After a morning of cloudy skies and dense fog, skies this afternoon are partly cloudy. To-day's high should be in the mid 70s with light southerly winds blowing 10 to 20 miles per hour and becoming gusty in the afternoon. Tonight's forecast calls for cloudy skies and a 30 percent chance of showers or thunderstorms. Look for a low in the lower 50s. By Tuesday, skies will be cloudy with a 30 percent chance of showers or thunderstorms. High will be near 70. Gusty winds blowing westerly, 15 to 25 miles per hour will shift to the northwest in the

Spring Hijack drama leaves 46 dead

Air Force civilian shot dead

VALLETTA, Malta (AP) Egypt said today its commandos stormed the hijacked Egyptian jet at Malta's airport to prevent a massacre and claimed the terrorists lobbed phosphorus grenades that touched off fires killing trapped passengers.

At least 46 people were killed by "bullet or fire" during the assault, said Maltese government spokesman Paul Mifsud. Although first reports said all of the hijackers were dead, the plane's copilot said one terrorist may have only been injured.

Mifsud said today there were "still some corpses aboard" the Egyptair Boeing 737, which became a bloodbath when Egyptian soldiers blew in two doors and surged aboard Sunday night.

An American woman shot dead by the hijackers after the plane landed in Malta Saturday night was identified today by the State Department in Washington as Scarlett Marie Rogenkamp, 38, a stationed in Greece.

Howard County Commissioners still are undecided about how they will comply with a federal mandate, effective Dec. 8, that juveniles be housed in separate quarters from adult offenders.

After discussing the problem this morning at their regular meeting, commissioners called a special meeting for 10 a.m. Wednesday.

The meeting was called after Commissioner O.L. Brown said he and Commissioner William Crooker were going to San Angelo Tuesday to meet with Edd B. Keyes, county judge of Tom Green County

Texas prisons, top in murders, aim at reforms

EDITOR'S NOTE — Through September, inmates in Texas prisons were being killed by fellow prisoners at the rate of one every 10 days. But almost two months have passed since the last homicide, and prison officials think they are making progress; as each week passes, they hold their breath hoping the cells remain peaceful. The problems behind bars in Texas go beyond quick fixes, however, and how the prisons are run has become a matter of life and death.

By SCOTT McCARTNEY

Associated Press Writer HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Joel Figueroa felt safe. He told his prison guards he wanted to keep his cellmate, a convicted murderer, because he was a friend and Figueroa trusted him. In Texas prisons, where 26 men had been slain in nine months, that meant a lot.

Three weeks later, at 6:05 the morning of Sept. 23, screams rang down the prison corridor. A guard found the cellmate, Martin Benito Montemayor, standing over Figueroa's bloody body with an 8-inch metal rod. When ordered to drop the weapon, a prison spokesman said, the cellmate stabbed the victim three more times for a total of 22 times."

The killing of Figueroa, 35, was sudden and swift, typical and telling. It was the 27th slaying of a Texas inmate behind bars this year, and it underscored the fine line that exists between life and death in the nation's second largest

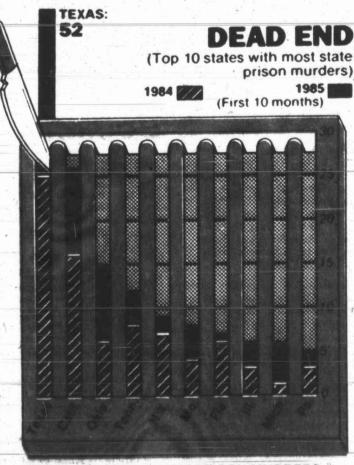

Texas leads the United States in homicides this year, accounting for almost one-third of the nation's 82 prison killings through October.

The 27 homicides are also a record for the state. The 38,000 inmates inside the penitentiaries, although under the care of the state, have a six times greater chance of being murdered than Texans on the outside. It's three times safer on Texas highways than in Texas prisons. And Texas isn't alone. An Associated Press survey of prisons in all 50 states showed that in seven states, the number of killings behind bars this year already has exceeded the number in all of 1984.

In Oklahoma, the number of prison slayings has jumped 50 percent this year compared to last and Michigan, which had only one killing in prison last year, has recorded five this year. Prison killings are also up in Connecticut, Maine,

New Mexico and Ohio. PRISON DEATHS page 10

New tax bill under scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Reagan administration is analyzing a far-reaching tax bill produced by the House Ways and Means Committee, trying to determine if the president can provide the endorsement congressional leaders say is necessary to keep the taxoverhaul drive alive.

For the moment, says White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan, "I'm not sure we can accept it," noting the comittee made major changes in the bill at the last minute before approving it Saturday morning.

'What does it do to investment, savings and incentives?" Regan asked Sunday on "Face the Nation" on CBS-TV. "We haven't had time to really examine that.'

In announcing final approval, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., the committee chairman, pleaded with Reagan not to make a harsh, snap judgment that could kill the bill. 'Our bill is a victory of cooperation over confrontation," he told reporters. "It is a bipartisan measure.

