STATE PINK BOLLWORM COMMISSION SAYS PRESENT REGULATION PLAN ALL RIGHT

Dr. Marlatt, Chairman of Federal Horticultural Board Frowns On Report Of Commission, He Wants a Non-Cotton Zone

BY VICTOR H. SCHOFFELMAYER, Agricultural Editor of the Farm News. MARFA, Presidio Co., Texas, March 2.—Immediately upon its return from a two-day inspection of the Big Bend Areas of infestation, the State Pink Bollworm Commission Friday made the following report:

That all regulated zones in the El Paso and Pecos Valleys and in the Big Bend districts be continued as at present, except as to Brewster County, whose status will be considered separately at a meeting of the full commission at Austin March 6, when it will make its official report to Gov. Dan Moody.

Enforcement of stricter regulations as to sterilization of cotton seed, fumigation of lint and stricter inspection at all road stations of the State Department of Agriculture and along the Texas-Mexican border to prevent carrying of the pest in any form.

The newly infested areas of West Texas to be considered separately at the Austin meeting by the full commission on a basis of the needs of each judicial district as to such measures as may be deemed necessary.

To Recommend Compensation. That Dr. Charles L. Marlatt, chairman of the Federal Horticultural Board will make a report by letter to the commission and to the Governor in which he will recommend eradication with adequate compensation to be laid before Congress for an early appropriation fully adequate to stamp out the pink bollworm and for compensation of growers in all West Texas new and old infested areas.

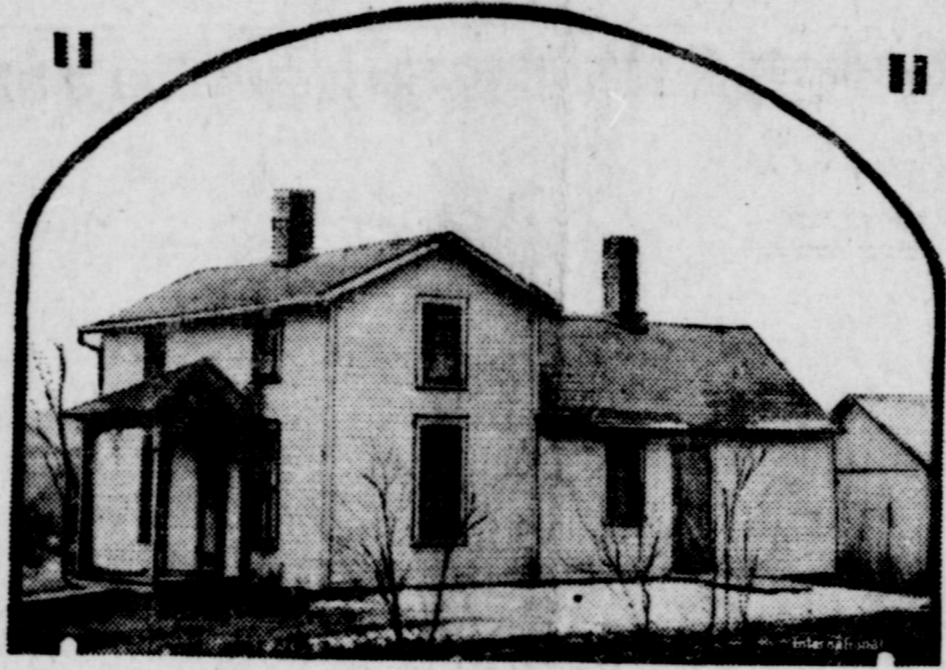

The commission's report does not meet with the approval of Dr. Marlatt and he will give his views to the State pink bollworm commission and to

Gov. Moody which he will prepare at San Antonio Saturday. He left for that city Friday afternoon and from there will accompany R. E. McDonald, chief entomologist of the State Department of Agriculture, on a visit to the Lower Rio Grande Valley to check up on the work of eradicating the Morelos orange worm which attacked the citrus industry, but which is considered stamped out at present.

All the members of the State commission left Marfa late Friday for their homes after a two-day inspection of the Big Bend infested cotton fields and talking with cotton growers and representative business men. The members of the commission believe that the methods to be recommended in their report are sufficient at this time to cope with the situation and were not in favor of a noncotton zone for 1928 under existing conditions.

