POAGE SAYS POLICY CLEAR ON BRAZOS; ICKES DEMURS ALLOTING MONEY

Congressman W. R. Poage, who has just returned from a trip to Washington in connection with the application of the Brazos River Conservation and Reclamation District for a PWA loan and grant of $28,000,000 for the construction of flood control and power works on the Brazos River and its tributaries, expressed surprise Friday at the statement attributed to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes in Washington Thursday.

Ickes is reported to have said that he would withhold approval of any allotment for the Brazos project until they clarified their power policy. "We told Ickes," Poage said, "that we would gladly dispose of this power in any way he might suggest in keeping with the announced power policy of the district, which is as follows: 'The primary objective of the Brazos district is flood control. Almost of equal importance is the conservation of water for public uses. Applicable laws prescribe the methods the district must follow in financing its improvements. It is the policy of this district to make power generated by it available to the public without the intervention of private profit, by sale to municipalities and other public agencies, provided that no contract for the sale of power will be made without prior approval by the Federal Government.'

"We thought that Ickes was pleased with our offer. The Brazos River district has gone farther than any agency I know of in an effort to make its power policy fit into the policy of the Federal government. Not only has it committed itself to the above policy but it has expressly contracted that no power should be sold from the great Possum Kingdom Dam, now under construction, without the prior approval of the Federal Government.

"In its application now pending before the PWA loan and grant the district binds itself not to sell any power from any dam without this same prior approval of the Federal Government. It seems to me that the Brazos district has given more far-reaching assurances that the public would really receive a direct benefit from the power generated at its dams than any project of which I know."

Poage said the district was now preparing a complete statement of its power policy for transmission to the Secretary with the hope that it would meet any objection. The Congressman also commented on Ickes's suggestion that there would not be enough money to finish the entire Brazos project. He said that, in his opinion, Texas was not getting her full share of PWA funds and that if she did there would be plenty of money for the entire project. He emphasized the fact, however, that the Brazos project is primarily a flood-control project and insisted that if only a part of the application were granted that it must include substantial flood control provisions.

"We are having to build twice as many dams as we need for flood protection because we have to have the power to pay for the flood control," Poage said. "If we only get part of our dams we must keep a part of each dam empty until we get adequate flood control farther down the river."

HUDDLESTON TO CONTEST VOTE? HEADLINE IN TIMES-HERALD

In an INS story from Austin, under Sept. 23 date line, we quote "An election for the next session of the legislature brewed here today as Rep. Earl Huddleston of Coryell county attempted to determine whether he or Weldon Burney is the nominee."

"The original return showed Huddleston had been reelected but a corrected tabulation of the votes sent in by election officials of Hamilton and Coryell county to the democratic executive committee listed Burney as the winner."

"Huddleston conferred with numerous party and state officials, had not definitely determined his course. In the event of a contest, the legislature itself is usually the judge of its own members."

Representative Huddleston of Mr. Burney neither were in town since this story came out, and we have no statement from either.

According to Chairman C. H. McGilvray, according to records turned in, the election stands as is, unless there is a recheck called for the ballots. Short forms, and other returns have been declared by the Coryell county Democratic Executive Committee as correct, and are as certified to the State Committee.

South America's Columbia

By R. G. Davidson

La Petrolia Field
Cucuta, Columbia, S. A.
September 4, 1938

After having located my hotel that I was stopping over in Miami, I decided to call Mr. B. C. Hanks who as you know is formerly of Gatesville. You know that he is President of the Florida Light & Power Co. After getting his secretary on the phone and being asked the nature of my call and etc. I just told her my name and that I was from Gatesville, Texas. She said, Oh! well, I will connect you with Mr. Hanks, I'm sure he has time to talk with you. He was really in a big conference, but just say Gatesville and by golly, he took off several minutes and was so glad to hear from the ole home town that he invited me out to dinner. Naturally, we talked Gatesville all during the dinner. He is a grand person. And by the way, he said we had rather have any job in Gatesville, even as a dog-catcher, just to be able to live there, than to live in Florida and be Pres. F. P. & L. Co. Well, I didn't agree with him at the time, but since being down here, with a touch of homesickness now and then, I believe he has something there. Now don't take him real serious, for you should see the home he has there, it is beautiful, right along the Miami Beach on Flamingo Drive. We went out to a swanky place to eat and being as how I had made other arrangements I didn't get to see in it but passed by there the next morning.

