White approves drug testing for employees

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White has endorsed limited drug testing for both public and private workers, and suggested that employers be able to fire those whose tests show drug use. Such testing also should extend to school teachers, White told his weekly news conference Thursday. "I think we have a right to be certain that we are going to have instructors in our educational system, working in our plants that are going to be intoxicant-free. I think the Constitution will permit that," White said.

"Very simply, if someone is using an intoxicant in the course of their employment, they could be discharged for safety reasons, for the fact they can't perform their task," he said.

White's comments brought quick reaction from the 60,000-member Texas State Teachers Association and a state employees group.

"We don't think that any group ought to be singled out, and we think it's probably unconstitutional," said TSTA spokeswoman Annette Steele Cootes.

"The testing of teachers en masse — coupled with all the hassles teachers are being forced to put up with now — would certainly devastate the state with a teacher shortage," she added.

AIDS quarantine idea withdrawn

AUSTIN (AP) — State Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein still wants a way to isolate incurable AIDS victims, but he's given up on his current proposal to add the disease to the state's quarantine list.

Bernstein announced Thursday he is withdrawing the proposal, three days after 20 witnesses told a public hearing that the quarantine would do little to stem the spread of the often-fatal disease.

The "furor and the emotion" raised by the proposal outweighed its potential benefits, the commissioner said at a news conference.

"Considering that we would use this (quarantine) ... probably not over a dozen times a year throughout the state, that relationship would suffer out of all proportion to the value gained," Bernstein said.

But he will continue to look for a way to isolate AIDS victims who refuse to abstain from activity that can spread the disease. It might take legislative action, he said.

"We're not dropping it. We are just going to go about it in a less tumultuous way," he said.

Under the Bernstein plan — ten-

Hispanic leader stresses voter education

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Democrats who depend on "taco politics" to keep the Hispanic vote could become Election Day losers, says the chairman of the Mexican-American Democrats.

Hispanic support no longer cannot be taken for granted, according to Ruben Bonilla of Corpus Christi. That support must be earned and, in some cases, financed, he said.

"If we don't have the money we are not going to do it on a volunteer basis. We find that too many people have been ingrates, too many people come to us every electoral season. That's my concept of taco politics.

"They say, 'Let's have a barbecue, let's raise a little money,' slap us on the back and go on," said Bonilla.

His organization wants money to pay for the voter registration and education drives Bonilla said are crucial to Democratic victories in November. The money should come from Gov. Mark White, other state officials and their business supporters, he said.

Volunteers feted at State Hospital

By CAROL BALDWIN Staff Writer

Top Ferguson, who has donated more than 16,500 hours to the Big Spring State Hospital, and 24 other volunteers were honored Thursday during an appreciation luncheon on the hospital grounds.

As he prepared to present Ferguson with a plaque, A.K. Keene, superintendent of the hospital, said, "We would like to say thank you in a special way to a woman who has shown us how to translate faith into action."

Ferguson is a Midland resident who has been driving to Big Spring almost weekly for 27 years to volunteer at the State Hospital. She has worked in a number of capacities and on several committees. The crowd gave her a standing ovation as she received her award.

Laurel Parker was the winner of the Jack Y. Smith award Parker has volunteered at the state hospital since 1979 and has logged

2,516 hours of service. The award is named after longtime Big Spring State Hospital volunteer Jack Y. Smith, who was at the luncheon to give Parker the award.

Other volunteers recognized and their hours of work included:

SSC gets Stenholm reaction

Harte-Hanks Washington Bureau WASHINGTON — Rep. Charles Stenholm Friday said the Energy Department should consider weighing the possible benefits of an atomic research project before deciding if it should receive additional funding.

The so-called Super Conducting Super Collider, considered the next stage in atomic research, has been under review by Reagan administration officials for three years. The project, if constructed, would study the splitting of atoms.

Secretary of Energy John Herrington is expected this spring to decide whether to request more research money for the project in this year's budget.

Marc Lubin, an aide to Stenholm, said final construction and research of the project could cost as much as $6 billion.

Plains town weathers hard times

PETERSBURG (AP) — This small town nestled in the breadbasket of the South Plains has weathered floods, droughts, nasty storms and now the farming slump, but nobody plans to be the last one in town to turn off the lights.

There's no sign directing travelers to Petersburg off heavily traveled I-27 between Lubbock and Amarillo, population 1,641, or thereabouts, but it makes no never mind to a lot of the townsfolk.

"Been here since February, '22," one oldtimer drawled as he watched four of his friends absorbed in a game of dominoes next door to the town's only bank. "When I get a little older I'll make up my mind if I like it here."

He didn't crack a smile. "Aw, we talk a better game than we play," injected a ruddy-faced farmer, his face etched with years of hard, honest work in the fields, as he plotted strategy over the domino table.

"Keeps our minds off that soggy cotton..."

"Besides we've all got AIDS," chimed in a tall Texan, probably in his 60s with the all too familiar bill cap pulled down over his brow. His comment left the stranger aghast momentarily.

"AIDS. Yep. Agricultural Income Deficiency Syndrome..."

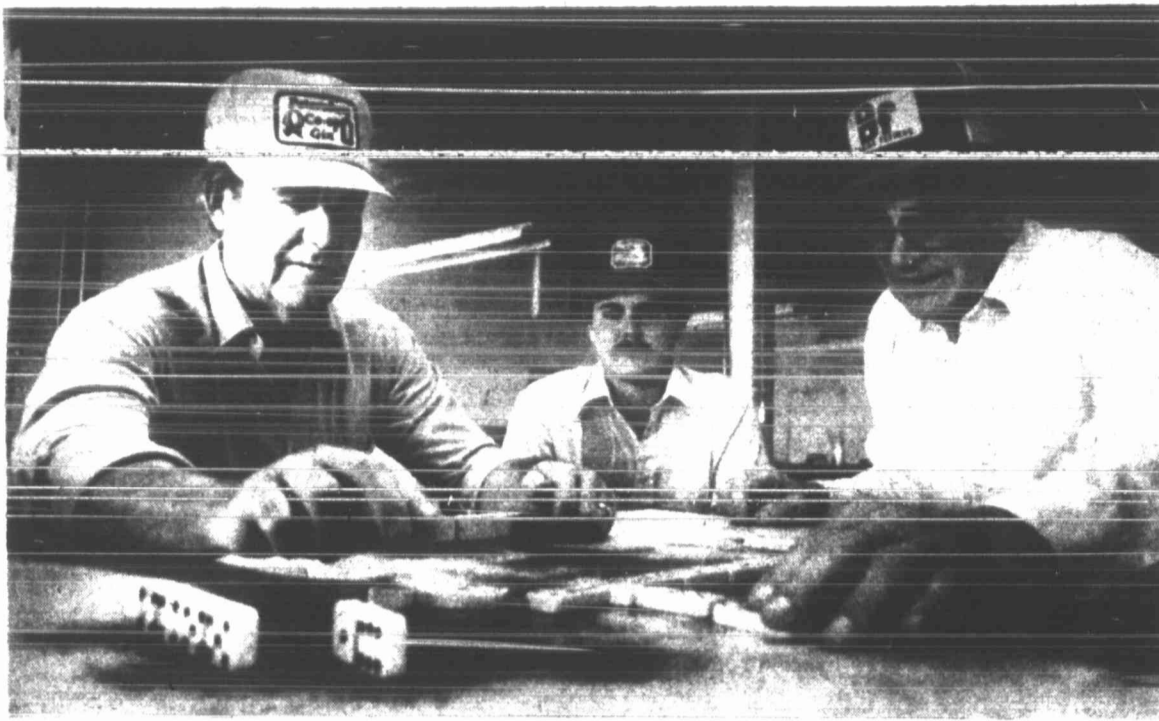

Petersburg, incorporated in 1928 a year before the Wall Street stock market crash, has had better days. But, if roaming around town as a stranger is any indication, it never had better people.

Just walk into the Porter Health Mart along Main Street, saddle up at the soda fountain and Gayle Trowbridge just kind of automatically wants to know who you are, where you're from and why you're in town all friendly like.

She knows everybody else in town, so it's no feat to spot a stranger.

"It'll get busy in a few minutes when the kids are out of school," she said, chattering about her children, who're all grown now, and her farmer husband. The independent school district has 480 students.

She took the job at the drug store for a little extra income. The economic times haven't been any easier on the Trowbridges than anyone else in Petersburg. On both sides of Main Street, it's evident the farming slump has taken it's toll. Some businesses have closed. Others are holding on and waiting for improvement.

Farmers and residents of Petersburg Jerry Bartlett, Bryan Fullingan and Burt Scarborough, find a game of dominoes a diversion for a slow afternoon.

Nobody, though, seems to be infected with getting rich. Getting by, breaking even or saving a few dollars seems more the rule.

There's still a pioneering spirit about Petersburg with its two-man police department, volunteer fire department, grocery store, two barber shops, beauty salon, 11 area churches and a smattering of other businesses, all with a laid-back attitude.

They had a town doctor a while back, but not any more.

The pride of small town life including those who grew up around Petersburg and moved on never seems to quite get out of the blood.

