Chamber schedules public forum for mayor, school board candidates

The May 11 local election will see numerous candidates on the ballot for Friona Mayor and the FISSD Board of Trustees. Two seats are open on the school board and five candidates are running. Four candidates are signed up for the mayor position.

The Friona Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a public forum on Thursday, April 18, at 6 p.m. in the junior high cafeteria. Invitation letters were sent this week to all of the candidates to participate in the meeting. Each candidate will be given time to address the audience, introduce themselves, share their reasons for seeking office, and answer questions from the public.

The format for the meeting is still being developed by the Chamber. Candidates will draw numbers prior to the public forum to determine the order of appearance. Interested citizens are urged to attend to meet the candidates.

The meeting will be videotaped and rebroadcast prior to May 11 on WT Services channel 76 at dates and times to be determined. The Friona Star will publish the information in our printed editions and on the Friona Star Facebook page.

Candidates for Mayor of Friona are Ross Paiz, Jim Atwell, Rick White and Richard Morris, Jr. School board candidates are Ricky Barnett, Victor Guerrero, Jose Cigarfoa, Jason Rector, and Becky Riethmayer.

There was a lot of 'free dirt' in the Panhandle last Saturday afternoon and evening as 30-40 mph winds, gusting to 60 mph, pounded the area. Allan Haile was landscaping his State Farm office and offered this pile of dirt free before the storm hit. The wind blew about half of the dirt pile and the sign away. By mid-week folks had taken him up on the free offer and the dirt pile was gone.

Students make clothing for Africa kids

Family and Consumer Science students at Friona High School do care about others. They partnered with Malouf's Fabrics store, Gay Taylor, and the Speech and Drama Department to make and send 66 dresses to various countries in Africa.

After researching "Little Dresses for Africa" online, they learned basic sewing skills, used donated supplies, and started making dresses. Sewing groups were held after school throughout the fall to give other students an opportunity to get involved.

Malouf's Fabrics provided supplies and long time high school substitute Gay Taylor helped with supplies and dresses that she made. The Speech and Drama Department volunteered to pay the postage to get the dresses delivered.

Project leaders Karina Hernandez and Dayana Prieto explained that they were interested in Africa and this was a way they could help send dresses and hope to these children. "We want to know more about conditions there so we are partnering with a Peace Corps volunteer who works in Africa."

For more information about this topic, or to schedule an interview with students, please call Airam Chavez or Arianna Moreno at 806-363-0023 or email pallen@frionaisd.com.

Friends of the Friona Public Library are inviting you to join them in celebrating National Library Month in April. This is a special time for the Friona Library as they are celebrating 50 years of life.

The library will be having some special events in April. One of the special activities is giving patrons a chance to win e-readers each Friday. On Friday April 5, 12, 19, and 26 a drawing will be held for four Kindles and four Kindle Paperwhites. The tickets to win one of these Kindles are free. All you have to do is visit the library.

The Kindles will be won by any school age child in grades 1 to 12. The Kindle Paperwhites will be won by an adult. Each time you visit the library in April you will be given a ticket to register your name and phone number. Then each Friday at 5:00 p.m. they will draw for a child and an adult winner. You do not have to be present to win.

After the Friday drawing, those tickets will be discarded and they will begin gathering tickets for the following Monday for the next Friday's drawing. Visit the library at least once a week for a chance to win but visit the library every day for five chances to win.

Library Friends president Tracy Ellis says, "Our library is one of the finest in the area and the library staff has worked on a display highlighting 50 years of activities that we are anxious for you to see. Our literary baskets should also be on display in April. Watch the Friona Star for other events in connection with National Library Month. There are more exciting things coming." gravy is a solid food

Do you remember your first bite of solid food? Of course not.

I don't remember either but if I had to guess it was probably mashed potatoes and gravy. My first bite of solid food occurred sometime in 1940 I reckon, since I was born towards the end of 1939.

Folks were simple back then. Food was spare and simple too. Most everything was fried except the green beans and corn. I'm not sure but I doubt if I ever ate a jar of Gerber's baby food. After looking on the Internet I'm sure I didn't. Gerber started using jars in 1960, the year I got married for the first time.

We ate a mashed up baby food version of what the grownups ate. Banana pudding was no doubt a favorite of my baby years. There was no lowfat milk in those days, and outside of breast feeding, most babies swigged on some whole milk or Enfamil formula. Plus the occasional iced tea sips.

We did feed our babies Gerber food later. Stuff like strained peas, prunes, and spinach looked good splattered all over the front of my shirt and the high chair and the floor. I confess that I often made my kids blow baby food on purpose because it seemed cute and funny at the time.

Slipping them a slice of lemon and watching their funny face reaction was also an entertaining part of baby raising. But I digress.

