Women in business seminar scheduled

"Women, the Entrepreneurs of the Future," a seminar sponsored by Midland College's business and economic development department, is scheduled from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. Sept. 12. The workshop is designed to provide knowledge and assistance for women starting their own business.

The cost for the seminar is $10, which includes lunch. Keynote speaker will be Natalie Birk, national coordinator for the Women's Network on Entrepreneurial Training in Washington, D.C. Other speakers for the seminar include Jerry Lee Jones, chairman of the college's business studies division and Treva Beckmann, Midland Chapter of the Service Corps of Retired Executives.

Janice Hastings, an officer with Western Ag Sales Co. Inc., a former business instructor for Midland College, will present "I'm Not Superwoman." Thelma Stone, president of Texas Bank in Odessa, will present "Banking for the Business Woman."

Trial on insurance company suit starts

A jury trial began Tuesday in 118th District Court in which two companies are asking for damages in excess of $2 million.

Western Containers Corp. of Big Spring and George Brothers Fabrication Inc. of Midland are suing U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. for not honoring an insurance contract, according to the suit.

The trial may last four or five days, said District Judge Bob Moore.

Records of sick children stolen

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Computer equipment containing financial and medical records for 100 sick boys and girls was stolen from an agency that helps families with children who need organ transplants.

The non-profit Children's Transplant Association on Tuesday notified banks that some records of trust funds and special accounts for the children and families were among the stolen archives.

"We're a human service agency," Virginia Rondero, the association's executive director, told The San Antonio Express-News. "It's sad people are so insensitive. They should be ashamed of themselves."

The burglars took a hard disk drive and a laser printer worth about $8,000. The external disk drive contained the confidential records and case histories, said office manager Martha Bare who discovered the break-in when she arrived at work Tuesday.

Ms. Bare said most of the stolen information is replaceable.

New complaints of mistreatment by officers filed

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Since allegations of police brutality in Big Spring were first voiced by local attorney Robert Miller, Mayor Max Green has received eight signed complaints of mistreatment at the hands of Big Spring police officers.

The complaints range from a suspected shoplifter being forced to re-enter a local grocery store and empty her purse for a policewoman to a man alleging he was beaten by police with wooden batons and metal flashlights.

The complaints have been filed through Miller's office.

• Leonard McPeak of Big Spring filed a complaint with the city of Big Spring for injuries he received July 22 from another prisoner while in the custody of the police department.

According to Miller's reports, McPeak was jailed with a prisoner who had a history of attacking fellow inmates.

McPeak, who regularly takes the anti-seizure medication Dilantin, was arrested for public intoxication. Police reports do not indicate that McPeak was given a breath, blood or urine test to prove his intoxication.

• Big Spring resident Tony Martinez has signed a complaint stating police officers Scott Griffin, Steve Wright, David Sellers and John Stowers beat him with batons and metal flashlights after the officers, who wished to question him, broke into his dwelling without a search warrant.

• In another complaint, Myrtice Peterson of Big Spring was called to the police station on July 24 regarding her son who was allegedly attempting to commit suicide while incarcerated in the city jail.

Mrs. Peterson became frustrated when she was not allowed to see her son and left the building with two companions, she said.

As she was leaving she said she uttered a "cuss word." She was stopped at her vehicle by police sergeant George Yielding and told to apologize or she would be arrested, she said.

Since she had not spoken the word to any person, she told Yielding she did not owe an apology. She said she then was arrested for disorderly conduct.

Peterson writes in her complaint, "In the trial of this case, Officer Yielding did state, under oath, that he only stated, 'You owe me an apology.' My lawyer was prohibited from further questioning the officer as to what he meant by, 'You owe me an apology.'"

• Big Spring resident Larry Wayne Riggins complained he was arrested June 21 for driving while intoxicated while riding as a passenger in his own vehicle.

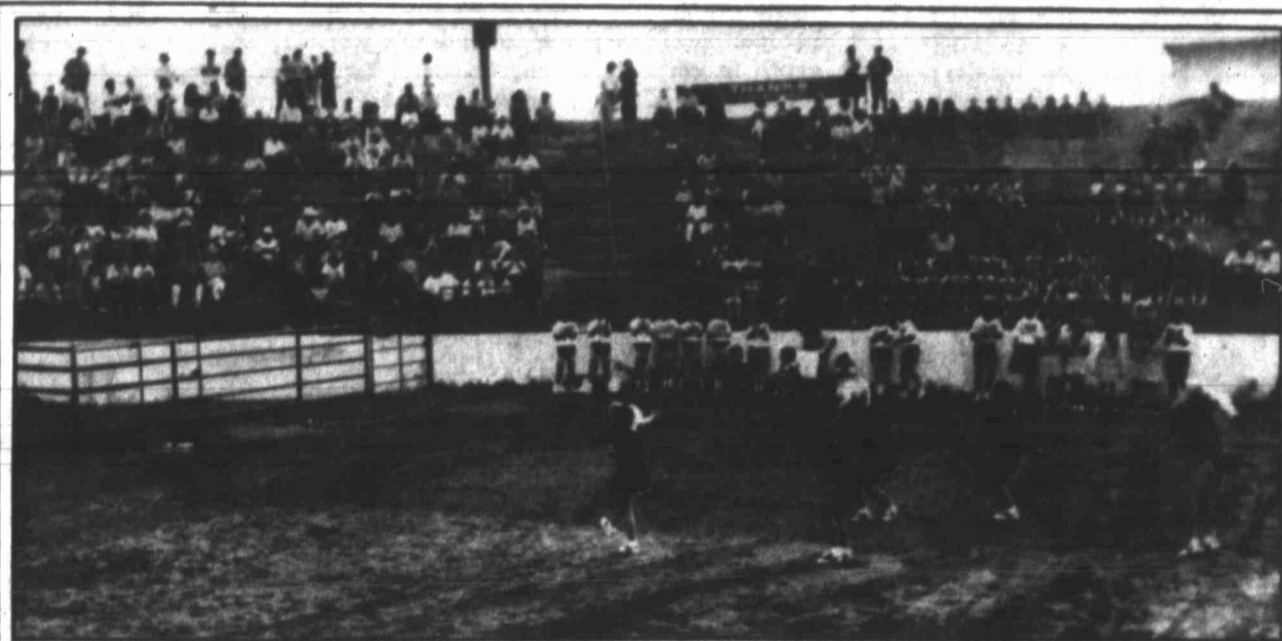

Riggins admits to being intoxicated when, in the booking room of the Big Spring Police Department, he fell, still handcuffed, injuring his head and breaking his glasses.

Riggins complained he was left alone in the city jail drunk tank for three hours before being taken to a hospital for treatment. No officers were mentioned in the complaint.

• Donna and Sandra Heffington, sisters of the late Ricky Heffington, who died of unrelated causes, have signed a complaint requesting an investigation of officers "Scott Griffin, in particular, and Kirk Harris," in the March 29, 1989 arrest of their brother.

During his booking, Heffington was exceedingly loud and un-

Carnival rides cheaper tonight

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
Staff Writer

Balloons flying, lights flashing and aromatic sausage, hamburger and popcorn are just some of the sights, sounds and smells of the 19th Howard County Fair will experience.

And this year, the Gene Ledell Carnival is present, complete with the Gravitron, the French Frolic, the 72-foot Sky Diver Ferris Wheel and the Silly Billy Bounce. The Ledell Carnival is a fourth generation family business, founded in 1907 by Pat Ledell's great-grandfather.

"A lot of the original rides were horse-drawn or they used gasoline motors. Really, there weren't a lot of rides — it was mostly shows, like side shows, singing shows and wrestling shows," said Pat Ledell, who's been in the carnival business for 14 years.

Ledell, 32, and his uncle Frank Culver are on hand to manage and oversee the carnival this year, having just traveled from Tucumcari, N.M. He said two rides were delayed setting up at the fairgrounds because of the distance traveled to reach Big Spring. Next week the carnival will be in Odessa and then Lubbock, Ledell said.

"We make around 50 shows each year. We've been as far away as Wyoming and New Jersey, but the last few years we've stayed in Texas. Now we travel and cover about 4,500 miles in Texas and New Mexico," he said.

The carnival employs about 40 local people to help set up the rides, 10-15 people to clean the grounds during the fair and another 10-15 people as game and ride operators. Another group of people will be hired to help tear down the rides to prepare them for travel on semi-trailer trucks to the next city, he said.

"We also have a full-time crew who's in charge of the rides. A long time ago we moved everything on the railroad, but we've been on the highways since the 1950s," Ledell said.

Prices for tickets are 75 cents each, and most rides take between two and four tickets, he said. The carnival offers special discount books for patrons, including 16 tickets for $10 and a family booklet of 44 tickets for $20.

Two discount nights will be offered this week, Ledell said. Tonight, unlimited ride arm-bands will be sold for $12. The bands allow a patron to go on as many rides as many times as they wish, Ledell said.

Thursday night is canned food night. For two donated cans of food, fair goers may purchase a $10 booklet and receive 16 more tickets free. The canned food will be donated to the local charities, he said.

"We try to divide it out between as many local groups as possible. This is a great way to have a good time and help the community at the same time," Ledell said.

Health care reform expected to be campaign issue

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

There probably will be no major health care reform measure introduced in the 102nd Congress this year, says an aide to U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford.

But revamping the nation's health care system is expected to be a 1992 campaign issue, said Denise Crenwelge, Stenholm's press secretary, who was visiting Big Spring Tuesday.

While in Colorado City in June, Stenholm said a more affordable health care system, especially in rural areas, will probably not be drawn up until campaign promises are articulated in the 1992 presidential election. Stenholm, co-chairman of the Rural Health Care Coalition in the House, says he is not in favor of a health system run by the federal government.

"I think that health care must be made a part of next year's presidential campaign. When we get a president who has campaigned on this issue, then Congress will be ready to work with our president in designing the new health care system that will be adequate for all Americans."

Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford

"I think that health care must be made a part of next year's presidential campaign," Stenholm said in a statement issued by his Washington office. "When we get a president who has campaigned on this issue, then Congress will be ready to work with our president in designing the new health care system that will be adequate for all Americans."

Fifteen health care bills introduced in Congress this year are aimed at improving Medicare compensation and health care quality in rural areas, the statement said. But, Stenholm said the bills are "pieces to the health care puzzle."

Stenholm has repeatedly said that he ranks health care as the No. 1 domestic issue facing the country. Ten hospitals have closed during the past 10 years in his 34-county district. In June, he said 10 more hospitals were "hanging."

Meanwhile, when Congress reconvenes Sept. 11, Stenholm will also tackle issues ranging from crime to dairy price supports, Crenwelge said. The session will probably last through Thanksgiving, "possibly into Christmas," she said. Committee hearings on bills are expected to be over by the end of this month. Issues Stenholm is working on include:

• An amendment to a family-leave bill that would remove a proposed 12-week paid period for employees who have babies or seriously ill family members. The amendment, Crenwelge said, would instead require a preferred hiring back of employees, up to six years for new mothers and two years for those with sick relatives. It could come up for a vote this fall.

• A bill to increase the cap on how much a person receiving Social Security benefits can earn in a job before Social Security payments are curtailed.

• A proposed constitutional amendment requiring a balanced

Soviet officials OK power-sharing plan

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet parliament today gave preliminary approval to a sweeping plan to transfer most central power to the republics and transform the Soviet Union into a loose confederation of sovereign states.

Earlier today, Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev agreed to grant independence to the Baltic republics, making them the first breakaway Soviet states to win such recognition from the Kremlin. Kremlin authority has been crumbling fast in the wake of last month's hard-line coup. Two-thirds of the Soviet republics have declared independence.

Gorbachev had been expected to raise the issue of Baltic independence at the Congress of People's Deputies, but did not because it apparently lacked sufficient support.

The Congress adjourned for the night after voting overwhelmingly to approve a resolution on the power-transferring plan as a basis for discussion.

Delegations from each republic were to work on the drafts and submit proposals this evening to an editorial commission, which was to work through the night to consider the various proposals. Law makers were to reconvene Thursday morning to consider them.

Word of Gorbachev's agreement to grant Baltic independence came after he met with Baltic representatives from the Congress. He asked them to draft a declaration, said Algimantas Cekuolis, a former Lithuanian deputy who is attending the Congress.

Former Gorbachev aide Alexander Yakovlev also said Gorbachev would issue the decrees after lawmakers conclude a special session.

The Baltics, which began their independence drive three years ago, have already won recognition from dozens of foreign governments, including the United States, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia also have applied for United Nations membership, and Moscow has in-

Odessa plant fined for air pollution

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Residents who claim health problems from hazardous air emissions at the Dynagen Inc. rubber plant declared victory after the company agreed to pay $1.4 million in civil penalties for air pollution violations.

David Preister, an assistant attorney general who presented the state's case against Dynagen, said Tuesday's settlement is the largest assessed under the Texas Clean Air Act.

"It gives me some satisfaction that the power of the people overcame some serious problems," said Susan Bernal, a 41-year-old mother of five, who claims her children suffer asthma, skin rashes and burning eyes due to air emissions from Dynagen.

In addition to the $1.4 million settlement, the company agreed to spend more than $12 million to install state-of-the-art equipment to rid the plant of faulty air emissions.

Judge ruled not too old to preside

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A district judge has ruled that District Judge Peter Michael Curry is only 74 and not too old to preside over a civil trial.

Visiting Judge Jim Clawson made the ruling Tuesday in a motion sought by a lawyer who has a civil case pending in Curry's court.

Judge Clawson ruled that even if Curry had reached the automatic retirement age of 75 set by the Texas Constitution, he would have been operating legally as a holdover official until Gov. Ann Richards names a successor.

There was conflicting testimony during the hearing. Some showed Curry is 74 and other evidence showed he was

Jury finds Holloway guilty

HOUSTON (AP) — A Channelview woman faces up to life in prison after being convicted of trying to hire a hitman to kill the mother of her daughter's cheerleading rival.

Wanda Holloway, 37, was found guilty Tuesday of solicitation of murder. Jurors were ordered to return to court this morning to hear testimony in the punishment phase of the highly publicized trial.

Prosecutors claim Holloway wanted someone to kill Verna Heath, the mother of her daughter's cheerleading rival.

In closing arguments Tuesday, she said Holloway believed Heath's daughter, Amber, would be too upset over her mother's death to compete in cheerleader tryouts. If Amber dropped out, Holloway's daughter, Shanna Harper, would have a better chance of winning, they said.

Amber, 13, is a cheerleader at Channelview High School. Shanna, 14, did not participate in the spring tryouts, which took place after her mother's arrest.

During the trial, prosecutors played secretly recorded tapes in which Holloway discussed hiring a hitman with her former brother-in-law, Terry Harper.

Defense attorneys attempted to discredit Harper's testimony, claiming he only wanted to set up Holloway so his brother could win custody of the couple's two children, Shanna and Anthony Shane Harper, 18.

Jurors reached a verdict after about 3 1/2 hours of deliberations. But in an unusual move, State District Judge George Godwin told the 12 jurors to reconsider their decision.

They left the packed courtroom and then returned about 20 minutes later with the guilty verdict. Godwin then polled each juror, and all said they agreed with the ruling.

Holloway stood silently when the verdict was read then later burst into tears. Relatives and friends who crowded around her in the courtroom yelled at members of media to leave her alone.

Both Verna and Amber Heath were in the courtroom for the verdict.

Holloway also had been charged with solicitation of aggravated kidnapping, but no verdict was announced on that charge. Godwin said jurors did not have to reach a decision on both charges.

Attorneys from both sides had little to say about the verdict, citing a gag order imposed on witnesses and lawyers by Godwin at the beginning of the week-old trial.

"The gag order is still in effect, (so) we can't say," said defense attorney Troy McKinney.

"I'm pleased with the verdict so far," prosecutor Mike Anderson said.

Anderson said during closing arguments that Holloway had every classic motive to want Heath kidnapped or killed.

"This is about someone who hated someone so much that it gnawed at her day and night," he said. "It ain't about cheerleading. It's about not getting what you want and it's about getting it above anything else."

HOUSTON — Wanda Holloway leaves the Harris County Courthouse Tuesday in Houston after she was found guilty on one count of solicitation of murder. Holloway tried to hire a hitman to kill the mother of her daughter's cheerleading rival. Trailing Holloway is her attorney Troy McKinney, right, and man on left is unidentified.

Rice is rated in first place

NEW YORK (AP) — Rice University, a century-old Texas school known for top-flight engineering and science programs, heads a list of the nation's 100 best college buys in a magazine survey.

Money Magazine's second annual Money Guide, which goes on sale for $3.95 at newsstands Monday, called the Houston university the nation's best overall tuition value after analyzing 1,011 colleges and universities.

The Top 100 list had 56 private schools, including the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Yale, Stanford and the University of Chicago, which charge more than $16,000 in tuition but were nonetheless judged excellent values.

Others, such as Trenton State College in Trenton, N.J., and Texas A&M University in College Station, were rated bargains with tuitions of less than $5,000.

Rice, with a $1 billion endowment, charges its 3,900 students $7,700 in tuition plus $4,900 in room and board, roughly half what most Ivy League students pay. Until 1965, it charged no tuition at all.

Rice was founded in 1891 by a cotton baron, William Marsh Rice, whose dream was to establish a first-rate college open to all regardless of means. Rice's engineering, business and science programs rank among the nation's best.

Among Texas schools, the University of Texas at Austin ranked 10th, followed by Texas A&M in 14th place and Trinity University 21st. Baylor ranked 37th, Incarnate Word College 58th, University of Dallas 90th and Southwestern University 91.

On the cost side, the survey rated schools based on tuition. It used out-of-state charges for public schools to make them more comparable to private institutions.

In measuring educational quality, the survey used such indicators as student-to-faculty ratio, average Scholastic Aptitude Test scores, library quality, graduation rates, percentage of graduates who earn doctorates, and the number of graduates who make Standard & Poor's survey of 70,000 top corporate executives.

Cooper Union, which topped last year's survey, dropped out of the top 100 this year. The New York City school remains an "unbeatable bargain" at $300 a year, the magazine said, but offers degrees only in art, architecture and engineering.

Harvard, which has a policy of not publicizing SAT scores and other data used in calculating the Money standings, did not make this year's list.

DALLAS — A young girl protests her arrest after a bottle was thrown at police officers during a student protest of teacher layoffs Tuesday in Dallas. Five students were arrested as more than 2,000 Dallas high school students marched on Dallas Independent School District headquarters.

School trustees are trying to prevent teacher layoffs

DALLAS (AP) — After thousands of students traded textbooks for placards in sometimes violent protests of teacher layoffs, some school trustees moved to reconsider the cuts while administrators promised not to discipline protesters.

Organizers of the demonstration, which resulted in five arrests Tuesday at Dallas Independent School District headquarters, urged students to return to classes today wearing black in solidarity.

