Fifth Circuit rejects voting suit

By RICK BROWN
Staff Writer

The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has denied a petition filed by three Big Spring residents that would have forced April elections for the mayor and two city councilmen.

City Manager Don Davis said this morning he received word of the denial in a letter from the federal appeals court yesterday. The letter, dated Feb. 23, was signed by Linda St. Pierre, deputy clerk of the court.

A spokeswoman for the court said this morning the judges gave no reason for the denial. "My reaction is the same as before," Davis said, "I'm not really surprised but glad they acted in a timely manner."

Former city councilman Jack Watkins, bail bonds company president Mary Thomas and businessman Bill Chrane filed the writ of mandamus so they could run in elections against the mayor and two council members whose terms of office were extended by the recent voting rights settlement between the city and the League of United Latin American Citizens.

Wayne Burns, attorney for the trio, sent the petition on Feb. 17 to the federal court by express mail. The three would-be candidates had previously filed their petition in the state Court of Appeals in Eastland and the state Supreme Court in Austin but were denied a hearing in both courts.

Burns today was not available for comment.

The settlement, which was approved Sept. 12 by federal judge Hal Woodward in Abilene district court, ostensibly will bring greater minority representation to city government by expanding the council to seven members and providing for city elections from three single-member districts.

The settlement states, "Current Mayor Clyde Angel shall remain in office as mayor until the April 1986 election and current council member Larry Miller shall remain in office as a council member and shall represent District 2 until the April 1986 election. Current council members Jack Y. Smith, Robert Fuller and Russ McEwen shall serve as councilmembers at-large until the April 1985 election."

Since Angel, Miller and Fuller were elected in 1982 for two-year terms, the settlement extends the terms of office of Angel and Miller by two additional years and of Fuller by one more year. The terms of office of Smith and McEwen were not affected by the settlement.

In a prepared statement for the press, Mrs. Thomas said, "From the beginning, in negotiations behind closed doors, the entire incumbent City Council, on the advice of the city attorney and city manager... have hidden behind the skirts of Federal Judges... who do not have to face approval of the people at the polls; and therefore do not hold our right to vote sacred.

"...the city manager, who is not a party to our lawsuit, has become the spokesman for the entire council and appears to happily gloat over the loss of our basic right to vote.

"The higher courts, by refusing relief to us, have placed their implied stamps of approval on Big Spring and all other cities whose elected representatives may decide to extend their own terms of office in agreed settlements of suits such as these.

"We have to live with these decisions — the most recent of which has taken the people out of government in Big Spring, Texas."

Iraq issues warning over Persian Gulf

Jet attack on Iranian oil tankers unverified

By the Associated Press

A high-ranking Iraqi official warned today that Iraqi forces would "destroy" all ships, whatever their nationality, approaching Iran's main oil export terminal at Kharg Island.

The warning by Information Minister Latif Nsayyef Jassem came one day after Iraq said its fighter planes attacked oil tankers anchored near the Persian Gulf island and announced a blockade of the area.

Iraq today denied that the island had been attacked, calling the Iraqi claims "imaginary and without foundation." A shipping agency source in Bahrain, however, said "a number of vessels" — including a British tanker — were hit.

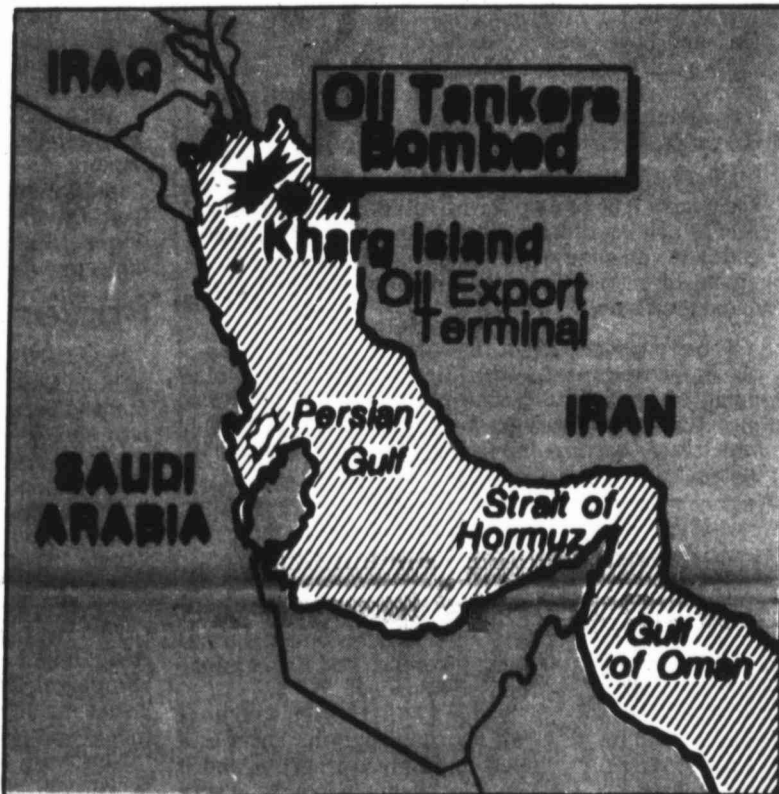

Jassem told a news conference that the Iraqi blockade was "serious and irreversible." Associated Press reporter Mohammed Salam reported from Baghdad.

"Any ship of any nationality or of any company approaching Kharg will be destroyed," Jassem said.

In Washington, Pentagon sources said U.S. reconnaissance found no evidence to back up Iraq's claim of having hit oil tankers near Kharg Island.

"There were no signs of any burning tankers," said one source who spoke on the condition that he not be identified. "If there was an attack, there wasn't any damage so far as we could tell."

The sources declined to say how the United States conducted its surveillance.

Coahoma ballot empty

City elections fail to draw candidates so far

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

COAHOMA — The city has five elected posts up for grabs this year, but no one has said they are interested in running.

With exactly one week left to file as a candidate for the mayor's job and four open alderman positions, would-be city officials are staying in the woodworks. No one has filed for any of the positions, City Secretary Cindy Langston said.

Elections will be April 7; filing deadline is March 7.

If no one files by the deadline, the five places would be listed on a ballot and citizens could write in candidates, according to John Steiner, an official with the elections division of the Texas Secretary of State's office.

"While it's not common, it's happened before," Steiner said. "Everything's happened before."

Two of the positions open are one-year unexpired terms for mayor and one alderman spot. Incumbents Mayor Jim Rackley and Alderman Roy Lee Metcalf were appointed to their position by the council when the positions were vacated.

Also up for election this year are three two-year spots on the city council. The at-large posts are currently held by Wayne Drewery, Billy Sullivan and Ronnie Dodson.

Steve New is the only incumbent who will not face re-election this year.

At past council meetings, members — who have been criticized for instituting a garbage collection fee, for the city's debt and for raising fees — have told the audience to run for their spots.

"I'm tired of being criticized so much. We're trying. You can run for this job," an alderman said.

Others have reminded citizens at the meeting that they are up for re-election and have said they don't want to serve again. City employees say current council members have talked as if they would run again one week, and the next week as if they wouldn't.

Even New, who is not facing re-election, has joked that he ought to resign so all the positions would be up for re-election.

But what if no one voted in the election? According to Steiner, that too has happened in Texas, in a water district election somewhere in Dallas or Tarrant county.

"Nobody was on the ballot, and nobody voted," Steiner said. "The current officeholders were reinstated."

If one of the officeholders wanted to resign, the post would remain vacant unless the other elected city of-

Reagan rides high in Texas

By PHILLIP SWANN
Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Fifty-one percent of Texans plan to vote for President Reagan's re-election while only 33 percent do not, according to a recent telephone survey of Texas voters by Houston Republican pollster Lance Tarrance.

Sixteen percent said they were either undecided or will decide when the Democratic nominee is chosen, according to the survey taken Jan. 16-18 and expected to be released Tuesday.

The survey also showed that 61 percent in Texas approved of Reagan's job performance, his highest rating in the state since taking office, Tarrance said. Thirty percent of those surveyed disapproved of the Reagan presidency.

Despite the high marks, top Reagan campaign strategists interviewed during the past week are cautioning against a premature GOP celebration in the lone star state.

Reagan, they say, will face a tougher challenge in Texas than in 1980 when he defeated Jimmy Carter by 14 points. The main reason: Democrat Mark White — and not Republican William Clements — will be pulling strings from the governor's mansion.

"The governor's chair is an invaluable political weapon," said Linden Kettlewell, executive director of the Reagan-Bush 84 campaign in Texas.

Kettlewell said recent Republican polls showed Reagan ahead of Democratic front runner Walter Mondale by 6-10 points in Texas. The assertion is disputed by Texas Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle, who called the race a "toss-up."

Regardless, Reagan's conservative policies and affable personality are scoring points in the state, according to the GOP strategists. And Texas Republicans are snapping at the bit to run against the more liberal Mondale, whom the strategists say will be the Democratic nominee.

Reagan expects to win big in the Republican strongholds of Dallas, Houston and Midland, and do well again among conservative Democrats in East and West Texas, Kettlewell said.

"No will say being a Republican is easy," said George Strake, Texas Republican Party chairman. "But I wish the election was now."

Besides the loss of the governor's seat, Kettlewell and other GOP strategists see at least three major roadblocks in the president's path to Texas' 29 electoral votes: Hispanics, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and the U.S. Senate race.

National director for deaf holds workshop

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Gary Olsen, assistant executive director of the National Association for the Deaf, spends up to 15 days a month traveling around the United States advocating rights of the deaf and working for better communication and understanding between the deaf and hearing communities.

From his branch office in Indianapolis, Ind., he travels to all 50 states and the District of Columbia, working with state associations for the deaf.

He was in Big Spring Monday to conduct a leadership workshop for students at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. Under Olsen's leadership, students studied basic parliamentary procedure, delegating responsibilities, using tactful approaches and learning to trust committee members.

And although he spent most of his time at SWCID, Olsen shared a message with the community as a whole.

"I ask communities to give deaf citizens a decent and fair chance to live in the community just like anyone else. There is always going to be a communication problem, but there are times when the community can deliver a lot to the deaf. Deaf people want to participate in city affairs but they need the community to open the door. All citizens have a rightful place in the sun," Olsen said.

As a representative for the NAD, Olsen is battling several regulations and seeks support for the NAD stand in cities he visits.

One point is Public Law 94-142, which mandates mainstreaming handicapped children into the public school system. Olsen wants to make sure deaf students are not "put into a program not designed for us." Deaf students forced into mainstream public school programs are not able to hear instructors, and such a program "does not meet the needs of the deaf. There needs to be exceptions to that law."

