Massegee Gives His Viewpoints Relative to Depression; Points Way To Relief of Situation

By GEORGE R. MASSEGE

This word "depression" seems to be on the lips of the people of the United States at the present time.

Indeed it is an all-important question, and how we are going to emerge from this chaotic condition is discussed from many angles. Each individual expressing his own opinion and standing ready to assist in the elimination of poverty and oppression. We hear of "shortage of money", "over-production" and "proper and improved distribution".

Why should there be a shortage of any commodity or an overproduction of a commodity in the midst of a civilized and thrifty people, such as these United States produce? Some say the money system is wrong. Some say one thing, some another.

Money as a medium of exchange is one of the world's greatest assets. Without a medium of exchange we would cease to be an intelligent nation; whether it be gold, silver, copper or any other metal, we should, and will continue to have, a medium of exchange. However, money as we see it today, will in time disappear, and will have in its place a money certificate based on hours of labor, and there will be just as many of these certificates of labor hours as there are hours of labor performed in the various industries of the nation. This medium of exchange will, of course, enable the producing class to purchase all that has been produced; leaving, if you please, no surplus of products to clog any of the wheels of industry, thus wiping the slate clean each year.

Of course, a well regulated government would retain a sufficient amount out of each producer's share to provide for new machinery and to pay for such non-productive services, accounting, entertainments and old age pensions. It would appear unnecessary to explain to any intelligent man today that under our present medium of exchange, money does not function in this manner.

Just so long as men operate their own privately owned machinery and factories, when and only when they sell their manufactured products at a great profit, just that long will we find ourselves in our present distressed situation. Just as long as labor produces any commodity and receives only half enough money for his labor to buy back that product, you will find the other half goes to the warehouses until the warehouses are full, then that producer will be thrown out of a job and go hungry until the warehouses are again empty. Not an over-production, mind you, but an under-payment of labor, and improper distribution of products.

Plainly speaking, the prosperity, happiness and comfort of the nation depends upon the proper distribution of the goods produced. But this cannot now, and never will be, had under the present system, where a man is required to produce two dollars worth of merchandise for which he receives only one dollar in wages. If you double the circulating medium, you merely give him two dollars for producing four dollars worth of merchandise, and his position at the end of the year is not changed a bit. Under our present medium of exchange, money becomes a medium of exploitation. Under a proper medium of exchange you will see one man's labor being exchanged for another man's labor on an equitable basis, and not changing the intrinsic value of the medium of exchange.

Let us, then, look forward to the fundamental principles of common honesty. The simple honesty of not scheming to get a living without working for it, and of not trying to grab more than his labor is worth, but demand and getting all our labor is actually worth.

As long as millions of dollars of profit are made by a few from the toil of many, we shall con-

Will Raise Popcorn.

Dr. A. P. McElroy plans to introduce a new crop into the Friona territory this season by planting at least 60 acres of popcorn.

He plans to furnish the seed and contract the growing of the corn, which will include all cultivation and harvesting, with various farmers, he paying the rental on the land, cultivation and harvesting charges. In other words, he pays the farmers so much per acre to raise a stated number of acres of the crop for him. No farmer will be required to grow a large number of acres, and this will distribute the crop fairly well throughout the locality and will secure a number of different methods of cultivation, as it is not likely that any two men will handle the cultivation in the same manner.

Should the doctor be successful in his project it may be the means of introducing the growing of another very profitable crop here.

Federation Meeting Postponed.

Owing to the very disagreeable weather here last Saturday, the meeting of the County Federation of Clubs, which was called for that date, did not materialize. There was no one came from out of town, and a very few, if any, of those living in town who were brave enough to face the severe gale of wind and dirt.

Just when this meeting will be held has not been announced, but the Star hopes to be able to carry the announcement in due time for all to learn of it.

Lost Part of Roof.

Word comes to the Star office that during the high wind last Saturday a part of the roof was blown from the home of J. F. Preston. Mr. Preston is a farmer living south of the Running Water draw. No further damage to his property is reported.

As long as labor produces two dollars and receives one dollar, we shall have distressed poverty for the producer and fabulous wealth for a few men who do no useful labor. As long as this continues, so also will depressions continue and this is bringing us to realize more fully the great need of a change in the system.

Let the depressed of the nation open their eyes and agree on this all important subject. The dispossessed population, which constitutes 95 per cent of the nation's populace, should at once depose this unfair system of exploitation by this five per cent of the population. When, O when, shall we stand on our hind legs and take over the nation and all its resources, and make it in truth a government "of, for and by the people"? The 95 per cent have the brains, the skill and the political power to do this. They have today relatively greater power than did the colonists in 1776.

