CENTENARIANS HAVE BIG CONFLAB AT DRUG STORE

With a combined age of 189 years marked up to their credit, palavering over the past, politics, and petty personals attracted quite a bit of attention in one of the local drug stores Saturday, and seemed to be continuing early Monday morning near one of the banks.

We refer to Quince Ellis, age 93 plus, who had as his guest, a friend of many years, Monroe Fore, a mere lad of 96, who were putting on the "heavy chatter."

Being so unusual that two "youngsters" of such immature age get together, there was considerable comment about them. Long may they live. If not, longer.

Receipts of the British railways are showing an increase over a year ago.

The B-type Delaine Merino flock of sheep owned by L. P. Clark, Copperas Cove, went on display with the opening of the Texas Centennial June 6 as a view flock for the millions of Centennial visitors to observe. It is planned that this flock will remain at the Centennial until August 20. A view flock of C-type Delaine Merino sheep owned by L. P. Clark of Copperas Cove will also go on display June 20 and, remain at the Centennial until July 19 at which time the C-type view flock of Delaine Merino owned by T. E. Mangrum, Copperas Cove, will replace the C-type flock of Clark's. Beginning on August 1 and continuing until August 20 the C-type flock of Fred Robinson of Pearl will be on display at the Texas Centennial Exposition.

These breeders, Clark, Robinson, and Mangrum, are placing their sheep at the Centennial in an effort to acquaint the public with the very excellent sheep produced in Coryell County, and it will be noted that the Coryell County sheep will be displayed approximately two-thirds of the duration of the Exposition.

How flocks which will enter into competition with sheep from all over the United States are being prepared and will be shown in the names of these some three breeders. The show flocks will be exhibited at the fall shows and at present are scheduled to go to San Angelo in September and to the Frontier Centennial at Fort Worth in October, then on to the Texas Centennial at Dallas the latter part of October.

Coryell County has an opportunity in sheep and goats. These men are taking the lead in advancing that opportunity.

Business men of Gatesville are cooperating with the breeders by furnishing transportation to and from the Centennial for the view flocks.

STUMPIN' THE STATE

With The Spectator

Five candidates have announced for governor this year and only three are of known political strength. Governor Allred commands a large following in all parts of the State, as does Tom Hunter. Roy Sanderford is unknown politically—his political life being confined to one term in the Senate—but has the support of former Governor James E. Ferguson and his many supporters.

F. W. Fischer is campaigning upon a platform which is certain to attract attention and probably votes, but at this early date the support which he can expect is uncertain. Pierce Brooks is generally conceded fifth place in the race by most political prognosticators, but he has been waging a vigorous campaign in north Texas.

In order that the voters may become acquainted with the lives and qualifications of the candidates for office, we will publish at various intervals brief biographies of the candidates for United States Senator, Governor, and Railroad Commissioner—those which are attracting most interest and attention today.

James V. Allred first entered state politics in 1926 when he ran for Attorney General against the incumbent, Claude Pollard and received only 4,046 votes less than his successful opponent.

In 1930 he defeated R. L. Bobbitt for Attorney General. Bobbitt had been appointed by Governor Moody to fill the unexpired term of Attorney General Pollard.

GOV. JAMES V. ALLRED

Two years later he announced for Governor. In the field of seven were some of the State's most prominent statesmen and speakers, including the Lieutenant Governor, a former Secretary of State, a State Senator, and two men who had made creditable showings in other gubernatorial campaigns. Allred led the field in the first primary and won the nomination in the runoff over Tom Hunter of his home town of Wichita Falls by 40,000 votes.

Governor Allred will open his campaign for reelection, at Waxahachie June 20. A few days later he will nominate John N. Garner before the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia for reelection as Vice President. After that he will return to Texas and campaign until the first primary.

P. PIERCE BROOKS

P. Pierce Brooks, Dallas real estate agent, is basing his campaign for governor on the slogan, "Put the State on a Business Basis."

Brooks is an unknown political quality in state politics, but according to reports reaching this writer has aroused considerable interest where he has spoken.

The main proposals of his platform to "Put the State on a Business Basis," include:

Paying a pension to ALL over 65 years of age and to offer a referendum to include payment to all over 60 as soon as proposed laws can be enacted and sufficient revenue measures can be passed.

Placing a wide-spread gross receipts tax on all big businesses which, he maintains, will raise 60 million dollars annually.

Passing to the motorists of Texas a tax-free automobile license plate, with a small registration fee of $1.00 to $2.00.

Elevate our public school system to a higher level and compensate the teachers more in proportion to their requirements.

Inauguration of a State Department of Real Estate and Industry, composed of business men, without salary, to rehabilitate factory communities and restore purchasing power to industry and their employees.

