Montford named to committee

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, was appointed by Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock to the Select Committee on Higher Learning.

The 10-member panel's mission is to study ways state funds are allocated to Texas' institutions of higher learning. The committee consists of five senators and five house members.

"John Montford is one of the leading legislative experts in the Senate on finance and funding for the state's institutions of higher learning," Bullock said. "His expertise will be crucial to the success of this important committee."

Bullock said both committees will submit formal reports and prepare legislation, if needed, by November 1992.

Big Spring ISD schedules meeting

Trustees for the Big Spring Independent School District have called a regular meeting Thursday at 5:15 p.m. to determine and approve the 1991-92 tax rate.

Other business will include selecting the textbook committee, the career ladder advisory committee, extracurricular activity organizations and approval of the employee hospitalization plan.

The trustees are also expected to discuss and approve the demolition of the Lakeview YMCA and approve the lease agreement with the Greater Opportunities Permian Basin Head Start Program at the Lakeview campus.

The superintendent's report will include discussions about the trustees' pictures for the high school annual, homecoming activities, Department of Justice on-site review and the 1991 accreditation review. Nominations for members to the Howard County Appraisal District Board will also be discussed.

Tax representative to be in Big Spring

A representative from the office of John Sharp, state comptroller, will be in Big Spring on Oct. 17 to assist local businessmen with their tax questions.

"Government operates best when it's close to the people it serves," said Sharp.

"If you are a business owner and you're not sure how to collect sales tax, you can talk one-on-one with someone who can help. Or if you are a consumer and need information on what items are tax exempt, now is the time to ask."

Doroth Singleton from the Odessa Field Office will be available at the Howard County Courthouse, Tax Assessor/Collector's office from 2 to 3 p.m.

For additional information, contact the Odessa office at (915) 367-7796.

Charter amendment election set

By GARY SHANKS
 Staff Writer

On second and final reading, the Big Spring City Council voted to schedule the Fraternal Order of Police-sponsored charter amendment election on Jan. 18.

On Wednesday, Oct. 2, FOP attorney David Twedell asked for a writ of mandamus from the 11th District Court of Appeals in Eastland to force the election on the Nov. 5 uniform election date, but was denied.

After a similar request to the Texas Supreme Court in Austin on Friday, the decision of the lower court was upheld.

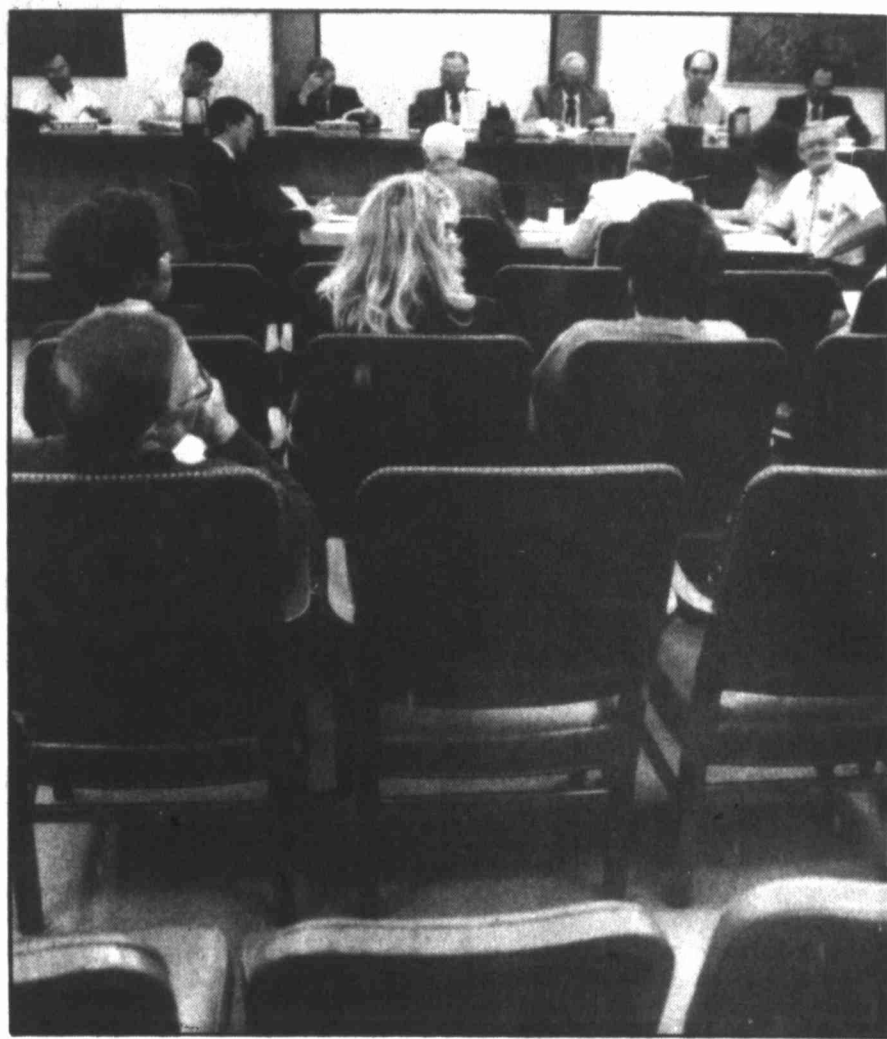

Before the vote to schedule the election at the later date, council member Corky Harris said, "I will vote for it because we have been given a petition and we must have an election, but I am concerned that we did not get this behind us."

The ordinance then passed with Mayor Max Green and council members John Coffee, Ladd Smith, Mark Sheedy and Harris voting for. Council members Tim Blackshear and Pat DeAnda voted against the ordinance.

The council also discussed the specifications of a bid offer on a new fire truck for the city.

In that discussion, council member Coffee asked Fire Chief Frank Anderson if such specifications as a 10-gauge stainless steel bumper were absolutely necessary, or could less expensive substitutions be made?

Anderson replied that such rust resistant parts are needed to ensure many years of service from the vehicle.

Tuesday's city council meeting was calmer than those in recent months. Fewer than two dozen people attended the meeting in which council passed on second reading an ordinance setting the charter amendment election for Jan. 18.

Council member Blackshear took this time to address the issue of Big Springs continued use of two-man engine crews for its fire trucks.

"The truck is designed to carry five, it takes three men to run those

City redistricting still a possibility

By GARY SHANKS

City of Big Spring officials are working to settle the "friendly" redistricting suit filed by the League of Latin American Citizens.

In closed session, the Big Spring city council discussed the suit with attorney Rick Strain of the firm of Cotton, Bledsoe, Tighe and Dawson, Midland, but no action was taken following the meeting.

"We discussed some defenses we have if we want to use them," said Mayor Max Green. "I don't have any problem with going to six single-member districts, but I don't see anything wrong with the system we have now (three at-large candidates and three single-member district candidates)."

The council instructed us to work with LULAC and make a friendly settlement, but right now, we don't know exactly what kind of plan we'll look at. All we know is we definitely need to redistrict," said City Secretary Tom Ferguson.

No decision has yet been made whether or not to redistrict according to LULAC suggestions or to fight the suit, according to Green.

"We contracted with Map Resources Inc. of Austin on Monday (of last week) for $3,000 to look at population balances in city districts. It is the same firm retained by the county (for similar redistricting). As a result some work is being done cheaper," he said.

"We are reviewing the current situation there in Big Spring and are evaluating that information," said Map Resources Inc. President Rick Hair.

The firm is spending more energy on the county redistricting at present, since time is short before all documents relating to county redistricting must be submitted to the U.S. Department of Justice, said Hair.

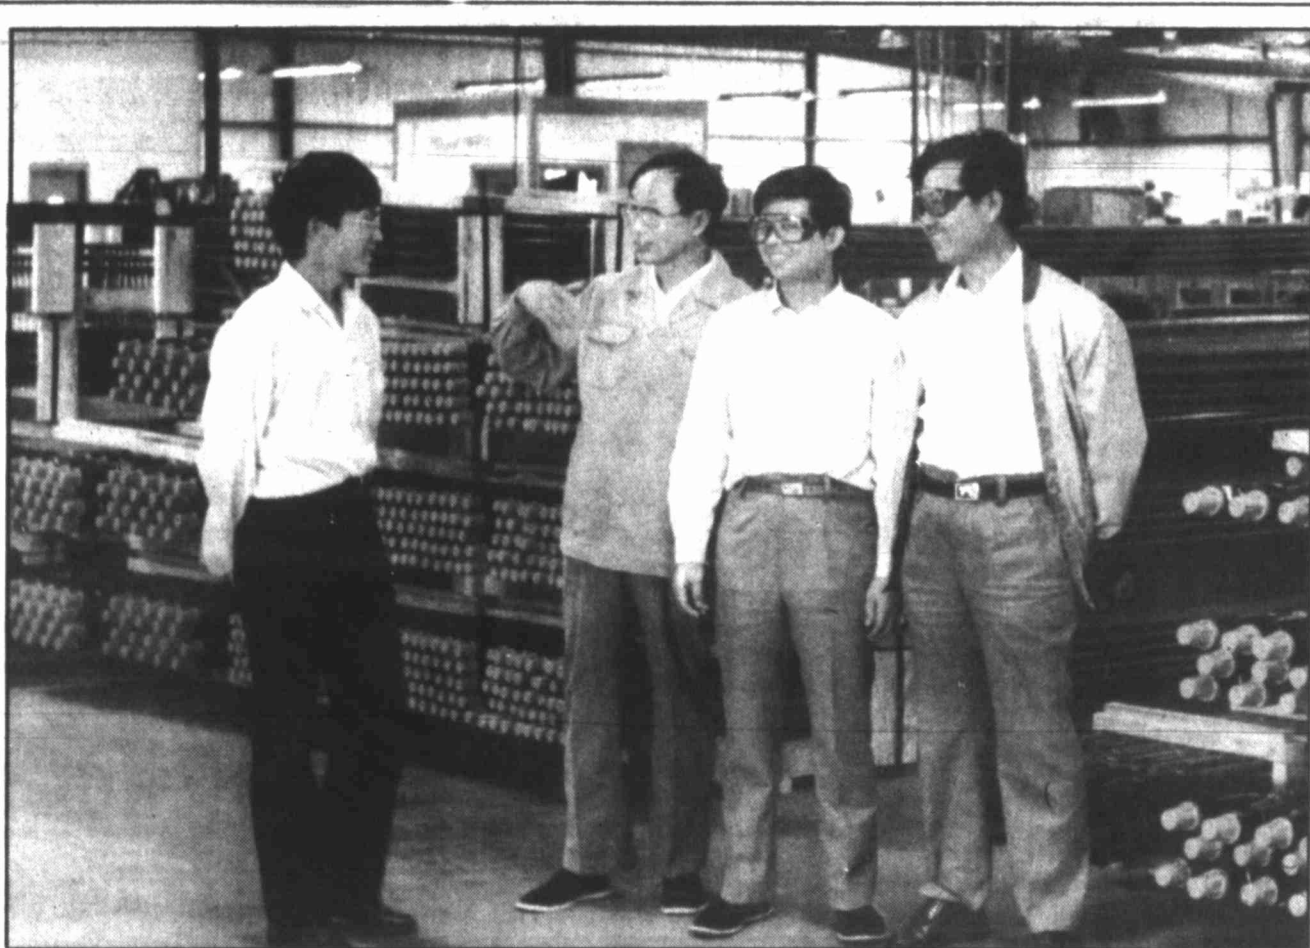

"They have to be approved (which could take 60 days or more) before the Dec. 3 filing date for those running for county offices," he said.

"We're dealing with 68 counties, so we're pretty busy," said Hair.

Map Resources Inc. will make a presentation regarding city redistricting at an upcoming meeting of the Big Spring City Council, he said.

"An evaluation of figures will take place at the Oct. 22 meeting. Map Resources will then be instructed on what type of redistricting plan to draw," said Ferguson.

will return to run the new China facility, which is being built as the result of a technology sale to that country.

Chinese delegation studies technology at Fiberflex plant

By GARY SHANKS

Seven Chinese engineers are spending 20 days in Big Spring while training at Fiberflex Inc.

This is the second group of Chinese nationals to visit the local facility where fiberglass rods are made for sale around the world. The design/liason group studied the plant in June to finalize details of a technology transfer between Fiberflex Inc. and the government of China.

In this transfer, the Chinese are receiving the machinery and training to produce Fiberflex-like products in their country, from which Fiberflex officials hope to net $2 million or more, said Peter Sanger, Fiberflex Inc. president and chief executive officer.

Tuesday was the first day of hands-on training for the delegation, said Jerry Lysaght, vice-president of manufacturing for Fiberflex and CEO of the Big Spring plant. They had been receiving classroom instruction since their arrival on Wednesday of last week. The delegation's members cover a wide range of engineering fields such as electrical, chemical and quality control, said senior director for the group, Duan Yi, through an interpreter.

Along with Duan is Vice Chief Engineer Wu Bao Sheng, application engineer Zhong Li Min, mechanical engineer Liu Man Zhong, chemical engineer Zhou Cheng Xiang, electrical engineer Huang Yu Yan and interpreter Wu Jin.

When the Chinese facility goes on line, this group will serve in managerial rolls, said Lysaght. "We are in the training process — observing the routines of different work stations," said Duan.

Fiberflex officials are aiming for mid-November for shipping the new equipment to China, said Lysaght. "We should have everything structurally completed by tomorrow. We'll be adding the electronics and hydraulics," Fiberflex Director of Manufacturing Meredith (Mert)

Remley said Tuesday. "Theirs will be a lot more sophisticated than ones we use," said Remley. "They'll have total computer control, diagnostics — really state of the art."

Although Fiberflex produces other products besides fiberglass sucker rods for oil production, these rods are the primary product of interest for the Chinese. The oil fields in China are similar to those of West Texas in that both contain concentrations of hydrogen sulfide gas, which is corrosive to steel rods.

