Fair officials ready for 4 p.m. opening

By CAROL HART
News Editor

Early this morning the exterior of the Howard County fair grounds was quiet. On one side of the grounds, a large Ferris wheel, partially assembled, cut a stark silhouette into the overcast sky. Few people walked on the grounds.

Inside the fair barn was a totally different picture. Here, people were scurrying about assembling bright yellow booths, labeling flowers and canned goods for competition later in the afternoon, hanging photographs and paintings for judges to view and doing last-minute housekeeping for the official opening of the fair — slated at 4 p.m.

And inside the fair "headquarters," a small room off in a corner of the fair barn, a steady stream of people scurried in and out. Smitty Smith, director of this year's fair, was inside headquarters, fielding questions, pointing people in the right direction, answering the phone, and making sure he greeted everyone who walked in the door.

SMITTY SMITH discusses preparations

"This year, we've added a whole new twist to the fair," Smith says as he shows a man where a ladder might be located. "The fair is going to be bigger and better than ever."

He hurries to answer a phone, stops to answer question about a scheduled event, and offers some sympathy to a worker who has lost her keys.

Then he turns back to discussing the activity in the barn. "We have 83 booths this year, inside, and 20 more spaces outside which are already filling up. All our booths have been sold, and we have a waiting list. People have been calling this morning to see if they have a chance at a booth."

Smith said he and other directors of the fair "are expecting 30,000 to 35,000 people this year" to stream through the gates. Part of that number will include children who will be bused in each morning and afternoon to view various exhibits as a break during the school day.

Smith is expecting a large crowd at the fair despite a drought which has hurt the area. "The drought may affect entries in the canned goods division and the ag products," Smith said.

But he expects more people to See FAIR, page 2A

Area residents battle 'the worst year recorded'

By KEELY COGHLAN

"Nature provides." It is a statement often heard from farmers and ranchers when they talk about this year's crop or their hopes for next year.

The phrase has taken on added irony this year as farmers and ranchers throughout the Midwest and West Texas are experiencing a drought one farmer called "the worst year ever recorded." Meanwhile, coastal areas in Texas have been hit by Hurricane Alicia and inundated with constant rains to the point where flash flood watches are issued because the ground can't absorb any more water.

Alicia was supposed to bring rain to West Texas and the Midwest. But relief never came to Howard County and its neighbors as the storms bypassed the area and headed north.

West Texas, a land where water is always scarce, remains dry. The area famous for the Dust Bowl of the '30s and the seven-year drought of the '50s has taught farmers and ranchers to expect cyclic dry spells.

"This is nature in West Texas," said Luther rancher Leland Wallace, who compares this drought with the '50s. "I've been here 43 years. We had droughts before, but I don't remember how bad they got."

But no one, not even the hardest rancher or farmer, can live without water. According to rainfall records at the Big Spring Experiment Station, Howard County has received only half the amount of normal rainfall this year. Since January, only 7.02 inches of rain have fallen this year at the experiment station. Average rainfall to date is 14.06 inches.

And rainfall is worse in certain spots. Farmers on the Andrews Highway say they have gotten only 1 1/2 inches this year, far below the norm.

Scattered showers during the last week dumped varied amounts throughout the area. But even if farmers and ranchers got as much as two inches of rainfall in the last week, their crops and pastures were not helped much.

The Drought of '83 Second of four-parts

"What did he get yesterday? Half an inch? Half an inch will evaporate out of the soil in a day," Experiment Station Director Bill Fryear said Thursday, referring to one farmer's recent rainfall.

Any rainfall right now is not going to help this year's cotton crop, Big Spring Co-op Gin manager Billy Bryant said. Vincent rancher David Barr said two long rainfalls of about two to three inches each could help his pastures recover a little before frost came.

But Barr and most others admit that the most they can hope for is a good rain to prepare the land for next year's grass and crops. And most say their land could take two years or more to recover from this drought.

"This year is as bad as or worse than any particular year in the '50s. My dad moved here in '26, and he says it's the worst he's ever seen. He said he never could remember not getting to plant anything," Bryant said.

Besides the immediate effect of not having enough moisture to grow crops and adequate pasture for cattle, stock ponds are down yards, instead of feet, from their usual watermarks.

Drought hits other parts of nation hard

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
Associated Press Writer

It was over the Fourth of July weekend, when 3 million chickens perished in their coops, that the Drought of 1983 started firing up its stove in earnest.

After farmers and gardeners in much of the East were stung by an unusually wet and cold spring, the mercury shot as high as 107 as far north as Williston, N.D., on July 16 and 110 in the rural community of Cheraw, S.C., on July 21.

It jumped up to 108 on Aug. 17 at Des Moines, Iowa, where it was Senior Citizens Day at the state fair. More than 50 people were treated for heat exhaustion.

The 110 degrees in Fayetteville, N.C., on Aug. 21 was an all-time record for the state and the hottest reading in the country on that day.

When summer comes to an official end at 10:42 a.m. EDT on Friday, Sept. 23, it will go into the record books as one of the hottest and driest ever seen, producing the worst drought in the Midwest and Ohio Valley since the Dust Bowl days of the 1930s.

At least 231 people died and losses to farmers are estimated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture at $7 billion, with the corn crop expected to yield the smallest harvest in 13 years, just over half of last year's record 8.4 billion bushels.

Thousands of farmers have gone broke, with many losing their farms, and the cost of food at the grocery counter is expected to increase about 6.5 percent next year.

"It was something that we wouldn't expect to happen more than once in a generation," said Phil Shideler of the National Weather Service in Topeka, Kan. He said that although there were more days in 1934 and 1936 when temperatures climbed above 100 degrees, this year "the combination of heat and dryness probably made it worse."

Near Bowman, S.C., Hugh Weathers rigged up fans and water hoses to drip on the tin roof of his barn to try to keep his family's 850 dairy cows from keeling over. Some died anyway.

Under the blazing sunshine, farmlands dried out and cracked open in giant checkerboard patterns.

"It would take three days of rain just to fill up the cracks around here," Nolan Duke of the National Weather Service in Kansas City, Mo., said in early September.

St. Louis, practically in the dead center of the country, was typical. It had one of the wettest springs on record, with 17.16 inches from March through May, as flash floods drove thousands from their homes along the bloated Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

But with the change of season, St. Louis was brought to a boil, with 58 days above 90 degrees, including 14 days with temperatures above 100.

St. Louis officials opened cooling shelters for the poor and elderly as more than 40 people died from the heat in the area.

The drought was unmerciful across the vast corn and soybean fields of the Midwest. It shriveled crops from the tomato fields of New Jersey and the tobacco fields of Kentucky to the peanut fields of Georgia and the cotton fields of Alabama.

Millions of chickens died in Maryland, Virginia, Georgia and across to Arkansas.

Catfish farmers in Mississippi and elsewhere in Dixie said hundreds of thousands of commercial fish died because the heat cooked the oxygen out of the ponds. Mississippi produces about 100 million pounds of catfish a year.

Police Beat

Officer reports assault

Police reports show Steven Valencia of 107 N. E. Eighth, was arrested on suspicion of aggravated assault of Big Spring Police Officer Robert Leahey Saturday night.

According to Sergeant Avery Faulkner, Leahey was answering a disturbance call in a city park at about 1:30 a.m. when he noticed a car pulling off with its lights turned off and went to investigate. While attempting an arrest, Leahey said Valencia emerged from another vehicle at the scene and attacked him by kicking him in the groin.

Police reports also showed the following: Peter Hansen, 538 Westover, Apt. 133, reported to police that between 9:30 p.m. Friday and 6:15 p.m. Saturday an unknown subject stole two car speakers valued at $270 from his vehicle. Police reports say that the lock on the left front door of Hansen's 1977 Cordoba was pried open with a coathanger.

Paul Brock of 1214 Mesquite told police that sometime between 5 p.m. and 9 p.m. Saturday someone stole his car from his home.

Two 6-volt batteries, valued at $50 apiece, were stolen from Darrington Auto Parts at 300 N. E. Second St. between 5 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday.

A two-door 1982 blue Pontiac belonging to Luis Vela of 767 W. Seventh, backed into a 1973 Buick Le Sabre when Vela parked his car and left the motor running while stopped at 410 W. Sixth. A two-year-old boy left unattended in Vela's car managed to shift the car into reverse, striking the Buick, which belongs to Nophlet Madry, 2402 Marcy.

Police said Edmund Rivera, Box 83, was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated at 12:39 a.m. today.

Lewis P. Duchene, no Big Spring address according to police reports, was picked up for unlawfully carrying a weapon at 3:33 a.m. today at 2700 W. Highway 80 on a Florida arrest warrant.

Tony Dwayne Ford, 106 A., E. 15th, was arrested at 9:25 p.m. Sunday on traffic warrants.

Robert Vela of 1210 Harding, was arrested for simple assault at 2:31 p.m. Saturday. Other Saturday night arrests included Carlos A. Molina of 1103 N. Scurry, for possession of drug paraphernalia and Pablo L. Flores of 1507 Scurry, for unlawfully carrying a weapon.

Sheriff's Log

7 transferred from city jail

Howard County sheriff's deputies Sunday arrested Donald Max Overton, 30, of Route 2, in connection with a charge of disorderly conduct. He was released on $2,500 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin.

Seven persons were transferred from the city jail Sunday to the county jail, according to deputies' records. They include Johnny Valencia, 23, of 505 N. Goliad, who was arrested in connection with a charge of criminal mischief. He was released on $1,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Steven Valencia, 23, of 107 N.E. Eighth also was transferred Sunday to the county jail in connection with a charge of aggravated assault on a police officer. He was released on $10,000 bond set by Daratt.

Joe Earnest Valencia, 20, of 600 N.E. 10th was transferred to the sheriff's authority in connection with a charge of unlawfully carrying a weapon. He was arraigned before Daratt and released on $1,500 bond.

Also transferred was Jeffery E. Hart, 19, of 200 Goliad Apartment A in connection with a charge of possession of less than two ounces of marijuana. He was released on $1,500 bond set by Daratt.

Pablo Loya Flores, 29, of 1507 Scurry, was transferred in connection with a charge of unlawfully carrying a weapon. He was released on $1,000 bail set by Daratt.

Larry Dale Payne, 20, of 902 S. Bell was transferred in connection with a charge of driving while license suspended. He was released on $500 bond set by Daratt.

