, Edna Boles, Mary Catherine Heard, Anna Mahala Murray, Josie Prewit and Maragaret Howard. Altos—Bessie Reynolds, Eloise Wheat, Callie Ross, Billie Harrison, Frances Hurt and Estelle Hicks.

PECOS HI'S FOOTBALL PROSPECTS THIS YEAR

At the first practice this year, only two veterans showed up. Cowan and Brown are still with us from last year's team. Cowan is at present filling the full-back position; and is the best for this position that could possibly be found among the candidates. He can hit hard, run fast, side step and throw a good pass. Brown is playing left half, and is making a fine showing as a tackler and plunger.

Ora Moorhead, James Hudgens and Brawley Adams are trying for right half at present, and all show promise. Adams is from Saragosa. He served on the basketball team of that place, but has never before been in a football game. Moorhead and Hudgens have been in the Pecos schools since the first grade, and the two lads should prove up at this crucial period.

Bill Dean is stationed at quarter, and although small he is a good tackler and line plunger. The only real football experience he has had was last year when the Scouts and "Roughnecks" clashed in a series of games.

Caroline, Ruhlén, Fitzgerald, Stine and Hardy are looking for a bunk on the end. Caroline is fast and catches a good ball, although he is light. Ruhlén is a last year veteran, lately started to school, and is on all of the tricks of the game. He is one of the best men at tackling on the team. The others are light but they are tough hitters.

The Hendrix brothers, Ona Moorhead, Freeman Eudaly and John Hibdon are working at tackle. The Hendrix boys are hard to run over or get by and if they keep up the good work the others will have to get down to business to nudge them out. Moorhead, Eudaly and Hibdon are good at tackling and blocking. Arthur Eudaly, a newcomer in Pecos schools and Nathan Poer are both promising youngsters, and they are playing guard and making a go of it. Eudaly is big and husky and is learning the game quickly. Poer had experience with the team last year as a sub, and he is doing his part this year.

Randals is sitting on the egg at present. Camp showed promise at that position but we are informed that he has quit. Randals should win the place, as he is working out every evening and putting everything he has into the game.

As a whole the team is light, but it is tough and fast. Almost all of the little men use their head and work so fast that it will be hard for a big opponent to keep them down.

The team is lucky this year in having a good coach. Mr. Dean, with the aid of Mr. Norman is fast working the men into shape for the first game, which is to be with Barstow, probably the last of September. The material for the greater part is raw, but with proper coaching Pecos should step out and win quite a few games this year.

Cowan was elected captain of this year's team, and there is no doubt that he is the best that could possibly be found for that position. He began playing in his Sophomore year in earnest and if experience counts he is the team's biggest draw.

The gridders have two of the best yell leaders in the state behind them. Katherine Dean is high mogul of the yelling, with John Wilson as her able assistant. The team feels that

SCHOOL SPIRIT

School spirit is the most important feature in the accomplishment of all athletics. We intend to make this year, the best year we have ever had, if the school will lend their support we feel that we can do this. We have several books of new yells, which will be obtainable by the students. In all probabilities these yells will be published in these columns in the near future. We will have pep meetings before all the games, and will practice these yells at different times during the week. Each student will be expected to attend these meetings and co-operate with the student body. If the student body will lend their support, the yell leaders will do their best to bring out the pep of the High School and we will make this a year long to be remembered.—YELL LEADER.

THE BAYEUX TAPESTRY

The famous Bayeux Tapestry was first discovered in the Bayeux Cathedral in 1728.

The background is of canvas, with the scenes embroidered in red, yellow, blues, purples and many other colors. One of the most striking features of the tapestry is the beautiful blending of colors. It is about 230 feet long and 20 inches wide.

The tapestry has a panorama-like picture of the conquest of England by William the Conqueror. In all there are 72 scenes. The first shows Harold, Saxon King of England, taking leave of Edward the Confessor. The last scene is the Battle of Hastings, and also shows the death of Harold and the flight of the English. Along the border on both sides are hunting scenes. It has been generally supposed that Matilda, wife of William, embroidered it. She is supposed to have had her ladies working at it for years and years. However, others believe it to have been worked for the Bayeux Cathedral under the direction of Otho, Bishop of Bayeux.

