Influence of Good Deeds and Words.

A traveler through a dusty road
Strewed scorns on the sea;
And one took root and sprouted up,
And grew into a tree.
Love sought its shade at evening time,
To breath its early vows,
And Age was pleased, in heat of noon,
To bask beneath its boughs;
The dormous loved its dangling twigs,
The birds sweet music bore;
It stood, a glory in its place,
A blessing evermore!

A little spring had lost its way
Amid the grass and fern,
A passing stranger scooped a well,
Where weary men might turn;
He walled it in and hung with care
A ladle at the brink;
He thought not of the deed he did,
But judged that toil might drink.
He passed again—and lo! the well,
By summers never dried,
Had cooled ten thousand parching tongues,
And saved a life beside!

A dreamer dropped a random thought.
'Twas old, and yet was new—
A simple fancy of the brain,
But strong in being true;
It shone upon a genial mind,
And lo! its light became
A lamp of light, a beacon ray,
A monitory flame;

The thought was small, its issue great,
A watch-fire on the hill;
It sheds its radiance far adown,
And cheers the valley still!
A nameless man amid a crowd
That thronged the daily mart
Let fall a word of hope and love,
Unstudied from the heart:
A whisper on the tumult thrown—
A transitory breath;
It raised a brother from the dust,
It saved a soul from death.
O germ! O font! O word of love!
O thought at random cast!
Ye were but little at the first,
But mighty at the last!

—Charles Mackay.

Present indications are that cattle will go into winter in fine condition. The range grass is fine and if late rains do not bring up sap will make fine winter grazing.

Oklahoma on Wheels.

If the wheat produced in Oklahoma is an ordinary year were loaded into standard grain cars, and the cars were made up into a solid train counting space for only one engine the train would be 880 miles long.
The corn crop, loaded into cars and coupled into the train containing the wheat, would add 759 miles to its length.

Bring in the cotton, load it up and couple into the last car of corn and it will string the train out 19 miles longer.

Then the oats; there would be 12,000,000 bushels of them, filling 20,000 cars and stretching out 131 miles.

The potato industry is in its infancy, but the 1902 crop would fill 5,000 occupying over 30 miles of right of way.

The melon crop could fill cars enough to reach 23 miles.

The castor beans would add 1 1/2 miles length to the train.

The broom corn would take up 28 miles room.

The fruit crop would fill 7000 cars, reaching over 45 miles. The engineer would have to pull up something like 2000 miles to make room for the crop of hay, alfalfa, millet, cane etc.

The million head of cattle would require 250 miles of trackage.

The horses would occupy 100 miles. The hogs would want 45 miles and not be hoggish about it either.

The 600,000 people would fill 10,000 standard coaches, reaching out 112 miles.

Add on another hundred miles for odds and ends, to say nothing of the products of the manufacturing concern; and you have a train 4,036 miles long, and every car would be loaded too.

The train could take on the population and products of some of the states which have been keeping Oklahoma out of the union, and hardly notice the difference.

It could unload enough wheat in Chicago to keep that city in bread for three years, and have enough left for seed.

It could furnish each family in New York City three pounds of beef per day for over nine months.

By grinding up the castor beans it could have enough castor oil to doctor all the colicky babies in the world until they begin to wear long pants.

The brakies could unload a bushel of spuds for each man, woman and child in Ireland.

If a volcano were to bury all the people in Delaware, Idaho, Nevada and Wyoming, the train could re-people those states, and have enough left to make a city about as large as Kansas City; but it couldn't furnish enough illiterates to replace those in four counties of North Carolina.

Great indeed is Oklahoma. But she is only a territory.—Noble County Sentinel.

R. S. Maulding, of Ocate, was here on the 9th on his way to New Mexico to buy cattle.

Col. Bill Jones was in from the Stinson ranch on Bent creek and says cattle are in fine condition and going into the winter in better shape than ever before in this country.

You Cannot Get Rich
Bankers Get Rich

by putting your money in a bank ann drawing three per cent. interest on it, but by timely investments of your money in GOLD, OIL, IRON and other industrial enterprises, and in return give you three per cent. per year.

OUR MONEY KINGS

Most of whom have grown from poverty to wealth, would NOT BE RICH MEN TODAY had they done what so many others who are poor have done—worked for wages, satisfied with low rates of interest on their earnings.

MOST RICH MEN OF TODAY ARE PART OWNERS IN STOCK COMPANIES WHICH THEY HAVE HELPED TO START, AND ARE INCREASING their wealth constantly by the advances and the dividend-earning capacity of their stock. Is there any reason why YOU should not adopt the policy of these successful men? TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE OPPORTUNITY at the right time, and you will make large profits on a small investment. WHY give your banker 100 PER CENT on the earnings of your money and take 3 PER CENT yourself?

Twenty-five dollars invested in Isabella in 1893 is now worth $1,241, and in addition you would have received $350 in dividends. Twenty-five dollars invested in the Jack Pot in 1894 is now worth $1,590, and in addition you would have received $750 in dividends. One hundred dollars invested in Gold Coin stock in 1894 is now worth $2,000, and in addition you would have received $1,000 in dividends. THE GOLD COIN IS A NEIGHBOR OF THE BIG TWENTY. One hundred dollars invested in the Homestake of South Dakota when the stock was selling at $1 per share is now worth $2,000. One hundred dollars invested in the United Verde stock only twelve years ago at $1 per share is now worth $30,000 and the company is paying dividends at the rate of $12,000,000 per year.

The Big 20 Consolidated
Gold Mining Company

OF CRIPPLE CREEK,
COLORADO.

Offers today what many of you were offered a few years ago in the same companies and hundreds of other good companies—treasury stock at ORGANIZATION PRICE. None of the above companies had better prospects at their inception than the Big 20 has today.

THE DEEPEST TUNNEL IN THE CRIPPLE CREEK DISTRICT.

The company has begun its tunnel, which will cut into the richest ore at once, at an average depth of 1,150 feet, which is 550 feet deeper than any tunnel in the Cripple Creek district. The company has no debts, no assessments, no salaried officers and is managed by representative business men, some of whom are practical miners, all of whom have and will stand back of the company with their money and names. This is the greatest chance ever offered you to buy stock for a few cents which will be worth many dollars. You have seen others acquire fortunes from small investments and have marveled at their "luck." I am authorized to offer a limited amount of the Treasury Stock at the opening price of 10 cents per share (par value of shares $1 each). This lot will soon go, after which the price will be advanced. I strongly advise my friends and clients to send in their subscriptions at once.

THOSE WHO BUY AT THE START DRAW THE DIVIDENDS.

$25 buys 250 shares. $50 buys 500 shares. $100 buys 1,000 shares. $5.00 buys 5,000 shares.

Subscribers for one thousand (1,000) shares or more can arrange to pay for same by monthly payments.

BEAUTIFUL WATERFALLS AND SCENERY IN OREGON,
Along the Line of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company.

For Dewey and Day Counties.

The order of the U. S. Government placing these counties under special quarantine makes it necessary for owners of cattle to hold a health certificate before removing them for shipment or other purpose.

Therefore, by special permission of the Bureau of Animal Industry, The Oklahoma Live Stock Sanitary Board has commissioned Z. E. Coombes as special health inspector in order to not stop the movement to market from these two counties. Write, wire or telephone him at Woodward before moving cattle and give sufficient notice ahead of time for him to reach you.

The penalty for violation of the Government order is heavy. Do not attempt movement of cattle until inspected for such purpose.

Where Rolls the Oregon.

When the beauty spots among the mountains of Colorado are cold and cheerless, and the tide washed shores of the gulf fade into tameness, the scenes along the Columbia river are just as pretty, awe inspiring and delightful to the traveller as at any season of the year.

The towering mountains are yet more magnificent in the gray of the winter months while the warm Chinook winds breath life and vigor and dispel the chill one finds in outdoor life to the eastward of the giant cascades. Winter or summer, the shores of the Columbia are ever inviting and no one should think of travelling abroad until he has visited Oregon with its beautiful valleys, wonderful forests and towering mountain ranges.

In this issue of the INSPECTOR may be seen a few of the wonderful falls which dash their ceaseless spray against the granite walls of the precipices and another scene showing the manner in which the noble Columbia is harnessed and compelled to assist in catching the rainbow salmon from her own swift flowing waters. Whole chapters might be written concerning this wonderful land which once seen can never be forgotten. To those who desire a farther acquaintance we cheerfully refer to the General Passenger Agent of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company who will be pleased to send descriptive matter and beautiful views and booklets which make an invaluable addition to any library. His address is Portland Oregon and you will be well repaid for the trouble of writing to him.