The other day I watched a discussion on TV news about when to give a baby solid food for the first time. It was another of those "let's scare the hell out of them" interviews. The man from the government's Center for Disease Control (CDC) said a baby should not be fed any solid food until they were six months or older. Doing so, he cautioned, could cause diabetes and obesity. He said you should actually wait until your baby starts making chewing motions and reaches for a fork (I'm not making this up).

With a straight face the man said women should perhaps continue breast feeding until the baby is two years old and don't give them solid food until they look like they are asking for it, which of course a six-month-old would have trouble doing.

I've never put much faith in government studies and suggestions. Don't believe it is the government's place to constantly tell us how to eat, what to eat, when not to eat, and other intrusive suggestions. Yes, for some people obesity can be a health problem but the government cannot prevent obesity. You or I could just as easily suggest to someone that eating too much will cause unhealthy fatness but we might get poked in the kisser too.

I say give your baby a mouthful of whole food whenever your doctor recommends it, or maybe your mother-in-law. Stick a spoon of Gerber spinach or prunes in their little mouth and if they make a face and spit it out, it might mean they are not ready yet. Trial and error is a good way to set your baby on the road to whole food.

In today's busy world there is an overload of information about everything, including child raising. The man from the CDC seemed serious recommending his whole food regimen but I doubt if many moms paid attention. Giving your kid a mouthful of mashed potatoes and gravy is not going to make him or her obese or cause diabetes.

Relax. Teach the little one how to make blowing blubbering noises with the lips, then give them a spoon of carrots, blubber with your lips, and enjoy the fun. Might wear a shower cap.

Enjoy!

Letters to the Editor

Fellow Christians,

Christianity is under attack in the United States of America. Daily the national headlines make references to law suits concerning the public display of crosses and nativity scenes, the passing out of Bibles, saying Merry Christmas, and worshipping in homes. The most recent attack concerns the word Easter. Many public schools in our nation are having a "Spring Egg Hunt" for the children avoiding the word Easter all together.

The effort to totally eliminate all forms of the Christianity is coming from a movement called secular progressives. This is a movement that is saturating the Democratic Party. They support gay marriage, legalized drugs, and open borders. They want to make an America that is patterned after Western Europe. Since the reelection of President Obama they are feeling very bold and powerful in their efforts to change America.

