CANTONMENT AREA PEOPLE TO MEET; GENERAL BRUCE TO LEAD DISCUSSION

On Wednesday, March 18th, at 2:00 p. m., in the District Court Room, Court house, of this town, all people living with the Cantonment Area of the army camp will meet to hear discussions made by "leaders" of the project.

General Bruce, Commanding Officer of the Tank Destroyer Unit for the Killeen Area stated in his conversation with Mr. N. Foote, Chairman of the Coryell County U.S.D.A. War Board, that it was his purpose to express to these people the direct and correct information which naturally will clear up all groundless rumors.

Mr. B. J. Vance, Chairman of the State U.S.D.A. War Board, will be the second speaker of the evening and will discuss with the people the services to be rendered them through the County War Board.

Mr. Frank Seale, the State Committeeman of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, will express his purpose in discussing the services of the AAA and the way in which it will concern these people.

Mr. Clyde J. Fitzgerald, Manager of the Project Office, will be the last of the speakers and will discuss the part his office plays in the camp area with the people themselves.

These people must move out; this meeting is to further explain the cause, purpose, and the movement itself.

The scheduled meeting is at the District Court Room, as already mentioned; but it might prove to be necessary to move the meeting place to the City Auditorium.

It's not just the Irishmen that realize the significance of the "Green and White", the four-leaf clover, and St. Patrick's Day, but anyone who has any book learnin' at all. The latter is commemorating the spiritual head of Ireland, the former two are unmistakably applied to the Irish, their way, and customs.

St. Patrick was a hero—a great man whose works and deeds as a Christian have definitely affected the lives of the future generations. It is to be stated that we, the modern generation, are going to allow our enemies to utterly destroy all his efforts; all the efforts of the gallant and noble statesmen whose minds have created our everguide, The Constitution of the United States. Are we to bear this burden and take this blame?

The only positive answer is "No!"

The above answer was derived from facts, emotions, and the overpowering will. Facts and emotions show that Americans aren't to be pushed around. They will not stand for unlawful acts which hinder their privileges; they will not be ruled by a dictator; and they will not stand by to see a dictator and his chosen few take their place at the head of our nation to usurp all the honesty, cleanliness, and lawfulness of our government, only to replace it with a criminal, disorderly, and vile contemptible government of their own.

"Green and White" are merely colors, yet they mean an awful lot to an Irishman. "Red, White and Blue" are merely colors, yet they mean an awful lot to an American. Are we going to stand by and see those colors slowly fade in the distant and the "black and white" of the flag of the New Order takes supreme place?

Are we going to salute that Black and White flag, give a stiff attention and in a very silly man-

Office To Register Labor For Camp; Opened Monday

A temporary office of the United States employment agency was opened under the tabernacle at the Belton Athletic field Monday to begin registering workers for the construction jobs at Camp Hood.

Construction of office facilities started Thursday. They will include a 16 by 18 foot office and a 20 by 20 feet counter adjoining it.

The office, which will be temporary sub-office under R. C. Moody, manager of the U. S. Employment headquarters in Temple, registered all skilled and unskilled laborers asking work on the camp.

It is the plan of the federal agency to list all labor, and then to assign workers direct to the contractors as it is requested.

Workers will be required to be fingerprinted and to have pictures go on their employment card.

It is expected that 5,000 carpenters alone will be hired for the Camp Hood construction, with a total of 12,000 to 15,000 workmen being needed on all the jobs, including skilled and unskilled.

OPEN HOUSE TO BE HELD AT BAPTIST CHURCH THURSDAY

The First Baptist Church will hold open house for the new pastor, the Rev. Lawrence Hayes, and his family Thursday evening of this week at 8 o'clock in the Church.

All members and their families and friends are urged to be present.

RATIONING CARDS DISTRIBUTED SOON; EVERY PERSON IS URGED TO REGISTER

Superintendent Ollie Little reports that he has just received his first instruction in regard to the sugar rationing which will start at an early date.

He said, "We are beginning a campaign to be called 'Repurchasing Program'. Those in possession of more sugar than can be allowed under the law, which is 2 pounds per person, should return the sugar to the stores from which they purchased it prior to registration day.