Robert Lee of Sterling City Route told sheriff's deputies that an unknown person or persons between 12:05 a.m. and 2 a.m. Monday used an unknown object to break the front windshield and the right and left side windows of his yellow 1971 Gremlin, which was parked in the driveway in front of his house.

Sheriff's records also show that deputies picked up a man lying in the road north of Pinkies and returned him to the Big Spring State Hospital.

Officer killed in shootout

QUINLAN, Texas (AP) — Residents of this small Northeast Texas town Monday mourned the death of a police officer killed by a teen-ager who then shot himself to death. The assistant police chief was also wounded.

Patrolman Bill Smelley, 45, was dead on arrival at Citizens General Hospital in Greenville after being shot in the abdomen Sunday night.

Assistant Police Chief Larry Boyd, 21, was in stable condition Monday after undergoing two hours of surgery for a wound to the shoulder, a hospital spokesman said.

The 17-year-old gunman, Daniel Edward Mitchell, was brought to the police station about 7 p.m. Sunday. Peace Justice Carlene Dooley said he had three outstanding traffic warrants and was to be transferred to the county jail in Greenville, about 15 miles to the north.

Witnesses said the youth was arguing with Boyd when he lunged and grabbed his pistol.

The gunman then stepped back through a door to the office and fired back inside, said Mrs. Dooley's husband, Garth, who watched the shooting as he waited for his wife.

"Officer Boyd was trying to talk him out of the gun; the boy just was saying: 'I want to go home. I don't want to go to jail,'" Dooley said.

Smelley and Mrs. Dooley, who were in an adjacent office, ran into another room while the youth backed his way out of station, officers said.

The gunman put the pistol to his head and fired once, Dooley said.

FALLING GUN — Santa Fe Sheriff's deputy, Fernando Gallegos, is apparently unaware that he is losing his handgun as he and fellow deputy Ron Madrid pursue 26-year-old Pamela Gould as she speeds away from her father's house where the deputies attempted to arrest her for being drunk and disorderly. She was later apprehended by two other deputies.

come out to view the fair because "people are tired of the hot weather, and they're tired of staying home. They want some cheap entertainment. For a buck and a half they can come out here, stay all day, visit with people, see some things, and register for all sorts of items."

Smith and others involved with the fair have been working the past year to prepare for this afternoon's opening, but "the last few days have been hectic. Friday we starting cleaning up and setting and we'll be working until 4 p.m. this afternoon."

This year, "every department of the fair tried to re-do" their displays, Smith said. Each night, each division will feature special events, such as people weaving, demonstrations in oil painting, etc. "There will be something going on every night."

Tonight, a live band will add to the festivities at 7:30 p.m. between the barns, Smith said. A goat show is also scheduled at 6 p.m., and the carnival is slated to open its doors at 6 p.m.

And, the workers rush to get everything ready for today's official opening, Smith said he has been keeping an eye on the future.

"You know, the funny thing is, we're already planning the 12th annual Howard County Fair," he said with a smile as he headed out the headquarter's door.

U.S. drought

Carolina to Alabama, which was also hit by droughts in 1977, 1978 and 1980, farmers were losing their farms.

In Georgia, Tal C. DuVall, state director of the Agricultural Extension Service, estimated that 6,000 Georgia farmers were "insolvent."

Many of the hardest hit were among the 16,000 growers of the state's $370 million peanut crop, which provides 40 percent of the nation's supply.

"The situation is unprecedented in Georgia," said Jimmy Jackson, the assistant director of the extension service. "It's a crisis of the greatest magnitude."

Many farmers are expected to be unable to repay their loans this year. The Farm Credit Administration doesn't yet have figures for late summer, but the agency reported last week that as of June 30, even before the drought set in, there were 20,537 delinquent loans to farmers. That was about 3.1 percent of the total $50.9 billion in outstanding loans, as against 2.5 percent that were delinquent at the same time last year.

The Agriculture Department reports that corn prices are expected to average $3.50 to $3.75 per bushel in 1983-84, compared to an average $2.65 last season. The price of soybeans, another staple in the food chain, is expected to reach from $8.50 to $9.50 a bushel, as compared with $5.65 last season.

In the soybean and cotton country of the Tennessee Valley in northern Alabama, George Miller, executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in Madison County, estimated that one out of 10 of the county's 1,000 farm operators would be forced out of business by year's end.

"We're getting hit everywhere you look," he said. "I don't know what can be done, frankly."

Near the coastal community of Hampton in South Carolina, 52-year-old Bob Youmans is co-owner of a big spread with his twin brother, Lynn. Much of the land has been in the family since the 18th century, dating back to a grant from the king of England.

Last year they won a state contest for their soybean yield. This year they fear their soybean crop will be decimated.

Although the price for soybeans "looks real good" — at about $9 a bushel — Youmans said, "Nine times zero is still zero."

Youmans said he knew some farmers who would go under even if the weather or prices improve.

"They're just beyond help," he said. "When you see a man who's 55 years old and he's having his farm sold out from under him and he's losing his house and he can't collect unemployment, you really have to think."

Charley Gant, a livestock agent with the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service in Granville County, said, "I've heard a lot of the old timers say this is the worst drought they've ever seen." The corn was so poor that "there are folks here saying they have actually cut corn and baled it for hay."

Indiana was the first state to get disaster relief from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Gov. Robert D. Orr has estimated losses to the state's farmers at $1 billion.

At a Sept. 2 meeting in Chicago with officials from 29 states affected by the drought, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block declared 57 of Indiana's 92 counties as drought disaster areas. That makes farmers eligible for 8 1/2 percent federal loans from the Farmers Home Administration.

States represented at the meeting were Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, New Jersey, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

The Agriculture Department on Sept. 12 estimated this year's corn harvest at 4.39 billion bushels, down 48 percent from last year. Soybean production was estimated at 1.53 billion bushels, down 33 percent from the record 1982 harvest of 2.28 billion bushels.

Corn is the most valuable farm crop in the United States. Corn and other feed grains and soybeans make up the main feedstuffs for the production of meat, poultry and dairy products.

Much of the decline in this year's corn harvest is due to the Reagan administration's attempt to curb grain production with a payment-in-kind acreage program, known as PIK.

Because the United States has a record stockpile of grain and some other commodities, farmers will get free surplus wheat, corn, sorghum, rice or cotton in return for cutting back on the number of acres planted in 1983. The farmers can sell the grain or use it as they wish. The program is designed both as an incentive for farmers to cut production, and as a way of reducing the vast surpluses held by the government.

The drop in the soybean crop, however, is due entirely to the drought because soybeans are not included in the PIK program.

After the new corn crop estimates were announced last week, Block said: "I would not anticipate a PIK for feed crops next year."

Texas drought

muddy stock ponds, particularly worrisome to ranchers because calves refuse to feed from cows whose udders have become muddied. Ranchers drilling for more wells have come up dry in four of five tries in some cases.

Even farmers and ranchers in other counties who have been able to tap into the Ogallala Aquifer are worried. The water table in the aquifer has been dropping a few feet a year, representing a decrease of thousands of gallons. Irrigation is so expensive that for many farmers, the cost doesn't come close to the prices for their commodities.

And for farmers and ranchers who depend on the Colorado River Municipal Water District, there is a special fear. The water district's priorities are its municipal members followed by its rural residential customers.

Although the district has never cut off or rationed supplies to rural, residential or agricultural users, the time could come if the drought continues for another two years, District manager Owen Ivie said.

The district has cut off its commercial customers before, and plans to do so again by Nov. 1 if the district does not receive more than a 5,000-foot runoff from its lakes. "We hope we never come to that point. Our first priority is to our member cities, and if we don't have enough water for them, we would have to ration or cut down on our non-municipal customers. I would hope they understand," Ivie said.

The district has an adequate water supply for this year, Ivie said, and continues to acquire and develop more wells and water sources.

But a prolonged drought of two or more years could affect the district's supply severely, he said.

Even in good years, the lack of water in West Texas has spurred considerable controversy over suggested solutions. Former Gov. Bill Clements exchanged words with the governor of Arkansas over a plan to import that state's water to West Texas. A controversial constitutional amendment to fund a statewide water program failed in the 1982 election. And State Senator John Montford (D-Lubbock) failed to have his water bill approved in the last session of the Texas Legislature.

So the farmers watch for rain and the cities look for water.

TOMORROW: The Ripple Effect

Border aid may go to Europe

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Much of $94.8 million in federally guaranteed bonds awarded to a Texas firm in a Reagan Administration program to expedite aid to depressed border areas will most likely be spent in Europe and Asia, the El Paso Times has reported in a copyright story.

At least $80 million of the money described by the administration as border aid will help Global Marine Inc., the world's fourth largest builder of offshore drilling rigs, pay for its construction projects elsewhere, the newspaper reported Sunday. Noel DeWinter, manager of budgets and analysis for Global Marine, said he expects the Houston company will sell more than $100 million in bonds to private investors.

While Global is obligated to pay off the bonds, the federal government guarantees payment if Global defaults.

DeWinter said a maximum of $14 million of the $94.8 million in bond proceeds may be spent in Brownsville, the newspaper reported.

District court sets 2 trials

Attorneys today are selecting a jury in 118th District Court in a competency hearing for Eric Etnire.

Evidence will be presented Wednesday in Etnire's second competency hearing in this court. He was found not competent to stand trial at his first competency hearing three months ago in connection with charges of theft under $200 and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

The court is required to review Etnire's competency every 90 days. District Court Judge Jim Gregg will preside.

The court also will select a jury and hear evidence today in the case of Travis W. Jones vs. United States Fidelity & Guaranty, concerning workman's compensation.

For the record

Linda Arsiaga was incorrectly identified as the president of LULAC in a story Sunday. Arsiaga is the group's secretary and Pat Deanda is the president.

Roping schedules released

Entries for the Howard County Fair Roping and Barrel Race will be taken Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and can be made by calling 263-3577.

The roping and barrel racing will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday in the rodeo bowl and the Howard County Fair Grounds. All entry fees must be paid by 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Fees for the roping are $30 and the barrel race fees are $25.

Team roping is slated for 7 p.m. Saturday and entrants must have paid their fees by 6:30 p.m. Team roping fees are $40.

Farm accidents down

AUSTIN (AP) — Fatalities on Texas farms and ranches have been decreasing the past 10 years but still average more than 150 each year, the Texas Medical Association said Monday.

