Last Sunday was a good day with us, Crowds, beyond expectations attended the services of the day. Both Church Ordinances were observed. Three were baptized at an afternoon service, and the Lord's Supper was observed at the night service.

The Bible School this week is well attended and a fine interest prevails. Certainly, this work is profitable to those in attendance. Time spent in Bible study is by no means wasted, but on the other hand, is gloriously invested.

The Training Union work continues to reach new heights. 57 young people came last Sunday evening to this service. Brother Royce Gilliland, the general director of the work, leads in a fine way, upward and onward. The Lord's Blessings are upon the work.

Sunday Morning, we plan to bring a message on "Why I Believe Jesus Is Coming Soon". Every reason given will be a Bible reason. Come bring your Bible to this service. Sunday night we will continue the series of sermons in Revelations, using Rev. 6—the opening of the seals. These service will be well worth your while, and we invite you to attend.

AROUND TOWN

With Otto B. Grade

Will my friend Otto Bordenkircher please take note, whatever else this pencil pusher may be he ain't grade B in anything. That slip that made the line read Otto B. Grade instead of Otto B. Grat, was one of those "accidents" and you may now address all mail for our loutytypist in care of the County Hospital. I might add, though, that since that quip Vinettes stock has gone up several points with the local hecklers who make a hobby of defiling the name of Grade in this county. — Ah Woe!

Dust off the welcome mat for some new comers to the Baird citizenship for the Baulch family and that oh so lovely daughter, Frances, moved in last week. Neighbors are hereby given storm warning and advised to keep children and all other valuables in the house on the days Mrs. Baulch lets her little girl out. Aw, this is all in fun, the gal is a friend of mine.

Welcome home too, to Del and Loyce Shocklee, who are pitching tent in this camp now. By the way the baby daughter, Mildred Lou, "Mickey", is getting to be sweeter and cuter every day, and it's no wonder the parents are so proud of that little blue eyed flirt.

Will wonders never cease? Every time I skid into the post-office I find some new talent among the clerks. Now its, Terrell Williams and Elva Smith, master of clever repartee. If you ask for an air mail stamp they'll come back with, "You mean a Plane one?" And it doesn't dim their satisfaction when you yell "Corn" either.

Baird's college keeds were all home for the holidays, just a bunch of college bred Easter yeggs on furlough. Your reporter had a talk with, Bill Hollingshead Jo Ruth Arvis, Marion Dyer, Jim Tom Lawrence, Bill Fetterly, Randall Jackson, Clyde Wallace Yarbrough, Lewis Hill, Catherine James, and there's probably a lot more that I didn't see who saw me first.

Book of the week is "Blackley Range", a whop'um up western story minus all feminine touches. There's plenty of cattle rustling, robberies, and shooting, but no woo pitching will you find. Maybe you can't see why, but it is a good yarn.

Spotlight of the week goes to Mr. and Mrs. Jo Barnett and their pretty little daughter, Wyona. The Barnett's have made excellent business people for our town and first class friends and neighbors to all of us.

ON THE BAIRD CAMPUSES PAE

With the closing of school only about a month away your school reporter is making a human pretzel out of himself to keep up with everything that's going on.

This week the Seniors will accept an invitation from John Tarleton College in Stephenville to tour the school, be guests for a luncheon, and stay for the special entertainment which is all apart of the Open House Senior party given for High School Senior classes throughout the state. It all brings back fond memories of the gay thirties when this fella' celebrated to go gaily at such a party and knocked out a six-year molar on a rock in the barbecued beans we had for lunch.

Regional meet looms ahead this week too, and Baird will send tennis, track, typing, and one act play teams to Abilene to vie for top honors there.

Thursday night the Baird faculty attended a meeting of the Callahan Teachers in Clyde. The meeting was topped with a banquet for the teacher.

Dale McCook's Baird Band met with applause at the spring concert last week. It was the bands first appearance in their dressy uniforms. The suits military style all wool, are red white trimming and if Baird isn't the best dressed band at state meet this year then the judges taste just can't be relied upon.

The Junior-Senior banquet, gala celebration of the year, will be held in Cisco Saturday night. The lads and lassies will be out in full dress and many a young thing's dairy will hear sweet whisperings the morning after. The Junior-Senior get together stands second only to Commencement in importance to both classes.

Mrs. Frank Estes, upon the invitation of Superintendent Olaf G South and Joe Cowen, displayed her collection of hand made dolls and gave a short lecture to the school Wednesday afternoon.

