Bush steps up threats against Saddam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush says a mandate for using military force against Iraq must be fulfilled "right on schedule" unless Saddam Hussein meets a Jan. 15 deadline to withdraw all his troops from Kuwait.

Bush said the Iraqi leader apparently doubts that the United States will use force, and believes instead that this country is too divided to stand behind military action.

"And he's just as wrong as he can be," the president told reporters Monday.

Bush went out of his way to intensify pressure on Saddam to back down in the face of a massive — and still growing — military force aligned against him in the Persian Gulf.

"We've got to prevail," he said.

"I'm not in a threatening mode. I don't think any of us are. We are in a determined mode . . ."

George Bush

"and we will." Underscoring the impending deadline for Iraq's withdrawal, Bush summoned ambassadors from 28 countries that have sent forces to the Persian Gulf since the Aug. 2 invasion. The United States alone has committed upwards of 430,000 troops.

"None of us wants war but none of us is prepared to accept a partial solution," the president said. "There can and will be no negotiations for concessions and no rewards for aggression."

Referring to Saddam, Bush said, "I think at some point he will realize that this force, which is overwhelming, that is now being arrayed against him would be devastating. That's what the United Nations stated should happen, that he ought to get out or all available means should be used."

In a decisive vote last month, the United Nations authorized the use of all means necessary to evict Iraq from Kuwait unless it pulls out by Jan. 15. "And I want to see the United Nations resolutions fulfilled right on schedule," Bush said.

Meanwhile, a U.S. Army planner said the service was ordering some retired personnel to active duty for the first time since the 1961 Berlin crisis.

Iraqi buildup continues

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Thousands of reservists reported to their army units today in a mass mobilization begun a day after Iraq's rulers declared once again that they would never surrender Kuwait.

"We are ready for the decisive showdown, if thus God wills. But many heads will roll and many thrones will fall," said a statement from the ruling Revolutionary Command Council.

The Defense Ministry on Monday ordered all able-bodied 33-year-old reservists to report for duty by Thursday for short training periods before being assigned to "active duty."

The reservists began reporting today, according to officials at mobilization centers.

President Saddam Hussein said last month that he would call up some 250,000 reservists. Most of the country's 230,000 other reservists had already been activated following the Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Monday's move was Iraq's third major callup of reserves in recent weeks. Men aged 30-32

Suspect found incompetent

John Michael Martinez, 40, charged with aggravated sexual assault of an 81-year-old woman, was found incompetent to stand trial at this time, by an 118th District Court jury Monday afternoon.

Dr. Ron Cohorn, Big Spring, testified that Martinez, who is being held in Howard County Jail, has not been taking medication prescribed to him. He will be remanded to Vernon State Hospital for treatment, confirmed Judge Bob Moore.

"If and when he's competent to stand trial they'll send him back," Moore said. The jury determined that there is a reasonable probability that he will be competent to stand trial in the future.

Meanwhile, Sheriff A.N. Standard said this morning that he is waiting for orders to ship Martinez to Vernon. He has been held on a $50,000 bond since his arrest Nov. 21 in Dumas, where he was living. He was indicted by a Howard County grand jury June 16.

Phone service disrupted

Forsan and Garden City residents' Southwestern Bell long distance was temporarily cut off Monday by a wayward post-hole digger, a Southwestern Bell official said.

The digger accidentally severed a "toll carrier" — a long distance line — about 1/2 mile south of Lee's Corner, said Linda Clements, public relations officer for the region.

The cut affected the area residents' ability to call Big Spring, Clements said, but power was restored by about 6 p.m.

Man hospitalized after hit-and-run

SAND SPRINGS — A man who suffered several broken ribs and a collar bone in a hit-and-run accident about 1:30 a.m. Saturday is now in stable condition at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, said an investigating officer.

Dennis Smith was taking his 2-year-old son to the hospital in Big Spring when a stolen 1980 Chevrolet pickup, driven by an unknown man, struck him from behind on Interstate 20, said Texas Highway Patrolman Jim Lasater. The child suffered minor injuries when the 1964 Falcon turned end over end.

"Witnesses that stopped and gathered around saw him leave," Laster said of the unknown driver. "I guess he was scared."

Meanwhile, another vehicle was reported stolen the same morning in the area, Laster said. He is still investigating that incident.

The pickup, reported stolen from North American Van Lines in Midland, was reportedly traveling at a high rate of speed, Laster said. Smith was going 50 mph.

Council presents sales tax proceeds

By DEBBIE LINCEUM

Mayor Max Green presented members of the Moore Development for Big Spring Inc. board of directors with their first check. The money is the result of the 1/2 percent city sales tax increase of Oct. 1, to be used to fund economic development.

The check, in the amount of $45,257, is the corporation's share of sales tax collected in October. Board members Owen Ivie, Steve Fraser and Jim Purcell attended the meeting.

Fraser said receiving the check was "very gratifying" for the board.

"It's been about a nine-month process, to get to this point," he said. "I'm ready to see what transpires." Fraser added that he was looking forward to the choice of an executive director for the

Christmas sharing

Twenty of the younger patients of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center were treated to a Christmas party, complete with Santa, presents and goodies, by the employees at Texaco, Inc. Thursday afternoon. The party, in the new Texaco facility on West Interstate 20, was visited by Santa Claus who arrived on a fire truck. In this photo, Santa hands a package to Melissa Mills as Texaco employee Sylvia Luna watches.

IRS has refunds for some lucky residents

By DEBBIE LINCEUM
Staff Writer

According to a recent release from the Internal Revenue Service, almost 3,000 Texas taxpayers — eight of them residents of Crossroads Country — have not collected their tax refund checks.

The most common reasons for tax refund checks to be deemed "undeliverable," the release states, is that the taxpayer has moved and failed to notify the IRS or the post office. Occasionally the written address change was illegible, or the taxpayer died before collecting the refund.

The IRS says the checks "range in amounts from $1.40 all the way to more than $97,000." The average is reported to be $493.

Marty Llanso, a public information officer for the IRS, said the process for claiming an "undeliverable" tax refund ranges from quite simple to very complex.

When the taxpayer dies before collecting the refund, a family member can usually claim the money, Llanso said, although procedures differ.

If spouses filed a joint tax return, the surviving spouse will have to "submit proof of death" — completing a Form 1310 and supporting the death claim with magazine articles. If an executor has been named, that person can cash the check and handle distribution of the refund.

If the check was issued to an individual, the spouse may collect the money, but required documentation depends on the amount of the refund. For taxpayers who are very much alive, but simply changed their address and neglected to notify the IRS, Llanso said the procedure involves only one simple form.

"If you expect a refund, but it doesn't come, call us," he said. "We send you a certifying form which includes a signature and some other identifying information, and you should have a re-issued check in about six weeks."

The IRS now has a toll-free number for tax refund information, 1-800-829-1040 (1-800-TAX-1040).

Llanso said the best way to keep track of your refund check is to help the IRS keep track of you.

"If a refund check comes back (undeliverable)," Llanso said, "We really have no way of finding the person. It's a good idea to let us know if you change your address. But, don't do it around (April 15) filing time."

Address changes mailed separately from returns only confuse the process when the IRS is at its busiest, he said.

Crossroads Country residents who are listed as having unclaimed tax refunds are:

Estainlo Dominguez, Big Spring; Betty Dekeyser, Big Spring; Josue Blanco, Big Spring; Selo B. Villagomez, Big Spring; Carrie G. Dickinson, Big Spring; Stephanie A. Haines, Big Spring; Arturo Sarabia, Garden City; James C. and Janette R. Moody, Colorado City.

Four Big Spring citizens were among those honored at the annual Police Association banquet Monday night.

Association president Mike West opened the meeting at Howard College's Student Union Building and, after a brief introduction of special guests, turned the meeting over to Police Chief Joe Cook.

Chief Cook presented the 1990 Citizens Awards to Patrick Parras, Juan Mendez, James Carrillo and Rafael Deanda.

Cook briefly outlined the incidents that led to these four men being honored.

On Sept. 5, 1990, James Carrillo pursued a subject who had stolen merchandise from a convenience store on Wasson Road. Rafael Deanda, who was in front of the store, assisted Carrillo in cornering the subject. The two men then assisted Officer Jimmy Mayes in arresting the subject, who was resisting.

The next night, Officer Steve Sasser, while attempting to arrest a subject for public intoxication, became involved in an altercation with the subject. During the struggle, the subject got the officer's baton and began striking the officer. Officer Sasser was able to get the subject to the ground, but was still being struck with the baton when Juan Mendez stepped from the crowd to assist

Camel OK after jaw surgery

COLLEGE STATION, (AP) — Hagar, the camel with a broken jaw, can eat again and should make an Austin church's Christmas program after all.

The 1,000-pound animal was expected to be released from Texas A&M's care Tuesday, said university spokeswoman Mary Jo Powell.

Hagar broke her lower jaw on Dec. 12 when she fell, Ms. Powell said.

Her owner, Don Chapman of Austin, said the 6-year-old dromedary camel could not eat. So Chapman asked specialists at Texas A&M's College of Veterinary Medicine for help.

Orthopedic surgeon Clifford Honnas implanted two quarter-inch stainless steel pins last Thursday in Hagar's jaw. The pins will be removed when the break is completely healed, probably in four to six weeks, Honnas said.

The camel is expected to carry one of three wise men in Friday's nativity re-enactment at Park Hills Baptist Church in Austin.

Chapman bought Hagar and two other camels in 1988. All three animals have starred in the Christmas program for the past three years.

Dolphins stuck for awhile

ARLINGTON (AP) — Three dolphins stranded in an amusement park's outdoor pool as a massive arctic front approaches don't have to be moved until 1991, federal wildlife officials say.

Some animal rights groups are protesting the delay in taking the dolphins from Six Flags Over Texas to warmer climes. Questions over the mammals' ownership and problems in getting required permits have postponed the move.

The cold front is expected to push low temperatures in North Texas into the teens and 20s by this weekend, the National Weather Service said.

"We were afraid something like this would happen," Judy Katz, a spokeswoman with Dallas for Dolphins, told the Dallas Times Herald on Monday.

But the dolphins' veterinarian shrugged off the impending freeze.

"It's no problem as long as the pool's heater works," veterinarian Jack Brundrett said. "Nobody I've ever seen has gone running around with an umbrella, keeping snow and rain off of dolphins in the wild."

Richards names more top aides

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov.-elect Ann Richards named three more top aides Monday as she assembles a staff to take over after her inauguration on Jan. 15.

Richards said state Rep. Jim Parker, D-DeLeon, will serve as her legislative director.

Jane Hickie, a lawyer who's been associated with Richards for 18 years, will serve as appointments secretary.

And Dale Craymer, who has been a special assistant to the speaker of the Texas House, will serve as budget director.

"I believe we have put together a top-notch staff," Richards said.

The three latest appointments mean that most of the new administration's top jobs have been filled.

Parker, 46, is a four-term House member. Involved in farming and ranching, he also has practiced law in Comanche.

"Jim brings with him a wealth of experience in the Legislature and an understanding of the importance of consensus building," Richards said.

Ms. Hickie, 42, has been a Richards associate since Richards served on the Travis County commissioners' court in the 1970s.

Speaker denies wrongdoing on Mexican vacation

AUSTIN (AP) — House Speaker Gib Lewis confirmed Monday that he took a trip to a Mexican resort in 1987 with members of a San Antonio law firm and several young women.

But Lewis denied knowing that one of the women was a topless dancer.

Lewis told The Dallas Morning News that the vacation was one of several he had taken over the years with members of the law firm Heard Goggan Blair & Williams.

GIB LEWIS

But "there were no girls... on the other trips," he told the newspaper.

He denied there was any wrongdoing involved in the 1987 trip.

"By no means was this 'Just go out and round up a bunch of girls.' It was not that kind of deal at all," Lewis said.

The Houston Chronicle, in a copyright story last week, said Lewis and an Austin lawyer went to Mexico in April 1987 with four partners and six women.

Lewis identified the young women on the trip as "some people... one wife, or ex-wife. There was one fiancée, there were some staff people from Heard Goggan."

"If anybody there was a topless dancer, none of us knew it," Lewis told the News.

Two women, one of whom reportedly traveled with Lewis and the others to Mexico, testified Monday before a grand jury investigating ties between legislators and Heard Goggan Blair & Williams.

Kristina Abercrombie of Houston and Jennifer Sue Jeffers of Clear Lake appeared before the Travis County grand jury.

Prosecutors said Ms. Abercrombie was the same person as the woman named "Chrissee" identified last week by the Chronicle as having been on the Mexican trip.

The Chronicle described "Chrissee" as a topless dancer but prosecutors would not confirm what Ms. Abercrombie did for a living.

They also declined to say what Ms. Jeffers does for a living.

Travis County Assistant District Attorney Steve McCleery told The Associated Press that Ms. Abercrombie was the woman identified as "Chrissee" in the Chronicle report.

Neither woman would comment after leaving the grand jury room.

District Attorney Ronnie Earle said the women's testimony was "relevant to the general issue of the relationship between the law firm and the Legislature."

The trip to Mexico came during a legislative session in which three bills harmful to Heard Goggan died. As speaker, Lewis appoints House committee members and chairmen, and he assigns legislation to particular committees.

Earle said neither woman worked for Heard Goggan and he refused to specify what testimony they gave.

Lewis predicted Monday he will be vindicated by the investigation and said he wants to cooperate with the probe.

"I think this thing will be over pretty quick, and I think it's going to clear the air on a lot of things," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth. "I think it's going to be healthy overall."

Earle has said the investigation will continue.

Telephone companies warned to curb fraud

DALLAS (AP) — If telephone companies do not take steps to curb consumer fraud among premium-charge phone services, they could face state or federal regulation, a group of attorneys general say.

Meeting in Dallas Monday, the state officials and telephone company officials presented vastly different viewpoints.

"There has been a virtual onslaught of fraudulent and deceptive marketers using 900 numbers in the last year," Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said.

"We've seen ads that promise goods and services that are never delivered, fraudulent offers for credit cards, deceptive prize offers, charity scams and marketing aimed at children to prey upon their innocence."

The meeting was attended by about 100 industry representatives, government regulators and representatives of consumer groups.

Panel members said that despite ads declaring charges ranging from 25 cents to $50 for calls to 900 numbers, which offer everything from dating services to job information, consumers often are not aware of the costs involved.

"We believe the scale of complaints is dwarfed by the number of satisfied customers," said Russell D'Italia, an attorney for American Telephone & Telegraph Co. He said the attorneys general should compile lists of suspected 900 number scams, then turn it over to the long-distance companies.

"AT&T represents a problem in the industry because it wants to put the responsibility for deceptive trade practices on someone else," Kansas Attorney General Robert Stephan said. "If the industry is not willing to cooperate, and is in effect satisfied with itself, then regulation is imminent."

More than 50,000 complaints about 900-number services were relayed to his office last year, Missouri Attorney General William Webster said. He said the complaints ranged from credit repair to sweepstakes.

At the federal level, the Federal Communications Commission reported about 1,900 complaints over the last two years, 167 of them last month, officials said.

Southwestern Bell lawyer Amy Hinderer said although ads for the service may mention a per-minute charge, they frequently don't tell a caller how many minutes the recorded message will last.

Sweepstakes numbers may require callers to listen to a lengthy message, then tell them to dial another 900 number to claim their prize, she said.

Telephone company officials say combating fraud is difficult because of the complex billing arrangements among local phone companies, long-distance carriers and the 900-number service providers.

Local phone companies, which handle billing for the long-distance companies, bill consumers for 900 numbers but have no contact with the actual providers, they said.