Dr. Francis C. Jackson, a surgeon at Texas Tech University School of Medicine in Lubbock, said in an article in TMA's monthly journal that 969 workers were killed in accidents during the past five years.

"The Texas Department of Health has reported a slow decline in farm fatalities beginning in the 1960s when almost 300 deaths were reported annually," Jackson said in Texas Medicine.

"In the past 10 years, such deaths have dropped below 200 each year, with 1980 the lowest figure with 132."

During the 1970s, Texas farms and ranches recorded 1,746 fatalities.

Jackson said for every agricultural fatality, the statistics show an estimated 100 disabling injuries, 1,200 serious injuries, and 3,600 minor injuries.

Jackson also notes that the agricultural industry, with more than 3.5 million workers nationally, is the third most hazardous occupation after mining and construction.

Nuclear plant shuts down

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The Rancho Seco nuclear power plant has been shut down because of a water and steam leak in the building containing the reactor.

Brad Thomas, spokesman for the Sacramento Municipal Utility District, operator of the 913-megawatt plant 25 miles southeast of Sacramento, said Sunday that repairs would start early this week.

Thomas said the leak was suspected Thursday, but wasn't located until Saturday. He said about one gallon per minute of water and steam were leaking from a steam generator tube.

The leak was reported to the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission as an "unusual event," the lowest class of emergency, he said.

Thomas said the reactor was shut at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. That is called in the trade a "hot shutdown."

At 10:30 a.m. Sunday, the temperature of the whole system had dropped to 200 degrees, a state that is called "cold shutdown," and the "unusual incident" was declared over.

But the reactor building must still cool for two or three days before humans can go in and work. The time also allows the radioactivity to decay somewhat, Thomas said.

Technicians will begin repairs soon after they enter. Such repairs have taken from two to four weeks in the past, Thomas said.

Doctor suspended from hospital

ALPINE, Texas (AP) — An elderly country doctor has been suspended from the hospital he helped found pending an internal investigation into allegations he misdiagnosed several patients, Big Bend Memorial Hospital authorities say.

William Lockhart, 74, who has been a family physician in this West Texas town for a half-century, will not be able to care for his patients in BBMH until two medical staff investigations are concluded.

The investigation is expected to report its findings Wednesday, hospital administrator Tom Santry said. Lockhart has denied any wrongdoing, but has admitted he misdiagnosed an elderly Alpine man who had a near-fatal blood clot on the brain. The man survived after emergency treatment in El Paso.

Lockhart has also said that at least seven other cases have been brought against him by the medical staff for alleged misdiagnosing of patients.

Deaths

Alice Rauschenberg

Alice Rauschenberg, 79, died at 6 p.m. Sunday at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital after a long illness. Services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with burial in the Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Born Aug. 2, 1904 in Runnels County, she moved to Howard County in 1906 and had lived most of her life here since then. She married Elvis Rauschenberg June 21, 1932 in Lovington, N.M. He preceded her in death. She was charter member of Bethel Baptist Church in Luther.

She was preceded by two children, William Fritz Rauschenberg on Oct. 18, 1905 and Edith Louise Rauschenberg on Oct. 11, 1934.

She is survived by two sisters, Zelma Hechler and Clara Black, both of Big Spring; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home and Reverend Chapel Alice Rauschenberg, 79, died Sunday evening. Services will be at 2:00 P.M. Tuesday in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Interment will follow in Mt. Olive Memorial Park.

Jabba is best-dressed

YORK (AP) — Jabba the Hutt, the slobbering star of "The Return of the Jedi" won a place on at least one best-dressed list for his "magnificent presence," while Britain's Princess Diana came out on top for her "incredible natural flair."

Elizabeth Taylor turned up at the head of People magazine's worst-dressed list for her wardrobe of "cowboy hats, tiaras and tent-sized evening pajamas." Joining her was singer Linda Ronstadt who made the list for her "refugee-style head scarves, lace-up boots and see-through skirts."

The nine judges who compiled the fourth annual listing of "30 Best And Worst Dressed People in the World" also decided that Monaco's Princess Caroline deserved to be on the best-dressed list as "most improved," going from too-tight jeans and workshirts to "elegant veiled hats, kid gloves, classic suits and ball gowns."

And they said the military fatigues worn by Cuba's Fidel Castro "give him an aura of perpetuity" and have set a style every revolutionary tries to emulate.

Members of the panel who rated the celebrities' dress for the Sept. 26 issue were designers John Weitz, Mary McFadden and Betsy Johnson; actresses Brooke Shields and Jill St. John; rock star Rick James; writer Rex Reed; model agency head Nina Blanchard; and Alison Lurie, author of "The Language of Clothes."

ARRIVES FOR WEDDING — Actor Peter Lawford, left, escorts his daughter, Sydney, into Our Lady of Victory church in Centerville, Mass., Saturday afternoon. Lawford wedded Peter McKelvey.

Kennedy clan at wedding

CENTERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Members of the Kennedy clan and celebrity friends were out in force for the wedding of Sydney Lawford and James Peter McKelvey.

The 27-year-old bride arrived at Our Lady of Victory Church with her father, actor Peter Lawford. The mother of the bride, Patricia Kennedy Lawford, entered the church with her brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and her mother, Rose Kennedy, 93.

Other members of the family and guests at the event Saturday included: Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and her son John F. Kennedy Jr.; Ethel Kennedy, widow of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, and her son, Joseph P. Kennedy III; designer Oleg Cassini; actress Lorna Luft; and authors Norman Mailer and George Plimpton.

McKelvey, 27, is a free-lance film maker and film producer and has lived in Boston for the past eight years. The bride works with the Patriot Bank Corp., an advertising and marketing firm in Boston.

The reception was held under two blue and white tents at Rose Kennedy's home in the Kennedy Compound in Hyannisport, with a fireworks display at night.

Hope not retiring

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope says he was relieved to find out President Reagan was wearing a hearing aid — "because I thought he was bugged."

Hope offered the joke Saturday before an appearance at the Wake Forest University football stadium.

The comedian, who turned 80 in May, also said he's cut his touring schedule about in half and now is on the road only about 100 days a year.

"I don't feel like retiring," said Hope. "When people ask me when I'm going to retire, I ask them what show they saw. If I retired I would sit around and be a little dull."

"I've got a little race going on with George Burns," Hope said. "He calls me 'Sonny,' and I'm a little thrilled."

Warships shell Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — U.S. warships shelled Druse gunners in Syrian-held central Lebanon today to support the Lebanese army battling insurgents hand-to-hand in a strategic town overlooking Marine positions in the capital.

U.S. Embassy spokesman John Stewart said the destroyer John Rodgers and guided missile cruiser Virginia unleashed the bombardment off the Beirut coast for more than an hour, lobbing dozens of shells at Druse targets to the east.

Stewart said the "defensive" naval barrages were ordered to assist Lebanese army forces defending the strategic town of Souk El-Gharb. He said "successful Lebanese armed forces defense of the area is vital to the safety of U.S. personnel."

In Washington, Deputy White House Press Secretary Larry Speakes said the American warships began firing because U.S. officials "thought the Marines could be impacted by the artillery" attacks.

A Western military source who refused to be identified said Druse insurgents and their Palestinian guerrilla allies several times forced their way into Souk El-Gharb, an army-held mountaintop town which overlooks Beirut and the Marine base. But he said the insurgents had been evicted each time — once leaving 50 bodies behind after hand-to-hand combat with troops.

Earlier, a spokesman for leftist Druse leader Walid Jumblatt's Progressive Socialist Party said the party's militiamen entered Souk el-Gharb shortly before midday and were "cleaning the last pockets of resistance inside the town."

Shamir gains support

JERUSALEM (AP) — A key faction in Prime Minister Menachem Begin's outgoing coalition declared today it wanted to serve in a government headed by Begin's colleague, Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

The announcement by the National Religious Party (NRP) came as President Chaim Herzog met with leaders of the small parties who control the swing vote in Parliament. The talks mark a crucial stage in negotiating the formation of Israel's next government.

The NRP, whose six seats in Parliament are the largest bloc of swing votes, said its delegates told Herzog that Shamir should succeed Begin. The move was a setback for the opposition Labor Party, which hoped to persuade at least some NRP men to defect and block Shamir's accession to power.

Herzog is empowered by the constitution to select a potential prime minister to try to assemble a parliamentary majority. He is expected to decide by Wednesday whether Shamir or Labor Party leader Shimon Peres gets the first crack at replacing Begin.

Shamir is a close associate of Begin, who formally resigned Thursday but remains head of a caretaker government until a successor is chosen. Begin has been in seclusion since resigning, reportedly suffering a skin ailment.

After the session with the NRP, Herzog was to confer with the TAMI faction, whose three seats in the 120-member Knesset also could be pivotal in forming the next government.

On Sunday, Herzog opened the consultations by meeting with delegates of the Labor Party and Likud. Both claimed the right to make the first attempt at forming a coalition.

Likud showed Herzog documents asserting that Shamir had the support of 64 of the 120 Knesset members.

Submarine joins search

WAKKANAI, Japan (AP) — The Soviet Union brought a third submarine and a diving bell into waters off Sakhalin Island today to join a secretive search for the South Korean airliner it shot out of the sky with 269 people aboard, officials said.

Japanese air and sea searchers reported finding more bits and pieces of debris in the water, including a piece of cabin wall and a chunk of lightweight metal.

Before the latest find, Japanese officials said 708 items that might have come from the downed plane, including five badly mutilated bodies and several pieces of human flesh, had been recovered.

In the United States, memorial services were conducted in Missouri and Connecticut, and the Idaho statehouse was draped in black to honor those aboard Korean Air Lines Flight 007 when it was shot down Sept. 1 after flying into Soviet airspace over Sakhalin.

In other developments, the Republican National Committee chairman said President Reagan's handling of the crisis has softened his "trigger happy" image and the editor of the Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda criticized his country's armed forces for delaying acknowledgement that Soviet jets shot down the Boeing 747 with heat-seeking missiles.

In Paris, an Air France flight to Moscow was canceled today for the first time since a pilots' strike began last Tuesday to protest the Soviets' downing of a South Korean airliner.

The French government is not joining most other Western European countries in a two-week boycott on direct flights to Moscow. But union pilots, who represent 80 percent of Air France's 1,400 pilots and co-pilots, are staging a 60-day boycott of such flights to protest the missile attack.

