From bureau and wire reports
The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. is proposing lower long-distance rates to bring their charges closer to competing discount services. But low-volume callers aren't likely to enjoy any savings at all.

Unless a consumer places four "average" interstate long-distance calls a month, his savings from AT&T's rate cuts will be consumed by a new $2 a month fee that all residential customers must pay starting next year.

In Big Spring, the revised proposal means rates for one residential phone line would be $16.65 a month instead of $27.45 as earlier proposed. Currently, the charge is $8.05 a month.

Rates for one business line would go up under the revised plan, costing $35.40 per month compared with $34.30 under the old proposal. Currently, the charge is $18.85 per month.

In Stanton, the company wants to boost monthly residential rates to $16.45 instead of $27.45 as earlier proposed. Currently those consumers pay $7.85.

Businesses in those towns would pay $35.15 monthly instead of $34.05 as first proposed. Those ratepayers now pay $18.40 a month.

The residential rates include a $2 monthly charge for access to long-distance networks for in-state calls.

For business customers, a $5.10-a-month access charge is included in the newly proposed rates.

The rates do not include cost of renting a telephone or special calling features.

AT&T's proposed rate reductions were filed Monday with the Federal Communications Commission, which must approve the changes before they can take effect Jan. 1.

Morris Tanenbaum, the chief executive of AT&T Communications, said the company was proposing to lower its regular interstate rates by See PHONE, page 2A

Autry scheduled to die

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Lawyers for James David Autry readied last-minute legal arguments today in an effort to keep the condemned killer from becoming the ninth U.S. convict to be executed since the death penalty was reinstated in 1976.

Autry, 29, was scheduled to die by injection at 12:01 a.m. CDT Wednesday for fatally shooting a Port Arthur, Texas, convenience store clerk during an April 20, 1980, robbery.

Autry, known to fellow inmates as "Cowboy," was moved about 7 a.m. today from Death Row at the Ellis Unit to the Walls Unit about 15 miles away, prison spokesman Charles Brown said.

Brown said Autry was placed in a holding cell just a few feet away from the death chamber and met with Carroll Pickett, the prison's Protestant chaplain.

"He seemed more solemn than usual," Brown said.

The U.S. Supreme Court voted 5-4 on Monday to deny an emergency request by Autry's attorney, Charles Carver, to block the execution. The high court refused to hear the case last year.

The only remaining appeals are before the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin, U.S. District Judge Robert Parker in Marshall and State District Judge Leonard Giblin of Beaumont, who declined to rule because the same issue is before the federal court.

Parker scheduled a 10 a.m. hearing today on the appeal, and Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said he would not oppose any stay.

If all appeals fail, Autry could get a 30-day reprieve from Texas Gov. Mark White. But White said he would not make a final decision on Autry's case until all court remedies have been exhausted.

"It looks more and more like it's going to happen. After six appeals, I think it's about time," said Assistant Jefferson County District Attorney David Moore, who convinced a jury three years ago that Autry deserved to die.

Autry has said he is not worried and is prepared to die.

"There isn't anything I can do," Autry said last week. "It's not really left up to me. It's up to the Supreme Court and my lawyer."

Autry received two earlier stays. His first execution date was Dec. 17, just 10 days after another Texas inmate, Charlie Brooks Jr., became the first executed by a huge dose of sodium thiopental.

Big Springer still critical

A Big Spring resident injured in a shooting Saturday night remained in critical condition today at Lubbock General Hospital, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

James Bruce Walker, 19, of 907 W. Second St. was transferred Monday afternoon to Lubbock General from Malone-Hogan Hospital in Big Spring. Walker is being treated in Lubbock by a neurosurgeon for a bullet lodged in the left side of his neck, a Malone-Hogan spokeswoman said.

Walker, a former Coahoma High School quarterback who is now a freshman physical education major at Abilene Christian University, received gunshot wounds in his left forearm and left side of his neck in a shooting about 11:30 p.m. Saturday near the intersection of 24th and Johnson streets in Big Spring.

Another ACU student also injured in the shooting, Ira Hopper, 18, of Abilene has been released from the intensive care unit in Malone-Hogan and moved to another floor. Hopper is in stable condition after suffering gunshot wounds in his chest and his upper right arm, a Malone-Hogan spokeswoman said.

Sammy B. Johnston, 19, of 2107 Rannels was arrested Sunday morning in connection with the incident.

Johnston was charged with attempted second degree murder, a Class 2 felony that carries a two to 20 year sentence and a possible $10,000 fine if convicted.

Johnston is the only suspect in the case, according to Big Spring Police Lt. Alvis Jeffcoat.

Police say they are uncertain what occurred before the shooting, but say that Johnston and his wife were verbally sparring with Walker and Hopper from their respective cars.

According to District Attorney Rick Hamby, Johnston has a prior criminal conviction and is awaiting trial in Howard County on other charges.

Johnston was convicted in 118th District Court in 1981 for burglary and served a three-year sentence in the state penitentiary before being released earlier this year, Hamby said.

Johnston was to be tried this month in connection with an indictment by a Howard County grand jury in August for aggravated assault in another shooting incident that occurred in May, Hamby said. According to the indictment, Johnston allegedly shot another man in the leg during an argument outside of Herman's Restaurant, Hamby said.

Tourist spending rate listed at $23 million

Howard County last year received an estimated $23.8 million in spending by U.S. travelers, according to a national study commissioned by the Texas Tourist Department Agency.

The rate of tourist spending here, 11 percent over 1981 receipts, was 2 percent over that for the state as a whole.

The travel study, done by the U.

S. Travel Data Center in Washington, D.C., said the county last year had 587 travel-related jobs with a payroll estimated of $4.8 million.

The city also received an estimated $314,000 in local and county taxes paid by travelers.

Owners sought after 46 years

By BOB CARPENTER

The year was 1947. The United States was recovering from the shock of the war years. President Harry Truman was desperately trying to get aid to the Allies crippled by Hitler's blitzkrieg warfare.

The "Black Dahlia" murder investigation was full-blown in Los Angeles, the Texas Legislature was working on a bill that would ensure teachers a $2,000-a-year salary, and a complete tune-up for a car was only $10.50.

In Big Spring, bread was 14 cents a loaf, Howard College's enrollment had leaped to 185, Howard Hughes' scandalous western The Outlaw starring Jane Russell was showing in town.

And early that year, the Howard-Glasscock chapter of the American National Red Cross honored its volunteers with certificates signed by President Truman citing "meritorious personal service performed in behalf of the nation, her armed forces and suffering humanity in the Second World War."

The Feb. 11, 1947 edition of the Herald reported the group had rolled countless miles of bandages, made one-half million sponges and knitted about 25,000 socks for overseas GIs.

Volunteer Otto Peters said the chapter's success was due to "service above self that put the job over and gave the volunteers the will to work."

Cut to September 1983.

Clayton Hicks, chairman of the Howard County Red Cross Chapter, is digging through some old files of the organization and uncovers a stack of certificates dated Feb. 11, 1947, bearing names of local residents and signed by President Truman.

Obviously meant for the awards ceremony, the documents were never placed in the hands of rightful recipients.

"Nobody knows why they weren't given out," Hicks said. "Perhaps the weather was real bad that day or there was a change in the chain of command and they weren't given out at that time and later just got shuffled back."

About 120 of the certificates, emblazoned with a red cross and in-

Regional panel reviews city bid

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Committee Board of Directors will meet at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 12 at the Midland Regional Air Terminal to review the City of Big Spring's application for funds for swimming pool renovations.

Directors will consider the city's application to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for $30,000, which the city will match with $32,500 in local funds, to renovate the city swimming pool in Comanche Trail Park.

The pool, built in 1935 under the Works Projects Administration, currently loses more than 87,000 gallons of water in a 24-hour period, according to the city.

Proposed repairs include $15,000 to refurbish the pool, including repairing expansion joints, sandblasting and resurfacing; $20,000 to install a new filtering system; $15,000 to renovate the bathhouse, including repairing the plumbing, electrical service and fixtures; $4,000 to install new appurtenances; and $8,500 to provide for contingencies and administrative costs.

SAYONARA, SMU — Professor Neill McFarland talks to Southern Methodist University football player Michael Carter, with book, in a class on Japanese culture. McFarland, history of religions professor at SMU, is readying a class of athletes.

cheerleaders, pom pom girls and band members for a trip to Japan in November when SMU plays the University of Houston football team in the Mirage Bowl.

Japanese culture class topic

DALLAS (AP) — A large and restless basketball player wearing foot-long Adidas yawned ostentatiously and kicked the seat in front of him. It was 8:30 in the morning and the professor was talking ancient Japanese deities and Shinto shrines.

The long-legged jock shifted uncomfortably in his plastic scoop chair and dozed off. With the uncanny timing students cultivate after spending a few years in the back rows of "monster" classes, the young man woke just as the professor summarized his lecture.

Before dismissal, the professor led his drowsy class in a recitation of Japanese numbers. "Ichi, ni, san, shi, go, roku, shichi, hachi, kyū and ju," the class repeated with considerably more enthusiasm than perhaps was called for.