In his campaign address, Brooks states: "I am a plain business man candidate and I promise to bring into my administration all the energies and experience of good business to the end that my State and your State shall know once again a firm but friendly administration of its affairs, with equal rights to all and special privileges to none."

EMANCIPATION PROGRAM AT HALL OF NEGRO CULTURE TO BE HELD JUNE 19

Dallas, June 15.—The greatest Emancipation Day program in history has been planned, centering around the formal dedication of the Hall of Negro Culture at the Texas Centennial Exposition June 19. Sam W. Houston, public relations council for the state advisory committee, said today. He said an attendance of 100,000 Negroes from all over the South is certain.

The program will begin at 10 a. m. with a great street parade. All fraternal orders and schools and colleges for Negroes will participate and music will be furnished by 25 bands. The basic element of the parade will be scores of floats portraying the advancement of the Negro race since the independence of Texas in 1836.

The program allows two hours for the parade and the time between noon and 2 p. m. will be devoted to tours of the Texas Centennial Exposition exhibits and grounds. The formal dedication ceremony of the $70,000 Hall of Negro Culture will begin at 2 p. m. Houston said throughout the entire day provisions will be made for white people.

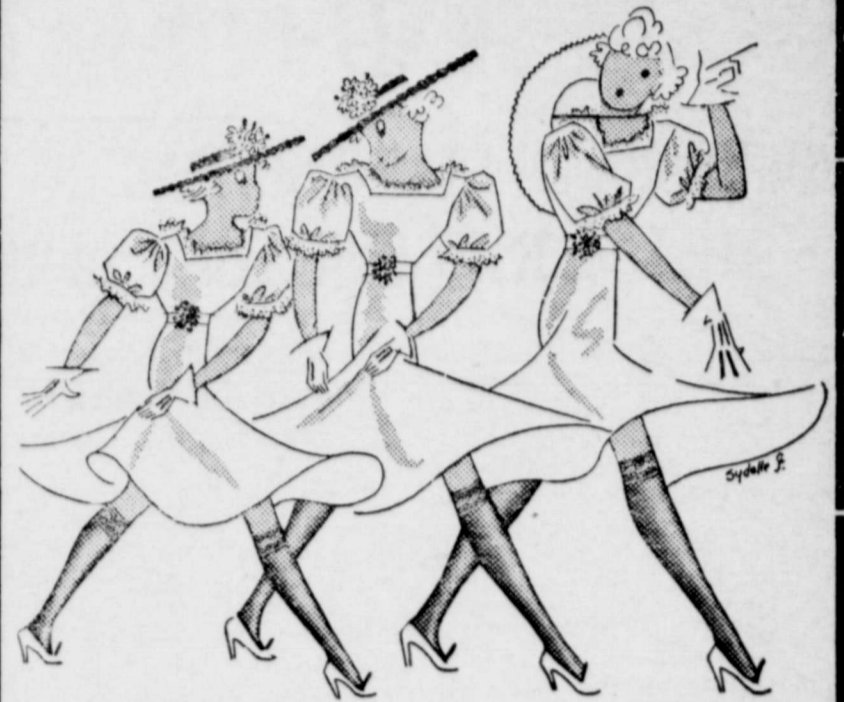

The dedication program will begin with all present singing "America," followed by an invocation by Rev. E. C. Dyer, Dallas, president of the International Ministers' Alliance. A. S. Jackson Jr., director of music at Booker T. Washington High School, Dallas, will lead in singing the national anthem. Jesse O. Thomas, Atlanta, master of ceremonies, will be presented.

The Negroes of the South will then be welcomed to the Exposition by Cullen F. Thomas, U. S. Centennial commissioner general.

W. R. Banks, chairman of the State Advisory Committee and president of Prairie View College, will introduce members of both state and federal advisory committees. He will then present Houston who is a son of Joshua Houston, body servant of General Sam Houston.

A chorus of 5,000 voices, the public Negro schools of Texas, will render a series of vocal selections, after which John W. Rice, Houston, Grand Secretary of the United Order of Odd Fellows, will deliver an address. The subject is yet to be an-

NEW SOIL CONSERVATION RULES FOR LOCAL PARTICIPANTS

New regulations received on the Soil Conservation program are as follows:

1. Cotton does not have to be produced by the producer in 1936.
2. Sudan grass, sweet sorghums or grain sorghums may be planted in rows and turned under as a soil building practice. Prebibus information was that cotton must be grown by each producer who had a cotton base and signed to work sheet. Original instructions were that sudan grass, sweet sorghums and grain sorghums must be broadcast to receive the soil building payment.

Special attention is called to the fact that where a producer fails to plant cotton in 1936 on a farm under a work sheet, the soil depleting acreage must not be increased.

To avoid misinterpretation of the above ruling each producer who does not thoroughly understand the two new statements should contact his committeeman or the county agent's office.

