Tank Destroyer School Students Names Given; "Home Station" Restricted

Officers of the Tank Destroyer School, which opened in Gatesville Monday morning, includes a "personnel" from in the USA. Also, they are from nearly all branches of the service, there being marines, artillerymen, cavalrymen, tank destroyers, and a long list of others, including three colored officers.

These men have been comfortably quartered, more or less, in Gatesville homes, and are up at 5:30, returning to their "billets" some time in the evening. Part of their work is one thing, and part another—at least, you can tell the Japs, Nazis and Wops their day is full, and, you three, yours is going to be fuller, when these men and their commands get at you.

Now, ladies and gentlemen, here are the men who are our guests during this important "engagement":

Officers in the school are: (Organizations from which they came are "restricted" and cannot be published. This would be an indication, which might be of military value to the "JIG." And we don't intend to help them, not by a damn sight.)

Navy Relief Goes Over! Mann Thanks Citizens, Chairman

Coryell County doesn't fail, not when there's funds to be raised, and the Navy Relief was no exception.

Also the final report has not been received, Chairman Howard S. Compton said "we're all over" and have four towns or communities in the county to hear from, and that a full accounting will be made as soon as these are received.

Here's a telegram from Gerald C. Mann, Chairman for Texas:

"Hearty congratulations to you and your workers in filling the Navy Relief Quota for Coryell County and to the people of your county for their generous and quick response to this appeal. Each of you who has contributed in any way to the success of your drive has the Navy's deepest thanks as well as my personal appreciation for a job well done. Best regards.

Gerald C. Mann, Chairman, Texas Citizens Committee, Navy Relief Society.

3800 Got Sugar! Or Got Books To Get It: 's Over

Thirty-eight hundred in and around Gatesville can get sugar, and, according to Earl Worley, charge d' sugar, only 1% of these said they already had sugar! At least, enough sugar so they could not get books.

Mr. Worley said he had nothing to do with the truth and veracity of these registrants' statements—he only worked there.

Any way you look at it, the old Coryell County sugar barrel must have been pretty low, when this new epidemic of rationists hits the county.

Saw a merchant accepting a sugar stamp for the 1/2 pound of sugar, and wasting a good manila bag putting this self-same 1/2 lb. in it. Manila bags are scarce, too. Maybe we ought to bring a coffee cup, or a fruit jar, when we go to get our sugar.

Jack Gilkey left last week for San Diego, Calif., to join the Navy. Mrs. Gilkey has gone to Bryan.

Jeep Tries To Run Under Six-Wheeler, Or

Yesterday morning a big red six-wheel truck, familiar to natives on account of the expertness of the driver, rolled into Gatesville, and stopped at the "Guaranty" corner on E. Main, and Square edge.

A jeep, apparently new in this section, didn't know the antics of this particular six-wheeler, and drove up close.

Now, this six-wheeler drives up to "there" and then the expert backs the truck into an alley. The jeep being too close, was unceremoniously bumped, and, unless our eye-sight was bad, the big six-wheeler got the worst end. That tough front of the Jeep had a dent on the top, and the truck had a bent radiator grill and number plate, and maybe other damage. The Jeep didn't make it!

Miss Grace Whitley spent the weekend in Turnersville visiting her parents.

"T" Men Get Third Questionnaire: It's Occupational

If you are in the "Third Registration" you have or will receive an Occupational Questionnaire, which has been mailed all registrants of this registration.

These are to be returned to the local board in 10 days, and if you can't figure it out, there will be someone to assist you in the District Court Room between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. the 9th, 11th, 12th and 13th.

You are asked to call at the office of any member of the Advisory Board, but make your plans to come to the above listed place.

Births

An 8 pound baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cohagan of Leon Junction, April 30, 1942. She was given the name of Billie Louise.

MOODY, ALLRED, O'DANIEL

Austin, May 6. (AP)—The alleged isolationism of Senator W. Lee O'Daniel today became the first issue in the forthcoming democratic primaries of Texas as two hard-hitting former governors set out to oust O'Daniel from the senate.

10,000,000 WORKERS IN SOON

Washington, May 6. (UP)—The U. S. faces a "supreme test" in mobilizing an additional 10,000,000 workers to more than double the war industry labor supply within the next year, Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the war manpower commission said today.

WAR OVER IN '42?

Moscow, May 6. (UP)—The government newspaper Izvestia said today the war with Germany has entered a new phase, "that of final liberation of occupied soviet territory," and that it will be won in '42, partly because "our allies," Britain and America, are helping us more and more daily, pumping into the red army fresh and vital juices."