Rep. John J. Duncan of Tennessee, senior Republican, added that while the committee and Rostenkowski did their best, GOP members "believe that our opportunity for real reform was lost in the process. Several congressional leaders expect Reagan to urge House approval of the bill in hopes the Senate, where Republicans are in

Deaf teen in mainstream of high school activities

SAN ANGELO (AP) - Patricia Haro pulled gently on her friend's sleeve in the hallway at San Angelo Central High School. She got a warm smile in return.

That's one way Miss Haro, who is deaf, communicates with her friends. Because she has never heard language sounds, she is mute, although she is learning to read lips and vocalize. She communicates with sign language, gestures and intense facial expressions

Her life, though silent, seems similar to that of any teen-ager. With her friends, Miss Haro goes to movies, shops for clothes and talks about boys.

"It's as easy to talk to Patricia as anyone else," said Heather Dendy, her classmate. "We talk about guys and walk around campus. Besides, she's nice." Miss Dendy gave her friend a hug as she spoke.

Miss Haro is one of five hearing impaired students at Central who have been mainstreamed into regular classes. This is the first year the students have had the use of interpreters in their high school

Through an interpreter, Miss Haro said she is more comfortable in a hearing world. "My friends understand me without talking. Besides, I can practice speech reading easier.

The 16-year-old's favorite activity is the high school pep squad. "They make a lot of noise," Miss Haro signed. She explained she is able to hear some sounds, such as the happy cheering of the pep

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., who will control the bill if it gets to the Senate, said criticism from Reagan at this point "would be enough to kill tax reform in the House." That would dim the president's chances of winning the top legislative goal of his second term.

The Democratic-controlled House is expected to consider the bill the week of Dec. 8.

The Ways and Means Committee met for two months behind closed doors before reaching agreement on the bill — one that required compromise on several key elements in the plan that Reagan had sent to Congress last May.

Still, it would cut taxes for most people; produce the same revenue would have meant an average 10.5

ed; reduce individual and corporate tax rates, though not as much as the president wants and increase the personal exemption and standard deductions, Also, it would crack down on well-to-do investors and profitable companies that use legal means to reduce their tax liability below the level paid by most middle-income

Altogether, the measure would represent the most sweeping revision of the income tax since it was enacted in 1913.

The bill would cut individual taxes by about $135 billion over five years - and shift that burden to corporations. It would reduce the average individual tax by 8.4 percent in 1987; the president's plan as present law, as Reagan demand- percent cut

He told commissioners that Martin County had recently contracted with Midland County to house its juveniles offenders in Midland.

Big Spring architects John Gary and Don Bailey, who were contracted by the county to remodel a facility for juveniles, attended this morning's meeting.

They presented commissioners with draft plans to build a detention center in the former Woolworth's building at N.E. Fourth and Main. Bailey said it was not "feasible" to build a detention center in that building, but "it could be done." Bailey told the court that he and Gary "were in a quandry now" about what commissioners wanted regarding county office space ex-assault, said U.S. Embassy deputy chief Joel Levy. Mifsud said 30 people were being treated in Malta hospitals.

The Egyptian government, in its first official reaction to the attack, said today the "terrorists threw three phosphorus grenades in the front and rear of the plane, which started large fires and spread burning shrapnel. The available resources at Valletta Airport to face this situation were limited and modest, and therefore the number of people saved were 44 passengers." The statement said the commando attack "took place successfully according to plan," It said the "lightning assault" took five minutes and no passengers were hurt by commandos.

But Tony Lyons, a 46-year-old Australian hijack survivor who spoke from his hospital bed on Britain's TV-AM morning news show, said, "There was a lot of indiscriminate shooting because the Egyptian commandos didn't know who were the terrorists and who weren't.'

The pilot, Capt. Hani Galal, described the hijackers as "first-class killers" and said the ringleader had singled out Americans and Israelis "for execution.'

Patrick Scott Baker, a surviving American passenger, told the NBC TV "Today" show, "I was walked out onto a platform and then shot. It was a graze. I was confused for a second. I fell down the stairs head first ... After about two minutes, I got up and ran away."

Toxic emissions cited

DALLAS - State records show mishaps at Texas chemical plants this year resulted in release of millions of pounds of dangerous substances, including almost 40 tons of known or suspected cancer-causing agents.

Records examined by the Dallas Morning News showed most of the emissions occured in the Houston area, the center of the state's huge petrochemical industry.

WASHINGTON - The Pentagon has barred 66 civilians from military service during the past month because they tested positive for exposure to a virus associated with the disease AIDS, according to informed sources.

The 66 were among 71,683 recruits screened since mandatory testing was started on Oct. 15 for evidence of the fatal, primarily sexually transmitted disease, the sources said.

WASHINGTON - The Reagan administration is taking a wary look at the new farm policy carved out this weekend by the Senate, one that gives it major policy victories, but at costs that threaten to make this year's record spending an annual event.