Sign up on the Soil Conservation program closed Wednesday, June 10. Coryell County sign up was most commendable.

"FOLLOW THE FLEET" AT REGAL DANCES INTO SATURDAY NIGHT

In the parlance of the men who write motion picture ad copy, "Follow the Fleet," the new Astaire-Rogers picture that is booked for showing at the Regal Theatre Saturday night, Sunday and Monday, is a terrific musical bombshell, with a complete score by Irvin Berlin. The music master doesn't come to the screen himself, but his genius floods it from front to back to provide rhythm for the miraculous feet of Astaire and Rogers and infectious lyrics for their voices.

The nimble Astaire and his little titan-haired partner, have scored three record smashing hits within the short period of a year. They come to the public with quite a new and bewildering display in "Follow the Fleet."

Astaire sings and dances to "We Saw the Sea," and "I'd Rather Lead a Band." With Miss Rogers who sings and dances to "All My Eggs in One Basket" and "Let's Face the Music and Dance." Miss Rogers has a solo song and dance, "Let Yourself Go," which is reprised with Fred as a dance contest.

Randolph Scott, who first crashed the big time with the dancing stars in that musical fantasy of Paris, "Roberta," reaches for new laurels in this show. He neither sings nor dances but delivers red-blooded romantic appeal.

All Astaire-Rogers pictures have one or more personality surprises to pop. "Gay Divorcee" was loaded with them. "Top Hat" gave Helen Broderick to the screen, and now comes "Follow the Fleet" with Harriet Hilliard, considered the most important find of the year. "Beauty, a lovely figure, a glorious voice, acting ability and a personality that will reach out from the screen, are her assets. She came from the radio and the New York dance bands to play opposite Randolph Scott and help weave the second of the two romantic threads of the story.

"Follow the Fleet" is an adaptation of two famous plays, "Hit the Deck" and "Shore Leave." It catches the invigorating spirit of the navy afloat and ashore. There is a spectacular climax in which an elaborate style show is staged as an incidental to the plot.

Jack Hearn of Austin visited his father, John Hearn, last Saturday and Sunday. Other of Uncle Johnny Hearn's children were here together. They all met at Pecan Grove Friday for a family reunion and outing.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Welborn and son, Herbert Jr., Misses Pauline Garner and Miss La Verne Wilson were visitors in Fort Worth Saturday to hear the speech by President Roosevelt.

Mrs. John Milner, who is attending Baylor University summer school, spent last week end at her home in Gatesville.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Summers went to Waco Friday to meet their son J. W., who has been in Fort Worth attend business school.

Little Miss Nevilly Dawn Bobo of Robstown is spending two weeks here with her grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Bond.

Mrs. W. P. Stockmier of Dallas is spending the week here with relatives and friends.

Jodie Mark of Tyler spent Sunday with Miss Lilly May Morris.

Miss Inez Rogers and Carl Drake were Hamilton visitors Sunday.

Miss Marjorie Wollard has returned from a week's vacation in Houston with her brother Jack, who is employed there.

Charlie Stephen entered the shooting match which was held at the Country Club in Lampasas Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Martin and daughter, Pauline, were in Fort Worth Saturday and heard the speech of the President.

Mrs. W. P. Stockmier of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson and daughter Caroline of Ranger, Mr. and Mrs. David Weigand of Kyle, and Mr. and Mrs. William Weigand and daughter of Gatesville spent Sunday with George Weigand, who celebrated his 77th birthday anniversary, at the home of his son Henry Weigand, who lives in the Plainview community.

Anderson, Misses Flogene Martin, Claydene Strickland and Grady Dickie, Bill Amont, Carl McClendon and son, Carl Jr.

Nights of Play in Softball Schedule Changed

Starting last night, the nights of play in the local softball league have been changed from Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays to Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. The reason for the change has previously been explained.

The original schedule as far as the games are concerned, will be carried out with each game being moved up a night. In other words all Tuesday games appearing on the schedule will be played on Monday, all Thursday games on Wednesday, and all Friday games on Thursday.

ATTENTION BASEBALL MANAGERS

In a last desperate effort to get the season standings correct we are asking the manager of each team to send in the results of his team games for the entire season up to date. We have worked out a chart whereby we can keep an accurate record of the games provided we receive them. We will try to arrange a means to get these reports in each week if the managers will lend his support. We suggest that the manager of the team playing at home to send in the report each time on a postal card. The cost is small, and it's through some such report only that will enable us to keep record of the games and team standings.

ous parts of the Nation, when occasions presented the opportunity of worthwhile publicity. Among such occasions was the Rose Bowl game in California and the special Centennial trip sponsored jointly by the Texas Press Association and the State Advisory Board for the Advertising.