Marlatt Frowns on Report. Dr. Marlatt, however, believes the report of the commission is practically an acknowledgement of defeat in an effort to stamp out the pest unless this report is modified to suit the Federal Government at the Austin meeting. He has repeatedly assured the commission that Congress has practically agreed to vote funds sufficient to stamp out the pest. He considers the West Texas conditions to be very favorable to eradication because of the cold winter climate of most of this territory, but realizes that little headway can be made without having the full co-operation of the cotton growers and business interests of West Texas to back the Federal and State forces. The stumbling-block is the lack of assurance of adequate compensation for losses incurred by growers in noncotton (Continued On Last Page)

Federal Prohibition Agents visits Marfa

MANY COMPLAINTS FILED, LARGE QUANTITY OF LIQUOR SEIZED, FEDERAL AGENTS KEPT BUSY.

Federal Prohibition agents A. G. Miller and C. F. Mellick working out of the San Antonio Divisions paid an unexpected visit to Marfa and vicinity this week. Working at Alpine on Tuesday of this week five arrests were made for transportation, possession and sale of intoxicating liquors in violation of the National Prohibition Act. Complaints have been filed before the United States Commissioner at Marfa, and warrants delivered for service to the United States marshal at El Paso. Names of defendants and copies of complaints at this time, have not been made public and hearings have not been set. It is understood by the New Era reporter that other complaints are to be filed within the next two or three days. Agents Miller and Mellick left Marfa Friday for Fort Stockton.

Hearing was held on Wednesday of this week before United States Commissioner when Juan Dominguez, of Van Horn, was arraigned upon charge (Continued on Last Page)

Burglars Working Actively In Marfa

LONGHORN CAFE BROKEN INTO SAFE CARRIED OFF, ATTEMPT TO ENTER CARL'S DRUG STORE

Marfa, it seems is about to join the other many victims suffering from the wave of robberies. Sometime during last Sunday night there was a burglarious entry made on the Longhorn Cafe and a safe weighing several hundred pounds taken out, and placed in an auto, then carried out to the F. A. Mitchell pasture and broken into. It appeared that a heavy iron instrument was used in the breaking, which was most complete. Several hundred dollars were taken in money and checks.

On the same night of the Longhorn robbery an attempt was made to enter Carl's Drug Store, but the party or parties were unable to lift the trap door leading from the cellar to the upper floor. The burglars entered the building through an entrance into the cellar which was broken. It happened that on the trap door there was a large heavy box filled with bottles of patent medicine. The medicine did some good especially when used as a (Continued On Last Page)

CAPPER BILL FOR FEDERAL SUPERVISION OF STOCKYARDS IS OPPOSED BY CATTLEMEN

Heads of Two of the Biggest Cattlemen's Organizations Make Protests on Grounds That Capper Bill Limits Co-operation

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Unqualified opposition to the Capper bill for Federal supervision of public stockyards was voiced Friday by two representatives of Texas cattlemen's organizations at a hearing on the measure before the Senate Agricultural Committee.

Edward C. Lasater of Falfurrias, president of the American National Grazer's Association and an officer of the Texas Cattlemen's Association, declared that his organizations feared the bill would hamper activities of the co-operative marketing associations.

"We are opposed to any measure that would limit our market and if you limit the conditions under which the packer can purchase you limit the conditions under which we can sell" he said.

To meet the objections of the co-operative shipping associations, Senator Capper of Kansas, author of the bill, offered two amendments that had been suggested by the proponents of the measure. These amendments would specifically declare that nothing in the new bill would modify the provisions of the Capper-Volstead act legalizing co-operatives. These modification provisions failed in the intended effect, however, as the opposition to the measure was unabated after the change was made.

"Limits Co-operation." Farmers of the West are working out their problems through co-operative marketing and the Capper bill would limit co-operative activities, Lasater insisted.

"We are learning the market conditions of the country," he added, "and we will learn to prevent gluts and the resultant depression of the markets in the future. This in the end will stabilize supply and demand and pull up the average prices paid for our cattle."

