Cogitations & Aphorisms of Jodok

I notice in my ramblings to and fro here in Friona, that we have several patches of the thricest cockel burr plants that I have ever seen, growing in the barpits along some of our streets, where, it seems, it is nobody's business to cut them down and if they are not cut before their burrs mature they will supply enough seed to infest the entire city.

I am also told that the city has no funds with which to hire these noxious weeds cut and cleaned out from the barpits, so it just occurs to me that we are going to have plenty of cockelbur seed here this season.

I am just like the city so far as finance is concerned and have not enough funds to hire any of this badly needed work done; but— if someone will furnish me with a job with salary of $100.00 a month, I will dedicate enough of it to hire some good man, who is in need of a job, to get busy and cut all the cockelburs down and remove them from the barpits.

I have been donating a portion of my time (in the late afternoons, "Soon as the blazing sun has set.") to cutting the weeds that grow along the barpits in front of a certain lady's house in the north part of town; but that seems to be as far as my generosity can be made to go during this warm weather, and after the weather gets cooler it will be too late for the burrs will all be ripe by that time and ready to reproduce their kind again next year, so there—

Well! The Old Age Pension Amendment won out in the election last Saturday, but— I will warrant that there will be some kind of a catch to it that I will have to do a little work of some kind anyway. Or, maybe the legislature will conclude that after a man get past eighty, he is just living to save funeral expenses, and will just pay his funeral expenses and let it go at that. And that will not be much, for I have seen some of that kind of funerals.

I just never has been my fortune to have any of these rich plumbs come my way, and I cannot bring myself to believe that conditions are going to be any different during the remainder of my time. But, I sure have had lots of fun all at my own expense.

Ever since hearing of the tragic death of Will Rogers and Wiley Post, I have experienced a decided depression of mind and, I suppose, spirit which came upon me as a direct result of that unhappy event.

From the time I read of this proposed long and romantic vacation trip I had felt a kind of misgiving regarding it and inwardly hoped they would not undertake it, and after their take-off I watched daily for Mr. Rogers' little editorial, or humorous sketch in the daily papers, anxious to know where they had been and if they were still going. But always with a little bit of dread.

Then when I heard of the fatal ending of their voyage the morning after it happened, I could not say that I was surprised and neither was I shocked at the news, but mental and spiritual depression seems a better description of my feelings at the time and even to the time of this writing.

Will Rogers, by his gentle and quiet humor and realisms, always revealing the ludicrous and yet often pathetic in his appeal in behalf of the worthy and needy, has been able to tell to the American people and make them like it, many things that no other man could say without arousing the antagonism of his hearers.

And if one's words are any criterion or index to his real character he was one of the meekest, gentlest, most sympathetic and charitable that for many years has been known to America and the world at large, and ever since his introduction to the general public, he has, through his platform speeches, syndicated newspaper features, radio talks and moving pictures, been in daily contact with the great American public, and has through these sources, never faltered in his cutting criticism of corruption in high places or elsewhere, while at the same time he has so clothed his expressions of criticisms with his gentle but irresistible humor that no offense could be taken nor retaliation shown. And this most praiseworthy trait of character was further shown when at any time any portion of the populace was overtaken

Two Amarillo Fair Boosters Visit City

BILL BEECHLER
Vice President

MASON KING
Director of Racing

BEECHLER AND KING BOOSTING AMARILLO FAIR

Also Advertising Panhandle's Race Meet On Trips

Bill Beechler, vice-president of the Tri-State Fair, Amarillo, and Mason King of the Amarillo News-Globe, were here recently.

They brought a special invitation to the public to attend the Tri-State Fair, September 14-21, which this year will be the largest exposition in Texas.

"Cash prizes for the largest delegations visiting the exposition with hands have been increased this year," said Mr. Beechler. "On one day last year there were 12 delegations and nine hands at the fair."

Mr. Beechler, for many years has served as chairman of the fair's reception committee, believes there will be more entries and larger crowds this year. "There will be no fair at Dallas this year and the Tri-State Exposition will be about the only attraction of its kind this fall in Texas."

Mason King, who is director of racing, called attention to the opening date of the fall meet. "With more, better entries and larger purses, the Tri-State Fair racing meet will open one day earlier—Friday, September 13," he said. "Daily races with legalized wagering have become the major attraction at the fair. Thousands of turf fans from all over the Southwest pack into the grandstand daily to see the sport of kings."

"Of course, there will be a wide variety of other entertainment," he continued. "The largest midway attraction in the United States will be there, direct from an engagement in Detroit."

Both visitors declared there will be full entries in every department. Wilbur C. Hawk again this year heads the fair association which is guaranteeing payment in full of more than $15,000 in cash premiums.

O. L. "Ted" Taylor, secretary-manager, has reported heavy demand for catalogs and concession space. Mr. King and Mr. Beechler also are boosting the Southwest Race Meet at Panhandle Aug. 31 to Sept. 7. They are taking some Panhandle literature to the various cities they visit.

FRIONA WOMAN'S CLUB
The Friona Woman's Club will hold its first meeting of the year on Wednesday, Sept. 11, at the home of Mrs. Cranfill. We hope for a full attendance.

Mrs. J. C. Wilkison, Pres.

HOME FROM ILLINOIS

D. W. Hanson, who for the past several weeks has been on a business trip at his farm near Tuscola, Illinois, returned home Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Hanson states that while they have good crops and farmers are going to be able to do some buying, economic conditions generally are no better than they are here and little employment is to be found there.

Mr. Hanson plans to move his family from Friona in the near future but is as yet undecided as to his plans for the immediate future.

LAKEVIEW DEMONSTRATION CLUB

The Lakeview Demonstration Club entertained the Oklahoma Lane Club Friday afternoon, August 23, in the home of Mrs. M. B. Buchanan. The program consisted of the following:

Song — "America the Beautiful".

Welcome address — Mrs. Alexander.

Roll Call — Answered in form of a dairy of what I have done the past week.

Music — Piano Solo, Genevieve Massey.

Reading — Queenelle Melton.

Play — Mrs. Guinn and Margaret Guinn.

Music, Guitar and Harp — Elaine Manderscheid.