REQUISITION CARS?

Washington, May 6. (AP)—Seven government officials were reported to have urged the senate military committee today to approve legislation authorizing federal requisitioning of private autos and seizure of cars whose owners are convicted of driving more than 40 m. p. h.

MADAGASCAR IN BIG FITE

London, May 7. (UP)—Bloody street fighting was reported raging in the streets of Diego Saurez today as British besiegers and French defenders battled mightily for the Madagascar naval base which has been under pulverizing bombardment from land, sea and air all day yesterday and far into the night.

STUTTGART POUNDED

London, May 6. (AP)—South German city, Stuttgart, was pounded by the RAF again last night for the second night in succession despite continuing cloudy weather which made observation difficult.

REDS STILL POUND 'EM

Moscow, May 6. (AP)—Russia has thrown into its own spring offensive the first of the reserve divisions raised and trained deep in Siberia last winter, and the fresh troops have captured an important river valley from the Germans, Red dispatches say.

Washington, D. C., May 1, 1942.
Dear Friends:

This has been a most momentous week in Washington. On Monday the President sent a message to the Congress relative to the seven steps he felt should be taken to prevent inflation. Tuesday night he elaborated on this message in his radio speech to the Nation. You probably listened to that speech. Earlier that day Senator Connally had agreed to allow the Senate to pass over his plant seizure and labor control bill, because, as he explained, there was no use making the fight in the face of the President's opposition. Finally, on yesterday afternoon, the House Committee on Naval Affairs voted by a one-vote margin (13 to 12) to table (kill) the Vinson labor control bill, which would have extended the basic work week from 40 to 48 hours, and which has been pending for some time. This vote was undoubtedly the result of the President's statement that he did not feel that there was any necessity for any increase in the hours of the basic work week, even in war industries, and that he felt no legislation would be required to control wages even though he advocated legislation to control farm prices and all other prices.

I have great respect for President Roosevelt, but I cannot agree with the theory that labor is always right and can be trusted voluntarily to keep wages down, but that our farmers are an unpatriotic group who must be coerced by law to keep their prices down. I think that, as a whole, all groups of Americans are fair and loyal, but there are selfish and disloyal laborers, just as there are selfish and even disloyal farmers, bankers and manufacturers. For that reason, I think it perfectly proper that we fix all profits, prices and wages, but as I see it, the regulation should apply to all alike. I feel that the President made a mistake in not advocating the same treatment for labor as he advocates for the farmers and for capital. I think every group should be ready to make sacrifices for the Nation, and that every organization should be responsible for its acts. There was a time when our Government winked at the special privileges that big business enjoyed. While some business still struggles to retain their special privileges, practically everyone agrees that they are not justified. Neither are labor organizations entitled to the immunity from responsibility for their acts that they now enjoy. Neither should any private organization, whether it be a labor group or a private corporation, have the right to deny American citizens the opportunity to work on war jobs because of failure to pay dues to some organization.

I realize that the President's suggestion that a ceiling be placed on farm prices at 100% of parity, seems, on its face, to be very fair, but before agreeing to such a proposal, I would want to know what is to be done about a floor under farm prices. Labor has a floor under wages (the minimum wage law.) True, this law only guarantees a bare living, but that is all the parity formula does. Even if the farmer is guaranteed parity for his cotton, his wages for his work will only be about one-half that guaranteed to the industrial laborer under the minimum wage law, and many laborers receive much more than the minimum. I am glad they do. I don't want to lower their standard, and neither does the President, but I don't think that it is unfair under the circumstances for the farmer to demand that if he is to be limited to a bare subsistence price for his products that he at least be guaranteed that he will get that price. In other words, he should be given a floor as well as a ceiling.

The present farm program provides a floor of 85% of parity and authorizes a ceiling of 110% of parity. The reason for this was to allow a reasonable range of free price movement. I think that it is a reasonable arrangement. At the time it was adopted the farmer accepted it in good faith. It has not as yet resulted in giving the farmer full parity for his products, although he is approaching the figure. I don't feel that it would be fair to destroy this give-and-take system and impose a ceiling on farm prices that is not imposed on wages without at least giving the farmer some assurance that he will actually get parity. I hope the President will see the justice of this request.