"To properly dignify such excursions and to secure the desired publicity by the presence of important State officials, it has become frequently necessary to request the Governor of Texas to accompany such parties and to be the principal spokesman for the State of Texas and the Centennial Celebrations.

"To every such request Governor Allred has willingly and cheerfully responded. On such occasions he has carried the message of Texas to hundreds of thousands of listeners, in personal audiences, by radio, and in the press; and by his magnetic personality and charming address has rendered a distinct and invaluable service to the State of Texas.

"Therefore, the directors of the Texas Centennial Exposition take pleasure in acknowledging their appreciation and thanks for his valuable service to the cause of all Texas Centennial celebrations, and to commend him for his energy and far-sighted wisdom in this respect."

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

A GUY in London was bragging about the London fogs. He says, "Why, they ain't got fogs like ours nowhere. You bally guys think you've seen fogs around Nova Scotia. Why, we got fogs that fair wrecks the town at times."

"Yes, as how it wrecks the town?"

"Well, you see that there row of buildings that ain't standing along the water-front there? There used to be a nice, fine row of flats there. And the fog done away with 'em."

"Yes, but how?"

"You won't believe me. It was that terrible fog last winter that stayed three months solid without moving, all over the town. Well, a contractor was putting up that row of flats there, and never thought about the fog. In the spring the fog drifted out to sea, and so did the flats, with everybody in 'em. The bloody mortar an' bricks had been cemented right into the fog. don't you know, and they was solid with it. We're waiting for next winter's fog-bank to drift in, to see if these here flats can be unscrambled."

Softball

The two games that were scheduled for Thursday night were both forfeited, the first one going to the Reds when Bugs Rutherford's newly organized team let it be known that they would be unable to play until last night. The Whites, for some unknown reason, failed to show up for their game with the merchants, giving the latter team its third victory of the season, and the camp team its fifth loss.

Last Friday night only one game was played, as the Firemen drew forfeit from Rutherford's aggregation. In the game played Doc's won over a highly improved Red team 8-3. With some few faces in the line-up the Camp team gave the league leaders more trouble than they bargained for and most of the winner runs came as the result of some bad breaks on the part of the losers. Wiggins of the winners hit a double and a triple.

Week's Schedule

Wednesday: Doc's and the Whites tangle in the first game while the Merchants and the Firemen furnish the fireworks in the second mele.

Thursday: The Reds and the Whites battle in the initial while Doc's and the Blues take the stage for the final act.

TEAM STANDINGS

Firemen	5	2	.714

Go. Allred Lauded by Centennial Officials For Service to State

Governor James V. Allred received the commendation and appreciation of the directors of the Texas Centennial Exposition for his service to Texas in publicizing the Centennial to the state and nation.

The following resolution adopted by the Centennial Board testified to the effectiveness of the Governor's efforts in behalf of the Centennial:

"In the development of the plans for the Texas Centennial Celebrations, the value and importance of nation-wide publicity was recognized by the setting aside from the State appropriation the sum of $500,000 for advertising. To reinforce this fund and to produce other and unusual publicity, it was deemed necessary and desirable that excursions of one kind and another should be made to vari-

WORLD COMMENT

By
JOE BURNS

With the Landon pre-convention boom sweeping the convention, to be followed by a dramatic and last-minute withdrawal from the presidential race of chief contenders Knox, Borah, Vandenberg, and Dickinson, Governor Alfred M. Landon of Kansas was unanimously nominated for president by the Republican National Convention meeting at Cleveland. Colonel Frank Knox of Illinois was chosen by the unanimous consent of the convention as the Republican candidate for vice president and Landon's running mate.

Landon's name was placed in nomination by John D. M. Hamilton, former National Committeeman from Kansas and manager of the Kansan's campaign. On the initial roll call, Landon received 984 of the 1003 votes. The 19 non-Landon votes cast by Wisconsin (18) and West Virginia (1), went to Senator Borah who had previously withdrawn from the race. Wisconsin moved that the nomination be made unanimous and the convention concurred.

After repeated efforts to draft Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg had failed, the convention turned to Colonel Knox, one of the outstanding contenders for the presidential nomination, and by unanimous choice made him the running mate. The Knox movement, approved by Landon followers after Senator Vandenberg's adamant refusal to accept the nomination, was fostered, by three Old Guard members, former George Moses of New Hampshire, David Reed of Pennsylvania, and Hiram Bingham of Connecticut. Rivals of Knox withdrew and released their delegates. Those mentioned as possible vice presidential nominees in addition to Knox included Gov. Harry W. Nice of Maryland, former Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey and Arthur W. Little of New York.

Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley made this statement following the nomination of Landon:

"Every single Republican who had a part in shaping party policies for the past generation was passed over in favor of a man who 18 months ago was unheard of by 95 percent of the American people."

