New Rates Will Afford Volume of Lake Water

Baird water users will now be able to buy 10,000 gallons of water from the new lake supply for only $3.80. Double that amount of water used in a single month will cost just $5.80.

The new water rate, which will go into effect June 20th, has been based on a sliding scale to insure the amount necessary to operate the system at the low demand period, and give Baird residents the benefit of high volume usage during the peak consumption period. The first 4,000 gallons will cost $2; the next 3,000 gallons will cost 35 cents per thousand; the next 3,000 gallons 25 cents per thousand; and 20 cents per thousand thereafter.

A $5 connect charge will be made for water and sewer service to new customers. After service has been disconnected and the customer wishes to again become a sewer or water user, a $1 fee will be charged.

By comparison to other West Texas towns, Baird has probably the lowest water rate of them all. Sweetwater's rate is $2.25 for the minimum of 4,000 gallons at a much higher scale for volume usage. Other nearby cities have much higher rates. Baird's new water rate is quite an improvement of rates paid here in the past. For the past several summers, we paid two dollars per thousand for water hauled in. During the winter months, the water field produced just enough water for the town to get by with, and the rate was 50 cents per thousand.

Immediately after the wedding, a reception was held at the parsonage.

The bride received a degree from McMurry College May 22.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Baird high school, is truck foreman for highway construction.

The newlyweds are making their home in Abilene.

Credit Union to Start June 1

In an advertisement this week the Baird Credit Association is setting out some of the ways it can be of help to those who value a good credit rating. The association will go into operation next Friday, June 1. Files are being created to show the paying habits of those who buy on credit and credit customers of local firms are being asked to make satisfactory arrangements on delinquent accounts.

The association is making it clear that just because a customer owes a past due account does not necessarily mean that he is a poor credit risk. If the business firm knows the customer is making an effort to pay his past due accounts, the firm will bear with him and assist him in every way to see him through. The merchant does feel like the customer should come to him and have an understanding as to the payments of such delinquent bills.

The customer makes his own rating, according to the rules of the association, and member firms of the credit association prefer to be helpful rather than to report anyone as a poor credit risk or slow pay. Those who owe accounts should make satisfactory arrangements before June 1 to start their credit record on a clean sheet.

Baird Firms Hold Trades Day To Show Their Appreciation

To show appreciation for their business, Baird merchants are announcing Trades Day, to be held in Baird every Saturday with bargains, fun and free prizes galore. To realize the full benefit of Trades Day in Baird, residents of this area should spend the whole day in town because there will be something going on from early until late at local places of business. Some of the stores are advertising special items of merchandise at low prices as an inducement for more people to trade at their stores. Look over this week's Baird Star and read the bargains that are offered at the various stores.

Music will be furnished by Pop Whitaker and His Younguns beginning at 4:30 p. m. this Saturday, and some fine entertainment will be provided for everyone. Mr. Whitaker is the originator of the Musical Jam-boree in Baird, and many of the same musicians will be on hand this Saturday to help entertain the crowds on the street. E. O. Parsons has agreed to furnish his sound truck for the easy listening of people on the street, and Randall Jackson will man the microphone. Everyone who wishes to take part on this musical program is cordially invited to do so. Whether it be a recitation from a child or a musical number on a harmonica by an adult, all are welcome to be on the program. (Speaking of the harmonica, there have been a number of requests that Mrs. Cora Work play her harmonica over the loud speaker for the crowd this Saturday.)

There has been some talk about holding a public auction in connection with the Trades Day feature. Such an auction might become valuable to all who make use of it. Nearly everyone has something around the house that is not doing them any good. To offer it at auction might be a good trade for them and the person who bought it. This would be a mighty fine way for everybody to trade on Trades Day.

Local merchants are determined to make Trades Day worth while to all who come to Baird on Saturday. It is their way of showing appreciation for their customers, and not only for the business you are doing with them now, but for business all through the past.

Fishing Laws Established For Baird's New Lake

The Baird Star received the following copy of a House Bill setting out the laws governing fishing in Baird's new lake. Rep. L. R. Pearson introduced the bill which has been passed. All fishing in the lake is closed at present and will not be opened until recommended by the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission.