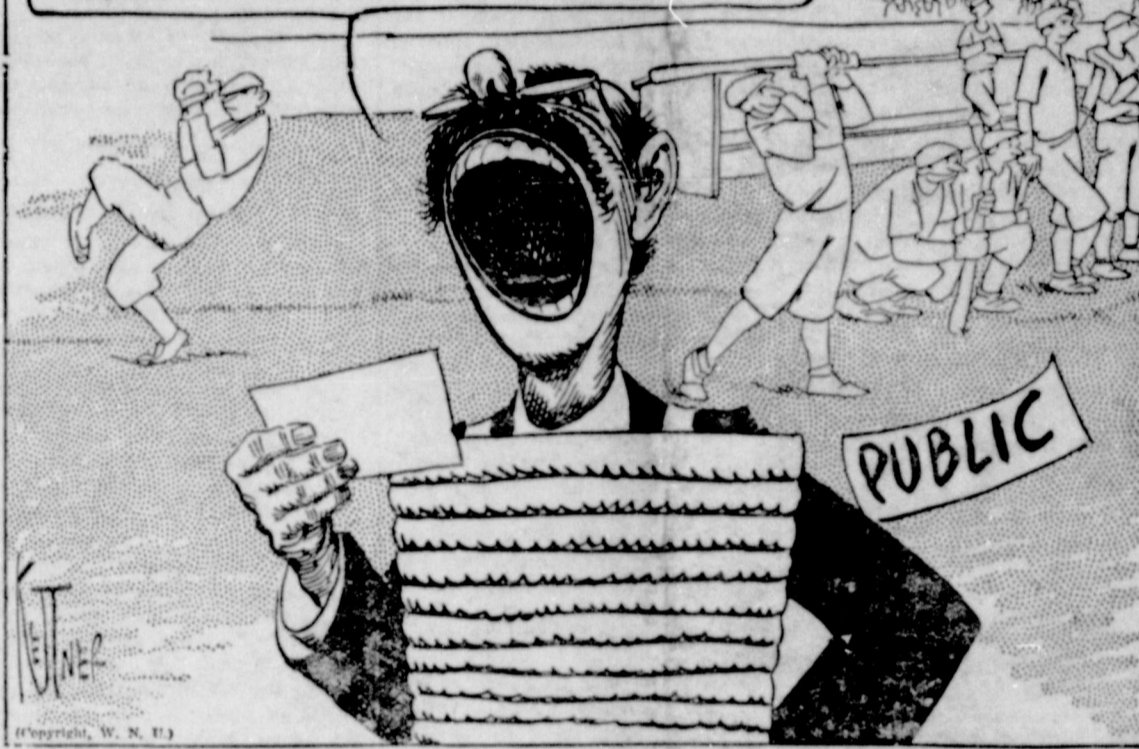

Education and plain hunger will force the issue. It cannot be much longer delayed. We cannot afford, we must not allow this all important work to fall into the hands of the radicals, who might go in the wrong direction. Let us then, as a people, adopt this following as our slogan until this unfair system is changed:

"We respect labor that is creative. We respect thought that is creative. We respect management that is creative, and we respect no other claim to a share of the nation's wealth."

To those who labor usefully with hand or brain should go all the products of their industry. Let us drive this simple logic home to the minds of the 95 per cent of the American population, and we will have an immediate change of this unfair system. Let labor be put to work and then properly distribute the products of this labor and you will see this octopus called "depression" fade away as darkness from the noon day's sun.

Politics Getting Under Way; Much Interest

There is little excuse for mistaking the fact that the political situation is getting itself pretty well to the forefront in Friona and all Parmer county at this time, although it is what might be considered somewhat early in the fray.

Each county office now has an aspirant and some of them two and as many as three, who would be willing to be sacrificed on the altar of public services in some of the county offices.

At present there are only four men who have no opponent and these are W. W. Hall for sheriff, Gordon McCuan for county and district clerk, Walter Lander for county treasurer, and J. D. Thomas for county attorney.

For county judge we have as candidates Clyde V. Goodwine of Friona, David W. Ray of Black and John H. Aldridge, Jr., of Friona, incumbent, who is asking for a third term. These are all good men for the office which they are seeking, and it is up to the people to form their opinions as to which of them will make the best official. It may be true that it is up to the candidates to make themselves known to the people at their earliest opportunity and in their best manner, in order that these same people may be better able to form their respective opinions as to who will best suit their ideals of a public official.

There is also rumor that there will be others in the fray before the time expires for getting names on the ticket—at least it is rumored that other candidates for sheriff and county attorney may yet announce.

Then we have the state and national candidates, too numerous to mention, who are making themselves known and heard throughout their respective bailiwicks. Literature is being received from Phoebe K. Warner, Claude, and Joe Burket, San Antonio, who are candidates for the office of congressman-at-large from this state. They have a big job before them as they will have to campaign the entire state as their bailiwick.

Hon. Marvin Jones of Amarillo is asking to be returned to Washington as representative in congress from his district, and Earl Calhoun also of Amarillo wishes to be made attorney general of Texas. Mr. Hunter, Wichita Falls; Mrs. Ferguson, ex-governor, and Ross Sterling, present governor, are anxious to serve the people in the capacity of governor. A Mr. Grant, Houston, is also willing to serve, if his name be placed upon the Republican ticket.

Fire Loss Averted.

The alarm was spread here in town Tuesday afternoon that a fire was raging at the H. C. Davis home, four miles northwest of town, while the wind was blowing a strong gale and that help was needed.

Everyone who had a car and could get away hastened out to the farm, and by rapid work the fire was checked before any great damage had been done.

It appears that Mr. Davis had been burning some rubbish about the place during the morning and it was thought that the fire had all died out, but when the strong wind sprang up the embers were fanned to life and the fire began spreading. A large pumie pile and several large stacks of feed were in the path of the flames and the help was needed to check the fire before it should reach these. Had the fire reached these stacks it is believed that all property on the premises would have been destroyed.

Golf Course Ready for Use.

The new golf course which has been in process of construction for the past two weeks, under auspices of the Friona Golf Club, was pronounced ready for use Sunday and many of the members spent a part of the day playing thereon.

O. F. Lange, chairman of the greens committee, has been very attentive to his duties as such to the extent that to his efforts are due the early opening of the course.

It is reported that membership of the club is gradually increasing and that work toward the further development of the links will be continued as rapidly as funds are available for the purpose.

Junior Women's Club Report.

The Junior Women's Club held a regular meeting Tuesday evening, April 19, at the home of Miss Alice Guyer. Miss Lola Goodwine was assistant hostess. It was decided to enter a money-making scheme by having patches with money under them sewed on an apron. The club was divided into two sides, thus becoming in the nature of a contest.

The program was to have been on Dodge City, Kansas, but due to failure of the participants to appear, a short substitute program was given. Miss Thelma Osborn gave a reading, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Conventions that are to be held this year in precinct, county, state and nation, there will surely be ample opportunity for all voters to get the worth of their poll tax money in casting votes at the several elections, so get acquainted with the various candidates and be able to cast your vote intelligently for the best good to the most people.

Water Meter Installation Progressing

L. G. Symson, superintendent of the city water works, has been quite busy during the past two weeks installing water meters for those of the city's patrons who have not as yet had meters.

It is the plan of the mayor and city commission to place all the water patrons on meters just as soon as the work of installation can be accomplished. Some change in rates will also be affected, in order to more equally distribute water revenues among the patrons. These changes will be announced later. It is desired to make the water system pay its way as nearly as possible without placing a burdensome water rental on any citizen.

The commission also has in mind the securing of a truck on which to carry the city's fire hose, this to be followed by the organization of a volunteer fire department for the city. In order that the citizens may have a good degree of fire protection.

Lazbuddy Study Club.

The Lazbuddy Study club had a very interesting meeting Thursday, April 21, in the home of Mrs. Otto Trelder.

There were 41 in attendance and a very interesting program was rendered on The Texas Cowboy. In addition to the program, Mrs. Floyd Williams favored the club with a reading, which was especially enjoyed by everyone.

During the social hour a tempting salad course was served by the hostess.

High Winds Over Plains Area Saturday

Yes, it was very windy here last Saturday throughout the day. The wind really began blowing late Friday night and was still at it when morning dawned, but there was very little sand in the air.

As the day advanced the dirt seemed to become lighter and the wind picked it up and carried it along, picking up more as it went until the air was so full of it that one could not see through it more than a block, and that very dimly.