"We have to revisit our budget to see if there is room for additional (monetary) cuts at all levels" that could eliminate the need for layoffs, DISD trustee Thomas Jones told more than 1,000 parents, students and teachers at a school meeting Tuesday night.

"We must also consider something unfavorable: a 1-2 percent tax rate increase. If we want to talk about a real solution to losing people, that is what we need to take," said Jones.

The district, which laid off 224 teachers last week, expected to give pink slips to 100 more this week because of reduced state aid. Meanwhile, a hearing was scheduled Thursday afternoon on a request by the Classroom Teachers of Dallas for a state district judge to issue a restraining order to stop the job reductions.

Students in the daylong rally criticized Superintendent Marvin Edwards and school board members for making cost-cutting reductions in the teaching ranks rather than administration.

One of 23 Hispanic teachers laid off, Isidro Aguirre, demanded to know why they were recruited from South Texas and elsewhere to start school — only to be bumped a few days later.

"When we were recruited by the personnel division, we were told, 'Come to Dallas.' But they never told us about the problems," Aguirre said.

Robby Collins, DISD employee relations manager, was booed when he explained reductions occur by seniority and the Hispanic teachers were the newest hires.

"We had no choice," he said.

At the administration building Tuesday, police arrested five students on assault charges, including three when an officer was hit in the head by a bottle, said Dallas police spokesman Ed Spencer.

MHMR spent $700,000 making improvements

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation has spent at least $700,000 since 1989 on an improvement program designed to make it work more like a corporation, a newspaper reported.

MHMR Commissioner Dennis Jones said that the agency is "firmly and unequivocally committed to continuous quality improvement," the Austin American-Statesman reported in Tuesday editions.

But state Comptroller John Sharp isn't so sure the effort justifies the expense and has begun a review, the newspaper said.

"There are very innovative things American corporations are doing that are appropriate for state government to learn," said Greg Hartman, Sharp's executive assistant. "But at the same time these are public funds, and (state officials) need to learn to be as tight with their state money as they are with their own money."

A complete tab on the improvement effort has not been kept by MHMR, the American-Statesman reported.

Earlier this year, MHMR officials complained the agency was $894 million short of funding after receiving $2.1 billion to serve the state's mentally disabled residents.

MHMR, which runs 21 institutions, employs 30,000 workers, more than any other state agency. The agency has been in and out of federal court over its treatment of the mentally disabled since 1974.

Since 1989, more than $10,000 has been spent on such novelties for employees as clocks, Thermos bottles, simulated-leather notebooks, T-shirts, framed certificates, tote bags and pens, the American-Statesman reported.

So far this year, the agency has spent $186,055 in registration fees for workers to attend seminars led by a quality improvement expert.

Costs for travel, meals and lodging to the seminars — many located out-of-state — nearly total the amount of the fees.

Other MHMR improvement expenses include more than $12,000 to change the agency's logo, motto and name from the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation to Texas Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Last month, Sharp learned the agency paid out $88,000 to send 50 employees, including two secretaries, to a California seminar, the newspaper reported. More than $82,000 pays two MHMR employees to coordinate the agency's quality improvement effort.

Jones defended the program. "Our first steps are to be sure our leaders are adequately trained," Jones said. "They are the ones who either support or sabotage change efforts."

Some advocates for the disabled question the spending.

"I can honestly say, at this point in time, I think conditions are getting worse," said Mary Dees, who heads the Texas Mental Health Consumers.

Weed killer may give dogs cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Homeowners who spray with weed-killing herbicides may get good-looking lawns, but they could give their dogs cancer, a federal study says.

National Cancer Institute researchers reported Tuesday that dogs whose owners use a herbicide containing 2,4-D have up to twice the risk of developing lymphatic cancer. And the study said research is needed to determine whether household use of the plant-killing chemical could also pose a risk to humans.

The study, published in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute, said that when homeowners sprinkled or sprayed their lawns with 2,4-D herbicide four or more times a year, dogs that played on the lawns were twice as likely to develop a cancer called malignant lymphoma.

If the chemical was used less frequently, the lymphoma risk dropped, but even with just one herbicide application a season the cancer risk was one-third higher than among dogs whose owners did not use the chemical.

Earlier studies on farms in Nebraska showed that agricultural workers who mixed and sprayed the herbicide more than 20 days per year were up to three times more likely to develop lymphoma.

Pro-Thomas ads 'reprehensible'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is condemning a television commercial by supporters of Clarence Thomas that questions the ethics of liberal senators who are expected to oppose Thomas' nomination to the Supreme Court.

The White House on Tuesday called the personal attacks on senators "reprehensible" and said President Bush and his aides had nothing to do with the ad.

The White House disassociates itself from any advertising campaign related to the nomination of Judge Clarence Thomas that personally attacks members of the U.S. Senate, Bush's press secretary, Marlin Fitzwater, said in the statement.

The 60-second ad was sponsored by two conservative groups. It targets Democratic Sens. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Alan Cranston of California and Joseph Biden of Delaware.

About Kennedy, the ad says he was suspended from Harvard for cheating and that he left the scene of the 1969 accident at Chappaquiddick, Mass., where a campaign aide, Mary Jo Kopechne, died.

Regarding Biden, who chairs the Senate Judiciary Committee, the ad says he was "found guilty of plagiarism."

And about Cranston, the ad says: "Implicated in the Keating Five S&L scandal."

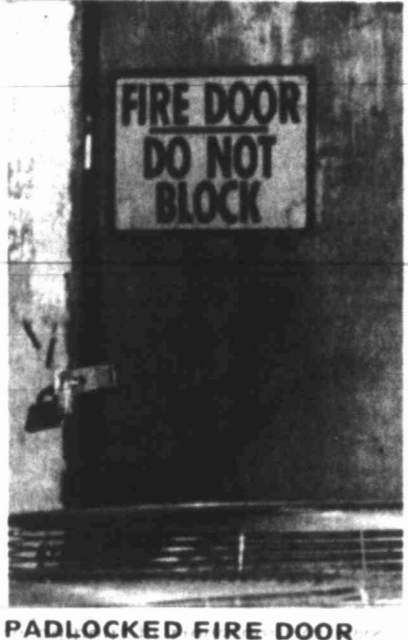

Screaming workers trapped by fire

HAMLET, N.C. (AP) — Screaming workers pounded and kicked locked exit doors as fire swept a chicken processing plant, killing 25 people and injuring 49. The 11-year-old plant had never been inspected.

"A whole lot of people were in one little corner, just pushing, trying to make a hole in the wall," said worker Letha Terry.

The blaze Tuesday at the Imperial Food Products plant erupted when a hydraulic line ruptured near a 26-foot long deep-fat fryer and the spilled fluid caught fire, said Charles Dunn, deputy director of the State Bureau of Investigation.

Ella Mae Blackstock and other workers said the company kept doors locked "so people couldn't steal their chickens."

He was slapped with a powdered wig by a nightclub entertainer outside the court room. "I did it for America and I did it for all the senior citizens he ripped off," said Skip E. Lowe, 62, of West Hollywood. He was led away by bailiffs but not arrested.

Police stop lawmakers memorializing activists

BEIJING (AP) — Chinese police today stopped three U.S. lawmakers who laid flowers and held up a banner in Tiananmen Square in honor of activists slain when the 1989 pro-democracy movement was crushed by the Chinese army.

The three — Rep. Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., Rep. Ben Jones, D-Ga., and Rep. John Miller, R-Wash. — had been holding meetings with Chinese officials to press for human rights improvements.

"It was important for us to make a gesture in memory of those people," Jones said later. "We are a human rights delegation, after all."

They were allowed to leave the square after a short, confused exchange with police hampered by the language barrier.

Police scuffled with three U.S. television camera crews that filmed the incident, and detained them for about 90 minutes, the crew members said.

The three legislators had held up a banner about three feet long saying in Chinese and English: "To those who died for democracy in China."

They also made short statements to the crowd that quickly gathered, then laid on the ground small white flowers they were wearing.

At a news conference at the U.S. Embassy shortly before the incident, the legislators said they had stressed in talks with Chinese officials that the country could lose its most-favored-nation trade status if it does not release people jailed for taking part in the 1989 democracy movement.

The group quoted Chinese officials as saying they are considering allowing international humanitarian groups to visit prisoners and monitor their conditions. That would be a concession, as China previously has allowed foreigners to visit only a few, select prisons and generally has barred access to political prisoners.

Jones said the statement he made at the square read in part: "These three flowers symbolize liberty, justice and democracy. Those who died here on June 4, 1989, did not die in vain."

Two policemen ran up and tried to stop the legislators as they walked away after the flower-laying.

Jones said he kept going. He said a plainclothes officer who has shadowed the group on its travels around Beijing apparently signaled to the police to let them go.

World

North Korea willing to investigate

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea is willing to investigate the thousands of Americans missing in action or taken prisoner in the Korean War, a representative of the first U.S. veterans' group allowed to visit since the war said today.

Tom Gregory of The Chosin Few, a group of veterans from the Chosin Reservoir battle, said officials in the capital Pyongyang assured him the north will investigate whether any of the Americans are still alive.

"With no preconditions, they indicated a willingness to re-examine the issue of whether any American soldiers are still alive in North Korea," said Gregory, who was in Tokyo after an eight-day stay in Communist North Korea, one of the world's most isolated countries.

"(The north) had always said it was a closed issue, so I was surprised they agreed to look into it," he said.

Li Sung Ho, a North Korean lawmaker closely involved in MIA issues, also was quoted by Gregory as saying that a joint U.S.-North Korean commission on exhuming and returning the remains of U.S. soldiers "should be initiated immediately."

But Gregory, of Jacksonville, Fla., said that Li stressed he does not know of any American soldiers still alive in the north.

ANC rejects de Klerk constitution

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (AP) — President F.W. de Klerk today outlined a new constitution that would replace white rule with power-sharing among racial groups, but the African National Congress promptly rejected it as undemocratic.

The ANC, the country's main black organization, said that the proposals are designed to perpetuate privileges whites gained under apartheid by giving whites veto power.

It said the plan, despite giving blacks the vote, would make South Africa "wholly un-governable."

De Klerk outlined the proposed constitution to a special congress of his governing National Party. It calls for a two-chamber legislature, a collective presidency and guarantees for the rights of whites and other minorities.

"It offers full participation to all South Africans at all levels of government and does so on a universally acceptable basis. It is in line with successful democratic systems all over the free world," de Klerk told the conference.

"This does not mean apartheid in another guise, but merely what it says — full rights for the majority, but not the ability to trample down or destroy the rights and values of others; a vote for all, but not the right to dominate or oppress," he said.

Cease-fire violated for third day

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Croatian guardsmen shot four people to death at a roadblock today and Serb rebels blocked a strategic highway in a third day of ethnic fighting that violated a cease-fire.

Truce observers, arriving in Croatia under terms of the widely ignored peace agreement arranged by the European Community, said the turmoil prevented them from doing their job.

Some of the fiercest fighting in recent days occurred on Tuesday in the Croatian stronghold of Osijek.

The cease-fire went into effect on Monday. Despite the widespread violations, the 12-nation EC continued preparations for an urgent international peace conference on Yugoslavia.

Making men's apparel dowdy

If famous designers such as Isaac Mizrahi and Gianni Versace have their way, clothes won't make the man; they will undo him in a hurry.

Men may be becoming the latest victims of the fashion industry. Designers are doing their best to make men feel positively dowdy in their innocuous, drab suits. On the runways of New York, they are presenting dramatic fabrics and patterns and unusual stylings and combinations — all designed to call attention to the slightest bodily flaw.

Just imagine the chief executive officer of a Fortune 500 company strolling into a board meeting in a tasteful, pin-striped shorts suit. Would the board members be focused on his sales pitch or his calves, especially when his legs are set off by a pair of open-toed shoes?

Or imagine a middle-aged lawyer showing up at a neighbor's barbecue clad only in skin-tight tights in a bold, geometric print and metal-studded, ankle-high, black-leather boots. Would anyone really pay attention to his funny story about torts?

The fashion industry's assault on men may be the best thing that could happen in the battle of the sexes. After a few forays into the land of fashion, men with a less than taut abdomen may have a whole new appreciation for what women have long endured at the hands of fashion designers.

Both sexes deserve what men have long received — clothing that's flattering, sensible and reasonably priced.

Soviet lesson in how not to execute a coup

The hard-liners were meeting in a smoke-filled room in Moscow to discuss their plans for a coup in which they would seize power in the Soviet Union and return the country to its communistic past.

"First," said Minister of Sewers, Comrade Nortonki, who had appointed himself head of the committee, "we will need to come up with a falsehood to explain what has happened to 'Tattoo-Head.'"

"You are speaking of Comrade Gorbachev?" asked Comrade Beenasleepski, Minister of Keeping Dog Poo off Moscow Sidewalks.

"Of course, that's who I'm talking about," shot back Comrade Nortonki. "And he is not worthy of the term 'comrade.' He is a traitor to the Great Plan to Turn the Entire World into Just As Boring and Miserable a Place As This Is. Who did you think I was talking about, Boozoo the Clown?"

"That's 'Bozo,' Comrade," interrupted Comrade Nimrodski, Minister of Culture.

"Another insolent correction like that," said Comrade Nortonki and you will be 'Bozo the Salt Miner.'"

"Why don't we announce Comrade ... I mean Gorbachev, has committed suicide? We could say he accidentally ran into several hundreds of bullets at firing squad practice," suggested aging Comrade Dingbative, former aide to Joseph Stalin, who had been made Minister of the Annual KGB Picnic, due to the fact his advancing years often caused him to doze off and have difficulty controlling his bowels during important meetings.

"Is very stupid," said Comrade Nortonki. "The decadent Western press would bury us. We will say Gorbachev can no longer continue to do his duties due to health problems."

"Like having several bullet holes in his head, if it is up to me," said Comrade Dingbative, known for his stubbornness when he can stay awake.

"Don't you have to go to the restroom?" asked Comrade Nortonki, sarcastically. "What we will do is hold a press conference and say that we, The State Committee for the State of Emergency, have taken control from Mister Democratic-Reform, who is too ill to continue in office and has been hospitalized in some place we'll make up.

"Then, we will place the traitor Yeltsin under house arrest, take back control of the media, kick the Western press out of the country, suspend any further talks on arms control, throw a wrench into the impending Middle East peace conference, take a wrecking ball to parliament and close down McDonald's."

"But what if the people resist?" asked Comrade Smirnoff, Minister of Vodka.

"We will do what we did in the glorious victories over the insurgents in Poland and Czechoslovakia before Glasnost-Breath came along," answered Comrade Nortonki.

"Bravo!" shouted aging Comrade Dingbative, just before passing away.

"Then it is agreed," said Comrade Nortonki. "We will silence the treasonous Gorbachev and Yeltsin, take over the government, restore the glorious order of the past, and order the tanks to shoot anybody who doesn't like it."

"Splendid," said Comrade Boobarev, Minister of the Bureau of Bureaucrats. "Just like the old days."

"It's foolproof," said Comrade Larrymoeurlyski, Minister of Economic Development. "We'll have the country headed back where it came from in no time."

The group stood and sang, "Happy Days Are Here Again." Everybody but Comrade Dingbative, who was still dead.

Inslaw case: Smell gets worse

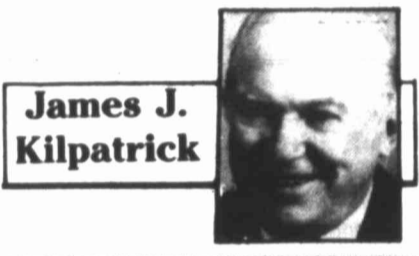

WASHINGTON — Some months ago, writing about the Inslaw case, I said the affair was beginning to stink to high heaven. With the death of Danny Casolaro, a free-lance investigative reporter, the stench grows worse.

Temporarily, the verdict seems to be that Casolaro killed himself in a Martinsburg, W. Va., hotel room three weeks ago. No one who knew him accepts that explanation. He was an outgoing, talkative, vital person; he was on top of a major break in a story he had been pursuing for eight years; he was headed for a family party. Everything about the story rings false.

Casolaro was not well known within the Washington press corps, but editors who did know him have described him as a dogged reporter who would not leave the trail of a good story. In investigating the Inslaw case, Casolaro was on to the best story of his life. He had a book in the making.

I have been writing about the Inslaw case off and on for the past two years: It involves the scandalous treatment of Bill Hamilton, a Washington inventor and computer expert. His company, known as Inslaw, developed a software program known as Promis. It worked so superbly that he sold it to the Department of Justice for use in tracking the flow of court cases through the offices of U.S. attorneys.

It was a big contract for a tiny firm, but Hamilton's jubilation was short-lived. Officials at the Department of Justice, including a former Inslaw employee whom Hamilton had fired, suddenly began finding petty objections to the contract. The department withheld payments. Driven into bankruptcy court, Inslaw fought back. A bankruptcy judge, after prolonged hearings, ruled flatly that the government had "stolen" Promis through "trickery, fraud and deceit." That judgment was upheld on appeal to a federal district court.

All this happened while Ed Meese was attorney general. Meese has denied any personal involvement, but officials under him launched a cover-up that continues to this day. Under Attorney General Dick Thornburgh, the department resisted an impartial investigation at every step. When a Senate subcommittee attempted to look into the affair, the department stonewalled. When a House committee tried its hand, Thornburgh refused to testify.

Something stinks. Promis was sold exclusively to the U.S. Department of Justice, but the program has turned up in Canada and in various nations in Europe. Someone is marketing stolen goods.

There is reason to believe that Danny Casolaro went to Martinsburg to crack the case. He had told friends that Inslaw was part of an "octopus" of criminal activities in high places, including the BCCI and the savings and loan scandals.

Hamilton and other friends of Casolaro have tried to reconstruct his last hours. They are convinced the suicide was faked. They see murder.

On the night of Monday, Aug. 5, Casolaro spoke by telephone with three separate confidants. He told them he had just returned from interviewing a source in West Virginia. He now knew the Inslaw story, but he would have to go back to Martinsburg to wrap it up.

Casolaro drove back to West

Virginia on Thursday, Aug. 8, and checked into Room 517 at the Sheraton Hotel. On Friday evening he telephoned his mother in northern Virginia to say he would be late in getting back for a family birthday party, but he was headed home.

About 1 o'clock on Saturday the 10th, hotel maids found Casolaro's body in a bloody bathtub. Reports of the circumstances are both sketchy and conflicting. Reportedly there were crude slash marks on each arm. Arteries had been severed. By one account Casolaro had used a broken beer bottle; by another account, a broken glass. In a third account, we read that a razor blade was found beneath his body. Casolaro's brother, a surgeon, said he never could get Danny to have a physical examination because Danny wouldn't let his finger be pricked for a blood sample. Without permission from anyone, West Virginia officials ordered Casolaro's body speedily embalmed.

