Visit to Friona Schools Reveals Many Things of Interest; Modern School Plant Doing a Great Work

The writer had the opportunity and privilege of a visit to the Friona high school one day last week, where he was very courteously received by Supt. George A. Heath, and was shown by him through the building.

We are wondering just how many of the patrons of the school have ever taken the time to visit the school while it is in session and how many of them really know just how proud we have a right to be of our high school building, equipment and instructors.

Judging from many remarks we hear from these same patrons there are very few of them who have given themselves the pleasure of such a visit, or have availed themselves of the knowledge of the conditions.

Supt. Heath is careful to instruct the students of the desirability of preserving the clean, new appearance of the building and furnishings, and so thorough has he been in this respect that it is practically impossible to find so much as a pencil mark or a pin scratch on the walls. There are few marks or defacements on the walls in the main corridor, but these were maliciously made by visitors at the Halloween-carnival, who were not members of the student body nor patrons of the school. We deem Mr. Heath as deserving of special esteem for his painstaking care in protecting the building and equipment from such defacements.

In the bookkeeping room we found everything in neat order with a goodly supply of typewriters and adding machines for use of the students in this valuable department of the high school for fitting students for more easily combating the rugged route of a business life.

From the business room Mr. Heath led the way to the study hall which is seated and equipped for the comfort and convenience of at least 70 pupils for preparing their lessons between their recitation periods. A goodly number of students were in the room at the time of our visit, but everything was as quiet therein as if the room had been vacant, while each student was pursuing his student and lesson preparations without interference to or by his neighbor.

The domestic science and home economics rooms were to be seen ample, well constructed and well finished modern equipment for the teaching of these two very essential arts which should be included in the school training of every girl. There were no classes in these rooms at the time of our visit, but there were evidences a plenty that the rooms had recently been in use, though everything was clean and neatly arranged, which showed the capability of the instructor, Miss Gardner, and the careful training her students are receiving.

The clean and tidy appearance of the corridors and floors of the various rooms visited bore evidence of the care devoted to them by the janitor, G. M. Baker, who has charge of the new building. This same care was also evident in the boys' toilet and shower rooms, which leads one to believe that the entire building is thus cared for.

This new building has a more commodious gymnasium than that of the grade school building, and it more efficiently equipped for basketball practice by the local teams in their daily practice. There is also much more seating capacity for the spectators in this than in the older one, and these seats are so arranged and numbered that tickets may be purchased any day preceding a game and the purchaser may rest assured that his seat will be vacant and waiting for him when he arrives at the game. At the time of our visit a game of basketball was in progress between the girls of the grade school and those of the high school in which the H's were winners.

Much more might well be said in compliment of our school and superintendent and his force of able assistants, but time forbids. We do urge, however, that any of the patrons who have not already availed themselves of the privilege of a visit to our school should not fail to do so, assuring them that they will be most heartily welcomed and courteously treated by the superintendent and each of the teachers, either in the high school or the grades.

GRAND JURY RETURNS 17 INDICTMENTS

Grand Jury Room, Farwell, Texas, January 22, 1932.

To the Hon. Reese Tatum, Judge of the District Court:

We, your grand jury, empaneled for the regular January term, 1932, of the District Court of Parmer County, Texas, beg to report to the court as follows:

We have carefully investigated all matters coming to our attention, which appeared to be in violation of the penal laws of this State, occurring within Parmer County. We have examined many witnesses, and investigated a great many different matters, and have returned into court 17 indictments. Others, we have not returned indictments on, as we have been unable to secure sufficient evidence. We have completed our labors, and request that we be now finally discharged.

W. S. McDANIEL, Foreman of the Grand Jury.

Moved Into New Home.

Ernest Houlette last Saturday moved his family into their new home on Summit Avenue at Ninth Street. The home is not yet completed, but Mr. Houlette has a part of it finished and the family is occupying it until the entire building is ready for use. The walls are constructed of concrete blocks and when completed will be a roomy and comfortable dwelling. Mr. Houlette has done all the work of construction himself, with such aid as his family could give him, and at such times as he could spare from his regular employment, and he is to be congratulated on the neat appearance of the building and the progress he has made under the circumstances.

Texas Theatre to Open Again.

It is reported that the local movie theatre, the Texan, which has been closed the past several weeks, will again open its doors to the public on Friday night of next week.

The business has been tied up in litigation, but legal restrictions to its use have been removed and it is again ready for business as soon as arrangements can be made for receiving pictures. O. G. Turner, owner of the building, will operate the show for a time at least. Mr. Turner feels that Friona needs a good picture show and that if it is properly managed should do a paying business.

