HARRISON FLAYS GRAND OIL PARTY

Mississippi Senator "Pours It On" Republicans in Keynote Speech at Convention.

KEYNOTE AND KEYHOLE POLICY

Contrasts Wilson and Harding-Coolidge Administration—Oil is Only Policy of Latter.

By The United Press.
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N. Y., June 24.—Pledging the party to a house cleaning made necessary by the alleged corruption of the present administration, temporary chairman Senator Pat Harrison addressed the National Democratic Convention Tuesday.

The Mellon tax plan, the Republican ship-subsidy proposal, government expenditures, special privilege, and failure of the Republican organization to function on many national issues were attacked by the speaker, in addition to his denunciation of "an administration honeycombed with graft and corroded with corruption."

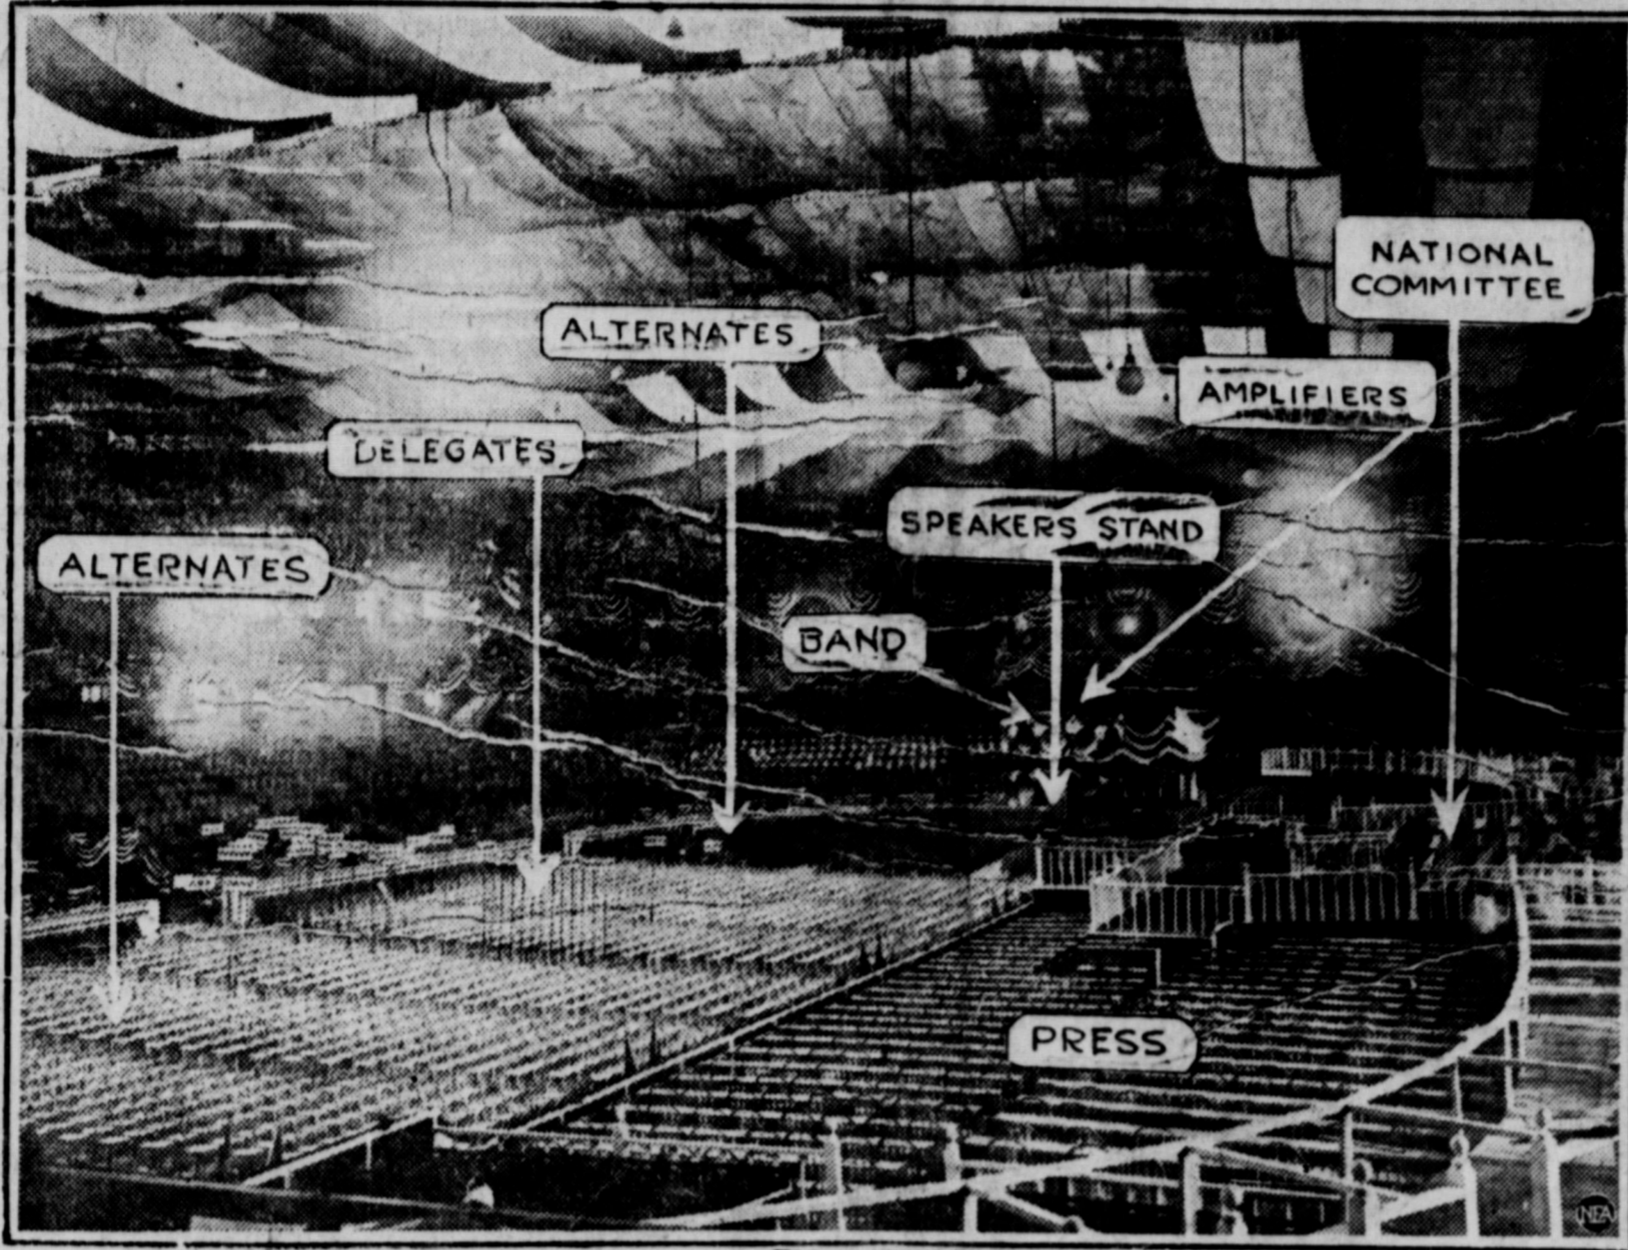

Senator Harrison began speaking at 1 o'clock. His address at the national convention follows in part:

Chairman Hull, ladies, and gentlemen, 48 years ago in this city the hosts of Democracy met in convention to dedicate themselves to purging corruption from the public service. We meet today for a rededication to the same purpose. There was corruption then; there is a Saturnalia of corruption now. There were disgraced public officials then, repudiated by their party and under arrest; but today Fall goes unmolested on his ranch in New Mexico; Daugherty sat with presidential approval in the convention at Cleveland, and Daugherty's attorney was chairman of the committee created to oil the steam roller of the worst boss-ridden convention of a generation. It was in that convention in 1876 that Democracy turned to that superb and matchless leader, Samuel J. Tilden, to bring the Government back to honesty and carry the party to victory. It is particularly appropriate that I read to you one plank of the Democratic platform of that year, written by that great New Yorker:

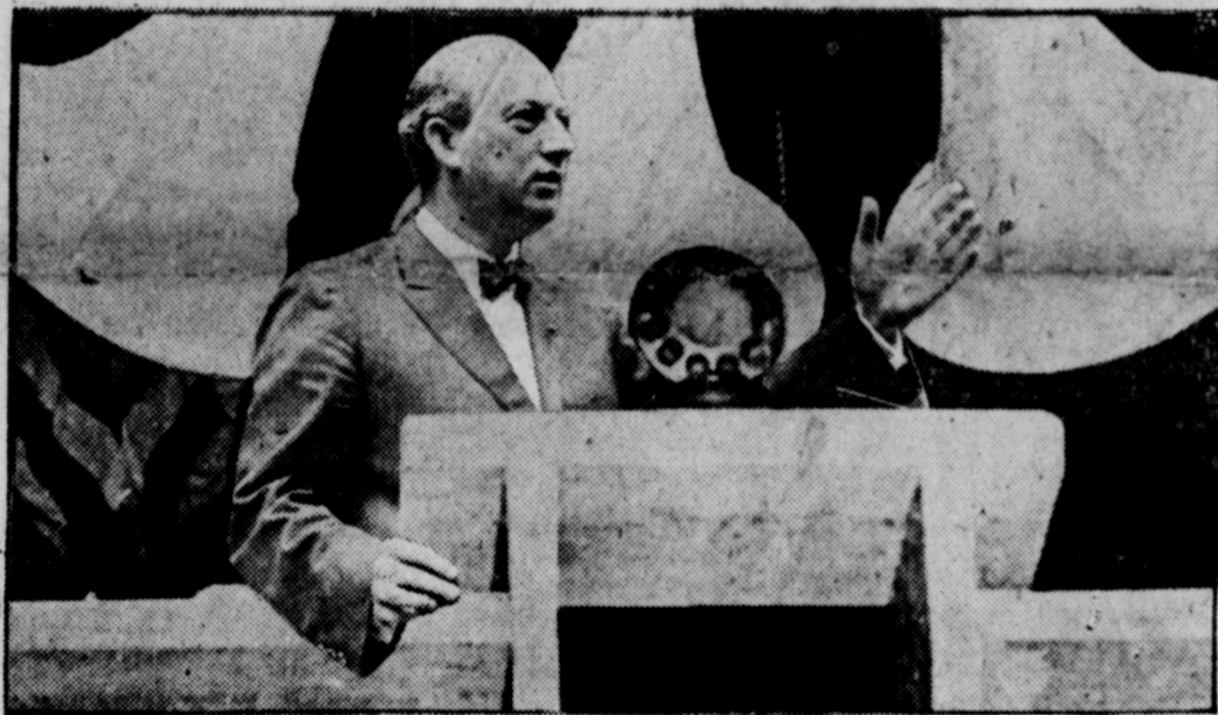

"When the annals of this Republic show the disgrace and censure of a Vice President; a late Speaker of the House of Representatives marketing his rulings as a presiding officer; three Senators profiting secretly by their votes as lawmakers; five chairmen of the leading committees of the late House of Representatives exposed in jobbery; a late Secretary of the Treasury forcing balances in the public accounts; a late Attorney General misappropriating public funds; a Secretary of the Navy enriched or enriching friends by percentages levied off the profits of contractors; an ambassador to England censured in a dishonorable speculation; the President's private secretary barely escaping conviction upon trial for guilty complicity in frauds upon the revenue; a Secretary of War impeached for crimes and misdemeanors—the demonstration is complete that the first step in reform must be the people's choice of honest men from another party. lest the disease of one political organization infect the body politic and lest by making no change of men or party we get no change of measures and no real reform."

The moral is plain: The country will make its own application.

It is the brazen effrontery of this administration that challenges our attention. They would halt these inquiries by hysterical cries and foreboding predictions. They say "You are hurting business." "You are destroying confidence." Our answer is, "We are helping business." "We are restoring confidence." "We are saving the government by performing an operation to preserve the life of the Nation itself." Theirs is the Spartan morality. Not the corruption but the discovery constitutes the crime. Instead of applauding the investigators, they make war upon the investigators. Instead of condemning the exposed and praising the exposure, they praise the exposed and condemn the exposure. Deery them as they will, the American people know that it was these investigations—conducted by Democrats, yes, but through Republican committees—that sent Albert B. Fall to Three Rivers a disgraced man

Madison Square Garden, New York, on the eve of the Democratic Convention opening, showing how sections have been allotted for speakers, convention officials, etc. In the pit under the speaker's stand will sit the various leaders who will dictate maneuvers of the delegates.