Another issue being negotiated by the NAD is that of closed captioned television. Olsen said experiments with closed and open captioning with television programs have been under way for years.

Studies revealed that the general public "resented open captioning." Research yielded "Line 21" transmission televising captions which can be decoded with a special device attached to the television. Currently, NBC ABC and PBS transmit closed captioned programs.

However, CBS does not broadcast any closed captioned programs for the deaf, and Olsen thinks it will take public support for the program before CBS will change its mind.

"We're hoping the general public will be more supportive of the needs of the deaf. The deaf pay the same taxes and have the same rights to the airways."

CBS officials have told the NAD

'On the Road' has traveled 500,000 miles through U.S.

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill. (AP) — When Izzie Bleckman and Larry Gianneschi pack up and hit the road for Oregon shortly, it will another leg of what's been a half-million-mile odyssey with no fixed destination.

For 14 years, Bleckman and Gianneschi have been the crewmen for Charles Kuralt's "On the Road" CBS series, searching for interesting stories in out-of-the-way places.

In the process, they've worn out four recreational vehicles, and last week they picked out their fifth.

Two beds were taken out of the back of the RV and replaced with racks for video and sound equipment. A stove, refrigerator and table were left in. A CBS "eye" was painted on the side of the vehicle, along with the words "On the Road."

"I've been to every state and traveled about a half-million miles to some pretty obscure towns," Bleckman, a cameraman, said recently. "And I enjoy it immensely."

Gianneschi, a sound engineer whose more permanent home is in Arlington Heights, Ill., and Bleckman, from Highland Park, have helped Kuralt look for Americana in places like Why Not, Ga., and Love County, Texas.

"We still stay off the interstate and take the roads that go to downtown Main Street," Gianneschi said. "You don't get any stories when you're flying by at 600 miles an hour."

Every time they see something interesting, the crew feels free to stop for an interview. Bleckman recalls driving through a small town in Georgia and coming to an intersection that was loaded with signs giving directions to every imaginable city within driving distance.

The crew asked about the signs and found out an old-timer who lived at the intersection got tired of being awakened at night by travelers asking for directions. As a result, he began posting signs, which later became the focus of an "On the Road" story.

they feel Line 21 captioning "is obsolete," Olsen said. "They are being childish. They've been saying that for five years and they've not come up with anything better. We've been getting the run-around, but we're not giving up."

Advocates of closed captioned television are planning CBS boycotts and eventually plan to take their case to court, Olsen said.

The NAD has made much progress in recent years in the rights of the deaf, Olsen said. "We've seen a lot of legislation passed to provide what is necessary. We're promoting sign language in education and the arts."

Olsen and other NAD representatives "are spreading awareness of our hidden handicap," Olsen is also working to help students "become aware of their potential, and to improve their self-concept."

As for SWCID, Olsen said he is "all for the program. There is a need for such a program and it has a lot to offer students. There are more who will benefit from it in due time. SWCID has its place in Texas, and the community has a big responsibility" in helping the school grow, Olsen said.

officials were to appoint someone to the post, Steiner said.

"If a duty came up to be performed, (such as detailing the city budget), the court could enjoin the officials to perform that duty," Steiner said. "But somebody has to want the court to do that."

"I think probably some places in Texas ceased to function that way. Some cities ceased to function and haven't functioned for 20 or 30 years. They go into limbo. I guess someone could go through the county clerk's office and find out that there was a city there," Steiner said.

"I don't think you're in that kind of dire straits out there, though," he said.

Neither the aldermen nor the mayor are paid. Regular meetings are scheduled once a month, but the council usually has an emergency meeting at least one time a month.

Iran

IRNA said Iraqi claims of an attack at Kharg "are aimed at covering up Baghdad's military defeats in 'Operation Kheibar.'"

Kheibar is the code name of the latest Iranian offensive, launched last Wednesday in the southern sector of the battlefield near Basra, Iraq's port and second largest city. It says its forces have seized territory near the Basra-Baghdad highway.

Iraq said today that invading Iranian troops had been pushed back west of the Iran-Iraq border near Basra, which Iran has shelled at least twice in the last week.

But IRNA said Iranian troops scored victories in "intensive fighting" Monday night, repulsing Iraqi counterattacks at two places along the 730-mile battlefield.

Iraq also renewed its charge that Iraqi forces were "polluting the battlefield" with chemical weapons, and said 800 Iranians troops had been killed or injured by the toxins.

The Iranian Foreign Ministry today sent a note to the International Red Cross representative in Tehran with an invitation to visit those wounded in chemical bombing by Iraq, IRNA said. There was no immediate response from the Red Cross, it said.

IRNA also reported today that "a number" of Iraqi troops "broke their ranks and joined the Islamic forces" after fierce fighting near Majnoon Island.

Iraq said Monday it attacked oil tankers near Kharg Island because of the capture of Iraqi oil wells by Iran — the first official admission that Iranian forces had succeeded in punching across the border.

Kharg Island has been the target of more than a dozen Iraqi air raids since the war erupted in September 1980, including four attacks in the fall of 1982.

Head-on crash kills 4 in N.M.

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) — A head-on collision by two vehicles that hit so hard they "stopped right in their tracks" left four people dead and four others injured Monday, a Clovis Police Department officer said.

"They hit so quickly that no one even applied their brakes," said Sgt. Sonny Smith. "We were talking about it (past traffic accidents) and no one could remember one that's quite this bad."

The dead were identified as Henry Wilson, 54, of Clovis, and three Muleshoe, Texas, residents — Kenneth Hamilton, 42, Sharon Hamilton and Charles Flowers Jr., Smith said. Sharon Hamilton apparently was the wife of Kenneth Hamilton, Smith said.

The injured were identified as Casey King, 14, Jeff Hamilton, 18, Jill Hamilton, 14, and Jay Gleason, 18, all of Muleshoe, Tex. Jeff and Jill Hamilton apparently are brother and sister, Smith said.

They were being treated Monday night at Clovis High Plains Hospital, where Gleason was in critical condition and the other three were in stable condition, said Beulah Mattingly, a nursing supervisor at the hospital. Wilson was alone when he was driving his car west on U.S. 60-70-84 on the eastern edge of Clovis and Kenneth Hamilton was driving the other vehicle east, Smith said.

"The westbound car was driven by Henry Wilson ... and for some unknown reason he crossed about 30 feet of median and hit the other vehicle head-on," Smith said.

"We talked to the family and they said Mr. Wilson did have a heart condition," Smith said. The two vehicles were "totally destroyed," Smith said.

"There was no fire. Both vehicles stopped right in their tracks is how hard the collision was," Smith said. The victims were not thrown from the crushed cars, he said. The metal from the cars had to be cut away to get to the victims, Smith said.

Officers did not believe the victims were wearing seat belts at the time of the wreck, he said. There weren't any indications that either car was speeding, Smith said.

Family files suit against air service

MIDLAND — A $11.5 million lawsuit has been filed by the family of a television station employee who died in the Nov. 26 crash of a twin-engine plane near Midland Regional Airport.

Ed Monette, 26, and five other KOSA-TV employees were returning from covering high school football games in Fort Worth and Wichita Falls on the chartered plane. Also killed were the pilot and a man who helped KOSA employees at the game.

Monette was an assistant engineer at the station. The lawsuit — filed last Wednesday in state district court on behalf of Monette's parents, wife and three children — alleged that Midland oilman Richard Gaddy, who owned the plane, and Texas Western Aviation, which chartered the flight, were negligent in entrusting the pilot, Keith Elkin, with the aircraft.

The suit said Elkin lacked "sufficient flying experience and skill to safely fly the aircraft under the existing circumstances."

Preliminary findings by the National Transportation and Safety Board indicated Elkin might have tried to abort a landing and that an engine might have stalled before the craft crashed near a runway.

Autopsy reports also indicated Elkin suffered a form of heart attack sometime before the crash.

Gaddy told the Odessa American on Monday that Elkin "had the highest rating that could be acquired by a commercial pilot."

He said the pilot had extensive flying experience and was a certified airplane mechanic.

"I would think that if anybody would have the knowledge and capabilities (to fly that plane), he would, particularly since he had the exposure to that particular type of airplane," Gaddy said.

David Cankaala, vice president and chief pilot of Texas Western Aviation, said he had not seen the suit and could not comment.

Mariah wins first in event

Mariah, the Big Spring Steer Band color guard, won first place at the Third Annual Capitol City Invitational Color Guard Competition in Austin Saturday.

The group competed with 14 other guards and won first place by six-tenths of a point. Mariah will travel to Dallas for its next competition Friday.

The Capitol City Invitational offered individualized events. Mariah had three flag solos and one rifle solo to enter.

Michelle Deanda placed sixth, Tina Hillyer third, and Janice Duncan and Robby Roten took first place honors.

Staff members for the 1984 season are Bonnie Anderson, David Armstrong, Tracy Burch and Victor Mellinger. Steve Waggoner is the high school band director.

Prayer issue faces tough fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although it faces a tough fight on Capitol Hill, a proposed constitutional amendment to permit prayer in public schools may have the best shot at winning congressional passage of any of the so-called New Right social issues long embraced by President Reagan.

That appears to be the consensus of prayer amendment backers, and some opponents as well, as the Senate prepares to take up the measure and House sponsors plan an all-night talkathon to dramatize their support for it.

To date, none of the social legislation advocated by Reagan and congressional conservatives in their 1980 campaigns has won congressional approval. Those issues include school prayer and anti-abortion amendments and prohibitions against school busing.

Now, with the 1984 campaigns well under way, conservatives are joining forces and focusing their energies on winning last-ditch approval of the prayer amendment.

OTHER DEATHS

Joe Montgomery LEWISTOWN, Mont. (AP) — "Colonel" Joe Montgomery, a survivor of the Spanish-American War and listed by the Veteran's Administration as the nation's second oldest veteran, has died at the age of 107.

Montgomery, who died Sunday, was born in Wayne County, Iowa, on Aug. 24, 1876. His life spanned more than half of U.S. history. He served in the Philippines for two years during the panish-American War and never rose above the rank of private, but his friends called him "Colonel Joe."

In 1893, shortly after his 17th birthday, he took part in the historic Cherokee Run land grab in what is now Oklahoma. He was reported earlier this year to have been the last survivor of the historic event, in which about 50,000 people staked claims in a mad rush on Sept. 16, 1893.

Montgomery moved to the mining camp of Kendall, Mont., the following year and was part-owner of the Wedge Saloon, running its gambling operations until the mines closed in 1912.