It is calculated that it took one person a year to embroider 39 square inches on it. This wonderful piece of art is now preserved in the library of Bayeux, Normandy, France.

The tapestry's greatest value is as a record of the customs and costumes of that period in history.

BARSTOW CLASHES WITH FORT STOCKTON IN FIRST FOOTBALL GAME OF SEASON, FRIDAY OR SATURDAY

The Barstow gridders will play one game with Fort Stockton on their home grounds Friday or Saturday and will try to put themselves in the Interscholastic League race by winning their first early season game. Many of the Pecos team will go over to see the battle so they may get a line up on the Barstow bunch, which plays Pecos the last of this month.

The Barstow team is showing lots of stuff this year. They have a good coach and some heavy men. The Fort Stockton team has played at Pecos many times in the past and has always shown up in a favorable light. Nothing is known about their line up this year, but they should be able to put up a stiff fight.

JUNIORS ENTERTAIN FRESHMEN

On Friday afternoon, Sept. 21, the Junior Class gave a picnic in honor of the Freshman class, who stood by them so faithfully in the election of high school officers.

The Juniors were waiting in cars when school dismissed, to take the Fish to the Alamo Playground, where the picnic was held.

After every one had enjoyed many delightful games, came the best part of the picnic—the eats. A nice picnic lunch was served, which consisted of sandwiches, pickles, ice tea and watermelon.

As night drew near the Freshmen were taken to their homes, each saying: "Juniors, I surely had a nice time."

The town as well as the school is behind it, and including the proper amount of pep will certainly help them to victory. Come on, Pecos, let's make it a go!

WITH THE CLASSES

The Senior Class of '24

It isn't often that a Senior Class gets much publicity, so now that we have a chance to put something into the High School page we will naturally write about that which we consider of the most importance to our town and to our school—ourselves.

Of course every Senior Class in the history of our schools has a good deal of class pride. But we feel that we are doubly proud of our class because we are the largest Senior Class that our school has ever had. Our class consists of seven boys and twenty-five girls—making a membership of thirty-two—all as good students and athletes as may be found anywhere. We have all started to school with the determination to eclipse the record of our Junior year by gaining something really worth while from this year's work.

Our first class meeting was called September 12, '23, for the purpose of selecting the class officers. John Wilson was elected president; Lucille Prewit, Vice-President; and Opal Biggs, Secretary, Treasurer and Reporter. The class colors are green and white with white carnations as the class flower. Mrs. Brooks was unanimously chosen class teacher.

And now class meetings are the order of the day—discussing such weighty subjects as class sweaters, rings and pins, and our Senior picnic is also being discussed and anticipated by voices echoing with welcome and eyes sparkling with interest.

We have so many things to do between now and graduation that graduation day does not seem so very far off, even at this early date. And when our school days here have ended, we hope to leave behind such remembrances and such deeds accomplished that the Pecos High School of the future may look back with pride on the CLASS OF '24.

Us Juniors

The Junior Class of '24 has the honor of being the largest class of Pecos High; we hope we can bring the most honor, but of course each is striving to do that. Our class motto is "Don't stare up the steps, but step up the stairs." It is just one of goals that we intend to reach in this year of '23 and '24.

Every High School student wants this year to be remembered in the school's history—a big, successful year, every one brimfull of pep. School spirit is what it takes to put us over good and strong. Let us co-operate and work for one goal—V-I-C-T-O-R-Y, and we cannot help but succeed, not only in our studies, debating, and speaking, but in our athletics.

The Junior class has elected a group of officers that we are confident will give you their best if you will give them your support. The following officers were elected: Josie Prewit, president; Anna Mahala Murray, vice president; Nathan Poer, secretary-treasurer; Joetta Cowan and Tillman Durdin, student council representatives, and Margaret Howard, class reporter. The class colors are purple and gray, and the flower is purple chrysanthemum.

The Juniors seem to be the rulers of the high school; and it is all right in spite of that talk about our trained freshmen. We carried the high school elections, and have control over a good many other things. When you pick a winning class, pick the Juniors. Miss Corley is our class teacher.