Main Street was lined on both sides last August for the annual Petersburg Day parade, followed by games, bike racing, tractor backing, still racing and a dunkin' booth. Townsfolk figure there were, say, three or four times more people on the streets that day than the whole population. "Yessir. It's a good life," said Jesse James Nave, the town's city manager. "Look here. See these counter checks? Anyone in town can go over to bank and use 'em without being asked a question."

"You see, everybody knows everybody else. There's no problem. You couldn't walk into a Lubbock bank and cash a counter check if the bank president himself was standing over your shoulder."

"No hustle. No bustle. Peace and tranquility," Nave said. "Some farmers around here are going into the sixth generation working the same land, maybe buying a few more acres now and then."

Nave, originally from Elizabethton, Tenn., came to Petersburg 16 years ago and hasn't had a hankering to leave since. He's been city manager for seven years.

"I'm happy with the job," Nave, 53, said. "It's a good little town. No, I don't get rich at it, but, you know, variety is the spice of life."

Nave, it seems, also drives the town's ambulance, is the fiscal agent, oversees the water and sewer system, is both tax collector and tax assessor, supervises the local dump and proposed new street construction, works with the volunteer fire department and takes police calls.

"That's what I mean by variety," he said. "For all I know, I may be out on an ambulance call in five minutes. City managers in a lot of large towns are more public relations officers who delegate city duties."

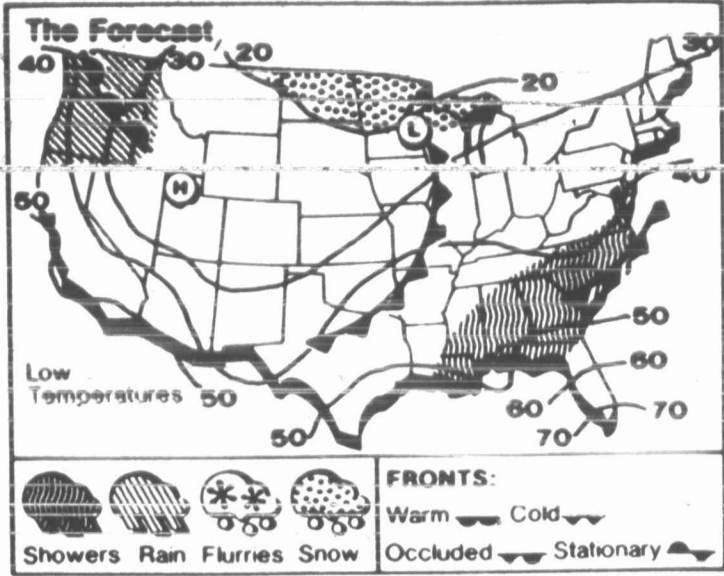

Nave had just as soon do the jobs himself. Besides there aren't a whole lot of folks down the line to delegate to.

"I don't guess I have a single enemy," Nave said, but chuckled that he figured anyone who had no enemies at all might be foolin' himself. "I don't think I have an enemy..."

An ordained Baptist minister with 23 years in pulpits from Kentucky to Fort Worth before coming to Petersburg, Nave exudes the country charm of his adopted hometown's people.

He keeps his hand in the preachin' business. He's part-time minister at a local 10-member Methodist Church.

Crime Stoppers appoints new board, OKs reward

A newly appointed board of directors and approval of a $500 reward that led to the solving of 44 burglaries highlighted Crime Stoppers' meeting Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce.

Leroy Tillery, who was appointed 1986 secretary for the non-profit corporation, said the county appointed O.L. Brown to serve as this year's chairman of the board; the city appointed J.D. Nelson to serve as vice chairman; and a local insurance association appointed Jerry Mancill as a director.

The board also approved $500 for a person who reported a suspicious vehicle to the police last October.

Tillery said the informant "was suspicious that something might be going on. He didn't have to know for sure."

The turned in a description of the car, license plate numbers and descriptions of persons who were in the car.

Police followed up on the lead, Tillery said, and arrested Troy Yules Barrett, 19, of 708 W. Eighth on Oct. 30. Barrett was on a seven-year probation sentence for burglary at the time of his arrest.

He pleaded guilty to burglary in 118th District Court on Dec. 9, and District Judge James Gregg sentenced him to seven years in prison.

Law enforcement officers from both the county and city later revealed that Barrett was leader of a burglary ring whose members committed a number of burglaries in the county and the city. Tillery said law enforcement agencies were able to link 44 burglaries to the ring, which included burglaries committed in New Mexico and California.

He was arrested on Howard County warrants charging him with felony theft over $750 and theft by check.

The theft by check warrant resulted from a grand jury indict-

Deputies released Richard Eugene Thomas, 35, of Desert Hills Motel after he was arrested Wednesday night and charged with protective custody.

Justice of the Peace China Long authorized his release after the charge was dropped.

Gary Hughes, executive director of the Texas Public Employees Association, said he wished White would have discussed the idea with government workers before commenting publicly.

"I'm extremely disappointed in him that he would say that in a press conference without any discussion with the state employees," Hughes said.

After his news conference, White's press secretary contacted reporters to say the governor wasn't calling for blanket drug testing of all workers.

"It's not a blanket kind of thing, but where there's some indication of a problem," press secretary Ann Arnold said.

White himself indicated he doesn't approve testing all workers, saying, "I don't know that that's necessary. I wouldn't think it would be."

While refusing to say how such testing could be done without violating individuals' constitutional rights to privacy and against unreasonable searches, White said he was convinced a legal testing method could be devised.

tively approved last month by the State Board of Health — local health officials would have been allowed to ask the state health department to quarantine incorrigible AIDS victims. The commissioner preferred the term "medically isolate."

The quarantine idea was sparked by a Houston incident involving an AIDS victim who purportedly claimed he would continue to have sex as a street prostitute. He later died.

According to doctors, AIDS is most likely to strike homosexuals, abusers of injectable drugs and hemophiliacs. It is spread by sexual contact, contaminated needles and blood transfusions, but not by casual contact.

Whopping birthday gift

FORT WORTH — The world's largest enchilada, a whopping 150-yarder, will be built today at Vail, Colo., or so says a group of Texans who want to celebrate Texas' Sesquicentennial.

Big things have come to be expected of Texans — at least in bragging rights — and three of the Lone Star State's former residents aren't going to let them down in Vail.

"We are going to build the world's biggest enchilada," said Martin Zisman, 28, formerly of San Antonio. "We will auction it off as a benefit and proceeds will go to the Blind Skiers Association."

Awarded damages

SAN ANTONIO — A Bexar County jury has ordered two California-based companies to pay a 22-year-old woman about $2.7 million in damages after she was hospitalized when the apartment beneath her exploded.

Shuttle to stay in orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Rain-laden clouds blocked Columbia's astronauts from landing in Florida for the second straight day today, and NASA directed them to stay in orbit for another 24 hours and try again Saturday.

"We are waving from KSC (Kennedy Space Center)," Mission Control communicator Fred Gregory radioed the crew just 22 minutes before Commander Robert Gibson was to have fired braking rockets to start a descent toward what would have been the first shuttle landing at this spaceport in nine months.

Cuts to hit health care

WASHINGTON — Despite attempts to shield some programs for the poor, the Gramm-Rudman budget ax means that 150,000 mothers and children, most of them poor, will be denied access to a doctor this year, a lobbying group says.

Officials of the Children's Defense Fund, a liberal lobbying group for children's interests, said Thursday that provisions in the budget-balancing bill that protect Medicare and Medicaid from deep cuts will not assure quality health care for poor children.

Lower mileage sought

WASHINGTON — Saying fuel economy requirements for 1987 and 1988 cars appear to be too tough on automakers, the nation's highway safety chief says the government will consider lowering the mileage standards.

Diane Steed, administrator of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, said her agency will seek public comment on whether to lower the 1987-88 standards from 27.5 miles per gallon to any level down to 26 mpg.

King's bust

First black honored with Capitol sculpture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coretta Scott King says she hopes the newly installed bust of her husband in the Capitol Rotunda will remind Americans that "we have much work yet to do" in achieving Martin Luther King Jr.'s dream of racial justice.

But Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., a leader in the long legislative battle to honor King's memory with a memorial sculpture in the halls of Congress, says his lasting monument is found elsewhere.

"When you see a lunch counter with black and white Americans eating together, when you see black and white children playing together in a school yard, when you see a bus in Birmingham or a voting booth in Selma, when you see black Americans and white Americans working together for a better life for all Americans, then you see his monument," Mathias said.

King, grandchild of slaves and martyred champion of racial equality, is the first black American to be accorded the honor of a sculpted likeness in the halls of Congress. His bust stands alongside Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and other heroes.

The larger-than-life bronze bust of the slain civil rights leader was unveiled Thursday by his widow in the Rotunda, as the applause of members of Congress, King's family and many of King's former civil rights lieutenants echoed in the lofty chamber.

"I hope this statue always reminds us that America's strength is in its pluralism and its people's respect for one another," Mrs. King said.