Mondale speaks out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Walter Mondale, saying "adjectives are not enough," is urging economic punishment to "sting" the Soviet Union for shooting down Korean Air Lines Flight 007.

Mondale, who is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, said Sunday the United States should be rallying Western industrialized countries into applying pressure by raising the cost of trade credits and reducing their availability to the Soviets.

"There's evidence some of that (credit) goes at 6 percent interest," he said. "I think most Americans would realize they can't get it at 6 percent interest."

Mondale said he has been upset by the responses of the West to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, its role in Poland and the shooting down of the Korean Air Lines flight on Sept. 1 with 269 people aboard.

"Somehow, for all the anger ... when you finally get down to the bottom line all it amounts to basically are harsh adjectives," he said. "I think we need a policy that imposes costs in a way that stings in the Soviet Union, makes them pay a price, while pursuing arms control and other policies necessary for the survival literally of civilization."

"I think adjectives are not enough," Mondale said on ABC-TV's "This Week with David Brinkley."

Mondale said he agreed with President Reagan's "harsh denunciation" of the Soviets and steps such as closing the U.S. offices of Aeroflot, the Soviet airline.

He added, however, that he would have canceled the recent meeting between Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Father rejects treatment

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A 12-year-old girl, who "believes with all her heart that God will save her," should be allowed to refuse medical treatment for deadly bone cancer, says a lawyer who wants to reverse a court ruling ordering chemotherapy for her.

The Tennessee Court of Appeals today put off until Wednesday a hearing on attorney James A.H. Bell's plea that it overturn a Jacksboro judge's order requiring Pamela Hamilton to undergo immediate chemotherapy and radiation treatment.

Bell represents the girl's father, a fundamentalist preacher. The girl and her parents say they believe God alone can cure her and don't want her to have any medicine or pain killers.

Doctors say the girl will die within nine months unless she receives immediate chemotherapy and radiation treatments for the Ewing's Sarcoma tumor that has destroyed much of the bone in her upper left leg since its discovery two months ago. And they say the delay caused by legal battles already may have reduced her chance of survival to 25 percent or less.

Under an agreement between lawyers for the state and family, the three-judge appeals court panel today delayed a hearing on the case so the judges can have more time to study the records.

Michael Terry, a deputy state attorney general, didn't object to the delay, saying doctors at East Tennessee Children's Hospital in Knoxville told him they wouldn't be able to begin chemotherapy until at least Wednesday.

Larry Hamilton, pastor of the 38-member Church of God of the Union Assembly in LaFollette, said he will go "all the way to the Supreme Court" to keep his daughter from receiving any medicine.

After hearing 14 hours of testimony and arguments Friday and Saturday, Judge Charles Herman of Campbell County Juvenile Court declared the girl a neglected child, awarded temporary custody to the state and ordered treatment to begin.

PM Thatcher on first tour

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher flew to the Netherlands today, making her first working foreign tour since an eye operation last month that reportedly has left her haggard and strained.

Mrs. Thatcher's plane arrived at a military airbase outside The Hague. She will spend three days in the Netherlands and West Germany this week before traveling to the United States and Canada.

Her trip will be an effort to bolster Western European resolve to deploy U.S.-built nuclear missiles at the end of this year if there is no progress at U.S.-Soviet arms control talks. Details of her itinerary in the United States have not been released.

A House of Commons opponent said Sunday the prime minister looked "haggard" when she appeared on television over the weekend, but Mrs. Thatcher's office refuted suggestions that her right eye has not healed properly.

"She has been running us into the ground just as much as ever," said a member of her staff at 10 Downing Street.

Excerpts shown in Britain of a Dutch television interview with Mrs. Thatcher showed the normally poised leader looking tired and strained.

Flood hits state

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — One woman drowned in San Antonio and authorities used boats to rescue motorists from a section of flood-drenched Interstate 37 in Atascosa County as heavy thunderstorms drenched the South Texas area.

In Houston today, torrential rains flooded streets and underpasses, stalling cars and stranding rush-hour motorists, said Dick Hawkins of the Harris County Civil Defense. School was canceled in the Alief and Stafford school districts.

Several homes in southwest Houston also reported several inches of water inside, Hawkins said.

"In some places, we've got 4-to-5-feet of water in the roads. There are cars that have been flooded out and blocking the intersections and the usual rush-hour fender benders, but nothing serious. Things have pretty much come to a halt," he said.

Josephine Quintanilla, 17, drowned in the car she was driving Sunday night when it got stuck in high water, San Antonio authorities said. Two children in the car, ages 11 and 13, escaped.

Relatives told police that Ms. Quintanilla was pregnant. Her car went into the San Pedro Creek about 5:30 p.m. Sunday, said patrol Sgt. Alan Langford.

"The whole thing was underwater — the street and all," he said. "It was just a matter of getting out into the current and getting swept away."

Streches of Interstate Highway 37 and U.S. Highway 281 near Campbellton, in Atascosa County, were closed early today after 5 to 7 feet of water gushed onto the roadways after eight hours of downpour, authorities said.

Authorities used boats to rescue an undertermined number of drivers who were stranded by the high water, said an Atascosa County sheriff's dispatcher who asked not to be identified.

"There are quite a few stranded vehicles out there," the dispatcher said.

A flash flood warning was posted for Harris, Fort Bend, Brazoria and Liberty counties. A flash flood and flood watch was in effect for Southeast Texas, the upper coast and a small part of south central Texas.

Between 5 and 10 inches of rain had fallen by morning in south central and Southeast Texas, the National Weather Service said.

NWS forecasters in Houston said almost 3 inches of rain fell in nearly five hours and predicted the deluge would continue most of the morning.

Ken Brasel, a spokesman for Southwestern Bell Telephone, said the storm would stall emergency workers still trying to restore service to victims of Hurricane Alicia.

"We really didn't need this," Brasel. "We still have several thousand phones out and workers can't go into the area because they can't get in."

The rain began in South Texas about 2 p.m. Sunday and the highways began to flood about 10 p.m., authorities said. Up to 7 feet of water covered the roads before the flooding began to recede today, leaving behind a large amount of debris, Atascosa County deputies reported.

No deaths or injuries were immediately reported and all motorists were accounted for, the dispatcher said.

Campbellton is located about 50 miles south of San Antonio.

An upper level disturbance that moved into Texas from northern Mexico early Sunday spawned the showers and heavy thunderstorms, the National Weather Service said.

Earlier Sunday, authorities evacuated at least five houses in the Seco Mines subdivision near Eagle Pass along the Texas-Mexico border, said J.C. Flores, dispatcher for the Maverick County sheriff's office.

Water gauges on State Highway 57, 12 miles north of Eagle Pass, registered 7.5 inches of moisture, said Flores.

West Texas — Partly cloudy and cooler with widely scattered showers and thunderstorms Wednesday through Friday. Lows near 50 in the Panhandle to the lower 70s in the south cooling to the lower 40s in the extreme north to middle 40s in the south Friday. Highs in the lower 70s in the extreme north to middle 90s in the Big Bend.

Clean-air fight

Hats off to the Civil Aeronautics Board for proposing to ban all smoking from short commercial flights.

Tobacco industry spokesmen dismiss the proposal — which could apply to flights lasting an hour or less and which, depending on the volume of public comments, may be extended to two-hour journeys — as misguided zealotry. They argue that the existing CAB rule, which guarantees a seat in the non-smoking section to any passenger who arrives before the scheduled departure time, fairly balances the needs of smokers and non-smokers. Yet, while that standard sounds fine in theory, it doesn't always work in practice.

Airline personnel regularly balk at shifting the boundaries of the non-smoking section, fearful of rousing the ire of smokers who unexpectedly find themselves in forbidden territory. Seating changes require negotiations which consume time and fray nerves. On occasion, contentious passengers have settled the smokers'-vs.-non-smokers'-rights battle with their fists.

At least for short flights, where the inconvenience to the smoker is minimal, a flat no-smoking edict makes plain sense. And who knows — avid smokers obliged to breathe smoke-free air for an hour or two might just develop a taste for the stuff.

Watt's up

I was witness to an ironic situation in Carlsbad, N.M., Saturday during a "press weekend" sponsored by the city and featuring U.S. Interior Secretary James Watt.

A more unlikely combination could not have been arranged by the city's chamber of commerce.

Most of the liberal-minded press corps on hand regarded Watt as a land raper who would think nothing of strip-mining national forests or using Carlsbad Caverns as a nuclear waste repository.

Watt, on the other hand, was rumored to look up journalists as a pack of hounds snapping at his heels, ready to howl long and hard about any wrong move he might make.

In short, I expected a communication gap between those extremes during the press conference and speech the good people of Carlsbad had arranged for the two camps.

terested in the gory conflict and details that look good spread across the front page."

But he stood there and let us have it. And while I don't know what the other reporters thought of his words, I admired him for having the courage to say what he felt. One won't find many politicians following that path with the press.

Watt also impressed me by saying he never spoke "off the record" as is so common in the journalistic profession. He made it clear he abhors those who don't have the courage to speak on the record, and the newsmen that print the words of those unnamed sources.

"If these sources do not have the courage or integrity to speak on the record, then I don't think what they say should be printed. If they want to be slithering snakes in the grass, fine, but no trust should be placed in their words."

I think any journalist who doesn't cheer those words has no real merit.

The truth is already too rare these days without having to deal with those who will not take a stand on an issue. Watt called those who spoke off the record cowards and those who print words from "White House sources," "high ranking officials," or "informed sources" cowards also.

I think he is trying to tell us — newsmen and responsible news sources — that the only way to maintain a commitment to the truth is through integrity and courage.

I don't agree with Watt's environmental philosophy, but he's got a point and from now on, my respect.

WASHINGTON — There is more to the great missile controversy, now under discussion in Geneva, than the press has reported.

The decision to deploy Pershing II and cruise missiles in western Europe not only shook up the Kremlin (which launched a massive propaganda campaign against it), but alarmed many Europeans who see the deployment as a dangerous escalation in the terrifying game of showdown.

Why did NATO decide it had to modernize its nuclear forces despite the high risk of political backlash? The explanations are found in classified documents, which my associate Dale Van Atta has reviewed.