Gregory Casey, general counsel for counsel for Telesphere Communications, a long-distance firm that is second to AT&T in 900-number contracts, said that companies such as his cannot police each ad for the hundreds of services offered.

Space sweepstakes

Aspiring cosmonauts overload lines

HOUSTON (AP) — A sweepstakes offer giving Americans a chance to ride on the Soviet space station Mir by calling a 900-telephone number hit a snag when a flood of calls from aspiring cosmonauts caused the circuits to crash.

By dialing the 900-number, which charges $2.99 per call, Americans would get a chance in a random drawing to win six months of training, a trip aboard a Soviet rocket and a week on the Russian space station Mir in late 1992 or early 1993.

But thousands of calls made to the 900 number Monday caused the service company's circuits to overload the first day it began operating, making the line temporarily inaccessible. The line was expected to be working again early today.

"The problem was with our service bureau in Dallas. They were not prepared for the level of activity our announcement generated," said David Mayer, president of Space Travel Services, the Houston company making the space trip offer.

"Our long-term business strategy is to arrange for space travel opportunities for anyone who wishes to go into space," said James Davidson, senior vice president of Space Travel Services.

The telephone number is 1-900-258-2MIR.

In addition to calling a 900-telephone number to enter the space sweepstakes, entries also can be mailed. Entrants must print their name, address, city, state, zip code, telephone number and the words "Space Travel Services Ultimate Adventure" on a 3-inch by 5-inch piece of paper. Mail to PO Box 580249, Houston, Texas, 77258-0249.

(No photocopied or mechanically reproduced entries will be accepted.)

Planning a holiday trip with the family? It was just this time a few years ago that a hotel fire in Puerto Rico turned vacation plans into tragedy for hundreds of people. Do you know how to survive a hotel fire?

As soon as you check in, note the location of the nearest exit. Walk the route to it. Memorize the layout of your room. Some travelers bring along a portable smoke detector.

If an alarm sounds, don't panic. If the door to the hall feels warm, stay in your room. Stuff wet towels under the door and over air vents. Keep the window closed.

If you can get out, take your room key with you so you can get back in if you have to, cover your face with wet washcloth, and stay down low to avoid smoke and gas. Head for the fire exit, never the elevator. Walk don't run. If you see smoke as you walk downstairs, try the emergency exit on the other side of the building.

If you suspect fire and don't hear an alarm, call the fire department directly, as well as the front desk.

We wish you a good, safe trip — and the Merriest Christmas ever. Good wishes from your friends at:

To my loyal patients in the community:

I would like to thank you for the continued support you have given me over the past 22 years. Meeting your healthcare needs has been a priority throughout these years, and I feel fortunate to have had the opportunity to serve you. However, I have come to a time in my life, with my children grown, in which I feel the need to slow down. After long and careful thought, I have decided to retire from my private practice to pursue other avenues that will allow me to spend more time with my wife and family.

Sincerely,

Gun control bill increases liability

WASHINGTON (AP) — The District of Columbia has approved the most far-reaching gun control bill in the nation, a measure to make manufacturers and dealers liable for deaths and injuries caused by semiautomatic weapons.

Mayor Marion Barry Jr. said today he has signed the bill, which cannot become law until reviewed by Congress.

"I think we have to take all measures to try to get the guns off the streets of America," Barry said on WTTG-TV's Fox Morning News. "The manufacturer has to begin to take some of the weight. We don't need those guns on the streets."

Barry said everybody who touches guns used in homicides should be held liable.

The measure, which was approved by the city council last week, would give private citizens the right to sue for damages from manufacturers and sellers of semiautomatic weapons, regardless of where the makers and dealers do business.

"It's time for these merchants of death to pay a price," said council member William Lightfoot, who co-sponsored the bill. "We can set a very meaningful precedent."

The bill will face strong opposition from the National Rifle Association.

Teen sentenced for rock throwing

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — A teen-ager convicted of hurling rocks at passing motorists on the Capital Beltway last May has been sentenced to 38½ years in prison.

Prince George's County Circuit Judge William Missouri on Monday sentenced John L. Burgess, 18, of Forest Heights, on a total of eight felonies and 28 misdemeanors.

"You are young, and it grieves me now that I must impose this sentence upon you," said Missouri.

"But it also grieves me that Destiny Morris will never rise above the (mental abilities) of a third- or fourth-grader," Missouri said.

Miss Morris, now 16, was among 30 people in 24 vehicles who were injured in the May 27 attack. Once a promising artist, she has undergone intensive threatment and therapy since the attack. She returned to her home this month.

Burgess, who could have been sentenced to a maximum of 415 years, confessed that he and two others threw dozens of rocks at motorists for fun.

Another youth, Donnell Petite, also has been convicted in the case, and a third, Maurice Ford, will stand trial in February.

Education nominee receives praise

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Lamar Alexander, a former governor and president of the University of Tennessee, may well be the man who can make George Bush the education president, say those who know him.

Even detractors of his reform programs credit Alexander with generating interest in improving public schools and higher education in Tennessee, where as many as one in five adults is functionally illiterate.

Bush on Monday nominated Alexander, a 50-year-old lawyer and son of teachers, as education secretary.

"No governor in the country is so clearly identified with the imperative to improve education in America," the president said. He said the former two-term governor was "at the forefront of the movement to restructure our nation's schools."

Alexander said that as education secretary he will work to im-

Up in flames

LONDON — Flames burst through the roof of the French ambassador's residence in London early Tuesday. More than 100 firemen fought the blaze in the building, which was undergoing restoration prior to the arrival of new French Ambassador Bernard Dorin. The residence was reported to contain valuable furniture and paintings.

Scholarship policy is partially reversed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Education Department today backed away from a total ban on financial aid targeted for minorities. It said colleges and universities will be allowed to award scholarships based solely on race as long as federal funds are not used.

Assistant Secretary Michael Williams, who heads the department's Office of Civil Rights, announced a six-point policy regarding race-exclusive scholarships at a news conference today.

Williams said the new policy should "prevent disruption to the efforts of colleges and universities to attract minorities to their campuses and to reassure students that no scholarships that have already been awarded... will be affected in any way."

Central to the policy is the Education Department's decision to let universities that receive federal funds administer scholarships funded entirely by private persons or organizations where the donor restricts eligibility for the scholarships to minorities.

Under Title Six of the Civil Rights Act, however, private universities receiving federal funds may not finance race-exclusive scholarships with their own funds, Williams said.

The department also said:

- Race-exclusive scholarships funded by state and local governments are not covered by the administration's policy because of past Supreme Court rulings.

- Universities will have four years to review their programs under Title Six and to assure that students do not suffer from the changes.
- During the four-year transition period, the administration will investigate any complaints it receives but it will not make a broad review of whether schools are complying with the policy.
- The administration will encourage state legislatures, local governments and private universities receiving federal funds to review the legal restrictions on minority scholarships. The goal of the reviews will be to ensure that minorities and other needy students get the maximum possible amount of assistance.

Williams said the department "is eager to provide technical assistance to any institution" during the transition period.

"The administration fully endorses voluntary affirmative action in higher education," said the new policy, "and encourages educational opportunities for minority and disadvantaged students."

Williams declared last week that the 1964 Civil Rights Act prohibited reserving scholarships for members of minority groups.

Violent protests oppose budget

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — In the bloodiest outbreak of President Violeta Chamorro's 8-month-old administration, dozens of former Contras seized a police post and battled Sandinista soldiers in a fight that claimed 11 lives.

The violence occurred on Sunday in Jalapa, 125 miles north of Managua, and comes amid a political struggle in the economically strapped country over the budget passed last week, which would cut the military budget by a quarter.

The Sandinista People's Army has warned that such a cut in military spending would push Nicaragua into "chaos and a bloodbath," and Mrs. Chamorro has promised to veto the new budget though her backers were solidly behind it.

Twenty people were wounded in Sunday's revolt and half of the 60 demobilized rebels who launched the operation were captured, Col. Antonio Rosales said Monday in an interview on state-run television.

The U.S.-backed Contras agreed to give up their 10-year-old struggle in June, their leftist Sandinista foes having suffered defeat at the polls to Mrs. Chamorro's conservative United National Opposition (UNO) coalition.

Shekhar determined to end strife

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Chandra Shekhar suggests that hidden hands are manipulating the frenzied religious riots ravaging India and has threatened to use a heavy dose of force to end the fighting.

"Any amount of force that is needed will be used in order to stop this situation," he said Monday in an interview with The Associated Press at the official residence. "There's no limit."

At least 300 people have been killed in fighting between the Hindu majority and Moslems in the past 10 days. Another 300 people died in rioting in October and November.

The ferocity of the violence has little parallel since the slaughters that accompanied the 1947 division of the British-ruled subcontinent into predominantly Hindu India and mostly Islamic Pakistan.

Mobs have axed infants to death, burned people and lynched passengers in trains. In many cities, security forces have prevented large-scale killings by opening fire on rival gangs.

Chandra Shekhar, 63, took office Nov. 10 as a consequence of the religious upheaval. His predecessor, V.P. Singh, resigned after losing the support of a right-wing Hindu party.

Rock strikes Koch in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — Former New York City Mayor Edward I. Koch was hit in the head with a rock today as he toured Jerusalem's old, walled city with Mayor Teddy Kollek, witnesses said.

Koch and Kollek continued on their walk through the narrow alleys of the Old City, and Koch did not appear seriously hurt, the witnesses said.

They said Koch and Kollek were walking on David Street, a road of tourist shops in the Christian Quarter, when a stone about one inch in diameter was thrown toward them.

The rock bounced off a store awning and hit Koch on the top of the head, the witnesses said. He used a handkerchief to stem slight bleeding.

Israel radio described the injury as a scratch.

Koch told radio station WCBS in New York the rock "obviously was thrown to cause fright, but it

EDWARD KOCH didn't frighten Teddy Kollek and it didn't frighten me. He joked that he told Kollek the rock "must have been meant for you because everyone loves me."

Oil spill blamed on captain's fatigue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government safety investigators say little can be done to force ship captains to rest, even as they ruled "acute fatigue" a primary cause of Rhode Island's worst oil spill.

The National Transportation Safety Board said Monday that the captain of the Greek tanker World Prodigy had been on the bridge 35 consecutive hours when the ship ran aground off Newport, R.I., on June 23, 1989.

But the agency said there is little the government can do to force ship captains of foreign-flag vessels to rest before reaching a U.S. port.

"Hopefully what we can do is attenuate foreign ship operators that fatigue is a major hazard to transportation safety," said NTSB Chairman James L. Kolstad. "We see it in all modes of transportation. Clearly we saw it in this particular accident."

The board unanimously approved a report detailing how "acute fatigue" led Capt. Iakovos Georgoudis to make a series of dubious orders and miscalculations.

The spill of 289,000 gallons of No. 2 heating oil sent ribbons of pollution toward the Rhode Island coast in slicks as long as five miles.

Emotions are too expensive

Would you pay $15 to sample an assortment of snacks worth less than half that at full retail prices? Of course not. Yet, more than 100,000 Americans have paid this exorbitant price to an enterprising firm in Virginia to have so-called "G.I. Gift Pacs" delivered in their names to servicemen and servicewomen in Saudi Arabia.

The emotional appeal being advertised in newspapers across the nation is designed to prey on the sympathy most everyone has for our troops in the Persian Gulf. A headline in the advertisement reads: "Please send a G.I. Gift Pac. Tell a G.I. in Saudi Arabia you care!"

Gift Pacs contain two small bags of potato chips, a bag of tortilla chips, nuts, "goldfish" crackers, cookies, raisins, dates, butterscotch and peppermint candies, Cornnuts and Sweetarts. The cost of the contents, packaging and shipping to an A.P.O. on the East Coast is approximately $7.

So where does the other $8 go? Like many other questionable charities, the majority of donor funds for G.I. Gift Pacs are used to pay for advertising and other expenses, including high executive salaries.

The standards set forth for charities by most watchdog agencies are of little help in judging performances. The National Charity Information Bureau states that at least 60 percent of a group's proceeds should go directly into its charitable project. The Better Business Bureau standard is that "at least 50 percent of total income should be spent on programs and activities directly related to the organization's purpose."

A better measure of a charity's work is the percentage of donor funds that actually reach beneficiaries. The finest charities manage to maintain rates of 90 percent or more.

GIs in the Persian Gulf deserve no less. Donors should beware of offers that don't deliver fair value and seek out more attractive options. Better yet, simply pack a box with goodies and mail it to a neighbor's son or daughter in care of the A.P.O. or F.P.O. at San Francisco. Postage for a two-pound package at the Parcel Post rate is only $1.97, leaving $13 for the contents.

Legislators work through winter recess

By STEVEN KOMAROW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watching Capitol Hill these days brings to mind the old Dan Hicks song, "How Can I Miss You When You Won't Go Away?"

It's been more than seven weeks since the 101st Congress adjourned. But many of its members are still around — holding hearings, issuing press releases and otherwise working to get on the nation's airwaves and news pages.

The differences between an in-session and an out-of-session Congress have been blurred in this age of instant communication and fast travel. Other than the actual votes on bills, there's little that cannot be accomplished, and lawmakers are well-polished at working the system.

In its early days, Congress would meet for a few months in the winter, after which lawmakers would flee the summer moisture and heat of this sultry swamp city.

"We pay them to be full-time, professional legislators now," said Stephen Hess of the Brookings Institution. Members of the House now get $96,600 while senators are paid $98,400.

"It's not like the 19th century. We give them not only a living wage but all of the staff they need to work at it. When you combine that with jet planes, air conditioning, it's a different attitude," he said.

Some still cling to the ideal of the citizen-lawmaker. The most recent popular expression of it can be found, Hess said, in the drive for term limits.

But there's really no going back to the old days. The stalemate in the Persian Gulf provides a vivid example of how the Democratic-controlled Congress tries to exercise its powers when not in session.

"Even though Congress is in recess they are still in the loop," said Jeff Biggs, whose boss, House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., has been working in his Capitol office for most of the recess.

By holding hearings and generating publicity, lawmakers can affect national policy without passing a single bill.

Taking advantage of exposure on the national C-SPAN cable network, several committees in the House and Senate have held hearings on the gulf. While their legislative goal may still be unclear, they have left no doubt that Congress wants its views heard and prerogatives protected.

"Without those hearings, the public would be left with the impression, by the administration, that no course other than military action... would be effective in driving Iraq from Kuwait," said David Dreyer, spokesman for House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo.

Several experts, including former top Pentagon officials, testified that the United States should give economic sanctions more time to work before considering an invasion.

"The (Bush) administration is in business 365 days a year... (spending) 98 cents out of every federal dollar," Dreyer said. "It's our job as an entity to spend just 2 percent to monitor" how that is carried out.

Of course, good government isn't the only force that moves Congress to work year-round. Because of the long legislative sessions, many younger lawmakers put their children in school in the Washington area. So they're in town anyway until the Christmas break.

And not all of Congress' post-session activity is making members look good. One of the most-watched events has been the Senate Ethics Committee's hearings into whether five senators sold their influence to former savings and loan operator Charles H. Keating Jr.

Lawmakers' enthusiasm for hanging around the Capitol does have its limits.

At a private meeting, several members of the House Armed Services Committee barked when they were told that Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., scheduled two weeks of hearings ending just five days before Christmas. After so many weeks of testimony, Aspin was insisting on hearing from second-string witnesses.

Forced to absorb the brunt of the complaints was Rudy deLeon, staff director of the panel, said one lawmaker, who requested anonymity. Aspin himself was stuck in Milwaukee due to another sign of the season — a winter storm.

Perhaps it was a sign from Dan Hicks.