A new feature of the American Royal Cattle and Swine Show at Kansas City, Oct. 20th to 25th is the exhibit of Aberdeen-Angus cattle that will be made there. As we remember it, the Kansas City Fair was abolished in 1893 and it is consequently just ten years since this breed has been represented at a show held at "the gateway of the west." Much valuable advertising has unquestionably been lost to the breed by its failure to be seen annually at exhibitions at such a cattle center as Kansas City and we are glad to hear that the "bonnie blacks" will be on hand this time in goodly numbers with high class animals throughout all classes. While the Aberdeen-Angus Association did not rush at once to the support of this show, the interest of the breed in the west have not fared so badly and it may be truthfully said that they were never in such a prosperous, flourishing condition. In connection with the show is also held the first sale of Angus cattle that was ever made west of the Mississippi river under the auspices of the national association. The sale catalogue gives evidence that the "doddie" is being bred extensively throughout the west. Anderson & Findlay and Parrish & Miller whose herds are both located in Kansas and have been winning at the Fairs this year, will contribute grand specimens to both the sale and show. The estate of O. W. Park, Atchison, Kas., sells sixteen head, the largest consignment to the sale; and Chas. E. Sutton, Russell, Kans., T. J. McCreary, Highland, Kans., and R. P. MacClement, Olathe, Kans., are each represented with choice specimens in the sale. W. B. Seeley, Mt. Pleasant, Harvey & Cleland, Bloomfield, Oliver Hammers, Malvern and F. F. Warner, Bloomfield are the Iowa contributors. R. S. Williams, Liberty, H. H. Anderson, Laredo, J. Barron & Son, Fayette and W. J. Turpin, Barrollton, will each sell of the produce of their Missouri herds. The east side of the Mississippi furnishes from the herd of M. A. Judy, West Lebanon, Ind., a bull and four females that have recently crossed the Atlantic and are expected to prove very attractive when it comes to the bidding at Kansas City. A. Y. Collins and S. Melvin, reputable breeders at Greenfield, Ills., about completes the list. We have not space to comment on the individual animals of each consignment. There are seventy-five females and twenty-five bulls and the offering, we are told, is a very creditable one. The sale, in bearing the burden of advertising the show, (or at least the Angus part of it) made it possible for the show to be held in a section of country where it is badly needed. We trust the contributors will realize fair values for their cattle and that every Angus man contemplating purchasing stock this fall, will, in view of the above facts, feel specially called upon to patronize this sale. The catalogue will prove interesting and can be had by addressing W. C. McGavock, Mgr., Mt. Pulaski, Ill.

Berkshires at Kansas City.

The best herds exhibited at the State Fairs of 1902 have been entered for the American Royal Cattle and Swine Show at Kansas City, which assures the largest and best show of Berkshires ever made on either Continent.

The Catalogue for the public sale of Berkshires to be held at Kansas City, October 20-25, 1902, is now ready and may be had on application to the Secretary of the American Berkshire Association, Col. Charles F. Mills, Springfield, Illinois.

Marion Clothier, of Fairvalley, was in the city Tuesday. He reports everything prosperous in his part of the county.

GLANDERS AND FEVER TICKS

Were Discussed by Livestock Sanitary Men.

Annual Session Begun.

Wichita Daily Eagle, Sept. 24.

The annual meeting of the Interstate Association of Livestock Sanitary Boards was called to order by the president, W. H. Dunn, of Nashville, Tenn., a few minutes after 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the parlors of the Hamilton hotel. After the first formal announcement by the president Mr. J. D. Houston, representing Mayor McLean, welcomed the stockmen to the city and invited them to enjoy themselves, the city and its people doing everything possible to make the cattlemen have a good time.

Mr. Houston read a communication from the Jacob Dold Packing company cordially inviting the members to visit and inspect the new plant which is now nearing completion.

Following Mr. Houston, the president replied in behalf of the association, thanking the city for the hearty welcome and as a representative of the greatest and most beneficial people in the greatest and best country on earth, a class that could buy every bank in the Union at its capitalization, and then have six billions of dollars left as a surplus. He said:

"This association passes no rules or regulations, but we make recommendations to the Bureau of Animal Industry and to Mr. Wilson, secretary of agriculture."

When he finished, W. P. Smith of Monticello, Ill., secretary and treasurer of the organization, made his report, which showed that during the past year the receipts amounted to $183.37 and the expenditures $183.50, but a number of states have yet to pay their dues, $10 per year.

The roll was called and the following members reported:

Arizona—Dr. J. C. Norton.

Oklahoma—W. E. Bolton, Thos. Morse, Z. E. Beanblossom, R. H. Hahn and John Sullivan.

Missouri—Dr. D. F. Luckey.

Illinois—W. P. Smith, A. W. Sale, Dr. C. P. Lovejoy, L. C. Tiffany and Wm. Theiman.

Tennessee—W. H. Dunn, W. H. Dunn, Jr., and L. S. Pope.

Texas—W. J. Moore, M. M. Hankins, A. P. Bursche, S. P. Burnett, W. K. Lewis, A. B. Robertson, T. J. Martin, I. C. Wall and D. D. Swearington.

Kansas—F. W. Cowley, F. H. Chamberlain, Taylor Riddle, Ben Garland and M. C. Campbell.

The Bureau of Animal Industry is represented by Dr. Leslie J. Allen, Dr. R. P. Steddom, W. B. Jordan and Albert Dean.

Colorado, Dr. McCapes.

The president then appointed the following as a committee to submit a recommendation for the federal quarantine line for 1903:

Dr. D. C. Norton of Arizona.

W. E. Bolton of Oklahoma.

Dr. D. F. Luckey of Missouri.

A. W. Sale of Illinois.

W. H. Dunn of Tennessee.

M. M. Hankins of Texas,
M. C. Campbell of Kansas,
Albert Dean and R. P. Steddom,
Bureau of Animal Industry.

Dr. McCapes, Colorado.
The following is the committee on resolutions:

Dr. J. E. Norton, Arizona.

Z. E. Beanblossom, Oklahoma.

D. F. Luckey, Missouri.

J. F. Tiffany, Illinois.

L. S. Pope, Tennessee.

W. J. Moore, Texas.

Taylor Riddle, Kansas.

R. P. Steddom, Bureau of Animal Industry.

Dr. McCapes, Colorado.

Dr. Tiffany, veterinarian of Illinois, discussed the question "Glanders in Range and Domestic Horses." He stated that as far as he could learn in his state, glanders had been caused by the importation of western horses. It is hard to discover the disease by its first symptoms, owing to its likeness to gleet, distemper and other diseases when a discharge is made from the nose. The maline test is very unsatisfactory, because the range horses are wild and unbroken, while it was effective with domestic animals. The test is also unsatisfactory where the disease is plainly shown, but worked to perfection on exposed animals.

Dr. Luckey of Missouri stated that his state had had little trouble with glandered range horses except at Kansas City, and this was controlled by the commission men. Sometimes when the western horses were shipped to small towns the disease was not known because of its likeness to other forms of throat trouble and people did not realize its effects. When the disease became known in certain localities the animals were killed or treated. He believed that every state should control the disease locally as a federal quarantine line and inspection was impracticable.

Dr. Norton of Arizona reported that no glanders had been seen in his state for eight years, and was brought in at that time by horses from Utah, California and Texas, but was stamped out in a short time. He further stated that his state required all shippers into the territory to present certificates from competent veterinarians that the horses brought in were not afflicted with glanders.

Dr. Lovejoy of Illinois reported that in his state glanders had been eradicated in domestic animals, and the maline test was inoperative in western horses, but the commission men at the big stockyards were co-operating with the sanitary board in trying to keep the disease out of the state.

The members discussed how much a state should pay when glandered horses were killed. Some states pay nothing, while some pay as high as $35 for a horse but only in a few cases. It was the general opinion that nothing should be paid for a glandered horse, as it was a worthless animal and a detriment to animal industry.

This ended the program for the morning session, but the members took luncheon at the Hamilton as the guests of the proprietor.

Miss Estelle Burke opened the afternoon program by giving a number of elocutionary selections in her best style. Every number was heartily enjoyed, three vociferous encores being

The first paper was "Texas fever inspection," by Dr. D. F. Luckey, state veterinarian of Missouri. He stated that in spite of every effort made by both federal and state governments to keep the disease in the south was ineffective and the fever seemed to be gradually working northward. He believed that this was caused by ignorance of the law and laxness of the inspectors and county officers.

