HUERTA GIVEN UNTIL 6 P. M. TODAY TO FIRE SALUTE

GRAVEST INTERNATIONAL CRISIS FACES U. S. SINCE SPANISH WAR

UNLESS HUERTA ACCEDES BLOCKADE SEEMS CERTAIN

Wilson Will Go Before Joint Session of Congress Monday If Huerta Refuses To Fire Salute

Washington, April 18.—The gravest international crisis the United States has faced since the Spanish war looms ahead. Unless Huerta before six o'clock Sunday evening accedes to Rear Admiral Mayo's demand for a twenty-one gun salute to the American flag at Tampico, President Wilson will go possibly before a joint-session of Congress Monday and ask for authority to use the army and navy for such steps as may be necessary.

Huerta may actually fire the salute before six o'clock, which would be 7:36 p. m. Washington time, or he may yield by advising President Wilson of his intention to do so. Either action, taken at the last minute in Mexico, could be known here before the hour of the President's going before Congress.

This final word went to Mexico today after Huerta had parleyed for the last time and reiterated his demand for a simultaneous salute. Leaders in congress declared President Wilson would be immediately clothed with all the authority necessary to take action. Seizure of Vera Cruz and Tampico of the Mexican warships in those waters and of a section of the railroad from Vera Cruz to Mexico City, as far as a trestle twenty miles west of Vera Cruz, and a Pacific blockade, are features of a plan of action President Wilson has outlined to his closest advisers.

Such a course is authorized in international law described as one "short of war" and yet not an act of war. Huerta might, however, construe it as one.

WHITE HOUSE STATEMENT

The climax came today when a third message came from Huerta insisting on his own conditions for a simultaneous salute. A conference between the president and cabinet members resulted in a prompt decision to brook no more temporizing or dilatory tactics. The following statement was then issued from the White House:

"Gen. Huerta is still insisting upon doing something less than has been demanded and something less than would constitute an acknowledgment that his representatives were entirely in the wrong in the indignities they have put upon the government of the United States. The President has determined that if General Huerta has not yielded by six o'clock Sunday afternoon, he will take the matter to Congress on Monday."

ANSWER MONDAY AT LATEST.

Allowing five hours, the average time for transmission of cable message from Charge O'Shaughnessy, and including the time for ciphering and deciphering, an answer was not expected here before early Monday morning, assuming that Huerta takes the full time for indicating his intentions. President Wilson made his arrangements to leave late tonight for White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, to bring Mrs. Wilson, who has been ill, back to Washington. He will arrive at the health resort tomorrow morning and leave tomorrow night, reaching the capital early Monday.

Huerta's continued evasiveness and his desperate condition from a financial and military point of view led many officials to believe he would defy the United States and take chances on consequences through which a national spirit might be aroused to unite the warring factions and entrench him in office.

Mexican constitutionalist representatives here were in communication with Secretary Bryan today. He was informed that the rebels would not unite with Huerta but would maintain a status quo in the territory they control if the United States took no offensive act against them.

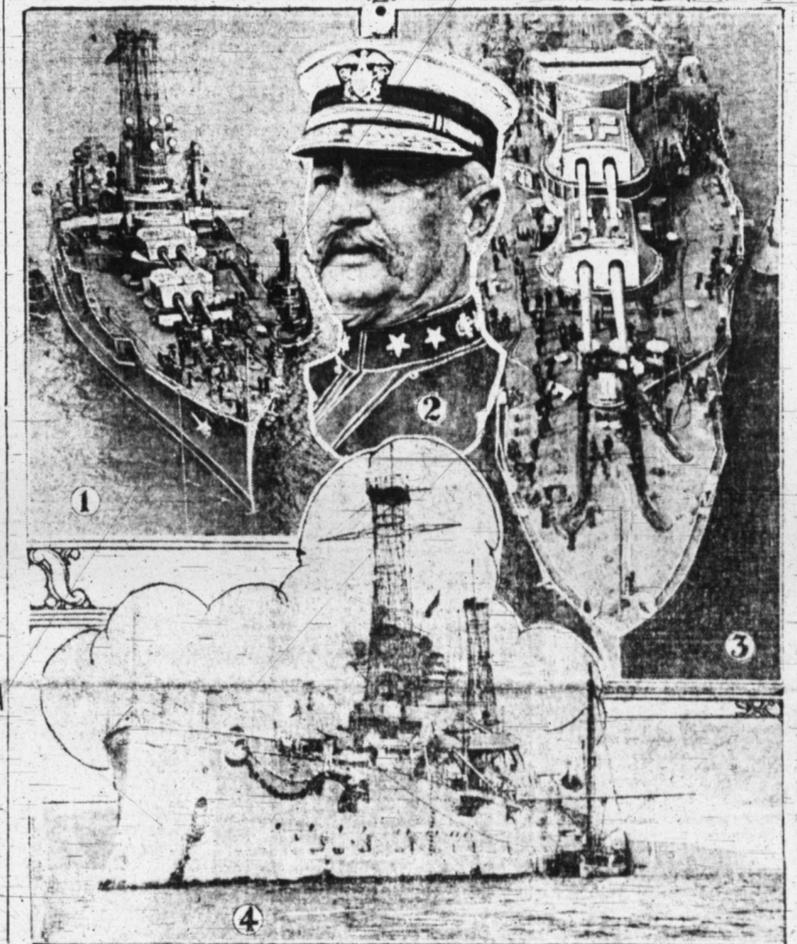

NO ORDERS TO ARMY

Ambassadors and ministers eager to learn the purpose of the American government were supplied with information at the State Department. A summary of the day's developments was cabled to all American embassies and legations for the information of foreign governments. Meanwhile the Atlantic and Pacific fleets continue steaming southward to Mexican ports. No orders were issued to the army.

The determination to force a definite reply from Huerta pend-

A MESSAGE SENT FROM MEXICO CITY LAST NIGHT

Washington, April 18.—"Encouraging, but not final" was the way Secretary Bryan shortly after 1 o'clock this morning summed up a message just received from Mexico City. Further than that, the secretary did not disclose what his latest dispatch contained.

Word that a message was on its way from Mexico City to the state department was received by Secretary Bryan shortly before midnight. Owing to difficulty in telegraphic transmission from Mexico City it was uncertain whether the message would arrive. There was no intimation of the contents of the message, but state department officials were on duty to receive and decipher it. As soon as it has been translated it will be transmitted to President Wilson who receives it on his arrival at White Sulphur Springs tomorrow morning.

BATTLE SHIPS PLOWING WAY TOWARD TAMPICO

On Board the United States Steamer Arkansas at Sea, by Wireless, via Jupiter, Fla., April 18.—The battle-ships under command of Rear Admiral Badger are proceeding steadily on their way to Mexican waters. Admiral Badger is confident; the fleet is prepared for any emergency but Admiral Badger is confident the fleet plans.

Rear Admiral Frank Fletcher, in command of the 22 ships at Vera Cruz has been instructed to meet the Arkansas and other ships in the squadron off Tampico, Wednesday, April 22 when it is expected the entire fleet will be assembled. That will mean not less than 200 men.

PLANS FOR SAFETY OF FOREIGNERS AT TAMPICO.

Chihuahua, April 18.—Plans for safety of foreigners and foreign property in Tampico were agreed on yesterday by commanders of American British and German vessels at Tampico in conference with the chief of the rebel forces operating against that port, Gen. Luis Caballero. This information was conveyed to Gen. Carranza in a report from Gen. Caballero who telegraphed that "you may rest assured that any word sent to you to the effect that I might enhance the present international complication comes from a traitor."

SOLDIERS WHO FIRED ON MEXICANS UPHELD

Mexican Prisoner Struck Guard and Another Was Trying to Escape From Corral

Melvin L. Switzer and A. G. Planary, the Twentieth Infantry sentry who fired on two Mexicans interned in prison camp at Fort Bliss last night, were commended by Capt. G. P. Estes, executive officer of the camp, after investigating today.

Jesus Xarago the first man shot was caught by Planary in the act of breaking electric light bulbs lighting the big camp. Xarago was making expert use of a sling shot and when Planary called on him to desist the Mexican directed his missiles at the sentry. The soldier fired and the bullet passed through the Mexican's thigh and left hand. Jesus Palares who had crawled under the barbed wire fence, which surrounds the camp was seen by Switzer. The sentry called on him to halt but he redoubled his speed and Switzer fired; the bullet passed through his stomach and he probably will die.

No evidence was found today that there was any plot for a wholesale delivery.

Recently some of the prisoners succeeded in breaking all the lights on one side of the camp and the barbed wire having been cut, a number escaped. They were recaptured. On this occasion Col. H. R. Loughborough issued a warning to the prisoners not to try to escape as the sentries had been instructed to shoot. Under military law, the two sentries must be executed by court-martial and for this reason were placed under technical arrest.

EXEMPTION ADVOCATES HAVE THEIR INNING

Advocates of the exemption of American coastwise vessels from Panama Canal tolls had their inning today before the Senate committee when witnesses appeared in opposition to the repeal of the exemption clause. Former Attorney General Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore, C. R. Russell Dunn of San Francisco, and Representative Humphreys of Washington, attacked the repeal on various grounds. James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie endowment for international peace was questioned by Senators Bristow and O'Gorman as to the motives of organization in participating in the propaganda for the repeal of the exemption clause.

Mr. Bonaparte asserted that no nation would have been so foolish as to build the canal with the understanding that it was to derive no special privileges from it. He said the position of the United States was bound by the same conditions in the use of the canal as other nations was "unreasonable and absurd." Mr. Dunn spoke of the economic importance of free tolls to California in particular.

Representative Humphreys declared the benefits the Pacific coast had expected from the canal were about to be given to British Columbia. Senator Bristow aroused Dr. Scott's ire by asking if the Carnegie endowment was not exposing the claim of Great Britain in advocating the repeal of toll exemption and circulating some 700,000 of Senator Root's speech favoring the repeal. Dr. Scott insisted neither he or the endowment was consciously advocating the cause of England but had taken their position irrespective of what Great Britain desired.

CONGRESS WILL NOT QUIBBLE IN MATTER

President Will Have Undivided Support of All Parties in His Mexican Program

Washington, April 18.—Congress will not "quibble" if developments make it necessary for President Wilson to report to it Monday that Huerta does not intend to salute the American colors in accordance with the American demand. Should it eventually be determined that Huerta maintains his "haggling" defiance, leaders believe President Wilson will ask authority to use armed forces to defend the dignity of the nation. Democrats, Republicans and Progressives agree no other course could be pursued and Congress—ready to give the president plenary power to act as in his judgment—necessity may dictate.

If the American demand is not complied with, President Wilson will notify administration leaders of his desire to address Congress; then plans will be made for a joint session. Opinions in Congress vary as to the attitude Huerta will assume. Some think he will yield at the last minute. Others believe he will ignore the American demand. Senator Shively, acting chairman of the foreign relations committee, will be in touch with administration officials tomorrow and it is probable the president will communicate with him if necessary. Representative Flood, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, also would be notified and both committees called to consider the form of a resolution to meet the emergency.

"We are through talking," said Chairman Shively. "We must wait now until we see what Huerta is going to do." In both branches of Congress the ultimatum to Huerta was the absorbing subject throughout the day.

AN ULTIMATUM TO GOVERNOR BLEASE

SECRETARY OF WAR GARRISON THREATENS TO OPEN MANUEVRE CAMP ELSEWHERE

DEMANDS CONDITIONS BE MET

South Carolina Executive Given Until Monday Morning to Tender Desired Invitation

Washington, April 18.—Secretary Garrison today gave Governor Blease of South Carolina until Monday morning to comply with conditions he has named under which the manoeuvre camp for regular troops and the militia of four Southern states will be held at the Isle of Palms. After receiving a telegram today in which Governor Blease requested that he maintain the position he has taken, Secretary Garrison sent his message to the South Carolina executive.

