The question of reducing the cotton acreage will be voted on in seventy-eight counties in this state today. It is a question that should not require any such action on the part of the intelligent people.

Just a few years ago the people of Texas, apparently, were in favor of the initiative and referendum. In today's election they will have the opportunity they have long wished for of registering their vote in favor of it.

Already the newspapers of this, the thirteenth congressional district, are having something to say as to who will be the man to succeed Congressman John H. Stephens, speaking as though they thought or had information that Mr. Stephens would not be a candidate for re-election.

JUDGE SWAYNE DELIVERS TRADE

A few days ago a man charged with murder was acquitted in Judge Swayne's court at Fort Worth. He had been tried on the charge once before, convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for violating his parole.

President Wilson, without waiting to find out what the results of next Tuesday's election is going to be, has issued his Thanksgiving proclamation, setting apart Thursday, November 26th, as the day to offer up thanks.

DR. HILL TO LEAVE US

The people of Wichita Falls, generally, regardless of their church connections or as to whether they have any such connections or not, will learn with regret that Dr. J. W. Hill, who has served the congregation of the M. P. Church South so well for the past three years, is soon to sever connection and go to a new field of labor.

HELP BOOST THE PRICE OF COTTON

It looks like cotton at present prices is a good investment. In fact, bottom has been struck, and it looks now as if there was but about one chance in a thousand for the price to slump back beyond what it now is.

INCOME TAX PAYERS

That only forty-four multi-millionaires paid the tax on annual incomes of $1,000,000 and over is far less surprising than that only 101,718 persons in the entire United States should figure in the returns as having incomes of $5,000 to $10,000.

regarded the charge of the court and the testimony of witnesses on the stand. I have heard cases where defendant's counsel applied for suspension of sentence, where the defendant did not expect to be acquitted, and where under his own testimony he was guilty.

AMUSING THE MASTERS

In the old Roman times the masters used to put some of their slaves in the arena, arm them with swords or some other instrument of war, and force them to fight and struggle with each other unto death.

We abhor these barbarous customs as we read of them in ancient history and wonder how men and women could have been so depraved as to have found pleasure in the slaughter of fellow beings.

At this very hour we read in the papers of a battle that has been raging in Europe, almost continuously, for weeks between the workers of different nations who are as effectually the slaves of their masters as were the Roman slaves.

It is true that they do not actually view the struggle—it's too dangerous—but they stay back out of danger, read the reports of the battle in the papers, and bet on the outcome.

Perhaps they do not like to set, or think, of men being killed, but they make it possible, yes, necessary for them to be killed and the profits they derive from this is used for their pleasure and amusement.

small savings deprive incomes of from $5,000 to $10,000 from trade, professional practice, investments or by the way of salaries.

For the estimates presented at the time the income tax law was passed, there existed no reliable data. The government was adopting a new form of taxation in regard to which necessarily no accurate basis of information was available.

The first shipment of 10,000 head of Texas horses for French cavalry mounts went forward from Fort Worth the other day, at an increase of $15 a head over the prices paid by the British government earlier in the war.

It would seem that so long as there is war in Europe the demand for horses will grow, and what is more, the greater the demand is, the better the price will be.

THE REASON FOR HARD TIMES

Thinking of the purpose of which the Times delivers a little fondly that may be taken home to themselves by more than a few.

Less than one week ago cotton, the best grade, was selling on the streets of Wichita Falls for less than six cents per pound.

Roger Sullivan is the Democratic nominee for United States Senator in Illinois, but this is not sufficient to convince some very prominent Democrats of National reputation that he is entitled to and should receive the solid Democratic vote for that high office.

Times that the land under the ditch will produce an abundance nearly all kinds of truck, such as tomatoes, cucumbers, cantaloupes, strawberries, beans, peas, cabbage, potatoes, onions, etc.

MANY INDICTED, NEW CONVICTED

Dick Pinkney, 23, who was acquitted by a jury in the criminal district court Wednesday evening for the killing of R. E. Hill, was the fourth defendant indicted for murder who has escaped punishment since January.

The court records show that no white man has been convicted for murder and sent to the penitentiary from the county since R. E. Hill, November 2, 1912, and violent deaths have been a very ordinary occurrence.