There was a note: "I'm sorry, especially to my son." Casolaro was a novelist and a writer of short stories. Associates say he had a florid style. The note, if authentic, seems completely out of character. Casolaro was known to carry stacks of manila folders with him. Police said there were no papers in his room or in his car. A witness says he met with Casolaro about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, and the reporter had the folders at that time. The witness gave Casolaro certain documents unrelated to the Inslaw case. The documents have disappeared.

Former Attorney General Elliot Richardson, Inslaw's chief counsel, has asked the FBI for a full-blown investigation. Under the circumstances, nothing less could suffice.

Around the rim

Football stressed too much

By SKIP SEISER
City Editor

The world has changed significantly in the last three weeks. The attempted coup in the Soviet Union has all but ended the power of the Communist Internationale.

And more changes are in store next year when Europe is united economically.

But the changing world has had little impact in the classrooms of the nation's schools. Students in this country have problems reading, doing math problems or figuring out simple scientific experiments.

Even the older population has educational problems. Surveys by the U.S. Department of Education show that only 8 percent to 13 percent of the nation's adult population is literate in English.

This nation is not prepared to face the changes beyond its borders because it is not willing to change the system within.

A pointed change should come in the world of athletics, namely football, which is only a game but has become very overemphasized in the last few decades because of the vast amounts of money made by the teams and players of the NFL and network television.

That pressure to win at all costs has filtered first to the college ranks and has then been passed on to players at the high school level.

Nowhere does there seem to be pressure to perform in the classrooms, either in college or in high school. Even some professionals in the NFL can't read. Dexter Manley, who was recently cut by the Phoenix Cardinals and then picked up by Tampa Bay, admitted a few years ago he went through high school and college without ever learning to read.

In Texas, as in many other states, too much emphasis is put on football because it means money for schools, colleges, promoters, radio and television stations and newspapers.

The Big Spring Herald has even fallen into the same trap. More emphasis — and space in the newspaper's pages — has been given to high school football than to coverage of news events around the world. No local sports stories will be cut or eliminated from the pages of the paper, but little space is given the day's events in the world.

Very few football players these days have put the world in perspective rationally; namely, that football is only a game and does little if anything to prepare young men for the future.

One football player this season apparently has put the game in perspective. His name is Robert Smith, a prospective star performer for the Ohio State Buckeyes.

Smith had broken Archie Griffin's school rushing record as a freshman — 1,126 yards — and is said to have Heisman Trophy potential. Smith, a microbiology major in pre-med studies, also has the highest grade-point average of any member of the team.

But Smith said he didn't like the regimentation, the discipline designed to turn young men into football robots for a football factory.

Smith quit the team recently, and in doing so placed more emphasis on integrity and education than on a game that has been turned into a multimillion-dollar business.

Smith should be cheered, not shunned. He should be praised but probably won't be.

Football runs this country from August through January, and Smith's example of leaving the "business" will soon be forgotten by most.

But there are many high school football players out there who should heed his example by putting education first and walking away from football when it becomes overemphasized.

PRETORIA, South Africa — African National Congress President Nelson Mandela makes a statement to the press after meeting with President F.W. de Klerk in Pretoria Tuesday. De Klerk rejected Mandela's appeal to free three right-wing extremists who are in poor condition from a hunger strike.

Appeal for hunger strikers rejected

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — President F.W. de Klerk has rejected Nelson Mandela's appeal to free three white right-wing extremists who are in poor condition from lengthy hunger strikes.

The African National Congress president said Tuesday he was very concerned about the three men, whose release he has sought so they could testify about alleged government involvement in political violence.

Mandela said he and de Klerk met for more than two hours but were unable to agree on a series of issues.

"We had very serious difficulties," Mandela told reporters. "The president is taking the position that he is not prepared to consider the indemnification of the three right-wingers."

The three men are demanding to be released with immunity from prosecution. They have gone without food for up to two months and are reported in serious condition.

De Klerk, who previously rejected appeals to meet the trio's demands, said in a brief statement that he explained the government's position to Mandela.

The men have rejected a government offer of bail because it included restrictions on their activities.

The three, members of an extremist group, are charged in connection with a series of bombings last year, mainly against facilities used by blacks, that killed one person and injured 13.

Mandela, who visited the three in a hospital Monday, contends they are government agents who carried out bombing attacks under orders from the security services.

Mandela has accused government security services of waging a clandestine war to weaken the ANC as it negotiates with the government on sharing political power. The ANC is the leading black opposition group.

The South African Defense Forces denies Mandela's charges and says the three men were not government agents.

Mandela said he also discussed the fate of several ANC prisoners and recent political violence with de Klerk. He said they reached no agreement, but de Klerk was willing to meet again to discuss those issues further.

Henry Martin, a British citizen, has refused food for 57 days in what is believed to be the longest hunger strike in South African history. Adriaan Maritz has gone without food for 51 days and Lood van Schalkwyk for 44 days.

Wim Cornelius, the lawyer for the three, said they were determined to fast to the death if not released.

All three have resumed drinking water after going several days without, he added. Van Schalkwyk, who has suffered a heart attack, is receiving medicine intervenously.

"They are stable, but they are very weak," Cornelius said.

Right-wing sources, who refused to allow their names to be used, said at least two of the men had connections with the National Intelligence Service, the main government intelligence agency. They were involved in spying on dissidents, but apparently did not have any orders to carry out bombings, the sources said.

Menem: Loud scandal, quiet success

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — So much attention has been fixed on scandal and corruption in Carlos Menem's presidency that some people may not realize how profoundly he is changing Argentina.

Some pundits disparage it as Menemstroika, but the dapper Peronist sportsman, bon vivant and lifelong politician continues on his own course.

Menem, 61, has changed defense ministers four times and intelligence chiefs twice since taking office in July 1989.

He pared the military in budget and size. After 1993, the annual draft will be just 30,000 men, one-third the usual number.

Little fear remains of the military conspiracies that plagued his predecessor, Raul Alfonsin. When some army units revolted in December, Menem ordered loyal troops to open fire.

On Monday, 15 soldiers who staged the Dec. 3 insurrection were convicted of mutiny, cashiered and sentenced to terms ranging to life in prison.

The verdict may neutralize for good a rightist army element that rebelled four times since the last military dictatorship ended in 1983.

Argentina's economy has seen the biggest changes under Menem. In a country that slid from affluence to chaos in two generations, he has been like a pampero, the wind that rakes the nation from the sheep pastures of Patagonia to the northern cane fields and scrub.

He sold the state-owned airline and telephone company, reduced the public payroll by tens of thousands, lowered import barriers, encouraged foreign investment, lifted currency and price controls.

Much more is coming. The country's largest company, the oil monopoly YPF will be sold by the end of next year, along with the electric, gas and water companies. Huge stretches of the rail and highway network will be leased to private companies.

On Jan. 1, the nation will get its fifth currency in 22 years.

Argentina's ills usually are laid at the door of fiscal irresponsibility. Both civilian and military governments spent far beyond their means and borrowed or defaulted on debts until the lenders disappeared.

When Menem took office, the central bank was broke, inflation was 200 percent a month and Argentina was in the second year of a deep recession that now seems to be waning.

People were rioting over food in one of the world's most prolific producers of grain and beef. The dollar nearly replaced the devalued austral, capital flight was rampant, interest rates were astronomical and investment unsustainably low.

Menem has brought the budget nearly into balance with reduced spending, new taxes and better collection.

Inflation is under two percent a month and the austral is holding steady at 10,000 to the dollar. Foreign banks have resumed lending.

The central bank has more than $6 billion in reserves and the stock market is booming. The economy is expected to grow slightly this year and by 5 percent or more next year.

Argentina's credibility is being restored and Menem deserves much of the credit. He took large risks, like freezing nearly half the money supply to curtail speculation against the austral and opposing strikes despite the Peronist party's labor base.

His administration has been messy, at times scandal-ridden. Menem's chief adviser, also his brother-in-law, resigned after a public accusation that he had demanded a bribe. His appointments secretary, also his sister-in-law, was indicted on charges of

Menem locked his wife out of the presidential residence and accepted a sports car worth more than $100,000 as a gift. He posed for photographs with models, showgirls and, occasionally, a belly dancer.

Despite the attention paid his peccadillos, Menem's accomplishments appear to have spoken louder.

Few major party candidates advocate renewed state control of the economy, which indicates Menem's reforms are unlikely to be overturned.

In addition, a 12-week round of congressional and provincial elections began in August and the Peronists, projected to do poorly, won two of the first three areas.

Gorbachev's wife describes illness from coup

MOSCOW (AP) — Raisa Gorbachev, in an interview published Tuesday, described how her health failed and her blood pressure rose during last month's failed coup — sleepless days and nights she is still reliving.

The wife of Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev said in her first public comments since the abortive coup that she now feels better, but feared a surge of ethnic violence.

"Again and again I'm reliving what happened. And I'm very frightened of a split in society," she was quoted as telling the labor newspaper Trud.

Mrs. Gorbachev, 59, has not been seen in public since she walked from the airplane that carried the president and his family from their dacha at the seaside resort of Foros in the Crimea early Aug. 22. The newspaper did not say when the interview took place.

Gorbachev said last week his wife suffered a "bad bout" because of the Aug. 18-21 coup, but he did not name her illness.

"After three sleepless nights, when all these events started to wind up with particular speed, (my health) became worse," Mrs. Gorbachev was quoted as telling Trud.

"I had developed an acute hypertensive crisis that was accompanied by a speech disorder. Now I'm 'better,' and must be treated just a little more. For now, I'm not leaving home," she was quoted as saying.

"Acute hypertensive crisis" usually refers to a sharp rise in blood pressure, most often in people already suffering from hypertension, said Dr. Henry Black of the Yale School of Medicine.

Mrs. Gorbachev's candor about her health was unprecedented for the wife of a Soviet leader. In the past, such information rarely was released.

Mrs. Gorbachev has broken other taboos by often appearing in public with her husband, meeting with spouses of foreign leaders and taking an active role in Soviet cultural organizations.

"I feel and I live through all the same things that our citizens live through. I'm a sympathizer with our society, and these are not just words," Mrs. Gorbachev was quoted as telling Trud.

During their three-day detention at the dacha, Mrs. Gorbachev said the family walked to a nearby beach to disprove the coup plotters' statement that Gorbachev was ill.

"We left the dacha grounds and went to the sea with a definite goal: so that people could see the president was alive and well," she was quoted as saying.

Mrs. Gorbachev told Trud she learned of the coup when her husband came to her on the afternoon of Aug. 18 and said "something serious has happened, maybe terrible."

"Mikhail Sergeevich told me, 'I will make no deals with any adventurists. I will not give in to blackmail. But we may have to pay dearly for this. Everything, our whole family. We have to be ready for anything.'" Trud quoted Mrs. Gorbachev as saying.

Fall desserts go to the head of the class

Gone are the lazy days of summer. In their place schedules are suddenly full of meetings, after-school events and carpooling. The turn of the calendar means fall and back to school. The hours on the clock seem to be going double-time. While dinner is often a fix-it yourself concept, most meal planners know that means fixing something ahead and dessert is usually a part of that menu. Here are some easy-to-make recipes which can be prepared in advance. If you've always quaked at the thought of making Zabaglione sauce from scratch, you'll enjoy this quick version. Candy Apple pie is a lot less messy than making candy apples — you get the idea! Good taste with a minimum of effort!

MOCHA BROWNIE PIE WITH CHOCOLATE CARAMEL SAUCE

1 unfrosted homemade or bakery brownies (2"x3" each)
 1 quart coffee-flavored ice cream, softened
 1 Keebler Ready-Crust Chocolate flavored pie crust
CHOCOLATE CARAMEL SAUCE
 6 to 8 ounces chocolate-covered caramels (ex. Milk Duds or store brand) plain caramels may also be used
 2 Tbs. milk
 2 Tbs. dark rum or 1/4 tsp. rum extract

Whipped cream
 Chocolate shavings
 Cut brownies into 1-inch cubes and freeze. Gently fold frozen brownies into softened ice cream. Spoon into crust and freeze at least 1 hour. To prepare sauce, combine candy and milk in a saucepan. Heat on low until melted and smooth. Stir in rum. Remove pie from freezer 5 minutes before serving. Top each serving with a spoonful of warm sauce, a dollop of whipped cream and chocolate shavings.
 Serves 8

CANDY APPLE PIE

1 1/2 cups unsweetened apple pie, divided
 1/2 cup cinnamon candies
 1/4 tsp. red food coloring
 1/2 tsp. vanilla extract
 1 tart cooking apples, peeled and sliced (Granny Smith, Rome Beauty or McIntosh)
 1 Tbs. cornstarch
 1 Keebler Ready-Crust Graham cracker pie crust
 1 1/2 cups light frozen whipped topping, thawed
 1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon

In a large saucepan, combine 1 1/2 cups pie, candies, food coloring, vanilla and apples. Bring to a boil, then simmer just until tender, about 10-15 minutes. Combined remaining juice and cornstarch. Stir into apple mixture and continue to cook until thickened. Cook 2-3 minutes longer. Remove from the heat; cool to room temperature. Spread apple filling over bottom of crust. Chill several hours or until filling holds its shape. To serve, combine whipped topping and cinnamon. Top each slice with a dollop of cream.
 Makes 8 servings

ZABAGLIONE TARTS WITH FRESH BERRIES

1 1/2 cups skim milk
 1/4 cup Marsala wine
 1 package (9.9 ounces) sugar-free instant vanilla pudding mix

CANDY APPLE PIE

VERY EASY BANANA PIE

1/2 cup light frozen whipped topping, thawed
 6 Keebler Ready-Crust Single Serve Graham Cracker Tarts
 18 medium-size fresh strawberries, hulled and halved
 Place milk, wine and pudding mix in a blender container. Cover and blend on low until well mixed and slightly thickened. Remove to a bowl and fold in whipping topping. Chill until ready to serve. Divide filling between 6 tart shells and arrange strawberries over filling. Top with additional whipped topping, if desired. Makes 6 servings.
 Note: This dessert can be made last minute. Keep all the ingredients in the pantry and refrigerator; prepare before dinner. Chilling during dinner is sufficient. Raspberries, blueberries or peaches are also wonderful as a topping.

VERY EASY BANANA PIE
 1 large or 2 small bananas, peeled and sliced
 1 envelope plain gelatin
 1 cup water
 1 pkg. (9.9 ounces) sugar-free banana pudding
 1 tsp. sugar; 1/4 tsp. ground cinnamon, blended
 3/4 cup of low fat ricotta cheese
 1 Chocolate flavored Ready-

Crust pie crust
 Put gelatin in blender with 2 tablespoons water. Heat remaining water to boiling and pour into blender. Blend until mixed well. Add ice cubes, pudding mix and ricotta cheese, blend 'til smooth and well mixed. Place first layer of bananas in pie crust, sprinkle with 1/2 cinnamon/sugar mixture. Spread 1/2 of the pudding mixture over the pie. Repeat process: bananas, sugar and remaining pudding. Garnish with sliced bananas dipped in melted chocolate. Chill 2 hours before serving. Add mint leaves before serving, if available.

Health concerns influence what Americans eat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Households with children spend more food money on milk and sweets than anyone else. The elderly buy more fruits and vegetables. And higher income families spend more on fish, cheese and butter. But it's health concerns and convenience that have the most influence over what the modern American eats, says an Agriculture Department economist.

The dominance of health awareness on food choices reached a high level in the 1980s and is still rising, says Alden Manchester in a report based on a forthcoming study called "Rearranging the Economic Landscape: The Food Marketing Revolution, 1950-90." More than ever, foods are being viewed as good and bad, depending on popular perceptions of health consequences, he said. Concern about the ill effects of cholesterol, fat and caffeine, and knowledge about the need for fiber are major considerations when people plan their meals nowadays. As a result, the collective American thumb has turned up for poultry, cheese, fresh fruits and vegetables, fruit juices and cereal products. It has turned down on beef and pork, bakery products, sugar and sweets and coffee and tea, according to Manchester's research. Convenience starts to become more significant, Manchester says, when the adults in the family work outside the home. He says the proportion of families with more than one wage earner began to increase sharply after World War II from 39 percent in 1950 to 59 percent in 1988. Average household income also increased, jumping 126 percent in those 38 years because of rising real income per wage earner and declining family and household size. These factors have led to more money and less time spent on food. Microwave ovens are in 90 percent of American homes, undoubtedly contributing to the finding that in families with adults who work outside the home, meals are fixed in 20 minutes today instead of the average 30 minutes of a few years ago. People also are eating out more, spending 46 percent of their food dollars on restaurant food in 1990 compared to 25 percent in 1954. Fast food places saw the most growth, Manchester says.

OPEN HOUSE FOR INCOME TAX SCHOOL

Curious about how income taxes are taught? H&R Block, the country's largest income tax preparation firm, will hold an open house on September 7th. According to Tommy Richmond, H&R Block franchise owner, "We invite anyone interested in income tax preparation to attend."

Experienced H&R Block tax preparers will be available to answer the public's questions about income taxes and tax return preparation. Tax manuals and class-room study materials will be on display.

.....

The 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. open house will be held at 1512 S. Gregg, the location of Block's Income Tax School. One of more than 1,500 schools conducted throughout the United States, the 75-hour course will begin on September 9th.

.....

The school's curriculum of more than 40 tax topics includes filing requirements, itemized deductions, farm returns, retirement plans, rental property, and business schedules, among others. Graduates receive certificates and 7.5 continuing education units.

.....

"You do not need an accounting background or tax experience to enroll," said Tommy Richmond. "Our students range from homemakers and college students to retirees and people studying toward careers in tax preparation. You can find all ages and educational backgrounds represented in a typical Income Tax School course."

.....

Anyone interested in attending the open house or enrolling in the Income Tax School can contact Tommy Richmond or Gladys Custer at the H&R Block office at 1512 S. Gregg or call 263-4572.

Age has its advantages for Ettie Greene

Divorce lawyers adopt guidelines

CHICAGO (AP) — An organization of divorce lawyers — trying to clean up its members' "L.A. Law" image as legal lotharios — has adopted guidelines governing such things as sleeping with clients and using children as weapons.

"The public thinks most lawyers are Arnie Beckers. Most divorce lawyers are not Arnie Beckers," Sanford Dranoff, president of the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers, said Tuesday, referring to the series' sleazy divorce lawyer.

The Chicago-based group has drafted non-binding guidelines that call for avoiding the use of youngsters as bargaining chips, steering clear of sexual entanglements with clients, avoiding harassment of opposing attorneys, recommending reconciliation when appropriate and considering the welfare of the children.

The group, which represents about 1,200 of the nation's 40,000 divorce lawyers, already has general ethical guidelines, but these are to first to deal specifically with sexual issues and certain other matters, Dranoff said.

"The goal is to make sure that the tactics employed by Arnie Becker and in 'War of the Roses' are fiction rather than reality," he said.

Sex with clients is a particularly sensitive ethical issue for the legal profession.