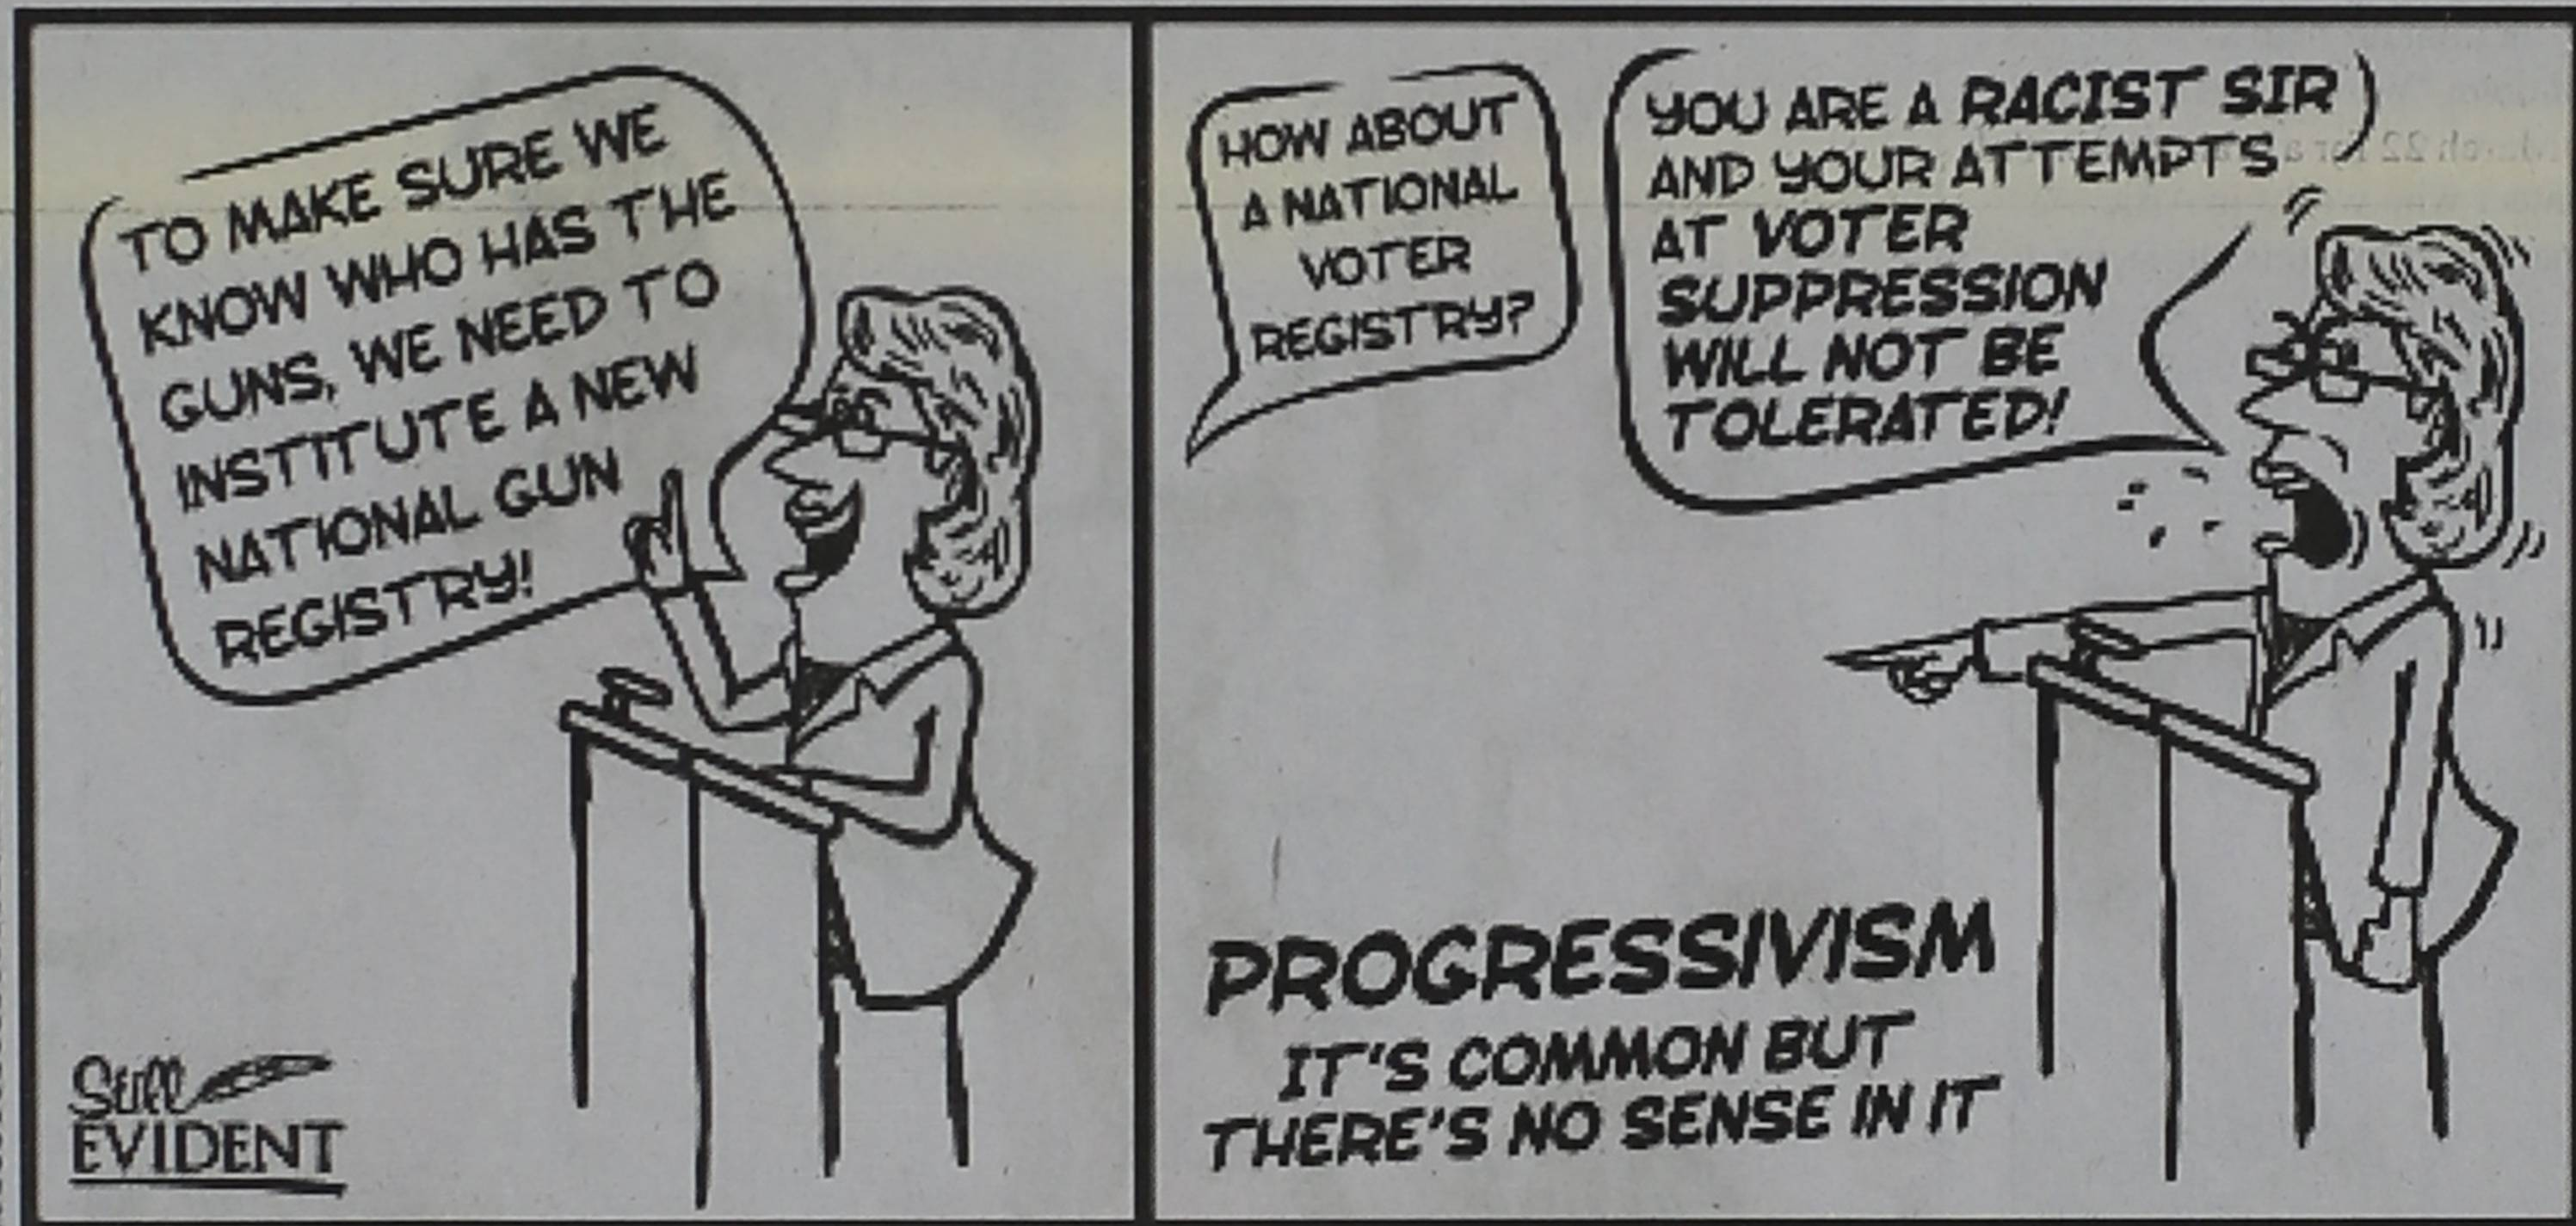

Christians stand on the sideline watching what is happening to American, wringing their hands, shaking their heads in helplessness. Short of voting and calling representatives there is little the Christian can do to preserve their First Amendment right to worship God freely. Or is there?

Legal or not legal the committed Christian can not and will not be stopped from worshipping God. Regardless of the ways of the secular progressive the Believers will not be intimidated.

The American Christian understands that they are assured the right to worship freely as stated in the First Amendment of the Bill of Rights. But things are changing in America. There may come a day where we no longer have that freedom.

For now we still have the freedom to worship openly. And while we still have that freedom Bovina Church of Christ is offering a moment to exercise that freedom. The Bible will be read publicly for one hour in the auditorium of the church building. There will be no preaching. There will be no teaching. The Holy Scriptures will stand on their own as God intended. His words will ring loud and clear on Saturday March 30 from 7:00 PM to 8:00 PM at Bovina Church of Christ in Bovina, Texas. Come take a stand for America. But more importantly come take a stand for God in America.