I stopped over nite at the Shorham Hotel, right on the beach, private bathing beach and all that I picked it out for several reasons. One was that the company was paying for my expenses, and I had met some people on the train who were stopping there. These people, a Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, incidentally, had a most attractive daughter. So—we took in the night life of Miami, or maybe I should say the night life of Miami took us in. At any rate, a swell time was had by all.

The Pan-American Clipper left Miami at 8 o'clock, and for a fact, I was a bit scared. The news papers were full of something about a hurricane somewhere in the Gulf. But when one of those ships take off, you can rest assured they know all there is to know about the weather. In less than two hours we were over Cuba, we were flying at around 11,000 feet sometimes 12,000 and it was as smooth as sitting at home in a big arm chair. We stopped for about 15 minutes in Cuba at the

Hornets Take Temple "Bees" With a 14 to 0 Count Friday Night

HORNETS SHOW MUCH POTENTIAL POWER IN TILT

With a fast first quarter, followed by three anti-climaxes, during which time Coach Worley rightly tried many combinations, in shaping his 1938 football machine, the Gatesville Hornets took a deleted Temple B team by the score of 14-0.

Included in the Temple lineup, were only two members of the team which Belton beat 14-6 Friday week. These were Hairston and Stevenson, who sparked for the playing team here. Other members of the reserves were held in Temple where the Wildcats took on Austin, winning 22-7.

Hornet stars, were eleven, especially the first quarter, and the team looked like a mid-season squad during this period. Improvement since the last game was more than marked, with backfield and line working in almost perfect co-ordination.

WORLD COMMENT

BRACK CURRY

Indiana's Senator Sherman Minton is the mouthpiece of the President in his attacks upon the press. Senator Minton and the chief executive contend that 90 per cent of the nation's newspapers are against the new deal. But like most other figures which the chief executive and his sycophants delight in compiling, the figures upon the political sentiments of the nation's newspapers are grossly incorrect.

A survey just completed by the New York Daily Mirror shows 62 per cent opposed the new deal policies and 38 per cent 'generally approving' them. Obviously the administration spokesman made the "90 per cent" statement in a futile attempt to justify his stand and to win public support for his attacks upon the press.

Of particular interest are some of the detailed statistics given in the Mirror's poll. For example, newspapers are six per cent more critical of Roosevelt now than in 1936. The western states Idaho, Nevada, Arizona, and Wyoming, which received the biggest appropriations of federal relief funds, are strongest for the president; while the Solid South, where WPA wages have shown to be consistently lower than the national average—which may be an element in making this selection the "nation's number one problem"—has shown the biggest defection from new deal support.

While only Georgia, the president's "other home", and Oklahoma newspapers are "generally opposed" to the new deal, of the 55 newspapers which have shifted to the opposition in the nation since 1936, three-fifths have been in the South.

The greatest defection of all in the entire nation has been in Texas, where 11 newspapers have shifted to the opposition.

The continued defections of the press from support of the new deal in such areas as the regularly Solid South and other regions may be attributed to two primary factors:

1. The radicalism to which the early liberalism of the new deal has degenerated.
2. The emergence of a trend of conservative political thought that inevitably follows a period of liberalism, such as was inaugurated in 1933.

A recent poll by Dr. Gallup showed that there are more Americans today conservative national policies than liberal national policies. Dr. Gallup reports also that should the 'purge' which Mr. Roosevelt has undertaken among Democratic congressmen be extended to the rank and file of the party, about 7,000,000 Democrats would be expelled from their party.

From these figures and other readily available, it may be proved conclusively that the 62 per cent of the newspapers which oppose the administration actually reflect the political philosophy of the public which reads newspapers.

Only the upper and middle brackets of the population read newspapers as a rule and it is among these classes that the Roosevelt administration has lost support since 1936. The "lower third" of the population remains loyally in the new deal camp, which has been so beneficent to them to the tune of about $6,000,000,000 in WPA appropriations alone since 1933.

The public cannot be fooled, and the public knows the one reason why newspapers of America are the subject of attack by the powers that be. No administration in the history of this republic has been so intolerant of criticism as the Roosevelt regime.