Technology sales could prove profitable for the Houston-based company.

Fiberflex officials have already been approached by another Chinese firm that wishes to make a similar technology purchase for electrical uses, said Lysaght.

Sanger is also planning to travel to the Soviet Union to negotiate a possible technology sale in that country, said Lysaght.

Community rallying behind state hospital

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
 Staff Writer

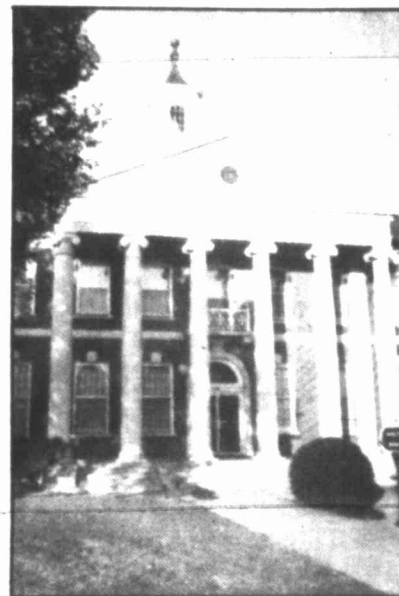

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Governmental Affairs Committee will meet today at noon to discuss plans to organize community support for the Big Spring State Hospital.

Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, said he contacted the Chamber of Commerce and asked them to form a local support group to let the governor and other legislators know how important the hospital is to the Howard County community.

"I have been very much on top of this. We do have local people watching this, and I've been watching it for the last three weeks," said Fraser.

Governor Ann Richards appointed a five-person task force to study and evaluate all state mental health and mental retardation facilities last week. The last special session mandated the task force, and recommendations are due by March 31, 1992, on the schools, and Dec. 1, 1992, for the hospitals and centers.

Fraser said the task force was established and granted the power to evaluate the facilities for possible consolidation or closure. Although the intent of the task force was to look into the state schools, the law was written to include all facilities, including hospitals and centers.

STATE HOSPITAL BUILDING

"But Big Spring is not one of the facilities to be considered. We have the leading state hospital, and with our catchment area, there's no chance (a closure) would happen," Fraser said.

"I don't understand why state mental health facilities are being considered for closure. The lawsuit was only concerning state schools," said Fraser, referring to the 17-year old Leisz vs. Kavanagh suit against state schools.

The task force is expected to tour the more than 60 mental health and hospitals and centers.

Senate delays Thomas confirmation hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clarence Thomas, stalled just shy of confirmation to the Supreme Court, faces an uncertain future in the Senate as lawmakers investigate charges that he sexually harassed a former assistant. Both Thomas and accuser Anita Hill pledged cooperation with the probe.

"This is not going to be an easy hearing," Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph Biden said Tuesday after a day of drama in the Senate in which Thomas "totally and unequivocally" denied the allegations, Democratic support for the nomination eroded and the Senate agreed to a one-week delay.

With the vote put off until next Tuesday, Biden, D-Del., said the FBI would be called to investigate, and witnesses would be subpoenaed if necessary for a hearing.

"It is uncomfortable for everyone, but it must be done because we cannot fail to take seriously such a charge," he said.

President Bush and Senate Republicans rallied around Thomas, a black, conservative federal appeals judge — and sought to limit the scope of the renewed confirmation proceedings.

"This is a test for Clarence Thomas," Senate GOP leader Bob Dole of Kansas said. "It's a test of his character, and I believe he's up to the test."

Thomas' chances for confirmation in a scheduled Tuesday evening vote evaporated in the face of concern over the allegations by Hill, a University of Oklahoma law professor.

Bentsen says no to judge Thomas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senior senator from Texas says his decision to vote against the confirmation of Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas has nothing to do with allegations of sexual harassment.

"There are far more qualified individuals the President could have chosen," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said Tuesday.

Bentsen, D-Texas, said he initially was inclined to confirm Thomas, but changed his mind because of evidence presented during Capitol Hill hearings.

"I decided to vote against Judge Thomas because of my disappointment in the obvious contradictions between the strong views he had previously expressed in speeches and articles, as compared with his answers to questions during the Judiciary Committee hearings," Bentsen said. "It was an obvious case of confirmation conversion."

The Senate late Tuesday postponed by one week its vote on Thomas' nomination to investigate allegations of sexual harassment raised by law professor Anita Hill. Thomas has strenuously denied the allegation.

Hospital chain conducts probe

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The corporation that owns 74 psychiatric hospitals, including some being investigated by federal, state and county authorities, is conducting its own investigation into charges that some of the hospital have been involved in illegal or unethical practices.

National Medical Enterprises Inc. announced Tuesday that they are investigating allegations of illegal or unethical practices.

The mental health facilities are operated by the company's subsidiary, Psychiatric Institutions of America.

Spokesman David Olson said Tuesday that the investigation has been underway at Colonial Hills Hospital in San Antonio and its sister facilities in 26 states.

Fed board hears NCNB complaints

DALLAS (AP) — NCNB Corp. treated some Texas borrowers poorly when it expanded to the state three years ago, business owners told a Federal Reserve panel.

But a bank officer countered that the loan portfolio of NCNB's Texas subsidiary has grown faster than any large bank in the state.

The bank's community lending practices are being scrutinized this week by the Federal Reserve Bank, which has been asked to approve a merger of NCNB and another Southeast banking firm, C&S-Sovran Corp.

During a daylong hearing Tuesday, critics charged NCNB would carry a shoddy lending performance to other states.

"Not only will it occur in those states, Texas will pay more for it," said Roger Dennis, an Abilene businessman who said Texans' deposits in NCNB have propped up the company in the Southeast.

Since coming to Texas in 1988, NCNB has fought off charges it uses Texas deposits in such a manner.

Much of the criticism has stemmed from NCNB's handling of problem loans from the portfolio of the bank it took over, First Republic-Bank Corp.

NCNB was given the ability to choose what loans to restructure or foreclose in a deal through which the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. paid most of the cost of such work.

The company in August quit the contract to work out the remaining $2.7 billion in bad assets from the First Republic portfolio in order to win a better terms to do the job.

DALLAS — Gussie Irving and other members of the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now carry protest signs outside a Federal Reserve Board hearing Thursday. ACORN members are protesting community lending practices of NCNB Corp.

Texas rep says he bounced checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sixth Texas congressman has revealed he bounced checks on his House bank account, after earlier declining to discuss his finances.

Rep. Mike Andrews, D-Houston, wrote several checks at a time when there was not a sufficient balance in his account, press secretary John Schrachter said Tuesday.

"He's sorry this entire matter has transpired and realizes this has been an embarrassing situation for everyone involved," Schrachter said.

But, Schrachter added, "He has never knowingly or intentionally written a check with insufficient funds in his account."

While debate raged last week over which House members had bounced checks at the members-only bank, Andrews declined to say whether he had written any rubber checks.

"While the congressman continues to believe personal finances and checking accounts are personal, it's clear this whole matter threatens to drag on and distract the public, the media and the Congress from the more pressing issues facing the nation,"

Schrachter said Tuesday.

The controversy was sparked by a General Accounting Office report that House members wrote 8,331 checks on insufficient funds at the bank from July 1989 to June 1990. The members did not incur financial penalties for the overdrafts, amounting to interest-free loans.

Texas congressmen who admitted last week they had written overdrafts were Reps. Bill Sarpalius, D-Amarillo; Albert Bustamante, D-San Antonio; Greg Laughlin, D-West Columbia; Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford and Lamar Smith, R-San Antonio.

All said the overdrafts resulted from bookkeeping errors.

Schrachter said Andrews requested information Monday on his House bank account from the bank's overseer. Andrews was prompted to make the request after continuing to field telephone calls on the controversy, Schrachter said.

Andrews was informed Tuesday that "in some instances over the past several years" some checks were written against insufficient funds, Schrachter said.

He declined to reveal the number of checks, when they were written and their amounts.

Plaintiff's parents want new lawyer

DALLAS (AP) — Parents for the lead plaintiff in the 17-year-old battle over state care of the mentally retarded want a federal judge to replace their attorney, a newspaper reported.

John and Ruth Lelsz of Galveston asked U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders in a letter released Tuesday to replace David Ferleger of Philadelphia, The Dallas Morning News reported in Wednesday editions.

The tentative deal, if approved, would mean the closing of at least two of the state's 13 facilities for the mentally retarded. Those residents would be relocated into the community.

named plaintiffs don't control the class," Coggins said. "The court has to concern itself with the feelings of the class as a whole."

MHMR, Ferleger and the non-profit group Advocacy Inc. have all agreed to the proposed settlement.

The tentative deal, if approved, would mean the closing of at least two of the state's 13 facilities for the mentally retarded. Those residents would be relocated into the community.

The couple wrote in their letter that they are displeased with the tentative settlement, calling it a "horrible" proposal.

"I respectfully wish to inform you that our attorney in the Lelsz vs. Kavanaugh suit no longer speaks for or represents us in this case," they wrote.

"Our objections to the manner he has handled this case, the horrible proposed settlement which gives away the mentally retarded's rights and protections and the consistent indifference are some of the reasons for this statement to the court."

Ferleger, who represents the Lelsz and about 2,000 of the state's 7,000 state school residents, could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

But the state Department of Mental Health-Mental Retardation's attorney, Paul Coggins says the named plaintiffs don't rule the case's outcome.

"In a class-action lawsuit, the closure of institutions for the mentally retarded is a hotly debated issue both in Texas and nationwide.

A second intervenor in the 1974 case, Parents Association for the Retarded in Texas, or PART, is a staunch supporter of state institutions.

The Lelsz are parents of John Lelsz Jr., an adult child who has spent most of his life in the care of Texas' state school system.

The request comes six weeks before Sanders' scheduled hearing on the settlement, set for Nov. 25.

Geren rallies unions to save fighter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only a few days remain for supporters of the F-16 fighter jet to save the embattled program, which provides work for tens of thousands of people in Texas and other states.

A Texas congressman has rallied a coalition of union leaders, General Dynamics officials and House members who support the program to lobby key senators.

Both the Bush administration and House are staunch supporters of the F-16, which accounted for 44 percent of the sorties flown during the Persian Gulf War.

But support for the F-16, built by General Dynamics in Fort Worth, is weak in the Senate, where Armed Services Committee Chairman Sam Nunn favors the rival F-117 stealth fighter.

House and Senate conferees are meeting this week to hash out their differences. A conference report should be completed next Tuesday, Rep. Pete Geren said.

Geren, D-Fort Worth, Tuesday urged the Senate to salvage the F-16 program. Its loss could cost Texas 22,000 jobs. Ohio stands to lose 17,000 jobs, Connecticut 11,900, Massachusetts 7,000 and Kentucky 7,400, according to figures provided by Geren's office.

Nationwide, 141,400 jobs could be lost if the program is axed, Geren said.

The Pentagon requested 144 F-16s over the next three years, with the House approving $1.07 billion for 48 aircraft in 1992. The Senate terminated funding for the F-16 in '92 and transferred the $1.07 billion to start up a production line to produce 24 F-117s.

Geren blamed "misinformation" for the Senate's attempt to kill the F-16.

"I do think the facts are not well known out there. I do think there are people out there who still think the Air Force wants F-117s," he said.

"The Air Force has made it very clear that to swap the F-16 for the F-117 would be like trading apples for oranges," Geren said. "The F-117's night interdiction mission is very specialized, while the F-16 is the most versatile jet aircraft in the world and is suited for a variety of missions."

Baker off again to Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selection of Palestinian delegates acceptable to all sides looms as the biggest problem as Secretary of State James A. Baker III makes a new effort to set up a Middle East peace conference.

Baker will leave Saturday night on his eighth trip to the region since the end of the war with Iraq in February and make stops in Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria, State Department spokeswoman Margaret D. Tutwiler said Tuesday.

He probably will meet with Palestinian Arabs in Washington later this week and is planning another session during the trip. In effect, Baker is operating against a deadline.

In July, even while the parties were bickering over the terms for negotiations, President Bush and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev announced they would issue invitations for a peace conference this month.

Baker's toughest problem is trying to steer between Israel's objections to even an offstage role for the Palestine Liberation Organization and PLO chairman Yasser Arafat's attempt to influence the selection of Palestinians for the negotiations and the agenda itself.

The Bush administration hopes that Palestinians acceptable to both Israel and the PLO will make public statements that they will participate as part of a delegation with Jordan.

Safe fetal test method discovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new method to detect fetal disorders with simple blood samples from pregnant women could allow inexpensive testing for younger mothers who are not now tested, doctors say.

The new technique allows doctors to sift fetal blood cells from a pregnant woman's bloodstream and analyze them to identify genetic disorders such as Down's syndrome, a form of mental retardation.

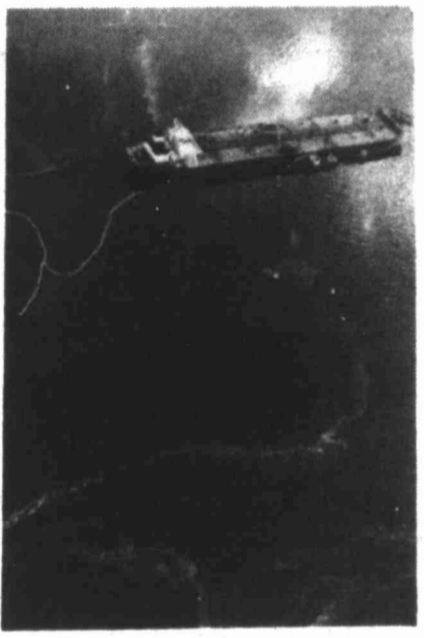

Researchers said Tuesday at the Eighth International Congress of Human Genetics that they had successfully diagnosed a case of Down's and two other similar chromosomal abnormalities using the test.