Into every tiny crack, crevice and cranny the strong wind forced this finely powdered real estate until desks, tables, chairs, rugs, beds, clothing, and in fact everything in the houses was covered with a heavy coating of this chocolate-colored prairie soil, all of which had no tendency to increase the docility of the careful housewife's disposition, and was the cause of a lot of extra hard labor on their part in the way of sweeping, dusting and scrubbing in order that their homes might be made hospitable again.

When one was forced to get out in this maelstrom of air and more especially if one had to face it, the diminutive pebbles with which it was laden pounded one's face so forcefully as to almost bring tears to the eyes and tempt him to religious expressions by calling on the name of the Lord in terms more forceful than eloquent.

And all through the day one was greeted by such expressions as "This is surely harvesting our wheat for us." "This will finish the wheat crop for this year," and so on. Judging by reports coming in from the wheat fields there are some fields that were so badly damaged that it will not pay the owners to leave the crop standing, and the land will probably be plowed and planted to row crops or cotton. On the other hand, there are lots of fields that appear to be little hurt, and with the coming of a good rain in the near future will be able to give a fair yield of grain.

So far as the Star has been able to learn there were no houses blown over and none unroofed except a few very small ones, neither was there any destructive damage done to any other property except the wheat crop.

This is said to have been the worst day since the spring of 1918, but it was closely seconded on Thanksgiving day four or five years ago. It was a reminder to the old-timers here of the days that happened every spring, but of recent years we have had very few of them.

Screens and Windows Damaged.

T. D. Ballard reports the loss of several screens and panes of glass from his rental property in the north part of the city, due to the high wind last Saturday.

Some of the screens were blown entirely away and some of the windows were broken, which will entail considerable expense for repair. Mr. Ballard, however, always keeps his property well protected with storm and hail insurance, so that the loss to him will be paid by the insurance company in which he carries the risk.

In another column of this issue of the Star we have given a modest account of the wind which blew here all day last Saturday, but that is not to be understood that the wind had blown all the time since then.

On Sunday the sun shone brightly with a moderate breeze blowing during the day, and on Monday we had another bright and balmy day with no wind at all, scarcely enough to be called even a light breeze. Then on Tuesday we were visited by another of the wind's arduous capers, coming this time from the east, and during the afternoon moving to the north, causing a rapid decline in temperature, and although the air was filled with dust, none of it seemed to have been picked up here, but evidently came from some place far to the east.

On Wednesday morning the sky was overcast with clouds and a rather heavy mist was in the air with a few very light showers of fine rain. This condition continued until after noon, when it began raining in real earnest, one good shower following another all the afternoon, with some of them quite heavy. At five o'clock we had the heaviest shower, which was almost a pour-down, and was of the longest duration, lasting about an hour.

This rain seems to have covered all the Friona territory with about the same amount in all directions. Men were in town Thursday morning from Black, Homeland and other sections of the territory, and all reported good rain, variously estimated at from three-fourths to one and a quarter inches.

At any rate it is the best rain—and practically the only rain—we have had here for the past three months or more. Mr. Lindsay, living two miles west of town, said he has pigs on his place that are five months old and had never known what rain was.

With the present amount of moisture farmers say they can go right on with their row crop planting and other spring farming, and it is thought the wheat crop is saved for a few weeks longer, with a prospect for good yields in many fields.

Fuel Problem Met by Hardy Swiss Woodsmen The hardness of the Swiss people is traditional and this hardness is due to the terrific physical hardships under which a large portion of the population exists. The rugged slopes up and down which they toil, the year-round snow-capped mountains and the lack of many of the conveniences to which people of our country are accustomed make of the peasant folk of Switzerland people as rugged as the mountains among which they make their living.

Fuel is one problem which takes the natives back to elements. There is no coal of any sort in Switzerland and the cost of bringing it in is prohibitive so far as the general run of the population is concerned. This puts the question of warmth up to the woodsmen, the hardest among a hardy race.

The snow and steep hillsides, problems in many cases, come as a blessing to the woodsmen. He is able to fall his logs during the open season, and then when the snows of winter come he is able to slide his logs easily along the upper levels and shoot them with no effort down the steep hillsides. In the lower areas, where the streams are not so turbulent, the logs are made into rafts and floated downstream to the larger centers of population. The roaring logs in the huge fireplaces add greatly to the romance of life in this nation of the mountains.—Washington Star Sunday Magazine.

Few Records Preserved for Future Historians

It is pretty safe to predict that almost all our books, and practically all our bound files of newspapers and magazines, will have crumbled to dust long before the lapse of another thousand years, for wood pulp paper is short lived. Even by going to the trouble of interleaving all its newspaper files with sheets of the same paper the New York Public Library has no expectation that they will be handleable for more than about a hundred years.

Odd though it seems, it is certain that the student of a century or two hence will be able to consult plenty of legible newspapers dating up to about 1850, for they are on rag paper. The papers, however, chronicling man's subsequent conquest of time and space, the dawn of the eras of flight, wireless, electrification and television, will crumble like ashes at his touch.

Already the files of a weekly London Journal of only 50 years ago prepared in the British Museum library, has met with that fate.—London Spectator.

Let Young Fish Hide

Plants are useful to those who wish to raise young fishes. Parents may be cannibals and the adults will hunt down anything that moves and looks like food. So plants which grow in dense masses, like crystal wort, small bladderwort, and Elodea, make excellent hiding places for the young fishes. If the aquarium is in the dark no plant growth takes place, while in the sun it grows and makes the water green. Green water is not harmful but it is unpleasant. A northern or eastern exposure usually gives the best growing conditions for the aquarium.—Exchange.

"Land o' Cakes"

Scotland has been called the "Land o' Cakes," for nowhere else, Germany excepted, is there such a variety of confectionery and pastry as in Scotch bakers' shops, wrote William S. Walsh in "Curiosities of Popular Customs," the Detroit News. The short bread, often known as "Piteathly bannocks," is highly ornamented with sugar and iced mottos. Rye loaves, popular in the Thrums district, are black and rich, filled with fruit and peel. The Scotch bun, composed entirely of eggs, chopped fruit, and peel, encased in a crust which is not eaten, is much like the English simnel cake.

Snuff "Dipping"

Snuff was used from the beginning in America by the white settlers, the women "dipping" and the habit permeating all social grades. For the dipping, a stick about three inches long, and about as thick as a lead pencil was used. One end of this was chewed until the fibers separated, giving a brush-like result, which was dipped in snuff and held in the mouth, between the teeth and the cheek. Rather floppy in general effect, but comforting to the nerves, we are told.