Every class, group, organization, clique and individual that has dared to oppose the new deal and its policies has been publicly castigated and persecuted by the present administration.

Income tax evasion charges have been instituted against prominent and wealthy individuals who opposed the new deal policies. Epithets of "economic royalist" and "Tory" have been hurled against industrialists who have created wealth and provided jobs for thousands. The federal government has gone into competition against independent enterprise in an effort to punish hostile individuals.

A gigantic propaganda machine has been created to disseminate information favorable to the administration. Taxpayers money is used to make the taxpayers favor the party in power.

Because the newspapers have printed the FACTS about this administration—about its deficits, wastefulness, intolerance, mistakes, graft and huge expenditures—the new dealers have now started an attack against one of the most important institutions of our system of government—the free press.

Charges of bias and prejudice against the president and his commissars constitute the basis of the attack against the press. The best proof and only proof needed to refute such charges lie in the reading public which, as any editor can tell you, can instantly distinguish between a propaganda sheet and genuine newspapers. When newspapers refuse to print the news as it is and inaugurate a propaganda policy, then does the public react by turning to periodicals which WILL release the facts as they are. The public has yet to declare war against the American press as the Roosevelt administration has done.

"MONEY TALKS" GIVE US A CHANCE TO SAVE YOU MONEY

GATESVILLE, TEXAS

Turkey-time approaches, and turkey raisers who think ahead will come out best in the annual competition in supplying festal tables. It takes at least four to five weeks of good full feeding to put a good market finish on turkeys, and longer if they are not already in good condition and health. At this time, therefore, it is time to make plans for the home-stretch with turkeys which are to be sold for Thanksgiving. Three or four week later will do for the Christmas crop.

It is the finish, the last few pounds put on the breast and other thick part of the turkey carcass, that determines the grade and price per pound. It is false economy, therefore, to stint the feed at this stage. On the other hand every pound of this "finish" weight adds to the value of each pound of the original frame. The best figures available show that it takes from 4 1-2 to 6 pounds of grain (including mash feeds) to make a pound of gain in turkeys, and the average cost of feed grains over several years has been $5.40 to $7 per hundred pounds of turkey. At the lowest imaginable price turkeys pay well for the grain and mash necessary to put them in first class market condition.

An idea has been broadcast that the demand is now largely for smaller turkeys, 10 pounds or so. One of the largest turkey shippers in Texas says the 15 or 16 pound turkey is still in best demand. Even if the former were true an unfinished turkey would not be acceptable. The writer knows city dealers who buy thin turkeys at their own price and fatten them for their trade, making a two-way profit. The farmer who sells this kind of turkeys is losing both ways—the sale of the grain to the turkey at a good price, and the city feeder gets paid for the small labor of feeding.

"Turkeys are becoming so plentiful that consuming centers are getting more critical on the quality, and I believe that in the future we will find a greater spread between Southwestern turkeys and Northwestern turkeys unless our quality is improved," says A. W. Jacob, Extension Economist of the Oklahoma A. and M. College. The Northwest and the Pacific Coast have no better turkeys than the Southwest, but they have been crowding us out because they do a better job of finishing.

The feed crop in the Southwest is excellent and well distributed, and all grains and elements of mash feeds are cheaper than for several years past. Most of the section has also had good rains to keep the ranges green. Every thing is in our favor for turning out a turkey crop in prime condition this season and at a low cost. It takes 1 to 1 1-2 pounds less grain to make a pound of gain on a good green range than without it, but if green range is lacking and all the feed were bought and the turkeys given all they could eat for four to six weeks before going to market it would still be profitable.