"This is important. ... It opens up prenatal diagnosis to the whole population, because there is no risk to the fetus," said Dr. Sherman Elias of the University of Tennessee in Memphis.

"What we're looking for is the needle in the haystack," said Dr. Mitchell Golbus of the University of California, San Francisco. Elias and Golbus are among the researchers who have had initial success with the new technique.

Judge OKs Exxon settlement

EXXON VALDEZ

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A judge closed the book on all government litigation over the Exxon Valdez oil spill, accepting a $1 billion settlement that costs Exxon Corp. $25 million more than a previous deal and applies more money toward the damaged environment.

Under the deal, approved Tuesday by U.S. District Judge H. Russel Holland, the oil giant pleaded guilty to four misdemeanor pollution charges.

The penalties stemming from the nation's worst oil spill are the highest ever assessed in the United States for environmental damages.

Five months ago, Holland rejected a similar $1 billion settlement, saying it failed to punish Exxon enough for the March 1989 accident.

Haiti inaugurates newest president

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — It was hastily woven with ragged edges, but lawmakers did their best to drape a cloak of legitimacy and ceremony over the inauguration of provisional president Joseph Narette.

The lawmakers, somber-faced and in dark suits, went step by step through the legal forms required to declare deposed President Jean-Bertrand Aristide's 7-month-old government defunct.

Over and over again, the Senate president, Dejean Belizaire, asked for debate on each of the points against Aristide and his absent prime minister, Rene Preval. Minor technical points were raised twice, but the lawmakers dispensed with discussion and the vote was unanimous each time.

Tuesday's proceedings were interrupted by the arrival of Gen. Raoul Cedras, the army commander, whom the lawmakers greeted with applause and gave a front-row seat.

Serving as witnesses were scores of curious Haitians and foreign journalists who lined a narrow second-floor balcony that ran around three sides of the high-ceilinged chamber. Not a single foreign diplomat was seen.

Done with the impeachment, a delegation was dispatched to bring Narette, 67, to the Chamber of Deputies for the swearing-in. He sat, arms crossed, in a large wooden chair with floral cushions that seemed to dwarf the Supreme Court justice, who is small and somewhat fragile-looking.

But Narette's voice was strong and his delivery energetic as he drew cheers and heavy applause by denouncing vengeance and the "flaming necklace," the lynch-mob technique in which a gasoline-soaked tire is placed around the neck.

Senior Russian officials resign

MOSCOW (AP) — Two senior government officials in the Russian Federation have resigned, citing the reluctance of the republic's leaders to support economic reform, a news agency reported today.

The resignations deepened a political crisis engulfing the government of Russian President Boris N. Yeltsin, which has been paralyzed in recent days by squabbling and disagreements among senior officials.

Because of bitter infighting, especially over a proposed economic treaty linking the 12

Soviet republics, Yeltsin's government has lost the political momentum it enjoyed after standing up to the hard-liners in the military and Communist Party to foil the Aug. 18-21 coup against Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

The disarray has intensified since Yeltsin went on vacation late last month to the Black Sea.

Yevgeny Saburov, the minister of the economy, and Igor Gavrilov, the minister of ecology, both told government leaders Tuesday they were resigning, the Interfax news agency reported.

Iraqi troops shell Kurdish towns

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The Iraqi army shelled Kurdish towns today despite a cease-fire agreement between rebels and the Baghdad government, the insurgents said. The violence has killed scores of people in five days.

The fighting came after autonomy talks between the guerrillas and the government of President Saddam Hussein foundered.

Tens of thousands of Kurds have fled the latest clashes, and while U.S.-led allies stationed in Turkey expressed concern, they refrained from intervening.

Saddam's army attacked Kifri, Kalar and Maydan, Kurdish towns about 100 miles northeast of Baghdad, the rebel Patriotic Union of Kurdistan led by Massoud Barzani said in a statement released in London.

The group had no further information on the latest fighting, but said it immediately informed United Nations observers in Iraq of the attacks and sought their support to end the fighting.

Saddam moved against the rebels as Kurdish leaders were planning to establish a rival provisional government in their mountain stronghold, in their latest attempt to overthrow the Iraqi president.

The Iraqi military fought the Kurdish rebels to a standstill last spring after they rose up against Saddam following the Persian Gulf War.

Cease-fire holds for 2nd day

YUGOSLAV TANKER AND DOG

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — A cease-fire held for a second day in secessionist Croatia today, and the combatants prepared to pull back some of their forces, raising hope that a political settlement to the ethnic fighting can be found.

The cease-fire, reached Tuesday evening, was the seventh aimed at ending more than three months of fighting, which still continued in some areas today.

The truce calls for the federal navy to lift its blockade of Croatia's Adriatic coast and for Croats to stop surrounding army barracks. Simon Smits, a spokesman for the European Community, which has mediated previous cease-fires, said both sides agreed today to begin lifting the blockades at mid-afternoon.

Schools can't do everything

The latest statistics on what children learn in school indicates that the decline of the 1970s has been reversed but that most students are still a long way from proficiency in basic academic subjects.

They seem to read about as well and to know more or less about as much math and science as their parents did at the same age 20 years ago. Drug use is down, graduation rates are inching up, the gap between white and minority students is closing, albeit slowly, but Americans still lag well behind other developed nations in school achievement.

Education Secretary Lamar Alexander, commenting on those statistics, says, correctly, "That's not nearly good enough for the 1990s."

What Alexander does not say — much less provide statistics for — is that the schools are getting those results with children who come to school with many more problems than they did in 1970.

On average, they are far poorer; many more come to school speaking little or no English; and many more have only one parent at home — or none. In 1970, 14.9 percent of all children under 18 were living below the poverty line; by 1988, the last year for which data are available, the figure was 19.2 percent. That's an increase of nearly 30 percent.

In the same period, the number of children living with only one parent more than doubled (to more than 10 million); the percentage who speak something other than English at home has grown enormously.

None of those figures ought to be an excuse for failure, or for lack of effort. But given the change in population, it's surprising that schools have done as well, particularly during a decade when most other social services — from health care to recreation — have been cut, a fact that Alexander can't acknowledge since it's his administration and its predecessors that have done much of the cutting.

It's nonetheless unconscionable that members of the administration do little more than play Greek chorus when the figures are announced. The president has proclaimed absurdly ambitious education goals for the year 2000 — that all students achieve competence in core subjects, that Americans be "first in the world" in math and science — but does almost nothing to realize them.

Until the federal government makes real efforts to improve the lives of children, it's not likely that Alexander and his successors will be able to announce many triumphs. Given the enormous problems that children bring to school, and the inadequate social support they get, it sometimes seems a miracle that the numbers are as good.

Jet drag: Traveling 9,000 miles in 40 hours

I left Atlanta Monday morning on a flight to Dallas-Ft. Worth. I was at DFW for an hour, then I boarded another flight to Honolulu.

I had business there. Tough duty, I know. Unfortunately, because of other commitments, like the Braves pennant race and the Georgia-Clemson affair, I had to do a quick turnaround in Honolulu and aloha right out of there after just 24 hours. Barely enough time to cram down a little pineapple and watch Japanese tourists taking pictures of other Japanese tourists taking pictures.

The trip was 9,000 miles. I was away from home for 40 hours. I was in the air 16 of those hours.

I crossed six time zones going out and six time zones going back, which was Honolulu/DFW/Atlanta again.

I discovered something. I discovered the human body and mind are not geared for such a thing.

There's jet lag, of course. You get that, say, flying to Europe. You get off the plane in Paris after eight or so hours in the air, and you feel in dire need of sleep and mouthwash.

But nobody is stupid enough to get back on a plane 24 hours later and fly back home.

If you do that, like I did, then there's jet drag. That's when you've been dragged back and forth between eastern time and pineapple time in less than two days and day is night and night is day and your mouth feels like the Chinese army spent the night there.

And your medulla oblongata is a quivering mass of confusion. Your feet are swollen. Your hair hurts. Your eyes won't stay open. And your stomach is trying to digest yet another airline omelette which tastes sort of like your seat cushion, which may be used for flotation, but not for sleeping very comfortably.

Back to the food. In a span of only 40 hours, I ate four airline meals.

If God had intended us to eat airline food he (or she) would have made our stomachs out of industrial carpet.

And sometimes I wonder if God knew exactly what the Wright brothers were up to. He (or she) told Noah to build the ark, but I'm not certain he (or she) looked down and told Wilbur and Orville to build a flying machine.

If he (or she) had, God would have said, "Listen, guys, don't ever try to serve anything to eat on one of those things and sort of keep those flying machines to joy ride around the country."

I also don't know how long it will take me to get back to normal. Perhaps I can be sitting up and taking solid food again in a week.

But I know this: I'll never attempt to go that far in that small amount of time again. I flew over great rivers and mountain ranges, the desert, Los Angeles and a big chunk of the Pacific ocean.

I went from the Peach State to the Aloha State and back again and now I'm in a state of timus confusus.

When the big hand's on 12 and the little hand's on 7, am I supposed to eat breakfast or watch Peter Jennings?

Is the seafood medley on an airplane supposed to taste like baked cat?

When will my head return to its original upright and locked into position.

In the unlikely event of cabin depressurization, will an oxygen mask really fall down in front of me, or will I have to stick my head out the window?

I hate to fly. And it shows.

Supreme Court: Makers of history

WASHINGTON — It is always the same, and the ritual sameness adds to the aura that imbues the Supreme Court. Exactly at the stroke of 10 o'clock the great red curtains part. The justices magically appear, as punctually as soldiers marching out of a Swiss town clock. Everyone rises. "God save the United States and this Honorable Court!" And term begins.

Even for old-timers in the press gallery, there is always a tingling of excitement and of awe. Such is the importance of law in our lives that the nine justices rank as nine of the 12 most powerful people in our public life.

Again this year, as in 1990, only eight justices emerge. Last year we were waiting on David Souter's confirmation. This year we wait for the Senate to confirm Clarence Thomas. He will miss a dozen cases, but no harm done. Only two of this week's 12 cases have much public interest. The other 10, in the polite word, are dogs.

The working press sits stage right (to the left as one faces the bench), peering at the actors through an iron grill. The justices are a diverse lot. Chief Justice William Rehnquist just marked his 67th birthday last week. He suffers from a small handicap: He doesn't look like a chief justice. It has been said that he looks like Ichabod Crane. Rehnquist's immediate predecessors — Burger, Warren, Vinson, Stone, Hughes and Taft — all had the Rushmore look, as if they had been sent from Central Casting. Appearances are deceptive. Rehnquist is tough, a stickler for protocol, a man who believes rules were invented to be obeyed.

On his right is the court's senior member in point of service, Byron White, 74, a swing man who generally votes with the conservative bloc. White still has the athletic bearing of his young manhood as a football star in Colorado. To Rehnquist's left is the court's oldest justice, Harry Blackmun. He will be 83 next month, and he looks it. As the court's only remaining true-blue liberal, he is in for an unhappy term.

John Paul Stevens, 71, is an odd duck. He flies his own plane; he plays bridge with life masters; off the court he is said to be an amiable fellow. On the bench he functions as canon of the cathedral: He is not out to save souls; his job is to see that the furnace works. Stevens dissented 44 times last term, often in the tone of a mother superior correcting her nuns.

Sandra Day O'Connor, 61, improves with age, as beautiful and intelligent women always do. She has the white-glove look of a headmistress at a posh school for girls, but the white glove conceals a steel hand. Questioning an ill-prepared counsel, O'Connor can be persistently stubborn. She does her homework before oral argument.

Number six is Antonin "Nino" Scalia, 55, voluble, quick-witted, a master of the razor sharp riposte. He is the only one on the court who looks as if he is having a really good time. The others often sit there as politely impassive as potted palms, but Scalia is an intellectual body that is constantly in motion.

Anthony Kennedy turned 55 in July. This will be his fourth year on the high court. He has the general aspects of a popular dean of students. Kennedy is beginning to get a fair share of the important cases — he had three of them last term — and he no longer hesitates to go his own way.

David Souter, 52, the high court's workaholic, so far has to be accounted a disappointment. It is not his fault that he resembles the Dormouse at the Mad Hatter's party, but his eight opinions for the court last term struck no intellectual sparks. There is speculation in the press room that Souter is suffering no more than a rookie's jitters, that he will soon recover from the feeling of being overwhelmed. Souter's trouble may be that he tries too hard. It can happen.

About those two significant cases this week: One of them, argued on Monday, involves desegregation in DeKalb County, Ga. It could be the beginning of the end of intense federal supervision of public schools. The other has to do with congressionally mandated warnings on cigarette packages: Do these warnings suffice to bar civil suits for damages?

By term's end in June, the high court will have heard 140 cases more or less. Most of the opinions, to tell truth, will be ho-hum and so what, but 20 of them will significantly shape the Constitution. That's why, watching term begin, we feel the tingle of goose bumps on the arm. History is being made.

Let the officials run the city

To the editor: Why can't the people of Big Spring wait until an election date to vote for a change?

Big Spring could take the money they spend on special elections and spend it on improvements or give it to the police department.

The city council members were elected by the majority of the people and the majority of the people will keep them, just as they have in the past. The majority of the people in Big Spring are tired of the fussing and arguing over politics all time. We elect our officials to run the town, they in turn hire a business manager and police chief.

Let the council do their job and let the city manager do his, whatever it may be. Let the police chief enforce the law — not run the town. Let Mr. Twedell go back to Dallas and stir up trouble there, we have enough people that live here to run things for us. We don't need someone from Dallas telling us how many police we have to hire to be safe. What is safe?

How much crime do we have in Big Spring compared to Dallas? Are we really that bad? We have all these laws to protect us.

Big Spring needs to get back to business at hand and cut out the fussing.

Let Mr. Hughes run Hughes Rental his way or run for council. Let Joe Cook enforce the law by the council and city manager's way or he should run for council.