Another reason for this disease spreading is ignorance on the part of the cattlemen. Many cattlemen do not know the first symptoms of the disease, and seemingly do not care to inform themselves concerning a most distasteful disease to cattlemen. The ticks seem to be unaffected by cold weather, the tick taking on what seemed to be a dormant state. In the spring they come out, lay their eggs and a young brood of ticks is produced.

Two ticks can infect a whole herd, laying thousands of eggs and these hatching in about three weeks. When warm weather comes the tick soon matures, and this accounts for the fever breaking out about the middle of July. The ticks are very small and hard to find, and this partly accounts for the spread of the disease.

The symptoms of Texas fever are first, a drooping of the ears; second, sluggishness; third, a staggering gait, and fourth, a blood-red discharge. The symptoms appearing on successive days, the cow which is giving milk going dry in twelve hours.

The lack of co-operation on the part of cattlemen and influential men north of the quarantine line also accounts for the spread of the disease. These men do not pay any particular attention to the disease, and often unscrupulous persons sell infected cattle to men north of the line. From a careful examination into the matter, he advocated that the open season be established from the first of November to the first of April, and the close inspection and the granting of permits without the great delay that now rules. He also advised that the inspectors remain on one territory as long as possible.

Mr. M. M. Hankins, a member of the live stock sanitary commission of Texas, discussed "The Efficiency of Federal and State Quarantine Lines." He stated that a few years ago the cattlemen of his state most strenuously objected to the laws, but the commission adopted a system of education of cattlemen until at the present time the people co-operated with the commission in every way and were doing all in their power to stamp out the disease.

He believed that it was impractical and dangerous to allow cattle known to be free from ticks to be driven out of an infected country. One cattleman could have a bunch of cattle that he had been very careful to prevent the introduction of ticks into his herd and had complied with all the quarantine laws and requirements, but in driving those cattle out, they might pass through a field full of ticks or a lane with many ticks in the grass, and thus the cattle become infected and the disease carried into other sections.

He had had considerable experience with dipping, and had found that only in the early spring or fall was dipping successful, as the oil used was irritable to the animal, and it was not safe to ship soon after the dipping.

Dr. G. H. Morse of Kansas City, who had conducted a series of experiments at Quanah, Texas, was called on and stated that at first he used eight parts of dip to eighteen parts of water and found this of no avail, so the proportion was increased until the cattle dipped were put into a tank containing dip in the proportion of fifteen parts dip to twenty-four parts water and with two or at the most three trials, every tick was exterminated. The dip should be used early in the spring, or better still, late in September, or even later.

Colonel Albert Dean of Kansas City a representative of the Bureau of Animal Industry, made a short speech, giving a more minute description of the disease. He believed that the same germ which causes malaria in the human family is the cause of Texas fever in cattle, of course changed to meet the different conditions in cattle.

"The tick is the natural carrier of these germs," he said, "and the animal is thus infected. The disease can be produced by hypodermic injection of infected blood under the skin of an animal and the tick works on the same principle."

He was of the opinion that only during the cooler months was inspection practicable, especially of cattle of dark color as at this time the ticks are larger and the inspection is more thorough.

The session was then closed until 7:30.

The evening session was begun with a discussion of the subject "What should be Done With Lumpy Jaw Cattle?" by W. P. Smith, president of the livestock sanitary board of Illinois. He gave a history of how his state takes care of diseased cattle offered for sale in the big yards of Illinois. In 1894 the stock exchange of Chicago passed a rule forbidding the members purchasing cattle affected with Actinomyces Cosis or lumpy jaw, and all the cattle having a swelling on the head or neck must be inspected by the state veterinarian or a deputy, and if such stock is sold the offending member is fined $50. Mr. Smith stated that one of the members of the exchange had attempted to sell a steer known to have lumpy jaw a few days ago, and had his trial before the exchange directors yesterday.

The livestock board of Illinois has an agent and inspector at the Chicago yards and also a quarantine pen, where all stock believed to have the disease are kept. The inspector, after inspecting the stock, has a tag for cattle passed or condemned, and when a doubtful case is found the animal is killed and a post mortem examination is made. The Chicago stock yards has a special slaughter house for killing these cattle. All cattle condemned are killed also, and the meat made unfit for use.

During the past year 15,187 were inspected and tagged in the three big yards of the state, and 873 carcasses were condemned.

Dr. C. P. Lovejoy, state veterinarian of Illinois, gave a short account of how the work in the yards is done. In the western states he had found that the disease always appeared on the upper part of the jaw and very seldom any other organ being affected. If the membraneous lining of the nostril showed infections it was condemned. If not, the carcass was generally passed.

Colonel W. P. Anderson of Amarillo, Texas, read a paper on "The Relation of Diseases of Cattle to Demand and Supply." He stated that diseases had little influence on the price of cattle in the markets of the world.

"Sometimes," he said, "reports of various stock diseases are made up which are very sensational, and the price drops from 50 cents to $1.00 per hundred pounds, but soon after the alarm dies out the price comes up to the former level."

Wm. Theiman of the livestock sanitary board of Illinois, with Dr. D. E. Salman, chief of the bureau of animal industry, and Dr. L. Pearson of Pennsylvania, were placed on a special committee to prepare a report on "Anthrax," a disease similar to blackleg. Mr. Theiman was the only member present, and he asked that the committee be continued another year. The committee was continued.

The association then took a recess until 8:36 this morning.

The Interstate Association of Live Stock Sanitary Boards held another session in the parlors of the Hamilton yesterday and closed the business of the meetings. The election of officers resulted in the selection of W. E. Bolton, of Woodward, Oklahoma, for president, Dr. D. F. Luckey, of Columbia, Mo., for vice-president and W. P. Smith, of Montecello, Ill., for secretary and treasurer. Denver, Colo., was selected as the next place of meeting, the date of which will be fixed by the executive board, which is composed of the president and secretary.

The delegates were evidently pleased with the result of the meetings and the expression was general that this has been the most successful meeting ever held by the association, both in point of attendance, interest and work accomplished.

There was some interesting discussion in regard to Texas or southern fever among cattle. It is now the accepted theory that this disease is caused by ticks and the association adopted an official name for the disease, "tick fever." The name was adopted at the suggestion of M. M. Hankins, of Texas, who said that the fever was no more confined to Texas than to any other of the southern states. Dr. D. F. Luckey, of Missouri, indorsed this statement and it was on his motion that the name tick fever was adopted by the association. Dr. Lucky said that they wanted to educate people to the fact that it was the tick, and not Texas, that caused the fever.

Hereafter it will not be in good form for cattlemen who are pretending to be up with the times to speak of Texas fever among cattle. Kansas permits her name to be affixed to grasshoppers and cyclones and anything of that kind without a murmur, but none of the southern states wants to be named in connection with this tick fever. They want to blame it all on the ticks, and go after the ticks with some kind of a solution that will kill the ticks and spare the cattle.

After the delegates assembled in the parlors of the Hamilton yesterday morning, Mr. Bolton, of Oklahoma, informed them that Governor Stanley was down stairs and that he would be up in a few minutes to see them. The president called for order so that they would be ready to receive the governor of Kansas, but he failed to appear. Some of the delegates suggested that the governor thought Mr. Bolton was fixing up some scheme to have him make a speech and he had skipped out. The president then called for some one in each of the states represented in the association to report in a five-minute talk, the condition of stock in the their states.

Dr. Norton, of Arizona, said that he could state that while they had some difficulty in convincing the representatives in congress from the eastern states that they had people enough to make a state, he could say positively that they had cattle enough to make a state. The condition of the stock in Arizona was about the same as that of the eastern states. They had inspection laws and all cattle slaughtered or shipped out of the state was inspected. He said they were especially careful of the inspection of cattle sent out of the state because it enabled them to locate stolen cattle and while protecting people to whom they sold cattle. He said Arizona had her troubles but they had been able to keep disease out of her territory as nearly as any of the states. For the past several years very few cattle had been killed to prevent the spread of disease. He said he was informed that scabage among cattle existed in some of the middle western states and he would be glad if those present would tell to what extent it prevailed in their sections as they wanted to keep it out of Arizona.