After a brief stay in Hilger, Mont., Montgomery moved to Lewistown, where he worked for the Department of Interior helping homesteaders locate their claims. He also served as chairman of the Fergus County Draft Board during World War I.

Friends better than wealth

LONDON — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher says she values family and friends — especially women friends — over personal wealth.

"What else do you need if you have family and friends? You can get through anything. Much more important than riches," she said in a British Broadcasting Corp. world service interview broadcast today.

Mrs. Thatcher disclosed that she gets away from the pressures of politics by letting her hair down with girlfriends she can trust completely.

She said she also finds it "very easy" to talk to Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. "We understand the combination of the pull of family and the total dedication to politics," she explained.

"I don't think any woman in power... really has a happy life unless she's got a large number of women friends," Mrs. Thatcher said. "Sometimes you wouldn't be able to carry on without them, because you sometimes must go and sit down and let down your hair with someone you can trust totally."

Jackson commercial debuts

NEW YORK — The commercial Michael Jackson was making when his hair caught fire will be shown on network TV tonight during the Grammys show, but already it has made its public debut.

The ad was unveiled in New York on Monday and was being broadcast on the MTV all-music cable network Monday night.

It shows Jackson coming onstage for a concert with fireworks exploding from flashpots behind him. During the last of the five shootings of the scene Jan. 27, the singer suffered burns of the scalp when flaming material fell on his head.

One of the earlier shots is used for the commercial, in which the Jacksons sing Michael's hit "Billie Jean" with new lyrics to promote Pepsi Cola.

Another commercial has the Jacksons in a street dancing scene with Alfonso Ribiero, the 12-year-old star of the Broadway musical "Tap Dance Kid."

A reporter at the New York showing noted that Jackson is a health food enthusiast and asked if he drinks Pepsi. Alan Pottasch, Pepsi's vice president for creative services, said he didn't know, but added that two truckloads of the soft drink are delivered to the brothers each week, and "someone is consuming it."

Dancer gets $1 a year wage

NEW YORK — Mikhail Baryshnikov, artistic director of American Ballet Theater since September 1980, will carry on at a new salary — $1 a year.

Under the arrangement, the 36-year-old dancer who defected from the Soviet Union in 1974 will pursue projects which interest him outside the company, including performing with other companies and making movies. But he stays in charge of American Ballet Theater operations.

The ballet's spokesman, Robert Pontarelli, said Monday that the executive committee accepted Baryshnikov's proposal that he remain artistic director without contract indefinitely.

"In the spirit of our government's $1-a-year men, Baryshnikov has insisted on not accepting any remuneration from American Ballet Theater for his administrative duties after June 16," Pontarelli said. He added that Baryshnikov will be paid, per performance, when he dances with the company.

Writer's name sparks battle

NEW YORK — The name of the late playwright Tennessee Williams will not be in lights on a theater's marquee if lawyers from a Florida bank representing Williams' estate have their way.

Terri E. Simon, a lawyer for Southeast Bank, contends the producing team of Jack Lawrence and son, Richard, and their Jarick Productions Ltd., want "to capitalize upon their unauthorized and willful misappropriation of the name of the world-renowned late playwright" by naming their theater near Broadway the Tennessee Williams Theatre.

Hart, Mondale running even

CONCORD, N.H. — New Hampshire voters, playing their traditional and often unpredictable role in presidential politics, went to the polls today with one survey indicating Sen. Gary Hart had pulled even with the acknowledged front-runner, Walter F. Mondale.

The poll, conducted Saturday through Monday for ABC News and the Washington Post, showed Mondale, the former vice president, and Hart, the Colorado senator, each with 30 percent support. It surveyed 446 Democrats and independents who said they were sure to vote today.

Placing third was Sen. John Glenn with 14 percent. The Rev. Jesse Jackson had 8 percent. Based on a rolling three-day average, the poll has margin of error of plus or minus 6 percent.

The poll indicated a dramatic movement of support toward Hart, who placed second in the Iowa party caucuses last week. On Sunday, an earlier ABC News-Washington Post poll showed a seven-point lead for Mondale over Hart. An even earlier ABC-Post poll had showed Mondale with a 14-point lead.

In line with state tradition, the 27 voters of Dixville Notch, a tiny mountain hamlet, cast their ballots at midnight at the Balsams Hotel, with Sen. Ernest Hollings of South Carolina receiving 3 votes and Mondale getting 2 votes from Democrats. Hart and former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew had 1 each.

On the Republican side, President Reagan had 15 votes, while Hollings had 5 write-ins.

Hollings, noting that the votes on both ballots gave him a 4-1 margin over Mondale, called the Dixville Notch results "very significant."

Most New Hampshire polls open at 9 a.m. or 10 a.m., EST, and

Surcharge ban expires

Starting today businesses can charge extra fees for purchases made with the nation's 600 million credit cards, but retailers say they're wary about penalizing people who pay with plastic because "it might turn away customers."

"We feel it is not beneficial to our business," said Alan Kane, president of Hahne's department stores, a New Jersey-based subsidiary of American Dry Goods. "We want to attract people to our store, and doing that would not make us competitive."

A 10-year-old federal ban on credit-card surcharges expired at midnight after the Senate failed to take action Monday on a proposed extension which had been delayed by legal squabbling and heavy lobbying on both sides.

The ban lapsed for three weeks in 1981 with no widespread reaction, and most of the merchants interviewed Monday were planning no immediate action — while leaving the option open.

U.S. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., a longtime advocate of allowing surcharges, said he thought the bill affecting the nation's 600 million credit cards would be brought to the Senate floor today. It already has been approved by the House.

Merchants pay card issuers from 2½ percent to 7 percent of the face value of a credit sale, and consumer groups that oppose the surcharge ban argue that cash customers subsidize those who use credit because prices must be high enough to cover the card companies' fees. Supporters of the ban, including credit card companies, say that surcharges would be confusing and an added expense to shoppers.

Stores are free now to offer discounts to customers who use cash, but a Federal Reserve Board study showed that only 11 percent do so, and many provide the bonus only if you ask for it. A discount is a reduction from the regular price; a surcharge is an addition to it.

Credit cards are estimated to account for up to 80 percent of sales in some categories, and credit use is booming. Federal Reserve Board statistics show that outstanding revolving credit — the kind you get with credit cards — grew by $1.72 billion in December, an annual increase of 29.3 percent.

Gemayel, Assad may meet

BEIRUT — Government troops battled rebel militia forces in Beirut and the neighboring mountains today, while U.S. and Soviet diplomats were reported at odds on how to deploy a U.N. peacekeeping force to curb the fighting.

In Jerusalem, two Soviet-made grenades exploded in the doorway of a store on the main shopping street today, injuring 21 people. Several people were detained for questioning, police said.

A Soviet-backed faction of the Palestine Liberation Organization claimed responsibility for the blast. The Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine made the claim in a communique issued in Damascus, Syria.

Police in Beirut said six people were killed and 13 wounded in overnight fighting around the mountaintop army garrison at Souk el-Gharb and across the "green line" dividing Beirut's Christian and Moslem sectors. A boy and two adults died and 19 others were injured in mid-city clashes on Monday.

At the United Nations, the Security Council scheduled another round of talks today on forming a peacekeeping force for Lebanon. The United States declared its support late Monday for deployment of U.N. troops throughout Lebanon, but sources on the council said the Soviet Union wanted the forces restricted to Beirut.

The Security Council has been debating whether to send a U.N. force to promote a cease-fire and protect civilians now that most of the multinational force provided by France, Britain, Italy and the United States has withdrawn from Lebanon.

The resolution prepared by France, which still has about 1,250 troops in Lebanon, would deploy the U.N. force in "the Beirut area" when the multinational force has left "the territory and waters under Lebanese sovereignty."

In Beirut, government sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said today that two envoys, "possibly including Foreign Minister Elie Salem," will visit Damascus within 24 hours to prepare for a summit between presidents Amin Gemayel of Lebanon and Hafez Assad of Syria.

They said the summit could be held as early as this weekend. Sources in Damascus said, however, that Assad would not see Gemayel until the latter first abrogates the May 17 troop withdrawal agreement between Israel and Lebanon.

Another Bell hike denied

AUSTIN — Southwestern Bell, which scurried to the courthouse after the Public Utility Commission denied an immediate $28 million rate hike, today is deciding whether it will look for another courthouse.

A state district judge on Monday upheld the PUC's order denying an increase that would have added $2.75 a month to residential bills. Judge Mary Pearl Williams told the phone company it can't get the temporary hike until April 22.

Paul Roth, Bell vice president for revenues in Texas, said that's too late. Company officials say the delay will cost them $46 million.

"We'll have to talk to our lawyers. We have the right of appeal. We'll have to look at our options," Roth said. The company can appeal to the 3rd Court of Appeals in Austin.

Attorney General Jim Mattox, whose staff defended the PUC order, called the Monday decision a "victory for ratepayers all over Texas."

"We have won a battle, but the war to keep phone rates affordable still goes on," he said. "I am hopeful that this ruling will give the PUC time to make a decision that will not stick residential customers with higher rates for phone service."

Monday's courtroom battle was over the refundable rate that utility companies are allowed to charge while rate cases are pending. Bell has a $1.3 billion case pending at the PUC.

7 crewmen feared dead

NEW ORLEANS — As many as seven crewmen were feared dead today following a weekend ship explosion that left the 661-foot tanker American Eagle easy prey for the gale-whipped Gulf of Mexico, authorities said.

Pounded by 16-foot seas and 45 mph winds since then, the vessel sank Monday about 180 miles southwest of New Orleans while awaiting a tugboat from Port Arthur, Texas.

The empty tanker had been dead in the water since the explosion tore a gash in its starboard hull Sunday, killing three crewmen instantly and injuring three others, who were evacuated.

Only a section of its bow remained above water early today, posing a navigational hazard, Coast Guard officials said. The Coast Guard sent two cutters from Galveston, Texas, to warn away passing ships.

Of 24 crewmen still aboard when the ship went down, one was presumed dead, two were missing and five were taken to Jo Ellen Smith Hospital in New Orleans, where one was dead on arrival, authorities said.

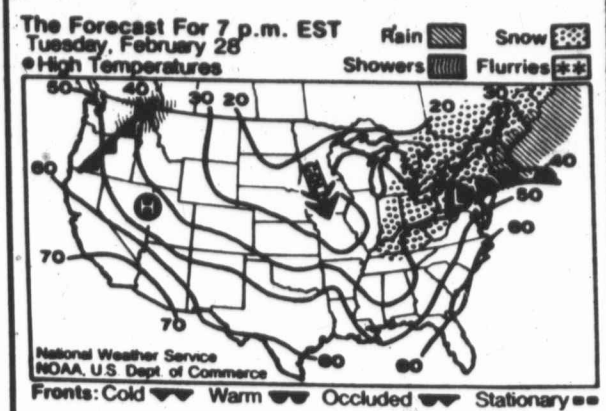

At first, two were classified as presumed dead, raising the possible toll to eight, but it later was learned that one of those was the crewman who died en route to the hospital.