Keynote speeches are no longer merely delivered to those in attendance at conventions, but are heard in many parts of the world. Above Senator Pat Harrison is seen delivering the keynote speech at the Democratic National Convention in New York. A number of Sweetwater radio fans tuned in Tuesday afternoon and heard the noted Democrat. Note the amplifying horns, which carry the voices of speakers to all parts of the convention hall, and the microphone, which takes the speeches to the world. and proven criminal. It was these investigations that revealed a gross indifference and utter incapacity of the Navy Department and compelled Edwin Denby's retirement from the Cabinet. It was these investigations that unfolded a condition in the Department of Justice that shocked sensibilities and drove Daugherty back to Washington Court House. It was these investigations that caused conspirators against their Government to take their own lives rather than tell the truth and unbosom the criminal secrets against their own criminal allies. It was these investigations that pointed to the immoral orgies of Forbes and sickening scandals in the Veterans' Bureau. It was these investigations that put a Republican Congressman behind bars and lashed Newberry from the Senate. It was these investigations that informed the American public that the first official act of Calvin Coolidge was the appointment of a private secretary who had traded and trafficked in public patronage. It was these investigations that led a Republican Senate to convict its own Republican National Committee for "framing" a Democratic Senator because he dared to do the right.

In this campaign let the conscienceless leaders of this administration de-

GREAT OVATION FOR PAT HARRISON

Bryan, With Palm Leaf Fan, Joins in Singing "Glory Hallelujah"—Cries For League From Floor.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, June 24.—The Democratic convention battle of 1924 is on.

In a temperature around 90 degrees and an atmosphere of a still higher tension, Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, called the convention to order at 12:44 and what promised to be one of the most memorable sessions in the party's history was under way.

It required several minutes for Hull to get order, and then he introduced Cardinal Hays for the invocation. The Cardinal prayed for God's benediction upon this country, particularly at this solemn moment. He said that these distinguished representatives charged with the responsibility of selecting a candidate to lead the country required the guidance of God.

The convention adjourned at 3:14 until 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. The resolutions committee at once began work on the platform.

The atmosphere of respect for Woodrow Wilson, brought on by the mention of his name, permeated the entire first day session. Swayed by the skillful oratory of Pat Harrison,

BEATS SUN FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN

Lt. Maughan Spans Continent in Daylight to Dusk Flight From New York to Frisco.

TIME IS 21 3-4 HOURS

Marks New Era in Aviation as Well as Military Defense—Fleets Protect Both Sides.

By The United Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Fleeter than the sun itself, Lieut. Russell L. Maughan flew from New York to San Francisco by daylight Monday, and the dream of American airmen for a dawn to dusk transcontinental flight became a reality.

A new era in aviation was opened by the courageous and successful adventurer, army and civilian fliers declared today as they showered congratulations on the officer who hopped off at Mitchell Field, New York, at 3:59 Eastern Standard time, and arrived in San Francisco 21 hours and 45 minutes later.

What army men visualize is a fleet on one coast called by wire or wireless to the defense of the other, able to span the continent in a day.

It was past dusk when the record flight was completed at Crissy Field here, but airmen pointed out that Maughan really beat the sun because the sun was up 37 minutes before the little plane hopped off for the west, and the flier actually arrived 15 minutes ahead of time.

DEFER OIL INDICTMENTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—Action on the indictments sought by the government in connection with the leasing of the naval oil reserve was deferred by the special grand jury hearing the evidence, until next Monday.

A marriage license was issued Monday by County Clerk Gus Farrar to W. O. Mathis of Hatcher and Miss Gena Nichol of Valley Creek.

GERMANS ACCEPT

Dawes Plan of Military Control Okeh—Urge Accomplishment Without Clashes.

BERLIN, Germany, June 24.—The German government notified the Entente powers today of its readiness to accept the military control as outlined by the Dawes report.

Germany urged, however, that this be accomplished so that all clashes might be avoided.

Delphian Chapter.

The Sweetwater Delphian Chapter will meet Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock with Mrs. A. A. Chapman, and a full membership is expected to attend as this is the next to the last meeting of the season.

Mrs. J. M. Charlton will lead, and the subject for this meeting is "Rome—Its Grandeur and Its Decay."

SPINSTERS ORGANIZE

Solicit Aid of Mystery Woman in Catching Husbands.