After an hour of games and visiting, refreshments of punch, peanut-butter cookies and Brownies were served to the following guests and club members: Mmes. J. C. Caldwell, C. C. Alexander, W. E. Verner, J. S. Wood, J. H. Minaryd, Ernest Smith, George Lindrop, Sam Sides, Frank Rhomus, Tom Foster, A. B. Wilkerson, J. M. Payne, Alta Roberson, and F. E. Kopley, and Misses Elsie and Jewel Alexander and Jewel Sides; and Mmes. J. M. W. Alexander, M. B. Buchanan, L. Pearl Hand, Dudley Roberson, T. Manderscheid, C. A. Guinn, E. R. Maggard, Gopel Farker, E. B. Whitefield, Otis Massey and Elizabeth Ferguson; and Misses Elaine Manderscheid, Helen Magard, Genevieve Massey, Margaret Guinn, Queenelle Melton, Grace Miller and Naomi and Irene Hand.

Our next club meeting will be on Friday afternoon, September 13, at the home of Mrs. C. A. Guinn, and will be a demonstration by Miss McKenney, of a "Buffet country supper." Visitors are always welcome.

Mrs. W. B. Stark and son, and Misses Mary and Lydia Marie Spring spent the first part of this week in a visit to the Carlsbad Cavern.

Miss Reba Hill, who has been working during the summer at Canyon, returned home Saturday for a three weeks vacation.

A. C. (Pete) Echols, was in town one day last week for his sheep ranch about 20 miles southeast of Friona. Pete appeared to be in perfect health and the best of spirits on this face and hands showed the effects of his exposure to our Panhandle sun and wind.

Mmes. Johnny Raybon and Wright Williams returned Sunday from a visit of about ten days with relatives and friends at Lubbock and Abertathy. They report a most enjoyable visit.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Smith departed for Clovis Frida for a few days pleasure and business visit. Mr. Smith returned the early part of this week.

Charley Bainum and family returned last week from a two weeks vacation trip in Central Texas.

ATTEND ROSWELL RIFLE SHOOT

Eight members of the Parmer County Rifle Club drove to Roswell, New Mexico, and attended the "rifle shoot" held there on Sunday, August 18, according to F. F. Lillard, secretary of the Parmer County Club.

At this shoot the local marksmen came into competition with some of the best rifle shooters of our neighboring state, which included seven of the Roswell Club, Course "D" of the Army Qualifications Course.

Six men of the Roswell Club qualified as "experts" and one as "marksman." Two of the Parmer County men qualified as "experts" and four as "marksman."

While the members of the local team did not attend with the expectations of winning high rankings, they feel well pleased with their trip and wholly justified in going, since they were able to make good showing among marksmen of high rating and had a most enjoyable time, beside learning a lot about the shooting game.

Those who attended from this county were: Shelby Jersic, Regan Looney, Harvey Pool and John Armstrong, all of Bovina; and L. F. Lillard, Ford Welch, Willie Howells, Wech and Ira Miller, of Friona.

CROPS NEEDING RAIN

While there are some portions of the Friona territory, where there will be fair row crops even with very little or no more rain, there is still by far the greater portion of the territory where there will be very little if any crops harvested unless rain comes in the very near future.

During the past week or ten days there have been good rains reported to the west and southwest of town, even within two miles of town to the southwest, but no rain of any consequence has been received nearer to Friona in any direction, while to the north, east and south of town no moisture has fallen for many days.

Crops that might make a yield if rain is received will run a close risk of maturing even if the rain should come now on account of the lateness of the growing season and in the event rains should come now, there is great danger of the crops being caught by frost before having time to mature.

A good rain was reported Friday night from Black eastward, covering the country as far east as Hereford. Other rains were received over that territory Monday afternoon and night and a heavy rain from Parmer to Bovina Monday afternoon.

A good rain is hoped for by our people before the end of this month, otherwise it seems that the row crops in the immediate vicinity of Friona will be a failure for this year.

COUNTY HOME DEMONSTRATION COUNCIL

The County Home Demonstration Council met Saturday afternoon, August 17th at two-thirty o'clock in the auditorium of the Friona Grade School building.

The following reports of the Short Course were made:

1. "Recreation," Mrs. L. N. Ritter.
2. "General Report," Mrs. G. H. Brock.
3. "Rural Work Center," Mrs. Ralph Wilson.
4. "Making Soil for Pit Plants," Mrs. P. B. Daniels.
5. "New Methods of Meat Canning," Miss Rozelle McKinney.

RETURNED TO FRIONA

The family of L. H. Routh, who have been living in Farwell for the past few months, have returned to their home in Friona.

Mr. Routh, however, is still acting as meat salesman in the W. W. Hall grocery and meat market at Farwell.

KANSAS PEOPLE HERE

George R. White and Mrs. Elen Hodre and children, of Barnard, Kansas, arrived here on Tuesday last week for a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Wright. They returned to their home this week.

B. Taylor will drive the school bus for the Rhea District during the coming school term and D. K. Deaton will drive the bus for the Black District.

J. M. W. Alexander reports a near 2-inch rain at his farm nine miles southeast of Friona Monday night.

J. O. Jones, of Abertathy, spent a part of this week in Friona.

J. C. Wilkison, deputy sheriff, spent last Saturday in Friona, having taken the day off in order to be at home to vote.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harlan O'Rear, of oodnight, accompanied by Misses Mary Reeve and Virginia Guyer spent a part of last week seeing the wonders of Carlsbad Cavern.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL IS SUCCESS

The two-weeks Vacation Bible School, which came to a close here on Friday of last week and which was under the joint auspices of the local Methodist and Congregational churches, was pronounced success in all its departments.

Over one hundred children registered during the term of the school and all were highly pleased with the exercises they enjoyed and things each had learned and with the neat "certificates of attendance" which was given to each one certifying to their attendance and showing the department to which they belonged.

Those who had charge of the school and so freely gave of their time and effort in making it the success that it was, are deserving of the gratitude of the public and especially of the parents whose children they so carefully instructed.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The regular Sunday school service was held at 10:00 o'clock with good attendance and interest.

The usual worship hour at 11:00 o'clock was led by Mrs. R. T. Gischer, who delivered the lesson, the theme of which was a graphic account of the religious revolution now in progress in Mexico.

The Men's Study Class meets regularly each Sunday at ten o'clock with F. L. Spruz as leader. The sessions of the class are held in the parsonage.

Our superintendent, Otho Whitefield, is supposed to arrive at home this week and is selected to have charge of the worship service Sunday and give a narration of his experience during his long travel school from which he is just returning. His presence in the school and church services will be joyfully welcomed.