A top-secret State Department report, for example, describes the deficiencies of the NATO forces now in place. Of the 72 Pershing IA missile launchers in Germany, the report complains:

"The Pershing missile system has been in the inventory for a long time and is becoming increasingly difficult to maintain. The system is manpower-intensive as presently configured. The accuracy and

Problems facing labor unions

WASHINGTON — Lane Kirkland, the head of the AFL-CIA, likes to paraphrase a famous scene in the World War II movie Casablanca. "The protagonists are Rick, an American who runs a raffish cafe in French Morocco, and Louey, a French police inspector who suspects Rick of helping anti-fascists defy the German occupation of France. Here is the Kirkland version:

Louey: "What brought you to Casablanca, Rick?"

Rick: "I came here to take the waters."

Louey: "But there are no waters in Casablanca."

Rick: Then I must have been misinformed."

That exchange is brought to mind shortly after Labor Day by the way workers and their unions are being treated around the world. For, in the unwinding of global inflation, labor has emerged as a public enemy. In the Communist world, the capitalist world and the in-between, or Third World alike, huge pressures are being mounted to make labor give back gains achieved in the period of inflation. But the process is a testament to misinformation.

Poland provides the most horrible example. Throughout the 1970s Polish leaders curried favor with the workers, by raising wages and subsidizing such basic items as food and housing. The country spent much more than it took in, and foreign borrowing made up the difference.

When West European bankers turned tight in 1980, Polish Communist leaders moved to raise prices on food. There followed the worker protests which gave life to the independent union Solidarity. A year of indecision in Warsaw finally ended with the military coup of Dec. 13, 1981.

Gen. Jaruzelski has both raised prices and put the pressure on Solidarity. The union has been contained, if not crushed. Nobody in the outside world is exactly happy. But those with big stakes — the Russians, the Pope and the European bankers — rather than trust Poland in the hands of Solidarity, prefer to leave it to Jaruzelski.

Mexico and Brazil bring evidence from the Third World. In both cases, huge foreign borrowings were used to finance very rapid economic growth. Unionized workers were the chief beneficiaries. Their wages rose, and they also profited from subsidies which kept such basics as food, housing and health care below cost.

Last summer, the string ran out on foreign borrowing. In the reckoning, both Brazil and Mexico have cut back — at the expense of the workers. In Mexico, wage increases are being held to less than half of the inflation rate for this year. In Brazil, the government is proposing, and the unions are resisting, a project that would limit wage increases to 80 percent of inflation. If the Brazilian generals can't sell the program, then the whole package of measures taken to rescue the international financial system will come apart.

Lastly, there is the case of the United States. To an extraordinary extent, labor has paid the price of the wringing-out process which preceded the current recovery. Unemployment hit new highs, particularly in such heavily unionized industries as autos, steel and chemicals. Wages lagged well behind inflation, and in many cases, notably Chrysler, there were actual givebacks by workers to management.

As the economy gains strength, labor is digging in against further concessions in wages, fringe benefits, work rules and job security. Big strikes have already hit the telephone company, Continental Airlines, Phelps Dodge Copper Company and Consolidated Edison in New York. A larger test will come later on in the auto industry.

But one lesson is already clear. Extraordinary high costs are being paid to discipline workers. In the Communist world, basic human rights and maybe even international security have been put at risk. In the Third World, the whole international financial structure has been put at hazard. The United States and Europe have been able to check labor only by high unemployment, with an attendant souring of the political climate.

No doubt it is of critical importance to keep wage bargains in coherent relation with economic growth and inflation. But anybody who thinks the world has found how to reach that goal has to be considered, in Rick's famous phrase, misinformed.

Tide changing on TV programs

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I get disgusted over a lot of the things I see on television. There just seems to be too much violence and sex on TV these days. What guidelines can you give about watching such things? — S.P.

DEAR S.P.: I find that many people are writing me similar questions today, and that indicates that we may be seeing a reaction forming against the widespread violence and sex we see on television today.

The Bible gives us a clear guideline which you should keep constantly before you — not just as you think about the proper use of television or films, but of many other kinds of activity as well. You will find it in Philippians 4:8: "Finally, brothers, whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable — if anything is excellent or praiseworthy — think about such things." This does not mean we bury our heads and refuse to acknowledge what is going on in our world — but it does warn us against dwelling on those things that are wrong or perverse. One reason for this is because of those things can easily distort our own hearts and minds and turn them away from God and his will.

There are several specific guidelines you should follow concerning any type of entertainment. For example, you should ask, "Does this program (or book or film) promote or glorify a lifestyle which is clearly out of accord with God's standards?" Some programs assume that immorality is normal or drug abuse is acceptable, and they are not worthy of your time. Or again, you should ask, "Does this program portray actions or experiences which will stimulate my thinking or actions in a wrong way?" Some things may automatically trigger feelings of covetousness or lust, for example, and this is wrong. You also should ask, "What effect will my watching this program have on others, especially my children?" We always need to be very sensitive to the effect something will have on others as well as ourselves.

Let your television stations and their advertisers know what you think of their programming — both that which you do not like and that which you find commendable. You may find them surprisingly open to your suggestions.

According to a recent survey, the top selling soup in American restaurants is vegetable soup.

NATO deficiencies described yields of available warheads make them unsuitable for some limited attacks. The missile range is insufficient to place targets in the Soviet Union at risk."

NATO wants to deploy 572 Pershing II and cruise missiles in western Europe to offset what is perceived to be a Soviet advantage. Of urgent concern to the West are approximately 250 SS-20 mobile missiles that the Soviets have trained on Europe; each of these awesome missiles can fire three warheads.

The United States also has more than 600 bombers in Europe. But they face more than 900 Soviet Badgers, Blinders and Backfies. Cautions the top-secret report:

"While dual-capable aircraft are a valuable and versatile element of NATO's forces, all the land-based aircraft, except the F-111, lack the range to threaten credibly strategic targets in the Soviet Union."

The report describes the submarine-launched Poseidon and Polaris missiles assigned to NATO as "the most survivable systems available to NATO." But the report warns that they "are generally regarded as 'strategic' systems whose use prior to General Nuclear Response might convey an overly escalatory signal to the Soviet Union."

There are also problems with "yields and accuracy" which make the submarine missiles "unsuitable for many of the desired (Soviet) targets." In other words, NATO has a choice between inadequate weapons that would be an ineffective deterrent and apocalyptic weapons that could turn a "limited nuclear war" in Europe into a global holocaust.

That's the reason the military brass decided to deploy 464 ground-launched cruise missiles and another 108 mobile Pershing II missiles in five European countries this year.

Footnote: A worried Yuri Andropov suddenly offered to scrap enough Soviet medium-range missiles in Europe, including SS-20s, to bring the total down to the number of British and French missiles — if the United States will change its plan to deploy the Pershing II and cruise missiles.

HOT ARGUMENT: Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker's management of the nation's money supply has sparked many a heated discussion — but few hotter than this:

Once he got into a tiff with Murray Weidenbaum, President Reagan's then chief economic adviser. It happened on the last of many trips that Weidenbaum made across town to soothe relations between the White House and the Fed.

Between puffs on a fat cigar, a testy Volcker flicked ashes into a trash container while he complained that the administration was doing nothing about deficits but was blaming him for high interest rates. Suddenly Volcker was engulfed in a cloud of smoke considerably larger than his cigar had produced. Weidenbaum leaped to his feet, knocked over the blazing trash container and stamped out the flames.

Oblivious to it all, Volcker rumbled on.

BURFORD SEQUEL: Although Anne Burford, the former head of the Environmental Protection Agency, is out of office, the family name won't disappear from the headlines.

Burford's husband, Robert, is director of the Bureau of Land Management in the Department of Interior. According to Capitol Hill sources, he will figure prominently in some upcoming hearings on conflicts of interest.

Robert Burford was among 92 Bureau of Land Management employees identified in a 1982 General Accounting Office study as having stock and land holdings which appear to be in conflict with their government jobs. Burford's family owns a cattle and land empire in the Midwest and holds grazing permits granted by Burford's agency.

Although the permits have been placed in a trust, and the trust arrangement was approved by the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee when Burford took office, the House Interior and Government Operations committees want to know more about Burford's finances.

FEWER LOANS: Last year, Congress appropriated $25 million for small business loans to Vietnam veterans and another $3 million to inform veterans that the money was there. But the Reagan administration doesn't want to spend that much money on Vietnam veterans, so the Small Business Administration has allowed only $3.5 million in loans to date.

Dear Abby

Girl down in the dumps can clean up her act

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the 13-year-old girl who is crying the blues because she lives in a "dump": There is something you can do to make your home look better and make you feel better.

When I was 16, I left my aunt's lovely home and went to live in my father's "dump" in another state. (My mother died when I was 5 and my aunt raised me.) My younger sister (14) and I pitched in and cleaned "the dump" up.

The wooden floor was so rough that we got splinters in our hands from wringing out the floor mop. I washed, starched, ironed and mended rotten lace curtains, using a flatiron heated on a wood-burning stove because we couldn't afford electricity.

My sister and I cleaned up the yard and kept the place looking as nice as possible without spending any money because we had none to spend. When my boyfriend came to call, I never apologized for my home because I knew I had done all I could to make it presentable.

Work helps. Tears do not. P.S.

whose family is well-off money-wise, and we live in a very nice house.

My friend, "Pam," lives in a house that could use lots of repairs, and her family does have money problems. But Pam is my best friend, and she always will be, no matter what.

To tell you the truth, I spend twice as much time at Pam's house as Pam spends at mine.

A TRUE FRIEND

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter from the young girl who was ashamed to invite her friends over because she lived in a dump, I relived my own teen-age years.

I also lived in a "dump," and was so ashamed of it, I had my dates pick me up at a girlfriend's house, which I tried to pass off as my own. When they brought me "home," I would say good-night on the porch, and as soon as they were out of sight, I'd walk to my own home alone in the dark.

When I was 17, a 19-year-old "college man" from a well-to-do family called for me at my girlfriend's house, but when it came time to take me "home," he drove right up to my "dump"! I was so embarrassed, I started to cry. Then he said very gently: "Honey, I've always known where you live, but it doesn't make any difference in the way I feel about you. Your father is a decent, hardworking man who's giving his family the best he can afford." (My father worked in the coal mines in West Virginia.)

Then he said, "Why be ashamed of a humble home? More good people have come from humble homes than from mansions."