Text of Message

"Unless I receive from you an unequivocal withdrawal from the position hitherto taken by you in this matter, and an invitation that I place the camp on the Isle of Palms, in your State, I am constrained to place the camp at some other place than in the State of South Carolina. Since the matter must be definitely settled now, I shall consider that you have declined to comply with the above suggestion and unless I receive an affirmative reply at the meeting of business of the department Monday morning, April 20, the war department proceeding the usual way as to communications, with the adjutant general of the various states concerned, selected the Isle of Palms, for this encampment and the selection was made public. You had previously wired this department recommending this place to be chosen. Subsequently on April 9 you wrote a personal letter to me stating that unless you were further consulted about this matter you did not propose to have troops brought into your state. An interview in a morning paper quoted you as having questioned the motives of the war department in selecting Charleston for this camp; my attitude toward the matter is that the citizens of your state are very desirous of having this camp. Some of them have already undertaken obligations in view of the war department's announced purpose to hold the camp at Charleston. I have sympathy with their desires, and would have undertaken to comply with their wishes, but cannot while you maintain the position you have taken."

Representative Whaley and Holmes of South Carolina, conferred with Secretary Garrison and later heard from Governor Blease over the telephone. They returned to the war department and Secretary Garrison told him his position was fully set forth in the message he had sent to Governor Blease after their morning visit.

GOVERNOR BLEASE HINTS AT POLITICAL CONSPIRACY

Columbia, S. C., April 18.—Governor Blease stated here today that he regarded the attitude of Secretary Garrison in not communicating officially with the specific intention of ascertaining the governor's wishes in regard to the encampment at the Isle of Palms as "a possible political conspiracy endeavoring to injure me."

TRAINMEN KIDNAPPED BY AN ARMED MOB

Conductor and Engineer Taken From Train in Georgia—A Posse Reported in Pursuit

Savannah, Ga., April 18.—Officials of a Savannah and Northwestern railroad announced here tonight that one of their passenger trains was held up by an armed mob at Hillton, Ga., tonight and the conductor and engineer kidnapped. The conductors on the road, recently declared a strike and it was intimated that the alleged kidnapping was directly connected with this.

According to the statement of General Manager R. R. Morgan, the mob which held up the train was both armed and disguised. It is reported that the missing conductor and engineer have been taken to Briar Creek swamp and that a posse already has left Savannah in pursuit. The railroad officials notified United States District Attorney Alexander Ackerman of Macon, Ga., of the hold-up and informed him that the train carried United States mail.

ing the tolerance of the United States, was emphasized strongly in the day's developments. It was a day of action in official circles and reminiscent of the scenes of 1898 for at no time since has a president threatened to ask Congress to use the army and navy to enforce a foreign policy.

The knowledge that the Mexican situation had reached a turning point spread throughout the National capital generally. For two hours while the clerks deciphered messages from Charge O'Shaughnessy correspondents waited in the corridor of the state department for an inkling of its contents. President Wilson had gone to bed, expecting no developments until noon. Mr. Bryan and Mr. Tammity conferred briefly and then hurried to a waiting automobile and soon were speeding toward the Virginia hills where the president was playing.

Huerta's Message Elusive.
In the meantime the White House had telephoned to the golf club, a secret service man ran out to the ninth hole and communicated a message. The president abandoned the links and got into his big motor car. On the way toward Washington he met Secretary Bryan and Mr. Tammity and the party sped back to the White House. Officials of the state department meanwhile had described Huerta's message as "elusive." Though the text of the message in answer was not made public, other officials declared the Huerta attitude as "very obstinate" and insisting on a simultaneous salute. Naval officers said there was no such thing as a "simultaneous salute." Apologies were given in intervals of ten seconds, after which the jury offered returns the salute.

That President Huerta merely "had suggested" and "inquired" also was revealed and officials found they had interpreted his previous "inquiries" and "suggestions" as promises. When the president reached the White House, Postmaster General Burleson as waiting Acting Chairman Shively of the Senate foreign relations committee arrived a few minutes later. They studied the Huerta message only a few minutes and were unanimously agreed on a reply, which was drafted and dispatched to Charge O'Shaughnessy. It was couched in strong language and its tenor was indicated by the public statement issued from the White House saying that unless Huerta "has yielded by 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon" the president would lay the situation before Congress.

Answer Not Expected Sunday.
Official business interrupted at the White House, callers being turned away with the statement that "grave business" was being considered. It was 2 o'clock before the ultimatum to Huerta had been put into cipher and dispatched. Officials estimated it would be delivered in Mexico City early tonight. Allowing time for its consideration by Huerta and his advisers, it was not believed any answer would be ready late at night at the earliest and could not reach here until sometime tomorrow. Meanwhile aides at the navy department went into secret conference completing plans for the movement of warships and airplanes.

American Admirals Posted.
Rear Admiral Victor Blue, acting secretary of the navy, forwarded to Rear Admiral Hanger on the flagship Arkansas at the head of the fleet speeding toward Mexico, the text of President Wilson's statement giving Huerta until 6 p. m. Sunday. It also was forwarded to Rear Admiral Fletcher at Vera Cruz, who will communicate it to Rear Admiral Mayo at Tampico. Rear Admiral Howard, commanding the squadron on the Pacific side, also was notified. The fourth marine regiment on the Pacific coast was ordered southward. The armored cruiser South Dakota with 250 marines was dispatched from Bremerton, Wash., to Mare Island where the remaining 600 marines will be divided with the Jupiter. Then the two boats will steam to San Diego.

The two powerful new dreadnaughts, Texas and New York at New York, though not under orders are ready to start for Mexico on twelve hours notice. The Virginia, Georgia, Nebraska and Rhode Island, now at Boston, will be ready by the end of the month. The transport Hancock has arrived at Tampico with six marines and the cruisers Des Moines and San Francisco, the gunboat Dolphin the scout cruiser Chester, the transport Buffalo and the collier Cyclops, already are there. At Vera Cruz, Rear Admiral Fletcher has the battleships Florida and Utah and the transport Prairie with a large complement of marines. The battleships under Rear Admiral Bagley, today were reported off Key West, Florida, and are to arrive Tuesday.

Force at Tampico Sufficient.
On orders from Washington they could reach Tampico by Monday. It was generally agreed, however, that the force now at Tampico and Vera Cruz is sufficient to carry out any plan of attack. President Wilson may direct, should aggressive steps be necessary before the president can get congressional action there is no question in the president's mind of the right of the executive branch of the government to act.

Has Backing of Congress.
Republican and Democratic leaders say any action in an emergency would be promptly backed up by Congress. Various steps not considered under international law as constituting a declaration of war, have been discussed. Any of these, of course, may be construed by Huerta as a cause for war and change the status of affairs, but precedent shows many a case in which a peaceful blockade, cutting off one nation from commercial intercourse with another or the seizure of customs house and duties without involving either nation in war. The peaceful blockade has not been left on by President Wilson as a very effective measure because precedents have not determined definitely whether a nation has the right to cut off the offending party from all commerce. It is admitted the United States could shut off Mexico from all commerce with the United States but whether foreign vessels also could be prevented from engaging in commerce with Mexico without a declaration of war is a disputed point. It is apparent the president has in mind other forms of "reprisal," a term in international law defined as "a means of putting stress on a wrong doing state by something short of war." Landing of troops and even the bombardment of the town have been held as measures "short of war." In 1895 the British fleet sent a force ashore at Corinto, Nicaragua, seized a custom house and held it for fifteen days until indemnity was agreed upon for judgment to a British vice consul.

Probable Course of Action.
All officials were agreed that if Huerta did not yield Tampico and Vera Cruz probably would be occupied until reparations was made in form of a salute, as demanded by Rear Admiral Mayo on April 8. The demand at that time called for a hoisting of an American flag on shore, but Rear Admiral Mayo has notified the Mexican commander that he would not insist on that point as long as the salute was fired to an American flag flying from the mast of the Dolphin. It is believed the purpose of this is not to provoke any unnecessary demonstration against foreigners at Tampico. Dire predictions as to what will happen were numerous, some officials high in the councils of the administration, who believed Huerta would not yield, but would force the United States to land marines or occupy coast towns.

With the act of American aggression completed, these officials believe Huerta will attempt to appeal to the patriotism of all factions in Mexico to repel the invaders. Some forecast in such a movement an embarrassing situation for the conditions which they might produce dissension and a possible disintegration of the rebel forces, are showing their anxiety about the situation. All settled down to wait for Huerta's message with resolute calm.

Bryan and Wilson at Wedding.
Both President Wilson and Secretary Bryan attended the wedding late today of Chairman Flood of the House foreign affairs committee and Miss Anna V. Cortner of Appomattox, Va. Secretary Daniels in Cleveland, Ohio, arranged to return there tomorrow and while the president is at White Sulphur Springs, Secretary Bryan will keep him constantly informed of developments. Mr. Bryan has had to defer again his trip to Florida and he has talked heavily and still showed the effects of his stroke of grip he was kept busy every minute of the day. Among his callers were Ambassador Spring Rice of Great Britain; other ministers, dropped in, too, and it is understood they were informed of latest developments.

TWO HOLD-UPS WERE REPORTED LAST NIGHT

Young Men Inveigle Victims Into Alley and Overpower Them and Take Money

—H. M. Reeves, a painter by trade, made his appearance at the police station shortly before 12 o'clock last night and reported that he had been held up and robbed of $15.50 in money, a new $25 razorhead brush set, chain and some new paint brushes and paint supplies, he had purchased and was intending to take back home with him.

The robbery took place in the alley, at the back of the Exchange Livery barn that faces on Ohio avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets and four men took part in it. Reeves, a black and white man, was overpowered and his right hand by the blow, but the others overpowered him and relieving him of his property made their getaway.

BIG NEW YORK SUCCESS COMES TO WICHITA MONDAY

Why "The Girl and the Stampede" is a success. Because it is a strictly up-to-date western comedy. Picturing the Westerner as he really is, big-hearted, broad-minded, humorous and full of life and ambition. "The Girl and the Stampede" contains a bright dialogue, genuine humor, a pretty love story and a chorus of characters which are the most laughable creatures ever seen on the stage. There is an intensity about the action which holds the audience throughout the evening. Cal Blair, the cowboy, whose forcible nature makes a marked contrast between that of Ross Crabtree, the young and pretty university girl, fresh from the East with the college yell still in her Squire, Justice of the Peace that deals out the law according to the statutes, Henry Oleson, the Swede girl, with her peculiarities. The English dude with his eccentricities, together with Mike Flynn, the old timer, all character studies, bubbling over with humor that lightens up the dark side of our nature and leaves us in a state of happiness and good will. This is why "The Girl and the Stampede," as a comedy drama is a success.

TRIBUTES in MAKING KINGS

IN THE long roll of England's kings, running back into the remote mists of legendary lore which enshroud the early rulers the record of the coronations stands out with peculiar distinctness. A coronation, it would seem, is a function that impresses itself upon a man's mind. It is something that is not forgotten. Even the ancient chroniclers who romanced upon so many subjects, were inclined to stick to the sober truth when it came to describing the events that attended the coronation of kings.

For that is what the coronation has always meant in Christian lands. A temporal ceremony it undoubtedly is. Some of the elements in it are essentially earthly, involving the pledging of homage, the granting of fealty. But overshadowing all these is the vast, subtle influence of the spiritual significance which attends the king's assumption of a bauble crown, a bauble pail in outward shape, because it is symbolical of so many other things that are not to be understood in so many words.

Perhaps it will not be amiss to cast an eye backward over England's history and review some of the coronations of the past. It seems strange to find that Alfred the Great, who rivaled Charlemagne in the traditions of the splendor of his reign, should never have been crowned as people understand the word today. He began to reign over Wessex in 871, but by 886 he had gained sway over most of the present land of England, exclusive of Scotland and Wales. When he attained to this magnificence he was formally elected king of England by the soldiers of his army, who clashed their swords on their shields and shouted his name. That was how Alfred was crowned.