THE BURN BAN IS BACK. County commissioners reinstated the county-wide burn ban effective from now to June 24. No outdoor burning of any kind allowed. Contact County Judge Trey Ellis, the Sheriff's Office, or your precinct commissioner if you have any questions about the burn ban. Violations are a Class C misdemeanor.

Squat 805 pounds. Bench 400 pounds. Edgar Guerrero, FHS sophomore, was aiming to win a gold medal at the state powerlift meet but he had trouble with his deadlift. Coach Hutchins said he slipped on his first deadlift attempt and got red lights on his next two when the judges never told him to put the bar down. The squat of 805 pounds set a Texas high school record for that event but it doesn't count since he didn't finish the meet. Congratulations Edgar. Get them next year.

The federal government gave Yale University a $384,949.00 grant to study the evolution of duck genitalia. Yale has apparently been studying duck genitalia since 2009. That is a long time to look at the underside of a duck. The project is officially called Social Phenotypic Plasticity Experiments. No White House tours but Congress can fritter away money to learn about the private parts of a duck. If it wasn't so sad and frustrating it would be funny.

Congratulations to the FHS one-act play. They won 1st place in district and advance to the area round in Plainview April 9th. The crew won the district tech award, Tyler Etue and Haden Smiley were All-Star Cast, Holly Johnston voted Best Actress, and Maddie Murphee was honorable mention All-Star Cast. Good job thespians and Mrs. Erika Montana.