Following the ceremony, Mrs. King met privately at the White House with President Reagan, who did not attend the unveiling or an earlier tribute to King by government employees in a downtown Commerce Department auditorium.

Attorney General Edwin Meese canceled a scheduled appearance at the federal employees' tribute, explaining through an aide that he was attending a White House meeting on child safety that lasted longer than expected.

Reagan sent a message, read at the earlier ceremony, urging those who carried on King's battle to "never, never abandon the dream" that King described in his famous "I Have a Dream" speech at the August 1963 civil rights march on Washington.

"Never forget that this is America, the land where dreams come true," Reagan said. "And take heart — look how far we've come."

But Samuel Pierce, secretary of housing and urban development and a former close friend of the King family, said: "We haven't won the battle yet. His dream hasn't been realized yet."

The King bust was sculpted by Boston artist John Wilson, an art professor at Boston University who won a national competition for the $50,000 government commission to design the memorial.

MIA issue pursued

HANOI, Vietnam — A U.S. senator leading a congressional delegation that arrived in Hanoi today told a Vietnamese Foreign Ministry official that the possibility Americans still live somewhere in Indochina haunts the United States.

Sen. Frank Murkowski, chairman of the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee, told Nguyen Can, deputy head of North American Affairs with the Vietnamese Foreign Ministry, that the fate of 2,441 Americans still missing in action "is a very grave issue and continues to be of great concern in the United States."

Diplomatic pact signed

THE HAGUE, Netherlands — An Israeli Embassy spokeswoman said Spain today signed an accord to establish diplomatic ties with Israel, a step it reportedly avoided for 38 years for fear of offending its Arab neighbors. Spokesman Leora Herzl said the protocol was signed at The Hague's Hotel Promenade by Yeshayahu Anog, the Israeli Foreign Ministry's deputy director-general in charge of European affairs.

Faction fight goes on SAN'A, North Yemen — Fighting in South Yemen has spread to all six provinces, with tribal warriors rushing into the battle between two Marxist factions vying for control of the pro-Soviet nation, diplomats and other sources in the region said.

Sources in North Yemen, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said the warring groups agreed Thursday to meet at the Soviet Embassy in South Yemen's capital of Aden for cease-fire negotiations, but the outcome of the talks was not known.

Pope blasts atheism

VATICAN CITY — Pope John Paul II said atheism has spread "in an impressive way" throughout Europe and called for greater evangelical efforts to combat it.

The problem has become so vast that it "could not be faced unless the energies of each local church were coordinated in a common plan of action," he wrote in a letter to the presidents of European bishops' conferences. The letter was released Thursday.

South Africa softens

MASERU, Lesotho — Government radio today said South Africa has told Lesotho that train traffic will be allowed to resume to the tiny black kingdom, where a border crackdown by South Africa has caused a scarcity of some goods.

The South African Foreign Ministry said representatives of the two countries met in Pretoria today on the border issue.

Opinion

Steve Chapman

Exclusionary rule serves purpose

"The criminal is to go free because the constable has blundered." That is how one Supreme Court Justice caustically summarized the exclusionary rule, which forbids the courtroom use of evidence that the police have obtained by illegal methods.

This hostile view is shared by President Reagan and his attorney general, Edwin Meese, who argue that the rule impedes law enforcement by depriving judges and juries of reliable evidence, without discouraging lawless police conduct. Early in his first term, Reagan denounced the rule as an "absurd" one that produces a "grievous miscarriage of justice."

His Justice Department later helped persuade the Supreme Court to narrow its scope. Meese complains that the rule "has never helped an innocent person. It only helps the guilty."

But the critics' case has always lacked for evidence, beyond the rare publicized instance of a notorious criminal who goes free purely because the police failed to follow the rules for search and seizure. Prosecutors admit that in serious crimes, the rule seldom blocks convictions, mainly because the worse the crime, the more careful police are to respect the suspect's rights — lest they blow the chance of a conviction.

The evidence for the exclusionary rule, however, recently got strong support from a Chicago Tribune study of its effects in criminal cases here. "Fewer than one percent of Chicago defendants accused of violent crimes have their cases thrown out because the evidence against them was illegally obtained," concluded reporters Joseph R. Tybor and Mark Eissman after analyzing 2,759 randomly selected felony arrests stretching over a 13-month period.

The rare application of the rule is bound to surprise even civil libertarians. The Tribune found that illegally-obtained evidence is excluded in just one of every 200 violent crimes and one of every 500 property crimes. In many of these cases, the defendant is convicted anyway.

Only in drug cases does the exclusionary rule frequently affect the outcome — about 13 percent of the time. The reason isn't hard to guess. Simple drug offenses involving possession or sale are among the hardest to detect. Why? Because, unlike rapes and robberies, they produce no victim who has knowledge of the crime and an interest in reporting it to the police.

So a lot of drug arrests are made by police who have conducted searches based on a mere hunch — searches violating the Fourth Amendment, which means their fruits can't be used in court. The difficulty of prosecuting these crimes is less an argument against the exclusionary rule than against our repressive drug laws.

But the critics' real objection is to the Fourth Amendment guarantee against unreasonable searches and seizures. Abolishing the exclusionary rule would not make these searches constitutional.

That is what the critics neglect to mention. Notre Dame law professor G. Robert Blakey, for instance, insists that the rule inhibits the police in conducting searches — "an effect on the conduct of officers that we never see." What he is saying, in simpler terms, is that if illegally obtained evidence were admissible in court, the police would be more inclined to ignore the suspect's constitutional rights.

If that is true — and it undoubtedly is — then Attorney General Meese is wrong to insist that the exclusionary rule "only helps the guilty." By forcing police to respect the guarantees provided by the Fourth Amendment, it shields the innocent as well as the guilty from unconstitutional invasions of person and property. Meese, who had to spend months defending himself against a special prosecutor's investigation, shouldn't need to be told that the suspicions of the authorities are sometimes wrong.

The evidence demonstrates that the rule's effects are just the opposite of those depicted by its critics: It does compel police to obey the commands of the constitution, while presenting no significant barrier to vigorous law enforcement. It thus serves its purpose, which is to protect us all.

Today is Friday, Jan. 17, the 17th day of 1986. There are 348 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Jan. 17, 1945, Soviet and Polish forces liberated Warsaw from the Nazis. That same day, Swedish diplomat Raoul Wallenberg, credited with saving tens of thousands of Jews from the Nazis, disappeared in Hungary while in Soviet custody.

On this date: In 1706, Benjamin Franklin was born in Boston.

In 1806, Thomas Jefferson's daughter, Martha, gave birth to James Madison Randolph, the first child born in the White House.

In 1871, Andrew S. Hallidie received a patent for a cable car system that began service in San Francisco in 1873.

In 1893, the 19th president of the United States, Rutherford B. Hayes, died in Fremont, Ohio at the age of 70.

In 1917, the United States paid Denmark $25 million for the Virgin Islands.

In 1946, the United Nations Security Council held its first meeting.

In 1950, 11 men in Halloween masks robbed a Brink's office in Boston of $1.2 million in cash and $1.5 million in checks, bonds and securities.

In 1961, in his farewell address, President Dwight D. Eisenhower warned Americans of the rise of the "military-industrial complex."

In 1966, a U.S. Air Force B-52 with four unarmed hydrogen bombs aboard crashed on the Spanish coast. Three of the bombs were soon recovered, but the fourth wasn't found until the following April.

In 1977, convicted murderer Gary Gilmore got his wish to be executed by firing squad at the Utah State Prison.

Ten years ago: Debate continued in the U.N. Security Council on the Middle East, with Israel continuing to boycott the session because of participation by the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Five years ago: Soviet media charged the United States was preparing to attack Iran to free the American hostages. The U.S. denounced the accusations as "scurrilous propaganda" that could upset the delicate hostage negotiations.

One year ago: Scientists announced researchers had identified the genetic blueprint governing activities of the suspected AIDS virus.

Jack Anderson White House identifies hot spots of terrorism

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — Internal White House documents emphasize President Reagan's attitude toward any further tweaking of Uncle Sam's beard by Moslem terrorists: He's sick of being pushed around.

Reagan believes the American people "are tired of suffering insults at the hands of other nations," as one policy paper put it. For this reason, Reagan is convinced that "minimal risks" can be taken to bolster U.S. leadership in the world.

The list of target options that could both assuage the public's outrage and deal the terrorists a damaging blow includes the obvious ones like Libya, Syria and Iran. But there's an even more tempting target: the ancient city of Baalbek in northeastern Lebanon.

If ever there were a viper's nest ripe for destruction, it is this terrorist plotting-and-training center in the Bekaa Valley, close to the Syrian border. Since 1975, the Bekaa has been the headquarters and nerve center for the greatest concentration of terrorists in the world today.

Protected by Syrian troops, who screen every outsider venturing into the area, the Bekaa Valley is only about an hour's drive from either Damascus or Beirut. It is an ideally situated launching pad for terrorist operations anywhere in the world.

Among the groups that use the valley's facilities, which are defended by mobile batteries of Syrian anti-aircraft missiles, are terrorists linked to the notorious Ilyich Ramirez Sanchez (Carlos the Jackal) and radical Palestinians Abu Musa and Abu Nidal.