Dr. McCapes, of Colorado, said the cattle of that state were in good condition at this time. They had fewer cattle this year and plenty of feed. All of the cattle shipped out are inspected for the purpose of preventing stealing. He said their worst trouble had been scabage among the cattle. It had been on the ranges for fifteen years, but Colorado had handled this business without gloves. They had inspectors and whenever the scab was found, the cattle were dipped and in this way they had eradicated the disease and at the present time it would be hard to find a case of scab among the cattle of Colorado.

Mr. Lovejoy, of Illinois, said that the dairy business had invaded his state and since then they had gone from first place to third place in cattle raising. They had some cases of anthrax and blackleg among their cattle, but nothing serious. He had no complaint to make against the board and that was all he had to say for the big state.

Taylor Riddle reported for Kansas and he claimed that the Sunflower state was third in importance in the cattle industry. There was very little disease among our cattle so far as he was able to find out. There had been a few cases of scabage reported. The cattle in this state are in excellent condition and good flesh. He thought he had never seen better grass than we have had this year.

Dr. Lucky gave a rather glowing account of Missouri. He supposed they had the same trouble that the other states had. There was some cases of blackleg and a lumpjaw among their cattle, but taken as a whole, he considered their herds in excellent condition. He said the large shipment of horses from Kansas City had brought glanders, but he said they were controlling it. He said Missouri was improving her cattle and hogs and he pointed with some pride to the record that they were making in Shorthorn cattle, while they were close up to the front with Herefords.

W. E. Bolton admitted that Oklahoma was bothered some with Texas fever and then he was called to time and told to say tick fever. The delegates seemed to take especial delight in asking Mr. Bolton questions, which did not bother him in the least. He said the trouble was in the eastern part of the territory. The cattle in the western part were all right. They had less cattle now on account of the settlement of the country. He thought the government lottery business had hurt Oklahoma because people who did not draw land went out and took up the free ranges that were not fit for farming. Then in the lottery business a lot of old maids and cripples had drawn much of the land and they were not so good as the men who got up and rustled for a claim. He said not thirty per cent of the people who drew the claims own them now. One delegate asked him if a lottery was not about as respectable as a horse race and another said he was astounded at Mr. Bolton objecting to the old maids. Mr. Bolton had heard of a few cases of glanders among horses. He said Oklahoma had schools and school children enough to entitle it to statehood.

W. H. Dunn said they had some glanders among the horses in Tennessee and they used to have the tick fever, but they had remedied that. They had formerly lost thousands of dollars worth of cattle every year, but last year the loss from tick fever was less than $1,200. He said the people of Tennessee were raising better cattle and fewer of them. They send to the north and buy the best cows and bulls to be found.

M. M. Hankins, of Texas, gave a rather favorable account of stock in the Lone Star state. He said when speaking of conditions there, people did not realize what a big state Texas is. They did not know that while they had summer and blooming roses in one section, there was rain and sleet in another section. The people down there were getting good cattle and they expected to walk off with a good many of the blue ribbons at the St. Louis exposition. He said they had plenty of tick fever in the state. He said they had a few cases of anthrax and he was of the opinion that it was scattered by the buzzards. He said the cattle of Texas were no more subject to tick fever than any other southern cattle. Now that some were complaining of scabage or mange, he did not want them to call it Texas mange.

The committee on line and open season reported as follows:

First, We recommend to the department of agriculture, that the national quarantine line remain the same as last year, with the exception that the counties of Moore and Bledsoe, in the state of Tennessee, be placed above said line after being examined and recommended by an agent of the bureau of animal industry.

Second—We recommend that cattle from below the federal quarantine line be allowed to be moved to points above said line within the states of Texas and Kansas and the territory of Oklahoma, between November 1st and December 31st, 1902, and to points within the states of Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Missouri and territories of Arizona and New Mexico, between Nov. 1, 1902, and January 1, 1903, under sanitary regulations provided by these states and territories and permitted by the local authorities in charge. Provided, that no such movement of southern cattle shall be allowed into any of these states or territories where proper local regulations are not enforced.

Third—All cattle from quarantine district, destined to points outside of the states and territories above named, may be shipped, without inspection between November 1, 1902, and January 31, 1903, inclusive, and without restrictions other than may be enforced by local regulations at point of destination.

Fourth—We recommended that cattle from the two northern tiers of counties in Arkansas to be admitted into the states of Missouri by inspection from February to March 31, 1903.

The following resolutions were adopted:

First—Resolved, That a permit to ship or drive southern cattle as natives during inspection period should be recognized as valid by the bureau of animal industry when such permit is issued by an authorized agent of the state to which the cattle are destined.

Second—Whereas, Because of the danger of tick fever (southern cattle fever) being carried to points above the United States quarantine line by cars used in the transportation of infected southern cattle between points below the quarantine line, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we recommend that the department of agriculture require that cars used within the quarantine district for the transportation of cattle originally in that district before being brought above the quarantine line for any purpose be disinfected, according to the requirements of said department for cars used in transporting southern infected cattle to points above the line for immediate slaughter provided that this rule shall apply to cars used in transporting southern cattle to points north of the quarantine line for immediate slaughter.

Third—Where, The United States Bureau of Animal Industry, assisted by the sanitary authorities of the various states, is doing efficient work in maintaining the quarantine line and in controlling tick fever (southern cattle fever) infections, by close inspection, during the open season, which is resulting in encouraging commerce between states and stockmen Cupid's Conquest.

One of the happiest events ever occurring in Woodward county was the celebration of the nuptials of Guy R. Baysinger and Bessie Thompson at the home of the bride's parents in this city, Wednesday evening, Oct. 8, 1902.

The guests present represented every faction, and year, in the development of Woodward since its first settlement and several were present from abroad in honor of the occasion, all blending into one harmonious burst of good wishes for the bride and groom who have been favorites for years.

To the strains of the Wedding March, played by Miss Beardslee, Misses Cecil Roll and Lelia Thompson, who acted as ribbon bearers, preceded the bridal party, which was led by Miss Vinnie Lowry as bridesmaid, and Mr. Bickley as Usher. Next came the bridegroom with his best man, Dr. Turnbull, and lastly the bride, attended by her maid of honor, Miss Tandy. The bridal party were met by Rev. Walker, who performed the beautiful ring marriage service. Immediately afterward the bridal party went to the Opera House where they received their guests. The Hall was nicely decorated with Autumn leaves and arranged for a banquet. Over a hundred guests were present and partook of an elegant collation, after which dancing to the sweet strains of music furnished by Messrs. Franklin and Harry Miller, was indulged to a late hour. The bride and groom left on the midnight train for the former home of the groom, Hartford, Kansas, for a short stay, after which they will be at home to their friends in Woodward. Miss Lizzie Monahan, Mrs. Ralph Workman, Mrs. Logan Bennett, and Mrs. C. W. Barry assisted in entertaining.

The bride wore a beautiful costume of white crepe de Chine over taffeta, trimmed in Irish point lace and medallions, and carried pink roses.

The Maid of Honor, Miss Mary Tandy, wore blue crepe de Chine, demitrained, trimmed in valencinnes medallions, pink roses.

Miss Vinnie Lowry who acted as bridesmaid, wore lavender organdie, and shirred bodice and ruffled skirt, with pink roses.

The groom and his attendants were attired in the regulation dress suit.

Bessie, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Thompson, and came here with them as a child at the opening of the Cherokee strip for settlement in 1893, from Medicine Lodge, Kansas. Her father, as one of the successful business men of Woodward gave her all the advantages of a liberal education, and her own sunny nature made her a prime favorite with every one. Charming and accomplished, she has a host of friends who join with the editor of this paper in wishing her every fulfillment of life's rarest promises of happiness.

Guy, is a young man of exceptional executive abilities and is valued by all who know him as a most excellent young man of strict integrity, faultless habits and keen foresight. He is a native Kansan and came here three years ago to accept a position of trust in the office of this paper where he remained for two years, leaving us to accept a better paying place in the office of the county treasurer where he is now chief clerk and deputy. He is worthy of his bride and she is a companion of whom he may well feel proud. With such an auspicious beginning, a life time of happiness awaits them both, and the congratulations of all his friends merely echo the realization of lifes' most successful anticipations. Here's hopin'!

Great is Oklahoma.