Let Mr. Twedell go back and run Dallas. In other words let the elected officials do their job and let the hired officials do theirs.

The early bird gets the shaft

To the editor: Be sure to watch your automobile license tag expiration date carefully!

My car tags expired on Sept. 30, 1991. On Sept. 30, I renewed my tags. I received a new 1992 sticker that expires the last day of August 1992. I'm not a math scholar but that figures out at 11 months, instead of 12.

Now for the weird part. If I had waited 1 day, (ie: Oct. 1) I would have received a September expiration sticker. Additionally, I could have waited until Oct. 5 before I would have gotten a ticket for expired tags, because they allow a 5-day grace period.

Now folks, that takes the incentive out of getting your tags renewed early.

Since I could not get a reasonable answer from the local office, I called the regional office and got the same answer. I asked point blank, "If I wait until after my tags expire, and as long as I do it before the 5th of the following month, only then will I get a full 12 months worth of tags?"

Her answer was "Yes". She told me that if I had called and asked her about it before I renewed, she would have advised me to wait until the next day (Oct. 1). After they had already expired!

Now if I understand this, the state says it is illegal to drive your vehicle with expired tags. But, if you renew them before they expire, you will lose at least 1 month!

What if you're a real early bird and renew say the month before they expire? . . . Yep . . . you will lose 2 months!

I'm proud to be a Texan, but I'd certainly not want to tell anybody about this little scandal! What happened to the funds for the 12 month? You didn't get the use out of it, but you certainly paid for it! How much money is that, spread out all over the state? Where does it go?

From now on, I'll wait until after my tags expire, before I renew. You should too!

Sign me "still scratching my head" . . .

Writer says story was biased

To the editor: Concerning Marsha Sturdivant's story about Birthright in the Sept. 27 Big Spring Herald, we would appreciate it if your writers would keep their opinions for the opinion page. She said, "But the volunteers apparently lack knowledge about Texas or national abortion laws."

We are acutely aware of abortion laws in this country. They are the reason Birthright exists. Our purpose is to give young women the choice to keep their babies.

We are no longer surprised when the national media portray conservatives and pro-lifers as ignorant fanatics, but we are disappointed to see that sort of liberal bias in the writing of our local reporters.

Today's Lifestyles Homemakers School is on the way

Just as we live our lives, Today's Lifestyles promises to be fast-paced. This homemakers school sponsored by The Big Spring Herald will be lively and entertaining, maybe even a little hectic at times according to Lucinda Kahny. The festivities will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 16 at the Municipal Auditorium.

Using appliances from Harris Lumber and Dale Martin and Sons, Kahny will prepare a dozen dishes on stage from start to finish. At the close of the evening, the foods will be shown, ready for the drawing when some lucky winners will be announced.

Each person attending will receive a gift bag with the 1991 Today's Lifestyles cookbook, coupons, recipes and more.

Here are a few recipes and tips from Kahny to you. Hope to see you at the Homemakers School.

Mention a white sauce to most and they think of painstaking and time consuming formulations of butter, milk and flour. Since white sauces are the basis for so many wonderful dishes, the food professionals at the Kraft Creative Kitchens have developed a basic white sauce that is fast, foolproof and flavorful. The secret ingredient — Kraft Miracle Whip Salad Dressing. Miracle Whip blends easily with an endless variety of foods, without the lumping and starchy taste that often characterizes old-fashioned white sauces.

FETTUCCINI ALFREDO
1/2 cup Miracle Whip Salad Dressing
1 cup milk
1 cup (4 ounces) grated Parmesan cheese
1/4 teaspoon McCormick/Schilling garlic powder
1/8 teaspoon McCormick/Schilling ground black pepper
8 ounces fettuccini, cooked, drained

In medium saucepan, whisk salad dressing and milk over low heat until smooth. Add cheese, garlic powder and pepper. Cook, stirring constantly, over low heat 1 to 2 minutes or until thickened and smooth. Toss with noodles; serve immediately. 4 cups.

EASY CHEESY VEGETABLES
1/2 cup Miracle Whip salad dressing
2 tablespoons flour

Stuffed bell peppers can be made extra-special with the right choice of spices.

1/4 cup milk
1 (16 ounces) pkg. frozen broccoli, cauliflower and carrots, thawed, drained
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded pasteurized process cheese food
1/2 teaspoon McCormick/Schilling italian seasoning (optional)
1/8 teaspoon McCormick/Schilling ground black pepper
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Whisk salad dressing and flour until well blended. Whisk in milk. Stir in vegetables, process cheese food and seasonings. Spoon into shallow 1-quart casserole. Bake 35 to 40 minutes or until bubbly. 6 servings.

CHEESY SCALLOPED POTATOES
1/2 cup Miracle Whip salad dressing
2 tablespoons flour
1/8 teaspoon McCormick/Schilling ground black pepper
1 cup milk
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded sharp cheddar cheese
4 cups thinly sliced potatoes
2 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Whisk together salad dressing, flour and pepper. Whisk in milk; cook, stirring constantly, over low heat until thickened. Add cheddar cheese; stir until melted. Place potatoes in 10x6-inch baking dish; top with salad dressing mixture. Sprinkle with parmesan cheese; cover with foil. Bake 45 minutes. Uncover; continue baking 15 minutes or until potatoes are tender. 6 servings.

STUFFED PEPPERS
Combine 1 pound lean ground beef, 1 1/2 cups cooked brown rice, 1 1/2 teaspoons McCormick/Schilling chili powder, 1 tablespoon McCormick/Schilling instant minced onion and 1/2 of an 8-ounce can no-salt-added tomato sauce. Fill 6 red and green bell peppers, cored and seeded, with mixture. Top with remaining tomato sauce. Bake in 350 degree oven for 45-50 minutes.

Microwave directions: Prepare as above and set in large microwave-safe baking dish. Cover and microcook on high 12-16 minutes, rotating dish once. Let stand 2 minutes.

Nutrition information: per serving — 217 calories, 14g protein, 19g carbohydrates, 10g fat, 41mg cholesterol and 59mg sodium.

TEXAS GRILLED CHICKEN
Brush 1 1/2 pounds boneless, skinless chicken breasts with 1 tablespoon oil. Combine 1 tablespoon McCormick/Schilling chili powder, 1/4 teaspoon McCormick/Schilling oregano leaves and 2 tablespoons lime juice to make a paste. Rub over chicken and refrigerate overnight. Broil or grill. Slice thinly. If desired, roll in a flour tortilla. Makes 6 servings.

Nutrition information: per serving — 150 calories, 26g protein, 1g carbohydrate, 4g fat, 65mg cholesterol and 86mg sodium. Packing and carrying lunches can be tiresome for the preparer as well as the consumer. (Home Economist), Homemakers Schools home economist, suggests preparing some simple menu items during the week or on the weekend when time allows. These special homemade treats can be easily slipped into the bag or box for later day munching.

COCONUT HONEY BARS
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 cup honey
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups quick cooking oats
1-1/3 cups (about) Baker's Angel Flake coconut

Melt butter in saucepan. Add remaining ingredients and stir to mix well. Spread in well-greased Wilton Even-Bake Insulated Bakeware 8-inch square pan, pressing lightly. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes or just until golden. Cool; but into bars. Makes 24 cookies.

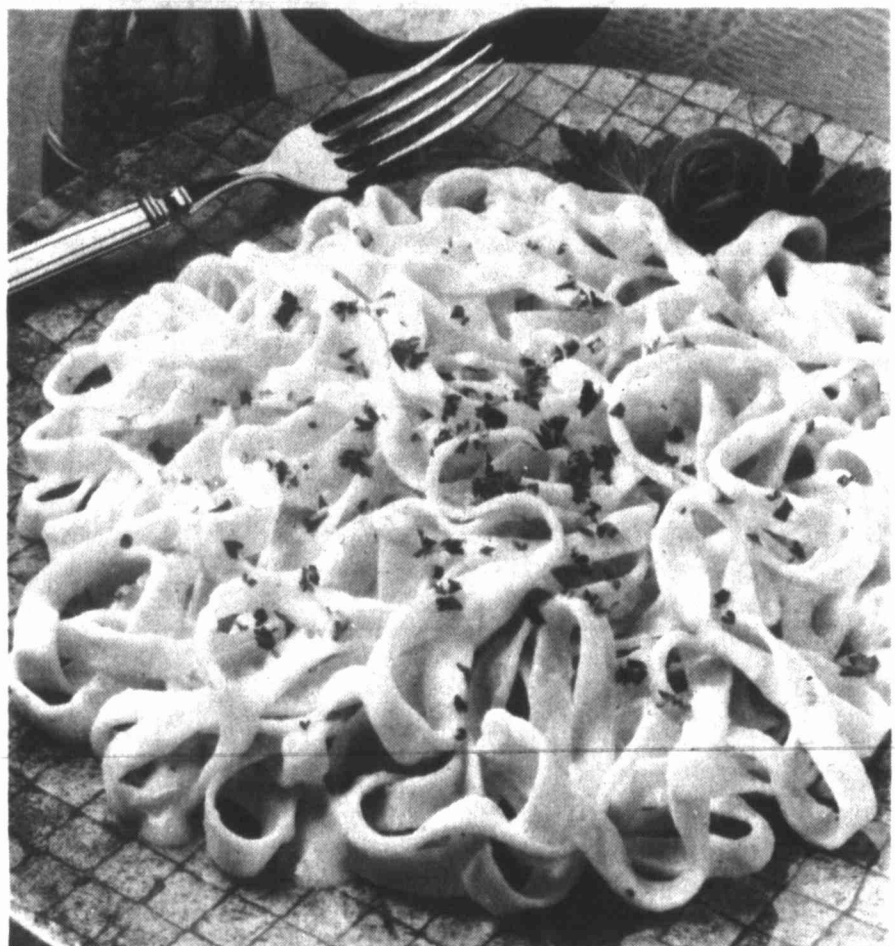

COCONUT PEANUT BUTTER CUPS
1 cup creamy peanut butter

LUCINDA KAHNY

1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup sweetened condensed milk
2 cups Baker's Angel Flake coconut
Combine peanut butter, sugar and egg, mixing until well blended. Press into bottom of 20 paper baking cups, using about 1 tablespoon in each. Place in Wilton muffin pans. Combine milk and coconut. Spoon into cups over peanut butter

Salvation Army helps locate family

DEAR ABBY: About 20 years ago my parents divorced. My mother kept my father's whereabouts unknown, and eventually all contact was lost. When I turned 18 and left home, I tried to no avail to locate my father. I gave up after six years, until I read a letter in your column. You gave the address for the Salvation Army, which has a Missing Persons Service to help find close relatives. I contacted them, and yesterday I received a telephone call from my father!

Dear Abby

Many years have passed and he has a new family, but I hope we can build a relationship now.

Thank you, Abby, from the bottom of my heart, for making this possible. Please publish the information about the Salvation Army at least once a year. Maybe there can be other happy endings. — YVETTE IN NEWPORT BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR YVETTE: No need to thank me. That's what I'm here for.

Readers, the Salvation Army operates a Missing Persons Locator Service in 90 countries throughout the world. This service is available to the public. Those interested should be aware of the following basic guidelines:

1. The inquirer should be searching for a near relative. Please do not request a search for old classmates, sweethearts, wartime buddies, friends or neighbors. And do not ask to find runaway adult children or someone owing you money.
2. The inquirer must be able to provide essential information about the missing person.
3. The Salvation Army reserves the right to accept or reject any request for services based upon consideration of reasonableness, feasibility or notice.

4. The inquirer is asked to forward a $10 non-refundable donation.

5. The inquirer may secure information and/or a missing persons inquiry form by contacting the nearest Salvation Army office in his area or by contacting the nearest Territorial Headquarters. Addresses: P.O. Box C635, West Nyack, N.Y. 10994; 1424 Northeast Expressway, Atlanta, Ga. 30329-2088; 30840 Hawthorne Blvd., Rancho Palos Verdes, Calif. 90274; 10 W. Algonquin, Des Plaines, Ill. 60016.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have no children, but we plan to try in the near future. If we have a son, my wife wants to name him after me.

The problem is I already have a son named after me from my first marriage, and I don't think it would be right to have two half-brothers with the same name. It could cause them both problems in the future with bank accounts, charge accounts, loans, wills, etc.

My wife seems to think these would be only minor inconveniences. I don't see it that way. Am I wrong for saying no to naming another son after me? And can you offer a possible solution to this problem? — H.J.K. JR.

DEAR H.J.K. JR.: You are not wrong. If that's the way you truly feel, why not reverse the first and middle names? Instead of "Henry Joseph Klopphammer" (not your real name), name him "Joseph Henry Klopphammer."

DEAR ABBY: I have a son who is just 2 years old. "Owen" is a very shy child and he isn't talking yet — except for a few words. My problem is my friends and relatives. They are constantly telling me that something is wrong with Owen because he doesn't talk yet. They imply that he is a slow learner or he must have a hearing problem. Owen's doctor says there is nothing wrong with his hearing, and he isn't any slower at learning than the average 2-year-old. Abby, this has caused me many sleepless nights.

What should I say to these people who insist that Owen isn't normal? — OWEN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Tell them that Owen's doctor has said there is nothing wrong with Owen's hearing, and his learning ability is normal for a 2-year-old — and the doctor's professional opinion is the one you value most.

Expert: Youth and fat can lead to age and illness

WASHINGTON (AP) — Being young and otherwise healthy doesn't mean that being overweight won't catch up to you later in life.

Obesity — having too great a percentage of your body as fat — can lead to heart disease, high blood pressure, and diabetes, especially after people enter midlife.

"If a 20-year-old is 30 percent fat, that is a bit scary, because he could be 40 percent by the time he's 40," said Michael L. Pollock, director of the Center for Exercise Science at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

A healthy college-age man should be no more than 15 percent fat, and a college-age woman should be no more than 25 percent, Pollock said. Being 10-12 percent or more above this should be a red flag to get off the fat track, he said.