Of all the terrorist gangs in the Bekaa, the most numerous and blatant are the groups supported by Iran, loosely lumped under the cover name of Islamic Jihad. The most vicious of these fanatics are the Shiite Hezbollah and the Islamic Amal, both based in Baalbek.

At one time or another, almost every American hostage held in Lebanon, aside from last June's TWA hijacking victims, have been kept at some location in the Bekaa Valley. It was here, for example, that CIA official William Buckley was imprisoned for a year and tortured before being moved to Iran last March, where he died from torture-induced heart failure.

According to intelligence sources, the two Bekaa

Valley terrorists most responsible for Buckley's ordeal are Sheik Subhi Tufaila, leader of Hezbollah in the Bekaa, and Hussein Rezaie, commander of the Iranian Revolutionary Guard in the valley.

The nerve center for most of their depredations is a dilapidated building in downtown Baalbek known as "Hosseineh." A former schoolhouse, it serves today as the Bekaa Valley headquarters for the Revolutionary Guards.

The Iranian guard units were rushed to the Bekaa in June 1982, when Israel invaded Lebanon. Their strength quickly reached 350, and kept on growing. It was from the Hosseineh headquarters that terrorists planned the devastating bombings of the U.S. Embassy and Marine barracks in Beirut in 1983, as well as airplane hijackings, murders and kidnappings of Americans.

The old schoolhouse isn't the only identifiable target for U.S. retaliation in Baalbek. The Hotel Khawam is used by the Hezbollah as a military training school. The Hezbollah headquarters in the Sheik Abdullah barracks sits on a hillside above the town; a one-time Lebanese army post, it was the target of French and Israeli reprisal raids in 1983, but has since been rebuilt.

Also housed in the Bekaa Valley is the radical Shiite group, Islamic Amal, led by Hussein Musawai, a 42-year-old former schoolteacher. Though he denied complicity in the bombing of the Marine barracks, he praised the action. U.S. intelligence is convinced that his group had a hand in the bombing.

MINI-EDITORIAL: A recent House report on the Pentagon's alarming lack of medical readiness for a military emergency makes a point that could apply to other Defense Department areas as well. Mention is made of a planned 450-bed military hospital in San Antonio, to cost $435 million. But there's already a 1,000-bed Air Force hospital in the neighborhood that is under-utilized. Not only that, but San Antonio's military population is mostly retired. Surely that $435 million could be better spent on facilities for active-duty personnel, instead of trying to please retired generals or politicians fishing in the pork barrel.

Music a reflection of the human soul

To the editor:
I would like to respond to the letter in the Wednesday Jan. 15 Herald. While I must agree that the lyrics to some rock music are objectionable and a product of the drug-culture, one does not have to be "stoned" to enjoy the music.

In fact, one can enjoy the music and ignore the lyrics as I'm sure the letter writer must know from experience if she can enjoy country songs which glorify drunkenness, desertion, murder, going to jail and extramarital sex. And who can forget the wonderful Kenny Rogers song "The Coward of the County" which immortalizes a gang rape?

Music, in any form whether it be rock, country or classical, is an expression of the human soul. To label any music "Satan-inspired" is to overlook the human conditions which actually produce it.

DONNA BLACKWELL
P.S. In his own time, the music of Mozart was considered "Satan-inspired."

True peace is from God

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a lot of stress in my life for various reasons. Do you think prayer would help? I have heard it said one benefit of prayer is peace of mind, and I could use some of that. — B.I.

DEAR B.I.: We all face a certain amount of stress in our lives, of course, but God wants to help us deal with it so that we are not overwhelmed by it.

There are two ways to deal with stress. The first is outwardly — to change our circumstances as much as possible to reduce the amount of stress we are exposed to. I don't know exactly what your situation is, but there may be practical things you can do to reduce the stress in your life. For example, some people are constantly under intense stress in their jobs; they might be wise to seek a different one.

While this can be helpful, the second way of dealing with stress is more important. This is inwardly — from within our hearts and minds. That means changing our attitudes — looking at our lives and our situations in a different way. We can best do that by turning our lives over to Jesus Christ, and then committing each situation to Him. When we learn to walk with Him each day and trust Him, then we look at our lives differently. We will know He is in control, and He is concerned about every detail of our lives.

That is why prayer is important. The Bible says, "Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God."

Christians desert Moslem west Beirut

By ED BLANCHE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christians are fleeing Moslem-dominated west Beirut, claiming they are being terrorized by Islamic extremists intent on turning the sector into a citadel of their own.

Official sources say west Beirut's Christian community has shrunk from about 150,000 before the civil war began 10 years ago to fewer than 50,000 now. They estimate that 200 families a month are fleeing, mostly to east Beirut, the Christian sector of the capital.

Scores of Christians have been kidnapped, either for ransom or to trade for Moslems held by Christians on the east side. But their leaders, as well as moderate Moslems, believe the attacks are aimed at chasing Christians out.

Many families have reported being driven out of their homes by gunmen or forced to sell out at low prices.

Others have reported being forced into cars and driven by gunmen to east Beirut.

The head of one family seen packing up and closing their bakery was asked why they were going. He silently drew the sign of a cross on the counter with his finger.

Gunmen killed a Christian gynecologist, Dr. Zahi Hawa, in his west Beirut clinic in December. Around the same time, more than 30 Christians were seized over a 10-day period. Seven of them were school teachers or engineers.

Dr. Munir Shamaa, a leading physician at the American University Hospital, was kidnapped with another prominent Christian, Joseph Salameh, on Dec. 7.

After the hospital's staff threatened to strike, closing west Beirut's main medical center, their release was arranged four days later by Sheik Hussein Fadlallah, spiritual guide of the radical Shiite Moslem Hezbollah — the Party of God.

Fundamentalist factions like Hezbollah seek to create an Islamic republic modeled on Iran. After 10 years of war, Lebanon is now in effect split into Christian, Druse and Shiite zones.

Other sects have suffered as extremists among 1 million Shiites, now the biggest single sect in Lebanon, exert a growing political and military muscle after decades of poverty and exploitation.

Beirut's Jewish community has shrunk from 3,000 before the Israeli invasion of 1982 to only a few dozen families now. Two kidnapped Jewish leaders were killed over Christmas.

Sunni Moslems, once the dominant sect in west Beirut and long economically powerful, fear that they are the next target of the extremists.

Palestinians, mainly Sunnis or Christians, have complained of being intimidated or attacked in recent months. Shiites seeking to prevent Yasser Arafat from rebuilding a power base for his Palestinian Liberation Organization faction in Lebanon besieged Beirut's three refugee camps in bloody fighting last summer.

Altogether, more than 600 people, mostly Palestinians, were killed and about 2,500 wounded in five weeks of savage battles.

One political source, who demanded anonymity, said, "Pushing Christians out of west Beirut is a sign that demographic eviction has entered a new phase, despite warnings that it will lead to partition."

"It will push the religious conflict into a deeper pit."

Most of west Beirut's Christians are Greek Orthodox, Greek Catholics or Armenians. They are as opposed to the Maronite Catholic domination of the Christian heartland as they are to the Moslem extremists.

Many leave Lebanon altogether rather than become refugees in east Beirut.

The sector is already jammed with about 350,000 Christians forced out of their villages in the Chouf Mountains east of Beirut by the Druse in 1983 or the coastal plain to the south that was overrun by Moslems last spring.

Moslem religious and political leaders have appealed for an end to the kidnappings, with little success.

"We're against kidnapping Christians," said Haitham Jumuaa, a member of the Shiite Amal movement's Politburo. Amal, the mainstream Shiite faction often at odds with radicals like Hezbollah, has one of the strongest Moslem militias.

"Our movement calls for coexistence between Christians and Moslems. We're trying hard to end the kidnappings and other ugly actions because these are innocent civilians, Christians who chose to stay here and have participated in the city's economic and social life."

"I quake every time the door bell rings," said a Christian office worker who lives in west Beirut's Hamra commercial quarter.

"We're all living in fear," she said. "Every day we hear of a Christian family kidnapped or intimidated by gunmen. Many families have sent their children out."

"We don't have a militia to look after us. I don't go out after dark any more."

Sting operation leads to charges against 14

CONROE — Undercover officers operating a phony pawn shop dealing in stolen goods have filed burglary charges against 14 people and are investigating claims by one customer that he killed three people, authorities said.

The Montgomery County Crime Control Unit's sting operation, said a frequent customer at the We Buy Anything shop told officers posing as store clerks about the murders.

He said the man is charged with burglary, along with 13 other people who frequented the shop, which opened in November. Bender refused to release the names of the those charged.

Officers purchased about $30,000 worth of stolen stereos, televisions, jewelry and more from customers.

Findings suggest new ways of attacking AIDS infection

NEW YORK (AP) — Researchers have found the lock-and-key by which the AIDS virus zeroes in on its target in the body's immune system, raising new hopes for a vaccine against the deadly disease.

In a report to be published Friday in Science magazine, the researchers said the finding suggests new ways of stopping or preventing AIDS infections, either by treating immune cells to reject the AIDS virus or by using drugs to attack the part of the virus that directs it toward immune cells.