Calling attention to the wonderful yields and varied crops that can be raised in Oklahoma, an exchange says: "A short time ago a southern paper roasted the planters of its state for allowing Oklahoma to take the world's premium on cotton. The paper became sarcastic because a negro had been allowed to capture the Paris medal and that, too, on cotton grown way up in Oklahoma, where it was supposed cotton would not grow. The surprise of the cotton growers was matched when the wheat growers saw Oklahoma walk off with the gold medals for the best wheat and flour. The northern wheat growers exclaimed: "Beaten by Oklahoma, a territory way down south where it was not supposed wheat would grow! Oklahoma's superiority does not end with cotton and wheat, but extends to almost every product raised in America. They raise apples with southwest Missouri, peanuts with Virginia, peaches with Maryland, sweet potatoes with Carolina, melons with Georgia, broom corn with Illinois, kafir corn with the world and finer grapes than New York or California. Oklahoma defies the world for an equal area elsewhere that successfully produces so many of the world's staple crops. This is Oklahoma's strength, her corps are so diversified that total failures are unknown. What injures one crop helps another!"

Build a world beautiful!
Don't crowd your world with hate, anger, envy, regrets, fears, pain, disease, disorder, discord and in-harmony. Every second brightens your world with love and joy and peace and hope. Every minute expand your world by unfolding yourself. Every hour open your eyes wider to the grand and beautiful sights in your world; open your ears to the delightful and inspiring strains of divine music which comes of love, brotherhood, tenderness, kindness, gentleness, cheerfulness and contentment. Open your nostrils wide to the exquisite perfumes which permeate every nook and cranny of your world.

Indeed, let your thought be to build, create, construct and develop a lovely world—the heavens of which seers, sages and poets dream and sing.

Build your world beautiful!

Let your world be beautiful and then from second to second, minute to minute, hour to hour, day to day, year to year—through all eternity—it will become more beautiful—a beautiful world without end. Build a world beautiful.—Frank Harrison.

Every time you forget to remember to tell a woman you love her she forgets you do.

It is easy for anybody to get married, but it is hard for lots of them to stay married.

A woman would rather be tyrannized by the man she loves than tyrannize the man she doesn't love.

There are many women who can deceive their own husbands, but few who can deceive their friends.

The multitude of sins that is covered by charity is not to be mentioned in the same breath with the multitude that is uncovered by it.

Miss Lucy Welty.

The subject of illustration in this issue, given as a Belle of the Oklahoma Range, is a resident of Woodward county and is a typical "cow-girl" in many respects. She is a fearless rider, is handy with rope or gun, and loves the freedom of the prairies.

Recently, a bridle made by an inmate of the Montana penitentiary was sent to the LIVE STOCK INSPECTOR to be sold for the benefit of the maker who is trying to secure a re-hearing in the courts of his state. The bridle was a beauty, made of horse hair over leather pleats and could not be estimated in dollars at anything near a uniform price. It was put up for raffle, and in just one hundred chances, Miss Welty held the winning number. The cut illustrates both, the beautiful girl and her trophy of good luck.

Angoras and Poland.

The cuts on this page represent some of the pure breeding of Angora Goats and Poland China Swine at Starwater Stock Farm, in Woodward county, three miles southwest of Woodward. The stock shown in the illustrations are the best types of the blood and are beauties. An advertisement of Starwater appears in the Breeders' Directory of the LIVE STOCK INSPECTOR. Parties writing will confer favor by mentioning this paper.

Shorthorn Sale of the American Royal.

TO THE LIVE STOCK INSPECTOR:
Stockmen who have attended previous sales and shows held under the management of the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association have no doubt been impressed with the fact that, with few exceptions, superior cattle have been offered for sale. The Association owes a duty to the public as well as to Shorthorn breeders and this duty it endeavors to perform by presenting to intending purchasers an offering of Shorthorns that will be both a credit to the breed and also prove satisfactory and profitable to their purchasers. The offering that will be made at Kansas City Oct. 23 and 24 during the American Royal Show, will consist of a choice lot of cattle, selected from the leading herds of breeders of the central states. Twenty breeders have consigned to the sale and the following names will give encouragement and inspire confidence in intending bidders: viz., Hann & Co., Geo. Bothwell, H. C. Duncan, Kellogg Stock Farm Co., E. W. Bowen, Jos. Duncan, H. R. Clay, Purdy Bros., T. K. Tomson & Sons, A. A. Wallace, S. W. Roberts, W. A. Forsythe, E. C. Holland, Jos McConnell and others.

The offering is thoroughly representative of the breed both in blood lines and in beef form, and in addition to many strictly choice home-bred cows and bulls, several imported ones of rare merit will be included.

Bulls good enough to head any herd can be found in this sale; also good, vigorous, well-formed bulls that will sell at very moderate prices. Remember the day and remember the breed.

Some of Virginia applicants for registration as voters give queer answers to the questions asked them. One negro thought the general assembly was "You three gentlemen sitting here"—with a bow to the registrars. Another thought it was "A place in the woods where they went to worship the Lord." A third negro was asked to explain the freedom of the press. "When you get in a crowd, shove as much as you please," he replied.

No other business of the community is asked to contribute to the public as is the publisher. The merchant and professional man is not called upon to donate their goods or lore gratuitously. Why should the publisher be? The paper constantly in every issue promotes and helps the town along and its publisher contributes his share to all enterprises intended to advance the town, but when legal advice is wanted or a little money desired to carry the town over a temporary period, does the lawyer or banker donate of their brain or wealth? Are they not equally and often more interested than the publisher? Why should he be asked to donate more than they do.—Kingfisher Free Press.

From the Markets

Kansas City Office, 289 Live Stock Exchange.

Market Letter.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 9, 1902.

Bright weather and diminished supplies have had a beneficial effect on the market for most kinds of cattle this week, but Quarantine and Range cows are still under the ban. The run dropped off to 72,000 head including 6,000 calves against 91,000 including 7,700 calves last week.

Beef steers, good cows and butcher stock showed some advance Monday, and have been mostly unchanged since then. Considerable short fed stuff has been coming this week, but much of it shows too great haste in returning to market and prices on such are disappointing to shippers. Range cow stuff has been selling badly, but trade shows more activity today. Lots of canner cows are coming, and the poorer grades of these bring from $1.50 to $2; fair to medium kinds sell at $2 to $2.25, and good cutters, the kind that brought $3 to $3.15 two weeks ago, now sell at $2.50 to $2.65 showing how hard hit cows are.

Stockers and feeders are selling better this week by about 15 cents. The supply has been considerably lighter, and buyers in fair attendance. This is festival week in Kansas City, and a great many people are here from neighboring states, and among them are many stocker and feeder buyers, combining business with pleasure, and thus helping prices on the better kinds of country cattle. It takes good two's to bring $4, although many have sold as high as $4.40 to $4.55. The best heavy feeders do not bring more than $4.50 to $4.65. Good Colorado feeders sold this week at $3.75 to $4.35. The big, fleshy steers from Northern Colorado, that have quality, are well liked by a certain class of buyers. Some range beef steers weighing 1245 pounds sold at $5.35 Tuesday. Well bred steer calves, unbranded will sell as high as $4.50, and heifers of the same quality bring about 75 cents less than the steers, but common stuff readily drops down to $3 to $3.50.

Quarantine stuff has had but little improvement this week. There was a slightly better feeling to-day on steers, and a string sold at $3.75 of the kind that sold a few days ago at $3.65. The extreme range on steers this week has been from $2.75 to $4.70 and on cows from $1.50 to $2.85. This is probably a lower level of prices than was paid in the same week last year. Fewer good cows are coming. Calves have come down a peg or two since a week ago, and the best sell at $5.75, a loss of 60 cents. The supply of quarantines was lighter than a week ago and about the same as the same week last year, while total receipts show a gain over a year ago, that is total native and quarantines.

Sheep receipts continue heavy, the total this week being about double that of a year ago. The proportion of fat stock was moderate, and made up about half of the receipts. Utahs formed the bulk of the receipts but a big bunch of New Mexican lambs and several bands from Idaho were also here. Killing kinds show very little change for the week, Utah wethers selling at $3.65, right where they have been for a number of weeks. Too many stock lambs came in and they are lower, selling at $3.25 to $3.50. Fat lambs are selling from $4.60 to $4.90, and are not much changed. A large band of New Mexico lambs, referred to above, sold at $4.50, and southwestern ewes sold at $3.10 western feeders sell at $3.00.

South St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 8.

Receipts of cattle were liberal but not up to the heavy supplies of late. Beef steers were in greater proportion and more good fat grades were included, although the offerings were predominated by short-fed and warmed-up natives and western grassers. The market is 10 to 15c higher for all grades except common natives and western grassers, which show no marked change in value. Cows and heifers were in reduced supply and prices advanced 10 to 20c. Under lighter receipts and a better outlet to the country the stocker and feeder market is higher, mostly 15 to 25c.

