How's that?

Valentine

Q. What's the origin of Valentine's Day?

A. It's named after St. Valentine, a Christian bishop martyred by Claudius II on Feb. 14, 270 A.D., but its origins as a love observance stretch back to primitive times when man believed birds first engaged in spring mating on this day.

The connection between mating and the Christian bishop are unclear.

Grand jury clears deputy

By SCOTT FITZGERALD
Staff Writer

Howard County grand jurors decided yesterday not to indict sheriff's deputy O.D. Majors, clearing him of criminal liability in the shooting death of Joe Garza of San Angelo.

Majors shot and killed Garza, 16, last Nov. 26 when the youth tried to run a roadblock on Highway 87 south of Big Spring. The roadblock had been set up at the request of Big Spring police, who were pursuing Garza in a high-speed car chase that began in the 500 block of North Gregg.

Assistant District Attorney Jeanene Walker said the jurors' decision clears Majors of any criminal action "unless in some instance, a bunch of new evidence was presented."

Ms. Walker said as a general rule, the grand jury is usually presented all evidence when it hears a case. "I know that there was a lot of evidence presented," Ms. Walker said about the shooting investigation.

A passenger in the car, Richard Flores, 18, also of San Angelo, is now serving a prison term in the Texas Department of Corrections. The car had been reported stolen from a San Angelo car dealership.

After the police requested assistance, Majors, who was on patrol in the Forsan area, set a roadblock on the San Angelo highway. According to sheriff's reports, as the vehicle driven by Garza approached the roadblock, Majors "said he was imperiled" and the deputy fired two shots while "jumping out of the way."

According to police reports of the incident, the vehicle went through the roadblock and swerved as if to hit Majors, who fired his shotgun twice. Both shots hit the car on the driver's side. Police said Garza was hit in the head with shotgun pellets.

Phone rates go up today

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The cost of having a telephone in your home or office jumps $2.27 per month today as Southwestern Bell implements an interim rate increase granted by the state Corporation Commission.

The commission's decision will give the company $32.5 million a year more in revenue, about half the $61.1 million it has requested. That would have raised monthly rates by $4.25 per month.

But the telephone company's rate case is not over. The increase granted Wednesday an interim one while a larger increase is considered later, when more figures are available.

John R. Parsons, president of the Oklahoma Division of Southwestern Bell, said he was surprised and concerned by the commission's action. He also announced the telephone company is making additional cuts in capital investment and expenses.

"Deregulation of the telephone industry and the introduction of competition have all but eliminated the traditional subsidies for local exchange service," Parsons said in a news release.

"We must face the fact that telephone companies — just like other businesses — must charge prices that cover costs."

The change that takes effect today is a flat increase for all telephone service in all areas of the state, even though Southwestern Bell's monthly rates differ within Oklahoma.

By making the increase on an interim basis, the commission assured that the increase is subject to refund with interest if Bell fails to prove the need for a permanent revenue increase at least equal to the amount of the interim increase.

KERI GERWIEN, 7-year-old daughter of Petty Officer 1st Class Harry Gerwien, mails a Valentine to her dad, serving aboard a Navy ship at sea.

Sailed with a kiss

By The U.S. Navy

Valentine's Day is a bittersweet time of the year for U.S. Navy men and women serving aboard ships at sea. It's a day to reflect on being in love but offset by the loneliness of being far away.

For the thousands of sailors deployed during this time, the mail remains an essential lifeline to loved ones.

"Mail maintains that link with home," said Lt. Cmdr. Bill Snyder of New Bethlehem, Pa., the executive officer aboard the guided missile frigate USS Lewis B. Puller. "It reinforces the whole reason we're out there. It makes us remember what it's all about."

According to Snyder, the effect of the mail on the crew's morale is undeniable.

"Mail from home can make a sailor's day — his week," Snyder said. "Not getting any mail can ruin his day as well."

Valentine's Day is the one day, Snyder said, that even salty fleet sailors are allowed to be sentimental.

"We're human, too," he said. According to U.S. Post Office statistics, Valentine's Day is the third busiest time of the year for mail deliveries, surpassed only by Christmas and Mother's Day.

Mail headed to the Pacific Fleet is processed through the Fleet Mail Center in Subic Bay in the Philippines. During an average month, about 214,000 pounds of mail is received, sorted and routed to operating areas throughout the Pacific and Indian Oceans.

Three challengers enter City Council race

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer

A former city council candidate is the latest challenger to file for election to one of the three at-large Big Spring City Council seats to be filled in April elections.

Micheal Russell, 35, of 603 Bucknell, who ran unsuccessfully as a candidate for District 3 in last year's single-member district elections, is the director of operations for H.W. Wright Oil Co. of Big Spring.

Russell said he groups the programs he is interested in under a "quality of life" label. They include improvements in streets and sewers, a continuing program of Operation CLEAN, support of the downtown area's revitalization and improvements in the city's water program, he said.

"But our biggest problem is not the water, the streets or everyone going to Midland to buy; it's an attitude problem. This town has got it all; we have things no other city in West Texas has — lakes, mountains and more recreational facilities," Russell said. "The community needs to have a positive attitude about itself."

D.W. OVERMAN

DAN LAWS

MICHEAL RUSSELL

Russell and his wife, Linda, have two children living at home. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and is in the Leadership Big Spring program. He also is one of the chairmen of the Partners for Unity and Progress, a voluntary arbitrator for the Better Business Bureau and a member of the city's Parks Board. Dan Laws of 2524 N. Albrook, an electrical foreman with Texaco Oil Co. of Midland, said he "wants to be a part of the city."

Laws, who has lived in Big Spring for six years, has also worked as an electrician for the U.S.-Big Spring Federal Prison Camp and the City of Dallas.

He said he wants to concentrate on making change in the city's inspection and building trades departments and inspections.

"We need to make sure people in town are licensed electricians," he said. If a non-licensed electrician performs electrical work, the work could be a potential fire hazard, he said.

He also said he interested in the trash container program and in making property owners responsible for keeping their property clean.

He and his wife, Darlene, have three children. He is a member of the First Church of the Nazarene.

Former Big Spring City employee D.W. Overman of 2719 Larry said he decided to run because of his concern over the decline in the city's population and the failure of small businesses in town.

Overman, the former water distribution superintendent with the city, is now employed by the Sid Richardson Carbon Co. He is a Big Spring High School graduate, and attended Howard College and Texas A&M extension courses.