"Boiled" eggs baked in the oven? They say you can put eggs on their side in a muffin pan, bake them in the oven at 325 for 30 minutes then put them in cold water and you have boiled eggs that are easy to peel. Same process applies to any number of eggs you want to 'boil'. Haven't tried it. If you do let me know.

The Chieftain baseball team lost to Bushland Saturday 14-4 in five innings. A rematch was here Wednesday March 27 at 4:30 p.m. Bushland is one of the four teams in our district and last year made it to the state semi-finals in baseball. The Chieftain track team won 1st place at the Muleshoe track meet last Friday. The Squaws placed 3rd at Muleshoe.

Exchanged some history info with a Mr. Dwight Bates who sent information that his cousin, Robert A. Bates, who was born in Black, Tx. around 1920, served in WWII, and died aboard the Battleship Arizona at Pearl Harbor. He is one of the hundreds of sailors still entombed on the Arizona. His parents were John A. and Lonella Bates. They had twins Leonard and Gleonard who were 10 in 1920, and son Arnold who was 6 in 1920.

Recently someone found a box on the street in Bakersfield, California and brought it to the local VFW Post. In the box was a Purple Heart with the name Robert Bates inscribed on the back along with the date of Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941. Research and phone calls later they located a niece of Robert Bates in Brownsboro, Texas, and a nephew in Wills Point. They had been searching for info on their uncle for 20 years. The medal was returned to them. No one knows how the Purple Heart came to be in that box in Bakersfield. Quite an interesting and nice story that began out at Black.

Banquets for the Class of 2013 will be: April 8, First Baptist Church 6:30 p.m.; April 15, 6th St. Church of Christ 6:30 p.m.; April 22, First Methodist Church 6:30 p.m.

The Canadian River Music Festival will be held May 11 in Canadian, Texas. Lots of food, and vendors, and of course music. Pat Green will be the headliner this year. Ray Wylie Hubbard will be there too. All day access tickets can be purchased for $25 through the website, www.canadianrivermusicfestival.com. Festival organizers sent me two wristbands good for all day access. If you are planning to attend and want my two wristbands let me know.

Don't forget about the annual H.K. (Pudge) Kendrick Memorial Golf Tournament June 22-23 right here at Friona Golf Club. It is a two-person scramble, limited to the first 54 paid teams. Entry fee is $250 per team ($225 if using a personal cart). To sign up contact the Friona Golf Club at 806-250-3125 or Greg Lewellen at 806-250-3991 ext 230. This is a popular event and proceeds benefit the Parmer County Cancer Coalition.

Friona graduate Jennie Scott Bailey underwent surgery March 22 for a brain tumor. Additional surgery was performed Saturday March 23. She is recovering at home but still faces treatment for possible cancer. She has worked for the Texas Tech football staff for 25 years.

During the big wind and dust storm last Saturday, an accident due to blowing dirt and zero visibility occurred on South Hwy 214 at CR AA between a semi- and a passenger car. No serious injuries reported.

My son-in-law Walt Holmes was promoted at Interstate Batteries to Senior Vice-President for distributor operations and the innovation team. Walt and Candee live in Coppell. He is a Baylor Law School graduate and has been with Interstate Batteries for many years. I'm a proud daddy-in-law.

Jo Beth Gipson and Becky Jones and maybe some others plan to participate in a Snack-Pak4Kids 5K Fun Run and Walk April 13 in Amarillo. The entry fee is $15 and proceeds help the SnackPak program. Jo Beth or Becky can give you more information.

The Friona ISD school calendar for the month of April is on page 8 in this Star. April and May are busy months for the school district. Parents and friends might want to clip out the calendar and put it in the fridge to keep up with school happenings.

The senior class steak dinner is Sunday April 14 in the junior high cafeteria. Tickets in advance are $12 or $13 at the door. Takeouts will be available. This is the popular fundraiser for the senior all-night drug free party held after the May 31 graduation. Lot of senior parents are no doubt looking forward to staying up all night. Tickets are available from any senior.

Had some nice Rafter G BBQ at the West Texas Rural Telephone Co-Op meeting Tuesday at the Hereford Bull Barn. Board member Ernest Flood retired after serving 21 years. Local WT Services employee Cherry Wells received a plaque in recognition of her 15 years with the company. Rural telephone cooperatives are struggling to keep the Universal Service Tax that underwrites rural telephone service.

I checked in with Greg O'Brian at Friona Wheat Growers about the freezing temps effect on wheat crops. We have had a few hard freeze mornings recently. The young, later planted wheat should be okay but there will be damage to older wheat that was beginning to head. Will be a while before the actual damage is known.

Congratulations to Friona's own Cory Hamilton, now head baseball coach at Randall High School. The Raiders beat Canyon 2 out of 3 games last week and Canyon was ranked 4th in State 4A. Then they pounded Palo Duro 10-0 this week. Cory is a Friona graduate, son of Randie and the late Charles Hamilton. Go Raiders.

