Budget plan: spending up, taxes up

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

Big Spring city councilmen are studying an $11.6 million budget proposal for fiscal year 1984 that calls for a 2.3-cent property tax increase and three full-time jailers for the police department.

City Manager Don Davis said Friday the new employees will enable the department to provide a 24-hour watch over the city jail.

The council received the city staff's budget proposal last week and is expected to vote on it Sept. 13. A public hearing on the budget and tax recommendations will be held at 6:30 p.m. that day at City Hall at Fourth and

"I hate to see (taxes) go up, but then everything's going up."

Noian.
The current fiscal year budget is $11.1 million, and the tax rate is 65.7 cents per $100 property valuation. Councilmen contacted said they could make no comment until they had more time to review the proposals.

"We're going to go through it to see if there is something — some expenditure — we can do without to avoid an increase," Councilman Jack Y. Smith said Saturday. "I hate to see (taxes) go up, but then everything's going up."

Davis said the proposed increase in the tax rate to 68 cents per $100 value is necessary to offset lower sales tax revenues and revenue losses from last year's property reappraisal.

The city's 1984 general fund, which would benefit from the added revenue, will have $382,108 less in total funds available than last year, according to estimates released by Davis. The tax increase would add about $70,000 to the fund.

According to figures, the city is taking in $79,840 less in ad valorem taxes this year than it did in 1981-1982.

The budget proposal does not include revenue sharing funds, Davis said, because the city is still uncertain how much will be available.

The police department expense proposal for the coming fiscal year is about $282,000 higher than this year's expected costs. Slight increases are also proposed in legal, sanitation, parks, golf course and health expenditures.

Decreases are proposed in city hall, fire department, streets, data processing and animal control expenditures.

For Bauer students, school's a little longer

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

When the school bell rings for afternoon dismissal at most schools, teachers and students in the Bauer Magnet School extended-day program swing into action.

The school is a frenzy of activity at 3:15 p.m. each day as regular school shuts down and about 200 magnet students in grades 1 through 5 prepare for their enrichment courses.

First order of business is an energy-bolstering snack in the cafeteria. As the youngsters munch, buses arrive to transfer art and woodworking students to Runnels Junior High and swimming and gymnastic students to the YMCA.

As soon as these students are off, those taking music, computer, physical education and tutoring are escorted to classrooms at the Bauer campus. Although it may sound confusing, the students are working by 3:30 p.m.

A tour of the classes finds students engrossed in a computer program, talking about writing a newspaper, learning to make mosaics or refining a backstroke technique. These special programs, less formal than regular classes, offer youngsters a change of pace and a chance to relax.

"Since it's not rigidly structured and there are no grades, the atmosphere is loose and casual. We try to make it fun," said Toni Saxton, computer director in the extended-day program.

"I think kids are realizing that 'Hey, I can learn here, and there's no pressure,'" said Kay Barnett, an aide. "It's not the stereotypical classroom. I think its working well. I haven't had one kid say 'I'm bored.'"

Currently, students in the off-campus programs of swimming, gymnastics, art and woodworking participate in only that class, while the other students attend two different classes a day. For example, a student will attend computer class for 45 minutes and music class for 45 minutes.

At the end of nine weeks, students will rotate to other classes so that everyone gets a chance at each program.

"Of course, we were apprehensive at first," said Bauer Principal Jean Wilder. "We had to fuse together

Woman hurt in holiday traffic wreck

From staff and wire reports
A 21-year-old California woman was in stable condition under intensive care Saturday night after her car overturned three times on Interstate Highway 20 about four miles west of Big Spring in the area's first serious Labor Day traffic accident.

Sharon Patricia Davis of Poway, Calif., underwent surgery Saturday afternoon, a spokesman at Malone Hogan Hospital said.

She was westbound on I-20 at 8 a.m. Saturday when she ran off the south side of the lane, then over-compensated and ran off the north side of the highway, according to Texas Department of Public Safety Trooper Mike Dawson.

He said the car flipped three times, throwing Ms. Davis several feet from the wreckage. She was driving a 1982 Honda Civic, he said.

Ms. Davis suffered massive head injuries, Dawson said.

The Texas Department of Public Safety predicted Saturday that 51 persons would die on state roads over the Labor Day weekend.

Eleven persons were killed in state traffic accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and 8 p.m. Saturday, according to a spokesman at the Midland DPS office. The DPS' See Holiday, page 2A

State program designed to aid school principals

By JANET WARREN

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Texas Education Agency officials hope to start a pilot program as early as November to boost management skills for principals — identified by national studies as the keys to good schools.

Funded with a $100,000 contribution from computer tycoon H. Ross Perot's foundation, the program will be tested on 40 principals in two regions of the state — the Rio Grande Valley and Northeast Texas.

The State Education Board and the Select Committee on Public Education, which is scrutinizing the public school system, approved the project with an eye toward a statewide program.

"There have been a lot of studies on effective schools. The consensus is the key to effectiveness is good principals. Good schools have good principals," said Tom Anderson of the Texas Education Agency, who is designing the Texas pilot program. The start-up date hasn't been set but Nov. 1 or Jan. 2 are the likely dates, he said.

"The ultimate benefit should be increased academic learning for students," Anderson said.

Effective principals need many skills, Anderson said. "Good principals know the program and know what good teaching is. They know how to counsel and how to evaluate teachers and how to manage their time," Anderson said.

Although teacher evaluations are mandated by law, teachers groups have complained that many principals don't know how to critique their performances. "Now that evaluations have been tied to whether a teacher will continue to be employed, we are very concerned that evaluators know what they are doing," said Jeri Stone, general counsel and associate executive director of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association. Principals should be trained in improving instruction rather than just setting a teacher up for non-renewal of the employment contract, she said.

Her organization is concerned about management practices in Texas school districts and is pleased with prospects for the program, she said.

She noted that, at times, coaches are promoted to principals. "It is difficult to come from that area and become the instructional leader of the school" without additional training, she said.

Charles Mathews, head of the Texas Association of School Administrators, claims school administrators will be receptive to new ideas on improving their performance. He said Perot did a "splendid thing" in footing the tab for the program. "It will be much help to the principalship of the state," Mathews said.

Gov. Mark White, who appointed Perot to chair the select committee, has lauded him for giving his own funds to the pilot program and other committee efforts. "I kind of like the trend he is setting," White said.

In each of the two regions selected, pilot program participants will be chosen to represent a cross-section of schools in that region with average or below-average achievement gains for the area.

Region I contains school districts in Cameron, Hidalgo, Jim Hogg, Starr, Webb, Zapata, and Willacy counties. The other region, Region VIII, covers Morris, Titus, Delta, Cass, Bowie, Camp, Red River, Franklin, Hopkins, Lamar and Marion counties.

Dallas sheriff says DWI trial all political

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas County Sheriff Don Byrd attributes his drunken driving trial earlier this summer to a suburban police grudge and a grand jury stacked with Democrats.

Byrd, who was acquitted July 27, made the allegation in a letter to 37 county Republican organizations dated Aug. 18.

Byrd offered to explain his case to any Republican group and said: "I have served this community as a law enforcement officer for 30 years and feel I have some service left. My automobile accident is regrettable, but the facts and instigations of the case have not been fully conveyed to the public."

Byrd's four-year term as sheriff expires next year and although he easily won election in 1980 as a Republican, he acknowledges that the DWI case may hurt him in his bid for a second term.

His indictment on a misdemeanor charge of driving while intoxicated stemmed from a late-night accident April 17 in which he crashed his car into a traffic light pole in suburban University Park.

After a six-day non-jury trial, County Criminal Court Judge Tom Price acquitted Byrd after refusing to admit as evidence a hospital blood test showing the sheriff was legally drunk.

Price said the test was inadmissible under a state law protecting the confidentiality of communications between a doctor and patient. The law has been changed and the test would be admissible if Byrd went to trial now.

Byrd's defense was based on doctors' testimony that a mild stroke caused him to lose control of his late-model Lincoln. The sheriff steadfastly has maintained he was not drunk.

In his letter to the Republicans, Byrd connected his testimony in a dentist's lawsuit against University Park police and the department's investigation of his accident.

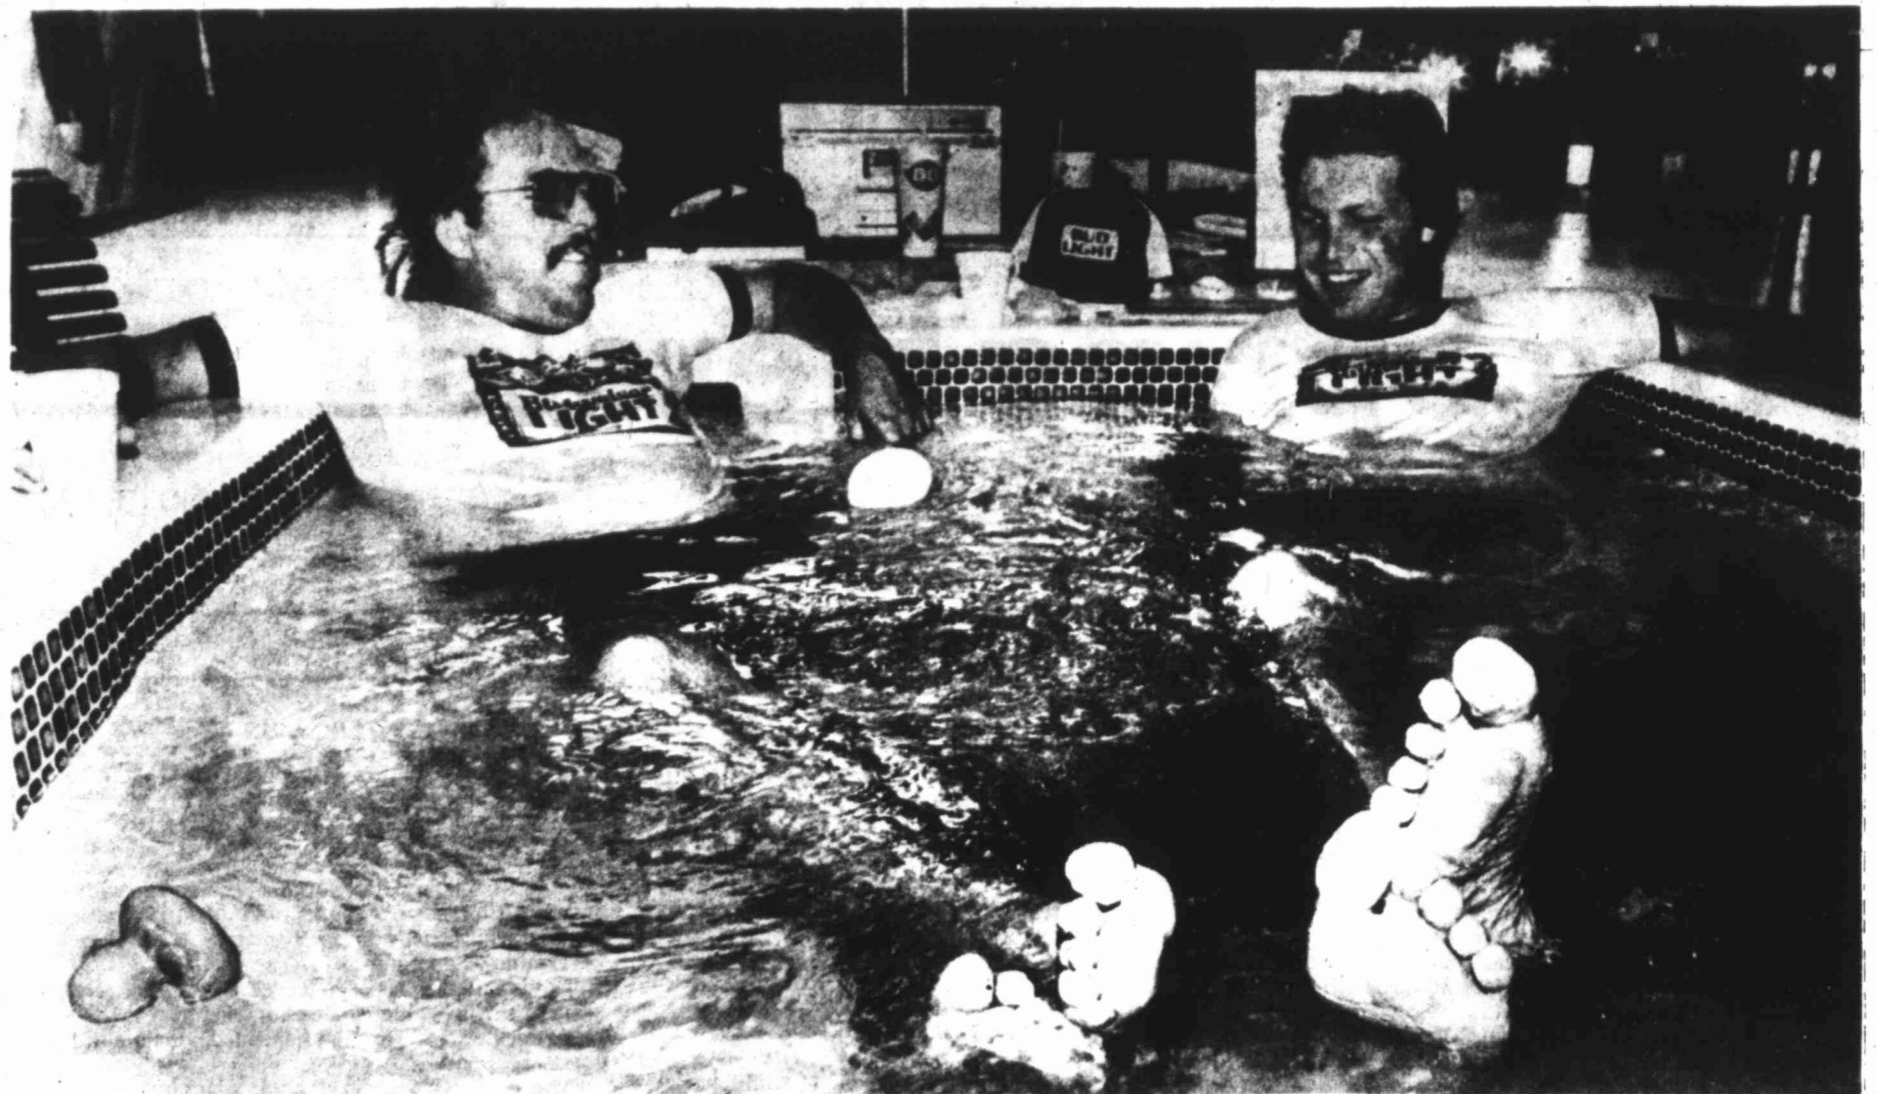

The dentist, Earle Paschall, claimed he was unlawfully arrested and beaten by police at a party at his University Park home in December 1981. The sheriff testified at the trial that he saw Paschall the day after the incident and that the dentist appeared to have been injured.