TAKES ISSUE WITH THE TIMES

Editor of The Wichita Times, Dear Sir: I note you have written an editorial which you have referred to the prices on sweet potatoes from the farmer to the consumer.

You stated that produce dealers were buying sweet potatoes at from 40 to 60 cents per bushel and selling them to the retailers at from 85 to 95 cents per bushel.

I am not going into detail to show how utopian such a scheme is, nor try to explain how necessary it is in the produce business for a company to ship in cars and re-distribute same to the home merchants and reship to merchants tributary to Wichita Falls.

In another column of The Times of today will be found an article by Mr. Harry May under the caption of "Takes Issue With The Times."

It strikes me the newspapers, who, as we all know, are the most important factors in moulding public opinion, would be serving their own and the community's interest if they would

Party's Majority Reduced To Handful In Congress

Kansas, in New York State, the election of Charles S. Whitman, republican candidate for governor, was conceded early last night, while victory for Boies Penrose, republican senatorial candidate in Pennsylvania, and for former Speaker Joe Cannon, congressional candidate in Illinois, was also assured early.

Democrats retain control in Massachusetts, and have regained the governorship in Tennessee with the defeat of Ben W. Hooper by Thomas Rye.

There is little doubt that the democratic party will remain in control of Congress for the next two years, but it is certain that the majority in the house has been decidedly reduced.

It is to foster a feeling of good will between the farmer and townman, and to make each realize that the prosperity of the one is equally dependent on the prosperity of the other.

SEVENTY FIVE ENROLLED AT SCHOOL OF METHODS

Seventy-five were enrolled at last night's session of the "School of Methods" now in session at the First Christian Church and it is expected there will be a still further increase in attendance this afternoon and tonight.

For the first time in four years Tennessee is to have a Democratic governor. Right here it might be well to note that William Jennings Bryan made a few speeches in that State for the successful Democratic candidate whose name is Rye, Gov. Hooper, Republican, though elected by losing with one wing of the Democratic party of that State, has made a good record as governor.

All the proposed amendments were voted down in yesterday's election. This indicates that the people of Texas are satisfied with what they have in the way of a Constitution, or else they do not want to run the risk of making things worse than now by attempting to amend or change it for the better.

WIT, WOMAN AND SONG IN "THE RED WIDOW" TOMORROW

Wit, woman and song, the three fundamental bases of a successful musical comedy, will be exemplified most strikingly upon the local boards when the Channing Pollock-Rennold Wolf-Charles Gebest success, "The Red Widow" makes its appearance at the local playhouse. This offering direct from the Astor Theatre, New York, heads the lists of trilogy of authors' successes and is said to contain music of a high order, wit and satire of the keenest and most reasonable variety, and to offer dancing and other diversions most likeable. The original scenic production, splendid mechanical effects and the smart and varied costume embellishments that so entranced metropolitan theatergoers are promised to be on view at the presentation here.

"Love and the world loves you" is a transposition of an old adage which will be found appropriately true when the theatre-goers have seen the magnificent Astor Theatre New York presentation of "The Red Widow," which is to be the attraction at the Wichita Theatre tomorrow matinee and night. With a theme in which the affairs of little Dan Cupid predominate much may be expected, but if half the stories told of this offering are true then theatregoers may prime themselves for a night of hilarious fun and a tickling of the risibilities and a hearing and seeing of a song and dance divertissement that will not only entertain but keep them enthralled with rapidity of wit, pungent satire and other delights both to the eye and the ear. Naturally aiding in the accomplishment of these promises production reeking with scenic splendor teeming with beautiful costumes and embellished with other accessories it please must be brought along, so must a company of cosmopolitan artists and these we are assured will all be in evidence.

The Lydia Margaret Singing, both ragtime and classic, is welcomed at all times by the theatre going public and the Three Troubadours which opened an engagement for the last half of the week yesterday at the Lydia Margaret present a most pleasing conglomeration of song and harmony. The other act on the bill is supplied by Kennedy and Kramer, black face artists who won large applause by their line of songs, chatter and dancing. This bill is calculated to please. Tonight's feature picture is "The Rock of Hope," a Universal special.