I've never forgotten these words, nor the beautiful college guy who spoke them. He died last year, after giving me four wonderful children and 49 of the happiest years of my life. Sign me... WILBUR'S WIDOW IN ARIZONA

Dr. Donohue

Burning food provides calorie count

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Recently I have become keenly interested in the number of calories I consume each day. I am confused by several calorie charts that give different calorie counts for the same foods (not all, of course). My first thought was to choose the chart that showed the smallest number of calories in each food, but I felt this was probably cheating. How do you determine the correct number of calories in each food item? And why are they different on different charts? — Mrs. G.B.

I've noticed the same discrepancies, usually small, but different nonetheless. Let me give you an idea of how food calories are determined. A measured amount of food is placed on a container. The container is surrounded by water and the food inside the container is ignited and completely burned. Then the temperature of the water surrounding the container is taken. One calorie of food raises the temperature of the surrounding water by one degree centigrade. Within such narrow bounds, you can see how discrepancies might occur from chart to chart. Most of the time the variances are insignificant.

If you want two good references for caloric values, here they are: One is "Handbook of the Nutritional Contents of Foods," prepared for the Department of Agriculture (Dover Publications) and the other is "Food Values of Portions Commonly Used" by Bowes and Church (J.P. Lippincott Co.). However, most charts are accurate or vary by only slight degrees. If you know the gram content (fat, carbohydrate and protein) of any food you arrive at calorie content by multiplying the number of grams of protein and carbohydrate by four and the number of grams of fat by nine.

However, I hope you find a calorie table you feel comfortable using without having to get out a slide rule. I have to admire your honesty. I am not sure I wouldn't take the calorie table showing the smallest numbers of calories for my favorites foods and go on from there. I am not suggesting you do this, understand?

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Out of the blue my doctor told me I have "steatohepatitis," and only said that my LFTs were elevated. Could you tell me more about this? — T.Y.

You've read here about "fatty liver," haven't you? Steatohepatitis is an abnormal accumulation of fat in the liver — fatty liver.

There are a number of conditions that can lead to the problem. Among them are obesity, diabetes, alcohol abuse, steroids. When the liver gets fatty it can be cured by finding the specific cause. You do have to avoid anything that can lead to a worsening of the situation, however —

Miss America outlines goals

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Like her predecessors, Miss America 1984 will face many questions, from her opinion of the Soviets to whether she dyes her hair. But as the first black to reign, Vanessa Williams also expects queries about her race "because I am making waves."

The 20-year-old from Millwood, N.Y., said she has a goal for her year as the 57th Miss America: "I want to show there is no difference between a black and white Miss America."

Black leaders across the country hailed her historic victory in the pageant, a 62-year-old American tradition that barred minority participation for its first three decades.

"It's good that another of America's cultural and social institutions has ripped down a curtain that excluded American women who were young, gifted and black," said the Rev. Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

"My first reaction is that the inherent racism in America must be diluting itself," said Shirley Chisholm, a former black congresswoman from New York.

But at a news conference on Sunday, the first morning of her reign, Miss Williams made it clear she is "an individual with my own opinions."

"Just because I'm black doesn't mean I'm going to favor every black cause," she said.

Miss Williams, a Syracuse University student of musical theater who hopes to perform on Broadway, said inquiries about being a black Miss America began when she won the Miss New York pageant last spring after being recruited by pageant officials who had seen her perform.

"At times, I get angered by the questions. It seems that people and the press are not focusing on myself, my accomplishments and achievements as a person. They're focusing on my being black."

She added, "This is significant because I am making waves, but I am ready to handle that and ready to face whatever crises I have to."

She showed she would not shy away from controversial topics. She said she supports the Equal Rights Amendment and believes abortion is "a right that a woman should have."

Of the Soviets: "They have to be watched." Of dyeing her hair: "No."

In a phone call Sunday, President Reagan told Miss Williams her selection was "a wonderful thing for our nation," the White House said.

Another black woman, Miss New Jersey, Suzette Charles, 20, finished as first runner-up. Before this year, the highest black finisher was Lencola Sullivan, Miss Arkansas, who was fifth in 1980. The first black did not enter the pageant until 1970, when Cheryl Browne represented Iowa.

There were four blacks among this year's 50 contestants — the most ever — but during the week of festivities, Miss Williams, her family and pageant officials played down the significance of a black winning the event.

"There's no significance to the fact she's black," said Miss Williams' mother, Helen, on Sunday morning.

"She's still Vanessa, and she's still our little girl."

Albert A. Marks Jr., executive director of the pageant, said: "She apparently has all of the attributes that we look for and hope for in a Miss America." He said contestants' race is "not germane" in choosing winners but added Miss Williams' choice "will lay forever to rest the allegation that the Miss America pageant was racist."

Rounding out this year's winners were Miss Alabama, Pam Battles, 21, who placed third; Miss Mississippi, 24-year-old Wanda Gayle Geddie, was fourth and 22-year-old Pamela Helean Rigas, Miss Ohio, was fifth.

Also finishing in the top 10 were Miss Nebraska, Kristin Leigh Lowenberg, 20; Barbara Webster, Miss Missouri, 21; Lynn Whitney Thompson, Miss Kentucky, 24; Kimberly Anne Boyce, Miss Florida, 22; and Dana Rogers, Miss Texas, 22.

Survey of home

Q. How can I get a survey of my home for homeowner insurance premium reduction?

A. Chapter 5, Texas Insurance Code, Amended Article 5.33 A, Procedure for Certification states:

A. A person who desires a premium reduction on homeowners insurance shall apply to the institute for a premium reduction certification inspection. Application for the inspection shall be made in writing and in the form required by the institute.

B. On receiving an application for an inspection, the institute shall assign an inspector to inspect the property to be covered by the applicant's homeowners policy.

C. The inspector who is assigned by the institute shall inspect the property and shall file a written report with the board stating the inspector's findings and whether or not the property qualifies for a premium reduction.

Applicants should write the Texas Crime Prevention Institute, Southwest Texas State University, San Marcos, Texas and request this survey. It will be assigned to the Crime Prevention Unit of the Big Spring Police Department who will do the survey at no charge to the homeowner.

50 beachgoers stung

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Hundreds of stingrays, attracted close to shore by an unusually calm surf, stung about 50 beachgoers this weekend, according to lifeguards.

No serious injuries were reported among those bitten after unwittingly stepping on the sea animals as they nestled in the surf, officials said Sunday.

"It's like a giant bee sting," said lifeguard Brad Johnson. "If people are allergic to it, it could be deadly. But for most people it's a puncture wound with a burning sensation."

The victims were treated at lifeguard stations by soaking their wounds in "water that's as hot as they can possibly stand," Johnson said.

"That (the hot water) breaks down the venom, eliminates the toxins and dissipates the poison," he said. "They usually walk away after soaking it for about a half hour or 45 minutes."

The stingrays "are always out there," he said, but they usually don't come so close to shore because of the turbulence of the waves. When the surf is low, as it was this weekend, the sand is not churned up and the stingrays nestle closer to the waterline, Johnson added.

Technical Emmys awarded

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC led all networks with 12 Emmys for technical and other achievements after preliminary ceremonies to television's more elaborate awards show next week.

CBS came in second with 10 Emmys, while ABC picked up nine.

Thirty-five awards were handed out Sunday at the Century Plaza Hotel. Emmys in 29 categories will be presented during the telecast of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences 34th annual Emmys presentation at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium next Sunday.

The show will be broadcast live by NBC. That network, which has consistently found itself struggling behind CBS and ABC, had reason to gloat this weekend with its dozen awards.

"Hill Street Blues," the musical special "Sheena Easton...Act I," and "Special Bulletin," a dramatization of news coverage of a nuclear emergency, captured half of those.

CBS's "The Body Human: The Living Code," was named outstanding informational special and picked up two other Emmys.

The ABC mini-series "The Winds of War," starring Robert Mitchum and based on the Herman Wouk novel, received three awards, including one for best cinematography for a single episode of a limited series.

Another ABC mini-series, "The Thorn Birds," picked up two awards, for achievement in film editing for a limited series and in make-up.

"Ziggy's Gift" on ABC was named best animated program.

PBS won took home the award for outstanding classical program in the performing arts for "Pavarotti in Philadelphia: La Boheme." PBS's "Eubie Blake: A Century of Music" and "The Magic Flute" episode of "Dance in America" also received Emmys.

An engineering Emmy was given to the Eastman Kodak Co. for the development of a color negative film that improves picture quality under low level light.

Awards presented Sunday also covered areas including art direction, costume design, music direction, technical direction and electronic camerawork.

Pair hopes Stepparents Day will catch on nationwide

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — Sunday was officially proclaimed Stepparents Day in Orange and the couple who came up the idea hope it catches on nationwide.

David Juroe, a marriage and family counselor and an ordained minister, joined his wife in accepting the city proclamation from Mayor Jim Beam at Juroe's Orange Evangelical Free Church.

The couple have written a book about being stepparents. Juroe brought five children into the marriage and his wife had two.

Juroe said he has contacted the florist and greeting card industries about a Stepparents Day and has written President Reagan asking for his support.

"I've seen so many problems in the stepfamily situation," said Juroe. "It was not long after our wedding that we began to notice certain behavior patterns and responses in our children that puzzled us very much... We began to sense rejection, confusion, isolation and frustration for which we really had no explanation."

"The stepparent can never replace the natural parent," Juroe said.

COWBOY CRUNCH — New York Giants running back Butch Woolfolk (25) is hit by Dallas Cowboys safety Dexter Clinkscale (47) during fourth quarter action Sunday in Texas Stadium. The Cowboys beat the Giants 28-13.

Pokes pound New York

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys' wakeup call came late again Sunday, but this time it was answered by the defense.

Safeties Dexter Clinkscale and Michael Downs made touchdown returns in a 12-second span late in the fourth quarter and the Cowboys downed the New York Giants 28-13 to stay undefeated in the National Football League.

Dallas, which is now only one of three unbeaten NFL teams, had to come from behind to win for the third consecutive week and Coach Tom Landry credited this victory to his defense.

"The defense won it for us," said Landry. "We gave them plenty of chances to beat us."

Landry said turnovers by the offense gave the Giants numerous scoring chances, but "we had our best performance of the year from the defense."

"It was a hard-hitting game and we've got a lot of injuries."

The injuries included a leg injury to running back Tony Dorsett and a foot injury to wide receiver Tony Hill.

Clinkscale plucked off a Scott Brunner pass and returned it 68 yards for a touchdown with 6:17 to play.

On the ensuing kickoff, the Giants' Billy Campfield was jarred loose from the ball by Robert Newhouse and Downs fielded it at the 10 yardline and scored with 6:05 to go.

