"PANS-ZER" DRIVE OPENS HERE WITH . . . — (V) AHEAD: "UNITS" START MARCH FROM OGLESBY TO EVANT: GATESVILLE'S "BIG PUSH" STARTS 8:00 TODAY

Bells will be tolled this morning (rather the old Fire Bell) at 8:00 a. m. by the children of the City Officials of Gatesville, Roger's, Rufe's and C. E.'s, signifying the opening of Coryell County's Aluminum Collection Drive. Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, and most other agencies and clubs around town will start the collection of this valuable metal. It'll be worse than the down-town streets with collectors on the "worst" of the month. And, when the first load (brought in by City trucks) is dumped in the big pen on the courthouse lawn, Miss La Nell Brooks, daughter of Superintendent and Mrs. Ercell W. Brooks will ring the old bell again. As we told you Friday, the collection will be in every part of the county and the "massed collection" will be made by all four of the County Commissioner's Trucks at designated spots throughout the county. Commissioners Johnson, Painter, Price and Turner, all are cooperating in this movement. When all the pans and pots get to rattling, it's going to sound like the Selectee-National Guard Army is coming thru, only there won't be any Yoo-Hoos. These folks will be seriously at work trying to get together their part of the 20,000,000 pounds or $'s worth one, of aluminum which is expected to be collected in these United States, what come Saturday next. You can "Make a Hit at Hitler" by collecting up these old discarded implements of cookery, and leaving them at the already named stations. This aluminum will be bought by non-defense industries, releasing the raw or crude aluminum (not used) to be used for airplanes, and other necessary implements of war, including many things the soldier wears, so if he has to make a long hike, the weight won't be so much. According to a chart we've seen 1500 pitchers, 600 preserving kettles, 500 teakettles, 400 dishpans, 400 roasters, 400 saucepans, 500 double boilers, 1300 coffee pots, and 2100 cups are required to make one pursuit plane, and that's SOME aluminum. Join the drive for Aluminum, and let's give Hitler "Pans with Pains".

INSTRUCTOR AND 15 AGGIES HERE ON 7,000-MILE JAUNT

Starting a 7,000 mile jaunt, 15 Agricultural Economics students stopped here briefly Monday, after their bus broke down, and visited the Gatesville Frozen Food Lockers, and other similar plants here. They were accompanied by an instructor from the institution, and are going via Colorado to Washington state, and then down thru California, making the entire group of western states, studying agricultural economics. The entire party were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan E. Graves at their home near Gatesville.

BAPTIST REVIVAL AT JONESBORO JULY 20: CONTINUES TO 26TH

According to A. R. Corn, pastor of the Jonesboro Methodist church, the revival meeting which opened Sunday, July 20, at Jonesboro is progressing nicely and will continue thru the 26th. "We are expecting many souls to be saved during the meeting, and many prayers are being made to that end. If you can't come, send up an earnest prayer for the salvation of the lost." Pleas A. Walker and Bill Ament local firemen, are attending the Firemen's Short Course at "College". Bennie Derrick of Weatherford is visiting his parents, Rev. and Mrs. G. L. Derrick of Jonesboro this week.

Texas Toops To Start For East For Maneuvers

Headed for the biggest peacetime maneuvers in the history of the United States Army, 100,000 soldiers of the VII Army Corps and its attached units will begin a rail, motor and air movement to Louisiana maneuver area August 3. The 36th Division, Camp Bowie, commanded by Major Claude V. Birkhead will leave Brownwood August 4, 5, and 6 and arrive at Mansfield August 8, 9 and 10. The All-Texas National Guard division will travel along U.S. 84 by way of Goldthwaite, Gatesville, etc. There'll probably be other units starting the "mass migration" and will probably use good old 84, since this highway is the shortest distance between the west and where they've started for. So, if you want to see "The Big Parade" re-enacted locally, why, just get on 84 anywhere and you'll see plenty.

WITH THE COLORS

We got a letter, rather short, but good, anyway, from Martin Donaldson of the Station Hospital at Fort Clark, Texas, in which he sent some match box covers to help out a "hobby" of ours. We will "receive" or "trade" with any of the boys, and thanks "Pill Roller" Donaldson (that's what they called the Medical Corps when we were in) for the covers.