Unit of Matter

The term "photon" is used in connection with the Compton effect; that is, the change in quality of a beam of X-rays when it is scattered. The experiments associated with the Compton effect have seemed to establish the existence of a particle of radiation known as the photon. It may be classed with the electron and the photon as one of the three fundamental units of matter.—Washington Star.

EX-KAISER INSANE; BROODS ON 'WRONGS'

Ever Expecting Call From Fatherland to Return and Redeem Germany.

Doorn, Holland.—That the ex-kaiser is now a maniac, brooding over the mistakes of his ministers who sent him to his present doom; that he still broods over the affairs of present-day Germany and is assiduously preparing to respond to the call of the fatherland to redeem Germany and deliver her from French tyranny—these are a number of other Doorn palace mysteries, intrigues and activities are now revealed by visitors to the ex-kaiser's palace, writes Joseph Wolfe in the Chicago Herald-Examiner.

A Hague newspaper was about to print a series of sensational Doorn revelations, but finally succumbed to the importunities of the Dutch government not to print them at the present time for fear that Holland would be involved in a diplomatic mess with allied countries as well as with the German government.

Here is the gist of what the Dutch paper would have printed together with information obtained from the palace staff:

He Has No Remorse.

The ex-kaiser has not once uttered a word that can be interpreted as a feeling of remorse over his past acts. He still believes that if his staff of ministers had not deceived him Germany would have won the war. He still blames the Jews and the Masons for Germany's plight, and he still sincerely believes that God in his wisdom has chosen him to lead Germany back to freedom and prosperity for the allies' chains. He quotes chapter and verse from the Old Testament to prove that he himself is a certain person named in the Old Testament prophesies.

During the last six years no less than ten German and Austrian alienists and pathologists were intrigued into the palace as visitors to size up the ex-kaiser's present mentality, and without exception pronounced him insane.

Fears to Go Back.

The ex-kaiser admits that his personal following in Germany is only a handful, but quotes from the Old Testament ample verses to prove that strength and power are on the side of the few so long as God is with them.

He has sounded the Dutch government on many occasions regarding its attitude should he leave Holland for Germany. In each instance it has been made plain to the ex-kaiser that if he leaves Holland no one will attempt to stop him, but with all his bravado and claims that he is in partnership with God, he does not dare to go to Berlin.

Must Keep Wife Wed as "Spirit" Played Cupid

Rome.—A lawyer who married the "reincarnation of his dead fiancée" on the say so of a medium, demanded the Court of Cassation here to nullify the wedding because he had made a mistake.

He was Sig. Ferruccio Camozzini of Verona, and his marriage to Signorina Vittoria Canizza was arranged through a "spirit" at a private seance two years ago.

"I was attending a private seance in the house of friends," he told the court, "and a spirit revealed through a medium that my beloved dead fiancée had been reincarnated in the person of Signorina Canizza.

"I believed the medium and married the signorina. But I soon was able to prove that the spirit or the medium who spoke for it had deceived me.

"I have had enough proof to make me satisfied that there is not the least spiritual likeness between my dead fiancée and my wife."

The court decided that the lawyer's belief in reincarnation did not afford sufficient ground for a decree of nullity.

One-Lane Roads Widely Used in Rural Sections

Chicago.—Motorists accustomed to driving over full-width highways will be surprised to know there are 2,500 miles of single-track concrete roads in the United States—roads on which only one traffic lane is paved. In spite of the limitation in width, these roads are serving the traffic they are called upon to carry almost as efficiently as two-lane pavements could.

Single-track roads have one paved lane with a wide shoulder of gravel or dirt alongside so that cars can pass each other.

Two hundred and seven counties in thirty states have built single-track roads. In addition to the mileage in use at the present time, more than 500 miles have been widened by laying a second strip of concrete beside the first to meet increased demands of traffic.

Produce Buys Lunches

Moore City, Wash.—Pupils at the public school in this farming community may trade raw produce for hot lunches. "Town kids" pay 20 cents a week, which pays for cooking what the "country kids" bring in.

Look Up Your Copy of "Alice in Wonderland"

So conscientious was Doctor Hodgson (Lewis Carroll) about his books giving full value in good workmanship for the money paid for them that, when the printings of the drawings in the first editions of "Alice in Wonderland" proved defective he sat down and wrote purchasers (getting the names from a list supplied by his publishers) his personal apologies. These letters for them said that he had made arrangements for the exchange of perfect copies for these first defective issues.

Those who sent in the badly printed first editions got nice new copies in which the ink was properly spread over the Sir John Tenniel illustrations.

But they made bad bargains. It was for two of these "defectives," and the handwritten manuscript by Lewis Carroll, that Elbridge R. Johnson paid $150,000.

And those who threw away the author's letter of apology and regret were also out of luck.

Any such letter offered on the open market would bring enough to make a good stab at shooting the wolf from the door.—Detroit News.

Edelweiss Long Love Token in Switzerland

When the young man of Switzerland desires to show his sweetheart that he loves her, he has a traditional way that saves him all the embarrassment of declaring his love in romantic phrases.

Growing high among the rocks in inaccessible places a beautiful white flower, the edelweiss, offers the young swain the love-token that all recognize as a proffer of marriage when offered to the young lady of his fancy.

The blossom of the edelweiss is a star-shaped white flower, which has a cottony appearance when seen closely. The root growth of the plant is remarkably out of proportion to the surface parts. The necessity of preserving its life among the steep rocky hillsides brings about the root growth which seems to send the little rootlets through cracks in the rock almost unbelievably small.

The edelweiss is not confined to the mountains of Switzerland, for it is also commonly found in the Pyrenees.—Washington Post.

Justifiable Homicide

The Summer Cottage, who had been at the shore since May, closed the cottage for the season and stepped toward his car in which his family waited.

Suddenly he wheeled and fired a shot.

The Woman Year-Around Resident, standing on the porch of the cottage next door, uttered a shriek and fell dead, a bullet through her breast.

Police came and arrested the Summer Cottage, who made no resistance.

"Yes, I did it, and it served her right," he said.

"But what was your provocation?" demanded the police.

"Plenty," snapped the man. "Just as we were leaving she came out and pulled that old one about the loveliest vacation days coming in September and October!"—Detroit Free Press.

Marked Special Days

"Red-letter days," a term now extended to any gala occasion or memorable day, originally was an ecclesiastical term used to characterize the more important festivals and saints' days of the church, which appear in red letters in the calendar, wrote William S. Walsh in "Curiosities of Popular Customs."

In ordinary prayer books both of the English and the Roman church, where two colors are not used in the printing, these days are characterized by Italics or Gothic capitals and the black-letter day or minor festivals by lower-case Roman type.