"The Rock of Hope," in two reels, introduces for the first time, the notable players, Harry C. Myers, Brinsley Shaw and Rosemary Theby to the Universal patrons. This splendid trio of artists was recently secured by the Universal company to head a new producing company to make "Big U" features. With Mr. Meyers directing, besides playing the lead male roles, Miss Rosemary Theby, one of the most beautiful girls upon the screen today, portraying the important female roles, the series of plays will undoubtedly disclose an individuality, an artistic perfection seldom seen upon the screen. The Universal has been rounding up the greatest talent it has. The signing up of such artists at these prices only one indication of its enterprise. It is the Universal exhibitor and patron who will benefit. Such plays as "The Rock of Hope"—such artists cannot be had by "U" competitors.

Relative to the play: Those who should know, have said that a man steeped in sin, is unable to den catastrophe to create a spiritual achieve reformation; that some awakening is necessary in such a case. Is that true? Must a man experience misfortune of a violent nature in order to appreciate his own condition, or can this realization come quietly, without trumpet, stimulated by that which the small voice of conscience, as it were? This human-interest play, "The Rock of Hope," argues that it can.

graph comedy, "The Lost Cord," show

Two business friends, Jones, a little fellow, and Watkins, a stout man, plays for a day at Coney Island. They meet Lillian, a friend of Jones' and the three journey on together. Watkins and Jones become jealous of each other, but Lillian smiles on both without discrimination, and serious trouble is averted. The swiftness of Watkins' sick and when Jones rides in the carousel, he becomes ill, so each in turn accompanies Lillian. After an exciting time in shooting gallery, Jones suggests they all go in bathing. Watkins and Lillian get in the water first and both are soon happy as—ducks, splashing and frolicking in the water. Jones arrives, turns purple with jealousy, unperceptibly unties and pulls off the cord holding Watkins' bathing trunk. Oblivious to hold up the garment with one hand, Watkins' strange and awkward actions in floundering around cause Lillian some anxiety and she fetches a life-saver. The latter of Watkins into the boat, but Mr. Watkins prefers to stay where he is. He then whispers in the life-guard's ear, who chuckles and gives him a rope from his boat. Meanwhile a crowd of onlookers have assembled on the beach and Watkins, on coming ashore, is greeted with-ropes of laughter. He is wild with rage, and finding Jones' bathhouse unlocked, steals the little fellow's clothes and buried them in the sand. Jones, in Watkins' absence, makes his kind "The upshot of the whole affair is, Lillian goes home alone Jones goes home in Watkins' enormous suit of clothes while the fat man, unable to get into his own's clothes, is left in the bathhouse, cogitating over how he is to get out of the scrape respectively.

The Mutual Weekly No. 89 contains the usual number of interesting scenes from happenings the world over. A two part Kay Bee "No Account Smith's Baby" is also on the program. "No Account" Smith is a shiftless miner, too lazy to work his mine. While he is spending most of his time in the saloons, his wife, Lucy, struggles along in poverty. A baby girl comes to brighten her life and for a time Smith's affections for the infant make him fairly industrious. Finding a nugget he buys a pair of shoes for the baby's Christmas. For a time he resolves to let drink alone but his good resolutions fail and two years later he is a worthless drunkard. He hears the miners talking one day of the arrival of the state coach with a considerable sum of money. He determines to hold up the stage, and his wife, learning of his intentions, wraps the baby's first shoes in the mask which he has made for himself. When he goes to hold up the stage, as he takes the mask from his pocket the baby's shoes fall out and a strong revulsion of feeling comes over him. He tears the mask into shreds and a little later overtakes the stage which has broken down. In the stage, Smith finds a man who had previously written his wife about purchasing the state coach and invites him home for the night. Ross, the prospective purchaser, buys Smith's mine and of course Smith is thankful that he did not rob the stage.