"Right now we're trying to figure out how to get the deficit down," White House chief of staff Donald Regan said Sunday. "And everyone in Congress is saying that, and yet they come in with a farm bill that will spend more than $50 billion over the next four years," he said.

Leftist terrorists suspected for blast

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) - Leftist terrorists are believed responsible for the car bombing at a U.S. military shopping center that injured 35 people, mostly Americans, but no one has claimed responsibility, West German authorities said.

The blast at 3:20 p.m. Sunday shattered windows, damaged 42 cars in a parking lot behind the store and blew a gaping hole in the back wall of the shopping center.

'We suspect leftist terrorists because the attack was similar to the car bombing at the U.S. Air Force base in August," said Alexander Prechtel, spokesman for the West German federal prosecutor's office in Karlsruhe.

The Aug. 8 car bomb attack at the U.S. Air Force Rhein-Main Air Base killed two Americans and injured 20 people. A leftist terrorist group, the Red Army Faction, claimed responsibility for that attack.

Bill Swisher, a spokesman for the U.S. Army's 97th General Hospital in Frankfurt, said 34 injured people were treated at the hospital. He said 27 people had been released from the hospital by late Sunday evening, including a 3-year-old child. The seven remaining in the hospital were listed in fair to good condition, Swisher said. The 35th victim, a Polish national employed in the military store, was treated and released from a nearby Frankfurt hospital.

Police said they were looking for a man, described as having "Moroccan features," who is suspected of buying the silver-blue metallic BMW 525 sedan used in the bombing

Police spokesman Kurt Kraus said the car was bought Saturday at a second-hand auto dealership near Frankfurt, where the car used in the August bombing was also purchased

He said police were looking for witnesses who may have seen the car or the man since Saturday. The car was carrying West German license plates and disintegrated in the blast.

"It was a very powerful blast," said U.S. Army spokesman Christopher Chalko. The explosion shattered windows in buildings within a 100-yard radius and damaged a military laundromat and a car wash. Gasoline at a service station about 30 yards away did not ignite.

The injured, whose identities were not immediately available, included 19 U.S. military personnel, 11 American civilians, a West German civilian and a Filipino, Swisher said.

For the other two who were treated here we still don't have any personal details," he said.

The bomb went off shortly before the post exchange was due to close at 4 p.m.

'There were not too many people in the store but the laundromat and the car wash were busy," said Maj. Cecil Green, another Army spokesman.

Only U.S. soldiers and their families can shop at the store, but the parking lot where the explosion occurred can be used by civilians. People entering the center must pass through a military police checkpoint located five yards from the blast site, Chalko said.

He would not comment when asked if security measures had been stepped up following the August attack against the Rhein-Main base.

West German police and U.S. guards carrying M-16 assault rifles sealed off the area after the blast. The store is on a busy avenue a few blocks away from the headquarters of the U.S. Army's V Corps

In May 1972, the Baader-Meinhof terrorist gang set bombs near the post exchange, killing a U.S. Army lieutenant colonel

Press censorship cuts credibility

As though South Africa's government had not lost enough credibility with its repressive policies, Pretoria has now initiated a crackdown on all reporting of the nation's protracted

The draconian decree prohibits all broadcast journalists from reporting disorders in 38 designated emergency areas. Similarly, newspaper reporters are permitted to visit these areas only in the company of police liaison officers.

The government's rationale for this censorship has been to accuse numerous journalists of deliberately inciting the very unrest they have reported. The basis for this flimsy charge is an unnamed government informant and a questionable letter of dubious origin that appeared in a London newspaper several weeks ago. Otherwise, Soth African authorities have not documented their assertion that the media are engaged in a conspiracy in order to discredit the government.

Actually, Pretoria doesn't need such evidence to tighten the

More recently, the government brought criminal charges against Tony Heard, editor of the Cape Times, a generally critical newspaper. Mr. Heard's so-called crime consisted of publishing an interview with Oliver Tambo, president of the banned African National Congress. Never mind that the interview contained no inflammatory rhetoric or that Mr. Tambo called for peaceful negotiations with the government. If convicted, Mr. Heard faces the possibility of a three-year prison sentence.

Obviously, such heavy-handed tactics are meant to intimidate the press and to prevent the outside world from gauging the depth of domestic discontent against South Africa's repugnant racial policies. The predictable result is that this blatant new censorship erodes ever further Pretoria's credibility at home and abroad.

'Cagney and Lacy' miss on abortion

'Cagney and Lacey," a CBS series about two New York City policewomen, is one of the most critically acclaimed programs on television. Last year it won six Emmys, including the one for best dramatic series. But officers Christine Cagney and Mary Beth Lacey have let down their audience by enlisting in the campaign to preserve abortion rights.

The episode, revolving around ombing of an abortion clinic. could have done justice to the opposing partisans and to the demands of television entertainment. Instead, it offered shrill propaganda.

Faced with complaints from anti-abortion groups, CBS stood by its show. "We think it was fair and balanced, that it presented both sides," said a network spokesman. Calls to CBS's offices ran 2-to-1 in support, he said.