A letter from Superintendent L. J. Marsh, stated that he had in view a minister whose qualifications made him admirably fitted to serve as our pastor and the letter was accompanied by most favorable recommendations. The congregation, however, decided to postpone definite action on giving him a call until next Sunday.

SUCCESS SERIES OF REVIVAL MEETINGS

The two-weeks series of revival meetings, that were conducted by the Sixth Street Church of Christ, came to a gratifying close Sunday night. The meetings were conducted by Evangelist A. C. Williams, who is pronounced the best revivalist the church has had, and all concerned with the revival felt gratified with the results.

A goodly number of people were added to the church's membership both by a renewal of faith and confession of conversion.

POSTMASTER OSBORN HOME

Postmaster Sloane Osborn and family, who have been on a combined business and pleasure visit at his former home near Hope, Arkansas, returned home last Friday.

Mr. Osborn stated that they experienced very warm weather but had a delightful visit with plenty of fishing.

HOME FROM VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Lange and small daughters, Carol and Doris Ann, returned Sunday from their vacation trip to Llano and other points in that part of the state.

While away Mr. Lange visited at Houston as guests of his employers, Rockwell Brothers & Company, who apparently took great pleasure in making his visit as pleasant and enjoyable as possible by taking him to several other cities and towns and to many places of historic interest.

While at Llano his father, Mr. B. Lange, spent his entire time in driving him about and meeting old time friends and neighbors, and they all returned home well pleased with their vacation.

M. E. CHURCH NEWS

Our pastor, Rev. H. L. Thurston, will be away from Friona during the coming week end in attendance at a family reunion at Alamogordo, New Mexico.

In the absence of the pastor, Prof. R. Lloyd Neeley, superintendent of the Oklahoma Lane School, will deliver a layman's address at the 11 a. m. service, Sunday, Sept. 1. Prof. Neeley was a college class mate of the pastor, who speaks for this service as being one of the best layman's services held here since he has been pastor of the local church.

At the regular evening service Sunday Rev. I. E. Biggs will preach. Rev. Biggs is the popular pastor of the Bovina and Oklahoma Lane churches. This statement is evidenced by the charge building a new 6-room parsonage at this time. The local pastor has recently preached in a revival at Oklahoma Lane.

Mrs. A. O. Drake and son, Earl, were Farwell visitors Monday.

SUFFERED PAINFUL MISHAP

James Fitzgerald, one of the mechanics at the Lunsford Chevrolet garage, suffered a very painful and what might easily have been a very serious mishap while at his work last Saturday.

Mr. Fitzgerald had one end of a car hoisted and poised on a jack, while he was underneath doing some repair work, and the car, without warning rolled off the jack and fell striking him on the side of the head.

His companions in the garage saw his dilemma and lifted the car and got him from under it and placed him in an automobile and rushed him to a doctor at Hereford, where his wound was found not to be necessarily serious but very painful, showing a severe cut on or near the right ear, which was closed by a number of stitches and the wound dressed. He then returned home and was able to be back on the job Monday morning though still suffering considerably from the hurt.

LAKEVIEW NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Russell and children, who have been visiting the last two weeks in Oklahoma, returned home Friday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. W. Alexander and son, Lex, visited Mrs. Alexander's sister and mother at Mundy, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Guinn and son, Cedeno, of Matador, visited in the C. A. Guinn last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter Southall and children visited in the E. W. Chandler home Sunday.

Messes. Bill and Lawrence Hand are spending a few days at their old home in Oklahoma attending to business.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Whitefield spent Sunday at Lubbock with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Buchanan and son, Billy, and Dorothy Sue Cummings, visited at Dlaton Sunday.

The young people's Sunday school class gave a surprise birthday dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gable Parker Sunday honoring their Sunday school teacher, Mrs. Austin. The occasion was held with a lovely blue and white friends-in-a-dull with all the names of the members of the Sunday school class. There were 48 names on the bill and there were 48 present for the dinner. Needless to say, it was a lovely surprise and the dinner of fried chicken, chicken, pie, salads, pickles, vegetables, rice, tea and the big white birthday cake with the richest number of pink candles was heartily enjoyed by all present.

Miss Genevieve Massey entertained the young people with an out-door party at her home Saturday night. A large crowd was present to enjoy the music and games.

FRIONAN TO PLAY FOOTBALL

ADVISOR, Aug. 29.—Conway Frost of Friona will be among the first to arrive in Friona for the football season at Hardin-Simmons university.

Conway is a 175 pound back, is a transfer from Anacostia Junior college and is expected to make a great college career during his first season at Hardin-Simmons.

With a squad which will include 12 letter men, 16 non-letters and 26 substitutes and 100 college transfers, the Cowboys will meet some of the strongest teams in the state.

PROF. WAYNE C. EURANKS RETURNS

Prof. Wayne C. Euranks, who, for the past four years has been one of the regular instructors in the Friona school, has returned to again take on his work in the local school for the regular term.

Prof. Euranks has been in attendance at the Northwestern Polytechnic at Peoria, Illinois, where he completed his degree and arrived in Friona Sunday and his many Friona friends were pleased to greet him again.

TO VISIT IN INDIANA

Miss Minnie Goodwine departed on Friday morning of last week for Kokomo, Indiana, where she will visit for several weeks with relatives and former neighbors that having been her home before coming to the Panhandle twenty-seven years ago.

Mrs. Goodwine drove through to Indiana with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kell, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, who had been visiting in her home here for several days.

VISITED IN CROSBYTON

Mrs. Lorene Hughes, proprietor of the Marinello Beauty Parlor, spent the latter part of last week visiting her brother at Crosbyton.

Mrs. Hughes was accompanied on his visit by her father, Mr. Whitley. They returned home Sunday.

Henry McLain, Jess Hines and D. K. Deaton, of the Black community, were business visitors here Monday afternoon.

THE HAUNTED ROOM

The guest was being shown to his bed in the haunted room by his host's faithful, but rather sinister-looking, retainer.

At the door of the room they paused. "B-b-by the way," said the guest, "has anything—er—unusual ever happened in connection with this room?"

"Not for over 50 years, sir," said the servant hollowly. "And what happened then?" asked the guest, with a sigh of relief. "A gentleman who spent the night here appeared at breakfast the next morning," came the reply.—Answers Magazine.