All citizens should be informed that it is very urgent to register on registration day because the rationing booklets are not only going to be used to get sugar but will be used to get several other articles such as hosiery, radios, bicycles, and others. Everyone is urged to register.

FFA BOYS ATTEND FT. WORTH FAT STOCK SHOW

About 40 Gatesville Future Farmers attended the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show Saturday, March 14. The boys could not obtain a school bus because of the tire situation, so rather than miss the show, they hired a truck to take them.

The boys left the Gatesville school building Friday afternoon at five-thirty and arrived at Fort Worth about ten. They went to the Fort Worth municipal gymnasium and spent the night. Saturday morning they had breakfast and went to the Stock Show Grounds.

Saturday was spent at the rodeo and "just looking"; at six o'clock, a tired and "broke" bunch of boys started for Gatesville and reached here about eleven.

Jack Jackson, who is attending Baylor University, is home convalescing the measles.

Fred Post and Virgil Copeland went to Austin over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Young and family from McGorgel are visiting Mr. and Mrs. McCollum and Mr. and Mrs. George Painter.

We are sorry to report that Arthur McMordie is seriously ill.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

This type of a man once spent his efforts in trying to get ahead—to be a big man. Now his main thought is getting together—together in making our freedoms live, our privileges stand, and our nation grow.

Every little man has his place. If every one was a General MacArthur it would only be great from one point of view; but who would work the factories, build the planes, the subs, the ships? Who would carry orders; who would make up that gallant army that is to whip the Japs and wipe the Nazis from the map?

Every "little" man has his place. "Big" men take large sums of money to a window and receive large returns in Defense Bonds but the little man does an equally glorious task when he receives for his one dime, a shiny, new stamp to add to his "slowly-but-surely" filling booklet. It is a wrong, selfish statement for one make saying "My little dime couldn't do any good, I'll just spend it in some other way." Wouldn't it, on the other hand make you feel proud to know that your dime was part of a torpedo that sunk a Nazi sub—or a cruiser—or a battle ship?

Every little man has his place. No matter how many leaders there are in this world—they are no good without followers to carry out their orders and examples. It is the small man that spreads the word, spreads the news. It is the small man that decides whether our nation is 100 per cent American. It is the small man that influences his neighbors to buy bonds, his employer to buy stamps, his family to live up to every American law, and set the examples so that their followers will forever be living "in the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Every small, and large man has his place and his part. Remember that! Find that place and do your part today, Americans!

forces free postage whether they are stationed at home or abroad. It also makes provisions for a years pay to dependents of service men who are captured or interned by the enemy. There is now pending a bill to increase the pay of a private to $42 per month. I believe such legislation is just and expect to support it. We cannot adequately pay the men who offer to die for their country, but we can and should give them this meager compensation.

It is absolutely certain that a new and staggering tax bill will be reported soon. Everyone will be called on to pay far greater sums than we now believe possible.