He said he wants the city government to be more efficient in its use of tax money.

He is the past president of the Permian Basin Water Utilities Association and has been a member of several civic organizations. He and his wife, Jane, have two children.

Rendezvous reunion

Japanese, Americans meet at Iwo Jima battle site

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese officials hope a reunion of American and Japanese survivors of the battle of Iwo Jima 40 years ago will lead them to thousands of bodies of Japanese killed there and never recovered.

Specifically, they wonder if any of the visitors will be able to point out hidden entrances of tunnels and caves from which the Japanese fought a tenacious but losing struggle through five bloody weeks of February and March 1945.

It was this battle that produced the memorable photograph of Americans raising their flag on Mount Suribachi, and the Japanese say it is possible many bodies could be found in Suribachi's caves.

As the battle progressed, U.S. Marines blasted shut many of the cave and tunnel entrances, sealing unknown numbers of defenders inside. Afterward, more entrances were bulldozed with rocks and dirt to keep out looters and amateur explorers.

Officials of the Welfare Ministry's War Victims Relief Bureau say there may be as many as 4,000 to 5,000 human remains still in the underground labyrinths of Iwo Jima, an island about five miles long and two miles wide in the western Pacific. Recovery of the dead is important to the Japanese, primarily because of a Buddhist belief that the souls of the dead cannot repose in peace without proper burial.

Landing craft head for the beach at Iwo Jima in 1945. The struggle for Iwo Jima lasted five weeks in February and March. Japanese officials hope a reunion Feb. 19 of American and Japanese survivors of the battle will lead them to thousands of bodies of Japanese survivors of the battle who were killed there and never recovered.

that they can provide on the location of tunnels, especially the entrances," said Tsuneo Hamamatsu, who heads the Iwo project for the relief agency.

The reunion Feb. 19 is expected to bring together some 225

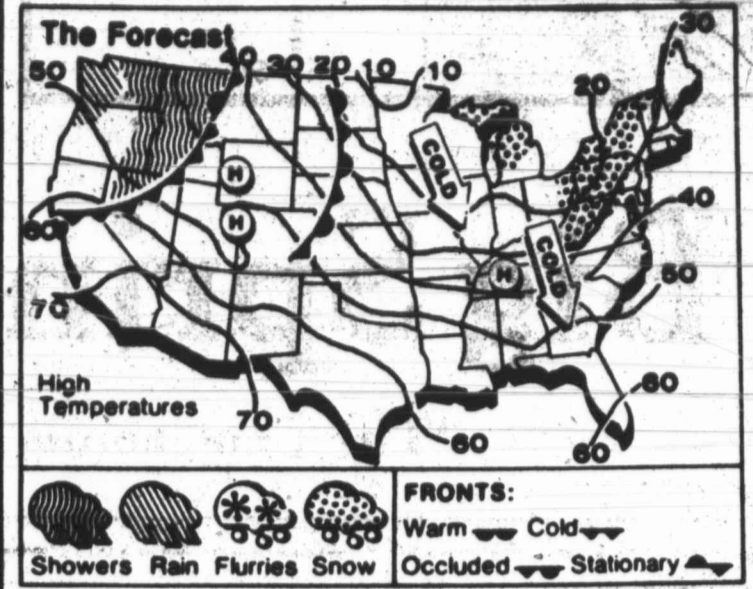

American veterans, widows and other relatives, and about 100 Japanese, including some of the few remaining survivors.

A highlight of the one-day event is to be the dedication of a memorial, erected on high ground above the black-sand beaches where two divisions of Marines stormed ashore against withering Japanese fire Feb. 19, 1945.

Jointly paid for by veterans' associations of the 3rd, 4th and 5th Marine Divisions and the family of the late actor John Wayne — who starred in the 1949 Hollywood film "Sands of Iwo Jima" — the marble plaque proclaims in English and Japanese a "reunion of honor" and expresses hope that "our sacrifices will always be remembered and never be repeated."

The Americans suffered nearly 26,000 casualties.

barely have time to recover from the holiday rush when they have to tackle the influx of Valentine's Day love letters and cards coming from, as well as going to, the States.

Because of its boosting effect on the crew's morale, mail delivery is given top priority in shipboard deliveries. Transported to the aircraft carrier — the heart of a battle group — by a twin-engine C-1 aircraft, the mail is then sorted and delivered to the individual ships via helicopters.

Although Valentine's Day means extra work for most fleet postal workers, none seem to complain.

Said one young shipboard postal clerk, as he pulled a heavy sack from among the cache of mailbags in the aircraft, "I don't mind putting out a little effort. It's my job. And, besides, somewhere in there is a letter from my girl."

Line failure causes blackout

A faulty feeder line on the east side of the Big Spring airport Wednesday afternoon caused many Big Spring residents to lose electrical power for about 30 minutes, Texas Electric Co. Big Spring General Manager Hooper Sanders said Wednesday evening.

The line that went down was one of the four main feeder lines from the west substation on the west side of town, Sanders said.

Power to 1,400 of the city's 10,000 electric customers was cut-off at 3:33 p.m., Sanders said. According to Sanders, the line was old and scheduled to be reconnected.

The company restored electrical power to its customers in two parts, meter supervisor Tom Corwin said. Service to its residential customers was restored in about 30 minutes.

Service to the Senior Citizens Center and the New Life Covenant Chapel, located south of the U.S. Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, was restored at 5:28 p.m., Sanders said.

In other action, grand jurors returned one no-bill (no indictment), 23 indictments and passed on two cases.

Shooting spree

Robbers kill 2 hostages, restaurant manager

A suspect kneels in the snow held by officers (right) and another lays dead (left), visible under their pickup truck at Colby, Kan., late Wednesday following a three-county shooting spree that left four people dead.

COLBY Kan. (AP) — Three young men and a woman apparently held up a roadside restaurant, shot the manager to death and killed two hostages "execution-style" in a crime spree that ended when one of the suspects died in a shootout with police, a sheriff said today.

An undersheriff, a grain elevator operator and two of the suspects also were wounded in the three-county rampage in rural northwest Kansas on Wednesday, said Thomas County Sheriff Tom Jones.

Larry McFarland, the manager of a Stuckey's restaurant along Interstate 70, was shot to death in an apparent robbery, Jones said. After the body was found the suspects exchanged shots with Thomas County Undersheriff Ben Albright, leaving him wounded.