Elevated King on their Shields.

Edward the elder's coronation in 927 was much the same. It took place on Whitsunday at Kingston-on-Thames and his soldiers followed the good old Teutonic custom of elevating him on their shields. Edward the Martyr, however, was officially anointed and crowned at St. Dunstan at the same spot in 978, which shows that already the enthronement of a king had taken on a particular religious significance in the eyes of the Saxons, who were the Englishmen of that day. No more would the votes of wild warriors, the clamor of sword on buckler, and elevation upon a platform of shields to the accompaniment of shouts of savage approval constitute the consecration of an English king.

Harold, last of strictly English kings of Saxon stock, was crowned by Alfred, archbishop of York, in Westminster abbey on January 6, 1066. Perhaps of all England's coronations none was ever more dramatic than that. Here at heart over, the breaking of his forced oath to Duke William of Normandy, terribly worried by the threatened double invasion of his realm, torn this way and that, conscious that he was surrounded by Norman spies, he occupied a situation which one can readily appreciate. Looking down the misty vista of the crowded nave—much the same then, more than eight centuries ago, as it is today—streaked with the winter sunlight falling through the high windows, perhaps he saw across the intervening months to the glory he should win at Stamford bridge, and beyond that the threatened shadow of Senlac field. Visions of Harold Hadrada, the sea king of the north, of the traitorous Earl Tostig, of the stout house carles of the Saxon thanes, of the long lines of armored Norman men-at-arms, and archers that came up the Senlac the day of that last great fight—all these throng through the echoing aisles of Westminster, hovering over the tombs of soldiers and statesmen of the past. They are part of the heritage of that Saxon England bequeathed to the generations that followed her, part of the memories of Harold, the son of Godwin, whose eye was pierced by a Norman arrow just before the shield wall broke and Saxon England passed.

Slaughtered People Who Cheered.

On Christmas day of that same year, or less than 12 months later, another coronation was held in Westminster abbey, when Aldred of York, he who had placed the crown on Harold's fallen head, did like office for the conqueror. A saturnine memory that coronation. Outside, in the streets of the little village that clustered about the gray walls of the minister, the people were gathered according to the old English custom to shout their acclaim of their new master. But the Norman soldier on guard about the fence took the shouts to mean a threat that an attack was imminent, and that swept down upon the village and massacred all the inhabitants. So that Duke William began his new reign with slaughter and oppression that formed a terrible climax to the tragedy at Senlac.

So one comes down to the comparatively civilized crowning of Henry VIII, and his consort, Catherine of Aragon, by William Warham, archbishop of Canterbury, on St. John the Baptist's day, being also a Sunday and midsummer day of 1509. And after that came the only crowned queen regnant of England, the beautiful and ill-fated Lady Jane Grey, who signed her accession proclamation on July 9, 1553, and before the month was out was a prisoner, held fast in "Bloody Mary's" grip. Ten days was the length of her reign, one of the saddest interludes in English history.

Mary, first of that name, was formally crowned in Westminster abbey on Sunday, October 1, by the cardinal bishop of Winchester. That coronation was big with coming events, protestantism hung in the balance, the future of the nation, the happiness of the people. Elizabeth followed Mary, being crowned on January 15, 1559, and if possible the occasion was yet more portentous than any that had preceded it. It determined the fate of England. It marked the beginning of the English renaissance, of the budding of new thought and feeling, of the growth of the nation's overseas traffic, and of the inception of that series of bitter shrewd blows at the sea power of Spain that ultimately gave England the right to claim the supremacy of the ocean.

When John Whitgift, archbishop of Canterbury, placed the crown on the head of James I. and his consort, Anne of Denmark, on July 25, 1603, in the same historic abbey, it marked another stage in the development of great Britain. For England had ceased to be England now. She was Great Britain and Ireland, just as later she was to become Great Britain and Ireland and the empire of India, and the dependencies over seas. James I. wore a crown heavier than any of his predecessors had worn.

It is interesting to note that Henrietta Maria, consort of Charles I., refused to be crowned with him, because, being a Catholic, she did not wish to be consecrated in a ceremony of the Protestant church. One wonders if Charles, as he sat on the "stone of anvil," "the stone of destiny," on Candlemas day, 1626, was able to visualize the scene in Westminster hall, June 26, 1657, when Alver Cromwell sat on that same seat and heard himself proclaimed lord protector with ceremonies almost equal in splendor to those of a coronation.

And so the tale goes on, down through Anne, last of the Stuart sovereigns, William and Mary, who were crowned together, the Georges and the "sailor king," bluff William IV, into the new era that began when Victoria came to the throne and her slim, girlish figure buttressed by the stern features of Peel, Wellington and all the other notables who guarded her youth, stood gracefully erect in that spot above the crossing of the nave and transept, where the rulers of England take their place, so that all may see them assume their dignity and the responsibilities it entails.

General Sherman on War.

"I confess, without shame, that I am tired and sick of war. Its glory is all moonshining. Even success the most brilliant is over dead and mangled bodies; the anguish and lamentations of distant families appealing to me for missing sons, husbands and fathers. It is only those who have not heard a shot nor heard the shrieks and groans of the wounded and lacerated that cry aloud for more blood, more vengeance, more desolation."—General Sherman.

NEW PUMPS ABOUT READY AT THE WATER PLANT

The new pumps which have been installed at the water plant are about ready to begin operations, and will probably be put to work early this week. For the past several months a force of men has been at work erecting the building and installing the new machinery, which is expected to put the plant here on a footing ample to care for the city's needs for many years to come. The new machinery will more than treble the present capacity of the plant, and, with the extensions of the water mains and underground plant, brings the equipment of the company up to a high standard.

"General" Coxey seems to be having an awful hard time recruiting his army for his march on Washington. At Canton, Ohio, the other day after having worked the jails, saloons and joints thoroughly, he succeeded in getting together fifteen "bums." But this seemingly has not discouraged the old man. He is determined to carry out his first intention—that of marching to Washington.

Huerta will salute the flag before 6 p. m. Sunday, or in the event he does not, President Wilson will appear before Congress on Monday and ask authority to take such action as is necessary. That is the way a press dispatch from Washington reads, and it has the proper ring to it. Our prediction is that the flag will be saluted.

We have noticed that there is always a rain at the breaking up of every dry spell and hence we know it is going to rain in the Abilene country. We have noticed another thing that is that strong south winds sometimes bring big rains and if there is anything in that sign the rain is close at hand for the wind is now with us. Another good sign in this country is that it always rains when we have waited as long as we can. That is getting about true now, so we take it that it is going to rain soon.—Abilene Reporter.

The Times acknowledges receipt of the first copy of the Bonham Morning Chronicle, and notes that Ashley Evans, former editor of the Bonham News, is the editor of the Chronicle, which by the way, is a bright newspaper. But this is the second daily paper for Bonham, the "write being the other, and it looks as if the Bonham field was being overworked. Where there is hardly room or patronage to sustain one real good newspaper there is little business in starting a second. It only means that the patronage that naturally would be bestowed upon the one, will be divided, and the result is in nearly all such cases that both are going to have a hard time to make ends meet until one or the other quits the game. At least, that is our experience. One good paper, well patronized, can do more for a live, wide-awake hustling town or city than two or more that have that half starved-to-death appearance.

Like the king of France, the constructive democrats who met at Fort Worth to confer as to where the present lineup in gubernatorial campaign left them, "marched up the hill and then marched down again." As the situation clarifies, it is easily apparent that the contest for the nomination will be a clean cut one between the choice of the pro-eliminators and the Bell county farmer and banker. The campaign gives every indication of being a strenuous one. More than three months must elapse before the primaries are held. This will afford ample time for voters to make intelligent appraisal of the merits of the candidates and of the issues which they support. In the meantime, they should not overlook the importance of wisely determining their choice for representatives in the Thirty-fourth legislature. The policies of the State whether good or bad, rest very largely with the legislature, and only fit men should be elected to that body.—Houston Post.

blined. The people should think about this matter, until they learn to cease sending men to the legislature to make our laws who are inexperienced in such matters they can't expect conditions to improve over what they are now.

THEORY VS. PRACTICE

Dear Editor: A few years ago I copied the following poem from a northern paper and I think your readers might profit by reading it at this time since there is so much talk of trouble with Mexico. The poem was written by J. E. Nash.

John H. Stokes, Wichita Falls, April 16, 1914. Long years ago, when a little boy, I was taught in a Sabbath school to sing and pray in the good old way. And practice the golden rule. That God was Father of all mankind. At home and across the sea; That we were brothers to all the others. Wherever they chanced to be.

That God commanded—thou shalt not kill. Or steal—and approved the plan. That a man be hung, be he old or young. Who murdered a fellow man. But I was taken from Sabbath school Along with a host of others. Was armed and sent by the government To murder our southern brothers.

The southern brothers, likewise taught. By equally pious mothers. Instead of running, were all out gunning. And hunting their Yankee brothers. Both sides had cannons, guns, bullets, shells. For tearing men's bodies in twain; And surgeons, yearning to prove their learning. By patching them up again.

Both sides sent chaplains in Jesus' name. Imploping us not to rebel. And both served whiskey to make boys frisky. And fit them to raise the devil. These chaplains prayed to the self-same God. That he would the missiles guide. To kill the others, his sons, their brothers. Who stood on the other side.

A host went out and a few returned. Some crippled, some strutting about. With stories of twirling of whistles and killing. You think they were hanged, no doubt. Well, Grant, the chief, was made president. The rest, it is understood, are drawing pensions for good intentions. And killing the most they could.

But useful workmen are driven like slaves. And docked if they're late or shirk. Till more is made than required for trade. Then clubbed if they bes for work. Kicked out to starve, if they steal a cent. They're jailed for a crook or tough. But the thrifty gent is to congress sent. Provided he steals enough.

We claim to worship the Prince of Peace. But trust in the sword and gun; We pay men pensions for wholesale murder. But hang them for killing one. So we conclude it's a crime to kill. One brother, or steal a cent; But kill half a million, or steal a whole billion. You're boss of the Government.

TEXAS WAY BEST

There are some good people not yet recognized for this guarantee of law. Nevertheless the merit of the statute is proven. Contrast the two quotations below.

The Wichita Falls Daily Times says: A few days ago there was a bank failure at Amarillo. It was a State guarantee bank, however, and the depositors will not lose one cent. The State guaranty fund has in it $961,000 and the closing of the Amarillo bank will take from it the sum of $85,000 with which to pay the protected depositors. The more we see of this law the better we like it. Every depositor who trusts his hard-earned money to a bank should be protected to the limit, and that is what has been done in every instance where a bank operating under this law has failed or closed its doors.

And the El Paso Times says: According to a statement made by Receiver Arnold, depositors of the defunct Arizona Bank and Trust Company of Douglas will receive 75 per cent when its affairs are finally wound up. The first dividend of 50 per cent will be paid on May 4, it is said.

Not only do the Amarillo depositors get paid in full, but they do not have to wait indefinitely for payment. The Douglas depositors may get 75 per cent of their due; they won't get any of it real soon. The Texas plan is just and will make for stability.—Dallas Evening Journal.

Colquitt will not hesitate to call out the Texas National Guard to protect Texas citizens if the Mexican situation on the border should justify such a course in view of the present crisis. The governor had reference to the 25,000 Mexican refugees now in Texas, soldiers of each side in the revolution. It was pointed out that these refugees have their arms and in case of trouble between this government and Mexico some of them might be a menace. In discussing the Mexican situation, the governor said Huerta was not in an attitude to demand anything from the United States and was pleased to know President Wilson had declined to accede to Huerta's request for a simultaneously returning salute.