Even the basketball player got into it. When he came to "ju," he played with the word a second and came up with "ju eat?" He grinned broadly when the students around him giggled.

Dr. Neill McFarland knows what he's up against teaching Japanese culture to a group of sleepy athletes. "I don't expect outstanding scholarship from them, but if they learn something about the culture because of their interest in sports, that's good."

McFarland, history of religions professor at SMU, is readying a class of athletes, cheerleaders, pom pom girls and band members for a trip to Japan in November when the SMU football team will play the University of Houston in the Mirage Bowl. The game, set for Nov. 26, will be played at Olympic Stadium in Tokyo to a sellout crowd of 80,000. Expenses will be paid by a Tokyo sports-promotion agency.

Of the 150 students signed up for the Japanese culture course — Religious Studies 3367; Introduction to Japan — some will not travel to Japan. The basketball player, for example, said he was taking the course as an elective. (Despite his obvious boredom with the lecture material, he said he likes the films and slides the professor shows.)

Most of McFarland's students, however, will spend a week in Japan, bringing the tradition of Texas football to Japan, and perhaps taking home to Texas a taste for sushi and sake.

McFarland hopes that by giving his students a basic understanding of Japanese geography, history and culture, the trip will be more significant, "a real learning experience."

"I hope they won't spend all their time looking for hamburgers and video games," he said. "I hope they will ask, 'Who are the Japanese people and how can I get acquainted with them?' It would be a shame if they think they're playing a game and that's all."

Michael Carter, a 22-year-old SMU senior, noseguard for the football team and an Olympic hopeful (in shotput), said he plans to shop for video equipment and try some acupuncture to relax.

Phone

an average 10.5 percent. That reduction will save consumers $1.75 billion, he said, adding that savings on individual calls could exceed 16 percent.

The savings for residential customers on their total bills, however, could be another matter.

That is because the reduction in long-distance rates stems from an FCC decision to gradually phase out a subsidy that now helps to hold down local rates. As part of that plan, the FCC has ordered consumers to begin paying a flat "access fee" of $2 a month to local phone companies to offset the loss of the subsidy. Business customers will be expected to pay a flat fee of up to $6 a month.

Those access fees will have to be paid regardless of whether any interstate long-distance calls are made. So a consumer who doesn't make any long-distance calls will see a net increase of at least $2 in his total bill, regardless of what happens to local service rates. Indeed, cost-support information filed by AT&T Monday shows a residential customer must place four or more typical interstate long-distance calls a month to save money overall.

The company told the FCC the "average" long-distance call is one that travels 587 miles and lasts eight minutes. Under AT&T's existing rate schedules, such a phone call placed during the day costs $3.63. After the rate reduction, that call will cost $3.06, or 57 cents less.

Thus using AT&T's figures, consumers would have to place four such "average" calls a month to offset the $2 monthly fee they will begin paying Jan. 1. If a consumer placed six of those average long-distance calls every month, he or she would save $1.42 a month after paying the $2 access fee.

"Of course, some people can offset the access fee with just one long-distance phone call if they talk for a long time," added AT&T spokesman Pic Wagner. Even discounting the $2 access fee, the rate reductions proposed Monday will clearly reduce the price advantage that competitors like MCI Communications and GTE Sprint now enjoy, unless they respond with new rates of their own.

For example, a five-minute daytime call from Atlanta to Chicago that now costs $2.34 on AT&T's network would cost $2.01 under the new rates, a 14.1 percent reduction. That same call now costs $1.87 on MCI's network. Assuming MCI doesn't change its prices, the AT&T reduction would thus lower the savings from 47 cents on that call to just 14 cents.

Similarly, a 10-minute daytime call from New York to Los Angeles now costs $5.15 via AT&T and $4.32 via MCI, for a savings of 83 cents. With AT&T's rate reductions, however, that same call will cost $4.60, reducing the savings to 28 cents.

day trips at least 100 miles from home. Thus it includes spending by Texans as well as out-of-state visitors. Trips for all purposes are included.

For the state as a whole, travel in 1982 contributed $13.7 billion to the economy.

The 9 percent increase over 1981 traveler spending was five times greater than the 1.8 percent growth of the U.S. travel industry.

Industry employment last year in Texas rose to 283,917, up 4 percent from 1981 — six times above the national average which fell 2 percent last year.

Texas also received an estimated $316.8 million in state taxes from travelers. Another $161.6 was paid in local and county taxes.

Court fees rise under state law

Court costs on convictions for felonies and misdemeanors in both Howard County Court and 118th District Court will go up after Jan. 1 because of an increase in the state fee collected for the Compensation to Victims of Crime Fund.

According to Howard County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin, district court costs in felony convictions will increase from $96 to $101 because of a $5 increase in the fee collected for the Compensation to Victims of Crime Fund. The fee, previously $15, will be $20 after Jan. 1.

The state fund fee also will increase in county court convictions, from $10 to $12.50 on each misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $200 for total court costs of $83.50, and from $10 to $15 on each misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment or by a fine of more than $200 for total court costs of more than $101.

The new fees also will be assessed in cases in which a person is granted probation or deferred adjudication.

COAHOMA — Howard County Justice of the Peace Willie Grant collected $12,153 in fines for the month of September.

Miss Grant, whose office is located in Coahoma, disposed of 343 criminal cases in September. A total of 403 criminal cases were filed in the peace justice's court; 15 were dismissed.

Rewards for doing well

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Students cheering at an "academic pep rally" got the chance to win pizza, to play video games, and to see a school principal named Green painted blue.

All this will happen if the eighth graders at Cobb Middle School in Tallahassee do well on standardized state tests this week.

On the eve of basic-skills tests Monday, the school sponsored its second test assembly in the school's gymnasium.

Principal Paul Green told the students that those who score 100 percent will be invited to a local pizza parlor-video arcade.

And if Cobb eighth graders score best in their district, Green also said he will agree to be painted blue and come to school as a Smurf.

Teachers led the students in a foot-stomping cheer:

"Concentrate, concentrate Right on down We'll make the highest Scores in town."

"We encourage this type of thing," said state testing director Tom Fisher, who witnessed the pep rally. "We support anything you can do to remove anxiety about the test and make students think positively about the experience."

"They had an academic pep rally at Cobb last year, and apparently it worked," said Fisher. "Test scores went up."

When you're lucky...

STATELINE, Nev. — Two can be as lucky as one, or, in the words of a Chinese immigrant who hit a $250,000 jackpot after helping his friend do the same: "When you're lucky, you're lucky!"

Henry Gee, 70, of Stockton, Calif., who acted as an interpreter when a friend won a $250,000 jackpot a few months ago, won the same amount Monday, according to Harrah's Tahoe casino.

Gee, a native of Canton who worked as a cook at the Golden Gate Grill in Stockton for 30 years, was with Kam Chin Lee when Lee won his jackpot on a $1 progressive machine in June. And they were together when Gee hit a quarter million dollar payoff on a similar machine Monday.

"I was surprised," the casino quoted Gee as saying. "I just looked at Kam Chin and said, 'It belongs to me this time.'"

"When you're lucky, you're lucky!" he added. "I was lucky today."

Gee said he'll spend the money on his two daughters and four grandchildren.

Lee said he had a home with his winnings and is trying to bring his family to the United States from mainland China.

Not so all-American

LONDON — The all-American hot dog was born in England and has the same pedigree as the Epping sausage, British promoters say.

A Victorian cook and baker in Epping near London were making hot dogs more than 50 years before Nathan Handwerker sold his hot dogs at New York's Coney Island around 1910, the British Sausage Bureau said Monday.

"We believe Handwerker was merely copying the world-famous Epping sausage when he made his first hot dog," said spokesman Dave Jones.

Jones said Victorian journalist George Augustus Sala, traveling in Russia to gather material for Charles Dickens, supported the British claim.

"Sala wrote that he had a friend whose cook would send sausages to the baker 'to have him insert them one by one into the dough of rolls ready for the oven,' and that was an early hot dog," he said.

Philippines trip canceled

WASHINGTON — President Reagan still plans to visit the Far East next month but has dropped the strife-torn Philippines and two other Southeast Asian nations from his agenda.

Blaming the press of congressional business at home rather than the bloody antigovernment rioting in Manila, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said, "The president has most reluctantly and with regret decided to postpone visits planned for this November to the Republic of the Philippines, Indonesia and Thailand."

He said deputy White House chief of staff Michael K. Deaver secretly left Washington Friday night to personally carry that message to leaders of the three nations and to Japan and South Korea, which Reagan still plans to visit but perhaps later than originally scheduled.

U.S. relations with all three countries dropped from the trip "are excellent, and we expect them to remain so," Speakes said.

He said they could be added to the agenda for Reagan's return to Asia next spring when he goes to China, although no decision has been made on that.

No trip may be setback

MANILA, Philippines — President Reagan's decision to cancel his visit to the Philippines underscores the difficulties facing President Ferdinand E. Marcos, but it may prove a greater blow to Marcos' foes.