The Sophomores

The Sophomore class held a meeting in the first days of school, and the following officers were elected: Paul Morrison, president; Nona Garrett, secretary; Billie Harrison, reporter. Edna Poer and Gordon Stine were also elected as representatives of our class to the Student's Council. Miss Slaton was chosen as our class teacher; she gladly accepted this honorable position.

The class as a whole seem to be better prepared for work this term than ever. We are the same old class with the exception of one or two that have dropped out. We miss very much the presence of our distinguished class mates, Harry and Denwood Ross, who are attending school at Balmorhea this term.

Our enrollment of students so far is 23. We expect a splendid representation in all sports as well as in all literary events. What could the football team do without our boys? What could the orchestra do without our representation? The fact is, what could the High School do without the Sophomore Class?

The Freshmen

There are thirty sturdy Freshmen to welcome into High School this year. This is quite a large class, and if it does as well as the numbers suggest it will make a valuable addition to the High School. This was not written by a Freshman so nothing can be told about their internal affairs.

The whole High School, excluding the fish of course, make them welcome by sound paddlings and so forth, and continue to tell them to make themselves at home by slights and bumps. Such is the life of a fish. Always getting angled for. Every student was a fish once.

MY FIRST IMPRESSION OF THE HIGH SCHOOL

On Monday morning, September 10, 1923, I awoke and was glad that school was going to begin, and how happy I was to be in the High School. I was ready for school in a few minutes. I left home about 8:15 with my friend, Margie Love. On our way to school we met some other girls and soon we had all joined in a conversation concerning school. We were going to like school this term. We arrived at the school at 8:45 and each person departed for the respective rooms.

I was left to go upstairs alone. This was my first year so I was rather excited, but soon it was over.

Everything in the High School looked so different from how it did in the Grammar School. It looked so large, and there was a good deal of noise, and I felt so strangely. The first day I felt out of place but at the end of the week I felt perfectly at home. In High School you have more liberties than you do in the Grammar School. You are treated like ladies and gentlemen in the High School instead of little boys and girls.

The first two weeks of High School has passed, and I know I am going to like High School better each week. I hope to make this week of high school more successful than the last week.—A FRESHMAN.

Mr. E. L. Harp, of Toyah, met with the students of Pecos High School last Tuesday, and presented to them his plan for a music reading class and a school orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. Harp have been building up an orchestra at Toyah for the past year and are to be commended on the results they have brought forth.

Mr. Harp stated that money was not the reward he expected to receive in organizing an orchestra here. His natural love for music, the desire to instill into the minds of the younger generation the right class of moral teaching, and the hope that he will bring to this section of the country an organization both beneficial and permanent, is his motive, he says. Mrs. Harp will assist him in his work here with the sight reading class.

Although the students are not taking the interest in the movement that they should, at present, it is hoped that they will realize the great benefits to be derived from such culture, and join with the organizer in making the Pecos orchestra the best in the country. Surely the performance of Mr. Harp's Toyah and Barstow pupils at the First Baptist Church of Pecos Sunday night should prove that the value of his work is unlimited.

Mr. Harp, the efficient orchestra director, visited the school one day last week, and with his help there are fine prospects for a High School orchestra and choral club.

PECOS HIGH SCHOOL HOLDS ELECTION

Thursday, September 20, a hotly contested election was held in the High School auditorium, with Mr. Norman acting as chairman until the president was elected. Joe Brown, of the Senior class, was unanimously elected president of the High School of Pecos, Texas. Mr. Brown is perfectly able to fill the position, and accepted the honor of being the first unanimously elected high school president in many years with good grace.

The next officer elected was James Caroline, for vice president. He is a member of the Junior class. His campaign manager was Camp, who piloted him successfully through.

Miss Margaret Howard of the Junior class was selected for the High School musician, after a round or two of opposition from the Senior class. Although not so important, this was the most exciting race of all held.