Acting on the theory that "It is not good that man should live alone," the spinsters of Sweetwater met last night and with the assistance of this mysterious "Woman with the Band Box" have thought out a scheme by which they may overcome their husbandless condition.

Some of them realizing that the indications are that they may be forced to remain under the parental roof for years to come, are desperate and have decided to find a husband at any cost. With the aid of these little bugs the madam has promised to secure for each of them a husband. Balking bachelors take warning, terrible times are at hand. Charter members will be announced later.

MAY HAVE RACES AT PICNIC HERE

Legion Committee Discusses Possibility of Running Races for Celebration July 4.

GOOD TRACK SECURED

Grading Will Put Straightaway in Shape—Athletic Program to Include Novel Events.

An interesting and unusual feature has been added to the list of attractions for the American Legion Picnic and Race here July 4th, in the way of horse races, and members of the committee are now at work preparing for a track, and for some famous racers to take part in the events.

The track now under consideration is a straightaway one-half mile long just north of the Sweetwater Cotton Oil Mill. It will be worked over with a grader, if the committee decides to use it, and it will be put in first class shape for the events. It is also conveniently close to the picnic grounds at the City Lake Park.

There will be at least two events, it is reported, probably the half-mile and quarter-mile run. Other events may be arranged, including the "cigar race" which always proves thrilling and as well amusing, according to Roy Scudday of the entertainment committee.

A good program of track and field events is to be presented, and among the athletic numbers there will probably be a "fat man race" a "sack race" and other events to provide excellent entertainment for the crowds here on that day.

U S MAY ATTEND

Representation at Inter-Allied Conference Probably Unofficial, Washington Report.

By The United Press.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—The United States will very probably be represented at the Inter-Allied Conference of Premiers in London, July 16, by the customary, unofficial ambassador, and will not be officially represented, a spokesman for President Coolidge said at the White House today.

It was explained that this government was anxious to be of any assistance possible in the recent European situation, but was equally anxious to take no steps that might involve interference in European political affairs.

No formal invitation has yet been received to the conference.

MORAL DEFECTIVES

The murder committed by two millionaire Chicago youths brings forth an interesting discussion on moral defectives, and the strange fact that there are so many of them among the educated classes, by Perry M. Lichenstein, M. D., L. L. B., physician at the Tombs prison in New York, alienist, and extensive writer on criminology.

Our system of education is scored by the authority on crime for moral defectiveness among the young. "Too much attention is paid to the development of mentality, whereas no attention is paid to moral development," he says. "Children are so overburdened with work that they have little time for play."

The result, says the alienist, is that they become seclusive and neurotic. A neurotic child readily adopts immoral practices.

Leopold is called a 'moral monstrosity' by Dr. Lichenstein. He believes that Loeb worshipped his associate, who for many years had demonstrated his moral weakness by excessive drinking, killing of birds, and other indications of a weak nature.

For brutality and utter disregard of humanity, the alienist says, the Franks case may be compared to that of Dr. Arthur Waite, who killed his mother-in-law and his father-in-law and planned to kill his wife when he was apprehended.

There is a distinct similarity in the two cases. Waite planned the murders to get possession of his wife's estate, after it would have become hers at the death of her parents. Waite was an educated man, a dentist, had a pleasing disposition, and was a favorite in his home town.

Leopold and Loeb had pleasing personalities, and were both well liked. Waite took great pleasure in discussing every detail of his crime. Leopold is little concerned over the murder. It is the prediction of Dr. Lichenstein that if he is sent to the gallows, he will not shrink when the fatal moment comes.

The criminologist points out that evil associates are much more stimulating to crime than home environment, for the two boys who are held for murder were from respectable and wealthy families. He believes that both are sane, above the average intelligence, and knew the consequence of their act.

TIME FOR A VISIT

Secretary of State Hughes may take a swing around the European circle this summer, according to the chatter in diplomatic and official circles in Washington. Hughes is scheduled to sail for London July 1, to attend the convention of the American Bar Association, and the question of whether he will take advantage of his presence in Europe to visit other capitals in the interest of the U. S. foreign policy is attracting interested discussion.