Scientists have known that the AIDS virus has a very particular preference for a specific white blood cell called the T-4 lymphocyte. The T-4 cells play a critical role in the body's immune system by directing the function of other blood cells.

When the T-4 cells are infected with the AIDS virus, they cannot coordinate the immune system and the body becomes susceptible to the bizarre infections and unusual cancers seen in AIDS patients.

The new research, by Dr. J. Steven McDougal and colleagues at the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, explains how the AIDS virus is able to discriminate among many white blood cells and infect only the T-4 cells.

The researchers showed that an AIDS infection begins when a virus protein called gp110 recognizes and binds to the so-called T-4 protein on the T-4 cells.

Scientists suspected but had not confirmed that the T-4 protein and some viral protein were important in AIDS infections, McDougal said in a telephone interview Thursday. This is the first report to confirm that the T-4 protein is involved and to show that gp110 is the critical viral protein, he said.

Some researchers expressed caution in interpretation of the results, noting that evidence has been presented to show that the AIDS virus can infect the brain and central nervous system and bone marrow cells as well as T-4 cells.

McDougal said his findings suggest it may be possible to block AIDS infection with drugs that interfere either with the T-4 protein or with gp110.

Dr. Samuel Broder of the National Cancer Institute said of the finding, "It is another step in helping to define potential drugs that could block this initial step as a way of blocking the virus or potentially treating people with established disease." Broder conducts trials of experimental AIDS drugs at the cancer institute in Bethesda, Md.

Dear Abby

Teacher doesn't enjoy game

DEAR ABBY: I am a retired schoolteacher who would like to get an important message across to the general public. Please do not walk up to a former teacher and say, "I'll bet you don't remember me."

The chances are that the teacher will not remember you because you have changed a great deal since you were a student.

First say, "Hello, I am John Jones." (Or Mary Smith, or whatever your name is.) If you are a married woman, use your maiden name. It would also help if you mentioned the year you were in his or her class.

I have had at least 10,000 students in my classes, so please cut out the guessing games and give us old schoolteachers a break.

P.S. 26 in N.Y.C.
DEAR P.S.: Schoolteachers aren't the only ones who are irritated when someone comes up to them and says, "I'll bet you don't remember me!"

If the answer is no, the only appropriate response would be, "You're absolutely right. I'm sorry, I don't." That precludes the guessing games in which there are no winners.

DEAR ABBY: I know you must have advice in the form of a letter to "the other woman," telling her of the harm and hurt she is causing. I would like to send such advice to the woman who is interfering with my 24-year marriage, but I have trouble expressing myself without showing my anger and bitterness.

Our three children are extremely hurt and resent all the lying and deception that's been going on for nearly two years. They are 17, 20 and 22 — old enough to understand, but they are hurting and confused as I am. Awaiting your reply...

THE WIFE HE PUSHED ASIDE

DEAR WIFE: Sorry. A letter from the wife to the other woman wouldn't justify the price of postage. Don't humble yourself hoping she will see the error of her ways and send her married lover back to his family. Deal with your husband directly. Unless he was hypnotized or kidnapped, he's a free agent and an equal partner in their illicit relationship.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." PUBLIC NOTICE

TEXAS UTILITIES ELECTRIC COMPANY hereby publishes NOTICE that, pursuant to the provisions of the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the Public Utility Commission's Substantive Rule 23.23(b)(2), it filed an application on January 14, 1986, with the Public Utility Commission of Texas seeking authority to refund to its customers a prior over-recovery under its fixed fuel factors (base rate fuel component) in the amount of $78,002,807 as of November 30, 1985, including applicable interest, and to reduce its current fixed fuel factors.

Texas Utilities Electric Company has proposed that the refund be made and its fixed fuel factors be reduced effective with customers usage beginning with the billing month of March 1986. The proposed change in fixed fuel factors is expected to result in a $233,413,145, or 11.88%, decrease in fuel revenues for the twelve months ended September 30, 1985, adjusted only for customer growth. All customers and classes of customers whose electric service rates include charges for fuel cost pursuant to Texas Utilities Electric Company's Rider FC, entitled "Base Rate Fuel Component," and all territories in which Texas Utilities Electric Company provides electric service through its Dallas Power & Light Company, Texas Electric Service Company and Texas Power & Light Company divisions will be affected if the application is granted.

A complete copy of said application is on file with the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Public Utility Commission of Texas as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Dr. Donohue

Woman who is overweight is caught in the thyroid 'trap'

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 35-year-old woman. I have to take Synthroid every day for as long as I live, the doctor said. I am 5 feet, 8 inches and I weigh 200 pounds. I try and try to lose weight and get exercise. I may lose 15 or 20, and then gain it back. I'm so tired of being fat. People say with thyroid problems I'll always be fat. What is it that my thyroid is doing (or not doing) for me? What can be done to lose weight? Please comment. — J.A.

I hope you aren't falling into the thyroid trap, the one that lures some into blaming obesity on that gland. Let me run through the basics.

You're taking medicine to correct a low thyroid condition. The gland wasn't making enough hormone. In that situation, metabolism slows. You might gain a little weight, but most of that gain is in fluid.

You can almost never blame obesity on too little thyroid hormone, and even if it had been a factor it isn't anymore; your medicine is correcting the deficiency.

(Old notions die hard. Years ago, before we learned more about the thyroid and its role in metabolism, it was not uncommon to give the hormone to people just because they were overweight. The theory was that the hyped metabolism would burn calories. We know better today — most obese people have perfectly normal hormone production, and adding more does no good.

I have a hunch that you are letting these old notions sap your motivation to lose and keep on losing your extra pounds. You have to tough this out during those discouraging times when your weight remains on a plateau. The loss you want so much will come with your dual action of calorie restriction and exercise.

Finally, if you have any doubts about your thyroid-gland activity, you can (and perhaps should) have the simple blood test to measure it. While you may need the medicine for life, the dosage may not remain constant, but need adjustment from time to time.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My 16-year-old daughter, an attractive girl and a high academic achiever, fainted on Jan. 10. She was getting ready to go to a football game, and just got dizzy and had to sit down quickly. Am I making a big fuss about this? She admits it happened once before. What do you think? She won't let me take her in, even though her doctor told me he'd like to look at her. Please comment. — Mrs. C.P.

I think the doctor has the right idea.

The fainting is probably easily explained. Fainting in adolescents usually happens for the same reasons it happens in adults. It's usually explained as a decrease in blood flow to the brain. During emotional stress, perhaps even from the excitement of preparing for a major event, like a football game, blood vessels dilate, permitting blood to pool in dilated veins. That is what brings on the sudden brain-flow deficiency. The person feels weak and may even black out until circulation gets back to normal.

That's the usual story. However, the doctor can ease your mind by checking out other, more serious reasons — epilepsy, for example. Sometimes, even migraines can be involved, even though there is no report of pain. A heart rhythm disturbance is another possibility.

Kohl balances many duties

By CARLEEN EVERETT

"My mother and my pastor told me that since I did well in academics and had a loud voice, I should become a pastor," said Pastor Carroll Kohl of St. Paul Lutheran Church.

Kohl came to Big Spring in 1972 from Harrold, a small community near Wichita Falls, with his wife and four children.

"I've grown to love West Texas," he said. He added he plans on staying here unless he receives a "calling" and feels he's needed somewhere else.

Before coming to Big Spring, Kohl ministered in his hometown, Harrold. "I broke the unwritten rule," which says that a pastor can not minister to his home congregation, he said. He was there for six years.

"I found the experience to be an extremely honest one. I was dealing with a congregation who knew me and I knew them. No one was kidding each other. Very often a pastor pretends to be what he's not and members of his congregation pretend to be what they aren't. It was a good training process in being what you are," he said.

In addition to being the pastor at St. Paul Lutheran Church here, he is also very active in community service and counseling. Kohl has been a part-time chaplain at the Veterans' Administration Medical Center for 12 years. He visits the patients, counsels for pre- and post surgery patients and offers spiritual support to those who are seriously ill with a special emphasis to cancer patients.

Kohl has served as past chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, member of the Chamber of Commerce, past president of Big Spring Rotary Club, member of West Texas Girl Scout Board, helped organize the West Texas Blood Services Committee, officer in Howard County Ministers Fellowship and is the circuit counselor for West Texas churches.

As a freshman in high school he started preparing for the ministry, but dropped out for about three years. During that time he worked as a truck driver, carpenter, mechanic and farmer. "I felt like God was calling me and I wasn't where I was supposed to be. So, I went back to school and graduated from the seminary."

Because of his wide variety of skills, his hobbies are varied too. Kohl can be seen over-hauling the family car or working in the garage building things. "Being out in the job market has given me an insight to people and their positions in life," Kohl said.

When asked about his congregation he said, "It's stable, active and growing. Even though the population of Big Spring seems to be decreasing, we are still growing." St. Paul Lutheran Church is the oldest Lutheran church existing in this area today. Services began in 1886. A 100-year celebration is in its planning stages for sometime in the spring or summer.