Only war can end Saddam's power

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — President Bush has told his intimates that Saddam Hussein will remain a menace to world peace as long as he stays in power. That belief will hang over negotiations for a peaceful resolution to the Persian Gulf crisis because peaceful resolution inevitably means Saddam retains leadership of Iraq.

Central Intelligence Agency analysts have warned Bush that it will take a war to remove Saddam. He has such a tight hold on Iraq, they believe, that no internal force can oust him.

Saddam has survived several reported assassination plots. He knows how to smoke out his adversaries and once he pinpoints them, he eliminates them brutally. That pattern has served to spook anyone who might fancy himself as Saddam's successor.

Saddam has surrounded himself with loyalists and made sure that they know their own survival depends on his survival.

The wily Saddam has sewed up every source of power in Iraq. He has the solid support of the Baath Party, which controls all aspects of Iraqi society. The army is also solidly behind him because it is run by people whom he elevated to power. And their positions also depend on his continued survival.

Finally, Saddam has tight control over Iraq's security apparatus. Plain and simple, if he has any opponents in Iraq, they have little chance to overthrow him and live to tell about it.

Saddam must chuckle when U.S. strategy planners talk of the feasibility of leaving U.S. troops high and dry in the desert for more than six months. His own patience is infinite. He endured the bleak years of the Iran-Iraq war with half a million casualties. And the CIA believes he can ride out this crisis too.

UNEMPLOYMENT LINES —

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire

The recession has led Wall Street to lay off battalions of brokers, but little attention has been paid to the concurrent erosion of brokerage research staffs, and the dire consequences of losing those staffers.

Big securities firms sell their services on the basis that they have large and highly-skilled research staffs. They are the brains behind the brokers' recommendations.

But firings and resignations over pay freezes have cut dangerously deep into the research ranks. This loss of talent is already beginning to take its toll. Some firms now bluntly tell their customers that "we no longer follow that stock." One major broker has virtually no utilities experts left.

A company with clients holding millions of dollars in consumer food stocks no longer has any research experts on those stocks.

Many banks have stopped relying on brokerage firms for their research. But the banks are also having to lay off their researchers.

This brain drain has led corporate and public clients to turn to discount brokers. They give no advice at all, but they don't pretend to either.

Other customers have withdrawn from stocks and bonds into easy-buy CDs or money funds that don't take a commission. It makes good, conservative savings sense, but those investments do little to stimulate an economy.

For Wall Street, this means a vicious cycle of more reductions in income, insolvency for the weakest and paltry profits for the strong.

AN 'E' FOR EFFORT — Members of Congress are planning to introduce a wave of reforms next year. The point will be to look like they are responding to the public anger that boiled behind the last election. But some of the reforms will so threaten old institutions that the chance of their passage is nil. The new Congress will try to reduce free mailing privileges, restrict junkets, limit the power of congressional leaders and take away other perks.

MINI-EDITORIAL — If this isn't the high point of glasnost, we don't know what is. The Reader's Digest has announced it will publish a Russian-language edition of the magazine for distribution in the Soviet Union. The Soviets have promised no censorship and no editorial tinkering. It certainly beats sending the Soviets reruns of "Dynasty" and "Dallas," which give them a distorted view of life in these United States.

Helping our legislators decide

"Suppose someone gave a war and nobody came?" George Canterbury asked me in a bar the other day.

"That's a hypothetical question," I told him. "I never answer hypothetical questions when I'm getting drunk."

"Nevertheless, the situation is reaching a point when fighting for God and country has less meaning than a GiantsRaiders football game. In the past our boys marched off with a band playing 'Yankee Doodle Dandy' and the crowds shouting, 'Give 'em hell.' It's so different now."

"Maybe it's because no one can make the big money on a war the way they used to," I suggested.

He said, "Everyone would like to give Saddam Hussein a bloody nose, but we are all afraid that we could get one too. Going to war is a questionable business, and all the great minds in the country are split on what to do about it. Are you for war?"

"Nosiree. I want to kick Saddam's butt out of Kuwait, but I'm not certain that he's worth losing one Milli Vanilli record over."

"If you had to answer a Newsweek poll tomorrow, where would you stand on hostilities?" "Somewhere between undecided and don't know. Why are all the pollsters trying to find out who wants to go to war and who doesn't?"

"It helps the leaders in Washington make a decision."

Canterbury said, "The problem with the Iraqi situation is that in order to avoid a war, we have to convince Hussein we mean to fight one."

"Teddy Roosevelt always said to carry a big stick if you're going to use sanctions against another country."

Canterbury yelled, "Praise the Lord and pass the U.N. resolutions — and we'll all be free."

"Even the former Joint Chiefs of Staff are against war. That only leaves George Bush and Dan Quayle for it."

Canterbury told me, "They'll gain more support when the public gets tired of seeing Saddam Hussein on the Ted Koppel show. I'll ask you a question that I'll bet you a drink you can't answer. Why is this hostility different from all other hostilities?"

"Why?" "There are no women for the American GIs to date. For the first time in history it's possible to have a war without the soldiers making babies."

"How can you have a babyless war?" I asked. "It goes against all the rules of fraternization."

"It's hard to believe but the women in this conflict are locked up, and the GIs have nothing to do but make mud pies in the sand."

"Without women there is no peace dividend," I protested.

Canterbury said, "When we chose to fight in Saudi Arabia we did it to protect the oil, not war brides. For this reason our boys are going to come home with a clear conscience."

"Maybe," I said, "but it's going to make a lousy movie."

Families adopt local soldiers

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Hundreds of soldiers restricted to Fort Sill are being "adopted" by local families who want to brighten their holidays away from home.

Darren Neal, a Fort Sill spokesman, said soldiers assigned to the 2nd Battalion, 80th Field Artillery, have been restricted "to speed up readiness and training." Units based at this Army base in southwest Oklahoma have been deployed to the Persian Gulf.

"Something needed to be done more than cookies and egg nog in the rec room," said Diana Mercado, a former soldier who is married to one of the battalion's drill sergeants.

"We have people picking them up in limos, we have people that are going to take them out to a restaurant, we have a lady who's going to take them horseback riding on her ranch," she said.

Capt. Edward Solbach said more than 300 soldiers have received sponsors, and more volunteers are expected to sign up. The soldiers will leave the base Christmas Eve or Christmas Day.

"It's kind of a pilot," said Solbach. "It's the first time we've done this. We're really the only battalion to be trying it."

"The morale here is pretty glum, but we're dealing with it," Ms. Leach said. "Some of them are kind of hesitant (to be adopted). I guess it really hasn't hit them that they're not going home."

Jimmie Segraves, a widow whose husband served in the Marines during World War II, plans to take four soldiers out to dinner and give them care packages and T-shirts.

"I'm trying to carry out a theme to let these gentlemen know we can't compare with their hometown..." Mrs. Segraves said. "We can certainly be second best."

WASHINGTON — Bernard Myer, executive director of the White House Historical Association, displays the White House Christmas ornament from 1990, top left; 1989, right; and 1986, bottom.

The 1990 ornament, which sells for $11, is a gleaming bronze miniature of the Blue Room as it looked at Yuletide when Martin Van Buren was president 150 years ago.

Ornaments are collectors' items

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Christmas around the corner, the White House Historical Association's souvenir shop is doing a booming business once again in Christmas ornaments with a presidential twist.

It was almost a decade ago that the non-profit group came up with the idea of selling tourists the special Christmas keepsakes alongside its standard postcards and guidebooks about presidents and first ladies.

The shiny ornaments proved a hit with tourists and natives alike.

Each year's ornament has outsold the last, and the association's executive director, Bernard F. Meyer, confidently predicts "we'll sell in the neighborhood of 150,000 to 200,000" of the newest one.

The 1990 White House ornament is a colorful miniature of the Blue Room as it looked at Yuletide when Martin Van Buren was president 150 years ago.

The association, which operates out of a townhouse on Jackson Place across from the White House, sells the 24 karat gold-finished ornaments for $11 or $13 by mail.

Meyer said he has heard reports of stores reselling the ornaments for as much as $18.

He shrugged off the black market markup, saying, "There's nothing we can do about it."

The association, which raises funds for acquiring art and furnishings for the presidential mansion, now counts on the Christmas ornament sales for two-thirds of its $2.5 million annual operating budget.

Not all of that is profit, but Meyer says the group clears several hundred thousand dollars from the ornament sales to subsidize other projects, including a forthcoming new book on White House art and paintings.

The association still sells the earlier ornaments from each Christmas going back to 1981. In keeping with its mission, it packages them with pamphlets recalling the history of early U.S. presidents.

Last year's ornament was a colorful presidential seal. Its popularity was heightened by a production glitch that led to temporary shortages and long lines outside the association's townhouse.

The ornaments also are sold at a booth inside the White House along the route that more than 1 million visitors follow each year.

Editor's note — Ornaments can be ordered by mail at $13 each with checks payable to: The White House Historical Association, P.O. Box 96586, Washington, D.C. 20090-6586. The association's telephone is: (202) 737-8292.

Counting bottles instead of scores

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the rest of America is plunking down in front of TV sets to watch parades and football games on New Year's Day, Alice Tauber expects to be, well... counting bottles.

"I'm freaking out," she says. She smiles as she says this, but there's a hint of panic as her eyes dart over thousands of bottles in the liquor store she and her husband Ed have owned for 16 years.

You see, all those bottles have to be counted so the Taubers can figure how much of the new federal excise tax they'll have to pay.

They won't be alone. Everyone who sells alcohol and cigarettes — some 600,000 retail outlets plus producers, importers and wholesalers — must count every bottle and every pack as of Jan. 1, the day the tax goes into effect.

This is a one-time inventory. Normally, producers and importers pay all excise taxes and in fact, they paid the taxes on everything now on the shelves. But those were the old, lower rates. So retailers must make up the difference between the old tax and the new tax on items still unsold.

Once they complete the count and pay the appropriate tax, retailers like the Taubers won't have to worry about it again. Importers and producers will resume paying all the taxes at the new rate, generally passing along the cost in higher wholesale prices.

The Taubers' extensive Continental Liquors store in downtown Washington always closes New Year's Day. This year, the Taubers, their 10 employees, their 22-year-old daughter and 21-year-old son will all be working, probably for 11 straight hours.

"They're dead if they don't show up," Mrs. Tauber said. Completing the inventory forms and determining the tax owed is not a job for the math-phobic.

Although almost all liquor is bottled in metric measures, Congress taxes by the gallon, the way producers measure their output. In addition, the tax on distilled spirits — such as vodka and bourbon — is based on so-called proof gallons, meaning gallons that are 100 proof, or 50 percent alcohol.

So it's not enough for the Taubers simply to count all the bottles of vodka. There will be different taxes for a 750 milliliter bottle of 80-proof vodka, a 750 milliliter bottle of 100-proof vodka and a liter bottle of either strength.

An information packet provided by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, which collects the tax, contains three lengthy pages of sample computations plus a page of mind-bending conversion charts that require multiplication by such numbers as 0.22915.

All this work should yield $300 million for government coffers by the end of June, when the tax is due, said ATF spokesman Jack Killorin. But it will be a "challenge," Killorin said.

Prisoners raise trees for Christmas

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (AP) — Experience isn't necessary for a job working with 5,000 Christmas trees on a central Pennsylvania farm: A prison sentence is.

On the north flank of Mount Nittany, 53 felons from the medium-security Rockview state prison grow firs, pines and spruce from seedlings to centerpiece.

Forty-one of the prisoners live in unlocked trailers on the side of the mountain. In the last 13 years there has been one escape.

"The guys who would cause a problem will not even get a smell of his place," said Jack Allar, the superintendent's assistant at the prison.

The camp was set up in the mid-1950s to manage the 3,500 acres of forest on prison property.

"We started 10 years ago putting an emphasis on the Christmas trees, and we're just a year or two away from having enough to supply all the other state institutions," said Sgt. Jim Moore, a prison guard and instructor.

A 15-footer is in the Rockview rotunda and a tree 7 feet, 8 1/2 inches tall is in the prison chapel. About 150 others were chopped for State Police barracks, the Transportation Department and other Pennsylvania offices.

Only government agencies get the trees; they can't be bought. State law prohibits anything being taken off prison property unless it goes to other state facilities or is sold as surplus.

The camp is a mile up a narrow road from the prison's main cellblocks. There are no locks on the trailer doors, the guards aren't armed and a major state highway is a short hike away. There's not even a fence to climb.

DAR hosts meeting

The Captain Elisha Mack Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met Dec. 8 at the home of Mrs. Charles Cummings, with Mrs. Stanley Reid, regent, presiding.

Margaret Barnett was recognized by the DAR state president for perfect attendance and also selected as "Outstanding DAR Volunteer" at the Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Mrs. Miles Skalicky gave the program on "Christmas at Williamsburg," along with the music from three Christmas carols used during that period of time.

Joe Pickle, author of "Getting Started," spoke on the history of a 200-mile radius of this area. He shared information on how it developed from grassland, wild horses, Comanche and bison; how Alvarez was thought to be the first person to camp at what is now known as Bealls Creek in 1535; how Captain R.B. Marcy explored the trail from Santa Fe, El Paso on to California and as a result was the first white man to discover Bealls Creek.

He also noted that in 1887 the city of Big Spring was first organized, including Howard County's first courthouse and in 1902 Big Spring Independent School District was formed. The Earl of Aylsford had the first hotel; Cox's first oil well was drilled; Cosden was the only refinery out of three in Big Spring to survive the depression.

The next meeting will be Jan. 13, with Mrs. John Key and Mrs. Walter Wheat serving as hostesses.

1955 Hyperion Club meets

The 1955 Hyperion Club met Dec. 4 at the home of Mrs. Jimmy Morehead for the annual Christmas luncheon. Co-hosting the event were Mrs. H.B. Perry and Mrs. James R. Watson.

President Morehead called the meeting to order, and Mrs. David Elrod led the invocation prior to the buffet that was served in the garden room. After the luncheon, Mrs. Marjorie Dodson introduced the program, titled "Christmas Songs Around the World."

Mrs. Nyra Harrell, flutist, was accompanied by Mrs. Brenda Bedell, who played the electric piano. Harrell played two English carols, including "What Child is This," "Sussex Carol" and "Ave Maria" from Germany. A vocal ensemble featuring Mrs. Jim Purcell, Mrs. Elrod, Mrs. Ed Holt, Mrs. W.A. Moore, Jr., and Mrs. Tommy Dodson accompanied by Mrs. Bedell sang "Away in a Manger," "Pat a Pan," "Rocking," "Fum Fum Fum," "Angels We Have Heard on High," "Good King Wenselas." The program ended with the club singing "Silent Night."

Guests were Mrs. Joan Gainey, Mrs. Harrell and Mrs. Bedell.

The last event of the meeting was a secret pal gift exchange.

The next meeting will be Jan. 8 at the home of Mrs. Charles Beil.

Students of chiropractic make no bones about studies

DEAR ABBY: I am a student at a chiropractic college in Portland, Ore. When I told a friend that my microbiology instructor has a Ph.D. in microbiology, a master's degree in public health and has worked in Malaysia as an expert in tropical diseases, my friend said, "Why is someone with such outstanding credentials teaching at that quack medical school you go to?"

Abby, this brought home a popular misconception many people have about chiropractors. We take many of the same courses that are taught in medical school — with less emphasis on drugs and biochemistry, and more emphasis on nutrition, biomechanics, the nervous system and radiology.

I'm learning to recognize disease and dysfunction, to treat what's appropriate for chiropractic care and refer what is not. I must go to school for four years and pass the national and state boards before I can practice.