Paschall won the case and was awarded more than $2.1 million in damages.

Mother, child, 2, found dead in car

DALLAS (AP) — A Carrollton woman died of acute chronic alcoholism and her 2-year-old daughter died of heat stroke in a closed-up car on the service road of a Dallas freeway, according to the Dallas County medical examiner.

Police said a passerby found the bodies of Jo Kendall French, 39, and her daughter, Emily, on Thursday. The woman's husband, Edgar, reported the two missing Tuesday.

A LITTLE WRINKLED — Larry Ray Bruns and Jay McKay, disc jockeys for Big Spring radio station KKIK, relax during the second day of their 72-hour hot is part of attempts to raise donations for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Operation Motorcade runs until midnight Monday.

DPS spokesman Richard Todd said DPS officials expected many of the deaths to be caused by "drunks who attempt to drive and those who insist on speeding above the limit." "If tradition holds true, Saturday night will be the time when the drunks attempt to drive on our streets and highways, pushing the death toll toward the estimate," Todd said.

In the same 78-hour period last year, 50 people were killed on Texas highways, Todd said. "However, the inclusion of subsequent deaths due to injuries brought the final count to 57," he said.

Over the Fourth of July weekend this year, 55 people died on state roads, "making it the deadliest 78-hour period since 1970," Todd said.

The deaths reported so far this weekend include an unidentified man who was killed in a hit-and-run accident at 12:05 a.m. Saturday three miles south of Hillsboro on Interstate 35. The man was standing outside a tractor-trailer rig when he was struck, Todd said.

Belia Martinez, 33, of La Feria, died as a passenger in a five-vehicle accident at 1:45 a.m. Saturday east of La Feria on Texas Highway 83.

David Arthur Perkins, 31, of Houston, was killed in an auto-truck accident at 1:45 a.m. Saturday on the Katy Freeway in Houston.

Shannon Vaughn, 15, of Richardson, was killed as a passenger in a one-vehicle accident at 11:15 p.m. Friday. The car struck a utility pole and overturned at a Richardson intersection.

Terri Lynn Renty, 27, of San Antonio, died almost an hour after a 1:58 a.m. accident Saturday on Interstate 10 in San Antonio. She was a passenger in a two-vehicle hit-and-run accident.

a new staff, and we didn't really know how the kids would react to a new campus. But after the first days of school, you'd have thought school had been in session for six months because things were going so well."

Mrs. Wilder said the magnet school, created to satisfy a lawsuit charging the district with racial segregation, has proven popular with parents.

Bauer's attendance grew from last year's 176 students to a current enrollment of 313, with most of the increase attributable to the magnet program. Mrs. Wilder said about 100 students are on a waiting list for acceptance to the school, and calls come in every day from interested parents.

Additionally, the school has organized a volunteer program in which parents work with teachers one-half day each week, helping with reading programs, bulletin board construction and clerical activities. Also in the works is a PTA organizational meeting Sept. 13.

"We want people to know this is a community school, and one way to do that is get parents involved," Mrs. Wilder said. "Then they (parents) can see what is going on. After the parents work with us and sweat with us, it builds a bond — and that's beneficial to the school."

Mrs. Wilder said discipline has not been a problem. "We have a system where we warn the student the first time, then call his parents the second time he acts up, and on the third time there's a problem, he's out," she said. "And we've not had that problem. Those kids want to stay in the program, and they know enough not to make trouble."

"A lot of people thought that the extended-day program would be a glorified babysitting service," Ms. Barnett said. "But it's not that way at all. Those kids want to be in extended-day and are eager to learn."

At the end of the extended-day, students at the YM-CA and Rannels are bused back to Bauer, and from there all the students are bused to their neighborhoods.

"Overall, we're very, very pleased," Superintendent Lynn Hise said of the program. "We've had some false starts, but everyone knew that was going to happen and has been understanding and cooperative. I think the success of the program can be attributed to the upbeat and positive attitude of the staff over there."

Hise said the U.S. Justice Department has not yet commented on whether the magnet school's program is sufficient to solve a 1980 federal suit charging the district with operating a segregated school system.

Hise said the school cost about $75,000 to $80,000 to organize. However, the cost to maintain the program will be nominal in coming years, he said.

"This won't be an every-year cost," Hise said. "Actually, after everything is set up, it shouldn't cost much more to run Bauer than any other campus."

Cuba

plantations, seashore mansions and tenement houses are now either living in Miami or lying dead from the firing squad.

FROM CRADLE TO GRAVE, the Cuban people are cared for by their government. Births and burials are free, medical care and education are guaranteed.

A young Cuban, regardless of his race, his religion or his father's profession, can aim for any job the government offers. There are only two prerequisites for enrolling at the university: good high school grades and a clean political record card. There is no tuition, book or laboratory fees for the accepted applicant.

Doctors and teachers earn the highest salaries. Chambermaids and bartenders take home the fewest amount of pesos. Lawyers and baseball players receive what can be called an average paycheck.

KEEPING THE VITAL statistics on the Cuban people is Eugenio Balari, chief economist with Havana's Institute of Domestic Needs.

Balari and his staff of 1,000 economists, mathematicians and social psychologists take the pulse of Cuban society, roaming the countryside to find out what the Cubans are eating, how they are dressing and where they are spending their pesos.

Balari, a dapper little man dressed in the traditional ribboned Caribbean shirt, delights in his overhead projector which he uses to show visitors to his agency, housed in a former mansion, how far the Cuban economy has advanced in the last quarter-century.

Transparency after statistic after statistic are flashed on a tall blank wall to demonstrate how good life can be under Caribbean Marxist-Leninism.

The words are Spanish, the figures imponderable and the presentation all propaganda. Most is lost on Balari's audience of visiting Americans, but the economist has a few revelations for his captive Yanquis.

The small farmer, who owns 20 percent of Cuba's agricultural land, harvests a higher yield per acre than the giant collective farms, and he markets what produce he doesn't sell to the government in 250 farmers markets scattered throughout the country.

The government imposes no restrictions on these markets, and prices are determined by what may be capitalistically called supply and demand.

If Cubans do not want to shop at a government store (because they lack the requisite coupon or the store lacks the desired good), they can take their business to the farmer's market and so-called "free markets" where prices skyrocket and supply is even more precarious.

A POUND OF RICE, which goes for 24 cents in the coupon market, fetches $1.20 on the free market. A ¾-pound piece of beef costs 70 cents with the ration book or $4.90 in the free market.

And there is another market operating in Cuba which the government recognizes but does not officially condone.

The black market, doing business openly but quite informally on the streets of Havana, offers Cuban consumers such luxury items as gourmet food, designer jeans, rock albums and the prized American dollar.

"The black market has much less weight than it did before," Balari proudly proclaims. That may be. The most common site in Havana is a long line of weary compañeros waiting to buy rice and beans.

Life outside the reach of government is difficult for the average Cuban, making it easy for Balari to compile his figures. Domestic life is highly regulated, and travel outside the country is severely restricted. Fealty to Fidel is a fact of life.

Their heritage is Spanish, African, German, Polish, Marxist, Christian. They are the Cubans — Russia's most devoted friends and America's most implacable enemies.

Men say cars damaged

Three Levelland men complained of criminal mischief and an attempted assault outside a local restaurant early Saturday morning.

Two of the men, Jack Snow and Bobby Freeman, told police they received between $300 and $400 damage to their cars. Snow said someone punctured his car's rear tires, and Freeman said someone stole his car's battery cover. Both men said someone struck their cars' gasoline tanks with a hammer.

The third man, Billy Mills, said someone threatened him with an ice pick. All three said the incidents occurred between 1:30 a.m. and 2:30 a.m. Saturday while they were parked at Herman's Restaurant at 1601 Gregg.

Police reports also showed the following:

• Melodia Wright of 1905 Wesson said she left her Buick Regal at a local car repair shop Friday afternoon, then saw the vehicle being driven down 11th Place that night. She said the car was valued at $8,000.

• Dora Juarez of 1003 N.W. Second said she heard shots fired near her home at 3 a.m. Saturday. She said she saw a vehicle rapidly leaving the area.

Man awaits competency trial

Eric Etnire, charged with the April 5 aggravated robbery of Gibson's Discount Center, is back in Howard County Jail awaiting a second competency trial.

Etnire, 30, was transferred Friday night from Rusk State Hospital where he was held after being declared incompetent to stand trial in June.

According to police records, Etnire — a walk-away from the psychiatric ward at the Veteran's Administration Medical Center in Big Spring — stole two guns from Gibson's and led police on a 20-mile chase that ended when he was shot in both legs by law officers.

• Sheriff's deputies Saturday night were searching for three white males who left the Stanton Fina Station on Interstate Highway 20 without paying for $19 of gasoline.

The incident occurred about 7:45 p.m. Saturday, according to the Martin County sheriff's office. A sheriff's deputy said the men were eastbound on the interstate.

Was the woman a White House bunny?

"She was dressed up like a bunny rabbit at the White House Easter Party," said the White House spokesman, pointing an accusing finger at the woman who resigned from the Justice Department.

"No, I wasn't," retorted the woman.
 "Well, she was just a low-level munchkin anyway," said a Justice Department official, rushing to the aid of the White House spokesman.

"Munchkin, schmunchkin," replied the woman, disgustedly. "You wouldn't call a man a munchkin, would you?"
 Children! Children! Please!

When you grow up, you'll learn that cliché about sticks and stones is a lot of nonsense. Names can hurt you. They can even hurt the president of the United States.

President Reagan is telling women the gender gap is a misunderstanding. He's trying to make the point he's really for women, even if a lot of them are skeptical.

The last thing he needs is for the president's men in Washington to be engaged in name-calling with a woman.

Obviously ex-Justice Department official Barbara Honager, who resigned recently, raised hackles at the White House when she said Mr. Reagan has reneged on his commitment to women. They probably weren't delighted that Honager, who worked in a program to identify discriminatory laws, called the effort a sham.

We don't know why she went public. Maybe she was sincere. Maybe she likes publicity. Maybe she had a grudge against her boss.

No matter, it's appearances that count sometimes. And the appearance was of a bunch of men in power ganging up on a woman for speaking her mind.

The Reagan administration shouldn't try so hard to court the ladies. Sometimes, you can come on too strong. And this is one of those times.

Paranoia, red ants and good-byes

One of our new reporters, Nick Greenwalt, said he was feeling "paranoid" his first week on the job.

"Why are you feeling paranoid?" I asked.
 "Why do you ask?" he replied.

I like the way Pat Porter (the Mrs.) describes social life in her community of Gall. "You can have a red ant stomp and draw a big crowd," she said.

Annie Matt Angel was asked if she and her husband Clyde, the mayor, would repeat their wedding vows at their 50th wedding anniversary celebration held recently.

"No," she told the inquirer. "If our vows have been good for 50 years, I think I'll just trust them for the whole shootin' match."

Mike Downey, our courthouse reporter for the past two years, left the Herald Friday to work for another Harte-Hanks newspaper in Greenville while his wife, Kathy, pursues a PhD degree at East Texas State University in Commerce.

It was an emotional moment as he hugged and shook hands with all his co-workers before getting into his packed green pickup and heading down I-20 Friday.

"I sure am glad you walked in that day," I said, referring to the day he stumbled into the office looking for a job.

"Me too," he said. "I was just trying to get a job interview so I could collect unemployment. But you fooled me. You hired me."

Replacing Downey will be Keely Coghlan, a recent editor of the Texas Tech newspaper. She was a National Merit Scholar with a 3.8 average at Tech. She recently spent three months in Washington working in the office of Florida Congressman Bill McCollum after winning a Sears Internship.

Another newsroom veteran, Richard Horn, will be transferring to the Abilene newspaper in two weeks. That paper has agreed to give him time off to get married two weeks later to Ann Mathews of Fort Worth.