"The health risk is really strong for those people," Pollock said. "He may not notice at 20, but in his 30s and 40s, it's going to catch up quick."

"My guess is that it increases the risk twofold or more," said epidemiologist Steven N. Blair of the Institute for Aerobics Research in Dallas.

Nailing this down to individual cases is not so easy, however.

"It depends on the level of overweight and a lot of other factors," Blair said. Factors to watch for are the ones that indicate you've begun to get sick — for instance, elevated blood pressure.

Another factor is the location of your fat. Researchers have found that people who carry their weight on their bellies have a higher risk of heart disease than do people who carry their weight around their hips.

Some people have the bad luck to have inherited a bigger chance to be bigger. However, a genetic tendency toward obesity is not so bad by itself, Pollock said.

"Obesity is only one risk factor and, if that's the only one, you can do pretty well," he said.

This, however, is not necessarily a way out of losing weight. "You find some people who live pretty long lives but, on average, they don't," Pollock said.

An overweight person who has no other risk factors can do a lot to control his disease risk simply by exercising, said Dr. John W. Farquhar, director of the Stanford Center for Research in Disease Prevention at Stanford University in California.

Regardless of your level of obesity, the people who are inactive have higher death rates, said Blair.

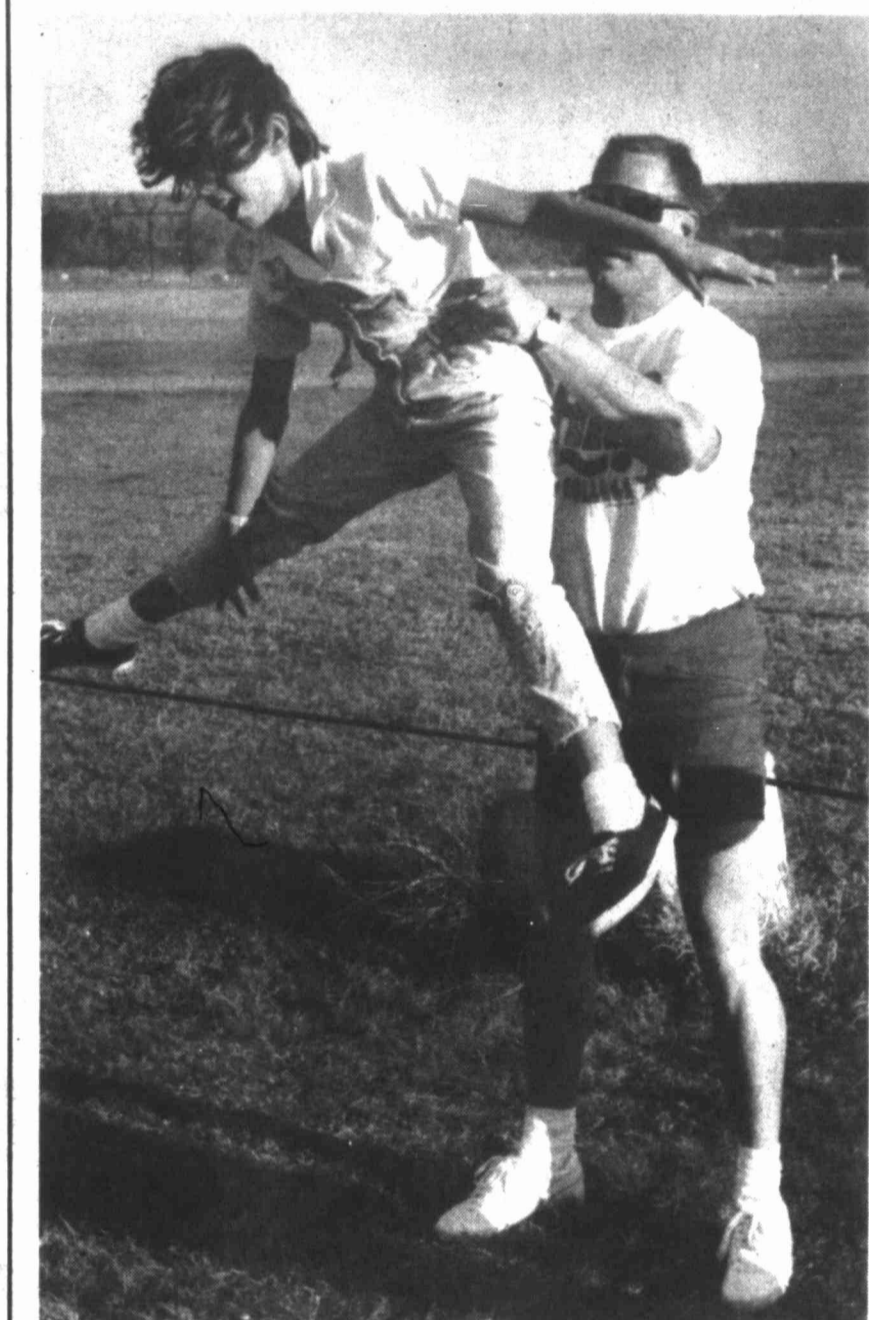

You can improve your chances even more by managing your exercise and diet well enough to trim down. Experts know of no formula that will predict your exact risk-reduction benefit, but they say exercise is crucial to keeping weight off. For one thing, no one can stay on a diet forever.

"Starving people, which is the American way, is for the birds," Farquhar said.

And it doesn't take much exercise to make a big change in risk reduction, Blair said.

"My guess is the energy expenditure of a brisk walk for an hour a day," he said. "It doesn't have to be all at once. What I encourage people to do is look for opportunities to expend energy."

Members of the Crossroads Little Football League Cowboys cheerleaders were instructed by the Howard College cheerleaders in the finer points of cheerleading Tuesday evening. In the left photo, Dana Duncan holds up Recia Shults, daughter of John and Julia Shults, so that she could practice proper leg positions for jumps. Visitor excited about visit to cattle ranch

Betty McEachern, daughter-in-law of Lois Anderson from San Angelo, visited with Lois over lunch Friday, Sept. 27, then spent the afternoon with "Bubbles" Tatum, Lois' daughter.

Lois shared that her son, Jimmy McEachern and Betty raise Sembra, big, red blaze-faced cattle on their 800-acre ranch. They raise their feed, Sweet Sue and oats, as well as combining and bailing it. The Simmental bulls are 5/8 Brahman and 3/8 Simmental crossbred while the heifers are 100% registered Sembra. The calves weigh more than 100 pounds at birth and as much as 208 pounds at one month.

"Betty has attended a number of cow sales and is really excited about the Sembra cattle business, although she's never lived on a farm before this venture," stated Lois. "The couple actually live in San Angelo where they own and operate American RV and Supply, but spend every minute they can on the ranch in a mobile home," she continued.

Betty and Bubbles, who live at the Anderson ranch, spent the afternoon looking over the Carl Robinson cattle as they visited.

Doyle and Mary Railsback with sons, Todd and Carl, moved into the former L.C. Underwood home in the last few weeks, after repainting the interior.

Doyle farms at Knott and north of Big Spring and has for the last 22½ years, on approximately 2,100 acres of land.

A housewarming Sept. 22 celebrated their move.

The Railsback have five children and five grandchildren. The oldest, Gerald, has two children, Kevin, 12 and Brandy, 10, and lives in Azel near Ft. Worth. Daughter Melinda Stapp works as the Agriculture Stabilization Conservation Service, (ASCS) office and has two children, Samantha, eight and

Luther MICKIE HARRINGTON

Tyler, 16 months. Their youngest daughter, Angela Brown of San Antonio, has one son, Corbin, three.

Mary Railsback likes crafts of all kinds and Doyle collects antique tractors, antique cars and drag race cars. He owns a 1967 Camaro which is all original and a 1968 Camaro race car. He races in San Angelo, Lubbock and Hobbs, N.M.

Gwen Faulkner and Buddie Hechler left Luther Friday morning, Sept. 18 to visit Alva Reese and her mother, Nell Robertson in Denton.

Saturday morning at 6 a.m. the four left in the Robertson car and visited numerous small towns, including Sanger, Montague County, Gainesville and Marietta, Okla., where they enjoyed a delicious catfish dinner.

Returning to Denton for their car, Buddie and Gwen drove to Dallas and spent the night with Gwen's son, Randy and wife Kim before returning home Tuesday, Sept. 22.

"I never knew there were so many small towns until now," stated Mrs. Hechler.

Men more likely to spread AIDS virus

CHICAGO (AP) — Heterosexual men infected with the virus that causes AIDS are at least 17.5 times more likely to give the infection to women during sex than the other way around, according to a study that supports previous findings.

Investigators in the study published Wednesday tested 72 male partners of infected women and 307 female partners of infected men to determine the rates of HIV transmission between heterosexual couples.

The researchers said they found that just one man had become infected by a woman, and even that case was inconclusive since both partners said they had had many unprotected sex encounters with other partners before their relationship.

Sixty-one, or 20 percent, of the women had been infected by men, according to the study. The study expands on a preliminary report last year suggesting men were 14 times more likely to give the virus to women than vice versa.

"This really shows the relative risk," said lead researcher Dr. Nancy S. Padian of the University of California, San Francisco. "It doesn't say anything about the exact magnitude of the risk."

The imbalance in transmission rates appears to result from a combination of factors, including physical differences between men and women, Padian said.

An editorial accompanying the study in Wednesday's Journal of the American Medical Association said the findings emphasize how slow the United States has been to acknowledge the rise in heterosexual AIDS.

Scientists believe the proportion of heterosexually transmitted AIDS cases will double in the next decade, from about 7 percent now, said authors of the editorial. Drs. James Allen and Valarie Setlow of the National AIDS Program Office at the Department of Health and Human Services.

Mary Guinan, special assistant in the office of the deputy director of HIV at the federal Centers for Disease Control, said the study bolsters previous findings that "Women are more susceptible in a heterosexual relationship than men."

A total of 183,696 U.S. cases of AIDS in adults and adolescents had been recorded by the CDC as of July 31, including 10,279 cases attributed to heterosexual transmission, 4,070 of them among men and 6,209 among women.

In the United States and Europe, AIDS has so far been largely confined to male homosexuals, hemophiliacs and intravenous drug abusers.

Glasscock County superintendent and wife resign

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
 Staff Writer

Donn Stringer, superintendent for Glasscock County Independent School District, resigned from his position following an executive session of the trustees on Sept. 30.

The Big Spring Herald was not notified of the special meeting, a violation of the Texas Open Meetings Law that says notice shall be given by telephone or telegraph to any news media requesting such notice." (Sec. 3e, Notice of Meetings in the Open Meetings Act.)

School board president Lynn Glass said, "I'm sure the notice was posted in the required time, and it must have been an oversight that the media was not notified."

Glass said the Stringers resigned for "personal reasons. We don't make any statements about what goes on in executive session. During the open meeting we accepted their resignations."

He said the meeting was called to deal with personnel issues, and no other business was conducted by the board.

"I wouldn't say it was a short meeting, probably over an hour," Glass said.

The single resignation that said "she and I" was read to the trustees by Donn Stringer prior to the executive session. It was approved by the trustees following the executive session, as per open meetings law, Glass said.

Hazel and Donn Stringer have been employed by the district for 20 years. She was school counselor, and he served as superintendent.

Neither of the Stringers would answer any questions or comment about their reasons for resigning or any future plans they may have. Hazel Stringer referred questions to Tanya Multer, trustee.

Trustees Tana Multer, Glenda Blalock and Vice President Dennis Fuchs refused to comment about the resignations, except to refer all questions to Glass.

Fuchs said, "The rumors have blown out of proportion. She (Hazel) was not fired — she resigned. He resigned after the executive session and that was the end of it."

Glenda Blalock, board secretary and trustee, said she considers the resignation an "early retirement for Stringer," and Fuchs agreed.

"He is eligible for retirement," said Fuchs.

Glass said Donn Stringer was eligible to retire next school year.

He said there are no immediate plans to hire a new superintendent or school counselor. Charles Zachary, high school principal, is interim superintendent. Zachary also refused to comment.

"He has the qualifications to be superintendent," Glass said.

Multer and Fuchs said the trustees have not discussed hiring any new personnel.

"I can't speak for the board members, but I don't think we have any immediate changes in mind. We'll take our time (finding replacements)," Multer said.

Lillie Havlak, trustee, said, "Both of them resigned in a very professional manner. He said he came here when our school was in a turmoil over a past administration, and he would not leave like that."

Glass said the school year would not be disturbed by the resignations. "We'll have school as usual. We have a good school system down here."

People's Voice of Texas proposes alternative to state and local taxes

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
 Staff Writer

Can all local and state taxes and fees be eliminated?

That is what an Abilene man who heads a year-old state organization says he would like to see voters do.

RAY HOLLIS

All taxes, including sales and property taxes, and fees should be eliminated in favor of a 1 percent "trade charge" on every purchase, including wholesale goods and food, says Ray Hollis, 66, of People's Voice of Texas.

The trade charge would not be a tax because it would be implemented by voters, not politicians, as taxes are, Hollis said. It would be fair to charge all buyers equally because government is responsible to protect life and liberty, which is acquired through trade. The charge would easily generate more than current taxes, according to Hollis.

"That's the only fair way to finance government," said Hollis, who was in Big Spring Tuesday campaigning on the issue. "Taxes were invented 12,000 years ago by the dictators. They taxed their people heavy and kept them poor and under control. It made them rich. "It hasn't changed," Hollis said. "I figure after 12,000 years we can make a change."

Hollis, who works as a bankrupt-liquidator, has planned a rally in Austin to convince legislators to put the issue on a ballot. The rally will be held after one million citizens have said they will be there.