Have a nice Good Friday/Easter weekend. Be cautious Monday. It is April Fool's Day. Lot of activity around town the next two months as spring kicks into high gear. We will try to keep up. See you later. Until then!

Shot clinic schedule

The Department of State Health Services immunization clinic will visit Friona on Monday April 1 and Monday April 15 at the Migrant Center, 618 Main. Times are 9:30 - 11:30 a.m. and 1:00 - 3:00 p.m. They will serve the first 10 clients each time.

The Bovina clinic will be Monday, April 8, at the EMS

Building, 109 3rd St. from 1:30 - 3:30 p.m. serving the first 10 clients. The Farwell clinic will be Monday April 8 from 9:30 - 11:30 a.m. at the Farwell community center, also serving the first 10 clients.

All clinic times are subject to change or cancellation due to weather conditions or unforeseen scheduling conflicts.

Burn ban is back

Parmer County commissioners reinstated the county-wide burn ban at their meeting Monday, March 25. The burn ban is in effect until June 24. No outdoor burning of any kind is allowed. Citations and fines can apply. Violations are a Class C misdemeanor. For more information about the burn ban contact County Judge Trey Ellis or the Sheriff's Office.

Good Question

Q. What is the best thing to do if an automated teller machine (ATM) does not dole out the correct amount of money, or worse, takes a debit card without giving it back?

A. The first thing you should do is contact the financial institution that issued the card. That institution has the sole authority to undo any adjustments made to a savings or checking account. Keep your paper receipt, if given one, to show the bank. They will want to make a copy for their records and for verification.

If the ATM is on the premises of the bank that issued the card, a temporary solution can often be reached within hours, if the card was "captured". But with many consumers withdrawing funds from ATM'S at such places as convenience stores, Wal-Mart, and sport stadiums, the problem is hardly ever resolved that quickly. It can take up to two weeks if you were not given the correct amount of money. Do let your bank know.

Federal guidelines regulating the ATM industry generally favor consumers, experts say, but it's important to contact the card issuer promptly so that any improper debits or credits to an account are corrected in a timely fashion.

We, at Friona State Bank, want to help you with all of your financial needs.

Lions Club News

The Friona Noon Lions met Thursday March 21 with nine members present. Club sweetheart Holly Johnston was not present because she was participating in district one-act play competition in Tulia. She was named Best Actress and the play won 1st place and advances to the area round.

Boss Lion Clint Mears announced a WT alumnae day being planned for the April 18 Noon Lions meeting. WT Buffs Coach Don Carthel will provide the program. He also handed out the new blue Lions caps to those present for members to wear during our public fundraisers.

Lion Davy Carthel told about his family's trip to Costa Rica during spring break. Lion Caleb Stephenson discussed the new construction of liquid tanks at the CHS facility west of town.

Other club events coming up are the May 2 Friona blood drive, May 7 all-sports banquet, club will cook fries, and the annual Broom & Mop sale May 16 at the city park.

The next meeting of the Noon Lions will be Thursday April 4 at Headquarters Restaurant.

The Easter Egg (A Children's Tale)

JEFF PROCTER, Minister, 6th St. Church of Christ

It was early spring and Little Miss Hen sat on her nest with great anticipation. It had been awhile since she had nested 13 eggs. Then one Friday, it all began, first one then two and like clockwork each little egg began to hatch, with the cracking noise of the shells, the pecking of the little chicks and the chirps of victory, Little Miss Hen found herself surrounded by twelve yellow fuzzy chicks. All but one had hatched. Each little chick chirped and hopped and waited. Little Miss Hen would not yet leave her post and so they all waited. Saturday came and went, Sunday morning followed. Little Miss Hen raised herself and with the audience of the twelve, inspected this little egg. She gently gave it a peck and to the surprise of all it seemed, could it be? Hollow?

The farmer too had been watching the nest and he was pleased 12 out of 13 not bad for an old laying hen. He inspected the nest and found the empty egg shell. He showed his kids the empty egg and began to tell them a story of long ago of a man from Galilee named Jesus. It was a story the kids knew well, but the empty egg made it exciting as papa raised the little egg and proclaimed, "just like this here egg is empty, so was His tomb." Mama smiled told the kids to hurry and get dressed it was Easter and they didn't want to be late to services.

This little tale is just that, a tale. Yet let it be a reminder His tomb was empty not because he was never there, but because he rose to victory, and it gives us hope not just at Easter, but all the time. "He is not here, He has risen, as he said..." Matt. 28:6

Have a Blessed Easter

BRETT HOYLE, Pastor, First Baptist Church

Luke 23:42-43 depicts the desperate plea for salvation from one of the condemned criminals dying alongside Jesus. On the cross, the desperate criminal said, "Jesus remember me when you come into your kingdom." And he [Jesus] said to him, "Truly I say to you, today you will be with me in Paradise." Jesus' promise to him carries three important truths about life beyond the grave.