Horn is the fifth Herald employee in the past couple of years to transfer to another Harte-Hanks newspaper after training here. Others included James Werrell to Abilene; Bill Elder to Hamilton, Ohio; Carol Daniel to San Angelo; and Downey to Greenville.

Around the Rim

By KEITH BRISCOE

Labor of love

In England at the beginning of the last century, 10-year-old children worked 16 hours a day laboring over clothing looms in unsanitary, unheated factories. Their fathers risked death daily to pick and chop at coal deep in darkness.

Low wages and uncertain employment after the Industrial Revolution forced entire families into the work force to spend the rest of their short, miserable lives spinning the silk of the capitalist's robe.

In the oppressive sweat shops and coal mines of 19th Century Europe was born the union movement, a political philosophy boldly claiming that the worker has rights — the right to a safe working environment, the right to a life of leisure, the right to a decent wage and the right to strike to secure his rights.

That a great portion of the Western world has advanced from sweat shops to socialism in the expansion of one century is testimony to the prowess of organized labor.

IN AMERICA on the first Monday of September we celebrate Labor Day to honor our workers. Few, however, realize the profound significance of this national holiday. Workers get the day off, families go picnicking and brass bands play patriotic music because the union movement, imported to this country where it nestled into the bosom of our Constitution, proved that America is a social democracy, willing to reform itself to accommodate economic and political changes.

Labor's struggle to achieve workers rights in the U.S. has often been a violent and frustrating affair. But each time revolution threatened, our legislative process granted the country a reprieve from turmoil.

The American union worker, because his predecessors were brave enough to ask for a piece of the pie they helped make, now enjoys wages and benefits that no "proletarian" in any of the so-called workers states of Eastern Europe can claim.

The American union also has been a powerful political force, marching in the vanguard of the fight for civil rights, human rights and the liberation of all oppressed.

THERE ARE rumblings in leftist camps today, however, that the workers movement here has lost sight of its historic destiny, that labor leaders and union locals have grown obese and complacent on the fat of their success.

Let's hope not. There's more work to be done.

Many laborers, captive of their employer's caprice, still do not enjoy the protection of a union. Migrant field hands toil in transient jobs without the benefits of basic labor law. Teen-agers slave over fast-food ovens for pennies. And the growing number of unemployed, out of work because of management and ownership bungling, now sit idle, wasting their skills and losing faith in the American promise.

If American labor is to maintain the momentum of worker liberation, it must galvanize its strength into a workable, political platform of immediate, accessible goals: full employment, a national health care plan, mandatory job retraining programs and a realistic, universal minimum wage.

The union movement, however, must not forget the legacy and lessons of its past in future battles. Victories have been won step by step within the legal system.

Dreams of nationalized industries, international political power and control of the means of production are a long way down the road, if ever attainable.

As long as labor remains realistic in its demands, and as long as America remains true to its noble principles, the country shall have nothing to fear from Marxism, Maoism or any other ism which would rip the fabric of our society.

AMERICA AND the union movement were made (or should I say produced) for each other. That's why the union worker is one of the most patriotic among us.

So to all of you who sweat and toil and scrape for a living, here's a hearty "Happy Labor Day." I have to work Monday.

Miller story out of order

Dear Editor,

The Herald's smear campaign against our County Attorney is entirely out of order. The Herald refers to "unnamed sources at the Court House." This is plain gossip which has no place in a newspaper.

The Herald article nit picks about the spending of a few hundred dollars. The facts are that Robert Miller's diligent efforts have generated over thirty thousand dollars a year in increased funds for the county since he took office.

Stick to the news, Herald; Washington Post you are not!

Subscriber is skeptical

Dear Editor:

Re: Herald begins Saturday paper.

For my part I don't think I have ever heard so much double talk of a selling job under the guise of cultural package and instant football scores. Your Mr. Watson has apparently not heard of radio. Remember Amos and Andy, Mr. Watson? Well as we know radio has come a long ways.

As for instance on Friday nights as the football games terminate the scores begin to trickle in and far into the night the names of towns, teams and scores are read on the radio, and Mr. Watson, if you happen to tune in late you have but to dial 263-0228 Station KBYG (unsolicited) and give the name of your team and they will be more than happy to look it up for you. I might add this goes for weather and news also. I hasten to add that along with the football scores comes a little geography — you will hear the names of towns you have never heard before.

As far as expanded movie reviews, entertainment stories, sports and the like the items will either be duplicated in Sunday's paper or left out making the Sunday paper smaller. "Nobody gets something for nothing."
 Quote "There never has been enough space to do the job we wanted." As I understood it you could not afford to (because of) equitable ratio to column inch versus paid commercial ads. Oh, Mr. Watson, you must think your readers are naive to say the least. I wonder if you ever heard the story of the man who used a certain kind of soap to wash his face. Well along came the man who was selling that soap and preceded to tell him that his soap was no longer available but here was a better soap and would clean his face better; however, it would cost more. I think we are being asked to accept a package with no option.

Please Mr. Watson see that Monday edition gets no smaller — time the newsboy rolls it up I can use it for a pea shooter and after I bring it into the house I have to use two Bibles and dictionary to flatten it out so I can read it. If you would expand your efforts on Monday's paper you would be doing something. As I have said before you need a proof reader and expand what you already have.

The end result will be lining the already jeweled walls of Harte-Hanks vaults with platinum at the expense of your avid readers.
 How does that roast your chestnuts under a pear tree?
 If you think I am going to cancel my subscription I am not. I am going to be suckered along with the rest of your readers who pay your salary.

Yours in Christ,

Does Briscoe read statistics?

Dear Editor,

I'm writing in regard to Keith Briscoe's article in Sunday's Herald. My children are in a local private school. They went to public schools for the first seven and five years of their schooling.

My reasons are neither of the two Mr. Briscoe mentioned. How many private schools has Mr. Briscoe visited? His article is unfair and totally humanistic.

As a tax-paying citizen of the United States, according to our Constitution, I have a free choice of how and where my children are educated. I still pay public school taxes and tuition for them to attend a private school. That is my choice and I should have the freedom to make that choice.

When the government demands that our children be educated in a manner they dictate, that is humanism and communism. Our constitution was established on Christian and Biblical principles. The Bible tells us it is the responsibility of the parents, not the government or the church, to educate our children. As a Christian, I have chosen to have my children educated in a Christian environment. It is quality education and for the first time my children have a desire to learn and someone who really cares whether they do or not.

I wonder if Mr. Briscoe has read the statistics on public school seniors lately. An article in the Herald Monday said a public school in Florida had to give their seniors literacy tests more than once before they passed them and was able to receive their diplomas. That doesn't sound to me like quality education. There are a lot of other statistics to back that up.

I appreciate the article written by the reporter in Tuesday's Herald in response.

I would also like to say, in reference to the Herald's postscript at the bottom of the Briscoe article. The Herald pays Mr. Briscoe to write for them. Therefore, the paper is judged by what he writes. I believe the Herald should be more careful of the undemocratic views it is responsible for.

For Freedom of Choice,
 MR. AND MRS. ROBERT RICH

Mattox feels threatened

A couple of years ago, after the Texas Legislature's redistricting plan turned Democrat Jim Mattox's congressional district into a Republican stronghold, a high-level U.S. House staffer called me about a rumor. Was it true, the caller asked, that Mattox knew he would lose in the new district and would gamble on a statewide race for Texas attorney general? That would be wonderful, the staffer said. Anything to get Mattox out of Washington, D.C. "He votes right but he's just so obnoxious everyone up here hates him," was the explanation.

A short time later Mattox announced for attorney general, calling himself "The People's Lawyer." The people apparently liked what they saw and gave him victories in the 1982 Democratic primary and November general election.

Since then, things haven't been the same in Austin. Mattox wears his reputation as a fighter with pride, whether talking about his tough-neighborhood youth in East Dallas or his political campaigns. His hero is the late President Harry S. Truman, whom he quotes as saying a man is judged by the enemies he makes. (None of the books on quotations I could find attribute anything like that to Truman, but he could have said it sometime to someone.)

When he is aroused or feels threatened, the attorney general's instinct is to attack with a fury that makes a Tasmanian devil look like a pussy cat.

Right now Mattox is feeling both aroused and threatened. And he is reacting in typical style: seeing plotters and enemies everywhere and going for the jugular.

His current troubles involve, basically, whether he improperly reported a loan to his 1982 campaign, whether he threatened a law firm's bond business with the state if it attempted to question his sister in a lawsuit involving Mobil Oil Co. and whether he improperly intervened with a state university to win a contract for a campaign contributor.

A grand jury in Austin is investigating the first two items and may take up the third later. Eventually these investigations should determine whether Mattox is right about the allegations being much ado about nothing.

Mattox's answer is to blame everything on a plot by the big oil companies to discredit him. He also is lashing out at the news media for the handling of stories about his legal problems.

At a news conference last week he accused every reporter present of slanting stories to sell newspapers or hype a television or radio show. He even alleged a conspiracy among the press and the big oil companies. Such an attitude is not rare for a politician in trouble. Bob Bullock, the state's colorful and ambitious comptroller, has blasted the media for years over coverage of his political and personal problems. He usually alleges stupidity rather than mass conspiracy, however.

Mattox bases his conspiracy theory on the belief that Mobil supplied The Dallas Morning News with information on the controversial campaign loan. He may be right about the source. (The Morning News rightly is saying nothing to reveal the identity.)

But to link "big oil" with all reporters who followed up on the story is to paint with a quite wide brush. The only link most of us have with "big oil" is at the gasoline pump.

Many officeholders occasionally suffer from persecution complexes. Mattox just seems to have a lingering and severe case, probably enhanced by his strong religious beliefs and conviction that serving the people is like serving the church. A man with such a mission doesn't suffer criticism lightly.

But any judgment about whether Mattox is paranoid to any extent must be tempered with one fact: Mattox does have a lot of enemies — powerful ones. He has made a lifetime career of taking on "the conservative establishment" on behalf of "the people."

Mobil officials and many other powerful conservative interests would like to see him fall. And, despite a rather enviable record of action and accomplishment by the attorney general's office the past nine months, Mattox sometimes seems to be playing into their hands.

Newspapers vary on Tower

WASHINGTON — The news went out first in a single story in a single Texas paper. It carried no byline and no indication of its source.

The Houston Post, though willing to put its prestige on the line by risking the story's accuracy, apparently did not want to go too far on the limb by identifying the story with a Post credit line.

What they were saying, that Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, would announce his retirement from the Senate that same day, hardly seemed imaginable the day before. If anybody in Washington seemed likely to run for re-election, it was Tower.

As word about the senator's decision then filtered through the press, catching most reporters by surprise, the flood of theories and stories began to pour. It seemed almost as though many in the press, though unable to take credit for predicting the retirement ahead of time, wanted immediately to justify the senator's decision with some quick explanation.

There was very little after-the-fact "pack journalism," where all the press follows the story from the same angle. There were varying theories and stories in abundance throughout the media.

An angle taken by one news organization was to list all the very real earlier indications that Tower would indeed run, as though explaining why it would have been unreasonable to make such a prediction; Tower had amassed a huge campaign war chest of almost $1.6 million, had seemingly been making the right political steps in attempting to please necessary constituencies, especially Hispanics, and had hinted fairly directly at earlier press conferences that he would indeed run.

The San Antonio Express-News, a paper under splashy publisher Rupert Murdoch that is not known for subtlety, blared out its theory under a headline with dark thick letters saying "AIDE BLAMES TOWER'S WIFE."

It seemed the reporter had caught angry long-time (but former) Tower aide Ken Towery outside the news conference and Towery had explained that, "When a crime is committed (referring to Tower's unexpected announcement), you look for one of two things: money or women. He doesn't need the money."

Thus resulted the headline large enough to be known in the newspaper business as "second coming" type, referring to the size of headline that would be used for such a religious event but really meaning any ultimate occurrence.

David Broder of the Washington Post waxed historic in writing about the announcement. He said Tower's retirement "is no more an ordinary political event than was his first election," which he credited with marking the rise of the Republican party in the South. He seemed to indicate that the retirement would now mark the end of that rise.

Within Broder's speculation perhaps lies an obvious key to Tower's decision. Even if Tower had again run in 1984, and even if he had won, it remained questionable whether the coattails of President Reagan would again be long enough to carry enough Republican senators into the Senate majority.

If Tower ran and won, but the Republicans lost the Senate, then he probably would not have relished tending the congressional fields for six more years as ranking minority member on the Senate Armed Services Committee rather than the chairman.

The most widely-offered retirement theory was that Tower had the inside track for secretary of defense in a possible second Reagan administration, a theory still holding credence even though Tower and his aides will not give support to it.

If Tower thought the chances better for his placement within the administration than for a Republican Senate majority (in part because more Republicans than Democrats are up for reelection in expected tight races) then the decision makes sense.

But some Republicans, with a little less bitterness than that expressed by Towery, have noted that Tower better get on the Reagan re-election bandwagon early and strong in Texas if he expects such a position. Otherwise, the retirement, which could contribute to jeopardizing the Senate's Republican majority, might overshadow his powerful Senate support of Reagan on defense issues.

Killer Kleenex being tested as cold fighter

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Researchers and student volunteers are testing a killer Kleenex to see if common cold viruses can be wiped out under our noses.

Elliot C. Dick, professor of preventive medicine at the University of Wisconsin Medical School, said he is testing a facial tissue doused with a substance that kills viruses.