The identities of the dead were being withheld by the ship's agent, American Foreign Steamship Corp. of New York.

The 16 remaining survivors were taken aboard three oil rig crewboats, one of which was heading for Morgan City, La. Because of heavy seas, it was impossible to estimate when it might arrive, officials said.

The Coast Guard said survivors aboard the other two crewboats would have to wait out the storm aboard near by oil and gas rigs.

West Texas — Fair tonight and Wednesday. Lows near 20 Panhandle to 28 south and 32 Big Bend valleys. Highs 45 Panhandle to 62 south and 68 Big Bend valleys.

State recovers from weather

Winds up to 50 mph spawned by a weekend storm system left Panhandle residents digging out from under snow drifts and firefighters further south standing watch over resurgent grass fires that destroyed at least 14,000 acres.

Snow flurries lingered over northwestern sections of the state early today. Although some of the snow melted off Monday, subfreezing temperatures covered the area again Monday night and early today.

The storm dumped four inches of snow on the Panhandle and left more than 140 vehicles strewn along Interstate 40 Sunday. Most of the vehicles had been removed by today, but some of the stranded cars and trucks were hit by vandals, authorities said.

"It did qualify as a blizzard. We had sustained winds of more than 35 miles per hour for three hours or more," said National Weather Service meteorologist Gary Hartley in Amarillo.

Some of the fires kicked up by high winds in North, Central and Southeast Texas on Sunday were not extinguished until Monday.

Tornadoes and thunderstorms accompanied the high winds as the front moved through North Texas on Sunday.

By early Monday, temperatures in far South Texas had dropped to 57 as northerly winds gusting to 55 mph. Only a day before, children were building sand castles on the beaches of South Padre Island as their parents basked under the 87-degree temperature.

Only the western Trans Pecos escaped the gusts Monday, and high wind warnings were posted in Southeast Texas. Between 5,000 and 10,000 acres of rural land between Refugio and Goliad were scorched by a grass fire whipped out of control by the winds.

About 3,000 acres burned south of San Antonio, damaging numerous homes. Another 4,000 burned in Blanco County west of Austin, and about 800 acres were destroyed in adjacent Travis County.

One firefighter died in a fire-related traffic accident in Blanco County on Sunday.

More than 10,000 customers in Amarillo were without electric service for periods up to five hours Sunday and early Monday, said Bill Crenshaw, a spokesman for Southwestern Public Service Co.

Customers in Lubbock and Abertown also had to do without power for extended periods, Crenshaw said.

Attorney general Ron's best friend

It is no wonder that liberal groups in Washington are upset over President Reagan's choice of Edwin Meese to be attorney general. His views are far enough to the right to cause some uneasiness even in conservative ranks.

It was Meese, you will recall, who said some people dined at soup kitchens not because they are poor but because the soup was free. And it was Meese who labeled the American Civil Liberties Union part of "the criminals' lobby." Neither of those remarks suggests the kind of impartiality that the country is entitled to expect from the nation's highest law enforcement official.

Neither does Meese's long and close political association with Mr. Reagan. Putting a political crony in charge of the Justice Department, especially in an election year, is bound to raise questions about the ability of the department to resist partisan pressures.

The liberal groups say they will collect all of the adverse information they can get in hopes of persuading the Senate to reject Meese. That is their privilege. Yet, unless they find something that shows him to be morally or ethically unfit in a fundamental sense, the Senate should not withhold confirmation.

Within very wide limits, a president has a right to appoint Cabinet members of his own liking. That's part of the political process. So remember: When you elect a president of a particular persuasion, you usually can expect appointees of the same sort.

Russians produce a new designer gene

WASHINGTON - The National Security Council has delivered a report to President Reagan warning of a frightening new development in biological warfare. The secret alert is based on CIA assessments that the Soviet has developed gene-splicing techniques as ominous as the atom-splitting discoveries that led to the nuclear bomb.

The startling evidence is contained in CIA report, classified "Secret," which declare flatly that the Russians could use their new biotechnology to incapacitate or destroy entire populations in a future conflict.

In stark language, the documents warn that the United States is dangerously far behind the developing bio-tech weapons. One CIA report estimates that the Soviets will be able to deploy these horror weapons in three to five years. Other scientists contend that bio-tech warfare is more than a decade away.

Of course, the production of harmful biological agents for use against people, animals or crops is strictly prohibited under the 1972 Biological Weapons Convention, which the Soviets signed. But this has not deterred the Soviets from rushing ahead with bio-tech research. Declares a secret CIA report: "The evidence points strongly to illegal production or storage of biological agents and weapons."

The technical name for this research is "recombinant DNA technology." It is also referred to as "gene-splicing," "genetic engineering," "biotechnology" and "synthetic biology." It has to do with DNA, or deoxy-ribonucleic acid, which is the basic genetic ingredient.

The Soviets have developed a process for removing segments of DNA from cell of one species and attaching them to that of another, thereby creating a new organism.

The military application is awesome. CIA sources told my associate Dale Van Atta that the Soviets will be able to reproduce mysterious human substances and produce super-viruses more deadly than any known to man today.

For example, the Soviets could reproduce such human substances as growth hormones, which have never been duplicated. One U.S. expert estimates the Russians may be able to reproduce brain chemicals, which send command signals to various parts of the body. The fear is that the Soviets will be able to produce them in quantity and load them into spray weapons. This bio-gas would disorient and destroy the human brain.

Even more disturbing, the Soviets could use biotechnology to combine the most infectious, most virulent and most indestructible characteristics of disease-causing organisms form super-viruses.

If it seems hard to believe that the Soviets would experiment with such civilization-destroying technology, consider this grim excerpt from a secret CIA report:

"Since World War II, sporadic reports and allegations have been received concerning Soviet involvement in offensive biological weapons development. Sources of the allegations have ranged from low-level defectors to high-level Soviet academicians. High-level political and military leaders have also alluded to possession of biological weapons."

The document describes other developments, which have been "closely observed by the intelligence community."

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

Flu blues

Getting to know contestants on television game shows. Bowls of soup. Boxes of Kleenex. Sympathetic friends and relatives who are afraid to come near you.

Sound familiar? Then you must have had the flu, too.

The epidemic which has been pounding the nation swept through Big Spring and took its toll of victims, but I managed to escape. I thought, After just about everyone I knew had gone through several miserable days of suffering, I began bragging that I knew how to take care of myself and wasn't going to let the flu get me down.

But it crept up slowly, began with a little cough, a little fever and before I knew it I'd missed a week of work and found myself suffering not only from the flu but from the cabin fever which accompanies it.

There are some things about being sick that I really hate, aside from the aches and pains. For instance, I hate to have to call in to work to say I won't be in. Not that they aren't understanding, but it gets embarrassing to say "Sorry, I'm sick. I won't be in today." "Hello, I'm still sick and I won't be in today." "Hello, yes, it's me again and, well, I'll try to be in tomorrow." "Hello, guess what, I'm not coming in today, either." Finally I told my boss I'd be back when I got better, but I couldn't guarantee when that would be.

One of the other little annoyances about being sick are those stupid game shows because, admit it, after awhile you really want to know who wins the stupid microwave oven so you have to tune in the next day to find out. The first day I was home sick I turned on the television just for something to do. By the end of the week I was on a first name basis with all the contestants.

Then, of course, there's cabin fever, which hits after you begin to feel a little better but still not well enough to go out on the town. And nobody will have anything to do with you, anyway, once they find out you have the flu. So you sit around, watch those addictive game shows, take a nap, eat a bowl of soup, take another nap, watch more TV, and check the clock every 15 minutes to see what time it is.

Bad habits die hard, though. I've been back at work now for seven hours and 45 minutes and I've checked the clock every 15 minutes. Every half hour I think about a certain game show I'm missing and wondering who's winning that fantastic trip to Hawaii. These are symptoms of the flu which aren't written down in medical journals.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Raising the red flag over detente

When Yuri Andropov died the big question in the White House was whether the president should attend the funeral or not. The arguments pro and con concerning this question had nothing to do with sentimentality, but how Mr. Reagan's presence or absence would be perceived by the world.

This is how the argument went in the White House.

"If the president goes to Andropov's funeral, it will be a signal he's weakening his position on the emplacement of the cruise missiles."

"I disagree. By attending the funeral the president will show that he is still willing to talk to the Soviets, if they're willing to bargain on the SS-20 missiles in good faith."

"You expect them to make concessions at a funeral?"

"Not necessarily at the funeral, but afterwards when the president pays his condolences to the Soviet leaders, whoever the hell they are."

"Don't you think paying condolences to the other Soviet leaders is a dangerous thing to do?"

"What's dangerous about it?"

"Suppose the Soviet leaders refuse to accept them. How do you think that will look in the headlines? 'REAGAN CONDOLENCES FOR ANDROPOV REBUFFED BY KREMLIN.'"

"Why don't we find out before we let the president go if the Kremlin is willing to accept Mr. Reagan's personal condolences. If they say nyet, then we won't let him attend the funeral."

"I don't trust the Soviets. They could tell us they'll accept them, and then when the boss gets to Moscow they'll say they changed their mind."

"So what kind of signal are we sending to Moscow if the president doesn't go?"

"George Bush."

"He's not a signal. He's the vice president."

"Bush went to Brezhnev's funeral, so the signal we're sending is that relations between the United States and USSR are the same as they were when Andropov came to power."

"Okay, maybe that would be the signal to the new Soviet leaders. But what signal are we sending to the people around the world? They're getting a little frightened over all the superpower saber-rattling. If the president went to the funeral it might calm those who are afraid Reagan could get us into a nuclear confrontation with the Russians. Also, don't forget the political fallout at home. Reagan would not only knock the Democrats off the evening news but also the Winter Olympics."

"It could kick back on us. How would our conservative constituency react to seeing an American president offering his condolences to the Commies?"

"Suppose he went and offered his personal condolences to the Andropov family but not to the Politburo?"

"They would take that as a signal that the Prez flew all the way to Moscow to continue the cold war."

"How about the president calling up the Politburo from Santa Barbara and offering his personal condolences on the phone, as he did to the Redskins after the Super Bowl? We could show it on a split screen on TV."