Lasater candidly admitted that the co-operative shipping associations for which he spoke feared that if the Capper bill was enacted into law it would give the Secretary of Agriculture power to proclaim co-operative stockyards as public markets and thus impose additional burdens on them. Capper insisted that this was not the purpose of the bill, but his assurance did not convince the Texas witnesses and other opponents of the bill present.

Marfa Man Protests. L. C. Brite of Marfa, president of the American Live Stock Association, read a resolution expressing the opposition of that organization to the Capper bill in its original form. The association has not had an opportunity to pass on the revised form of the bill, Brite explained.

Brite told the committee the live stock raisers whom he represented did not want Federal interference with their marketing operations. Any restrictions to direct marketing would be opposed, he said. "We would like to have fewer restrictions, not more," he said.

The Texan told the committee a personal incident of a few years ago when he went to Kansas City with a shipment of calves and yearlings. While there his cattle were sold to a speculator without an opportunity being given for bidding by a group of farmers seeking to purchase stock for feeding. Since that experience, Brite said, he had declined to go to the Kansas City market to dispose of his cattle.

COOPERATION

"I am for any man who can build a better chicken coop in Presidio," said one of our prominent citizens a few days ago;
 and when he said it, we know that he spoke the truth as we have heard him boost the other fellows game, when the other fellow failed to do as much for him.

That's cooperation with a punch. Its the spirit on which civilization is founded; and on which the future of our little city rests.

Cooperation is not a new idea
 —its a true and tried principal dating back to the Cave and Tree
 man and on up to the present generation.

Without cooperation, we can accomplish little or nothing; but with it, Presidio will rightfully take its place among the chief cities of the State, and all will be benefitted a thousand fold.

As lightly as some may think of it, it is to the interest of every man, woman and child in Marfa that all prosper as the failure of a single individual, naturally affects all the rest—either directly or indirectly. On the other hand, the success of one, all are benefitted either directly or indirectly; and the more successes, the more benefits each will receive.

Did any man ever prosper in
 a land of paupers?

Were you ever able to borrow
 a dollar from a pauper?

Since all of our enterprises are founded on merit and good business principals, there can be no excuse for "lambasting" the other fellows proposition—other than to satisfy a personal grievance, or give vent to a distorted jealous mind—a species of insanity; for surely no sane man would do, or say a thing contrary to his own interest. Think it over.

Mrs. L. C. Britz returned Sunday morning from Dallas, where she attended a Board meeting of the Federated Clubs of Texas. On her return she stopped over in San Antonio and visited friends and relatives and also heard Mary Garden in Grand Opera.

Mrs. Moore who came home on Sunday, must go back to Marfa on Friday or Saturday to put on the High School play. They will take it first to Valentine, then Monday or Tuesday in Marfa. Why not bring it to Presidio also? Surely the folks at home will be very much pleased to have them, since Mrs. Moore one of our very own ladies sponsored the play.

and the spirit of the University prevailed such as only can be conjured up by one who had been a leader in all of T. U.'s activities. Even president benedict was present in the person of Chaplain John MacWilliams. Besides the usual toasts, songs, reminiscent and yells, the program extended itself in unexpected hilarious proportions. Once more the battles of Perigonus and Alexander Fredrick Clair were renewed. Chaplain MacWilliams read shocking letters that had been found in the dean's office, and here came revelations that were, to say the least, most interesting reports of te hitherto untold history of some of our respected graduates.

Judge K. C. Miller was elected president for the ensuing year. Chaplain MacWilliams, vice-president and Miss Lola Bunton, Secretary.

White and Gold prevailed in all the appointments. Place cards were fields of blue bonnets and cacti.

Those present were: Judge and Mrs. K. C. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mead, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. H. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McCracken, Chaplain and Mrs. John MacWilliams, Misses, Bessie Jacobs, Lola Bunton, Helen Robinson, Aline Duty, Willie Harper, Katherine Schutze Frances Mitchell, Messrs G. Smith, J. C. Fuller, G. ### DAISY JEAN GIVES CONCERT

Daisy Jean, eminent artist on cello and harp, and finished singer, was heard in recital the evening of March 2, in the auditorium of the Christian church, under the local sponsorship of Miss Nell Wilson.

The evening was rare treat and well deserved the warm applause bestowed upon the artist by the audience that was charmed with her delightful repertoire and glorious personality.