SO WHAT

"I'm troubled with a buzzing noise in my ears all the time." "Have you any idea as to the cause?" "Yes, my wife wants an auto."

Appeal of Old Garments

The Sewing Center has been putting on a clothing drive this week. Invitations were sent out to a tea the other afternoon. Each invitation bore the postscript: "Will you please bring an old garment?" One of the ladies, accepting the invitation, wrote the committee: "I shall be very glad to bring the old garment you require. But I regret to inform you that I shall be wearing it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Not Quite Ripe

Four-year-old Suzanne went to call on her aunt the other day and found that the pet cat had just had a litter of kittens. Suzanne was entranced with one tiny kitten, and asked if she could take it home with her. Oh, no, the aunt explained—the little kittens weren't old enough to eat yet. "I don't want to eat it," protested Suzanne. "I only want to play with it!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Good Salesman

"Yes, Jones is the most successful salesman I know." "What's his latest success?" "Yesterday he sold Mrs. Brown two dozen stair carpet rods." "I don't see anything very wonderful in that." "Neither did I until I realized that the Browns live in a bungalow."—Pearson's Weekly.

Absolutely No Risks

"This new airplane we are building in our factory is to be a honey," enthusiastically pronounced the young business man who was promoting it. "And it will be absolutely safe." The older business man looked up and asked dryly: "Why, got it fixed so it can't leave the ground?"—Indianapolis News.

LOW BRIDGE

"So the doctor said that, outside of your leg, you were sound as a dollar?" "Yes; I had previously told him that that was all I had."

Utopia

First Politician—I hear that there is one state where there is no graft whatever. Second Politician—Say, but wouldn't that state be rich pickings for our boys if we could once get in there!—Pathfinder Magazine.

Casualty List

"Aha, my dear Nincompoop, there are a tremendous number of casualties I see by the paper." "Forsyth, my dear Iggledeboodoo, and what paper?" "Egad, the slypaper."

Explaining His Fall

"I suppose," said the sympathetic prison visitor, "that you were tempted and fell?" "Yes, mum," replied the convict. "Tempted by a handbag, and fell over a dog."—Stray Stories Magazine.

Enough Exercise

"From what you tell me you appear to lead a very sedentary life, and yet you're not flabby. You look, in fact, pretty fit." "It's the exercise I get tossing about my business."

One Too Many

Teacher—How many sexes are there, James? James—Three. Teacher—Three? What are they? James—Male sex, female sex and insects.—Capper's Weekly.

Scraps of Humor

COLD FACTS

In the dimly lit conservatory Herbert had asked Elsie to marry him. She had consented with fitting modesty.

"Bertie, dear," she murmured, "am I the only girl?" "Now, look here, dearest," he interrupted, "don't ask me if you are the only girl I ever loved. You know as well as I do that—"

"Oh, that wasn't the question at all, Bertie," she answered. "I was just going to ask you if I was the only girl that would have you."—London Opinion.

Involuntary Servitude

"Are you going to assist in the distribution of relief funds?" "As much as I can," answered Senator Sorghum.

"But without getting into politics?" "My friend, out where I live anybody who has a say concerning three or four billions of dollars is in politics whether he likes it or not."

Put Out

Johnnie was gazing at his one-day-old brother, who lay squealing and wailing in his cot.

"Has he come from heaven?" inquired Johnnie. "Yes, dear."

"No wonder they put him out."

GET GOING

Jimmy—Which of yer two fellers y' gonna marry, sis? Sister—Why do you want to know? Jimmy—Well, I don't wanna waste my valuable time bothering with the wrong one.

Heaven Help Us!

Small Boy (visiting the senate chamber at Washington)—Does the chaplain pray for the senators? Father—No, he comes in, looks around and then prays for the country.

Strategy

"Father," said the small boy, "what is psychology?" "Psychology, my son, is a word of four syllables that you ring in to distract attention when the explaining gets difficult."

Apprehensive

"Has your boy made any progress in his studies?" "Yes," answered Farmer Cornstossel; "he's doin' so well in his studies that I'm kind of afraid he's neglectin' his tennis an' horseback ridin'."

A Suitable Job

Collegiate—Father, I've decided to settle down and start raising chickens. Father—Better take my advice and try owls, son. Their hours will suit you better.

Unshaken

Sally—So he tried to win you by an invitation to ride in that old fiver of his? Sue—Yes, but I refused to be shaken.

Change o' Scenery

Suitor—And where is your sister, Jimmy? Jimmy—She just ran upstairs to change rings when she saw you coming.

PLOW IT UNDER

"Dearest," he murmured, as soon as they were seated in the highest priced restaurant, "you can have anything you want on the bill of fare. Shall I read it off to you?" "No," she replied hungrily. "I'll just read it off to the waiter."

Her Name

Rastus—What is the name of yo' wife, big boy? Big Boy—Ah jus' calls huh Shasta. When she goes shoppin', shasta have this and shasta have that.

HIS ONLY FEAR

"Daddy," said little Jean, "when you see a cow aren't you afraid?" "Of course not, Jean," replied father.

"When you see a great big worm, aren't you afraid?" pursued the child. "No," replied her father. "When you see a horrible monstrous bumble-bee, aren't you afraid?" Jean continued.

He shook his head. "But aren't you afraid when it thunders and lightnings?" persisted the child. "No, no, you silly child," smiled father.

"Daddy," said the girl at last, "aren't you afraid of nothing in this world except mummy?"—Stray Stories.

ALL OVER

Miss Rich—I hope you won't take it seriously to heart, but our engagement is broken.

Mr. Goldigger—I won't grieve for myself. But my heart bleeds for my creditors.

Good Insurance Risk

The manager of the big insurance company stormed into the big office and banged his hand down heavily on a junior clerk's desk.

"Wh-w-what's this you've done?" he raved. "Why in the world did you write out a policy on a man of ninety-eight years of age?"

"Well, sir," he replied, "I looked in the census report and found there were only a few people of that age who died each year."

Universal Remedy

An Indian up in the northern part of Michigan returned for the third time to buy half a dozen bottles of cough sirup.

Druggist—Some one sick at your house? Indian—No sick.

Druggist—Then what on earth is all this cough sirup for? Indian—Me-me likeum on pau-cakes.—Chicago News.

