F. F. F. HIGHWAY ASSO. HAS BEEN RE-ORGANIZED

SHOOK ELECTED PRESIDENT,
PERRY VICE PRES., JONES
SECRETARY

The F. F. F. (Fort Worth, Farwell and Frisco) highway association was re-organized at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce building in Plainview yesterday afternoon, at a session that was very enthusiastic.

The meeting being called to order by W. E. Risser was turned over to A. E. Boyd, president of the chamber of commerce, who gave a very brief and enthusiastic address of welcome. Mr. Boswell was called to discuss the desirability of access between Fort Worth and the mountain summer resort regions of New Mexico, Colorado and Arizona. Mr. Boswell stated that the F. F. F. highway association has its real beginning in 1916 at Seymour and that it is now a designated state highway in both Texas and New Mexico. Mr. Boswell read messages from numerous points, including Santa Fe, Las Vegas, Mineral Wells and other important stations along the route.

Representing the Weatherford Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Davidson, declared that both Parker and Tarrant counties have their roads substantially paved, thus assuring a highway good for 365 days in the year. He stated that the Rotary club of Weatherford has just installed tourist park equipment and hundreds of transcontinental motorists use the park daily. Under the direction of the Rotary club a survey has just been completed through which the fact was developed that tourists using this park expend in Weatherford from $8 to $70 each.

Mayor R. E. Frye of Floydada reported that Floyd county roads are in good shape. He also reported that Floydada has just completed a tourist park and camp ground with every facility for travelers comfort.

Fred Schreier of Olton, Lamb county, declared to be one of the most enthusiastic road men in the Plains country of Texas and who recently attended a great highway convention on the Atlantic seaboard, was introduced and made a number of statements relative to the activities in his county.

D. W. Jones, secretary of the Clovis Chamber of Commerce, and declared in the meeting to be the most prominent road booster in New Mexico, was introduced and stated that this section of the country should awake to the importance of transcontinental tourist traffic. He stated that the F. F. F. Highway furnished the most direct route between Louisiana and the Grand Canyon and Colorado resorts. Mr. Jones also called attention to the fact that the Rocky Mountains are a limiting factor in this traffic and people must be governed in establishing highways by the location of mountain passes. He indicated that the F. F. F. highway is so situated that it avoids the extreme cold of the north and the extreme heat of the south, furnishing a great intermediate thoroughfare across this country. Mr. Jones stated that his register in Clovis shows from 20 to 100 transcontinental cars through each day.

A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered by the convention through Mr. Davidson to the Weatherford Chamber of Commerce for the watermelon feast. A vote of thanks was extended to Prof. G. A. Wright for his celebrated band for a concert given just prior to the opening meeting. Ford Shook, the newly elected president, in a few words expressed his appreciation for the honor bestowed upon him individually, and through him for the Fort Worth Automobile club, the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce and the county commissioners of Tarrant county.

In the forenoon prior to the meeting, citizens of Plainview drove the delegates and delegates over the celebrated Plainview shallow water irrigated farms, giving them an opportunity to see shallow wells in action and to inspect the diversified crops of the vicinity of the city.

Banquet by Social Clubs
Last night in the Presbyterian church a banquet was given by the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs complimentary to the delegates to the highway meeting. The ladies of the church served a delicious dinner.

There was a musical program by Miss Flora Meadows, piano, and Frank Meadows, trombone; a quartet by Mrs. R. W. O'Keefe, Mrs. Arilla Peterson, Messrs. Matt Cramm and Burkett, with Mrs. Guy Jacob as accompanist, and a violin solo by A. A. Beery accompanied by Mrs. Guy Gibbs. They also responded in encores.

With A. B. Martin as toastmaster, were speeches of welcome by A. B. DeLoach on the part of the Rotary club, R. A. Underwood for the Kiwanis club, and A. E. Boyd for the Chamber of Commerce, and also responses on good roads and other topics by D. W. Jones of Clovis, Ford Shook of Fort Worth, J. M. Davidson of Weatherford, Mayor Frye of Floydada, J. E. Owens of Ft. Sumner, Frank E. Evans of the Fort Worth Star-Tribune, R. H. Nichols of the Amarillo Tribune and Joe L. Pope of the Amarillo News.

Attendance prizes were drawn by Ford Shook of Fort Worth, Joe L. Pope of Amarillo, F. P. Henry of Floydada, R. E. Frye of Floydada, J. M. Davidson of Weatherford, and D. W. Jones of Clovis. These prizes were offered by R. C. Ayers, S. P. Miller, S. C. Auld, J. G. Halton of the Kiwanis club, E. Dowden, Jr., and Bob Horne of the Rotary club.

Mrs. Jack Hurt left Sunday for Des Moines, Iowa, to spend a month visiting relatives. She will then come to Amarillo and will work in the new store of T. E. Richards, formerly of Plainview, is opening there.

Committee, E. H. Perry, J. M. Davidson and Ford Shook.

This committee formulated and reported back a draft was unanimously adopted. This organization takes the place of one that was formed just prior to the out-break of the world-war of which Col. R. P. Smyth was president. The work of the old organization was abandoned on account of the war.

Ford Shook, newly elected president of the F. F. F. Highway association, is also president of the Fort Worth Automobile club and a special representative of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce. In his opening remarks prior to the annual election of officers, Mr. Shook stated that he had just recently finished a 16,000-mile automobile tour of the Pacific Coast country, going and returning through the Plains country of Texas. He declared that within a 100-mile radius of Plainview at its center is the most delightful territory in the United States. He showed marked enthusiasm for the F. F. F. highway and declared that his club at Fort Worth is routing approximately 200 transcontinental tourists on this route each week. Mr. Shook said that in his judgment the Fort Worth Automobile club is performing a real service to tourists in directing their attention to the F. F. F. highway instead of permitting them to go to Pacific Coast points by way of El Paso.

By unanimous agreement the design of the F. F. F. highway will be three F's in a diagonal block frame. The letters will be black on a white background and the design will be copyrighted. Secretary Boswell reported to the convention that many of the signs have been placed in Plainview and throughout Hale county along the route.

One of the outstanding features of the afternoon session was a watermelon feast under the direction of J. M. Davidson, representing the Weatherford Chamber of Commerce. The Weatherford commercial organization had shipped to John Boswell for the Plainview Chamber of Commerce and meeting a large number of Tom Watson watermelons. Boswell had placed them on ice and they proved a real treat to representatives attending the highway convention from Fort Worth, Weatherford, Paducah, Floydada, Lockney, Olton, Clovis, Fort Sumner and Las Vegas.