Concerning the possibility of Hughes' trip around the circle, A. L. Bradford, Washington correspondent of the United Press, says:

The opportunity would be perfect, observers believe, for Hughes to go to the capitals of the leading countries of Europe, confer with the outstanding statesmen of those nations, obtain information of value to America's policies abroad, and explain the guiding principles of the United States in its dealings with other nations.

A primary subject that Hughes could make the subject of study on a European trip is the progress being made by the nations of the old world in putting the Dawes plan for a settlement of the reparations problem into effect, international observers here say:

For such a purpose, it is thought, the Secretary of State could well visit not only England, but France and Germany and possibly Italy and Belgium.

By observing what is being accomplished along this line the European nations—and it is pointed out that impressions gained in personal contact on such a trip often are more valuable than study of reports of facts from diplomatic representatives abroad—Hughes at the same time undoubtedly could place his finger on an index of when Europe will be ready to participate in another conference further to limit international armaments.

A REAL BATTLE

Word battles augmented by fist fights, political gas attacks and poison gas bombs of a more dangerous variety, and a wide range of antics recorded in the Senate of Rhode Island during the recent filibuster there are more or less amusing at first glance. The idea of law makers behaving like boys attempting to perfect a parliamentary organization, appears ridiculous.

Yet there is something back of the affair that is even more ludicrous than has created such a situation in the tiniest of the States that the Democratic members of the Senate have determined to effect a change.

It is a struggle between the early settlers and the new comers—the fight for the blue bloods of the state to retain their power of representation in the Senate, accorded them by a method of choosing political representatives as old as the state itself.

For by the system that is law in Rhode Island, Providence, the largest city in the state is entitled to one Senator, as is the smallest village that can boast incorporation.

At the last election, the Democrats, who are the city dwellers and number thousands of mill and factory workers, defeated the Republicans, the "New England Yankee Stock" who have inherited the fairs and traditions of the first settlers, and elected a governor, lieutenant governor, treasurer, and attorney general. But they lost the Senate and the House, due to the fact that each of the 29 cities, villages, and hamlets in the state has one member in the Senate.

It was to overcome this representation on anything but a proportionate basis that the Democrats started the filibuster. A bill was drafted calling for a popular referendum in November on the calling of a constitutional convention. The Republican speaker of the House smiled when he thought what he would do to the bill, but the Lieutenant Governor, a Democrat, presided in the Senate, and the filibuster was on.

The Democrats sent out the word that until the bill providing for the constitutional convention was passed, there would be no legislation—particularly there would be no appropriation bill to meet the state's expenses.

And since the session opened January 1, climaxed with a gas bomb attack that overcame several Senators recently, they have blocked practically everything the Republicans tried to do. The average meeting of 60 days has been dragged out and is still in progress, with several Republicans technically under arrest for leaving the Senate chamber during the gassing incident.

No doubt the rock-ribbed Republicans are disgusted with the turn that affairs have taken. But so are they in their traditions centuries old that they refuse to let the people vote for a modern constitution. The general public would not be surprised if news pictures showed some of them arriving at the state on high wheeled bicycles, if they felt sure such means of transportation had the entire approval of their ancestors.

BY PRESCRIPTION

Adjutant General Thos. D. Barton, a candidate for governor, says "some drug stores in Texas are selling more whiskey than the open saloon did before the passage of the national prohibition act." He has his office in Austin, where the records of liquor sales, and he should be able to cite facts. In Dallas alone, he says, ten thousand gallons of liquor is sold annually by retail druggists, while San Antonio druggists sell more than 5,600 gallons, and more than 6,500 gallons is sold annually by Fort Worth druggists.

Of course, Mr. Barton knows that the druggists are not selling all this liquor in violation of the law, else, as adjutant general, he would do something about it. Nor are the doctors, upon whose prescriptions the liquor is sold by the druggists, violating the law. They are complying with a law that makes bootleggers of the doctors and saloons of the drug stores.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Convention

the revival spirit in the delegates was evident.

When Hays finished, the band played the Star Spangled Banner. Tiny American and New York State flags, released through the creases in the huge flag across the roof of the garden, floated down over the delegates. Miss Anna Case, Metropolitan Opera soprano, sang the Star Spangled Banner, and the whole crowd joined in the chorus.

Smashed the Gavel.

Cheers and applause brought an encore in which the crowd also joined.

The gavel used at the 1924 convention was broken on the first smash. Hull was introduced, and after getting order by beating on the table with the new gavel, it too, threatening to go the way of the other, he announced the invocation.