The first change for the worst in the hog market since ten days ago was today, when prices ruled 5 to 15c lower, under comparatively good supplies, which the rule at other points. Fair to good medium and heavy weights continue to predominate the receipts.

Cross the Quarantine Line Nov. 1st to Dec. 31st, 1902.

In reply to the several hundred inquiries coming to this paper, will answer, the dates recommended for the inspection—across—the—line season will be Nov. 1st, to Dec. 31, 1902, inclusive, for Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. Cattle in order to cross at all must be entirely free from fever ticks. Don't try to cross unless you have clean cattle. You will be stopped in the attempt at heavy expense, if your cattle are not found free from the "bugs."

The Creamery Trust's Revenge.

Since the creamery trust secured a tax of 10 cents per pound on packing house colored butter, the packers evade the law by selling their product uncolored but giving free to each purchaser a bottle of the golden coloring compound so that he can color to suit his taste. With this arrangement the clean and wholesome Oleomargarine is again out selling the renovated butter in the markets and the creamery trust has involved a new scoop to meet this new form of competition. With every pound of the high colored creamery butter they now mix a dozen or two cow hairs in order to curry favor with lovers of the "genuine". Look for the hairs in each package you buy.

Entries for the American Royal, with the exception of in the sections for car load lots, closed Wednesday, the 1st of October, and Secy. Thomas, of the Hereford Breeders Association, writes us that approximately 300 head of Herefords will be on exhibition in the show and sale pavilions, which when quality is considered, will form the grandest display of Herefords, or of cattle of any breed, that has ever been made. Every show herd of prominence in the United States is represented, the following being a list of the leading Hereford exhibitors: Jas. A. Funkhouser, Plattsburg, Mo. Geo. H. Adams, Linwood, Kans. W. S. Van Natta & Son, Fowler, Ind. F. L. Studabaker, Warren, Ind. O. Harris, Harris, Mo. N. Kirtley, Savannah, Mo. J. C. Adams, Moweaqua, Ill. Benton Gabbert, Dearborn, Mo. Steward & Hutcheon, Greenwood, Mo. Gudgell & Simpson, Independence, Mo. C. A. Stannard, Emporia, Kans. J. S. Lancaster & Sons, Liberty, Mo. J. M. Curtice, Kansas City, Mo. C. N. Moore, Lees Summit, Mo. C. G. Comstock, Albany, Mo. Stanton Breeding Farm Co., Madison, Nebr. U. S. Campbell, Bates City, Mo.

Beside the above numerous other breeders will show from one to five head each. Thos. Clark, the veteran breeder of Beecher, Ill., will award all the prizes in the Hereford classes. The 100 head to be sold Tuesday and Wednesday, October 21 and 22, include many of the show cattle. Catalogues of the sale may be had by addressing C. R. Thomas, Secy., Exchange Ave., Union Stock Yards, Chicago.

Secy. Thomas, of the Hereford Breeders Association, writes us that entries in the sections for car lots of fat and feeding Hereford cattle will not close until Saturday, October 18, the day before the American Royal opens. Prospective exhibitors should, however, make their entries with Secy. Thomas as soon as possible in order that ample accommodations may be arranged for them. Numerous entries in these sections have already been made and it is an assured fact that there will be on exhibition the largest display of fat cattle and high class feeding cattle of the Hereford breed ever seen at Kansas City. For car loads of fat stock $400 is offered in prizes, and $600 is to be awarded the est carloads of 2-year-olds, yearlings and calves in the feeding sections. Cattle need, but to show a preponderance of Hereford blood to be eligible to compete.

CARE AND MANAGEMENT OF THE BROOD SOW.

The care of the brood sow is of very great importance as results to be obtained are almost wholly dependent upon this. One great cause of "poor luck" is in getting or keeping the sows too fat. This almost invariably causes few and small pigs. They should never be fed corn or other fattening foods exclusively. Their feed should consist largely of protein foods—those which form muscle rather than fat; such as wheat bran, clover, some kinds of vegetables, milk when it can be had, and peas and oats ground together are excellent. The handy farmer can always have a variety of food for his brood sows and pigs if he will. Good, comfortable quarters should be provided with a sufficiency of litter, and everything about them be kept sweet and clean.

It is quite important to give them access to a supply of salt and hardwood ashes mixed. Do not have sows farrow too easily in Spring. Cold inclement weather is disagreeable to them. The first of May is about the right time. If pigs drop much earlier and there are many sows to farrow together and the weather be cold or rainy, the pigs will crowd together and kill or injure the smaller and weaker ones. The best way is to have each sow in a pen by herself at farrowing and to remain there until the pigs are two or three weeks of age, that they may gain strength to move about. A small house with a board floor is all that is needed. Do not give the sow much bedding when she is about to farrow, and for two or three days subsequently, as they will sometimes make a big hole in the centre of it and the small pigs will tumble into it and the sow lie down upon and kill them. Feed the sow sparingly the first day or two, throughout her suckling period let the feed be rich in protein, as that causes a large flow of milk. As soon as possible turn the sow and her pigs on good pasture where they will thrive better and make cheaper pork. Good care and management of sows and their broods pay abundantly.—Edward Myhre, in Practical Farmer.

The INSPECTOR is in receipt of a letter from Traffic Manager Irwin, of the St. Joseph Stock Yards Co., which states that the new freight rates did not go into effect October 1st, as was expected. St. Joe would have been seriously crippled by the new rates as it would have given Kansas City 3ets per hundred the best of it. St. Joseph is fast become one of the leading Missouri river markets and we are pleased that they were not handicapped by this raise in freight rates.

I Will Cure You of Rheumatism, Else No Money Is Wanted.

After 2,000 experiments, I have learned how to cure Rheumatism. Not to turn bony joints into flesh again; that is impossible. But I can cure the disease always, at any stage and forever.

I ask for no money. Simply write me a postal and I will send you an order on your nearest druggist for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, for every druggist keeps it. Use it for a month and, if it succeeds, the cost is only $5.50. If it fails, I will pay your druggist myself.

I have no samples, because any medicine that can affect Rheumatism quickly must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs, and it is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of the blood.

My remedy does that, even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. No matter how impossible this seems to you, I know it and I take the risk. I have cured tens of thousands of cases in this way, and my records show that 39 out of 40 who get those six bottles pay gladly. I have learned that people in general are honest with a physician who cures them. That is all I ask. If I fail I don't expect a penny from you.

Simply write me a postal card or letter. I will send you my book about Rheumatism, and an order for the medicine. Take it for a month, as it won't harm you anyway. If it fails, it is free, and I leave the decision with you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 931, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

grasses and the deflection of streams of water have eradicated the historic cattle trail. And too, the time is here when the demand for cattle make it imperative that they be moved as quickly as possible and fattened for the market.

Transportation officials of the railroads running West and North have been busy providing means for transporting the great number of cattle this year. It was the greatest rush in the history of the West. Cattlemen in El Paso claim that there has been moved from the great plains of Texas, the territories and Mexico to the pastures of Dakota, Montana, Wyoming and Kansas not less than half a million head of cattle. These cattle represented a wealth of over $11,000,000 and every animal is worth from five to nine dollars more than cattle were a few years ago. The cattle going north this year will be sold on the market next summer.—El Paso Herald.

Tells of Ft. Supply.

State Capital Sept. 28th.

Ex-Senator J. P. Gandy, of Fort Supply, who spent yesterday in the city, is one of the best known men and politicians of western Oklahoma, having lived in that country for a long term of years. He was here to settle with the United States marshal's office for the last quarter, having been on the force for several years. He has quit the work, however, for the present, at least, in order to enter the campaign and he will spend the next six weeks on the stump in Woodward, Woods, Day, Dewey, Beaver and other west side counties for the success of the republican ticket. He will work principally in the Tenth council district assisting the republican nominee, Hon. Chas. R. Alexander.

Mr. Gandy is also custodian of the Fort Supply military reservation, an empty honor, for it now carries with it no remuneration whatever, and is a great burden to the man who holds the commission as custodian. There is a whole lot to look after continually, but no salary connected with it. Mr. Gandy has been faithful to his trust, however, and is looking after the most interests of the territory. The last congress made a tender of the old fort and all the grounds and improvements to the territory for an insane asylum; the republican party in its territorial convention accepted the tender and pledged its support to the proposition. The entire grounds are worth $200,000 to the territory the estimation of Mr. Gandy who is undoubtedly better posted on the matter than any other one man in territory.