A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered by the convention through Mr. Davidson to the Weatherford Chamber of Commerce for the watermelon feast. A vote of thanks was extended to Prof. G. A. Wright for his celebrated band for a concert given just prior to the opening meeting. Ford Shook, the newly elected president, in a few words expressed his appreciation for the honor bestowed upon him individually, and through him for the Fort Worth Automobile club, the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce and the county commissioners of Tarrant county.

In the forenoon prior to the meeting, citizens of Plainview drove the delegates and delegates over the celebrated Plainview shallow water irrigated farms, giving them an opportunity to see shallow wells in action and to inspect the diversified crops of the vicinity of the city.

PLAINVIEW MAY GET BEET SUGAR REFINERY

Experiments So Far With Beets Have Proven Its Adaptability on the Plains

(By Hamilton Wright, Fort Worth Record Staff Correspondent.)
Plainview, Texas, July 30.—The results of a series of experiments extending over a period of years will determine whether or not a $1,500,000 sugar refinery shall be located here. So far the experiments have hit home and capacity to produce sufficient sugar constituents to seal the proposition.

The history of the experiments here is interesting. The Syndicate company formerly owned by the Pierson interests undertook to try out the famous sugar beet of Colorado and Utah before the war. One of the largest sugar refinery companies in the world watched these experiments with more than usual interest and was so impressed with the desultory experiments that it agreed to erect a $1,500,000 refinery here provided a stipulated acreage in sugar beets would be guaranteed yearly. The company asked no bonus of any sort. Things were in a fair way for work to start on the huge plant when the war with its withdrawals of industry and money put a crimp in the project. The Piersons lost their life in the sinking of the Lusitania and the big syndicate property here is said to have been taken over by Boston capitalists who are not so progressive and appreciative of South Plains potentialities as were the Piersons.

But there has been no let up in experiments with the sugar beet. The local Chamber of Commerce, together with the syndicate company and prominent South Plains growers, are still hopeful of securing this enterprise and turning their time to the raising of an entirely new crop every year.

Irrigation Essential
The writer was taken to the Syndicate beet experiment land by Jess Adams, editor of the Plainview News, and shown the three acres of thrifty plants. Irrigation is essential to bringing out the best in this plant in the way of sugar constituents. For that reason the shallow water country about Plainview was particularly prized by the sugar refining companies. Late in the fall after the plants have received proper irrigating at crucial times, the great tubers are shorn of their tops and shipped in cars to a laboratory in the North, where they are tested for their sugar qualities. Extending over a period of several years these tests have conclusively proved the beets produced in the Plainview country are in many respects superior to those grown in eastern Colorado and in Utah. Laboring with study of new soil, new climate and other differentials, the time of planting, irrigating and harvesting, the growers are bringing fruit from their experiments which is expected to be reflected in the early establishment of a large refining plant here.

The beets at the experiment station of the Syndicate are planted in rows and irrigated quite frequently. A caretaker is always on the job, giving the plants as much care as he could a child. During the war the farm employed a number of inexperienced thinners whose work was unsatisfactory and the tests showed up a little under what they do at the present. The beet must be given proper attention at various stages. Too much water makes for beets minus maximum sugar constituents. Too little dwarfs the plant and is even as bad. To know just how much water is needed at critical periods is a matter of knowledge that can be gained only after diligent study and watchfulness. The bulbs attain immense size. One of them is on exhibit at the Chamber of Commerce here. Some others were shown at the Dallas State Fair, and others were taken to northern fairs.

EARLY DAYS OF RAILROADING

Horse and "Locomotive Engine" Were Used Indiscriminately on Same Line of Rails.

Certain of the regulations in force on the earliest railways built in Pennsylvania read very queerly in these days. When the commonwealth opened the Philadelphia and Columbus line, it was found that the state furnish the roadway and that one who pleased could furnish his own vehicle and motive power, and use the railway whenever he wished by paying the state tolls for its use, just as the turnpikes of the day were used.

It was soon discovered, however, that a certain character of vehicle was needed, and that rules and regulations as to times and manner of using the railways were absolutely necessary to effect their successful operation. Here are some adopted by the canal commission for the regulation of the railway, which may be of interest:

"Section 92. No Car shall carry a greater load than three tons on the Columbia and Philadelphia railway, nor more than three and one-half tons on the Portage railway, nor shall any burden car travel at a greater speed than five miles per hour, unless the car body and load shall be supported on good steel springs.

"Section 108. It shall be the duty of the conductors of cars moving with less speed upon the railways, upon notice by ringing a bell, blowing a horn or otherwise, of the approach of a locomotive engine or other cars moving in the same direction at a greater speed, to proceed with all possible dispatch to the first switch in the course of their passage, and pass off said track until said locomotive engine or other cars moving at a greater speed can pass by. The conductors of the slower cars are directed to open and close the switches so as to leave them in proper order. Any person who shall refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of this regulation shall, for every offense, forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars."

It must have been a very interesting sight, indeed, when the horse and the "locomotive engine" were used indiscriminately on the same track, and were struggling for supremacy as the future motive power of our railways, and the approach of a locomotive was heralded by the tooting of a horn. Even at that time the right of way was given to the fast horse.

Putting One Over.

Within a few miles of Indianapolis, a father and son owned adjoining farms. The father, old and experienced in the ways of farming, was in the habit of holding himself up as a model to the son in the way of early production of vegetables for the market.

One summer each had a large field of tomatoes on either side of the highway.

Coming to market early in the season, and seeing some fine tomatoes the son conceived the idea of "fooling" father.

"Taking home a fine big tomato, he got a wire hairpin and pinned the tomato in a most conspicuous place, on a tomato vine whose fruit had not yet begun to ripen.

Soon the father spied it and said, excitedly: "Say, did you know that your tomatoes are getting ripe already?" "Oh, yes," replied the son, unconcernedly, "aren't yours?" The father admitted that his crop had not begun to ripen, and after a moment's silence he said: "By heck, you beat me this time."

Aiding Blinded Soldiers.

More than twenty-three thousand men with damaged sight were discharged from the British army at the end of the war, according to the authorities of St. Dunstan's Hostel for Blinded Soldiers and Sailors. The organization has been working for five years on the problem of rehabilitating these men, and thousands of blinded men have been returned to productive industry.

The men are taught massage, poultry, farming, mat making, basket making, boot repairing, joinery and music. Many efficient stenographers, telephone operators and typists have been trained at St. Dunstan's and are now working at regular employment in London offices.

The stenographers have a special machine which records Braille figures on a tape, which the stenographer later reads in transcribing his notes.

The organization also extends to the colonies, and St. Dunstan's men are now to be found in every part of the world.

France Dooms Wild Boars.