AN ACT regulating fishing in Lake Baird, Callahan County, Texas, providing a penalty for violation of this act; containing saving and repealing clauses and declaring an emergency.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. The provisions of this Act shall apply only to Lake Baird in Callahan County, Texas.

The use of trotlines is limited to one trotline per person, or not more than two trotlines per party of two or more persons. No person shall place in the waters of said lake any seine, net or other device or trap for taking or catching fish; provided, however, it shall not be unlawful to use a minnow seine of not more than twenty feet in length for the purpose of taking minnows for bait.

Section 3. It shall be unlawful for any person to take from the waters of Lake Baird minnows of any and all species commonly used for fish bait, when such Section 7. It shall be the duty of the game and fish wardens and all peace officers to enforce the provisions of this Act; and any such officer is authorized to arrest without warrant any person found by him in the act of violating any provision of this Act.

Section 8. Any person who violates any provision of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction therefor, shall be fined not less than Ten Dollars ($10.00) nor more than Two Hundred Dollars ($200.00) and shall automatically forfeit his fishing license or right to purchase a fishing license and right to fish in the public waters of this State for a period of one year from date of conviction. Each fish taken or possessed in violation of any provision of this Act shall constitute a separate offense.

Section 9. If any section, sentence, clause or phrase of this Act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such unconstitutionality shall have no effect on the validity of the remaining portion of this Act, and it is hereby declared that this Act shall nevertheless have been passed without such section, subsection clause or phrase so declared unconstitutional.

NAVY SEEKING WOMEN TO FILL RESERVE QUOTAS

NEW ORLEANS — The Navy is seeking 100 women to become officers to fill active duty naval reserve quotas during the coming year, Eighth Naval District headquarters here has announced.

The Navy's first active duty program for women reserve officers offers commissions as Wave Ensigns to those who can qualify.

Selectees will be ordered to one of two eight-week classes scheduled in October, 1951, and in April, 1952. A quota for fifty for each class has been established for indoctrination at the Naval School, General Line, Newport, R. I.

Applicants must be between 21 and 27 years old, be a graduate from an accredited college or university with a baccalaureate degree, and meet other physical and mental requirements, the Navy said.

Details on active duty applications are available at offices of Naval Officer Procurement in New Orleans and in Dallas.

TO IMPROVE HUNTING AND FISHING IN TEXAS

AUSTIN — The Executive Secretary of the Game, Fish & Oyster Commission said new opportunities for scientific study of wildlife preliminary to improved hunting and fishing in Texas will be provided under a new law just passed by the Legislature.

The act, sponsored by Representative Jack Cox of Breckenridge, affects only six counties. They are: Jack, Young, Stephens, Palo Pinto, Erath and Hood.

This new area, giving the Commission regulatory powers, is in addition to the 28 county area set aside for these studies in the Panhandle by the previous Legislature, as well as the area West of the Pecos.

The latest act automatically closes all seasons so far as the state law is concerned but the fishing, hunting and trapping periods will be re-established by the Commission. In time, because of the experiments thus authorized, the Commission hopes to provide even greater privileges for sportsmen.

The new act specifically authorizes the Commission to open and close seasons and to set bag limits for both fish and game.

This new law will not be effective until September 1st. In the meantime, the present regulations will continue.

Mrs. E. C. Fulton returned home Saturday after a two weeks visit in Pasadena with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Forrest and Mrs. Horace Bunkley; in Houston with Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Parker and Mrs. J. H. Terrell and daughter, Miss Pauline Terrell. Mrs. Fulton also attended the General Federation of Women's Clubs at the Shamrock. She came by Dallas to see an eye specialist to get her new glasses.

Carpenter Says He's Now Really "Rarin' to Go!"

How bad can things get? After all when your job is carpentry and requires lots of climbing up and down in all kinds of weather, you can't be bogged down, slowed to a walk, by aches and pains. Your job suffers, your interest in life suffers, and you start feeling years older than you are.