WALTERS ON STAND IN OWN DEFENCE

ALLEGED KIDNAPPER OF ROBT. DUNBAR BREAKS DOWN ON STAND

TELLS STORY OF HIS LIFE

Says Child Was Given to Him by Its Mother Julia Anderson in November, 1911

By Associated Press. Opelousas, La., April 18.—The defense in the trial of W. C. Walters, the alleged kidnapper of Robert Dunbar, the five year old child near here in August, 1912, sprung a surprise today when Walters was suddenly called to the stand to testify in his own behalf. Walters had scarcely started the story of how he came into possession of the boy who he says he is Bruce Anderson, and claimed by Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Dunbar as their lost son, and by Julia Anderson of North Carolina, as her illegitimate offspring, when he broke down. Tears streamed down his rough cheeks and it was several minutes before he was able to resume. The state closed its case at the morning session after Dr. F. C. Shutte, the Dunbar family physician, had described scars and marks on Robert Dunbar's body left by burns and injuries.

Boy Examined by Jurors.
The child was brought to the court room and each juror allowed to inspect the marks which had formed some of the principal points of identification of the child by Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar as their son. Sheriff Lott of Columbia, Miss., where Walters was arrested, was the first witness for the defense. He testified he was present when Mr. Dunbar first saw the boy taken from Walters at Columbia. He said the child apparently did not recognize Dunbar. Stanley Hatmore, sheriff of Marion county, told of the failure of Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar to identify the boy the day after it was taken from Walters. After relating a brief story of his early life, Walters was asked if he could identify the boy now held by Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar who was brought into the court room.

Tells of Wanderings.
"That's my boy, or rather Julia Anderson's boy, Bruce Anderson," he said. He said the child was given to him by the Anderson woman in November, 1911. He then told of his wanderings through Georgia and Florida, the boy traveling with him in a wagon. The witness then traced his movements to Poplarville, Miss., where he said he arrived on August 1, 1912, two weeks before the Dunbar boy disappeared. At McNeil, Miss., Walters signed for an express package. He identified his signature in an express receipt book. "Court then took a recess and ordered a night session. Walters resumed his story at the night session of court. He testified as to his whereabouts from August 7 to 22, showing he was in Pearl River county, Mississippi, August 23, the day Robert Dunbar disappeared. Walters said he spent at the home of Sherrod Thigman in that county. Walters denied he was ever in Opelousas until brought here as a prisoner. He said the boy in his possession had been taken for Robert Dunbar on several occasions prior to his arrest in Columbia in April, 1913. His story was little shaken by a grueling cross examination. Walters probably will be called again.

OPPOSITION TO COLOMBIAN TREATY

PUBLICATION OF PURPORTED TEXT OF TREATY BRINGS MUCH CRITICISM

STRATEGIC MOVE BY SIMS

He Proposes to Introduce Correspondence from Great Britain Protesting Free Tolls

By Associated Press. Washington, April 18.—There were indications today that the treaty between Colombia and the United States for adjustment of the issues growing out of the separation of Panama from Colombia would encounter opposition in the United States Senate. Publication today of what purported to be the text of the treaty brought much criticism. Secretary Bryan would not discuss the published text until the original copies arrived from Bogota about May 1. It then will be sent to the Senate for ratification.

Senator Perkins of California, today voiced vigorous criticism, expressing the belief the Senate never would ratify it. "I do not believe," he said, "that the Senate ever will agree to ratify this treaty, which makes the United States apologize to Colombia and provides for payment of $25,000,000 and for free passage of Colombian war vessels through the canal. Colombia should apologize to the United States and to pay $25,000,000 in just that amount too much."

Senator Sims of North Carolina, maintained that the treaty's main provisions were substantially the same as contained in the treaty negotiated with Colombia by Secretary Root while Secretary of State. Mr. Sims sought to introduce the report of the Panama canal committee, which was about to be published, to the Senate. He said that introduction of parts of the correspondence was not wise and it was withdrawn after a conference with Secretary Bryan. The correspondence disclosed that Great Britain was about to protest against exemption of Colombian warships as in controversy of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty granting equal treatment to ships of all nations.

After a considerable exchange of notes Great Britain announced she would forgo making a protest.

Secretary of State Root in a letter contained in the correspondence said the right of the United States to grant such exemption upon the entirely special and exceptional position of Colombia towards the canal and title thereto.

CHAS. J. BONAPARTE DEFENDS CANAL TOLL EXEMPTION.

By Associated Press. Washington, April 18.—In defense of the Panama tolls exemption, former Attorney General Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore, told the Senate canal committee that advocates of the toll could not escape from the position that the United States, in case of war, was bound to permit its enemy to use the canal. He said: "If we were at war with Japan, our position at the isthmus would be mere idle spectators of the peaceful passage of the Japanese fleet to attack New Orleans or New York."

FOR AND AGAINST BEARDS

Public Opinion Always Has Been Sharply Divided on Subject of Face Covering

We need not go so far back as the eighteenth century to find Englishmen who held that shaving was "agen God and nature." In the nineteenth century, James Ward, R. A. in a "Defense of the Beard," set forth eighteen reasons for retaining it, mainly Scriptural, reinforced by artistic considerations. "What would a Jupiter be without a beard? Who would countenance the idea of a shaved Christ?" As late as 1860 Theologos published a treatise entitled, "Shaving: a Breach of the Sabbath and a Hindrance to the Spread of the Gospel." One of his points was that Providence had manifested designed the beard as a protection for the throat and chest. But what about the woman's throat?

Nowhere was there more prejudice centuries ago against beards than at the Inns of court. The "black books" of the Inns tell us how offenders were fined for wearing beards, and sometimes were even compulsorily shaved by order of court. And the prejudice against the bearded barrister still lingers. Vice-Chancellor Bacon carried his dislike to bearded or mustached barristers so far that he always refused to hear them. Even now there are very few leading counsel with beards, and I can remember only one unshaved barrister of the greatest eminence, the late Judah Philip Benjamin, Q. C.—silver-tongued Benjamin, who wore a moustache and a goatee.—London Chronicle.

CHANGE MADE BY CENTURIES

Interesting Comparison Between Present Day and Time of Completion of Domesday Book.

The famous Domesday book of William the Conqueror, which he ordered when he had conquered England, was not only an inventory of the estates, but a very careful valuation. This ancient survey was strikingly like the valuations of today, the differences arising out of the different industrial conditions to be met. It included a count of acres, classified as wood, pasture, and meadow land; of mills, fish ponds, and fisheries; of plows, hides, cattle and slaves.

The land was valued as at the time of Edward, again as when granted by the conqueror, and again as at the time of the survey. But if we set ourselves in fancy to that early task, we see at once how the industrial conditions to be dealt with at that time simplified the domesday valuation by very little more than an enumeration. Acres differed little, except in their power to yield crops; the social increment of value was almost negligible.

Today we have vast aggregates of property brought together and devoted as a whole to single uses. Except as an aggregate and for the particular use which the property as a whole serves, the several parts have relative little value.—Engineer Magazine.

Last Stand of the Simple Life.

The south for years was rich hunting ground for the lover of the picturesque, but changes both numerous and rapid have occurred there in recent years. The old negro types of the cotton fields are no more. The log cabins, the pine groves, even the stately plantation mansions, recalling the flowery days "befo' de wah," are passing away. Fortunately for those who enjoy seeing life as it is lived where there is a real attachment to the soil, the French section of Canada is left us. Here along the lower St. Lawrence river one may find conditions exactly as they were a century ago. Here the "one-hoss shay," the pride of colonial days, is making its last stand. In the fields women may be seen cutting grain with sickles then which there is no implement more primitive. The people of the hamlets live and work as did their grandparents. Picture to yourself a place where spinning is still an everyday task! I have sat in these simple homes, watching deft fingers at the spinning wheels and listening to their whirring sound that is like the hum of bees.

Bird Made its Trap by Eating.

A hard bun, combined with a hearty appetite, made a trap that caught an English sparrow not long ago in Washington. The sparrow found the bun on the White House grounds and liked it so well that it ate its way in one side and out of the other. By the time it had eaten halfway through the bun, the bird had swelled up so much that it could not back out and evidently concluded that the only thing to do was to eat its way out the other side. The sparrow had succeeded in gorging itself enough to get its head out when a park policeman found it. But its appetite was not gone. When the bun was broken open, it fluttered about for a moment and then flew away to join its friends in a feast of peanut crumbs stolen from the squirrels.—Popular Mechanics.

High Price for Ginseng.

Ginseng, never seriously considered as a medicine in this country, is bringing fabulous prices in China, as it is announced the root has brought as high as $140 in gold a pound. Last year one lot of especially selected ginseng root sold at auction for $37,16 gold a pound. It came from Korea, where it was found growing wild.

The Ballad Of Burnett's Band

Editor's Note—Collins, oil field engineer, soldier of fortune, and one whose genius it would appear better fits him for another station in life, is a boarder at Bett's hotel in Burkburnett. One day recently when he wanted to sleep or play a game of chess members of the town band began their practice. In as good humor as a man could be under the circumstances Collins wrote the following:

Invocation.
Ye nine fair muses a scribbler uses,
Sure don't refuse us but lend a hand,
For in the story I'll tell the glory.
(This powerful gory) of one small band,
If I was Homer instead of one small roamer,
I wouldn't let Hector recount his slain;
Nor fill me pages with Trojan rages,
At old Achilles on Ilion's Plain.
I wouldn't be telling about the feline,
Who skipped with Helen, an' went to Troy;
An' how—bodad, he got in bad
With the Ancient Order of Hoi Polloi.
Shure, I'd graze Pegasus on Texas grasses;
An' praise the lasses of this broad land;
An' warm-me lyro in Promethean pie,
To sing

The Ballad of Burnett's Band
"Come play one game of chess with me," I said to Bets one day—
"Not on your life, not on your life, the band is here to play!"
Then like a con he twisted the dramatick 'round his thumb
And drove a solar plexus to the navel of the drum.

Oh, never such a noise was borne unto a punctured ear,
Oh, never such a hole was torn in our old atmosphere!
The band stood by with bulging eye and children held their breaths;
We phoned to Staley's store for chloroform for Bets.

The leader calls "Petite Affaire pour Solo Saxophone"—
And now we rear and pull our hair, and gnash our teeth, and groan;
The leader sez: "Thim froggy words to me poor tongue are troublein';
For can't you see that gay Patee is not me home, but Dublin!"

The player took the saxophone and blew with might and main,
Till from his throat there came no note below a hurricane;
He blew the leader's whiskers off, but then his windpipe gave;
The leader swore and said: "Asthore, we'll call that tune a shave!"

Oh, never bird or beast was heard blow such a fearsome tune,
Except a Dodo, dinosaur, or anguished mastodon;
Oh, never saw I met such a gale, like in that music room;
Oh, louder more than thunder's roar before the crack o' doom.
And with no drum to rum-tum-tum, while guests fought at the door,
(Exit not-entrance side), the band played o'er and o'er—
The only tune the band could play, "The Feline on the Shed"
Soon at the door a score or more of frantic men lay dead.

O such a night and such a sight were never seen before—
For twenty men had died in sin upon that hallway floor;
Ten toolies lay in disarray; ten drillers in their pride;
The coroner said (he was in bed): "Orchestral Suicide!"

The leader raves, "Bad Cess, Ye Knaves," then heaved a windy sigh;
With Shierer look he asked the cook if Burkburnett was dry.
He drank the drops of chloroform and cried: "Ten thousand deaths,
Were perfect fliss compared to this," then went to sleep with Bets.

O nevermore will tuba-pour such a way-down-cellar notes;
Till Armours sty begins to fly and honest men get votes;
Oh never band from any stand in Ireland, France or Spain,
Can blow a tune on its bassoon like Burnett's mad refrain.

