Vichy France yesterday turned over to Nazi Germany 40 French vessels that were being built at the time of the French defeat and occupation by the Nazi hordes.

This was to be expected, since the Vichy Government has always been Nazi dominated. Added to this is the recent bombings of Paris by the RAF.

CONGRESSMAN BOB POAGE PROMISES HIS FULL CO-OPERATION IN SECURING FAIR AND EQUITABLE SETTLEMENT FOR ALL PROPERTY TAKEN FOR ARMY USE IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF CAMP HOOD

Washington, D. C.
March 2, 1942

I have received a copy of the petition which you and other citizens of Coryell and Bell Counties recently addressed to each of the United States Senators from Texas and to me.

While the policy of the War Department in regard to the acquisition of land is not under Congressional control except insofar as it is controlled by general law, which already contemplates full and fair compensation for all property taken, I am nevertheless very anxious to be of every possible assistance and to see that our people are actually given the consideration which the law contemplates.

On at least two different occasions heretofore I have talked with General Bruce here in Washington in regard to the acquisition of this land. I know that it is his desire that everybody be given a square deal. I am sure that this is likewise the desire of the official of the Land Acquisition Division of the Army. I have had several conversations with various officials of this Division in regard to various matters connected with the purchase of the land at Camp Hood in the past and since receiving your petition I have today talked with Mr. Fabian of that Division with reference to the specific matters mentioned in your communication.

He says that they will immediately detail someone from their office to look into the matter, and that they will do everything possible to correct any injustices. I did my best to make him understand that there had been a general rise in land prices throughout Texas within the last several months, and that there had been a particularly sharp rise in prices within this portion of Central Texas, especially since the first purchases were made by the Government near the town of Killeen.

I pointed out that the very fact that those who first sold their land were able to buy places made it harder for the later sellers to find places, and naturally drive the price up. I also discussed the matter of the resale of the improvements on the land. Naturally the office here can give very little information on this point as they can only instruct their local real estate men to reserve for the government anything that the military officials who are to command the camp feel will be needed in the operation of the camp. I am hopeful, however, that I was able to make them realize that the repurchase of these improvements at a small price is to some extent equivalent to the giving of a higher price for the property, and if some were to be allowed a valuable privilege, those who were not allowed it should be given an especially liberal payment for their land.

I also raised the question of the short notice that I understand has been given in so many cases. Mr. Fabian promised to try to see that the local land office gave full publicity at once to all whose land would be taken. He explained that the exact boundaries had been changed so often that it was just now that they were able to tell exactly whose land would be taken. I urged that in any event they could be given a longer period of notice, and I specifically urged that the owners and tenants be allowed to keep their stock on the land until they could get some place to move it, or at least until the Government was ready to move troops into the area. I realize that the next two months are critical with most stock, and that it would be a great help if this stock could be kept where it is until May or June. He promised to try to work out some arrangements along these lines.

I have heretofore received specific assurance that the Government will pay for the value of the tenant's leasehold interest as well as the land lord's rights. Of course, the practical measure of this value will depend in large measure on the amount of work that has been done.

I have been advised that the Farm Security Administration has been instructed to render every possible assistance to all those who must move. This agency should be able to provide loans to those who need them to move and get re-established. It should also be able to assist in re-locating families that are forced to move. I feel that every family that feels that they want assistance in securing a new location should contract your local Farm Security representative and that it might be helpful if a committee from the community would go to Dallas and consult with Honorable Wilson Cowan, Regional Director of the Farm Security. If such a committee goes to Dallas it should, while there, call on Major L. M. Crowley of the Real Estate Division of the War Department, who is located in the Cotton Exchange Building there, and review your situation with him.

I can full well understand the extent of your sacrifices. I know that like all good Americans you are ready to do anything you can to aid our Government with this war, and for this fine attitude I commend you. But, I also realize that no one wants or expects you to be unfairly treated. I do not have any direct power or authority in this matter, but insofar as I can help any citizen of our district secure justice I am glad to try. Do not therefore, hesitate to call on me further if I can be of any assistance to you or to your neighbors.