When Mr. T. G. Pude Morlan, Rural Route No. 1, Monett, Missouri, ran into just this situation, though, he decided to act fast, get back on the road to feeling right again. He'd heard how HADACOL had helped folks who were suffering aches and pains caused by a lack of Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Niacin and Iron and he decided to see what it would do for him. The wonderful results of this decision can only be told properly in Mr. Morlan's own written words, sent to us voluntarily.

He says: "Just a line in regard to HADACOL. I am a carpenter by trade, have worked out in all kinds of weather which lately caused me considerable aches and pains and stiffness. I started taking HADACOL, so today, I am on my eighth bottle and am working every day. I am 58 years old and can climb up and down on my job. I have a good appetite, sleep good at night and I wake up mornings raring to go. I started feeling better when I had taken but 4 bottles. So I intend to go on taking your wonderful product. I have recommended HADACOL to all my friends, and I have four who told me they would give it a trial at once. So, as I am very well known in and around Monett, Missouri, you are welcome to use my name in any way as you choose in regard to your wonderful product."
So the letters go, day after day, from state after state, telling of the real, genuine help that HADACOL has brought to folks like Mr. Morlan. For, you see, HADACOL supplies more than the minimum daily requirements of Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Niacin and Iron to correct the very cause of aches and pains when due to a lack of these very elements. These elements, plus helpful quantities of Phosphorus and Calcium, are in a special liquid form, already dissolved for quick, easy absorption in the system.

No wonder thousands say that only HADACOL gives you that "Wonderful Hadacol Feeling." Won't you give this wonderful formula a chance to help you, to give you new hope for the future, to stop your being a burden to yourself and to your friends and family? Remember HADACOL is recommended by many doctors and is sold on a strict money-back guarantee. Only $1.25 in the trial size; only $3.50 in the large economy family size.

WE NEED YOUR COOPERATION

We at the Star office will find it difficult to maintain the high standard of this newspaper without the able assistance of Darrell Young, who answered the call to serve his country Tuesday morning. Darrel is a fine boy, and not only will be missed by the Star force, but his absence will be felt by many friends throughout this community. Since finishing high school here two years ago, he has been a dependable figure in the Star's printing shop. In his quiet way he applied himself in all phases of the work that goes on to produce The Baird Star, Frontier Times magazine, and the mass of commercial jobs that come from our presses. As Darrell enters the Army, the prayers and good wishes of a great host of friends go with him.

It will now be necessary for The Star to hold to its deadline for receiving news and advertising copy. No copy of any kind can be handled later each week than Wednesday at noon. The cooperation of our advertisers, correspondents and the general public will be appreciated. The weekly paper is planned on Monday, and we must know on that day the number of pages to print for that week's issue. When it is possible to order space or turn in copy early in the week, please do so. In this way you can help us to continue to give you a good, newsy paper.

IN RETROSPECT

One of these days we will remember that Raymond Foy told Baird people in his lake dedication address that we were "creating a new world for ourselves." Foy's speech was well received and received the applause of those who were within the sound of his voice. The entire text of his speech was published in The Star last week, and many of our readers expressed praise for his sight into Baird's future.

This writer talked to Mr. Foy on the street here several weeks ago, and at that time he made the remark that we will not know this town five years from now. This statement, coming from a man who moves around as much as Foy does, makes us believe he might be right. He is in the thick of development at Dallas. He is in charge of a gigantic development program for Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene. He was born and reared in Baird. It seems to us that he has the background and authority to forecast Baird's future.

When we stop to think about the facts right here under our nose, we might find grounds to agree with Mr. Foy. Property values seem to be outrageous, until we begin to compare them with like properties in other towns our size. The steps that Baird has taken to set its house in order and make it a more desirable place in which to live have certainly accomplished their aim. Newcomers find Baird to be an entirely different town than they would have found five years ago. A cleaner town now it is for certain. Business firms are more modern and business people are more on their toes to satisfy their customers. The new school building, the new lake, new pavement our many city blocks, new homes, pretty lawns, are features that add up to a better town. Progress is slipping up on our blind side.