The Majestic. "Shadow of the Past," featuring E. K. Lincoln, Anita Stewart, Roger Lytton, Harry Money, Rose Tapley and Julia Swayne Gordon. With such a cast, every performer a star, and such a director, something of a star himself, almost any fairly good story is bound to be a success and this one of comprehensive title, "The Shadows of the Past," is no exception. It is highly interesting at times and is remarkable for a beautiful restaurant ensemble and a realistic collision between a train and a motor car. But after all, the interpretation—must be given foremost rank. It is without a doubt, Miss Stewart, Miss Tapley, Miss Gordon, Lytton, Money and Lincoln responding in full to their opportunities. It was my pleasure to highly compliment Miss Bertsch when she was first winning her laurels and it was a pleasure to note her undoubted talent as a scenario writer, but it appears to me that "The Shadows of the Past" is very much submerged, whereas there existed in it a significance which would have greatly enhanced the plays power, its effect and its value. "The supreme goal of the great literature of our era," says an illustrious critic, "has been and remains the expression in some form of final artistic development, of the struggle of the ego at self realization."

There is a lot of active charity in a photoplay of humanizing tendency. The picturing man in his struggle to break above hereditary-impulse and break from the restraints of artificial environment. Here are three people, Brandon, his wife and Antonie released from prison, into which they were tricked by a scheming politician, three people of straight lives, cords about to begin human credulity. One falls into a position which enables him to wear immaculate dress suits and the girl becomes secretary to a gubernatorial candidate, not only without effort, but with an effort that enables her to dress in elaborate evening gowns. It is not shown that they made any effort to attain their positions of trust, so we are left to presume that they are individuals of extraordinary intelligence.

To complete the program "A Study in Feet." A Viennese comedy featuring Harem Kurt is showing. This story is told entirely by the feet and hands of the players. At the Majestic where this novelty will be shown tonight. You will be astonished to discover what effective means of interpretation pedal extremities prove to be.

SELECT THE FOODS THAT GIVE HEALTH

In these days of high prices people are learning the wisdom of buying only those foods that really serve the purpose for which food is intended, namely:

to satisfy the appetite, build up muscle and strengthen brain power, and in general produce and maintain a good healthy condition of the body.

Start with the children now. Give them plenty of graham and whole wheat bread—that alone will do away with the use of injurious drugs, because of their gentle laxative qualities.

Then there is my "QUAKER" stock which is always very complete and up-to-date—Quaker oats, a most satisfying and welcome dish for both young and old—Quaker corn meal, sweet and fresh always—and in fact, all the different varieties of "Quaker" goods.

These are just some of the things that will help you to economize on your groceries.

Bread Upon the Waters.
Melancholy, life overworn man sat in his lonely room and with slow breath his loaves—triple wrecked plan on plan.
Failure of friend, and hope, and heart and faith—
This last the deadliest and holding all.
Help was there none in weeping for his years.
Had stolen, all his treasury of tears, then up a printed page his eyes did fall.
Where sprang such words of courage that they seemed Cries on the battlefield, or as one dreamed
Of trumpet sounding charges; on he read
With curious, half-remembering, musing mind.
The ringing of that voice had something stirred
In his deep heart, like music long since heard.
Brave words, he sighed and looked where they were signed;
There reading his own name, tears made him blind. —Exchange.

Recipe For Baked Beans.
(By Mrs. M. J. Gardner)
Put one quart of navy beans to soak over night, in the morning wash well and put in kettle which has a loose fitting lid. Slice ten cents worth of salt side bacon, mix in with the beans, add two tablespoons of salt and one cup of sugar. Cover with water and bake in a moderate oven for ten or five hours, examining from time to time and adding water as needed.
(Recipes are solicited. Phone 167 or send to Times).

MRS. NICHOLSON ENTERTAINS SEW SO CLUB THURSDAY
The Sew So Club met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. E. W. Nicholson Mesdames Deltery, Pridden, Hobson and Miss Pitman were the guests who with the club members enjoyed a afternoon of sewing and exchanged new ideas for Christmas gifts. A highly entertaining reading was given by Mrs. Fonville in the course of the afternoon and the hostess served refreshing punch with delicious home-made cakes. The club members present were: Mesdames Bargett, P. A. Martin, Cox, Fonville, Taylor, Williams, Urban, Jamison, Taylor, Howry and the hostess.