This column congratulates Lelia Hammock upon her inspired direction of Baird's One Act Play. It sent the Judges at the district meet reeling and the troop brought home the trophy cup which sets a mark for the

The play, "Never Darken My Door", is a comedy, and three cheers for the trend that is taking high school boys and girls away from the dynamic, emotion packed plays that are pounds too heavy for youthful actors and actresses.

Here is a little personal item that we picked up on the campus this week, Ona Dell Ashton spent the week-end at home in Brownwood. Way back in the cobwebs of my memory I've heard that Ashton hails from Hamilton, but if she says Brownwood is home I suppose she should know.

Wildlife Restoration Week

Rodents, Predators Controlled
This week (April 14-19) Texas will join the rest of the nation in the celebration of National Wildlife Restoration Week sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation, but the United States Fish and Wildlife Service admits that the house rat is one species of animal that no one wants to conserve according to William S. Heit, Junior District Field Assistant.

Last year, almost 20,000 homes, warehouse, business establishments, and farms were treated for rat eradication, the work being done with the aid of rodent control workers in the Department of the Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service.

Rat-bait material was prepared and distributed by the Service's rodent-control workers and cooperators in all sections of the country. Heit said. Some 42,157 premises were treated for rat control in Texas last year.

Predatory-animal and rodent control work in this District is carried on by E. T. Personett and J. B. Lindsey.

In addition to conduction or aiding in cooperative rat-eradication campaigns, employees of the Service's Division of Predator and Rodent Control aid in operations for the control of other animals that are injurious.

"Coyotes cause one of our biggest problems," Heit said, "because they are responsible for the greater total loss to livestock and poultry than all other predators combined." The coyote population has markedly increased in the last 10 years in many sections of the West, he added, and the species is becoming established locally in the East.

Reliable reports of the presence of coyotes in Maine, New Jersey, Georgia, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania have been received by Service personnel. Most of the Eastern infiltrations of this predator are credited to "ourists who bring coyote pups home as pets and then either release or lose the animals.

more than $1,500,000 for predator and rodent control operations. Rodents of all types affect the economic and health conditions in the community. In the West, ground squirrels, prairie dogs, and jackrabbits play havoc with farm crops and grazing lands, and at the same time may be carriers of communicable diseases. In the East, field mice inflict great damage to orchard trees and nursery stocks.

To reduce damage to crops and the spread of diseases, rodent-control workers in the State treated 1,202,389 acres of land for Pocket gophers damage: 287,952 for rabbit damage: 162,686 for prairie dog damage.

"When officials estimate that rat damage in rural sections of Crawford County, Ill amounts to $25,000 a year," Heit said, "and cottontail rabbits cause $3,000 damage by gridding 5,000 apple trees in Yanktown, S. Dakota, then one can realize the necessity for this control work."

Peanut Referendum Saturday, April 26th

Callahan County peanut farmers will vote on Saturday, April 26, in a referendum to determine whether they will market their 1941 crop under marketing quotas, according to J. L. Farmer, Chairman of the county A.A.A. committee.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard proclaimed marketing quotas for peanuts this week after Congress had provided for such action in a recent amendment to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938. If approved by two-thirds of the farmers voting in the county referendum, quotas will be in effect for three years.

The national marketing quota is the amount of peanuts which will be harvested from the national acreage allotment, set by law at 1,610,000 acres. This is the same as the 1940 peanut allotment under the agricultural conservation program, which will be continued in 1941. Under the quota, a farmer who plants within his peanut acreage allotment may market all he produces without penalty. Peanuts marketed in excess of the farm marketing quota are subject to a penalty of three cents per pound. However, payment of the penalty is not required if the excess peanuts are delivered to an agency designed for handling excess peanuts. In this case, the farmer receives for his excess peanuts the price for oil, which usually is considerably lower than the market price for edible peanuts.

Only those peanuts which are picked and thrashed by mechanical means are subject to marketing quotas. This means that peanuts hoggged off or dug for hay do not come under quotas. Also, quotas do not apply to farms on which the measured peanuts acreage is one acre or less.

The Act requires that if quotas are not approved in the referendum, no peanut loan or diversion program can be offered on the 1941 crop. If quotas are approved in the referendum, farmers are assured of a loan or diversion program, or both, as a means of protecting peanut prices. The loan rate would be between 50 and 75 percent of parity.

A preliminary report gives the 1940 peanut acreage picked and thrashed by mechanical means as 1,907,000 acres, from which the production was 1,611,634,000 pounds. In 1935 this acreage was 1,473,000 and the production was 1,147,225,000 pounds.

Questions and Answers On Peanut Marketing Quotas

Q. How do marketing quotas help farmers?

A. Marketing quotas give to each farmer his fair share of the available market and thus his share of the income from the crop.