It bothers me to work this hard, learn so much and dedicate my life to patient care, and know that about half the population thinks I'm an untrained quack with a one-year degree! Please let people know that we are competent, well-trained, and we care. — CAROLYN MC MAKIN, PORTLAND

DEAR CAROLYN: I called Dr. Charles F. Downing, president of the American Chiropractic

Association, who graciously allowed me to fax your letter to him. He then faxed me the following letter:

DEAR ABBY: Unfortunately, Carolyn's experience is not uncommon. There are many people who remain misinformed about chiropractors and their legitimate role in the health-care system.

Worldwide studies by governmental commissions and independent researchers have demonstrated the health and cost benefits of chiropractic care. Chiropractic colleges can attract highly qualified science faculty like Carolyn's microbiology instructor because the faculty know the facts and want to help chiropractic students become competent, scientifically trained doctors of chiropractic.

Recent scientific studies continue to validate the superiority of chiropractic over traditional medicine in the treatment of certain conditions — most recently, a study published in the July 1990 issue of the British Medical Journal titled "Low Back Pain of Mechanical Origin," by Meade, Dyer, Browne, Townsend and Frank.

The exams administered to doctors of chiropractic are some of the most stringent anywhere as they relate to human health and biomechanics. To the degree they focus on specific aspects of health — the nervous system and its relationship to proper functions of the body — they are known to be the most stringent compared to other examinations.

To be informed is to be enlightened. The American Chiropractic Association encourages citizens of the world to discover the truth behind the effectiveness and affordability of this health-care alternative as a mainstream option. Please feel free to write to the American Chiropractic Association for more information: 1701 Clarendon Blvd., Arlington, Va. 22209. Please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

DEAR ABBY: Why do some people of the Jewish faith write "G-d" instead of "God"?

Have you ever seen or heard of it? Please educate me. I would feel foolish asking anyone else. — PUZZLED IN CANADA

DEAR PUZZLED: Orthodox Jews consider it disrespectful or sacrilegious to trash anything with the word "God" written on it. Therefore, instead of writing "God," they write "G-d" so the recipient need not worry about disposing of it. (Orthodox Jewish tradition holds that anything with "God" written on it must be respectfully buried.)

Elbow Club hosts Christmas meeting

The Howard County Extension Homemakers Council and other club members attended a covered dish luncheon at the recent annual Christmas gathering, with the Elbow Club hosting the event.

Lou Vincent gave each person a pencil and then explained how a pencil is created. She compared it to life as being useful to everyone around us.

Nadine Hodnett read an original story, titled "And the Organ Played." Extension Agent Naomi Hunt gave a slide and souvenir presentation on her recent trip "down under" to Australia. She was one of the Extension personnel who went to Australia on extension projects. They traveled over much of the country, she said.

They saw the northern part of the country, which boasted beautiful vegetation. In the midst of the country the land is barren — almost like the dry southwest of the United States.

Lush tropical plants were in the southeastern part of the country; in the big cities they were privileged to go to some events in the huge auditoriums.

Christmas poem

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Roald Dahl, the author of children's tales and macabre stories, dashed off a humorous poem about that "good-for-nothing knave" Santa Claus for a group of Tennessee schoolchildren not long before he died.

Dahl, whose stories including "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory," died Nov. 23 at age 74 at a hospital near his home in Oxford, England.

Earlier, teacher Dorothy Hallman's fourth-grade students at Thrasher Elementary School on Signal Mountain sent him a package of poems and pictures as a class project.

In a reply dated November 1990, Dahl wrote:

"Hello gorgeous Dorothy and all the clever children at Thrasher Elementary School who wrote to me. Thank you so much for the lovely letters and wonderful drawings. There is now only one more shopping month till Christmas."

Dahl then followed with a poem about Christmas that took a characteristically skewed look at things:

***
 "Where art thou, Mother Christmas?
 I really wish I knew
 Why Father should get all the praise
 And no one mentions you.

***
 "I'll bet you buy all the presents
 And wrap them large and small
 While all the time the dirty swine
 Pretends he's done it all.

***
 "So hail to Mother Christmas
 The uncomplaining slave
 And down with Father Christmas
 That good-for-nothing knave."

Catalog for disabled

The "Disability Bookshop Catalog," a shop-by-mail bookstore — stocking hard-to-find titles covering a wide range of health topics for the general public, and matters of interest to disabled persons — has just published a new catalog.

This free catalog has something for everyone. Besides help for those with vision and hearing impairments, physical and mental limitations, and general health problems, each household will find titles of interest.

Founder Helen Hecker, a registered nurse and author of several books for disabled persons, says each book has been carefully reviewed for appropriate content, ease of use, and type size.

The "Disability Bookshop Catalog" includes books about pain, aids, grief, aging, sports, travel, cancer, allergy, healing, exercise, diabetes, deafness, blindness, education, arthritis, nutrition, sexuality, employment, addictions, technical aids, children's needs, personal experience, shop-by-mail sources, home nursing care, resource directories, spinal cord injuries, self-help/inspiration, and starting a business at home. Many books are in large or larger type.

To receive the catalog, send $1 for postage and handling to the Disability Bookshop, P.O. Box 129, Vancouver, WA 98666. For more information call (206) 694-2462 or (800) 637-2256.

As an added convenience for the blind, visually impaired, and severely disabled, this catalog is available on audio cassette for $3.50 postage and handling.

Police beat

An accident just before noon Monday resulted in the brief hospitalization of two local citizens. Cynthia Doria Stoll, 59, and William Henry Stoll, 57, were rushed to Scenic Mountain Medical Center emergency room after an accident at the intersection of Highway 350 and IH-20. James Sterling Tunnell, 82, HC 72 Box 22, was cited for failure to yield right of way. Reports said Tunnell failed to acknowledge a stop sign, striking the Stoll's vehicle.

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following additional incidents:

- Billy Corenza McGee, 27, 404 Circle Drive, was arrested and charged with failure to appear before a judge.
- Alred Ray Miers, 29, Apache Bend Apartments building 17, was arrested and charged with failure to appear before a judge.
- More than $6,000 in jewelry was reported stolen from a home in the 700 block of East 12th Street. The complainant reportedly knew the identity of the thief.
- A business in the 1800 block of South Gregg Street reported the theft of $50 in unleaded gasoline.
- Various collector's items were reported stolen from a home in the 1700 block of Harvard Avenue. Antique spurs, rock axes, a bird pipe and Indian rocks were valued at $9,450.
- Raul Cazares Gonzales, 29, Coahoma, was arrested and charged with failure to appear before a judge.

Sheriff's log

Commissioners authorize more drilling

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

STANTON — Martin County Commissioners Court on Monday agreed to authorize more drilling to detect underground water at a proposed city-county landfill site, but only after discussing whether running their own landfill would be feasible.

County Judge Bob Deavenport has said he does not see how the landfill can be operated for less than $150,000 a year. Looked at "pessimistically," it could cost between $150,000 and $200,000 a year said City Manager Paul Lively.

It would cost $160,000 to $170,000 a year to have county trash hauled to Midland, according to estimates by a city-county retained engineer and a local trash hauling company. However, Midland officials said they will only accept trash for a year and Lively said Big Spring's commercial rates are too high.

There is no regional landfill in the area, but a 17-county study by the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission is underway to determine regional cooperation; it is not expected to be completed before 1992.

A majority of City Council and Commissioner Court members at a joint-meeting Monday afternoon said they would rather operate their own landfill, because it would give them more control of operational costs and what is accepted. Generators of trash face possible future pollution liabilities, according to Environmental Protection Agency regulations.

Before a unanimous county vote to approve paying as much as half of $20,000 to drill five more holes at the proposed landfill site, Deavenport expressed concern that proposed stringent federal landfill regulations, expected to increase operational and pollution monitoring costs, are not finalized. "I have fear of what may be done down the road," he said.

"Mayor, in light of the present situation, do you feel that the most viable solution is to open a landfill?" Deavenport asked.

"I do," Fryar responded.

Pct. 2 Commissioner Don Tollison said the group should proceed if the authorized drillings will now allow them to get the needed permit to open the landfill. The project could be jeopardized if underground water is found.

Pct. 4 Commissioner E.D. Holcomb pointed out that both the city and county have already spent a substantial amount of money and if they drop the project now, they may never have the option again to open their own landfill. He also said it may be cheaper in the long run to operate their own landfill. "I prefer to try to watch out for our own interests," he said.

Councilman Ronnie Christian agreed they would want to have control over the landfill. "If we don't pursue this angle now, we'll never get it," he said.

Councilman Lester Baker said they would also face a problem of TDH officials said it could take as long as June. More trash left on streets and highways if a nearby landfill is not provided. It would "just not be worth it," he said.

The city and county has paid at least $117,000 for preliminary on-site work and engineering fees for the new landfill. Engineer Gary Harris of Parhill, Smith & Cooper Inc., Midland, estimates that it will cost $12,435.50 to drill the five test holes. Unforeseen costs could raise that to $20,000 he said.

The drilling was required by Texas Department of Health officials after one of three 40-foot test holes showed water at about 16 feet. The water is believed to be an isolated pocket.

"I think we will have proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that that water is a pocket. It is a low point," Harris said of the expected results of the five new drillings. "If every one of these holes have water in there, I don't know where we go from there."

Meanwhile, if everything meets TDH standards, officials are hoping that the new landfill can be permitted sometime in the spring.

"I prefer to try to watch out for our own interests."

Trash containers unloaded

COAHOMA — Workers of Pack Rat Containers, of Andrews, unload plastic rollout trash containers Saturday, a day after owner Jack Dorris signed a trash-pickup contract with city officials. The 3-year-old company has signed up 70 customers in this area, in addition to about 500 in Coahoma, since advertising a week ago.

Honored

the officer's call for assistance. Mendez was able to get the baton away from the subject.

The third incident took place during the evening of Oct. 6, 1990. Officers Ralph Rollins and Robert Morales were assigned to work security at a dance at the Howard County Fairbarns. They received a report of a subject with a gun. During the investigation, the subject pulled a .45 caliber automatic from a shoulder holster. A struggle with the subject followed. As the struggle continued a crowd began to assemble around the officers and made it clear to the officers they intended to help the subject get free. At this point Patrick Perras emerged from the crowd and began to push them back, urging them to disperse. He remained with the officers until assistance arrived.

Chief Cook stated that without the assistance of these four men, the officers involved may have faced serious injury in the incidents. Each of the four received a plaque.

Prior to the announcement of the awards, special guest Judge Robert Moore, of the 118th District Court, whom Cook referred to as a friend of the criminal justice system, gave a brief speech highlighting his past ten months as judge.

Moore told the assembly he understood the frustration felt by people who work in law enforcement. He said that while he had not worked the streets or faced the types of stress officers face daily, he too felt frustrated by not seeing anything come from his efforts.

Mark Rudd and Charlotte Becker were named the Civilian Employees of the Year; Sgt. Robert Fitzgibbons received the Supervisor of the Year award and Tony Everett was named the Officer of the Year.

corporation.

In other financial business, an adviser told Big Spring City Council members they had made "the right choice" in refinancing $1,430,000 in bonds at the meeting Monday.

The council had, on the advice of Joe Smith of First Southwest Company of Abilene, re-funded the bonds to be resold for lower interest rates.

Bid packets from seven financial institutions were opened at the meeting, and the bid was awarded to Paine Webber Inc. and Associates. Because of the sale, the city's interest on the bond series drops to $420,675, a $246,295 savings for the city.

Smith congratulated the council on its patience in the matter. Although "advance re-funding" had been considered as an option, waiting until the bond series "call date" — Feb. 1 — generated more savings for the city, Smith said.

"The City Council simply made the right decision on this," Smith said. He added that the 1983 and 1984 bond series will be "studied" to determine when similar savings might be possible.

Other council business included:

- The acceptance of the by-laws of Moore Development for Big Spring Inc. At an earlier meeting, the council had agreed to accept the by-laws if certain changes were made. Board chairman Owen Ivie noted that, in accordance with council recommendations, a vote of four council members will be required to remove a board member. Additional changes included adding "she" and "her" where the laws had previously stated only

"he" and "him."

• Award of a bid for dishwashing and food service equipment for the Big Spring Correction Center II to Commercial Ice Machine of Odessa.

• On second reading, the approval of a lease purchase agreement for a motor grader to be used in public works projects.

In his City Manager's Report, Hal Boyd told the council that the Big Spring Police Department had recently received a check for $9,900 — its share of money confiscated in the successful resolution of a narcotics investigation. He said the money will be used in future investigations.

Boyd noted the planned visit by Ted St. Claire, candidate for Moore Development executive director. Board members, city officials and council members plan to meet with St. Claire this week.

Recount

Cathey said, "I'm satisfied. However it comes, out I'm ready to accept it."

Crenshaw's attorney Ben Bancroft said he is happy his request was granted to have all eight precincts recounted. "If it malfunctioned in one box it certainly could have malfunctioned in others," he said.

Cathey's lawyer Robert Miller agreed. "We didn't oppose counting all boxes," he said. "We recognize all votes need to be counted."

At the request of both attorneys, Cathey and Crenshaw each appointed two tallies for the recount, who in turn appointed a third tally. The court appointed the caller, who will preside over the recount.

Crenshaw appointed Joyce Crooker, wife of Pct. 3 Commissioner Bill Crooker while Cathey appointed Ray Russell, a Lomax farmer on the board of the Howard County Soil and Water Conservation District. Those appointees chose Curt Mullins, vice president of First National Bank.

Judge Clack, after consultation with County Clerk Margaret Ray, appointed Ron Logback, assistant superintendent of Big Spring Independent School District, as the caller. He coordinates school board trustee elections.

Joyce Crooker said those involved should be able to complete the recount, which will take place in the basement of the county clerk's office, within a day. Logback will report the results in a sealed envelope to Clack, Ray said. Only Clack, who said she may make her ruling from Andrews, can release the results.

Iraq

were ordered to report for military duty last month, as were 60,000 farmers who had earlier been exempted to help boost food production to counter United Nations-imposed trade sanctions against Iraq.

The London-based International Institute for Strategic Studies estimates that Iraq has 904,000 men ages 18-22 and 1.3 million in the 23-32 age group. Saddam has placed an estimated 500,000 men in the Kuwait theater facing a 28-nation, U.S.-dominated force that by mid-January is expected to total around 650,000 men and women.

Iraq's regular army has 500,000 soldiers, some of whom are deployed on its borders with Turkey and Syria.

The United Nations Security Council last month ordered Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait by Jan. 15 or face military action.

In its statement Monday, the government said it wanted peace but would not capitulate to Western demands to abandon Kuwait unconditionally.

Iraqi authorities have intensified preparations for war in the last couple of weeks, ordering owners of buildings to provide bomb shelters and expanding first-aid and civil defense training.

The state-run al-Jomhuriya daily said Monday that civil defense authorities have opened 342 training centers in the capital of 4 million people.

Mideast

An initial callup of 15 retired Army physician assistants was approved last week, and about 200 more retirees probably will be involuntarily recalled for active duty over the next month, said Lt. Col. Henry H. Hanrahan.

As the Jan. 15 deadline approaches, the Army and Navy have been increasing their deployment of medical specialists and equipment to the gulf area.

Bush said he hoped meetings can be arranged at mutually acceptable dates between himself and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz, and between Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Saddam.

"And if meetings are held," he said, "I want to reiterate publicly what I said inside (to the ambassadors) — namely that what we want to do is impress upon Iraq the consequences of its aggression and the need for all Iraqi forces to leave every square inch of Kuwait."