First, there is personality beyond the grave. Jesus told the man "you will be with me," which tells us that a person does not cease to exist upon death, but they live on. Next, we see that there is a place beyond the grave called Paradise, or Heaven. Jesus answered the man's plea by assuring him that he would be in heaven that day. For this man, his eternity was secure in Paradise with Jesus, because he called on the only one who could save him, but sadly, for millions of people, they will die and go to another place called hell. Hell is a terrible place designed to pour out God's wrath on the devil, his demons, and those who don't repent of sin and place faith in Jesus Christ. Finally, beyond the grave there is a person. That person is Jesus Christ, who frees us from the powers of sin and death. Jesus is the only one who can rescue you from the judgment you deserve because of your guilt before God. The thief on the cross knew he was guilty of sin, and in those dying hours he called out to the only person who could rescue him for eternity. Jesus heard the thief and He wants to hear from you as well.

We can't imagine being from a better place. We are so thankful to each of you for your thoughts, prayers, and many kind expressions of love you have shown to our family during this challenging time. Floyd loved this town and so do we. May God richly bless you all.

Sincerely,
Betty and Becky Reeve

The family of Wade Wright thank the wonderful people of Friona for the prayers, visits, food, cards, and phone calls received by us at his death. We also thank the ladies of the Friona United Methodist Church for the delicious meal served to our family. We are grateful to Reverend Kurt Borden for his comforting sermon. We deeply appreciate our friends who visited and called him during his long illness.

Wade is now at peace with our heavenly Father, God bless each of you.

Basic fitness training tips

By Melanie Gallman Braun

OK, so what's important to know as you think about starting a fitness program. You are thinking about it, right? There are two biggies: the five fitness concepts and the FITT principle.

The five fitness concepts are 1) Cardiovascular Endurance, 2) Muscular Strength, 3) Muscular Endurance, 4) Flexibility, and 5) Body Composition. A sixth concept is often added for senior adults. It is 6) Balance.

Cardiovascular endurance is considered to be the most important component so we will spend time on cardio before moving to other concepts. Keep in mind though that it is important to incorporate each of these concepts into your fitness routine. It may sound complicated but in practice it is quite easy. For example, a yoga workout will incorporate flexibility, muscular strength, muscular endurance, and balance.

FITT is an acronym for Frequency, Intensity, Time, and Type. The FITT principle should be used to define your fitness program. FREQUENCY—Optimal aerobic training occurs when you exercise three to five times per week and if you want to lose some weight, do cardio six to seven times a week. INTENSITY—should be at a moderate level which is 60% of your maximum heart rate up to a vigorous level of 70-85% of your maximum heart rate. (That's great info Mel but how do I know what 60% of my heart rate is? Keep reading.) TIME—20-60 minutes should get it done. TYPE—refers to the kind of exercises you should do to meet your goals (increase muscle mass, run a 5K, tone, lose weight, etc.)

Maximum heart rate is easy to calculate. Subtract your age from 220. That's it. That's your estimated maximum heart rate (MHR). Multiply your MHR by .85 and by .60 to get your high-low workout range. For example, a 45-year-old's MHR would be 175

(220-45+175). The low end of his/her moderate workout would be a heart rate of 105 (175 x .60+105) beats per minute. The high end would be 149 (175 x .85+149) beats per minute. Stop exercising long enough to take your pulse halfway through your exercise session. Count your pulse for six seconds immediately after you stop exercising, then multiply this number by 10 to get your number of beats per minute.

Many cardio machines will take your heart rate for you. Another easy method of measuring cardio intensity is the "talk test." If you are able to sing or laugh heartily while exercising, you need to work harder. If you are breathing so hard you can't talk, slow it down—the intensity is too high. A heart rate of 70% maximum is called "conversational" level of exercise, because you are able to talk to someone while exercising. Remember, all of these methods are estimates. If you feel lightheaded, nauseous, or have unusual pains in your upper body—STOP.

It doesn't have to hurt. If you have been physically inactive for a while, any type and amount of physical activity is a step in the right direction. Start slowly, letting your body adapt. "Your fitness is 100% mental. Your body won't go where your mind doesn't push it!"

Two photos of this youngster were found recently in the yard of a residence near the hospital. They are large 8 x 10 and 11 x 14 photos. The lady who found them brought them to the Friona Star office to try and locate who they belong to. This young man could be an adult today perhaps. If the photos belong to you or if you recognize this guy contact the Friona Star office.

Panhandle tree care class in Amarillo

The Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service in Potter County will offer a "Tree Care for the Panhandle" class on April 19 at the office located at 3301 S.E. 10th Ave., Amarillo.

"Almost everyone in the Panhandle, and certainly Amarillo, has a tree," said Brandon Boughen, AgriLife Extension agriculture and natural resources agent in Potter County. "Most of the time we don't pay a great deal of attention to those trees until we see signs of decline, then we panic."