What a Difference

Izzy—What's the difference between a sewing machine and a kiss? Lizzie—I know they're different, but you tell me.

Izzy—One sews seams nice and the other seems so nice.—Pathfinder Magazine.

COMPROMISE

"If you don't marry me, I'll blow in my entire fortune." "I'll be a sister to you while you are doing that."

Appropriate

"Now, I want Albert to have a thoroughly modern and up-to-date education," said his mother, "including Latin."

"Yes, of course," said the headmaster, "although Latin is, as you know, a dead language."

"Well, all the better. Albert's going to be an undertaker."—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Ample Proof

The eminent alienist recognized the thug who was holding him up. "Look here," he protested. "I'm your benefactor. Don't you recall that I once saved you from a life sentence by proving you crazy?"

"Sure, I remember you now," the thug said as he continued his work. "And ain't holdin' up your benefactor a crazy thing to do?"—Chicago News.

Love With a Foot-Rule

Gladys—Listen, Mabel. This is what my boy friend says in his letter: "Darling, I think of you all day—your naturally wavy hair, your brownish-grey eyes, your slightly prominent cheek bones, your 24-inch waist—"

Mabel—Well, that's a queer sort of love-letter.

Gladys—Oh, don't you know? Bob writes those descriptions of missing people for the police.

He Flew Over It

Customer—I haven't come to any ham in this sandwich yet. Waiter—Try another bite. Customer (taking huge mouthful)—Nope, none yet.

Waiter—Dug gone it! You must have gone right past it.

BREAKING THE NEWS GENTLY

Young Bobby came home late from school looking very sheepish. "Dad," he said to his father, and there was a tone of despondency in his voice, "do you remember telling me how you were expelled from school?"

Father laughed. "Why, yes, my son," he said, "that was a good story. But it's ancient history now."

Bobby brightened. "It's funny how history repeats itself, isn't it, dad?" he replied.

The Silver Lining

Mr. Smith—I figure the drouth cost us over three thousand bushels of corn. Mrs. Smith—Dreadful, dear. But, remember, there wasn't a day all that summer that we couldn't get salt out of the shakers.

After That It's Different

Bettina—Would you object to a bus band who sat up in bed and smoked? Ruthina—I certainly would, but I intend to keep quiet about it until I get one.

Desired Effect

Bingle—My wife works in an office, and she often comes home too tired for words.

Bungle—Where's that office? Do you suppose they could use another married woman there?

CLEVER, HUH?

"Your wife is very ingenious." "I should say so. It seems to me she finds a new place to hide my dress shirt studs every time."

Standing Up

Marye—Sit down and tell me all about your horseback ride with that handsome young groom.

Elythe—I'll tell you all about it, but if you don't mind, I won't sit down.

It Saves Money, Too

"Isn't it nice for you to have a bus band who spends all his evenings at home?"

"Yes; I enjoy myself so much better while I'm out if I know he's there with the children."—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Present Status Desired

Englishman—Waitah, what's this soup you just served?

Waiter—It's bean soup, sir. Englishman—I don't care what it's been. What is it now?

Help From the Public

Interviewer—What is your wife's favorite dish? Husband of Famous Movie Actress—According to the fan magazines it is peachbloom fudge-cake with orange-wisp salad, but at home it's tripe and cabbage.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Not Artistic

Angry Guide—Why didn't you shoot that tiger?

Timid Hunter—He didn't have the right kind of expression on his face for a rug.

IF AND WHEN

Mrs. Bragg—I could have married four of the wealthiest men in town. Her Hubby—Why didn't you? The whole four might have been able to pay your dress bills.

Deception

"Do you permit yourself to deceive the public?"

"No," said Senator Sorghum. "The public has learned all kinds of tricks. I'm doing pretty well to keep it from deceiving me."

A SPEEDY CURE

Two taxi-drivers were talking, one apparently in great pain, says London Tit-Bits.

"Yus, Bill," he said, "can't 'ardly walk. 'Ad this corn for three weeks." "Why don't you try one of them there chiropodists, 'Arry?"

Three days later they met. "Ow's your foot, 'Arry?" asked Bill. Harry was in the best of spirits.

"It's all right now. I went to the chiropodist, and do yer know it weren't no corn at all?" "No?" replied Bill in surprise. "No," answered Harry in disgust. "It was me collar stud got stuck in me shoe!"

IN THE MARKET

"Maude made all her money in stock, didn't she?" "No, in bonds, matrimonial."

Ready for Either Turn

The parents of a new baby girl had stopped at the parsonage to have the little one baptized. The name they had given her was Dina M., the father explained.

"And what does the M stand for?" the minister asked in curiosity.

"Well," replied the father, "if she grows up to have a sweet, gentle disposition like her mother, we will call her Dina May; but if she develops a temper like mine, we'll have to call her Dina Mite."

Tester Tested

The boy was probably mentally deficient, and an examination was indicated.

"How many ears has a cat?" queried the psychologist.

"Two," replied the lad instantly. "And how many eyes has a cat?"

"Two." "And how many legs has a cat?" "Say, Doc," asked the boy, "didn't you ever see a cat?"—Mental Health.

Just Pals!

Mr. Groucho—Why isn't my supper ready?

Mrs. G.—I've been down town bargain hunting all the afternoon and I just couldn't get home in time.

Mr. G.—Huh! Lookin' for somethin' for nothin', I presume.

Mrs. G.—Yes, looking for a birthday present for you.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Restraint

"What would you think of electing a woman to the United States Presidency?"

"I'd think well of the idea," said Senator Sorghum. "Our talk is growing abrupt and colloquial. Maybe we statesmen would be more studiously polite if we had to remember that there is a lady President."

VACATION THOUGHTS

"Have you a recommendation from your last place?"

"Yes, sir; seven months off for good behavior."

Overheard in a Doctor's Office

"Say 'ah.'"

"Aw."

"No, ah."

"Noah."

"No!"

"No."

"No! Just an 'ah.'"

"Anah."

Hole in One

Horton Smith, the Chicago golfer, told a golf story at a luncheon in Palm Springs.

"Last Christmas eve," he said "a golfer hung up his stocking before the fire in his bedroom, and when he got up Christmas morning he found a hole in one."

Deficient Knowledge

"Your boy Josh thinks he knows a lot about baseball."

"Yes," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "That's why he has so much trouble. Anybody that knew as much about the game as Josh thinks he does would know enough to quit umpirin'."