A SURE SIGN OF PROGRESS

Among the outstanding endeavors to make Baird a better town is the home town loyalty movement now underway. There is no organized drive going on, but the idea is riding on the current of public sentiment to make local people realize the value of trading at home. There has been considerable talk among our citizens during the past few weeks about trading at home. Merchants are coming out into the open to show their appreciation for patronage from their customers. More people are finding out that they can find profits by trading with the local merchants. A glance through the pages of The Baird Star will show that merchants are doing more than "fussing" to get business. In the advertisements, you will find standard merchandise of all kinds offered at money saving prices. Baird stores are giving people something to come to town for. Such business-like practices will make any good town better, and by such methods do small businesses become large and strong.

WHERE ARE BAIRD'S FARM ROADS?

When one stops to think of the effort Baird people have made to get more farm-to-market roads built in this county, it seems that at least one or two of these roads would connect with the county seat. But this has not been accomplished. Clyde, Eula, Oplin, Cross Plains, Cottonwood, Putnaum, Denton and other communities have been favored with hard surfaced farm roads, but not one has been built into Baird, the county seat.

Baird has cooperated in every effort to build these roads. She has gone all out to give the Highway Department every assistance in projects to build the big state highways through our county. It just seems to us that in fairness to Baird, and the taxpayers who carry the heaviest load in these matters, should be given some consideration by our commissioners court and the highway department when the next farm-to-market roads are built. Of all the people who need a good road the people of the Admiral community surely deserve one. They have had the roughest road in the county to travel over through all these years. Folks in the Midway community also should have a good road, as well as farmers and ranchers out southwest of Baird. The mail and school bus route through the Belle Plain country could use a hard surfaced road to a real advantage.

In The Spring

A Short Story
By ONA F. LATHROP

(Editor's Note: A number of our subscribers have requested numerous times that The Star run features, such as short stories, cross word puzzles, recipes and the like. We have realized for some time that to provide these features for the pleasure of our readers would be a step forward for this newspaper. We are happy to announce now that beginning June 1, we will have a number of such features. The following short story is the first of the added attractions for you to enjoy. If you like these new features, we will appreciate your telling us. It is the desire of the publisher to make The Baird Star the kind of weekly newspaper the people of Callahan County want it to be.)

Spring was bustin' out all over, and guys and girls were strollin' down the street arm in arm like summer-time that Friday night. I wheeled my old jalopy up to Elinore's curb pretendin' it was a swank red convertible with leather seats, or at least a green coupe like Bob Bellamy's. I laid on the horn, hoping Elinore would think so too. Elinore came dashing out with her blonde curly bob flying, shaking her fist.

"You'll have Pop get apoplexy," she warned, climbing in beside me and looking back over her shoulder anxiously. "He's in a vile mood anyway, because I asked for a new dress for the junior prom. Says all kids think about nowadays is clothes. Why, when he was a boy—" Elinore giggled and slid in to the middle of the seat. "You know how they go on. Parents are archaic."

"Sure, they are," I agreed, my heart doing a flip-flop. And I opened the cut-out and roared down the road. We were already late for the first show. It was a silly love story about a fellow and a girl giving up everything for each other, but Elinore sighed a little and cried a little and loved it, so pretended I liked it too.

On the way home I got up my courage to ask her if she'd be my steady and she said she'd see. I knew she was thinking of Bob Bellamy and his new coupe but I figured I'd have the inside edge if only I could take her to the prom. But she wouldn't promise that either.

"I'm not sure I'll go yet if I don't get the new dress," she purred, but I knew that was only stalling, to see if Bob asked her. Of course I'd have to scramble up the money for the tickets, but I'd find some way.

We had a soda at Barney's and I let her out at her gate, careful not to lean on the horn this time. But her dad rose up from the porch and came barreling down the steps. I quaked.

"Hey you, Dexter," he shouted, before I could pull away from the curb. "I need a strong feller like you to give me a hand with rolling the lawn tomorrow. How about it?" He had a bad heart and Elinore didn't have any brothers.

Was that all? I quit shaking in my boots. I needed the dough all right but I hated to take it from her old man. Still, a job was a job. "Sure, I'll be here," I promised.