With best wishes, I am
Your friend,
W. R. POAGE, Congressman,
11th Texas District.

MRS. MANN'S OXEN AND SAM HOUSTON

The story of Mrs. Mann, a "cousin" and outspoken pioneer Texan woman, and her oxen is part and parcel of every tale that is told about the march of the Texan.

All versions agree that General Houston met his match in this fiery woman, who first loaned her oxen to pull the army's cannon through the mud, then demanded that the animals be returned, and finally took her property by force under the very noses of the general and all his men!

A particularly graphic description of this encounter is given by one of the soldiers in Houston's army in the "Narrative of Robert Hancock Hunter, 1813-1902," a copy of which is found in the University of Texas Library's 30-

000-volume Texas Collection.

YOU TOLD ME A DAM LIE

It was at Groce's crossing on the Brazos that the army met Mrs. Mann and her two wagons and teams. "There had been a great deal of rain and roads were very bad", Hunter wrote. "Mrs. Mann said to general Houston, general, if you are going on the Nacogdoches road you can have my oxen, but if you go the other to Harrisburg you can't have them, I want them myself. Houston said well I am going the Nacogdoches road but he did not say how far he would go on it."

At the fork of the road, Houston took the right turn to Harrisburg, instead of the left to Nacogdoches. "We got about 10 or 12 miles down the road, and Mrs. Mann, over took us, out on the big prairie how wallow and full of water and a very hot day.

"She rode up to the general and said, general you told me a dam lie, you said that you was going on the Nacogdoches road sir I want my oxen. Well Mrs. Mann we can't spare them. We can't git our cannon a long with out them. I don't care a dam for your cannon, I want my oxen. She had a pair of holter pistols on her saddle pommel and a very large knife on her saddle. She turned a round to the oxen, and jumped down with a knife and cut the raw hite tug that the chane was tied with. The log chane hook was broke and it was tied with raw hide. No body said a word. She jumped on her horse with whip in hand, and way she went in a lope with her oxen.

An officer, Captain Rohrer, whom Hunter called "Rover", offered to pursue the oxen and their owner, and Houston let him go, calling after him, "Capt. Rover that woman will fite. The Capt. said dam her fiteing."

"Houston jumped down off his horse, and said come on boys, let git this cannon out of the mud. The mud was very near over his boot top. He put his shoulder to the wheel, and 8 or 10 men more lade holt. Out she came and we went, and got down about 6 miles and capt, at big mot of timber. About 9 or 10 o'clock Capt. Rover came in to camp. He did not bring any oxen.

THE BROWN ABSTRACT COMPANY WANTS YOUR ABSTRACT WORK

I have heard of at least one friend of mine stating that I had so much work for the army that he didn't see how I could give good service. The large amount of work I have for the War Department enables me to employ plenty of efficient help and to turn out my regular work faster than ever before. In fact I need all the work I can get to keep my typists busy. Ask any lawyer in town if I am not rendering prompt and efficient service.

I have five typists and I would like to have at least five orders on hand at all times.

Bring on your abstract business, I will attend to it, and I will DO IT NOW! In making a land trade, the abstract is the most important thing. If you have your land advertised for sale, bring me your abstract, let me bring it down to date, so you will be ready to close your deal when you make one.

LOVE FROM A STRANGER

SYNOPSIS
Carol Howard felt that nothing would ever free her from her life of genteel drudgery for the romance she dreamed about. Then one morning a letter arrived telling her that she had won an unbelievable fortune in the lottery. With her semi-invalid aunt gone to Brighton, Carol and her friend Kate plan their new life, and await the arrival of Carol's fiance, Ronnie, from his five-year sojourn in the Sudan. The apartment is to let, and a stranger has arrived to inquire about renting it.

