'Round These Parts

Anyway, after the storm, we should be happy about no one getting hurt.

Thruout the county, reports are, there was rain, hail and plenty of breeze.

Still, there's been no real tornado, cyclone, like there has been in many sections. Too, no high water like there is now in Ohio and other states.

Here's excerpts from Dr. C. R. Bailey's letter to the Dallas News: "I read Landrum's column every morning. Sometimes it rubs me the wrong way and I say so in uncomplimentary terms; then, the next day he comes back with one similar to that of April 11. Then I try to cover up and forget what I said the day before."

"However, if I were asked to write an article on what I think of Landrum in general I would say about him as near as I could express it, what he said about David Lefkowitz, the I do not know him personally."

"This country is in bad shape but you can't convince me that it is going to hell, because, we have too many Lynn Landrums and David Lefkowitz's."
C. R. Bailey
Gatesville, Texas.

We don't know Mr. Lefkowitz, but Mr. Landrum lays 'em on the line, whether his readers like it or not. He makes thinkers, think. He makes non-thinkers, mad. The columnist (the good ones) certainly have their place in this hectic uninformed civilization we have in this modern age.

POAGE WIRES APPROVAL RECEIVED FOR COUNTY-WIDE ROAD IMPROVEMENT W.P.A. PROJECT: $195,290.00

At 4:29 Monday, the following telegram was received from Congressman W. R. Poage, of this, the Eleventh Congressional District, which reads as follows:

WASHINGTON, D. C.
APR. 29, 1940

MAT JONES

"JUST RECEIVED FINAL APPROVAL COUNTYWIDE ROAD IMPROVEMENT WPA PROJECT INVOLVING $195,290.00. DATE

OF COMMENCEMENT OF ACTUAL WORK WILL BE DETERMINED BY NEGOTIATIONS BETWEEN SPONSOR AND TEXAS WPA OFFICE. REGARDS.

W. R. POAGE, MC

This is a "blanket" approval, which was worked out by the Commissioner's Court, and cover no specific road projects as yet.

These funds may be used on any projects worked up by a commissioner in his beat and passed by the Texas WPA office, and the fund is for the fiscal year, the county matching with not less than 30 per cent of the cost.

These funds can be used for farm-to-market roads; roads connecting trunk highways, or any way the citizens of the beats and the County Commission cares to spend it, if it is matched by the county's road money.

"THE TEXAS PARADE" WRITES UP OSCAR BURTON

An Ex-Gatesvilleite has made a record—a fine record in East Texas.

This man is Oscar Burton, former "local" manager of the Gulf States Telephone Company. We quote: (which, we're best at) The man who will guide the destinies of the Texas Good Roads Association during the coming year needs little introduction to Texas, especially to road minded citizens". Mr. Burton was interested in highways away back when a good roads movement put its head up here about 1910 or, anyway, away back. However, it didn't go over here, but he's lived to see his dream come true.

Now to go on with the "quoting": "Mr. Burton served six years on the Tyler City Council and a portion of that time as mayor. Mr. Burton has been prominently mentioned as a prospective appointee to the chairmanship of the Texas Highway Commission.

Typically of the many fine comments received on his election as president of the Texas Good Roads Association is the editorial from The Houston Post:

"Election of Oscar Burton of Tyler as president of The Texas Good Roads Association is assurance enough that the Association will continue to function as a vigorous and effective agency for promoting the cause of construction and maintenance of highways in this state.

"Oscar Burton has a long record as a wise and energetic civic leader in East Texas. He has been a valuable chieftain of The East Texas Chamber of Commerce. Few other men are better informed on the needs of the state than he, and certainly there are no other men more public-spirited than he.

POLITICS MUST COME OUT OF R.R. COMISH. OFFICE

Senator Olan R. Van Zandt, candidate for Railroad Commissioner stated in his recent opening speech of the campaign as follows: "Should the great powers vested in the commissioners be diverted from commercial channels into political channels, then the danger must fully be realized by the people."

"By all means, in so far as possible, the commission should be eliminated from politics. As a business institution, its beneficial work must be keenly felt by every material interest in the state. As a political machine, every revolution of it would menace the happiness of the people."

COUNTY ATTORNEY'S DOG KILLED, HOME STRUCK BY LIGHT'NEN

"Tommy" C. E. Alvis Jr's bull dog, met fire and brimstone Sunday.

He was tied in the garage, the lightning struck a tree nearby, hopped to the garage, hopped over Alvis' car and hit Tommy.