All the next morning I tugged at that heavy concrete roller while the sweat grimed up my face and my T-shirt stuck to my back. I finally peeled off the shirt and then I felt the sun-burn glowing from my skin. But I didn't care. Elinore was peeking out from her upstairs window occasionally and I took the roller spinning up and down the long green stretch like a Hercules—I hoped.

Then there was a tootle of a fancy horn at the gate and I glimpsed that green coupe that always made me see red. Elinore came flying down and suddenly I knew the front lawn needed rolling worse'n the back. I trundled the heavy roller around that way and bumped it out to the terrace. But Elinore climbed in and slammed the green door.

"Bye, now, Dexter. See you later," she waved at me.

When Mr. Mason went to pay me, he fingered through his change a long time. I knew how it was with them. I could just hear him telling Elinore there wouldn't be enough for her to have a new dress.

"That's all right, Mr. Mason," I shrugged. "I just love rolling lawns. Develops my football muscles." And I went off whistling.

But my whistle got more and more mournful the farther I went. I'd have to get a job some place else and now my muscles were so sore, I wasn't worth a cent. Then suddenly there were light footsteps running behind me and Elinore caught up with me, panting.

"Oh Dexter, you're wonderful. Dad said you wouldn't take anything for rolling the lawn and he gave me the money for material for a dress. You're just about the sweetest guy I know." And I thought for a minute she was going to kiss me.

"Just about, huh? I suppose Bob Bellamy is the sweetest. And I go tugging my muscles out for you to buy a dress to go with him to—"

"Are you crazy? Of course I'm not going with him. Didn't you ask me? Besides, he kept making smart cracks about you so I made him just drive me around the block and let me out again."

"You mean—y' mean—" I guess I looked so dazzled and befuddled that Elinore felt sorry for me. Anyway, she did kiss me then—right there on the public sidewalk in broad daylight. And only steadies 65 that! I felt like doing a cartwheel! I'd have to get another job, but so what? Lawns need rolling all over town when spring is bustin' out all over.

Poison Ivy Infections Vary Greatly, According To Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer

AUSTIN — Poison ivy infection varies according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. Sometimes there is only a slight redness of the skin, at other times there will be aggravated swelling and blisters covering large areas of your skin. In mild cases the skin is covered with numerous small blisters.

Poison ivy flourishes in the woods or in the open, in dry or moist locations, and it is particularly abundant along fence rows, paths, and roadways, often climbing posts and trees to considerable heights. While there are a great many plants which irritate the skin of susceptible persons, most of the cases of plant dermatitis in Texas are caused by poison ivy.

It is impossible for the average person to learn to recognize all the plants which are known to be skin irritants but, many cases of plant poisoning could be prevented if the public would learn to recognize and avoid contact with poison ivy.

Dr. Cox gives these points to remember about poison ivy: (1) You can recognize it by its leaves, which are grouped in threes. . . two of the dark green leaves are on short stems and the center is on a longer stem; (2) The plant appears as a low shrub, a vine hanging over fences or trees, or in a heavy thicket; (3) When you have come into contact with poison ivy, be sure to wash the spots with soap and water several times, as the water removes most of the poisonous material; and (4) If the infection causes much discomfort, see your family doctor.

If the business firm knows the customer is making an effort to pay his past due account, he will be satisfied. But the merchant does feel that the customer should come to see him and have an understanding as to the paying of the delinquent bills. They will all be glad to work with you and assist you. All customers make their own rating. It is not the desire of any business firm of this organization to have to report any one as a poor credit risk or slow pay.

Astaire-Powell Star In 'Royal Wedding'

Fred Astaire is dancing (on the ceiling!), Jane Powell is singing a royal parade of new song hits, Peter Lawford, Sarah Churchill (actress-daughter of the famous Winston) and Keenan Wynn are respectively involved in the romantic and comedy hi-jinks. That's the good news of M-G-M's latest Technicolor musical "Royal Wedding" which brings king-sized entertainment to the Plaza Theatre Sunday and Monday.