"We've got 615,000 that say they'll go to Austin," he said. "It'll take more than 30 days to organize to go to Austin."

State Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, met with Hollis Tuesday and said afterwards that he will do research to see how such a trade charge would affect consumers and the economy and how much in revenue it would actually generate. "Obviously it'd be nice to do away with property taxes, but you're still generating taxes, it's still taxes," he said. "My philosophy is not to increase the amount of taxes collected. It would be to decrease the amount of money spent and to decrease the size of the bureaucracy in Austin."

Fraser said he is also concerned that the individual consumer could actually end up paying more, because the charge would more than likely be passed on in increased costs.

"The concept may be good but I would want to know more about the impact," he said. "I think there's going to be a lot of people concerned about having a tax on food, medicine."

Hollis said the charge could only be passed on until it reaches a maximum of 3 percent on any one item. Also, he said, the amount of revenue the state would be allowed to have is 110 percent of current revenue.

State Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, who is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, has not talked to Hollis but said that the current system of state taxation needs to be revamped because the heavy reliance on property taxes is unfair.

"I think what we need is a fair system," Montford said. "I'd have to take the plan (proposed by Hollis). I'd like to hear what the guy has to say."

According to information from a California group called Tax Free America, the 1 percent charge in 1988 would have generated more than 2 1/2 times the amount of total taxes of about $37 billion collected in Texas that year, says a pamphlet Hollis is distributing.

The figures are estimated by dividing the total amount of checks cashed in the nation by the population of each state. Cash purchases are not included but checks cashed for money, not purchases, are included, according to the pamphlet. Listed sources include the U.S. Census, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Federal Reserve Board.

State and local sales and property taxes, fees and fines came to at least $28 billion for the fiscal or calendar year ending in 1988, according to figures from the office of Comptroller John Sharp and the State Property Tax Board. Projected expenditures in the current two-year state budget is about $60 billion.

Of extra revenue expected to be collected during a year, Hollis is proposing that $10 billion be put into a workmen's compensation fund and $10 billion be used to establish an old age assistance fund. The remaining revenue could be used for a state emergency fund, he said.

mental retardation facilities before making any recommendations to the governor. She has the authority to reject those within 20 days. However, if Richards does not reject the recommendations, the law requires TDMHMR to implement the decisions.

"Every time that committee meets, I'll make sure we're there," Fraser said.

Linda Roger, executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, said today's meeting will garner support for the hospital. Ed Moughn, assistant superintendent of the hospital, will meet with the committee to give an update on the hospital and the task force.

"We'll start addressing the state offices to let them know how important the hospital is to our community, and to send our support," Roger said.

Jeff Morris, vice president of public affairs with the chamber, said, "We're very proud of the Big Spring State Hospital, and we want to help maintain its position within the Howard County community. It's a very important piece of Big Spring and we want it to continue to be successful."

The Permian Basin Central Labor Union, AFL-CIO, has also expressed support of the hospital. Union President D.L. Willis said the labor movement in this area is "strongly opposed to any attempt to close the Big Spring State Hospital. We have a number of concerns involving the impact that the closing of this and similar facilities would have on the West Texas area."

To contact the governor's office to give an opinion about the task force, call toll free, 1-800-843-5789.

For the record

In the map of proposed Senate districts published in Tuesday's Herald, the district colors were inadvertently changed in the production of the paper. The corrected map is published below trucks efficiently, and we're running two-man crews.

The district of Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, will be shifted to the east if the Senate redistricting plan approved in an out-of-court settlement is OK'd by the Justice Department.

"I think we should look into this at some point in the future," he said.

The council accepted the specifications as read, with Coffee voting against.

Mayor Green appointed Ladd Smith to a group working on the state prison project. The group hopes to secure a state prison facility in Big Spring.

In other business, the council voted to:

- Approve specifications for radio equipment for the fire department.
- Award a bid for a new wire tie machine for the landfill. The $20,250 award was given to U.S. Wire Tie Systems of Chicago Ill.
- Grant a request for the Big Spring Evening Lions Club to offer taxi service to certain events in Big Spring.
- Approve the platting of several new lots in the Coronado Hills addition.
- Approved on first reading a proposal to amend the city code regarding traffic lights at Washington Place Elementary, Anderson Kindergarten Center and Marcy school zones. Principals will establish the most appropriate hours for speed reduction around their schools under the new ordinance.

Authorized the mayor to sign an agreement with the Big Spring Model Airplane Association. The association has asked for permission to use a five-acre tract near Moss Creek Lake to fly their model airplanes.

In his report, City Manager Hal Boyd he was particularly proud of a report he received from the Texas Department of Transportation regarding the McMahon Wrinkle Airpark.

The last paragraph of the report reads:

"The airport is currently in excellent condition with no discrepancies noted during the inspection. All facilities are well maintained and cared for by the airport staff and the airport is a first class operation."

Boyd also reminded the council that he needed any input on his memorandum concerning the citizens advisory group to investigate allegations of police officer misconduct.

Boyd has also received three resumes from independent consultants to assist in reviewing these cases, he said.

Redistricting

The firm will then make three different redistricting proposals, all of which will match the Justice Department's requirement that minority voting strength not be diluted, said Hair. "The city will then choose the one they want."

Similar suits are expected to be filed against the Big Spring Independent School District and the Howard County Junior College District, said San Antonio Attorney Rolando Rios, who filed the suits against the county and city.

These will not be filed until the current action is completed, said Rios.

The redistricting was sparked because of 1990 census figures that show the city's Hispanic population increased to 30 percent from the 1980 figure of 24 percent.

Twins hold off Blue Jays, 5-4

MINNEAPOLIS — Toronto Blue Jays second baseman Roberto Alomar hits the ground after tagging out the Minnesota Twins' Chuck Knoblauch (right) on a steal attempt in the sixth inning of Tuesday night's American League Championship Series. Making the call is umpire Rocky Roe. The Twins won the game 5-4.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Neither team looked at home in the dome. The Minnesota Twins won their seventh straight postseason game at the Metrodome as Jack Morris escaped a Toronto comeback to beat the Blue Jays 5-4 in Game 1 of the American League playoffs Tuesday night.

For two teams that play a lot of games indoors, it wasn't a very pretty display. There were balls lost in the lights and more than a few misjudged drives to the gaps. The best-of-7 series continues Wednesday afternoon.

"The crowd was very special tonight," Minnesota manager Tom Kelly said. "I'm sure both sides were a little pumped up. Maybe that's why there were some mistakes."

Minnesota, which went from the AL West cellar last season to win the division this year, built an early lead on uncharacteristic speed and held on with a strong bullpen performance.

"I thought we played well," Toronto manager Cito Gaston said. "We came back. We probably could have run the bases better."

It kept the Twins postseason perfect in the 9-year-old Metrodome. Minnesota's last postseason loss at home was at old Metropolitan Stadium, in the 1970 league playoffs.

Toronto starter Tom Candiotti was chased after 2 2-3 innings, allowing five runs on eight hits. His knuckleball rarely knuckled and little else went right at the start for the startled Blue Jays, who won eight of 12 games against the Twins during the regular season — including two of three each of the last two weekends of the regular season.

The Twins said those games didn't matter and they proved it at the start, at least.

When the Twins won the World Series in 1987, the noise in the Metrodome was counted among the reason for the first four-game home sweep in Series history.

The Homer Hankies were out in force again Tuesday and the capacity crowd started raising the noise level to intolerable levels before the game even started. When things got going, Candiotti did nothing to quiet them.

The Twins scored two runs apiece in the first and second innings and added another in the third. In two starts for the Blue Jays against the Twins during the season, Candiotti gave up four runs on nine hits in 11 2-3 innings. But in his last 14 1-3 innings, he has allowed 19 runs on 24 hits.

The Blue Jays rallied for three runs on five consecutive singles off Morris in the sixth inning, with John Olerud driving in a run and Kelly Gruber two. The inning was set up when rookie second baseman Chuck Knoblauch lost Roberto Alomar's one-out popup in the lights.

"I don't know if any of you know this, but Jack had a sore throat respiratory problem. I probably should have taken him out," Kelly said.

Morris, 22-5 in the Metrodome, left after Gruber's single and Carl Willis escaped the jam, despite Candy Maldonado's drive to the wall in deep left. For a moment, left fielder Dan Gladden appeared to lose the ball in the dome's lights and roof.

"I thought it might be going out when Maldonado hit it," Willis said.

Willis pitched 2 1-3 hitless innings before Rick Aguiera got the last four outs for the save.

"Carl was an amazing story this year," Kelly said. "He came out of the minor leagues this season. When I came out to make the change he thanked me for putting me in there."

Gladden, who ended the season in a 26-for-141 slump, led off the Twins first with a single and Knoblauch followed with another single. Gladden moved up on a fly ball and Knoblauch stole second to set up Chili Davis' two-run, opposite-field single.

Minnesota's pre-game strategy was to hit the ball up the middle against Candiotti. It worked to perfection in the second, when Shane Mack led off with a single off the pitcher's foot. After stealing second and moving to third on a fly ball, Mack scored on Greg Gagne's single up the middle.

Gladden, who entered the game 3-for-16 lifetime against Candiotti, singled again and Knoblauch followed with a hit-and-run single to score Gagne.

Davis walked with one out in the third, stole second and scored when right fielder Joe Carter lost Brian Harper's line drive in the marshmallow-like ceiling.

In the first three innings, the Twins stole four bases. Their single-game high during the season was three.

Morris got a break in the fourth thanks to Toronto third base coach Rich Hacker. Alomar led off with a single and Carter followed with a double to the gap in right-center field. Hacker sent Alomar home and the relay from Gagne was in time.

"Sometimes you have to take chances," Gaston said.

Referees stop 100 point game

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

My friend was going through TV channels last Saturday night and caught a glimpse of a score of a football game. I thought my eyes had deceived me.

I thought I saw 80-10 in favor of somebody and it was in the third quarter. My friends thought I was hallucinating so we went back to the channel.

Indeed I was right. The score read: Fresno State 80, University of New Mexico 10. Of course we watched the rest of it to see if Fresno State would score 100 points.

The final score was 94-17. Fresno State never threw a pass in the last quarter. It was simple running plays through the half-hearted tackling of the New Mexico defense.

I was disappointed with the call of the officials in the waning seconds of the game. With New Mexico deep in its own territory, the UNM quarterback was sacked and the ball rolled into the end zone and was recovered by a Fresno State player. An obvious touchdown, putting Fresno in triple figures.

I guess the refs felt sorry for UNM and said the quarterback was downed at the one-foot line. Sorry Fresno, but no triple figures for you.

The Fresno offense was awesome. Quarterback Mark Barsotti passed for three touchdowns and ran for two.

Fresno State tied an NCAA record for most points in a quarter (49) in the second, and set school records for points in a game and in a half (66). The Bulldogs also set school marks for net yards (757) and rushing yards (491), but fell six points shy of the NCAA record for points against a Division I school. Houston beat Tulsa 100-6 in 1968.

Thanks, refs.

Speaking of some high-powered offenses, the Garden City Bearkats and Rotan Yellowhammers have just that. Garden City, the number one ranked team in the Class A Associated Press poll and Rotan are in the same district.

Both teams are averaging well over 40 points and 400 yards total offense per game.

Three weeks ago long-time Abilene Reporter-News Bill Hart said Rotan was better than a No. 10 ranking. Evidently the AP felt likewise. The Yellowhammers are ranked No. 7 in the state.

Last week Rotan won the Fisher County Bowl against arch-rival Roby. The two teams are only 10 miles apart and Roby also came into the game with an 4-0 record. Rotan won the game 68-0, racking up 345 yards on the ground and 68 yards in the air.

Unbeaten Garden City hosted Roscoe for homecoming. For the first part of the game the Bearkats had homecoming festivities on their minds.

When the got their heads back on straight, the finished by drumming Roscoe 49-7. The Bearkats ran for 406 yards and passed for 179.

Rotan and Garden City do this every game.

Oct. 25 in Garden City should be a doozy.

I'm afraid the Howard County Bowl might end up like the Fisher County Bowl.

The Coahoma Bulldogs and Forsan Buffaloes square off Friday night in Coahoma. It is Coahoma's homecoming and the highly-regarded Bulldogs are looking for their first district win. The Buffaloes are looking for their first win of the season.

Usually in this game records and stats don't mean anything. But this season Coahoma has the definite upper hand in personnel and physical talent.

The Buffaloes are just so young and inexperienced. In two years the Buffs should be a force to be reckoned with.

Big games nothing new for Braves

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Atlanta Braves have been in big games since the All-Star break, so they say the playoffs are nothing new.

The Pittsburgh Pirates were in the playoffs last October, so they say it doesn't matter that they haven't been tested lately.

Most likely, not much of that really matters now, anyway.

"I think we were a little overwhelmed last year, to be honest," Bobby Bonilla said Tuesday as the Pirates prepared for tonight's NL playoff opener. "This time, we're taking it differently. I think we're a little more subdued, just concentrating on what we have to do."

For the Pirates, that means winning while the whole team is still intact. Bonilla has talked often this season about becoming a free agent and leaving, so Pittsburgh would like to get it done.

"I don't think there's a sense of urgency to win this year, like it's the last shot we'll have with this team," Doug Drabek, the Game 1 starter, said. "Because from year to year, you never know what is going to happen."

The Braves sure didn't. No one expected them to challenge this season, and even in the stretch, not many people thought they'd outduel the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The playoffs, though, are something new.

"I think the last two or three weeks have prepared us for this," Atlanta's Mark Lemke said. "Even though we haven't played in this, it's taken care of a lot of butterflies for us."

At least, that's what the Braves hope.

"Because I'm a little nervous, that doesn't mean I won't be confident out there," Game 1 starter Tom Glavine said. "I'll try to think of it as a parallel to my start in the All-Star game. But, this is different."