The California bar recently passed a measure barring lawyers from demanding or coercing sex with a client. When sexual relations do occur, the lawyers must prove the relationship didn't interfere with their professional representation.

The amendment, subject to the California Supreme Court's approval, recently was sent back to the bar for additional public review.

The American Bar Association, which represents about half the nation's 750,000 lawyers, is not considering guidelines specifically for divorce attorneys, said George Kuhlman, ABA ethics counsel. The ABA has guidelines for lawyers in general.

"We haven't seen anything in the domestic relations field that would make us want to take a closer look," Kuhlman said. "It's possible that the sex-with-clients issue, which has been coming up a fair amount, might be a little more frequent in the context of domestic relations law, but not by much."

By TOBI ELKIN

LINDSIDE, W.Va. (AP) — At 113, Ettie Mae Greene, America's oldest person, has earned the right to do things her own way.

Like sleeping. Greene usually sleeps for about three days and is awake for three. Marianne Blakeslee, director of nursing at the Springfield Comprehensive Care Center, said Greene talks steadily before she tires herself out. Nurses feed her three meals a day as she dozes, Blakeslee said.

A former farmer and seamstress, Greene said a daily milkshake, a vitamin and "good, clean living" are the keys to her long life.

"It's been a pretty good life I guess," she said. "I'm so tired I can hardly stand it."

She has outlived five of her nine children and has been a widow for 72 years. She has 21 grandchildren, 47 great-grandchildren and 37 great-great-grandchildren.

The Guinness Book of Records lists her as the world's third-oldest person, behind a 117-year-old in France and a woman in England who is a month older than Greene.

Family and nurses, who call her "Grandmother," will celebrate her 114th birthday Sept. 8 at the nursing home where she's lived for three years.

It's an age she thinks is "quite much."

She recently greeted visitors to her room with outstretched arms and a spritely "Howdy."

Her snowy hair was twisted back with purple combs and a silky ribbon. She weighs about 95 pounds.

She loves having her photograph taken. At the click of a camera, she says, "C-H-double-E-S-E."

"Grandmother always says 'living a clean life' is what made her live so long," said granddaughter Rita Dillon Barker, 50, of Wayside. "She never smoked or drank and she worked hard on the farm."

"When you ask her something, it's not just 'yes' or 'no.' She always makes a complete sentence," Blakeslee said.

"Every response is unique. When you ask her if she's hungry, she says, 'I'm hungry as a bear,'" Blakeslee said. "She's like a cocoon, but she eats every bite."

"She has a real sweet disposition and an ability to remember everything," said Elizabeth French, Greene's day nurse. "I would not be here if she wasn't here. I really feel better after I have come here to work with her. It's a privilege."

Greene occasionally sings the hymns "Amazing Grace" and "At the Cross" and recites the 23rd Psalm. "The Bible is her favorite book," Barker said.

Greene grew up as Ettie Mae Thomas and lived in the towns of Wayside, Greenville and Peterstown. Her uncles fought in the Civil War.

She was raised amid wild turkeys and chickens, home-canned raspberries and homemade apple butter. Her mother taught her to quilt and use a spinning wheel.

Greene thinks the telephone is the greatest invention. Barker said voting was important to her grandmother.

"She was near 100 when she last voted," Barker said.

Greene's daughter Ada Dillon, 81, recalled her mother climbing trees to pick cherries and peaches while in her 80s and 90s.

"Mother said, 'What do you think I'd get done if I rested?'" Dillon said.

Ettie Mae Green is the oldest teenager in the United States at 113. Greene who turns 114 on Sept. 8 is the third oldest person in the world according to the Guinness Book of World Records. A portrait of her former parents hangs on the wall of her room at the Springfield Comprehensive Care Center in Lindsie W.Va.

Sue thy neighbor?

NEW YORK (AP) — Love thy neighbor? Not in Mark Warda's book. Sue the bum for all he's worth is more like it.

The Florida lawyer is the author of "Neighbor vs. Neighbor," a 226-page book that is part legal history and part legal advice for people interested in suing those close to home.

It's filled with bizarre anecdotes of successful and unsuccessful lawsuits.

Although the book offers many reasons to avoid litigation, it also provides information aimed at determining whether you — or the annoying guy next door — would win in court.

As Warda writes in the book's introduction: "Since we can no longer solve these problems by hurling our neighbors over a cliff, we must resort to the legal system to settle our differences."

Moon door means long life

DEAR ABBY: What is the significance of the moon or half-moon on an outhouse door?

I recently visited the birthplace of Herbert Hoover and saw this freshly painted outhouse with the moon on the door, and inquired of the security guard as to what it meant. He just laughed and said he'd been asked that question many times, but he's never been able to come up with an answer.

I'm sure there are a lot of people out there who are as curious as I am to know the answer. What is it? — BOB HESS, IOWA CITY, IOWA resentful. I am not poor, but neither am I rich. I am afraid if I ask for the money they owe me, it will damage the good relationship I have with them, and I don't want to cause any hard feelings. Should I just keep my mouth shut and hope they never come to me for another loan? — SOFT TOUCH IN NEVADA

DEAR SOFT TOUCH: It's unfortunate that you let it go for so long; they probably assumed that since you never asked for the money, you didn't need it. Write them a friendly letter reminding them of their obligation and enclose a photocopy of the note they signed

DEAR MR. HESS: Before indoor plumbing, American privies usually had "two-seaters." The one with the "moon" on the door was for ladies and the one with the "star" was for gentlemen. That way, people who couldn't read could stay out of trouble.

P.S. I was privy to this information when I came upon "The Classic Outhouse Book," by Janet Strombeck.

DEAR ABBY: In February of 1987, my granddaughter called and said she and her husband needed a loan of $500 to pay for their baby, which was due in five months. I mailed a check to them immediately, and they sent a note with both their signatures, promising to pay me $25 until the loan was paid off. I never asked for this note — they sent it on their own.

Since that time, I haven't received a penny from them, although they have bought cars and furniture and have taken vacation trips. The final straw was when my granddaughter paid $150 for a pet snake! Abby, if they had sent me only $5 or $10 a month, I would feel that at least they were making an effort.

I continue buying gifts for Christmas and their birthdays even though I am getting a little

Oil/markets

October crude oil $21.91, down 23, and October cotton futures 46.25 cents a pound, down 25; cash hog was 1.90 lower at $4.50; slaughter steers today is 50 lower at 47 cents even; October live hog futures 43.45, down 25; October live cattle futures 69.47, down 48 at 11:10 a.m., according to Delta Commodities.

Sheriff's log

The Howard County Sheriff Department reported the following incident:

• A man and woman were both assaulted on Sherman Road.

Court docket

Filings in 118th Judicial District Court indicate the following:

• Dale Thomas Mitchell Jr., 17, of Coahoma, pleaded guilty to burglary of a building. He received a seven-year sentence to be probated upon the successful completion of a 90-day boot camp for first-time offenders.

• Robert Allen Stewart, 18, 1004 E. 13th, pleaded guilty to burglary of a building. He received a seven-year sentence to be probated upon the successful completion of a 90-day boot camp.

For the Record

The Big Spring Herald incorrectly listed a Public Record notation in Sunday's editions on Jerry Bennett Worthly.

Worthy served 20 days in jail on a conviction of a charge of driving while intoxicated. A two-year jail term was probated.

A headline in Sunday's Lifestyle section was misleading. It should have read Phillips family reunion. Also, the story about the reunion incorrectly listed the date for the family's next reunion. It is scheduled Aug. 15, 1992.

Frank Capra, filmmaker of American dreams, dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Director Frank Capra, whose populist vision of the American Dream in such movies as "It's a Wonderful Life" and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" inspired a generation of filmmakers, has died. He was 94.

Capra died in his sleep Tuesday at his home in La Quinta, near Palm Springs, said his son, Tom Capra, executive producer of NBC's "Today" show.

Steven Spielberg, whose "E.T.: The Extra-Terrestrial" seems profoundly influenced by Capra, once remarked: "Whenever I go on location, I take along a copy of 'It's a Wonderful Life.' I show it to the cast and crew and tell them, 'This is how movies should be made.'"

Spielberg's homage is representative of the devotion his generation of filmmakers feels for the movies Capra made in the 1930s and '40s.

"He set a style of filmmaking still in vogue today. So many films today are referred to as a 'Capraesque' film," said Arthur Hiller, president of the Directors Guild of America.

Like William Wyler, Billy Wilder and other immigrants, the Sicilian-born Capra had an outsider's special vision of the American psyche. While Wyler employed drama and Wilder satire, Capra took a humanist's view. He saw the failings of big business and government but proposed that a single brave person could prevail.

"The art of Frank Capra is very simple: It is the love of the people," he said upon accepting a Life Achievement Award from the American Film Institute in 1982.

Idealism was evident in all his work, from his morale-boosting World War II documentaries to his mainstream films. Ronald Colman sought his personal Shangri-La in "Lost Horizon." The Vanderhof family in "You Can't Take It With You" espoused non-conformism.

James Stewart learned in "It's a Wonderful Life" that family and friends meant more than material success.

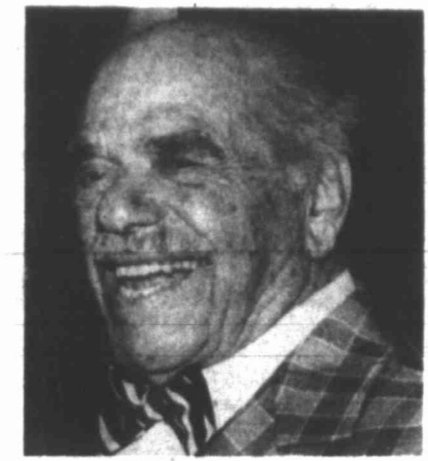

"Frank Capra will always have a very special place in my heart. I think this is true for the motion picture industry and true for the millions of people who saw his pictures," Stewart said Tuesday.

Capra was born near Palermo in 1897. The family immigrated to America when he was 6 and settled in Los Angeles, where his father worked in the vineyards.

"I hated being poor," Capra wrote in his autobiography. "My family couldn't read or write. I wanted out."

Capra graduated from the California Institute of Technology as a chemical engineer in 1918. After a stint in the Army, he taught mathematics, then discovered "the magic carpet of film — I vaulted to fame on its witchery."

He apprenticed with Mack Sen-

nett's comedy factory as prop man, cutter and gag man, and directed films starring Harry Langdon before Langdon fired him.

Later he began his stormy relationship with Columbia Pictures boss Harry Cohn.

"It Happened One Night," with Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert, proved the sensation of 1934 and was the first movie to win the top five Academy Awards. The comedy established Capra as Hollywood's leading director and elevated Columbia to major-league status.

Capra also won Oscars for "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" and "You Can't Take It With You."

Capra broke with Cohn in 1941, filming "Meet John Doe" and "Arsenic and Old Lace" for Warner Bros., and joined the Army six weeks after Pearl Harbor. He produced the acclaimed "Why We Fight" series to indoctrinate the troops.

After the war, Capra founded Liberty Films, where he made "It's a Wonderful Life" in 1946 with Stewart as the despondent banker who gets a second chance at life after attempting suicide. The holiday classic is seen by millions on television every year.

Police

Officer 1: "You're under arrest for DWI."

Heffington: "You're a damn liar!"

1: "At this point we're going to do three tests."

H: "I ain't doing no tests at all!" (the officer steps near Heffington).

H: "Shoot me! Shoot me, damn it!" (He charges three steps toward the officer).

At this point, officer 1 and officer 2, identified as Scott Griffin, escort Heffington into another room off camera. It is difficult to determine which officer is speaking.

Officer: "Turn around and shut up!"

H: "You shut up, you pig."

There is a loud bumping sound and Heffington screams, "Oh God!" He is never heard to make another sound on the tape.

Officer: "Now why don't you quit talking and upsetting people. As long as you cooperate, there won't be any problems, sir. Now I suggest you don't move right now either — do you understand?"

(pause) Thank you for your cooperation Mr. Heffington."

At this point, there is a loud thump or possibly two thumps in quick succession.

Officer 1: "He's bleeding."

Officer 2: "God damn it!"

They exit the room; officer 1 looks tense and strokes his face with his right hand. Officer 2 says, "(unintelligible) Wish he hadn't done that."

Several police officers begin showing up to view the situation.

An unidentified female officer, who was not shown in the tape when Heffington became injured, explains to a newcomer, "He turned around and they slapped him against the wall pretty good — 'cause he was fighting them."

Someone says something unintelligible to the female officer and she becomes quiet and looks at the camera.

The tape is cut off and started again as Heffington is taken out on an ambulance stretcher.

Miller has photographs of Heffington with cuts above each eye.

which Miller said occurred at that time.

• Adela Juarez, who was forced to re-enter the supermarket and open her purse, has signed a complaint against officer Ann Pope.

In her complaint, Juarez states Pope followed her while she was in the store and followed her to her car and should therefore have known there would be no stolen items in her purse.

Juarez said this was an unwarranted search and embarrassment. "I have never been arrested for shoplifting or charged with such an offense. . . I would request a full investigation."

• A complaint has been filed by the mother of Holston Banks Jr. Banks was allegedly brutalized in the front yard of his father's house by several officers after being handcuffed.

The complaint also alleges officers threatened Holston Banks Sr. and his father, the Rev. Holsea Banks, with arrest if they did not move to the porch of their home.

• Sylvia Miramontes of Big Spring alleges mistreatment at the hands of officer Scott Griffin in her complaint.

"This letter is not to degrade the Big Spring Police Department. I, too, believe our police department budget shouldn't be cut. . . However, I also feel we should have well-trained officers that should be able to deal with people. Officers that we as citizens should not be provoked or intimidated into saying something that will be cause for arrest," she said.

When Miramontes' niece was arrested at her home on May 9, Mrs. Miramontes was told police were at the house. She went to the residence to see to the security of her niece's two daughters, she said.

The following is taken from Miramontes' letter of complaint: "Roxann Flores, 8, and Tracy Gonzales, 5, heard my voice and rushed outside to tell me what had happened."

"Tracy told me the officers had forced the door open and that Mr. Griffin had struck Rosalinda with his night stick while Rosalinda was in bed. I again asked Mr. Griffin what happened. I also asked why he hit Rosalinda.

"At this point, Mr. Griffin took me inside the house and told me that he struck Rosalinda because she had used Tracy as a shield so that the officers would not attack her and place her under arrest. He stated he knew Rosalinda and she was an unfit mother (he said other things) . . ."

"He told me he couldn't stand to see people abuse kids because he had kids, too."

"When he was saying this, he referred to Rosalinda using Tracy as a shield."

"When he asked me if I believed him, I told him, 'No!' This made him very angry. He told me he was going to call social services to come pick up the girls. I told him I would take the girls home with me and that he didn't need to call social services."

"Before I realized what was happening, he grabbed my arm and started pushing me toward the door and was screaming that he was the one with the authority and I was not going to take the girls home because I had no right to question his authority."

"I told him that he didn't have to act the way he was acting. I wasn't doing anything to cause him to act in this manner."

"He told me he could have me arrested. When I asked him on what charges, he told me to shut up and pointed his finger right in my face, about one inch from my nose."

"An officer was present during this time and witnessed this. I did not give his badge number or name, but if I was to see him, I would recognize him."

"When Mr. Griffin started screaming at me, I looked at the officer and he looked at me. I thought Mr. Griffin was going to strike me and I honestly believe the officer thought the same thing."

Miller said he knows of one other individual who plans to file a complaint, but a signed statement has not as yet been received.

Police Chief Joe Cook has been asked to speak at the coming Sept. 10 city council meeting, regarding the allegations. Cook today declined comment on the allegations.

Dottie West dies of accident injuries

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country singer Dottie West died this morning of injuries suffered in a car wreck last week on the way to performing at the Grand Ole Opry, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The 58-year-old singer-songwriter, who won country music's first Grammy for a female vocalist, died at 9:43 a.m. CDT, said Barbara Cramer, spokeswoman for Vanderbilt University Medical Center.

West was scheduled to undergo surgery this morning to repair her liver, which was severely damaged in Friday's car accident.

West probably best known for the hit song "Country Sunshine" and duets with Kenny Rogers.

Her career spanned more than 25 years and yielded solo hits like "Here Comes My Baby," the 1964 hit that won the first Grammy for country music performance by a female vocalist.

Her late 1970s duets with Rogers produced a series of hits, including "Every Time Two Fools Collide" and "What Are We Doin' in Love."

However, West's financial fortunes tumbled and she was forced to file for bankruptcy in 1990 with more than $1 million in debts.

The IRS held an auction of West's belongings during the annual Country Music Fan Fair in Summer 1991. West attended, signed autographs and bid on some of the items.

West was born Oct. 11, 1932, the eldest of 10 children in a poor farm family in McMinnville, outside Nashville.

She began songwriting in 1961, starting out with other struggling artists like Willie Nelson and Roger Miller.

West was married and divorced three times. She had three sons and a daughter, country singer Shelly West, who teamed with David Frizzell for the country hit "You're the Reason God Made Oklahoma."

Living on the road and traveling with the carnival is Ledel's favorite and least favorite part of his job, he said. Home base is Fort Worth for most of his seven brothers and sisters, and he enjoys living with the carnival.

"We're always sponsored by a fair, a festival or a civic organization. It's a lot of fun living in a festival atmosphere, but it is a lot of hard work," he said.

The Howard County Fair will continue through the week. Tickets to enter the fair are $2.50 for adults and $1 for children.

Booths representing businesses and organizations are set up in the main building. The Children's Pet-A-Zoo features Tony the llama and a baby llama, as well as various sizes of goats and two miniature donkeys.

The Battle of the Cheerleaders contest Tuesday night went to the Forsan varsity squad for cheer. A tie between Forsan varsity and the Big Spring freshman cheerleaders resulted from dance competition. Grady cheerleaders won the junior high school dance and cheer contest.

U.S.S.R.

dictated it won't block the move. Most Western nations never recognized the Baltics' forcible annexation by the Soviet Union more than 50 years ago.

In other developments:

• The Communist Youth League will meet Sept. 27 to consider disbanding itself, the Tass news agency reported today. For decades the League, known as Komsomol, has been the Communist Party's main organ for recruiting and training young people. Its demise would be one of the clearest signals yet that communism has no future in the Soviet Union.

• Japanese newspapers reported today that several thousand Soviet Communist Party members and KGB officers have defected to northern China since the failed Soviet coup last month. The nationally circulated Nihon Keizai Shimbun and Sankei Shimbun said the Chinese Communist Party has decided in principle to provide asylum to the defectors but not to openly discuss the matter. The papers quoted unidentified sources in Tokyo familiar with China.

• German Chancellor Helmut Kohl said today the West should stop expecting Germany to be the Soviet Union's leading benefactor. In a parliamentary address, Kohl also said he would press for cuts in U.S. and Soviet short-range nuclear weapons.