It continued down a clothes line into the house, knocking two holes, went down a curtain rod, setting fire to the curtain, and also the wall paper. Gene, a member of the fire department, phoned "the boys" but the phone was dead, so he used his skill as a fireman, extinguished the blaze before it had done much damage.

Reports thruout the country show that many trees, barns, sheds, outhouses, garages, etc., have been blown over, off their blocks, deroofted, and damaged. Some sections report the hail ruined crops, and some say there was only a scattering of hail. A section between Plainview and the Georgetown road seems to have born the brunt of the storm.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Burleson and daughter, Virginia, spent Sunday in Austin and San Antonio.

(Note: In the next three issues of the News, we will carry questions and answers too, and in reference to the proposed City-County hospital. If there are any more questions relative to this proposed band issue, and the hospital, we will be glad to refer you to the proper party.)

THE COUNTY HOSPITAL

A few questions and their answers about the proposed County Hospital.

1. Who will it help?
Ans: Every man, woman, boy or girl in Coryell County, either directly or indirectly.

2. How will it help them?
A. Directly when they need hospitalization; indirectly when they have relatives or friends in the hospital; both in the saving of the expense of going to the other towns for hospitalization. It costs from $5.00 up to go to the nearest hospital and so it costs Coryell County residents from $20,000.00 to $30,000.00 per year for the expense of going away, not counting hospital bills.

3. What will the hospital cost the tax payer?

A. Seven cents (7c) on each One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) rendered for taxes, which will be reduced to Five Cents (5c) on the Hundred Dollars ($100.00) after 1958. That is all the cost.

4. Will it be run as a charity hospital?

Ans: No, certainly not, except in the case of a person who has absolutely nothing and needs an emergency operation.

5. Who will determine whether he has property or not?

A. That will be the duties of the superintendent or business manager of the hospital.

6. Will those who are able be required to pay their expenses?

A. Yes.

7. Will the doctor charge the county for those patients that cannot pay?

A. No.

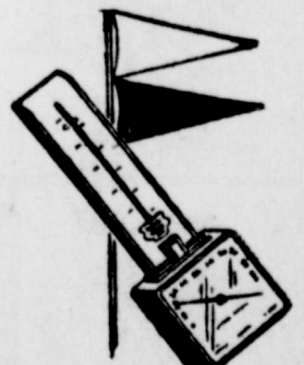

8. Will the hospital be of benefit to the doctors?

A. Professionally, yes; financially, no. A well equipped hospital will enable them to have the necessary equipment for doing the best work possible. In a financial way it will stop them from call for which they now charge.

9. Why the $30,000.00 bond issue.

A. The plan is to take $15,000.00 of $30,000.00 bond issue and match it with $15,000.00 to $20,000.00 WPA money and build a hospital costing from $30,000.00 to $35,000.00.

VENTILATED PANTRY

Mrs. J. E. Brazzil of Flat says "Not a thing froze in my ventilated pantry". A ventilated pantry is one so constructed that the cool air which is stored up under the house is drawn slowly through the pantry during the day and keeps the foods in the pantry at approximately the same temperature as can be maintained in a cellar or underground storage place.

The opposite gable ends of the house should be ventilated. This ventilation should be as near the top peak of the gable of the house as possible so as to drive out the hot air and not permit a layer at the top. If the house roof has no gables, as with a "hip roof", it would be well to install a vent in the highest ridge of the roof. A flue connecting the top of the pantry directly with the outside air is not recommended. It is better to open the pantry directly into a well ventilated attic. A well ventilated attic has been found to be an aid in cooling a house.

The best location for this pantry is near the center of the house. The shelves should be so constructed as not to interfere with a free circulation of air which aids in controlling the humidity within the pantry. As suggested in the blue print, three four-inch boards with one inch between the boards have been found to work very satisfactorily. In placing containers in the pantry, care should be taken not to obstruct this free air circulation. A screened opening in the floor permits the pool air from under the house to force the warm air out of the pantry thru the screened opening in the ceiling. The opening in the floor should be as far from the outside walls of the house as possible or one loses the effect of the cooler temperature and only warm outside air instead of the cool air from under the center of the building will be drawn thru the pantry.

CORYELL COUNTY NEWS BASEBALL CUP RACE OPENS SUNDAY, MAY 5TH

The Coryell County News Baseball Cup Race officially opens Sunday, May 5th with eight or ten teams entered in the contest. No schedule has been worked out yet due to the fact that some of the entries have not been filed and the exact number of teams participating is not known.

This will be the third series of this kind that has been promoted by the News and each year a beautiful championship trophy is awarded to the winners. Last year the Pidcoke "Cokers" managed by Virgil Lockhart, won the trophy after a blistering series and Jonesboro copped the championship year before last.