There are still considerable numbers of wild boars and even wolves in France.

This was revealed in a recent discussion in the chamber of deputies on the estimates for the ministry of agriculture. Two deputies affirmed that wild boars cause much damage, while a third constituted himself their champion, asking if it was not intended to leave a few.

Before the war boar hunting was a favorite, although a somewhat dangerous, form of sport, and at Christmas time it was usual for boar steaks to be served in restaurants. Even last Christmas one or two boars made their way to the kitchens of restaurants and hotels.

Economy.

"Oh, daddy! I've got 70 cents in my bank already for Fourth of July!" "Yuh have, have you? That's fine! Now when Fourth of July comes you hide your bank and make all the noise you want snapping your fingers." Richmond Times-Dispatch.

They won't dare!

My dear Mr. Rachmaninoff:

Under a contract between yourself and Thomas A. Edison, Inc., dated the 24th of April, 1919, it is provided, in effect, that the royalties payable to you, on various selections, which you have recorded for us, shall continue, only so long as you do not make phonographic recordings of such selections for anyone else.

I shall be very glad to give you permission to record these selections for others, without the loss of royalties under the aforesaid agreement. This will give you the opportunity to record your "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" and other important works, which you have already recorded for us.

Yours very truly,

Thomas A. Edison

Facsimile of letter written by Mr. Edison to Rachmaninoff, the noted Russian composer-pianist.

This letter gives talking-machines the right to record Rachmaninoff in his famous "Prelude in C Sharp Minor," and other compositions which he has recorded for Edison.

Will any of them exercise that right? We fear not—the parallel would be too deadly.

But Rachmaninoff has recorded other selections for the talking-machines. Hear how they sound. Then come in, hear Rachmaninoff on the New Edison, and see what an astounding difference the comparison reveals.

Do it now—because the experience will help you in

Mr. Edison's $10,000 Contest - Closes Sept 2

Mr. Edison offers 23 prizes totalling $10,000 in cash, for the phrases which best express the difference between the New Edison and the talking-machines. Ask for folder of information.

If you wish to experiment with the New Edison in your own home, we will gladly loan you an instrument for 3 days. No charge or obligation. Simply use the coupon.

Fordson TRACTOR

Henry Ford Was Right When He Said:

"The Tractor will enable the farmer to work fewer hours in the day, giving him more time to enjoy life. I believe the tractor will make farming what it ought to be—the most pleasant, the most healthful, the most profitable business on earth."

This tractor has done much—very much—in bringing true Mr. Ford's prophecy; for in it is a machine which has harnessed one of the most dependable, efficient, adaptable, economical sources of power in the world—a machine that saves from thirty to fifty per cent of the farmer's time—a machine which many farmers claim plows, harrows or drills as much ground in the same time as four, six or even eight horses. And more—a machine that takes care of every power job on the farm.

Call and let's talk it over, or telephone or drop us a card and we will bring the facts to you.

TRY LONG-BELL

"Bone Dry" Painting

With Cook's Paint

The good job of painting, the one that looks best and wears best, is done when the lumber painted is "bone dry."

The drier the board, the better it takes and retains the paint. Oil and water won't mix, you know. Lumber often looks dry when it is not—dry on the surface, but moist inside.

Lumber should be bone dry, thoroughly dry, thru and thru, when painted. Don't trust your eye or sense of touch—you can't tell that way, but do your painting during a dry spell of weather.

THE BEST PAINT IS ECONOMY

Nothing is gained by experimenting with paint—much has been lost. Good paint covers a greater area—wears and looks better.

We can supply you with paint that satisfies—and you know in advance it's good paint, or "Long-Bell" would not recommend it.

Independent School Districts

Austin, Texas, July 30.—Gov. Neff today submitted to the legislature bills to create the Kress and Love Independent School Districts in Swisher county and to extend and enlarge the area of the Littlefield Independent school district in Lamb county.

The national debt of the United States now foots up about twenty-four billion dollars—every cent of it being for war or preparation for war. This is a great argument for disarmament.

SEA'S OLD TALES

Superstitions That Are Held by Cornishmen.

Phantom Lights and Phantom Ships Implicitly Believed In by Sailors Who Fear Nothing.

All along the Cornish shores the phantom ship is thoroughly believed in, as also are the phantom lights. Some years ago a schooner-rigged vessel made signals of distress to the west of St. Ives bay. A cable that put out beached her, and one of the seamen made a grasp at her bulwarks in order to jump on board; but his hand met nothing solid, and as he tumbled back into the boat the schooner and her sailing lights disappeared in the darkness. Next morning a schooner out of the port of London was wrecked within the same vicinity, and all on board her perished. The phantom lights are seen generally before a gale; the Cornish seamen call them "Jack Harry's lights," and the ship seen resembles the one that is subsequently wrecked.

The death ship is a superstition peculiar to Cornwall. With black hull and stumpy bowsprit, she comes in, with all her canvas set, against the wind and tide, and as she turns to reach to seaward again the doomed person dies. Most famous of the traditional stories grouping round the death ship is that of a wrecker, who lived at Trogasent, beguiling vessels with false lights and doing to death those who escaped the waves. When he lay dying a black ship full rigged with all sail set was noticed coming in upon the land against the wind and tide; and as the man died she bore out to sea again in a half gale.

Porthecurno cove, near the Logan stone, has also a ship of doom. Sometimes there is seen when the mists are rising off the marshes a black square rigged craft, which stands over to Bodelan and Chygwidan and suddenly vanishes. Upon whosever sees her ill luck and death are sure to fall.

Near St. Ives, too, is a churchyard haunted by an apparition, sight of which entails disaster to seamen. In the sixties of the last century a vessel was wrecked on the coast here. The men who went off to the rescue found on board a lady with a child in her arms. She refused to part with her charge, and in drawing her by a rope from the wreck to the boat the child was lost in the raging seas. The lady died through shock and exposure and was buried in the local churchyard. Today her wraith is said to haunt the shore, whether the day or the night is tempestuous or dark or clear or fine. And on whoever sees her, he is a seafaring man, disaster falls.

The coasts of Cornwall are second to none in the wildness, the variety and originality of their sea superstitions. For nowhere else in Europe has the sea taken such a toll of dead, and still takes. Only Cape Ushant, and, perhaps, the Goodwin sands off the coast of Kent, may rank behind Cornwall in the sea's colossal ledger of death and disaster.—National Marine.

Voices by Radio.

Voice transmission by radio waves has passed beyond the experimental stage. The United States bureau of standards says that it is now actually possible to telephone by wireless over as great a distance as by the ordinary wire.