The embarrassing question for CBS is why a "fair and balanced" show would draw criticism from anti-abortion groups but praise from their opponents. The explanation is simple. Posing as drama, the program was a brief for abortion rights, with only a perfunctory attempt to present the opposing

The subject of the show tended to throw a bad light on everyone in the anti-abortion movement, even though few of them endorse violence. Worse, the bomber in this case turned out to be a member of a legitimate right-to-life group.

Worse still, both officers treated the violent and non-violent elements of the movement as indistinguishable. Told by the head of an anti-abortion group that picketing clinics "is a legitimate form of protest," Cagney retorts angrily, "Not when it leads to

The "balance" in the program was provided by the two policewomen — Lacy passionately upholding the right of every woman "to make up her own mind about her own body," Cagney plagued by doubts stemming from her Catholic upbringing.

Lacey never wavers from her conviction. As a pregnant 19-yearold, we learn, she had gotten an abortion in Puerto Rico rather than risk an illegal back-alley job. Her.

case gets support from the devoted doctor at the abortion clinic and from a pregnant Hispanic woman who wants to finish her education, not have a baby and go on welfare.

But Cagney flounders, unable to come up with any good reasons for her reservations. Her father, a crude stereotype, upbraids her. "It is a mortal sin!" he shouts. "People a lot smarter than me spent a lot of time figuring this thing out." do with an unwanted fetus, he snaps, "It's not a man's problem." Not surprisingly, Cagney eventually comes around to Lacey's point of Nowhere in the program do intelligent abortion foes get the chance to state their case. The point is to suggest that there is no intelligent case against abortion only religious hysteria. The heartlessness of anti-abortion groups is set against pathetic tales of those would suffer without legal abortion - teen-age girls who don't want to bring fatherless children into the world, disabled men who can't support children, plucky minority women who aspire to improve their lot.

Have we forgotten any victims? Only the unborn child. No one in this episode thought to ask if a baby is truly better off dead than fatherless. No one asked if the sacrifice of one's education isn't preferable to snuffing out a human

By ignoring questions like these, 'Cagney and Lacy' made abortion look as wholesome as mother's milk, an act that produces only benefits. Abortion does simplify the lives of people who don't want the babies they've conceived. So would infanticide. In both cases, the price is too high.

It is easy to dramatize the suffering of women with unwanted pregnancies. It is not so easy to dramatize the hidden destruction of a living, breathing human being in his mother's womb. If and when "Cagney and Lacy" gets off its 'pro-choice' soapbox to confront the reality of abortion, the show really will deserve some awards.

Soviet compliance seen as outcome of a pact

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA WASHINGTON — Recent incidents have led many pundits to prognosticate doom for the Reagan-Gorbachev summit. But the natural-born optimist in the White House believes he can return from Geneva with the framework for a future arms-control agreement with the Soviet Union President Reagan's ability to negotiate a workable deal with the Soviets may be in question, but his determination is not. And our intelligence sources suggest that there is more than just the president's yearning for a "place in history" behind his hopes in the face of past Soviet treaty violations.

For one thing, the intelligence community is far from unanimous on the subject of Soviet violations not about whether they have occurred, which is beyond question, but whether the breaches gave the Soviets any significant advantage

For another thing, there is solid evidence that the Soviets have been complying with elements of several treaties to their own disadvantage. When provisions of an agreement are spelled out in absolutely unambiguous terms, the Russians tend to grit their teeth and comply.

One of the most interesting examples of this is found in secret White House files on the Helsinki accords of 1975. What most Americans remember about the Helsinki agreement is its human-rights provisions, which the Kremlin has deliberately and cynically violated from the day the treaty was

But there was another part of the Helsinki agreement, little publicized but of keen interest to Western intelligence. And the Soviets have adhered to its scrupulously with only one proven exception.

The provision requires the signatories to notify the other parties "of major military maneuvers exceeding a total of 25,000 troops." Notification must be made 21 days before the maneuvers start.

The value of this to the West is obvious: World War III is considered most likely to start with a conventional Soviet attack on Western Europe, with mobilization disguised as a military exercise. The accords require both sides to give details on their planned maneuvers, including their purpose, the types and strength of the forces engaged, the area involved and the time frame of the exercise.

The Soviets were first suspected of breaking the prior-notification agreement in early 1981, when they staged "Soyuz-81," a large combined exercise involving the Soviets and their Warsaw Pact allies. 'Soviet failure to notify ... raised serious questions about Eastern compliance with the letter as well as the spirit of the (Helsinki accords), as that maneuver may have involved more than 25,000 men," a secret National Security Council report

"However, because of the difficulty of verifying exactly how many troops participated in this exercise, the U.S. did not lodge a formal protest.'

In "Zapad-81", the following September, however, there was a clear violation by the Soviets. They failed to provide "the types of forces engaged and the number of troops taking party," the NSC report states. Soviet news reports later disclosed that 100,000 troops took part.