WICHITA TRAVEL CLUB ENJOYS STUDY OF CHINA
The Wichita Travel Club met its regular session Thursday morning with Mrs. J. L. McKee. The lesson for the morning was on China with Mrs. J. M. Akin as leader. Real talk was accompanied with dramatic events and the program for the year was read by Mrs. J. L. McKee, receiving the full approval of the club. A paper was read by Mrs. Alexander on "The Physical Geography of China," followed by a discourse by Mrs. C. C. Smith. The usual lesson query was conducted by the leader and an interesting diversion was provided by a highly humorous reading, "The Birth of St. Patrick," given by Mrs. George Akin. The club members present were: Mesdames J. W. Akin, Alexander, C. C. Smith, Hamilton, Smith, Shelton, Datson, Harry Robertson, Urban, McKee, Faunt Le Roy and Bolya.

MRS. WALKER ENTERTAINS FOR MRS. TERRY AT BRIDGE
Mrs. Wade Walker was hostess to a delightful evening bridge party Thursday, complimenting Mrs. B. F. Terry of Dallas. Five tables of play were enjoyed, the chosen game for some time, the close of the game finding Mrs. Fred Weeks and Mrs. Wood ruff tied for high score. Mrs. Weeks being fortunate in a cut. Both the honoree's favor and the high score trophy were dainty bits of handpainted china, done by the vesting, the hostess Mrs. Terry was presented with a plate and Mrs. Weeks received a pair of individual salts. A delicious salad was served at a late hour, the following guests enjoying Mrs. Walker's hospitality for Mrs. Terry: Mes-

The party motored out in the morning to a convenient pecan grove about four miles from town. After noon a big picnic dinner was spread and the remainder of the day spent in gathering pecans.

REGULAR MEETING OF MUSICIAN'S CLUB THURSDAY
The Musician's Club met in choral practice Thursday afternoon at 2:45 at the First Presbyterian Church, which is to be the permanent meeting place of the club for the year. About thirty-five of the choral members were present and some time was spent in practice on several choruses. At 3:30 the regular program was carried out, the subject being "The Light Opera." In addition to the members several visitors were present and the program was generally enjoyed. The meetings this year have been full of interest and much more interest has been manifested than in the preceding seasons. The choral department will meet for regular practice next Thursday afternoon at the church.

TIMES PUBLISHING CO., ED HOWARD, Manager.

This is the time of year that husbands should begin to save up money to pay for the Christmas presents they are expecting their wives to present them with on Christmas morning.

The election Tuesday will make it easy for the pie hunters in the South and elsewhere, who were torn between doubt as to whether to declare their allegiance to the G. O. P. or the Bull Moose, to determine their course.

The political compass points back to the G. O. P. A number of statesmen and officeholders can now safely declare that they were always against the Progressive movement, anyway.

Somehow or other we can't work ourselves up to enthusiasm quite so much over the results of Tuesday's election as some of our Democratic leaders.

If Teddy's party had not gone quite so dead it would have been much better for the Democrats. The way things look now the 1916 campaign is going to be a straight fight between the Democrats and Republicans.

With Wilson at the head of the ticket, there is a good chance to win. If he refuses to be a candidate for a second term it may be that some other great Democrat can be found to take his place, but the chances for that man to show up are not very bright at this stage of the game.

Results of Tuesday's election indicate that the Democrats will face a hard fight in 1916. The Progressives are leader, than Hee so far as being factors in 1916 are concerned.

Most of those who voted the Progressive ticket in 1912 and in 1914 will be found in the Republican ranks in 1916. Very few can be expected to come over to the Democratic party.

This means trouble for the Democrats. Accidents or things beyond the control of the American people will probably determine the results.

The good work of President Wilson and the Democratic party in reform and constructive legislation is not likely to count. Prosperity alone will determine the result.

A great deal hinges in the war in Europe. It may bring good business conditions to the United States, or it may depress business.

If the first results, the Democrats will triumph. If the second, victory will rest with the Republicans.

The voters will not reason from cause to effect. They will vote blindly either in reproach or commendation of the party in power.

SAYS OWNERS OF FARMS ARE THE ONES TO CUT DOWN COTTON ACREAGE

Editor of The Times: A great deal has been said and written about curtailing the amount of cotton that should be planted next year.

It has also been advocated that a law be passed making it a penalty to plant more than a certain amount. To this last proposition I cannot agree.

I can't see how any thinking person can. The larger part of the cotton produced is raised by tenant farmers.

If these tenant farmers were not allowed to plant cotton, what would become of them in case the corn and wheat should fail?