Dallas, now 3-0 for the season, owned a shaky 14-13 lead over the 1-2 Giants on the basis of two second period White to Doug Cosbie touchdown passes.

Dallas led 14-3 at halftime but the Giants, who lost their eighth consecutive game in Texas Stadium, rallied in the third period.

Brunner completed a 28-yard pass to Butch Woolfolk, and on the next play, Woolfolk plunged 1 yard for the touchdown to make it 14-10.

Brunner's 56-yard pass to Ernest Gray put the Giants set up Ali Haji-Sheikh's second field goal, a 27-yarder.

For the third consecutive game, the Cowboys fell behind at the outset. Haji-Sheikh, a rookie, kicked a 31-yard first-quarter field goal to give the Giants a 3-0 lead.

But the Cowboys struck for two touchdowns in the final two minutes of the half for a 14-3 lead at intermission.

Cosbie caught a highly disputed 4-yard touchdown pass from White, which the Giants claimed was an incomplete pass.

Giants linebacker Lawrence Taylor stripped Cosbie of the ball just as he came down, but field judge Bill Stanley ruled Cosbie had possession when his feet touched the ground.

Three plays later, Everson Walls picked off a Brunner pass and returned in 37 yards to the Giant 1-yard line.

After Dorsett lost a yard, White flipped a 2-yard scoring pass to Cosbie, who juggled the ball and fell to his knees before making the catch with 17 seconds left in the half.

Oilers whipped by Steelers

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Pittsburgh quarterback Cliff Stoudt, who languished for years on the Steeler bench, has his first regular season touchdown pass, a two-game winning streak as a starter — and a plan.

While many consider the seven-year veteran a temporary replacement for injured Terry Bradshaw, Stoudt has another idea.

"I didn't come in with the attitude that I was going to play four weeks and sit down," said Stoudt, who led the Steelers to a 40-28 victory over the Houston Oilers. "All I care about is winning football games and it doesn't matter to me how I do it."

Stoudt ended a stigma a week ago by beating Green Bay, marking the Steelers' first victory since 1976 with a quarterback other than Bradshaw, who is recovering from an elbow injury.

Now Stoudt has his first regular season touchdown pass, a 30-yard strike to Walter Abercrombie during a break away 28-point second half.

"Every week, it seemed to me that all the other guys were getting them (touchdown passes) and it seemed like every week I was going to lead the league in completions to the five," Stoudt said. "It was my biggest thrill in seven years of pro football getting that touchdown."

Pittsburgh's Gary Anderson kicked first half field goals of 49, 35, 22 and 20 yards to erase the effectiveness of a 97-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by Houston's Carl Roaches that gave the Oilers a brief 7-3 lead.

But the Oilers self-destructed and rolled to their 10th consecutive loss, aided by four interceptions and one lost fumble by Oiler quarterback Archie Manning.

Although he has played sparingly in his career, Stoudt doesn't feel hampered.

"It just doesn't feel like I've only been there for three starts," Stoudt said. "It feels like I've been there a lot longer, and that I belong."

Pittsburgh's Franco Harris rushed 115 yards on 26 carries to move within 34 yards of becoming to No. 2 rusher in NFL history behind Jim Brown.

Stoudt completed 16 of 27 passes for 204 yards and one touchdown.

Houston Coach Ed Biles, in the final year of a three-year contract, had less impressive statistics to discuss.

"It doesn't take long to analyze the game, the (two) fumbles, (four) interceptions, and (six) sacks," Biles said. "It's difficult to play catch-up football. We played well on defense in the first half but we let them control the third quarter and they had 335 yards or so in the second half."

Manning was sacked six times for 46 yards in losses by the Steelers.

Pittsburgh built a 12-7 halftime lead into 33-7 with 9:52 left in the game on Harris' six-yard run, Stoudt's strike to Abercrombie and Bryan Hinkle's 14-yard interception return.

The Oilers rallied briefly with one yard runs by Abercrombie kept it from being too close with a 50-yard touchdown run in the final minutes.

The Steelers now are 2-1. The Oilers dropped to 0-4 and haven't won a game since Sept. 19, 1982 when they edged Seattle 23-21.

Saints edge Bears in OT

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Morten Andersen's 41-yard field goal 10:57 into overtime ruined exceptional performances by Chicago's Walter Payton and Willie Gault and boosted the New Orleans Saints to a 34-31 victory Sunday over the Bears in the National Football League.

In Denver, John Elway threw his first touchdown pass as a pro — but his home debut was ruined by Tony Franklin as the Philadelphia field-goal kicker hit a 43-yarder with 57 seconds to play, giving the Eagles a 13-10 victory over the Broncos.

Payton rushed 28 times for 161 yards, 49 of them on a touchdown sprint, and threw touchdown passes of 56 and 21 yards to Gault, who also made a scoring catch on an 8-yard pass from Jim McMahon.

But quarterback Ken Stabler marched New Orleans by its own 2-yard line into position for Andersen's field goal, his first game-winning kick in a two-year pro career. Stabler finished with completions on 25 of 39 passes for 271 yards, including all four passes for 36 yards in the winning drive. Stabler also threw two touchdown passes in the second half.

The victory was the Saints' second in three games. They and the rest of the National Conference West — San Francisco, Atlanta and the Los Angeles Rams — are 2-1.

Dorsett hurts right knee, extent of injury not known

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Dallas running back Tony Dorsett suffered a ligament injury to his right knee in Sunday's 28-13 National Football League victory over the New York Giants. But the seriousness could not be determined until Monday.

The Cowboys' physician, Dr. Marvin

Knight, said Dorsett apparently has a strain of the medial collateral ligament of the right knee.

Dorsett said, "It is either bruised or stretched, and I think it's more of a stretch than a bruise. As I left the field, it started to grab. We'll just have to wait and see."

Donley shows speed, talent in Giant game

IRVING, Texas (AP) — A new star may have emerged for the talent-rich Dallas Cowboys in their 28-13 National Football League victory over the New York Giants Sunday.

The name on the lights of the Texas Stadium scoreboard was Doug Donley, a second round draft pick from Ohio State in his third year as a Dallas wide receiver.

Subbing for injured Tony Hill, Donley caught six passes for 88 yards and displayed the speed that earned him his nickname: "White Lightning."

"It was no surprise how well Doug played because he has been doing that all summer," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

What was a surprise is that Landry used Donley instead of Butch Johnson to substitute for Hill, who had a sprained arch.

Donley said "I've played in the Rose Bowl and been in a lot of big games but this one tops it all. I think I proved I'm not the No. 4 receiver."

Donley, the fastest of the Cowboys, only had five receptions in the shadow of Drew Pearson, Hill and Johnson.

Johnson had no comment on his "demotion." He caught one pass during the victory which was fashioned by a strong effort from the Dallas defense particularly Dexter Clinkscale.

Clinkscale had no visions of touchdown when he intercepted a Scott Brunner pass in the fourth period.

"I knew I was gone, I didn't know how far but I knew I was gone," said Clinkscale.

It turned out an exhausted Clinkscale lasted 68 yards for a touchdown which kept the Cowboys the only unbeaten team in the National Conference.

"If it had been 10 more yards he wouldn't have made it," said cornerback Everson Walls.

Orioles topple Brewers

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Rookie John Stefero got his first chance when Baltimore's starting catcher Rick Dempsey was struck on the neck by a foul ball and on the forearm with a pitched ball. He got another chance in the bottom of the ninth inning with the score tied.

He made both chances pay off as the Orioles decreased their magic number to eight in the American League East race with a 10-9 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Detroit, seven games behind Baltimore, kept its slim hopes alive with a 9-6 verdict over Boston. In other AL games, Cleveland and the New York Yankees split a doubleheader, the Indians winning the opener 10-6 and New York taking the nightcap 13-8, the Chicago White Sox blanked Seattle 6-0, Oakland stopped Kansas City 6-2 and Texas edged California 7-6.

American League

A resident of Odenton, Md., a Baltimore suburb, Stefero was sent into the game in the third inning Sunday as his family and friends watched from the stands. At the time, the Milwaukee Brewers held a 7-0 lead.

"I'd been here so many days and hadn't played," said Stefero, who was recalled from Rochester for the second time on Sept. 1. "I was happy to get in and contribute."

His single helped the Orioles rally for six runs in the eighth inning and take a short-lived 9-7 lead. Then, after the Brewers knotted the score in the top of the ninth, Stefero got another chance.

In the ninth, Glenn Gulliver singled with one out and Lenn Sakata walked, bringing Stefero to the plate again.

"I was happy to see the other guys on base," the Baltimore catcher said. "That got me pumping and all I wanted to do was make contact."

He singled to right, scoring Gulliver with the winning run as Baltimore posted its ninth victory in its last 10 games. It also ran the Brewers' losing streak to a club record-tying nine straight.

A bases-loaded home run by Eddie Murray with two outs highlighted the Orioles' eighth-inning explosion.

Tigers 9, Red Sox 6

die Solomon covering 69 and 28 yards, helped the 49ers rout St. Louis 42-27. Montana also found tight end Russ Francis for an 11-yard TD pass while the defense chipped in interception returns for TDs of 40 yards by Dwight Hicks and 32 yards by Tim Collier.

Atlanta quarterback Steve Bartkowski also threw three touchdown passes as the Falcons buried Detroit 30-14. Bartkowski's scoring passes went 54 and 36 yards to Alfred Jackson and 11 to Ben Young, while fullback William Andrews gained 150 yards on 32 carries.

The Rams turned an early 17-0 deficit against Green Bay into a 24-17 lead, but Eddie Lee Ivey's second TD run of the game in the fourth period tied it 24-24. Then Jan Stenerud's last-second, 31-yard field goal gave the Packers a 27-24 victory.

The winning kick was set up when Eric Dickerson fumbled and Byron Bragg recovered at the Rams' 19-yard line with 29 seconds to play.

Elway's 33-yard touchdown pass to running back Rick Parros pulled Denver into a 10-10 tie with 1:54 to play. But the Eagles' Ron Jaworski responded with two big pass plays — 38 yards to Mike Quick and 24 to Mike Hoover — to move into position for Franklin's game-winning field goal.

Jaworski also passed 38 yards to Quick for a first-quarter TD. Elway, in his first route-going performance after being relieved by veteran Steve DeBerg in Denver's two victories, completed 18 of 33 passes for 193 yards.