There is melody and merriment in every sequence of this smartly-designed offering, which unfolds a captivating story of a brother-and-sister dance team who, after scoring on the Broadway stage, are asked to repeat their triumphs during the celebration of a royal wedding in London. Ellen (Jane Powell), distaff member of the team, becomes involved in a shipboard romance with the jaunty Lord Brindale (Peter Lawford.) Tom (Fred Astaire) meets his romantic Waterloo once they reach England, in the person of the London dancer, Anne Ashmond (Sarah Churchill.) Every musical-comedy plot has to have a problem, and in this instance, the problem is whether Tom and Ellen should resist their romantic inclinations in order to prevent the dancing team from breaking up. The conflict reaches its climax amid London's colorful royal wedding celebration, and you will have to see "Royal Wedding" to find out whether Tom and Ellen resist or not.

Putnam Students Write Essays About Enjoyable Trip to Baird on April 20

The following essays were written by pupils of the Putnam school after they made a trip to the county seat on April 20, visiting The Baird Star, court house and other prominent places in Baird. The essays, written by David Schaffrina and Kay Williams, were chosen as the best two and we take pride in publishing them to let all of our readers know how the children enjoyed their trip. The Star editor is always glad for school children from the various communities of the county to visit at the Star office. We learned how the Baird Star was printed. We went to the courthouse. We saw where Daddy buys the car tags. We rode on a train from Baird to Cisco. The conductor took us through the train. We had a nice trip.

OUR TRIP

Dear Mr. Hunter: We had a good time with you at the Star office. We learned how the Baird Star was printed. We went to the courthouse. We saw where Daddy buys the car tags. We rode on a train from Baird to Cisco. The conductor took us through the train. We had a nice trip.

OUR TRIP

The first, second, third grade children went on a trip, Friday, April 20, 1951, to Baird. We left here at 9:30. I went with my daddy, Mr. E. H. Williams. There were two other cars that went. We went to the Baird Star office first. There we saw a collection of dolls that Mr. Hunter's daughter had collected from nearly every state. Then we saw the printing machine. Mr. J. L. Ault operated the linotype machine, and then put names on a piece of metal. In the commercial department, Darrell Young had a job at a machine called "Little Giant." We all got a Baird Star. The paper was printed and folded. We got a magazine called "Frontier Times."

We went to Black's Grocery. Mr. Ray Black gave us ice cream. Then we left there and went to the county courthouse.

We had planned to see the library, but it was closed. We went up stairs and went into the office of assessor-collector of taxes. Mr. Baulch showed us the jail from a window and showed us how to run a machine. We left there and went to the Sheriff's office. We saw who had been sheriff in our county in the past. We left there and went to the City Pharmacy.

Jerry Loper gave us anything we wanted to drink. We left there and went to the depot. We bought our tickets from Mr. Bell. He gave us a train magazine. The train came. We gave our tickets to the conductor and got on the train. We saw the colored car and baggage car. We went to the diner, we then saw roomettes. Then we sat down. The train came to Cisco where our mothers met us, and took us to Cisco Lake. We played a while and then ate. We went through the dam.

We came out and climbed out on a hill. We walked over the dam and walked to the car, a tired, happy group of children, headed home.

Kay Williams.

Short Course Offered in Radiological Hazards By State Department of Health at Austin

AUSTIN — Radiological health hazards involved in civil defense will come under five days of intensive study at a short course to be conducted at the State Department of Health in Austin beginning June 11. State Health Officer George W. Cox has announced.

Radiological hazards result from atomic bombing, being one of the bomb's most dangerous aspects. Designated primarily to indoctrinate supervisory personnel in the essentials of radiation defense so they can conduct training programs in their own communities, Dr. Cox said the course would be held each month during the summer for a different class of participants.

The health officer said the study is open to: Representatives of counties or cities where radiological defense is not vested in local health departments; supervisory or professional personnel of local health departments; representatives of state departments engaged in civil defense work; fire and police training officers or instructors; and members of industrial medical or safety departments contemplating in-plant programs.

Dr. Cox, chief of Texas health and emergency medical services, summarized the course as covering:

Where radiological defense fits into overall civil defense activities; definition of radiation language and units; radiation physics; theory and application of instruments; atomic bomb phenomena; area and personnel monitoring (checking for radioactivity); uses of radiation and radioisotopes; radiation protection and decontaminations; psychology of disaster; and organization of local communities for radiological defense.