Before today's preliminary vote in Congress, Gorbachev and leaders of 10 of the 15 republics proposed to turn over most of the central government's remaining power to the republics and create an interim government during the transition to a new confederation.

An amendment drawn up by Russian legislators would shift almost all power into two of the new, interim government bodies proposed by Gorbachev — the State Council and the Inter-Republican Economic Committee.

The State Council would be made up of the Soviet president and leaders of the republics, and would be the country's ruling body. The Inter-Republican Economic Committee, comprised of the Soviet president and republic representatives, would coordinate the national economy and economic reforms.

There would be no vice president, and in case the president is unable to fulfill his duties, the State Council would elect an acting leader.

Of the Supreme Soviet's two chambers, the Council of Republics would be picked by the republics' parliaments, and the Council of the Union would be chosen from among the current members of Congress.

Deaths

Walter Barbee

Walter "Shorty" Barbee, 83, Sandsprings, died Tuesday Sept. 3, 1991, in a local nursing home after a long illness.

Funeral services will be Thursday Sept. 5, 1991, at the Midway Baptist Church with the Rev. Todd Nivens, pastor of Midway Baptist Church officiating, assisted by the Rev. Darren Skinner, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, Coahoma. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Myers & Smith Funeral Home.

He was born Sept. 7, 1907, in Tyler and came to Howard County in 1919 from Chillicothe. He was employed at Cosden Refinery from 1943 to 1969. He was a charter member and deacon of Midway Baptist Church and a member of the Brotherhood of Midway Baptist Church. He was a member of Cosden's 25 year club and also a member of I.U.O.E. No. 826. He married Leona Graham, Sept. 1, 1929, in Big Spring.

Survivors include his wife, Leona Barbee, Sandsprings; three sons, Charles, St. Louis, Mo., Jarrell, Midway, and Darrell, Burleson; 12 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by two sisters and three brothers.

Pallbearers will be Bill Stafford, Alvin Johnke, Bill Fryrear, Roosevelt Shaw, Bill Bennett and Carl Frazier. Honorary Pallbearers will be the deacons of Midway Baptist Church.

Bronte disposes of Lady Steers

Steve's stuff

Football, football and more football

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Harris Poll released its first edition last week and John Harris and his staff have some interesting preseason picks.

Harris and crew don't agree with the Associated Press, Dave Campbell and Texas Coaches Association polls as far as the Class A ranking goes.

The other polls list the Garden City Bearkats as the top team in the land. Harris lists the Valley Mills Eagles No. 1 and Garden City No. 2. It's no doubt the Bearkats haven't forgotten the 59-6 drubbing handed to them by the Eagles in the state quarterfinals last year.

While on the subject of Garden City, star running back James Soles had arthroscopic knee surgery for cartilage damage. G-City coach Sam Scott said there was no ligation tear and expects a speedy recovery from Soles.

How did the Bearkats do in Soles absence? They didn't miss a beat with Jody Bradford and Mario Aguilar filling in.

In a 10 touchdown to zero win over Sanderson last week, Aguilar carried the ball 13 times for 145 yards and three touchdowns while Bradford carried 12 times for 83 yards and two touchdowns. Fullback David Rodriguez carried 11 times for 82 yards.

A good passing attack made it a balanced evening for the Bearkats. Quarterback Shae Scott completed 11 of 23 passes for 282 yards and two touchdowns.

The Garden City defense has been equally as awesome. In two scrimmages, the Bearkats have allowed five first downs.

Incidentally, the Bearkats are a 42-point favorite to beat the Class 2A Forsan Buffaloes Friday night.

In Class 4A, the Sweetwater Mustangs are ranked No. 20 in the state out of 168 teams. Big Spring is ranked 45th, followed by Monahans at 52nd, Andrews, 66th, Pecos, 127th, Fort Stockton, 144th and San Angelo Lake View, 155th.

Amarillo Caprock, Big Spring's season-opening opponent, is ranked 132nd. According to Harris, the Steers are a 18-point favorite Saturday afternoon.

Big Spring plays Lubbock Estacado in week two. The Mats are ranked 21st. If the two teams played this week, Estacado would be an eight-point favorite.

In Class 3A, the Colorado City Wolves are ranked 148th out of 208 teams. In somewhat of a surprise, perennial powerhouse Ballinger is ranked 154th. The Wolves will be a two-point favorite over the Bearcats Friday night. I wonder the last time that's happened? By the way, Ballinger leads the series 26-12, according to Ballinger Ledger Sports Editor Daniel Ramos.

In Class AA, the Coahoma Bulldogs get the highest ranking of any of the area teams. Coahoma enters week one ranked No. 50 out of 212 teams. The Stanton Buffaloes are ranked No. 117 and the Forsan Buffaloes are ranked 172nd.

Former Colorado City Wolves all-state defensive back Mark Russell had a good season-opener Saturday when his Abilene Christian University Wildcats hosted the Angelo State University Rams.

Although ACU lost the game 28-7, the Wildcats' only touchdown was scored by Russell, a sophomore wide receiver. Russell, a starter, caught a 30-yard scoring pass from Mike Fuller. Russell ended the game with three receptions for 58 yards.

This past weekend the Associated Press released its preseason Schoolboy Super Team, and it included Big Spring Steers senior strong safety Pat Chavarria.

Chavarria was named to the honorable mention list. Last season he intercepted six passes and made 65 tackles.

The Big Spring, Lady Steers never got going against the Bronte Longhorn-Honeys. The Longhorn-Honeys bolted out of the gate and never looked back, taking a 13-10, 15-1 win over the Lady Steers in volleyball action Tuesday night.

Bronte, a long-time Class A volleyball power, was very impressive in getting its fifth win in six tries. The Longhorn-Honeys were accurate on their spike attempts, hit some well-placed dinks, and played very good defense, especially at the net.

In dropping to 4-4, the Lady Steers had only two players that played well, according to coach Lois Ann McKenzie. "Basically only Amber Fannin and Amber Grisham had good games," said McKenzie. "We had the ups, we just didn't do anything with the sets."

Bronte's defense was the deciding factor in the first game. The Lady Steers tried time after time to pelt Bronte's armor. But the Longhorn-Honeys would have none of that, many times blocking spikes at the net or picking them up in the backcourt.

In the first game alone, Big Spring tried 23 kill attempts, and were only successful eight times. Meanwhile the Longhorn-Honeys downed 11 of 22 kill attempts in the first game.

Big Spring fell behind 9-0 in the opening game. Then the Lady Steers gamely battled back to cut the deficit to 11-10, only to have Bronte score the last four points of the contest.

Bronte jumped to a 5-0 lead behind the service of Krista Cooper. The Lady Steers had three mis-hits and Teresa Vaughn had two kills in the rally. Vaughn, the defending Class A high jump champion, played a solid match. She downed six of nine kill attempts and had six blocks.

Bronte took a 9-0 lead when Brande Thomas served two aces, Vaughn blocked Big Spring's Teveyan Russell and Amie Parker served an ace.

Big Spring finally got on the scoreboard when Kayla Roberts served two aces. Annie Rodriguez served the next two Big Spring points when a Bronte kill attempt went out and when she served an ace.

Vaughn and Alisa Richards served the next two Bronte points, and the Longhorn-Honeys led 11-4.

Big Spring cut the lead to 11-5 on an ace by Jamie Haas. After a Bronte sideout, Roberts then proceeded to serve the Lady Steers back into the game. Roberts served four points, including two aces as Big Spring cut the lead to 11-10.

But the Longhorn-Honeys' Krista Cooper ended the game. First Cooper served an ace, which was followed by a kill by Thomas. The next point came when Vaughn blocked Russell's dink attempt. The game ended when Vaughn hit a hard shot to the backline that was returned over the net by Roberts. But the officials ruled the Roberts' return hit the ceiling, giving the point and game to Bronte.

The second game was all Bronte. Just like the first game Bronte jumped out to an 9-0 lead. Cooper and Thomas served three points each. Vaughn served two points and Richards served a point.

Russell served Big Spring's lone point. It was via a Grisham smash off a Bronte return. It would turn out to be the only bright spot in game two for Big Spring.

McKenzie said her team has to make some mental adjustments. "When they (Lady Steers) decide they're the best team around, we'll start winning some games," said McKenzie. "We have the ability, we can matchup with anybody. We're not that good or consistent to give them 10 points and come back. We're not playing as a team, we're playing as six individuals."

Bronte finished the game with a 58 percent kill percentage, downing 19 of 34 spikes. Darla Scott had five kills and Parker and Thomas had three each.

Big Spring downed 10 of 29 kill attempts for 34 percent. Grisham was the most effective, downing six of 11. Russell was three of 17.

BRONTE MAKES IT A SWEEP
In freshmen action Bronte won the game 9-15, 15-13, 15-8. The Lady Steers frosh fall to 2-8.

In junior varsity play, Bronte won 15-11, 15-8. The Lady Steers JV fall to 4-3.

The varsity Lady Steers will compete in the Seminole tournament Friday and Saturday while the JV will play in the Snyder tournament.

Capriati jumps into semis

NEW YORK (AP) — Dancing defiantly near the service line, her sneakers squeaking on the hard-court surface, Jennifer Capriati issued the noisy second-serve challenge at the U.S. Open.

Here I am, it said. Hit the ball and let's see what happens.

Gabriela Sabatini tried Tuesday night. Oh, did she try. The defending champion could not respond, though, committing six double faults as Capriati vaulted into the semifinals with a 6-3, 7-6 (7-1) victory.

What was all that jumping around about? Was it just the exuberance of your average 15-year-old who has won almost $365,000 this year?

"I wasn't planning, you know, on being obnoxious or annoying or anything like that," Capriati said. "It was just that I wanted to intimidate her a little bit, show her that I was going to attack her serve. And I think I did, because she made a couple of double faults."

Sabatini said she heard the sneaker serenade but did not blame it for her second-serve blues.

"That is not the reason I did the double faults," she said. "I didn't play well. I made too many errors. A couple of moments, I wasn't there mentally. I wasn't strong enough to win those points."

Still, Sabatini did not surrender her title without a fight. She twice broke Capriati as Jennifer served for the match, forcing the tiebreaker. But she was no match for Capriati in the extra session, winning just one point.

Was the ex-champ impressed? "Jennifer is playing very well," Sabatini said. "She has the mental to win the tournament."

NEW YORK — Jennifer Capriati of Saddlebrook, Fla., celebrates her straight set win over Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina in the U.S. Open Tuesday.

And maybe the right tactic, as well.

Capriati has used the sneaker squeak successfully before, most notably against Martina Navratilova, whom she beat at Wimbledon.

That victory seemed to thrust her to another level. She has played dominating tennis ever since and for the first time, she feels capable of winning a Grand Slam event.

"I've come close," Capriati said, recalling a semifinal berth at the French Open in 1990 and the semis again this year at Wimbledon, where she lost to Sabatini. "Now I want to go all the way. Winning this would mean the world."

Next, she'll play second-seeded Monica Seles, who advanced easily with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Gigi Fernandez. The have played three times before with Seles winning the first two and Capriati taking the last one in San Diego. "I'm going to try and play like I did against her in San Diego," she said. "I am going to try to be aggressive and really go for it and do the same on her serve."

Does that mean Capriati will do that second-serve shuffle again? What do you think?

Both Seles and Capriati have played dominating tennis in the Open. Seles has been broken just four times in 41 service games and lost just one set in her first five matches. Capriati has won each of her matches in straight sets.

Seles was on top of her game against Fernandez, needing just 53 minutes to seal the victory.

"She came out really strong and she was jumping all over my serve and serving really well," Fernandez said. "She hits the ball really well. It is hard to read."

But Seles brings other weapons to the war, according to Fernandez.

"She has an unbelievable mind, very tenacious, fighting and thinking," she said. "She is a very smart player and she keeps coming at you."

Seles said that frame of mind was vital to her success on the court.

"I think all the great players have that," she said. "As long as I am going to play, I'll have it. You've got to have that. You are never going to make it if you don't."

"That is what I always believed in. That in tennis you are out there and you should give whatever you have, run for every ball."

Being able to hit devastating groundstrokes doesn't hurt, either.

Now the question is how will she handle Capriati's sneaker serenade?

Getting ready for Caprock

Cunningham's injury brings Ryan out of retirement

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — With Randall Cunningham out for the season, it's up to Eagles coach Rich Kotite to turn Jim McMahon into a starting quarterback again and fashion newcomer Pat Ryan into a worthy backup.

Kotite, who plans to keep rookie Brad Goebel in the No. 3 slot, introduced long-time New York Jets reserve Ryan as his choice for McMahon's backup.

Ryan agreed to a one-year contract with Philadelphia on Tuesday. The 36-year-old Ryan said he's been working as a general contractor building houses in Tennessee since being cut by the Browns in training camp last year.

"I had put in for my retirement papers," he said. "It's a big surprise, a nice surprise, and I think I'm up to it. I've been playing a lot of basketball, and I think I'm in good shape."

Kotite said Ryan was chosen because he threw the ball well in his workout Tuesday afternoon.

"I had put in for my retirement papers. It's a big surprise, a nice surprise, and I think I'm up to it. I've been playing a lot of basketball, and I think I'm in good shape."

Pat Ryan

Familiarity probably helped, too — Kotite knew Ryan well from his time as the Jets' offensive coordinator.

"He knows our system very well and we think he'll fit in," Kotite said.

Ryan completed 354 of 631 passes with the Jets for 4,222 yards. He threw 31 touchdowns and 31 interceptions while spending most of his career backing up Richard Todd and Ken O'Brien.

"I feel we have somebody much like Jim McMahon. He won some big games for us with the Jets," Kotite said. "I want an experienced veteran. I'm looking for a guy to be No. 2. We're going to have to limit the things he's responsible for right away.

"Goebel's done everything we've asked of him. He's going to be a heck of a player for the future, but it's unfair to ask a kid to be No. 2 who hasn't been through a lot of things."

McMahon, who saw limited playing time last year, led the Eagles to a 20-3 win over the Green Bay Packers on Sunday. He completed 17 of 25 passes for 257 yards and two touchdowns after Cunningham was injured.

Cunningham was scheduled to undergo surgery today in Los Angeles to repair two torn ligaments in his left knee. Dr. Clarence Shields, an associate team doctor for the Los Angeles Rams who operated on Cunningham 10 years ago for an unrelated injury, will perform the surgery.

Cunningham's teammates have to look ahead to life with McMahon, who led Chicago to the NFL title in 1985.

"You saw the way Jim played in Green Bay, he was picking the defense apart," guard Ron Solt said. "We'll all miss Randall on the field as a leader and a friend, but Jim has been in this position before and he has taken teams to the championship."

Running back Keith Byars doesn't see the change from Cunningham to McMahon as much of an obstacle.

"There's no doubt Randall has a little more arm strength and a little extra zip on the ball. It's just a matter of adjusting to Jim, who throws a little softer," Byars said.

After leading the Bears to their Super Bowl victory, McMahon's medical problems turned him into a part-time player. The Eagles picked him up last season when he was released by the Chargers.

But he faces a host of problems. The Eagles' offense is built around Cunningham's ability to scramble as well as throw — and at age 32 with a medical history that includes sprained knees, shoulder tears, hamstring pulls and kidney lacerations, McMahon doesn't figure to run much. He's also working behind a struggling offensive line.

McMahon won't comment, saying "I'll talk after games," but adds that he still has confidence in himself.

"My teammates know the kind of player and person I am," he said after Sunday's game.

Woman testifies against Tarpley

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Mavericks star Roy Tarpley was driving wildly and dangerously only moments before he was arrested by Dallas police on a drunken driving charge, a woman has testified.

Testimony from Denna Shaw, an emergency medical technician from Wichita Falls, came Tuesday as the trial drew to a close.

Jurors were expected to begin deliberations after closing arguments in Judge Mike Schwillie's County Criminal Court.

"I would estimate his speed was anywhere from 60 to 80 miles per hour," Ms. Shaw testified. "He was weaving from side to side, not as a normal person. It almost hit the side of my car with my child in it."

Police officers have testified that Tarpley was clocked at 634 mph in a 35-mph zone before his arrest March 30. They said they found beer bottles in his car.

The woman said she contacted prosecutors after reading allegations last week that Dallas police had conspired to frame Tarpley.

"I knew that to be absolutely false if that was the same car I saw that night," she said.

The woman took down the license plate number and said it matched the one on Tarpley's car.

Bartender Jerry Weber testified Tuesday that he served Tarpley several cognacs at the Escapade nightclub, but said that Tarpley did not appear to be intoxicated at the time he left the club about two hours before he was arrested.

Dodgers rally to remain in first

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Dodgers found themselves in the position of having to come back not only against the Cardinals, but the Braves as well.

Los Angeles trailed 3-0 and was tied 4-4 before beating the Cardinals 5-4 on Tuesday night.

The Dodgers were aware that the Braves had already won, 4-1 in Montreal, and temporarily taken sole possession of first place in the NL West. As it turned out, they only had it for about three hours.

"I hope this is a lift for us, but you never know," Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda said. "We need some momentum going into the road trip."

The Dodgers still have one home game left before they leave for Pittsburgh, the runaway leader in the NL East. The Pirates beat the Giants 5-3 in 10 innings Tuesday night to go up eight games on the Cardinals.

In other NL results, it was New York 6, Houston 1; Cincinnati 8, Philadelphia 5, and San Diego 4, Chicago 1.

Pinch-runner Tom Goodwin scored the winning run from second base on third baseman's Todd Zeile's ninth-inning throwing error.