Q. (What) is the peanut marketing quota for a farm?

A. The 1941 farm marketing quota is the actual average yield per acre of peanuts harvested on the farm times the acreage allotment established under the 1941, A. C. P.

Q. Under what condition will marketing quotas be in effect on the 1941 peanut crop?

A. Marketing quotas will be in effect if approved by two-thirds or more of the peanut growers voting in the forthcoming referendum.

Q. When will the referendum be held?

A. The referendum will be held on Saturday, April 26, 1941.

Q. Who is eligible to vote in the referendum?

A. Producers who shared in the proceeds of a 1940 peanut crop which was picked and thrashed by mechanical means, are eligible to vote in the referendum. This includes owners, tenants, and share croppers, each of whom is entitled to one vote.

Q. How long will quotas be in effect?

A. If peanut marketing quotas are approved, they will be in effect for the crops produced in 1941, 1941 and 1943.

Q. If peanut marketing quotas are in effect, will they apply in a State, county or community where the favorable vote is less than two-thirds?

A. Yes. The peanut problem affects all peanut producers. Consequently, quotas will apply wherever peanuts are produced.

Q. Will peanuts harvested with in the farm acreage allotment be subject to penalty?

A. No. A farmer who harvests within the farm acreage allotment may market all his peanuts without penalty.

Q. How will the marketing quota apply to a farm, on which peanuts are harvested in excess of the farm acreage allotment?

A. Peanuts picked and thrashed by mechanical means which are marketed from an acreage in excess of the farm acreage allotment, unless delivered to an agency designated by the Secretary for crushing for oil, will be subject to a penalty of three cents a pound.

Q. What price will the grower receive for excess peanuts delivered to this agency?

A. Peanuts picked and thrashed by mechanical means which are marketed from an acreage in excess of the farm acreage allotment, unless delivered to the Secretary for crushing for oil, will be subject to a penalty of three cents a pound.

Q. What price will the grower receive for excess peanuts delivered to this agency?

A. The grower will be paid the current market price of the peanuts for crushing for oil, less the cost of handling.

Q. How will the penalty be collected?

A. The penalty will be collected on a percentage of each lot of peanuts marketed from the farm. The percentage of each lot subject to penalty will be that percentage which the acreage of peanuts picked and thrashed in excess of the farm acreage allotment is of the total acreage of such peanuts on the farm.

Q. May a grower who harvests peanuts within the farm acreage allotment deliver them to the agency designated by the Secretary of Agriculture?

A. Yes. The grower can either sell his peanuts to a buyer at the market price for edible peanuts or deliver them to the designated agency. In the latter case he will receive either the loan rates which will be between 50 and 75 percent of parity, or the price established under a peanut diversion program, whichever is in effect.

Q. What disposition will be made of peanuts delivered to this agency?

A. Peanuts delivered to the agency will be sold for crushing for oil, unless needed by the edible trade.

Q. Are there any provisions exempting small farms from quotas?

A. Marketing quotas will not apply to farms on which the acreage of peanuts picked and thrashed by mechanical means is one acre or less.

Q. Will measures be taken to protect peanut prices when marketing quotas are in effect?

A. Yes. The Law provides that either a peanut loan or a diversion program, or both, shall be based on past acreages of peanuts offered each year in which peanuts picked and thrashed on the nut marketing quotas are in farm and these include peanuts used for seed and feed.

Q. Will any acreage of peanuts be considered as excess prices be in effect if growers do not approve marketing quotas?

A. No. The law prohibits a peanut loan or diversion program when quotas are not in effect.

Q. Do marketing quotas affect agricultural conservation payments which a peanut producer may receive in 1941?

A. No. Producers who fully comply with the 1941 A. C. P. will receive full payments, which will not be affected by peanut marketing quotas. However, producers who exceed their permitted acreage under the provisions of the A. C. P. will be subject to deductions from their conservation payments.

Q. Can peanuts be substituted for any other crop without incurring deductions under the A. C. P.?

A. Yes. Since oil is produced from both cotton and peanuts a farmer who reduces the cotton acreage in 1941 below the cotton acreage allotment (except new grower allotments) for the farm may harvest an acreage of peanuts for oil not in excess of the acreage of cotton so reduced without thereby incurring any deductions under the A. C. P., provided such peanuts are delivered to an agency designated by the Secretary for crushing for oil.

Q. Do acreage allotments include peanuts used for feed and seed on the farm?

A. Yes. Acreage allotments are established.

O. Will peanut marketing quotas apply to farms on which peanuts are not picked and thrashed by mechanical means?

A. No. But the operator will be required to obtain a marketing card to identify any peanuts marketed from the farm as being free from penalty.