Religion roundup

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A Gallup poll has found that doctors and clergy are considered by Americans as the most prestigious of professions.

Questioned about eight different professions, respondents rated the medical and clergy vocations as the most respected.

Eighty-nine percent said medical doctors had a "very" or "fairly" high degree of prestige in their communities, while 84 percent ranked clergy in those categories.

Professions considered less prestigious, in the poll taken for the National Education Association, were college professors, lawyers, business executives, public schoolteachers and principals and local political officeholders.

ATLANTA (AP) — A lawsuit has been filed in federal district court in Atlanta, challenging procedures at last June's Southern Baptist Convention and the denomination's executive committee for upholding them. At issue were rulings by the denomination's newly re-elected president, the Rev. Charles Stanley, squelching a convention majority vote in favor of allowing substitutions to a presidentially appointed committee.

It names trustees controlling the denomination's institutions and agencies. The lawsuit, asking that the committee be declared illegal, was filed by a Birmingham, Ala., couple,

Robert S. Crowder and his wife, Julia, and a retired Navy chief petty officer, Henry C. Cooper of Windsor, Mo.

It claims Stanley "violated the rights" of the plaintiffs, depriving them of the right to vote on matters related to the committee, and the "integrity of the bylaws" of the convention.

The executive committee also was named, as it has since upheld the procedures employed.

Herbert Armstrong dies Thursday at 93

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Herbert W. Armstrong, who used radio, television and magazines to spread the word of his 80,000-member Worldwide Church of God, died Thursday after a life as stormy as his evangelistic fervor. He was 93.

Armstrong died at his Pasadena home from "basically just the effects of becoming old, just old age," said church spokesman David Hulme. "He began to suffer with it back in August."

"He was 93 years old and had lived a very long and full life," said Earl Reese, who works in the church's legal office.

Armstrong, founder and first pastor general of the church, was regarded by his followers as an apostle of Jesus Christ.

The church received strong financial support that made it a powerful evangelistic organization. The Plain Truth and Quest magazines and hundreds of "The Ambassador Hour" taped television shows are part of the Pasadena-based church's legacy, along with Ambassador College in Pasadena. Church publications are printed in several languages, and the television shows are seen widely in syndication.

The church's television spokesman for many years was Armstrong's son and heir-apparent, Garner Ted Armstrong, until the two had a falling out in 1978. The younger Armstrong has conducted an independent ministry since then.

Joseph K. Tkach, director of church administration for the past six years, was designated earlier this week to follow Armstrong as head of the Pasadena-based church.

Tkach, 59, was appointed deputy pastor general of the church and its affiliated organizations, church attorney Ralph K. Helge said Tuesday.

"I am in a very physically weakened state, enduring severe pain and with virtually no strength whatsoever," Armstrong wrote in a letter announcing his choice to church members.

Although television viewers saw videotape of Armstrong as recently as Sunday, he had taped his last telecast in August, Hulme said, adding that a decision will be made later whether to continue showing Armstrong's taped appearances.

Ike's comments have contemporary impact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-five years ago, Dwight D. Eisenhower, his eight years of the presidency drawing to a close, gave his fellow citizens a new term and something new to worry about: "the military-industrial complex."

In a farewell address on radio and television on Jan. 17, 1961, four days before he turned over his office to John F. Kennedy, Eisenhower introduced the phrase and raised the issue:

"In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists and will persist."

Eisenhower defined the "military-industrial complex" as the "conjunction of an immense military establishment and a large arms industry." He said this combination, "new in the American experience," could disrupt scientific progress, distort government spending and endanger freedom.

The contemporary impact of Eisenhower's words?

"Zilch," says Eisenhower's biographer, Stephen Ambrose. All eyes were on the young incoming president that January. "Kennedy took office and we had the Kennedy-McNamara arms race, with an immediate 10 percent, then a 20 percent, increase in defense expenditures."

But economist John Kenneth Galbraith says liberals have been quoting Eisenhower (who was not a favorite of theirs) ever since, and Bruce Weinrod of the conservative Heritage Foundation says Ike's phrase became "an old chestnut that liberals pull out to make legitimate points."

Soviet officials are quick to lecture Americans about how "the military-industrial complex" runs America, Weinrod says, "but I haven't seen it here." He stresses that Congress and the press would be quick to alert the country if industry and the military teamed up and "gained too much influence."

Ambrose says Eisenhower, in choosing to deliver a farewell, had an eye on history and on the precedent of George Washington, another soldier-president who delivered a historic farewell address upon leaving office. The idea didn't catch on, Eisenhower is the only president to have emulated Washington.

Eisenhower carefully edited the speech prepared for him by speechwriter Malcolm Moos, but it is unclear whether the term "military-industrial complex" was actually Eisenhower's or Moos'.

But it is a myth that the thinking behind the speech had never previously been enunciated by Ike, Ambrose says.

"It was the most consistent imaginable speech he could have made," he says. "It reflected what he'd just spent eight years doing."

For eight years, Ambrose says, Eisenhower battled those who wanted to spend more on arms — Richard Nixon, Kennedy, Nelson Rockefeller and Lyndon Johnson prominently among them — and the 1960 election had been fought on the issue of "the missile gap" and the bomber gap.

Michael Beschloss, author of a forthcoming book, "Mayday: Eisenhower, Khrushchev and the U-2 Incident," says the president would get so angry when he saw defense contractors' ads in Aviation Week that he'd hurl the magazine against the walls of the Oval Office.

Retired Rear Adm. Wendell McHenry, former deputy Navy comptroller, says at the time of the speech, "I don't think it really registered" but "it has become more and more pertinent."

"We know now that national strength is much broader than how many carriers, tanks and bombers we have," he adds.

Defense spending plays a smaller proportionate role now in the U.S. economy, which has grown enormously in the last 25 years. In Eisenhower's last year in office, defense accounted for 49 percent of the federal budget, compared with about 28 percent today, but Eisenhower's budgets did not include Social Security or the array of Great Society programs.

In 1960, defense spending accounted for 9.5 percent of the gross national product — the value of all goods and services produced by the economy — compared with 6.7 percent of the 1984 GNP.

Eisenhower worried not only about "the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex."

He was concerned, too, about the effect throughout society of big government defense contracts:

"The solitary inventor, tinkering in his shop, has been overshadowed by task forces of scientists in laboratories and testing fields," he said. "A government contract becomes virtually a substitute for intellectual curiosity

Study to focus on elderly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elderly Americans who live alone, a little-studied but growing population, are the focus of a new commission that will look at who they are, what problems they have and how best to improve their lives.

The 19-member commission, headed by Dr. Robert N. Butler of the Mount Sinai Medical Center in New York, will spend three years and $5 million on the project, which is financed by The Commonwealth Fund.

"All of us should have a deep personal concern about growing old and living alone," Butler said, noting that the over-85 age group is the most rapidly growing segment of society in all industrialized countries.

The commission's first step is to conduct a statistically accurate survey of elderly people who live alone.

Of the 27 million people over 65 in the United States, an estimated 8 million live by themselves in their own homes. Some 28 percent — 2.2 million — are poverty-stricken.

Odessa College sweeps Howard

Hawks falter at charity line

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

ODESSA — It seemed the only time the Howard Hawks could make a shot against the Odessa College Wranglers last night was when defenders had hands in their faces. But give the Hawks a uncontested free throw attempt, then you're talking trouble.

And Howard did have its problems at the line in their Western Junior College Athletic Conference contest. Which in the end, killed any hopes of a win as the Hawks dropped a 80-75 decision to the Wranglers.

Free throws were the name of the game and Howard didn't fare very well. Not that Odessa shot particularly well from the line either, hitting 10 of 17 attempts for 64 percent.

But Howard's free throw shooting was atrocious. Normally a 67 percent shooting team from the charity line, the Hawks saw that average take a big drop making just 11 of 27 attempts for a dismal 47 percent. Many of the missed attempts were front ends of one-and-one's in the waning moments of the game.

But on the other hand, both teams shots the lights out from the floor. Led by Mike McCall, Walt Reynolds and Walter Walker, Howard hit 32 of 61 attempts for 54 percent.

Odessa College had its version of the big two. Forwards Greg Lazard and Dwayne Scott led a Wrangler squad that sank 35 of 60 attempts for 58 percent.

McCall, Reynolds and Walker combined for 55 of Howard's points. McCall led the way hitting 22 points, including 14 in the first half. Reynolds played a consistent game, despite having to cover OC's high scoring Lazard. Reynolds sank 8 of 10 shots, ending the game with 17 points.

Just like he did in Monday's Midland College game, Walker heated up in the second half. After making only two points in the first half, the 5-11 freshman guard gunned in 12 points in the second half, all from the outside against the OC zone defense. He ended the night making 7 of 12 shots from the floor.

Lazard and Scott had a field day against Howard's man-to-man defense.

Lazard, a 6-7 sophomore transfer from Mississippi State, brought the true meaning to the term power forward. The muscular 230-pounder hit 14 of 22 field goals for a game-high 29 points, to go along with his 10 rebounds. Most of his shots were from eight feet on in. Several times he brought the crowd to its feet with vicious tomahawk dunks.

