

Our Viewpoint by L. E. B.

Last week we called your attention to the fact that Farmer county could pave Highway 60 and never have to pay for that paving.

The primary thought in considering the purposes, plans and objects of the proposed highway bond issue is that it is a tax relief measure designed to lift the burden of millions of dollars from the backs of the property taxpayers of the state.

This question is bigger than any one man or set of men in Texas. It is just as big as Texas, and the program has been inspired with the thought of all Texas benefitting and profiting by it.

The outstanding county bonds, the money which has been used to build state highways, will by this plan be refunded solely for the purpose of reducing taxes.

This committee is not a part of any political faction and has no interest whatever in the political fortunes of any man or any group of men.

More than 100 leading citizens cooperated with members of the legislature in drafting this resolution. All factions have been invited to make—and many have made—constructive criticism.

As one of the committeemen said: 'Any man who does not want to pay this tax can run his lizzie in the shed and pay nothing.' The users of the roads only, through the motor fuel tax, will pay off this indebtedness.

I am appealing as a taxpayer to every man who reads this to study the resolution or bond issue carefully before criticizing it. We want the people to analyze it and know that having done so, they will find it to be the most complete tax relief measure ever submitted to the people of Texas.

We must lay aside politics and do some sound thinking about the tax burden and the constructive development of our state. Let us join hands and build a greater Texas, at the same time being helpful to one another.

Road Bonds Amendment Is Big Tax Relief

Anstin—Described as the greatest tax relief measure ever placed before the state, the road bond issue amendment was a major issue on the legislative calendar last week.

Passage of the amendment, unanimously endorsed by the Citizens Good Roads committee meeting here, is the solution to a problem brought about by an excessive property tax burden.

Under the plan, all outstanding county bonds, the proceeds of which were used to build designated state highways, would be refunded to the various counties.

The present economic crisis," said R. T. Stuart, chairman of the citizens committee, "demands that this amendment be passed.

The burden will thus be shifted from property owners to the shoulders of the man who actually uses the highways, including the tourist.

Of the proposed $200,000,000 issue, half would be used to retire county bonds, while the remainder would be used in furthering a five year road building campaign.

Who Will Win the $15.00 Gold Letter Contest?

The Friona Star's letter contest will end on April 30 and the winners will receive $15 in gold. Who will win this contest? Who will write the best letter on "where the county seat should be located so that it will serve the greatest number of Farmer county citizens with the greatest convenience?"

The Star especially invites citizens of other cities in Farmer county to write letters setting forth the advantages of their own towns as county seat locations.

The letters to be entered in the contest must set forth the advantages of some Farmer county town as a county seat point. Letters against moving the county seat because of increased taxes will not be accepted as entries because the editor of the Star fully realizes that at the present time the tax payers of the county have all the burden they can carry, and this contest is not in any sense a fight to move the court house this year or even next year if present conditions continue to exist.

Storms Sweep All of County Twice In Week

Friona and Parmer county were swept by storms twice in the past week, bringing snow and rain to moisten the fields of our farmers.

Thursday a blizzard swept down upon us bringing the mercury in the thermometer down to a low level, and a howling wind which made it seem much colder than it really was.

Monday we were again visited with a blinding snow storm, but not such low temperatures nor as high a wind as in the first storm.

Planting Trees Beautify Fronts of Friona Firms

Recently two Friona business houses have beautified the front of their establishments by planting trees and shrubs between the curb and sidewalk.

Last month Mr. Lang, manager of the Rockwell Bros. & Company made flower beds in front of the lumber yard and planted trees and shrubs so that his place of business would be more attractive.

This week Bob Hicks, owner of the Hicks building over across the railroad tracks did a splendid piece of work when he transplanted some black locust trees and small evergreens along the front of Taylor's cafe.

This move on the part of these two Friona business men is highly commendable and speaks well for their civic pride and efforts to make Friona a more beautiful place in which to live.

Easter, April 5.

Easter observance had its origin in a ceremony that is an outgrowth of a pagan festival. The twentieth century celebration is a modern evolution of heathen ideas influenced by those of the Christian religion.

Easter is always determined by the vernal equinox. It is set as the first Sunday after the first full moon following March 21. This accounts for the variation of Easter.