Anything to Please

"Mm, that popcorn smells good," the girl exclaimed as they drove past the stand.

"Doesn't it?" agreed the man. "I'd drive a little closer."

Fierce Animal

"But these shoelaces seem very dear."

"Ah, but they're real mohair, ma'am. And it's a risky job, hunting the mo."

JUST A YOUNGSTER

The medicine man was selling a remedy which he claimed would make men live to a great age.

"Look at me," he shouted, "hale and hearty and I'm over three hundred years old!"

A listener turned to the salesman's assistant. "Is he really as old as that?"

"Don't know," was the casual reply. "Only been working for him one hundred years."—Washington Post.

New Clerk Wanted

Mrs. Jones stepped quietly into the outer office.

"I wish to speak to the proprietor," she said.

The cheeky junior clerk smiled at her.

"Most certainly, madam," he said. "The boss is always glad to meet pretty girls like you."

She grimaced.

"Oh, is he?" she replied. "Then tell him his wife is here and wishes to see him."—Stray Stories Magazine.

It Put Him to Sleep

Neighbor—Why are you putting the dirt in that baby cradle?

Other Neighbor—I am making a garden.

Neighbor—A garden in a cradle?

Other Neighbor—Yeah, this is a "rock" garden.—T. H. Miles, in Cincinnati Enquirer.

GET GOING

Mr. Lighttop—Are you fond of baked beans, Miss Phil?

Miss Phil—Not very. But I like them a lot better than I do half baked beans I've seen on some persons I know.

Shattered Faith

"Always keep your faith in human nature."

"I try to," answered Farmer Cornstossel. "But what's a man to do after he has been serving a couple of weeks on the grand jury?"

Hopeless

Customer—Satisfied? Certainly I'm satisfied. I've nothing but praise for you.

Tailor—Then I suppose it's not much good my sending the bill in again, sir?

The Dread of Obscurity

"Do you think it possible to love your enemies?"

"Not exactly," replied Miss Cayenne. "Yet many of us ought to feel rather grateful to our enemies as the only people who take a real interest in us."

Ex, Meaning Out

"What you'll do'n' now, big boy?" "Ah is an exporter."

en by some dire calamity and the need of immediate and abundant aid was manifest, his ever ready willing and urgent appeal in their behalf also clothed in his modest and sublime humor, was again irresistible in bringing from the public the needed food, clothing, medicine or shelter. May the world be filled with just such men as Will Rogers.

Then, too, I have often thought of the patient, industrious, unostentatious Wiley Post as he prepared for and made his first flight around the globe with Harold Gatty, and later when he made his second and solo flight, accomplished the same feat utterly alone, and have often meditated as to just what might have been his thoughts and feelings as he soared over the vast stretches of ocean and uninhabited land, knowing that at any time a fault might develop in his engine or other plane mechanism that would bury him in the depths of the ocean or crash his life out in a desert land. Courage, patience, faith, endurance, determination? Yes, and of the sublimest quality. Never, apparently striving for fame or glory, but always seeking other and greater things to be done and for more worthwhile and enduring results to be accomplished. May his name never fade from the memory of man nor his example lack of imitation.

I hope I shall never become wrapped up in myself alone, lest I become an avowed and practicing nudist, whether I want to be such or not.

I heard a man say one time that he could not see why men will resort to dirty fun for their enjoyment when there is so much good clean fun in the world — enough to supply all the demands for fun and then some to spare — and I have contemplated over that saying many a time and have always arrived at the conclusion that he was just right. Why should a man smirch his disposition and dirty his mind with thoughts and words that do the world no good but probably harm and leaves his own mental attitude worse than before, when he can get the same recreation from sources that will make him better rather than worse?

I do not like snakes and I am afraid of them and the unexpected sight of one, be it ever so small, will always give to me what might be called a "negative thrill." But a snake can do something that a man, with all his intellect and agility, can not do. He can lay flat on his belly and glide along at the rate of a quarter of a mile a minute without apparent exertion. (I mean the snake can.) And a man has never yet contrived to accomplish such a feat.

Neither do I like "snake stories" for they also make me shudder, but here is one that came to me recently, but I am not vouching for the truth of it — "I know not what the truth may be, — I tell it as 'tis told to me."

The story has it that one of the citizens of the Friona community, recently discovered a fair sized snake in his home, but could not imagine how it had gotten in there as the screen doors were always kept closed, but on trying to get away the snake tried to crawl through a crack under the door and did get its head and a short portion of its body through. But the good man of the house noticed that there were about three fair sized lumps distributed along the length of his snake's body, and when one of these lumps came in contact with the door it could go no further.

The good man of the house then went into the back yard and secured a hoe and proceeded to sever the snake's head from its body and then threw the body into the yard, where an examination disclosed the fact that these unnatural lumps on the body were caused by three mice and a bird that his snakeship had swallowed and had not yet digested, thus preventing his escape.

Well, as great as my aversion is for snakes, I will have to admit that they have some worthy attributes — they catch mice and I do not like

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

FOR SUNDAY SEPT. 1.

General Topic:— PAUL (Worker with hand and brain)
Scripture Lesson:— Acts 20:33-35; Philippians 4:4-12.

Acts 20:33. I coveted no man's silver, or gold, or apparel.

34. Ye yourselves know that these hands ministered unto my necessities and to them that were with me.

35. In all things I gave you an example, that so laboring ye ought to help the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, that he himself said, It is more blessed to give than to receive.

Philippians 4:4. Rejoice in the Lord always: again I will say, Rejoice.

5. Let your forbearance be known unto all men. The Lord is at hand.

6. In nothing be anxious; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanks giving let your requests be made known unto God.

7. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall guard our hearts and our thoughts in Christ Jesus.

8. Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.

10. But I rejoice in the Lord greatly, that now at length ye have revived your thought for me: where-in ye did indeed take thought, but ye lacked opportunity.

11. Not that I speak in respect of wants for I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therein to be content.

12. I know how to be abashed, and I know also how to abound; in everything and in all things I have learned the secret, both to be filled and to be hungry, both to abound and to be in want.

13. I can do all things in him that strengtheneth me.

GOLDEN TEXT: In all these things I gave example, that so laboring we ought to help the weak. Acts 20:35.