Some of those opposition leaders privately had counted on Reagan's presence to focus international attention on the Marcos government and provide a target for major protests.

Marcos had said a cancellation would be a "setback" to his government, but in fact it may reduce pressure on him to quickly resolve the question of who killed Benigno Aquino, the former senator who was Marcos' arch rival. It also removes a possible deterrent to harsh tactics against dissidents.

"I have a feeling this could be a signal for a heavier crackdown here," said Salvador P. Lopez, a former foreign minister and ambassador to the United States.

"Now that he is not coming, I think its open house. President Marcos is no longer on 'good behavior,'" Lopez said. "I hope I'm wrong."

Aquino's death Aug. 21 from a single bullet as he stepped from an airplane at Manila's airport has generated growing opposition to Marcos' 18-year rule and emboldened Filipinos who want him to resign. Demonstrations have spread from radical ranks to the middle and upper classes, with hundreds of thousands joining anti-Marcos rallies across the islands.

Deadly rains continue

TUCSON, Ariz. — Cloud-bursting rains that forced thousands from their homes and left 13 dead or missing continued today, threatening to push waters over a dam and spread a sloshing sea of mud to the suburbs of Phoenix.

With damage estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars after another day of heavy rain Monday, the National Weather Service warned that another severe storm system could hit the state on Thursday.

A brief but fierce storm Monday afternoon aggravated flooding in southeastern Arizona, said to be the worst in a century. Tucson, with many sections already under several feet of water, received nearly half an inch of rain in 20 minutes.

Interstate 10, the main highway covering the 120 miles between Tucson and Phoenix, was cut when flooding eroded land supporting bridge approaches.

Other highway closures meant that "Tucson has effectively become an island," said Terry Conner on Monday, but some routes were later reopened.

Defense buildup planned

Military chiefs from El Salvador, Honduras and Guatemala are planning to build up their defenses against leftist Nicaragua, but Mexico says it will continue shipping oil to the Sandinistas despite threats by rightist-led rebels.

A Mexican Senate leader said Monday his country will ignore warnings from the largest anti-Sandinista rebel group, the Honduran-based Democratic Nicaraguan Force, which threatened last week to blow up oil tankers approaching Nicaraguan ports.

"Mexico will not be frightened or docile," said Rafael Cervantes Acuna, president of the Mexican Senate's Defense Committee. "We will continue our aid that was provided with a humanitarian objective."

Mexico has been supplying Nicaragua with 7,500 barrels of crude oil per day under a 1981 agreement which provides the oil under a deferred payment plan. Mexico is the only country currently selling oil to the Sandinistas.

The Honduran-based rebels have received at least $19 million from the Central Intelligence Agency, and are led by officers of the National Guard of late right-wing Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza, overthrown by the Sandinistas in 1979.

Another group of rebels, the Revolutionary Democratic Alliance, is battling the Nicaraguan government from bases in Costa Rica. The alliance, led by former Sandinista commandos, is not known to have received CIA money.

Discounts for ZIP mullied

WASHINGTON — The Postal Service is considering a way to give businesses a discount on postage charges if they use the nine-digit ZIP Code on letters.

The mail agency's board meets today for the first time since the independent Postal Rate Commission recommended a set of discounts for large-volume mailers similar to what the Postal Service requested.

The Postal Service could make the discounts effective immediately or could wait for further study of the issue.

The rate commission said pieces of mail that are not eligible for a separate discount because the mailer has not done preliminary sorting should get a discount of nine-tenths of a cent if the nine-digit code is used.

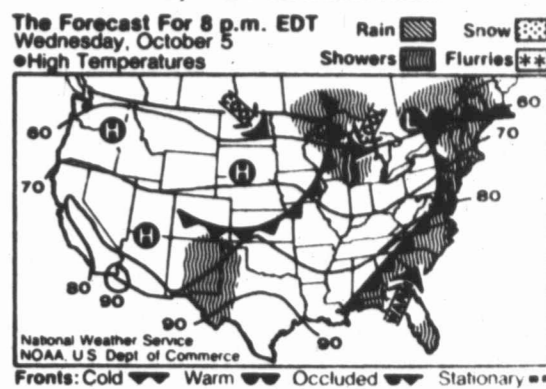

Pieces of mail that have the presort discount should get a half-cent discount, the rate commission said.

The commission also suggested that the minimum mailing for unsorted mail bearing nine-digit codes be set at 250 pieces, rather than the 500 pieces proposed by the Postal Service. It said this would promote mail volume, which is important to the Postal Service.

It also said discounts for other mail bearing the nine-digit code "should be thoroughly explored in future proceedings."

Thunderstorms erupt

BELLEUE, Texas — Intense thunderstorms erupted over Northwest Texas near the Red River, inflicting heavy damage over southern Clay County as strong winds blew over the area, authorities said. Wind gusts hitting 100 mph Monday destroyed the agricultural building at Bellevue High School, shattered windows, damaged roofs and destroyed about 75 barns and small buildings.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said the storm hit about 6:10 p.m. and was restricted to a five-mile radius of Bellevue, 25 miles southeast of Wichita Falls.

Utility lines were knocked down and many residents lost electricity and telephone service, authorities said.

No injuries were reported. The storm activity developed as dry air collided with warm and moist air from the Gulf of Mexico.

Another area of showers and thunderstorms brought light rains to the drought-plagued Trans Pecos and Permian Basin.

Fair to partly cloudy skies dominated the state early today. Some low clouds and fog dotted portions of East Texas, while a thin veil of high clouds swept across the South Plains.

Pre-dawn temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s. Stiff northerly winds pushed the mercury into the 50s over the South Plains.

The forecast called for scattered showers and thunderstorms to push across North and Northeast Texas through tonight. Thunderstorms also were possible over scattered areas of West Texas.

Showers and thunderstorms headed for the eastern half of the nation today, and flood warnings continued over soaked and weary Arizona.

Rain was expected from Kansas through the central Mississippi River valley, from the Great Lakes across the Ohio Valley to the Appalachians, from Pennsylvania to Maine and over central and southern Florida. A few showers were also forecast for the Pacific Northwest coast.

Storm warnings continued today over the flood-ravaged Southwest.

The San Carlos reservoir was filled from recent record breaking high levels on the San Francisco and Gila Rivers. Overflow from the reservoir was expected to begin at noon today.

Senator opposing support for Martin Luther King day

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring President Reagan's new support for a Martin Luther King national holiday, Sen. Jesse Helms is delaying a vote on the legislation and calling the slain civil rights leader a preacher of "action-oriented Marxism."

A White House spokesman confirmed for the first time Monday that Reagan would sign the bill, but that didn't stop Helms, R-N.C., from bucking the president and his party's Senate leadership with a filibuster.

"If the Martin Luther King bill comes to the president's desk, he will sign it," White House press spokesman Anson Franklin told a reporter.

Reagan, already in political trouble with blacks as the 1984 election approaches, originally said he supported a day honoring King — but not a national holiday that would give federal workers a paid day off.

Helms' remarks infuriated Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who followed him to the floor and angrily predicted the conservative's comments would be "shunned by the American people, including the citizens of his own state."

Unlike most bills, this House-passed measure bypassed the committee system and was brought straight to the floor by Majority Leader Howard Baker, a strong supporter of the holiday.

If signed into law this year, the bill would take effect in 1986. King's birthday is Jan. 15, but the holiday would be observed on the third Monday of January. Of the nine national holidays, George Washington's birthday is the only one honoring an American hero.

When it became clear that Helms was filibustering against even consideration of the bill, Baker — who vowed earlier to "pursue this until we pass it" — filed a cloture petition to limit debate. Senate Minority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., and 15 other senators signed the motion.

The cloture vote to choke off Helms must wait until Wednesday under Senate rules, when it will need 60 votes to pass. But since Helms is filibustering on a motion to consider the bill, he could start a new filibuster on the bill itself. That would require a new cloture petition that would put off a vote until possibly next week.

Helms, both on the floor and in statements afterwards, said the Senate should know more about King's leftist views, associations with communists and his anti-American statements.

Some people may say, Helms commented, "that Dr. King's thought may have been merely Marxist in its orientation. But the trouble with that is that Marxism-Leninism, the official philosophy of communism, is an action-oriented revolutionary doctrine."

"And Dr. King's action-oriented Marxism about which he was cautioned by the leaders of this country, including the president at that time, is not compatible with the concepts of this country."

Helms indicated later he was referring to former President John F. Kennedy. The North Carolinian also asked if supporters of the holiday could "be serious about virtually shutting down this country for yet another holiday each year? Have they considered what it will cost in terms of money and taxes and jobs?"

And Helms spoke of "an atmosphere of pressure, intimidation, even threats that if senators do not vote for this bill, all sorts of unhappy things will happen next year. I, for one, am not going to knuckle under to such intimidation, and I hope other senators will not."

Baker said civil rights opponents of past years would support the bill, and his prediction was borne out when Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., made a floor speech in favor of the bill.