Historic Region

"Spanish Main" is properly the northern coast of South America, going westward from the mouth of the Orinoco to the Isthmus of Panama, or a little farther; the mainland bordering the Caribbean sea, called by the Spanish conqueror, Tierra Firme. The term is often applied, however, to the curving chain of islands forming the northern and eastern boundaries of the Caribbean sea, beginning from Mexico, near the Isthmus, and including Jamaica, Santo Domingo, the Leeward Islands and the Windward Islands to the coast of Venezuela, South America.

Old California City

The site of Oakland, Calif., was part of the holdings of Don Felipe Peralta, who received grants from the Spanish crown in 1842 he divided his lands among four sons and the two to whom the region fell established themselves on their estates. From one of them in 1850 Moses Chase leased a tract and he became the founder of the city. In 1852 the city was incorporated as a town and in 1854 it was chartered as a city. The name was suggested by the fact that in which the first house was built.

Mrs. L. Johnson Laid to Rest Here Sunday Afternoon

(From the Hereford Brand)

Mrs. Lawrence Johnson died at her home near Summerfield Friday, April 22, after a lingering illness that became critical a few weeks before her death. The funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon in the First Baptist church of Hereford by Rev. Herman Coe of Summerfield, and interment made in West Park Cemetery. Pall bearers were J. A. Noland, Carl Frye, C. R. Waiser, S. L. Waiser, L. L. Cannon and B. C. Roberson.

So well known and dearly beloved for her many works of charity and community welfare was Mrs. Johnson that the host of sorrowing friends attending the services taxed the capacity of the great church. Banks of flowers about the altar gave mute testimony of the love and esteem in which she was held by all who knew her.

Effie E. Davis was born in Boone county, Iowa, March 10, 1872, where she grew to young womanhood. She taught school there for a number of years before her marriage with Lawrence Johnson in 1896.

The family moved to Hereford in 1908, residing here one year before moving to Summerfield where they made their home until her death.

Mrs. Johnson was very active in social and civic affairs of the communities in which she lived, and her absence will be felt by all Dear Smith county people. For 22 years she had been a member of the Hereford Rebekah lodge, and led a consecrated Christian life that endeared her to all her friends and acquaintances.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Ray L., of Summerfield, and Elton D., of Fredericksburg; one sister, Mrs. J. H. Murdock, of Summerfield; two brothers, John A. Davis, Tacoma, Washington; and A. A. Davis, Waco.

Mrs. Alvin Crow and daughter, Miss Juanita, were in Amarillo Saturday.

Messrs. Arthur Drake, Donald Livings and Lee Euler spent last week end as guests of Hadley Reeve at Canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Clements and children spent last week end with friends and relatives in Bovina.

Roy Landrum, Albert Conaway and Lex Alexander spent last Friday in Canyon.

Carroll Bolin of Clovis visited the J. A. Blackwell home Thursday.

ISAAC AND HIS WELLS

Genesis 26:12-25

12. And Isaac sowed in that land, and found in the same year a hundredfold; and Jehovah blessed him.

13. And the man waxed great, and grew more and more until he became very great.

14. And he had possession of flocks and possessions of herds, and a great household; and the Philistines envied him.

15. Now all the wells which his father's servants had digged in the days of Abraham his father, the Philistines had stopped, and filled with earth.

16. And Abimelech said unto Isaac, Go from us; for thou art much mightier than we.

17. And Isaac departed thence, and encamped in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there.

18. And Isaac digged again the wells of water, which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father; for the Philistines had stopped them after the death of Abraham; and he called their names after the names by which his father had called them.

19. And Isaac's servants digged in the valley, and found there a well of springing water.

20. And the herdsmen of Gerar strove with Isaac's herdsmen, saying, The water is ours; and he called the name of the well Esau, because they had contended with him.

21. And they digged another well, and they strove for that also; and he called the name of it Sitnah.

22. And he removed from thence and digged another well; and for that they strove not; and he called the name of it Rehoboth; and he said, For now Jehovah hath made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land.

23. And he went up from thence to Beersheba.

24. And Jehovah appeared unto him the same night, and said, I am the God of Abraham thy father; fear not, for I am with thee, and will bless thee, and multiply thy seed for my servant Abraham's sake.

25. And he builded an altar there, and called upon the name of Jehovah, and pitched his tent there; and there Isaac's servants digged a well.

Introduction.

Lot's choice of Sodom proved most unfortunate for him. The wickedness of Sodom led to its destruction, and he was saved, probably only through the prayers of his uncle. Abram lived at Hebron perhaps a quarter of a century, receiving during that time the promise of an heir in his old age. Unable to believe that a child would be given to the aged Sarai, Abram married Hagar, who gave birth to Ishmael, that child of ill fortune. At last Sarai gave birth to Isaac, the child of promise, and the covenant sign of circumcision was appointed, observed by the Jews to this day. Then Abram became Abraham, and Sarai, Sarah. The climax of Abraham's faith was his readiness to sacrifice the beloved Isaac at God's command, the sacrifice being prevented by the providential substitution of a ram. The death of the faithful wife, Sarah, led to Abraham's purchase for a burial place of the cave of Machpelah near Hebron, the only land the patriarch ever owned in Canaan. In that same cave Abraham was buried, passing away at the age of 175.

Abraham's Supreme Test.

"Abraham was really a pioneer in the religious realm. He had to feel his way along, as it were, groping in the dark sometimes, but he found the path of obedience to God the path of blessing and the condition of further disclosures of his will. He had his hours of wavering faith, but God dealt kindly and patiently with him. So his faith grew strong as he continued to obey, until at last he was able to endure the severest ordeal of test which could possibly come to any one."

The marvelous event of Isaac's youth and the supreme test of Abraham's faith took place when Isaac was about 25 years old. Abraham's willingness to sacrifice his beloved son on the altar at God's command. Isaac acquiesced in this obedience and faith, and shared the great joy of his father when the ram was put in place of the child of the covenant. Gen. 22:13.

Isaac in Gerar.

Isaac, like his father, was confronted with the horrors of a famine, and removed to Gerar, a Philistine city ruled by King Abimelech. There he was foolish enough to imitate Abraham's sin and try to pass off Rebekah as his sister, but was mercifully discovered in the lie. While he was at Gerar, the Lord appeared to him and bade him not yield to the temptation to go down into fertile Egypt, but to remain where Jehovah placed him and trust in his God. At the same time the Lord renewed to Isaac the promises he had given Abraham, that his posterity should be a great nation, should possess the land, and should be richly blessed.

Isaac's Prosperity.