Minutes later, two men were abducted and a pickup truck was stolen at a nearby grain elevator. The two abducted men were subsequently "laid down in a road" and shot in the face, said Jones. He called the crimes "needless, bloody, ruthless murders. There's just no rhyme or reason to it."

The chase ended with a gunbattle when a police roadblock forced the pickup truck off the road.

One of the three surviving suspects was hospitalized, and two others were jailed. They were being held without bail on probable cause for first-degree murder and were to be formally charged in a hearing here today, said Thomas County Deputy Sheriff Mike Bond.

Authorities identified the suspects as Mark Anthony Walter and Lisa J. Dunn of Sutton Bay, Mich.; Daniel Eugene Remeta, address unknown, and James C. Hunter of Amoret. They were estimated to be from 18 to 25 years old.

"Why in the world did they do what they did in our particular county? I just don't know," Jones said.

He said a high school student found the body of McFarland, 27, about 3:30 p.m. Wednesday inside his restaurant along the I-70 exchange at Grainfield, a Gove County town of about 400 people about 35 miles southeast of Colby.

A short time later, Albright, 27, was shot at least twice when he approached a suspicious vehicle at the I-70 exchange at Levant, an unincorporated community of about 80 people a little more than 40 miles northwest of Grainfield.

The wounded officer called in a description of the vehicle and suspects, Jones said. Albright was in serious but stable condition today following surgery at Citizens Medical Center in Colby.

The suspects then drove a short distance to the Bartlett and Co. grain elevator in Levant, where they allegedly abducted two men, stole a pickup truck and shot the elevator manager, Maurice Christie, 61, wounding him, Jones said.

American eludes captors

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Jeremy Levin, the Beirut bureau chief for Cable News Network who disappeared last March 7, escaped from his captors early today, the Christian Voice of Lebanon radio station said.

The report said Levin, 51, showed up at a military headquarters of the Syrian army in the eastern Lebanese city of Baalbek about 2 a.m. It gave no further details.

The office of the French news agency Agence France Presse in Beirut said an AFP correspondent in Baalbek had seen Levin, and that he appeared to be in good health, but was tired. AFP said it had a picture of Levin.

Col. Chettha Thanajaro, deputy commander of the Eastern Border Task Force, said he expected the Vietnamese forces to complete the takeover of the Khmer Rouge headquarters by Friday.

Chettha said a rear guard Khmer Rouge force was trying to hold off the Vietnamese while the main force units retreated into the jungles with their ammunition, equipment and food supplies.

Officer tabs stoves for fire

NEW DELHI, India — Illegal cooking stoves were blamed today for a fire that broke out on an Indian passenger ship in the Bay of Bengal, killing up to 34 people, a government shipping spokesman said today.

He said the stoves may have sparked a fire which blazed through the upper deck of the M.V. Chidambaram on Tuesday, when the ship was about 310 miles east of the Indian coast. The liner was carrying 702 passengers and 186 crew members.

The 17,000-ton ship, owned by the government's giant Shipping Corporation of India, arrived in Madras this morning with charred bodies floating on the flooded upper deck, witnesses said. In New Delhi, Shipping Ministry spokesman Mahendra Jhamb said 27 bodies had been recovered and seven other people were missing and presumed dead.

"Their bodies may be lying in the debris," he said. "No one was seen jumping off the ship."

Earlier, United News of India quoted the ship's captain as saying that 50 were killed.

UPI reported from Madras that 13 Malaysians and one Singaporean were among those killed.

Vietnamese take over base

KHAO SARAPEE, Thailand (AP) — Vietnamese troops, in their fiercest offensive this year, toppled one major Communist Khmer Rouge base and seized part of another today in the hills of western Cambodia, Thai military officers said.

Under a heavy umbrella of artillery fire, 13,000 Vietnamese troops pushed from the south and east in a three-pronged attack that sent hundreds of Khmer Rouge guerrillas retreating to Thailand, the officers said.

The Vietnamese overran Khao Din, seven miles southeast of here, and took over half of Phnom Malai, the main Khmer Rouge headquarters eight miles to the north, the officers said.

A study of Einstein's brain

BERKELEY, Calif. — An anatomy professor who studied four small pieces of Albert Einstein's brain says she found the experience "overwhelming."

"There I was, looking at the brain that came up with the theory of relativity," Marian Diamond of the University of California said Wednesday.

Ms. Diamond thinks she knows why Einstein was so smart, but she's not sure.

She notes there are two types of brain cells — glial cells, or "support cells," which supply nourishment and do the mundane chores of the brain like running the cerebrum, and neurons, which do the thinking.

In one section of Einstein's brain, Ms. Diamond said she found more glial cells for every neuron than there are in the same section of the average brain — 73 percent more.

"No one knows how cells think," said Ms. Diamond. "It's a mystery."

She said she couldn't be sure what her findings mean because the brain is 30 years old.

Murder may be mob-linked

ELMWOOD PARK, Ill. — Authorities are trying to determine if the slaying of a reputed mobster outside a restaurant is part of a mob war that may also have claimed two other lives.

Charles "Chuckie" English, 70, once believed the boss of the gambling, jukebox and other rackets on Chicago's West Side, was shot once between the eyes and several times in the body Wednesday in this western Chicago suburb, said Capt. Frank Braun of the Cook County sheriff's police.

Water future is important to all

It'll take statesmanship in Austin to satisfy the competing interests on water for Texas, but that political savvy is what Texans require. Water-rich East Texans say they have little to gain from the $800 million commitment in state bonds to help finance local water development, water quality and flood control projects. A water plan for Texas, though, is insurance for the future of all of Texas. Well-watered regions of the state would do well to pay attention. Their livelihoods are at stake here, too.

When one area of Texas benefits, all areas of Texas benefit. Water resources don't recognize regional boundaries. Water quality, groundwater supply, agricultural conservation — all these concerns affect the entire state. Economic well-being and growth, too, carry over in benefit — or detriment — statewide.

Factional fighting has killed prior efforts to come up with a coherent statewide strategy for long-term solutions to address long-term problems. Water is everybody's problem. The House of Representatives approved by an overwhelming majority, 105-17, its version of a state water plan. There are differences in the Senate legislation. Compromise is essential. But we cannot let shortsighted self-interest sell Texas down the river. Texas voters ultimately will decide whether to adopt a comprehensive plan. They should be given that choice.

Steve Chapman Helping celebrate Big Mac's birthday

McDonald's Corp.
Oak Brook, Ill.