The object is to see if tissues can stop the transmission of the common cold.

The experiments are under way at the school's Respiratory Virus Research Laboratory under a contract between the school and Kimberly-Clark, the makers of Kleenex brand tissues.

A spokesman for Kimberly-Clark declined to give any details except to confirm that such a product was in the "pre-development stages."

The tissue being tested here is impregnated with a substance extracted from fruit juices.

Bell atones for overcharge

HOUSTON (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. customers in Texas who have long-distance WATS service have $5.5 million coming to them after they were overcharged during an 11-month period.

Bell spokesman Ken Brasel said $1.5 million of the overcharges involved Houston-area customers with 713 and 409 area codes. Bell did not know Friday how many of the 5,000 Houston-area WATS customers were affected by the overcharge problem, he said.

WATS — Wide Area Telecommunications Service — is a lower-priced long-distance service used by large-volume business customers.

A computer added a minute to the charge in about 1 out of every 12 calls from April 1982 to March 1983 because of a programming error, said Wayne Jackson, Southwestern Bell spokesman in Kansas.

Teachers elect to wear shorts

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — You know it's really hot when even the teachers at parochial schools are wearing shorts.
 With temperatures over 90 degrees indoors and out this week, officials at public and private schools in St. Cloud were loosening up the rules to help students and teachers cope with the heat.
 Cathedral High School relaxed its dress code for the first time in the Roman Catholic school's 113-year history, allowing students and staff members to wear "appropriate and tasteful summer attire."

Unmarried mom happy during son's first year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An unmarried psychologist who gave birth after being artificially inseminated with sperm from a so-called Nobel Prize sperm bank says she's been happy during her son's first year.
 "It's been infinitely more wonderful and infinitely more tiring than I ever expected," said Dr. Afton Blake, interviewed Thursday at her office at Brentwood Psychological Associates in West Los Angeles.
 "I never knew the feeling that I would die for another person, but I know that now," she said. She named her son Doron, the Greek word for gift.
 The blond, blue-eyed child, whose first birthday was Aug. 24, looks so much like his mother that "the joke is that he's cloned," she said.
 Ms. Blake said she sought sperm from the Repository of Germinal Choice in Escondido, nicknamed the Nobel bank because of its contributions from Nobel Prize winners, because she was approaching 40 and because "every parent has an obligation to give a child the best genetic composition possible."

Blum's
 One beautiful place.
Jewels & Gems
 by Ralph and Lynette Brooks
 Etching was a popular technique used in decorating metal armor and weaponry in the days of Renaissance Europe. Today, the process is experiencing a revitalization as jewelers become more involved with graphic surface effects. Popularity of this technique has spurred the use of fantasy designs on contemporary pieces. Besides its decorative capacity, etching prepares depressions in metal for chemplume enameling. This technique combines inlay and enameling. Identifications are engraved, punched or etched into the surface of metal and then filled with enamel. The results are quite beautiful.
 Shopping for creative gift ideas and finely crafted jewelry is made easy when you make BLUM'S JEWELERS, conveniently located at 222 Main, 267-6335, your one stop shopping headquarters. Here you will find a highly professional staff equipped to assist you with your selections and answer all of your questions. MasterCard & Visa welcome. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9:30 a.m.-6:30 p.m. All of us here hope that all of you will enjoy the upcoming Labor Day Weekend and ask that you please drive safely.

The un-Coach-able

I have yet to figure out coaches. From the time I first put on athletic shorts as a seventh grader until this very minute, I fail to understand what sometimes goes on inside these guys' heads. Without offending the cooperative men and women out in coachingland, I will say there are other less desirables among their profession who have me steamed at this moment.

Several weeks ago, the Herald conducted its annual summer football photo tour among the 10 area schools we cover during the sports year. Instead of just sending a photographer, I tag along to meet the coaches and players, get the latest scoop on their teams and discuss how we'll handle coverage over the upcoming season.

The key point among this year's discussions was the Herald's new Saturday morning paper. It's been tough on both myself and the readers to hold Friday sports over until Sunday. Much of the drama is lost, the Sunday section is halved between two days of sports and I have lost almost 50 per cent of my hair in the last 20 months trying to squeeze everything in.

The news of the Saturday Herald was welcomed by every coach. "Great," they responded, adding that waiting for Sunday had never been much fun.

The only problem was that we needed their results Friday night. No scores, no story Saturday morning. Some coaches handle the reports themselves, others turn things over to a correspondent. We made our arrangement.

Friday night — the first night of the Saturday paper, nine of the 10 schools the Herald follows played on the road. That meant we needed nine collect phone calls by midnight Friday to make a complete football report.

After two hours of battling, we succeeded in getting six of the nine or 67 per cent. In basketball, that's a good stat. But for journalism, it's a demotion to the minor leagues.

How tough is it to phone the newspaper? Greenwood High, playing in Jal, N.M., managed to phone us. Joe Longley gets the Coach of the Week award for coming through, even with a change in time zone.

But three schools never contacted us and two others had to be tracked down. It sure looks good for the local paper to go gameless and Lubbock, Abilene or San Angelo get a report. How many reporters from these papers showed up at these schools for photos or promo-ed their teams in a special football section?

Why is it that Grady High, which plays six-man football, can field us more information than schools up to four times its size?

At the annual Coaching School in Fort Worth this summer, media types gathered and voted to ask convention officials to have a class for coaches on how to work with sports writers. A great idea.

Coaches accuse the press of being negative about their programs, get on us for interviewing players who are not mature enough to be quoted or scream when their stories are buried in some corner or held over a day. Some of the fingers are pointed in the right direction, true. But coaches also don't hold up their end of the bargain.

The Herald is not a big-city newspaper; our emphasis is placed more on local and area sports. And since I was trained in Abilene, I want this section to be as complete as Abilene, Angelo, Midland, Odessa or Lubbock, even if we are the smallest guys around.

To do that, I need some help. I need phone calls. I need coaches who don't make it sound like it's the biggest favor in the world if they give me a few minutes of their time. I need coaches who can report on results, win or lose.

When the scores aren't in the paper, the blame falls on the newspaper. It's easy for the coach to say he tried to call but "the line was busy," "no one was there" or "I gave him stuff but he didn't put it in."

Again, not all coaches are guilty. I work with several gems including Grady's Gibson and Garden City's Cooper. But in an attempt to avoid more disappointments over the next 10 weeks of football and eight months of other sports, try to give me a hand.

We could always fill up the space with the Puget Sound-North Dakota Wesleyan game but we'd rather keep the stories right here at home.

Defending champs win easily

NEW YORK (AP) — Martina Navratilova and Jimmy Connors waltzed, Andrea Jaeger staggered and Guillermo Vilas fell Saturday in the third round of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Vilas, the Argentine left-hander who was the last foreign player to capture America's premier tennis tournament, was upset by Greg Holmes, the reigning NCAA and Pan American Games champion, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Navratilova, the women's top seed who is trying to win the only title that has eluded her, sped through Kate Gompert 6-2, 6-2; Connors, the defending men's champion and seeded third this year, eliminated Bruce Manson 6-0, 6-4, 6-0; while Jaeger, seeded third in the women's draw, outlasted Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia 6-2, 6-7, 7-6.

Also falling on Saturday was ninth-seeded Andrea Temesvari of Hungary, who was upset by Pascale Paradis of France, the reigning French and Wimbledon junior girls champion, 6-4, 6-0.

A night match sent 11th-seeded Gene Mayer against Switzerland's Heinz Gunthardt. "No one in tennis is unbeatable," Jaeger said when asked about Navratilova. "You can't take anything for granted."

Vilas knows that only too well. "I never saw him play (before)," the sixth-seeded Vilas said of Holmes, a student at the University of Utah. "It was a surprise to me because normally in the third round you get someone you know. I did not know how to play him..."

Connors, who played despite receiving a death threat earlier in the day, had no problems roaring into the round-of-16. Officials later said the tournament "took our normal procedures" and Connors left the stadium immediately after his match.

Navratilova needed 59 minutes - making it her longest match of this Grand Slam event - to dispose of Gompert.

Jaeger was rolling along with a 6-2, 5-1 lead when Jausovec, a finalist at the French Open this year, began her comeback on the hardcourts of the National Tennis Center at Flushing Meadow.

Jausovec battled back to 6-6, then won five straight games, then took the tiebreaker 7-2.

In the third set, Jaeger fell behind, then pulled even at 4-4. The two traded service breaks in the 11th and 12th games to again go into a tiebreak.

This time Jaeger wasted no time, winning the first four points en route to a 7-1 victory.

GREG HOLMES ...upsets Vilas

GARTMAN GOES FOR A GAINER — Big Spring High quarterback Tommy Gartman (7) rambles for seven yards during a first quarter drive against Snyder Friday night in Memorial Stadium. Looking for someone to block is tackle Doug Walker (75). The Steers ended the drive with their first touchdown of the season and went on to win 28-8.

Coaches optimistic on Steers

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

From the way Big Spring High coaches talked Saturday afternoon, they saw good things on the Snyder film.

Overcoming two fumbles and a safety early in the first quarter, the Steers rumbled to a 26-8 season-opening victory over Snyder Friday night. The point total was higher than in any game last year and represented 30 per cent of the total scored (87) during the 1982 season.

"We are way ahead of where we were last year," offensive coordinator Todd Spencer said. "I didn't think we had a real good pattern or continuity in the game because of penalties but our offense did play well."

Spencer was encouraged by the performance of junior quarterback Tommy Gartman who made his first varsity start. "Tommy's going to be a heck of a quarterback for us," he said. "He did a real good job last night."

Gartman ran for 31 yards, passed for 36 more and scored a touchdown while splitting time with senior backup Mark Johnson.

Reshuffling gives NFL new look

By The Associated Press

Chuck Knox has done it twice before — in Los Angeles and Buffalo. Today he makes his third debut as a new National Football League coach, this time with the Seattle Seahawks.

But Knox, who guided the Rams to five division championships in his five years with them (1973-77) and the Bills into the playoffs in two of his five seasons with them (1978-82), cautions the Seahawks' fans not to expect too much too soon from him or his rookie running star, Curt Warner.

"Too many fans think that just because we're here that everything's going to turn itself around," Knox said of the Seahawks, who have finished with losing records the past three seasons. "We're not going to do it overnight, but quality players like Curt Warner will get us going in the right direction."

They start off the season in Kansas City, where the Chiefs, too, have a rookie head coach — John Mackovic, previously an assistant in Dallas under Tom Landry and, before that, the head coach at Wake Forest.

Sunday's other openers are the Denver Broncos at the Pittsburgh Steelers, the New York Jets at the San Diego Chargers, the St. Louis Cardinals at the New Orleans Saints, the Green Bay Packers at the Houston Oilers, the Atlanta Falcons at the Chicago Bears, the Baltimore Colts at the New England Patriots, the Detroit Lions at the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, the Los Angeles Raiders at the Cincinnati Bengals, the Miami Dolphins at the Buffalo Bills and the Minnesota Vikings at the Cleveland Browns.

Monday night's game is the Dallas Cowboys at the Washington Redskins. A rematch of the 1982 National Conference championship game that propelled the Redskins into Super Bowl XVII, where they beat Miami 27-17 for the NFL title.

The season got underway tonight with Marion Campbell, Atlanta's head coach in the mid-1970s, calling the shots for the Philadelphia Eagles against the 49ers in San Francisco. Campbell replaced Dick Vermel, who retired.

Two other new head coaches will be debuting against each other — John Robinson and the Rams against Bill Parcells and the Giants. Robinson comes from the college ranks — seven years at Southern California, one of which ended with a national championship. Parcells was an assistant under former Giants head coach Ray Perkins, who succeeded Bear Bryant at the University of Alabama.

The Jets (Joe Walton), Bills (Kay Stephenson) and Falcons (Dan Henning) also have new head coaches. Walton was the Jets' offensive coordinator under Walt Michaels last year, Stephenson was a quarterback coach under Knox with both the Rams and the Bills, and Henning was an assistant coach with the Washington Redskins.

Mackovic resolved an ongoing quarterback controversy by trading Steve Fuller to the Rams and giving the job to Bill Kenney — but Kenney will have top draft choice Todd Blackledge looking over his shoulder. And if things do start off well for the Chiefs, a 3-4 team last year, the fans may be yelling for the rookie from Penn State.

Robinson of the Rams has a running back even more highly touted than Warner — Eric Dickerson.

He's so impressed with the rookie from Southern Methodist that he plans to go with a one-back offense.

Dickerson gained 128 yards in the final two exhibition games, when Robinson installed the one-back attack. "He deserves the ball a few times," his coach said with a grin.

Many fans will be following with interest the progress of the Broncos-Steelers game, where heralded quarterback John Elway of Stanford, the No. 1 pick in the NFL draft, makes his pro debut. The Steelers are starting Cliff Stoudt in place of injured Terry Bradshaw. Under most circumstances, Stoudt would be in the spotlight, but Elway's presence makes him a bit-part player in Sunday's drama. "That's all right with me," said Stoudt. "Everybody will be there to see what Elway is going to do. That's great — as long as we win the game."

Packers invades Oilers' turf

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers coaches can't agree which has returned to life this year, running back Earl Campbell or the team's offensive line.

But offensive coordinator Kay Dalton and head coach Ed Biles are glad to find one or both are back.

Behind a youthful, beefed up offensive line, Campbell averaged 5.2 yards per carry in the exhibition season and closed out with 119 yards rushing against the Dallas Cowboys.