He first said that "Cardinal Gibbons" would lead the prayer, and after two more false starts, finally said that Hays would do it.

The official call of the convention was then read by Secretary Great-house, of the Democratic National Committee. At its conclusion the temporary officers were put in nomination.

Escort For Pat.

Senator Pat Harrison led off as temporary chairman. The announcement of his name brought a round of cheers and clapping. Other officers named were: Secretary, Charles A. Greathouse, Indiana; executive secretary, Burt New, D. C.

The chairman then recognized ex-Governor Campbell of Ohio, who asked that the following be named to SOLD HIS COW!

"Well, I sold my cow," John Taber, Santa Fe section foreman told The Reporter Saturday morning. "Reporter want ads have never failed me yet. Mr. Taber placed an ad in The Reporter Thursday and paid 50c to run it three days. Only two days were necessary. If you have a cow or horse or car to sell, or want to buy or sell real estate, have a room or rooms for rent, Reporter want ads are reliable—and they are cheap. Folks expect to find bargains in the want ad column. They find them there, too."

escort Senator Harrison to the platform:

Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Nebraska; Miss Caroline Ruitz-Reese, Connecticut; Newton D. Baker, Ohio.

"Pour It On, Pat!"

Pat's appearance was greeted with a wave of applause and cheering. "Tear the hide off of 'em, Pat," "We can count on you, old man," and similar shouts were heard from the floor.

Harrison waited for quiet to be restored, and then slowly proceeded with his keynote speech. At the end of the first paragraph, when he spoke of the Republican convention as the worst "boss ridden" convale of the generation, the first uproar broke from the floor. Cheers, applause, and "more, more" rang through the garden.

As he sped along with his address, the heat began to work on Harrison. Slowly and steadily his collar wore down. But not so with the delegates. He was frequently interrupted with "Atta boy, Pat," and "Give 'em more."

"Grand Oil Party."

Harrison slipped away from the text of his prepared speech from time to time to give strength and color to his utterances. His reference to the G. O. P. as the "Grand Oil Party" won laughs and applause.

Then came the first reference to Woodrow Wilson. Like a shot, every delegation leaped to its feet and began to yell. The banner man from the Ohio delegation ripped the standard from its socket in the floor, and started the parade.

Parade Was On.

Second up was the Georgia delegation. Then all the standards swarmed into line, marching round and round the delegation section. Cries of "Wilson" and shouts and cheers as the band struck up martial airs nearly drowned out the music.

William Jennings Bryan, using a green palm leaf fan, was in the heart of the jam. The New Jersey standard was raised in the air in front of the speaker's stand. At 2 o'clock, the delegates were still going, singing, "Hail, Hail, the Gahr's All Here."

"The Old Time Religion."

There were shouts from the floor for Harrison. "Don't forget the League, pat, don't you forget it." At 2:10 the delegates had for the most part returned to their seats, and Harrison got ready to tear into the last stretch of his speech.

The band struck up "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah," and the garden rang with the voices of the great crowd singing together. Miss Case again took the speaker's position, and sang verses from the old hymn. Bryan joined loudly in the singing.

The old-time Democratic revival spirit had taken the convention for the first time. Harrison concluded his speech.

Senators Recognized.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The dignity of the Senate which suffered such a blow at the Cleveland convention when Republican members were ignored has come into its own at this convention.

In contra distinction to the complete obscurity of Lodge, Watson, et al. in Cleveland, the Democrats have selected Senator Harrison as key-note, and Senator Walsh as permanent chairman.

Seven senators are on the resolutions committee. In the distribution of the lesser offices, the Senate has received more than its share.

ride investigations. Let them accuse the Congress of deteriorating; let them continue to shield those who conspired against the Government; but in this dark drama the American people know and prefer the highly patriotic and cleansing work of Thomas J. Walsh to the foul infamy and thievery of Albert B. Fall.

Tribute to Wilson.

Would that we had in the White House the spirit of him whose heart melted in the sympathies of the world—of all humanity—whose courage knew and gave no quarter, whose qualities of statesmanship caused him to catch the first whisperings of domestic disorder and visualize and prescribe for world unrest. It is the spirit of him who twice led us to victory and whose soul has taken its flight whose remains now lie in yon crypt at St. Albans, the late Commander in Chief of the world's greatest fighting forces in its greatest crisis, that will inspire harmony in this convention and assure victory in November.