INTRODUCTION

The apostle Paul is one of the best known characters of the Bible. For several reasons: We have a wonderful story about him (Acts) written by his intimate friend and companion, Luke. We have a lot of his personal correspondence; and letters reveal his personality, and character better than any other form of writing. Finally, Paul's sphere of activity was mostly that of the Mediterranean world with which we are well acquainted through the classics.

Saul was a common name among the Jews. There has been much conjecture as to the other name, Paul. It has been suggested that the apostle adopted this second name as a Christian one, after his conversion; or that he took it from Sergius Paulus, his distinguished convert of Cyprus. More likely, as a Jew born in a Gentile city he always had the cognomen Paul, a common Roman one. Like all Jewish boys, of whatever rank, he was taught a trade.

PAUL SAID "I WAS FREE BORN" (Act. 22:28)

Saul was born in the city of Tarsus, the capital of the province of Cilicia in the southeastern part of Asia Minor, a city famous for its wealth, its commerce and its great University. Indeed, in its learning, it was surpassed by only two cities at the time of Paul, Athens and Alexandria. Paul was born of Jewish parents; he was brought up in a "home of piety, character, perhaps of stern principle," and of strong attachment to the peculiarities of a religious people. — James Stalker. Paul's father had somehow obtained Roman citizenship, and Paul himself, consequently, had all the privileges conferred upon him at birth that attached to such citizenship, and Saul himself, was sent to the rabbinical school at Jerusalem, where he had the privilege of sitting under one of the greatest rabbis of which Judaism could ever boast, Gamaliel and where he was given an extensive training in the meaning of the Old Testament Scriptures. (Acts 22: cf. 5:34).

PAUL A MISSIONARY (Acts 13:2-4)

If ever a man obeyed the call to missionary labor, that one was Paul, the greatest missionary who has ever labored within the confines of Christendom. There was something in Paul that simply drove him from country to country, and city to city, burning out for the Lord Jesus. The first missionary trip occupied the years 48 thru 48 A. D. according to some and 50 to 52, according to others.

The second and greatest journey was begun approximately two years after the first journey. "In its issues it outvalued the expedition of Alexander the Great, or even the voyage of Columbus when he discovered a new world."

The third missionary journey followed the second (Acts 18:23-21) in about three years. On this journey the Apostle labored, for the most part in the populous provinces of Asia. In the western part of Asia Minor. For three years of this journey he stayed in Ephesus, but he also visited all the churches of Greece. On this journey he was, for the most part alone. Acts 18:23 to 21:15.

PRAYER AND SUPPLICATION WITH THANKSGIVING

mice either, though I am not afraid of them. Still I do not like for one to get up my trouser leg in the summer time, for his nose feels tickly and his claws feel scratchy and his tail feel creepy, and the combination is not apropos to delightful sensations. Excuse me from associations with either mice or snakes.

(Phil. 4:6)

"The first word, prayer, refers to the general offering up of the wishes and desires to God; the second implies special petition for the supply of wants." "With thanksgiving." No greater barrier to progress in prayer can be set up than ingratitude to God." This is the only abiding, permanent cure for anxiety. "Tell it to the Lord in prayer."

PAUL'S SPIRIT OF CONTENTMENT (Phil. 4:6)

"I rejoice in the Lord greatly, that now at length ye have revived you to thought of me." Paul's purpose in writing the Philippians was really to thank them for their kindness to him, but many other things were so much on his heart that he postpones this matter until the end of the Epistle. "For I have learned that whatsoever state I am, therein to be content." He is able to be calm and confident in the midst of the most disturbing circumstances. He has not allowed his peace and joy to be dependent upon material possession and upon physical comforts. He would not choose or enjoy hunger and want, or imprisonment, yet, in the midst of these he can sing his songs of triumph and of praise.

PAUL THE SLAVE OF CHRIST (Rom. 1:1)

Phil. 4:12-13 "I can do all things in him that strengtheneth me." This is only one of the many phrases found in Paul's letters which reveal him as one mastered by Christ. The strength of which Paul speaks here was strength transmitted to him, but it was a personal transmission. "Him strengthening me." At either end there is a person, and a power passes from one to the other. Elsewhere Paul speaks of being apprehended by Christ which literally means seized of himself as a slave of Christ (om. 1:1) (Phil. 2:12); (Gal. 1:10). For Christ he suffered the loss of all things (3:8) He allowed himself, greatest man of his age that he was, to become mastered by Christ, to be a slave of Christ, and to live only for Christ. "Paul felt that, compared to Christ, he himself was a mere instrument in his hand to carry out his will and purpose. It is profoundly true to say that Paul made Jesus, or even gave him an importance he would not have had. It is literal fact that Jesus made Paul, and the greatest disciple, is one of the chief miracles by the Master."

POULTRY MUST HAVE PROPER ATTENTION

Several Valuable Pointers by Poultry Expert.

By O. C. Uford, Extension Poultryman, Colorado State College—WNU Service.

The raising of turkey poults is different in some respects than raising baby chicks, and there are a number of pertinent points that should be carefully considered. Suggestions to turkey raisers are:

1. Baby poults are much slower in learning to eat than chicks, and a great deal of patience has to be practiced sometimes in order to get them started. Ordinarily a good mash placed before them will attract them. When milk is used as first feed, young poults will not readily take to other feeds.

2. Plenty of hoppers or feeding space is essential.

3. Poults are rapid growers and require a ration that will analyze 25 to 30 per cent protein. They require a great deal more green feed right from the start than do chicks.

4. Any skimping of rations to poults is a mistake. There is a close relationship between the amount and kind of feed a bird consumes and its growth and condition at market time.

5. Poults are apt to crowd and pile up in corners at night and must be watched. A light in the brooder house will help in keeping them spread out.

6. Burlap sacks spread around the brooder at night for poults to roost on, and removed in the morning, are a great convenience in keeping the brooder house clean. Young poults will start roosting at about three weeks of age if low roosts are provided.

Housed Birds Eat More

Feed and Lay More Eggs

Experiments conducted in several sections of the United States indicate that if housing conditions, rations, and management are satisfactory, higher egg production might be expected from confined layers than from those given free range. Birds that are housed will eat more grain and mash which are necessary for high egg production.

The eggs produced by confined birds will probably have paler yolks than those laid by birds on free range. Green feed adds color to the egg yolk. The egg buyer in the city prefers eggs with pale yolks.

