

Our Viewpoint by L. E. B.

Where the Fault Lies.

The only way taxes can be controlled is to limit the functions of government.

It is an ironical fact that millions of voters now complaining of high taxes have been responsible for increasing taxes by broadening official functions and increasing the number of departments.

When government goes into business individual rights are abrogated and public expense increased. In condemning bureaucracy we must condemn ourselves for fostering and encouraging it.

We get as good government as we deserve by our actions. If democracy fails the responsibility and the blame belongs to the people for not curbing officialism.

An important point that crusaders for anti-gun laws apparently overlook is that the small arm and the small arms industry is vital to our national defense.

Their experience with guns as civilians is largely responsible for the efficiency of green American troops in all wars. Our gun manufacturing industry has always been ready to turn its facilities to producing large quantities of arms for the government when the need arose.

To deprive a citizen of the right to own his gun is tantamount to depriving him of part of his heritage.

The American has always been noted for his interest in sports. Shooting for pleasure is certainly a harmless diversion—and it is one that may serve well on some occasions.

Punish those who misuse a gun, but don't do so at the expense of the law-abiding.

It is to be hoped that during 1931 more states will go in for "save-a-life" motor vehicle inspection campaigns such as those conducted in ten states in 1930.

This movement is something more than an appeal to automobile owners to see that their machines are in good condition. Usually the campaign is backed up by a law making inspections of brakes, headlights, steering mechanism and horns obligatory.

During 1930, in the ten states, 3,500,000 cars were examined—and over a million had defective brakes, 2,000,000 had unsafe headlights, and 219,000 had defective steering.

The ill-conditioned car causes accidents. The newspapers are filled with stories of cars which suddenly swerve from their courses to collide with other cars or trees or to leave the road; of drivers being blinded by glaring headlights and running into disaster, and so on.

There is no room on our highway for cars which are not mechanically safe, or for reckless and irresponsible drivers.

Last year the "save-a-life" campaigns produced splendid results in the ten states where they were conducted. Making the movement nationwide would be a fine way of beginning a real fight against highway accidents.

It may be the opinion of the average city dweller that the U. S. is pretty well provided with good roads. But such is not the case. Most of the good highways lead from city to city and over trunk routes from state to state.

Five million farmers, according to an authoritative survey, are cut off from their markets during a large part of each year by impassable roads.

One very definite way to secure a practical kind of farm relief would be to set apart a specific portion of all available road funds to be applied to the building of low-cost, waterproof-surfaced, farm-to-market highways connecting up with through roads and enabling residents on outlying farms to do their shopping and marketing easily and conveniently at all times of the year.

That cooperation pays is evidenced by the fact that the Dairymen's League cooperative association of New York State handled a bigger percentage of its supply and surplus products from its farmer members during the past April than for any April since 1923.

Anvil Work of Aged North Dakota Smithy Brings Him College Degree

THANKS, thanks to thee, my worthy friend, For the lesson thou hast taught! Thus at the flaming forge of life Our fortunes must be wrought."

THESE were the lines, you recall, that Longfellow addressed more than half a century ago to "The Village Blacksmith," in his memorable poem.

Out in Fargo, N. D., the other day, North Dakota Agricultural College, like Longfellow, rendered its thanks to a blacksmith. But instead of dedicating a poem to him, presented him the honorary degree of master of artisans.

Work Brings Fame

Haile Chisholm is his name, and to him goes the rare distinction of being perhaps the first blacksmith in this country to receive an honorary college degree on the merits of his work as a smithy.

For 29 years, "the college blacksmith," as he is known, has been an instructor in metal and official blacksmith for the institution.

His recognition results not so much from his long and loyal service to the institution as from his intricate hand-wrought iron pieces which have gained him wide repute. In Fargo folks say "he has the soul of an artist." And they point to his most important work, the hand-wrought gate and gateway which leads into the famous Roosevelt Park on the grounds of the North Dakota state capitol at Bismarck.

Retire? A Raise, Rather!

Haile Chisholm has heard the merry ring of the anvil for 66 years. Born in upper New York state Oct. 22, 1851, he went to work as a smith at the age of 14, having learned the trade from his father. He has been at it ever since.