Unions must be much more flexible

Ben Fischer, director of Carnegie-Mellon University's Center for Labor Studies, claims unions are going to have to be far more flexible to truly serve the best interests of their members. They can no longer retain the attitude, "We fought and bled for this; therefore, we've got to keep it."

Unions have tremendous amounts of pension money invested in companies and if labor costs kill profitability in those companies, union retirees will suffer. Today's economic realities are exploding some of labor's treasured tenets and mandating a new cooperative relationship.

The adversarial mentality will die hard. For example, one anonymous, striking worker at a Pennsylvania brewery said, "There would be a Masada (mass suicide) before there would be an Auschwitz (concentration camp)." Many traditionalists prefer to kill companies and their jobs, before making any adjustments to economic conditions, no matter how justified.

Fischer claimed labor would have to assume more management responsibilities. It would be safer to say laborers must expand their understanding of management's responsibilities. They must see the value of profit, free enterprise and the mechanics of capitalism. Laborers do not necessarily make good managers. Improved communications or democratization of our industrial-business structures may be in order, but the human and legal rights of proprietorship should not be destroyed.

Union flexibility doesn't necessarily result in a retreat to exploitive sweat shops. Good negotiators know how to give and take, adapt to shifting economic conditions, when to bet, bluff or fold. Compromise doesn't mean one-way concession.

But flexibility cannot be achieved during self-imposed blindness. For example, many union leaders refuse to look at a company's books if they believe the facts will dictate a change in shop rules, wages or benefits.

So knowledge lies at the base of adaptation. If labor can learn new tricks, it can survive.

"Til divorce do us part"

The prenuptial contract is getting more and more prevalent, as the divorce rate rises in the country. Since getting married in many cases is not one of those things you do forever, lawyers are advising their clients to make out a contract, specifying who gets what, when loves flies out the window and recrimination knocks down the door.

I was the best man at a prenuptial legal contract ceremony the other day. The groom to be, Horace Pipeline, was attended by the famed divorce lawyer Roy Bone, and the bride-to-be, the lovely Grace Willow, was being given away by Stephanie Tuff of the firm Rock, Sock & Needham.

The bride and groom sat in the love seat in Mr. Bone's palatial office, which for the occasion, had been decorated with magnolias and white roses.

Mr. Bone, reading from a yellow legal pad, said, "Dearly beloved, we are gathered here today to bring this man and this woman together in a happy prenuptial contract, spelling out the property claims of both parties in case, for reasons we shall not go into here, this marriage is broken asunder. Do you, Horace Pipeline, agree that, in case you do not choose to continue in wedlock, you will bestow on your lovely bride a lump sum equal to 5 percent of your present assets, excluding your boat, your penthouse, and your house in Southampton?"

"Wait a minute," said Miss Tuff.

"Who said anything about a lump sum, and who said anything about excluding Mr. Pipeline's boat, penthouse and home in Southampton? My client, under law, is entitled to 50 percent of all of her husband's property. But we don't want to be greedy about this. We'll settle for $10,000 a month until she gets married again."

"Alimony is out of the question," Mr. Bone said. "I cannot permit my client to enter the sacred institution of matrimony unless he can get out of it by paying off a lump sum at the dissolution of the marriage. How can we be sure when and if Miss Willow will get married again?"

"How do you feel about it, Grace?" Miss Tuff asked.

"I love Horace very much and if he wants to provide me with a lump sum, I don't have any objection. But I want to know what numbers we're talking about before I say 'I do.'"

Mr. Bone smiled, "You're a very reasonable young lady. Would $500,000 satisfy you?"

"Miss Tuff said, 'No, it wouldn't. Roy, and you know before we came here we researched Horace's assets down to the last nickel. Now let's be serious or call off this prenuptial legal contract ceremony right now.'"

Mr. Bone scowled, "As Horace's lawyer I can't go over $500,000, but if he wants to be more generous I'll leave it to him. Horace, what do you think?"

"Grace is the only woman I've ever loved," Horace said. "I can't imagine anything but death parting us. But just in case something did happen, I'm willing to give her a cool million — the same as I gave my second wife."

Miss Tuff said, "Horace's second wife was much older than Grace, and the million he settled on her was before inflation set in. We want one million five and the house in Southampton."

"Out of the question," Mr. Bone said angrily. "These people hope to live happily ever after. My client would not have a day of happiness if he knew it would cost him a million five plus the house in Southampton to get out of the marriage."

Miss Tuff said, "How do you think my client would feel if she knew she could be tossed out in the street for a lousy million dollars?"

Grace became upset. "This talk is so sordid it's destroying our love for each other. I'll take the million, two hundred thousand and the penthouse in New York. But that's the bottom line."

Horace said, "Don't be angry, darling. You're asking for more than I planned to give you, but I want you to be happy. Give it to her, Roy, providing we have it in writing that she doesn't go to court and try to sock it to me for anything else."

"All right, Horace, it's your money. I'll have this typed up while we open a bottle of champagne and drink a toast to the happy couple. Please excuse my tears. Prenuptial marriage contract ceremonies always make me cry."

Neighbor is miserable

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a neighbor who is one of the most miserable people I have ever met, although she doesn't have any more problems than lots of other people I know. She claims to be a Christian, but do you think she really could be a Christian and still be so miserable? — Mrs. T.W.C.

DEAR MRS. T.W.C.: Only God knows if she is truly a Christian, of course, and it is not our place to judge about that. But it is clear that if she is a Christian something is wrong, because a Christian who is truly living close to God will have an inner joy and peace that will be obvious to others. "But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace..." (Galatians 5:22).

There may be various reasons for your neighbor's problem. Perhaps she has difficulties and circumstances that others do not know about which weigh her down. Or she may be one of those persons who constantly worries about the future — some people seem to have that kind of personality. However, it could also be that she is miserable because she has left God out of her life and is consciously running from him. When we are running from God we will never know lasting peace and joy in our hearts.

Whatever the reasons for her attitude, I hope you will pray for her and ask God to use you in her life. Point her to the encouragement of God's promises in the Bible, and urge her to give her life to Jesus Christ without reserve. If she is constantly worrying about some problem she faces or about the future, help her to see that she can trust the future to Christ. "Cast all your anxiety on him because he cares for you" (1 Peter 5:7). If she has sinned against God and is running from him, there is no shortcut to true peace. She needs to face her sin, repent it and turn to Christ for forgiveness before lasting peace will come.

The biggest problem we all have when we face life's problems — not just your neighbor but all of us — is that we concentrate on the problem rather than on Christ. He is far bigger than our problems, however, and we need constantly to look to him and trust him, whatever the circumstances might be.

Around the Rim

By CAROL HART BALDWIN

Big move

Living is composed of a million different parts. You realize this when you begin moving all those little parts from one residence to another. I've always found packing for a two-day vacation traumatic enough. But a recent move from one location to another proved to be a draining experience.

Kids who can't wait to get out from under their family's wings and into their own apartment are in for a shock when they finally start making it on their own. I'm not talking about paying the rent, although that can be shock enough. I'm talking about the little, everyday things that most people never think about until they reach for it and it's not there.

Things like tissue paper and salt and pepper and ketchup and paper towels and detergent and clothes pins and hangers and brooms and vacuum cleaners and bags for vacuum cleaners and light bulbs and nails and hammers and the list goes on and on.

Somehow, when you're living at home and dreaming of being on your own, you never waste much thought on the everyday, boring essentials of life. Living on your own evokes thoughts of parties and doing as you please and staying out as late as you like. A chance to buy a mop so you can mop your own kitchen floor is certainly not the number one reason kids leave home.

But, alas, these little everyday essentials of life become very important when they are packed away in some crate and you have no idea where to find them. Take for example, a makeshift dinner in a new residence. You may find it romantic to eat on a box if you don't have a dining room table yet, but if you can't find the salt and ketchup for the french fries, you might as well forget the whole evening.

As I prepared to move, I packed away all these little items in boxes and sacks. It's a good thing I wasn't moving across the country, because if I'd had to pay to pack all those little items, I'd never have been able to afford the move.

I also discovered how these little essentials, when lumped together, become monumental mountains of debris. But it's hard to part with anything when you're moving or just cleaning house. After all, you might need that broken nail file someday, perhaps to serve as a makeshift screwdriver. And you will need to keep that restaurant style package of sugar, in case you forget to go to the market someday then settle down some evening for a glass of tea, only to find no sugar in the house.

People who are dreaming of being on their own go through magazines and ooh and aah over beautiful living room furniture and bedroom suites. But the rest of us know that the really important things in life are the light bulbs you can't remember where you've packed as you're standing there in the dark.

Without their help and participation, the show would not have been the success that it was as there were nearly twice as many entries compared to last year.

We would also like to thank the Big Spring Herald, KBYG Radio, and KBST Radio for their excellent coverage of the event.

Once again, thank you, one and all.

House members earn law fees

WASHINGTON — In return for their government pay, members of Congress are expected to serve the public interest. But some legislators do their most effective work for the private interests of their law clients.

And thanks to lawyer-client confidentiality, the legal moonlighting is done behind the backs of the voters.