Scott, a 6-5 small forward wasn't too far behind his teammate scoring 24 points and pulling down 8 rebounds. He connected on 9 of 13 field goals and was the main reason OC stayed with Howard at the start of the second half. He quickly hit five-in-a-row at the start of the half and ended the game making 8 of his final 9 attempts.

But through it all Howard and Odessa played nip-and-tuck. Howard's largest lead was 17-12 with 13:15 left in the first half while OC's biggest bulge was 80-73 with 1:35 left in the game.

The Hawks were hurt by the absence of starting forward Mike Duran, who sat out a good part of the game because of foul trouble. He received his third personal at the 12:16 mark of the first half and his fourth foul four minutes into the second half.

He sat out until the final five minutes of the game until being whistled for his final foul with 19 seconds left.

McCall, who had a team-high 9 rebounds, and Reynolds kept Howard in the game during the first half. McCall got off to a hot start, hitting 5 of his first 7 attempts. Reynolds sunk four-in-a-row. Howard took a 32-28 lead with the 3:40 mark when Vernard Goode got a steal which resulted in a basket by McCall.

Goode played a strong defensive game for the Hawks, collecting four steals. But he struggled from the foul line, making just 2 of 8 attempts.

OC rallied back behind two slams by Lazard to tie the game at 40-40 at the half.

Walker carried the load for Howard at the start of the second half as he hit five consecutive jumpers, tying the game 66-66 with 6:12 remaining.

From that point OC ran off a 14-7 spurt in the next five minutes to take its biggest lead of the game, 80-73 with 1:35 remaining.

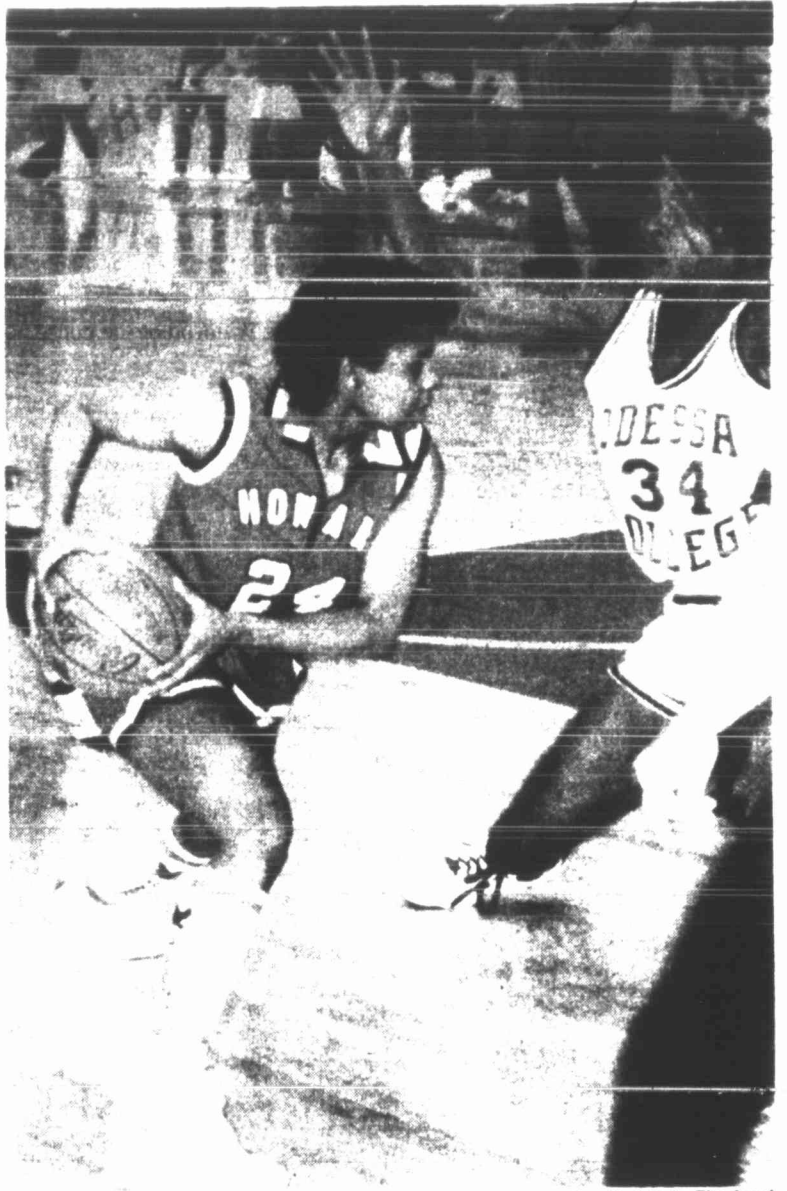

Reynolds' tip-in with just over a minute remaining was the final basket of the night as Howard dropped its third game in five conference outings.

Odessa College is now 3-2 in conference play.

Lady Wranglers dominate Queens

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

ODESSA — It must have felt like a bad dream for the Howard College Hawk Queens, colored OC blue and white. An endless procession of leaping Amazons blocking shots, snagging above-rim rebounds and full court pressure beyond their wildest imagination.

Perhaps nightmare would most accurately describe the 88-51 shellacking the Hawk Queens suffered at the hands of the Odessa College Lady Wranglers, the nation's top-ranked women's junior college basketball team, Thursday night in the OC gymnasium.

Led by All-American forward Dee Conwell with a game-high 21 points and 10 rebounds and tenacious guard Renay Doughtary with 21 points and nine steals, the 1985-86

Lady Wranglers looked considerably stronger than last year's team that went undefeated before being upset in the national finals.

Despite the lopsided score, it was not an unusually large margin of victory for the Lady Wranglers who have been outscoring opponents by an average of 85-51.9 on way to a 20-0 record.

Howard made a game of it early, taking a 5-4 lead with 16:35 left, but the OC full court press quickly began to take its toll. The tough Lady Wrangler defense resulted in a rash of turnovers midway through the first half, allowing the home team to build a 17-8 lead.

The Queens battled back behind the aggressive play of freshman post Sophia Ish, who battled OC's stable of 6-footers for ten first half rebounds. HC got scoring punch from guard Terri Powell and post Carolyn Willandt.

Willandt and Powell each had six points in a six minute spurt that pulled the Queens to within three, 22-19, with 6:45 remaining in the half.

At that point however, the Lady Wranglers put their game into overdrive, scoring 14 unanswered points to put the contest out of reach. Several of the OC baskets came off of steals as the press forced 16 Howard turnovers in the first half and 29 in the game.

By the end of the half OC had taken a commanding 43-25 lead, all but assuring their fourth conference win in as many outings. Doughtary scored had 16 points in the first half while Conwell added 13.

Ish picked up her fourth foul in the first minute of the second half and headed for the bench. With her out, OC posted Nedra Ware and 6'4" Linda Banks began dominating the boards and the Lady Wranglers continued to pad their lead, opening a 53-29 margin with 15:24 left in the game.

Odessa outrebounded the Queens 37-29 in the game.

The remainder of the game was more or less an OC scoring show. Foul trouble began to plague the Queens in the second half as well. Starters Pam Franklin and Ish exited via fouls midway through the second half and four other Queens were whistled for three or more fouls trying to contend with the dominating OC inside players.

The Lady Wranglers hit an outstanding 28 of 36 shots from the line, while Howard was limited to only 11 of 14 free throws.

WBA heavyweight title on line

ATLANTA (AP) — In the audience for tonight's Tony Tubbs-Tim Witherspoon World Boxing Association heavyweight title fight will be a man who once used both of the participants as sparring partners.

Muhammad Ali, the three-time heavyweight champion, will be marking his 44th birthday at the 18,000-seat Omni for the scheduled 15-round bout, scheduled to begin about 10 p.m. EST. It will be televised by HBO.

Ali sparred with both men this week, although each threw hardly any punches at Ali's head.

Both Tubbs and Witherspoon became champions by beating Greg Page.

Tubbs, 27, won the title at stake tonight on a 15-round unanimous decision over Page last April 29. He enters his first defense with a 22-0 record with 15 knockouts.

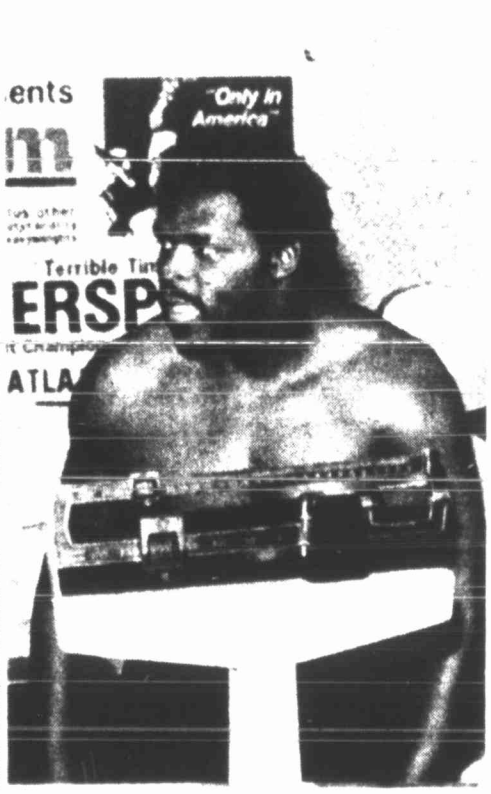

Witherspoon won the vacant World Boxing Council title on a 12-round majority decision over Page on March 9, 1984. He subsequently lost the title on a 12-round majority decision to Pinklon Thomas on Aug. 12, 1984.