Eight teams namely, Pidcoke, Topsey, Blackfoot, Mound Jonesboro, White Hall, Coryell City and Plainview have filed their entries with the Secretary of the league and if no other teams have entered by Wednesday, May 1, the playing schedule will be arranged and printed in Friday's issue of the News.

Among the teams entered in the league there seems to be no really outstanding club and the outcome of the series is apt to prove interesting as well as mysterious. Mound, Blackfoot and Pidcoke are almost certain to have excellent teams this year and some of the newest entries also show much promise of developing into classy clubs.

The League will be run according to the 1940 adopted constitution with a few exceptions. The ten mile rule which heretofore has caused so much controversy among the team managers has been apparently worked out satisfactorily, allowing each team as many as three players living outside of the ten mile radius.

Only two complete eligibility lists have been turned in by the managers but the deadline on these lists has been set for Saturday May 4th and any changes before that time will be permissible.

The International News Service recently published a detailed explanation of the new 18-year-old age rule which will be effective during the coming football season. This rule has blighted the hopes of many high school squads who were counting on strong teams during the 1940 season and many of the boys who will be declared ineligible have already went thru spring training. The adoption of this rule by the Interscholastic League has cost the local high school four or five lettermen whose services will be greatly needed if the 1940 Hornet aggregation are to obtain any measure of success.

An explanation of the new rule reads as follows: Austin, April 13—The new 18-year-old rule for Class AA football will prevail during the coming season. This was announced Saturday by the Interscholastic League as the result of a mail poll of superintendents.

Conference A, conference B and six-man football schools retained the 19-year age limit which bases eligibility on eight semesters' attendance rather than age of players.

As a result, effective for the school term 1940-41, conference AA schools—those having an enrollment of 500 or more—will have an age limit of 18 with no semesters limitation; conference A, B and six-man football teams will retain the 19-year rule which bars a player after he has completed eight semesters of participation, or has passed the age of 19.

Effective school term 1940-41 four year rule and semester rule shall be abolished and age rule shall read: No one shall take part in any football contest who on the first day of September preceding the contest has reached or passed his eighteenth birthday.

The revised rule for conference A, conference B and six-man football reads: Effective school term 1940-41 semester rule shall read: No pupil who has been in attendance in high school for eight semesters or more shall be eligible for participation, semesters to be counted from the eighth grade in 11-grade school systems and from the ninth grade in 12-grade systems; and age rule shall read: No one shall take part in any football contest who, on the first day of September preceding the contest has reached or passed his nineteenth birthday.

pellet" and getting in shape for the opening games.

A guess at the strongest team would be like a shot in the dark, but Pidcoke, Mound and Blackfoot are definitely in the top bracket. Several new teams who are playing their first year, also show promise of developing into classy teams.

The Flat Yellowjackets seem to have the right-of-way in the High School Loop and so far have remained undefeated. This is largely due to the fine hurling of Holcomb, schoolboy ace, but he has also received excellent backing by his mates.

Turnersville appears to be second best according to the rating but an accurate league standing can not be compiled at the present as several games have not been reported.

Softball is apparently coming to the front again and all teams interested in forming a city softball league should take advantage of the opportunity to organize. Reports are that Arnold's and the Red & White teams are ready, but nothing has been heard from the Firemen, CCC and Coca-Cola.

Sport News

Coach Earle Worley who has been high school coach for the past five years has been elected as principal of the local high school and will give up his coaching duties at the end of spring training.

During the five years that coach Worley has stood at the helm of the Hornet club he has piloted the team through some stormy sessions and his record is above reproach. It was during his reign that the Hornets won three consecutive victories over their arch enemies, the McGregor Bulldogs and a feat that probably won't be repeated for many moons to come.

As far as is known, no new coach has been selected for the 1940 term.

THE GOVERNORSHIP

The tempo of Texas' gubernatorial race stepped up considerably last week with the opening address of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson in Waco, site of the first big O'Daniel rally in 1938.

All of the aspirants for the State's highest elective office now have made their opening addresses, and some conclusions can be made about the nature of the race. Although nine candidates have indicated their intention to run, only four may be classed as "major" contenders: Governor O'Daniel, Harry Hines, Jerry Sadler and Mrs. Ferguson. Barring further entries, which may be made until June 3, it is safe to say that two of these four candidates will be in the runoff, assuming that there will be a runoff this year.