Catherine Dean, another Junior, was chosen the chief howler, yell leader, in other words, and John Wilson, Senior, got the majority as her assistant. This means assistant in a very meagre sense, as Miss Dean is supposed to serve when possible, and Mr. Wilson to lead when she is absent or in girls' games.

Tuesday, September 25th, elections were continued for editor of this page of the paper. Tillman Durdin was elected to this office. He is a Junior.

In all elections the Juniors and Freshmen carried the day, and proved that in "unity there is strength."

Each class elected a reporter and a member of the student's council.

HOW ABOUT A HIGH SCHOOL ORCHESTRA AND CHORAL CLUB

Music is one of the most satisfying expressions possible to the human mind. To be a musician is truly a gift. It is gratifying to the musician himself, and one of the greatest blessings to those before whom he performs. Music has the power to elevate the hearer as almost nothing else will.

Such is the mission of orchestras, glee clubs and choral clubs. The orchestra in our Pecos High School is getting excellent training under the direction of Mr. Harp and the favorable results will tell in the public demonstrations.

Mrs. Butler is doing good work with the Glee Club. This club does not exist for credit work, or for a social hour, but for a creation of more interest in music and for the betterment of High School singing.

These leaders should have the support of the entire student body. The clubs should be larger and still greater interest created. Boost music and make it a permanent and school-wide institution.

PERSONALS

The High School was visited by Rev. C. A. Johnson who conducted our assembly period, on Monday of last week. We are always glad to have Rev. Johnson with us, and it is with deepest regrets that we learn he is soon to leave for Colorado City where he will make his home.

Pecos High School Seniors of 1923 are off to college: Virginia Runnels is in the El Paso Junior College and we are proud to add here that she made one of the three highest grades that were made on an English theme; Lucille Thurston is at T. W. C., Fort Worth; Mattie Lee Wilson is in El Paso Business College; Francis Warn at Northwestern University, Chicago; Adam Ross at T. C. U., Fort Worth; and Charles Weyer is holding a high position in one of the stores connected with the University of Texas.

The Freshman Class this year are more like frogs than fish. Instead of calling them "Celebrated Jumping Frogs" we had better call them "Trained Jumping Frogs," for they surely did jump on election day when the president of the Junior Class spoke to them.

Sadie Holman, a promising student from the Monahans school, is attending Pecos High School this year.

MEXICO WON'T PLAY THAT FOOLISH PIECE ABOUT THE BANANAS

"Nut" songs and jazz stuff have no place in Mexico, take it from Velino Preza, who is conductor of the national police band of Mexico City. He let go a few thoughts on that subject while in Milwaukee. His band made a fine impression at the state fair there. It played music—the real thing.

"The no banana song came to Mexico City as soon as it was out, in New York," said Sr. Preza. "But no reputable conductor of a Mexican band would dare play such trash. He would be hissed and driven off the stage." He told of music in Mexico, how bands play in all cities and towns of any size, playing music of genuine musical quality. Not always classics, but always good. He also told the Milwaukee people of the opera in Mexico City, with audiences so large that sometimes they can be accommodated only in the bull fight amphitheater where 30,000 have been seated. Sr. Preza might be called an ambassador of music for his country.—El Paso Herald.

TIME TO PAY THE FIDDLER

There's an old saying that he who dances must pay the fiddler.

When the federal probe of Fort Worth oil frauds began, promoters poo-pooed it. So did various other persons.

Since then about 116 have been indicted. Thirty or forty more are under bond on complaints. Perhaps 100 will be indicted in November, it is said.

In all the cases tried in federal court so far there has been but one contested. In this, convictions were obtained. The rest pleaded guilty.

Promoters still awaiting trial are squirming. They are telling hard luck stories. They sob right out loud. If they are guilty of anything it's only "technically," they say. They cry "persecution!"

Fines in lieu of penitentiary sentences are being pleaded for. Paroles for those already in prison are being sought.

Meanwhile tens of thousands of persons throughout the country still are wondering where their money went. Theirs are the hard luck stories that ring true.

This newspaper had a hand in the battle to end the gigantic oil stock steals engineered here.

This newspaper isn't vindictive. But it believes justice should be done.—Fort Worth Press.