Nobody can forecast the ruling price, but everybody knows there will be a differential in favor of the prime and No1 grades. The grower has spent several months and some money producing a skeleton which has little market value as such. Properly "upholstered" with the few extra pounds of juicy meat which full-feeding produces in a few weeks, the frame work has an added value of its own. Failure to pad it with juicy flesh is the reason some people fail to make a profit from turkeys.

feed only the best developed ones for Thanksgiving, and grade again before selling, holding back the lower grades for a later market. No turkey should go to market until it is free of pin feathers, which is a sign of maturity. Don't worry about over-weight—make them fat and let the weight be what it will.

second largest city, Sebastian, or something like that, I can't think of how to spell it. From there we flew to Kingston, J. I. Now for a fact, flying is far more comfortable than even the modern Pullman trains. The only time you even have to sit down is when landing or taking off. The rest of the time you can walk from one end of it to the other if you like. The plane was huge, capable of carrying about 25 people, including myself. The crew consisted of a Captain, co-pilot, radio operator Purser, Stewart, and an Engineer. The Stewart was right there to make you comfortable in every way really, that fellow would show up every minute with a cup of coffee and sandwiches or what ever you wanted. There was quite a bit of express carried on the ship. The Stewart was showing me around and we went back in the tail end of the ship where there is a large compartment for the mail and express. Now would you think it, there was six big boxes of "Baby Chicks" being brought to Barranquilla, Columbia. I was really surprised, but the Stewart said it was seldom a trip that they didn't take a load of them.

Well awhile after having a nice Chicken lunch, not the ones being shipped but a good dinner anyway, we finally saw land again. We passed over several large steam ships and they looked like little toy boats floating around on a pond with a tiny Island in the center. That was Kingston. On starting down, a flash signal in all compartments, notifies you to fasten your safety belt and not to smoke. We glided down about three of four thousand feet and the weather got pretty rough. In fact, we were all shaken up a little, but the Pilot just turned around and went back to sea. We flew around the islands some distance from them, and when the Radio gave the proper weather reports we started down again. It was raining at the Airport and rather stormy but the ship settled down on the water as smoothly you could hardly tell it. The Jamaica Islands, as you know, are British. So we all had to stay in the Ship until permission could be obtained for our landing. That is just customary and only took a second. However we did not leave the building. After waiting for about an hour, it was decided that the weather would not permit our continuing. We were all loaded into two Lincoln Touring cars and carried into Kingston to the Myrtle Bank Hotel. We had lunch served us again, and waited for more weather reports. Finally, it was decided definitely to stay over nite. Oh yes, about the trip to the hotel, the road was right along the edge of the mountain and not so very wide. The first car we met almost scared the wits out of me. You see they drive on the left hand side of the street and to think of it seems quite simple, but not thinking of it at the moment and being use to our laws it almost made a nervous wreck of me.

Here is a letter from Governor-Elect W. Lee O'Daniel's, Ft. Worth, recognizing a framed advertisement which was sent to him. Many Gatesville merchants took part in this, which was sold here by Olaf Pederson, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Pederson of Gatesville.

My dear friends: Governor-designate W. Lee O'Daniel has asked me to express to you his sincere appreciation of your thoughtfulness in sending him the framed drawings.

He is too busily occupied at this time to thank you personally, so I hope you will accept through me his heartfelt gratitude for your kindness.

The gift now hangs in his office, and will go with him when he moves into the Mansion.

With best wishes for your success and happiness, I am

"WHERE'S MY PAPER?"

This week thruout the nation, "That dern'd paper boy" is being honored.

Even in Gatesville, if we have all the names, there are some 15 Newspaper Boys, who service your homes with the latest "Bla-Bla Journal."

Everything is hotsy-totsy, until he misses—then, things pop—if you don't believe it, "ask the man who owns one."

Anyway, as in the airmail slogan, thru "rain, and snow and—," that paper is to be tucked under your plate's edge in the morning, or at your easy chair in the evening, and assisting in this necessary pleasure is your newsboy. He must function! He must deliver! To YOU, he's more important than all the other "big shots" (if there are any) whose names are in the masthead of the paper. He's the goodwill end of the publication (as far as you are concerned).

Too, probably, he's the only one connected with the newspaper to which you subscribe that you know, or have seen.

On the dailies, many of these boys buy from the distributor, and make it their business to sell their "stock" to you. Many of them will be THE business men of the future.

For these reasons, we honor these faithful boys, this, National Newspaper Boy's Week, September 25 to October 1.

SPORT SCRAPS

BY

Now, that's over! Gv. 14, Tem. 0.

Some of the drug store stool coaches like more action. There was plenty. Understand, Lug, Coach Worley is not trying to run the score in these games into 3 figures. He's trying to find out combinations, plays, weaknesses, and other defects of this Hornet machine before the results really count.