"You can't get the whole Politburo on a split screen, dummy. Besides, I don't think just a call to the Politburo locker room will bring the Russians back to Geneva to continue the arms talks."

"It certainly won't. But the worst case scenario is if the president goes to Moscow, gives his personal condolences and the Soviets will refuse to return to Geneva. Then the media will write that Reagan's trip to Andropov's funeral was a flop."

"I agree. I say we send Bush to Moscow for the funeral, with a personal note from the president regretting he could not come himself."

"What excuse will the president give?"

"He was so overcome by grief he decided to attend a prayer breakfast in Iowa instead."

Living together is not marriage

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My college roommate just moved out from our apartment and has moved in with his girlfriend. He says that he thinks in God's eyes this makes them married, and they don't need to bother with a public ceremony. Is he right about this? — K.J.

DEAR K.J.: — No, he is not. I suspect he is just using this as an excuse to justify or defend his own behavior, but what he is doing is wrong in the eyes of God. The Bible makes it clear that any sexual relationship outside the commitment of marriage is wrong.

Marriage has been given to us by God, and it involves a commitment and vow before God in which the husband and wife pledge their love and service to each other as long as they both live. It is interesting that the first miracle of Jesus recorded in the Gospel of John took place at a wedding where Jesus was a guest (John 2:1-11). In New Testament times a wedding not only was a public ceremony; but the entire celebration lasted several days.

The marriage vow is not to be broken — and that is one reason it is a public commitment, so that the marriage is a matter of public knowledge. When two people just decide to live together, there can never be the depth of commitment to each other and to God that is part of a Christian wedding. There is also security in the commitment of marriage that is lacking in an informal arrangement. If there is no vow of commitment binding them to each other, there is no assurance that one of the partners will not break the relationship at any time.

Pray for your roommates — not just that he will realize what he is doing is wrong, but that he will think (perhaps for the first time) of the place God should have in his life. Right now he is living for himself. But God has a plan for his life, and the greatest discovery he can ever make is the joy of knowing Christ and discovering his will.

This is true also for you. Have you ever given your life to Jesus Christ and let him come into your heart by faith? Are you trusting him for your future? You face many decisions during your college years that will affect the whole marriage, and so forth. No matter what others do, you live for Christ and make it your goal to do his will.

Dr. Donohue

Pacemaker infection rare, but possible

Dear Dr. Donohue: Could you please tell me how a pacemaker could become infected? I am very anxious to know. — M.C.

Even with the most meticulous care before, during and after pacemaker insertion, there are a few instances in which they will get infected. Pacemakers can become infected just as can any other foreign device put into the body.

We live, as it's said, in an ocean of germs, and no matter how hard we try, every now and then one of those germs will get into such an artificial, implanted device. The rarity of such an event is a testimonial as to how effective precautions taken to prevent it. But that it happens at all attests to the fact that germs can outwit our most diligent precautions.

Any time the skin is cut, germs can get into the body, and the skin must be cut when a pacemaker is to be inserted. That's one route of infection. Or germs can get into the pacemaker from some seemingly innocuous infection at a distant body site.

For example, a boil on the neck can leak germs into the blood and they can settle out on the pacemaker. These are just two ways infection can occur. When a pacemaker becomes infected, it is a disappointment to all concerned.

Dear Dr. Donohue: In a recent column you wrote about a new drug, sucralfate. I have what you would call bile gastritis. Since my gallbladder surgery I've had terrible pains in my stomach. So I had gastroscopy done and the doctor said my bile was backing up into my stomach, and suggested surgery. I also saw a second doctor, a gastrologist. He gave me Carafate. Do you think the new medicine you mentioned would help me, and would my doctor know about it? — Mrs. G.

First let's get the matter of the medicine settled. Your doctor knows about the sucralfate I mentioned. Carafate is a trade name for that drug.

Now, about the bile reflux, which can cause the irritation — the gastritis you mention. There are times when our digestive juices flow into areas where they don't belong. You've seen heartburn mentioned here in the past. That's an example of such reflux, of stomach juices backing up into the lower esophagus, causing irritation there.

Normally, bile flows into the small intestine to help digest food there. Occasionally, it will back up into the stomach and cause irritation (gastritis). It may cause pain and bloating. Your doctor confirmed his suspicion of this problem when he looked into your stomach with the gastroscope. He saw bile, proof of the backup (reflux) situation. What happened?

Sometimes such reflux happens after stomach surgery. I haven't heard of it as a consequence of gallbladder surgery. Sometimes it happens for no detectable reason.

There are other medicines to relieve the symptoms of bile backup. Cholestyramine is one. It binds up bile, and it's often used for such reflux. The aluminum hydroxide antacids also help sometimes. So too does the drug, metaclopramide. And if drug therapy fails, there are surgical techniques to shunt the flow of bile.

Dear Abby

Unwed mother chose sex, takes responsibility

DEAR ABBY: "No regrets in Missouri," who found herself pregnant and unmarried, close not to have an abortion. Instead she gave up her baby for adoption.

I am also pregnant and unmarried, but I am going to have my baby and raise it alone if necessary. The father of my child wanted me either to have an abortion or to give up the child for adoption, but I would not consider either alternative.

I realize there is a long list of childless married couples who are praying for a child, but there is no way in God's world that I would give away my baby.

I was raised to accept responsibility for my own actions, and since I chose to enter into a sexual relationship, I now accept the responsibility that goes with it.

I know that raising a child will not be easy, but my child will never have to wonder what kind of woman his biological mother was, where she is, and all the questions that plague most adopted children. Sign me...

NO REGRETS IN IOWA
DEAR NO REGRETS: You don't say how old you are or how you intend to support yourself and your child, but you sound like a very determined and together young woman. I wish you luck. An unwed mother who chooses to keep her child and raise it alone (if necessary) will need luck in abundance.

DEAR ABBY: In recent years the subject of adoptees who have searched and found their birth parents, and vice versa, has become a popular one. We would like to know: After the adoptive child has been reunited with his biological parents, (a) how did the adoptive parents feel? (b) How was the relationship between the adopted child and the parents who raised affected? (c) Were the adoptive parents and the birth parents genuinely happy to meet each other?

These questions are of valid concern to my wife and me, as we have three adoptive children who one day might want to find their biological parents.

We hope your readers will respond honestly so that we and other adoptive parents will know what to expect.

CURIOUS IN FLORIDA
DEAR CURIOUS: I, too, am curious. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago I read a letter in your column from a reader who claimed that dogs in Holland do not bark because other dogs have never taught them how.

Ah, were that so! Unfortunately, dogs in Holland bark just as much as dogs in other parts of the world. I know. For three years I have lived next door to two dogs who must have been training day and night for the Olympic gold medal in barking.

We recently returned from a visit to Holland. While there we stayed with friends who had a Great Dane who should have been named "E.F. Hutton" —when he barks, people listen!

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be sure you do nothing that can irk one who has much power over your affairs. After a hard day, gad about town with friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have work to do that should be completed, so don't run off to new interests yet. A new acquaintance can be of great help.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Study your obligations, and figure out the best way to handle them. Don't argue with the one you love.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) A partner could be acting rather strangely, so avoid until the mood changes. Be more objective. Enjoy the company of a good friend.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't try to change your technique at work since all is going fine. Make use of any health treatment you may need in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't commit yourself to new expenses just because you would like a change. Show more thought to your mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't get angry with a family tie who won't do what you ask. Remain poised. Evening is fine for entertaining at home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Know what it is that allies expect of you, but don't do anything you disapprove of. Be more objective. Visit those you like.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get your financial affairs in order and learn to economize more. Don't invest heavily in anything.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your practical views and emotions are not coordinating so be careful. Listen to what experts have to say. A rather frustrating day.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to run away from frustrations, but it is best you keep any promises you have made. Control your temper.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she is one who will be very demanding during youth, so be sure to teach early to have consideration for others and to be more controlled. Your progeny will do well in school. The field of sales is especially good here.

Students plan menus for city jail

Lifestyle Editor

Virginia Martin's Home Management class at Big Spring High School and the Big Spring Police Department completed a joint project recently, which resulted in the students learning about nutrition and meal management.

According to Lt. David Spilman, the police department had not checked in some time to see if the meals they prepared at the jail were nutritionally sound. To be sure the inmates' meals were nutritional, and to provide a change of pace in the meals, Spilman asked the school's Homemaking department to set up menus and provide a table of nutrient allotments.

The students prepared a rotating set of menus for one week. The menus were designed to be repeated weekly to simplify the police department's food ordering. The students decided what foods they liked and planned a menu from that, Mrs. Martin said. "We made simple menus for someone who doesn't have a lot of motivation or cooking knowledge," she said.

The menu was based on meal planning standards taught in homemaking classes: contain the four basic food groups in every meal; look appealing; taste good; represent a variety of temperatures; have both crunchy and chewy items; is inexpensive and easy to prepare; and meet the nutritional requirements of the average inmate. Some of the dishes they chose are: Tuna Casserole, Texas Hash, Egg Burrito, Meat loaf, French Toast and Chicken and Dumplings.

The students entered the meal plans into a computer program for a diet and nutritional analysis. The analysis was based on the nutritional requirements for a 29-year-old, medium frame-built man weighing 170 lbs., measuring 5'7" tall, and with light activity. "They don't do anything because they sit all day at the jail," Mrs. Martin said. "The computer says he is overweight."

The computer broke down the nutritional requirements of the menu into a 7-day average percent, and daily average of nutrients. It compared the nutritional quality of the menu with the recommended nutrient requirements for the average inmate. It turned out that the inmate would get more than the recommended minimum amount of nutrients from the student's menu, making the menu nutritionally sound for the project.

The Home Management class worked on the project instead of a Foods and Nutrition class because the project for the jail is actually an important part of home management. It also prepares them for the poverty life of being a newlywed, Mrs. Martin said. "It's good practice for the kids to plan meal preparation and timing."

The police department's jailers supervise inmates as they prepare meals at the jail. When the finished project was presented to the jailers, the students informed them how to prepare many dishes from the menu and had them sample the food. The students also explained the menus' nutritional aspects. "They are very good cooks, plus good instructors," jailer Iris Blackmon said, "because she (a student) explained it while she did it."

Margy Thompson speaks to B.A.S.I.C. students

Margy Thompson, chief juvenile probation officer for the 118th Judicial District, was the keynote speaker at the meeting of the Big Spring Area Student Involvement Council (B.A.S.I.C.) of the Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday, at the Chamber's board room.

B.A.S.I.C. students assisted with the Chamber of Commerce Banquet, Saturday. They also made a scrap book, which was presented to the past-president of the Chamber of Commerce at the banquet.