That ensures Campbell will be a key when the Oilers face the Green Bay Packers in Sunday's regular season opener in the Astrodome.

"If we can get him into the secondary, he's got a chance to go all the way because those defensive backs will have a hard time bringing him down," Dalton said.

The Oilers hired Dalton away from Kansas City during the off-season.

Dalton said he came to Houston perplexed about Campbell, who had his worst pro season last year. "Some defensive backs knocked him down," Dalton said.

He said that would have been unthinkable two or three years ago. "I didn't think a person could have lost all the things he had unless he'd been injured," Dalton said.

But Dalton is no longer curious. He found Campbell alive and well and ready to flourish again in a new offense and with more help up front.

"One of my goals when I came over here was to get Earl Campbell running better and I think he's done that," Dalton said. "He's done everything we've asked."

Head coach Ed Biles doesn't like to say that Campbell is back.

"He was never away. We just now have some help for him in the offensive line that he needed," Biles said.

Cubs' big start crushes Astros

CHICAGO (AP) — Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins belted his first triple since 1972 to highlight a seven-run first inning and Jody Davis collected four hits as the Chicago Cubs routed the Houston Astros 9-3 Saturday.

Jenkins, 5-9, pitched five innings before leaving the game because of dehydration. Rich Bordi hurled the final four innings for his first save.

The triumph was the 23rd of Jenkins' career, tying him with Jim Kaat for 19th place on the all-time major league victory list.

After Houston took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first on Bill Doran's seventh homer, the Cubs struck back in their half of the inning.

Ryne Sandberg started the uprising with a double off loser Mike Madden, 6-4, and scored when Bill Buckner followed with a single. A walk to Ron Cey and Keith Moreland's RBI single chased Madden.

Jody Davis then belted a run-scoring double off reliever Mike LaCoss and, after an intentional walk to Mel Hall, Larry Bowa lifted a sacrifice fly to center to drive in Moreland scored. Davis also scored on the play when catcher John Mizerock, after taking the throw to the plate, threw wildly to second in an attempt to get Hall.

Jenkins followed with his triple and scored when Sandberg reached on a throwing error by third baseman Phil Garner.

The Cubs added two runs in the fifth on doubles by Davis and Hall and a pinch-triple by rookie Dan Rohn.

Jose Cruz tripled in two Houston runs in the seventh.

Pirates 6, Braves 2
ATLANTA (AP) — Pinch hitter Mike Easler drilled a grand slam to cap a six-run seventh-inning Saturday and power the Pittsburgh

Pirates to a 6-2 victory over the faltering Atlanta Braves.

The loss was Atlanta's sixth in a row and ninth in 10 games.

Atlanta led 2-0 before the Pirates rallied in the seventh against reliever Steve Bedrosian, 8-8.

Marvell Wynne began the uprising with a walk, one of 12 walks issued by Braves pitchers, and scored on Bill Madlock's double, only the second Pittsburgh hit. Jason Thompson then walked and, one out later, Johnny Ray doubled, scoring Madlock.

Tony Pena was walked intentionally to load the bases and pinch hitter Tom Orsulak struck out before Easler, batting for reliever Jim Bibby, 4-10, hit the first pitch over the center-field fence.

Reds 3, Cardinals 2
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dave Concepcion bounced a run-scoring single through the left side of the infield with one out in the 10th inning, scoring Dan Driessen from third base to give the Cincinnati Reds a 3-2 victory Saturday night over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Concepcion's hit came off Bruce Sutter, the third St. Louis pitcher. Mario Soto, 15-11, got the victory and loss went to Dave Rucker, 5-2, who started the 10th.

Driessen walked to open the 10th, finishing Rucker and bringing on Sutter. Driessen moved to second on Ron Oester's sacrifice and took third on Sutter's balk before Concepcion grounded hit game-winning hit.

Giants 5, Phillies 4
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Steve Nicosia drove in three runs with a bases-loaded single in the sixth inning as the San Francisco Giants defeated Philadelphia 5-4 Saturday night, dropping the Phillies into second place in the National League East.

Mike Krukow, 10-8, allowed three runs on four hits over 5 1-3 innings to gain the victory, with relief help. Greg Minton notched his 17th save after giving up a sacrifice fly to Greg Gross in the ninth.

Steve Carlton, 12-15, lost his fourth straight as the Phillies dropped one game behind Pittsburgh, which beat Atlanta 6-2 earlier in the day.

Dodgers 4, Expos 0
MONTREAL (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers scored three runs in the first inning and right-hander Bob Welch went on to his fifth straight victory with a 4-0 decision over the Montreal Expos Saturday night.

Welch, 13-11, escaped two-on, nobody-out jams in two of the first six innings before being replaced by Tom Niedenfuer with the bases loaded and one out in the seventh. Niedenfuer shut down that threat by getting pinch-hitter Terry Francona to pop to first and Tim Raines to line out. Niedenfuer went on to earn his 10th save.

The Dodgers loaded the bases in the first inning on successive singles by Steve Sax, Bill Russell and Dusty Baker. After Pedro Guerrero went down swinging, Ken Landreaux singled home two runs and Mike Marshall singled home another.

After the first-inning uprising off Bryn Smith, 4-8, the Dodgers didn't score a run until the ninth on Rafael Landestoy's homer, his first.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Baltimore pounded six home runs, including two by Cal Ripken and a grand slam by Ken Singleton during a seven-run explosion in the third inning, as left-hander Scott McGregor and the Orioles blasted the Minnesota Twins 13-0 Saturday.

Ripken added two doubles and a single, going for 5-for-6 and tying a team record for hits in a game, as the Orioles shelled three Twins pitchers for 18 hits. The six home runs were the most ever given up in a game by Minnesota.

Baltimore's 39 total bases tied a team record.

McGregor, 17-5, allowed eight hits for his 12th complete game as Baltimore shut out the Twins for the second consecutive day. Minnesota has not scored in 19 innings.

Ripken got the Orioles started with a solo homer in the first inning, a line drive over the left field wall, against Ken Schrom, 12-7.

Parrish, who homered in both games of Friday's doubleheader, crashed a two-out homer off Jim Clancy, 14-8, in the first inning to give the Tiger catcher 24 homers and 99 runs batted in this season. The two-out homer came after Lou Whitaker reached base on shortstop Alfredo Griffin's error.

Lemon hit his 22nd of the year cap a three-run fourth. With two outs, Glenn Wilson singled and scored on Enos Cabell's bloop double. Lemon followed by homering on a 3-0 pitch.

Dan Petry, 15-8, ran into trouble in the sixth after having held the Blue Jays to two hits, including Willie Upshaw's 22nd home run in the fourth.

BOSTON (AP) — Rookie Ron Kittle belted a two-run homer, his 29th of the season, to help Rich Dotson to his 16th victory as the Chicago White Sox downed the Boston Red Sox 9-6 Saturday.

The White Sox, far ahead in the American League West, jumped on Boston starter John Tudor, 10-10, for four runs in the first inning.

Tom Paciorek, Greg Luzinski and Harold Baines delivered RBI singles and Chicago took advantage of two Boston errors in taking its early lead.

Dotson, 16-7, allowed three runs in the Boston first inning on run-scoring singles by Jim Rice and Rich Gedman and Tony Armas' sacrifice fly.

Dotson then settled down before giving up doubles by Glenn Hoffman and Rice in the seventh. Reliever Juan Agosto came in and gave up Reid Nichols' RBI single, cutting the Chicago lead to 8-5.

Rangers, Royals split 2 games

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Kansas City Manager Dick Howser was criticized for picking up aging Gaylor Perry on waivers from Seattle earlier in the season.

But Perry, at 44 the oldest player in the major leagues, picked up his fourth victory for the Royals by shutting out Texas 5-0 Saturday night on six hits with the help of Willie Aikens 3-run homerun.

The Rangers gained a split of the doubleheader with an 8-1 victory in the second game.

Billy Sample and Bucky Dent got the rally going with early 2-run singles and Buddy Bell later added a 2-run homer.

Perry, the only player to win the Cy Young Award in both leagues, said he has no idea whether the Royals will keep him another season.

"I'm just going to try to win a few more games and see what happens," grinned Perry, who raised his career victory total to 314 with his first shutout in three years.

Mike Smithson, 8-13, struck out five and gave up only seven hits in the second game for Texas.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians erupted for 10 runs in the ninth inning, sparked by Gorman Thomas' two-run homer and RBI single and Toby Harrah's three-run double, to crush the Oakland A's 13-6 Saturday.

DON'T FUMBLE NOW — Philadelphia Eagles defensive back Roynell Young recovers a fumble on the goal line that stopped a 49ers drive with less than two minutes to play Saturday afternoon at Candlestick Park. The ball was fumbled by Wendell Tyler. The Eagles won the game, 22-17.

Eagles stave off 49ers rally, 22-17

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Backup quarterback Joe Pisarcik directed a second-half Philadelphia comeback and the Eagles escaped with a 22-17 victory over San Francisco after a 49ers' touchdown pass was nullified by a penalty in the closing seconds of Saturday's National Football League season opener.

Guy Benjamin, the 49ers' second-string quarterback, hit Dwight Clark in the end zone with 11 seconds remaining. But guard Randy Cross was called for holding.

With just over a minute left, the 49ers' Wendell Tyler lost a fumble inside the Eagles' 10-yard line, with Roynell Young recovering in the end zone. The 49ers got the ball back when fullback Hubert Oliver fumbled at the Philadelphia 28.

The Eagles' victory came in their first game under Marion Campbell, their new head coach.

Pisarcik, who threw only one pass last season, took over Saturday after starting quarterback Ron Jaworski was shaken up in the second period.

Joe Montana, the 49ers' starting quarterback, left the game twice after hard hits. Benjamin hit tight end Earl Cooper on a 73-yard touchdown pass play with 4:15 remaining in the game as the 49ers' cut Philadelphia's lead to 22-17.

The teams, both 3-6 last season, played the opener before a crowd of 55,775. Candlestick Park was sold out, but there were 5,273 no-shows.

Ponies extend streak, safety kills Ags

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Southern Methodist tailback Reggie Dupard scored two touchdowns and quarterback Lance McIlhenny passed for another Saturday night, carrying the 19th ranked Mustangs to a 24-6 inter-sectional victory over the Louisville Cardinals.

The victory extended SMU's unbeaten streak to 17, longest in the nation.

Dupard, part of SMU's new tailback tandem which also featured Gary Hashaway, ran 38 yards and a yard for touchdowns in the first meeting between the two schools.

McIlhenny flipped a 2-yard scoring pass to tight end Rickey Bolden and also winged a 46-yard completion to Ron Morris which setup Dupard's second scoring run.

California 19, Texas A&M 17

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — California linebacker Ron Rivera tackled Texas A&M's Jimmie Hawkins in the end zone for a safety with 37 seconds to play Saturday night to finally quell a 17-point comeback by the Aggies and rally the Bears to a 19-17 victory.

The winning play came only seconds after California had kicked an apparent game-winning field goal, but the Aggies were penalized for roughing kicker Randy Pratt and Cal Coach Joe Kapp elected to take the points off the board and try for a touchdown.

On the next play, quarterback Gale Gilbert fumbled and A&M's Mike Ashley recovered at the A&M 4-yard line.

But seconds later, Hawkins ran to his right and was decked in the end zone by Rivera, ending the Aggie's comeback.

A&M quarterback John Mazur followed with touchdown shots of 44 and 18 yards to tight end Rich Siler, a transfer student from the University of Illinois. The 18-yard pass tied the score with 3:07 left in the third quarter.

Herschel-less Georgia outlasts UCLA, 19-8

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Charles Dean's 69-yard interception return with 18 seconds remaining clinched 15th-ranked Georgia's 19-8 victory over No. 20 UCLA Saturday night in the Bulldogs' first outing in three years without Herschel Walker.

Georgia had built a 12-0 lead in the first half on a touchdown by Todd Williams and two field goals by Kevin Butler. The Bulldogs then yielded two field goals in the final 1:12 before halftime and held off three Bruin threats in the second half to win the season opener for both teams.

Rick Neuheisel's passing carried the Bruins from their 21 to the Georgia 14, but his fourth down pass was deflected in the end zone by Darryl Jones with 2:14 remaining to preserve the Bulldogs' lead.

Punter Chip Andrews ran out of the end zone with 1:06 remaining to give UCLA a safety.

The Bruins were able to reach the Georgia 32 before Dean returned the interception to clinch the victory.

State 20-9 in college football Saturday night.

Ward, a 5-9 junior, rushed 72 yards for his initial touchdown on UTEP's first play from scrimmage. Scott Wedel's extra point gave the Miners a quick 7-0 lead.

Wedel booted a 38-yard field goal with 1:45 left in the second quarter to extend UTEP's lead to 10-0. The Miners drove 74 yards on 19 plays to set up the score.

The Aggies managed just 114 yards total offense in the opening half. Kim Locklin gained 55 of his team-high 61 yards in the half, but the Aggies failed to score.

Wedel kicked his second field goal, a 44-yarder, with 4:51 left in the third quarter. Ward helped the drive by rushing three times for 37 yards.

Florida St. 47, E. Carolina 46

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Kelly Lowrey hit tight end Tom Wheeler for a 5-yard touchdown pass with 4:36 to play Saturday night, boosting No. 7 Florida State to a 47-46 college football victory over East Carolina in season opener for both schools.