It also states that the quality of the transmitted speech is as perfect as that which comes over the ordinary telephone and the same remark applies to music sent by radio.

This highest scientific authority expresses a belief that before very long communication across the Atlantic by radiophone will be established on a commercial basis. When that has been accomplished, a person in Philadelphia or New York will be able at any time to call up and converse with a friend or business acquaintance in London or Paris by paying a stated and moderate rate per five minutes of talk.

Origin of Ophthalmia.

Little was known concerning the surgery of the eye in Great Britain until the expedition into Egypt under Sir Ralph Abercrombie took place following the advance of the French into the land of the pyramids led by Napoleon Bonaparte. The British troops, says the New York Medical Journal, became the victims of contagious ophthalmia, then and now widely prevalent in that country, and brought back that scourge into Great Britain. Incapacitated from further fulfilling their military duties, the disease was spread by these men throughout the length and breadth of the land. Serious study of the eye then began.

"WENT IN" WITHOUT ARMOR

Doughboy Resented Imputation Which Museum Exhibit Seemed to Convey to the World.

A veteran of the A. E. F., wandering among the armor exhibits at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, found himself suddenly face to face with a "tin hat"—approved A. E. F. model—ceremoniously installed in a glass case of its own near the haystack-shaped helmets of the early Tartar tribes and the halberds and billhooks of the European Middle ages. It made him feel historic and important—for a short moment—until his eye took in the rest of the exhibit below the tin hat.

There was a complete suit of armor made out of the same metal as the tin hat, and it comprised a neckpiece, a breastplate, a stomach shield and a pair of thigh guards, all overlapping, and a string of overlapping steel plates down each arm—all strapped to a dummy doughboy dressed in O. D. and wearing the tin hat. It was labeled "American Armor."

"It's all wrong," said the veteran to an attendant. "There wasn't anything like that over there."

"But," said the attendant, "the sign here says at the bottom 'Experimental Armor,' pointing to a small card inside the case. "I suppose that means to say it wasn't used in practice."

"Well, it doesn't say it clearly enough for me," said the veteran.

He went off vowing indignantly that he would lodge a protest with the museum authorities or with the American Legion "or with somebody."—New York Sun.

HELPS SOUTH SEA NATIVES

School Founded by English Woman Has Been of Benefit in Inculcating Self Reliance.

North of Fiji, in one of the islands of the Ellice group of the South seas, education of a practical nature has been going on, and a deserted coral island has been the scene of a school for girls where not only the ordinary curriculum of European schools has been in force but house-building, boating and other necessary arts of a Robinson Crusoe life. When the school was started there was not another living person on the island, of Papuaise, which is an enchanting island three-quarters of a mile long and about a hundred yards in width, its shores surrounded by coral reefs and the bluest of blue seas.

The school was started by an Englishwoman, Miss Jolliffe, in 1912, and she has been the head in this island of learning in the South seas till the present time, when she felt it was time to take a holiday. Devoted to her girls as they are to her, she tells of their self-reliance and capability. They built their own houses and dormitories with the help of a few native men, whose services were shortly dispensed with, and only one old man retained to help in the coco plantations. There are about 2,000 coconut trees on the island and the girls look after them.

Declared Nature Exempt.

There is another story told by Professor Roerich which results in the bearer asking for assurance of its truth, which is given. It seems that certain enthusiastic revolutionists in authority in Moscow decided that a highly decorative and significant effect could be produced by painting the grass and the trees about the government buildings in Moscow a bright red. Orders were given and the government painters set themselves industriously to work giving an appearance to the official vegetation which we commonly attribute to growth on the planet Mars. Whereupon the startled workmen and soldiers of the city marched through the streets and made solemn protest against painting the trees and grass of the city red. Their wishes in the matter were respected and nature was relieved of the necessity of subscribing to the soviet code.—Christian Science Monitor.

Insistent Hostess.

Eight-year-old Ruth was having her first party. Before the guests came mother gave her a long talk on the duties of a hostess, and told her to be sure that every one was served with all the refreshments. And Ruth promised.

But among the guests was one little miss who was very shy. She didn't play any of the games, she didn't converse, and when the ice cream was brought forth refused to take any. Then Ruth came over to her. "You must eat some," she insisted, offering her another dish of cream.

The little visitor shook her head. "I don't want any," she persisted. "But you must eat it," Ruth insisted. "You must eat it even if you have to throw it up afterward."

Use Care in Handling Powder.

Opening a wooden keg of black blasting powder with a wooden tool might appear to be the safest of methods, yet the United States bureau of mines calls attention to a number of serious accidents resulting from the practice. The habit in many places has been to drive a hardwood spike through the head of the keg, and in several instances the ignition of the powder has directly followed. The cause remains unexplained, though any one of a number of actions may be responsible. Because of the demonstrated danger, it is recommended that powder be extracted from its kegs only by way of the bung-hole, even if more time is required.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

SILLY TO ARGUE!

Of Course "Married Men Are the Nicest."

Marjorie Puts It Plainly, Though Perhaps There Are Some of Us May Not Understand.

"Married men are nicest!"

But are they, really? Well, I don't know, but I'd like to think so. Anyhow, I've heard the phrase trip more than once from pretty lips, and there is no doubt that the speaker was in earnest.

Sometimes it has been varied thus: "All the nicest men are married."

Now, a man when he stumbles away from the altar may feel small and humble enough; but the fact that he has squeaked out an "I do!" and has clumsily placed a plain gold ring onto a woman's finger does not mean that he has shed his masculine vanity and his childish delight in compliments.

Looking at the thing frankly, writes W. Harold Thomson in the continental edition of the London Mail, I fall to see how there can be any rule about it. After all, every married man was once a bachelor.

But our charming critics don't seem to think about that. They just say "Married men are nicest."

It's all very gratifying and very confusing.

I asked Marjorie about it the other day.

"Marjorie," I said, "you have put your hair up now and you talk as one having authority and not as the scribes. I want you to tell me why you say that married men are nicest?"

She put her head to one side and swallowed the second half of what she thought was a liqueur chocolate.

"I don't know," she said, "but it's true. They're kinder than bachelors and more understanding. They talk to a woman as though they were neither afraid of her nor contemptuous of her. They're sort of experienced about us. I suppose that's it."

"My child," I said, "don't you realize that when you marry you will choose a bachelor to be your husband?"

"Yes," she admitted, and nodded at me. "but I'll be in a most desperate hurry to make him into a married man. He'll be ever so much improved when he's my husband."

"Now look here," I said very patiently, "you want to face this calmly. If you had lived as long as I and knew as many wedded couples you'd realize that almost every wife knows that the ideal husband is either some bachelor or is married to some one else?"