The Senate has effectively prohibited its members from practicing law on the side, but the House leaves it largely up to the individual — subject to a rule limiting outside earnings to 30 percent of the member's salary. This amounts to a maximum of $20,800 for veteran congressmen.

My reporters Susan Benesch and Jock Hatfield checked the financial records of 10 veteran House members who reported earnings from legal practice last year. Most of them insisted they do only "little things" for their clients. They saw no conflict of interest, therefore, between their public and private activities. You decide:

— Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., earned $13,277 from his Bronx law firm last year. The firm represents at least eight union locals at the same time that Biaggi sits on the Education and Labor Committee. A spokesman for the congressman refused to discuss Biaggi's legal fees.

— Rep. Michael Oxley, R-Ohio, earned $7,500 in 1982 from his "family firm." The firm's clients include IBM, Ohio Bank and Savings Co. and no less than 16 insurance companies. This year, Oxley became a member of the Telecommunications, Consumer Protection and Finance subcommittee, which handles legislation important to his firm's clients.

Oxley played down his association with the law firm, saying he is "of counsel" and gives advice only when asked. The American Bar Association, however, says the term "of counsel" implies "a close, regular, personal relationship" with a law firm.

— Rep. Frank Guarini, D-N.J., earned $17,800 in "administrative pay" for managing his six-member law firm, which specializes in real estate and corporate law cases. Guarini is on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee. He doesn't think his political position has brought his firm any clients.

— Rep. Steny Hoyer, D-Md., made $8,825 representing individual clients in 1982. He insists his official position has no effect on the outcome of court cases. But a plaintiff who lost a small claims case to a Hoyer client wrote to complain that a congressman's place is in the House, not in the courtroom.

— Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., made $9,000 as a partner in his Miami law firm. He said the money was his cut of the firm's earnings and did not come from his participation in specific cases.

— Rep. E. Clay Shaw Jr., R-Fla., drew $7,000 from the law firm that lists him "of counsel." The firm represents Cavico-Alamo Aircraft Sales and the City of Parkland, Fla., among other clients. Shaw is on the Public Works and Transportation Committee.

— Other House members who earned legal fees in 1982 include Jerry Patterson, D-Calif., $4,000; David O'Brien Martin, R-N.Y., $3,450 and William Dannemeyer, R-Calif., $1,540.

Ferdinand S. Germain, D-R.I., thought his legal practice was none of the taxpayer's business. He refused to disclose any details of his law practice. St Germain, who is chairman of the banking committee, earned $7,000 in legal fees last year.

BLUNDER OF THE WEEK — How do you lose 10 Sidewinder missile warheads? The anti-aircraft warheads were found in a private warehouse in New Jersey, and nobody knows how they got there.

The Commerce Department, which is supposed to keep track of military shipments overseas, passed the buck to the Pentagon. The military denied any knowledge of the warheads, though the Army did ascertain that they were non-explosive dummies intended for training use.

After much checking, it turned out that the missile warheads belonged to the Royal Saudi Air Force. They apparently had been misplaced enroute to Saudi Arabia by a private shipper. The Saudis, understandably reluctant to trust the American shipping firm again, then chartered a plane to pick the warheads up.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES — Atlanta Mayor and former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young has a new sideline: male modeling. In one recent full-color magazine ad, Young stands smiling before the city seal, extolling the virtues of Light hair conditioner. "Until a few months ago, one of my biggest problems was how to keep my hair soft without it being greasy," Young is quoted as saying. "Then I saw the Light." A spokesman said Young donated the $10,000 modeling fee to various causes, including the Martin Luther King Foundation.

Officials in Foggy Bottom are beginning to wonder about our embassy in Manila. It has remained sympathetic to President Ferdinand Marcos incredulously at a time when he is losing most other support. But what really raised eyebrows at the State Department was the embassy's response to a tip from Washington that the gunman who assassinated opposition leader Benigno Aquino may have been a member of the Marcos security force at one time. The embassy replied that it had heard the rumor weeks earlier but didn't know what to do with it, so just sat on the information.

Senator lectures in lion's den

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — Daniel couldn't have found a friendlier lion's den than Sen. Edward M. Kennedy encountered at Moral Majority leader Jerry Falwell's Liberty Baptist College.

When Kennedy, probably America's most recognizable liberal, accepted an invitation to speak to Falwell's apostles of the New Right, people in both camps expected at least a minor earthquake Monday night in the Shenandoah Valley.

Not even a tremor. Instead, a full house of about 4,000 students and 1,500 townspeople saw an outspoken guest lecturer defend positions they regarded as wrong-headed if not sinful — and they applauded.

"I was surprised at the applause," said Barbara Sharp, a student from Ohio, "especially when he talked about things like the Equal Rights Amendment and the nuclear freeze. But what I was proud of was how politely our student body behaved."

That also surprised at least one aide to the Democrat from Massachusetts.

"We were expecting some pretty hostile questions on things like abortion, gay rights, issues we consider peripheral," said Kennedy staffer Bob Shrum. "But they stuck to things of more substance, the nuclear freeze, MX missiles, the United Nations."

The pleasant evening began before the speech, when Kennedy and his party dined at the Falwell's lovely old home in the mountains.

They had cheese and crackers at poolside on a soft Indian summer evening, then moved indoors for beef Wellington, asparagus, potatoes and strawberry pie. Falwell said grace. The drinks were iced tea and coffee. There were no ashtrays in evidence.

During dinner, the senator and the preacher discussed speech-making, agreeing that 25 minutes was the limit — Kennedy eventually violated that by 3 minutes. They also discussed the hazards of speech-making, such as being heckled, and agreed that the University of Wisconsin had been troublesome for both in that regard.

The students had begun to gather in the campus quadrangle beneath an enormous American flag on a soaring silver pole about an hour before the speech, chatting about what questions they might ask if they got the chance.

During the preceding week, the Conservative Youth Organization, a politically active group, had posted flyers on campus bulletin boards quoting Falwell's and Kennedy's diametrically opposed views on various issues, suggesting topics for questions.

"I don't see any reason why our questions would get ugly though," said Bob Rust, a student from Oklahoma.

"We know where we stand. We know where he stands. But it will be great to hear him say his beliefs out of his own mouth. Most of us are pretty excited about it."

That was apparent. They stood and clapped when Kennedy entered the hall, a cavernous building used mostly for chapel services. They stood and clapped when he left.

They clapped for the senator's sister, Jean Smith, and his daughter, Kara, when they were introduced and clapped politely, at times enthusiastically, a dozen times during his speech.

They applauded him again at a reception after the speech, discussing the night's events over chocolate cake and fruit punch.

Kennedy lectured them in schoolmasterly tones about the virtue of tolerance and balance in matters of public policy and private conscience.

He defended a proposed nuclear freeze and opposed constitutional amendments on abortion and school prayer, and called for a strict separation of church and state and for religious tolerance.

"We must never judge the fitness of individuals to govern on the basis of where they worship, whether they follow Christ or Moses, whether they are called 'born again' or 'ungodly,'" Kennedy said. They were a fresh-looking, well-scrubbed audience, wearing sweaters and skirts and jackets and ties. Beards and jeans were scarce. They listened attentively, even studiously.

Before leaving, Kennedy presented Mrs. Falwell with a signed copy of his mother's book and gave the reverend a boxed set of the public papers of President

John F. Kennedy.

"I have the feeling that he and I will be just as outspoken in our denunciation of each other," Falwell said later. "But I think we like each other better."

"He's a liberal on most issues and I'm a conservative and no amount of dinner will change that."

It was unlikely that Kennedy made any converts among the Liberty College student body, a fact which he acknowledged.

"Since I am not a presidential candidate," he told one student questioner, "it would certainly be superfluous for me to ask for your support in this election," he added "and probably inaccurate for me to thank you for it in the last one."

The audience laughed. If Kennedy could not persuade them, he apparently could charm them.

The greatest gift you can give a bedwetter and the rest of the family, too, is an end to this serious problem, and make no mistake, bedwetting is serious. Price of gold tumbles below $400 an ounce

NEW YORK (AP) — The price of gold tumbled below $400 an ounce Monday, its lowest level in a year, after having languished between $400 and $450 an ounce for seven months.

The decline was the first pronounced move in gold since bullion plummeted $100 an ounce in February.

Analysts attributed Monday's slide to several factors, including a brightened outlook for restrained inflation, slack demand for bullion worldwide and concern that debtor nations might sell gold reserves to help pay their bills.

Portugal, for example, recently sold 50 tons of gold to pay back two loans granted the government by the Bank of International Settlements.

In London trading, gold fell to $391 a troy ounce Monday from $406.50 late Friday — the first time it has fallen below $400 since it closed at $390.50 on Oct. 5, 1982. In Zurich, gold fell $14 from Friday, closing at $392.25.

In New York trading, gold for current delivery on the Commodity Exchange was off $10.90 an ounce from Friday, to $391 at midday Monday.

By June 1982, gold had skidded below $300 an ounce, rising last winter above $500.