Lectures will be supplemented by laboratory exercises and demonstrations. Dr. Cox said, and time will be spent on review of physics, chemistry, and the mathematics required for calculations.

"We're going to put on a really worthwhile course," he indicated. "The army is going to help us."

He said additional courses would be held as "necessity demanded."

No tuition will be charged. Applications should be submitted to Dr. Cox at the State Department of Health in Austin, and include education and background of applicants. Trainees are expected to arrange their own travel and living conditions while attending the course.

Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Hicks, of McLean, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jay Ashlock and attended the West Texas Conference in Abilene this week.

Miss Dollie Wilson, of Fort Worth, visited her sister, Mrs. Chas. L. Robinson, and Mr. Robinson during the weekend. Mrs. Myrtle Berry spent the weekend in San Angelo with Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Ground and son.

Humble Operations Higher Than a Year Ago; New Directors Elected

Operations of Humble Oil & Refining Company currently are much higher than a year ago, Hines H. Baker, president, told stockholders at their annual meeting today, as a result of increased requirements for military, industrial and civilian use. In the first four months of 1951, Humble's daily volume included 332,500 barrels of crude oil production, refinery crude runs of 249,500 barrels, and deliveries by trunk pipe lines of 750,000 barrels. Petroleum demand in the United States is expected to increase in 1951 by 8 to 10 per cent over last year, and Humble's operations for the year as a whole should be comparable with those in the four months. Humble plans a substantial increase in capital expenditures in 1951 over the $110,490,600 spent in 1950. The increase will be particularly in drilling, but ability to carry out the program will depend on steel supplies. The outlook for these supplies is uncertain over the balance of the year, although in the first four months Humble drilled more wells than in the same period of 1950.

Mr. Baker emphasized the importance of adequate supplies of petroleum for national security at the present time. In this connection, he said that the proposal of the Treasury Department to change the depletion provision on oil and gas production, in addition to the increase in taxes generally, would constitute a threat to the nation's future oil supplies. The House Ways and Means Committee of Congress, which has heard testimony by the Treasury Department and the petroleum industry, has shown a favorable understanding of the fairness of and the necessity for continuing existing tax provisions relating to depletion and he recommended that no change be made.

In view of the increase in demand for petroleum, Mr. Baker said that it is essential that Congress enact interim legislation confirming existing leases on the continental shelf and allowing additional drilling to be carried on pending solution of the basic controversy between the Federal Government and the states over ownership and control of the tidelands. Humble has stopped drilling on the continental shelf and other operators have virtually stopped as a result of the Supreme Court decisions on June 5, 1950, adverse to Louisiana and Texas. Current operations are being carried on under temporary permits issued by the Secretary of Interior, but no provision is made for new wells to be drilled. Exploration and development of the potential resources of the continental shelf are necessary from the standpoint of future supplies for national security and civilian use. Indications are that both the Administration and Congress are agreed that leases heretofore issued by the states should be reconfirmed.

Mr. Baker also discussed the improvement which is occurring in natural gas prices. He said that Humble had entered into a number of recent contracts with industries on the Gulf Coast at prices of about 15c a thousand cubic feet, but that gas at this price is still cheap in relations to the prices of other fuels. The major problem remaining on natural gas is the threat of regulation by the Federal Power Commission of sales by producers in interstate commerce for resale, in view of the veto of the Kerr bill in 1950.

At the meeting, stockholders approved an increase in the number of Vice Presidents from four to six. This change is necessary to keep pace with the expansion of Humble's operations, which have increased substantially over the years and now extend from Florida to California. Stockholders also approved a limited stock option plan for executives. Congress recognized the desirability of such plans by providing for improved tax treatment of limited stock options in 1950. The plan, which is modest in cost, is designed to provide an incentive by which key employees may obtain a larger interest in the Company and thus assist in retaining and developing executives over a long period to assure good management in the years ahead.

L. T. Barrow, Chairman of the Board, presided at the meeting. The stockholders reelected all members of the present Board of Directors and in addition elected Dr. Richard L. Gonzales to the Board. Directors elected were: Hines H. Baker, L. T. Barrow, David Frame, D. B. Harris, J. A. Neath, Rex G. Baker, H. W. Ferguson, Morgan J. Davis, C. E. Reistle, Jr., and Richard J. Gonzales.