Union Layman's Meet Sunday.

The next Union Layman's meeting will be held at the Congregational church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock and will be presided over by the chairman, A. S. Curry. The program will begin with the usual congregational singing, to continue 15 minutes and will be followed immediately by the rendition of the following program, as arranged and handed to the Star by F. W. Reeve of the program committee:

Orchestra numbers.
Reading: John White.
Citizenship and the Eighteenth Amendment: Mr. Eubanks.
Sabbath Eve: Congregational ladies' quartet.
Reminiscence: Logan Simpson.
Vocal solo: Mrs. Johnson.
College students' reaction to the Eighteenth Amendment: Mr. Smith.
Song, Yield Not to Temptation: Audience.

Although this program is composed entirely of local talent it promises to be one of unusual interest and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Visiting in Missouri.

Word has been received here by A. M. Strate that his brother, E. J. Strate and family, who departed a few weeks ago, are now sojourning in Missouri. Mr. Strate started from here enroute to New York State, where he expected to purchase a farm and make his home, but they will remain in Missouri visiting relatives until about March 1 before continuing their journey eastward.

When he arrives at their destination in New York Mr. Strate has promised the Star a long letter describing their journey and the country and general conditions in that region, and friends here will be looking forward to the time of this letter with considerable interest.

NOT ENOUGH GUTS

An aged man at the Union Station, Discussed the business sitch-ee-wation; I said that things were mighty bad, And some how or other it made him mad. That aged man, he tapped my knee: "D'ye know what's wrong with things?" said he. "I've been in fights," the old man glared, "And I always got whipped when I was scard. Folks have forgotten how to stand and grin When hard luck swats 'em on the chin. There's too much groanin'—not enough laughs— Too many crepe hangers—too many graphs— It sure don't help a sick man's heart. To think of nothin' but his fever chart. There's too many experts tellin' how come The whole blame world is on the bum. There's too many people with an allbi—I'd rather listen to a darned good lie. As soon as folks quit hangin' crepe You'll see business in darned good shape. I've no use for golf as a game, But I speak the language just the same; There's too few drivers, and too many patts— Plenty of cold feet and not enough guts. You ain't my son, but if you was mine I'd darned soon teach you not to whine." He wasn't cultured and his words were rough, But the old boy seemed to know his stuff. —(Chester, Illinois, Herald-Tribune.)

Cheaper Paving Proves Success In Other States

The letter printed last week in the Star, written by Ben F. Ridge of Duncan, Oklahoma, has occasioned considerable favorable comment as to a possible solution of our street improvement move.

There is no disputing the question that our streets are badly in need of some kind of treatment that will give us a smooth and firm surface and one that will do away with the mud nuisance and at the same time not need to be done over every few weeks or months. Friona people will surely herald with joy the promotion of a plan that will give us such a street surface at a price which we can afford to pay.

To this end the Star is pleased to offer the following type of paving which has been found both cheap and durable in many parts of the country, and which may be worthy of consideration by those in charge of the work of street improvement. The article is taken from The Manufacturer and Industrial News Bureau. The Star does not go so strong on this kind of information, but this article seems worth while and is as follows:

There is naturally a certain amount of question as to the durability of the inexpensive roads of asphaltic type which have come into favor in many states.

Here is a case where practice speaks better than theory. Geo. Clow, engineer of Gratiot County, Michigan, in commenting on road-mix construction, said: "If sufficient motor vehicle traffic is had immediately after construction to give early compaction, it will stand any kind of traffic that complies with the laws of the State of Michigan." In a recent article A. H. Hinkler, state superintendent of maintenance, Indiana, says, "This type of surface fills a missing link in many road programs and it has come to stay. It can be financed in places where a more expensive pavement could not be built. The bituminous road pavement type is dustless, will carry an unlimited amount of light, high speed traffic and even much heavy traffic when built on a good base."

The most remarkable fact about these new surfaces is that they cost four or five thousand dollars a mile to build, where the highest type surfaces cost up to $40,000 a mile. Their maintenance is likewise, as a rule, appreciably below that of the latter. It is not an exaggeration to say that these new developments in road building have proven a boon to states which badly need good roads, particularly in farming districts that were in despair as to how to build them without swelling the tax load to the bursting point.

Quarterly Tea.

On Thursday evening of next week, February 4, the ladies of the Congregational church Aid society will hold their regular quarterly tea in the church basement, to which they invite every body.

To Fort Worth to School.