In 1888, after he had worked as a railroad blacksmith in Vermont, he came to Fargo to work for the Northern Pacific railroad. He left that job in 1902 to accept another at the state college. As he was getting along in years he resolved to stay at the college 10 years and retire.

Haile Chisholm, "the college smithy" at work at his forge at North Dakota Agricultural College. He is thought to be the first blacksmith to receive a college degree on the merits of his forge work.

When the 10 years had passed, Mr. Chisholm, at the age of 70, advised the college authorities that he was ready to retire. "I thought," he said, "that they would want to be getting rid of me by that time." But the college authorities answered by giving him a raise in salary and sent him back to work. "So now," the college smithy says, "it is up to them—I'll stay as long as they want me."

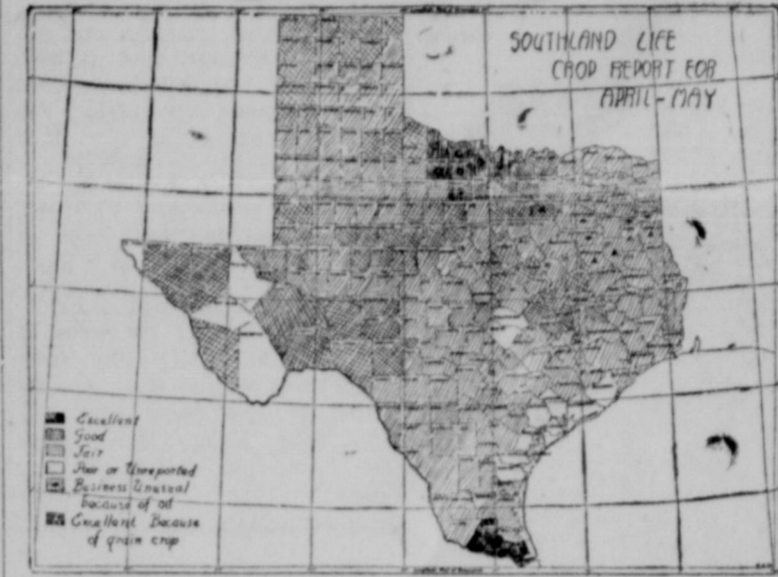

His Ten-Hour Day

Chisholm, despite his advanced years, works arduously at the anvil 10 hours a day. He spends his leisure time making the designs he later works out in iron. Though machinery has ruined the business of making hand-wrought iron work, this gray-haired artisan of the forge says there are so few workers in iron left that the demand far exceeds the supply.

Just after Chisholm had been awarded his degree at a ceremony at which college deans, city and state officials were present, a reception was given in his honor in Fargo's "Lincoln Log Cabin." In the cabin were three hand-wrought chandeliers, fireplace sets, candlesticks, candelabra, and lamps and other small pieces. All of them had come from the master's forge.

Crop Report

There is one unusually bright spot on the April-May crop report for Texas, compiled by the department of public relations of the Southland life insurance company.

That bright spot is contained in a number of counties around Wichita Falls. Reports from that section are that the greatest wheat crop in the history of the state and one of the greatest crops of small grains are in prospect. Special reports from county agents indicate that the crop has been produced at the smallest cost of any crop in years and that it will bring even more actual cash, even with low prices, than ever before, since farmers have been able to borrow little or no money. In addition, of course, some of the crop is being produced from seed provided by the Red Cross.

Indications still are that the cotton acreage for the state will be decreased at least ten per cent. Weather conditions so far have been none too favorable because of rains and unusually cold. However, last minute indications were that most of the crop is now in the ground and that the dry spell of the past ten days has done a great deal of good. There is, of course, no indication of the probability of insect infestation other than grave fears that insects will be worse this year than for several years past.

Reports from over the entire state are that there has been a rather surprising increase in the building activity. A considerable part of this, however, is activity of state and federal governments—both in buildings and in roads. Business conditions are rated generally as very slow, but optimistic for the future. East Texas is still very much on the boom because of oil development and with some dry, sunny days, should have a bumper vegetable crop. The Rio Grande valley, as usual, is rated excellent.