And when the gory band had gone, I stumbled down the stairs,
And saw the ghost of Collins sitting in an empty chair;
"Oh, master, how'd you like our band?" I asked in accents hoarse;
It showed surprise but growled: "For noise it beats my Cannon chorus."

The kindly smile of friendly gull; no eye of tolerant glance,
Now greet the few that creep to view, to syncope the dance.
Unhappy few, a ghostly crew now close behind you tread;
Yea, twenty 'spoons now haunt, sadzooks! the band that woke the dead.

And late at night when all was quiet and guests returned to sleep
They met our ancient Patrick standing guard in shadow deep;
Who curled a fin around his chin, and whispered, hissing: "Back sirs,
For Heaven's sake don't ye awake them two. Sure they're bad actors."

'Tis said by some that on the drum the band has sworn that I,
Poor singer in an alien land and wanderer must die;
Forgiving ye, forgive ye—this prays the ballad maker,
P. B. Ye've made one friend in trade—sure that's the undertaker.

WHY WE WENT INTO THE COFFEE ROASTING BUSINESS

We have been playing the game for twenty-five years and always paid particular attention to coffee. Always had a great deal of trouble in getting blends to suit us and for years before we commenced to roast bought our different coffees roasted separately and blended them ourselves, and always enjoyed a splendid coffee business, but coffees don't blend perfectly except in the roaster where the different flavors can combine harmoniously. Years ago we bought a hand power roaster and experimented on a small scale but our business soon outgrew this and we had to go back to the Roaster. In 1909 we built a small building at the rear of our store and rigged up the hand roaster with a motor and commenced to roast our coffee but did not let the public know we were doing so as we wished an unbiased verdict. Inside of ninety days our business had quadrupled and become too big to handle with our little plant so we ordered our coffee roasted again and went East to purchase a plant large enough to handle our increasing business. We bought the very best and up-to-date machinery obtainable and came back unafraid to ADVERTISE THE FACT THAT WE ROAST OUR OWN COFFEES, and since that time our business has increased faster than we dreamed. So we know we are right. If you are using our FRESH ROASTED COFFEES there's nothing to say. If not, would be pleased to show you the difference. 608-610 Ohio Ave. O. W. Give Your Youngsters More Peanut Butter

Some physicians say that it isn't good policy to give children very much meat and we guess they are about right.

Meat is a heavy food even for grown people. Yet the youngsters must have strength giving food for the immense amount of energy they have stored up in their little bodies.

Peanut butter is better than meat and pleases them a whole lot better. You can feed them as much as they will eat. It won't hurt them and it is very nourishing.

TANGO CLASSES WILL BE HELD AT WESTLAND

The society people, both old and young, for no one so authorities say is too old to dance the new dances. Will welcome the advent of Mrs. E. W. Reeves at the Westland who teaches the tango steps, the hesitation and the one step. Mrs. Reeves comes here from the Rice Hotel in Houston, where she has conducted dancing classes all during the winter. She has been in charge of the Tea Dancers at the Rice and has taught dancing classes in a number of the best hotels of the county. She will have morning, afternoon and evening classes and will be here for ten days or so. From all indications it will not be long until the Terpsichorean devotees of this city will be expert in all of the new steps.

J. J. SANDERS WEDS IN AMARILLO TUESDAY

The Amarillo Daily News of Thursday contains the notice of the marriage of J. J. Sanders of Wichita Falls and Miss Elizabeth Whyman of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders will make their home at 2115 Ninth street. The clipping from the News is as follows: A wedding that comes somewhat as a surprise to the friends of the contracting parties was that of J. J. Sanders, formerly of Amarillo but now living at Wichita Falls to Miss Elizabeth Whyman of this city, the event taking place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Vernor, 901 Van Buren street, where Miss Whyman has been a guest for the past three weeks. Only Mr. and Mrs. Vernor were present to witness the impressive ceremony performed by Rev. R. Thompson, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church. Miss Whyman wore a beautiful traveling suit of king's blue which brought out the graceful lines of the bride's youthful figure. At an early hour Wednesday morning Mr. and Mrs. Sanders left for Wichita Falls, where they will make their future home. The honeymoon trip will be taken later on in the summer when Mr. Sanders's business will make it more convenient to take a vacation than at the present time. Miss Whyman was one of the prettiest and most charming of Amarillo's social set and her sweet disposition has made it impossible to part with her with ease. Her father and three brothers are living near El Paso, but were unable to be present on account of the marriage taking place at an earlier date than was at first planned. Mr. Sanders who was formerly manager of the Amarillo branch office of the National Biscuit Co., moved sometime ago to Wichita Falls to serve in a larger capacity. Both are well known in and around Amarillo and are held in the very highest esteem.

FROM THE CIVIC LEAGUE'S POINT OF VIEW

The time of year has arrived when the greatest precautions should be taken to prevent the visitation of diseases and it is with this end in view that the clean-up work that is now being pushed by the Civic League was prompted. A few preventive measures are worth all the remedies that can be prescribed, so it is necessary that every person in this city should do his or her duty in this clean-up work and do it now. A suggestion as to ways and means of getting rid of rodents or rats, mention of which was made in yesterday's paper, would be to clean up and dispose of all waste matter and accumulations of rubbish, which has a tendency to attract rats and mice. Now let every merchant do his part towards ridding the town of this pest.

At the meeting for men and boys at 3:30 p. m., Sunday Dr. Williams will deliver a special address, subject, "Mighty Men for Modern Movements." Every citizen should avail himself of this opportunity to hear a message which will inspire and do him good. The committee for selection of pastor will be ready to report at the conclusion of the 11 o'clock service. This is an hour around which clusters deepest interest. The unanimous expression from many members indicate the rejoicing which will follow the election of a pastor. The evening services at 7:45. First M. E. Church, South.
 Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. by the pastor. The Epworth League meets at 7 p. m. It is not my practice to announce my subjects nor to publish anything else except a simple statement of our services, but at the last meeting of our official board the brethren requested that I preach a series of sermons on the distinctive doctrine of our church and that I so announce it in the papers. The first of this series will be preached at 11 o'clock today. The public is cordially invited to attend. Everyone who is just a little acquainted with Methodist people knows that we are too board and liberal to subject any person to inconvenience who waits upon our ministry. We hold every Christian to be equal to every other and no sectarian. We prefer to live in our own house, but throw no rocks at the houses of other people. In attending upon this series of sermons no member of any other denomination need fear that he and his people will be called upon, as outside the church of Christ, such a course upon the part of a Methodist preacher would be foreign to the very genius of Methodism itself, which believes and declares its belief in the holy Catholic or general church of God. We simply propose to set forth why we are Methodists, just like a Republican or a Democrat would set forth why he belongs to his party, acknowledging that in both parties there are good and reliable citizens.
 J. W. HILL, Pastor.

Fourth Street Baptist Church.
 There will be the usual services at the Fourth Street Baptist Church, the pastor, preaching morning and evening. Sunday school at 9:45. Service Sunday at 3 p. m. B. Y. P. U. at 6:30. Sunday school and preaching.

 T. E. CANNEDY, Pastor.

Christian Church.
 Bible school at 9:30. W. J. Bullock, superintendent. Good teachers and classes for all ages. Our school is now averaging 350 which is a large number for our church membership, but every member of our church does not attend the Bible school. Nothing less than every member of the church in some department of the Bible school should be our aim. A large number have caught the Bible school vision. Why not open your eyes, my friends and seeing, help in this great work of the church? No man or woman is so big but the Bible school work will help them. Sunday morning sermon will be "The Athletic Christian." Evening the "Strong Man Gone Wrong," the last concerning the High Priest. Wednesday forenoon is the time set for our religious canvass of the city. We want fifty to do this work, twenty-five men and twenty-five women.

Robert Ferguson Gets Job as Engineer on Steamer Plying Between Frisco, New York and London

Word reached here Friday that Robert Ferguson, formerly an engineer on the Fort Worth & Denver running out of Wichita Falls, had been given a position as a marine engineer on the steamer Lord Channels plying between San Francisco, New York and London. In his new position Mr. Ferguson will receive a salary of $240 per month.

Mr. Ferguson after eight years as a locomotive fireman was promoted to engineer two years ago. On account of rheumatism he resigned in 1910. Last week he was notified of his appointment and will make his first trip out of San Francisco on the Lord Channels, April 19. He has many friends here who will be glad to learn of his promotion.

Get the Personal Touch

The greater part of our 1914 product has already been sold—and the year is young. And in our entire advertising campaign, not a word was said about the quality of the car.

We merely asked the public to get in it, drive it and judge its quality for themselves. Bombast and adjectives were absent. We rested our case wholly with the intelligence of the people. The result speaks for itself.

Advertising as a rule seeks to excite and overwhelm. It assumes that the public is utterly ignorant. It allows the reader no right to think, but raves and rants about superiority, perfection and infallibility. Two hundred makers of cars declare their cars the best. How ridiculous!

So-called advertising experts declared positively that our advertising campaign would prove a decided failure. They said that we should have done the people's thinking for them—that we should have described the car, printed the prices in black figures, filled the spaces with mechanical details and claimed the earth. Of course that's what most advertising does.

Yet no real sensible man buys an automobile without looking at it and riding in it. We figured that it was better to invite the people to look at our car in a rational way than to rush them down the row with tempestuous advertising. We figured that if we admitted the public's intelligence and common sense and asked the privilege of a personal demonstration, the car would sell itself—if it wasn't worthy, nothing would sell it.

To try to rush the sale of an automobile with breathless advertising is to arouse suspicion that you have something to conceal, and that you don't want the "prospects" to look too long or too closely. To ask prospects to come and look at the car, ride in it, drive it and do their own thinking, is to prove that you have something worth buying. You show your own confidence in its quality.

We believe that this is the only automobile concern in the world that has ever admitted publicly that the public has any sense. All other automobile advertising has flatly said: "What do you know about automobiles?" Read this and buy something else at your peril.

Yet the American and Canadian public has actually thanked us for our invitation to "Get the Personal Touch" and the Mitchell car has sold itself on its merits. This is the greatest tribute that has ever been paid to an automobile. The thousands of men and women who have bought our 1914 car, went to see it without previous knowledge of its style, appearance or construction. They rode in it, drove it themselves and tested it in their own way. Our salesmen didn't even ask—or expect—to ride with them.

The advertising gave them no information—not even the prices. There wasn't one solitary inducement or lure. There was absolutely nothing in the advertisements to excite admiration or curiosity. The chatter of salesmen was conspicuous by its absence.

The car did its own talking. It proved itself and it sold itself, and every person who bought it is going to enjoy the possession of it every hour he is in it. While we made no promises, no claims, and offered no guarantees of service, naturally these are pre-supposed when you buy from a concern that has the proud record of

Eighty years of faithful service to the American Public

NEW RULES IN POLICE DEPARTMENT

EACH MEMBER TO HAVE BEAT, DRINKING ON OR OFF DUTY IS FORBIDDEN

COURTESY IS A REQUISITE

Roughness in Making Arrests, Wherever Not Necessary is Strictly Prohibited

The organization of the police department, under the new administration, is being attended by several changes in rules and regulations, and apparently a new order of things has come into being. The new force began its duties today. Friday afternoon, shortly after the police had been elected by the council, they were lined up before City Marshal Nail, who outlined what he expected of them. Among the rules he laid down were: Absolutely no loafing in saloons, pool halls or other resorts. Each officer will have beats to patrol. Drinking off or on duty will be rigidly barred. The present force was selected with a view to having little trouble along this line.

Courtesy at all times will be required and this is to apply particularly to strangers making inquiries. The officers are directed to go to any reasonable length in assisting visitors.