See POAGE on back page

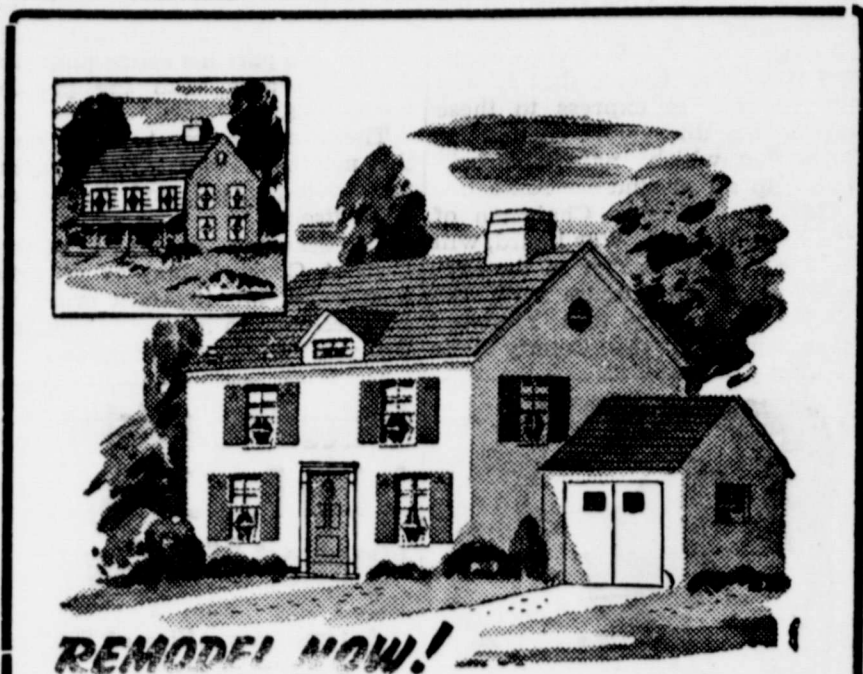

The Agricultural Appropriation Bill is up for consideration in the House. It has been debated for three days. The debate will surely continue through Saturday and probably through Monday and even Tuesday of next week. I had been invited to speak in Cameron on the 10th, and had hoped that I could accept the invitation and spend a day or so visiting over the district. I am anxious to have a chance to visit with our people. Only by frequent visits can one properly represent a district. On the other hand, during these serious times it is impossible to know very long in advance when we can properly leave Washington. I do not feel that I can properly leave just now, and therefore cannot say when it will be possible for me to be in Texas.

The pending Agricultural Appropriation Bill was reported by the committee half a billion dollars less than last year. Even with these tremendous reductions many amendments are being offered to still further reduce various items. There are, of course, some items that should be further cut, as for instance, certain appropriations for travel. I have not hesitated to vote for such reductions. On the other hand, many members who know nothing of agriculture have tried, and in some cases successfully, to arbitrarily reduce many sections of the bill such as those relating to insect control without any idea of the effect their amendments would have. I have tried to oppose such amendments.

This bill makes no new appropriation for parity payments. It does re-appropriate the unexpended balance — that is what is left from the sum that was appropriated for parity payments last year. I hope this will be enough, but it emphasizes the vital importance of getting agriculture on a basis where farm prices will bring the farmer a living. There are still some farmers and lots of government officials who would like to see the farmer sell his crop for less than parity and have to rely on the government to make payments to bring him up to parity than to see him get all of his income directly from the sale of his crop. Of course, if he can't get a parity price for his crop I think the government should, as an offset to the tariff that has so long oppressed the farmer, make up the difference. I know, however, that very soon we will reach a point when there will be no more appropriations for parity. We may have reached that point today. If we have, the only hope for our farmers is a fair parity price. I hope we may be able to hold a provision in this bill that will prohibit the sale of government held commodities below parity, but in order to get enough votes for even this provision we may have to agree to modify it so as to allow the sale of some wheat and corn for feed at lower rates. I am, however, very hopeful about holding this provision as it relates to cotton at least.

General Hershey, the head of the Selective Service, has been before our committee again this week discussing the effect of the drafting on the farm boys. He has pointed out that he realizes that agriculture must go on, but has explained that deferment can be granted only by local boards. These local boards are generally composed of some of the finest people in the community. They have a hard job. Congressman can not and should not influence their decisions. The same thing is true of the tire rationing boards, etc. We are always glad to give any citizen all the information we can about the regulations. We cannot, however, secure deferment for anyone. Those of us who registered on February 16th will be given numbers as a result of a national lottery to be held March 16th. Congress has already approved a bill which grants a 20 per cent increase in pay for enlisted men serving abroad. The same bill gives all members of our military

THE NEWS

Food for Freedom is given so much attention because better people are built through better diets. Both physical and mental well being are improved through getting the proper food elements inside of the people. In addition to proper food to maintain health, disease prevention should be practiced. In line with this truth, the President of the United States has declared May 1 as Child Health Day. He calls upon the people in each community to put forth special effort to the end that before May Day, Child Health Day, children over nine months of age be immunized against diphtheria and smallpox. The statement made by the president, is, "I call upon the people in each of our communities to contribute to the conservation of child health and the reduction of illness among children."