Ralph Roden who has been assisting his brother, J. R., at the City Drug Store, departed early in the week for Fort Worth where he will enter a school of pharmacy.

Mr. Roden has attended this school before and goes back to complete his course, after which he will become a full-fledged registered pharmacist and will very likely return to Friona to again assist in the work at the City Drug Store.

Horseshoes Get Credit In Fast Farwell Game

The Friona Chiefs journeyed over to Farwell Tuesday night and engaged the Farwell quintette in one of the most interesting games of the season, which resulted in a score of 18 to 19 in favor of the Friona boys.

The victory over the Farwell team was most consoling to the Chiefs and most gratifying to their supporters among the Friona fans, owing to the fact that in their last two games the Chiefs had gone down in defeat before the Happy Jacks from Happy and the boys from Farwell, both games having been played on the Friona court.

There is also more reason for rejoicing in the fact that the local boys had to overcome a setback of nearly thirty points which they lost in the game at Farwell, which proves, although their margin of victory was very small in this last game, that they have made a wonderful come-back and we are proud of them for this achievement.

We are firm believers in the theory of "cause and effect" and really believe there is no effect without its cause, and it appears that there is a real cause for this wonderful come-back which the boys accomplished, in the fact that each one of the Chiefs carried with him in the car on the way over to Farwell a fair-sized horse-shoe.

Basketball Monday Night.

As was announced last week in the Star, there will be a game of basketball here between the teachers of masculine persuasion and the town boys team on Monday night, February 1, at the high school gymnasium.

In addition to the game above when they shall go to the polls game between the lady teachers and a team composed of lady members of the P. T. A., which game will be played on the same evening and at the same place. In other words, it will be a double-header, and basketball fans will truly get the worth of their money on this occasion, and the money will all be devoted to a worthy purpose for the good of the school, to be expended under the auspices of the P. T. A.

You are asked not to forget this date and are urged to come out and enjoy an evening of good wholesome pleasure and at the same time assist these people in putting over some really good things for the school. Time of game, 7:30 sharp.

Do YOU LET THE "ROSY" PROMISES OF NEIGHBORING TOWN MERCHANTS BLIND YOU TO THE WELFARE OF YOUR COMMUNITY?

Had you ever stopped to think how handy it is to live in a town where you can buy right at home practically everything one needs? One of our citizens was needing some sweet clover seed and was dreading the trouble of sending out an order to a seed house—somewhere—when he met a local seed dealer who laid the seed right at his door. No trouble at all. Cheap, too. Try it. Trade at home and save time and money.

County Federation of Clubs Elects Mrs. Reuben T. Gischler President for Coming Year

Evangelistic Services This Week.

Evangelistic services will be conducted in the school auditorium during each night next week, beginning Sunday night January 31. These services will be conducted by Evangelist J. F. Anderson, under auspices of the Adventists church, who comes recommended as a public speaker of unusual merit, having a complete knowledge of the subject matter of his discourses.

Evangelist Anderson will illustrate many of his discourses by the use of lantern slides, of which he has over $500 worth of views, $600 worth of which will treat on the subject of his initial discourse, which will be entitled, "Creation or Evolution". The remainder of this large collection of slides will deal with the topics to be used on the other evenings of the week, a list of which follows:

Sunday evening, Creation or Evolution; Monday, The Coming Man of Destiny; Tuesday, Nearing the End of the Long, Long Trail; Wednesday, 100 years in No Man's Land, the binding of Sata; Thursday, Rising and falling of the Nations, will America Stand; Friday, The Book that never grows old; how much of the Bible is done away with and how much is for us today; Saturday, From Eden unto Eden by way of the Cross.

Each of these discourses will be absolutely free to the public and all are invited and urged to come and enjoy the mental feasts that the evangelist has in store. It will be a veritable Bible chautauqua, setting forth the Bible and the Bible only.

SHERIFF HALL ANNOUNCES

In this issue of the Star will be found the announcement of Sheriff W. W. Hall, who asks for the due consideration of the people when they shall go to the polls to select their candidates this summer.

Mr. Hall has given of his very best effort to serve the people efficiently in his official capacity during the present term and has stood ready to go at a moment's notice at the call of his people, whenever and wherever his official services were needed, and has been always on the alert to intercept violators of the law and to interfere in their plans.

In addition to his personal services he has maintained a force of conscientious and fearless deputies throughout the county to assist him in his program of law enforcement, and on his merits as an official of the people he asks your due consideration and suffrage.

Who Will Win?

Word comes to the Star office to the effect that the Lazbuddy basketball team is in a fair way to win the honors as champion of the Parmer County basketball tournament.