All ordinances are to be enforced impartially, playing no favorites. Roughness is forbidden and when a prisoner becomes violent or obstreperous after arrested, the officer is to secure aid, if possible, rather than injure the party arrested; in such cases, of course, officers are to use their judgment and take no unnecessary chances.

The four new members of the force are all comparatively new to police work, though one or two have had some experience. Brice Walton, one of the new officers, has lived in this city for about twenty years, being over forty years of age; for some time past he has been in the employ of the Wichita Brick and Tile Company. John Ralls came to this city about two years ago from Amarillo, where he had served as a special officer for the Santa Fe. He is about forty-seven years old and has been working for the Wichita Mill and Elevator Company for some time past. Bob Lyons is one of the volunteer firemen, a cotton buyer by trade; he is about twenty-eight years old and has lived here for a number of years. George Gillam has been here about two years, being a former resident of Allendale. He has worked for a plumbing firm coming to this city. Gillam is twenty-five years old.

All of the new officers are husky fellows of a physique calculated to serve them well in the performance of their duties.

Following the election of the police Friday afternoon, Judge Edgar Ryce addressed the council, advocating the reorganization of the city ordinances, so that all it was not desired to enforce could be culled out. He also suggested that something be done to prevent officers accepting pleas of guilty from prisoners, as has been commonly done in the past.

"THIRD DEGREE" AT THE EMPRESS THEATRE MONDAY

"The Third Degree" will be shown here in motion pictures Monday at the Empress. This drama has had a wonderful success, having had an unprecedented run on the stage ever since it was brought out and now is attracting great attention in motion pictures. Through the filming of such masterpieces as this, the great advantage of motion pictures for thrills and fun of the people of this country may easily be seen, as for a nominal sum one may see the great "at" of the dramas and masterpieces of this kind, whereas before the price kept many away. Another advantage will also be for the residents of small towns, where it is next to impossible to procure the better attractions on account of the size. All of these difficulties are overcome by the motion picture camera. "The Third Degree" deals with a wealthy young man, who through his marriage with a girl beneath him in station has been cast off by his father. Through a chain of circumstances he is suspected of the murder of his chum and under the torture and severe ordeal of the third degree, of police fame, he confesses that he killed his friend. He is proven innocent by the interference of his faithful wife. The plot of the story is a very interesting one and the final outcome of the picture is pleasing. "The Third Degree" will be shown one day only, Monday at the Empress Theatre.

A Resident of Wichita Falls Shows the Way

There's one effective way to relieve kidney backache. Liniment and plasters may relieve it.

But they seldom reach the cause. Backache is cause to suspect the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for disordered kidneys.

Wichita Falls people back them up. Read a case of it.

Mr. W. M. Langford, 209 Lee St., Wichita Falls, Texas, says: "At Times my back was so painful that I could not sleep. I had pains in my sides and in the morning, I was more tired than when I went to bed. My kidneys were weak. Doan's Kidney Pills promptly relieved all the pains and strengthened my kidneys. Since then I have taken a box of Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally and they have kept my kidneys in good working order."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Langford had. Foster-McBurrn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

HEIRESS ELOPES WITH A MONTANA COWBOY.

The beautiful daughter of Louis Crabtree, one of the large cattle raisers of Wyoming, runs away and marries Cal Blair, a neighboring rancher. There is a pretty romance connected with the match. Miss Beas Crabtree, after graduating at Vassar, pays a visit to her father on the Crabtree ranch in Wyoming and incidentally met young Cal Blair. Beas, being a very popular girl, quite frequently went out riding unattended. It was while on one of these rides over the Wyoming plains that she one day found herself in the midst of a herd of stampeding cattle. Her horse fell and she would probably have been trampled, perhaps killed, but for the timely heroic action of Blair, who at the risk of his own life, dashed in among the madly charging beasts and carried Beas to a place of safety. Incidentally an enchantment sprang up between them which soon ripened into love. Mr. Crabtree was greatly opposed to the attentions of Blair and many stormy scenes followed which resulted in the only alternative left them, an elopement. This attraction will be at the Wichita Theatre Monday night.

The car twelve months ahead

From the Manchester, England, Dispatch:— It is only after mature reflection that one is able to grasp the importance of the enormous improvements embodied in the Cadillac chassis. We have been so long accustomed to believing and being told that the English car is indisputably ahead of any other construction in the world that it comes as something of a shock when we are faced with a car successfully embodying features which are as yet in the merely experimental stage in British car builders' workshops.

On the Cadillac car will be found an interesting example of a two-speed back axle, and we may here remark that the construction has been thoroughly tested and found serviceable and reliable, both in the United States and in Europe. There is no element of experiment about the work; it has proved itself. The pressing of a button throws the low or the high-gear on the axle into operation, as required, and that is all about it. They tell me that, as a test, the car was driven from London to Edinburgh with a full load without handling the gear-change lever at all. Pressing the button was all that was required.

Having admired the axle to our heart's content, we are at liberty to examine the many other features of the Cadillac chassis, which calls for close examination. There is the self-starter, which will start the engine a thousand times without a miss. There is the neat little mechanical tyre pump. This is one of the finest chassis, taking all things into consideration, that ever left the United States just as an ordinary proposition. All her improvements are practically thrown in. I should term her the push-the-button car. So far as ordinary practice is concerned, she is equal to any. Her unique improvements have placed her twelve months ahead.

ADVENTURES OF KATHLYN

Another picture in the Adventures of Kathlyn series will be shown at the New Majestic Monday night. A synopsis of the film follows:

With Kathlyn's revelation of herself as a slave, Prince Umballah, her purchaser, has her imprisoned in the dungeon of the royal palace. There she finds her father whom she was led to believe had been dead. That worthy gentleman, enraged, tries with his bare hands to end the life of the hateful Umballah, who intrudes upon their presence, but is dragged away by his retainers. This is brought about when Umballah informs Kathlyn that she is to be the favorite of his harem. This so infuriates Col. Hare that he is about to strangle the dusky Prince, when Kathlyn implores him, not to stain his hands with blood. Umballah staggers to his feet, furious with rage, leaves the place vowing vengeance, promising to return with the executioner to publicly hog his prisoner. As he staggers up the steps in the corridor of the palace, he encounters Bruce the American hunter, who has found his way into that labyrinth in search of Kathlyn. Umballah suspiciously him, questions him and then orders him taken from the palace. In the throne room Umballah finds his Councilors, makes his complaint, and it is agreed that Col. Hare must suffer for tampering with his sacred person.

A big baboon escapes from the confinement and in trying about perches upon the prison window in the very cell in which Kathlyn and her father are confined. This alert young woman conceives the idea of communicating with the outer world, sending by it a message to his keeper so that she will get it and further their plans for escape. She rips the insole from her shoe and writes with the Colonel's indelible pencil, "In the palace prison. Help.—Kathlyn." She ties this about the neck of the monkey and then it is carried by a hooded man seeing the message, at once takes it to Bruce. The resourceful American consults with Ramahat and they conclude to drive an elephant up to the prison window and pull out the bars. This is done, and so much of the masonry comes free that Kathlyn easily escapes through the opening; but Col. Hare, securely chained to the pillar in his prison, is unable to get away. He tells his daughter to leave, as fortune will free him. She reluctantly hurries away to the Hare bungalow in the jungles of Alaha, as the scene dims.

Second Reel. Kathlyn's safety having been secured, she immediately begins planning how to release her father. The first move in this project is to secure Umballah by strategy. They accomplish this with the aid of the fascinating Pandita, who pretends to have turned against Kathlyn and assumes to go with her to effect her capture. Umballah, disarmed by ruse, immediately starts out in quest of his prey. On arriving at the bungalow, he rushes into the room, but suddenly finds the door barred behind him by Kathlyn, who is holding a leopard in leash. This she takes advantage of his fear, and he is forced to sign a release for Col. Hare from the palace prison. Having secured this important document, Bruce, Kathlyn and Pandita, leaving Umballah guarded by the leopard, rush to their elephant with their implements and start a rendezvous in the jungle where they are to meet Col. Hare, who is to come when released through the medium of Umballah's message.

Umballah, having finally effected his escape with great difficulty, returns to the palace—but too late. The messenger has filed his order. The prisoner has been released and is well on his way toward the coast. The vengeful Prince, however, is not to be so easily outwitted and starts his retainers on a dromedary chase with the intention of catching the fugitive. Umballah, coming up with the fear of the procession, takes a long distance shot and wounds Kathlyn.

THROW AWAY YOUR GLASSES. A Free Prescription—You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eyestrain or other eye weakness. If so, you will be glad to know that there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says after trying it: "I was almost blind, could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes, so as to spare the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Opton, fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one Opton tablet, and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two or four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you even a little take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind eyes have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time. (Adv.)

HOW LIFE INSURANCE RISKS ARE FIGURED: San Francisco, April 18.—According to the records of the big life insurance companies of the country, slender women are better risks than stout women and single women live longer than married sisters. "A woman who is 30 pounds under weight," said George H. Beaudry of a coast life insurance company, "is 18 per cent better risk than a woman who is 30 pounds over weight. Mortality among women who are 30 pounds under weight is only 94 per cent whereas among women over weight the mortality is 112 per cent.

"The spinster's chances for long life are 50 per cent better than those of her married sisters. Out of 149,000 single women insuring the mortality rate was only 81 per cent, while among the women insuring with their husbands as beneficiaries the percentage was 126 per cent. The married women has not even chances with the married man, at least in the first few years of married life. The percentages among the men increased with age. For the first 20 years of insurance women have a high mortality rate, whether they be married or single and this fact the companies attribute to a pronouncement which women are declared to possess. The insurance people call this instinct and they say women feel possibilities of death so keenly that often the companies lose during the first two years of policy holding.

"Two per cent of the policies the companies grant to suicide and the figures relating to women's suicide throws an interesting light on the facts. Death from self-inflicted causes among spinsters total only six-tenths of one per cent, while among married women the percentage is less than one-tenth higher. The companies make a distinction, however, among the married women. Between the 'happily married' class or women whose insurance is drawn in favor of their husbands, and the single women there is almost no difference. "The women whose beneficiaries are people other than their husbands show one and one-tenth per cent, while among the widows and divorced women the percentage from suicide climbs to 1.7."

HOUSE CLEANING AT CITY HALL IS PLANNED

Walls and Windows Being Washed and Cleaned—Offices Will be Rearranged. Rearrangement of the offices so as to secure more privacy for the chief of police and city secretary is planned. QUANAH SELLS CITY WATERWORKS BONDS

The city water works bonds, of which an issue was granted last year of $20,000, were sold to Wm. E. Sweet & Co. of Denver.

Par value was paid for them, and considering how flooded the bond market in these days with all kinds of municipal bonds, the city made an exceedingly good trade.

Speculation is rife as to what disposition the city fathers are going to make of this money, it being considered likely that most of it will be used to extend the water mains.

As for that, the council apparently has not yet made up their minds.

DR. J. H. GAMBRELL HAS ISSUED STATEMENT

The following has been received from Dr. J. H. Gambrell, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League: "The outcome of the effects of anti-prohibitionists in the state of Texas is a candidate for governor at the election on April 14, 1914, who is a family physician among anti-prohibitionists. It appears that there are two distinct factions, each of which is seeking control in the ranks. While prohibitionists have nothing to do with anti-prohibitionists, but will profit by them, it does not appear that either faction is really in good condition to do so. It is quite likely that they are both equally or more true, both factions are dangerous to Texas. From any reasonable standpoint, anti-prohibitionists' troubles are logical. For years and years they have hung together on one question, while widely differing on other questions. In the future of things, such an illegal situation was bound to end.