George Leatham, who has 20 years experience as a mechanic, works in the shop, along with Randall Overby and Gene Joplin. Mary Leatham runs the office, answering the telephone and handling the bookkeeping. And 11-month-old Sydney Leatham greets visitors from her playpen.

At this garage you can enjoy the unique experience of talking with the mechanic who actually does the work on your car.

Dear Abby

Wearing furs rubs reader wrong way

DEAR ABBY: You will undoubtedly get a lot of flak for your advice to "Torn," the woman who inherited some beautiful furs but whose husband (an animal lover) didn't want her to wear them.

Well, I applaud you for telling her to sell the furs and give the money to her local animal shelter. In today's world of man-made furs and overheated buildings, there is no need for anyone to drape herself in killed creatures.

Every animal shelter I've ever known about needs every cent it can get, so I think your solution to "Torn's" problem was most thoughtful and caring. And three cheers for her husband!

MARGARET SPENCER
DEAR MARGARET: Thanks. I needed that. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I'm an animal lover, but I was amazed at your answer to "Torn." Her husband objected to her wearing furs because "it makes him both sad and furious when he thinks of the way the animals died." And you called him "caring and sensitive." Bull! How would you have wild animals die? At the vet's?

The Bible gave man dominance over animals, birds and fish. They are God's gifts to man — created for us to use. Naturally, we should treat them humanely, and we should protect endangered species. But to refuse to wear animal skins isn't animal love, it's animal worship. Pagans worship animals.

An animal's life consists of hunting, fighting and mating. It's not going to Harvard Business School. When it's old enough, shoot it or trap it as humanely as possible, and wear its fur in good health.

The alternative is for the animal to grow old and weak and get torn apart by younger and stronger animals until its beautiful fur is nothing but tattered tufts in the jungle! How's that for a way to die?

NOT A HUNTER

DEAR ABBY: this is my first "Dear Abby" letter, although this has been on my mind for a long time. I have a beautiful, intelligent, 23-year-old, college-educated niece who has never had a date in her life. Men are attracted to her, but they quickly lose interest because she takes no pride in her appearance. She has a wonderful figure but she doesn't care how she looks. She wears any old thing, no makeup and does nothing with her lovely blond hair. Her only social life is doing something with "the girls." It's a shame.

I know looks are everything, but even the plainest girl can make herself more attractive with the right clothes, a hairdo and a touch of lip gloss.

I've tried to get her to spruce herself up, and so have other members of the family, but to no avail. I don't want to be a "buttnsky," but I hope you print this because she reads you faithfully and it might help. I love her dearly and want her to be happy.

A LOVING AUNT

DEAR AUNT: Maybe she is happy. If you, and other members of the family, have tried unsuccessfully to spruce her up, it's possible that she is content just as she is. I know you mean well, but unsolicited advice is seldom appreciated. Butt out, Auntie.

Dr. Donohue

Trouble taking medicine

Dear Dr. Donohue: We're taking care of our dear grandmother who is bedbound after having suffered a stroke. She is such a dear and is no trouble for us at all. But when I have to give her medicine (pills) I suffer with her. She has such a tough time swallowing the pills. Isn't there a way to help her? — Granddaughter

I don't want to read into your question things I shouldn't. If I understand you correctly, your grandmother's swallowing problem has nothing to do with damage done by her stroke, that her swallowing muscles are OK, but she just has a hard time getting her pills down. Right?

I can give you a few pointers, given that setting. First of all, try having her take her medicine in an upright posture. Taking pills while reclining, sometimes even slightly, can be next to impossible for some. The pills get hung up in the esophagus. And make sure she gets enough water or other liquid with each pill. She'll need at least three ounces. Less than that amount slows down the passage of the pill to the stomach and increases the swallowing difficulty.

Now if her difficulty arises from a disturbance of her swallowing muscles, you have to take the matter up with her physician. Forcing fluids or solids may cause her a real problem, for example swallowing the material into the lungs. Some of her medicine may be the kind available in liquid as well as solid form, and you might discuss this with the doctor as well.

Dear Dr. Donohue: It they are going to draw fluid out of a joint for a person suspected of having rheumatoid arthritis, which of the painful joints do they use? — Mrs. R.K.

Just about any swollen joint may be used. However, all things being equal, the knee is favored because it is most easily entered by a needle.

Herpes may be killing the sexual revolution, but having it doesn't mean the end of your life. Or the end of your sex life. In his new booklet, Dr. Paul Donohue separates the truth from the fiction about this controversial health problem.

For your copy of "Herpes: Don't Panic," send one dollar and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Ms. Murphy joins Planned Parenthood staff

Dianne Murphy, lifetime resident of Big Spring, joined the staff of Planned Parenthood of the Permian Basin in August. As the family planning specialist for the Big Spring Planned Parenthood Clinic, located at 709 Johnson, she both manages the daily operation of the clinic and counsels clients regarding their family planning needs.

Prior to joining Planned Parenthood, Ms. Murphy has worked for First National Bank of Midland and Big Spring State Hospital. She graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. "I will make sure that hours are regular and convenient for people," Ms. Murphy said. The clinic is opened Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Recent landscaping and remodeling changes also make Planned Parenthood a pleasant place to visit, she said. Services offered daily at Planned Parenthood include pregnancy tests, birth control refills and information. Physical examinations for women, including a pap smear, are available once or twice a week when a nurse practitioner comes from the Planned Parenthood of Permian Basin headquarters in Odessa. When Planned Parenthood has clinic, Ms. Murphy said she gives counseling in birth control methods and pregnancy. Clients are charged only what they can afford, Ms. Murphy said. The cost for all services is determined by a sliding fee scale, considering a client's income and number of people in the household. Ms. Murphy is planning to teach a mother-daughter class beginning in November. The class will be for girls between the ages of 8-13 and their mothers. It will deal with opening up communications between mothers and daughters. Planned Parenthood of the Permian Basin, a non-profit organization, provides family planning services and educational programs throughout a 17-county area and offers clinics in eight cities. These cities are Big Spring, Odessa, Midland, Lamesa, Seminole, Monahans, Pecos and Fort Stockton. Information about the local clinic can be obtained by calling 263-8351.

Philly's 'Wheeze Kids' take on Dodgers' lineup full of youth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Manager Tom Lasorda, proud of the accomplishments of the younger members of his Los Angeles Dodgers, is nevertheless turning to a veteran for tonight's opening game of the National League Championship Series against the Philadelphia Phillies.

With 300-game winner Steve Carlton starting for the East Division champion Phillies against the Dodgers' Jerry Reuss, Lasorda said he would use veteran Derrel Thomas in the outfield for LA.

Mike Marshall, the Dodger right fielder virtually all season, shifts to first base and rookie Greg Brock, a left-handed hitter, sits against southpaw Carlton.

Thomas, a 32-year-old handyman, batted .249 in 118 games this season. Brock got off to a fast start, then struggled in the second half of the season and batted only .224.

But Lasorda doesn't want the move misunderstood. He is excited about this West Divi-

Howe turned into a season-long dilemma. It was not a simple season for the manager.

"This game drives some managers to drink," Lasorda noted. "This year drove me to quit."

Despite the difficult summer, the Dodgers had one soft touch all season long. That was the Phillies, who lost 11 of 12 games to Los Angeles.

"It wasn't only the Dodgers," said Pete Rose, who will return to first base for the Phillies in this series. "We played bad against all the West clubs. We had the worst record in our division against the West teams."

The Phils were 30-42 against the West, 4-14 on their two tours of California and 0-6 in Dodger Stadium. Third baseman Mike Schmidt, who led the major leagues in home runs for the sixth time, slammng 40, says all those losses mean nothing now.

"It's pride and professionalism," he said. "This is the League Championship Series. What happened before doesn't matter now."

This is the third time in the last seven years that Los Angeles and Philadelphia have been paired in the playoffs. The Dodgers prevailed in four games in both 1977 and 1978, moving on to lose the World Series each time against the New York Yankees. Philadelphia won the East and, eventually, the World Series in 1980 and the Dodgers captured the West and the Series in 1981.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. CDT

Huskers sweep ballots

By The Associated Press
Alabama and North Carolina have replaced Arizona and Iowa as the main challengers to Nebraska and Texas in the Associated Press college football poll.

For the second week in a row, Nebraska is a unanimous choice as the nation's top team, while Texas is No. 2 for the third week in a row.

Following a 63-7 pasting of Syracuse that gave them a 5-0 record, during which they have outscored the opposition 289-56, the Nebraska Cornhuskers again received all 60 first-place votes and a perfect score of 1,200 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters in this week's AP poll. Texas, a 42-6 winner over Rice, received 58 second-place votes and two thirds for 1,138 points, the same total as last week.

However, Arizona and Iowa slipped from the 3-4 positions. Arizona, which blew a 26-3 lead and settled for a 33-33 tie with California, dropped from third place to 10th, while Iowa was shelled 33-0 by Illinois and skidded from fourth to 15th.