The first suggestion of Landon-for-president came on November 7, 1934, in a post-election edition of the Kansas City Journal-Post, the day after Landon had become the only Republican Governor in the territory to be reelected in the Roosevelt landslide of that year. Following this a small group of Kansas politicians and editors, of which John Hamilton, who nominated Landon at Cleveland, Ray Roberts, managing editor the Kansas City Star, and George Longan and Henry Haskell, president and editor of the Star respectively, were the nucleus that took charge of the Landon campaign and nursed it along through 1935, when William Randolph Hearst grew interested in the budget-balancing accomplishments of the Kansan and threw his vast chain of newspapers behind his candidacy.

Since that time the Landon boom has blossomed like a flower. The five-month record of the American Institute of public opinion poll, published in May, shows Landon's strength to have increased from 33 percent in December to 56 percent in May. As Landon gained throughout the nation, Borah, Knox, and the other contenders correspondingly lost strength.

Governor Landon's minimum strength at the Cleveland convention was 350, although it is believed he would have been nominated on the first ballot had Knox and Borah remained in the race. To many the Landon boom and subsequent nomination were a miracle. Governor Landon explains:

"We didn't do anything at first. We just set back and it all happened."

For perhaps in the history of the Republican party, unless the nomination of Teddy Roosevelt in 1904 be counted, there was real deference to the will of the people and the delegates on the part of the GOP leadership. To the Old Guard leaders who have dominated the party for seventy years Landon "was not the man" but they acquiesced with good grace to the choice of the assembled delegates.

Party solidarity in the coming campaign is assured with one or two exceptions. The attitude of Senator Borah is still uncertain, although he framed part of the platform. Borah declared he felt "no objection" to Knox as the vice presidential nominee but refused to comment upon the choice of Landon for the first place. The Idaho Senator had never bolted his party, but many believe he will pursue another "hands off" policy this year as in 1932, when he refused to support either Hoover or Roosevelt.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota progressive Republican, was at the Cleveland meet but left, saying the platform had more chance to draw "reactionary support in the East than to regain" Western progressives.

Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, who bolted his party in 1928 and 1932 to support the Democratic nominees, said, "Reactionaries are in control," and predicted the reelection of President Roosevelt.

But from other sources, whose receptivity to the Landon nomination was in doubt, came pledges of support and loyalty to the platform and ticket. Herbert Hoover announced: "The ticket and the platform suit me fine." Charles D. Hilles, New York committeeman and Old Guard leader, joined the Landon forces and moved for the nomination of John Hamilton as national chairman.

From Senator Vandenberg, Senator Dickinson, former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and other prominent members of the party, came declarations of support to Landon and Knox.

Alfred Mossman Landon was born at West Middlesex, Pa., Sept. 9, 1887—therefore is 48.

He went to preparatory school at the Marietta, Ohio, academy and received an L.L. B. degree from the University of Kansas in 1908.

He was in business at Independence, Kan., till 1912, when he became an oil producer.

He served as a first lieutenant in the chemical warfare service during the World War. He was elected governor of Kansas in 1932 and reelected in 1934.

He is a member of the Phi Delta Gama, Phi Delta Phi, the Masons, the Odd Fellows, and the Elks. He is a Methodist.

His home is in Independence, Kans.

William Franklin Knox was born in Boston, on Jan. 1, 1874—thus is 42.

He received his A. B. at Alma, Michigan, College in 1898.

In July 1913, he became publisher of the Manchester (N. H.) Union and Leader, a paper which still is his. In addition, he was publisher of Hearst's Boston newspapers and became general manager of the Hearst papers during the period. In 1931 he purchased a controlling interest in the Chicago Daily News.

Knox was a member of the Rough Riders in the Spanish-American War. During the World War he was named commanding captain of field artillery.

He was chairman of the New Hampshire delegates to the Republican convention in Chicago in 1920.

SEN. HARDIN CANDIDATE FOR RAILROAD COMMISSIONER

Stephenville, June 11.—In response to an invitation from his friends and neighbors of 30 years' standing, Sen. Carl C. Hardin opened his campaign for railroad commissioner in Stephenville just recently. There were 5000 people in the audience to hear him, most of them coming from all parts of his home county, but there were others from adjoining counties. He spoke for 45 minutes and following that a citizen's committee served a barbecue luncheon to one of the largest public gatherings here in years.

Senator Hardin has been in public service for the past 12 years, two years in the legislature and eight years in the senate, and since the day he graduated from John Tarleton College has been active in business and civic circles. He has the reputation in his home town of rendering more aid and assistance to the people than any other one individual citizen.

During his last term in the senate Hardin introduced and successfully passed the homestead tax exemption, relieving homesteads from taxation up to and including $3000 value.