He said he would not be opposed to Baker and Aziz meeting in a third country to break the stalemate on scheduling. However, he said, "What I'm not going to do is shove these meetings right up against the United Nations deadline."

Bush said, "I'm not in a threatening mode. I don't think any of us are. We are in a determined mode, a mode that he should get out without concession. . . . And Mr. Saddam Hussein, simply do what the world is calling upon you to do — get out."

Bush said Saddam "does not understand the debate in this country" as members of Congress and former military leaders argue that sanctions should be given more time to work before force is used.

"He thinks it means that our country is divided and we cannot go forward to do our part in implementing the U.N. resolutions," Bush said. "And he's just as wrong as he can be."

Aziz had been due in Washington on Monday to meet with the president. But that visit was put off when the two sides could not agree on a date for a return meeting by Baker with Saddam in Baghdad.

Bush has said he wants Baker to meet with Saddam no later than Jan. 3 while Saddam has proposed a Jan. 12 meeting.

Lendl named ITF's player of year

LONDON (AP) — Ivan Lendl scored a surprise victory over Stefan Edberg today when the International Tennis Federation named him its men's world champion for 1990. Steffi Graf was named women's world champion for the fourth year in a row. Although Edberg ends the year as world ranked No. 1, the ITF said it gave the title to Lendl, who is ranked third, because of his consistent form in the four Grand Slam tournaments. The Swede's first-round defeat in the Grand Slam Cup last week also weighed against him, the ITF said. Both players matched each other for Grand Slam triumphs, Lendl taking the Australian Open title and Edberg winning at Wimbledon. But the ITF nominating panel of former champions Fred Perry, Frank Sedgeman and Tony Trabert, said Lendl, who missed the French Open to concentrate on preparing on grass for Wimbledon, was more consistent overall. He won 16 matches in three Grand Slam events while Edberg won 13 in four. Although Edberg finished runner up in Australia, he was beaten in the first round at both the French and U.S. Opens.

Tyson, 'Razor' will battle March 18

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Tyson and Donovan "Razor" Ruddock, the world's two top-ranked heavyweight contenders, will fight at The Mirage hotel-casino in Las Vegas March 18. Their fight will come 32 days before Evander Holyfield defends his heavyweight title against George Foreman. A news conference was scheduled in New York today to announce the 12-round fight, which will be held outdoors at The Mirage and be shown on pay-per-view television. Tyson knocked out Alex Stewart in 147 seconds last Saturday at Atlantic City, N.J. Ruddock knocked out Mike Rouse in 157 seconds on the same card.

49ers pay Rams back, 26-10

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers seem to be back on a Super Bowl track. Joe Montana threw a 60-yard touchdown pass to Jerry Rice and rookie Dexter Carter scored on a 74-yard run Monday night to cap a 26-10 victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

The victory gave two-time defending Super Bowl champion San Francisco (13-1) the best record in the NFL and the home-field advantage throughout the NFC playoffs. Los Angeles (5-9) provided the 49ers with their only blemish, a 28-17 setback Nov. 25 at San Francisco. The 49ers then beat the New York Giants 7-3 in an over-hyped matchup and rallied last week to beat Cincinnati 20-17 in overtime.

"I think our approach was more businesslike than last week," linebacker Matt Millen said. "I got the feeling on the sideline of, 'Let's just win this game and get out of here.'"

"This doesn't feel any different than the first eight weeks of the season, which means that we're just methodically moving along."

"If you wanted to gauge it by the other 27 teams in the league, we're playing pretty well. If you want to gauge it by this team right now, we can still get better."

"Consistency is always the key. We just want to be more consistent," Millen said.

Millen recovered a fumbled snap by Ram quarterback Jim Everett to set up Mike Cofer's second field goal of the game, a 31-yarder for a 19-7 lead early in the third quarter.

If it weren't for some penalties by an aggressive 49er secondary, San Francisco may have had a shutout.

"There was no revenge factor," said fullback Tom Rathman, whose ANAHEIM, Calif. — San Francisco 49ers wide receiver Jerry Rice (80) pushes away Los Angeles Rams safety Anthony Newman as he goes to score a touchdown on a 60-yard pass play in the second quarter Monday night at Anaheim Stadium.

1-yard plunge on fourth-and-goal midway through the second quarter gave the 49ers a 9-0 lead. "It would have been awkward to lose two games in a season against them. We just don't like to lose, and that's the bottom line. "We seem to be a better road team," Rathman said. "We like going into someone's backyard and taking the crowd out of the game. We just want to try and prove Rice, who hadn't scored in the previous four games, teamed with Montana for a spectacular 60-yard scoring play late in the second quarter. Rice hauled in the throw at the Ram 15 and dragged safety Anthony Newman the last few yards into the end zone for a 16-0 lead.

Cubs get Astros' pitcher

CHICAGO (AP) — If money really does talk, the Cubs are doing some serious talking about improving their pitching staff.

Chicago committed $5.9 million Monday when it agreed to contract with new-look free agent Dave Smith and left-handed reliever Paul Assenmacher.

Smith, a right-handed reliever and a two-time National League All-Star, agreed to a two-year, $4.9 million deal with a club option for 1993.

Assenmacher will make $1 million in 1991, a $525,000 raise, and has the opportunity to earn more in incentive bonuses. He is the first salary arbitration-eligible player in the majors to sign since the end of the season.

Smith, 35, has spent his 11-season big league career with the Houston Astros. He has 53-47 record with 199 saves and a 2.53 ERA in 563 games.

"We've talked about stabilizing our late-relief situation many times in the last couple of months," said Jim Frey, the Cubs' executive vice president of baseball operations. "We needed a right-handed reliever to finish off games.

"Dave Smith is the type of player who has been very consistent over the years," Frey said. "His numbers and his record show consistency and a high level of performance. He should add the stability we've been looking for."

Smith will receive a $1 million signing bonus, a 1991 salary of $1.4 million and a 1992 salary of $2 million. For 1993, the club has the option at $2.4 million or must pay a $500,000 buyout.

Smith was 6-6 last season with 23 saves and a 2.39 ERA in 49 games for the Astros. In 60 1-3 innings, he allowed 45 hits, 16 earned runs and 20 walks with 50 strikeouts.

Smith tied for fourth in the league in saves and was seventh in games finished (42). After the year, the Astros had exercised a 1991 option at $1.1 million, but Smith became a new-look free agent Dec. 7 as part of the collusion settlement between the 26 clubs and the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Assenmacher, 30, was 7-2 last season with a 2.81 ERA and 10 saves in 74 appearances. He came to the Cubs in 1989 from the Atlanta Braves.

To make room for Smith on the 40-man roster, right-hander Randy Kramer was placed on waivers to give him his unconditional release.

The Cubs signed left-handed starter Danny Jackson, another free agent, on Nov. 21 for $10.5 million over four years. Left fielder George Bell joined the club Dec. 6 for a three-year, $9.8 million contract.

Two new Dodgers

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Dodgers introduced Brett Butler (left) and Bob Ojeda to the media Monday at Dodger Stadium. The Dodgers got Ojeda in a trade with the New York Mets, and they got Butler as a free agent from the San Francisco Giants.

Moon has a lot of incentive

HOUSTON (AP) — As Houston quarterback Warren Moon moves closer to the NFL record book, he's digging deeper into Oilers owner Bud Adams' pocketbook.

Moon completed 27 of 45 passes for a near-record 527 yards Sunday, leading the Oilers to a crucial 27-10 victory over Kansas City that moved Moon a step closer to collecting on a $1.2 million bonus if he finishes among the top three NFL quarterbacks in passing efficiency.

Moon ranked second in the NFL in passing efficiency following Sunday's victory. The Oilers have two games remaining at Cincinnati Sunday and in the Astrodome Dec. 30 against Pittsburgh.

"If that's an incentive for him, all he's going to do is help us win," said Oilers general manager Mike Holovac, who signed Moon to a 5-year, $10 million contract in 1989. Moon came up solid gold for the Oilers with the second-best single game passing performance in NFL history, second only to Los Angeles Rams' Norm Van Brocklin, who had 554 yards against the New York Yankees in 1951.

Moon was more concerned about getting the victory than records.

"Records are not that important to me," Moon said. "The key thing is winning. I'm not going to pass the football just to break the record."

The Oilers declined to go for the record when they got the ball one last time, preferring to run out the clock instead of throwing passes. Moon said he wasn't just being a good sport, however. "I'm the kind of guy who likes to always look ahead," Moon said. "You don't ever want to give a team a motivating factor when you don't have to. We might come back here again in the playoffs, and they'd definitely remember a record."

The Oilers (8-6) retained a tie for the AFC Central Division lead with Pittsburgh, while the Chiefs (9-5) still remained in the AFC Western Division playoffs picture in second place behind the Los Angeles Raiders.

Regardless of his motives, Moon enhanced his image among the elite quarterbacks in the NFL and placed himself closer to several league records.

Cowboys smelling playoffs

IRVING (AP) — Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson says the Cowboys have an NFC wild card playoff spot if they can just play like they have the last month.

"We are in the driver's seat for the third wildcard but we still have to play and perform," Johnson says. "If we keep our heads good things will happen."

Johnson says Sunday's 41-10 rout of the Phoenix Cardinals did wonders for the club's confidence. The resurgent Dallas Cowboys are the winningest team in the NFL in the last four weeks.

Dallas can make the NFC playoffs for the first time since 1985 by winning its last two games against Philadelphia and Atlanta, both on the road.

If Dallas defeats Philadelphia on Sunday and the Detroit Lions whip Green Bay, the Cowboys will get the third wildcard berth.

The Cowboys can become the first team since the 1975 Baltimore Colts to go from last in the league into the NFL playoffs. Dallas was 1-15 in Johnson's rookie season after owner Jerry Jones' broom swept Tom Landry out the door.

Dallas, 7-7, has won four consecutive games for the first time since 1985. The last time Dallas won six straight to end a season was in 1978.

If Dallas should split its final two games, it would hold tiebreaker advantages over New Orleans and Tampa Bay because the Cowboys have already defeated those teams. The Cowboys also hold a tiebreaker edge over Green Bay in net points in conference games.

Emmitt Smith has 842 yards rushing and trails Johnny Johnson of Phoenix by only three yards for the rookie rushing lead.

"Emmitt has been critical to our finally coming together as a team," said Dallas linebacker Jack Del Rio. "He's just fantastic."

Barnes to have hearing Saturday

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An appeals hearing for Randy Barnes, the world record-holder in the shot put who tested positive for a banned substance, will be held Saturday at Washington, D.C.

The Athletics Congress, the national governing body for track and field, in announcing the hearing date Tuesday, said a panel consisting of Cliff Wiley, Tim Baker and Jill Pilgrim would hear Barnes' case at a closed hearing. The panel members were selected randomly from TAC's Drug Control Review Board.

Barnes was suspended by the International Amateur Athletic Federation on Nov. 6 after testing positive for methyltestosterone at a meet in Malmo, Sweden, on Aug. 7. Barnes has denied taking a banned substance. If the IAAF finding is upheld, Barnes would be suspended for two years.

SWC still thinking expansion

GRAPEVINE (AP) — Southwest Conference presidents have told Commissioner Fred Jacoby to pursue expansion discussions with other schools as well as possible television alliances with other conferences.

"At our Oct. 7 Council of Presidents meeting, we were told to hold on expansion talks," Jacoby said in a statement released Monday. "Last October, our presidents wanted to see how the alliance discussions might work."

"Now we have the opportunity to discuss television alliances and conference expansion simultaneously and then go back with the information to our member institutions."

Arkansas will join the Southeastern Conference after the 1991 football season, leaving the SWC with eight teams.

Some observers have said Louisville and Tulane have been mentioned as possible expansion targets, but Jacoby would not confirm those rumors.

"We have been contacted by some schools," Jacoby said, "and we would like to have a proactive stance on the future of the SWC."

Former Sooners must do time

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A federal judge has sent two former University of Oklahoma athletes to prison for helping former Sooner quarterback Charles Thompson sell cocaine.

U.S. District Judge Ralph Thompson sentenced former football player John Green, 25, of Detroit to 16 months and former Sooner track runner Lamont Harris of Dallas to 18 months.

The judge also ordered Monday that the two be supervised for three years after release and receive drug treatment.

The two were convicted in October of conspiracy to distribute cocaine and cocaine distribution. Harris also was convicted of using a telephone to make a drug transaction.

Thompson, serving time in federal prison in Big Spring, Tx., after pleading guilty in April 1989 to a cocaine conspiracy charge, testified during the two ex-Sooners' trial that he arranged the sale of 17 grams of cocaine on behalf of Green and Harris.

Unknown to the three athletes, the buyer was an undercover FBI agent, authorities say.

Spurs get Higgins from injured reserve

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs waived backup point guard Byron Dinkins and took rookie forward Sean Higgins off the injured list.

The waiving of Dinkins on Monday made room on the roster for Higgins, who has missed 12 games because of a stress fracture in his right foot.

Dinkins played in 10 games, averaging 3.4 points and 1.9 assists. Because of a thigh contusion, he missed the Spurs' out-of-town swing last week, when the team won four straight road games.

"I think it's always hard on players like Byron, who's such a young guy and a good person," Spurs vice president Bob Bass said. "He did everything we asked."

Dinkins said being waived didn't come as a surprise.

Auburn guns down Aggies, 95-71

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Auburn was playing its third game in five days, but Texas A&M was the team that looked tired.

The streaking Tigers won their fourth game in a row, running past Texas A&M in the second half for a 95-71 victory Monday night.

In the only other basketball game involving a Southwest Conference team, Houston whipped Centenary, 100-57.

"The main thing was our lack of depth," Aggies coach Kermit Davis said. "If this had been a 20-minute game it might have been different. We fought for a while but they just wore us out."

Auburn, which led 44-35 at halftime, began the second half with a 22-9 run that buried the Aggies.

"It was the defensive ability and the rebounding and the ability to run the fastbreak," Auburn coach Tommy Joe Eagles said.

John Caylor hit back-to-back 3-pointers and Wesley Person added 10 points, including seven in a row to stretch Auburn's lead to 66-44 with 14:45 remaining. Texas A&M never got any closer than 15 the rest of the game.

Auburn improved to 6-1; at the same point last season, the Tigers were 2-5. Texas A&M fell to 3-4 under first-year coach Davis.

Auburn hit nine 3-pointers in the game and six in the second half, posting their largest victory margin in 57 games.

AUBURN, Ala. — Brooks Thompson (23) has nowhere to go as Auburn's Reggie Gallon applies pressure during first half action Monday night college basketball action.

SWC Roundup

Person, a freshman, led Auburn with 22 points. He was 9 of 13 from the field, including 2 of 4 on 3-point attempts. McKie and Ronnie Battle added 14 points apiece, Caylor 13 and Larry Patrick 11.

Brooks Thompson led the Aggies, who got scoring from only six players, with 15 points. Three players — Chedrick Anderson, Rashone Lewis and Lynn Suber — contributed 14 and Isaac Brown had 12.

Texas A&M shot 50 percent from the field (31 of 62) but made only 6 of 14 from the foul line.

Darrell Mickens scored a game-high 20 points and grabbed 20 rebounds to lead Houston to a 100-57 victory over Centenary.

Mickens was one of four Cougars, 7-1, to score in double figures. He poured in 12 points before intermission as Houston took a commanding 42-23 lead.

The Gentlemen, 4-5, from Shreveport were unable to take advantage of the Cougars' sloppy ball handling. Houston turned the ball over 20 times.

The Cougars' carelessness, however, didn't keep them from cruising in the second half, leading by as many as 36 points late in the game.