Chapter Two

He stepped across the threshold, hat in hand, and Carol noticed that he was as pleasant and gentle as he sounded. A high, cultured forehead with carefully brushed wavy hair and deep-set, thoughtful eyes were the first things that met her glance. Then she noticed that his slender, well-knit figure was simply draped in clothing that was quietly eloquent of breeding and taste. Within a surprisingly short time she was completely at ease with him. She liked his appreciation of

But I'm glad I found out about it in time."
Ronnie became cold and grave. "If you feel that way about it," he said slowly, "I'm glad too." And donning his hat, he walked rapidly from the apartment.
Carol sat stunned for an instant, then raced after him. As she opened the door, Lovell confronted her again. "Shall I call him back?" he inquired blandly.
"No, it's nothing important," she said with sudden decision. "Won't you come in?"
It seemed now that Lovell was very much taken with the flat. But when Carol told him that she would only be gone for six weeks, he demurred. "It's hardly worth my trouble," he said. "But I'll think it over and telephone you."
"The number is Baywater 6093," Carol said.
He whipped a small book from his pocket and extracted a pencil from the back of its binding. "The name is Howard," he inquired, looking into her eyes.
Carol felt, with a curious sense of fright, that she was being drawn toward this stranger. There was a mixed quality of hurt gentleness and some un plumbed depth in his eyes. "Miss Carol Howard," she spoke.

"Of course," he apologized. "You'll be dining with your fiance."
the good things she had bought for the apartment. From his conversation she soon learned that he was wealthy, traveled, that he was seeking the apartment because the neighborhood brought back his boyhood. He told her that he was a chemical engineer, but that his principal interest was amateur photography.
Kate returned and went out again for their tickets to Paris. Then the bell rang again, and this time it was Ronnie. Carol noted with mixed feelings that he was unchanged, just a bit older. He stared for a moment at her visitor, who suddenly remembered that he had not been introduced. "Lovell, Gerald Lovell is the name," he said with a laugh. With a meaningful glance at them, he said, "You must excuse me."
When he had gone, there was a moment's awkward pause. Before the conventional greetings were over, Carol launched into an excited account of her good fortune. Ronnie was singularly unmoved by her good fortune, evidently troubled by something.
"You're not including me in this, are you?" he asked.
"Why, of course, darling!"
"But I have to be at the office Monday to take over my new job."
Then Carol understood that Ronnie was hurt that all his efforts seemed to him to have dwindled to nothing beside her crazy stroke of fortune. She could not keep the irritation from edging into her voice and very soon they were quarreling openly. Ronnie was determined not to be a rich woman's husband, was intent on staying with his job. She was exasperated at his adamant attitude.
"The money has gone to your head," he shouted.
"Oh, stop it Ronnie!" she answered. "You've spoiled everything."
"I hope you don't mind if I make a note of it," he said. "I make a complete record of everything I do in this book."
"What are you putting down now?"
"Dinner with Miss Carol Howard tonight," he said as he wrote.
"But really," she protested, "I'm leaving for Paris the first thing in the morning."
"Of course," he apologized. "You'll be dining with your fiance."
Even after he had gone, Carol could not get his eyes out of her mind. It was with a sense of pleasant surprise, then, that she glanced up from the gangplank of the channel steamer the following morning to see him tipping his hat to her from the deck. Kate was curious about Lovell's being on the boat, inclined to read something into it. But Carol dismissed it as a simple coincidence.
On the crossing, Lovell cleverly engineered Kate out of the way and became most persistent in his attentions to Carol. She liked him for his sauvy, his gentle manners and his knowledge of the world. And she was, more than all, flattered by his attentions. So, when he asked for the privilege of showing her Paris, his Paris, she readily consented.
Even Kate became sharply aware of the attractiveness of this strange man, when they started out on their gay tour of the cabaret life of Paris. He was their constant companion. On their second evening in Paris together, Carol turned gleefully to Kate and asked her, "Do you like him?"
"I'm just crazy about him," Kate spoke with enthusiasm. "D'you know, I'd better be trotting back to London before this affair turns into a triangle."
They laughed at Kate's quip.