Monday, March 16th, is 4-H Club Day at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show. Groups of 4-H Club members and sponsors are making plans to attend this event. Mr. R. H. Mueller from The Grove has indicated a group will go from there. Plans in Fort Worth will include seeing the exhibits of Food for Victory and the fat stock on display in the grounds of the show. An ice-skating show will be given at 10 o'clock a.m. in the Will Rogers' Coliseum for the 4-H boys and girls. Efforts this year are to try harder to make these special events really worthwhile in inspiration, encouragement, and really re-creating for those who take part in them.

SIDE GLANCES ON TEXAS HISTORY

By Charles O. Hucker
University of Texas Library

THE DEVIL AND STRAP BUCKNER

Strap Buckner, as much a part of Texas lore as Paul Bunyan is of lumber camp legend, was "of giant stature, and of the strength of ten lions, and he used it as ten lions."

An account of Buckner's fabled encounter with the Devil is told in wide-eyed wonder by H. F. McDaniel and N. A. Taylor, Northern visitors to Texas, in a volume "The Coming Empire; or Two Thousands Miles in Texas on Horse Back," published in 1877. A copy of this rare little book is found in the University of Texas Library's 30,000-volume Texas Collection.

"With no provocation at all," the observers wrote, Buckner "knocked men down with the kindest intentions and no purpose to harm them." He could "plant a blow with his fist so strongly that it was a merry pastime with him to knock a yearling bull stark dead."

"SKIN FOR SKIN"

But the Devil, by, trickery, accomplished what neither man nor beast could do — Buckner's taming. Entering his cabin, the Devil, with the cryptic taunt, "Skin for Skin," challenged him to a duel at dawn. At the appointed time, Buckner was amazed to find a long black cat, which changed into a dog, then a bear, and finally "an enormous bull, black as night," while "the valley trembled as he strode." When he reached the rendezvous, the bull "had departed, but in his stead the Fiend in stately form marched before him."

The Devil began to grow until he had "achieved such stature that his head was an hundred and ninety feet in the air, and he was eighty feet in girth. His tail grew in correspondence, till, seizing it, he gave it atwirl, and the point struck the bosom of a black cloud with such force that it penetrated into it and there stuck."

At Strap's complaint, the Fiend shrunk to Buckner's size, "all save his tail, which still remained hitched in the bosom of the cloud. Under a false sense of honor, and in the kindness of his heart," Strap offered to give the Fiend assistance to unhitch his tail, and the battle began.

"I might give thee now the many rounds as they occurred, had I the heart, after Strap's exhibition of his folly, to do so," the authors wrote. "Suffice it to say that the battle raged with varying fortunes all day, till the Devil, having less honor and more wiles, grew again to monstrous size, and at last wore Strap out on the unequal terms, till the mighty champion sought quarter, crest-fallen and utterly overcome."

Thereafter Strap was a changed man. "He volunteered to speak to none, and the only response to every question was 'Skin for Skin.' He would drink no whiskey, and would knock no man down."

ANN HARDING LOVE FROM A STRANGER
BASIL RATHBONE

SYNOPSIS

Carol Howard, beautiful London secretary, is released from her humdrum existence when her sweepstakes ticket brings her a fortune. Her wealth displeases her fiance Ronnie, and they quarrel. Carol goes to Paris with her friend Kate, and there marries fascinating Gerald Lovell, despite Ronnie's warning that she knows little about him. Gerald distressedly reports that his bankers have refused to honor the drafts with which he meant to buy their country home. Carol immediately loans him the money.

Chapter Four

The country house was all that Carol had anticipated, and more. She fell in love with it at once — with the cool, spreading elms on the broad lawn, the beautifully trimmed shrubs that lined the house; and with the high-ceilinged, spacious rooms within.

Gerald introduced Hobson, the elderly, white-haired gardener and caretaker who had been on the place for many years; and Emmy, his niece who did the housework, 5th — the day before they intended leaving on their journey. It was only a fortnight or so away.

"I shall take you there," Gerald exclaimed to Carol. "September the fifth at 9 P. M. That is the hour!" He noted it down in his little book.