How different were the foreign policies of our Government under Woodrow Wilson and under the Harding-Coolidge administration. It is the difference between a keynote and key-hole policy, of statesmanship. In the good old Democratic days we did not send spies to peep in, but diplomats to sit in; not observers without authority; but representatives with credentials. One policy was definite, wise, and brave; the other vacillating, halting, and weak. We opened up new and broader markets, and the people of every clime were drawn closer to us. No humanitarian cause, no movement to check wars, settle disputes, or promote world peace but promptly received the sympathetic consideration of this Government. It was through such a policy that America forged to the front among the foremost nations of the world. Glory was in the flag and prosperity in every industry. What a change has come about during these three long years!

Oil Is Basis.

Oil has become the Open Sesame of power. It gained admittance to the robbers' cave and participation in the plunder. It has been the inspiration of this administration's foreign, as well as domestic policy. The magic significance of its flow has awakened the State Department to an interest not only in Mexico and the United States of Colombia, but away off in the Near East. Truly the administration might have boasted of two "Secretaries of Oil. Show this administration an oil well and it will show you a foreign policy."

A great duty and a high responsibility rests upon us in this solemn and critical hour of the Nation's life. Every impulse of decency, of human sympathy, of fair dealing, cries out and urges us on to action—militant, aggressive action. With struggling millions of men and women throughout the country calling upon us and humanity everywhere exhorting us onward, the great army of Democratic men and women will not retreat before the enemy upon the great battle field of this campaign. We shall not fail.

No matter who may be the choice of this convention, we will rally around our leader, clad in the armor of a righteous cause, attracting to our standard all the forces of right until the flag of democracy waves triumphantly from every rampart of the Government. And as we fight this great battle there will accompany us the invisible presence of the fathers of Democracy. It would seem now we can hear the soft voice of sweet reasonableness coming to us from Monticello, the voice of "Old Hickory" coming across the Blue Ridge from the Hermitage, and from that historic crypt at St. Albans, we hear the mighty voice of Woodrow Wilson, wistfully calling to us: "To you, from falling hands, we throw the torch." "Hold it high!" "Hold it high!" "Carry on, carry on; keep the faith, keep the faith."

Shee the bug bite in the "Microbe of Love."

FEELS IT HER DUTY TO GIVE FACTS TO PUBLIC

The wonderful value of Karnak as a strength builder for convalescents and in cases of a general run-down condition is again forcefully demonstrated, this time in the case of Mrs. B. Russell, 4148 Travis St., Dallas. "A month ago I had an attack of bronchial pneumonia, and yellow jaundice at the same time," says Mrs. Russell, "and when I got up it seemed impossible for me to get back my strength. If I attempted to do the slightest housework I would have to give up and go to bed and the least excitement would get me dreadfully upset. "I heard so much of Karnak I decided to try it and two bottles have improved me so wonderfully in every way that I feel it a duty to tell others about the medicine. It is simply a blessing and I cannot say half enough about it." Karnak is sold in Sweetwater at the Sweetwater Drug Co. (Adv.)

Sweetwater Man Is Recovering From Rattlesnake Bite

H. H. Lykins was resting well Tuesday after being in a serious condition since Sunday night, when he was bitten by a large rattlesnake at his home in the Orient Addition.

Lykins had just stepped off his porch into the yard when he stepped on the snake. He had no shoes on and the rattler struck once, biting through his toes on the left foot. Dr. Fortner was called and the injury treated.

The snake was killed and measured over four feet long. It was the first one to be found in the city in some time.

Are You Weak, Nervous?

Houston, Texas—"I have used some of Dr. Pierce's remedies and found them perfectly satisfactory. I became run down in health and had weak and nervous spells. I took the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the 'Favorite Prescription' and it was surprising how quickly and rapidly I improved. Just a few bottles of each put me in good health. I can recommend the 'Golden Medical Discovery' as a general tonic and the 'Favorite Prescription' for feminine troubles."—Mrs. W. H. Jackson, Route 1, Box 264, N. All dealers. Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. tablets.

"And how have you been getting on, Mrs. Mumble?"
"Ah, miss, not too well. My poor husband had a parallel stroke, and we've 'ad a 'ard time to make both ends meet."