Hawks soar over Cavs

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The Atlanta Hawks have been two completely different teams this season. Dominique Wilkins prefers the current version.

"You know, it's hard to believe we lost nine games in a row. This team has pulled itself together," Wilkins said after his 32 points led the Hawks to a 109-98 win over the Cleveland Cavaliers Monday night.

In the night's only other game, Utah beat New Jersey 100-98, surviving a buzzer shot by Reggie Theus.

Atlanta has won five straight games and seven of its last eight, evening its record at 11-11. Critical to the turnaround: Glenn Rivers has recovered from a pulled groin and Jon Koncak has moved to the starting lineup, allowing Moses Malone to provide a lift off the bench.

"I would say the biggest factor is Doc (Rivers) being healthy," first-year coach Bob Weiss said. "We're running more set plays, playing better defense. We're more unselfish and we're learning our roles better. It's taken time for them to adjust to me and me to them."

Wilkins took control of Monday's game in the third quarter, making seven straight floor shots and scoring 15 points during the period. The Hawks led 79-61 with 3:35 left in the quarter.

"The guys felt I was getting hot, and they kept going to me," Wilkins said. "When I get in a mode like that, I don't feel like anybody can stop me. It got us the confidence, the open shots."

Cleveland made one last run, scoring 13 of the next 15 points to close to 81-74 early in the fourth quarter, but an eight-point burst by the Hawks stalled the comeback. John Battle, who finished with 24 points, capped the flurry with a pair of jump shots.

Battle has scored 52 points off the bench in his last two games, including a career-high 28 against Washington on Saturday.

"He was 0-for-6 two games ago," Weiss said. "But he scores against a lot of people. It's great to have the firepower coming off the bench."

Koncak had 16 points and 13 rebounds for the Hawks.

Brad Daugherty scored 33 points and collected a career-high 18 rebounds for Cleveland, which has lost six consecutive games and seven of eight since point guard Mark Price was lost for the season with a knee injury.

"We're short-handed and maybe some guys are going to be asked to do things they don't usually do," Daugherty said. "Steve (Kerr) and Darnell (Valentine) have a lot of pressure on them right now. We have to hang in there."

Rookie Danny Ferry continues to struggle with his shooting. He was 1-for-7 Monday, and he's shooting

"Now we have to stay sharp and win and not worry about injuries," Montana added. "I think it was important to come in here and win. They (Rams) beat us the last time, and we played pretty bad. In the first part of that game, we gave up the ball four of the first six times we had it. We felt that if we played better, we'd win."

42.7 percent from the floor this season.

"We're going through a tough time right now," coach Lenny Wilkins said. "I remember last year when we had our injuries. We went through a tough period where we had to adjust, and finally we did. The thing that makes it even more difficult this year is that we have so many young guys."

Jazz 100, Nets 98

At East Rutherford, N.J., the Jazz led 98-92 with 51 seconds to go. Then things got interesting.

Chris Morris made a 3-pointer for New Jersey with 40 seconds to go, after Mark Eaton tipped in Jeff Malone's miss, Morris made two more free throws with 15 seconds left, pulling New Jersey within 100-97.

The Nets used a full-court press and forced Jeff Malone into a backcourt violation, giving New Jersey the ball at midcourt with 2.2 seconds remaining. After a timeout, the Nets attempted to set up Mookie Blaylock for a potential game-tying 3-pointer.

As the ball was inbounded, Blaylock was wrapped up by John Stockton and went to the line for two free throws. He made the first and intentionally missed the second.

Theus, charging in from behind the shooter, got both hands on the rebound and tipped the ball toward the basket. But the ball bounced off the back rim as the buzzer sounded.

"It was a tough shot, shooting on the fly," Theus said. "You just have to catch it and put it back up. There was no time to come down with it. I heard the buzzer just as I released it."

Stockton had 17 points and 14 assists and Jeff Malone also scored 17 points for the Jazz, who have won seven of eight and 12 of 14.

"We've been playing pretty well, but I'm concerned about our energy level," Utah coach Jerry Sloan said. "We were very fortunate to win."

No. 7 Ohio St. has fun in 103-66 rout

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — To the points, rebounds, assists and other statistics that decide basketball games, add the Jackson Index.

"Whether it's Georgetown, Tennessee State or Iowa, you get a lot of dunks and you have fun," Jimmy Jackson said after No. 7 Ohio State routed Tennessee State 103-66 in Monday's only game involving a ranked team.

Whether the Buckeyes experience such fun against No. 12 Georgetown remains to be seen.

Ten dunks, including four breakaways in a two-minute span of the second half, helped the Buckeyes improve their shooting percentage on a night when the focus might have been elsewhere.

Undefeated Ohio State's schedule has included Bethune-Cookman (111-72), Delaware State (116-67) and Chicago State (112-54). But the Buckeyes meet Georgetown on Saturday at Las Vegas, and who could blame the Buckeyes for looking ahead to the Hoyas?

"With all the national attention Georgetown gets, it's hard to not think about them," Ohio State point guard Mark Baker said. "We got out of our game in the first half."

Ohio State led 46-23 at the half, despite missing 13 of 23 free throws and committing 13 turnovers.

"I was an assistant coach at LSU for 13 years," Tennessee State coach Ron Abernathy said. "My last recruiting class was Shaquille O'Neal and Stanley Roberts. I would have liked to bring one of them with me."

The Buckeyes had their worst shooting night of the season, making 41 of 79 shots, including 1-for-13 on 3-pointers. They were just 20-for-37 on free throws.

Coach Randy Ayers admitted it's still not clear whether the cream puffs has fattened or strengthened the Buckeyes.

College Roundup

"We'll find out Saturday if we're ready to play Georgetown," Ayers said. "We're anxious for Saturday, to play a quality program."

The Hoyas lost to Texas-El Paso 71-60 last Saturday.

"I'm sure Coach (John) Thompson has their attention now," Ayers said with a laugh. "When I saw them (Georgetown) on television, I couldn't believe their intensity. Our players appreciate what the Georgetown program means. It will be a great atmosphere in Vegas."

The lopsided victory marked the sixth time in seven games this year that the Buckeyes have topped 100 points, breaking a school record set last year. Perry Carter scored 20 points and Jim Jackson 18 to lead five Buckeyes in double figures.

Jamaal Brown added 12 points, Treg Lee 11 and Bill Robinson 10 points to go with a career-high 11 rebounds for Ohio State.

The Buckeyes moved to 7-0 for the third time in the last 30 years.

J.J. Eubanks, playing his first game after transferring from Marshall, scored 30 points for Tennessee State (2-7).

Other games — LaBradford Smith made a 3-pointer and two free throws in the final 2:57 as Louisville (3-1) defeated Western Kentucky 86-79.

Western Kentucky (2-5), which trailed by as many as 20 points in the first half and lost four starters to personal fouls, pulled even at 75 when Anthony Palm banked in a 7-footer with 3:27 left. Smith, who finished with 24 points, then connected for a 3-pointer to give Louisville (3-1) a 78-75 lead 30 seconds later.

In the title game Coahoma downed Alpine 61-51. Ruiz scored 20, Henry 12 and Harmon 10.

Clemson coach lays down the law

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Bowls are supposed to be fun — rewards for a season worth of accomplishments.

Clemson coach Ken Hatfield is all for that. He wants his Tigers to have a good time in Florida as they prepare for the Hall of Fame Bowl on Jan. 1.

But Hatfield has also set down "certain rules" for the trip.

"Basically, I said if you embarrass me in any way, you're going to be on the next bus and go home," Hatfield said. "You won't play in the ballgame. It's pretty much a standing order as far as I'm concerned."

The 14th-ranked Tigers (9-2) headed to Orlando, Fla., on Monday to begin preparations for their New Year's Day showdown with No. 16 Illinois (8-3) in Tampa, Fla.

Hatfield doesn't expect any problems in the coming days, saying the team has been an easy one to travel with in this, his first season. In fact, he received a letter complimenting his team's decorum at a movie before its game with Maryland in Baltimore.

"He said he saw our team coming in and thought he wouldn't be able to hear and all that," Hatfield said of the author of the letter. "But he said it was not what he anticipated. I just wanted to comment to you and the team (and congratulate them for the way they

Virginia quarterback anxious to get back to action

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Virginia quarterback Shawn Moore has 15 days to get his surgically repaired right thumb ready for the Sugar Bowl. He isn't planning on it taking nearly that long.

"I'd like to start throwing by the middle of the week," Moore said Monday after a visit to his surgeon. "I may be a little rusty, but I think it'll take just a day or two to get back to regular-season form."

Coach George Welsh agreed. "He should be 100 percent by Saturday," said Welsh, who planned full-scale workouts this week as the Cavaliers (8-3) prepare for their New Year's night game in New Orleans against No. 10 Tennessee (8-2-2).

The cast that was placed on Moore's right forearm after the dislocated thumb was repaired Nov. 17 has been removed, and Moore has spent the past few days diligently working on regaining flexibility and strength.

Monday's visit to the doctor produced some encouraging words for the nation's passing efficiency leader.

"I have a lot more movement than they thought I'd have," he said.

Moore said he is not apprehensive about resuming workouts with the Cavaliers.

Wide receiver Herman Moore, who finished sixth in the Heisman Trophy balloting, isn't worried about Shawn Moore's recovery schedule.

"If he's going to play," Herman said, "that means he's going to feel

"I think everything's gone as planned. I don't think there have been any setbacks, and I don't anticipate any," — Virginia quarterback, Shawn Moore.

"Shawn's presence in the game does a lot," Herman said. "It tells the defense they can't do just one thing. Just his presence makes the defense change their whole scheme."

The quarterback was one of five seniors lost to injury as Virginia went from 7-0 and ranked No. 1 in the nation to losing three of its last four games and falling completely out of the Top 25.

Shawn Moore said the Cavaliers "feel like we have a lot to prove because of what happened in November."

To that end, Welsh plans to limit his players' free time when they arrive in New Orleans right after Christmas. Last year, Welsh put very few restrictions on the Cavaliers when they were in Orlando, Fla., for the Citrus Bowl, and handled themselves.

"That's what I'd like to be able to say wherever we go."

That doesn't mean the Tigers can have fun in the sun in Florida. Clemson has Saturday and Sunday off to see the attractions in Orlando. They also get to go to Busch Gardens the night of Dec. 27.

"I believe you can have a good time and enjoy the bowl and the people and still never lose touch... that the fun thing of the bowl is a victory," he said. "I think whatever you do, you always ask yourself if this really is helping me win the football game or be at my best at kickoff."

Hatfield said he's never had any problems on bowl games — at least not with discipline. But he recalled a few anxious moments during Arkansas' trip to the 1987 Orange Bowl.

Two walk-ons rented a sailboat, insisting they knew how to sail. In reality, Hatfield said, their only knowledge of sailing came from watching it on television. After renting the sailboat, the pair headed out to sea.

"They got out there for a while and thought, 'Man, land's a long way off. We ought to start going back,'" Hatfield said. "They started back and turned the thing over because they didn't know how to sail."

they appeared sluggish in a 31-21 loss to Illinois.

"We completely forgot that we were there for a bowl game until it was time to play," Herman Moore said. "and it was a little bit too late then."

This time, Welsh plans to make sure the Cavaliers aren't done in by the night life.

"We're going to have a curfew except for the first night or so," he said.

Kansas City Chiefs player has neat out-of-body experience

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — It's cold in Missouri... you're in a football game running hard... then, all at once...

It's warm in New Jersey... you're in your car... with your girlfriend...

No... you're back in the football game... aren't you? Houston quarterback Warren Moon may have experienced an out-of-this-world game Sunday in passing for 527 yards against Kansas City, but Chiefs' running back Todd McNair had what some might call an out-of-body experience.

It happened after a rather ordinary event in most NFL games: a teeth-rattling kickoff collision.

The Chiefs kicked a third-quarter field goal and McNair was hurtling down on kickoff coverage when suddenly...

"I was back in Jersey and I was waxing my car down," he said. "Then I thought I was dreaming that I was in a football game."

Diagnosed with a mild concussion, McNair took it easy in practice Monday and hopes to be ready for Sunday's game at San Diego. He makes no claim to any paranormal experience. But he shook his aching head in amazement at

"I was dreaming. I was back home in Jersey with my girl. I was waxing my car down, and then I was driving my car. It was warm. The windows were down. They said I came off smiling and telling people I was going back in. But I don't remember any of that. I got to the sideline and I saw the players and the fans and I thought, 'Hey, I'm dreaming that I'm in a game.'" — Todd McNair.

what author Truman Capote once called "the uncharted galaxies of the mind."

All this was going on in McNair's imagination while 61,000 fans fell silent and worried team officials huddled over his inert body.

"I was dreaming," he said. "I was back home in Jersey with my girl. I was waxing my car down, and then I was driving my car."

It was cold and rainy where they were, but not where McNair was. "It was warm," he said. "The windows were down."

After several minutes, he was led wobbly-legged to the sideline where, he said, "I started getting it back together."

He does not recall leaving the field. "They said I came off smiling and telling people I was going back in. But I don't remember any of that. I got to the sideline and I saw the players and the fans and I thought, 'Hey, I'm dreaming that I'm in a game.'" When McNair got to Arrowhead Stadium Monday, he went straight to the tape machine to view the event from this side of reality.

"I was going down to make a tackle on the kickoff and a guy hit me in the temple, right over the ear, and I just immediately dropped. I went right out," he said. "Everybody was shook up and scared, but today they're joking. They're calling me 'Sleepy.'"

Tennessee coach doesn't want job

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tennessee defensive coordinator Larry Lacey has removed his name from consideration as head football coach at the University of North Texas, citing his commitment to the Vols.

"I withdrew from contention for the North Texas State job. I appreciated their interest, but I decided I'd stay here," he said Monday, during interviews to preview the Vols' upcoming Sugar Bowl game with Virginia.

Lacey said NTSU officials called him twice, and he visited the campus for discussions.

"I just felt there were some things that I needed that maybe they weren't quite ready for, but I appreciated the interest," he said.

Lacey, 57, was head coach at Arkansas State for 12 years before joining Johnny Majors' staff at Tennessee before this season.

Majors said he was "delighted" that Lacey had decided to stay at Tennessee.

North Texas officials fired Coach Corky Nelson on Nov. 20.

Orlando to host 1992 All-Stars

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The 1992 NBA All-Star Game was awarded to the Orlando Magic on Monday, and Walt Disney World will add its magic touch by assuming a major role in the event.

The game will be played in the 15,077-seat Orlando Arena on Feb. 9, NBA commissioner David Stern said.

Disney will be responsible for most of the three-day pageantry, player hotels and nearly 6,000 league guests, Richard Nunis, president of Walt Disney Attractions, said.

Orlando is the third consecutive expansion team to get the all-star game. Miami hosted last year's game, while Charlotte is this season's host.

Stern said the league wasn't playing favorites with the expansion teams but acknowledged it would be difficult not to award the 1993 game to the only other recent newcomer, the Timberwolves.

LA trades Brooks to New York

NEW YORK (AP) — A year ago, when free agent Hubie Brooks had the power to pick a team, he chose the Los Angeles Dodgers. A year later, the Dodgers chose the New York Mets for him.

Brooks, 34, was traded Saturday night to the Mets for pitchers Bob Ojeda and Greg Hansell. It was a deal that surprised the outfielder.

Now, though, Brooks knows why the Dodgers balked when he asked for a no-trade clause in the three-year, $6 million deal he signed last winter.

"I would have accepted more money elsewhere if I knew I was going to be traded," he said Monday. "At my age, you want your life more secure than this."