The potency of Governor O'Daniel as a candidate is a matter of much speculation among political observers. Few believe that he will repeat the feat of 1938 when he polled 573,166 votes out of 1,115,485 cast in the first primary to win the nomination over 12 opponents.

In 1938 O'Daniel was competing against a field of moderately conservative candidates who were unable to emulate his unique methods of campaigning or to counteract his effective charges against "professional politicians."

But two candidates equally adept with the Governor in political protchnic designed to appeal to the "cross roads" vote are in the list this time.

Jerry Sadler proved his vote-getting ability in 1938 when he ousted the venerable C. V. Terrell from his post on the railroad commission. Stumping the state with a hillbilly band and a slogan, "Put Sadler in the Saddle", Sadler won his office despite the opposition of the newly-nominated governor.

Appeal of the name "Ferguson" to the voters of Texas has not been subjected to a direct test since 1932, when Mrs. Ferguson defeated Gov. Ross Sterling in his race for a second term. Obviously "Farmer Jim" again hopes to defeat a "businessman" governor in a second primary race.

With O'Daniel, Sadler and Mrs. Ferguson directing essentially the same kind of appeal to the voters, only Harry Hines of the major candidates can be expected to make a quiet, dignified campaign modeled on those of past years.

While the entry of Sadler and the Fergusons has considerably undermined the strength of O'Daniel, Hines' chances were immeasurably bettered by the withdrawal of Ernest O. Thompson, who plans to run for Congress from the 18th District. Hines and Thompson in the same race would have split the conservative vote somewhat on the basis of the McCraw-Thompson duo of 1938, when both were contending for the same voting-clientele with the result that both lost.

Thompson polled 231,630 votes in the first 1938 primary while McCraw had 152,278 and Tom Hunter 117,634. Combined, these three candidates polled more than 500,000 votes—which reasonably can be regarded as anti-O'Daniel. If Hines can poll even half of this number, say 250,000 to 300,000 in the first primary, he will stand a good chance of entering the second race.

The Fergusons boast of a "pistol pocket" vote of 200,000, which can be delivered at any time to a Ferguson candidate or to one bearing the Ferguson endorsement. But "Farmer Jim" will have to add considerably to this total to enter the second primary campaign.

Jerry Sadler garnered 255,000 votes in the first primary of his race for railroad commissioner in a field in which three candidates polled more than 200,000 votes. If he can repeat with this total in the governor ship race, he will offer stiff competition for a second primary position.

Naturally, all of this is merely pre-campaign speculation which is more hazardous than guessing when the campaign is at a heated stage. Later, better prognostications will be in order, when the alignments are better known and the vote-getting capacities of the major candidates can be better analyzed.

At this stage, it appears that the gubernatorial melee will center around the acute issue of taxes. In his opening speech O'Daniel again endorsed his original transactions tax plan. Mr. Ferguson has discarded the sales levy plan in favor of the gross receipts levy against the merchant rather than the consumer.

Highway Commissioner Harry Hines favors higher resources and various business taxes listed in the omnibus bill of 1939, and Railroad Commissioner Jerry Sadler

The possibility that a new record high will be set in votes cast in Texas Democratic primary looms from the report by Comptroller George H. Sheppard that 1,259,878 poll tax receipts have been issued. With exemption certificates, the State will have a total voting strength of 1,450,000. In the first Democratic primary of 1938, Texas cast 1,114,885 votes, setting a new high record.

Products From Every State Used In Making Of Beer, Survey Shows

Public revenue in every state in the Union shared in the brewing industry's contribution to business and government last year, according to the 1940 issue of the economic survey, "Beer and Brewing in America," edited by Standard Statistics Co., Inc.

Rapid expansion of the industry's program of alignment with the public interest to promote moderation in drinking and to insure high standards of beer retailing was another feature of the year's developments.

"In the seven years since beer's re-legalization, the re-born industry has resumed its important place in the economic structure of the nation," the survey states.

"It is an industry rooted in agriculture, through the use of brewers' grains. From every State in the Union, it draws materials and ingredients for some 600 breweries, large and small. It returns its finished product again to every State through a vast network of thousands of wholesalers and hundreds of thousands of retailers.

"From the local outlet, a large portion of the money spent for beer flows back into local business channels through the retailer's purchase of innumerable commodities in his own community.

"Outstanding indices of the industry's far-reaching economic significance are visible in:—

1. Wide-spread employment and large-scale utilization of farm products.
2. Stimulation of the productive activity of scores of the nation's major industries which provide needed equipment and materials.
3. Heavy contributions to Federal, State and local revenues."