This time the United States lodged a formal protest, and since then the Soviets have regularly provided the required information at the required time. Officials in the Pentagon and elsewhere consider the Soviet compliance a valuable result of an agreement that has otherwise been disregarded.

HISTORY REVISITED: Imelda Marcos, the former beauty queen who reigns as first lady of the Philippines, may be trying to create an image as a global strategist in hopes of eventually succeeding her husband, President Ferdinand Marcos. An American congressman was astonished recently when Mrs. Marcos showed up for a meeting with an attache case. She pulled out a note pad and proceeded to sketch a map of the world, with the Philippines at the center. She then informed the congressman that her friend, former President Nixon, once confided to her the real reason the United States went to war in Vietnam: to protect the Philippines.

UNDER THE DOME: Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., has found a sporty way to spend $660 in leftover campaign funds the past two years: on tickets to Washignton Redkins home games. Constituents who show up at the right time use the tickets. Staff members also get to go, after an office drawing but they have to pay, with the money going back into the campaign fund. Simpson himself doesn't use the tickets, an aide explained, because he usually uses friends' tickets. Using campaign contributions for job-related excuses not directly linked to campaigning is perfectly legal. Might even win a few votes.

MINI-EDITORIAL: As someone, probably Will Rogers, observed during the Great Depression, Americans are the only people who will drive to the poorhouse in their own cars. Maybe it was because the '30s took the shame out of being broke, but the trend to conspicuous debt has grown. Credit card executives report with utter glee that their "prestige" plastic is selling like hot cakes. Gold cards are no inger ritzy enough for modern debtors; American Express now has a Platinum Card for incurable showoffs. You pay a $250 annual fee to impress waiters with the size of your credit line.

Suicide isn't in God's plan

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Two weeks ago I tried to commit suicide. A policeman talked me out of it and they admitted me to a hospital. But life seems so hopeless for me, I just know I'll try it again when I get out of here. What's wrong with ending your life. anyway? — S.W.

DEAR S.W.: I could give you many reasons, but the most important one is that God does not want you to end your life. It is not God's will for you to end your life, because He has a plan for you - a plan that is far, far greater and fuller than anything you can imagine right now. Don't turn your back on His plan, for His way is always best for us. Yes, there is hope for the future when we put our lives into the hands of God.

My prayer for you is that you would open your life to Jesus Christ and ask Him to come into your heart. The most important thing I can say to you is that God loves you, and He wants to come into your life so you can experience His

Perhaps you feel like no one really cares for you - in fact, you may even have trouble loving yourself But God does not hate you - and therefore you should not hate yourself. How do I know God loves you? Because He sent His only Son into the world to die on the cross for your sins

Now you can become a child of God through faith in Christ. "How great is the love the Father has lavished on us, that we should be called children of God! And that is what we are" (1 John 3:1). If you had been the only person in the world who needed to be saved, Christ would still have been willing to go to the cross for you. God loves you that much!

Turn to Christ now by faith. Then seek out the fellowship of other Christians who can help you both emotionally and spiritually. God wants to help you get back on you feet emotionally and give you hope and joy in the future.

Dear Abby

First Americans should be honored

DEAR ABBY: Now that Congress has approved Mule Appreciation Day, perhaps they will consider designating a day to honor the native American Indian.

On Jan. 12, 1983, Public Law 97445 was enacted directing President Reagan to designate May 11, 1983, as "American Indian Day. On April 13, President Reagan did so. However, that was a one-time designation only!

I think there should be a national holiday every year to honor the American Indian instead of a oneday holiday.

Abby, you went to bat for a National Bachelor's Day: won't you please say a few words in behalf of the American Indian?

A PROUD SIOUX
DEAR PROUD SIOUX: A national holiday to honor our native American Indians is long overdue. If enough citizens get sufficiently fired up about it, perhaps we can send some smoke signals to Washington.

DEAR ABBY: "Ed P. in Richmond, Va." proposed we honor bachelors by having a National Bachelor's Day. And you said, "If Congress can approve Mule Appreciation Day, why not Bachelor's Abby, what have bachelors done to deserve any form of homage or appreciation? They do not necessarily sow, nor do they reap. How can their accomplishments be compared to those of the mule? The mule has justified its existence many times over. It has plowed our fields, provided us transportation (You wanna ride a bachelor?), pulled our borax ore, helped us through gold claims, and carried us down the deep slopes of the Grand Canyon.

I was amazed to learn that the bill was sponsored in Congress by Robert Garcia, who is not from an agricultural community - he's a Democrat from New York and lives in an apartment house in the BRARRY V. IN CORAL SPRINGS, FLA. DEAR BARRY: Several of Rep. Garcia's constituents wrote to inform me that the Mule Appreciation Bill was not sponsored by Garcia.

I stand corrected. But since it was passed unanimously, it's safe to say that he did not oppose it.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know how Thomas Paine made your list of famous bachelors. He was married first on Sept. 27, 1763, to Mary Lambert in Sandwich, England, who died of pneumonia while expecting his only child.