B.A.S.I.C. will meet again March 22 with Al Valdez as the guest speaker.

Mrs. Thompson presented 1983 juvenile activity statistics for Howard, Glasscock and Martin counties. She explained the duties, procedures and responsibilities of the probation office.

Information about your changing telephone service from Darlene Gifford, Manager-Community Relations

"What's good about Southwestern Bell?"

While not addressed quite so bluntly, that was the main question we tried to answer in recent group sessions with our customers. These "focus group" meetings were held to give us a better idea of what people perceive to be strengths of our company.

We also asked for, and received, commentary on our weaknesses as seen by these customers.

Good service — particularly its dependability and reliability — was by far the main strength cited in these sessions.

Here are some of the comments made by our customers:

"We couldn't survive without the phone service. I have to have my telephone for communications. If you have an emergency or a fire, you need it. I could live without the service, but I wouldn't want to. It is a big part of everybody's life."

It's dependable

"I would stress the dependability. I would point out to consumers being able to rely on your telephone for just about anything: your business, your home life, your social life."

"I'd say they have good service. Their phones work, and you can depend on the calls. If you have any repair work, it gets done."

"I've called to ask questions about rates and bills, and the people I've spoken to have been very polite and willing to answer all my questions."

"The phone company is every day coming up with more efficient ways of doing things, or better ways."

"I think the strength of the telephone company is that they have been more economical as compared to other items in your household budget. They have not gone up proportionately as much. That has been a tremendous asset for the lower income people."

Rate increases in line

"In relationship to every other company's rate increases, they're in line. The regulated companies have more trouble than the unregulated companies because they have to go beg almost to get a nickel and unregulated companies don't."

"Compared to what other things cost today, I would say telephone service is a good value. It saves me money because I do a lot of comparison shopping through the phone book. I make the telephone work for me."

"You pay for contact with most of the world. You can use the phone to talk to anybody about anything, check on relatives, children, and you don't have to worry about it. It always works. What value would you put on that? A call to poison control when your child just drank a glass of bleach. What do you do? What's the value of that?"

"I like the bills because they come with a return envelope. It's one less address you have to write out and one less envelope you have to work up."

"I think the size of the company and the fact that it has been such a good company for people to work for has been a real asset here."

Divestiture confusion

Some customers did tell us they were still confused and uncertain about our separation from AT&T. Here are some of the comments about life after divestiture:

"I feel uneasy about it. I don't really understand what is actually happening and how it is going to affect me. I really can't say anything about it because I really don't know."

"We will be able to tell shortly how well Southwestern Bell Telephone will do on its own — whether in the coming years it is going to fall on its face or lay an egg. Or spread its wings and fly."

Well, the breakup has come and gone and I can assure you Southwestern Bell Telephone isn't laying any eggs. Our service in Texas has never been better. And we're going to work hard to keep it the best there is.

How about you? What do you think is good about Southwestern Bell Telephone? What faults do you find with us? I'd like to hear from you either way — just drop me a line at the address below.

15 die in N. England snowstorm

By The Associated Press
A storm that buried parts of the Midwest in almost 2 feet of windblown snow swept into New England today, leaving at least 15 people dead and creating a "madhouse" on highways clogged with drifts and abandoned vehicles across much of the East.

Snow fell as far south as Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia this morning and the storm produced blizzard-like conditions with 50-mph winds across the Midwest. Chunks of ice stacking up 7 feet high damaged eight beachfront homes on lower Michigan's Saginaw Bay, on the shores of Lake Huron.

Snow came down as fast as 2 inches an hour in western Pennsylvania and western New York, where one deputy said patrol cars had to "bang through the drifts" to reach stranded motorists.

In Indiana, 10 inches of snow fell at Plymouth, Ind., with Indianapolis reporting 9 inches and Detroit and Fort Wayne, Ind., 9 inches. Six to 12 inches of snow fell in Ohio from near Dayton northeast to the Lakeshore and from Sandusky east to Pennsylvania.

Schools, banks, offices and factories were closed in much of the Indiana and Gov. Robert D. Orr ordered the state's 81 National Guard armories on alert to receive stranded motorists and others needing shelter.

During the night, up to 18 inches of snow fell at Niagara Falls, N.Y., with 10 inches collecting at Buffalo and 9 inches at Rochester. Up to 2 feet was expected at Buffalo before the snow quits.

Winter storm warnings were in effect for northern Illinois, northern Ohio and the northeastern corner of the nation.

Visibility was near zero across Illinois and Indiana.

Heavy thunderstorms and tornadoes whipped across Florida with 80 mph winds Monday, uprooting trees, destroying mobile homes and downing power lines.

The storm on Monday howled out of Colorado where it dropped up to 3 feet of snow.

By this morning it was "nearly a blizzard" in the Midwest and headed for New England with 6 to 12 inches of snow, said forecaster Nolan Duke of the Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo.

Similar forecasts were up for Illinois, northwestern Indiana, northern Ohio, southeastern Michigan, the West Virginia

Panhandle, most of Pennsylvania and all but northeastern New York.

What had been heavy rain in the South turned to snow in some areas today, with flurries as far south as Atlanta and Birmingham, Ala.

More than 17,000 acres of central and northern Texas were blackened by wind-fanned fires that were mostly extinguished by Monday afternoon.

In Florida, Fran Frazer of Keystone Heights said from her hospital bed that she crawled between two mattresses as a twister approached and "when I came to the mattress was still on top of me."

"It's just incredible," Duke said. "One storm is affecting half the United States in a lot of different ways."

He added, "I've never seen heavy snowfall stretching over one fourth of the United States like this."

In Missouri, where the National Guard was called out after drifts reached 5 feet high Monday, there was no break in the snowfall this morning. Nearly all of Ohio was blanketed by snow at least half a foot deep, and utility crews in Arkansas struggled to restore power that had been cut to 23,000 people at one point Monday.

WINTER STOLL — A St. Louis family braves the cold Monday after an overnight storm brought ice and snow to the city. The storm later moved into New England.

Governors want action on U.S. deficit

MARK WHITE
...at meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's governors say it is time to light a fire under President Reagan and Congress to get action on the federal deficit, even if that means massive new spending cuts and tax hikes.

But Reagan gave the governors little encouragement that changes might be made this election year when he met with them at the White House on Monday.

"He very clearly stated that 1984 is not the year to start a major campaign against the deficit. It has to wait until after the election," said Florida's Gov. Bob Graham, a Democrat, after meeting with Reagan. "That's a very serious mistake."

The governors are pressing on, with a vote set at the closing session of the National Governors' Association conference today on a budget plan that would slash the deficit by $188 billion in 1989. They were also due to hear Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker discuss the budget and the economic outlook.

"The governors ought to build a fire under the president and build one under Congress as well to try to prevent them from waiting until after the election," said Michigan Gov. James Blanchard, a Democrat.

Urging adoption of some budget proposal, Illinois Gov. James Thompson, the group's chairman, said the governors "should keep the prod there."

Reagan told the governors he wanted to stay the course with his hope for a $100 billion down payment on the deficit over the next three years, to be negotiated with the Democratic leadership of Congress this year.

A fourth round of bargaining between congressional and administration representatives on the deficit was also on today's schedule.

On Monday, the president told the governors he might consider new taxes — after massive new cuts in federal spending.

Woman identifies two defendants in barroom rape case

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — A young mother today identified two defendants as being among those who raped her on a barroom pool table, and said a third man leaned over the table and told her to be quiet "and they won't hurt you."

Asked to identify the first man who raped her, the 22-year-old woman told defense attorney Judith Lindahl, "I don't know him by name, but it's one of the people in the other trial."

Six men are charged with aggravated rape in the case, which attracted national attention after reports the woman was raped in a New Bedford bar while spectators cheered. The men are being tried in two separate, simultaneous trials — held morning and afternoon — so the defendants do not make incriminating statements against each other before the jury.

The woman testified today that the second man who raped her is the second man being tried in the afternoon session.

Daniel Silvia and Joseph Vieira, both 27, are being tried in the afternoon session. Until today, the woman had not identified them as members of the group that raped her.

The victim took the stand today for the third day. On Monday she pointed out two other defendants who she said were playing pool while she had a drink with a woman in the bar. She says she went into Big Dan's tavern last March 6 to buy a pack of cigarettes.

The woman did not single out Ms. Lindahl's client, Victor Raposo, 24, as one of the men who raped her or tried to force her to perform oral sex.

Under cross-examination, the woman said Raposo's only involvement the attack was to lean over the pool table and say, "Don't yell and they won't hurt you."

The remaining defendants, being tried in the morning session with Raposo, are John Cordeiro, Virgilio Medeiros and Jose Medeiros (not related), all 24.

The woman has testified that Cordeiro tried to force her to perform oral sex. She also has said Cordeiro and Raposo had offered her a ride home just before she was grabbed by another man.

On Monday, defense attorney Kenneth Sullivan pointed out she originally told police she stopped counting after being raped by six men.

Sullivan asked whether or not she had a better recollection of the facts the night of the rape.

"They're clearer now than they were then," she said in a low monotone.

She quietly denied a statement by defense lawyer David Waxler, representing Vieira, that she told a rape counselor police were prosecuting the wrong men in the case.

Making tracks about track

It's that time of the year when those who dare to start working on sprints, braving 30-mile-per hour winds in the dust bowl area astrophere, breaking out the Ben Gay for sore muscles and rising early on Saturday mornings to travel who knows where to battle the opposition along with adverse weather conditions.

Yes, it's track season in West Texas and just the thought of it makes my heart skip a beat. Although track is probably the least publicized and viewed sport around, it is slowly edging closer to football for supremacy in my book.

You can't beat the sport for excitement. It comes down to one individual against another. Sometimes a entire track meet will come down to how much desire and fortitude an individual has.

Can he outspurt his opposition down the backstretch in the 1600 meters to give his team the team championship? Or can she improve her previous best triple jump to move up a couple of places in the standings?

Track and field is a great sport for preppers because it teaches the athletes that they have to depend on themselves, and nobody else. Unlike football and basketball, if a person has a bad day or has not worked out hard that week, their performance will tell off in front of everyone.

Sometimes in team sports, teammates will make one look better.

Anyway, I think it takes a very special person to compete in track here in West Texas. I mean who wants to go out and run 220's, 330's and 660's in a blowing dust storm? Or you might go to a meet and run your prelims in 30 degree weather. It's hard to record one of the state's top times in those conditions.

I've always been a fanatic for a good track meet. It started back when I was young, watching my older brother and his big shot put buddy compete. When you have a brother that can run a 9.5 in the 100-yard dash, 21.0 in the 220 and a man that tosses the 12-pound ball 62 feet, you tend to idolize them.