A tea, announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Harriett Louise Sebastian of Valley Mills to W. T. Hix of Gatesville, was given by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Andrew Justin Sebastian, at her home in Moody Saturday afternoon. The ceremony will be performed in the First Methodist Church at Moody on March 29 at 9 a. m.

First greetings were extended by the bride-elect's brother, Andrew Justin Sebastian Jr., following which Mrs. Sebastian, Miss Sebastian, Mrs. J. L. Staton of Waco, Mrs. Lula Lee Sebastian of Moody, her grandmother, Miss Lena Lou Dean of Waco and Mrs. O. N. Hix of Gatesville, the sister-in-law of Mr. Hix, received.

Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. Wade Sadler of Gatesville, Mrs. Tom Nesbitt of Valley Mills, Mesdames C. C. Cantoneson, Otis J. Gardner, Earl Hatter and Cordice Teague, all of Moody.

Miss Sebastian received her degree from the East Texas State Teachers College at Commerce last June. Since September, she has been head of the commercial department at Valley Mills High School. She also represented the Moody Chamber of Commerce in Dallas last fall.

The bridegroom-elect, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thomas Hix, attended Trinity university and Texas Tech at Lubbock. He is owner and operator of the Western Auto Stores in both Gatesville and McGregor.

Resume Of State Meet Given By School Reporter

By GENE STINNETT
Editor Hornets' Nest

Although the Gatesville Hornets did not win the title of State Champs these girls were recognized throughout the meet by the officials, coaches, "on-lookers" and players alike as being an authorized, experienced, and skillful club.

By completely swamping the Avenger Indians, the Hornette

"sixette" was automatically thrown into the quarter finals with the winner of the Aquilla-Maysfield game, the Aquilla lassies. The Hornets were bright and ready-to-go, yet they were not at their best: whereupon, the opponents were probably playing their best brand of ball. The outcome of this exciting game knocked Gatesville from the paths of the title as Aquilla scored 23 points to the Hornets' 21.

It is a regular custom of each State Meet that selected members from the teams of the East to compete with those from the west. It was in this game that the G'ville Hornets again so gloriously showed just exactly what brand of ball they could deal out. Six of our team—Lester, Mueller, Black, Apel as guards; Perkins, and Featherston, as forwards were chosen by S. H. Shipley of Mesquite to play for the Westerners against the Easterners coached by Williams of Teneha and Hendrix of Silsbee. All of the above six showed service in the game which proved to be a victory for the West with the 27-26 score. Featherston, Lester and Mueller were among the starters. Many substitutions were made throughout the game, yet at least one, if not more Hornets was always on the court. Finishing the game against the East were five of our players, Lester, Mueller, Apel, Perkins, and Featherston; thus it is generally stated, 'Gatesville beat the all East team 27 to 26.' Perkins, of Gatesville was high point man for the winners with a total of 14. Gatesville really shone!

One of the greatest honors of the meet was bestowed upon Camille Lester as she gallantly received a small gold-starred basketball bearing the inscription "ALL STATE". Only six girls in the entire state received this honor. It is awarded to a girl for the skill of both playing and sportsmanship she portrays while on the court of play. Camille Lester, one of our own Hornets, was given this medal and honor as being one of the three best guards in the whole state of Texas; and she rightly deserve it.

As to the State Meet itself, the winners were six "red" beauties from Borger who beat the Emory "whites" for the title with the final score of 38 to 32. Aquilla came in third after defeating Quail; and Sundown won first in consolation after giving Linger-ville a bad defeat. Miss Pauline Taylor of Borger was crowned Queen of Basketball and the most beautiful blond, brunette, and red-head were also awarded.

Gatesville won the meet in '39; Wayland in '40; Ennis in '41; and Borger in the last meet of '42.