"And Isaac sowed in that land." "Though a distinct advance on the purely nomadic life pursued by Abraham, this did not imply fixed property in, or even permanent settlement on, the soil, but only annual tenancy" thereof. "The Biblical patriarchs," says Thomson in The Land and the Book, "were not mere Bedouin wanderers, like those who now occupy the Eastern deserts. They had large herds of cattle, which genuine Bedouins have not; they tilled the ground, which these herds never do; and they accommodated themselves, without difficulty or reluctance, to town and city when necessary, which wild Arabs cannot endure."—Rev. Thos. Whitelaw. "And found in the same year a hundredfold." In the parable of the sower (Matt. 13:23) the good ground yields 30, 60, or a hundredfold, and that was the usual or possible yield in Palestine, namely, from 30 to 100 measures of wheat received from a single measure of seed sown; but a hundredfold would be exceptional, as here.

"And he had possession of flocks, and possession of herds, and a great household." That is, Isaac had many servants and slaves to take care of his great possessions; no one man could do it all. Isaac's work was to oversee them all, keep them busy, and so manage that every worker's strength and ability were applied to the best advantage; that in itself is no light task. "And the Philistines envied him." The Philistines would envy Isaac all the more because he was a stranger, drawing off the good of their own soil.

Isaac a Man of Peace.

The ruler of the Philistines said to Isaac, "Thou art much mightier than we," but Isaac did not use his power in self-defense. He was a man of peace. He moved out into the valley of Gerar, and settled near the old wells of Abraham, where his servants also digged another after they had cleaned the old ones out. But he was not to rest long. The Philistines came and claimed all. Isaac moved on, calling the new well Esau, which means "contention." Further on another well was digged, which also was soon claimed by the enemy. And again Isaac surrendered it, calling it Sitnah, "enmity." They pursued him then no further, and in great relief he named a third well Rehoboth (room). Why did he not stand his ground and fight for his rights? The answer is that he was a man of peace. Putting the primary values upon peace and gentleness and the word of the Lord, he felt that he could give up the rule of the strong hand and all that depended upon it. After the Philistines stopped pursuing him he voluntarily moved again from Rehoboth back to Beersheba, the home of his father.

We must honor Isaac, therefore, for his love of peace. George Macdonald said: "The grandest thing in having rights is that, being our rights we can give them up." Another has said: "Nothing can be sanner or sweeter than this ancient tale, with its apparent moral for those who think that the strongest thing is to retaliate, to assert every claim, to cede no possible advantage." Isaac did not lose the best things. If Abraham approached the New Testament plane of faith, Isaac knew its spirit of self-sacrifice and peace.

Beersheba.

About 25 miles south of Hebron, near the southern border of Palestine modern travelers find two very deep wells, about 200 yards apart. They mark the site of the ancient town of Beersheba, and the place so often the temporary abode of the ancient patriarchs. "The large one is 12½ feet in diameter, and 44½ feet deep to the surface of the water; 16 feet of which at the bottom is excavated in the solid rock. The water is both pure and sweet, and is great abundance. Both wells are surrounded with drinking troughs of stone for camels and flocks. The curb stones are deeply worn by the friction of the ropes in drawing up water by hand. Here then is the place where the patriarchs, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob often dwelt, and here Abraham dug perhaps this very well."—Robinson's Biblical Researches.

The "God of Abraham" Appears.

"And Jehovah appeared unto him the same night." The night of his arrival. "And said, I am the God of Abraham thy father." Isaac wanted no more inspiring statement than that. "Fear not." Do not fear the near-by Philistines, and have no fear for the future. "For I am with thee." God was invisible, but Isaac, like Moses, "endured, as seeing him who is invisible" (Heb. 11:27). "And will bless thee, and multiply thy seed." The possession of many children was the greatest blessing God could bestow upon Isaac. He had only two sons, but their descendants were numerous, even in Isaac's lifetime. "For my servant Abraham's sake." Because Abraham was a friend of God, and because God had more than once made him a promise which involved his descendants (Gen. 12:1-3, etc.). How often blessings come upon us, not because of any merit in ourselves, but as a reward to our goodly parents and in answer to their prayers.

Isaac's Reward.

"Men will not call Isaac heroic, but God called him blessed. At Beersheba the Lord appeared to him, and if there had been any misgivings or any sense of hardship and forsakenness, all was cleaned up in that reassuring word, 'I am with thee and will bless thee, and multiply thy seed for my servant Abraham's sake.' It was a sacred hour, therefore, and significant of the higher value of life when upon his newly-made altar at Beersheba Isaac called upon the name of the Lord, and turning commanded his servants to drive the tent stakes deep and dig another well! He was the happiest man in the world."

I know a teacher sweet and fair,
Blue eyes and brown hair—
With cheeks of pink and lips so red
That roses, for shame, bow down their heads.

I know a teacher gentle and pure,
There is none other that could be any truer,
She's kind to all whom she may meet,
She's likeable, she's loveable, and she's sweet.

Her disposition's of the best,
The rest you might have easily guessed—
Her smiles, they never cease,
And she's always with the world at peace.

She is always so cheerful,
And I'll give you an earful—
When she smiles, you do, too
May not believe it, but 'tis true.

She causes everyone to want to work.

Their duty to never, never shirk,
And makes me love her so—
And you would love her, too, I know.

In short, she's the best teacher
I ever had.
And it makes me so very sad
That this term of school is nearly over.

News-Globe Invitation Meet.

The Chiefs track team went to Amarillo April 16 to enter the annual News-Globe Invitation meet.

Lansdown, the only Chief to win a place, won first in the mile run. In winning the mile run, Lansdown stepped off from the rest of the field and finished in the time of four minutes and forty-nine seconds, lacking but eight-tenths of a second equalling the News-Globe meet record of four minutes, forty-eight and two-tenths of a second. The Chiefs made the journey with Orville Lansdown and included Hilton, Lansdown, discs and javelin; Wilbur Meade, high and low hurdles; Charles Reeve, high jump; Weldon Whitefield, half mile run; Clifford Crow, high jump and javelin; Dennis White, javelin.

Dashing across the finish line with a smashing finish, the thin-clad of Amarillo took the meet in the last few minutes by nosing out Pampa and Clarendon. Pampa barely beat Clarendon for second place and Farwell took fourth place honors.

Commercial Law Questions.

1. Explain the difference between a joint adventure and an ordinary partnership.
2. The Brown Film Corporation borrowed $5,000 from W. W. Jones and gave him a 60-day note. Is this within its authority?
3. Brown and Doe are stockholders in a certain firm. Brown has 200 shares and Doe has 100. The firm goes bankrupt. How much, if any, is each liable?
4. Smith and Jones each own a lot. They made an oral agreement to form a partnership for the purpose of selling both lots. Nothing was said as to the division of the profits. $2500 profit was made on the Smith, $1500 on that of Jones. Smith insists that he is entitled to $2300. Is his contention correct?