"Is that clever?" Marjorie asked. "It may be," I answered. "The point is—it's true!"

She was rummaging about in the chocolate box.

"It isn't the point at all," she told me. "The point is that the nicest men get married. They can't help it. They are the kind who fall in love and make women fall in love with them. Therefore they are the dears."

"Look here," I said, "this won't do. We're getting out of our depth. I want you to understand that a married man must start by being a bachelor, and therefore—"

She pushed the chocolate across.

"Oh, don't let's argue," she said. "It's no use, anyway. Married men are the nicest."

I took a chocolate.

Now a Weedless Lawn.

A long sought fertilizer has at last been secured, after twenty years of research, which will slowly and surely extirpate the weeds, while permitting the grass to grow freely. Ammonium sulphate is found to be more advantageous than sodium nitrate, which tends to create an alkaline condition of the soil, especially favorable to the propagation of weeds. Ammonium sulphate produces reversed conditions and the grass flourishes and the weeds are so weakened that they are crowded out. Of course, this plan of fertilization must be qualified, as only grass that is an acid tolerant would develop along the line of extirpation of the weeds. The weeds to resist must be non-acid tolerant also.—Scientific American.

Her Position.

Little Esther was sometimes permitted to talk on the phone with mother's help, and one morning when she had been left alone for a few minutes she decided to call up her grandmother.

She climbed carefully onto a chair, and from there onto the sewing machine, which stood near by. She took down the receiver, but when the operator called, "Number please," she could think of nothing to say.

"Get off the line, please," called the operator, as no one answered.

"I'm not on the line," piped up a small voice. "I'm on my mamma's sewing machine."

Not Now.

The sweet young thing had been unable to buy the article she wanted, but in each case the clerk had assured her that "next time" it would assuredly be in stock. One day she called at the store to find a new clerk on the job.

"Do you have spats yet?" she inquired.

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarette aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.

Big Results From A Small Outlay of Money

The News carries the largest volume of Want Ads of any paper in this section. There is a reason for this, for if satisfactory results were not obtained people would not continue to spend their money for Want Ads in this paper.

The News is read by more farmers and other people in Plainview trade territory than any other newspaper, and these people buy lots of things. They sell lots of things. They rent rooms and houses, etc.

A Want Adv. in the News costs only 15c for fifteen words and 1c for each additional word, but it is read by possibly six to eight thousand people. Isn't that very cheap publicity? Can you beat it?

If you have anything to sell or trade, a room or house or farm to rent, there is something you want to buy or trade for; something lost or found; a cow or horse strayed, some notice you wish to give publicity to, you will get results if you use the News Want columns.

IN THOSE GOOD OLD TIMES!

One Will No Longer Wonder Why Our Forefathers Gladly Entered Into Bonds of Matrimony.

I have lately been shown (writes a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian) the first account book of a couple who set up housekeeping nearly fifty years ago. Many of the entries are interesting reading now, and certain items especially are warranted to make the modern housekeeper's mouth water. The first servant's wages for instance, were £8 ($40) a year—a servant, too, I was given to understand, who did all the washing, plain cooking and evidently had none of her successors' objection to children, for in due course she added to her duties that of pushing the baby carriage out every afternoon. It is worthy of note that the bedroom for this treasure was furnished entirely at a cost of £2 10s ($12.50). Food prices, unfortunately, cannot be readily compared with those of today, as provisions were entered simply as "grocer, butcher, etc." But what should we feel now, I wonder, on receiving a (winter) quarter's gas bill amounting to 9s 4d ($2.33). It is interesting to see that butcher's meat bulked far more largely in proportion than it would in household books today, after the frugal years of war, and that the young couple considered food of another sort worth paying for is shown by the entry: "Two tickets for concert (Patti and Sims Reeves), £1 10s ($7.50).

"PANTS" PROVED HIM HONEST

Their Frayed Condition Convinced Tailor That Man Who Wore Them Must Be Straight.

It pays to advertise one's poverty. A certain statesman thinks. A tailor in the last campaign was quite convinced in his own mind that the statesman was a most unworthy and absolutely unfit man for public position, as a result of the campaign conducted against him.

About ten days before the election one of the bell boys of a Washington club brought to this particular tailor—by mere chance—a pair of trousers belonging to the statesman, to be pressed. It was a hurry-up job, being the only pair that the statesman had at the time. The tailor started pressing them and to his amazement discovered that the trousers were badly frayed at the edges and worn and showed other evidence that the owner was apparently not spending his money for elegance in clothes, whereupon he announced he was for him.

"I am with him from this day forward," he said. "Any statesman who is forced to wear clothes for so long a time as these have been worn is surely a square and upright man and I am for him to the limit."

Goldfish in Ohio River.

Many tons of goldfish were caught in the fishing grounds of the Portage river at Port Clinton, O., recently. According to some of the fishermen, the first scattering of the fish was found in 1913 after the big floods of Ohio and the lake regions, and it was thought at that time that the fish may have been liberated from some of the park and resort aquariums, by the overflowing of the flooded artificial ponds.

The fish are not of the glass bowl variety, but seem to be more of a carp species, and will measure several inches and weigh as much as a half-pound each. They are placed in cars and brought here to be loaded into express cars and shipped in tanks, alive, to the New York markets, where they are sold to the retail and wholesale trade.

St. Paul Is Exonerated.

Men translated the Bible—and twisted St. Paul's remarks about women to suit their own ideas. That is divulged by Miss K. Raleigh to the Women's Freedom League.

The apostle's remarks about women, she said, were badly twisted in translation and it could be proved by the removal of a few dots and commas, that St. Paul did not: Forbid women to preach; command them to obey their husbands; insist that forever and aye, whatever the fashion of the country, they should wear hats in church; say that they should never wear jewelry and fine clothes.

"In the sentence 'Women obey your husbands,'" said Miss Raleigh, "the correct translation of the word 'obey' is 'be considerate to.'"

A Yellow Peril.

Can you read your laundry mark? T. Phillip Terry, author of "Terry's Guide to Japan," tells the following joke on himself—a joke which emphasized the advisability of keeping on good terms with one's Chinese laundryman. The Chin in Mr. Terry's home town was inclined to be surly; so one day the guide book writer lectured him on the subject of courtesy, and urged him to adopt civility as a habit. The admonition palpably displeased the celestial, but he said nothing. Later Mr. Terry, who lived several years in China and knows something of the language, was surprised to find his shirts and collars marked with the Cantonese hieroglyph signifying "upstart jack-ass."

Sounds and Sights.

"That motion picture theater has beautiful music."
"Yes," rejoined Miss Chynenne. "At present we listen to the picture and look at the musical show."