These crops especially in the western part of the State, are uncertain; there is no other crop out of which they could realize money for their support.

They would have to abandon the farm and seek employment to get money to support themselves and families.

This would increase the number of laboring men who are now out of employment. It would be better for the poor men who have a family to plant cotton under these conditions, even if he did not get much more than the value of the picking out of it.

There are a class of farmers that should not be allowed to plant cotton, and in so doing would not only help himself but also the poor farmer who is not able to raise anything but cotton owing to the uncertainty of the wheat and corn crop, the only other crop except cotton, out of which money can be realized.

It requires considerable expense in improving a small farm for the handling of hogs and cattle in the way of fencing and other improvements.

This the tenant farmer can not do because he can't afford to that Briton has been a bit backward in this whole transaction. Now that may shock some of you dreadfully, but to the impartial onlooker this business of war has not as yet taken hold of the English mind, which latter is apparently putting its trust in the big navy. The big navy is all right for defense, but it can do no part in driving the German machine out of France and ultimately bringing the Kaiser to his knees.

With the entrance of Turkey into the European war, considerably more than half the world's population is actually involved in the big strife. It seems far away now to the assassination at Sarajevo, which ostensibly was the cause of all this unpleasantness, and yet that incident, now falling into insignificance beside the present strife, was the seed from which all the present trouble has sprung.

ROCKEFELLER AND HIS FOUNDATION

When approached by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., some days ago as to the necessity of relief in Belgium and the approximate amount required, Ambassador Pace gave it as his opinion that unless $1,000,000 a month should be made immediately available many people would perish of starvation, and that, even should this money be promptly forthcoming, it would not and could not be applied soon enough to save large numbers from starvation.

Nevertheless, there is one charitable organization, and only one, in the whole world capable of raising such a sum immediately. That is the great Rockefeller Foundation, which is capitalized at $100,000,000, and which is dedicated to the promotion of the welfare of mankind.

Both of these phases of its structure and design indicate that the foundation and son of John D. Rockefeller Sr., framed it to be an efficient and effective agency in time of trouble. This man, whose will and intellect have revolutionized business methods during the past forty years, shows his capacity and comprehension of needs and methods in the framing of such an institution, and more than that, it reveals his true soul in dedicating it to the well being of his fellow men.

FORMER WICHITAN'S RIGHT LEG IS AMPUTATED TODAY

G. R. Rothrock Undergoes Operation Here—Mandy Necessary By Condition of Bone
G. R. Rothrock, local manager at Bridgeport for the North Texas Gas Company and formerly in the office of that company here, underwent an operation in the Wichita Falls sanitarium yesterday in which his right leg was amputated just above the knee. He withstood the operation well and was resting nicely today. The operation was made necessary by an affection of the bones of the leg. Mr. Rothrock had been lame for some time and when examined by noted surgeons they told him that the amputation of his leg was imperative. 52 1tc

SAYS FRENCH FORTS PROVED INEFFICIENT

FOUND BY GERMANS TO BE OUT OF DATE AND USELESS

CORRESPONDENT TELLS OF ONE

Artillery Very Antiquated and of Little Value—Easily Taken By German Forces

The Hague, Nov. 5.—According to recent reports in the German press not all the French fortifications are so strong as has been believed. Several of those which have been taken by the Germans are said to have been antiquated, little effort to modernize them having been spent on them. A noteworthy example of this and one which is rather typical of what the Germans assert they have found, is the case of Fort Leo Arvelles, which, located almost due south of Metziers Charleville, guarded the bridges and fords of the Meuse in that locality.

Describing what he saw in the fort after it had been occupied by the Germans, Henry Binder, war correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt, says in the issue of that paper of October 9 among other things:

Says Poorly Constructed.
"All French forts along the Belgian border have been constructed with such carelessness that one can easily determine the degree to which the French depended upon their Belgian neighbor. Generally the forts were left in the state they had when built and since the plan of their construction dates back to fifty years ago or most of them is several centuries old."