MAGNETIC MABEL'S MAIL

If you don't know what you want, ask Mabel.

Dear Mabel:
If I should drop my glove in the street and a strange gentleman should pick it up for me, what should I do and say? On the other hand, if a strange gentleman should save me from being killed by a speeding automobile, how should I conduct myself? Timid

Dear Timid:
In the first case a simple girlish smile is all that is necessary. You could say, Oh, sir, if you think best. Try, of course, to convey the idea that the gloves are your own, and not the ones you borrowed from your room mate. But if, on the other hand, as you so aptly put it, a strange gentleman drags you out from under the very hoofs of a maddened automobile, first glance into the mirror at the back of your vanity case to assure yourself that your complexion is on straight, and then smile pleasantly and say—right there in the middle of the traffic—"May I have the pleasure of knowing to whom I am indebted?" Don't forget the whom—it's so class.

This speech is recommended to everyone, because one never knows when one may be called upon to speak extemporaneously like, and it's so embarrassing to get gummied up in one's lines on such an occasion.

Mabel.

A Wish

"I have taken Cardui for run-down, worn-out condition, nervousness and sleeplessness, and I was weak, too," says Mrs. Silvie Estes, of Jennings, Okla. "Cardui did me just lots of good—so much that I gave it to my daughter. She complained of a soreness in her sides and back. She took three bottles of and her condition was much better.

"We have lived here, near Jennings, for 26 years, and now we have our own home in town. I have had to work pretty hard, as this country wasn't built up, and it made it hard for us."
"I WISH I could tell weak women of Cardui—the medicine that helped give me the strength to go on and do my work."

To secure critical adjustment of a detector tube a potentiometer is often used across the wires leading from the "A" battery to the filament. A potentiometer consists of a variable resistance ranging from 200 to 400 ohms. It is provided with a sliding contact, which connects to the negative terminal of the detector "B" battery. This variable, high resistance rheostat performs a valuable service, especially when accurate adjustment of the current is necessary to tune in weak signals. The potentiometer has a comparatively high resistance and allows only a small amount of current to pass. It will not cause a short circuit injury to the "A" battery. A 400-ohm potentiometer, shunted across a six-volt storage battery, allows about .015 ampere to pass.

BODY CAPACITY

When an operator's hands touches or nears the dials of a receiving set the signals in some instances fade or become stronger as long as the hand is held in a definite position. This annoyance is caused by what is termed "body capacity." The fact that the operator's body possesses a definite capacity with respect to grounded conducting mediums and the various parts of the set create the effect.

The grid is most sensitive to body capacity effects and the plate is next in order of susceptibility. There are several methods of counteracting body capacity. If a series condenser is used in the antenna lead-in the terminal of the movable or rotor plates should be connected to wire leading from the antenna; if the condenser is in the ground circuit the terminal of the rotor plates should be connected to the wire leading directly to the ground. When a tuning condenser is used across the secondary of the tuner the terminal of the fixed plates should connect to the wire leading from the grid or grid leak if one is used. If a variometer is employed in the secondary circuit the stator terminal should connect to the grid. The stator of a plate variometer should connect to the plate.

Shielding the back of the panel with sheet copper, aluminium, zinc, brass or tinfoil is often used to eliminate the effect of body capacity. No part of the shield should touch any of the instruments or wiring. The shield should be connected only to the ground binding post. There should be a distance of at least a quarter of an inch between the shield and all instruments, shafts and wires.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE WORLD'S BEST SALESMAN

The Home Town newspaper as we know it in North America is the world's greatest salesman.

Every day, everywhere, it is carrying the great message of commerce, bringing buyer and seller into profitable contact.

The sales it makes per year total in the billions.

Its customers are in every home, every office, every farm.

Its cost per sale is less than any other salesman, for not only is it the world's greatest salesman in VOLUME but also in EFFICIENCY.

The biggest problem in merchandising today is high selling costs. Newspaper advertising, sent on the job of looking for sales where buying habits offer profitable opportunities, is the surest means of keeping down this vexatious item.

Merchants of Pecos, we are offering you the services of the World's Greatest Salesman every week in the year.