Changes he proposes in the operation of the Texas Railroad Commission in the event of his election were discussed freely in the opening address, among them being a policy of attending to the duties every day in the year. He likewise urged that the major companies be gauged by the same yardstick that measures the small independent operator. He also favors a vigorous and uninterrupted program of development in every county in Texas where oil possibilities exist, rather than curtailing such development. As a whole, Sen. Hardin emphasized the point that he would at all times aid in administering the duties of the railroad commission in a fair and constructive manner.

A citizen committee organized in Stephenville the past week contains the names of more than 50 Erath county people who propose to carry the campaign of Carl C. Hardin into every county in Texas, and in every way possible to recommend him for earnest consideration at the hands of the voters.

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD TO MEET WED., JUNE 17

The Coryell County School Board will hold a meeting on Wednesday, June 17, at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

At the meeting held on June 1st, all schools of the County were classified according to the State schedule, which is, for 1- and 2-teacher schools to teach 7 grades; 3-teacher schools to teach 8 grades; 4- and 5-teacher schools to teach 9 grades, and 7-teacher schools may teach 11 grades.

The Jonesboro school was given permission to teach 11 grades.

Schools that desire a different grading than that set forth by the State should inquire into the privileges and limitations of classified schools, and if they desire a different classification that teaches grades not permitted in the State classification ask for reclassification by the County Board. This should be done as early as possible. The County Board is always glad to hear the reasons why a school wants to be classified at a variance with the State's suggested program.

The County Board will consider any unfinished business at the June 17 meeting. It will also discuss a transportation system for 1936-1937.

Coryell County has received transportation from the State for their school year in the amount of $17,999.88.

Father's Day

June 21

DAD

Like Mothers, as pictured in magazines, newspapers and other presentations, Dad is usually pictured as an old man with one foot in the grave, rheumatic, bent, and nearly in his second childhood.

If you'll look around, Dad ain't so darned old! He likes to go fishing, hunt a little, play a little ball, in fact he's just an enlarged "little boy." Most of the "proud Papas" we know range in ages from say 25 to 40, and if you ask, that isn't old.

Now, getting down to the subject—Dad's day — Father's Day — is Sunday, June 21. Like Mother's Day, we'll admit, that they're both somewhat commercialized, but we don't hang on Mama's neck, or say those "sweet words" to Dad, telling him what a pal he has been and all that sort of sentiment, but we believe we moderns love our forebears just as much as those of the "lavender and old lace," or the "gay nineties," claimed too.

During this week, climaxing this Sunday, June 21, is Dad's Day, and if you've kind-of-neglected the old boy (and we suspect you have) get him some little "trick" that you know he'd like, or take him some place he'd like to go, say fishing—we'll leave that to your good judgement, because you know what he'd like. Let him have it!

Remember, Sunday, June 21, is DAD'S DAY!

C. I. A. REGENTS REQUEST MEMORIAL CHAPEL

Denton, June 15.—The recent controversy centered about the proposal to place a nude statue group on the Texas State College for Women (CIA) campus took on a new angle last week when the board of regents of the college presented a request to the Centennial Commission of Control that the $25,000 appropriation be used in the erection of a memorial chapel.

The request was made following the commission of control's refusal to place the William Zorach statue on the campus.

German production of paper and board established a new high record during the last year.

VACATION HAZARDS

Before the close of school, teachers should take advantage of the interest in the approaching summer vacation to plan some project work and discussion periods on the perennial problem of vacation safety. Parents' warnings will not suffice nor will teacher's lectures. Merrily children go on, truly laughing in the face of danger.

Textbook learning by itself does not furnish the answer. To discuss accidents alone or to describe the horror of sudden death and painful injury is not approved teaching technique. Nothing is gained by frightening children. Indeed we may destroy much of the zest for adventure, which, after all, is the wholesome outlook on life. Adventure is characteristic of childhood and youth. To prevent its expression is disastrous. Rather, we should learn how to guide youth in planning for adventure so that all the hazards are known and removed in advance. Thus, swimming and diving, desirable in themselves, become hazardous if large rocks and hidden stumps are in the pool and broken bottles on the bottom. All the adventure is gone if injury results; it remains if fun is unspoiled. This is the point of view we should attempt to develop. Planning for the swimming adventure, then means knowing the pool, its bottom, depth, currents and the like. And where hazards exist, either go elsewhere or plan for their removal.

Similarly, plan for a vacation hike, camping, a canoe trip, kite flying, a visit to the farm, and an automobile tour.

Death graduates one from the school of experience. Talking your head off leaves one a living corpse. Deceiving a friend is worse than spitting in the face of a stranger. Selfishness is the dedication of your life to yourself. One way to judge the world is to consider yourself a sample.