ACU 23, Angelo St. 9

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Mark Wilson grabbed four of Abilene Christian's six interceptions to lead the Wildcats to a 23-9 victory over Angelo State in a non-league game Saturday between the two Lone Star Conference teams.

Lowrey passed for three touchdowns and Greg Allen, last year's national scoring champion, added three more as the Seminoles won the game in which the lead changed seven times and the sole punt was returned for a touchdown.

The two teams will play again in October in a game that will count in the conference race.

Wheeler's winning reception, his second touchdown, spoiled a brilliant performance by the Pirates' Henry Williams, who scored on a 56-yard punt return and 98-yard kickoff return.

The Wildcats went ahead 7-0 on a one-yard run by quarterback by Loyal Proffitt early in the second period. Boo Jones added a 38-yard field goal for ACU, but the Rams narrowed the lead to 10-3 at halftime with a 32-yard field goal by Mike Thomas.

Wide receiver Hassan Jones caught an 8-yard touchdown pass and Cedric Jones ran 5 yards for other Seminole touchdowns.

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Running back Greg Lee scored two touchdowns with runs of 3 and 36 yards and former soccer player Thomas Bresnahan kicked field goals of 23 and 36 yards as North Texas State romped over West Texas State 32-3 Saturday night in a non-conference football game.

UTEP 20, New Mexico 9

Those 31 yards of rushing were half of what the Tiger back gained all evening.

because of the Steers' "right-handed" offense.

"We're playing a little bit right-handed right now," he explained. "The strength of our offense is on the right side and we're tending to go right." When the Steers go right, Pirkle draws more options from the veer offense.

Tackle Doug Walker (215) and guard Fabian Salazar (230) are on the right side, giving Big Spring good size to run behind.

Spencer was quick to add the team will "balance itself out" in time with Sherman getting more handoffs.

Gartman and Johnson completed five of 17 passes and Spencer labeled the passing game "tentative" but also sees that area improving in time.

"The mistakes we made," the first-year coach said, "are minute and we can correct them. We're going to be a good football team."

Defensively, the Steers surrendered a ton of yards in the second quarter but hardly any in the second half causing defensive linebackers coach Jack Dorsett to smile.

"We started four rookies at linebacker," he said, "and they improved as the game went on. They got excited at halftime and ran to the ball better and tackled better in the second half. We didn't sit back and wait like we had been."

Snyder changed quarterbacks in the second quarter and junior Charles Bollinger promptly hit all 8 of this throws for 103 yards and directed the Tigers to their only touchdown of the game. Running back Norman Malone broke loose for gains of 13 and 18, the last run accounting for the touchdown.

The Runnels Yearlings football team started practice Thursday, Aug. 18, and it had its first game Sept. 8. The football teams are coached by Rob Saxton, head coach; David Drake, Russell Watson, and Bobby Zellers, assistant coaches.

The band chose officers in an election recently. They are Katrina Thompson, president; Lynn Malone, secretary; and Jennifer Spencer, treasurer.

The student council will elect officers — president, vice president, treasurer and secretary — after the Labor Day holiday. Each advisory will elect a representative for every 10 members.

The Calendar Clue game will list a different category each week while the students try to solve the answer. New clues will be given every day. Students will be allowed to submit two answers each week. At the end of the year, there will be a special game for only those people who have been one of the top three sometime during the year. Prizes will be given to the winners in a range of $1 to $5.

This year's cheerleaders are Ginger Brooks, Katrina Thompson, Jennifer Spencer, Tiffanie Evans, Kenda Madry and Jessica Milligan. Sponsor of the group is Deede Cauley.

It takes some skill to judge ugly dogs

BESSEMER, Ala. (AP) — When Tony Lee judges dogs at a contest, he knows what to look for — "incongruities of breed, unlovability and a shiftiness of eye."

Preparing for Monday's Ugly Dog Competition, Lee recalled the inaugural contest a year ago, when he named as winner "a poor, pitiful dog, the ugliest dog I ever saw."

"That dog was too ugly to describe. Its tail had two kinks in it. Its hindquarters and chest were grossly mismatched. Its ears were pointed and stood up like they were waxed and they had great tufts of hair coming out of them ..."

"It had to have at least three breeds in it — dachshund, bird dog and shepherd — and it was pitiful. You'd want to take up a collection for that dog."

Nevertheless, Lee said, "A child was holding on to that thing and you could tell that child adored that animal."

Lee, a former radio man now in promotion work, said he was asked to judge the contest because he loves animals. He has owned about 60 dogs over the years, most of them mixed breeds abandoned near his home at the end of a country road.

The contest is part of the Southern Shindig, a Labor Day of entertainment sponsored by the Bessemer-West Jefferson County Chamber of Commerce. There are three winners — ugly, uglier and ugliest.

After Lee's rulings last year, he said, "I didn't get any hate mail but I got a few scolding looks and one lady shook her head as she left."

The judging takes only a few minutes.

"We line them up with their handlers and try to parade them, but since they are not only ugly but untrained, they don't parade very well," Lee said. "You can look at an ugly dog and it just leaps out at you. I mean, ugly goes clear to the bone."

About 15 dogs were judged last year and the coordinator of Monday's contest, Carol Morrow, said she expects more entries this time "although everybody thinks their dog is beautiful. It takes a strong person to bring their dog to an ugly dog contest."

Joy to the world!

By JOY CULWELL

Here it is time for my fifth weekly column, and I haven't written about fat yet.

I'm not talking about "pleasantly plump" or "stout." I'm talking fat. My doctor said you could be overweight if you were well proportioned, and I am about as well proportioned as you can get. I'm 36-24-36, and the other arm is the same size.

It isn't as if I haven't been on a diet all my life. I was asked recently if I had always been fat, and I said "Goodness no! When I was born, I weighed only 36 pounds."

When I was a child the Watkins man would come and we'd buy a round of their vitamins, and later the Rawleigh man would come and we'd buy a round of their vitamins. I think I had one round too many.

I have recently lost 78 pounds, and when I add that to my lifetime total lost, it comes to an astounding 4,812 pounds — mostly three pounds at a time. It's that three pounds lost and four pounds gained that's the problem for most people.

Am I talking your language? Good! Well, what are we going to do about it?

I recommend that we get nutrition advice and a doctor's okay first. Then we start on a program of eating right, exercising and working on a sweet attitude. We can, by starting the day before Labor Day, be a living doll by Christmas. Any Christmas! But 1983 preferably.

I am starting a notebook today. I'll call mine "Diary of a Whale of a Struggle." I'll enter every bite I eat every day and what caused me to want to eat it. I've done this before, and it works. Try to stay with me on this diet until Christmas, and we'll see if we can beautify ourselves and make the Big Spring area smaller, lighter or at least happier.

I close with these words of wisdom said by somebody who understands our problem. "All our troubles start with our mouth. We either say it or eat it."

MGM files $960 million antitrust lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — MGM-UA Entertainment Co. has filed a $960 million antitrust lawsuit accusing a major European film distribution company of price fixing and attempted restraint of trade.

Named as defendants were Taurus-Film GmbH & Co., of Munich, West Germany; its chief executive, Leo Kirch; and its U.S. business agent, prominent Los Angeles entertainment lawyer Milton A. Rudin.

The suit, filed Friday in U.S. District Court, accuses the defendants of conspiring to restrain trade and fix prices in the distribution of U.S. feature films, cartoons and television programs to television stations in German-speaking areas of Europe.

Taurus dominates the market for American entertainment on German-language television in Europe, the lawsuit said.

Hotel strike averted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hotel and union negotiators reached agreement on a tentative contract Saturday, averting a strike that had threatened multimillion-dollar losses to San Francisco's top industry, tourism.

Round-the-clock talks with Mayor Dianne Feinstein and a federal mediator extended hours past a midnight strike deadline. Maids, waitresses, porters, clerks and other workers were told by union officials to report for early shifts at the 35 hotels while talks continued.

Big Spring. Reason to believe: No. 4.

A Playground 300 Days A Year

Photographed on the fairway is Howard Stewart, Golf Coach at Big Spring High School.

Today the "big spring," once a watering hole for wild animals, Indians, and weary travelers on the Overland and Santa Fe Trails, is surrounded by Comanche Trail Park, one of the loveliest parks in the state.

In fact, we can enjoy over 5,000 acres of public parks with nature trails, picnic facilities, swimming pools, 21 lighted tennis courts, golf courses and fishing grounds.

Scenic Mountain State Park affords a spectacular view of the city. Moss Creek Lake offers a visitor overnight camping facilities and an opportunity to catch that Big One.

For sightseers there is not a more charming home in Texas to typify the turn of the century than our Potton House, listed in the National Register of Historic Places. And the Heritage Museum is a celebration of our Western heritage.

Best of all, you can enjoy the outdoors in over 300 days of sunshine.

Love for antiques proves profitable

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Mabel Kountz appears to be a small fragile woman, but she is a tough, spry worker who kicks up her heels and enjoys life to its fullest.

Her love for antiques has been steadfast during her lifetime of both wealth and poverty. It's only fitting that it is her business. For about 26 years, Mabel has owned May Belle's Antiques at 1617 E. 3rd.

About 200 years ago, Mabel's great-grandmother made and entered a prize-winning quilt in the Mississippi State Fair. The woman presented the quilt to her young grandson for the little girl he would have after he got married. The boy was Mabel's father and she inherited the quilt.

Mabel grew up in the oil business and came from a wealthy family. She owned her own car when she was 13. Not many people can boast of that.

Mabel and her mother collected cut glass made in the United States. Between the two of them they had 10 pieces. Eventually Mabel inherited all of it.

After Mabel and her second husband, Robert Kountz, went broke in the oil and gas supply business, they opened an antique store at its present location. "I know big business as well as little business. This is fun business, but not money," she said.

WITH JUST $200, the Kountzes got into the antique business about 26 years ago. If it hadn't been for gifts of flowers to fill her shelves and dealers coming from miles around, she would have had a more difficult start.

Mabel's stock of antiques comes from several sources. "You can go to auctions, which I don't like. I see something and want to buy it; not sit and take time to bid against somebody who may pay $5 more for it," she said. She doesn't go to auctions as often now.

"I made (antique) shows for quite a while," she said. She traveled to shows throughout the country. Today she primarily goes to the Odessa and Lubbock shows because the travel expense and antiques have gotten so high. "People who come are much more aware of the value of antiques," she said.

In addition to antique shows and auctions, she shops the Dallas bazaars. Her relatives bring the antiques she purchases to Big Spring when they visit her.

Mabel keeps a few favorite antiques at home with her. "If I find a piece I liked real well and wanted to keep it, I'd take it home and bring back a piece of equal value to replace it," she said. When Mabel sells something, she will buy an antique to replace it and keep an ongoing stock.

"PEOPLE COME AND WANT to sell things. I'm an appraiser too. People want you to appraise something without paying for it. That's how I make a living," she said.

In addition to selling and appraising antiques, Mabel refinishes furniture, does estate appraisals and insurance, and takes orders for Christmas hams, turkeys and pecans. From these jobs, she puts some of her profit back into antiques. "Antiques are my love. Anyway I can make an honest dollar, then I put some of it back into my antiques," she says.

Sometimes Mabel will buy merchandise for the store that is not an antique yet. "You have customers who can't afford antiques but can buy something that can be handed down the family to become antiques," she said.

A piece is not an antique if it is younger than 75 years old in the United States. At one time items had to be 100 years old to be considered an antique in United States, but that has changed due to the scarcity of antiques in the United States. In Europe, a piece must be 200 years old before it is considered an antique.

Some antiques are more valuable than other antiques. Demand for the object and its scarcity are primary factors in determining an item's value. "A lot of people study and know about antiques. You can study the books and get a pretty good education. I've been collecting so long and just love it, so I go all out on things I love."

Mabel also has managed a monthly flea market for 17 years. About 100 antique dealers would come from as far as New York to set up their wares.

The younger generation should know and preserve what has been our heritage.

She hasn't held a flea market since January due to an illness. "It was cold then and too hot now, but people have been inquiring as to when to have it again," she said.

If dealers work hard at the flea market and bring things they want to get rid of, then the flea market can be a success, Mabel said.

"THE HEYDAY OF FLEA MARKETS was about 8 or 9 years ago," she said. The younger generation doesn't know as much about flea markets, she adds.

"The younger generation should know and preserve what has been our heritage," she said. "You're a collector when you start the antique business. Everyone is a collector of something. Antiques are a good thing to invest in. Buy one piece — one good piece."

"You have more funny, queer things that happen in this business than in any business that I know of," she says. "A man about 24 or 25 drove straight up to the door and stopped one day. He was in an old car and dressed shabbily. 'Do you buy antiques,' he asked. I said, 'I can't steal them so I have to buy them.' And I asked if he had something to sell. He had his grandfather's saber and six or seven cheap pieces of things I didn't care for. I didn't want anything except the saber, but he gave a reasonable price for it all. I bought it. And I put a good price on the saber."

"One year later a young man drove up in the same manner in a brand new car, nicely dressed and (he) wore a moustache. He said, 'Oh you have a nice saber here.' And I said, 'It looks like it did when you sold it to me.' He couldn't figure out how I knew it was him. He needed to buy it back because his grandfather was going to be there the next day."

Church receives 'miracles' from its members

By RHONDA WITT
Lifestyle Writer

Due to the economy, Hillcrest Baptist Church came onto hard times. The church had more bills than money until "Miracle Sunday" when church members gave more than $21,000.