Originally prepared by the late Warren Milton Persons, statistician, author and professor of economics at Harvard University, the material in "Beer and Brewing in America" has been thoroughly edited and brought up to date for the 1940 edition. It is published by the United Brewers Industrial Foundation.

"OF MICE AND MEN"

by JOHN STEINBECK

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: George Milton and Lennie Small are barley buckers on a ranch in the Salinas Valley. George is the guardian of Lennie, who is huge of build and tremendously powerful, but has the mind of a child and is constantly getting them both into difficulties due to his strange compulsion to "pet soft things" — which might be a mouse, a bird, or a girl's velvet dress. Since Lennie cannot control his vast strength when excited, his innocent habit often leads to trouble. On the ranch the two win the friendship of Slim, the good-natured mule skinner, and they strike up a partnership with old Candy, the crippled "scamper", to save for the little farm they dream of owning. But Curley, the boss's pugnacious son who is constantly jealous over his flirtatious young wife, viciously attacks Lennie and beats him mercilessly until Lennie, in panic, seizes his assailant's hand and crushes it to a pulp in his vise-like paw. Slim advises Curley to save his fighting reputation by giving out the story that his hand was caught in a machine. Curley agrees.

Chapter Five

On Saturday night the boys went into town to tour the saloons and the outlying roadhouses. George went along, but only as an on-looker. A drink of whiskey cost fifteen cents; and George was obsessed with the thought of how much good planting seed for the little truck garden on his and Lennie's place could be bought for fifteen cents.

Lennie gently, happily stroked her hair.

So George returned to the ranch early — yet none too soon. Lennie, as usual, was doing the wrong thing. Not only did he wander out to the barn and visit the forbidden premises of old Crooks, the colored stable buck; worse, he betrayed the secret of their dream place to Crooks, abetted by Candy.

While George was ordering Lennie and Candy back to the bunkhouse, Mae, adrift as usual on Saturday night while her husband was in town on a drunk, entered the barn. They tried to drive her away; but Mae, stubbornly bent on finding out what had really happened to Curley's hand, ignored their insults and closely questioned one after the other about Curley. Then she noticed the bruises on Lennie's face.

"So — it was you," she said softly. "Well, maybe you're dumb like they say — and maybe you're the only guy on the ranch with nerve. You're a nice fella!"

George would have struck her then and there for "messin' around" with Lennie, had not old man Jackson passed by and ordered them all out of the barn.

When Curley returned home, late Sunday morning, from his all-night drunk, his father told him about Mae's nocturnal visit to the barn. Curley rushed upstairs to administer one of his frequent beatings; but she turned on him in hysterical fury.

"Who bust your han', Curley?" she screamed, laughing wildly. "Who bust your han'?"

"I told you I caught in in a machine."

"Yeah. I seen that machine last night. Why didn't you tell your old man so he could can them fellers? I'll tell ya why — 'cause if ya talked, they'd talk too. An' you were afraid you'd get the horse laugh — like I'm givin' ya now!"

Curley's anger turned to cold fury. "I ain't even gonna slug ya. I'm just gonna pack your junk. You're gettin' outa here. You an me are through."

The Sunday afternoon horseshoe pitching contest was in full swing. But Lennie did not hear the excited shouts and the occasional clang of a horseshoe against the spike that sounded from outside the barn. For great sorrow had come to Lennie. His pup was dead. While he sat in the straw, looking dumbly at the little lifeless form in his hands, Mae stealthily crept into the barn. At first she was unaware of Lennie's presence; she had come in, dressed in her best dress and carrying her cheap patent leather suitcase, to find her puppy.

"I was clear through the ranch gate, but I remembered — you foolish little face — you're comin' with me."

When she heard Lennie begin to sob, she went over to him.

"Your puppy! He's dead!"

"He was so lil'," whimpered Lennie. "I was jus' playin' with him an' he made like he was goin' to bite me an' I made like I was goin' to smack him — an' then he was dead."

"Don't you worry none. He was just a mutt. Yo. can get another one easy. The whole country's full of mutts."

"It ain't that so much. George ain't gonna let me tend no rabbits, now."

Lennie suddenly remembered that Mae was a "pack o' trouble", and that he was forbidden to talk to her. He made as if to go, but she blocked his path. She spoke to him soothingly. He needn't worry about being found talking to her. The horseshoe tournament would last all afternoon, and no one would leave it until it was over. At last Mae had some one to talk to, and to the uncomprehending, scarcely listening Lennie she poured out her life's story; how her father had been a drunken sign painter who was "put away" when she was a child; how she had wanted to go into the movies, but her mother had intercepted the