TAKE YOUR CAMERA ON VACATION TRIPS

Pictorial beauty and scenes of human interest may be captured almost anywhere by the vacationist who keeps his camera ready, as shown in these pictures taken on an automobile tour. The picture-taker stopped the car, instead of whizzing by.

AS EVERYBODY knows, one of the important pleasures of a vacation trip is talking about it afterwards. It is a rare person who has no desire to tell his friends what a "grand" time he had, of the places he visited, the beautiful scenery, the interesting people he met, and various entertaining experiences. If he is a good raconteur with the ability to make word pictures, his friends are likely to listen for quite a while, but, on the other hand, if he doesn't know how to tell his story interestingly, he may have to give in to "bored Yeah's," or a counter attack from his listener who, the chances are, has been on a vacation trip himself, and wants to tell his story.

However marvelous and interesting a trip is, and however well one is able to describe it, in the course of time the memory of it becomes dim, too vague to be inspiring any longer even to oneself. How much are you now able to tell about scenes, people and places on your first auto tour, say fifteen years ago?

There is only one sure way to keep these memories from fading and that is to take a camera with you on your trip and take pictures. With a camera, at least a half dozen rolls of film and a determination to take advantage of all picture-taking opportunities, you can create a picture story of your trip that no words, written or spoken, can tell so vividly, and will live. You always will enjoy looking at these pictures—and, as to telling the story to your friends—be sure they will always be ready to look when they won't listen!

Too often it happens that when starting on a vacation trip, he who has a camera neglects to take it along, or, if he does, too often fails to take advantage of picture opportunities. For example, it is easy when one is rolling along the road in an automobile to let an interesting or beautiful scene go by without stopping the car.

Make up your mind before you start on a vacation tour, whether by automobile or otherwise, that you are going to bring back a picture record of the principal and most interesting things you see; and tell any traveling companions without a camera that when you see a good picture they must give you the chance to get it. Remind them that this is a pleasure trip, and, especially if you go by auto, that this business of whizzing by the scenery just to get to the next place in the quickest time is silly. Impress upon them that stopping to record an interesting picture will be worth incomparably more in permanent value than the few minutes gained at the end of a day's journey. Get the pictures as you go.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE:
 Longfellow Deeds, first citizen and champion tuba player of Mandrake Falls, inherits his uncle's twenty million dollar estate. In New York, where he goes to claim his inheritance, he is besieged by cranks, chisellers and fanatics of every sort. Babe Bennett, blonde and pretty newspaperwoman, meets him through a subterfuge to get human interest stories on the new heir. Not knowing she is a reporter, Longfellow goes on a binge with Babe and Morrow, a famous author. The next day the papers scream the news of the "Cinderella Man's" Spree. Cobb, hard-boiled friend and mentor of Deeds, begs him to keep out of the newspapers. Longfellow agrees but he continues to see Babe, whom he knows as "Mary Dawson", and the stories of his exploits appear mysteriously each day in the papers. While he and "Mary" are walking in the park the fire engines come rushing up the street. Deeds, a volunteer fireman in Mandrake Falls, rushes off to help them fight the blaze. The next day the papers play it up with headlines: "CINDERELLA MAN FIRE-EATING DEMON".

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
Chapter Four

Babe Bennett was worried. She stared moodily at the chimneys and the tangle of radio aerials that stretched away from her apartment window. Her roommate, Mabel Dawson, sensed Babe's mood. "What's the matter, hon?" she asked. "Nothing," Babe still stared out the window.

"I tried to laugh but I couldn't. It stuck in my throat."
 (Posed by Jean Arthur)

"My unfeeling instinct tells me that something has gone wrong with the stew," Mabel persisted. Babe turned from the window and crossed to Mabel. "Mabel, that guy is either the dumbest, the stupidest, the most imbecile idiot in the world—or he's the grandest thing alive. I can't make him out."
 Mabel nodded knowingly. "Uh—huh," she said. Babe rushed on, trying to make Mabel understand. "Here's a guy that's wholesome and fresh—and he looks like a freak to us. Know what he told me today? When he marries he wants to carry the bride over the threshold in his arms."
 "The guy's balmy."
 But Babe wasn't so sure. "Is he? I thought so, too. I tried to laugh but I couldn't. It stuck in my throat. He's got goodness, Mabel. I know what I'm going to do. I'm going to stop crucifying him. I'm going to pack up and get out of town—right away!"
 "You're acting like a schoolgirl," Mabel protested. "Running away is no solution."
 "What else can I do? He's bound to find out that I'm doublecrossing him if I stay here. I can at least save him that." Babe rose and went into the bedroom. Mabel started after her but a knock on the apartment door interrupted her. She opened the door to find Longfellow standing there, looking uncomfortable in full evening clothes and with his top hat in his hand. "Is Mary Dawson here?" he asked. "My name is Longfellow Deeds."