Witherspoon's only other loss was on a 12-round split decision in a WBC title bid against Larry Holmes on May 20, 1983. Since losing to Thomas, he has won five fights and has a 23-2 record with 16 knockouts.

Page also will fight on tonight's card, as will heavyweight contenders Trevor Berbick, David Bey, Eddie Gregg and Mitch Green.

"If I get by Tim Witherspoon, there will be more money for me," said Tubbs, who reportedly is getting about $125,000, by far his biggest purse.

The winner of tonight's fight could end up in bouts next year with the WBC champion, currently Pinklon Thomas, and the International Boxing Federation champion, now Michael Spinks. Promoters Don and Butch

Lewis have been discussing an HBO proposal that would lead to an undisputed heavyweight champion in 1987.

"A fighter can make more money with three belts than with one," Tubbs said. "I'm willing to take my best shot."

Witherspoon, who got $200,000 when he beat Page and $450,000 when he lost to Thomas, is getting $50,000 to challenge Tubbs.

The 6-foot-3 Tubbs officially weighed 244 pounds Thursday. That was 15 pounds more than he weighed when he won the title. Witherspoon, also 6-3, weighed 227.

The only defending champions who weighed more than Tubbs were Primo Carnera and Jess Willard.

While Tubbs has 15 knockouts, he does not like to brawl. His style is to move and to counter, sometimes leading with sweeping left hooks.

"He really doesn't like pressure," Witherspoon said. "I got to make the fight. I feel like if I hit Tony Tubbs hard and hurt him early, it's all over with. When you bang Tony Tubbs, he doesn't fight."

"It takes two fighters to turn it into a slugfest match," Tubbs said. "Tim is a better slugger than I am. I'm a boxer. I've got to keep my cool."

"Most of the time I box an opponent, but if I see the shot, I take the shot."

Page, 236, will fight Buster Douglas, 230; Berbick, 221, will meet Mike Perkins, 208; Bey, 236, will fight Wes Smith, 249; Gregg, 222, will box Walter Santemore, 237; and Green, 225, will fight Percell Davis, 248.

AP names Lopez top female athlete

NEW YORK (AP) — Nancy Lopez gives a assist to her husband, New York Mets infielder Ray Knight, for the 1985 accomplishments that culminated in her selection as The Associated Press Female Athlete of the Year. "He gave me a lot of encouragement. He was right there, pushing me, sometimes when I didn't want to play," Lopez said. "Being a professional athlete myself, he knew some of the things I was going through. He helped. "He made me feel like being No. 1 again." As for the award, "I'm very pleased, very honored," Lopez said by telephone from her home in Albany, Ga. "The press always has been very good to me. To be chosen by such a large number of the press is a very great honor." Her selection came after what she called "my best season."

Lakers drop Clippers, 112-96

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Coach Don Chaney of the Los Angeles Clippers knows opportunities like this don't come along often.

His team had the defending National Basketball Association champion Los Angeles Lakers down and ailing. But, for the Clippers this season, even that is not enough of an advantage.

The Lakers, missing two starters felled by injuries, defeated the Clippers 112-96 Thursday night at the Forum and remained unbeaten in two years of a cross-town rivalry that hasn't been much of one.

All-Star guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson and starting forward Kurt Rambis were both missing Thursday night. However, led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 26 points and Byron Scott's 23, the Lakers barely noticed their absence.

In the other two NBA games of the night, Milwaukee beat Washington 114-98 and Atlanta downed Cleveland 116-99.

The Lakers won the game by controlling the boards, outrebounding the Clippers 54-28.

Riley was also pleased with the performances of Maurice Lucas, who had 14 rebounds, and Michael Cooper, who contributed 13 assists, in their rare starting roles.

The Clippers had a chance to tie the game with 6:45 left in the third quarter, but James Worthy blocked a Norm Nixon shot and passed to Scott, who dunked.

The Lakers went on to score 19 of the game's next 25 points to take an 84-67 lead with 1:31 to play in the third quarter.

The Clippers were not able to get closer than eight points the rest of the game.

Kurt Nimphius led the Clippers with 21 points. For the Lakers, rookie A.C. Green had 21 and Worthy added 19.

Marques Johnson of the Clippers hurt his right leg in the first quarter and had to leave the game in the third quarter with a stiff muscle.

Earvin Johnson had suffered a bruised right knee in a collision with Larry Nance of the Phoenix Suns Tuesday night and Rambis missed the game with a sprained left ankle.

Bucks 114, Bullets 98
Terry Cummings scored a game-high 35 points as Milwaukee took an early lead and hung on to defeat Washington.

The 6-foot-9 forward, who had 14 points in the first quarter, provided 12 in the third during which the Bucks led by as many as 23 points before the Bullets narrowed the margin to six points in the final period.

Milwaukee led 30-17 at the end of the first quarter and 59-48 at the half. Washington's 10-0 surge at the end of the third quarter cut the gap to 83-70.

The Washington rally continued in the fourth period as the Bullets, largely due to a hot hand by Gus Williams, sliced the Bucks' lead to 95-89 with 5:20 remaining on a driving layup by guard Leon Wood.

Wood finished with 25 points. Williams added 24 for the Bullets.

Hawks 116, Cavaliers 99
Dominique Wilkins scored 26 points to lead six Atlanta players in double figures as the Hawks pounded Cleveland.

Atlanta moved from a 30-22 first period lead to a 71-45 halftime edge on the shooting of Wilkins and Randy Wittman. Wittman added 18 points for the Hawks, winners for the seventh time in eight games.

The Hawks enjoyed their biggest lead at 71-43 just seconds before halftime.

Stadler takes Hope Classic lead

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — There no longer is any such thing, suggested Craig Stadler, as playing safe, conservative or defensive on the PGA Tour.

"The scores are getting better all the time. The other guys are getting better all the time. There are too many guys out there not afraid of winning, who know how to win and have the games to win."

"The depth of the talent is amazing," Stadler said Thursday after a 7-under-par 65 at Indian Wells had given him a share of the second-round lead in the $600,000 Bob Hope Chrysler Classic at 132. He was tied with Larry Mize, who had a no-bogey 66 in warm, windless weather at Bermuda Dunes.

While he has the lead, and has a history of success in this five-day, 90-hole tournament, Stadler was far from complacent.

"I could shoot three under par each of the next three days and not have a chance," he said. "Twenty-one under is a pretty good score, but that's not going to do it here."

"The weather is too good. The courses are relatively short and in great condition. You're hitting a short iron at every green and the greens are holding. It's hard not to shoot a good number," said Stadler.

And the 128 pros provided an illustration of his remarks. After 36 holes, 101 are at par or better.

And there were some remarkable one-day efforts. The best round of the tournament, a 63, was compiled by Peter Oosterhuis, a British-born veteran who now lives in this desert resort area. His 9-under-par effort was at Bermuda Dunes, and he has a 2-round total of 138.

Donnie Hammond shot a 64, eight under par, at Indian Wells and was third alone at 133, one stroke off the pace.

It was two more shots back to a group of four tied at 135. They included first round co-leaders Hal Sutton and Bob Tway, each of whom had a 70 at La Quinta. Also at nine under par were John Cook, who had a 67 at Eldorado, and Gary Koch, who shot 68 at La Quinta.

Mac O'Grady shot 65 at Bermuda Dunes and was in a group at 136, very much in contention in the five-day, 90-hole tournament that offers $108,000 to the victor.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when you would be wise to concentrate upon the practical aspects of your existence, to find out just where you stand in your assets and obligations.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study the new practical enterprise you have started and be sure of the benefits you are to get from it.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get yourself in right hands and get your appearance and health improved to-day and feel acas by the time evening rolls around.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan just how to make your ambitions come true, particularly in private life. Get tasks handed that can deter your progress.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Get at those private matters that can give you the feeling of well being and that living is a wonderful adventure.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Early get into the outside world and handle important matters well. Some favor for a bigwig can bring added benefits to you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have some new plan which is fine but need more data to work out the details of it nicely.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An enterprise that means much to you can be improved with the aid of one who has the right information.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can now discuss details with a partner and reach a better accord if you are both broad-minded.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Keep that promise you have made in a calm and precise way now, and please all concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make the preparations now for the amusements ahead with congenials and then all works out well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't allow an outside problem to disturb the equanimity at home, but plan quietly just how to solve it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure that your car is in good running order and that you drive carefully to-day. Recklessness could bring you much trouble.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very capable at whatever has to do with business or money. Give as fine a business course as you can and send to the best schools. Your progeny will be very magnetic but teach to use this quality in the right way.