"Oh, Gerald," remarked Carol, "you paid five thousand pounds for the house, didn't you? Hobson was telling me the man who owned it was asking only half that much."

Lovell flared up. "Which would you rather believe — that old fool, or me?"

"It wasn't a question of believing you," she protested. "I just thought you might have been cheated."

He changed his tone abruptly, became conciliatory. "I love my wife — and I've a present for her. It has a sentimental value." He produced a beautiful white scarf and draped it around her shoulders, his hands lingering lovingly — almost a bit too tightly — about her throat. But it was lovely, and she adored her gift — and her husband.

The days passed tranquilly, if at times a little dully. There were no passing cars, no telephone, no visitors; "nothing," as Gerald put it, "to disturb our happiness." Lovell spent much time in his cellar dark room; Carol occupied herself with her books, her music, her garden.

"I love my wife, and I have a present for her."

and who, Hobson explained, was "a good girl, Ma'am, but not so very bright." While Hobson was bringing their luggage in from the car Gerald showed Carol about the place.

"Do you like it, darling?" "Oh, Gerald, it's lovely! We ought to have such fun fixing it up!" She nestled in his arms, warm with affection and gratitude.

While they were having tea Hobson informed Lovell that a package had arrived, which he had put in the cellar. Lovell was furious.

"I told you to keep out of there! No one is to go into the cellar but me... No one!"

"But why, Gerald?" Carol interrupted.

"Oh, er — I was just explaining to Hobson that the cellar is my dark room for photographs and experiments. I shall have chemicals and things there that are dangerous."

"Oh, please, Gerald," she laughed, "don't go blowing up with a lot of chemicals. I'm much too happy to want to die just yet!"

A little later Carol sat down at the piano to play a little waltz she knew. Gerald liked the music. He asked her to play it over again, faster. "Faster, faster, faster," he urged her, listening to the galloping rhythm with a kind of ecstasy.

"I have a sort of gramophone in my cellar," he remarked. "I play it a great deal — very fast — when I am working. It excites my mind — quickens my thought — makes my head spin, reminding me of the war. Of trenches — a barrage creeping up — shells sweeping, exploding in staccato rhythm coming closer, closer..."

That evening they learned from Hobson that the countryside was filling up with gypsies, who came down every year for the fair. This year it was to begin on September

On an afternoon — two days before the day set for their departure — Carol was roaming through the house, looking for Gerald to tell him some bit of household news. She wandered through the rooms, but found him nowhere. A bit piqued, and feeling lonely, she decided to seek him in his cellar. Going down the dim flight of stairs, she opened the door softly and stood gazing in wonder at the sight she beheld.

There was Lovell, standing at a table in the murky half-darkness, his back toward her. He was clutching to his breast what looked like a large photograph; embracing it, stroking it, and emitting low chuckles that seemed more like expressions of triumph than of mirth. And all the while a nearby gramophone ground out music — music swirling, leaping and blaring, growing ever louder and louder, faster and faster, while Lovell's strange movements grew more and more spasmodic, convulsive.

Suddenly he stiffened, turned slowly around, and saw her. The expression on his face gave her a shock. His eyelids drooping, his mouth twisted into a sort of grimace, a strange, weird expression in his eyes.

"Get out!" he shrieked hoarsely, pointing a shaking finger at her. "Get out! Get out! GET OUT!"

Carol fell back in horror, stood staring at him with her mouth half open, unable to speak. He took a few steps toward her, repeating in a voice that seemed not his own: "Get out! Get out!"

Then, regaining her senses, she gave one shriek, turned, and fled up the stairs and into the living room, while he stalked after her, still with that hand outstretched before him.

HORNET CAGERS COMPLETE BEST SEASON IN RECENT YEARS

By BILLY CLAY McCLELLAN
Sports Editor, Hornets' Nest

In glorious fashion the Gatesville High Hornets marched thru the basketball season by winning 23 out of 27 games played. They also won the regional title that allowed us the supreme honor of going to the state meet. During the season Gatesville scored a total of 1,079 points to th opponents 706. This gave us the great average of 39 points per game to the opponents 26 points per game. The high scoring Hornets were led by "Skeeter" Blanchard who scored a grand total of 323 points to take the scoring honors. He was followed by Manning who got 262 points, Kenneth Fry 118, Wilkerson 108, Wittie 32, Lengefeld 16, Jack Fry 10. Wayne Blanchard 2. and Whitingburg 12.