Homer T. Walker Succeeds M. Lacy as Magnolia Agent

Once again the Magnolia Petroleum company has changed agents here. Some time ago M. Lacy purchased the interests of J. C. Wilkinson, and now Mr. Lacy turns the agency over to Homer T. Walker, who will take charge of the property immediately. Just last week Mr. Lacy released the Advance-Rumely agency and now only has the Avery combine.

Homer T. Walker is well known to the people of this section. He has made his home here for many years. When Mr. Lacy first took over the Magnolia he worked for him as station attendant, later leaving the station and going into the insurance field as a salesman of half insurance. His large acquaintance among farmers will aid him in making a success of his new undertaking.

CROWDED TERMINALS TO FORCE WHEAT STORAGE ON FARMS THIS YEAR

With all terminal elevators and mills practically full of wheat and with all available ships and barges already overflowing, wheat farmers this season who ship their 1931 crop to the terminal markets may find their wheat left in the cars indefinitely and their profits eaten by extended demurrage costs.

As conditions appear now, according to the Board of Trade officials in Kansas City, the wheat grower this year must, whether he chooses or not, plan to take care of at least a part of his wheat on the farm.

Much of the wheat no doubt will be dumped on the ground. However, the wheat buyers at the city terminals have sent out repeated warnings that wheat dumped on the ground will be docked at the markets for discoloration, ground odor and foreign matter content. Waste and damage from rodents also add to the loss from this careless method of handling wheat, and the Kansas College of Agriculture reports an ever increasing number of modern wheat farmers who are preparing suitable storage for their 1931 crop.

Tests conducted at Hays, Kansas, the last two years show that wheat from the combine may be safely stored if its moisture content is not above 14 1/2 per cent. To avoid higher moisture content the college cautions against starting the combines before the wheat is ripe, or running the combine when dew or rain is upon the ground.

J. B. Hamm left for Harper, Kansas, where he will be looking after business interests for a few days.

Mrs. Sykes and son, Don Marcus, and Miss Aileen Arnold of Muleshoe were guests of Mrs. Wright Williams Tuesday.

Miss Alice Guyer who has been attending C. I. A. at Denton the past term returned home last Sunday.

Ervin Johnson, who visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Kiel at Nacona returned home Sunday and was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Jewel Johnson, who spent the past two months with relatives at Nacona.

J. C. Wilkinson was a business visitor in Amarillo Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Smoky Price were business visitors in Clovis Tuesday.

Mrs. Bill King is visiting relatives and friends at Hollis, Oklahoma, this week.

Friona High Agricultural Club.

The Friona high agricultural club met Saturday night, May 30, with eleven boys present, including Mr. Heath, Roy Johnson and Dennis White chose up for a game of volleyball. During the game we had the pleasure of seeing a wrestling match between Mr. Heath and Paul Parr when Mr. Heath tried to whip Paul for a bad play, and it was interesting. The reporter and Paul Parr were high point players, scoring practically nothing.

After the game Mr. Heath told us about hard times and pretty scenes in Colorado where he had been touring. He said one of the most beautiful scenes was a man named Geo. A. Heath courting his wife under a Colorado moon.

After we finished talking the losing team sadly led the winners to town to treat them with milk shakes. They tried to hold back the drippings from their watering mouths, but it was useless, so they gave up and called for a glass of water.

We urge those who were absent to rejoin us next club meeting night and enjoy a good time with us. Don't forget your club dues. R. E. Reporter.

Santa Fe Has Plans Pick-up And Delivery

From The Hereford Brand
A service of sweeping importance and one designed to recover freight tonnage will be inaugurated by the Santa Fe railroad about July 1, according to a statement issued recently by the freight traffic department of the system at Topeka, Kansas.

Plans are for each local station to pick up and deliver merchandise freight of less than carload shipments, free of cost to shippers. For distances greater than 300 miles the railroad will charge the shippers ten cents a hundred for picking up and delivering, but if consignor performs the pick up or delivers to the station his goods an allowance of five cents a hundred will be made him.

This new service has been made imperative on account of truck competition which is practically monopolizing the short haul business, since shipper and receiver are both relieved of any trouble over transportation details.

Officials of the road hope to recapture through this measure much of their lost business.