The second year Homemaking girls of Gatesville High school have been studying the arrangement and equipment of the kitchen. The class has also made kitchen floor plans which have not only been interesting but also helpful.

Mrs. Jno. O. Potts, the instructor, has given us helpful hints and suggestions on ways to make the kitchen more attractive and convenient. Reporter, Doris Jackson.

THE NEWS ALL-COUNTY TEAM

Player	Position	Club
Bill Manning	Forward	Gatesville Hornets
Roland Drake	Forward	Jonesboro Eagles
Eugene Blanchard	Center	Gatesville Hornets
Werner Lemmer (c)	Guard	Ireland Cardinals
Bill Bob Russell	Guard	Ireland Cardinals

By JOHN FRANK POST

Two members from each of the county's championship basketball clubs and one from the runner-up Jonesboro Eagles comprise the News' 1942 all-star cage squad. Bill Manning and Cotton Blanchard of the Gatesville club, titleholders of Region 3, and Werner Lemmer and Billy Russell of the district champion Ireland Cardinals all won posts on the squad by their consistently good play throughout the entire season. Roland Drake, the tiny cager who almost won the county championship for his Jonesboro team, takes the remaining slot on the roster.

This mythical quintet boasts everything the most exacting cage tutor could ask for, with the possible exception of height. Russell and Blanchard are fairly tall boys, but they are more than offset by pee-wees Manning and Drake. The club would have great shooting, smooth ball handling, speedy floor play and above all, fire and hustle.

These five boys were by far the best in the county, and there was not much doubt as to the selections. Every player won his berth by a wide margin.

The two forwards on the team, Bill Manning and Drake, are both small lads but more than make up for their lack of height by their hustle. Both are great ball handlers and are liable to toss one in from any point on the floor. Manning was a big factor in the Golden Boys' regional championship drive, while Drake was a thorn in Ireland's side during the county playoff, when Jonesboro lost out by a slim one point margin. He led the Eagles to two victories over the Redshirts during the regular schedule.

Cotton Blanchard is the unanimous choice for the center position. This gangling lad has developed into one of the best court performers this county has produced, and it has produced some great ones. Blanchard has scored nearly 200 points during this season's play, and that total was run up against some of this section's top notch clubs. He used a one-hand shot that was impossible for his opponents to guard, but which he could hit with uncanny accuracy. He was good at following his own shots, and his defensive work during the latter part of the season was superb, as shown by the fact that he held Hanson, Nocona's scoring ace, scoreless in the final tilt at Fort Worth.

Werner Lemmer, Ireland's great cager, takes a guard berth and also the captaincy of the team. This boy proved himself time and again to be the best all-around player in the county. He carried Ireland to the district championship with his great shooting, smooth floor play, and fiery ball hawking. He usually scored around ten points per game, but when he was held to only a few it was because the enemy's defense was heavily concentrated on him, and this always left one of his mates open to score freely.

Lemmer's cohort at Ireland, Billy Russell, wins the other guard slot. Although a trifle slow, Russell was an unerring passer, a fair goal shooter, and a sterling defensive performer. He was a consistent player and never had a bad night.

HORNNETTES ELIMINATED FROM STATE TOURNEY BY AQUILLA

Gatesville's Hornettes were eliminated in the quarterfinals of the girls state meet for the third successive time Friday night when they fell before the polished play of a speedy little sextette from Aquilla, Central Texas favorites by the score of 21-19.

The local lassies were never ahead, but always trailed their opponents by one or two points, although the Gatesville girls were a head taller than most of the Aquilla team. They were never behind more than three points, the score at halftime being 17-14.

Featherstone played the best offensive game of the locals, while Lester and Black starred on the defensive.

The Hornettes won their first game of the tournament when they overwhelmed a weak Avenger team, 30-13.