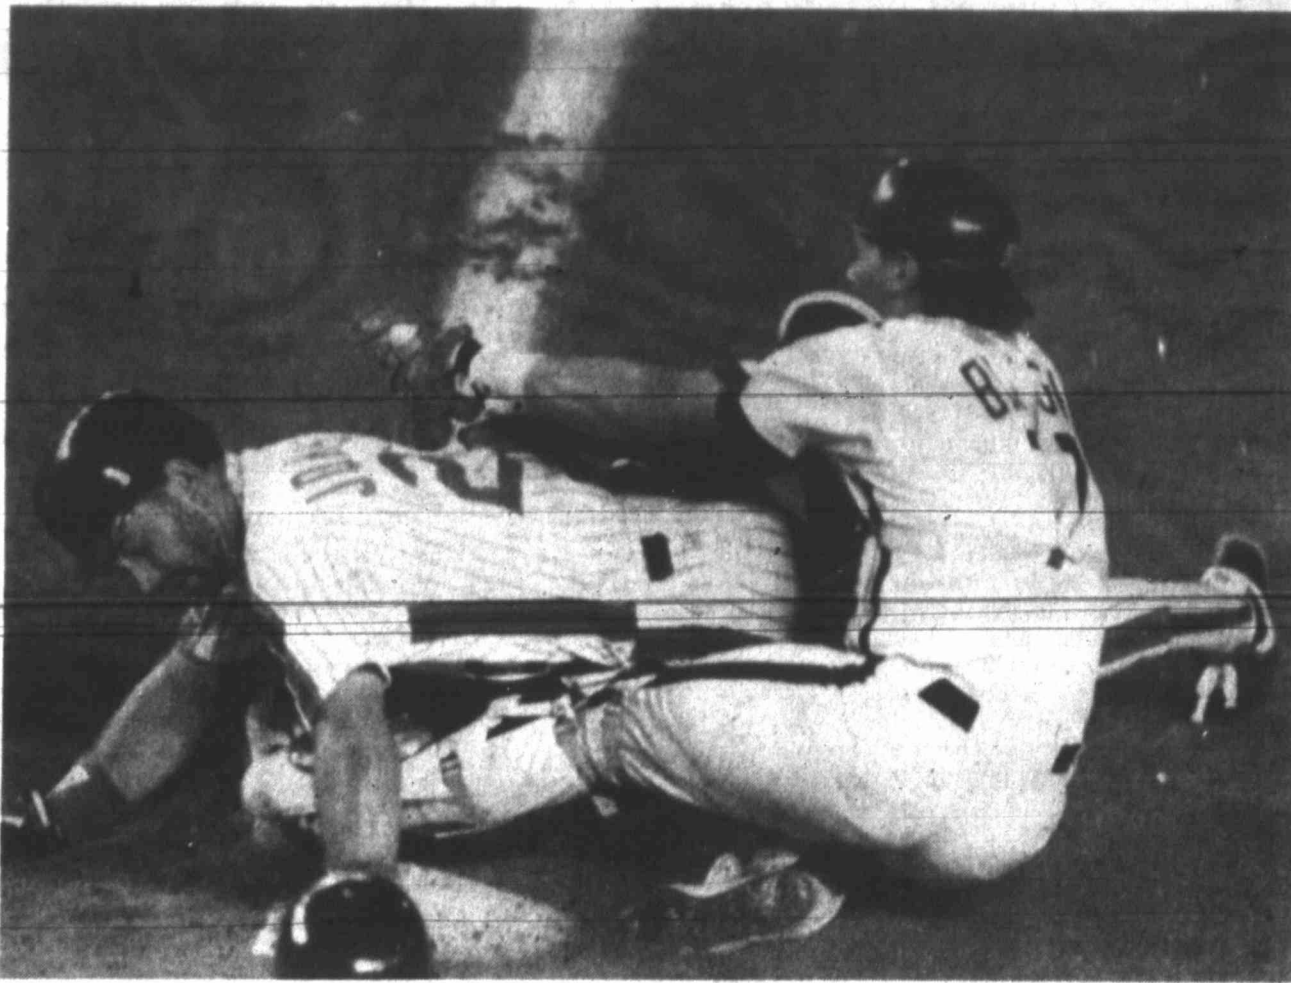

The Cardinals tied the game at 4 in the top of the ninth on Jose Oquendo's bases-loaded bloop RBI single off reliever Jay Howell (6-5).

St. Louis took a 3-0 lead in the third only to see it wiped out by a four-run rally in the bottom of the inning capped by Eddie Murray's two-run homer.

Reliever Scott Terry (4-3) was the loser.

"The ball was wet and slipped right out of my hand," said Zeile, who had a two-run double in the third. "I could feel it slipping so I just tried to aim it."

"When he caught the ball," Lasorda said, "I hollered, 'Throw it away!" I swear."

Braves 4, Expos 1

John Smoltz pitched six-hit ball for 6 2-3 innings and David Justice drove in three runs with a pair of hits as the Braves snapped a three-game losing streak.

The Braves managed only four hits, but took advantage of five walks issued by Brian Barnes (3-6) as they sent the Expos to their first loss in five games.

Smoltz (11-13) struck out three and walked three as he won for the eighth time in his last 10 decisions.

Alejandro Pena, acquired from the Mets last week, pitched the final two innings for his first save as a Brave and his fifth of the season.

Barnes lasted only five innings, allowing three hits and four runs. "Every team hits a flat period at some point in the year, it's normal and it's not so bad as long as you keep it to a couple of games," Justice said.

Pirates 5, Giants 3

Steve Buechele's two-out, bases-loaded single in the 10th scored two runs as the Pirates beat the Giants after tying the game in the ninth on Tom Prince's home run.

The visiting Pirates improved their lead in the NL East to eight games over St. Louis. Pinch-hitter Orlando Merced singled to lead off the 10th and Jay Bell's sacrifice bunt moved him to second. Andy Van Slyke singled to send Merced to third, but Bobby Bonilla struck out for the second out.

After intentionally walking Barry Bonds to load the bases, Francisco Oliveras (4-5) gave up the go-ahead single to Buechele for his first RBIs as a Pirate. Buechele joined Pittsburgh in a trade Saturday with Texas.

Scott Patterson (3-1) pitched the final 1 2-3 innings for the win.

Mets 6, Astros 1

Howard Johnson, making his first outfield start since 1986, drove in two runs to lead the Mets over the visiting Astros.

Johnson, who played right field, doubled home a run in the Mets' three-run first off Mark Portugal (10-7) and singled in another in a three-run fifth that helped Anthony Young (1-1) to his first major league win.

Young allowed seven hits over the first seven innings, walking none and striking out six.

Johnson had appeared in 14 major league games as an outfielder and was shifted to right in part because he leads NL third basemen in errors with 29.

Reds 8, Phillies 5

Jose Rijo won his fourth straight start and Chris Sabo hit a two-run homer as the visiting Reds ended their four-game losing streak.

Rijo (12-4) allowed nine hits, struck out four and walked one in seven innings. He has won 11 of his last 13 decisions covering 17 starts. Rob Dibble pitched two scoreless innings for his 28th save in 30 opportunities.

Holman outduels Aldred as Seattle nips Detroit, 1-0

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

A four-hitter and the first complete game of his career wasn't good enough for Scott Aldred.

That's because Brian Holman allowed five hits in eight innings Tuesday night as the Mariners beat the Tigers 1-0 at the Kingdome.

Second-place Detroit, which leads the majors with 180 home runs, failed to gain on AL East-leading Toronto, which lost to Baltimore 8-4 but maintained a 2½-game lead. It was only the fifth shutout pitched against the Tigers this season, the lowest total in the AL.

"They've got such a great-hitting ballclub," said Holman (12-13). "With those guys, you can't throw balls out over the plate. With a team like Detroit, you want to have 15 runs, not one. With a one-run lead, you've got to be so careful."

Bill Swift pitched a hitless ninth for his 12th save.

Aldred (0-3) came into the game with a 9.70 ERA in six previous appearances this season. This time, he struck out one, walked five and remained in command.

"It's a big confidence builder, and pitching is total confidence," Aldred said.

In other games, California beat Boston 2-0, Kansas City beat Chicago 8-0, Milwaukee beat Oakland 5-3 and Texas beat New York 5-1.

Seattle's run was unearned. Dave Valle walked with one out in the third and advanced on a two-out passed ball by Mickey Tetleton. Harold Reynolds then singled for the run.

Ben McDonald (6-8) allowed three runs and five hits in six innings and Mike Flanagan finished with one-run, two-hit relief for his third save.

David Wells (13-10) gave up four runs and nine hits in 5 1-3 innings.

two-run homers for the sixth multiple-home run game of his career and Kevin Appier (11-9) pitched a five-hitter and struck out nine at Comiskey Park.

Bo Jackson, in the second game of his comeback from a hip injury, went 0-for-4, making him hitless in seven at-bats.

Jack McDowell (15-9) struck out eight but allowed six runs and eight hits in 5 1-3 innings. The loss ended a three-game winning streak for the White Sox, who are 6-17 since Aug. 11.

Brewers 5, Athletics 3

Robin Yount hit a three-run homer in the ninth off Dennis Eckersley (3-3) as the Brewers rallied from a 3-0 deficit at County Stadium.

Jim Gantner hit his first home run in four years in the seventh and B.J. Surhoff hit his fifth home run in the eighth.

Edwin Nunez (2-1) pitched a perfect ninth for the win.

Rangers 5, Yankees 1

Texas won its 15th consecutive home game over the Yankees as Jose Guzman (10-5) pitched a five-hitter for his third complete game.

The Yankees have not won at Texas since May 4, 1989. The AL record for consecutive home victories over one team is 22, set by the Red Sox against the Philadelphia Athletics in 1945-46.

Jeff Johnson (5-9) gave up four runs and nine hits in 5 2-3 innings. Ruben Sierra and Ivan Rodriguez homered for Texas.

Big bucks from tourney

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin, which didn't even qualify for the NCAA basketball tournament, took home the most money under the third phase of a plan for sharing tournament TV revenues.

Wisconsin pocketed $409,811 under a formula that rewarded the 294 Division I schools for the number of sports and scholarships offered. Wisconsin was paid $98,700 for offering 25 sports, 13 more than the minimum required for Division I membership, and $311,111 for its 275.20 scholarships.

Points were awarded for the number of scholarships offered, with one for each scholarship up to 50, two for each scholarship between 51 and 100, 10 for each between 101 and 150 and 20 for 151 and above.

NCAA members voted to split each year's take from CBS' seven-year, $1 billion contract to show the tournament into three pools. The basketball pool, to be divided among Division I conferences based on the number of games their teams play in the tournament, are paid in April, followed by a flat $25,000 academic-enhancement payment to each school in June, and then the broad-based scholarship and sport payments.

Because the broad-based payments aren't tied to tournament success, national champion Duke took home $213,145 and runner-up Kansas was paid $184,439. That's in keeping with NCAA executive director Dick Schultz's avowed goal of eliminating what he called "the $200,000 free throw."

While the arrangement isn't totally separate from tournament success, Schultz says, "As much as possible, we've got them playing for the trophy."

Led by Wisconsin, eight of the 11 members of the Big Ten received over $300,000. Four colleagues of Duke in the Atlantic Coast Conference — North Carolina, North Carolina State, Virginia and Maryland — also exceeded that figure.

They are the new owners of the ranch

AUSTIN (AP) — Jerry Jones, seemingly, is everywhere at once. One second, the owner-president-general manager of the Dallas Cowboys, is clapping encouragement to the offense.

The next, he has wheeled into "autograph alley" where hundreds of fans await, signing his name to slips of paper, footballs, shirts, and caps.

While the Cowboys were in training camp, Jones was king in Austin and he relishes every day of it. He was the one, after all, who turned his back on California in 1989 after decades of training camp in Thousand Oaks.

There was bitterness to be sure, particularly from the folks at California Lutheran College who thought they had a deal with Jones to come back again.

Jones bought his way out of the contract and went to Austin where the Cowboys have cut their training camp costs $500,000 by working in Texas.

Now, Jones is riding high on the back pats of the grateful Texans who swarmed St. Edward's University every day.

Jones has left the star on the helmet and hasn't tinkered with the uniforms (still royal blue, metallic silver blue, and white) yet. But that's about all he and his coach-personnel director Jimmy Johnson haven't changed.

There are few holdovers from the old regime. Of course Tom Landry and Tex Schramm are gone. They got huge severance payoffs but others weren't as lucky.

Other employees didn't go with hat in hand. Some like former publicity director Doug Todd have sued, charging age discrimination and broken promises. The court date has yet to be set.

The only club employees left are a few secretaries, equipment men Buck Buchanan and Jerry Fowler, and former trainer Don Cochren, who is in charge of medical records, and assistant public relations director Dave Pelletier.

Few players are left from the Landry regime. Those like Jim Jeffcoat, the right defensive end, and special teams captain Bill Bates are fighting for jobs again this season.

IRVING Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones (left) speaks at a news conference earlier this season as head coach Jimmy Johnson looks on. This year the JJ Boys are expecting to get the Dallas Cowboys into the playoffs.

If you don't produce, you're out of Austin just like Babe Laufenberg, who got his walking papers because of a bad game against Atlanta that cost the Cowboys a playoff spot.

Jones was quick to shoot from the lip in his first year, boasting Johnson would win more games in the first fourth of the season than Landry had in the previous year (three). Johnson won one.

Although a rocky 1989 year shook their confidence, Jones and Johnson are riding high and cocky in the saddle again after a 7-9 season in which the Cowboys just missed the playoffs in a 26-7 loss to the Falcons in the season finale.

The Cowboys opened the season Sunday with an impressive 24-16 win over the Cleveland Browns.

Last year Johnson was named NFL Coach of the Year and Emmitt Smith, a first round draft pick, was the Rookie of the Year.

Now, the talk is playoffs or else. The Cowboys haven't qualified for the playoffs since 1985.

Johnson was 52-9 at the University of Miami with a national championship.

"Success at Miami has made me hungry for that much more," Johnson said.

Johnson will stand for nothing less. He celebrated his 48th birthday during two-a-day practices.

"I'll celebrate tonight by going to meetings and watching films," Johnson said. "That's a perfect birthday present for me."

Jones said "Jimmy will work until he gets it done. That's the way he is."

Schramm, who recently went into the Professional Football Hall of Fame, has indicated he would take part in such a ceremony. Landry said he wasn't sure he wanted in the Ring of Honor.

Changes have been swift at Valley Ranch since the night of the long knives on February 25, 1989. The JJ Boys own the ranch now.

OU out to regain Big Eight crown

By JEFF MULLIN

Thomson News Service With the spectre of NCAA probation behind them, the Oklahoma Sooners appear poised to emerge from a tough three-team battle with Nebraska and Colorado, and return to the Big Eight Conference throne.

The Sooners have the best inside linebacking tandem in the country in Joe Bowden and Chris Wilson, just two of nine starters returning on defense.

The OU offense is led by emerging quarterback star Cale Gundy, plus a potent running attack keyed by tailbacks Dewell Brewer and Earnest Williams, and fullbacks Kenyon Rasheed and Mike McKinley.

"There's no question in my mind and everyone else's mind on the staff and on the team that we're a better football team now than we were a year ago," said OU head coach Gary Gibbs.

Nebraska's offense will have to overcome its big, strong, but oh-so-slow defense, which collapsed at the end of 1990, allowing 117 points to Colorado, Oklahoma and Georgia Tech. Noseguard Pat Engelbert is NU's defensive leader.

The Cornhuskers are blessed with as talented a group of skill players as there is in the league, despite the late-summer defection of leading rusher Leodis Flowers. They will have to have quarterback Mickey Joseph return to the form he showed before being injured last year to challenge Colorado for second place.

The Buffaloes' fortunes may ride on quarterback Darian Hagan's left knee, which he injured in CU's 10-9 Orange Bowl win over Notre Dame.

The CU defense will miss departed outside linebackers Alfred Williams and Kanavis McGhee, but boast a pair of strong inside backers in Greg Biekert and Chad Brown as well as perhaps the league's best defensive front.

If Missouri makes a run at the league's first division, it will be on the strength of quarterback Phil Johnson's arm and the receiving ability of Victor Bailey. Tight end is a concern and the Tigers lack a breakaway threat at tailback, but the offensive line is solid.

Defense will be a definite weak spot for Mizzou. The Tigers yielded 723 points the past two seasons and are painfully thin at almost every position.

Hopes are high in Kansas, and this isn't even basketball season. Glen Mason's Jayhawks have 19 returning starters, so KU's first winning season in 10 years is not out of the question.

Coaching bloodlines run deep

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Marty Schottenheimer began his NFL career playing for Chuck Noll in Pittsburgh. He got his first assistant coaching job under Bill Arnsparger in New York after Arnsparger was hired off Don Shula's staff in Miami.

Noll and Shula, the NFL's two senior coaches, both played under Paul Brown in Cleveland during the 1950s.

Which emphasizes only further the influence of Brown, who died last month at the age of 82.

"You look at today's coaches and you can trace a lot of them back to one source," says George Young, the general manager of the Giants, who got his start with Weeb Ewbank and Shula in Baltimore.

"Maybe they're a generation or two removed, but if you go back far enough, you find the same man."

In fact, Brown may be the single most important coaching influence in the NFL today, not only for his innovations in coaching — playbooks, films, play-calling from the bench — but in the coaches he's left behind. More than 50 of his former players or assistants have become coaches.

Look deeply into the varied background of NFL coaches. Example: Bill Walsh's San Francisco teams spawned Sam Wyche in Cincinnati and will probably land a head coaching job for Mike Holmgren, the current offensive coordinator under George Seifert, who moved up to Walsh's job from the assistant ranks.

Bruce Coslet of the New York Jets got his first coaching job with Walsh in 1980, then went on to become Wyche's offensive coordinator in Cincinnati. And all have the ultimate connection — Walsh first made his name as a quarterback coach under Brown in Cincinnati and Wyche and Coslet were with the Bengals when Brown was general manager there.

On the other hand, every good coach picks up what he can from a variety of sources. "I played for Chuck Noll and Joe Collier, then coached under Bill Arnsparger," says Schottenheimer, who took Cleveland to two straight AFC title games and has rebuilt Kansas City into a playoff team. "All taught me a lot and I'm still learning."

The second most prolific line is probably the one that goes back to the 1950s staff in New York that consistently battled Brown's Cleveland Browns for the championship of what was then the NFL's Eastern Division. Coached by Jim Lee Howell, it included Vince Lombardi, Tom Landry and Allie Sherman, who later became Howell's successor.

Landry then went to Dallas and turned out Mike Ditka and Dan Reeves, as well as John Makovic, who had a stint in Kansas City and is now at the University of Illinois and Gene Stallings, who was with the Cardinals and is now at Alabama.

Other successful coaches inevitably get their assistants head coaching jobs. And some spawn front office personnel, like Shula, who sent Bobby Beathard on to his successful career with the Redskins and Chargers and Young to the Giants.

Moreover, new lines are always starting.

Example: Bill Parcells, who won his second Super Bowl with the Giants last year, had his own line started this season. He quit and was succeeded by his offensive coordinator Ray Handley. Bill Belichick, his defensive coordinator, got the head coaching job in Cleveland.

Parcells himself always thought himself a disciple of the Raiders' Al Davis, who once coached him in a college all-star game. But he got his first NFL coaching job from Ron Ehrhardt in New England and returned the favor by hiring Ehrhardt as offensive coordinator when Ehrhardt was let go.

In his decade in Washington, Joe Gibbs has had a remarkably stable staff of assistants.

His first major loss was Dan Henning, who became head coach in Atlanta, was fired there, came back to Washington and then left again, this time for San Diego. Joe Bugel, who put together the offensive line known as the "Hogs" for Gibbs is now head coach in Phoenix.

"You never like to lose an assistant once you've assembled a top grade staff," Gibbs says. "But if you do lose one, that's the way you want him to go."

Gibbs, Parcells, Walsh, Landry, Shula, Noll and Brown are all coaches whose success spawned success.

But that's not always necessary. John McVay was the coach of the doormat Giants of the mid-to-late '70s, the team whose infamous fumble cost them a game to Philadelphia on a play when quarterback Joe Pisarcik had only to kneel down.