So being a track athlete was right at the top of my list of priorities. When I became of age to compete in track, I had one major setback. I wanted to follow in my brother's footsteps and become a sprinter.

The coaches broke my heart by informing me that 175-pound seventh graders did are not sprinters. I later found out that I didn't have the heart nor the lungs for sprinter's workouts.

I soon settled down to an event I was more suited for. The shot put. Well to make a long story short, I was a decent shot putter that broke very few records, and never made it to state — but boy did I have fun.

After I finished my event, which was usually early in the morning, I would have the rest of the day to check out the meet and lend support to my teammates.

There is nothing like watching miler break the barrier for the first time, seeing the joy on a freshmen half-miler's face after he has just won a district championship, or being a part of the squad that has won a track crown for the first time in 15 years.

It's things like this that make track and field worthwhile. You get caught up in it when you see athletes brave adverse weather conditions to train, putting forth the maximum effort to finish sixth instead of seventh or finish in dead last of the 3200 meters.

All these things help make track and field the most spectacular spectator sport around.

Howard tames Ponies

Howard College tuned up for Region V baseball action by splitting with always tough Panola Junior College in a doubleheader Monday at Hawk Field.

The Hawks, who begin conference play Friday, lost the first game of the twinbill, 8-5 despite getting a pair of homers from Bobby Behnsch and Chuck Ashcraft.

John Wilson started and suffered the loss to drop to 0-2. He lasted three innings and left with seven hits and four runs charged against him. Kevin Sturdy came on in relief and was met with four runs on four hits in three innings of work.

In the second game things looked up for the Hawks although it took a two out single by Blake Rosson in the eighth inning to give the Hawks a split and send their record to 9-4 with a wild 10-9 win. Rosson's base hit brought in Behnsch who reached the basepaths with a walk and advanced on a single by Jim Garcia. Steve Carrasco, on in relief in the fourth, picked up the win and is 3-0 for the season. Carrasco gave up six hits and two runs and walked three while strikingout six.

Howard battled back in the first after Panola jumped in front, 3-0. Joey Ortiz, who went three for four, singled and stole second, Stephon Hodge walked and when Behnsch hit his seventh homer of the season it was a new ball game at 3-3.

Garcia continued things with his first of two doubles! After a walk to Gary Carr, Rosson collected the first of his three hits by doubling Garcia in for Howard's go-ahead score.

Before things settled down somewhat the Hawks struck for four runs in the bottom of the inning to lead 8-7.

Hawks enter WJCAC throneroom

BASKETBALL BATTLE — Jerry Stroman (5) and Mike Fulkerson (33) battle Odessa's Tom Bolden for control after a missed shot. The Hawks overcame a defensive minded Odessa bunch to cinch a conference crown Monday night. Stroman and Bolden led their teams with 25 and 17 points respectively.

It wasn't pretty and it certainly wasn't their best basketball of the season, but Monday night's 73-69 win by the Howard College Hawks over the Odessa Wranglers may have been their most important.

The victory in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum clinched the Western Junior College Athletic Conference championship for first year Howard coach Mike Mitchell's crew and leaves them at 24-3 and 15-2 with a game left against Clarendon Thursday in Clarendon.

Going into the game the worst Howard could do was tie for the top spot. Odessa went in in second place and trailed the Hawks by two games. The Wranglers are now 18-10 and 12-5.

As important as the win was, however it was not easy by any means.

The Wranglers, one of the teams to beat the Hawks, defended Howard well throughout the game except for Jerry Stroman's bucket and free throw with five seconds to play. Stroman gave the Hawks a 71-69 lead and iced the game with one second when he sank another pair of charities for the final margin of victory. Stroman finished the game with 25 points. He was joined in double figures by Michael Porter with 20 and James Johnson with 10. Tom Bolden paced Odessa with 17.

Odessa took a 34-28 halftime lead mainly on the Wranglers' ability to get the rebound. "We were caught standing around too much in the first half," said Mitchell. "We turned the ball over too much as well. We really didn't do much right in the first half. I do have to give our guys credit though because they battled back despite playing poorly," he added.

Mitchell specifically pointed out that with 11:10 to play and down by 13, "We could have gone either way — kept playing poorly and lost by 20 or just try and battle back."

The Hawks did the latter. Trailing 53-40, Stroman and Porter connected to make things 53-45. Mo Hoskin, Stroman and Joe Johnson made another run after an Odessa basket from Luther Burks that cut the gap to 55-52 with 7:57 to play. The Hawks did find their shooting eyes down the stretch, but Odessa had timely buckets to keep the Hawks down by three and two until Stroman stole the ball with 1:09 in the game. He converted the theft into a 68-67 Howard lead, but with 19 seconds Bolden made a bucket for an Odessa lead of 69-68. Stroman then notched his three point effort with five ticks on the clock. After an Odessa turnover Stroman found himself with the ball and being intentionally fouled. He sank the two to end the game.

Hawks (73) — Michael Porter 8 4 20; Hoskin 2 1 5; Jerry Stroman 10 5 25; James Johnson 4 2 10; Holland 1 0 2; Harris 1 0 2; Joe Johnson 1 1 3; Snooks 3 0 6; Totals 30 13 73.

Odessa (69) — Wilson 2 3 7; Luther Burks 5 2 12; Tom Bolden 6 5 17; Fairs 0 1 1; Benoit 2 2 6; Dudley 2 1 5; Reginald Hodge 3 4 10; Dewayne Chism 4 3 11; Totals 24 21 69.

Queens prevail, 79-73

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

It was an intense and hot shooting bunch of Howard College Hawk Queens that took the court Monday night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum and the Queens weren't disappointed as they took a 79-73 victory of Odessa College in women's Western Junior College Athletic Conference basketball action.

The win runs the Queens' winning streak to eight games and puts them at 22-8 for the season and 9-4 in conference action. And, coupled with Western Texas beating Amarillo, the Queens are assured of third place if they get by Clarendon Thursday night in a road game that will also be the final regular season contest of the year. March 6-8 the Queens will be among the field in the Region V Women's Basketball Tournament slated for

Sundown ends

'Coogs season

LEVELLAND — The Klondike Cougars basketball season came to an end thanks to a 68-57 loss to Sundown in area basketball action.

The Cougars, runner-up in District 11-A; got off to a hot start jumping to a 19-11 lead in the midway through the first quarter. Sundown, 24-5 then relled off five points to narrow the lead to three going into the second quarter.

Things went sour for the Cougars in the second period as their much taller opponents went to their trapping press to take a 30-25 halftime lead.

Midland.

The win also avenges two earlier losses to conference champ Odessa (30-4, 12-2) which makes things sweet according to the team's three sophomores — Janene Berry, Terri Moore and Kari Robinson. All agreed the win over the Lady Wranglers is something they have been working toward for a long time and Robinson said, "We just did what coach Stevens told us and got after it." Moore led the team with 24 points. Debbie Hall chipped in 16, Beaded 15 and Pat Carter had 10.

Stevens added, "It (winning) just goes to show what some good old hard work and dedication can do. We never got down. I'm very proud of this team." Stevens hopes the win and the streak act as a confidence builder both in Clarendon Thursday and at the regional tourney next week.

Back in January the Lady Wranglers waxed the Queens by 20 points, but in Monday's contest the Queens played evenly with the taller team from Odessa and trailed only, 30-29 at halftime.

Howard was keyed by Pat Carter, Debbie Hall, Moore, Alex Provencio, Berry, Diane Dickson and Molly Early in hanging tough with the nationally ranked Lady Wranglers. Those seven shot only 36 percent, but forced 13 first half turnovers and held their own under the boards with 13 rebound compared to 17 for Odessa.

In the second half Stevens, tongue-in-cheek, said "We warmed up." In fact the Queens set a blistering pace of 74 percent from the field (20 of 27). Included among that was 11 straight field goals in an eight minute span. Those figures allowed the Queens to grab a 32-31 lead at 18:53 of the second half when Berry hit a bucket. The Queens were pressed, but never gave up their advantage the rest of the game.