"Right now," said Mr. Gandy, "there are four hundred people living in the old fort buildings. Uncle Sam allows them to live there free of rent; they pass no lease money, and have the best water system in the territory at their command and the pastures covering 1,760 acres for their stock. Each head of a family living in the fort owns from three or four to twenty-five head of livestock and all these feed at will on government reservation."

Just one half mile west of the fort buildings is the new town of Supply City, two weeks old yesterday. It takes the place of Fitzgerald, the town started by the Indianapolis town boomer. All the Fitzgerald people have moved to Supply City and brought their buildings and improvements along, thus giving the new town quite a start. Next Saturday the people will vote bonds for the erection of a college building there, expecting to draw a large patronage from the country around.

"The people of Oklahoma must accept Fort Supply by next spring, or it will be too late. I believe, though, that the arrangements to accept the tender of congress will be made early in January. The parties, now occupying the fort, have only their wood to hustle in order to live for nothing. The water works and sewer systems, built by the government for the use of the army there, are the finest in Oklahoma, there being sufficient water for a city of ten thousand people. It was considered the healthiest army post in the United States, statistics proving it. There is enough red stone on the reservation to build business blocks for every town in the territory."

An Appeal to the Gentler Sex.

(Called for by the prevailing manner of carrying their skirts while walking.)

Oh, woman,
In your hours of ease,
Uncertain, coy,
And hard to please,
Why do you
Hold your dresses so,
When on the streets
You're pleased to go?
Say, ladies,
Are you quite aware
The way you hold them
Makes folks stare
And wonder
Not a little bit
If they were made
So tight to fit?
Or are you
To their snugness blind,
Because you cannot See behind
To learn why people
Grim and pause?
Or do you
Do it "just because?"
If you are
Thin it's not so bad,
When you are somewhat
Thickly clad;
But if you
Have a figure—why,
Words fail to tell
What meets the eye.
Dear woman,
Whoso'er it be
That makes the visions
Which we see,
Correct it,
Please, this very day,
And hold your skirts
Some other way.

Passing of the Trail.

This year probably not a single herd of cattle was driven across the plains from West Texas and Mexico to the green pastures of Kansas, Wyoming and Montana. It is the passing of the old cattle trail, which has made this Western country famous. A few years ago, as soon as spring opened the great herds of cattle were rounded up and started north to the pastures along the valleys of the Missouri and other northern rivers. The grass along the way was enough for the cattle to subsist on until the big pastures were reached. Tens of thousands of head of cattle have been transported in this manner in the years past, but it is different now.

Where it once took ninety days to make the long trip across the plains the sleek looking cattle are now placed in a train of cars and hustled across the country to their destination in ninety hours.

HURRY!

"I'd like to look at some of your curtain calicoes," said a timid looking woman to the attentive clerk at the dry goods counter.

"Certainly, ma'ma!" and the clerk began placing bolts of bright goods on the counter in front of her.

"Hurry, M'ria! For goodness' sake, hurry! We'll not get home before night if you take so much time for everything. Just any old thing will do for curtains. They ain't for the parlor, nohow. Hurry, I say!" urged the man who accompanied the timid woman.

"Fifteen yards of this piece, please," she said, touching the bolt nearest her.

"One dollar? One dollar!" grumbled the man, when it came to paying the bill. "One dollar for a few yards of flimsy striped curtain calico! Why in the nation didn't you ask the price, M'ria, I'd like to know, and tell that clerk you wouldn't take the stuff before he had a chance to cut it off? There's the money; take it and pay him and let's get started for home. At the rate you're wastin' time we won't get there today!"

"You hurry me so, 'Lijah!" ventured the timid woman "I reckon that's the reason I didn't think to ask the price. And I do hate to leave town without trying to find some yarn to match what I began to work the butterflies with on Cousin Ellen's worsted quilt. Don't you reckon we can spare time for that?"

"Good land o' liberty! Well, go ahead and see about it, and do your best to keep me out on the road till midnight, with my rheumatiz, and the team in an all-fired cold sweat! But what do you care? Go on, and hurry up while you're about it, will you? Hurry, hurry!"

And the poor woman hurried. Her mind was mixed with anxious thoughts of fleeting time and unmatched zephyrs, and the long hour she had sat in the wagon and held the horses in obedience to her, liege lord's orders that morning while he swapped political badinage with a friend on the street corner. If time had been wasted, who had wasted it? Thinking and worrying, her face covered with weary wrinkles, she trembling turned from the dry goods counter and hastened out for the long ride back to the farm.

Think of it—the miserableness of it, and not for that day alone was the trial, but for all the years of her life was that patient mortal to be kept continually dog-trotting before her 'Lijah's everlasting "Hurry, hurry!" The poor, to-be-pitted M'rias! How many of them are tied to these ought-to-be-squelched 'Lijahs.

AN EVENINGS ENTERTAINMENT.

Apropos of amusement for young people, an account of one pleasant evening's entertainment may not come amiss.

It was a typical Texas evening. The moon shone brightly from her high arch in the unclouded sky. The wind was accommodating and lay low. Several dozen of young people and many of their older friends gathered on the lawn and verandas of the hospitable home where the Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor had invited them.

Out door games were played, even the old, old "Black man" and "Drop the handkerchief" not being omitted.

It is wonderful how enthusiastic and happy a large crowd can become over a simple game.

A few games went on indoors, but for the most part the entertainment was outside, as it was intended to be, for the balmy air was inviting. A piano and sweet voices added charm to the occasion.

At tables on the lawn cakes and ices were served to all, and pretty paper napkins bearing appropriate Christian Endeavor symbols were used, many of which were presented as souvenirs.

Prizes, both grand and booby, were awarded in connection with a few of the games, and this wise admixture of incentives gave increased zest to the sport.

It was evident that everybody had a really good time. And there was not an objectionable feature connected with it. The plan is recommended to those who are questioning for ways of getting together to enjoy themselves.

One of the rare things in a daily newspaper is a readable editorial. The WORLD, of Kansas City, Mo., is one of the few papers which daily contains this rarity. Its editorials present important questions of the day, whether political, social, public or domestic, in clear, entertaining style, a style distinctly peculiar, too. In short, pithy sentences, the salient features of a subject are presented to a public that is sated with scattered reading. Then the editorial writer of the WORLD has a way, wholly unconventional, of selecting topics which touch the heart, and showing up in home circle that this praise of them is given.

Names of authors quoted in issue of September 1, are as follows: 1. Walter Savage Landor, 2 Paul. (Acts 17:28.) 3. Scott. 4. Emerson. As usual, cousin Harriet, Katherine Howes, Grace Lewis and Mrs. R. A. L. sent complete lists and two new members were added to the list of correct guessers, Bertha Pendleton and Millicent B. Blome.

A FIRE SCREEN.

Margaret Flindt, in her chatty letter to "Aunt Mary's department, says: "Let us come here with our brightest ideas, our most successful experiences, our happiest thoughts, and yes, our hardest ridden hobbies."

From that attractive list one hesitates before selecting a subject—it conjures up so much. I pass over "brightest ideas" as woefully lacking in this quarter, and pass on to "successful experiences." Perhaps my fire-scene which has been much admired by my friends, may be classed under that heading and with pleasure I describe it as best I may.

First, a frame was fashioned of wood, made to fit snugly in place. This was then covered with denim of a pretty blue shade (my room being finished in blue and white) which was tightly stretched, and tacked to the back of frame. Then my paints and brushes were brought into service, and two sprays of my favorite wild flowers, white daisies with yellow centres, were painted on the screen, one in the lower left hand corner, and a smaller one in the upper right hand corner. The material cost little, and it took but a short while in which to make it. It has been used two summers, and is still fresh and bright, being of a shade that does not show too readily unsightly stains and fly specks.

Next Spring I shall make one for a friend of white oil-cloth instead of denim. In place of white daisies with yellow centres, we shall have yellow ones with the centres brown. In other words, oxe-eyed daisies will take the place of starry-eyed marguerites.

WHY ARE YOU POOR?

Is it because your ancestors were poor? Or is it because you spent in riotous living the heritage they left you?

Is it because you spend money faster than you earn it? Or is it because you are simply unfortunate and unappreciated and cannot hold a job?

Is it because you have too many poor relations dependent upon you? Or is it because the relations you have depended upon are too poor to help you along adequately?

Or is it because you are not economical in your kitchen? Do you throw away all the cold pieces of bread, meat, vegetables and fruits instead of transforming them into sustaining dishes and dainty desserts?