Dear McDonald's:
I was pleased to learn that you people are planning to celebrate the 20th anniversary of McDonald's by broadcasting a special television commercial. What a fine idea! Yours is a great American institution — 50 billion sold, right? — and I, for one, think people ought to sit up and take notice of historic milestones as important as this one.

I was also pleased to learn that you're accepting applications from former McDonald's employees to appear in the commercial, and that you're willing to fly them out for the filming, cover all their expenses and pay them Screen Actors Guild rates. No doubt you will be interested to know that before becoming a world-renowned newspaper columnist, I once worked in a McDonald's. Consider this my formal application.

I realize that the deadline for applications was Jan. 28 and I missed it, but as my editor can tell you, it's not the first deadline I've ever missed — ha, ha! I'm sure the prestige I would lend to the project would justify bending the rules just a little. If there's any problem, of course, feel free to discuss it with my agent.

I wouldn't do this for just anyone, you understand. We newspaper columnists are in great demand for TV appearances these days. You can barely turn on your set without seeing George Will or Tom Wicker or William F. Buckley Jr. — or, of course, myself.

If you haven't seen me, well, you must be one of those few people who don't watch the 6 a.m. Sunday public affairs programs. Granted, I may be slightly less famous than some other columnists, but face it, I'm the only one who got started by flipping burgers for $1.45 an hour.

To be perfectly honest, most of the others, being a tad high-and-mighty, wouldn't be seen in one of your restaurants. I mean, can you picture Bill Buckley wolfing down a meal of Chicken McNuggets? He probably wouldn't let his butler eat in at McDonald's.

And look at it this way: If I'm not famous now, then I will be after this commercial runs. How's that for a feather in McDonald's cap!

At any rate, I am a former McDonald's employee, having spent my 16th summer stacking Big Macs at an establishment in Austin, Tex. The manager can verify that. He can also tell you how I used to offer all sorts of fine suggestions for running the place better, most of which he unaccountably treated as if they were soggy french fries. (Maybe I can stop by and fill you in on a few of them.)

If my old boss tells you any tall tales about my starting water pistol fights, or accidentally setting the grill on fire, or sweet-talking a pubescent blonde in the parking lot out back, keep in mind that he was always a great kidder. And it's not true that I sneaked off every day on my break to eat at that hamburger place down the street. I was only picking up his lunch — you see, he always had this thing about flame-broiling. . . .

Close inspection of my tenure at McDonald's, I think, will convince you I was a model worker. Granted, I never quite mastered frying a dozen patties and assembling them into quarter-pounders in the customary space of 35 seconds, but not everyone is naturally gifted. My french fries, on the other hand, exceeded even McDonald's own incomparable standards, and I could work a milkshake machine like B.B. King picking guitar.

For that experience, I will always be grateful to McDonald's, which is why I'm willing to take time out of my busy schedule to help with your commercial. After all, if it weren't for you folks, I might never have learned the formative lesson that led me into journalism: never take a job where you can't sit down.

Yours truly, Stephen Chapman
P.S.: On the off chance that you can't fit me into your ad, I'd settle for playing center field for the Padres.

Jack Anderson Kicking around subtle threats

WASHINGTON — Can soccer balls and subtle threats succeed where military might and death squads have failed to win the hearts and minds of El Salvador's peasants?

The government of President Jose Napoleon Duarte evidently thinks it's worth a try. My reporter Jon Lee Anderson accompanied a Salvadoran army unit on a helicopter "drop-in" on a village deep in territory under the influence of leftist guerrillas.

The commander of this airborne propaganda mission was Col. Domingo Monterrosa, who was killed not long after when his gunship was downed.

The high point of Monterrosa's visit — as far as the younger villagers were concerned, at least — was when he handed out spanking new, red-and-black-checked Spaulding soccer balls to the assembled crowd. The balls were distributed directly out of their factory boxes, whose labels clearly showed that they had reached the colonel by way of a political officer in the U.S. Embassy in San Salvador.

Monterrosa had been guaranteed an attentive audience for his psychological warfare experiment. An advance party of soldiers had been sent in to the jungle hilltop the day before and shooed away the rebel sentinels posted outside the village in a brief exchange of gunfire.

The thrust of the colonel's message to the villagers was that the army wanted their support — or else. "Tell me I'm not lying," he shouted to the peasants. "Isn't it true what I hear, that the guerrillas have been here among you?"

Voices in the crowd shouted confirmation. "I knew it," cried Monterrosa. "But even so, I haven't called on the air force to bomb here, nor the artillery either, have I?"

He then sweetened his veiled threat with an emotional proclamation of solidarity. "We are your true brothers," he shouted. "We are giving our blood to the earth. But it's up to you to make the earth produce."

Monterrosa turned the podium over to a female "social worker" and a male psychologist, members of a "psy-ops" team, who expanded on his theme of cooperation between village and army.

By the time the morning speeches closed with a three-minute prayer, the crowd was solidly in the colonel's pocket. Several women approached Monterrosa and began whispering to him. He stationed himself at the podium — a table set in the meadow.

"If, like these people here," he called to the crowd, "you have things to denounce, come and tell me and we will investigate what you say."

The colonel got more than whispers. Within an hour, a cache of rebel propaganda (including caricatures of Monterrosa) and some grenades were turned over to him. And a villager led soldiers to a hiding place where the "subversivos" had buried automatic weapons.

Monterrosa learned his psy-ops basics in Taiwan. In 1978 he was one of about 20 high-ranking Salvadoran army officers who took the two-month course. His classmates included ex-Maj. Roberto d'Aubuisson, the right-wing politician, and Col. Reyes Mena, chief of staff of the Salvadoran armed forces.

Monterrosa was critical of his colleagues for not having put what they learned from the Taiwanese in practice when they got home. "We'd have won against the expansion of communism," he said. Instead, he said, the army's repressive tactics had alienated the peasants.

Did the colonel think his day's effort to win over the villagers had been worth it? Monterrosa pointed to a group of young men. "Look for yourself," he said. "They're playing with the balls, aren't they?"

"DERAILING A GRAVY TRAIN: Last summer I reported that a little-known loophole in Pentagon rules was giving defense contractors a free ride courtesy of the taxpayers.

The loophole is "Cost Accounting Standard 414," which allows a company to charge the government for the "cost of money" — in other words, the interest on borrowed funds — incurred in building facilities needed for a defense contract.