"We did expend a lot of energy to get here. I'm sure there are some guys who are happy to be here. That doesn't mean our desire is going to change. We're not finished yet," he said.

Like Glavine, Drabek was a 20-game winner when he pitched in the playoffs for the first time last year. Drabek started Game 2, gave up a quick run in the first inning and wound up losing 2-1 to Cincinnati.

"The first part of the game, I was just so anxious to get in there. I was rushing," Drabek said. "What I've learned is how to prepare, not to let all the stuff get to you. Just put it aside, like it's another game, even though you know it's not."

Anxious is OK, Pirates pitching coach Ray Miller said. Afraid is not.

"It's natural to feel that way at this time of year," he said. "The thing you don't want to see is that look on their face. It's a look we've all seen. You see fear in their eyes. It's happened to the best players."

"You try to talk to them, and all you see is white spots, things you've never seen before. Then you know you're in trouble."

Both Glavine and Drabek have been getting into fast trouble lately. In each of their last seven starts, both aces have been hit at an over 400 clip in the first inning. Drabek was 1-2 against the Braves this season. No Atlanta player did particular damage to Drabek — none got more than two hits — although he said NL batting champion Terry Pendleton (2-for-6, two RBIs) gave him the most trouble.

There's no doubt about which Pirates hitter gave Glavine the roughest time. Lloyd McClendon was 6-for-8 with two home runs, four RBIs and four walks.

McClendon started in place of the left-handed Barry Bonds all three times Pittsburgh faced the left-handed Glavine.

Coach wants team to stay focused on Cincy

IRVING (AP) — Jimmy Johnson is finding a new devil to joust: The dreaded NFL open week hex.

Johnson's research shows that some teams heading into an open week spend more time worrying what they are going to do with their fall vacation than concentrating on the upcoming opponent.

The Dallas coach says the record for teams the week before they get off is 4-10.

"That tells me some people are taking open dates mentally before they play the game," Johnson said. "They are more busy making arrangements for two or three days off than studying or concentrating on who they are going to play."

The Cowboys are off to their best start under the third-year coach and coming to Texas Stadium on Sunday are the winless Cincinnati Bengals.

Johnson sounds like other coaches who used to play him three years ago when the Cowboys went 1-15.

Johnson's worried about his preparations at Valley Ranch this week as oddsmakers installed his team as seven-point favorites. "Cincinnati is a very dangerous team," Johnson said on Tuesday. "You can take their record and throw it out. I told our players about the talent they have. It's as good as there is in the league. And they have a lot of Pro Bowlers."

"Cincinnati can score a lot of points in a hurry. We're very concerned."

Dallas (4-2) defeated Green Bay 20-17 on Sunday for the Cowboys third road victory of the year while Cincinnati (0-5) fell to Seattle 13-7 at Riverfront Stadium.

Johnson said Cincinnati's no-huddle offense could give his team problems.

"It's an extremely efficient offense and they balance the run and the pass very well," Johnson said. "You can't load up on their wide receivers because they have James Brooks back there in the backfield. They run the football as well as anybody in the league and it's a big concern for us. We're going to have to really have our players hustling on and off the field."

Sands moves up to number three LUBBOCK (AP) — Buckholts' 57-54 upset of Covington knocked the Owls from No. 3 to No. 9 in the weekly six-man schoolboy football poll conducted by The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

The defeat of Covington, which had won 16 of 17 games, solidified Fort Hancock's position as the top team in the state.

For the first time this season, Fort Hancock collected the maximum 70 voting points and all seven first-place ballots.

Lazbuddie, with 61 points, remained No. 2. The next six teams took advantage of Covington's plunge to move up one spot each in the rankings.

Sands advanced to third place, followed by McLean, Rule, Jonesboro, Trinidad and Gordon. Only two points separate McLean (40), Rule (39) and Jonesboro (38).

Milford (4-0) moved into the No. 10 position, replacing Zephyr, which was a 26-12 loser Friday to Jonesboro. The Bulldogs open District 15 play Friday at seventh-ranked Trinidad.

"We've got a young team. I think actually our best year will be next year," said Milford coach Kevin Ray, who has seven freshmen and two sophomores on a 15-player roster. "We've got great potential. It's just a matter of how quickly our young kids come around when the big games come up."

Milford has beaten Bosqueville, Iredell, Aquila and Bynum.

ACU to induct five into Hall

ABILENE (AP) — Pan American Games basketball gold medalist Bonnie Buchanan Gray is the first woman elected to the Abilene Christian University Sports Hall of Fame, the school announced Tuesday.

Gray, of Argyle, won a gold medal with the U.S. team in the 1977 Pan American Games in Mexico City.

She averaged 22.8 points and 10.8 rebounds per game in 1980-81 to lead ACU to the Division II national quarterfinals with a 31-7 record. She was all-America and Division II Player of the Year in Texas.

Gray is among five new honorees to be inducted Nov. 7 into the Hall.

Other inductees include world record-setting sprinter James Segrest of Odessa Pete Ragus of Lubbock, captain of the university's undefeated football team in 1950. Also to be inducted are football and track star L.A. (Tiny) Adams of Fort Worth; and the late Von Morgan, all-America end in football from Vallejo, Calif.

Soles, Herm highlight Honor Roll

By STEVE BELVIN

Garden City tailback James Soles is showing no signs of being slowed down by by arthroscopic knee surgery he had last month. Sands linebacker Eric Herm is showing that anyone hardly gets past him.

In Garden City's 49-7 win over Roscoe, Soles had a banner day in front of a Garden City homecoming crowd. The 5-foot-11, 160-pound senior, scored three touchdowns. He rushed 23 times for 160 yards and caught four passes for 75 yards. For his effort he is the Offensive Player of the Week.

Herm and his Sands teammates have given opposing offenses nothing but problems. In Sands' 54-6 win over Ira, Ira came into the game averaging more than 400 yards total offense.

Mike Hughes was the leader, averaging 180 rushing and 200 yards passing per game — that is until he met the 5-foot-9, 175-pound

Red Sox ax manager

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Morgan, folksy, often whimsical as a member of baseball's old school, is out. Butch Hobson, soft-spoken, hard-nosed and a no-nonsense disciplinarian of a younger generation, is in.

Just two days after the end of the 1991 season and hours before the start of the AL playoffs, the Boston Red Sox shocked the baseball world Tuesday, firing Morgan, 61 next month, as manager and promoting Hobson, 40, from Pawtucket of the Triple-A International League to replace him.

Faced with the possibility another major league team would try to hire Hobson, the Red Sox brass — including John Harrington, representing principal owner Jean Yawkey, and general partner Haywood Sullivan — booted Morgan upstairs, offering him a job as special assistant for major league scouting in general manager Lou Gorman's office.

Hobson, a former Alabama quarterback under coach Bear Bryant who played the first six of his eight major league seasons with the Red Sox, was summoned from offseason duties working with young prospects in the Florida Instructional League and quickly accepted a two-year contract through the 1993 season. Terms were not announced.

Morgan, who will be paid $375,000 next year on a contract extension given him on June 1, when the Red Sox were battling Toronto for the AL East lead, was fired abruptly as he was hired. On July 14, 1988, the day after the All-Star Game, John McNamara was fired and Morgan was promoted from third base coach to become the Red Sox' 37th manager since the team became a charter member of the American League in 1901.

Morgan said he went to Fenway Park for a noon meeting with club executives, expecting to discuss the future of his coaches — Bill Fischer, Al Bumbry, Dick Berardino, Richie Hebner and John McLaren. Instead, he said he was told the news that "I was outa there."

With two division titles, a third-place finish and a tie for second in 3½ years as manager, Morgan said he was "surprised, no question about that," because "I've done a helluva job."

In typical fashion, though, he reiterated a statement he made when asked about the status of his coaches with management last weekend:

"They pay the bills, they do what they want, and that's the way it should be."

Morgan and Hobson exchanged compliments, although they did not meet Tuesday at Fenway Park.

"I like Butch; he's a good man," Morgan said. "I knew he'd come up sooner or later."

Names in the news

Off the road again

BRANSON, Mo. (AP) — Willie Nelson says he'll be happy to pull off the road next year for a six-month engagement at a music theater bearing his name.

Nelson, who recorded the hit "On the Road Again," announced Tuesday that he and his band will play 10 shows a week at Willie Nelson's Ozark Theater from May through October.

"Of course, I live on buses a lot and I live in Holiday Inns a lot, so it will be nice to sit in one spot for a while," said Nelson, the latest of several country music stars planning to open theaters in the resort town.

MERV GRIFFIN

Don't cut those trees

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Merv Griffin's woodcutter must spare that tree — at least until the Planning Commission gives the go-ahead.

The entertainer wants to cut down more than 100 pines on his estate, but that action was delayed by a 5-0 City Council vote Tuesday night.

"Pretty much the concerns were environmental — the view, the vista, and the importance of having those trees," said city spokesman Fred Cunningham.

The former talk show host wants to divide his three-acre hillside estate into two lots and sell them. He also is seeking permission to remove about a third of the property's trees to make room for an 8,000-square-foot house.

The Planning Commission recently told Griffin he could subdivide. But it reserved the right to approve all future development — including tree removal.

Griffin didn't attend Tuesday's meeting.

the pleasure of your company

I can do that!

Tips and techniques for the perfect party from experts at Hallmark Cards.

MIX AND MATCH

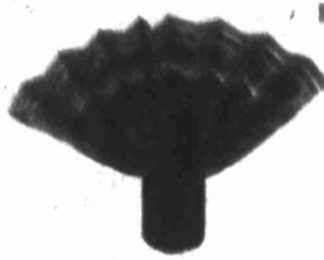

- The days of all-paper or all-china entertaining are past. Feel free to use one of the colorful new paper napkin designs with your fine china. Or, use paper products to extend your good china. Try paper dessert plates for appetizers or desserts.
- No need to stick with the same paper pattern from salad to dessert. Be adventurous in mixing several patterns with solids for a fresh new look. One rule of thumb: make sure the patterns are complementary and share the same color palette. Use a small, repetitive pattern to pull solids and larger patterns together.

■ After a long absence, doilies are one of the hottest new table decorating items. White paper doilies accent a feminine mood, while gold leaf doilies proclaim casual elegance. Use them wrapped around napkins, lining dessert plates or accenting a bread basket.

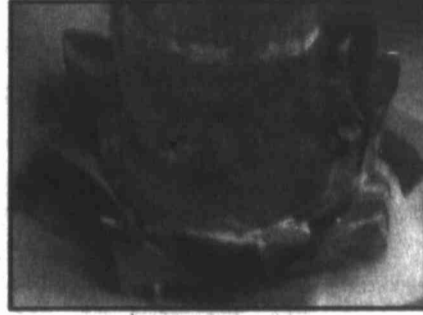

KNOCK 'EM DEAD NAPKINS

- Roll a paper napkin into a loose cone, top with a medium-stemmed silk flower in a coordinating color, then slide a paper napkin ring over both. Elegant...easy!
- For a baby shower, fold napkins into the shape of diapers; use a large new diaper pin to hold the folds in place. Send the pins home with the prospective parents as an additional gift.
- Keep napkins firmly anchored at an outdoor buffet by wrapping them around cutlery, securing them with a colorful ribbon and standing them upright in a decorative basket.
- If your menu includes finger foods, your guests will appreciate an extra paper napkin or two. Choose contrasting colors and fan them under the forks. Or create a rainbow effect by wrapping them around the cutlery, slipping on a napkin ring and folding down the top corners.

■ Fold an entire napkin using an accordion pleat and set in a paper napkin holder. You've created a fan effect which is a look sure to win you compliments.

- Make star flower napkin coasters: Unfold a dinner napkin and place on table, pattern side down. Bring corners to center; crease along fold. Bring newly-formed corners to center; crease along fold. Bring corners to center yet again; crease along fold. Turn folded napkin over so that folds are against the table. Bring corners to center; crease along folds.

While holding the newly-made center points secure with one hand, reach under the napkin and pull center points from underside out to corners. Continue to hold center secure with one hand, and gently pull remaining center points from underside out and up over the sides of the square. This lifts each of the points and creates a petal effect.

LITTLE THINGS MEAN A LOT

- Help guests remember the party long after it's over by presenting them with individual favors. Place a tiny vase with one or two fresh-cut flowers at each place setting. Or, if you have snapshots of your friends, mount them in small decorative frames and set one at each place setting. These personal favors will add to the beauty of your table.
- A miniature willow basket filled with a sealed package of potpourri makes a thoughtful gift for friends attending a tea. Scatter bouquets of silk and dried flowers with long streamers of curling ribbon around the table. Accent with colorful votive candles in clear glass holders.
- Use silk ivy and tall tapered candles to decorate your table; then place a tiny pot of living ivy at each guest's place. Other possibilities: tiny herb plants or cacti. Write the name of the plant on the guest's place card.

DINNER WITH MOTHER...NATURE

- Outdoor gatherings sometimes include unwanted winged visitors. To keep bugs away, set out lots of citronella-scented candles. Use heavy glass holders that won't tip, or anchor with the spikes available in specialty stores.
- Remember to keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. Use insulated containers for hot dishes and set cold foods on a bed of ice.
- Be prepared to move the party indoors in the event of stormy weather.

Forget the place settings with three forks, three knives, two spoons and an army of wine glasses. Turn your back on the black tie bash for 30. Gracious entertaining has taken on a whole new look for the nineties.

"Today's heart-of-the-home entertaining is less formal and more spontaneous than ever before," says Ann Sulkowski, partyware expert at Hallmark Cards, Inc. That's good news, since Americans are enjoying the pleasure of each other's company more often than ever. Statistics from Hallmark show that more than half of all Americans entertain at least once a month. And 30 percent entertain even more often.