Then on March 26, 1771, Paine married Elizabeth Ollive in Lewis, England. They were subsequently divorced.

DEATRA G. ALAMEDA, GA. DEAR DEATRA: The definition of a bachelor is "an unmarried man." At the time this survey was taken, Thomas Paine was apparently between wives, hence he was classified as a bachelor.

DEAR ABBY: Re "Bachelor's Day": It would certainly be a surprise to Andrew Carnegie's daughter, Margaret, to learn that her father was still a bachelor aftger marrying Louise Whitefield (Margaret's mother) in 1887.

Wise speaks on home health care

Dan Wise told the Malone-Hogan Hospital volunteers about home health care at a meeting Nov. 20 at the Brandin Iron Inn.

Plans to decorate the hospital for Christmas were finalized. All public areas of the hospital will be decorated Dec. 2.

The next meeting will be in February.

Pokes whip Eagles, Oilers nip Chargers

Dallas takes 34-17 victory

IRVING (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys looked like their old efficient 1971 Super Bowl champions on Sunday not the scruffy outfit that had been humiliated 44-0 by the Chicago Bears a week earlier.

'We needed to bounce back on the positive side after last week,' said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "It was a must win for us.

The Cowboys followed quarterback Danny White's sharpshooting to a 34-17 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles and remained tied with the New York Giants for the National Conference Eastern Division leadership.

The Cowboys' "redemption" victory over the Eagles came off White's three touchdown passes and a ballhawking secondary that picked off three Ron Jaworski Jaworski had a career-high 380 yards against Dallas in a 16-14 victory in Philadelphia. But he came into the game here bothered by a bruised shoulder and connected on 23 of 42 pases for 285 yards.

White, who suffered a concussion and a jammed neck against the Bears, completed 75 per cent of his passes, hitting 20 of 28 shots for 243

He nailed tight end Doug Cosbie with a fourth and inches 2-yard scoring pass and found him again on a 23-yard scoring strike, all in the second period. In the fourth quarter, Mike Renfro shagged a 19-yard touchdown pass over the middle. Dallas is 8-4 and the Eagles dropped to 6-6 in the division. The Cowboys play St. Louis Thanksgiving Day.

"We are in the stretch drive some tough teams to close with."

Drew Hill (85) of the Houston Oilers grabs a touchdown pass from Oliver Luck in the first quarter Sunday in the Astrodome. Pursuing Hill into the endzone is Danny Walters (23) of the San Diego Chargers.

Almost lost in White's bombardment were Tony Dorsett's touchdown runs of two and 10 yards and his 86 yards rushing on 30 carries. Dorsett also broke the 1,000 yard rushing barrier for the eighth time in nine pro seasons.

The Eagles got a 74-yard scoring now," said Landry. "We have run from rookie Herman Hunter but the overhead game was limited to Jaworski's late 11-yard scoring pass to Mike Quick.

Eagles' Coach Marion Campbell was proud of Jaworski's effort. "He hung in there all the way," said Campbell." He's a tough Campbell said the Eagles still had a playoff chance. "We're not going to die because of this one," Campbell said. We're going to keep trying our tails off. We've worked too hard to make ourselves a respectable football team.'

Jaworski said, "The Cowboys played outstanding football. You have to give them credit. They had control of the game and took us out of our game plan.

Houston wins game in final two seconds

HOUSTON (AP) - The emotional roller coaster the Houston Oilers have ridden this season reached new highs Sunday.

"It's incredible how the em?tions change from week to week in this locker room," Oilers wide receiver Tim Smith said. "We're lucky to be in the AFC Central where a two-game winning streak can put you back in

The Oilers built a 17-0 firsthalf lead and then had to come from behind three times to defeat San Diego 37-35 on a 51-yard field goal by Tony Zendejas with two seconds left in regulation play.

Houston quarterback Oliver Luck, starting for injured Warren Moon, dueled San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts score

Luck drove the Oilers to the Charger 33 with seven seconds left to set up the game-winner by Zendejas, who earlier hit field goals of 47 and a career long 52 yarder.

It was the second time in as many weeks that the Chargers had been struck down so suddenly. They were lining up in overtime a week ago to kick a winning field goal against Denver. But the kick was blocked and then returned 60 yards for a winning touchdown. The Chargers had more time to watch Sunday's time bomb. Luck, starting his first game since 1983, hit a 24-yard pass to

Drew Hill and completed a 25-yard pass to Smith to set up Zendejas' game winner. The Oilers built a 17-7 halftime lead on a 16-yard run by Larry Moriarty, Luck's 8-yard touchdown pass to Drew Hill and Zendejas' 47-yarder.

The Chargers started their comeback shortly before the half with a one-yard run by Tim Spencer following an 11-yard interception return by cornerback John Hendy.

The offensive battle grew intense in the second half.

Fouts' 67-yard touchdown pass to Lionel James and a 2-yard run by Buford McGee gave San Diego it's first lead at 21-20 going into the fourth quarter following a 52-yard field goal by Zendejas.