It seemed like a good idea when it was hatched in 1976. Interest rates were high, and it was believed that industry needed an incentive to embark on much-needed modernization of defense plants. But the General Accounting Office has concluded that "CAS 414 was flawed almost from the start," and Air Force auditors agreed that it didn't accomplish much. The contractors were understandably happy, though. They were raking in profits of nearly 30 percent, according to secret budget figures.

Now Rep. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., has introduced a bill to plug this loophole. She got the secret figures from me after trying in vain to pry them loose. If her bill passes, it could save billions.

FARM TROUBLES: Prospects are bleak for a quick recovery of the farm economy. Bumper crops, limited export growth and continued high interest rates are squeezing farmers throughout the Midwest. And this in turn means rough times for the mostly small banks that have extended credit to the farmers.

Internal government documents tell the story. Between January and August last year, the total number of "problem banks" increased by about 100. And 80 of those were in 10 states that make up America's agricultural heartland: Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana.

Jack Anderson's investigative report from Washington is distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

A spectre haunts America

To the editor:
Most Democrats are still running around shaking their heads, wondering what has happened to their party. The truth is the Democratic party is now the Socialist Party of America. This is what you must be in order to be a Democrat:

1. You must believe in killing unborn babies.
2. You must believe in doing away with the "right to work" law. (that would mean you would have to belong to a union to work)
3. You would have to give up your guns, and your Bill of Rights, article I, sect. 23, the right to keep and bear arms.

These are just a few of the values you would lose on the democratic platform. Look what your great statist governor has done to you people. Will you ever learn? Mark White is the worse governor that the state of Texas has ever had or ever will have. He is a statist to the very core of his soul.

He believes if you give him all your money then "he" will give you a great society. Do you people not remember "The Great Society" under Johnson, "The New Beginning" under John Kennedy, "The New Deal" under F.D.R.?

Statism in fact, and in principle, is nothing more than gang rule. The ideological roots of statism or collectivism is in fact a dictatorship, and Mr. Mark White would like to be our first dictator.

The Republican Party is almost as bad as the Democrats, but they still have a few principles left. Whereas, the democrats have no principles, values, and mostly, not even morals. To kill unborn babies is morally wrong whether the Supreme Court says it is or not. Also the Supreme Court said that teachers can search children in school without a warrant; but, they better not search one of my children without a warrant because I still believe in my constitutional rights.

The state government, the federal government, or the Supreme Court cannot take these rights away from the people because they are "exempted from all the powers of government; forever to remain inviolate." Most people today are gutless; the oilman especially is nothing but a post that the politicians let their dogs raise their legs on. In fact, I don't think they are even worth that. They have become the most gutless people in America. The fact is all you have to do to loot the oilman is say you are going to turn him into a government agency and he will start whimpering like some old cur dog.

Around The Rim Es cuestion de regalos

Por LUIS RIOS
Escritor del Herald

A caballo regalado no hay que mirarle el diente.

Ese es un dicho favorito de los americanos. Y muchas personas dicen que aquí en Texas eso es lo estamos haciendo.

"Pero como?", se pregunta uno. Literalmente, es algo que el gobierno de Texas esta haciendo de los 1930s.

Poder apostar en las carreras de caballo en este estado es contra la ley. Si hay carreras de caballo en El Paso, pero lo que puede apostar uno es cualquier cosa.

Los que quiren que pasa legislación para poder apostar dicen que el estado puede hacer un billon de dolares de negocio con las carreras de caballo. Y tambien mas de medio de los caballos de carreras en los estados unidos son de Texas.

Pero algunos de los muchachos del gobierno dicen que el elemento del crimen es muy alto cuando hay algo como apuestas de caballo. Los oficiales del gobierno y la ley le teme al "crimen organizado" o La Mafia como le nombran los demas de nosotros.

Y por esa razon no sera muy facil que la legislación para poder apostar en carreras de caballo se haga ley. Este ano no sera la primer vez que una organizacion entre el estado ha querido pasar una ley que legalizara apuestas en carreras de caballo.

Ya nomas falta esperar y ver que pasara en Austin con los legisladores.

Por eso en las carreras de caballo no es la unica cosa que true los legisladores del estado para arriba y para abajo.

Siempre hay la cuestion de la loteria en este estado. Si seria legal poder jugar la loteria, el estado podria hacer millones mas de dolares para la economia.

Para decirle la verdad yo ya me canse de oir y leer de las personas que gana en la loteria y se hacen millonarios en los estados de Nueva York y Illinois y la ciudad de Denver, Colorado.

Me gustaria oir de un tejano ganarse un pedacito de dinero como asi.

Tenemos que acordamos que al caballo regalado no hay que mirarle el diente. Y fíjese, aquí en Texas ya casi hay mas caballos que gente y todavia no sabemos si seria buena idea aceptar el regalo.

Cotton price supports threatened by bill

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — The 1985 farm bill would almost wipe out price support payments for cotton and wheat farmers by 1986, according to a Texas agriculture analyst.
 The farm bill, to be sent to Congress next week by the Reagan administration, will establish price support and agricultural loan levels for the next four years.
 In 1985, the target price support level for cotton would drop to 63 cents a pound from the current level of 81 cents for 1984, according to Claiborn Crain, of the Texas State Office of State-Federal Relations in Washington. He made the analysis based on a final draft copy of the farm bill.

 The loan level for cotton would fall at about the same rate in the farm bill, from 57 cents in 1985 to 47 cents in 1986.
 Cotton farmers apply to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service for loans only if the market price for cotton falls below the loan level price, said Crain.
 The farmer receives a deficiency support payment based on the difference between the average market price and the target price of cotton, so long as the market price is lower than the target price. In the last week of January, the market price for cotton was about 55 cents per pound in Lubbock.

Under the 1985 administration plan, the target price support level would be dropped almost to the range of the current average market price, eliminating large deficiency payments unless the market price drops substantially, Crain said.
 Federal price support payments to cotton farmers in 1984 totaled $700 million nationally. By 1990, Crain said the administration proposal would drop the target price for cotton to 46.3 cents per pound.
 He estimated that the difference in the price support level for a bale of cotton would be $87 less in 1986 than in 1987 as a result of the lower 1986 target price and loan levels.