The word Easter is from the Saxon "Eostre", name of the goddess of spring, who lived in the east with the rising sun. She was the most gentle of the pagan deities. As she tripped across the meadows the grass came out, flowers blossomed, ice was broken in the brooks, and streams sang merrily. All the earth rejoiced,

The state inspector of schools was here from Austin one day last week.

B. Y. P. U. held a social at the C. R. Walsler home Friday night.

Intermediates of Sunday school were entertained in the Walter Hawkins home Thursday night.

The weather has been so cold and stormy the past week that social activities have been on the wane.

Interest Shown In Night School for Poultrymen

From The Hereford Brand
At the first session of the poultry night school Tuesday night, conducted by B. H. Hopkins, agriculture teacher, in the agriculture rooms of the high school building, a tentative outline for future programs was agreed upon. The school is in form of general discussion of problems and not straight academic instruction.

Poultry housing will be taken up Thursday night. Other phases will be brought up in subsequent meetings, such as breeding, sanitation, culling, feeding, growing stock, capons, killing and dressing, standard of perfection, including defects, and types of brooders.

Those attending Tuesday evening were enthusiastic, and more interest and larger attendance are expected as the school progresses. The school begins at eight and continues to 9:30 every Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

April 5, 1931.

Easter Lesson THE RESURRECTION Proof and Power of the Resurrection.

I Cor. 15:1-8, 50-58

Golden Text: Now hath Christ been raised from the dead, the first fruits of them that are asleep.—I Cor. 15:20.

Introduction.

The resurrection is a great reassuring parable of the indomitable vitality and remarkable recuperative power of Christianity. Repeatedly in the past its defeat has been pronounced; it has been asserted that its day is over, that the time has come for some other religion to take its place. We hear nowadays such like pronouncements. But over and over again this gospel of Jesus, embodied in his church, has come forth, even out of graves of decline, coldness and temporary defeat, into new, larger and more vigorous life.

The history of Christianity bears witness to the truth of Jesus' resurrection. Men would never have labored, sacrificed, suffered and died for a dead prophet or leader as Christians have for their Christ. "The power of resurrection" has thus been a driving and sustaining force for Christianity (Phil. 3:10).

Paul Declares the Gospel.

The disciples at Corinth, like people always and everywhere, are curious about death and the hereafter. They would know what answers the Jesus faith, which they have recently accepted, has to their curiosity. They have, let us remember, no New Testament to consult. So they turn to their sponsor and teacher, Paul. His answer constitutes an important part of this famous First Epistle to the Corinthians, which Harnack pronounced "the greatest, strongest thing that Paul ever wrote."

Paul had written a previous letter to the Corinthian church; to which he alludes in 5:9; so this is not really "First Corinthians". He is now at Ephesus, where he made a long stay, on the third missionary journey. The year is 54 or 55 A. D. It should be noticed that this is the earliest account of our Lord's resurrection; written while many witnesses were still living.

A Summary of the Gospel.

This chapter 15 has for us an especial value in that it contains a little creed, or simple statement of the gospel as Paul preached it, as he had "received" it from the Twelve?—or directly from the Lord (Gal. 1:12)? A saving gospel, Paul insists. We certainly want to know accurately as may be what it was that those who had been close to Jesus, and his earliest church and great apostle, taught and preached. There are four items in this statement of Paul's:

1. The saving death of Christ.
2. The resurrection.
3. The confidence that Christ is a living Lord, manifesting himself to his followers.
4. Our resurrection on account of his.

Here the basic fact is that Christ died for the salvation of sinful men. Our Gospel doctrine of "the resurrection and the life" comes out of the open tomb, but also down from the cross.

"And why? Paul answers that question with appealing argument and luminous comparisons. In this 15th chapter of I Corinthians. It may be regarded as an excursus of the Gospel narrative of the resurrection of Jesus. There we have the scene, the history; here an unfolding of its implications for dying men and men in the face of death. Because of the wide use of the Church of England's burial service, which contains much of this chapter, the great apostle's words have become a universal thanatopsis."

Resurrection A Well Attested Fact.

That Paul himself had seen the risen Christ is always with him the proof that counts; personally he asks no other; nevertheless he tells the Corinthians that there is any amount of additional evidence, supplied by hundreds of disciples, men and women, who had been intimately associated with the Master during his ministry; they had seen him in that last forty-day period, and so could not have been mistaken.