McVay is now the general manager of the 49ers and his staff included two current head coaches, Schottenheimer and Lindy Infante of Green Bay.

Joe Walton (now Noll's offensive coordinator in Pittsburgh) was fired two years ago after a 4-12 season with the New York Jets.

His offensive coordinator, Rich Kotite, immediately landed the same job with Philadelphia. When Buddy Ryan was fired after losing his opening playoff game for the third straight year, Kotite became the head coach, exactly a year after being jobless.

His defensive coordinator? Walton's former defensive coordinator, Bud Carson, who was fired a midseason as head coach of the Jets.

And his staff? Six former assistants under Walton with the Jets.

NOTICE OF COMPARABLE TAX RATES AND REVENUES

The legislature has enacted a statute on school funding to comply with a court mandate enforcing the state constitution. Under prior statutes (SB 1) the tax rate for last year provides $6,530 per student in state and local revenues. Under this statute (SB 351) that same rate now provides $5,715 per student in state and local revenues.

State law only requires a minimum tax rate of $.7820 for county education districts. State law does not require a school district to adopt additional taxes. Neither does state law require a school district to adopt a tax rate that maximizes the receipt of state funds.

The board of trustees of the Sands CISD School District hereby gives notice that it is considering the adoption of a tax rate of .48 that will provide $5,866 per student in state and local revenues.

Notre Dame players won't lose starting jobs

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Rick Mirer is working hard to bury the most embarrassing, and potentially most damaging, moment of his life.

His future as Notre Dame's starting quarterback hung precariously for a few hours last weekend while police, coaches and priests sorted through the details of his arrest for public intoxication and disorderly conduct.

"I'm not supposed to talk a whole lot about that," Mirer said Tuesday, recovering from the shock of being hauled off to jail. "It was a misunderstanding, and the only thing I can say about that is I was not publicly intoxicated and my conduct was not disorderly."

Coach Lou Holtz believes him. Holtz says the junior is just coming into his own and wants him to lead Notre Dame through the 1991 season.

Holtz called the involvement of Mirer and linebacker Demetrius DuBose in the Friday off-campus party that attracted 500 people a "very innocent thing."

Mirer, 21, a junior from Goshen, said he drank two beers within a two-hour period. DuBose, 20, of Seattle, said he drank two or three beers. Mirer said an unwritten team rule prohibits drinking except in prescribed circumstances.

A security officer at the apartment complex where the two were arrested had instructions to call police if the crowd "became large," he said.

"The security man who called the police told me that there was no rowdiness, that there was no problem, no destruction," Holtz said. "It was a very orderly crowd."

"But he had received instructions from the landlord, who was out of town, that if the crowd became large to call the police and disperse it. And that's the reason the police came."

For now, starting positions for Mirer and DuBose appear secure. Holtz said he would discipline both, but not suspend either. The two still might face discipline by the university Office of Student Affairs. No formal charges have been filed.

Although Notre Dame appeared to close ranks behind its star quarterback, the arrests caused dissension within the city police department.

An internal memo written by an acting shift commander criticizes a police spokesman for siding with Mirer, according to a report published Tuesday.

After Mirer and DuBose were released on $100 bonds, police department spokesman Lt. Norval J. Williams drove the pair to the South Bend Tribune to give reporters their side of the story.

"They weren't drunk," Williams said. "I think it was a case of them being at the wrong place at the wrong time."

Williams also said Mirer asked the arresting officer for a breath test, but was refused. Mirer said he was "denied my chance to prove that" he wasn't drunk.

A memo drafted by Lt. David H. Shock, acting shift commander during the incident, said Williams' statements violated department rules against public criticism.

Religious crusade

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The Meadowlands sports arena was filled with praying and singing as Billy Graham brought his crusade to New Jersey. "I didn't bring them," the evangelist said of the crowd Tuesday. "It's the hard work of the church. A lot of people have been praying and hoping." Crusade organizers expected to fill the 17,000-seat Brendan Byrne Arena to overflowing, but officials said just 14,500 turned out to hear Graham during the first day of the crusade, scheduled to run through Saturday. Graham, 73, visited the Soviet Union in July to lead a training school for nearly 5,000 Soviet evangelists.

Turner released

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Soul singer Ike Turner is free after more than 17 months behind bars on cocaine charges. Turner, 59, was released Tuesday and planned to return to Los Angeles, said Larry Kamien, associate warden at the California Men's Colony West Facility. Turner had pleaded guilty to cocaine charges and received a four-year sentence. He received time off for good behavior.

More trouble

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man charged in the death of actor Marlon Brando's daughter-in-law has pleaded innocent to hit-and-run and drunken driving. Dennis Alberto Vanegas, 34, of Norwalk, entered the plea Tuesday. Jiselle Honore Brando, 29, of Buena Park, was struck and killed June 2 on a freeway south of downtown Los Angeles. She was the wife of Brando's son Miko.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Originality and a pioneering spirit bring you the attention you have been seeking. Overseas travel may be part of your plan by late fall. Although romance is more exciting than in the past, it is your friendships that will make December so special. Money comes from an unexpected source in January or February of 1992. Polish your skills late next spring and you will get the green light for something you have dreamed about.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A misunderstanding can be cleared up if you make the first move. Teamwork means higher profits. A dynamic member of the opposite sex makes unusual demands but you are happy to grant them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Cooperation is the key to greater success in business and romance. Cherish the time-tested values of your old friends. A relative shares a money-making idea — and you both benefit financially.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Pointless activities will sap your energies. New investments pay off handsomely, giving you greater financial security. Meditation helps you sort out a difficult personal problem.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Using your lunch hour for exercise will refresh you both physically and mentally. Answer invitations quickly. Be firm with a young person who takes your financial resources. Entertainment need not be expensive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Service to others brings great satisfaction today. Sign up for a special course if you want to increase your earning power. Romance blossoms when you make the first move. Be considerate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Finances are uppermost in your mind; consult experts. A new associate gives you a more competitive outlook, which may be just what you need to survive now. Welcome another chance at romance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Write concise memos, saying exactly what you mean. A young person needs your encouragement; be generous with praise. Do not allow yourself to be manipulated by your romantic partner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Learn how to promote yourself more effectively. You have talents that are not being fully utilized. A good friend is eager to help out. A money problem needs immediate attention. Romance looks happy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Refuse to make a commitment you know you cannot keep. This is the wrong time to tie up your financial reserves. A business or job opportunity may sound better than it really is.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Do not take something you overhear personally. An associate is just letting off steam. Temper your expectations and your chances for success will increase. Love grows when you spend more time with mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): High mental energy makes you a force to be reckoned with today. Someone may be trying to deceive you. Check the fine print and financial figures before approving a business deal.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Use caution when approving budget changes or signing documents. Get expert advice before making a major career or business move. Music and art stir your creative juices. Plan a special trip or conference.

Dark, sweet cherries offer a juicy contrast to creamy Wisconsin Ricotta cheese in Cherry-Cheese Tart Jubilee.

CHERRY-CHEESE TART JUBILEE

- 1 container (16 ounces) Wisconsin Ricotta cheese
- 1/2 cup sour cream
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons almond-flavored liqueur
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs, separated
- 1 pre-baked and cooled 9 1/2-inch tart shell (recipe follows)
- 3 cups frozen Northwest pitted dark sweet cherries, partially thawed
- 2 tablespoons red currant jelly, melted
- 2 to 3 tablespoons toasted sliced almonds

Push cheese through sieve into large bowl. Mix in sour cream, sugar, liqueur, flour, orange peel and salt. Beat in egg yolks. In another bowl beat egg whites to form soft peaks; fold into cheese mixture. Pour into prepared tart shell. Bake in 350-degree oven 50 to 60 minutes until lightly browned, puffy and set. Cool on rack. Just before serving arrange partially thawed cherries on tart. Brush cherries with jelly. Garnish with almonds. Serve immediately.

Makes 8 servings

TART SHELL: In large bowl mix 1 cup flour, 1 tablespoon sugar and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Add 6 tablespoons cold butter, cut into chunks. Cut in with pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse meal. Beat 1 egg yolk with 2 tablespoons ice water. Add to flour mixture. Mix with fork and gather into a ball. Roll out on lightly floured surface into 11-inch circle. Fit into 9 1/2-inch tart pan with removable bottom. Fold pastry overhang back toward inside and press firmly against side of pan, allowing pastry to extend slightly above top. Refrigerate 10 minutes. Meanwhile, heat oven to 425 degrees. Prick tart shell all over with fork and line with aluminum foil. Fill with pie weights, dried beans or rice. Bake 14 minutes. Remove foil and weights; continue to bake 10 to 15 minutes longer until lightly browned and cooked through. Cool on rack.

CHERRY-MASCARPONE TRIFLE

- 3 cups frozen Northwest pitted dark sweet cherries, divided
- 1/4 cup cream sherry
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 3 egg yolks
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 pound cake (10 3/4 to 12 ounces), thawed if frozen
- 1 container (7 ounces) or 1 cup Wisconsin Mascarpone cheese
- 1/4 cup crushed Italian biscuits

Marinate cherries in sherry. Refrigerate while preparing custard. Combine milk, yolks and sugar in small saucepan; cook and stir until thickened. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Cut cake into bite-size pieces and place in 6- to 8-cup glass bowl. Drain and reserve 1/4 to 1 cup marinated cherries; spoon remaining cherries and marinade over cake. Reserve 1 cup custard; pour remaining custard over cake. Cover surface with waxed paper or plastic wrap; refrigerate 2 to 4 hours until completely chilled. Completely cool remaining custard and gently stir into cheese in bowl; spread over top of trifle. Sprinkle with crushed biscuits and garnish with reserved cherries.

Makes 8 to 10 servings

CHOCOLATE FONDUE AND FROZEN CHERRIES

- 1 bag (16 ounces) frozen Northwest pitted dark sweet cherries
- 6 ounces semisweet chocolate*
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 tablespoons half-and-half
- 2 tablespoons kirsch, or almond-flavored liqueur
- 1 cup finely chopped toasted hazelnuts, optional

Partially thaw cherries by placing in refrigerator 15 to 30 minutes. In small saucepan over very low heat melt chocolate and butter. Stir in half-and-half and liqueur. Pour chocolate mixture into fondue pot; keep warm. Serve with partially thawed cherries and long picks or fondue forks. Dip cherries into sauce, then into hazelnuts. Eat immediately.

Makes 6 servings

*Six ounces equal 1 cup chocolate pieces.
One-fourth teaspoon almond extract can be substituted.

CHEDDAR-PEACH SHORTCAKES

- 1/4 cups flour
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons cornmeal
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 cup butter, softened
- 1 1/4 cups shredded, sharp Wisconsin Cheddar cheese (5 ounces)
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 eggs, separated
- Additional cornmeal
- Additional sugar
- 4 to 5 cups peeled peach slices (1 1/2 to 2 pounds peaches)
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped and lightly sweetened

Measure flour, sugar, cornmeal, baking powder, salt and nutmeg into large bowl. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse meal. Mix in cheese. In small bowl mix milk, 1 egg and 1 egg yolk with fork, reserving remaining egg white for glaze. Add milk mixture to large bowl; stir just to blend thoroughly. Divide dough into 6 equal portions. Form into 3-inch circles, spaced apart, on greased baking sheet dusted with cornmeal. Brush with reserved egg white and sprinkle generously with sugar. Bake in 450-degree oven 10 to 12 minutes until lightly browned. Remove from pan; cool on rack. Sweeten peaches, to taste. Halve shortcakes horizontally; place bottoms on serving plates. Top with some of the peaches and dollop with whipped cream. Cover with shortcake tops and more peaches; dollop with whipped cream.

Makes 6 large shortcakes

DELICIOUS and DAZZLING Desserts for Entertaining

For thousands of years, the serving of opulent, sweet dishes during a meal was a sign of a host's generosity and refinement. The same is true today, although we serve desserts at the end of the meal and not, as Medieval and Renaissance nobles did, with every course.

Along with sweet desserts, Medieval hosts frequently served a cheese and fruit course to finish a meal. The custom grew in popularity during the 17th century when cheese was believed to aid digestion.

Today, at home and in restaurants, many Americans are adopting the European custom of pairing cheese and fruit to finish a meal. The refreshing and complex flavors of two favorite foods, matched on occasion with a dessert wine, is a sophisticated pleasure for all palates.

This dining trend borrowed from the Old World merely simplifies what many of us enjoy when cheese and fruit are combined in a dessert recipe. The appealing flavors of rich cheese and tangy fruits, such as dark, sweet cherries, yield winning desserts time after time.

The cheeses of choice are from Wisconsin, America's Dairyland. Wisconsin produces more than 200 varieties, types and styles of cheese, all made by master cheesemakers with premium quality milk.

The excellence of Wisconsin's specialty cheeses is particularly evident in its rich Mascarpone cheese. Wisconsin Mascarpone is a velvety-smooth, Italian-style cheese similar to Ricotta, but with a silky texture and sweet, delicate flavor.

Dark, sweet cherries always add elegance to a dessert. There's no need to wait for the brief fresh cherry season when frozen sweet cherries are available year 'round. Frozen cherries are convenient because they are pitted, fresh tasting and ready to use. When served partially thawed, they release delicious flavor with a burst of cold, sweet juice.

Enjoy the pairing of fruit and cheese in the desserts offered here. They are guaranteed to delight the senses, and, as in Medieval times, make your guests feel honored.

A new booklet from the Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board offers 12 showstopping desserts starring premium Wisconsin cheeses, along with a beautiful, full-color photograph to illustrate pairings for a cheese and fruit course.

Black glass-ceramic smoothtops are gaining favor in America's kitchens

Smooth surface electric ranges are becoming increasingly popular in the United States. Designers, remodelers and builders choose ranges equipped with glass ceramic cooktops to give kitchens a sleek, up-to-date look, and to add to the kitchen's value. Smoothtop ranges are functional, attractive, durable, quick to heat up and easy to maintain.

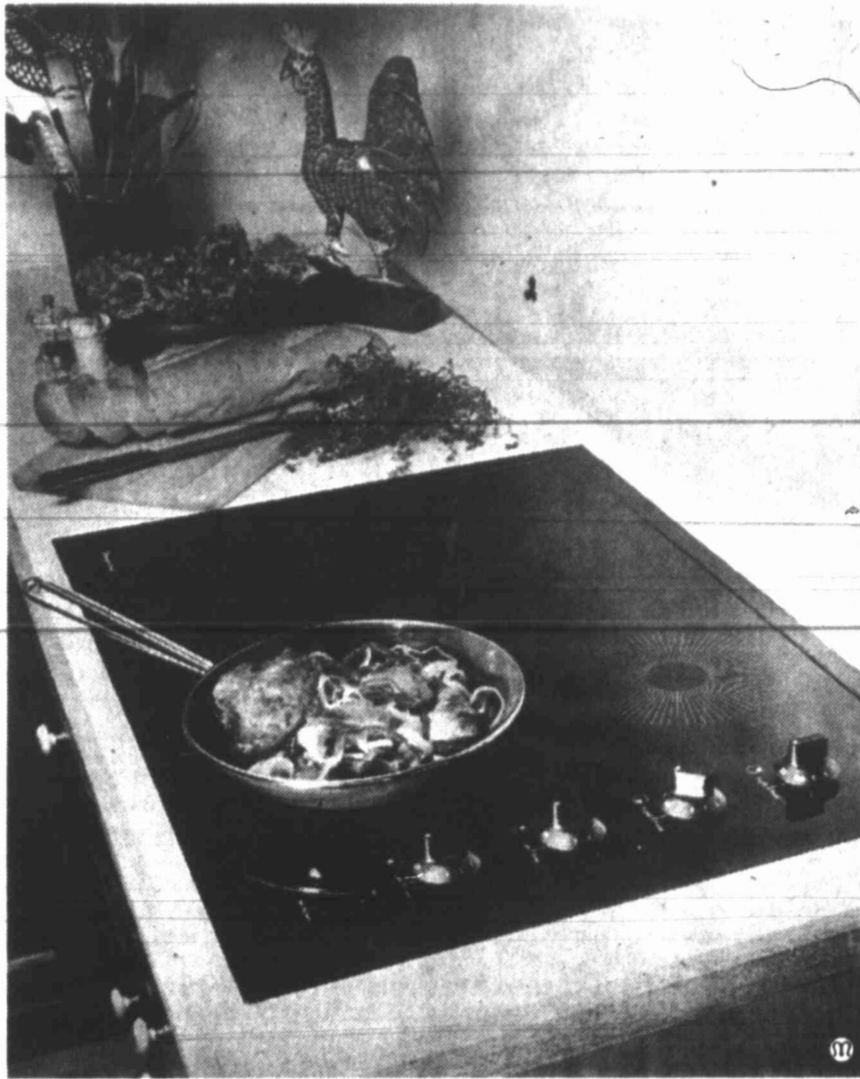

Schott America supplies electric range manufacturers with CERAN® black glass-ceramic panels in a variety of surface patterns and colors to complement any kitchen design.

The result of more than 18 years of engineering development by Schott Glaswerke (Mainz, Germany), Ceran panels are translucent to show the glowing heating element below and non-porous so spills never stain. Ceran panels neither expand as they heat up nor contract as they cool down. They can withstand constant temperatures of more than 1,300° F and will resist sudden and severe temperature changes such as cold water spilled on a hot cooking surface.

The technology for today's Ceran glass ceramic panels is entirely different from the white smoothtop ranges sold in the early 1970s, so naturally consumers have a lot of questions about them. To answer these questions, Schott America offers an illustrated booklet that gives short, direct answers to the most frequently asked questions and explains what the Ceran glass-ceramic panel is and how it works as part of an overall cooktop system, which includes heating elements, temperature limiters, heat indicator lamps, etc.

Since all major U.S. appliance makers use Ceran glass-ceramic panels in their smoothtops, the brochure can help you, no matter which brand you're interested in.

For a copy of "Your pocket guide to Ceran glass-ceramic range tops," write to Schott America, 3 Odell Plaza, Yonkers, NY 10701.

TODAY'S SMOOTHTOP RANGES use an entirely different material than the white smoothtop ranges of the early 1970s, so consumers have lots of questions: Do they heat up quickly? How do you clean them? What if you spill cold water on them? For the answers, write for "Your pocket guide to Ceran glass-ceramic range tops," c/o Schott America, 3 Odell Plaza, Yonkers, NY 10701. FH191203

Exercise at home without the gym look

Most in-home exercise equipment available today transforms your warm home environment into a gym-like ambience, with bars, weights and bikes cluttering your living space. Get ready this fall to make home improvements that will keep you motivated for your regular exercise program in the comfort of your living or family room without destroying your decor. NordicTrack offers some excellent options with exercise equipment that's incorporated into high-quality furniture.

NordicTrack's Home Fitness & Entertainment Center was designed to incorporate fitness into your daily rouline, in the comfort of your home. At first glance, it appears to be an attractive entertainment center, with space for a television, VCR, stereo equipment and books. It easily fits in any living area and the contemporary styling complements the decor in any living area. However, inside the center's lower cabinet is the NordicTrack cross-country ski exerciser, ready to roll out, unfold and use.