Last Sunday, pews at Hillcrest Baptist were full. Members gave enough money to meet all needs of the church, Phillip McClendon, pastor, said. "This experience is probably the highlight of our ministry."

"It was an amazing response. It seemed like the entire church grasped the desire to give, and everyone gave as they felt led to give."

"We fell behind financially for several reasons," he said. "The first reason was O.I.L. laying people off. When those people left, their tithing left too. Second was the ministry to Hillcrest Christian School. The church underwrites the school, and we expect some expense there."

"Third was the economy itself. A lot of people are without jobs, and people are trying to make ends meet," he said. "Also the summer months are always slow."

"On a Wednesday night when we were praying, the Lord gave me this plan where we could clear out all our debts. And that was to ask the people to give 90 percent of one week's income."

"A lot of the children saved their coke money and show money and gave that money, so it was a family sacrifice."

The people had a month to plan their budget where they could give 90 percent of one week's salary. "That way it's not equal giving but equal sacrifice," McClendon said.

"The idea caught fire, and people began planning their budget to give. They became excited in anticipation," he said. "Miracles began happening. People came into money they didn't expect."

Two families who received "miracles" and gave their 90 percent were the Mike Moates and the Bob McCormicks.

"When Brother Phillip first mentioned it I really didn't pay much attention, because I didn't think I could give 90 percent. We live hand to mouth," Bob McCormick said. "Then I began thinking about it, people started talking to me (about it), and I started talking to the Lord in prayer."

"Once when I was praying the Lord just spoke to me, but by then it was too late for me to make financial plans and to save money," he said. "When I mentioned it to my wife, she didn't think we should do it. But God has blessed me with a woman who may not always agree with me, but she does follow me. At a prayer meeting, the Lord gave her a peace about it, and she became excited."

"There were a number of little things that we needed that cost money we didn't have. We needed a new waterwell since lightening struck it about a month ago. Last Monday (Aug. 22), we received a check for just a little over four times the amount we were going to give."

"When I got that money, I thought I was rich, until I realized all the things we needed," McCormick said. "The check covered the cost of the waterwell."

"What was neat was we just asked the Lord to meet our needs. The Lord sent exactly what we needed and that's all," he said. "The most important thing is God is faithful, and he does what he says he will do."

McCormick is employed by Mobil Oil Co. His family consists of wife Glenda, and sons, Mike, 10, and Joe, 7. The McCormicks' sons are students at Hillcrest Christian School. The McCormicks said they paid the tuition on time, even after donating 90 percent of one week's paycheck.

The second family to receive a "miracle" was Mike and Sheree Moates, farmers, facing a West Texas drought. "We were gone when McClendon spoke about 'Miracle,'" Mrs. Moates said. "Mike is a farmer and won't make enough to cover expenses. But we knew we would give our 90 percent."

As soon as they decided to give 90 percent, a man called on the phone who wanted to buy water from Moates for an oilwell, Mrs. Moates said. "The water (money) was four or five times more than what our 90 percent was," she said. "I knew God would take care of it."

"We never lack for anything He (God) has meet all our needs everytime," she said. The Moates have two daughters Kirstie, 6, and Lindsey, 2. Kirstie also is a student at Hillcrest Christian School.

"We paid for all of our tuition and books before we paid our 90 percent," Mrs. Moates said. "Even if the school had offered to help with the tuition, we wouldn't have taken the help."

drought this year. A second couple, Bob and Glenda McCormick, also gave their 90 percent and managed to still have money to fix their waterwell. The waterwell was struck by lightening a month ago.

MABEL AND OTHER antique dealers must be careful of buying stolen merchandise in their business. "People want to sell you something and you want it but are afraid to buy it because you're afraid it might be stolen," she said. Mabel illustrates her discussion of the antique business with many tales. She begins a tale of an incident that happened in Artesia, N.M.

"A man and woman came in (an antique shop) and asked for four chairs," she said. "The woman who owned the store looked at the man with no idea of what the couple wanted."

Mabel walked up and asked the man to describe the kind of chairs he was looking for and said she had a store in Texas which also might help him.

The man was happy because he was a sheriff at Jal, N.M. The night before he had been watching a house full of antiques. He had gotten some warning about the house. "He ran out of coffee and went into town for 30 minutes to get coffee," Mabel said. "During that time, the house was robbed. The sheriff was searching for stolen antiques possibly sold to dealers."

People from all over the country stop by Mabel's store to see what she has. Most have bought from her before and asks if she remembers them. She may not remember their face but remembers the item they bought and what price they paid.

People in this part of the country will travel great distances to find an antique item they are looking for. "We are a new country out here. You can go in the older states and find things easier." Antiques aren't as easily found in the Western United States.

Mabel's store was recently vandalized. Some things are missing. Several pieces of depression glass were destroyed. But she goes on, hassled by the work as a result of the crime, but determined to keep selling her antiques.

"I don't want to get out of it. I don't want to sell my business and I have no intention of getting out of it."

The W.C. Edwards bring home a boy

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

W.C. (CONNIE) AND KAREN EDWARDS are home after an unexpected five month stay in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. And they brought home a baby boy.

The couple own a hotel on Grand Cayman Island in the Caribbean. While Karen was redecorating it, she went into labor at 6 1/2 months pregnant.

Connie chartered a plane and flew her to Fort Lauderdale, Fla. to Broadward Hospital, which has a neonatal intensive care unit for premies. Karen gave birth to twins, March 6. But the Edwards lost one as he had lung problems.

The Edwards brought little NICHOLAS DEAK EDWARDS home after a three-month hospital stay. Nicholas had more than 40 blood transfusions and was in the hospital with about 50 other premies. Nicholas weighed 2 pounds 7 ounces at birth. "He is doing well now that he is in Texas. It's good to be home," Karen said.

Little WILLIAM, Nicholas' twin brother lived for 4 1/2 months and had three surgeries. But he was too sick to live. "Thank God we were in Florida at that hospital or we wouldn't even have Nicholas," Karen said.

Friends and neighbors gathered at the home of LANIE AND MYRTLE GRIFFITH for an old-fashioned housewarming and open house, Aug. 27.

The event was hosted by BETTY BAIN, JANE HENSON, BETTY CROOKER, LINDA BRACK, ANN FOX, MARY ELLEN ALLEN, LILLIAN RHYAN AND MARY ELLIS. The couple lives on Griffith Lane off Neill Rd.

JESSICA ANN WELLINGTON, 3 month old daughter of Airman 1st Class BILL AND LAURIE WELLINGTON, is the fifth generation of girls, all alive and well. She also can boast of 13 living grandmothers.

The Wellingtons just returned to the states from Germany, where Jessica was born. They were reunited with Laurie's string of relatives last week in Big Spring. It was the first opportunity the grandparents had to see their new grandchild.

The five generations of girls stem from MRS. MATTIE FULLER, 75. She's Jessica's great great-grandmother. Mattie's daughter, LAVERNE COATS, 54, is the mother of KARON MAGEE, 36. Karon is the mother of LAURIE WELLINGTON, 20. Laurie, of course, is Jessica's mother.

Jessica is the granddaughter of Major RAY AND KARON MAGEE of Colorado Springs, Colo., JIMMY WELCH of Big Spring, and DR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WELLINGTON of Des Moines, Iowa.

The proud great-grandmothers are EDWINA WELCH REAGAN, 1500 Harding, and LAVERNE COATS of Marshall. Three of eight great great-grandmothers are EDNA CASEY, 409 Johnson, MATTIE FULLER, 1611 Johnson, and JEWELL BAGGETT, 2200 Montrose, all long-time locals.

Jessica's line of great-grandfathers includes CHUCK COATS, the late BILLY CASEY, J.H. FULLER, ERLY CASEY and the late T.A. WELCH. EDNA AND ERLY CASEY and MATTIE AND J.H. FULLER are on their way to sixty-year marriages.

The family wondered if they would make Guinness's Book of World Records with all the grandmothers. But they were short five.

In addition to grandmothers and grandfathers, Jessica's great great-aunts are SHERRY WEGNER, Gail Rt., and LARUE LOVELACE, 2611 Ann.

MR. AND MRS. J.C. COLLINS, formerly of Sand Springs, miss their old friends, they say. But the Collins are enjoying their new home in Hope, Ark.

Until next week...

Shower honors Miss Ray

Deborah Jo Ray, bride-elect of Garrett L. Conway, was honored with a shower in the home of Mrs. Tom Starnes, 512 Highland Dr., Aug. 21.

Hostesses were Mrs. Starnes, Donna Morris, Gayle Worthan and Eulene Jones. They presented the honoree with a crock pot.

Corsages were presented to the honoree, Mrs. Edgar Ray, the honoree's mother, and Mrs. Connie Conway, mother of the prospective bridegroom. Special guests included Mayola Bradshaw and Carmen Ray, both grandmothers of the bride-to-be, Michele Ray, sister of the honoree, and Jennie Ray, the bride-elect's daughter.

The couple will wed Sept. 17 in the chapel of the First Baptist Chapel.

Nichols announce son's birth

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Nichols of Knott announce the birth of their son, Steven Chase, at 4:15 a.m., Aug. 22, at Midland Memorial Hospital. The infant weighed 8 pounds 15 1/2 ounces and measured 20 1/2 inches in length.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Repps Guitar of Knott and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nichols of Knott. Steven's great-grandparents are Mary Beth Guitar of Knott, Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Greene of Abilene, and J.S. Jackson, 1411 E. 19th. His great-grandfather is Earl Shepherd of Hico.

Steven Chase was welcomed home by his sister, Trisha Lynette, 22 1/2 months old.

Beds for fall vegetables

If you have limited garden space you may want to consider planting vegetables in flower beds around your home this fall. Numerous highly productive vegetables will do extremely well when planted in flower beds and planter boxes.

Leaf lettuce makes an ideal border plant and will grow in many areas around the home that receive only partial sunlight. Most varieties will be ready for harvesting 45 to 60 days from planting. The red leaf variety Ruby not only adds color to flower beds but also provides food for the table.

Onions or their close relatives — chives, leeks and garlic — will all do well in flower beds that receive limited amounts of sunlight. Parsley is another fall crop that makes an ideal border planting and can be harvested throughout the winter in most areas of Texas.

Many common fall vegetables such as broccoli, cabbage, spinach, beets, carrots and the various types of greens will do exceptionally well in flower beds that receive five to six hours of sunlight a day. Not only will they do well in the fall but they can also be harvested well into the winter in most areas of Texas.

If crops such as tomatoes, eggplants and peppers are to be grown in flower beds as a fall crop, they should be located in areas that receive at least eight hours of sunlight a day. Locating cold-susceptible crops on the south side of your house will give them some protection from the first cold winds of winter.

Growing fall vegetables in flower beds requires little extra care over that given most plants. Water plants regularly to keep them out of stress, especially during early summer and fall and as plants near maturity. Adding small amounts of fertilizer around vegetable plants during the season will help insure high yields of good quality fall vegetables.

Dear Abby:

Atheist is offended by reference to God

DEAR ABBY: I have become sickened by all of your references to the "lord" and to praying in your answers to people who are in trouble.

Did you ever stop to think that some of these people whom you tell to "pray" and to "keep faith in the 'lord'" might be atheists? I'm sure these references would offend them, as they do me. Remember that there are people in this world who are strong enough not to need some imaginary being to cling to. Sign me...

A HAPPY ATHEIST
DEAR HAPPY: John Stuart Mill (English philosopher, writer, member of Parliament) said: "It is conceivable that religion may be morally useful without being intellectually sustainable."

If your strength sustains your atheist convictions, fine. But others may need help from a higher power.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I will soon celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary. When we were married we had no celebration; we just had a little hurry-up ceremony because I was pregnant at the time. Now for our 25th, we're planning a wonderful reception where we'll renew our vows, and then take off for a month's dream vacation to make up for the honeymoon we never had. I went to work part time for two years and saved the money to help pay for all this. We have a good marriage and much to celebrate.

My husband wants to add to our invitations: "Instead of gifts, donations to our church would be appreciated." Abby, I never got any wedding presents — ever — and I would love some. My husband's "no gifts" attitude is making me feel guilty and greedy, because I really do want presents.

I feel that he deprived me of a big wedding 25 years ago, and now he's depriving me of wedding presents.

What do you think? A DREAM COME TRUE
DEAR DREAM: What do you mean he "deprived you of a big wedding"? I assume you were a willing partner in the circumstances that deprived you of the big wedding you never had.

You needn't feel guilty or greedy for wanting presents. I say, let the guests give you gifts if they wish, and you make a donation to your church.

DEAR ABBY: Gary and I have been married two years. He says he loves me, but he isn't satisfied with my body. I'm not fat, but Gary thinks I need to firm up. He lifts weights and has a muscular body, and he wants me to have one, too. It takes time and a lot of work to firm up, but I'm trying.

Gary says he sometimes like to sleep with other women just for their bodies — not to get serious with. I've been trying to understand his thinking, but it doesn't seem logical to me.

I married Gary because I loved him, and I want to stay married for life.

I will try to firm up my body to please him, but do you think I should give him permission to have other women in the meantime? What if I never firm up?

A NICE SIZE
DEAR NICE: Tell Mr. Muscles that there is nothing in your marriage contract that makes flabbiness a legitimate ground for adultery. Firm up for your health, but don't condone his cheating or it will be the beginning of the end.