PETROLEUM INDUSTRY AIDS EDUCATION

ABILENE — The giant-sized business of education in Texas has found its principal benefactor in the petroleum industry, according to an article in "West Texas Today," West Texas chamber of commerce magazine, which has devoted its May issue to that region's oil and gas business.

F. B. Anderson, Vernon, chairman of the State Board of Education and president of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, said that oil production taxes from the West Texas counties, about $45,000,000 in 1950, constituted about half of the total state revenues from oil production taxes.

"Texas oil and gas has stimulated growth of Texas educational institutions far more than any other business or economic development in the history of the state," Anderson said. "The drilling rigs that search for oil in the wide spaces of West Texas are building a legacy for the education of Texans for generations to come."

Anderson wrote that 48.2 per cent of all state government expenditures, exclusive of federal aid are now devoted to public schools, junior colleges and special schools.

"This growing development of West Texas oil production has not only raised the standards of education in this progressive section of the state for its 475,000 public school children, but has contributed statewide to the financing of education for the state's more than 1.6 million students," Anderson wrote.

Congressman Burleson Asks Secretary of State Dean Acheson to Resign His Position

Newspaper reporters in Washington learned today that Congressman Omar Burleson has called for the resignation of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Queried on his action, Burleson said that on the 7th of May he made a personal appeal to Mr. Acheson that he resign his office in face of the tremendous opposition to him.

"The welfare and security of this Country is greater than any one of us," Burleson wrote Mr. Acheson. Stating that in his opinion the President was a man who would not ask for his resignation, Burleson said that he believed the Secretary of State must take the initiative and ask to be relieved of his office.

Congressman Burleson, the only Texan on the highly important Foreign Affairs Committee, said that "unless we keep our eyes on the true objective and stop running the County on emotionism, we are lost. We need to do everything possible to unify the Nation for the tremendous tasks ahead. It is not being done."

"Confidence in Government leadership is all-important, but it simply is not in evidence today. While we bicker and deal in hindsight; while we jockey for political position on issues which separate us, our enemies are watching, but not waiting. They must be considerably encouraged by what they see," Burleson went on to say.

Representative Burleson is the only member of the Foreign Affairs Committee to seek Mr. Acheson's resignation. On numerous issues he has opposed the Truman Administration's policies and it is known that he has been outspoken in such opposition in closed sessions of the Committee. In response to inquiries on these actions, he replied that, "if we washed our dirty linen at home, our enemies would know less about us. Wars are fought and won, not alone on that which one side may have, but also, and equally important, on how much he knows about his enemy. For the first time in the history of the any nation, we have been holding a council of war in the Senate of the United States, before the very eyes of Russia. I do not want to be a party to informing our adversaries of any more than I can help. It is easy to berate, condemn, and vilify, based mostly on hindsight. To me, it smacks of politics and of seeking after popularity."

Emphasizing his action in calling for Acheson's resignation, Congressman Burleson said that Acheson should have left the office of Secretary of State "long ago," but now it is a "must," and "that it would be best for the County if some others in highest positions would also step out."

"This loss of confidence is, in my opinion, irreparable," Burleson said. "If it is irreparable, then we are living in a fool's paradise to continue to expect a unity of purpose — unity of purpose in this critical time may mean our survival. It is as simple as that," he concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Magill and children, Joe Charles and Larry Don, moved to Abilene on May 10. They had lived at Clyde for the past three years. Both Mr. and Mrs. Magill are natives of Callahan County.

ONE CHANCE IN TEN

They say that nine men out of every ten underestimate their power and ability to accomplish. The tenth man wins.

One man out of ten saves money. One man out of ten succeeds. Could the lesson be plainer? Do you want to succeed? Of course you do. So do the other nine. But one out of ten decides that he will work and save, and that one wins. You can do the same.

Our Bank is ready to open an account with you and to offer you every encouragement. It is not an easy matter to save money, but it is the price success demands.