'T'Market, T'Market' They're Going This Week, Lots of 'em

Probably you've not heard about winter clothes yet! Most of us don't until the first "norther". Your home town merchants has been thinking about "winter" clothes for some time, has probably bought some, or made up his mind. Things have to be done just that way, that is, if you get any "winter" clothes, here or anywhere else. So, here in Gatesville, many of the local merchants, especially in the drygoods line will be absent this week in the Dallas-Fort Worth wholesale markets. Going, are C. E. Alvis Sr. and Mrs. Kit Bridges of Alvis-Garner Company; Mr. and Mrs. Byron Leaird Jr., and Miss Verna Walters, of Leaird's Department Store; George B. Painter, Mrs. Jack Gilkey and Miss Treva Davis, all of Painter's. Joe Hanna and probably some of his salespeople will go next week. Also, from Davidson Bros. & Company, they haven't decided yet where or when, but it won't be long. Then, when the first "norther" blows in, or before, you can see what "we'll be a-wearin' this, along about December" if we can make the raffle.

REVIVAL MEETING STARTED AT SLATER SATURDAY NIGHT

Rev. Floyd W. Raley, pastor of the Slater Church, began a revival meeting at Slater School Auditorium Saturday night, July 19, and it will continue thru Sunday evening, July 27. The public is invited and urged to attend this community revival. Services will be held each evening at 8 o'clock.

THE PASSING OF THE Boomtown

Oil boomtowns exist today only in the movies. The old-time "gusher" wells are gone forever.

In the early days, as long as oil flowed, the boomtowns flourished. But soon the wells failed and the booms collapsed, carrying with them the income and security of those who had depended on them.

Today, through a sound program of conserving oil and gas, hundreds of Texas communities are enjoying a permanent type of petroleum development. Furthermore, because of conservation, we have the largest oil reserves in the world, one of our greatest assets for National Defense.

Oil now builds stable communities. It provides assured tax revenues and greater ultimate tax returns than were ever possible in boomtown days. And every citizen benefits from the income oil creates.

Conservation not only protects Texas oil resources. It also assures for many years the prosperity which oil brings to every community where it is found.

WHY ON EARTH DO THEY DO IT?

... run the risk of having to pay rent while their home is being rebuilt after a fire

If Fire should chase you out of your home, where would your family stay while repairs are going on? Rent insurance costs a ridiculously low sum... and pays rent in quarters equivalent to your home while you're rebuilding.

Moral: Don't go another day without this protection. It's attached to your present policy, and costs less than you'd believe possible.

Notes of an Innocent Bystander:

William L. Shirer's Book, "Berlin Diary," is now out. Shirer was CBS correspondent in Berlin for years. He tells of the German mother of an airman who was notified by the Luftwaffe that her son was dead. A few days later, BBC in London (which weekly broadcasts a list of Nazi prisoners) announced that her boy had been captured. Next day she got eight letters from neighbors telling her they had heard by short-wave that her son was alive in England. . . . It is against the law in Germany to listen to foreign broadcasts. . . . The mother had all eight arrested for "breaking the law". . . . When Shirer wanted to use the story on his broadcast the Nazi censor deleted it on the ground "that Americans would not understand the heroism of the airman's mother".

The way the foreign correspondents now use the phrases "informed sources" and "according to reliable information" because stories in Europe are difficult to confirm, recalls this classic about the cub reporter. . . . He was on a small town newspaper and was assigned to cover a bridge party. He was told never to write anything as a fact that he was not absolutely sure about. . . . His story came out in the paper this way: "It is rumored that a bridge party was given yesterday by a number of reputed ladies. Mrs. Smith, it was said, was the hostess. The guests, it is alleged, with the exception of Mrs. Brown, who says she comes from Illinois, were all local people. Her husband says he is rich. . . . The hostess, Mrs. Smith, claims to be the wife of Alexander Smith."

Two outstanding appeasement newspapers are very quietly preparing to become patriotic. Preparations have been made to get behind the gov't at the next break in U. S.-German relations. A face-saving device is being worked out for their editorial about-face. . . . Uncle Sam has just cracked down hard on a "refugee" who was caught doing Nazi propaganda here. His final citizenship papers are being withheld. His draft board got after him and visas for kin refused. . . . His initials are H. C. . . . Immigration officials have just discovered a big illicit traffic in Puerto Rican birth certificates for aliens

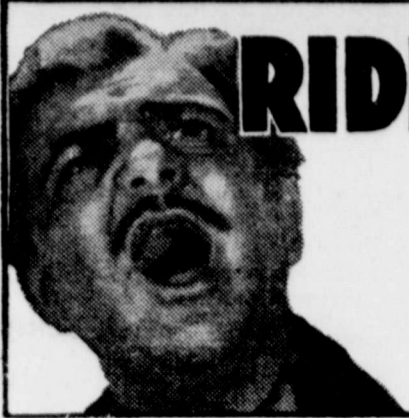

New York Heartbeat:

The Story Tellers: Chas. Lindbergh Sr. is profiled in the SEP by his one-time law partner, Walter Eli Quigley, who calls the piece "Like Father, Like Son". . . . Read the senior Lindbergh's speeches in the book, "Your Country at War," and you'll see how "like" they are. The arguments the father made against invasion in 1917 (sensible then, maybe) show up in the son's soapboxing in 1941. . . . Jack Oakie has a good phrase, in Liberty, for those sentimental memories of hard times. "all that," he says, "reads better than it lived". . . . National is a newcomer, taking its name from its chief subject, national defense. It is common-sense-ational. Read it and give your brain a break.