It appears that this team has defeated each team in the county with the exception of Farwell, and that they held it to a close score.

The Friona Chiefs had made a good record throughout the season until they met the Farwell boys, when it seemed that they went "blue" entirely and failed to give anything but the poorest account of themselves. It is hoped, however, that the boys will come back to their own at the next game with Farwell. This is written before the game Tuesday night of this week and an account of the result of this game will be given in another column of this issue of the Star.

No Zero in Kansas.

A letter from Mrs. Hattie E. Denholm, of Tongonoxie, Kansas, states that they have had very little snow in that state this winter and no zero weather. She further states that grass there is quite green, but that times are as bad there as in most places.

Mrs. Denholm owns a tract of land a mile north of Friona and is therefore interested in conditions in the Friona country. She is also a reader of the Friona Star.

Attended Federation Meeting.

MODERN FURNISHINGS MAKES FARM HOMES MORE ATTRACTIVE

While the rugged, sturdy farm home of the 19th century had a charm of its own, modern equipment makes the present farmhouse a far more pleasant place in which to live. This is the opinion of M. S. Winder, executive secretary, American Farm Bureau Federation.

"Furnishings of moderate price, selected with care and arranged for the greatest beauty, now adorn most farm rooms," Mr. Winder said. "Bleak parlors drove many families into the kitchen in former years, but interesting living rooms which are both comfortable and useful have supplanted them. Twentieth century efficiency which pervades the business world has invaded the home in both city and countryside."

Mr. Winder, member of a sub-committee of the National Committee on Wood Utilization of the Department of Commerce, which sponsored a recent booklet, "Furniture, Its Selection and Use," feels that there is an increasing farm interest in the subject of home planning and furnishing. He cited the use of this bulletin by 1400 home demonstration agents of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, as proof of his contention.

"Because of the deep desire for real facts, together with the many opportunities now offered rural home-makers, you will find most of the women on our farms being informed on home furnishing and decoration," he pointed out. "They have found that the time and energy spent in acquiring knowledge of wise selection and good arrangement is well expended; that pleasing homes attract interesting people and that families reflect the warmth and charm of their surroundings."

Men and women of the farms appreciate this booklet, because it helps them to secure comfortable, correctly furnished homes, satisfying to their artistic senses and their needs.

"Furniture, Its Selection and Use" can be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, at Washington, D. C., or from district offices of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, in principal cities. It sells for 20 cents a copy. The National Committee on Wood Utilization has prepared a study course based on the bulletin, which it will supply to leaders of groups which care to study the subject.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Hopkins were called to Taylor Thursday of last week by the sudden illness and death of his mother.

Seen On the Screen at the Star

Those who delight in the acting of Greta Garbo and Ramon Navarro will have an opportunity to see them Thursday and Friday of this week in one of the outstanding pictures of the year, "Mata Hari".

Buck Jones, a favorite with all who delight in thrilling westerns mixed with comedy, comes Saturday for a matinee and evening performance on the screen in "Ridin' for Justice".

Two real stars of first magnitude, Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery, come with a new plan of picture for Monday and Tuesday's program in "Private Lives". It is fore-cast as one of the laughiest witty plays of the past year.

Charlie Ruggles, who has the habit of doing the best acting in any picture in which he plays no matter who the star is supposed to be, comes Wednesday and Thursday of next week with Vivienne Osborne in a picture whose title just makes you think of Ruggles' way of showing off, "Husband's Holiday". You know it is going to be a real entertainment, not heavy moral doses, perhaps, but with the jollity that brightens up people and makes them realize it's a good world to live in.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

January 31.
JESUS FEEDS THE MULTITUDE

John 6:1-13, 48-51.

1. After these things Jesus went away to the other side of the sea of Galilee, which is the sea of Tiberias.

2. And a great multitude followed him, because they beheld the signs which he did on them that were sick.

3. And Jesus went up into the mountain, and there he sat with his disciples.

4. Now the passover, the feast of the Jews, was at hand.

5. Jesus therefore lifting up his eyes, and seeing that a great multitude cometh unto him, saith unto Philip, Whence are we to buy bread, that these may eat?

6. And this he said to prove him; for he himself knew what he would do.

7. Philip answered him, Two hundred shillings' worth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one may take a little.

8. One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto him,

9. There is a lad here, who hath five barley loaves, and two fishes; but what are these among so many?

10. Jesus said, Make the people sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand.

11. Jesus therefore took the loaves; and having given thanks, he distributed to them that were set down; likewise also of the fishes as much as they would.