For Abby's updated, revised and expanded booklet, "How to Be Popular" — for people of all ages — send $3, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Dr. Donohue

Oxygen capability

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I'm a 38-year-old male, in fairly good shape, who exercises, lifts weights, and runs three or four times a week, with an average of three to five miles at a time. I had pneumonia about seven years ago and since then have had a hernia operation. While recuperating from surgery the intern made me inhale through a machine with a graph on it that measured intake of air. My question has to do with V O2 max, a subject you discussed a while back. How can I get checked to see if I have good lung capacity, or good V O2 max. If I have no trainer or equipment to utilize? I hope to increase my running to double what I'm doing now. — E.J.D.

V O2 max is the maximum oxygen consumption of which you're capable, and it depends on many factors. One, of course, is the capacity of your lungs to bring in oxygen. That's easy to understand. A person with severe emphysema would have much less V O2 max than would a healthy person.

Second, it depends on how well your blood circulates. Simply breathing in oxygen is not enough. It requires a good circulatory system (heart and blood vessels) to get the oxygen to the muscles, where it is used. A person with clogged vessels and weak heart is not going to fare as well as one who doesn't have those hindrances.

Third, good V O2 max depends on the numbers of the mitochondria, those time energy factories within muscles.

So, while outwardly a simple concept, determining precise oxygen delivery levels for any person requires strict laboratory assessment. And you are correct, you need a lot of equipment not available to the average fitness enthusiast. You need all this to determine just how much oxygen you can breathe in and how much you breathe out.

Now without all this equipment you can still get a pretty good idea of how you are doing regarding V O2 max with a method that employs the heart rate (pulse rate). You can use the Harvard step test, and all you need is a step and a watch. I can't give you all the details in this limited space, but you can find them in your library. Look for a book called "Measurement in Physical Education" by Donald K. Mathews. You may find the test in other physical fitness books also.

Basically, to take this test you step up and down a given number of times and afterward you count your pulse. How fast it's beating and how quickly it slows can be correlated to your V O2 max level. Be sure, however, that you can safely take this test before you go ahead. It can be a real jolt to the heart and you must have your doctor's permission to do so, especially given your health history.

Scissors

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

As sharp as they may be, scissors and shears may be ruined easily. The following describes seven ways to wreck a pair of scissors or shears.

1. Use the scissors to cut the wrong thing. Cutting through hard things such as wire, thick string, pins, and flower stems is one way to nick the blades or throw off alignment.
 2. Drop the scissors on the floor. That wrecks the alignment of the blades or actually breaks the point of the scissors.
 3. Try to cut heavy things near the tips of the blades instead of near the pivot. That forces the blades apart so the tips will never cut again.
 4. Try to sharpen scissors yourself.
 5. Let the scissors get wet and don't dry them. Even some types of stainless steel can corrode if wet for a long time. Plated carbon-steel scissors are more vulnerable, since the face of the scissors blades isn't covered with protective plating and can start to corrode merely by being in damp conditions.
 6. Forget to lubricate the scissors, especially after they have been wet. Without lubricating, the pivot can become sticky, making the scissors hard to use.
 7. Forget to wipe the scissors thoroughly after use. Little threads and fibers will get caught near the pivot, making the scissors hard to open and close.
- By keeping care in mind when using scissors, they can last many years.
- Let your sewing style and budget guide you in the types of scissors and shears you use. These cutting implements differ in that the blades of shears measure longer than 6" and the handles have one large and one small ring. Consider quality and end use when shopping for them. Important to remember is that if not misused, they can last a lifetime.

SHOPPING GUIDELINES

Consider how the weight and balance of the scissors feel in your hand. Various lengths and weights are available. Check for smoothness inside the handle rings.

Ask to try a sample pair, make sure the blades are sharp. Look for a reasonable warranty. Check for uniform width and angle of cutting edge.

Look for an adjustable screw securing the blades. Listen for a "swish" sound as you close the blades.

CARE GUIDELINES

Occasionally oil the screw area. Wipe scissors clean with a dry cloth after each use. Store in a box or pouch.

Do not use fabric cutting scissors on paper. When necessary have the blades sharpened and the screw adjusted by a sharpening service.

BENT HANDLED SHEARS

Bent handled shears are a sewing basket basic. The bent angle of the lower blades makes flat cutting possible. Popular lengths are 7" to 10". Left-handed models are available as well as lightweight. Lightweight make large cutting jobs more comfortable — be sure they are heavy enough to cut through the types of fabrics you use.

Quality Test: Cut to the tip through four layers of medium weight fabric.

SEWING SCISSORS

Sewing scissors with a pointed and rounded tip are ideal for clipping seams and facings. The blunt tip prevents the snagging of fabric when trimming.

Quality Test: Cut through two layers of medium weight fabric. Clip notches with the tip.

GENERAL PURPOSE SHEARS

General purpose shears will save your sewing scissors from misuse. Use them to cut paper, trim leather, snip twine and other general household textiles.

Quality Test: Cut through two layers of cardboard.

TRIMMING SCISSORS

Trimming scissors have finely tapered blades which are ideal for small cutting and trimming jobs. A trimmer in 6" or 7" is a good choice.

Embroidery Scissors, 3½" to 6" long, can be used for the same small cutting jobs. However, when trimming long lengths, a Trimmer will give you more even results.

Quality Test: Cut a five-pointed star of sheer fabric.

THREAD NIPPERS AND CLIPPERS

Thread nippers and clippers are handy little gadgets with spring action blades which cut loose threads and rip seams quickly.

Quality Test: Clip ½" lengths of thread or yarn, spring-back action should be brisk.

PINKING SHEARS

Pinking shears have pointed teeth on the blades which adds a ravel resistant seam finish to a loosely woven fabric or a decorative finish. Lengths range from 7" to 10½", 7½" is a good choice. Left-handed and lightweight models are also available, as well as scalloped edge shears.

Quality Test: Cut from the second tooth to the tip, close to the edge of both light and heavy fabric. Check for an even "pinked" pattern. A deeper cut will stop the unraveling better. These shears will be a bit stiffer than regular shears.

BUTTONHOLE SCISSORS

Buttonhole scissors have a special adjustable screw for setting cutting lengths which prevents cutting beyond the buttonhole end, into the garment fabric.

Quality Test: Adjust screw and cut through two layers of light and medium weight fabrics.

Engagement policy

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald from anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks before the wedding.

We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form should be signed by the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or parents of either.

We will use a picture of the couple or the bride-elect. The picture must be of a quality that will reproduce well in the newspaper. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to our paper. If only grandparents live in our area, please, give their names and addresses.

The information may be brought by the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry, or mailed to the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Call us at (915) 287-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

MR AND MRS. LARRY RINGENER
...wed Saturday evening

Morris-Ringener

Donna Morris became Mrs. Larry Ringener during a wedding ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Greg Birrell, 404 W. 12th, Saturday evening.

The Rev. Phillip McClelland, pastor of Hillcrest Baptist Church, officiated the rite before an arch, accented with apricot flowers, flanked by two three-branch candelabra with greenery.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne L. Morris, 2002 N. Monticello, are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Ringener, 2005 Runnels, and the late Maurine Ringener.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal-length apricot gown of sheer taffeta. The gown featured a ruffled neckline, a slightly raised waist with a sheer cummerbund, and a bustle effect in the back. The skirt fell from the waist to the floor with one large ruffle around the bottom which lifted to form the bustle effect. To complete her ensemble, the bride wore a halo of champaign and apricot roses and streamers on her head. She carried a bouquet of champagne sweetheart roses accented with apricot flowers.

Janice Monteleone was matron of honor. Tiffany Birrell and Christy Birrell, nieces of the bridegroom, were flower girls.

Greg Birrell, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Ring bearer was Lee Morris, nephew of the bride. Usher was Gary Morris, brother of the bride. Candelighters were Jennifer Morris, niece of the bride, and Melissa Birrell, niece of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception at the same location. The bride's table was draped with an antique champaign-colored cloth with an apricot-colored underlay. The table was centered with an apricot floral arrangement in a brass container. The table featured a two-tiered wedding cake decorated with columns between the tiers. A "Precious Moments" figurine of a bride and bridegroom topped the cake. Apricot roses accented the sides of the cake. Serving were Becky Headrick and Vicki Morris, sister-in-law of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School. She is employed by the Howard County Clerks Office. The bridegroom also graduated from Big Spring High School. He attends Howard College and is employed by the Big Spring Fire Department.

Following a wedding trip to Lubbock, the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

Kathy Lavon Boy and Jimmie Steve Jones were united in marriage during an afternoon ceremony at Trinity Baptist Church, Aug. 27. The Rev. Claude Craven, pastor, performed the rite before an altar decorated with two candelabra entwined with greenery and pink and white flowers.

Parents of the bride are Mabel Nipp of Big Spring and the late Harold Boy. The bridegroom is the son of Wanda Jones of Big Spring and Glen Jones of Houston.

Lila Adkins, pianist, and Misty Rhoton, vocalist, provided music for the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, L.D. Cunningham. She wore a formal-length gown of white satin with an overlay of white net lace. The gown featured a high neckline and long sleeves. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, daisies and baby's breath with white lace streamers.

Brenda Boy served her niece as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sue Jackson, aunt of the bride, Judy Jones, the bridegroom's sister, and Terri Deel. Kimberly Long, the bridegroom's niece, was flower girl.

Kevin Rhoton was best man. Groomsman were Jimmie Barrier, Cecil Bynum and Matt Toomes of Midland. Keith Smith was usher.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted with a reception in the church's fellowship hall. The bride's table was draped with a white net cloth with pink inserts. It was centered with the bride's bouquet. The table featured a two-tiered cake decorated with pink roses and a miniature bride and bridegroom.

The bride is attending Big Spring High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School. He is employed by Caprock Electric in Stanton.

Following a wedding trip to San Angelo, the couple is making their home in Big Spring.

Wedding policy

Weddings are published in the Sunday Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. A wedding form, available at the Herald, should be filled out, signed by either the bride, bridegroom or a member of either family and in our office no later than noon the Wednesday before the wedding.

The information may be accompanied by a photograph either of the bride or the couple. A black and white glossy 5 x 7 inch print is preferred. The picture must be of sufficient quality to reproduce in the newspaper. Pictures may be picked up following publication.

If a wedding writeup is turned in after the wedding, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Forms for wedding stories may be picked up at the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry. Writeups may be brought in to the department or mailed to Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Please call our office if you have problems or questions. Careful check vital in purchase of car

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Tuition and board money are not the only expenses parents must face when their youngsters go back to college this fall. The "second-hand car" is often an additional one, an expert in the automotive field points out.

"Consumers, however, can make sure they are getting their money's worth by taking an hour to check a car over before buying it," says Dave Bowman, Technical Communications Manager for Fram Autolite, an automotive parts manufacturer here.

"First, look for a car that was well-maintained by its previous owner — even if its price tag is a bit higher," says Bowman. "You can do this by asking for and examining the car's maintenance records.

"After you've found a well-maintained car," Bowman adds, "the vehicle should pass a visual test, a road test and a mechanic's examination."

The visual check includes looking at the exterior, the interior and under the hood:

— Check exterior for signs of an accident cover-up, such as a new paint job covering rough body marks or rippling metal.

— Check under the car for these problems: A worn exhaust system; leaky or rusty shock absorbers; rust around the fender wells and the bottom door edge. Look inside the door jams for undercoating, which helps prevent rust damage.

— In the car's interior, look for signs of wear on the seats, wheel, armrests and floor pedals. This can be a better indication of the car's mileage than the odometer.

— Under the hood, check the air filter, fluid levels, and make sure belts and hoses are not frayed, worn, cracked or spongy. If these appear in good condition, it is a sign the car has been maintained properly.

— Check for other signs of neglect such as corrosion in and around the battery, and muddy or rusty coolant in the radiator. These can lead to problems later on.

Take a 30-minute test-drive, Bowman suggests, and do the following:

— Move the car a few feet and look for puddles where it was parked. Black fluid indicates an oil leak; pink or brown fluid a transmission leak; greenish or yellow fluid a radiator leak.

— Drive the car from low to high speed and make sure the steering remains smooth. If you notice heavy vibration, the suspension components may be worn or the tires are out of balance. Check tires for uneven wear.

— Making sure no cars are behind you, test the brakes. First, brake hard at 45 mph. Repeat twice. The car should stop in a straight line and not pull to one side or the other. The front-end should not vibrate or shake, and there should be no squealing or grinding sounds when the brakes are applied. Finally, the brake pedal should not feel soft or spongy. These may all be symptoms of problems. Have a mechanic inspect all the car's systems. This should cost no more than $50 and can give you a better idea of the car's condition, says Bowman.

To determine whether the engine is in good overall condition, Bowman suggests having the mechanic perform a "compression" or "cylinder leakage" test. The mechanic should also do an emission check to be sure the car will pass state inspections.

On Turning Heads

Your fingernails' number one enemy is dehydration. As a result, the primary purpose of most nail products is to reduce the escape of water from the nail matrix. The matrix is the birthplace of the nail, if you will, located at the base under the transparent fingernail. While enamel coatings retard moisture loss, nails can suffer a brittle fate when it comes to polish removers, as most contain dehydrating ingredients such as toluene. To help minimize the need for polish removal and reapplication, hardener basecoats and topcoats are suggested. A hardener reduces chipping and the need to expose the nails to drying agents.