Typewriter Ribbons: Zona Gale: He not only could neatly cock an eyebrow—but could also produce in his victim a feeling that he had aimed and fired it. . . . A. Devere: Prejudice, which sees what it pleases, cannot see what is plain. . . . Jean Richter: Recollection is the only paradise from which we cannot be turned out. . . . Oscar Wilde: Unselfishness is letting other people's lives alone. . . . Alvin C. York: By our victory in the last war, we won a lease on liberty, not a deed to it. . . . Jay Russell: A good test of man's character comes when he's getting ahead without getting one on the way. . . . Mark Twain: Don't part with your illusions. When they are gone you may still exist, but you have ceased to live. . . . The Akron Beacon-Journal: Fate does its part, yet most of the things we regret or resent could have been avoided if we had tried.

Drama critics aren't always meanies. . . . When George Bernard Shaw was a critic a young actress asked him what he thought of her ability. . . . Shaw told her to get married, have two children, learn something about life, then she would be able to act. . . . She followed his counsel. . . . Five years later she returned to the theater and became a great English actress. . . . Sybil Thorndike.

Sounds in the Night: At the Famous Door: "If you had my brains you wouldn't have anything to worry about!" . . . "Gawan, if I had your brains, I wouldn't have anything to worry with!" . . . At the Havana-Madrid: "Don't get him angry, he's liable to hit you with his bank book". . . . At the Glass Hat: "She's very good to her folks. Keeps away from them". . . . At the Riviera: "After the horse is stolen—they close up all the consulates!" . . . At El Morocco: "He's popular with kids—they like the rattle in his head."

SYNOPSIS

Mike Balan, who has made a racket of hijacking cattle enroute to stock markets winds up in Leavenworth prison when Federal agents clamp down on his activities. He depends on his son Johnny to spring him from prison. The latter, using friends made in military school, enlists in the U. S. Cavalry and has himself transferred to Leavenworth. He has worked out a skillful plan in which he will use uniforms and horses to free his father. Meanwhile Trina, a singer with whom Johnny has fallen in love, follows him to Leavenworth and gets a job singing in a cafe.

CHAPTER IX

MORE than anything else in the world Johnny wanted to talk to Trina. But the cafe was crowded. He decided to wait until the place closed. "What time do these performers get through?" Johnny asked a passing pantryman. The waiter grinned: "Oh, she goes home about one-thirty," he said with a knowing wink.

One-thirty found Johnny waiting in the shadow of a doorway across the street from THE ROSE PUP. He did not notice another lounging figure a few doorways down the street.

The second loiterer was a Leavenworth lawyer named Leroyd, one of the kind that flourishes in every prison town to prey on the friends and relatives of prisoners.

Presently Trina came out of the cafe surrounded by a small group of laughing troopers. From his vantage point across the street Johnny saw her smilingly detach herself from the group and start down the street. As she came abreast of Leroyd, the lawyer halted her.

"What do you want of me that is so important?" Trina asked wearily.

"You know somebody in the Federal prison," Leroyd said in a low voice. He paused significantly. "You can do business with me. I am a lawyer. I can help you."

This might be a trap, Trina decided. "I do not wish anything to do with you," she said and turned away. But Leroyd was not so easily stopped. Seizing her by the arm he spun her about and leered into her face. "Don't be a fool," he whispered. "You and I could get together on this. Maybe I'd even shave my fee for you."

As Trina struggled vainly to wrench herself free, Johnny sprang from his sheltering doorway, seized Leroyd by the neck and flung him away.

Fighting mad, Leroyd regained his feet and charged Johnny. A trio of passing townsmen who knew the lawyer rushed to his assistance. As Johnny dropped Leroyd again, two of them jumped the former. Sergeant Breslin, who cordially disliked Johnny, and some troopers from Johnny's troop, were still lingering in front of THE ROSE PUP. Sighting a uniformed figure out-numbered, they charged to the rescue.