By POST

Now that the basketball season is definitely over, local fans are looking forward eagerly to the spring football workouts. Football always has been and always will be the dominating sport in Gatesville, despite the fact that local fans have seen many lean gridiron seasons.

Prospectas for next year's Hornet eleven are not much brighter than they have been for the past four or five years, although the club is due to win more games than they did last fall. Pruitt has two capable men in Charley Caruth and Curt Davis, both of whom have earned two letters. Davis may be shifted to end this fall, while Caruth may be worked into the backfield, according to Mentor Pruitt.

As yet we have received no announcement as to the '42 schedule. This is due to be released soon.

The big TAAF cage tournament will be held in Dallas this week end. The team representing Coryell County has undergone several thorough drills, and should be ready to go. With such able performers as Boz, Lemmer, and Blanchard, these youngsters may surprise the TAAF veterans.

Many gardeners already have english peas, carrots, beans, spinach, onions, cabbage, mustard or turnip greens, and irish potatoes to eat but in case some folks are still puzzled as to the varieties found successful, here they are listed:

Laxton's Progress or Everbearing english peas. Inoculate seed. Red Core Chantenay or Danvers Half long Carrots, Detroit Dark Red or Crosby's Egyptian Beets, Bloomsdale Savoy Spinach, Bermuda or White Creole Onions. Early Jersey Wakefield or Chas. Wakefield Cabbage. Tendergreen or Florida broadleaf mustard, purpletop, white globe, shogoin, or 7 top turnips, Irish cobbler irish po-maize, cane, or corn thinly in the row and let the stalks provide support. Plant Irish Potatoes seed pieces 1 ounce in size, 14 inches apart in 3 foot rows, using one-half bushel (30 lbs.) seed potatoes for each member of the family.

Bed Porto Rico sweet potatoes so that a bushel of them will produce 2000 slips to plant in April, May or June.

Spray the orchard to control worms in peaches and plums and disease with 5 pounds of wettable sulphur, 3 pounds zinc sulfate, 3 pounds hydrated lime and 1 pound arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water. Dissolve zinc add the lime as a creamy paste, to a nearly full tank before adding the other ingredients. Spray when most of the blossoms have shed and repeat about 10 days after the blossoms have shed.

Fertilize the garden with well rotted animal manures applying 25 pounds per 100 square feet. On garden soil use 100 pounds super phosphate per acre to increase the flavor and palatability of the vegetables as well as the yield. Commercial fertilizers such as 6-12-6 or 6-10-7 may be used at the rate of 3 pounds per 100 feet of row.

"FOF", Eggs, Hens, On 40 Hour Week: One Did Overtime

Even the hens have been reading about this 40-hour a week—incidentally, they like it and, well, we'll skip that!

Now, if these hens had been sunning themselves under the lights of the REA, they might have been able to put out a little more effort, and maybe, they've been awarded the Navy "E". You know, the Navy "E" is awarded to exceptional effort for defense. We don't think this hen would qualify.

This particular hen (eggs) in question came from Mrs. C. R. Fleming of White Hall.

Mrs. Hen exerted tremendous effort on one account, but she certainly had a "sit-down strike" on the other two, which wouldn't fill a cavity in a hollow tooth.

These Coryell county hens do the darndest things.

Births

A baby son, weighing 8 pounds, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kendrick Monday morning about 1 o'clock at their home in this city. The youngster, who has been given the name Robert Murray, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kendrick and Monroe Murray.

WITH THE COLORS

Billie H. Malone, who is a mechanic in the Army Air Corps, stationed at Fort Richardson, Alaska, has been promoted from the rank of corporal to sergeant. He is the son of Mrs. J. H. Malone of Gatesville.

It used to be Corporal and now, according to the Public Relations Office of the Third Armored Division at Camp Polk, La., it's Sergeant Robert F. White, according to Col. W. H. Jones, Jr., (no relation) of headquarters Co., 3rd Bn., 32nd Armored Regiment.

Sgt. White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burr White of Gatesville.