Utility Rates To Come Up At Lubbock Meet

Lubbock, June 10.—Municipal problems of today will be the theme of the 19th annual convention of the League of Texas Municipalities and City Managers association that will meet here next Monday and Tuesday.

A number of pertinent questions that every city has will be brought up on the convention floor. One of the subjects will be reasons why cities are interested in municipal ownership of utilities, covered by R. E. McDonnell, Kansas City.

Leon Goodman, Midland, president of the newly-formed association of towns served by the West Texas Gas company, is scheduled for a talk. These towns are now dealing with the gas company for a reduction in rates.

Tax Assessor Given Duties In Census Law

(From The Hereford Brand)
Mack Beach, county tax assessor, has had an important new function added to his duties by enactment of a farm census law by the last legislature. The law provides for an annual and continuous census of acreages, production, and livestock and stipulates that tax assessors must gather up the data.

Such a statute was requested by the federal agriculture department.

ment, A. & M. College, and the bureau of business research, University of Texas. Formerly crop estimates were based on much of the time on figures which had become obsolete.

The assessor's reports will be augmented and used as a basis for the weekly and monthly estimates of the federal department which will now be prepared jointly with the state farm department.

"For the first time," Commissioner J. E. McDonald commented, "we will now have a background for agricultural and industrial endeavor. We will be able to determine what we have and what are the possibilities of our natural resources."

These Summer Evenings
The most attractive homes—the ones where the youngsters of all ages like to gather—usually have a well lighted lawn or garden where folks may assemble in the cool of the evening air and enjoy various social pastimes.
There is no need to envy such surroundings. A very small outlay of money will make any home premises attractive with outdoor lighting fixtures, so you may entertain comfortably.
And electricity cost will not be enough to be noticeable, so cheap is this modern necessity and so convenient to use.

THE RESURRECTION AND THE ASCENSION.

Luke 24:25-40, 50, 51. (Revised Version)

25. And he said unto them, O foolish men, and slow of heart to believe in all that the prophets have spoken!

26. Perverse, not the Christ to suffer these things, and to enter into His glory?

27. And beginning from Moses and from all the prophets, he interpreted to them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself.

28. And he drew nigh unto the village, whither they were going; and as if he were going, he would go further.

29. And they constrained him, saying, Abide with us; for it is toward evening, and the day is now far spent. And he went in to abide with them.

30. And it came to pass, when he had sat down with them to meat, he took the bread and blessed; and breaking it he gave to them.

31. And their eyes were opened, and they knew him; and he vanished out of their sight.

32. And they said one to another, Was not our heart burning within us, while he spake to us in the way, while he opened to us the scriptures?

33. And they rose up that very hour, and returned to Jerusalem, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them.

34. Saying, The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon.

35. And they rehearsed the things that happened in the way, and how he was known of them in the breaking of the bread.

36. And as they spake these things, he himself stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

37. But they were terrified and affrightened, and supposed that they beheld a spirit.

38. And he said unto them, Why are ye troubled? and wherefore do questionings arise in your heart? See my hands and my feet, that it is I myself, handle me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye behold me having.

39. And when he had said this, he showed them his hands and his feet.

40. And he led them out until they were over against Bethany; and he lifted up his hands and blessed them.

41. And it came to pass, while he blessed them, he parted from them, and was carried up into heaven.

Golden Text: It is Christ Jesus that died, yea rather, that was raised from the dead, who is at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us.—Rom. 8:34.

Time: The resurrection, Sunday, April 9, A. D. 30. The appearance of all apostles, including Thomas, Sunday, April 16. The ascension, Thursday, May 18.

Place: Jerusalem, Emmaus, Galilee, the Mount of Olives near Bethany.

Introduction.

The Saviour died on the cross about three o'clock on the afternoon of Friday, and was buried in the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea. The women who had come with Jesus out of Galilee followed to the tomb, and having marked the place went away to prepare spices and ointments for his body. Early Sunday morning they started for the tomb while it was still dark. Angels met them with the startling announcement: "He is not here, but is risen." The women went quickly to tell the disciples, to whom at first their story was "idle talk." But soon Peter came saying that the risen Lord had appeared to him.

Jesus Talks With Two Disciples.