N-plant being corrected, says TESCO official here

By KEELY COGHLAN
Staff Writer
 Officials with Texas Utilities Electric Co. are "doing everything they can to correct the problems" at the company's Comanche Peak nuclear power plant in Glenrose, according to Hooper Sanders, Big Spring general manager of Texas Electric Service Co.
 Sanders and other local Texas Electric Service Co. officials were speaking Wednesday at the company's annual media relations banquet.
 The Nuclear Regulatory Commission last month delayed granting a license for the first of two proposed generating units at the plant because of numerous violations or problems the commission said must be corrected.
 Although the company's president last week admitted the plant had construction defects, the utility officials "don't think they are highly critical," Sanders said. "That will happen when you have 5,000 people working" on the plant's construction, he said.
 Many of the plant's problems could be the result of it being one of the first to be put on-line after the Three Mile Island accident, Sanders said.

 As a result, the plant is having to comply with more regulations, he said. "Some of the changes are good. Some are questionable," Sanders said.
 "We are doing everything we can to correct the problems," he said. "Comanche Peak is needed."
 The additional regulations have increased the cost from $3.89 billion to $4.56 billion, Sanders said. "It's an awful lot of money, but the fuel will be the cheapest."
 Customers will start paying for the plant's construction at the time it begins generating electricity, Sanders said. At that time, Texas Utility customers will probably see a 10 percent increase in their utility bills, but the cost could be less because of the cheapness of nuclear fuel, Sanders said.
 The plant will probably serve 20 percent of the electric utility's customers, Sanders said. "It's a good plant, a safe plant," he said.
 The plant's nuclear waste will be stored on-site for 17 years, Sanders said.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. ("AT&T Communications"), in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC") hereby gives notice of its intent to implement a new schedule of rates for its services. The new rates will be effective February 22, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the PUC. All customers and classes of customers would be affected by the proposed rates.

AT&T Communications has filed restructured tariffs designed to more closely recover access and other costs for private line, DATAPHONE® Digital Service, OCC Facilities, WATS and 800 services.

Also proposed is the institution of a charge for directory assistance to begin to recover access costs incurred for such service, and increases in rates for operator assisted AT&T Long Distance calls.

AT&T Communications is proposing to restructure its AT&T Long Distance Service and to reduce its overall revenues from basic long distance approximately $25 million.

While long distance rates will, in most instances, be reduced, certain AT&T Long Distance rates are proposed to be increased to more nearly recover the access charges approved by the PUC for such service.

The proposed new rates for all services would result in an increase in adjusted test period revenues of $123.4 million, or 11.3 percent.

A complete copy of the proposed tariffs are on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission.

Klila Caplan discusses Israel during 1955 Hyperion meeting

Dear Abby

Widow needs to grieve, not date

DEAR ABBY: I am 24-year-old widow and mother of three children and a set of twins due to be born in three months.

My husband died less than three months ago, and already my friends are trying to set me up with a new romantic interest to help me forget my sorrow.

Believe me, Abby, I do not need a new man in my life to help me get over my tragic loss. I know my friends are trying to help me, but I am in no mood to listen to their offers to fix me up with a man to replace my husband. A woman in my position doesn't need that kind of help right now. And for all I know, I may never need it.

Thanks for listening. I hope you will print this so my friends can see it.

IN MOURNING IN WEST VIRGINIA

DEAR IN MOURNING: My heart goes out to you and your children. Your friends obviously don't realize that the only way to "get over" grief is to accept it, feel it deeply and then slowly let go of it. One who is in mourning cannot simply "forget" his sorrow. Letting go of grief takes time. I hope your well-meaning friends see this.

DEAR ABBY: When I travel, I like to take my dog with me, which presents a problem because not all hotels allow dogs.

I recently stopped at a hotel where I was made welcome with my pet, and I saw this framed "notice" hanging in the lobby. It tickled me, and if it tickles you, maybe you'll run it in your column:

"Dogs are welcome in this hotel. We never had a dog that smoked in bed and set fire to the blankets. We never had a dog who stole our towels, played the TV too loud or had a noisy fight with this traveling companion. We never had a dog that got drunk and broke up the furniture. So if your dog can vouch for you, you're welcome, too."

DOG LOVER

Some people are calorie mills

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am trying desperately to gain weight. I am 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weigh only 95 pounds. I'm 15. I am confused over a couple of points, which I hope you can clarify. Why is it that some people can consume large amounts of calories and not gain? And why does exercise help fat people lose weight, yet they say it can make an underweight person gain it? — C.J.

Most people gain weight if they consume more calories than they burn through activity. But there are a few who simply metabolize calories faster than others. They are veritable calorie mills. But even these people gain if they begin consuming more calories than they need just to maintain current weight. Now as to exercise. If you exercise, extra calories consumed can be stored as muscle weight. Quite simply, you end up with larger muscles. But in order for this to happen, the person has to measure the calories expended in the exercise itself. Calorie intake has to be sufficient to support that activity, with an extra amount present to bring the weight gain.

At your age (15) you have another factor to consider in weight gain. Part of your intake is supporting your actual linear growth, which accelerates at puberty. So there are three factors for you to take into account. (1) The calories you need just to maintain your weight; (2) The amount needed to support any exercise program, and (3) The amount needed to satisfy your natural maturing process. After meeting those needs, an extra calories go toward real weight gain displayed on the bathroom scales.

Klila Caplan spoke about Israel at the 1955 Hyperion Club meeting held Feb. 5 in the home of Mrs. W.A. Moore. Israel, Mrs. Caplan's homeland, is about the size of Maryland with a population of more than 4 million. Israel has a parliamentary democracy. The country's total budget, Mrs. Caplan said, is $21 billion, of which $6 billion is spent for its defense. Therefore, to keep a weapons edge, Israel must get aid from United States.

Mrs. Caplan, husband Dr. Brian Caplan, and their sons were living near Johannesburg, South Africa, when Caplan read in a medical journal of the need for doctors in the United States. He applied and was accepted, and they came to Texas. The Caplans have been in Big Spring more than six years and received their citizenship last fall in Dallas.

In club business, members voted to donate funds to the Rainbow Project and Joe Whitten's prison ministry. Final plans for the 30th Anniversary Tea were made. The tea will be at the home of Mrs. Robert Penner April 2. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Carl Small March 5.

Local grididders ink scholarship pacts

Big Spring High School football player JAY PIRKLE is shown here signing a scholarship agreement with Eastern New Mexico University in the Big Spring High School football office yesterday. Watching their son ink the pact are MR. AND MRS. A.J. PIRKLE.