Conditions Have Changed. "During the past few years, political conditions have in many respects, radically changed. People know the law more about things in general now, than they did a few years ago. Concerning the gigantic evils of the liquor traffic, a perfect flood of light has been thrown, not only over Texas, but the entire Nation. All sorts of subtleties have been swept away and the people stand face to face with the unspeakable waste and wreck of the liquor business. A few years since, it was not difficult for anti-prohibitionists to get the consent of strong men to become their candidates for governor. Now it is practically out of the question for them to do such a thing. Never have men been more industrious in any effort than have been anti-prohibition leaders of Texas, to get the consent of some really strong, well known man to represent them in a contest for the governorship and they have signally failed. The slogan that 'prohibition is not an issue' has been utterly discounted and practically put to rest. This man, upon whom extreme anti-prohibitionists have been so long and again that 'prohibition is not an issue,' but has never said that saloons are not the issue.

Men Changing Front. "Many men who have hitherto been anti-prohibitionists, have recently, in the statement that 'the time has come to deliver this state from the intermeddling of saloons in our politics. Many of these men care nothing about the prohibition of an occasional drink and even if they did, they are unwilling that so selfish an interest, an interest so de-

COXEY'S ARMY'S FIFERS BECOME INTOXICATED

By Associated Press. Louisville, O., April 18.—Because members of the Fifteenth Corps of Coxeys' army traded their instruments for beer and became intoxicated and were jaded by the village marshal, Gen. Jacob S. Coxeys issued an edict against drinking as its army left here today on the third day of the march to Washington. "I don't belong to the W. C. T. U. but from now on you either got to cut out the booze or we don't want you along," was the substance of the leader's address. "We are marching to Washington to teach the president a great moral lesson, and you will destroy all its effect if you persist in getting drunk."

The theatres to join in the movement are all those under the various managements of Klaus E. Erlanger, the Henry H. Harris estate, H. H. Frazer, C. B. How To Get The City Wagons To Haul Off Your Trash

The following announcement was made by the Civic League yesterday: The streets, alleys, front yards and back yards are the show windows of our town. Let every one of us get busy and improve the appearance of our show windows.
 Put your trash in boxes and barrels, then the wagons furnished by the city will pick it up at the nominal cost of 15 cents a barrel. This man has instructions to gather up only that trash which is in boxes or barrels and if you stop to think you will realize that the city cannot afford to pay fifteen cents and a man to your home and gather up the rubbish from your back yard and haul it off for only fifteen cents. Therefore collect the rubbish, place it in boxes or barrels and telephone City Secretary, McCarty. His number is 1809. He will notify the trash man to stop at your place.

Under Sealed Orders

By FREDERICK W. BROWN Copyright, Frank A. Munsey Co.

SENIOR AGLERIAS, the ambassador of the federation at Washington, had hardly demanded his passport and left the city before the secretist Rappahannock had received her orders and gotten under way. The strictest secrecy was maintained concerning her destination. Like all her sister-ships, she sailed under sealed orders, and let even her captain, Commander Rexford, know her course when he took her up that evening. He had been called in by Admiral Beaman that afternoon and told to sail as soon as possible. That was all he knew except, of course, that negotiations had failed and the die was cast for war.

"How'd we happen to get the job do you know?" asked Brace. "Can't you see the old man figuring this thing out months ahead? You bet he's not going to miss this chance, my boy. He's been offering us sacrifices for the last five years for an opportunity to show what he could do. He's got just six boats that are good for anything. And I'll bet a month's pay every one of the six is at this moment whooping south on some special job of its own. The Rappahannock happens to be ours."

In the evening they had crossed the isthmus of Panama, twenty-two hours from Washington. Rexford took command in the navigating-room and sent Brace and Iretton to their stations. The speed was reduced to fifty miles an hour, all lights were rigidly obscured, and lookouts posted at all ports. They were now in hostile atmosphere. It was Rexford's hope to catch the Picador unawares, and deal a decisive blow before the enemy awoke to his peril. With this object, they moved slowly down the coast, searching the air-levels for sign of a moving light. Should one be discovered, it could mean but one thing: The Picador was known to be the only secretist in these parts.

The night passed slowly. No one thought of sleep. Tense expectation held the whole ship keyed to concert pitch. Any moment a cry from one of the lookouts might plunge them into action. And what an action! A fight in the air, half a mile up, with the sea beneath them! A fight with no historic models to guide them, no recognized rules of strategy or tactics. With them lay the privilege and the responsibility of setting a standard to be followed in all future air-fights.

It was a clear night, with no moon, and the great stars of the tropics blazed just above their heads. Midnight came. If the attack was to be a surprise, it must not be delayed. Daylight would dash that hope. It was twenty minutes to two when one of the forward lookouts entered the navigating-room, came stiffly to attention, and calmly announced: "Hout on the port bow, sir, below us on the five-hundred level, headed north."

Rexford signaled to the engine-room to stop the motors, and hastened to the bow lookout. There she was, coming like a racehorse, several miles away to the east and some hundreds of feet below the Rappahannock. Confident of her loneliness in these far airs, she blazed with lights, and as she neared the sound of laughter came echoing came plinkly to these on the Rappahannock. It was the Picador, bound north to wreck the usual in the morning. Her officers accounted the thing as good as done, and were making a gala night in anticipation of the triumph of the morrow. Moving at a hundred miles an hour, she came swiftly up, and as she swept abreast signaled for full speed ahead. "Prepare to fire," he sent the order to Brace at the forward torpedo-drop in the bottom of the vessel. His plan was to follow on this moment higher level and, taking his time, align his craft exactly above the enemy. This accomplished, he had but to look ahead and the Rappahannock's speed increased, till presently she held her own with the boat ahead, and then slowly began to gain. Everything was in readiness. Brace, lying flat in the bottom of the vessel, his eyes glued to the torpedo lookout, watched the distance lessen between the two boats and clutched the drop-lever, waiting for the word. The bow of the Rappahannock pushed its way over the Picador's whirling propellers, and Brace gathered himself like a cat prepared to spring. A warning, the Picador averted from beneath them as a pigeon averts to elude a hawk; she swept in a long arc up to their own level, her lights vanished, and as the Rappahannock answered the furious twisting of her wheel and turned to face the enemy, also searchlights opened in the Picador's bow and stern and began a frantic weaving back and forth in the effort to pick up her antagonist in the darkness. The terrific speed of the combatants had carried them a mile apart, and the Picador had now shut off her motors and lay also motionless, the white light marking her position. The Rappahannock, going all better than a hundred miles an hour, was headed straight for her. "Collision-quarters" sounded on board the United States vessel, and it was evident Rexford meant to try the steel-shod ram, whose efficiency had never been put to the proof. There were those who predicted that the light body of the remaining vessel would itself crumple in the shock. The distance between the two lessened with amazing rapidity. It seemed that seconds only intervened between the present instant and that of the actual impact, when the bow light of the Picador, describing a huge sweep of the heavens, fell full upon the advancing foe. Then was seen the beautiful control of the modern fighting-machine. To start her engine would not save her, and there was no time to beat off attack with her quick-firers. She had but one recourse, but that proved effective in the hands of a man capable of acting with instant decision. Captain Morales, in the flash of time allowed him, pushed a little lever under his hand till the indicator pointed to zero, and with her lift mechanism cut off completely. The Rappahannock shot over the Picador's bow with only feet between them, and the torpedo, which Brace let fly at a venture, she passed must have missed the descending boat, for no explosion followed. Watching through his port the hurrying drop of the enemy, he saw her searchlights suddenly vanish. Had she fallen into the sea? Had his torpedo caught her. For an instant he strained his ears for the shock of the explosion, but none came. As a matter of fact, Captain Morales, having gained the information he sought as to the character of his antagonist, had prudently shut off his lights as he checked his vessel downward, and now the two were passing each other at a distance of about thirty feet. Ten minutes' sailing around for an unseen enemy sufficed for Rexford, however, and, fearing the prey might escape, he ordered the Rappahannock's great search-lights turned on. She was equipped with four of these—the bow, the stern, and both tonights—and instead of windows the heavens with search-lights turned hither and thither at random, was able to utilize each light over a given section, so that no two intersected, and the greatest efficiency was therefore secured, while the bow and stern lights could also be concentrated either to port or starboard. In a moment the forward light picked up the Picador and focused on her, and in another moment Iretton had the two search-lights turned upon the shells at her as she advanced to ram. Despite the frightful speed of the two boats, the guns were well served. Not for nothing had the old man humbled himself before congressional committees to secure the wherewithal for gun practice. Shell after shell, such as did win through through the tough skin of the Picador, and, exploding within, presently changed her mind as to the advisability of close quarters. She answered and her own guns began a vicious chatter; and here the superiority of the Rappahannock became apparent. Few of the Picador's shells touched her; of those few, only a small percentage succeeded in penetrating her subarmor. As a last recourse, Morales dropped his boat within two hundred feet of the sea; but Rexford was not behind him. The Rappahannock still answered her lift-lever; and on the two-hundred level the murderous fire was resumed. Gradually the return-fire slackened, till it became only an intermittent snapping, which finally ceased altogether. Rexford ordered his own fire stopped, and ran out the international signal, "Do you surrender." The reply was a feeble endeavor of the crippled craft to draw away. Her torn and battered screws were seen revolving slowly, and it seemed, with pain. Rexford dispatched a hurry call to the engine-room, while his gunners pumped shells at the slowly departing enemy. "Ten minutes," snapped Arnold, grease to his elbows, as he shook the sweat from his eyes and plunged back into his machinery. At the end of five minutes the Picador was out of range. Was she to escape now? For the first time Rexford's composure left him. "Can't you get some action on her?" He asked the engine-room, and his tone revealed the long-suffering Arnold to a burst of wrath. "I shall I push her with my hands," he raved. "Five minutes—no more, with luck." Steadily the Picador drew away, heading east toward the friendly coastline, while Arnold labored like a navy and Rexford paced the navigating room and swore. Promptly to the minute, however, came Arnold's report. Port engine stopped, etc., and Rexford gave the order for full speed ahead. The ship sped ahead, with one engine and a screw twisted out of shape, proved to be about fifteen miles an hour, but Rexford thanked fortune for even so much, and was enough. Slowly but steadily the Rappahannock overhauled the Unping Picador.

The guns were silent, and in the dim light of the coming day the American vessel rose and took up a position directly above the beaten craft. The yards were in Rexford's hands. He had but to give Brace the order, and one of the terrible drop-torpedoes, able to blow a thirty-ton battleship into scrap-iron, would be loosed upon the little craft below. Again he set the signal, "Do you surrender," and this time the answering signal of submission was returned.

Five minutes later the two vessels were lying side by side, ports facing, and the Americans were doing what they could for the state of the Picador. As evidence of the frightful damage which they had been exposed to, the Picador's crew were dead, and the remainder there was not a soul but had at least one wound. One young fellow had been wrapped in a piece of no less than a steel boiler shell, and yet the situation recovered in the American hospital at Panama.

When the injured had been removed to the Rappahannock, a made a comfortable as the hospital quarters permitted, an examination of the Picador showed that she still floated, with that buoyancy of buoyancy of the modern steamship, which could neither rise nor sink more than a mile or two above or below the horizontal plane. Her armor was practically unscathed, her guns were in place, the shells exploded exploded in their vitals.

Brace, with a grimace, was in the cockpit, a hawser was cast, and the Rappahannock with her crew and a patched-up engine, started to tow her prize away to Panama.

It is not of my purpose to describe in detail the long-drawn-out misery of that trip, of how the hawser pulled three times, of how the Picador's buoyancy gradually left her and of heroic efforts on the part of the crew recharged the batteries and restored the necessary current, without which she must have slowly settled into the sea and been lost. A week after the battle, the victor in the first air-fight in history limped in her wake, to be greeted by the tides that a sister secretist had utterly destroyed the enemy's great battle-leet, and that negotiations for peace were already in progress. Rexford sent the following dispatch to the admiral: "Met the Picador four degrees ten minutes north, eighty degrees two minutes west. Have brought her into Colon. Casualties, seven wounded, none seriously. Rappahannock undergoing repairs. Await orders. He received the following by way of reply: "Proceed to Washington as soon as practicable. 'That's the old man all over,'" said Brace. "No fuss. Just plain business. Proceed to Washington and be ready for anything else that turns up." "Oh, yes, but he won't forget. He's got his eye on us all the time," said Iretton. "He makes an o'clock, and he's about on prime!"