These party-givers prefer small, intimate get-togethers over large parties. And they enjoy the party right alongside their guests, thanks to time-saving products and appliances, such as microwave ovens, deli and restaurant carry-outs and elegant paper partyware.

the after-work break

Time is usually at a premium when preparing for an after-work gathering. Plan ahead and serve simple food.

"Limit yourself to two or three simple deli dishes. Serve a light meal of a make-ahead soup or entree with bread accompaniments and premium ice cream with fruit for dessert," says Sulkowski.

"Let others do some of the work for you. Order a beautifully garnished fruit tray from the grocery store. Select ready-in-a-moment vegetables from the salad bar and a variety of bread and rolls from the in-store bakery."

Make a to-do list for the weekend before, the night before and the night of the party. If you have a co-host available, divide your night-of-the-party responsibilities in advance. "That way, one of you can pick up the fruit tray and rolls while the other puts the finishing touches on the soup or entree. More importantly, you won't forget any jobs like making coffee," Sulkowski added.

Set the table the night before. Use a bit of raffia accented with dried flowers to tie paper napkins and repeat both the dried flowers and ribbon in a wicker basket centerpiece. Finish the table with place cards for an extra-special touch.

celebrate friendship

The return to home that has made intimate gatherings so popular has signaled a return to honoring special friends, as well. But you don't have to wait for a birthday or retirement to celebrate with someone special.

"Try entertaining your best friends with a garden party," suggests Sulkowski.

These are special people, so go all-out with your party decor and menu. She suggests a contemporary table setting using bright, bold designs accented with fresh-cut flowers and easy-to-make napkin coasters.

Mix patterns with solid colors to express your own personal flair. Wrap napkins in paper doilies and tie with a narrow satin ribbon for a special effect. Try pleating napkins like an accordion for a fan effect. Or use Hallmark's new coordinated paper napkin rings.

Scour attics or flea markets for lace-edged doilies and napkins, or purchase paper ones. Use them under your centerpiece, as placemats or as runners down the center of the table. Antique serving pieces are a natural here. Mousse can appear in delicate stemmed glasses (they don't have to match). Petit fours will delight the eye as well as the palate when served from a doily-lined wicker basket.

unexpected pleasures

Being prepared for the unexpected might seem like a contradiction in terms, but taking a few steps now will make facing drop-in visitors all the easier. You'll be able to create a festive entertaining atmosphere at a moment's notice if you stock up on the patterns of paper party products that you enjoy, Sulkowski says.

Check card shops for pretty paper napkins which complement your favorite china. Then keep a supply of them on hand. Add matching dessert plates to your stash of entertaining products to be used for spur-of-the-moment appetizers or desserts.

Stock up on coordinating candles to create an instant entertaining atmosphere. Choose tapers or votives in coordinating colors. Place five or six votive candles in clear glass holders on a mirror to easily make a shimmering centerpiece.

Create a party pantry, too. Find one or two no-fail dessert and appetizer recipes which can be made in minutes, and keep their ingredients on hand. Or stock up on your frozen favorites.

classic video party

Dinner and a movie. It may be the classic date. Give it a nineties twist by inviting friends over for a classic video party with an Oriental flavor.

Take-out Chinese food will set the stage for the event, which could feature partyware in a blue-and-white Chinese motif. Coordinating chopsticks are available with Hallmark's "Party Expressions" partyware for the adventurous eaters in the crowd.

Choose a movie with an Oriental theme such as "The Last Emperor" or "Chinatown."

A tea-tasting fits right in with the evening's events. Try a fruit-flavored tea such as tangerine or raspberry and one flavored with liqueur such as amaretto. Include a traditional breakfast tea, for the more conservative palates.

When you serve the tea, indicate the variety on matching place cards set beside the teapots so guests will know what to select.

'till we meet again

The face of the '90s gang can change as swiftly as a kaleidoscope with today's mobile society. Host a stand-out going away party for special friends spotlighting what makes your group unique.

Try a "favorites" dinner party for this occasion. Assign guests to bring dishes which have been favorites of those who are leaving. Ask each cook to include a copy of the recipe for the dish, so that a little bit of home can follow them to the new location. Have a non-cook in the crowd? Assign that person to provide partyware, beverages or condiments.

If backyard barbecues are your group's hallmark, then stoke up the grill for this one last bash. Prefer an evening indoors with cards or board games? Make this a game night extravaganza. More of a sports crowd? Try playing "Bloopers" or "Greatest Moments In..." videotapes. Be sure to allow plenty of time for socializing.

Going away gifts should reflect your group's interests without posing a packing problem. Try a subscription to your local newspaper for the current events fans. A framed photograph or poster of a local attraction will serve as a constant reminder of the place they've left behind. Or, give them a supply of a favorite coffee, tea, beer or wine made in the area.

A most useful gift might be a meal-in-a-box. Pack canned or shelf-stable foods to create the first meal in their new home. Include the paper partyware and utensils needed for the meal so they don't have to search out can openers or cutlery.

Then relax and enjoy...the pleasure of their company.

Give your lawn a spring shape-up this fall

Feeling blue because your lawn is more brown than green? Don't despair. Fall is actually one of the best times to renovate or renew a tired, worn lawn. With proper treatment, you can do a lot to give your yard a head start for spring. First, make a careful tour of your yard. Note any bare or brown spots and try to identify their cause. Are there telltale signs of insect damage? Are there wrong grasses trying to grow in shaded areas? Are weeds and unwanted grasses making the lawn look ragged and uneven? Taking inventory will determine whether all or part of the turf needs reseeding and what other work needs to be done. Homeowners may be surprised to learn how modern tools like lawn chemicals can make the job economical, faster and easier than ever. If insects have caused turf damage, they must be halted before repairs are made.

CONSIDER GRASSES

Landscaping grasses can be used in place of shrubs or perennials, according to the National Wildlife Federation. Switch grass: A tall dense stemmed grass that rustles in the wind. Its blond winter color enhances landscape. Big bluestem: Its early leaves are blue but its flowering heads are deep purple.

Creating that lived-in look

Designing a room with that lived-in look is the desire of many homeowners. Knowing how to achieve that look is the difficult part.

According to Greeff, fabric and wallcovering manufacturer, there are four major elements that go into making a room look lived-in.

Color and pattern—With the vast array of wallcoverings and coordinating fabrics available, it is easier than ever to create an environment rich with color and pattern.

A good choice is Greeff's Camilla's Garden Collection. The deep hunter green, indigo and claret colors and large-scale patterns are designed for gracious homes. Fabrics are presented with one or two companion wallcoverings and borders for a complete ensemble.

Architectural elements—Floor and ceiling moldings, wainscoting, hardwood floors, fireplaces, bay windows, cathedral ceilings and exposed beams all help to create a homey, lived-in look.

If, however, your home lacks these details, Greeff notes that wallcoverings with borders can create an instant dado effect. Borders that simulate three-dimensional architectural moldings are available too.

Furnishings—Traditional furnishings, rather than contemporary or high-tech furnishings, have a more nostalgic feeling to them. When they're upholstered in traditional flannel, stripe, damask or floral fabric, the lived-in feeling is accentuated.

Accessories—Pillows and footstools covered with tapestry fabrics or with needlepoint, antique lamp fixtures, plants in brass containers and pictures all complete the homey, traditional look. SH894166

Book ends confusion at the local garden center

Gardeners everywhere know the frustration of going to a garden center to buy fertilizer or a simple tool and being bewildered by a vast array of similar-looking items on the shelves. They soon discover there is no such thing as "just plain fertilizer"; there is organic, inorganic, liquid, powder, complete, incomplete and more! Tools are equally confusing. After all, just what are dibbles, wigglers, oozers and banana bags? And what is the best product for your particular job?

Now help is at hand. Steve Ettlinger, author of the hugely popular book, The Complete Illustrated Guide to Everything Sold in Hardware Stores, demystifies garden centers in The Complete Guide to Everything Sold in Garden Centers (Except the Plants) (Macmillan Publishing, $24.95). This unique and comprehensive book will solve any buying dilemma faced by gardeners of all levels, from novice to expert.

Balancing authoritative information with accessibility, The Complete Guide to Everything Sold in Garden Centers contains over 600 entries presented in an easy-to-use catalog format and accompanied by 288 line drawings. The book covers every aspect of gardening, in sections on supplies (i.e. soils, soil amendments, fertilizers, mulches, pesticides) and tools (rakes, hoes, saws, stakes, sprayers, etc.). It even has extensive information on bird feeders, lawn ornaments, protective clothing and planting containers. Whether you're buying the perfect slug trap or choosing between solid-socket or tang-and-ferrule hoes, this book is an indispensable reference.

To ensure the accuracy of his research, Ettlinger interviewed manufacturers, gardeners and garden center personnel, pored over hundreds of catalogs and teamed up with Robert S. Coleman, a senior instructor at the Brooklyn Botanical Garden. Each entry includes a detailed description of the product, use tips, buying tips, and, where applicable, popular brand names and other names by which the product is known. The book also has a comprehensive listing of gardening equipment for the gardener with physical limitations such as a bad back, problems with kneeling, reaching or gripping, or being confined to a wheelchair. The appendices include a general plant and seed buying guide, sources for gardening information and a mail-order gardening catalog guide.

"In spite of all the books on gardening, there is no one book that lists all the stuff you have to buy — there are plenty of books explaining how to, but none saying what with, across the whole spectrum of products," writes Ettlinger. "This book was conceived to address that problem. I hope it helps you get what you need without fear of the daunting displays at your garden center."

Steve Ettlinger is a book producer and author of 10 books including The Complete Illustrated Guide to Everything Sold in Hardware Stores. A former photo editor for Geo, he writes regularly about tools and garden equipment for Home magazine and contributes to a variety of other magazines. He has proven a popular humorist and educational guest on numerous television and radio shows. A graduate of Tufts University, he lives in New York City with his wife and son. GT916741

Ornamental Iron Beauty In Maintenance-Free Aluminum Fencing

We all want our homes to look their best, but time and money don't always allow us to accomplish everything we'd like. And after the cooking, cleaning, household repairs, and gardening work are finished, it seems we never have time to finally relax and enjoy our homes.

Well, Jerih would like to make your life a little easier. They have reproduced the beauty of ornamental iron fencing but have minimized the cost and frequent maintenance. The Jerih Aluminum Ornamental Fence offers the dignified appearance and protection of traditional wrought iron without the bother or the rust.

Unlike most fences, a Jerih aluminum fence never needs painting or maintenance of any kind because its baked enamel finish will not peel, crack, or chip. This makes Jerih fences ideal not only for swimming pools, but also for coastal and other areas where dampness causes wrought iron fencing to be a chore to maintain. The Aluminum Ornamental Fence will not rust even under the most severe weather conditions. This unique fence is available in black, white or brown, and in a variety of styles and heights which will complement any type of architecture.

As a manufacturer of aluminum products for over 35 years, Jerih has built a reputation for high quality and product durability. Furthermore, all of their fences are guaranteed for 15 years. The Ornamental Fence is only one of the attractive styles that Jerih has to offer.

For a free color brochure displaying Jerih's full line of maintenance-free aluminum fences, write to Jerih Manufacturing Company, Dept. HTO8, 2716 Salmon Street, Philadelphia, PA 19134.

Copper vs. Polybutylene Plumbing: What You Should Know

Thinking about putting in new plumbing? Knowing the facts about copper vs. polybutylene plumbing could prevent your home improvement project from being a total wash-out.

Choosing the right plumbing material can save you a lot of worry and money, experts agree. Many people thought they could save money by choosing a plastic plumbing material called polybutylene instead of the slightly more expensive copper. The fact is, many people who picked polybutylene wound up having to pay for costly repairs when their plastic plumbing systems failed. The city of San Antonio, Texas, which installed some 380 miles of polybutylene piping, found it failing at the rate of 1,000 leaks a month!

Copper plumbing, on the other hand, has many advantages.

Copper plumbing can increase your home's value and save you money on costly repairs.

Did you know...

A bill, co-sponsored by Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, has been introduced in Congress to make English the official language of the country. Local Hispanics are concerned that the bill may be the start of a movement that will go too far.

Four Big Spring police officers were laid off in response to budget cuts. Although council members had previously said that personnel cuts would be made by attrition, they apparently changed their minds.

BSISD trustees are looking for ways to finance needed school repairs in the wake of last week's failed bond issue. Increases in the tax rate are a possibility.

The city council, in a surprise move, voted to postpone the required referendum on the public safety amendment to the city charter from Nov. 5 to Jan. 18. An appeals court judge denied a writ of mandamus for the earlier date.

The Personalized Achievement Center, a program designed to help high school dropouts earn a general equivalency degree, has added high school credit courses, thanks to a $20,000 grant from the Governor's Excellence Award.

A petition is being circulated in Big Spring for the recall of council members John Coffee and Ladd Smith. Reasons for the petition include failure to respond to citizens, misrepresenting the wishes of the council, and failure to consider opposing opinions.

A five-concert season is planned by the Big Spring Symphony Association — their longest ever. Season tickets are now available at a 33 1/3 percent discount over single ticket prices. The first concert is scheduled for Oct. 12.

Winter washing makes it easier to preserve your car's clear coat finish

Winter may not be the most enjoyable time to wash your car, but you can be assured that it's one of the most important times. Environmental conditions, coupled with sand and road salts, can be harmful to today's special clear coat paint finishes. Simoniz, the makers of a new line of "non-abrasive" car care products, offer these simple tips to properly care for your clear coat finish this winter. Identify your paint finish. The first step to proper car care is to determine whether the vehicle has a conventional or clear coat finish. Without this knowledge, good intentions may lead to irreparable damage in the form of swirls and tiny scratches in the finish. The best way to identify a clear coat finish is to ask your dealer, or check a new reference manual from Simoniz, available wherever Simoniz car waxes are sold. A "clear coat" finish is essentially a clear acrylic layer that seals in a thin color coat. While a clear coat provides increased depth and luster, it is susceptible to abrasions.