Brooks said that Toronto, Atlanta, Pittsburgh and Detroit had expressed interest in him last year, but that he picked the Dodgers because he wanted to go home.

Cubs sign Smith to two-year deal

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs said Monday they have signed free agent Dave Smith, a right-handed relief pitcher, to a two-year contract with an option for a third year.

Smith has spent his 11-year major-league career with the Houston Astros. He has a record of 53-47 with 199 saves and a 2.53 ERA in 563 games.

"We've talked about stabilizing our late relief situation many times in the last couple of months," Jim Frey, the Cubs' executive vice president of baseball operations, said.

"We needed a right-handed reliever to finish off games." Dave Smith is the type of player who has been very consistent over the years. His numbers and his record show consistency and a high level of performance. He should add the stability we've been looking for."

Terms of the deal were not disclosed.

DeBerg questionable for San Diego game

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kansas City quarterback Steve DeBerg remained hospitalized Monday for a broken finger and is questionable for Sunday's game at San Diego, the club said.

DeBerg, having the best season of his career, suffered the injury in the third quarter of Houston's 27-10 victory over Kansas City on Sunday. The bone at the tip of the left little finger was broken and exposed.

"Last night, Steve DeBerg had a small pin inserted into the distal phalanx of the fifth finger of his left hand," Carl Peterson, Chiefs' general manager, said. "He remains in the hospital to protect against infection. His status for Sunday is questionable at this time." DeBerg's backup is Steve Pelluer, who had not played this season until replacing DeBerg Sunday.

TNN replaces ESPN as the network of obscure sports

Sports on TV

(AP) Two NFL games Saturday and at least three more Sunday. The pregame, postgame, halftime and two-minute timeout shows. The NFL Today, Tomorrow, Next Week, and Forevermore — The NFL Live, Comatose, and Dead as a Doornail.

Hours of college basketball games — followed by hours more of Dick Vitalitis, accompanied by a painful ringing in our ears and a wistful yearning for more Al McGuire. Where is he, NBC? And the final two rounds of the Seniors Somethingorother golf tournament.

"Trevino's on the dance floor, but the music is quite faint," whispers an impeccably accented Englishman from miles away in a studio.

Throw in a $6 million tennis tournament that nobody ever heard of, an accidental moment or two of aerobics while channel changing — ye gads, look at those thighs — an hour-long documentary on Arnold Palmer, and an in-depth, up-close, detailed look at athletes on cocaine, on alcohol, on steroids, and, worst of all, on TV.

That's the weekend in the mainstream.

Now, breathe deeply, hold your nose, and immerse yourself in some TV junk sports. This is where the real addicts live.

Here comes The Nashville Network.

Those pea-pickers at TNN have replaced ESPN as the nation's foremost purveyor of forgotten, misunderstood, esoteric and wholly ignored sports. With ESPN into baseball, pro football and college basketball now, it's "How-dee!" to drag racing, tractor pulling and bass fishing from Minnie Pearl and the folks down at the Grand Ole Opry.

With ESPN into baseball, pro football and college basketball now, it's "How-dee!" to drag racing, tractor pulling and bass fishing from Minnie Pearl and the folks down at the Grand Ole Opry.

Start your Sunday evening with 90 minutes of "American Sports Cavalcade," which this week featured the Cajun Nationals drag racing championships held in Erwinville, La., last May. Must have been a production problem.

Then, comes "Inside Racing," with Ned Jarrett and his sidekick Steve Burns, who this week gave us a peek at the building of the Bullseye Barbecue Sauce-Tyson Foods Thunderbird, which we assume is a car.

During the breaks, look out for those hypnotic ads for tires, sparkplugs, the "Whittaker Family Christmas" special, and the new home video "... And They Walked Away," examining the trauma, both to metal and flesh, of all the great drag racing crashes.

Now, relax. It's the "Outdoor News Network," with Sean Foxen, a frontier Dan Rather in flannel. And we're whisked away to Richmond, British Columbia and the Fisherman's Inn Resort, 300 miles north of Vancouver, for some salmon, red snapper, and halibut fishing.

From the land where the set is always on, we're transported to the land where the sun never sets.

"We'll give you tips on how to score in these fish-filled waters."

the guide says.

Don't even think it.

But wait. There's more — from the Prairie Circuit Rodeo Finals at the Lazy E Arena in Guthrie, Okla. Instead of Joe Montana, Lawrence Taylor and Eric Dickerson, we're now treated to cowboys with names like Ote Berry, Bronc Rumford, Puddin' Payne and Spud Whitman.

"I had a real good horse. Old Jugs is as solid as they come. I felt I had a real good ride." That came from bareback bronco riding champion Robert Etbauer. Sound familiar?

Zounds. We find that to go along with our drag racing crashes, we now also can buy a videotape entitled "Bullmania II." Watch out, Hulkster. Only $29.95.

The "Exciting World of Speed and Beauty" comes next. This, basically, is a show about anything that'll go fast and busts all to pieces on impact. One feature was about a man who drove a classic Boss 429 Mustang to work every day.

"What kind of man drives a 900 horse power car to work," a reporter asked.

"One that enjoys the beauty and the power of life," the car owner replied.

Never thought of it that way. The lineup never ends. "Truckin' USA," "Trucks and Tractor Power," "Hidden Heroes," and "Celebrity Outdoors" all follow.

The promo for Celebrity Outdoors shows Johnny Cash and Jonathan Winters, among others. We got singer Skip Ewing, sailing off Oahu. Obviously, someone knows who Skip is.

In between, there were ads for Crane Camshafts and Rancho Suspensions, fake classic cars and models of 1957 Chevys, Alaska tourism and, yes, even Old Milwaukee Beer. That was just to remind us we were still watching sports on TV.

He thought he'd seen everything

By JIM LITKE
AP Sports Writer

Before he saw the columns of advancing Iraqi tanks, before he learned patience at the wrong end of a gun, before everything good on every side of him was sucked into a maelstrom of killing, raping and looting, Jim Calvin thought touring the Arab world as a basketball coach was turning out to be one of the best things that had ever happened to him.

"In 18 months with the Kuwaiti national team, I saw plenty of crazy things," Calvin said, "but most of them were more funny than dangerous."

"We had a game in Damascus (Syria), where everybody smokes and there was such a haze — I remember looking over at their bench at one point and the coach and his assistant were both puffing away — that it felt like we were playing basketball in a pool hall."

"A few months after that, we played in the Saddam championships in Baghdad (Iraq), went down 19-3 against the Iraqis in the final game, pulled ahead with three minutes to go and for the first time ever, beat them."

"But Saddam Hussein got up and walked out of the gym with about a minute left," he recalled in a telephone conversation from Sioux Falls, S.D., where his most recent job, coach of the Continental Basketball Association's Rapid City Thrillers, has dispatched him this past weekend.

"There was no way he was going to put gold medals from his own championship on a team of Kuwaitis and an American coach. I didn't think much about it," Calvin added, "until Aug. 2."

Dawn broke that day like most days in that corner of the world, bright and searing hot. Calvin had just finished walking his dogs and was in his apartment outside Kuwait City when the telephone rang shortly after 5 a.m.

"It was my assistant coach," he said. "He called to let me know that we were being invaded."

Calvin stepped out onto his balcony, then called the U.S. Embassy another 20 or so miles up the road in Kuwait City. For the next few hours, he scurried between his seventh-floor apartment and the ninth-floor rooftop to brief officials on the troops marching inexorably toward the capitol.

"They circled the army base just across the way from us, most of the soldiers in there hardly had time to dress. The Iraqis cut down everybody and everything. Then they started shooting people in the streets, using tanks to crush cars with people still in them...."

"Then, the soldiers started dragging people out of the buildings around us, raping some, shooting others and leaving the bodies out there to rot in the heat.... We decided to stay in our building, most of the time in the apartment, but usually in the basement when the shelling went on.

When they ran out of food, Calvin ventured out to a nearby store. Within minutes, an Iraqi soldier caught him, put a machine gun under his chin and asked where he was from. Calvin answered, after some trepidation, "the United States." The soldier looked dispassionately away, told Calvin his quarrel was only with the Kuwaitis, put down his gun and let him pass.

Soon after that incident, he heard President Bush on the radio hint at retaliation and decided to take his chances somewhere else. So Calvin loaded his wife, one bag and three poodles into a Chevrolet Caprice and took off across the desert for the Saudi Arabian border.

"The whole world was falling down around us. We heard from somebody that the Iraqis had 30,000 troops guarding the border, from somebody else 100,000. When we started out, I apologized to my wife of 29 years for putting her in that spot," Calvin recalled, "and she just said, 'If it's to be, it's to be.'"

The flight to freedom proved no less harrowing than the hiding out, but just as successful. After driving down roads littered with abandoned cars, through a sandstorm and 135-degree heat with the radiator light on the dash illuminated during the entire journey, past dozens of Iraqi tanks, the couple reached Saudi Arabia and eventually made their way back to the States.

Today, 50-year-old Jim Calvin watches the ball bounce in the decidedly less-exotic, but infinitely safer destinations on the CBA schedule. Basketball already has taken him from his boyhood home in Terre Haute, Ind., where he coached high school teams for 14 seasons, to assistants' jobs at Murray State in Kentucky and the University of Arkansas, then to Kuwait and back.

Yet he has this strange feeling: the journey is still a long way from finished.

"About 15 minutes after I took this job, I got a call from an agent about coaching a team in Greece, and 15 minutes after that, my assistant with the Kuwaiti team called me and said most of the team is back together in Qatar and would I be interested in doing that for a while?" Calvin said.

"I told him not right away," Calvin said, "that I'm going to take plenty of time to think about it."

A 'Close' relationship

NEW YORK (AP) — Glenn Close says she's enjoying motherhood and the man in her life, but she's "still not in the marrying mood."

The 43-year-old actress said that she and film producer John Starke "are committed to each other, and I don't need a certificate to say so. I've been married twice and I don't know what good it did for me psychologically."

She and Starke have a 2-year-old girl, Annie Maude, who Close said in the January issue of Ladies' Home Journal "has brought me an incredible amount of sensitivity and I think she's made me a nicer person."

Close starred in "Fatal Attraction."

Taking off the pounds

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Nell Carter, the round star of the new CBS series "You Take the Kids," says she "ate myself into oblivion" when an earlier show didn't make it.

Carter, who has lost 33 pounds in the last few months, said in the Dec. 22 issue of TV Guide, "The TV screen is going to get larger each week as I shrink."

"I intend to keep working at it. I won't say how much I have to lose," Carter said. "I'm not going to set myself up for failure like Oprah Winfrey did. Poor Oprah. I wish the tabloids would leave her alone — but I will say I'm following a sensible diet plan."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

Your social skills will help you advance your career and business interests. The new year brings fresh financial gains. Invest any extra funds. If the chemistry is right between you and a romantic partner, marriage is a distinct possibility next April. The summer finds you busier than ever on the social scene. Family members will be more supportive.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Domestic matters demand your immediate attention. Reassess your holiday plans. Spend some time working with those who are less fortunate. A change of heart will salvage a troubled relationship.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A good day to share funds or tasks. Join others in the public eye. Display the giving side of your nature; doing so is sure to attract favorable notice. Recent financial pressures subside.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): The lines of communication could be tangled today. Be sure you understand what higher-ups expect. A period of quiet meditation shows you the light. A heart-to-heart talk also proves helpful.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Opportunity knocks on your door. Check the fine print before investing in an unusual venture. Give groundless worries the boot. Romance is fantastic!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Showing your displeasure over someone's actions would probably start a ruckus. A sensitive approach will win the hearts of almost everyone. Expose your sentimental side to that special person.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A wish could come true now. You sense who can make good things happen for you. Powerful acquaintances, close friends, a love interest — all support your efforts. Buckle down to work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Other people will fall in with your plans once you share your vision. Act today — tomorrow could be too late! Those in authority will reward innovative thinking. Put your suggestions in writing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Now you must rely on other people to finish what you have started. Let your admirers know exactly how they can help you. Leave nothing to chance where your finances are concerned.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A brilliant business partnership continues to flourish. Love ties grow stronger. You feel confident that you are on the right course. Sail on! Do not be afraid to take chances.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): An important breakthrough is featured today. An acceptable offer could land on the bargaining table. Romance soars. Turn over a new leaf where social affairs are concerned. Limit spending.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be careful not to take anyone for granted today. Someone who feels neglected could change sides. An evening of fun with your co-workers could bolster your spirits. Romance smiles kindly on you!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Fresh financial avenues may be in sight now. A good day for buying and selling. Finish old projects before starting new ones. Mate's temper could flare up.

Bush steps up threats against Saddam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush says a mandate for using military force against Iraq must be fulfilled "right on schedule" unless Saddam Hussein meets a Jan. 15 deadline to withdraw all his troops from Kuwait.

Bush said the Iraqi leader apparently doubts that the United States will use force, and believes instead that this country is too divided to stand behind military action.

"And he's just as wrong as he can be," the president told reporters Monday.

Bush went out of his way to intensify pressure on Saddam to back down in the face of a massive — and still growing — military force aligned against him in the Persian Gulf.

"We've got to prevail," he said.

"I'm not in a threatening mode. I don't think any of us are. We are in a determined mode . . ."

George Bush

"and we will."

Underscoring the impending deadline for Iraq's withdrawal, Bush summoned ambassadors from 28 countries that have sent forces to the Persian Gulf since the Aug. 2 invasion. The United States alone has committed upwards of 430,000 troops.

"None of us wants war but none of us is prepared to accept a partial solution," the president said.

"There can and will be no negotiations for concessions and no rewards for aggression."

Referring to Saddam, Bush said, "I think at some point he will realize that this force, which is overwhelming, that is now being arrayed against him would be devastating. That's what the United Nations stated should happen, that he ought to get out or all available means should be used."

In a decisive vote last month, the United Nations authorized the use of all means necessary to evict Iraq from Kuwait unless it pulls out by Jan. 15. "And I want to see the United Nations resolutions fulfilled right on schedule," Bush said.

Meanwhile, a U.S. Army planner said the service was ordering some retired personnel to active duty for the first time since the 1961 Berlin

Iraqi buildup continues

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Thousands of reservists reported to their army units today in a mass mobilization begun a day after Iraq's rulers declared once again that they would never surrender Kuwait.

"We are ready for the decisive showdown, if thus God wills. But many heads will roll and many thrones will fall," said a statement from the ruling Revolutionary Command Council.

The Defense Ministry on Monday ordered all able-bodied 33-year-old reservists to report for duty by Thursday for short training periods before being assigned to "active duty."

The reservists began reporting today, according to officials at mobilization centers.

President Saddam Hussein said last month that he would call up some 250,000 reservists. Most of the country's 230,000 other reservists had already been activated following the Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Monday's move was Iraq's third major callup of reserves in recent weeks. Men aged 30-32

Elementary school plans program

Stanton elementary will host a Christmas program entitled a "Country Christmas" tonight at 7 p.m. in Stanton high school auditorium.

The program will be based on a western-style theme along with costumes, songs and the story, Texas Night Before Christmas, according to elementary music teacher Rachel Etheredge.

The group will consist of Pre-K through fourth graders singing season holiday music with a western twist. Pre-K will begin the musical with a Christmas favorite "Jingle Bells". Kindergarten will continue the program with "32 feet and Eight Little Trails", and "Randolph the Six-Gun Cowboy".

First graders will serenade the audience with "Santa's Song and Up on the Housetop" with the second grade to perform "Nuttin' For Christmas and Must be Santa".

The program will continue with the third grade singing "Ding-a-Ling the Christmas Bell and Let It Snow". Faculty members will get in the act with "Do You Hear What I Hear and Christmas in Texas". The fourth grade will end the elementary's program with "Grandma's Feather Bed and Sing and Shine", while the audience will close out the event with a finale "Sleigh Ride and Silent Night".