 "Why—why, yes," Mabel stammered. Babe, who had heard Longfellow's voice came to the bedroom door. "I—I thought you were having a big party for the Opera Association at your house tonight?"
 "Oh, I wouldn't let them stop me from seeing you, Mary," Longfellow said airily. "I threw them out!"
 Babe's jaw dropped. "You mean—bodily?"
 "Yes. They got on my nerves, so I threw them out." Then he added sheepishly. "Guess that'll be in the papers tomorrow, too. Something else for them to laugh at."
 Babe picked up her hat. "Shall we go for a walk?" she asked.
 In the park Longfellow plunged right into the thoughts that were troubling him. "I'm going back to Mandrake Falls," he announced. "I once had an idea I could do some good with my money, but they keep me so busy doing crazy things down here. I don't seem to fit in. Mary, I—I was thinking—uh—I wish you could come to Mandrake Falls sometime." Babe was silent.
 "Mary, remember the poem I told you I was writing for you? It's finished. Would you like to read it?"
 "Yes. Of course," Babe replied in a very small voice.
 Longfellow drew a paper from his pocket. As he handed it to her he said, "Mary, you don't have to say anything when you read it. You can tell me tomorrow what you think." Babe took the paper from him and started to read:

"I tramped the earth with hopeless beat Searching in vain for a glimpse of you. Then heaven thrust you at my feet, A lovely angel—too lovely to woo! My dream has been answered but my life's just as blank I'm handcuffed and speechless in your presence divine— For my heart longs to cry out—if it only would speak, I love you, my angel—be mine, be mine!"
 Babe's voice was choked when she finished and her eyes were blinded with tears. Impulsively, she put her arms around his neck and kissed him. Longfellow's arms encircled hers and for a long moment they were still. "You don't have to say anything now, Mary," he repeated. "I'll wait to hear from you tomorrow."
 "Yes," Babe agreed, her voice still choked. "Tomorrow. Please take me home."
 They walked home in silence.

Lets Talk about Clothes
 TEXAS STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN (CIA)

Denton, June 15. During these hot sultry days, little attention is given to clothes. Something cool is all that is necessary for the average woman, but for the office worker, the appearance element enters just as strong as in the winter months. She has to look nice even if the thermometer does register 98, and sometimes it isn't such an easy problem.

 The elimination of silk from the office is by far the best thing girls have done. In the middle of the afternoon, nothing can look worse or be so hot and sticky as a wilted silk dress. And no girl can do first class work when her clothes are uncomfortable.

 Instead of the old tub silks, she now adorns crisp little cottons—dotted swisses, dimities, and novelty weaves of every description. There's a new fabric on the market similar to crash, yet as thin and cool as dimity. It makes an ideal office dress. Of course, linens and piques are always nice, but they wrinkle too easily to be really practical for office wear.
 The dresses are simple—we see no intricate patterns or unnecessary trimmings. They have very short sleeves, medium-low necks with tiny flat collars of contrasting material, and few or no pleats. Trimming consists of colored buttons or crossgrain ribbon belts and bows.
 Cotton laces are extremely popular, according to girls at Texas State College for Women (CIA). They are shown in pastel colors with shoulder lacings of narrow velvet ribbon. Some even have a tiny bolero jacket that makes a dress-up frock when you have a luncheon date. The dresses are street length and have very little trimming.

MODERN REFRIGERATION

Nationally famous
ELECTROLUX
 now operates with
KEROSENE (coal oil)
 NEEDS NO ELECTRIC CURRENT
 NO DAILY ATTENTION... NO WATER

HERE'S WHAT MRS. T. N. RYAN OF DOWNSVILLE, LA., WRITES: "I wish I could see Electrolux in every home because we have tried it out and know just what it is. We saw the ad in the paper and decided we could pay for Electrolux with just what we could save by having it six months. We did!"

If you've always longed for the many worthwhile conveniences and comforts of modern city refrigeration, here's great news! Kerosene Electrolux brings farm homes anywhere all these big advantages. In all important respects, it is identical with the gas-operated Electrolux now serving finest American homes and apartments in cities from coast to coast.
 You'll like the way Electrolux saves steps and food... freezes delicious desserts, plenty of ice cubes. And you'll like, too, its amazingly low cost to run. This ideal farm refrigerator operates on ordinary kerosene (coal oil) for only a few pennies a day... actually saves enough on food bills and refrigerating cost to pay for itself. One filling of the tank lasts a week or more. Electrolux uses no water.
 The reason Electrolux can operate so efficiently is its simple refrigerating method. Electrolux has no moving parts at all! A wickless glow-type kerosene burner does all the work... eliminates depreciation due to moving, wearing parts. Today—clip coupon below for free literature.