ODD DEVICES FOR PATENTS

Curiosities That Have Been Accorded Place in the Archives of Great London Office.

Some recent curiosities patented in England are described by the Illustrated London News. There are two head-washing caps, one of which is an inverted metal bowl with a rubber ring that fits it tightly to the head and a spigot by which it may be attached to a rubber tube; the other is a helmet-like device with an inlet for water at the top and an outlet back on the neck.

Others are an automobile for use on land or water. It has a propeller and a detachable hull, while the fore wheels are encased and act as a rudder.

Then there is a railway train fitted with a conduit passing from the smokestack over the roofs of the cars to the rear of the train, through which smoke, vapor and cinders are conveyed.

For bathing the face there is a basin with a recessed end for supporting the neck, and a detachable tube through which the bather may breathe while soaking her complexion in the water.

A protective garment for motorists and others is made of a double fabric containing shock absorbers, in the form of hollow rubber balls.

Another ingenious person patents a buffer to be placed on the bows of ships so as to lessen the shock of collisions. Bent plates fitting the converging sides of the ship support heavy spiral springs projecting forward to a steel plate that extends across the bows.

GUARD DIGNITY OF PRESIDENT

Washington Theatrical Managers Are Not Allowed to Advertise His Attendants in Their Playhouses.

There is a code of etiquette governing relations between the executive mansion at Washington and the playhouse. Point No. 1 in the code provides that no manager, either of the theater or of the visiting attraction, shall angle for Presidential patronage. When a company arrives at the theater its manager is handed a card which impresses this upon him, and crushes all hopes of using his pet projects for luring the President to confer indorsement upon his offering.

Another point is that a box is reserved in every theater in Washington every day until noon for the President. By that hour the White House is supposed to have notified the theater that the President will attend that evening. Reservations may be made earlier, of course, but in no event may the house or company manager make use of a paragraph in the newspapers announcing that the President will attend on such and such an evening.

The audience is always on the alert to rise when the Presidential party enters, and remains standing at the conclusion of the performance until the White House contingent makes its exit. No Presidential party was ever known to keep a curtain down for a minute through a tardy appearance.

Great Pianist Particular.

Paderewski will not permit anybody to sit behind him, says a writer in Hearst's. At some of his concerts hundreds of seats could have been added on the stage. Moreover, in every Paderewski recital no seats are sold in that part of the orchestra proper which is directly behind him. The piano is set at a 45-degree angle, which means that in the extreme left corner of the orchestra, looking toward the stage, a number of seats are directly facing Paderewski's back. Those seats are empty for Paderewski. "If they are behind me, I think they are pushing my elbows," he says.

One night he complained: "Will you go down to that woman in the seventh row at the right? She is fanning. I do not mind if she fans in time. But if she cannot do that I cannot play."

Yiddish Theater for London.

The Jewish population of London, which is about 150,000, is at last to have for the first time a Yiddish theater in the West end. It is proposed to establish a permanent playhouse for the performance of Yiddish plays in Yiddish, with Jewish actors. There is also a project under consideration for the translation of classic drama and the best contemporary plays into Yiddish for performance in the new theater. The best musical comedies will also be adapted to performance there. Jewish actors from many parts of the world have signified willingness to go to London professionally. One of the promised features is a repertoire of 50 different plays to be produced on 50 successive nights.

Light Railways in New Zealand.

The minister of public works announced in his annual statement to parliament that the proposal to construct privately owned light railway lines in different parts of the Dominion to connect up rural sections with the government main trunk line would be encouraged and efforts made to push the project. The construction of these lines will call for a large amount of material as well as construction machinery and rolling stock.—Scientific American.

CHINESE STUDENT WAS CALM

Slightly Disturbed by Soiled Necktie, but Not at All by Coming Important Debates.

It is only 15 years ago that Wellington Koo—to whose efforts are largely attributed the election of China to the council of the League of Nations—entered Columbia university, New York. In definite preparation for a diplomatic career he specialized in international law under Prof. John Bassett Moore, and it was in this subject that he took his Ph.D. degree, with a thesis on "The Status of Aliens in China." He was one of the most active and distinguished of the Columbia undergraduates of his time, says the Detroit News. Not only was he elected to the Phi Beta Kappa, the most famous of the American college fraternities, but he became editor in chief of the Columbia Spectator.

As a debator, too, Mr. Koo made his mark among his contemporaries. In 1908 his speech turned the tide in favor of his own university in a debate with Cornell. The story is told that when the Columbia team reached Ithaca, the seat of the rival university, most of its members were in a state of blue funk, owing to the high reputation of one of their opponents. This attack of nerves was at its height when they sought out Koo. "Yes," he told them, "I, too, am worried. I have brought only one evening dress tie with me, and look at it—soiled! What is to be done?" His fellow debaters fled to the nearest haberdashery and returned with half a dozen ties of assorted models. Koo selected one, arrayed himself, and in it went forth to the fray with a light heart.

OVERLOOK BEAUTY OF FERNS

Choice Varieties Seem Not to Be as Greatly Appreciated as They Should Be.

One of the things which the florists of the United States have neglected to a great extent is the growing of ferns. To be sure we see many beautiful specimens in the windows of city establishments, but very few of the more choice varieties, which are really just as easy to grow, provided a little care is taken with them. How many know, for instance, that there are scores of varieties of the "maidenhair"? The baby maidenhair is one of the daintiest of these, its leaves being but little larger than the head of an ordinary pin. Another variety which is especially beautiful is the New Zealand maidenhair. The stem of this fern flattens out as it nears the leaves, and the leaves themselves are superimposed one on another, which gives the effect of several shades of green. Of course there are also the gigantic tree ferns of the tropics, which have fronds from five to fifteen feet in length, the trunks sometimes being four or five feet in diameter, but these would hardly do for a lady's bouquet.

First American Airway.

The "cornerstone" of America's first airway from Washington to Dayton, Ohio, was laid at Bolling field, Washington, with appropriate ceremonies, designed as a part of the celebration of the anniversary of Lincoln's birth. High officials of the army, members of congress and aviators of note attended.

Army aviation officials described the event as a "milestone in the progress of American aeronautics."

A feature of the dedication was the first public appearance of the American messenger airplane, one of the smallest in the world, which is planned to take the place of motorcycles for certain messenger work. The plane has a wing spread of only 20 feet and stands 7 feet high. It will carry a load of 240 pounds and with its 60-horse power motor makes 95 miles an hour.

Remarkable Belgian Gun.