Four Crossroads Country prep football stars inked scholarship letters-of-intent Wednesday on the first day high school prospects were allowed to sign. Leading the signings was out-of-state Division II power Eastern New Mexico, who garnered Big Spring defensive tackle Jay Pirkle, Coahoma defensive tackle Shawn Justiss, and Colorado City's all-state tight end Don Randle. Randle's battery mate from Colorado City, Doug Chitsey, signed with Division I-AA representative, University of Texas-Arlington.

The 6'1, 185-pound Pirkle, who was selected to the Crossroads Country honor roll at punter, will be used as an outside linebacker and punter by the ENMU Greyhounds of Portales, New Mexico. Justiss, a 6'2, 225-pound defensive standout for Coahoma, will be utilized at a familiar defensive linemen position.

The highly recruited 6'4 190 lb. Randle, will remain at tight end for the Greyhounds. Randle caught over 70 passes in each of the past two years and was considered one of the best receiver prospects in West Texas. The 6'2, 195 lb Chitsey, the quarterback responsible for all of Randle's receptions, will take his considerable talents to UTA, a team with the reputation of being one of the top passing team in the state.

On the SWC and national fronts, it was also a very busy day.

Long-downtrodden Texas Christian University celebrated national letter-of-intent day Wednesday by signing more Texas blue-chippers than the other eight Southwest Conference schools combined.

But the Horned Frogs didn't get wide receiver-safety Hart Lee Dykes of Bay City, Texas, who may be the most talented prep athlete in America. Dykes rejected virtually every Division I school to play for the Oklahoma State Cowboys, who have never won an outright Big Eight championship and usually wind up taking Oklahoma's leftovers.

In addition, the Ohio State Buckeyes mopped up within the borders of their state and Southern Cal got Aaron Emanuel, the most highly sought running back on the West Coast.

Coach Jim Wacker, who led TCU to a surprising 8-3 record last year, said it was a "stinkin' unbelievable" day for the Horned Frogs.

Wide receiver Reggie Davis, running back Greg Moore, quarterback Ron Jiles, defensive tackle

Howard College Hawks pitcher ALEX LOPEZ lets fly with a pitch in eighth inning yesterday in the Hawks game with Bee County College. Lopez came in in the sixth inning and was the winning pitcher in Howard's 9-7 victory.

HC Hawks hold on for 9-7 win over Cougars

By STEVEN BELVIN
Staff Writer

The Howard College Hawks got the best of the Bee County Cougars by virtue of their 9-7 win yesterday at Hawk Field. The win was the deciding game in a three-game series with the visitors from Beeville.

The Hawks captured the win thanks to a two-run surge in their last two times at bat and a good relief job by Alex Lopez.

With the score tied at 7-7, Howard scored a run in the seventh inning and added another in the eighth to secure the win.

Mike Byrd and Mark Howell paved the way for the tally in the seventh inning. After Byrd collected a bunt single, he promptly stole second getting into scoring position. Howell, a sophomore from San Antonio, lined a single up the middle scoring Byrd with the go ahead run.

The final run in the eighth came when Eddie Citronelli greeted Bee County reliever Kelly Brown with a triple to start off the inning. Bruce Smith's single brought across the final Howard run.

For the third consecutive game Byrd had a hot bat for Howard. The shortstop and leadoff hitter collected two hits in four times at bat. His best blow came in the bottom of the fifth inning with the Bee County leading 6-3 and the bases loaded with two outs.

After fouling off a couple of Bee County starter Frank Isabell's pitches with the count full, Byrd then ripped a shot down the rightfield line scoring Joe Cuellar, Steve Carasco and Dan Lanfear. The blow pulled the Hawks even with the visitors.

Byrd wasn't the only Howard player swinging a mean bat. Second baseman Jim Garcia got two singles and a double, driving in one run in four trips to the plate. Citronelli went two-for-four at the plate, scoring two runs himself.

But perhaps the unsung hero of it all was Lopez, a wiry freshman from San Antonio. His first appearance of the season came in a less than ideal situation. He came on in relief of Hawks starter Doug Myers in the sixth inning with the bases loaded, no outs and the score 6-6.

All Lopez did was work his way out of the jam; allowing Bee County to score only one run, which was charged to Myers. Lopez hurled four shutout innings allowing only two hits while getting credit for the win.

Myers had fairly good control until the sixth inning when he walked the first three batters, prompting Howard coach Bill Griffin to insert Lopez. Myers allowed seven hits, but three of his runs were unearned, thanks to three Howard errors.

"Lopez (Alex) came in and did a great job in relief," echoed Howard coach Griffin. "I think he will be one of our top relievers this season. I let Doug (Myers) stay in so long because I wanted him to get the work. We still have a long ways to go. Our hitting is coming around, our pitching is erratic and we made too many mistakes."

Howard jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning Garcia singled driving in Joey Ortiz who had singled. Howell scored the other run when he scored from third on a passed ball.

After Bee County went ahead 3-2 in the second inning and then added a run in the third and two in the fourth to set the stage for Howard's comeback.

Swim team ready for district meet

By STEVEN BELVIN
Staff Writer

ODESSA — The Big Spring High School swim team will see just how much they have progressed this season when they partake in the District 4-5A swim meet at the Odessa Permian High School pool.

Although the Big Spring boys and girls are not counted on to challenge for the district crown, they are expected to make their presence known. Big Spring coach Harlan Smith is really expecting a big improvement in his girls squad.

For one thing the Lady Steers have more swimmers out. Ten compared to only two last season. For another thing, they have been constantly improving their times. Smith feels that some of his girls have a chance of finishing in the top six, advancing to the regional meet.

The relays have been the strong point for the BSHS girls so far this season.

The 200 yard medley relay team of Hartley Newell, Rose Mier, Lisa Salazar and Victoria Logan have a good shot at a trip to regionals. They have brought their time down from a 2:25 to 2:19.

The 400 freestyle relay squad has five possible members according to Smith. They are: Mier, Newell, Annie Gutierrez, Michelle Hummel and Tiffany Milch. "San Angelo leads the pack with a time around four minutes, then there are a couple of teams around 4:05 and 4:10," explained Smith. "Out time of 4:20 puts us in the top four or five."

Smith will make two changes with his swimmers for the district meet. Newell will compete in the 50 freestyle instead of the 100 yard freestyle. "Hartley's speed as a sprinter is stronger than her endurance in a longer race."

Rose Mier, normally a 60 yard swimmer will compete in the 100 freestyle.

Senior Lisa Salazar is expected to make a strong bid in the 100 yard breaststroke. Smith says if she can knock four seconds off her best time of 1:22, she will finish high.