Then, too, if the birds eat an excess amount of green grass, the flock may lay what we commonly call "grass eggs." The yolks of these eggs have a green cast and are rejected by the critical buyer, explains C. O. Dossin, poultry extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State college.

POULTRY PROBLEMS DOUBLE IN SUMMER

Weather Checks Egg Supply; Brings Disease.

By Roy S. Dearstine, Head of North Carolina State College Poultry Department—WNU Service.

Summer brings a number of problems to the poultryman.

Hot weather tends to decrease egg production and to increase the spread of disease. The marketing of early moulters and other hens not laying regularly is the best plan. Cockerels not kept for breeders should be sold when they reach broiler size.

Nonlayers and unneeded cockerels increase the feed bill and crowd the laying birds. Only late moulters should be used for breeding purposes.

Portable range shelters are a help in providing adequate ventilation, and should be moved to new grazing sites when necessary. See that the birds have plenty of feed and fresh water.

Do not try to reduce costs by skimping on feed, as this will tend to keep the birds from developing large frames and building up the needed body reserve for future production.

Worms and parasites, internal and external, flourish in summer. When parasites are found, immediate treatment should be given. Poor development, leg weakness, and drawn faces are symptoms of worms. County agents and other agricultural advisers may be consulted in regard to parasite control. Vaccinating against fowl pox is an inexpensive form of insurance against this disease.

Weak or poorly developed birds are possible sources of disease and are seldom profitable. Remove them from the flock.

Shell Color Inherited; Uniformity Is Demanded

Egg shell color is an hereditary factor and is influenced only slightly by feed, states a writer in the Missouri Farmer. Breeders of white egg laying breeds have striven to eliminate the tinted colors by a process of selection, giving particular attention to the first few eggs a pullet lays, since the first eggs are more apt to be tinted than others and pullets whose eggs are tinted at first often clear up after production is well under way. Likewise breeders of brown egg laying breeds are striving for dark brown shells in the same manner.

The color of shells, as every farmer knows, has no influence on the taste of eggs or quality but city people have acquired preference that producers must cater to. A good uniform color of shells helps sell eggs because most goods in the line of food are sold on looks, women being the chief buyers.

When Duck Goes Broody

When a Muscovy duck goes broody she prefers to make her own nest, following it out of the ground in some quiet corner, according to an authority in the Los Angeles Times. It takes 35 days for the eggs to hatch. During the long period of incubation the eggshells tend to dry out and become unduly hard for the ducklings to crack open. Experienced incubator men sprinkle the eggs with water that seems warm, not hot, to the hand. The sprinkling may commence about the twentieth day and continue until about the thirty-second day. The downy little fellows are hardy and active. They should be provided with sand and moistened chick feed. In two weeks they should be given grit. Ducks eat heavily and always require plenty of sharp grit and water.

Protect Roosting Sheds

The use of light summer roosting sheds by chicken breeders is steadily increasing. While the advantage of these sheds are obvious, it is not advisable to use an extremely light one unless there is adequate insulation to guard against the hot midday sun, as well as against the occasional cold and windy days. Insulating board is invaluable for this purpose and can be applied very simply to the parts of the shed that need special protection.

In the Poultry Yard

Shade is essential for all chicks during the hot season.

Check every nest late at night, so that no eggs will be overlooked.

Late chicks need artificial heat but a short time and can be turned out early.

Late chicks have to compete with older stock for range and sometimes mash.

Direct sunshine is cheap insurance against rickets in young chicks.

A lot of chicks are lost because they do not learn to eat, consequently they starve to death.

Poultrymen say eggs laid in spring keep better in cold storage than those produced in winter.

Tape-worms and flies frequently come together, and late chicks have a harder time to meet the problem.

SUCCESSFUL REVIVALIST

Rev. H. L. Thurston, pastor of the Friona Methodist Church has during the past few months, been winning for himself quite an enviable reputation as a successful revivalist.

Rev. Thurston has held at least four revivals in various localities including Wildorado, Lakeview and Oklahoma Lane, the other being at a church north of Verno, and during these revival services, two of which were held under most unfavorable circumstances, he has won no less than twenty-five conversions beside a large number of accessions by renewal of faith. Friona people have just cause to be proud of Rev. Thurston as a minister of the gospel.

GOOD ROASTING EARS

Our good friend, J. W. Ford, whose farm home is about seven miles west of town, was in Saturday afternoon and left with the Star for a bag of delicious roasting ears, which were readily consumed by "Ye Scribe" after being cooked and placed upon the home dinner table.

Roasting ears do not seem to be as plentiful in this locality this year as the usual are and are therefore quite a rare dish. We thank you, Wilbur for this delightful treat.

EUBANKS TO AMARILLO

In another column of this issue of The Star is an announcement that Prof. Wayne C. Eubanks had returned to Friona in readiness to take up his work in the school for another term, but a later "Grapevine" just as we are closing for the week, bears the information that he has accepted a position in the Amarillo College and has handed in his resignation for the Friona school.

Misses Lucile and Marie Glenin and their small brother, Sonny Boy, of Tulla, arrived here Sunday and are spending a few days visiting in the home of their grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Goodwine.

Had A Phrase For It

"CAVEAT EMPTOR." meaning "Let the buyer beware." This was not used as a bit of balm to ease the ancient conscience, nor, yet, was it placarded in the booths and stalls of the market-place. It was a piece of every-day knowledge, born of dear-bought experience.

A shopkeeper knew little about the source of his merchandise. This tunic he bought from a trader, who said it came from Byzantium. So he sold it as the latest Byzantine style. The trader told him the dye was pure Tyrian—it wouldn't fade. So he sold it as Tyrian dyed. But the buyer knew the responsibility was his own. If he guessed wrongly, or his judgment was poor, it was HIS hard luck.

Today, fortunately, there are safer guides than the blanket-warning to "let your eyes be your market."

These guides are the newspaper advertisements. In this newspaper, they are a catalog of the best values in town—signed by responsible firms. If the goods are not all that is claimed for them, their sponsors would need to "beware." For no business can thrive on a one-time sale, or on dissatisfied customers.

A signed advertisement is, in a way, like a promissory note. The advertiser has made a statement, and affixed his signature as a sign of good faith.

So, read the advertisements before you start out on a buying trip. Make this habit, and see how much you save . . . in time, in temper, in money, in shoe-leather.