"Down in Palestine the resurrection of Jesus was such a well-known, well attested fact that no one thought of doubting it. The Greek Christians of Corinth had informed Paul, however, that some of their number did question it. The Greeks held to the immortality of the soul; but the resurrection of the body was a different matter, and the resurrection of Jesus, as the apostle had found when he talked about it on Mars Hill, was to them a stumbling-block (Acts 17:32).

If Christ Arose, Christians Will Arise.

Shall we be raised from death into enduring life? If Christ was, yes. For it is a common teaching of Paul that the believer shares all things with his Lord. In this paragraph the apostle pushes his promises to relentless conclusions. If Christ did not conquer death, there will be no resurrection for any of us—if you and I are not to be raised, then Christ wasn't. Then all of us who say we have seen him are liars. Then my preaching is a mere old wives' tale. Then you Corinthians are back in your lost, sinful estate. Then the dead are gone forever, to the rubbish heap of the universe. Then, finally, we followers of Christ "are of all men most miserable."

"But it is not so, Christ did rise from the dead." And then in the remainder of the chapter the apostle sings for us one of the greatest songs of Christian victory that the church has ever heard, a glorious defiance to death and the grave, a psalm of immortality. It has become one of the most precious portions of the Bible. In the gloom of the valley of the shadow of death its majestic, enheartening words never fail to ring in our ears. "Born in corruption, raised in incorruption; sown in dishonor (weakness), raised in glory (power); sown a natural (animal) body, raised a spiritual body. . . . We shall bear the image of the heavenly. . . . Death has been swallowed up in victory!

Where, Death, is now thy victory? Oh where, Death, is now thy sting? Thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ!"

If Risen With Christ, Live for Him.

The last verse of this chapter taken together with the first of chapter 16 seems like a coming-down—after the heavenly discourse to which we have just been listening. Why does Paul so suddenly change the subject, go to urging faithfulness to the practical duties of the Christian life, even such a very practical matter as one's obligation to subscribe to the apostle's Palestinian Relief Fund?

"Well, that is Paul; through his head may be in the clouds of rapturous meditation and his heart aflame, his feet are always on the solid ground of moral character and Christian duty and service. He had in him the making of a fanatic, but his answer to the call of his Lord to the world's need saved him from being one."

Be Steadfast, Unmovable.

The meaning, then: "Since we have this blessed hope of living a new and everlasting life with our risen Lord; and since we have such a Lord, Conqueror of Death, of a Prince of Enduring Life, doesn't it behoove us to be very steadfast in our loyalty to him and ever diligent in the manifold tasks of the kingdom to which he appoints his followers?" "Attached to this high hope that I have been speaking of," he says, "is high conduct. Never expect the Lord Christ, O Christians of Corinth! to open for you the gates of paradise unless you endeavor to make a little more paradisaical for your fellows this lowly earth."

Easter has a two-fold lesson: of enduring life with Christ after death; of service with him here and now. Paul declares that we must take the two lessons together; that they are inseparable. No Christian will carry away from this resurrection anniversary celebration its true, full ministry and blessing unless he goes forth from it to be and to do better for Christ, his risen Lord. "Dying with Jesus, his death reckoned mine, Living with Jesus a new life divine."

County Grader Terraces Acre With Low Cost

(From the Hereford Brand)

College Station.—The increased use of county road machinery in terrace construction and the rapid increase in number of men and boys trained by county agents in use of farm level in laying out terrace lines are prominently listed by M. R. Bentley, agricultural engineer, Texas A. & M. college extension service, in accounting for the 925,450 acres terraced or contourd in 1930 to prevent soil erosion and conserve rainfall. This is an increase of 50 per cent over 1929, and brings the grand total to about 4,500,000 acres since 1916, when county agents began terracing in earnest.

It is estimated 12 to 15 counties were using road machinery to build terraces in 1928, while about 75 counties had farmers hiring big machinery from county commissioners last year. The cost varies from a little more than $1 per acre down to as low as 30 cents per acre.

Seen On the Screen at the Star

"New Moon," as a rare musical treat, in which some of the foremost names of modern music are closely bound, is the attraction at the Star theatre Thursday and Friday, April 2-3. The story is a romantic drama of love, adventure and intrigue, with music interwoven as integral selves.

For Saturday matinee and night "Part Time Wife," a comedy production, is billed.

An accurate replica of Oxford University was constructed on the lot during the filming of "Charley's Aunt," the talking version of a noted play. The film is a farce based on the ever interesting topic of mistaken identity, and is coming to the Star Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.