Coach Smith labels San Angelo Central, Abilene Cooper, Permian and Midland High to battle for the team race. The rest of the field will also be tight, according to the Big Spring mentor.

The Big Spring boys go into the meet with the pleasure of having already defeated three of their district opponents in dual meets. But the "Big Four" in the competition will be Midland High, Cooper, Permian and Central.

"It will be tough swimming," said Smith. "Hopefully we'll finish in the top five."

Perhaps junior diver Louis Morelion has the best chance to get a gold medal. He has won three-fourths of the meets he has competed in, but Smith says he will get a strong challenge from three other divers. "Louis has been doing an excellent job of getting his body and mind into shape for this meet. If he hits his dives, he'll have a chance to win."

The Steers 200 medley team of Cade Loftin, Mitch Houghton, Scott Ferguson and Shamir Caplan should finish in the top five or six, according to Smith.

Other top hopefuls are Loftin in the 100 butterfly and 100 yard backstroke and Houghton in the 50 freestyle and 100 breaststroke.

Don Deflitch has a chance for regionals in the 200 individual while sophomore Ferguson has been improving by leaps and bounds in the 500 freestyle. "Scott's best time in a meet is 5:55," said Smith. "This week he went 5:50 in practice. If he's mentally prepared, he can go 5:45 and get into the top six."

Smith added that workouts have been light this past two weeks. "We can't get into any better physical shape than we are now. The kids are getting anxious, we are mentally prepared. I told the kids the other day there is no written law that says Big Spring is not supposed to win."

Friday's prelims get underway at 1 p.m. Finals start at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Complicated calculations

Some can reduce taxes by income averaging

By ROBERT METZ
(12th of series)

The soldier who came home to a high paying civilian job and the married housewife who re-entered the job market have something in common. If they use income averaging, they may save considerable tax.

That is, if you had a significant increase in income during 1984, you reduce your taxes by income averaging.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES AND SAVE

Tax Trap: New tax rules require this increase in income in 1984 to be more substantial than was required in previous years.

Tax Tip: Even so, if you had a big rise in income in 1984 be sure to do an income-averaging calculation before you complete your tax return. Simply refer to your three prior years' returns for the taxable income.

The three-year period immediately preceding your computation year is called your base period. Each one of these years is called a base-period year. You will need copies of your three base period tax returns. If you don't have them, copies can be obtained from the Internal Revenue Service.

Tax Trap: Don't wait until the last minute to request them. It will take the IRS four to six weeks to get them to you.

Since averaging allows you, in effect, to spread your income over a four-year period, part of your unusually large 1984 income can be taxed at a lower rate — which is likely to cut your taxes. For example, income averaging is a worthwhile tax saving measure when one spouse re-enters the job

CAN YOU INCOME AVERAGE?

Qualifying for saving

Here is an example demonstrating how to determine whether you can cut your taxes by income averaging:

1981 income	6,000.00+
1982 income	7,000.00+
1983 income	8,000.00+
Total for last three years	21,000.00+
One-third of total	7,000.00+
140% of 1/3 '81-'83 income	9,800.00+
1984 income	16,000.00+
1984 income less $3,000	-3,000.00-
Total	15,000.00+

$13,000 is more than $9,800 so income averaging will probably save you money. However, be sure you meet all the criteria for income averaging.

A TAX HELP — Income averaging is designed to help taxpayers whose incomes when up substantially in one year.

market or when an individual gets a big promotion in one year.

The following quick test will help you determine if income averaging will reduce your taxes:

1. Total your taxable income for the years 1981, 1982 and 1983.
2. Multiply this total by one-third.
3. Then multiply that total by 140 percent.
4. Subtract $3,000 from your 1984 taxable income.

If your entry on Line 4 is greater than your entry on line 3, income averaging will probably reduce your taxes.

Tax Trap: If you decide to income average you cannot use the tax table. You must use tax rate schedule X, Y or Z, depending on your filing status.

To figure your tax by income averaging, you must meet three conditions:

- You must have been a citizen or resident of the United States during 1984 and the three years immediately preceding.

• You must have paid at least half of your own support for years 1981 through 1983. (Exceptions to this rule are found on schedule G.)

• You cannot take advantage in 1984 of the tax benefits of excluding certain income earned outside the United States even though you were able to take advantage of those tax exclusions in the past.

Once you've determined that you may qualify, do the calculations described above to determine your averageable income. They will no doubt seem confusing, but just keep in mind that averageable income — your 1984 income minus 140 percent of your average income for the three prior years — is a measure of how much your income shot up during 1984.

Income averaging involves considerable arithmetic. If you are doing this, take it on faith. It's not easy to follow the IRS's reasoning, but it isn't difficult to do the computations on a step-by-step basis on schedule G.

Income averaging results in a lower tax because your averageable income is divided into four equal parts, which are taxed in a lower bracket. This tax is multiplied by four and added to the tax on 40 percent of your base period income. This gives you your tax for 1984.

 Mitchell Benson and wide receiver Jarrod Delaney are among the Texas blue chippers who will play for the Horned Frogs next season. "So far, there are no surprises and we don't expect any, but we're still keeping our fingers crossed," said Wacker.

Texas came away with another of the state and nation's top prospects, offensive lineman Ed Cunningham of Sanford-Fritch, who is also a highly recruited basketball player.

Florida State apparently made good use of the stiff NCAA probation handed Florida last month and rounded up what could be Coach Bobby Bowden's best class ever. The Seminoles hauled in around 20 in-state stars, including all-America running back Sammie Smith and 300-pound offensive lineman Pat Tomberlin.

Boston College, needing to fill Doug Flutie's shoes, triumphed over Ohio State, Notre Dame and many others for Cincinnati's Greg Kamphaus, a top quarterback prospect.

A number of the top prospects held off making a decision and several schools, including Notre Dame, did not release their signings. However, it was learned that the Fighting Irish had inked linebacker Ned Bolcar of Phillipsburg, N.J., one of the country's top defensive specialists, and D'Juan Francisco of Cincinnati, a highly touted running back.

Nebraska's haul included a two-time defensive player of the year in Louisiana, linebacker Leroy Etienne of New Iberia; Houston defensive end Broderick Thomas, and quarterback Steven Taylor of San Diego, who broke Marcus Allen's school records for total offense.

"We feel it's one of the finer groups of athletes that have signed with us," Osborne said.