Rozier had touchdowns of 3 and 2 yards and Tim Spencer ran 15 yards for a touchdown and Wes Chandler caught an 11-yard touchdown pass with 39 second to play to give the Chargers a 35-34 lead.

Although they trailed 17-0 at one point and behind 17-7 at the half, Chargers Coach Don Coryll said he never doubted his team could rally.

"It was a great performance by our offense in the last quarter," Coryll said. "I wouldn't make any excuses for the turnovers. Every team does through some stress. You should welcome that kind of stress."

Fouts extended his NFL record to 46 300-yard passing performances.

"I've never seen anything like this," he said. "I guess it's growing pains but I don't know. We came back all right. We never feel out of the game at the half. This team has too much and the Chicago Bears' defense team leader with the Bucs as he Danielson, whose sore shoulder United States' gold-medal Olympic worked some more of their routine engineered a 10-point rally to force had forced him to the bench and track team in 1984, ran wild against magic - and Jay Schroeder displayed some more, too. Payton, gaining 102 yards - 40 of them on a touchdown run - tied the mark of seven consecutive National Football League games with 100 or more yards rushing, a record set by O.J. Simpson and matched by Earl Campbell. The Bears defense pushed its scorless string to 16 quarters in a 36-0 romp over Atlanta.

Perry, the 308-pound "Refrigerator" who switches from defensive tackle to running back when the Bear offense nudges up against the goal line, rumbled for his third TD of the year after Steve Fuller and Willie Gault teamed on a 50-yard pass to the Atlanta 1-yard

In Pittsburgh, Schroeder, who rode to Washington's rescue last Monday night, showed he was no one-week wonder as he quarterbacked the Redskins to a 30-23 victory over the Steelers. It was his first full game since high school and he threw for a touchdown and completed eight of 10 second-half Redskins 30, Steelers 23 Ken Jenkins returned a kickoff 95 yards to the Pittsburgh 3-yard line, setting up one Washington TD, and Otis Wonsley blocked a punt to pave the way for Schroeder's 18-yard touchdown pass to Clint Didier. Schroeder finished with 15 completions in 28 passes for 163 yards without an interception.

Jets 16, Patriots 13 Kurt Sohn sprinted 46 yards with a punt to the New England 15-yard line and, not wasting any time, the Jets called on place-kicker Pat Leahy, whose 32-yard field goal 10:05 into overtime boosted the Jets into sole possession of first place in the AFC East, a game ahead of the visiting Patriots and the Dolphins

Running back Marcus Allen, who gained 173 yards on 24 carries, got the overtime drive started with a 14-yard run and, two plays later, Marc Wilson passed 42 yards to Dokie Williams to put the Raiders in Bahr's range

Dolphins 23, Bills 14

After pushing aside the Bills in Buffalo, Miami Coach Don Shula said he "did not want to come in here with the team thinking about the Bears. You do that and you can easily be beaten.

They were nearly beaten, anyway, as the Bills rallied from a 14-0 deficit to tie the score on Bruce Mathison's two TD passes. But when Donald Wilson of the Bills muffed a punt and Miami recovered on the Buffalo 11, Fuad Reveiz kicked a 22-yard field goal that put the Dolphins ahead to stay.

"Any time you turn the ball over it's a turning point," said Wilson, who did have a stiff 30 mph wind with which to deal. "It just drifted and I missed it."

brought Bernie Kosar into the huddle seven weeks ago, made only seven passes and just one in the second half — a 72-yard TD bomb to Clarence Weathers. "In the second half, I was going only about half speed," Danielson said. "The only pass I could have thrown in the second half was the one for the touchdown.

Kevin Mack ran for 117 yards and two touchdowns

Saints 30, Vikings 23 Bum Phillips had said he would quit if New Orleans didn't finish the season 8-8. They can't afford another loss. In Minneapolis, with Bobby Hebert calling the signals, the Saints kept their coach's job secure - for now

Hebert's first NFL touchdown pass, a 39-yarder to John Tice with 50 seconds to play, beat the Vikings. It came 57 seconds after Minnesota had tied it on Tommy Kramer's six-iard TD toss to Mike-

Earl Campbell ran for 160 yards for the Saints, his 40th career 100-yard game but the first since New Orleans picked him up from Houston last season.

Giants 34, Cardinals 3

Phil Simms' touchdown passes of 31 yards to Lionel Manuel and 12 yards to rookie Mark Bavaro, George Adams' 113 rushing yards and a TD and a defense that chalked up eight sacks and George Martin's 56-yard TD run carried the Giants to victory.

It kept New York tied with Dallas atop the NFC East, one game

And in the second half, Brown caught a 39-yard touchdown pass from Dieter Brock. Eric Dickerson ran for 150 yards, 14 of them for a touchdown as the Rams opened a 21/2-game lead over San Francisco in the NFC West

Chiefs 20, Colts 7 Todd Blackledge passed 22 yards to Stephone Paige for one TD, Mike Pruitt ran in from the two and Nick Lowery kicked field goals of 29 and 42 yards as the Chiefs snapped a seven-game tailspin. George Wonsley averted a Colts shutout with a 14-yard TD run 2:22 from the final gun

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Mommy's bank is First Interstate, Grandma's is Western Savings and mine is Piggy."