One of the most curious products of the Belgian gunmakers' art, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, is now in the possession of a Colorado sportsman. This gun is remarkable for its arrangement of seven barrels in one, the composite tube with its cluster of parallel bores being about the size of a heavy-gauge shotgun barrel. Seven .22-caliber rifle cartridges are inserted in the breech openings, and fired simultaneously by a single firing pin and hammer. The shell ejector is a removable disk with seven holes, which swings back when the lock is opened.

Oak in Hall of Fame.

Before Basking Ridge, N. J., took its place in the world an oak stood there. The people of this New Jersey town can trace the tree's history for 400 years, but the church is only 200 years old. It has just celebrated that event. Miss Margaret Hitchcock of Morristown, and Mrs. William D. Baneker of Basking Ridge nominate the tree for a place in the Hall of Fame which the American Forestry association is compiling of trees with a history. The tree, has a circumference of 15½ feet 6 feet above the ground.

Indian Chief Drives Auto.

An Indian Chief, Tony Tommy, of the Florida Seminoles, who still wear the garb of their forefathers, is the first of his tribe to buy and operate his own automobile. After a course of instruction at a garage in Miami, the chief now rolls into town each week from his village, near Fort Lauderdale, at the wheel of his machine, but with a pair of horn-rimmed glasses as his only other concession to the ways of the palefaces.

KOREAN FOOTBALL 2697 B. C.

Players Wore Silk Stockings and Used Fans, According to Account Found in Old Book.

"Y'uk kuk." That's just Korean for football. Antiquarians digging around the dusty tomes of old Japan came across a document which seems to be the Police Gazette of B. C. 2697. The mole-skins of the day were made of silk. It was not uncommon to find a huge pany across the back of a stalwart tackle. Stockings were silk, too, and of variegated colors.

The Big Bill Edwards of those days was Emperor Ch'eng '71 of the Han dynasty. History relates that he backed his team to the limit. Whether he showed the devotion of the modern college student who sells his furniture to bet on the game is not known. Walter Camp was represented by Gen. Asukai Masatsune. He got out the original rule book and guide. Whether he also picked his own crowd for the All-Mongolian or not, history does not say. At any event he was the original coach and probably won his share of moral victories while the other teams got the touchdowns.

Football in those days was like yachting now. Only those in whose veins flowed the bluest blood could make the team.

Nothing is known about the formations of that day, but we have a description of the ball. It was round and stuffed with hair. "Goat's hair" gave it resiliency. The game seems to have been all kicking. Stage waits were as prevalent as in a corner lot ball game of today. So long winded were the protests that the attendants used to serve tea to the players while a decision was being given.

Unnecessary roughness was frequent, and when the game was played in the army as a military exercise, a famous general protested that it was too strenuous, and the contestants were forthwith equipped with fans. A fan in the hands of the umpire replaced the whistle of today, and we can imagine him nearly waving his wrist off when things went wrong.

No goal posts as we know them today existed. At one end of the field there was a cherry tree and at the other end an apple tree, which served as goals. The apple tree was the more popular, as a tally was signalled by a shower of fruit, at which the game was suspended while all contestants ate an apple. Once early in the spring, when the goals were in bloom a half-back of the Lu province team mistook the apple tree for the cherry and shot the ball past his own goal, thereby losing the game for his team. He was "cussed out" quite heartily by the spectators in true Yankee style.—New York Mail.

Trees for Future Generations.

Sometimes it is said that in certain European countries the law compels the planting of a tree for every tree cut down, and it is urged that such a law should be enacted in different provinces of Canada. The expression, however, is only metaphorical. What European countries do provide, is that for every acre of forest cut down, in certain areas unsuitable for agriculture, another crop of trees must be started by either natural or artificial methods of regeneration on that area. When forest trees are planted, the trees are set, say 2,000 to the acre, and when they are harvested, 60 or 70 years later, they stand from 150 to 200 to the acre. If they had been planted 200 to the acre they would have grown short and full of limbs from the ground up, and would be useless for lumber. Planted thickly they reach upward for the light, making long, clean trunks. The trees which never reach maturity are thinned out either naturally or with the ax, after they have served their purpose.—Montreal Herald.

Magnesium in Alloys.

Magnesium in massive form, as sticks or rods, is used to deoxidize other metals in foundries and is a constituent of alloys. More magnesium is now used as a deoxidizer or scavenger in metallurgy than for any other purpose, but its employment in alloys is increasing and may eventually become the largest one. An alloy of magnesium and aluminum is used in making castings for aircraft engines and parts of airplanes. The skeleton of the British airship R-34, the first dirigible to cross the Atlantic, is an alloy of aluminum and magnesium, and the yacht Resolute, the defender of the America's cup in the races in July, 1920, as well as the alternative defender the Vanite, carried gaffs made of this alloy.

Billions Go to Waste.

Three billion dollars waste a year due to smoke! This is one of the tributes America pays to the economic vice of thriftlessness, at least this prodigious sum is so specified by a leading statistician who states that the benzol, tar, ammonia and gas which yearly float away in the air is conservatively worth $1,000,000,000, while the consequent damage to property, health and comfort is placed at twice that amount.—Boston Transcript.

Ambulance for Sheep.

A motor ambulance, especially designed for the care of sheep, and containing ten pens, five on each side, an unusual but highly valuable adjunct to an enormous sheep ranch in Alberta, Canada. During the past season some 7,000 lambs were born on the ranch and the busy ambulance was the means of saving the lives of hundreds of them.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

OLD RAIL FENCE IS MOURNED

Too Wasteful for Modern Days, but It Had Its Points of Real Usefulness.

Among the once necessities of farm life that reflected prodigality in the use of valuable timber was the old rail fence. Like many other almost by-gones of rural life, its place in farm wastefulness now is well established, and yet it had its uses for which the straight-line wire fence cannot qualify.

The old rail fence's serrated stretches were the homes of small animal life that now is rapidly disappearing. Around its timbers there grew the uncultivated blackberry, with its sister the raspberry, and among its recesses there thrived the elder, whose fruit once was coveted pie material and whose blossoms were the foundation for elderberry wine that matrons served of a winter evening when the neighbors gathered.

The rail fence, with its invariable undergrowth, was the favorite protection for Bob White in winter, and from its top he sang in the warmer seasons. Beneath, the little ground squirrel burrowed. From safe retreat he chattered if some intruder came near to annoy him as he was busily engaged in gathering his store of food for the snow time.

To the harvest hand it afforded protection at the end of the long row for a brief respite and its corners formed shaded nooks under which the water jug might be kept.

And from what royal timber was this old fence constructed! Black walnut logs, chestnut logs and the smooth length of the ash tree were cleft by numerous rail splitters for the "seven high" fence that stood the storms of decades. There was many a black walnut rail whose timber would make the manufacturer of gun stocks chortle with satisfaction had he such a present supply of wood at his command.—Columbus Dispatch.