So, what does it matter, if a push over is only beaten 6-0, if when "the real thing comes along" these boys can bring back the bacon." That's what we think Worley's doing.

A little ragged, perhaps, and so was Baylor Sat. nite, but in both teams, when the machinery is oiled and begins clicking, the fans are going to appreciate these "find-out-ers".

6-man football schedule is disrupted. Jonesboro is out. This week the coaches of the other remaining teams are meeting to revise the schedule—which is to say the least is late, since the first games WERE scheduled for this week end.

On it's release, it'll be in the News, if possible, Friday.

Looking for'd, the M. E. Home is the next hump for the Hornets to get over. They nosed out Itasca by 1 touch—but they say Itasca's weak out don't let that fool you. Them Orphans'll have a plenty.

Here's that next schedule: SMU Oct. 1, Arizona, Dallas Oct. 7, Marquette, Chicago. Oct. 15, Open Oct. 22, Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh. Oct. 29, Texas, Austin Nov. 5, Aggies, Dallas. Nov. 12, Arkansas, Dallas Nov. 19, Baylor, Dallas Nov. 26, TCU, Dallas Dec 3, Rice, Houston.

You're going to hear from Foster Patterson, Yitt, and Boyd from Baylor U. There's a powerhouse in the making, but they're a shade ragged right now. They have another seasoner with Okla. Ags at Wichita Falls Saturday—they need it for the following Saturday with Arkansas.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Pepe le Moko, famed jewel thief as debonair as he is clever, has eluded the police of all Europe and is hiding in the city of Algiers. In the Casbah, dim and mysterious native quarter of the town, he is safe from the efforts of the Algiers police to arrest him, for the Casbah is an international haunt of dangerous criminals and refugees, and even the police find it easier to enter than to leave. Finally Police Commissioner Janvier of Paris arrives to direct the hunt for Pepe le Moko, and breaks into the Casbah with a squad of picked men. They are tipped off by Regis, a stool pigeon in Pepe's gang, that Pepe is in the shop of Grandpere, Casbah fence for stolen jewels.

Chapter Two

Pepe's meditations on the singular beauty of Grandpere's pearls were interrupted by the breathless arrival of Ines, Pepe's sweetheart. A native Algerian girl, dark-eyed, husky of voice, with a passionate intensity of movements that belied the catlike immobility of her expression, she rushed to Pepe, seizing him by the lapels of his coat. "Pepe! The police — on the roof! Quick, they're coming — Regis warned me!"

Pepe smiled the gay, boyish smile that had had much to do with making him the idol of the Casbah dwellers, and with graceful fingers brushed back the hair that had fallen over Ines' eyes in her hasty flight.

"Suppose the police should see you like that?" he teased. "What would they think of you?"

Half amused, half frightened, she begged him to get out of the place while there was yet time. Grandpere had already begun methodically packing his jewels, and as the axes of the police began crashing against the heavy door, Pepe's bodyguards shoved a heavy chest away from the wall, revealing a small opening into the adjoining house. Silently, they filed through the aperture, and the bodyguards pulled the chest back into place from the other side.

Meanwhile, in a nearby street, a party of sightseeing tourists — two young girls and their dull-looking, middle-aged escorts — found themselves caught in the midst of the rushing, shouting and gun-popping police. Gaby, the more striking of the two girls, was jostled into an archway, separated from her companions. A pair of hands seized her by the elbows and propelled her, firmly but not too roughly, inside the native house.

She turned to find a smugly smiling young man, clad in a modified form of native dress, bowing obsequiously at her side. Slimane, the native police inspector whose special province was the Casbah, ushered her into an inner room of the house.

"Please — this way," he drawled in perfect English. "We cannot afford to let any visitors be hurt." Eager for some of the excitement she had come to seek, she followed him into a room where sat a native woman in gypsy dress.

"What's happening?" Gaby asked.

"Oh, it's nothing. The police are looking for a man."

"But all this — for one man?"

"Ah, but you don't know Pepe le Moko," the gypsy woman boasted proudly.

"How does he do it?"

"A good head," volunteered Slimane.

"It's not his head that saves him," countered the woman, "it's his heart. A man with such a good heart can get around anyone."