The group will also consist of solos performed by Bobby Haislip, Kassie Huckaby, Michelle Lucas, Daniel Thompson, Jessica Garza, Blaine Smith and Mary Craiker.

Suspect found incompetent

John Michael Martinez, 40, charged with aggravated sexual assault of an 81-year-old woman, was found incompetent to stand trial at this time, by an 118th District Court jury Monday afternoon.

Dr. Ron Cohorn, Big Spring, testified that Martinez, who is being held in Howard County Jail, has not been taking medication prescribed to him. He will be remanded to Vernon State Hospital for treatment, confirmed Judge Bob Moore.

"If and when he's competent to stand trial they'll send him back," Moore said. The jury determined that there is a reasonable probability that he will be competent to stand trial in the future.

Phone service disrupted

Forsan and Garden City residents' Southwestern Bell long distance was temporarily cut off Monday by a wayward post-hole digger, a Southwestern Bell official said. The digger accidentally severed a "toll carrier" — a long distance line — about 1/2 mile south of Lee's Corner, said Linda Clements, public relations officer for the region.

Bank's strength rewarded

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Hanging proudly over the desk of Paul Crosthwait, president of the First National Bank of Stanton, is a plaque awarding the bank an "A+" rating. This marks the third consecutive year the bank has received the award.

"We're all very proud of this honor. It shows how strong and safe our bank is," said Crosthwait. "The safer you are, the better your depositors feel, regardless of government insurance. They know their money is safe."

The award was presented to the bank by Sheshunoff Company, a nation-wide consulting firm from Austin. The company specializes in appraisals of financial institutions and estates and offers various services to help develop financial policy and procedures.

"The Sheshunoff people gather information about banks from the quarterly reports we all must file," he said. "They then compile the information and compare that data with banks the same size nationwide. We're rated in the 97 percentile, which means three of 100 banks the same size as us are stronger."

Crosthwait said each bank is judged according to its capital adequacy, asset quality and earnings and liquidity before the final decision is made by the consulting firm.

"The board of directors

Paul Crosthwait, president of the First National Bank of Stanton, proudly displays the "A+" award the bank recently received.

deserve the credit, by providing the leadership that keeps this bank financially strong," he said. "We employ 18 people and each helps promote an image of friendliness and confidence."

"When you hear all the negative accounts about the savings and loan institutions and other banks, it's nice to know you live somewhere where there's a strong bank," he added.

The First National Bank of Stanton has been serving the Stanton area since February 1906.

Tough safety law wins final approval

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The nation's toughest law protecting users of video display terminals went to a noncommittal Mayor Art Agnos after winning approval from city supervisors, who called it cutting-edge legislation for a high-tech age.

Union leaders and victims of VDT-related injuries cheered when the ordinance was approved 7-4 Monday. The Board of Supervisors approved it 8-1 in a preliminary vote last week.

"I'm ecstatic," said Becky Hogue, a Pacific Bell operator who wears plastic splints on her wrists because of weakness from years of using computer keyboards. "I suffered so much, but now maybe others won't have to go through the same pain."

The Chamber of Commerce opposed the measure, saying its high costs would drive businesses away.

The law would force the city and businesses with 15 or more employees in San Francisco to spend millions to provide safer workplaces for people who use desktop computers at least four hours a day.

Adjustable swivel chairs, glare shields, detachable keyboards, tables with sufficient leg space and special lamps are among items that would be required during the next two years. Violators would face penalties of up to $500 a day.

VDT users would also be allowed 15-minute breaks every two hours, and an advisory committee would monitor information about the health effects of VDT use, including those from radiation.

"This is a message to the nation that this is the next wave of worker safety issues," said Supervisor Nancy Walker, who co-sponsored the ordinance. "It has to start somewhere, and frequently things start at the local level since the federal and the state have not been able to do anything, really."

Agnos said he supports the spirit of the measure but has misgivings about its cost. He has 10 days to act, during which time he plans to meet with business and labor leaders. If Agnos rejects it, the board needs eight yes votes to override his veto.

Commissioners agree to test wells

STANTON — Martin County Commissioners Court on Monday agreed to authorize more drilling to detect underground water at a proposed city-county landfill site, but only after discussing whether running their own landfill would be feasible.

County Judge Bob Deavenport has said he does not see how the landfill can be operated for less than $150,000 a year. Looked at "pessimistically," it could cost between $150,000 and $200,000 a year said City Manager Paul Lively.

It would cost $160,000 to $170,000 a year to have county trash hauled to Midland, according to estimates by a city-county retained engineer and a local trash hauling company. However, Midland officials said they will only accept trash for a year and Lively said Big Spring's commercial rates are too high.

There is no regional landfill in the area, but a 17-county study by the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission is underway to determine regional cooperation; it is not expected to be completed before 1992.

A majority of City Council and Commissioner Court members at a joint-meeting Monday afternoon said they would rather operate their own landfill, because it would give them more control of operational costs and what is accepted. Generators of trash face possible future pollution liabilities, according to Environmental Protection Agency regulations.

Before a unanimous county vote to approve paying as much as half of $20,000 to drill five more holes at the proposed landfill site, Deavenport expressed concern that proposed stringent federal landfill regulations, expected to increase operational and pollution monitoring costs, are not finalized. "I have fear of what may be done down the road," he said.

"Mayor, in light of the present situation, do you feel that the most viable solution is to open a landfill?" Deavenport asked.

"I do," Fryar responded.

Pct. 2 Commissioner Don Tollison said the group should proceed if the authorized drillings will now allow them to get the needed permit to open the landfill. The project could be jeopardized if underground water is found.

Pct. 4 Commissioner E.D. Holcomb pointed out that both the city and county have already spent a substantial amount of money and if they drop the project now, they may never have the option again to open their own landfill. He also said it may be cheaper in the long run to operate their own landfill. "I prefer to try to watch out for our own interests," he said.

Man hospitalized after hit-and-run

SAND SPRINGS — A man who suffered several broken ribs and a collar bone in a hit-and-run accident about 1:30 a.m. Saturday is now in stable condition at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, said an investigating officer.

Dennis Smith was taking his 2-year-old son to the hospital in Big Spring when a stolen 1980 Chevrolet pickup, driven by an unknown man, struck him from behind on Interstate 20, said Texas Highway Patrolman Jim Lasater. The child suffered minor injuries when the 1964 Falcon turned end over end.

"Witnesses that stopped and gathered around saw him leave," Lasater said of the unknown driver. "I guess he was scared."

Meanwhile, another vehicle was reported stolen the same morning in the area, Lasater said. He is still investigating that incident.

The pickup, reported stolen from North American Van Lines in Midland, was reportedly traveling at a high rate of speed, Lasater said. Smith was going 50 mph, he said.

The Falcon, which Smith is restoring, was originally made without seat belts and still does not have any. The law does not require them in cars that came without them.

Mideast

An initial callup of 15 retired Army physician assistants was approved last week, and about 200 more retirees probably will be involuntarily recalled for active duty over the next month, said Lt. Col. Henry H. Hanrahan.

As the Jan. 15 deadline approaches, the Army and Navy have been increasing their deployment of medical specialists and equipment to the gulf area.

Bush said he hoped meetings can be arranged at mutually acceptable dates between himself and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz, and between Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Saddam.

"And if meetings are held," he said, "I want to reiterate publicly what I said inside (to the ambassadors) — namely that what we want to do is impress upon Iraq the consequences of its aggression and the need for all Iraqi forces to leave every square inch of Kuwait."

He said he would not be opposed to Baker and Aziz meeting in a third country to break the stalemate on scheduling. However, he said, "What I'm not going to do is shove these meetings right up against the United Nations deadline."

Bush said, "I'm not in a threatening mode. I don't think any of us are. We are in a determined mode, a mode that he should get out without concession. And Mr. Saddam Hussein, simply do what the world is calling upon you to do — get out."

Bush said Saddam "does not understand the debate in this country" as members of Congress and former military leaders argue that sanctions should be given more time to work before force is used.

"He thinks it means that our country is divided and we cannot go forward to do our part in implementing the U.N. resolutions," Bush said. "And he's just as wrong as he can be."

Aziz had been due in Washington on Monday to meet with the president. But that visit was put off when the two sides could not agree on a date for a return meeting by Baker with Saddam in Baghdad.

Terry Shanks is Construction Foreman for Cap Rock Electric. He has been employed by the co-op since 1963. He has worked most of that time in construction.

Born in Los Angeles, Calif., Shanks has lived in Stanton since the late 40's. He married the former Linda Wells and the couple raised two sons, Billy and Russell. The Shanks have two grandchildren.

As construction foreman, Shanks' responsibilities include supervision of a three-man crew, responsible for building new lines, maintaining existing lines and repairs to damaged lines. The crew replace poles, wires and installs regulators, capacitors and breakers. "It is our responsibility to install all equipment and maintain the lines so they are most effective in getting the work done," Shanks said.

The type of equipment the co-op has acquired in recent years has made a big difference in the construction department. "This advanced equipment makes a lot of difference in the quantity and quality of the work that gets done," he said.

In recent weeks, the construction department has done a lot of work at cotton gins in the service area. "Banks of transformers located at or near gins get cluttered up with lint and other trash. When it is dry, we have no problems and when it rains, we usually have no problems with these banks. But misty weather causes big problems. We work pretty steadily cleaning the lint off transformer banks. At several of our gins, we have put the transformer bank on the ground inside enclosures. That is the ideal solution to the problem," Shanks said.

TAMALA SMITH

Tamala Smith is Billing Coordinator for Cap Rock Electric. Smith coordinates the billing process as it passes through the metering department, data processing and billing and finally, to the mail department.

Married to Todd Smith, a maintenance man for Westex Telephone, Tamala is mother of Ty, seven, and Tasha three. Her parents are Billy and Bonnie Allred.

Tamala has lived in Stanton all her life. She has been employed by the co-op for ten years. During that time, Smith has seen the department become computerized. All bills were once printed and mailed from Austin, but are now done locally.

"We once had to hand-post everything," Smith said. "Now, with our hand-held meter reading devices and computerized billing, we don't hand-post anything."

When Smith came to work for the co-op ten years ago, there were eight workers in the billing department. With advanced technology and the addition of a customer department, that number has decreased to two.

Entomologist helps investigators fight crime

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Flies and maggots can tell investigators when people died and whether they took drugs. They can also help solve cases involving the living.

M. Lee Goff, a University of Hawaii entomologist who runs a Honolulu company called Forensic Entomology Enterprises, said police usually call him to help figure out how long someone's been dead.

But last summer he got a different question: How long had a baby — barely alive and covered with bruises and maggots — been left near a Hawaii lake?

"She was quiet enough that flies had been attracted. Initially, they were attracted to the feces in her diapers," Goff said in New Orleans last week at a conference of the Entomological Society of America.

Based on the maggots' size and other factors, the insect expert estimated the baby had been there 27 hours.

He testified at the trial of the child's mother, Sharon Klafra, 32, who was convicted of attempted murder in September for leaving 16-month-old Heather near the lake in April. The child now lives in a foster home and the mother is in prison.

More and more, Goff said, forensic entomologists are called to testify about abuse to the living as well as about decomposition of the dead. Goff estimated there are about a dozen forensic entomologists nationwide.

"Some of my colleagues have been showing neglect of the elderly," he said. "The nursing home will say, 'Yes, we clean and bathe them regularly,' but the maggots have been sitting there and developing for five or six days."

Their testimony is based on expertise on the life cycles and eating habits of insects that feed on still bodies.

There are about 230 such insects in Hawaii, and nearly twice as many in the mainland United States, he said.

Volunteers comb streets in annual homeless count

BOSTON (AP) — Scores of volunteers climbed through fences into vacant lots strewn with broken glass and searched rat-infested alleys early today in Boston's annual count of the homeless — the nation's only tally of its kind.

Armed with walkie talkies, more than 100 volunteers set out at midnight and combed 35 zones in a count that helps other cities estimate their homeless needs. Another increase in the homeless population was expected this year.

Homeless people encountered by the volunteers were often offered a bed or food. In most cases, the volunteers simply counted the bodies where they found them in subway stations, behind trash bins, on benches and roaming around.

"Hi, how are you? You wanna go to a shelter?" Mayor Raymond Flynn asked a woman curled up in the doorway of an ice cream store. Her puffed up face lay on a pile of possessions.

"No shelter," the elderly woman, named Suzy, replied, gripping her blanket in the relatively mild winter night. Temperatures were in the 30s.

"I see her there every night," said Flynn. "She's mentally ill. She needs medication. You try to get her to go to a shelter and she'll get very, very violent."

Suzy was marked on a chart, just one in the dozen street people he and three volunteers recorded in their zone.

Flynn and other city officials said Boston is the only major city to hit the streets for a head count of its homeless.

Officials combine the count with a survey of hospitals and shelters to calculate Boston's homeless population. The figures, which will be tabulated this week, are used to lobby for money, determine where to build shelters and develop services.

"We really make the promise no one will go without a shelter bed," said Ann Maguire, executive director of Boston's Emergency Shelter Commission, a city office. "This is how we make sure we can accommodate all of them."

In 1989, 3,830 homeless people were documented, an 11 percent increase over the previous year. Currently, $3 million is spent on beds and services for the homeless.

Homeless advocates and city officials said there probably would be an increase in the number of homeless this year.

Maguire said the past four head counts have accurately portrayed the homeless population.

Last year, 128 men and 29 women were found on the street. "If we don't find too many homeless people on the streets, we feel we're successful at sheltering them," Richard Weintraub, director of the city's three shelters.

In a subway station, Flynn and the volunteers found a man in his 30s bundled in a coat and his arms curled around his head asleep at about 1 a.m. on a bench in a passage. Asked if he wanted to go to a shelter, he said, "Leave me alone."

Another man was propped up on a bench sipping coffee, holding a bag from a doughnut shop. Volunteers tried to get him to a shelter, but the man was incoherent.

Other people showed signs of drinking. An intoxicated man was persuaded to enter a homeless shelter.

Flynn's national Task Force on Hunger and Homeless is due to release a major study Wednesday. The mayor said it will show increased demands for things as simple as soup kitchens and bread lines and is likely to show a dramatic rise in the number of mentally ill homeless people.

Flynn, a Boston native who knows many street people by name, covered Zone 13 without the help of a map.

"See these little cots?" Flynn, said pointing to a row of foam rubber mats tucked behind a trash bin not far from the Combat Zone, the city's red light district. "They hide their clothes here, their little goodies."

Landfill

Councilman Ronnie Christian agreed they would want to have control over the landfill. "If we don't pursue this angle now, we'll never get it," he said.

Councilman Lester Baker said they would also face a problem of more trash left on streets and highways if a nearby landfill is not provided. It would "just not be worth it," he said.

The city and county has paid at least $117,000 for preliminary on-site work and engineering fees for the new landfill. Engineer Gary Harris of Parhill, Smith & Cooper Inc., Midland, estimates that it will cost $12,435.50 to drill the five test holes. Unforeseen costs could raise that to $20,000 he said.

The drilling was required by Texas Department of Health officials after one of three 40-foot test holes showed water at about 16 feet. The water is believed to be an isolated pocket.

"I think we will have proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that that water is a pocket. It is a low point," Harris said of the expected results of the five new drillings. "If every one of these holes have water in there, I don't know where we go from there."

Meanwhile, if everything meets TDH standards, officials are hoping that the new landfill can be permitted sometime in the spring. TDH officials said it could take as long as June.