12. And when they were filled, he saith unto his disciples, Gather up the broken pieces which remain over, that nothing be lost.

13. And they gathered them up, and filled twelve baskets with broken pieces from the five barley loaves, which remained over unto them that had eaten.

14. I am the bread of life.

15. Your fathers ate the manna in the wilderness, and they died.

16. This is the bread which cometh down out of heaven, that a man may eat thereof and not die.

17. I am the living bread which came down out of heaven; if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever; yea and the bread which I will give in my flesh, for the life of the world.

Golden Text: Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to us shall not hunger, and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.—John 6:35.

Time: April, A. D. 29, in the third year of Christ's public ministry. Place: The Plain of Butaiha, southwest of Bethsaida, on the north-east shore of the Sea of Galilee. Parallel Passages: Matt. 14:13-21, Mark 6:30-46, Luke 9:10-17.

Lesson Connection.

John records only the beginning of the year A. D. 28, the second year of Christ's ministry, mentioning our Lord's attendance on a feast at Jerusalem, describing the healing at the Pool of Bethesda, and reporting a wonderful discourse made at that time. All of the remaining events of that year are related in the synoptic Gospels and so are omitted by John. These include the definite calling of the twelve disciples, the Sermon on the Mount, and many miracles and parables. The early events of A. D. 29 are also omitted by John for the same reason—the second rejection at Nazareth, the sending forth of the Twelve, and the death of John the Baptist. This brings us to the great miracle of the feeding of the five thousand. Though all the other Gospels report it fully (see Parallel Passages, Matt. 14:13-21, Mark 6:30-46, Luke 9:10-17), John breaks thru his rule and also relates it, in order to set down the important discourse on the Bread of life, which Jesus gave in connection with it, and which John alone reports.

Sea of Galilee.

"Jesus went away to the other side of the Sea of Galilee." "The other side." From the western side on which he had been at work, i. e., the eastern side. "Which is the sea of Tiberias." The city of Tiberias, on the western shore of the lake, was built in Christ's lifetime by Herod Antipas, the ruler of Galilee, in honor of the Roman Emperor Tiberias, after whom it was named. The name being also transferred to the Sea of Galilee. This sea was called in the Old Testament the Sea of Chinnereth, and also, in New Testament times it was called the Lake of Gennesaret, after a plain of that name to the west of the lake. It is thought that Christ withdrew his disciples to the east of the lake because they had just returned from an evangelistic tour and he wanted to confer with them quietly and also because they were all in need of rest. Also, the news of the execution of John the Baptist had just come, and Jesus and his disciples may have sought safety in retirement.

Jesus, the Great Teacher.

"And there he sat with his disciples." As we read the Gospels thoughtfully, we come into a clearer idea of the school which the Master conducted for the benefit of his disciples during the three years of his companionship with them. Never had men such a teacher and such a wonderful opportunity. It is not strange that crude as they were at the start, they became powerful leaders of men, and some of them developed marvelous mental and spiritual powers. Nor are we to forget that the great Teacher is still conducting this matchless school for his followers, and still invites them often, as he invited the Twelve, "Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest awhile" (Mark 6:31). The chief of our instructive periods in the school of Christ is the daily reading of the Bible, followed by earnest private prayer.

A Multitude Followed Jesus.

"And seeing that a great multitude cometh unto him." Thus for the second time that day his privacy was invaded. Vast numbers of Jews assembled in Jerusalem every year at the passover, coming from the most distant regions. The pilgrims usually traveled in huge companies, for the sake of protection and good fellowship, and one of these bands, hearing of the presence near by of the famous teacher and miracle-worker, hastened by a common impulse to seek him out. "Saith unto Philip, Whence are we to buy bread, that these may eat?" Matthew, Mark and Luke complete the beautiful picture. Our Lord was moved with compassion toward them. He saw the great, seeking crowd as sheep without a shepherd.

Jesus Saw the Need.

The Pitying Christ saw the need. It was the time of the Passover, about the middle of April in the year 29, and many persons were on the way or preparing soon to go to Jerusalem to observe it. So it was that late in the afternoon the great multitude around Jesus was yet increasing, and among the disciples alarm was felt as to what would become of this foodless, shelterless crowd at nightfall. Jesus demanded that they should be fed and asked Philip, a native of the neighborhood, where food could be found. The object of the inquiry was not information; for Jesus had already determined upon the course he would pursue. Philip responded that hardly a mouthful of bread for everyone could be secured with two hundred shillings.

The Small Boy and His Lunch.