"Trees are a costly part of the landscape to replace so we want to maintain our trees to the best of our ability," he said. "Many tree owners pay someone to maintain their trees for them, which is fine, but they also need to have an idea of what is involved in tree care and maintenance. This class will make tree owners more informed, savvy tree owners."

The class will begin with registration at 9:30 a.m. and the program will run from 10 a.m. to noon.

Boughen said he will cover a wide range of topics, including desirable, undesirable and questionable trees in the Panhandle, as well as pruning, general care, insect and disease control. He will end with a pruning demonstration.

The cost of the class will be $15 per person, payable at the door, and includes all materials and refreshments. Those planning to attend should contact Boughen at 806-373-0713 to reserve a spot by April 18 or for more information.

Weldon Crim predicts a dry spring. Shown here in a 2008 file photo, Crim follows an old Indian tradition every March 22 by lighting a fire at sunrise and predicting the weather by the direction the smoke blows. This year he said it blew from the northwest to the southeast meaning a dry spring ahead. Mr. Crim has a farm at Lazbuddie but now lives in Clovis and has been performing this ritual for many years.

Great Plains Ag Credit Declares $4.78 Million Patronage

Great Plains Ag Credit, an agricultural lending cooperative, recently declared a $4.78 million patronage to its customers. The amount is a combination of cash and equity allocation. Customers received checks in late March.

Patronage payments are based on the amount of business a borrower does with the co-op and lower the borrowers' effective interest rate. As a cooperative, Great Plains Ag Credit is owned by its borrower/stockholders. When the co-op performs well, it shares its earnings with the stockholders.

Of this year's payment, more than 70 percent of the total will be distributed to customers in cash. The remaining amount will be used to strengthen association capital until it is distributed at a future date.

"With all of the uncertainty in our world, from farm policy to commodity prices, we are honored to be a constant in our customers' lives and to continue our strong tradition of paying patronage," said Tim McDonald, Great Plains Ag Credit chief executive officer. "We've returned $38 million to our customers since 2000."

Great Plains Ag Credit is part of the Farm Credit System and specializes in financing for farmers, ranchers and rural landowners. Headquartered in Amarillo, the co-op operates branch offices in Amarillo, Dimmitt, Dumas, Friena and Plainview and insurance offices in Amarillo, Plainview and Muleshoe that serve 20 counties in the Texas Panhandle.

Universal Service Fund protects rural landlines

By Jim Steiert, West Texas Rural Telephone Co-op

Do away with Universal Service Fund support for rural telecommunications, and a crippling blow will be leveled against the economic well-being of rural Texas.

That's the message of Keep Texas Connected, a coalition of elected officials, community leaders, emergency responders, health care, education, and private industry officials, along with homeowners who are urging the Texas legislature to retain Universal Service Fund support for high cost rural telecommunications services. USF support is in jeopardy of being removed this legislative session.

State Representative Ken King, Canadian, TX Republican newly-elected to his House District 88 post, has introduced House Bill 2835.

"Essentially what this bill would do is keep the fund going for the benefit of rural Texans. Without Universal Service Fund support, rural Texas cannot have affordable phone service. We have nine phone cooperatives in the district. They are providers of last resort—the ones with copper lines going through the houses. In an emergency, that's it, that's what you have," says King, referring to the importance of land lines in rural service.

King's bill awaits a required public hearing at the House State Affairs Committee. The 13 member panel that makes up the committee includes rural representatives, among them John Smithee of Amarillo, John Frullo of Lubbock, and Tom Craddock of Midland.

Senate Bill 583 by Senator John Carona, chairman of the Senate Committee on Business and Commerce, and relating to eligibility for support from the Universal Service Fund, is also wending its way through the political process.

Chris Barron of the State Firemen and Fire Marshals Association of Texas emphasizes the importance of land lines in emergencies. "A reliable form of communications needs to be available. We need to have reliable land lines," says Barron, who points out that while wireless phones are helpful in emergencies such as wildfires or storms, they're no substitute for land lines," says Barron.

Because of the sparse population of rural areas and the thin number of customers per square mile of service area, cost of providing land line service has always been a challenge for rural telecommunications providers.

Scott Stringer of CenturyLink, the third largest telecommunications company in the U.S. says the cost challenge is daunting. "An urban telephone exchange can be 70 square miles, but a rural service area can be hundreds of square miles, and as a result, the cost for rural customers goes up substantially," said Stringer.

Joey Anderson, mayor of Muenster, TX a community of 1,500 in Cooke County, says there are only four customers per square mile in his area, making phone service a challenge. Customer density is even more sparse in some parts of the service area covered by West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative, that provides rural telecommunications in Deaf Smith, Castro, and Parmer counties.

While the trend is toward high speed wireless, Michael Balhoff of Williams and Balhoff, a consulting firm specializing in telecommunications and energy, says wireless providers can provide the speedier service of enhanced broadband in many rural areas.