Do you let your stand uncovered until they lose their strength? Do you leave dried fruits and vegetables long without examining, until worms and mold render it unfit for use? Do you leave vegetables to sprout and rot in a damp cellar? Do you leave wooden tubs, barrels and buckets to dry and fall to pieces in the sun? Do you scald your wooden handled knives, or scrape pans and kettles with the silver ones? Do you leave your clothesline flapping in the wind until the clothes are half worn out with the whipping?

Do you patronize the poorest doctor in town because he is the cheapest? Do you habitually consume the poorer grades of food because they cost less and go farther?

Do you buy the cheapest quality of clothes because the price is likewise the cheapest?

Do you worry because you are not rich?

Any and all of the foregoing questions, answered affirmatively will show sufficient excuse for being poor, sure.

A HANDY PIN CUSHION.

I have on my sewing room wall the handiest pin cushion you ever have not seen. It is made of the two colors that are to be so much in vogue this winter, green and blue. We used to think that a horrible combination, but now that milliners have sent forth the decree it is just the thing and whatever aspires to be the latest must show its colors of blue and green in the prevailing fashionable shade. Hence my choice.

This cushion is really a combination of cushions. There are six separate cushions, three of the green, three blue, material silk, each four inches square and filled with soft wool. A tiny silk cord goes all around the edges of each, a blue cord around a green cushion, green cord around each blue cushion. The cushions are tacked together, one above another, corner to corner, alternately colors, making one long vertical cushion composed of four sections.

At the right and left corners of each small section are attached tiny tassels, colors arranged as the cords were, to contrast with the cushion, and small bows of changeable blue-and-green silk ribbon are attached over points where sections are joined together.

I wish I could send you a picture of this cushion, it is so pretty, but I think any one can make one just like it from these directions.

HALF MOON PIES.

This is the time of year when fried pies begin to be delicious. Here is one kind that will melt in the children's mouths: Add half a teaspoonful of salt to four cups of sifted flour for the crust. Mix with a half a cup of shortening, either butter or lard, (Continued on page 14.)

and moisten with cold water or sweet milk. Roll thin. Invert a large saucer and cut around it with a sharp-pointed knife. For filling, use apples or peaches mashed, sweetened and spiced. Place a few spoonfuls on half of each circle, fold the other half over and pinch the edges together with a fork or thumb and finger. Fry in boiling hot lard, not crowding the half moons, and turning each often and carefully until both sides are richly browned.

AUNT BLANCHE.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 7.—For the American Royal Cattle and Swine Show to be held in Kansas City October 20 to 25 inclusive, the railroads of Texas have made the unusual concession of a flat one fare rate for the round trip, with a liberal time limit. This rate applies to the entire territory of the Southwestern Passenger Bureau which includes Southeastern Kansas, and parts of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory. The rate from other points is one fare plus $2 for the round trip.

Each day makes it more plain that this year's show will be far greater than any of its predecessors. Reports from the headquarters of the Hereford, Shorthorn, Galloway and Aberdeen-Angus breeding associations are to the effect that the number of cattle entered for the show will be greater than for any cattle show ever held in this country. Secretary Thomas of the Hereford association says approximately 300 animals will be entered in the individual classes in the Hereford division, and as many more in the carload lot classes. Eleven car load lots of Herefords had been entered up to October 1, and the time for receiving entries was extended to October 18 in order to accommodate a number of cattlemen who were waiting to see if they can get their animals in condition for the show. The Cady & Olmstead Jewelry company of this city has offered a special prize of a sterling silver cup valued at $100 for the best four animals, either sex, the get of one sire, open to all breeds. This prize will bring out the finest lot of cattle ever seen in one ring.

It has been $10 years since there was an exhibit of Angus cattle in this city. This year the Angus breeders are going to exert themselves, and W. C. McGavock, manager of the Angus division of the show says that every prominent breeder of "doddies" in the United States will be represented. Among the animals entered will be the famous show heifer Blackcap Judy which sold last February for $6,300, and which was undefeated until last week when a heifer recently imported from the herd of Lord Roseberry of England won over her at the Illinois state fair. The imported heifer was defeated for the championship by an American cow. The three animals will meet at Kansas City, and are sure to excite great interest.

The swine department of the show promises to be very successful. The number of entries of Berkshires, Poland Chinas and Duroc-Jerseys will be large.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 7.—The live stock interests of Kansas City are preparing to make the visit of the breeders and stockmen to Kansas City during the American Royal Cattle and Swine Show, October 20 to 25 inclusive, pleasant as well as profitable. The Kansas City Live Stock Exchange and the Traders' Live Stock Exchange have jointly outlined a plan for entertaining the visitors which is at once unique and practical. The show will be held at the stock yards during the daytime, the visitors having their nights to spend at the Horse Show, the theatres and other places of amusement. In addition to the band which will be on duty all day in the show tent, one of the best bands in the city has been engaged to give a daily free concert from noon to 2 p. m. in front of the Live Stock Exchange Building. An office room on the first floor of the building is being fitted up as a bureau of information. It will be in charge of a force of young men thoroughly familiar with the city, and a corps of experienced men and eager boys will be at the disposal of the visitors to act as guides.

One of the features of this bureau of information will be a boarding house directory, where visitors may receive information, free of charge, regarding desirable rooms in boarding houses and private residence, together with rates and accommodations. In view of the fact that the hotels are likely to be crowded this week, this boarding house directory will be found of great value to strangers. It will be the business of the information bureau to furnish information on any subject desired regarding the city, places of interest, streets, street railways, running of trains, amusements, and the like. Visitors to the show are expected to freely avail themselves of it.

The stock yards company and the managements of the big packing houses are making especial arrangements for the entertainment of visitors during the show week. Every facility will be afforded strangers for seeing all there is to be seen. It is expected that the cattle and swine show and the horse show will bring out the biggest crowd of the year, and the city will exert itself to see that the visitors are well entertained.

Classified Live Stock Census.

Ever since its organization, the National Live Stock Association has been working hard to secure the adoption of some law providing for gathering vital statistics on the live stock industry in the United States. While the improvement in the last census has been the only tangible result seen by the public, yet considerable progress has been made toward the end aimed at. The establishment of the census office as a regular department of the government was the first step and this was warmly backed by the Association. The next step is to secure a bureau of live stock statistics in that department.

At the request of the Association, Congressman Hopkins, Chairman of the House Census Committee, introduced an amendment to the Census Act, providing for "A classified enumeration and value of live stock," which shall be made under such rules and regulations as the director of the department may deem best. This was introduced so late that it was impossible to secure a report on the amendment at last session, but it will be vigorously pushed during the coming session. The measure has the endorsement of the Department of Agriculture as well as the census department, and there is a strong hope that it will be possible to start the bureau in time for another general census in 1905. There can be no question of the necessity of reliable statistics regarding live stock in this country. Next to the bread supply, the meat supply of the country is the most important, and every year demonstrates the need of statistics that can be depended upon. The census of 1900 was good as far as it went, but with no figures with which to compare, that census is practically useless until another is taken. To secure a reliable basis upon which a bureau of statistics could work, there should be three complete census made of the live stock in consecutive years and after that every five years. If this was done, a bureau could very easily keep close estimate of the changes taking place and such estimates would be of the greatest value to trade and commerce as well as to the farmers and stock raisers. For instance, this season there has been a wholesale slaughter of female cattle, and in addition thousands of heifers have been spayed. It is possible that this very act may result in a scarcity of breeding cattle shortly. At present almost nothing is known in regard to the supply and demand for meat cattle. The country might be on the verge of a shortage which would send meat prices far beyond the top figures of this year, and no one could say such a shortage exists until it was actually here. The markets are completely controlled by the visible supply actually on the market from day to day and farmers may be selling their stock at panic prices when the actual conditions do not justify those prices.

If the government finds it profitable to collect statistics on the grain crops of the country, cotton and manufactures, there can be no valid or logical argument against collecting statistics on the meat supply. One is as important as the other and statistics are fully as necessary for the proper conduct of trade and commerce.

More than eight million farmers and stock raisers are interested in this measure. They represent $5,000,000,000 of invested capital, an besides being a protection to the producer and consumer against the speculator, a law of this kind is due this great army of agriculturists and should be enacted.

Columbus, having done his little egg trick, looked around for applause.

"Of course," sneered a guest, "it's easy for an explorer like you to manipulate the lay of the land."

Stung by the insinuation, Christopher soon got revenge by calling on him for an after-dinner speech.