Inquiry was made by the disciples as to the amount of food that was available, and the meager quantity was reported to Jesus by Andrew. A small boy had a very small amount of provisions; five barley loaves and two small fishes. Barley bread was cheap and coarse, and the loaves made of it were small. Brodus says that they resembled the "hock-cakes" of this country, and Deems says they were about the size of ordinary griddle-cakes or buck-wheat cakes. The fishes were also small. Eidersheim informs us that they were generally dried or pickled fish eaten with bread, like our sardines or the pickled herring of Holland or Germany. So the boy had only a boy's meal; yet here were more than five thousand people to be fed.

An Amazing Miracle.

At the bidding of Christ the first thing done was the orderly arrangement of the multitude. They were divided by the disciples into companies of fifty and a hundred and commanded to sit down on the abundant grass in that locality. About five thousand men thus seated themselves; the women and children far less numerous no doubt, were placed separately. And now before them stood Jesus with that scanty stock of food in his hands. After giving thanks, he distributed with the aid of the disciples to all as much as they wanted. As to the precise moment the miracle was wrought, Hovey supposes that Jesus broke the bread partially and that the disciples carried on the process as they gave to each one his portion of the bread, meanwhile increasing as they continued to break and distribute it. So the hunger of everyone was satisfied.

Jesus Teaches Economy.

Christ looked after the fragments. The liberality that abundantly supplied the need of a hungry multitude was linked with an economy which took care of the fragments. These, according to Brodus, were not crumbs made after the eaters, but a surplus of the pieces into which Jesus and the disciples had broken the food. Mark informs us that pieces of fish were included in the fragments, but since John mentions only the remnants of the barley bread, we conclude that the surplus of bread was greater than that of fish. Each of the Twelve may have supplied himself with a basket, and all of these were filled and doubtless kept for use. A basket was "the ordinary furniture of the traveling Jew, to carry his food, lest he should be polluted by that of the people through whose territory he passed".

The Lesson of the Miracle.

Christ taught the lesson of the miracle. First, he declared that he is the Bread of Life which means that he is the true and only substance and nourishment of the soul. In the next place, he drew a sharp contrast between the physical and the spiritual; on the one hand, the manna in the wilderness though recognized by wandering Israel as bread from heaven, was yet unable to keep them from dying; and on the other, the Bread of Life, the Living Bread which in the person of Christ came down from heaven and can be appropriated through faith.

"We feed on Christ whenever in any way, by any experience, we draw near to him and he to us. The vigorous metaphor of eating flesh and drinking blood was the symbol of the most intimate relationship."—Dean George Hodges.

Baptist Church Notes.

There were 105 present at Sunday school, 91 at B. Y. P. U. and a somewhat larger crowd at the preaching service. During the general assembly period of the B. Y. P. U. Mrs. Highhills' Sunbeams presented a short program of unusual merit and interest, as follows: Calvin Applewhite, announcer; Gertrude Short recited a part of the First Psalm; Glenn Odum gave a reading, after which Dorothy York sang, "My Mother's Bible".

For the morning sermon the pastor read the first 21 verses of the third chapter of the Gospel according to St. John, and preached on the subject, "The New Birth", taking for his text the words of Jesus, when he said: Verily, verily, I say unto thee, except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. Asserting that regeneration is necessary for salvation and that it is, so far as salvation is concerned, as necessary for the best of men as well as for the worst of men, it was shown that the natural, unregenerated man cannot comprehend spiritual truth; that the unsaved man will admit that Jesus was a great teacher, and that he came from God, as Nicodemus did, but that he falls short of the truth that Jesus was God. It was stated that regeneration is not reformation of the old sinful nature of man, but rather a creative act of God in the person of the Holy Spirit, that regeneration is not a profession of faith, for the Pharisees professed to have faith. It was stated that regeneration is necessary because the carnal (fleshly) mind is at enmity with God and that regeneration is needed to fit a person for heavenly fellowship, for the physical life fits only for a physical earthly existence.

The subject of the evening sermon was "What is it to be saved?" The text was taken from Acts 16:31, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." Other passages of scripture were quoted as: If thou wilt confess with thy mouth, the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thy heart that God has raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved, and "It shall come to pass that those who call on the name of the Lord Jesus Christ shall be saved." The question was raised why God saves men at all, and it was shown from the scriptures that it is because God hath not appointed men to wrath; that the saved are God's gift-out of the world to Jesus, his beloved Son; and that the saved are purchased by the blood of Jesus. It was further shown that the saved are those who God, as a great magnet, draws to the Saviour, and that salvation is not a result of man's faith in himself, but in God and in Jesus Christ, his Son; that to be saved is to be preserved to the end, to be ministered to by the angels, and to have safe escort at the cessation of this life to the glory world in the presence of Jesus our Redeemer.