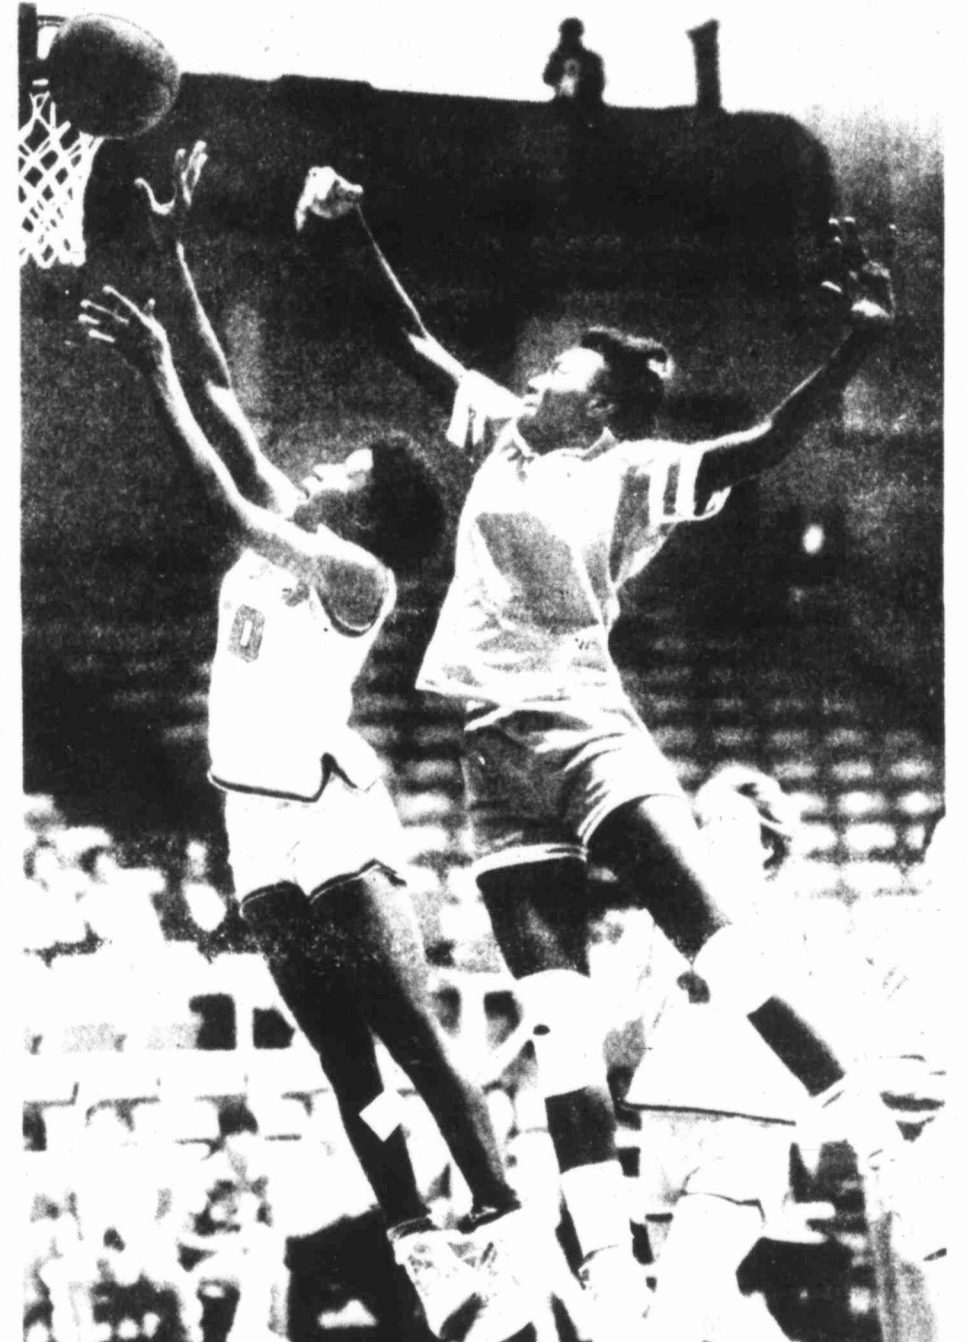

Howard built up as much as a 14 point lead and led by as little as one.

Queens (79) — Provencio 3 0 6; Pat Carter 4 2 10; Robinson 1 0 2; Early 3 0 6; Janene Berry 5 5 15; Debbie Hall 6 4 16; Terri Moore 11 2 24; Totals 33 13 79.

Odessa (73) — Alvarez 2 0 4; Brown 1 0 2; Sharon Cain 13 3 29; Sharon Blair 4 2 10; Tricia Clay 6 4 16; Clarke 0 2 2; Davis 2 2 6; Johnson 1 0 2; Totals 30 13 73.

Halftime: Odessa 30, Queens 29.

Records: Queens (22-8, 9-4); Odessa (30-4, 12-2).

UP, UP, UP — Hawk Queen Pat Carter (20) goes up for a field goal effort while Tamara Jackson defends for Odessa. Carter scored 10 points to help contribute to a Queens' win over the conference champion. Debbie Hall (44) for the Queens and Odessa's Debbie Scheuermann are in the background waiting for a possible rebound.

Sullivan award goes to Moses

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — World champion hurdler Edwin Moses was named winner Monday of the James E. Sullivan Memorial Award for 1983.

Moses, 28, of Laguna Hills, Calif., was selected from 10 finalists to join a list of those who have won the equivalent of the Oscar for amateur athletes.

"It's an award my father always wanted me to win," said Moses, whose father, Irving, died in December. "I've joined some of our nation's greatest athletes and when I was nominated he told me he hoped I'd join that group someday."

The award was presented by Glenn Cunningham, who received his plaque from the Amateur Athletic Union in 1934.

"This is the third time I've been selected as a finalist," Moses said. "I have won quite a few awards through my career, and this is one that seems to have escaped me."

Moses was selected in nationwide voting by more than 2,400 participants, including past winners, members of the media, the U.S. Olympic Committee executive board and the sponsoring AAU.

"It's a great award to be the winner going into an Olympic year," said Moses. "It takes dedication and motivation, the same qualities that everyone else on the stage has and probably more than their competitors."

The winner's mother, Gladys Moses, and his wife, Myrella, were on hand for the presentation at the Indianapolis Convention Center.

The presentation at the awards dinner, which had sportscaster Chris Schenkel as master of ceremonies was quite different than that when Cunningham won the award.

"There was not much to do about it," recalled Cunningham, 74, a former middle distance runner who presented the award in recognition of his being having received it 50 years ago.

Cunningham, a former University of Kansas miler, received his award during an AAU meet in New York's Madison Square Garden. There was no fuss over the winner in those days, he said.

This year's event was a sellout of 1,000, but the crowd was sharply reduced by a snowstorm that struck Indianapolis on Monday.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. igniting a second-half (AP) — Dan Federmann surge as Tennessee upset scored a game-high 19 fourth-ranked Kentucky points and got 12 rebounds, 63-58 Monday night in a Southeastern Conference college basketball game. The Volunteers, sixth in the conference going into the game, improved their record to 18-11, 9-8 in the SEC. Conference leader Kentucky fell to 21-4 and 12-4 in the SEC.

FRUSTRATION — Winston Bennett (25) scrambles with Tennessee's Dan Federmann (54) watches. Tennessee upset Kentucky, 63-58 in Southeastern Conference action Monday night.

In the 12 years Joe B. Hall has coached the Wildcats, they have beaten Tennessee only once in Knoxville — the year the 1977-78 Kentucky team went on to the national championship.

Kentucky controlled the first half after brief Tennessee leads at 10-8 and 12-10. The Wildcats went in at the half ahead 23-22 after Tennessee's Myron Carter missed a shot at the buzzer. But a different Tennessee team emerged from the dressing room.

Federmann tied the score at 31 with a dunk and after Kentucky's Kenny Walker hit a field goal, the Vols' Willie Burton tied it again at 33.

Tennessee then surged ahead and in the final 11 minutes, the Vols led by no less than seven points as Tony White hit a layup and seven from the foul line.

Sam Bowie, who led Kentucky with eight points in the first half, missed a pair of free throws and five of his six field goal attempts before fouling out with 4:40 remaining.

Ewing, Akeem pose problems

Shortly, college basketball's All America electors will be faced with a tall problem. About 14 feet tall. The question is how do you fit two dominant centers on the same five-man All Star team?

Do you prefer Georgetown's Patrick Ewing in the pivot, or Akeem "The Dream" Olajuwon of Houston?

This is sort of like picking between ice cream and layer cake for dessert. If you have a sweet tooth, you're not going to get terribly hurt — except in your waistline — either way.

If you're determined to pick just one, though, you won't get much help from the statistical comparisons. They simply do not do very much to separate these two talented giants.

Both are 7-foot juniors, a pair of imposing forces under the boards. Ewing is averaging 16.6 points and 10.3 rebounds per game. Olajuwon's numbers are 16.2 points and 13.9 rebounds per game. Ewing has 101 blocked shots, Olajuwon 158. Ewing is shooting 65.7 percent from the field to Olajuwon's 64.4. From the foul line, Ewing is 62.1 percent and Olajuwon 53.2.

OK, coach, what do you do with this dilemma? "You can't put a postage stamp between them," said Al McGuire, the former Marquette coach who now broadcasts games for NBC-TV and calls giants like these two aircraft carriers.

"Olajuwon might have a greater area for improvement. Patrick has played longer. He is more domesticated. Olajuwon still has a lot of foreign aspects about his game."

"Right now, there's no French pastry at all (to him). He's strictly plain to paint, straight up and down, get the ball and hammer. Patrick will go outside and pop occasionally."

"I like Ewing's temperament. He's more spirited. That's an asset, not a liability. There's a little intensity, but it's softer in Olajuwon."

"Then you would pick Ewing, Al?"

"You're talking good and better," he said. "Frank McGuire, the Hall of Fame coach who is director of Madison Square Garden's college basketball program, had a novel solution."

"I'd pick Sam Perkins," he said. "Foul! Nobody said you could opt for the big guy from North Carolina."

"Hey he's got a 43 1/2-inch reach. You can shake hands with him from across the room," McGuire said. "C'mon, coach, Ewing or Olajuwon."

"Right now, Ewing has more finesse," he said.

'Refuge' is sensitive drama on PBS tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — "Refuge," tonight on public television's "American Playhouse," is an unusually sensitive drama energized by a magnificent seascape set seemingly created by nature for troubled people in search of solitude.

The 90-minute movie was shot entirely on location on the coast of Maine, around and sometimes on Penobscot Bay, and the sensual effect is extraordinary.

"Refuge" is the story of four people — Alexandra, newly divorced; Bill and Jean, their marriage in jeopardy; and Haskell, recently dismissed as headmaster of the school that was the focus of his life — who seek sanctuary on a remote island.

Inevitably, their lives collide and entangle, and at first, they seem relieved.

Alexandra, at work on a novel, describes through her book's protagonist, Hannah, what happens after she meets Bill and Jean: "Hannah saw now that the couple came to her individually, needing something which they didn't give each other, and she felt drawn to them. It was a warm feeling, but a frightening one."

Haskell arrives on a kayak and further weakens Alexandra's resistance. "I like his impulsiveness and energy," she says to Jean. "And he tries to be kind, which is good for a change."

Bill and Jean, though determined to save their relationship, find themselves attracted, separately, to Alexandra. Jean imagines that her husband's interest in the young woman is more than casual, but Alexandra, betrayed in her own marriage, tries to be reassuring:

"To me, that's the most important thing," she tells Jean, "to honor the other person, to care enough to keep your promise."

Tension comes initially from the mutual attraction they try to resist.

'60 Minutes' episode leads to shooting death

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — A family fight that left one man dead, another beaten and a third in custody began when a "60 Minutes" story about alleged police brutality in this town prompted an argument about "racism and blacks using drugs," authorities said.

Leroy Franklin, 39, was pronounced dead at Brookside Hospital in San Pablo after being shot three times in the chest with a small-caliber handgun, Richmond police Sgt. Ray Ramer said Monday.

Franklin's nephew, Kenneth Ray Arnold, 19, was treated and released from Brookside Hospital after his uncle hit him with an ax handle Sunday during CBS-TV's newsmagazine show, Ramer said. Kenneth's brother, Marion Van Arnold, 22, who reportedly witnessed as his brother was clubbed, was booked for investigation of homicide, police said.

The shooting occurred only minutes after the "60 minutes" segment entitled "The Guardians and the Cowboys," a reference to opposing factions of black and white officers within the Richmond Police Department.

In June, a federal civil rights jury awarded $3 million to the families of two black men slain by white Richmond police officers. The defendants have appealed the verdict.

The family members, including Franklin's mother, a sister and a brother, all of Richmond, were in the victim's home watching the televised allegations of police brutality, Ramer said.

"They said they were watching the show and they were ... outspoken with their opinions concerning racism and blacks using drugs and the argument erupted ... into violence," he said.

Franklin went into the kitchen, returned with an ax handle and allegedly began clubbing Kenneth Arnold, Ramer said.