Today, in-home fitness equipment requires a higher level of design appeal and quality than 20 years ago. "Style becomes more important as the price moves up. It (equipment) has to look good in the home environment, not like something from a '60s gym," says an article in Business Report.

People want to exercise at home but they want equipment that doesn't make their dens or living areas look like the YMCA. "NordicTrack brings fitness into the home," says James R. Bostic, NordicTrack president and CEO. "The Home Fitness & Entertainment Center is a high-quality piece of furniture that also provides the best aerobic exercise."

The NordicTrack provides a quiet workout that won't interrupt your entertainment, and it easily folds up and slides back into the cabinet, out of sight, when it's not in use. The oak veneer finish is hand-oxidized in either natural or dark oak tones and it features six adjustable shelves.

Regular exercise is important year-round, and now in-home exercise equipment is so attractive that it can be the answer to feeling better, looking better and having more energy.

The Home Fitness & Entertainment Center features cable cutouts for easy electrical plug access. The unit measures 68 inches wide by 60 1/2 inches high and sells for $1,399. Smoked-glass doors are optional. All NordicTrack products have a two-year, limited warranty and a 30-day trial period.

NordicTrack, a CML company, sells its fitness equipment throughout the country and the world through direct marketing and a toll-free number, 1-(800) 328-5888, ext. 635. FH1911837

HIGH-QUALITY FURNITURE and exercise equipment combine in NordicTrack's Home Fitness & Entertainment Center. This unit is the solution for many people who don't have a separate workout area in their home, and don't want to turn their home into a gym.

Hardwood cabinets have built-in value

Kitchens and bathrooms are two of the most heavily used rooms in the house, and the installation of hardwood cabinets can not only upgrade your home's looks, but also its resale value.

A recent survey of home improvements by Practical Homeowner magazine listed six kitchen and bath projects among the top 10 best remodeling values. This ranking is based on the percentage of the initial cost that is recovered after one year.

Depending on the region and particular materials used, you can recover as much as 115 percent of the initial cost of a standard kitchen remodeling job after just one year. The "standard" kitchen remodeling project mentioned in the survey would include an average of 26 feet of hardwood wall cabinets and 30 feet of base cabinets, as well as a new island, counter tops, backsplash, desk and shelves.

Whether traditional or contemporary, solid hardwood cabinets will add value to your home. While colors and styles come and go in popularity, hardwood cabinets are a safe investment because they are always in demand.

In addition, hardwood cabinetry allows you to add warmth to your living areas while expressing individual styles and tastes. U.S. hardwoods are sturdy and long-lasting, easy to repair and refinish, and easy to maintain and keep clean.

According to the Hardwood Manufacturers Association, the availability of quality hardwoods is ensured by professional forest management. Hardwoods are America's renewable natural resource — unlike coal, oil and natural gas. In fact, there are 70 percent more hardwoods growing today in this country than there were four decades ago.

The most frequently used hardwoods in cabinets are such boldgrained woods as oak, ash and hickory/pecan; and the more delicately grained maple, cherry, alder and birch. Today's stains and washed finishes provide a range in color from creamy white to a deep, rich brown.

If you're looking for quality, solid hardwood cabinetry fits the bill. The term "solid" means that cabinet doors, drawer fronts and face-frames are made exclusively of solid lumber from hardwood trees. Other types of cabinet components feature a variety of materials including plywood, composition boards, wood veneers or synthetic laminates.

Cabinet sides, tops and bottoms are rarely made of solid hardwood, and they are most often constructed of composition boards or plywood covered with an easy-to-clean surface.

For more information about solid hardwood cabinets, please write the Hardwood Manufacturers Association, 400 Penn Center Blvd., Suite 530, Pittsburgh, PA 15235, or call 1-800-373-WOOD. FH1911739

Homeowners: Tips for smart AC purchasing

Homeowners purchasing high efficiency central air conditioners as replacements for old units will not get the energy efficiency and lower electric bills they expect if the indoor coil is not replaced at the same time as the outdoor unit, according to the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute (ARI).

Most residential central air conditioners and heat pumps are split systems where one heat exchanger (or coil) and the compressor are located outdoors and one heat exchanger is located indoors. Every year more than one million U.S. homeowners replace their old central air conditioners with a new unit. High efficiency air conditioners that provide more cooling with less electricity consumption are available now, even more will be available in 1992 when a new federal efficiency standard becomes effective.

Many homeowners, however, will not get the efficiency they expect because they fail to replace the entire system. Most of the existing indoor coil units are not suitable for matching with a new high efficiency outdoor compressor unit. The result of this mismatch is often a combination that performs little or no better than the old unit.

The efficiency of a central air conditioner is rated by its Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio (SEER). The average SEER for all units shipped by manufacturers in the U.S. in 1990 was 9.31. The higher the rating, the more efficient the unit.

A homeowner who purchases a unit with a 9.3 SEER, for example, may end up with a unit whose SEER turns out to be an 8.0 or less if the indoor coil is not replaced with a new coil that is properly matched to the outdoor unit.

Some homeowners may choose to replace their old units with those carrying a 10.0 SEER or higher. Federal law dictates that manufacturers must produce split-system air conditioners and heat pumps with a minimum SEER of 10.0 effective January 1, 1992.

Those who opt for purchasing higher efficiency units should ask their installing contractor:

• Will you be replacing the indoor coil with a high efficiency indoor coil to ensure the unit's high efficiency?

• Does the new indoor coil match the manufacturer's specification for the installation of the unit?

• Can you verify the efficiency of the combination to be installed by showing me its SEER rating in a listing such as the ARI certification directory?

For more information, send for ARI's free pamphlet, "How to Keep Your Cool and Save Cold Cash." Send a stamped self-addressed business envelope to: ARI, Dept. T-174, P.O. Box 37700, Washington, DC 20013. FH1911766

Prepare your home for winter

After a long hot summer, the last thing that most homeowners think about is preparing their home to keep out the cold winter winds. But fall is the perfect time to weatherize your home in anticipation of the season ahead.

Upgrading the insulation levels in your home is an excellent step to take in the fall to help reduce your winter energy bills and keep your home more comfortable. Adding insulation in your attic is an easy, do-it-yourself project that can be completed in an afternoon. But if you're short on time and have other areas in your home, like side walls, that need insulating, consider hiring a contractor to do the job for you.

A professional insulation contractor will evaluate your insulation needs based on the area of the country in which you live and the design of your home. He or she can recommend the places in your home that should be insulated and the amount of insulation required to help you save energy and feel comfortable all year long.

Selecting an insulation contractor is an important process that requires finding an experienced professional who installs only quality products. To begin your search, look in your telephone directory under "Insulation Contractors." Friends, relatives and even your local utility can also be a good source for leads. Once you've identified a few contractors, you can easily determine their credentials.

Most reputable contractors belong to a local contractor association, the Insulation Contractors Association of America (ICAA), the Insulation Contractors of America (ICA), the Better Business Bureau and other professional groups. Ask the contractors for a list of their memberships and, if you have any questions, check with the organizations.

Also look for quality materials like CertainTeed's Insul-Safe III Fiber Glass blown in insulation. It's non-combustible, noncorrosive and won't rot or decay.

Once you've found at least three contractors, meet with each and ask for a written estimate. It should list the type of insulation, the R-Value of the insulation to be installed, the total cost for materials and labor to complete the job as well as a starting and finishing date. Make sure that the R-Value, not just inches, is stated since the thermal efficiency of products vary.

Then, when you decide on a particular contractor, you should draw up a written contract. All job specifications, details for the method of payment and the contractor's warranty should be included. To validate the contract, both you and the contractor need to sign and retain copies of it.

By hiring a professional contractor to install insulation in your home this fall, you can relax in the comfort of an energy-efficient home and still complete the rest of your pre-winter projects around the house. The cost of the job will probably be recovered through energy savings in a few years.

For more information about working with a contractor, write for a free copy of "How to Choose the Right Insulation Contractor" from the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482. FH1911796

DID YOU KNOW?

by AL 522

THE "MERCURE GALANT" IS CONSIDERED TO BE THE FIRST GOSSIP MAGAZINE EVER PUBLISHED. IT WAS PRODUCED IN 1672, AND BECAME VERY POPULAR WITH THE UPPER CLASSES.

IT IS BELIEVED THAT A PERSON WHO HAS BEEN BLIND SINCE BIRTH DOESN'T HAVE DREAMS WITH PICTURES BUT HAS DREAMS OF SOUNDS.

THE SMALLEST PIG IN A LITTER IS KNOWN AS THE "TANTONY" PIG, A NAME THAT COMES FROM SAINT ANTHONY, THE PATRON SAINT OF SWINEHERDS.

Is it fiction or fact?

You would not believe the days that are given recognition year after year. Some of the special days listed below are actually celebrated, but the others are made up! Circle the days that you believe really exist, and place an X beside the ones that you feel are far too outrageous for anyone to celebrate!

NATIONAL GOOF-OFF DAY: Mar. 22
A day for good-natured and good-humored silliness. Be yourself!

PANIC DAY: Mar. 9
Run around all day in a panic telling others you can't handle it anymore.

DRESS NOT-TO-IMPRESS DAY: Jan. 19
A day when appearance means nothing; wear mismatched colors, labels on the outside, or put on clothes backwards.

HAVE A BAD DAY DAY: Nov. 24
For those who are sick and tired of being told to "Have a nice day." Tell people instead to "Have a bad day."

GIVE THE PHONE, TV AND RADIO A BREAK DAY: Aug. 7
A day to enjoy your family and friends face-to-face only.

COMPLEMENT-YOUR-MIRROR DAY: July 2
Complement your mirror on having such a wonderful owner, and keep track of whether other mirrors you meet during the day smile at you.

NAILBITERS DAY: Dec. 11
For the nailbiters of the world, a day for them to bite away, or make a true effort to resist the temptation.

SNEAK SOME ZUCCHINI ONTO YOUR NEIGHBORS' PORCH NIGHT: Aug. 8
Due to overzealous planting of zucchini, citizens are asked to drop off baskets of the squash on neighbors' doorsteps.

BLAME SOMEONE ELSE DAY: Sept. 13
A day to share the responsibility and the guilt for the mess we're in — blame someone else!

TAKE YOUR HOUSEPLANTS FOR A WALK DAY: July 27
Walking your plants around the neighborhood helps them to get to know their environment and makes them stronger and healthier.

BE LATE FOR SOMETHING DAY: Sept. 5
To create release from the stresses and strains resulting from a constant need to be on time.

SPEAK A SONG DAY: Feb. 12
Instead of talking, sing! Any word you say should have the tune of your choice to go along with it.

Except Dress Not-to-impres Day, Nailbiters Day, Give the Phone, TV, and Radio a Break Day, and Speak a Song Day, All of these days exist.

More than just the finishing touch for the bathroom: Buying the right faucet

More than any other part of your bathroom, the lavatory faucet is expected to stand up to extensive wear and tear. In many areas of the country, the tap water that runs through that faucet contains large quantities of strong, corrosive chemicals. Constant, prolonged exposure to these harsh elements can destroy a low-grade faucet.

Probably the most frequently used part of the bathroom, the lavatory faucet is constantly called upon to provide smooth, consistent and problem-free operation.

Yet, interior designer Annette Burrus of Christine Interiors says many people simply look at a faucet as an attractive piece that dresses up a bathroom. "I teach my clients that faucet selection is terribly important. For anyone who needs to make that selection, here are a few tips I give my clients."

THE QUALITY OF BRASS and lively European styling meet in the new "Illusions" line from Chicago Faucets.

- 1. Demand quality: The best faucet features brass casting because it contains a high proportion of copper. The higher the copper content, the more resistant the faucet will be to wear and destructive chemicals in the water.
- 2. Choose style: Think of a faucet as jewelry for your bathroom. First, you want the best: the genuine stone/high-quality. Then, you want the ultimate in design to finish off the room. Choose styling that mirrors your decor. If the room is traditional, select a classic, timeless design that never goes out of fashion. If it's modern, choose a faucet with the new high-tech look.
- 3. Consider the popular, new European styling: The evolution of the bath into a luxurious space set the stage for the recent introduction of European designs. Sophisticated, sleek faucets such as those in the new Illusions Collection from The Chicago Faucet Company will give your bathroom an elegant, upscale look that blends with a variety of decorating styles.
- 4. Buy American: Styles arrived quickly in the U.S. from Europe, but what about parts and service? You may have difficulty finding both from a foreign manufacturer. Purchasing from an American manufacturer gives you the confidence and security of knowing parts will be available rather quickly because they are warehoused in the U.S. And, you can easily reach the company if there's ever a problem.
- 5. Check out the manufacturer's reputation: Ask a plumber, kitchen and bath specialist or interior designer what they know about the manufacturer. If these people aren't familiar with the company, that says something about its reputation.
- 6. Select soft, neutral colors: Wallpaper, rugs and accessories are relatively easy and inexpensive to replace. They're the best candidates for bold/unusual colors and patterns in the bathroom. The faucet, however, is something you'll keep for years. Choose a simple, elegant design that will blend well with any decor changes you make.
- 7. Evaluate the finish: The finish plays a role not only in a faucet's image, but also in its ability to resist chemicals and abrasion. Its quality can be checked simply by looking closely at the product. A bumpy, "orange peel" appearance indicates a poorly applied finish. The faucet should have a smooth coating that "lays flat." This is a reflection of the quality behind the product.
- 8. Study the warranty carefully: When you read the small type on some warranties, you'll see it can be difficult to "collect" on those guarantees. Some companies will ask you to remove the entire faucet and send it back to them. Look for a warranty that makes your part simple.
- 9. Work with a professional: Faucets are the appliances of the bathroom. Consult with a professional designer or bath products expert before you buy, and you'll get informative details about different products' construction, durability and performance.
- 10. Do your homework: Now you know the important role your faucet plays in bathroom function and design. You'll need to shop around before you find one that has all the qualities you want. Give yourself time to do a little homework. Visit showrooms, talk to experts, read articles, send for brochures and look at ads. When you make your selection, you'll know you're getting a high-quality faucet that will provide superior performance for years and make an outstanding, stylistic statement about you.

For additional information about the Illusions Collection, contact Advertising Manager Fred Babashka, The Chicago Faucet Company, 2100 South Clearwater Drive, Dept. M, Des Plaines, IL 60018; or call (708) 803-5000. K8911580

Nutrition Center Developed for Supermarkets

(NU) - Soon you may be able to go to a new department in your local supermarket for all your nutrition needs, from creating a high-energy diet to a cholesterol reduction plan.

The Stamford Marketing Group, a supermarket consulting organization, has developed a unique nutrition center that will begin appearing in supermarkets around the country this summer. The center will include a wide range of products fitting today's health-oriented lifestyles.

Quigley's Alpha 1 Nutri-Bar of Doylestown, Pa., is an example of the type of products that will be included. The sports bar is a quick snack, a pre-race meal or something for post-exercise recovery. An Aloe Vera Juice from Aloe Extra Inc. of Irvine, Texas, is another product example.

From Soup to Cookies

The supermarket center will include no-salt seasoning such as Spike, and food supplements such as Jason Winters and Earthrise. Organically grown coffee will be included from Nature's Finest, as will natural soups, herbal teas, oat bran muffins and cookies sweetened only with fruit juices.

The nutrition center will be well organized and easy to shop. Color coded signs will clearly identify where products are located. Whether you are looking for a power lunch or a no-cholesterol snack, it will be in the supermarket, and easy to find.

Over the past two years, fat-free products have become one of the fastest-growing categories in the supermarket, according to Winslow "Bud" Johnson, president of the Stamford Marketing Group. Examples include non-fat salad dressing, ice cream and baked goods. Johnson believes the nutrition center represents an expansion on this trend.

The Stamford Marketing Group has helped supermarkets organize many new departments within their stores, and has a blue chip client list including Pillsbury, Campbell Soup Company, Frito-Lay, L'eggs and Johnson & Johnson.

Information about the nutrition centers can be obtained by writing to the Stamford Marketing Group Inc., 158 Forest St., Stamford, CT 06901.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Call Culligan For All Your Water Needs

Culligan Water Conditioning was started in Big Spring in 1945. There has been several owners with Richard Wright being the last. Richard who goes by "Diky" bought the business in 1978.

Throughout the last forty six years, Culligan has seen a lot of changes. One of the first was in the 50's with the introduction of the automatic water conditioner. This gives customers more capacity over the older exchange systems as well as opening up the commercial market for large conditioners.

Culligan put the first Reverse Osmosis System in Big Spring using the latest equipment available in the 70's. So much has changed in this field since then. In the 80's Richard developed a system using Culligan components that can handle Big Spring water to the maximum of efficiency. Richard had to get special permission from Culligan to change the design, Culligan now calls the system WT, for "West Texas." Richard is very proud of this.

Lot of Richard's competitors

will not put units in Capehart housing (old base housing) because of the water lines. The Culligan W.T. (West Texas) R/O units handles this water without any problems. Richard employs four full time employees and several part-time. Culligan is a full time, full service business with the rental and sales of Culligan equipment and salt delivery to any brand water conditioner. Culligan also services any model regardless of brand name.

So for complete service and a fully trained staff call your professional water company.

Portable computer vacuum keeps equipment dust-free

SUFFERN, N.Y. — A new high tech cleaning system developed by Metropolitan Vacuum Cleaner Co., Inc. is sweeping computer systems and office equipment clean across the country. The Metro Data-Vac, Model MDV-1, is the first fully portable vacuum/blower specifically designed to clean and maintain computers and other sensitive-to-dust electronic equipment. This model features a powerful 1/2 HP motor, is made of sturdy, all steel construction, weighs less than three pounds and its compact size (16 inches in length and four inches in diameter) makes the vacuum breeze to use. Made in the USA, it possesses both vacuuming and blowing capabilities. The Data-Vac package includes: the vacuum/blower power unit, 19-inch flexible hose, crevice tool, air pin pointer, soft bristle dust brush, shoulder strap and five disposable bags.

"When used regularly, it will keep computers, printers and other sensitive-to-dust electronic equipment clean and on line," asserts Ken Stern, vice president, national sales. Data-Vac was specifically engineered to clean those hard to reach areas of computers, printers and peripherals. Air sweeps paper particles from printers, fax machines and thoroughly removes dust from disk drives to prevent computer downtime. The Metro-Vac Model MDV-1 carries a suggested retail price of $69.95, while the replacement filter bags, Model DVP-26, list for $3.50 per package of five. For more information, contact Metropolitan Vacuum Cleaner Co., Inc., One Ramapo Avenue, Suffern, NY 10901, (914) 357-1600 or (800) 822-1602 (outside New York State). See Data-Vac computer cleaning systems at the Fall/91 Comdex Show. †