NEW YORK HAS NO BREAD-LINES

A press dispatch this week carries the story that for the first time in years New York City does not have its long lines of ragged men and women waiting in line for a bowl of soup and piece of bread. They are not there.

A municipal lodging house with a capacity of 14,000 has never been full this winter and the average number who apply each night for a place to sleep does not reach but around 6,000.

It's Got To Be Good To Be Advertised

All the king's horses . . . and all the king's men can't make a success out of a bad product. No amount of advertising will create a market for it. The more it's advertised, the more its defects become known.

But a good product well advertised grows as swiftly and naturally as a healthy plant. People try it and like it. They tell others. They like it. Soon that product is found everywhere . . . and its name, spread abroad by advertising, —is on every tongue.

When you see something widely and consistently advertised, you can be pretty sure it's well worth having. If it weren't . . . if it didn't represent an honest and worthy value . . . the maker couldn't afford to advertise it.

Look over the advertisements in this paper. Some of these names you know. Others, perhaps, are new comers, potential friends bringing some new comfort or convenience. But all are entitled to your trust . . . all are here because they have something real to contribute to your advantage . . . your service . . . your happiness.

If I Don't Pay My Taxes—

The schools may shut down.

The State cannot pay the full per capita distribution because, like the local school tax, it depends on MY payment.

Banks cannot advance further money to schools against unpaid taxes.

It is my personal duty to pay up—even though it hurts.

Thoughtful citizens in some localities have organized "Pay Your Taxes" clubs. Occasionally larger taxpayers are advancing half or all they owe, long before due date.

After all of us have paid who can, there yet will be left enough unpaid taxes that schools will have a struggle.

I will start now to plan how I can do "my bit".

By paying before February 1, I will save 15 per cent on 1930 taxes, 22 per cent on 1929 taxes, and 28 per cent on 1928.

One major cause of woman's suffrage was man's insanity.

Did you find the novel I loaned you interesting?

I did, but not so interesting as the letter someone left in it as a book marker.

We wonder why Conway Frost arrives at school so early.

Lee Euler (ordering dinner): I'll take ham and eggs.

Waitress: How do you like your eggs?

L. E.: Just fine.

Mr. Stevens' Scotch blood induced him to marry a blonde so that he would always have a light overhead.

Jarrett: Do you remember when a girl was proud to have a wasp-like waist?

Armstrong (just after divorce): I ought to remember it; that was when I got stung.

Lazbuddy, Jan. 18.—Prof. Wayne C. Eubanks announced himself a candidate for mayor on the Socialist ticket yesterday.

We wonder what Conway Frost, Ray Landrum, Clifford Boatman, Rusty Loflin and Clifford Crow said when Coach Stevens asked them what time they went to bed Saturday night.

Mr. Crow: Has that young man who is calling on you given you any encouragement?

J. C.: Oh, yes, last night he asked me if you and mother were agreeable to live with.

Lee Euler blew himself to sleep the night he was in Amarillo by trying to blow out an electric light.

Miss Gardner: Ervin, why do we use soap?

Ervin Welch: That's what I'd like to know.

Cop: Hey, what are you doing with that red lamp?

Rusty Loflin: I found it. Some fool had left it back there where the road was washed out.

Chieftians Enter Tournament.

The Chiefs made the longest trip of the season last Friday when they went to Lubbock to enter the tournament in which thirty teams participated. The boys had a good time in spite of the fact that their first game was lost.

The Chiefs played the Morton five Friday evening with a score of 20-16. The Chiefs had the leading score for the first three quarters, but in the last quarter their opponents began to shoot long ones and got in the lead to win. Although the Chieftians were not victorious they carried away two prizes, one to Russell Loflin for the best built man, the other to Coach Stevens for bringing his team the longest distance.

Big Spring took the finals by defeating the Wilson five, and the Monroe team.

Health Hints

On Taking Care of Children.

The past decade has witnessed an ever widening interest in the field of child care—in preventative pediatrics. Parents, teachers and nurses are noting the need for more intensive study and correction of physical abnormalities in childhood.

It is reported that in New York City the public school system with an enrollment of more than one million children under trained guidance during a large part of the day, offers a splendid opportunity to put into practice on a broad scale our accumulated knowledge of physical and mental hygiene.