Miss Jean's skill at the cello is superb and her command of the harp altogether admirable. Her songs to harp accompaniment, are exquisitely beautiful in their warmth, color and emotional quality.

Towards gifted artists and creative talent, in a class with the noted cellist and soprano, Daisy Jean, the Club women of Marfa are now directing their attention in an effort to bring several of them to the town throughout the year. No greater movement for educational and artistic uplift, could be fostered for any community.

Little Turney Fletcher has been quite ill this week with pneumonia but at this writing he is much improved.

STATE PINK BOLLWORM COMMISSION O.K.'s REGULATIONS

zones and this matter will receive prompt attention in the near future. Dr. Marlatt expects to be back in Washington Wednesday and will at once take up this phase of the problem.

On the Mexican border the State Commission and State and Federal scientists accompanying the party found an apathetic attitude toward the pink bollworm. Many growers do not view the matter in the same light as does the Federal Government since they are growing cotton in rich irrigated soils and can make comparatively large yields in spite of the pest. They have had to for ten years, they say, and have not been greatly damaged by its presence.

All but two members of the State commission have had no experience with the pink bollworm until the present trip and know it only from reading and hearsay.

One of Main Troubles.

One of the greatest troubles in the situation is the absence of any profitable cash substitute crop which can be raised in the West Texas areas. Corn and feed can not be grown profitably in the Big Bend areas, nor are farmers prepared to switch from cotton to grain sorghums and milch cows and beef cattle without adequate financing. Land is being broken for the new cotton crop and it is high time, the members of the State commission said, for farmers to know what they may expect this season.

The entomologists say it is too late to do much more scouting to delimit the area of infestation in West Texas this season, as most of the cotton fields will have been plowed up in a short time. The situation therefore does not offer a favorable outlook, when viewed from the standpoint of the Texas and Southern cotton industry as a whole instead of a merely local West Texas viewpoint.

of transporting and possessing about 30 quarts of intoxicating liquors in violation of the National Prohibition act and with concealing and receiving the liquors knowing same to have been brought into the U. S. in defraud of the revenue thereof. The defendant entered a plea of guilty and was released on $500.00 bond to await the action of the grand jury at El Paso. Deputy U. S. Marshal N. F. Work of El Paso was in attendance and served the warrant. The arrest was made by Custom Inspectors Wilson Bourland and J. L. Shoemaker, at Van Horn, and complaint was signed by T. C. Taylor, Custom Inspector in charge.

The Alpine Avalanche of March 9th says:

"Headed by Jay G. Reeder of San Antonio, deputy commissioner, prohibition officers assisted by Border Patrolmen G. C. Dennis and A. N. Ogden took into custody four Alpine men yesterday afternoon on charges of violating the liquor laws.

"The men arrested were M. B. Causey, T. H. Collins, Manuel Rodriguez, and Daniel Ramirez, the two latter Mexicans. Ramirez was given a suspended sentence in the district court here recently on a burglary charge, it was stated by local officers this morning.

"The four men were taken by the federal agents to Marfa where they will be given a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Hunter Metcalfe, officers here said. It is said that prohibition officers acting as 'under cover' men have been in Alpine for several days gathering evidence in liquor cases.

BEAUTIFUL OIL PAINTINGS

The Bailey Novelty Shop have had on display several beautiful oil paintings, the work of Mr. Charles Bailey. The scenes were Western made near El Paso. Mr. Bailey surprised most of his Marfa friends with these beautiful paintings only a few of his most intimate friends knew that he was an artist. All last week the pictures were in the show windows and they attracted a great deal of attention. Several orders were placed for these pictures and others.

BOLL WORM FIGHT PLANS GIVEN GOVERNOR MOODY

AUSTIN, Tex., March 7 (AP).—Establishment of a noncotton zone in Erewster County, known to have been infested by the pink bollworm for several years, and imposition of semi-quarantine regulations on seven counties, newly infested, were recommended to Governor Dan Moody by the State bollworm commission today.

Governor Moody also was asked by the commission, which has just concluded a tour of the infested area, to urge the creation of an American-Mexican joint high commission to attempt eradication of the pest in all of North America.

The commission found that infestation still exists in the original seven counties and recommended that existing regulations be continued in four of them. These include sterilization of seed and fumigation of lint.