Out of the four games the Hornets lost, we lost two of the games by one point and one by overtime period, and the last game we lost was to the state Championship team. In the four games we lost one game to a double A team by one point, and lost one game to a class B team by two points, and we lost to the state championship team, being behind for the first time in 27 games. We played the state champs on even basis the last half, both teams scoring 19 points, but because of the early lead they got on us because of fright we couldn't possibly catch up.

In winning the regional the Hornets have used practically three separate ball clubs, with Blanchard, Manning and Wilkerson being the only three regulars that started and finished the season.

These are the scores of the games the Hornets played.

All praises to each and every boys who did his part to compel this record, and less all hope that it creates a desire on the part of the future Hornets to excell. The willingness to work and sacrifice on the part of the Gatesville students means future Championship for old Gatesville High School. It will be interesting to watch and see if this Regional Championship team will create a desire in Gatesville boys to try out for spring football and see if they can get football in the Championship class in Gatesville High in the same manner as hard work has placed basketball.

Hornettes Have Another Great Season

Gatesville's Golden Hornettes, ably tutored by Coach Charley Barton and featuring sterling guard play throughout the entire season, have completed another very successful cage season by winning 38 tilts while losing only two. The Hornettes copped the championship trophy in three invitational tournaments, Frost, Avalon, and Jonesboro, meeting the top sextettes of those sections in the meet. The local lassies scored a grand total of 686 points, as compared to the enemy's total of 400.

During the last four years, the Gatesville team have compiled a record no other club in the state can match. The Hornettes had competed in the state meet for the past four years, ever since the girls' league inception. The first year, in the good season of 1939, the Hornettes boasting an aggregation of stellar performers that your writer has never seen matched by any high school sextette, marched through all competition to win the state crown. In the past three seasons they have advanced to the tourney's quarterfinals before being eliminated by one of th meet's strongest teams.

In the scoring race, Featherstone a red headed forward, set a torrid pace for her mates by meshing 294 tallies during the season's play, but she was closely crowded by Miss Perkins, speedy little Harmon lassie, who tallied 284 points. Shoaf, the other regular forward was high with 106 markers. Eubanks was runner-up with 98, while Williams scored 45.

One of the chief reasons for the Hornettes' marvelous string of wins was the excellent defensive play by Camille Lester, Ara Mae Black, and Dorothy Miller. These girls, all veterans, always held the opponents' score low and took the pressure off the inexperienced offensive trio. Lester, tall miss who performed at the center post, was a standout all season, and was selected on the all state team this year. She has been a consistent star for the past three seasons. Camille had a wonderful season, in fact, the entire team has made a record that everyone is proud of.

CHANGE IN FREIGHT RATE ON LIVESTOCK IS EXPECTED

Livestock producers and shippers were warned today by H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, that drastic increases in freight charges on livestock may go into effect March 15.

Interstate Commerce Commission's Service Order No. 68 requires rail carriers to furnish only equipment of the size and type ordered. Also it provides that freight rates will be based upon the size and type of car actually furnished. The order was issued due to reduced use of trucks and expected increase in livestock production. Increased production of hogs, sheep, and lambs, and for increased marketing of heavier beef cattle, has been called for by the USDA War Board.

Shippers are urged to conserve equipment, load cars heavily, order and use size and type car actually needed, and load double-deck cars when possible, Williamson said.

We claim to be a little smarter than that, tho, and are continually looking for "new blood" and new ideas, always with the idea of making the News better and better.

ble. It will certainly wipe out practically all "war profits." I am, however, happy to find a readiness on the part of every business man with whom I have talked to pay all the taxes possible now so as to make our post-war indebtedness as small as possible. I think that the American people realize the seriousness of the war, and in many instances are more ready than the Congress to meet the responsibilities of the war.