Already much has been accomplished. Pre-school vaccination against smallpox and toxin-antitoxin for immunization against diphtheria have become part of the regular school program. The inauguration this year of a new system consisting of medical examinations by physicians, each taking special parts and working together during the same period is a distinct improvement over the old method.

The development of the special small classes for the handicapped children, open air classes for the anemic and markedly undernourished, the mentally defective, the poor visioned and the physically crippled have helped to alleviate the disabilities of many children. In some instances complete restoration of health has been accomplished.

Good health does not come by good luck. It is a thing to be gained and when gained held. Throughout our lives as individuals and as communities, we have to contend with the enemies of health.

The yearly loss of happiness and wealth due to disease is greater than any other cause and most of it can be prevented by human effort and a determination to obey the laws which will prevent the spread of disease.

Special Care of Sick Child.

A sick child is usually a restless child who needs the best care that a mother and home nurse can provide. Many mothers who live far away from doctors and nurse service are called upon to nurse their children of minor illnesses, and alertness and efficiency are needed to cope with such situations.

Cleanliness, comfort and cheerful surroundings are three essentials to nursing sick children. A daily bath warmed to body temperature is necessary for cleanliness. It should be given in the morning after the child's breakfast has digested. The room temperature should be about 72 degrees and the patient should be wrapped in a clean warm blanket after the clothing has been removed.

In giving a bath, bathe only a portion of the body at a time, drying and covering it again so there may be no danger of chill. Watch the common cold, it may prove an uncommonly serious matter, it might be a forerunner of a much more serious respiratory pneumonia.

It must be recognized that colds are infectious and contagious. The best method of protection for both sick and well is for the patient with a cold to go to bed and for the hands to be washed many times a day to remove infection which otherwise might be passed on to someone.

We try to remove all painful conditions from little people, conditions which cause physical pain, mental pain or irritability. We find irritable, fretful children needing glasses, with neglected teeth, barely able to breathe because of adenoids or diseased tonsils—children so affected have just cause to be irritated.

We try also to remove the physical handicaps which are painless, many children have them—Bright's disease, tuberculosis, anemia or goiter. These diseases will creep on unnoticed is why a physical examination should be given every six months. A child's condition should never be spoken of before him as it tends to produce neurosis. Mental hygiene also should not be overlooked—the aims and purposes of which are to prevent delinquency and mental breakdown so that a child's life may go on under the most favorable circumstances.

Homeland Club News.

The women of the Homeland club met with Mrs. George Hayfield Thursday, December 21. The weather was cold and but 13 women had the courage to attend. Our subject for discussion was marketing and buying. We studied together:

Where does our money go?

Marketing our farm products. Economy stunts, and what a systematic marketing system will mean to our county.

fer, cream, eggs, vegetables, poultry, etc., that goes from the farms each year to the cities, and farmers are beginning to realize no profit from our products, although the world must be fed, we hope to have a cooperative marketing system to sell through in the future that will help us realize a fair profit on our farm produce.

The club had a parliamentary law drill. Mrs. Preston acted as our parliamentarian. We also had a demonstration by Mrs. Grady Hall on how to make beautiful crepe paper flowers.

Twenty women reported the number of cans of food canned in 1931. There were 8,530 quarts of fruit and vegetables canned. We are to have a pantry contest this year, and most everyone has joined. We finish our year's work by making a tour of the homes of the members inspecting each pantry.

We hope by this demonstration to learn more thoroughly the live-at-home method.

Sunday school had the usual number of attendants and the classes held the election for teachers for the ensuing year which resulted as follows: Mrs. Kinsley, Misses Margaret Goodwine and Orma White, primary teachers; Mrs. Fred White, intermediate; John White, high school class; Mrs. Goodwine, adult class. The members of the young people's class will use various members of their class as teachers during the year. Otho Whitefield was chosen as teacher for the first quarter.

Hurd Whitefield served as leader for the devotional part of the church services, and the church program was given by the Christian Endeavor Society, the subject being "Leadership". Talks on this subject were given by Junior Conway, Weldon Whitefield, Charles Reeve and Otho Whitefield, and a reading on the theme of "Leadership" was rendered by Orville Whitefield.

The program was well received by the congregation, and everybody complimented the work done by these young men, and the society in its willingness to do and the splendid quality of the work done.

For next Sunday Dr. A. P. McElroy has consented to favor us with another of his weekly interesting and instructive talks. His theme will be "The known, the unknown and the unknowable." The doctor has given these matters a vast amount of conscientious thought and his talk promises to be one of unusual interest, to which the general public is cordially invited.