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, NOV. 26, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today continues to be a very good time to find the ways to add to your income as well as to get rid of present obligations so that you can clear the decks for more action.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) An ideal day to make plans for the days ahead and become more financially secure by using a new system.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your reflection in the mirror and decide how to improve both your health and your appearance. Try not to be unkind today. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get rid of stumbling blocks in the path of your progress and then all goes smoothly for you. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) If you are more objective you can regain your peace of mind at this time. Don't rely on some friend for help.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Be very efficient at handling outside matters and do nothing that can annoy bigwigs. Make at least a partial payment on credit. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although you want to get off to new outlets, it is wise to complete whatever work needs completion first. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listening carefully to advice of an expert in some field that interests you can lead to greater success. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Not a good day to try to have an understanding with a difficult person but at least show understanding.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to get duties handled that you have neglected for some time and then you can make progress.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan to have amusements that do not cost too much so that you do not deplete your assets.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) The situation is not very good at home, but if you are objective you soon can solve the problems.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be most careful while out driving and be alert to what others are doing. Others are tempted to be sarcastic. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will think that own opinions are the best and will not listen to those of others, so teach that everyone has a right to own opinions, and then your progeny will be successful and popular. One who would do well in practical affairs. Add psychology to courses of study.

Prison deaths

Some large prison systems, however, have effectively dealt with the problem, Authorities say California, the nation's largest prison system, has paved the way with innovative programs, some of which now are being copied in California has had 10 prison homicides this year. Tennessee, where overcrowded cells were shut to new prisoners recently by a federal judge, has had four. New York has had only two.

Prison experts attribute much of the problem in Texas to the now familiar litany of too little space, too few guards and conflict among ruthless prison gangs

"We had this idea in Texas that we could send them down there, lock them up and throw away the key," said state Rep. Ray Keller, chairman of the House Law Enforcement Committee and a prison administration critic. "Now we know we have to do more."

But Texas' problems are also specifically rooted in its system, peculiar to the South and now widely outlawed, of "building tenders." These were inmate guards who had control of prison wings seven days a week, 24 hours a day.

The tenders were more than security guards; they determined who roomed with whom, who was fed and who wasn't. Under the tenders, killings behind bars weren't reported to the public and; before 1983, autopsies were not conducted on those who died in prison.

Because the tenders kept such tight, harsh control, the prisons themselves were not built for top security. Cells are separated by hollow bars capable of being cut with wet boot laces. Corridors are so narrow that inmates can literally reach out and stab someone. In one prison, cell door locks are so flimsy they can be shaken open.

These design shortcuts still plague Texas' 27 prison units, even though U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice abolished the building tender system in 1983.

Guards cannot carry guns inside most prisons because of the close quarters, and prisoners must walk to the shower behind rolling metal shields. Inmates shove their bunks to the center of their cells so their neighbors can't reach them through the bars at night.

Metal rods inside toilets are easily sharpened into weapons. In one 45-second attack Labor Day weekend, three inmates were stabbed and killed by a pair of prisoners.

Staunching the bloodshed won't be easy, said Lane McCotter, the state's fourth prison director since

"A year ago, no, we did not have control. We were struggling to maintain control," he said. Today, he said, guards are

Brown, now a prison spokesman.

Because of the lack of guard authority, Texas prisons have been dominated by two mostly Hispanic gangs, the Texas Syndicate and the Mexican Mafia, who have battled for membership and control of the lucrative prison drug trade.

"Seventy to 80 percent of the homicides have been connected to gang-type activity," McCotter said. "Gang activities are now just is prison gangs.'

Gang members have been identified and isolated, mail between inmates was cut off for a time, a special SWAT-type guard unit was organized, arrangements have been made to swap gang leaders among states, and the more violent prisons were locked down for long

Letters intercepted from a neo-Nazi gang called the Aryan Brotherhood outlined plans to kill 50 enemies inside the prisons. A single cell-to-cell search in July 1984 of about half the Coffield Unit outside Palestine, Texas, which houses 3,600 inmates, turned up 489 weapons, according to warden Jack Garner.

"There were so many weapons everyone and their brother was armed," McCotter said.

The measures in part are patterned after tactics first used in California, which in 1972 had more ed on gang rivalries.

"We're really where they were 10 years ago," said Texas prisons spokesman Phil Guthrie, who held the same job in California until coming to Texas last year. 'They've been into this whole control program over gangs for some time. Ours is really in its infancy.'

Officials in California, which has 48,000 inmates, now have four categories for gang members members, associate members, hangers on and former members and separates them accordingly. said Dick Ellis, a prison spokesman and a guard at Folsom prison for more than 11 years.