Oklahoma went from ninth to eighth with 754 points by beating Kansas State 29-10. Florida shot from 12th to ninth with 687 points by trimming LSU 31-17 — the setback dropped the Tigers out of the rankings — and Arizona was 10th with 680 points.

4-5A retains 3 teams in top 10

By The Associated Press
The top-ranked teams in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll left little doubt on the field or at the ballot box that they are in control of their divisions.

Converse Judson in Class 5A, Fort Bend Willowridge in 4A, Littlefield in 3A, Groveton in 2A and Bremond in A all held their No. 1 ranks this week following im big victories last weekend.

The five top-ranked teams yielded a combined 12 points with Judson, Groveton and Bremond scoring shutout victories.

Judson blasted San Antonio MacArthur 50-0 and gained 15 first place votes in the latests balloting by the AP's panel of sports writers and sportscasters. Highland Park remained in the runnerup position with one first-place vote.

Seventh-ranked Midland Lee was the lone loser among the 5A ranks, taking a 14-9 loss to fifth ranked San Angelo Central. Despite the loss, Lee remained in the list as the No.

10 team.

Willowridge, rested after an open date, clubbed Magnolia 65-6 and returned to a unanimous status with all 20 first place votes cast this week.

New Braunfels defeated New Braunfels Canyon 24-14 and remained the strong No. 2 pick.

McKinney, ranked No. 8 in 4A last week, lost for the second time and dropped out of the rankings and was replaced in the No. 10 spot by El Campo, 5-0. Allen nipped McKinney 10-8 last week while El Campo was defeating Santa Fe 40-7.

Waxahachie, ranked sixth last week and No. 10 Corsicana played to a 7-7 tie, but remained in the poll as the seventh- and ninth-rated teams.

Littlefield defeated Floydada 31-6 to hold the top position in Class 3A by a 186-172 points margin over No. 2 Navasota. Littlefield received 14 first place votes to four for Navasota.

No. 10 Bellville was defeated 28-7 by Brookshire Royal and dropped out of the top 10. Port Arthur Austin, which has allowed only 20 points in five games, moved into the No. 10 position.

Groveton blanked Garrison 54-0 and widened its lead over second place Panhandle, which shut out White Deer 57-0 in the race for 2A supremacy.

Groveton received 14 first place votes to five for Panhandle and took a 193-177 point lead.

Hawkins and Kerens, ranked sixth and seventh last week, dropped out of the top 10 after losses and were replaced by No. 9 Morton and No. 10 Farmersville.

Farmersville, 5-0-0, defeated Van Alstyne 44-7 last week and has yielded only 13 points in five game, a 2.6 per game average.

Class A was the only classification to escape upsets beginning with Bremond, which shut out Dawson 27-0 and No. 2 Wink, which blasted Balmorhea 63-0.

sion title, won in a year when the Dodgers were supposed to be rebuilding.

"The headline in the paper the other day said it all," he said. "They were boys in April. They are men in October."

"We're proud of this year's accomplishments. We stayed with the kids. At times, it was a battle. I looked up one day in Atlanta and we had seven guys in the lineup who were kids. I told our coaches in spring training that we'd have to do a lot of teaching this year and be more patient because of the limited experience."

Gone from the Dodgers this year were fixtures like third baseman Ron Cey and first baseman Steve Garvey. Pedro Guerrero was shifted from right field to third base and Marshall inherited his old outfield post. Brock took over at first base. The continuing off-the-field problems of reliever Steve

Orioles, Sox open Wednesday

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Happy Birthday, Tony. What would you like?"

A three-game sweep, thank you." Tony LaRussa, manager of the Chicago White Sox, celebrated his 39th birthday today but the present he wants most is the American League pennant.

To get it, his high-riding White Sox have to eliminate the Baltimore Orioles in their best-of-five American League Championship Series, which opens Wednesday afternoon in Memorial Stadium.

Game No. 2 will be played Thursday night before the series shifts to Chicago Friday night. If a fourth game is needed, it will be played Saturday afternoon, and game No. 5 is slated for Sunday night in Comiskey Park.

"On paper it looks like a great series," said LaRussa. "But I hope it turns lopsided and we win it in three."

Since the major leagues went to championship series format back in 1969, seldom have two teams appeared more evenly matched than the White Sox and the Orioles.

Pitching, defense and power are the ingredients needed for winning baseball games, and both teams have their share as indicated by their records.

The White Sox finished with the best record in baseball at 99-63 and Baltimore was only a shade behind at 98-64.

Topping the White Sox pitching staff are LaMarr Hoyt, 24-10; Richard Dotson, 22-7, and Floyd Banister, 16-10. If LaRussa goes four deep, he will turn to Britt Burns, 10-11.

Baltimore Manager Joe Altobelli has Scott

McGregor, 18-7; Mike Boddicker, 16-8, and Mike Flanagan. If he has to go to No. 4, it could be Storm Davis, 13-7.

Davis is a "could be" because of a crick in his neck and if he's not ready, Altobelli indicated he might go to veteran Jim Palmer, 5-4, who recently pitched well against New York.

AL Playoffs

"We'll see how he feels on Tuesday," said Altobelli, "that'll determine whether he's in our playoff rotation. I'm not going to risk his future for one playoff game."

If there is a pitching edge beyond the starting rotation, it goes to the Orioles because of Tippy Martinez, who had a 9-3 record and 21 saves.

But LaRussa points out that the White Sox as a team had 48 saves, the second highest number in the league.

Dennis Lamp, who went into the bullpen shortly after the White Sox turned things around late in May, leads the team with 15 saves. Salome Barojas is next with 12.

Four Big Spring High football players have been honored by head coach Quinn Eudy and his staff this week.

The "Top Steer" award as the top defensive player in Friday night's 38-33 loss to Midland was senior strong safety Robert Porras. Combating the Bulldogs' highly-regarded passing attack and under-rated running game, Porras reached double figures in solo tackles and was part of a secondary that held MHS quarterback James Welborn to his season low in passing.

Mike McKinley, another senior, won the "Hawk" award as the top performer in the secondary. The Steer linebacker had to drop back in special pass defenses to cover Welborn's receivers and graded highly for his effort.

Dale Crenshaw, an all-district choice as a junior, had his best night as a varsity player, catching six passes for 151 yards and two touchdowns. One of those was a 57-yard bomb on fourth down that set up

Big Spring's final touchdown. Junior Doug Walker, playing on both the offensive and defensive line, won the "Conan" award as the game's outstanding lineman.

No "Bullet" award was made for special teams play this week.

The five awards are made every week by the Steers coaching staff after grading the film of the previous week's game.

Two seniors were honored as Student Trainer-Manager of the Week by head trainer Everett Blackburn. Honored were Jimmy Brown and Leon Barraza. Brown worked the sideline phones, halftime security of the bench area and volunteered to work the sophomore and junior varsity games in Midland. Barraza prepared the locker-room for pre-game and halftime needs and assisted Blackburn in Saturday morning injury treatments.

Big Spring travels to Odessa, High Friday night for its third 4-5A game in Ratliff Stadium.

Jets bomb error-prone Buffalo, 34-10

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Even at less than 100 percent, Bruce Harper was more than enough for the Buffalo Bills to handle.

Harper, replacing the injured Freeman McNeil in the New York Jets backfield, squeezed 118 yards out of only nine carries as the Jets stuffed the Bills 34-10 Monday night.

His 11-yard touchdown pass from Richard Todd gave the Jets a 7-0 lead the second period, and they eventually built a 17-0 lead.

It was the first 100-yard game in the seven-year running back's pro career, and it was accomplished despite it being only his second game back following a knee injury.

"If we keep winning like this, I'll play at whatever percentage I'm at," he said.

While Harper's fine effort in replacing McNeil keyed the Jet offense, it was the recently maligned Jet defensive line that probably won the game for New York.

Mark Gastineau, Marty Lyons, Joe Klecko and Kenny Neil, the front four of a defense ranked last in the league against the rush coming into the game, allowed the Bills only 65 yards on the ground.

The Jets held Joe Cribbs, who had a career-high 166 yards the week before against Houston, to only 28 yards on 13 carries.

Gastineau, whose post-sack dance precipitated a fight last week against the Los Angeles Rams, danced three more times Monday, one more time than he had so far all season.

Gastineau also scored on a 1-yard return following his recovery of a fumble by Cribbs in the third period.

"It was fortunate for me," he said of his performance, which garnered him a game ball. "It came at a great time."

"Klecko and Lyons were stopping the run," he said. "They had everything up the middle, while Neil and I pinched in from the outside."

Todd, who was 20-31 for 221 yards, added a second scoring toss when he connected with Johnny Hector from 22 yards out in the fourth period.

Scott Dierking had the other Jet TD on a 1-yard run in the closing period. Pat Leahy kicked field goal of 19 and 32 yards.