He Leaves With Family Tomorrow For Bartlesville To Take Pastorate at Church There

Rev. J. M. Coe who for the past two and a half years has been pastor of the First M. E. Church here, will preach his last sermon today as pastor of that church and will leave Monday for Bartlesville, Okla., where he goes to take the pastorate of the First M. E. Church.

Rev. Coe during his two and a half years pastorate here has won a warm place in the hearts not only of his parishioners but of the public as well. There is genuine regret that Wichita Falls is to lose him although of course all rejoice in his advancement. No less than his husband, Mrs. Coe, too has won the affection of the congregation of the church and others with whom she has come into contact and to her and Mother Coe can be attributed no small part of the growth and advancement of the church during their stay here.

SLEEP DISTURBING BLADDER WEAKNESS BACKACHE-RHEUMATISM, QUICKLY VANISH

Even Most Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After A Few Doses Are Taken

Backache, urinary disorders, and rheumatism, are caused from weak, inactive kidneys, which fail to filter out the impurities and keep the blood pure, and the only way on earth to permanently and positively cure such troubles, is to remove the cause.

The new discovery, Croxone, cures such conditions because it reaches the very roots of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped up, inactive kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering cells and glands; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism; it neutralizes the urine so it no longer irritates the tender membranes of the bladder, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped up, lifeless kidneys so they filter and sift all the poisons from the blood, and drive it out of the system.

So sure, so positive, so quick and lasting, are the results obtained from the use of Croxone, that three doses a day for a few days are often all that is required to cure the worst case of backache, regulate the most annoying bladder disorders, and overcome the numerous other similar conditions.

It is the most wonderful preparation ever made for the purpose. It is entirely different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth to compare with it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You can obtain an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give desired results, regardless of how old you are; how long you have suffered, or what else has failed to cure you.

CONFERENCE ON EMPIRE'S DEFENCE

ALL COUNTRIES OF BRITISH EMPIRE WILL GATHER TO DISCUSS PROBLEM

SUPREMACY OF WHITE RACE

This is Declared To Be the Vital Issue Before British Nation at This Time

By Associated Press. London, April 18.—Plans for a defense conference of Great Britain and her dominions are rapidly assuming form and will be complete when the consent of Canada is gained. Australia and New Zealand have already announced their desire for such a conference and since the problem of the Pacific will be the chief topic considered by the meeting it is believed that Canada will join the other dominions.

As the result of the trip which a Parliamentary committee made to the dominions, it was found that Australia and New Zealand statements leave little doubt that the problem of the coming decade will be the maintenance of supremacy of the white race in the Pacific. It was pointed out to the committee that Japan is making preparations to develop trade and emigration towards the antipodes and that there is a constant flow of Chinese to the islands of the Pacific. France has already largely increased her steamship facilities with these islands and Germany, Holland and the United States also are active in the same regions.

The determination of the government to bring about the conference has been increased by reports from Sir Maurice Fitzmaurice, who has been advising the Commonwealth government on naval matters and Sir Van Hamilton, inspector general of overseas forces. It has not yet been decided whether the conference will be held in London, Canada or Australia, but the idea is growing and when the meeting is finally held it is likely that all of the British dominions will have delegates present.

Australia and New Zealand have not taken kindly to the suggestion made by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, in his speech introducing the naval estimates, that the safety of those two countries was secured by the Anglo-Japanese alliance. William Ferguson Massey, prime minister of New Zealand, led an attack on the First Lord in a recent speech at Greytown in which he said he did not believe the alliance had secured the safety of the British dominions in the antipodes.

J. Hume Cook, prime minister of the Commonwealth of Australia, who stated the case for the dominions at greater length, said:

"We are told by Imperial statesmen that the Pacific is being made safe and secure, not by the might and the majesty of the British fleet, but by the Anglo-Japanese alliance. That raises for Australia a very serious question. I hope that Australia will always be on friendly terms with Japan and get closer to her in the relations of trade and commerce and the peaceful acts of civilization and that the treaty will continue in its present form, for I believe it can be a great power for peace; but when Australia is asked to rely on the Anglo-Japanese treaty for the defense of the Pacific a very serious situation is created. Japan is a nation whose people Australia does not admit to her shores. White Australia's ideals must be defended at all costs as a cardinal principle of Australian political belief. Japanese civilization differs radically from that in Australia, which is compelled to see no mixing of races in her territory."

"Whilst it is true, as Mr. Churchill said, that the naval forces should be concentrated under a united command on the chief theatres of operations, it should not be forgotten that the Empire's naval problem is a dual one. Not only should the Imperial power be developed in relation to the world problem in order that there should be an Imperial navy, to fight in any and every sea where Imperial interests are threatened, but world wide preparations must be continued to make it possible to concentrate forces at any point wherever the dominions have the greatest menace. Australia hopes that the Imperial fleet will be so developed and organized that this country shall be in no way dependent absolutely on treaty obligations with any foreign power whatever. The government is anxious for a conference of self-governing dominions, including Canada and South Africa. The first Australian fleet unit is being completed, but it would point is Australian policy development. Mr. Churchill has departed from the agreement by which the Imperial government undertook to send to the Pacific a ship for every ship put in to commission by Australia. Mr. Churchill has proclaimed that ships of an inferior calibre will do very well for the Pacific. Australia is entitled to something more than that statement. She is entitled to free and full discussion of Imperial defense with every unit of the Empire."

Australia is building her own fleet while New Zealand, who gave her dreadnought to the mother country, has declined to start doing the same unless the Imperial government carries out its obligation to strengthen the fleet in the Pacific.

A definition of the living minimum wage in Australia has just been embodied in a decree delivered by Justice Heydon, president of the Industrial Arbitration Court of New South Wales, who, after an exhaustive inquiry into the cost of living in Sydney, specifies that the lowest class of unskilled labor must receive $12 a week. This sum is based on the existence and needs of a family of two parents and two dependent children. He found that the minimum rate for rent in Sydney was $3 a week, miscellaneous expenses including fuel, light clothing and insurance was $2.50 while the remainder of the $12 was consumed in food. In his decision the judge was guided largely by the new income declaration of about $1000 a year. In the Harvester case decided that the weekly wage of a man in a job of standard to meet the normal needs of the average employee resident as a human being living in a civilized country.

CONGRESSMAN MARRIES HEIRESS WITH A MILLION

Washington, April 18.—More than three thousand representatives of official and resident society this afternoon attended the wedding of Representative Henry D. Flood, chairman of the House foreign affairs committee, to Miss Anna V. Porter, member of a noted Virginia family. Miss Porter is worth a million in her own right. The wedding at All Souls' Church was one of the most brilliant social events since the White House wedding and because of the prominence of both parties attracted the leading diplomats, cabinet officials, congressmen and senators. Miss Porter's daughter, the speaker's daughter, was one of the bridesmaids. The bride is of striking brunette beauty, one of the five sisters known as among the prettiest girls of Washington's social elite.

SHORTER SKIRTS FASHION'S EDICT

NARROWNESS FACED TO BOW TO LOCOMOTION AND SLACK IS TAKEN UP

MARGARET MASON'S LETTER

Back Combs Now Worn in Front—New Purse Resemble Physicians' Medicine Case

New York, April 17.—What a boon these new fashions in dress will be to all fascinating lady blackmailers and shoplifters. Nowadays when Alicia the alluring adventuress leaves her hotel in a chic costume of black taffeta and robin's egg blue with a brace of square jawed detectives at her high French heels she despairs not. Instead, she hurriedly turns the corner pulls a string and lo! she is garbed in ebony hue from top to toe. Curses from the baffled bloodhounds of the law who are left bewildered swallowing their chagrin and Adam's apples—and there you are.

But assuredly these are not the only circles which will receive the handy quick change costumes with open arms. The more circumspect embraces of the poor but honest society girl whose frocks must needs number more than her paltry pence awaits them joyously.

A sample of the possibility of these changeable garments is a model of rich colored taffeta with a self-toned shoulder cape and deep tunic banded in rose and blue striped taffeta. Some two and the trim and cape are turned inside out becoming a tunic of old blue taffeta. For the third and positively last appearance a cord about the waist is deftly tucked and the tunic gathers itself up into a delectable bustle effect while the cape is simply shed entirely. Naturally the combinations and surprises of these trick gowns are as limitless as the ingenuity of the present day dressmakers.

Since the skirts have reached the limits of narrowness they have been forced to bow to the law of locomotion and take up their slack in other directions. Hence their upward trend and pronounced tendency toward abbreviation. The shorter your skirt the better seems to be the last gasp of fickle fashion and actually some of them are finished in flaring ruffles and double and treble ruffles on their ankle length edges. It will obviously take the hobnob and mingling step-maiden of the last few seasons some time to get her stride in the newest short and almost wide skirts.

And just to prove that the old adage "a place for everything and everything in its place" has no standing in the realms of the mode, back combs are now being worn in front if you please. It's the very smartest place for them, nesting right over your forehead fringe in the front fluff of the correct new high coiffure.

Whether you choose the zebra or a stick of peppermint candy as your model a little matters if you just are striped. To be right in line with the style you must be heavily lined in two toned stripings or the variegated hues of the Roman stripes. Black and white stripes running up and down are very chic with the combination of blue and green as a close rival. Striped skirts in combination with black jackets of taffeta or moire are decidedly good, while Russian blouse suit with the plain blue toned duvety blouse finished around the hips in a tunic of striped green and blue taffeta and silk sleeves of the same are stunning with the plain duvety skirt. Strippers have even strapped themselves upon the smart spring jostery mostly in black and white effects.

If a mere man meets a pretty maid these days totting a neat little leather case like a miniature medicine bag he mustn't build up hopes of annexing her as his family physician by any means. One case doesn't make a doctor, particularly if it be a smart little leather affair in colored leather. All the girls are carrying these practical small square leather boxes in lieu of the more conventional bags and purses of yore.

Opened up before the uninitiated they display a bewildering array of every little thing needed to repair, perfect or manufacture a complexion on the spot. You may have all the comforts and necessities of your dressing table at your finger ends so no wonder femininity is quite mad about 'em.

Less practical as first aid to injured complexions but more charming as accessories of the dainty spring frocks are the brilliant hand colored bags of hand wrought leather, their tops incrustated with many colored

Piece Goods and Men's Wear On First Floor—Ladies Wear on Top Floor

The new department store of the P. B. M. Company was opened to the public yesterday and while all of the details of decoration and arrangement have not been completed, enough is done to show that it is going to be one of the finest stores in the South and a business enterprise that not only the owners but the whole city can be proud of. The merchandise is arranged in a manner to give the most convenience to customers and to display the goods in the most attractive manner. The large show windows are an especially attractive feature and the decorating which is done by H. R. Whittaker is equal to that seen in any of the metropolitan cities.

The store arrangements is the result of the experience of all three of the patrons, P. H. Pennington, C. J. Barnard and Duq. Millsaps and these, with the floor manager, E. C. Darnell, have spared no pains to make it in every respect an ideal shopping center.

This is the first mercantile house in the city to employ passenger elevator service, so that patrons may go from one department to another without the labor of climbing stairs. On the ground floor are displayed the piece goods departments and the departments for men's clothing, furnishings and shoes. On the gallery are the business offices with private "dens" for the heads of the company.

The top floor is devoted to ladies ready to wear goods of all kinds and is arranged with wall cases done in mahogany. The floor is covered with deep green carpet, making a combination that presents a most beautiful appearance.