Commercial Law Answers.

1. When a person assumes to act as the agent of another, without real or apparent authority, he does not bind the person to whom he assumes to act.
2. It would be under the liability of the master, because he is liable for any accidents occurring by his servants which is not the fault of the servant. This could easily be proved by the servant.
3. Although the electrician invested no money or property, according to law, skill and knowledge are as valuable in a partnership as money. The electrician could do no good without the money and the capitalist could do no good without the electrician, so it is implied that they joined for their mutual benefit. And because of the nature of their business, they must have joined in order to make and share profits and losses.
4. Yes, Black can maintain an action against the railway company for damages, because his injury was caused by a fellow servant and, under the fellow-servant rule, the company is liable for the injuries one employe causes another, unless the injured party contributed to the injury, and in this case he did not.
5. Yes, for partners are jointly and individually liable for the actions and debts of the partnership. The act of one partner is the act of each of the other partners.
6. Brown does not have the authority to bind the other partners by a promissory note. Only partners of a trading firm have an implied authority to give notes in the firm name. In this case it is a non-trading firm.

Home Economics Club Meeting.

The home economics club met April 7, in room 17 of the high school building. The meeting was called to order by the president. After a short business meeting, the program which was in charge of Pearl Highfill, was rendered. The central thought of the program was opportunities for home economics girls. A brief introduction was given by Pearl, then the following parts were given:

Vocations: Lora Perry.
Home Life: Veal Lindsey.
Girl Scouts Help Home Making: Fay Hartsfield.

The roll was then called by the secretary and each girl answered by telling how much home economics had helped her.

Tea.

Last Tuesday afternoon the home economics club entertained the seventh grade girls with a tea, given at the high school building. The purpose of the entertainment was to show the girls of the home economics club and to get them interested in home economics.

Weiner Roast.

The agriculture club entertained the home economics club last Monday evening with a weiner roast. Only a few members of each club were present, but a good time was had by all.

Senior Play.

Don't fail to see "Aaron Boggs, Freshman," presented by the Senior class Friday evening, May 6, in the school auditorium. It is a comedy in words and actions and will furnish two and one-half hours of hilarious entertainment. Why? Because—

Imagine seeing a red-headed, freckled-faced, awkward boy from the country entering an ultra-modern college;
Imagine seeing this boy rushed by the college "dames" and "dads" because he is supposed to have inherited a fortune.
Then, imagine the outcome when it is found that rumors of his fortune were false.

Champs—Volleyball.

Who says Friona doesn't have a volleyball team? Well, the girls displayed their ability to play when they met the Amarillo squad Friday evening. It was decided that the team winning three of five rounds would be declared the champs. The Amarillo girls started out in the lead, winning the first round. However, at the beginning of the second round the local team began some real playing. They gained the lead and their opponents were unable to interfere with their star playing. They held this position throughout the next three rounds, making it unnecessary to play the fifth round. Thus, the Friona girls were decided victors which entitled them to a beautiful loving cup as a trophy.

Those participating in the victory were Owida Bell, Florence Ford, Mary Lou Bender, Pauline and Daisy D. Parr, Lometa Thompson, Bessie Richardson and Lucille Routh. Our compliments will have to be given to them and to their splendid coach, Miss Handley.

Only one of these players will be leaving school this term, so we have many prospects for a star team in 1933. We hope that Friona will hold this title for years to come.

County Federation.

The Parmer County Federation of Clubs will meet at the Congregational church in Friona on Saturday, April 30. The business session will open promptly at 11 o'clock a. m. Every woman in Parmer county is invited to attend and all club women are urged to attend.

The program will be on Texas. Response to roll call will be an important fact about Texas.

C. W. H. Gallmeier of the Rhea community was a business visitor here Thursday. He reports one inch of rain in that locality Wednesday.

Attend Conference.

Rev. and Mrs. O. B. Zanis and Messrs. W. C. Osborn, A. S. Curry and A. A. Crow spent part of Tuesday and Wednesday in Canyon in attendance at the Panhandle District Conference of the Methodist church.

Had a Good Time Fishing.

A group of Friona citizens, including J. L. Landrum, P. R. Griffith, Edwin Johnson and T. E. Hughes, drove over into New Mexico the latter part of last week and spent two days very pleasantly fishing along the Canadian River.

They called for their old friend and former neighbor, Homer Williams and son, "Stump", at Mosquero, who accompanied them on to the river, where they made camp in a Mexican village while they were engaged at their fishing.

They had splendid success and took all the fish they cared to eat and to bring home with them, but their pleasure was somewhat marred by the cold snap that came over during their stay, making it very disagreeable wading in the water handling their nets. They report also quite a fall of snow and considerable ice in that locality.

Mr. Johnson, who gave us the narrative, says there is some splendid scenery in that part of New Mexico, and that the natives are very friendly and hospitable. He says the scenery and activities of fishing along, with the wholesome water and mountain air serve as a fine tonic for a weary mind or ailing body.

Mr. Williams, above mentioned, formerly lived a few miles south of Friona on one of our fine farms, and while here was one of our most popular and best-liked citizens. He still manifests an interest in Friona and his many friends here, and in order that he might be better posted on conditions and doings here, he has ordered the Friona Star sent to his home for a year, and the Star is pleased to have his name on our subscription list again. Mr. Johnson says Mr. Williams is not raising much wheat over there, but is devoting his farming efforts chiefly to row crops and cattle, and is doing mighty well considering the economic conditions over the county at this time.

Candidates Must Pay.

When a man becomes a candidate for public office and enters the political arena, he can never know just what it is going to cost him to stay in the race, not only in the actual outlay of cash, but in many and various other ways.

This is evidenced by a copy of the expense account of an unknown candidate, which was handed us by one of our young men who is now a candidate for a county office. While this young man evidently hopes the toll exacted of him may not be so heavy, he nevertheless is in the race to win. Here is the expense account: "Lost four months and 33 days canvassing, 1349 hours thinking about the election, five acres of cotton, 23 acres of corn, a whole sweet potato crop, four sheep, five goats and one beef given to bar-becues, two front teeth and a considerable portion of hair in a personal skirmish. Gave away 97 plugs of tobacco, seven Sunday school books, two pairs of suspenders, seven calico dresses, seven dolls and 13 baby rattles.