Matt Koffler hit Cribbs with a 12-yard pass in the fourth period for Buffalo's only touchdown, and Joe Danelo booted a 38-yard field goal.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusually good day and evening to wind up matters already put in motion and to clear the deck for action while at the same time thinking about just what you can do to be more successful.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over any agreements you feel should be changed with the right parties. Get right results. A compromise is best.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make appointments for entertainments for the near future then handle your work most efficiently. Be cooperative.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Fine day for perfecting your particular talents and bringing them to the attention of bigwigs who can assist you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Talk over with family members how you want the future to trend and come to a fine agreement.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Show pals you agree with their ideas and gain favor. Make sure you drive most carefully and avoid possible accidents.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Finances are uppermost on your mind and it would be well to consult with experts for good advice. Then full speed ahead on your ideas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) First take the treatments that you need in order to be at your best. Be more sure of yourself at the wheel.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Gain advice you need from a good pal and then consult also with experts who can give you good ideas.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Use both standard and new methods for best results in your endeavors. Be happy at home tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find right way to gain more prestige and build up your credit. The social side of life is fine in the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) The planetary aspects are favorable for extending your interests, so get busy at right activities.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your hunches are good today so follow them in handling certain obligations and you know exactly what to do.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young persons who will have a very precise mind and way of doing things and should have as fine an education as possible, but during adult life will be more concerned psychology.

Singer's legacy hits sour note

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A decade after pop singer Jim Croce died in a plane crash, all that remains of his fortune are bitterness and a dozen lawsuits over his music, his widow says.

"There were millions when Jim died, but there aren't even hundreds of thousands now.... There's not much of anything now," Ingrid Croce said in a recent interview.

The Croces' grand estate overlooking San Diego Bay has given way to a rented condominium in Hillcrest which Mrs. Croce, 36, shares with son Adrian James, 11. Legal fees have eaten away most of the money.

Five lawsuits are pending in San Diego Superior Court; others have been filed in Los Angeles. But the biggest is in U.S. District Court in New York, where Mrs. Croce is fighting Lifesong Records for $5 million plus rights to Croce's songs.

Lifesong's managers — producers Tommy West and Terry Cashman and attorney Phil Kurnit — won a round in that suit last year, retaining rights to record such hits as "Operator" and "You Don't Mess Around with Jim." The jury awarded Mrs. Croce $500,000 in back royalties, a decision which is being appealed.

Lifesong's executives have "no compassion, none at all," she charged.

"A lot of saying, 'We love Jimmy a lot,' but Jim died without a penny in his pocket," Mrs. Croce claimed. "All he owned on the day he died was a pair of Levis and a T-shirt. He was waiting for the check in the mail. And he never knew he made it."

However, Kurnit says Croce was paid $7,500 a night in performance fees before he died in the 1973 plane crash near Natchitoches, La.

"We only paid her $5.5 million" after Croce's death, he said. "How much does the woman want?"

Ingrid was 15 when she met Croce at a Philadelphia radio station. She was singing with a folk group; he was judging a competition.

"I had the least intention at 15 of falling in love for the rest of my life," she recalled, "but I looked through the glass and there he was. I think it was fate. I just feel really, really lucky I married him."

They wed when she was 19, made two unsuccessful albums and moved to rural Pennsylvania.

"Jim was everything — everything I'd ever wanted, needed, hoped for.... We had the music and each other and maybe $2,500, and we didn't care. It really was 'Time in a Bottle,'" one of Croce's biggest hits.

In 1971 he recorded several tunes for Lifesong, including "Bad, Bad LeRoy Brown." It became No. 1 in the nation early in 1973, but on Sept. 20, Croce was killed. All his other hits were posthumous.

Despite the court fights, Mrs. Croce says she's surviving without her husband's fortune because "money does strange things to people. It draws the worst kind of slime imaginable."

"There are only two kinds of people in the world anyway — toxic and nourishing," she said. "In my case, the nourishing were kept away by all these sharks hanging around. Only this year have I finally begun to find some of the nourishing. You see, when money goes, the real-life people come in."

Tinseltown comes to Illinois

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP) — Tinseltown met Middle America in this sleepy hamlet, as movie folk painted the grass green and toned down the trim on the courthouse to film "Grandview U.S.A." Neither the filmmakers nor the town's 10,000 residents will ever be the same.

"It's like having a 700-pound gorilla come stay at your house; it may be a lot of fun, but you know he's there," said Ken Hixon, who wrote the screenplay for the movie, billed as a humorous but touching look at growing up in a small Midwestern town.

Filming began a month ago, but the excitement hasn't yet worn off for curious townspeople who have followed the crew from location to location, chatting with star Jamie Lee Curtis and getting autographs from leading man Troy Donahue. The CBS Theatrical Films production, directed by Randal Kleiser, is due to open in theaters next summer.

"We've become entertainment for them," said producer William Blaylock. "They bring lawn chairs, food, thermos bottles. They just love to watch us."

On one recent night, hundreds of spectators waited six hours in the fall chill to see a bulldozer, its growl breaking the late-night silence, rip the side off a house in one wood-splintering second.

As the wall crashed into the yard in a cloud of dust and the water heater tumbled into the grass, the army of filmmakers shouted their satisfaction and the local folks showed their approval with applause.

The face of this town 100 miles southwest of Chicago has seen some changes since Hollywood came to town, some more welcome than others. Film crews have:

- Toned down the red and yellow trim on the town's magnificent 108-year-old courthouse, a key reason the location was chosen.
- Built a 1950s vintage demolition derby track from scratch on a vacant lot, weathered it and piled dozens of old cars next to it.
- Sprayed grass green and replaced fall-colored bushes with green ones to maintain the spring setting of the movie.
- Closed streets, and sometimes the town square, for filming. —Hired more than 1,000 local residents as extras at $30 a day.

—Filmed in the courthouse, a downtown store, nearby Saunemin High School, and several private houses. One is the 62-year-old home of Bob Zimmerman in nearby Fairbury. Crews arrived early and stayed late for two days.

"We just stood behind them and watched," Zimmerman said. "The director would take time out to explain what they were doing. They never made us feel like we were in the way."

The Pontiac Daily Leader has carried pictures and stories nearly every day, and managing editor Gary Holaway said readers still want to know what is going on daily, sometimes calling with ideas for feature stories.

So far, Pontiac residents seem pleased with the movie people, and vice versa.

"It was culture shock when I first arrived, but it becomes your home and now I love it here," Ms. Curtis said. "But the food is a killer — a lot of fried food which has done havoc on my thighs."

Eurythmics take world by storm

LOS ANGELES (AP) — She studied the classics at London's Royal Academy of Music, and he ran off with a band at age 14 and went on to play every kind of music from African to medieval.

But together, as the Eurythmics, Annie Lennox and David Stewart have taken the world by storm with the hit, "Sweet Dreams Are Made of This." They also have a surprising stage show that sizzles with some of the best blue-eyed soul to cross the Atlantic in recent memory.

Make that green-eyed soul. With her huge emerald eyes, iridescent orange crew cut and masculine attire, Miss Lennox looks like a technicolor Grace Jones. But her "get-down" song stylings are reminiscent of Aretha Franklin.

So, how does a nice girl from Aberdeen, Scotland, learn to sing like that?

"When I was 15 and starting to go out with boys, I used to sneak out to dances when I could," she says in a pleasant Scottish burr during a recent tour stop in Los Angeles. "Although I didn't realize it, the music was all Motown — people like Otis Redding, the Supremes. I think I was more influenced by that than by the Beatles."

But it was not until she was past her teens that she seriously took up singing. She spent three years studying flute and piano at the Royal Academy.

"It was a mistake," she says.

Still, her classical training gave her a strong sense of rhythm and harmony which she has put to use with the Eurythmics along with her flute playing.

Compared to Miss Lennox, Stewart had been leading a wild existence. He learned to play guitar at 13 after he was laid up with a knee injury, and at 14 decided it was time to leave his hometown in the north of England.

"I climbed into the back of a van, with all the equipment, after a gig," he says.

From then on, he says, "I was into all sorts of concoctions of music and people and drugs and everything — almost near death sometimes; was twice in the hospital. Got married when I was 17, ran off with this all-girl group when I was 22."

In 1976, after Stewart broke up with a member of the all-girl band, a mutual friend introduced him to Miss Lennox, who was a waitress at the time. Within a year, they were living together and, with another musician, had formed a band called the Tourists.

The Tourists enjoyed modest success in England. But after three years, Stewart and Miss Lennox called it quits. They feared their management was taking advantage of them and they also didn't like performing the tunes written by their partner in what Stewart described as "a very particular kind of 1960s Byrds style."

So they decided to take their affairs — both creative and business — into their own hands.

"We made a manifesto to ourselves about what we were going to do, which was form our own company, own our own studio, get rid of that management company no matter how much it cost and live apart," Stewart said.

The Eurythmics, he said, is actually a "project" of their company, D & A Limited, which operates out of their very own 16th century deconsecrated church within walking distance from their separate north London apartments. They are no longer romantically involved.

The Eurythmics' first album earned them enough money to set up their own studio in a warehouse, and they immediately used it to record a second LP, even though it only had eight-track capacity and most professional studios have at least 16 and sometimes 24 or even 48 tracks.

"Everybody said, 'You're mad, the record company will never accept this,'" Stewart said.