A typical example of this is Fort Leo Arvelles which guarded the bridge and fords of the Meuse south of Metziers Charleville, and which was shot out of the ground with 30 shells from our 21 centimeter mortars. The fort was built in 1878 and was armed with 40 pieces. Its main armament were two batteries of six guns each of 9 centimeter calibre, dating from the years 1878 and 1880 and which had a range of only four kilometers (note, the range of even the smallest German siege pieces is never less than eight kilometers).

"In addition there were found in the fort several 12 centimeter bronze guns which had been cast in 1884, while in the elements we found several mitrailleuses and five barreled revolver guns which had been intended to sweep the moats. In the fort were also found several old mortars from the year 1842—old muzzle loaders with the typical pyramids of round cannonballs beside them—guns of a type we use in our villages to fire salutes.

Evidence of Neglect.
"The fort showed neglect everywhere. Not alone was its armament antiquated and primitive, but the management before and during the attack must have been defective. The road to the fort had been blocked merely by felled trees and an occasional barbed wire entanglement, and trees before one of the batteries of the forts made it necessary to replace it after our troops had arrived. To do this a winch had to be used. But they succeeded only in getting one of the pieces into position. This gun was intended to serve against aircraft above the fort, and an effort had been made to give it the necessary high angle elevation by digging a trench around it in which the limber rested. Even at that the elevation secured was insufficient.

"Our artillery bombarded the fort from a northwesterly direction and worked with a precision that would be hard to equal. One of the batteries in the fort had been put out of action by a bull's eye shot for each piece and in other cases the barrel of the gun had been torn from the carriage, leaving a scrap heap of barrel, wheels, limber parts and masonry. One of the barrels had dents four centimeters deep where fragments of our bursting shells had hit it.

In this helpless cage a garrison of about 900 men had been stationed. It is understood that the men fled as soon as fire was opened by our artillery. Instead of placing this force in trenches they depended upon this position with the result that their defeat was complete moral and physical.

Tribute To Commander.
"There is the grave of the poor commandant who witnessed the futile struggle and then saw his men utterly routed by a numerically superior enemy. The poor man ended his life. Simple German soldiers have honored this deed by a massive cross of wood upon which they painted in good lettering the words: 'Here rests the brave commandant. He found it impossible to survive the fall of the fort in his charge. R. I. P. With this simple cross of wood the German soldiers honor in you the hero who did his duty.'"

MANY PETITIONS FOR PARDON PRESENTED FOR TEMPLE MAN

Austin, Texas, Nov. 4.—The name of Frank Willis of Temple, sentenced to a short term in the penitentiary for manslaughter, is being urged in numerous petitions as one recipient of a Thanksgiving pardon at the hands of Gov. Coakley. Willis was released from prison on his honor recently to visit his wife, who is dangerously ill. Some time ago at Austin he, at the risk of his own life, saved a small negro girl who had been attacked by a rattlesnake. Temple and Austin citizens are working hard to secure Willis' pardon Thanksgiving.

WORK OF UNIVERSITY OF LOUVAIN TO BE CONTINUED

Activities In Part To Be Transferred To Cambridge Which Now Resembles Fort

By Associated Press.
Cambridge, Nov. 6.—Cardinal Mercier has appointed professors from the University of Louvain to arrange for four courses of the faculties of theology, law, science and philosophy at Cambridge and the proposal that the destroyed university shall transfer its work here for the time being is taking practical shape. Students at Cambridge have started a shilling fund for the assistance of Belgian students and weekly contributions will be made on behalf of the Louvain students, several hundred of whom will doubtless begin their work at Cambridge in a short time. Cambridge has much more the appearance of a garrison town than an educational center. Students have military drill instead of games for recreation. Instead of rowing and football drill masters of the officers' training corps put the students through three hours of military training every day and military lectures are held at night.

At the military hospital medical professors and demonstrators care for hundreds of wounded soldiers quartered here. Both Belgians and British wounded are sent to Cambridge. Other Cambridge men are running a hospital ship at sea and two thousand commissions in all have been granted Cambridge graduates and ex-students who are now at the front.

DANGER OF MEAT FAMINE DECLARED TO BE REMOTE

By Associated Press.
Chicago, Nov. 5.—Danger of a meat famine resulting from the closing of the Union Stockyards for nine days, the largest live stock market in the world, is remote, officials of the leading packing companies announced today. Prices of meat will not be perceptibly affected, they said.