Our lesson relates the experience of two disciples on the way to Emmaus in the late afternoon of the resurrection day. Read Luke 24:13-24. As the troubled men went their way, talking over the tragedy and their disappointment, a stranger joined them and asked what they were talking about. They were astonished at his apparent ignorance of the Crucifixion and told him the sad story. They concluded their recital with two significant statements with which our lesson is directly connected: (1) "We hoped that it was he who would redeem Israel." (2) Certain women reported that he was alive and certain disciples went and found the tomb empty, but him they saw not."

O Foolish Men.

"And he said unto them, O foolish men." The Greek adjective is far from being the contemptuous expression which Christ forbade in the Sermon on the Mount, Matt. 5:22, and is also much gentler than the term applied by Christ to the Pharisees in Luke 11:40. "And slow of heart to believe in all that the prophets have spoken!" The three years of Christ's ministry had given them ample time to learn of God's plan of redemption and to watch its unfolding, in the life of the Son of God, so perfectly fulfilling the Old Testament prophecies. The disciples did believe some of these prophecies, those predicting the Messiah's power and the glory of his kingdom; but they had failed to grasp the equally clear prophecies of Christ's humiliation and his terrible death. Therefore, the crucifixion found them totally unprepared.

Jesus Explains the Prophecies.

With the same patience with which he had taught them during his ministry Jesus undertook to establish in the hearts of these two and the others the fact and significance of his resurrection. With those two, not apostles, he began at once there on the highway. In a question he asserted that it was necessary for the Messiah to suffer and afterwards enter into glory. Glory, triumph was to follow, and ought to be expected. Indeed they would be looking for his resurrection if they followed the prophetic revelation. Then he began to quote Scripture, showing them the law and the prophets the things concerning himself, both as to his sufferings and his glory.

Again verses 44-48, we find him with the larger group of disciples after they had recognized him, going over the same things. With patience and wondrous wisdom he interpreted Moses, the prophets and the psalms, relating all to himself.

Jesus Opened Disciples' Minds.

Not only did he open the Scriptures, but he opened their minds to understand. And for the first time they had room in their minds for the Messiah's Cross, and saw not only the possibility, but the necessity and inevitability of the resurrection to the redemptive plan of the ages. They beheld with new eyes Christ's authority and glory equal to humanity's deepest need, powerful to break sin's strongest bonds. Without any misgivings they can now urge all men everywhere to turn from sin to Christ, the conqueror of sin and death.

The two on the road did not see all of this as the stranger spoke to them, but as they later confessed, their hearts began to burn within them.

Jesus Made Himself Known.

"And their eyes were opened, and they knew him." Three days in the grave, with the terrible experience of the crucifixion, had so changed the body in which the Lord moved that it was not recognized by his friends until perception was quickened by the familiar tones of his voice, as when Mary Magdalene at first thought him to be the gardener, or, as here, by some characteristic act or gesture in the blessing of the bread. "It was a rule with the Jews that when three of them ate together, one should give thanks; and when the stranger took the bread and spread it before heaven, and gave thanks, they saw in his hands the prints of the nails, and the coincident recollection of his manner of blessing food, and the resuming on his own part of the gracious and glorious expression of look and voice which, once known, could never be forgotten, opened their eyes, and they knew him."

"And he vanished out of their sight." He had accomplished what he manifested himself to accomplish, had comforted the two disciples and filled them with the joy and inspiration of his continued spiritual presence. His bodily presence was no longer needed.

The Forty Days.

Luke omits the appearance of Christ which followed the forty days from his resurrection to his ascension, gradually decreasing in number, so as to accustom the disciples to his absence from them. Thomas was absent from the meeting on the evening of Easter Sunday and refused to believe without himself seeing and touching the risen Lord; therefore a week later Christ paid another visit to the disciples in the upper room, and completely convinced the doubter. Later in April he appeared on the shore of the Sea of Galilee to seven disciples who, led by Peter, had gone back, unsuccessfully, to their old business of fishing. Then came the grand rendezvous in Galilee, when Christ appeared to more than 500 disciples at once (1 Cor. 15:16), followed by an appearance (1 Cor. 15:7) to James, probably the chief of Christ's unbelieving brothers, who became at once a leader in the church in Jerusalem. The final appearance, at the close of the 40 days, was to the Eleven in Jerusalem.