They are still talking about that riot in Leavenworth. But to Johnny the high spot was not the thorough beating he handed out to Leroyd but the friendliness of Breslin and the others from the Fort. With true respect for a fighting man, they accepted him as one of themselves. Gone was their antagonism. He was a trooper!

Alone with Trina on a park bench a little later, Johnny rubbed his bruised face and demanded:

"What are you doing, singing in that hole?"

"Hoping you would hear me," Trina answered blithely.

"But here in Leavenworth—why did you come here? To see Mike?"

"No, Johnny. To see you. I knew you would be somewhere around here." And then softly, "Have you missed me?"

Johnny did not dare look at her. "I don't want to talk about that now," he muttered.

"I know, first you've got to get Mike out. But what does the soldier suit mean?"

"That's for Mike," Johnny explained. "I used all the drag I had. As a kid I went to military school which helped—his father is an army man and I got the right transfers."

"Does Mike know you are here?"

As their eyes met Johnny forgo. Mike. He forgot the army. He swept her into his arms.

Day after day Mike schemed and planned to get himself and Oklahoma transferred to Farm Number 2. But it was luck and Mike's quick mind that eventually did the trick.

As the two were shovelling coal into the basement of the Warden's house, the Warden's small son and another youngster amused themselves by tormenting a pup. The little dog's howls attracted the Warden's attention. The harsh lecture he administered to the thoughtless lads did not escape Mike. The Warden loved animals and would brook no cruelty to them.

It was days before Mike's chance came. A prisoner, driving a prison coal wagon, was having trouble with

"Yes. I rode around the place a month before I got a chance to see him."

"How is he?"

"He looked fierce," Johnny said bitterly. "Not like I remembered him at all."

"You must get him back the way he was before, Johnny," Trina said gently.

"Yes," Johnny agreed worriedly. "I left him a message but it hasn't worked so far. "He's got to get out to the prison farm before I can do anything. Once he's there, I can get him away in a week."

"Can I help?" Trina's voice was eager. "Maybe I can get in to see him."

"Only speed will help. You see we're only going to be here a month more working on some staff school problems. Then we—I mean the troop—will be shifted to Fort Riley."

"Then there's nothing we can do?"

"The only thing I can do is wait," Johnny's voice became grim. "And be a good soldier."

Johnny looked away in the direction of the prison. Somewhere in there Mike was counting on him, his son, to help him. Trina's voice roused him. "Johnny," she said softly. "look at me for a minute—just this minute."

a stubborn mule. As he plied his whip, Mike sprang on him and knocked him from his seat.

In the Warden's office Mike explained humbly.

"Mr. Warden," he said, "I could not help it. I see that man hurt that horse—I mean mule—and something rises in me because I cannot bear to see a man hurt an animal."

The Warden was surprised and pleased. "Balan, I can understand that," he said. "Do you know anything about horses?"

"Everything," Mike said boastfully.

"I like a modest man," the Warden laughed. "Do you know that we have horses at the Number 2 Farm? And that the men who work there are placed on their honor?"

"Yes, sir," Mike answered.

"The prisoners on Number 2 are on their honor—but they cannot get away because this is a Federal prison and the entire force of the government will hunt them down. Do you understand, Balan?"

"Yes, sir," Mike said.

"Remember that, Balan." Turning to his secretary, the Warden said: "Transfer this man to Number 2 Farm!"

has become of Rudolph Hess?

My uncle by marriage of my step aunt got married to keep the draft from a gettin' him. He's 30 years old now and they have dropped the limit to 28 and is his face
red. One thing good about the draft, it got my cousin, Marsh
Redfern out of grammar school.

I been a watchin' these vacation tourists go by and stop in the honkytonk. What I think these slacks they wear need most is more slack in the seat of the pants.

I cut my finger the other day
and went to the medicine cabinet and after going through a lot of soap, cold cream, tooth paste, shavin' cream, tooth brushes, rouge lipstick, nail polish and such I finally found it in the back row.

I seen a ad the other day where a feller wanted to hire a man
what could milk and handle mules.
Now ain't that somethin'?

My niece, Imogene asked me yesterday what a lark was and I said it is somethin' you can't get up with after you've been on one
the night before.

"I'll be a seein' you, Pal, and
"Keep 'Em Flyin'."

Yourn,
LOONY LUCY

gers around a home. Numerous cases are on record of children dying from drinking sewage-polluted water. A scientifically designed reduces this grave danger. No chemicals or attention necessary once the Cameron Septic Tank is installed. A safe Cameron Septic Tank is so low in cost that any substitute is not worth the risk.