New England's Tony Collins ran for a club-record 212 yards and scored three touchdowns as the Patriots upset the New York Jets 23-13. Collins broke loose for touchdown runs of 39, 7 and 23 yards.

inning.

Gibson had a double and infield single off Boston starter Dennis Boyd, and then slammed a tremendous home run into the bleachers in right-center in the eighth. Whitaker and Krenchicki each had a double and two singles, while Enos Cabell drove in two runs with a pair of infield hits.

Pitcher Milt Wilcox got the victory, the 100th of his major league career.

"It was only natural that I got a little bit concerned," Wilcox said of Boston's ninth-inning fireworks. "That's an explosive ball club, especially in this ball park. When they get within two or three runs, you've got to start sweating."

White Sox 6, Mariners 0
Richard Dotson, backed by four double plays and Harold Baines' fourth home run in as many games, hurled his first shutout of the season for Chicago, which clinched the AL West Division title Saturday night.

It was the seventh complete game of the season for Dotson, 19-7. It was his seventh straight triumph and 11th in his last 12 decisions.

The victory was the 12th in the last 13 games for the Sox and their 17th straight at home.

A's 6, Royals 2
Rookie Mike Warren tossed a five-hitter as Oakland snapped a four-game losing streak. Bob Kearney backed the performance with a single, a double and three runs batted in.

Kansas City had its five-game winning streak snapped.

Rangers 7, Angels 6
A two-run homer in the ninth inning by Larry Parrish lifted Texas over California. Billy Sample led off the inning with a single and, one out later, Parrish connected for his 26th homer.

Victor Cruz, 1-3, worked the final two innings to pick up the win in a game the Rangers won despite blowing an early 5-0 lead.

Indians 10-8, Yankees 6-13
Dave Winfield singled twice and homered, and rookie Brian Dayett drove in four runs as New York stopped Cleveland in the second game for a split of their doubleheader.

For the day, Winfield went 7-for-8, scored five times, homered twice and drove in four runs. New York had 31 hits, including 19 in the second game.

In the opener, Pat Tabler slammed a two-run triple to highlight a six-run third inning that gave Cleveland's Mike Jeffcoat his first major league victory.

In Washington, the Redskins, behind Joe Theismann's second-half touchdown passes of 12 yards to Don Warren and 10 yards to Clint Didier, rallied from a 12-0 deficit to beat Kansas City 27-12.

Touchdown passes of 2 and 3 yards from Joe Ferguson to Joe Cribbs helped boost the Buffalo Bills past Baltimore 28-23. The winning 2-yard pass came three plays after Colts quarterback Mike Pagel mishandled the snap from center and linebacker Chris Keating recovered the fumble on the Bills' 14.

In Seattle, Jim Zorn passed 41 and 5 yards to Steve Largent for scores and the Seahawks survived a four-touchdown performance by Dan Fouts to upset the San Diego Chargers 34-31. Fouts threw three of his TD passes in the fourth quarter after Seattle had opened a 34-17 lead. Seahawks rookie Curt Warner rushed for 109 yards on 22 carries.

Benny Ricardo's fourth field goal, a 42-yarder 9:27 into overtime, gave Minnesota a 19-16 victory over Tampa Bay. The kick completed a 57-yard drive engineered by quarterback Steve Dils after Bill Capece of the Bucs missed a 33-yard field goal attempt, wide to the left.

Safeties Dexter Clinkscale and Michael Downs ran for touchdowns 12 seconds apart in the fourth quarter as Dallas remained unbeaten with a 28-13 victory over the New York Giants.

Clinkscale intercepted a Scott Brunner pass and returned it 68 yards for a TD with 6:17 to play. On the ensuing kickoff, Robert Newhouse knocked the ball loose from the Giants' Billy Campfield, Downs fielded it at the 10 and scored.

The only other unbeaten teams — the Miami Dolphins and the Los Angeles Raiders — play each other Monday night.

Zoeller captures Las Vegas tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (P) — Fuzzy Zoeller may have to make a reevaluation of his place in professional golf.

He proved his point Sunday with a front-running 4-stroke victory in a new PGA Tour event that was billed as the game's richest tournament, the five-day, 90-hole Las Vegas Pro-Celebrity Classic that offered $1,050,000 in total prize money.

From the official purse of $750,000 (the other $300,000 went in pro-am prizes and guarantees to players who failed to make the cut), Zoeller collected the biggest first-place check on the American tour this season, $135,000.

The victory and the huge check offered two indications his own estimate of his place in the game —

Phillies slide into top spot

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies put the squeeze on the St. Louis Cardinals... and it enabled them to squeeze into first place in the National League East.

"That was a big run out there," said Philadelphia Manager Paul Owens after Ivan DeJesus' suicide-squeeze bunt drove in the game-winner in the seventh inning to lead the Phillies past the Cardinals 5-4 Sunday.

The victory gave the Phillies a one-game lead in the NL East over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who lost 5-2 to Montreal. Both the Phillies and Pirates have 13 games remaining.

"With the squeeze you have to be careful," said Owens. "But it was a good play because they had to throw a strike. They knew we'd pinch-hit for (pitcher Steve) Carlton. We just had to be careful of a pitchout."

Meanwhile, the National League West remained a virtual two-team race between the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta Braves. The Dodgers lost 6-3 to San Francisco, but nevertheless maintained a 3½-game lead when the Braves also lost, 4-2 to San Diego in 13 innings.

In other NL action, Houston beat Cincinnati 4-1 and Chicago edged New York 6-5.

Greg Gross opened the Phillies' seventh with a double and advanced to third on Bo Diaz's sacrifice bunt. DeJesus then dropped down a 1-1 pitch from Joaquin Andujar, who fumbled the ball, then threw too late to nab the sliding Gross at home. The Phillies added an insurance run in the eighth on an RBI single by Gary Matthews.

Carlton, 14-15, gave up eight hits in seven innings, struck out seven and walked three to move within one of the 300-victory plateau, a level reached by only 15 other pitchers. Carlton's strikeouts boosted his major-league career leading total to 3,690, 29 more than runner-up Nolan Ryan of Houston.

Al Holland took over in the ninth for the Phillies and recorded his 21st save.

"Right now I feel better than at any time in my baseball career," Holland said. "I'm excited because the club has enough confidence in me to put me in when the game is on the line."

"I'm confident. I don't go out there hoping or thinking. I know I'll do the job. I'll come out on top 99 percent of the time."

Expos 5, Pirates 2

In Pittsburgh, Al Oliver and Terry Francona delivered run-scoring hits in a two-run fifth inning as Montreal halted a six-game winning streak by the Pirates.

Pittsburgh starter Rick Rhoden, 11-13, took a 2-1 lead into the fifth and quickly got two outs before Andre Dawson tripled. Oliver followed with a single and Francona then delivered a triple to break the tie and enable the Expos to salvage the third game of a three-game series.

Scott Sanderson, 6-6, worked the first 5-2-3 innings for the victory and got relief help from Bob James, who earned his fifth save.

"If I knew the secret (to the recent success), I would have done it about three years ago," said James, a former Detroit Tigers' farmhand. "It's experience, I guess. If you do things for a certain amount of time, you finally do them right."

National League

Giants 6, Dodgers 3

In San Francisco, Joel Youngblood drove in four runs as the Giants beat the Dodgers and completed a three-game sweep of the West leaders.

San Francisco starter Mike Krukow, 11-9, gave up but five hits, including a leadoff homer in the ninth by Derrel Thomas, before leaving. Greg Minton gave up two more Dodger runs on a single by R.J. Reynolds before Gary Lavelle came on for his 18th save.

The sweep of the series gave the Giants an 11-4 record this season against the Dodgers and Manager Frank Robinson said, "It shows us that we can beat these guys and makes me wonder what happens to us against other teams we play."

Padres 4, Braves 2

In Atlanta, Ruppert Jones slugged a two-run homer in the 13th inning to lead San Diego over the Braves.

Jones, who entered the game in the 10th as a defensive replacement, connected for his 11th homer against Ken Dayley, 4-6, with one out and Tony Gwynn on base with a single.

Gary Lucas, 5-7, the fourth San Diego pitcher, gained the victory for the Padres, who won the series 2-1.

Astros 4, Reds 1

In Cincinnati, Alan Ashby and Terry Puhl hit solo homers to lead Houston over the Reds behind the combined six-hit pitching of Mike Scott and Frank DiPino.

Ashby rapped his eighth homer of the season off Mario Soto, 16-13, with one out in the second to put the Astros ahead to stay. Puhl hit his seventh homer leading off the fifth for a 3-1 lead and Jerry Mumphrey drove in another run in the sixth with a triple.

Scott scattered four hits in 7 1-3 innings, striking out a career high of eight. DiPino earned his eighth save.

Cubs 6, Mets 5

In New York, Gary Woods' two-run double in the ninth inning lifted the Cubs over the Mets. Bill Campbell, 6-8, the fourth of five Chicago pitchers, was the winner.

Doug Sisk, 5-4, making a club record 64th relief appearance for the Mets, gave up a single to Ryne Sandberg and a walk to Thad Bosley to open the Chicago ninth. They both advanced on Bill Buckner's sacrifice and scored on Woods' double.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It is a day and evening for you to think about what your overall imaginative and idealistic aims are to clarify them in your consciousness and then to consider the best ways and means.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get into studies of all kinds so that you can later make a plan that can gain you your most cherished aims.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Good day to weed out those friends who no longer fit into your pattern of current life. Get busy at work that needs to be done.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study ways of becoming more successful and gaining more prestige as well. Get advice from an expert you trust.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You get fascinating new ideas which should be studied further before you put them in motion.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your hunches may be good but check them with your mature judgment and be sure you can rely on them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good day for conferring with partners and come to a true understanding with them. Get into some civic work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study your work well and know how you can be more efficient at it and improve your lot in life. Listen to suggestions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although a good time is on your mind, you have an opportunity to express your talents very well and gain benefits.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have fine ideas but need the cooperation of family ties to put them across successfully. Get much accomplished.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure you know what others expect of you and then you can proceed intelligently. Visit friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Fine day for dwelling on practical affairs and particularly on the financial so that you can build up security.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get yourself better controlled since you could ricochet between being highly elated one moment and despondent the next.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young persons who will be very high minded and should have the finest spiritual training possible and the nicest environment in which to grow, as well as an academic education.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