Told 288 lies, shook hands 33,475 times, talked enough to have filled 100 large volumes, kissed 129 babies, built 14 kitchen fires, cut three cords of wood, pulled 474 bushels of fodder, picked 774 pounds of cotton, helped pull seven wagon loads of corn, dug 14 bushels of potatoes, toted 27 buckets of water, put up seven stoves, was dog bit four times, watch broken by baby, repair bill $3.00.

"Loaned out three barrels of flour, 50 bushels of meal, 37 pounds butter, 12 dozen eggs, three umbrellas, 13 lead pencils, one dictionary, one mower blade, one overcoat, five boxes paper collars, none of which have been returned.

"Called my opponent a perambulating liar—doctor bill $10.00. Had five arguments with my wife—result, one flower vase smashed, one broom handle broken, one dish of hash knocked off the table, one shirt bosom ruined, two hands-full of whiskers pulled out, 10 cents worth of sticking plaster plaster. Besides spending $1,763."

Miss Mary Reeve of Burger and Miss Esther, Hadley and Glenn Reeve of Canyon, and Miss Floy Goodwine of State Line came in Friday evening and spent Saturday and Sunday here with home folks.

Important Role of the Ass in Jewish History

The ass had begun to fall from its former high estate when Solomo, disregarding the provision of the Mosaic law forbidding that very thing, brought horses from Egypt into the country, and made regular use of them in war and in his regal retinue. But Israel never did keep the law in all its particulars, or there would not have been a king of the Jews at any time!

Afterward the ass degenerated into the mere burden bearer, the farm animal, and the steed of such lowly people as were Mary the Blessed, and Joseph, her husband. It came to be regarded as the extremity of misery for a warrior to be brought home dead on the back of an ass.

Perhaps it is not to be wondered at that it is not uncommon in the East to find poor Jews plowing with an ox and an ass yoked together, although it does at first sight give one a shock to see such a thing, remembering how their merciful law distinctly forbade the coupling together of a team of the quick-stepping ass and the slow-moving ox. Still, the Jews have always treated the ass humanely, never allowing it to be worked on their Sabbath day, and the animal's place in the Tenth Commandment shows that it was held by them in high estimation.—Montreal Family Herald.

Official Impressed by Truly Great Invention

It was said, somewhat in malice, that Gen. Zeb Vance of North Carolina was one of the most untechnical men ever associated with the United States patent office.

One day in 1885, while sitting as assistant commissioner of patents by grace of Grover Cleveland, he complained to his chief clerk that his swivel chair was too low for comfort. The clerk, Schuyler Dur-yea, listened respectfully, then asked the general to rise. Giving the chair a few smart whirrs, Dur-yea adjusted it easily to the desired level.

"Well," marveled the assistant commissioner of patents, "ain't that a wonderful invention!"—World's Work.

Child's Play Gives Rhythm

Play is of as much or more value in teaching a child co-ordination than work, according to the children's bureau of the Department of Labor.

One of the most important results of play, the bureau points out, is the training of the child's senses and muscles. For instance, when a little girl is jumping rope to the sound of her own singing, or that of her playmates, she is learning to coordinate eyes, ears and muscles. The perfect rhythm involved is itself the result of earlier muscle and sense training and the child who has played with vigor and freedom attains it without conscious effort.

Change of Heart

Mary Ann had been anxiously looking forward to a visit from her grandmother and for the first few days after her arrival they were on most friendly terms. But when the mother went shopping and left Mary Ann in her grandmother's care, Mary Ann disobeyed and was made to sit in her rocking chair for half an hour to deliberate on her misbehavior. She kept perfectly quiet for the first fifteen minutes and watched her grandmother intently. Then in a consoling voice, in a half whisper, she said: "Well, I never did like to have outsiders visit us, anyway."

Signs of the Zodiac

The ancients attached much importance to the signs of the Zodiac. The introduction of the 12 figures of the Zodiac into the walls or pavements of early churches and cathedrals is common in Europe. Thus, in Cologne cathedral an elaborate design outlining the 12 signs is to be seen graven on the pavement in front of the choir and it also forms the object of a stained glass window to the right of the great door at the entrance. Still more frequently are the Zodiac signs to be found used in decorative form in the temples of the East.

"Movie of a Movie"

It is not possible, so far as we can find out, actually to make a real movie of another movie. Light would be necessary and consequently the movie being photographed would not be visible and could not register on the film. The experts say that, of course, through double exposure the effect of a movie of a movie could and has been given or that the same thing might be done through pen or wash drawings. In other words, an advanced form of animated cartoons.—Washington Star.

Face Worth a Fortune

At a very early date clocks were made which were marvels of ingenuity and took many years to construct. In 1232 the sultan of Egypt sent to the Emperor Frederick II a clock which showed the sun, moon, and planets, as well as the 12 signs of the zodiac. All of these showed their proper movements by night and day. The clock cost 5,000 dinars, which represents about $2,500,000 in our money.

Congregational Church Notes.

Good interest was shown in the Sunday school hour Sunday, and those who attended seem to be getting a great deal of satisfaction from the study of these lessons in Genesis.

Following the Sunday school there was a short discussion of the plans for the summer when a student pastor is expected to arrive. A letter from Mr. Axtell of Spring Lake expressed a desire on the part of the people there to have the services of the young man during the first half of his stay, thus allowing him to Friona for the latter half of the time. This plan was perfectly satisfactory to our people and his work here will most likely be divided in that way.

The worship hour was taken up with the usual worship program, with Carl C. Maurer serving as leader, and singing by a male chorus.

The lesson of the day was presented in a very nice talk by J. M. Hamlin of Farwell. Mr. Hamlin is nearing his 90th birthday, but his mind is perfectly clear and his religious ideals as presented in his short talk, are sound and logical. He is the father of Judge James D. Hamlin also of Farwell, and the people of the congregation were indeed pleased to have him with them on this occasion.

The church program committee for May consists of Mrs. R. H. Kinsley, chairman, assisted by Mrs. J. A. Blackwell and O. F. Lange.

Pentecostal Church Notes.

The Pentecostal revival, which started April 5, in the Methodist church, closed last Sunday night at the regular place of worship in the school building.

A good interest was manifested until the last, many stating their interest by requesting prayers. Brother and Sister McLean left Monday for Tipton, Oklahoma, where they will labor for a few days before going on to their appointment at Arcadelphia, Arkansas, for the State Camp Meeting. We are glad to have had them in our midst, as we are sure that all who heard them were benefited. On Thursday and Sunday night's we shall have regular services. We will endeavor to keep preaching the old-time salvation as pointed out so clearly in the Word. REPORTER.