The Ascension.

"And it came to pass, while he blessed them, he parted from them, and was carried up into heaven." As Luke later described the event, "He was taken up, and a cloud received him out of their sight," (Acts 1:9) "The rapt disciples stood gazing up into that part of the heavens where they had last beheld their Lord. Suddenly two men in white apparel stood beside the silent group, and one said, 'Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye looking into heaven? This Jesus, who was received up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye behold him going into heaven.' The disciples returned to Jerusalem with great joy. They who, forty days before, were in the darkness of despair, now continually praised God, and waited for the further direction of Jesus."—Charles F. Deems.

Special Lesson.

"The resurrection of Jesus stands fast as a fact, unaffected by the boastful waves of skepticism that ceaselessly through the ages beat themselves against it; retains its significance as a corner stone in the edifice of human redemption; and holds within it the vastest hope for time and for eternity that humanity can ever know."—Prof. James Orr.

The Risen Jesus.

"He is risen, He is risen, Sing aloud the glad refrain, He who slept in death's dark prison, Now in glory lives again. Hallelujah! praise Him, Waft your anthems to the throne; Let the nations bow before Him, And the King of Glory own."

Patrol Clamps Down On Motor Car Violations

(From the Hereford Brand)
The Pickwick-Greyhound bus, which was tied up here Wednesday noon of last week through arrest of the driver by John Keller, state license and weight inspector, on a charge of operating a vehicle more than eight feet wide, was driven over to Clovis Thursday night when permission was secured from the state highway department, allowing the company until the following Sunday to get the over-width buses out of Texas.
Bond was posted by R. A. Burnett, the driver, and he was released. The case will be tried later unless a plea of guilty is entered and fine paid.
Keller did some clamping down on operators found violating the traffic laws. On the same Wednesday afternoon the driver of the Hot Shot truck line, doing interstate business, was taken in charge and complaint filed that he was running his vehicle without a muffler.

Safety First In Trouble.
Pending negotiations between the Pickwick attorneys and the highway department over the stoppage of buses in Texas, measuring over eight feet in width, the Safety First line took over the schedule. Keller came near putting under arrest the driver of the Thursday morning east bound Safety First bus when he noted that the front license plate was concealed behind the bumper.
A concession was made and the bus was permitted to take the passengers to Amarillo where a correction was promised.

Several oil and gas transportation trucks were inspected and weighed and a few local people passed muster by a narrow margin.
On the bus delayed here last week were three trans-continental and several inter-state passengers. They were embittered at the inconvenience and intimated they would see attorneys about filing damage claims against the state.

Officials Get Busy.
Burnett, the driver, got in communication with the Amarillo office over the arrest and passenger delay and the event was transmitted to regional and head offices of the company which is one of the big concerns of the nation. Burnett is authority for the statement that a representative of the Kansas City office proceeded at once to Austin to see the commissioners.

RED TOP GRAIN BINS

The Choice of the Master Farmer!

The Year-Round Bin Most economical for small grain, corn (shelled or ear corn), rat-proof storage or brooder house.

POPULAR SIZES

500 Bu. $22.00

1000 Bu. 118.00

INSURE YOUR PROFITS

Keep your grain in weather-tight, rat and fire-proof bins... Avoid shrinkage and waste while you wait for higher market. "They pay for themselves the first year," say thousands of satisfied users of Red-Top grain bins! "They are convenient, safe, and most economical." A 10c advance in the price of your wheat will pay for a 1600 bu. bin.

PORTABLE... RIGID...

Body sheets are strengthened by vertical corrugations and horizontal swedges. Roof is stiffened by raised box joints. Port holes above the door and in the roof enable Red-Top bins to hold the maximum capacity as well as filling direct from the thresher. Ventilating tube, steel door-board with sacking spout and hooks, and scoop board are standard equipment. Made in sizes from 500 Bu. to 2150 Bu. capacity.

Red Bottom Stock Tanks

Assure your stock of a plentiful supply of water at all times... no worry of leaks or caved-in side-walls. Made in both round and round-end style with patent tube top, reinforcing triple swedges, and double lock-seam bottom.