GOOD MATERIAL FOR BOILERS

Variety of Pumice Stone is Coming Into General Use in Japan—Has Many Advantages.

"Koka Seki" is a variety of pumice stone which, as far as now known, reports Vice Consul H. T. Goodier of Yokohama, is only found in the small group of Niijima islands (New Islands), which lie off the coast of the Izu peninsula, about ninety miles south of Tokyo. Though used in Niijima from ancient times as a building material, only comparatively recently has "Koka Seki" become known commercially in Japan proper. Because of its durability, high tensile strength and capability of resisting 1,200 degrees C. of heat, it is suitable for boiler and furnace construction as well as inner linings of safes and the manufacture of ice chests. As it is claimed, it can be easily cut, will take a surface of paint or metal plating, and as nails can be driven in, it is thought that the uses of this material will greatly increase. It is however, in re-enforced concrete barge building in Japan that it is best known.

Maeterlinck Loses a Dog.

Maurice Maeterlinck has a special weakness for animals in general and for dogs in particular. He was greatly distressed, therefore, when the other day, a gentle little Pekinese which he owned was bitten by Alaska, an ill-mannered Eskimo dog, brought back from America by the poet.

The little dog's injury was severe, affecting the eye, and M. Maeterlinck, finding the animal's sufferings insupportable, called into consultation one of the best eye specialists in Nice. After a careful examination the physician declared that an operation was necessary. The four-footed patient, however, unable to take an anesthetic, died under the knife.

New Goldfield in Africa.

Another goldfield has been discovered in Eastern Africa which promises untold wealth. King Oforiatta, who was educated on European lines, first secured the passage of laws similar to those adopted in South Africa to protect the country from exploitation. The king then proceeded with his investigations, but meanwhile a colonial government survey party unexpectedly discovered diamonds a year ago. Oforiatta, after a year of research work, now claims that he has discovered that gravel deposits which have been worked for gold for centuries lies over a layer of clay, beneath which is more gravel than that of the top layer. Under his direction an area exceeding an acre has been excavated. The king states that he is satisfied that the indications point to the existence of huge goldfields.

Like a Well-Known Voice.

A telephone call came to me one afternoon. The voice had the well-known, honeyed tones of my best girl. She was somewhat peeved over an incident that had occurred a few evenings before. In order to reconcile her I revealed some of my feelings, which were meant for her alone. At the end of this conversation I was gratefully and hilariously thanked for my information by a suddenly changed voice. It proved to be a friend of mine, who took pains to see that I was told about it for weeks following.—Chicago Tribune.

LIVES IN HISTORY

City of Alexandria, Virginia, Is Immortal.

With Its Memories of the Greatest American, It Yields Place Only to the National Capital.

Economic clocks cease their ticking, industrial enterprises stop their whirr, and America celebrates each twenty-second day of February in honor of George Washington.

"Across the Potomac from the city which perhaps is the most elaborate and enduring monument that perpetuates the name of any human being is a smaller, older, but up-to-date city, which reverently pays her tribute to the great man who surveyed its town lots. He also commanded its troops, sat in its historic Christ church while President of the United States, and tripped the stately minuet in its parlors," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Alexandria, Virginia, which was so promising at the close of the Revolutionary war that it was considered a possible seat for the infant national government, and which indeed might have had the honor, so the story goes, if the great man who lived within a stone's throw of its borders had thought it fair to use his influence in its behalf, is today an up-and-doing city. A naval torpedo plant is being constructed there at the present time, and during the World war it had a fully equipped shipbuilding plant.

"The first ship built at this plant was the Gunston Hall, named after the home of George Mason, father of the Virginia declaration of rights, at that time probably the most complete statement of the rights of man.

"This shipbuilding plant which now stands idle awaiting the development of new plans concerning our merchant shipping covers 46 acres of land along a river which measures 40 feet in depth at the city pier. At no point in its course to the ocean is the channel less than 30 feet in depth.

"The coal fields of the Cumberland are but 40 miles away, and the cheapness of transportation to the city adds another commercial asset. The inhabitants in the decade between 1830 and 1840 foresaw the power which was coming into being to the west of them, and expended large amounts of money in building the Alexandria canal and in contributions to the Chesapeake and Ohio canal.

"The Lee highway from New York to San Francisco, now being constructed, passes through Alexandria and westward through the beautiful and historic Valley of Virginia. Very aptly might Alexandria, from its geographical position, be given the sobriquet, 'The Gateway to the South.'

"Tourists to the Capital city—and everyone feels that sooner or later he must see the capitol, the White House and the Monument—usually find a few hours, if no more, to cross the Potomac and sit in the silence of the quaint little church in its pretty green churchyard where Washington advocated before the townspeople in 1774 resistance to Great Britain, and where Robert E. Lee agreed to take command of the Virginia troops at the beginning of the Civil war in 1861. Washington's pew is marked today, but unfortunately the high backs of the seats, which in former days kept the President from seeing exactly what kinds of lace-the-bewigged gentlemen in front of him had in their throats, were cut down by a subsequent rector who wanted his church to keep space of the times. It is said that Washington and the famous and devoted Martha always rode from Mt. Vernon in a handsome cream-colored coach to attend the services.

"The seeker for excellent examples of Colonial architecture can have a sigh of satisfaction when he catches his first glimpse of Carlyle house, as this home in which the illustrious gentlemen and charming women of old colony days discussed state questions and tripped a measure or two is considered one of the best specimens of eighteenth century architecture in existence. Maj. John Carlyle, who built it in 1752, provided a means of escape for his family, in case of attack by the Indians, in a subterranean passage that leads from the house through the fort on which the house is located to the Potomac. Here they could get into boats and sail down the river to safety."

Couldn't Stand Motor Traffic.

Few Americans traveling from Durham to London, more than 200 miles, realize that the road on which their car is moving was originally surveyed and constructed by the Romans. It was called Watling street, and it ran north to that Roman wall along the Chert to hills which kept out the invading Picts and Scots.

Having a perfect foundation, the road was easily surfaced and maintained through all those centuries. But the motor car made necessary its complete reconstruction. It was the same with the more famous Appian Way out of Rome. The destructive suction of rubber tires demolished in ten years a monument which had stood up under the wheel traffic of 2,000 years.—Wall Street Journal.

Music Increases Output.

Some English firms are trying the effect of a gramophone or a piano player upon their workpeople. It is found that fingers soon sear the rhythm, figures swim and the output is increased. Waiters bring good coffee and jazz music bad results.