"Sounds intriguing," murmured Gaby. She followed Slimane's gaze, which was fixed on a narrow stairway in a corner of the room. Down the stairs came a startlingly handsome young man, calmly rolling up a sleeve of his coat to bare an arm from which a thin stream of blood trickled. Gaby watched his face fascinatedly. No one needed to tell her that here was the strange, almost fabulous man they had been talking about.

"Permit me to hope," purred

Slimane, "that it's nothing serious." "Thanks. Just a flea bite," shrugged Pepe. "Your police are getting smart — it was a mistake for me to go up on the roofs." Then, extending his wounded arm to the gypsy woman, he ordered cheerily, "Fix it up."

While his arm was being bandaged, Pepe's eyes fell for the first time upon the tourist girl. His gaze took in appreciatively her extraordinary beauty; but only for a moment before it wandered to the heavy rope of pearls around her throat. She smiled, half challengingly; he smiled back, shifting his gaze to her features again; then once more regarding the tempting jewels with an appraising look. And as he looked from her face to her throat and back again, a warm light kindled in his eyes.

They exchanged few words at this first meeting; the strange, lovely girl from the world outside fascinatedly watching the famous crook, who in turn regarded her with mingled admiration for her beauty and professional interest in her adornments. But the fox-like Slimane, ever planning, ever observing, stood by quietly watching them and smiled to himself.

Finally, the police having given up the hunt, Pepe made courteous apologies and left the house.

"It's a shame, isn't it?" Slimane remarked to Gaby when Pepe had gone. "Such a waste of talent... an unusual intelligence... one hates to see him buried so young."

"Buried? What makes you so sure?"

"I've marked the date of his arrest on the wall of my room," said the detective quietly. "High — where it reads bla — in the rays of the setting sun."

Beef Cattle Improvement Step Taken By John Voss

John Voss has recently purchased a Shorthorn herd sire from Doss Miller, leading Shorthorn breeder of De Leon. This new calf is a half brother to the former sire used in the Voss herd and was selected in order to line breed these cattle for higher quality. Too often stockmen are prone to select sires that are not related to the stock which they have and being of an entirely different family may not "nick" when mated. For this reason stock men are urged to give more consideration to the selection of their herd sires and in many cases it is highly advisable that half brothers to the former sires be used for future breeding operations.

G. C. Voss Buys Registered Herford

G. C. Voss recently secured a new sire for his beef cattle a registered Hereford calf from the well known Golden Hoof Sock Farm at Denton. Mr. Voss selected this calf from this farm in order that line breeding can be practiced with his beef cattle herd; and thus improve the quality of his cattle. The herd rating as the other affiliated schools.

A modified form of directed study is being contemplated.

Miss Myrtle Lee Edwards who is attending school at Gatesville came home for the week end.—Copperas Cove Crony.

Mr. Fred Freeman Jr. who raised the two last sires purchased by Mr. Voss suggests that the breeding is most excellent coming from one of the best producing cows in the herd and sired by one of the better herd sires. The animals on both sides of the pedigree are of the very highest breeding and have won in the show rings in various shows in the State.

Mr. Voss is to be commended in taking this forward step of securing an animal with pedigree and individuality that is capable of improving his high quality cattle.

STEVENSON'S "KIDNAPPED" COMES LAVISHLY TO SCREEN

"Kidnapped" the story which Robert Louis Stevenson is said to considered his best, comes to Gatesville spectacularly produced by Darryl F. Zanuck, with a cast of 5,000, and pretty much of the pick of 20th Century-Fox's "hit making experts".

Unlike several other Stevenson stories "Kidnapped" never before has appeared in either silent or sound films—something of a record. In its debut, however, the stars, directors and supporting cast appear to have been assembled with a hand for the patrons of the PALACE Theatre.

Every person conversant with so much as High school English has thrilled to the adventure in "Kidnapped," so the picture is destined to meet a host of familiar friends. It will be these "friends" who will remember that the story had little or no "feminine interest"—being chiefly the tale of the escapades of Alan Breck and David Balfour.

Purists may try, therefore, to quarrel with Hollywood's introduction into the story of a Jean McDonald, Highland lass who becomes namored of Alan Breck. The role is portrayed by an astonishingly vivacious and beautiful screen discovery, Arleen Welan.