Yours very sincerely,
W. R. Poage, Congressman,
11th Texas District.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
In New York's tough East Side, a boy named Frankie grows up; helping his gang collect funds for their treasury by waylaid Willie, the neighborhood sissy, on his way to music school. With one of his pals, Frankie wanders into a Jascha Heifetz concert at Carnegie Hall, and becomes so fascinated by the great music that he redeems a violin he has secretly pawned, and begins practicing at home. When his intolerant step-father destroys the instrument, Frankie instinctively strikes him, and the step-father threatens to send him to reform school.

Chapter Two

But Frankie chose leaving home to being sent to the reform school, as Miller had wanted. While his step-father was shouting, and making his way to the police, Frankie was out of the window, and away. Into the violin case he had stuffed a few of his spare belongings, his shoe-shine box, his harmonica. Lonely, hungry and listless, the boy walked through the great unfriendliness of the city, snatching for food, shining shoes for the time that would buy a frankfurter. And he acquired a dog, a mongrel pup whose lonely eyes completely in love with her, blinded by an armful of potted flowers, and fresh out of a job. She found out about the job herself. Peter had been working for the owner of a music store, who was owed money by the Lawson School, and who had recently been pressing for payment. She knew what Peter had done, without his saying it, for she loved him, too....

Willie, whom Frankie and his gang had tormented, who had been made to pay "dues," was one of Mr. Lawson's students. When Frankie saw him, he was petrified. After the session was over, the children tumbled down the brownstone steps. Sucker was waiting. So was Willie.

Frankie pretended a wry friendliness, until Willie told him the detectives were after him, and suggested cynically that it would really be too bad if they found him. Despite all of his pathetic objections, Frankie handed over the dime. Here was blackmail, pure and simple. Then Willie bought an ice-cream cone for Betty, who had sung so beautifully and smiled at Frankie. He stared after them, in utter misery. With Sucker by his side, he plodded along the darkening streets. Later, the mist turned to rain, and came down heavily. Frankie saw a policeman, and dodged back toward the school, into its alleyway. He crawled through an open cellar window, and the sound of steps coming would not let go, whose geniality was the only friendly thing Frankie had known for a week. When Frankie went into an auto junk yard, to sleep in an old car, the dog followed him, and his shiny button eyes stopped the tears in Frankie's own. Frankie called him "Sucker."

And Sucker, chasing a cat, led Frankie to the Lawson Music School for Children.
Frankie had run into the old brownstone house after the dog, and had turned to leave when he heard the sound of a flute, and saw children with instruments. Inside, he could see the old Professor, and the small orchestra, and a lovely little girl, beautifully singing. She smiled at Frankie...
"Sound an A, Joey," he heard the Professor say.
A note was struck.
"I said an A—"
Frankie found himself speaking, impulsively. The sound of his voice surprised him.
"That's not an A—that's a G—"
The Professor turned to him.
"How'd you know that?"
"Excuse me—" Frankie muttered, turning quickly to go.
"Guess I shoulda kept my mouth shut—"
"Wait a minute" the old man said. He struck a note.
"What's that?"
"C."
"And this?"
"B flat."
Then the Professor would not let him go, but called for his daughter, Ann, a lovely young woman with the rich beauty of one who has known children in her eyes. They went through the exercise for her, and were both amazed. Frankie had a natural ear. He told them of how his father used to play "the game" of music notes with him.
They made him a student of the school, knowing he could not pay, not knowing he was homeless....
After Ann had led Frankie back to the classroom, she found Peter McCarthy in the hall. Peter was down the stairs sent him huddling in a corner. Sucker barked.

The Professor turned and saw Frankie.
"Hello—any more back there?"
"No—just me."
"Why aren't you home, my boy?"
Frankie was silent, and the Professor knew. He saw the boy's wet clothes, and without a word removed a soaked coat and sweater, wrapped him in a blanket and pushed him onto a bare cot.
"Why did you run away from home?"
"I didn't do anything! My step-father—we couldn't get along, that's all. Wouldn't even let me play my harmonica around the house. Kept sayin' it's a waste of time. He was always barkin' at mom—drivin' her crazy—"
"You know—almost the same thing happened to me—except that I wandered into a music school for rich children. They threw me out."
"Gee, that was cheesy, wasn't it?"
"After that, all my life, I kept dreaming about a place where kids like me—and you—could go... without being thrown out. And now I have it. Isn't that wonderful?"
Frankie was getting sleepy, but the old man's eyes were shining, and he went on.
"We're going to have a concert in a month—maybe you'll be in it. Can you imagine the people who they hear the children? They say—those children are brilliant! They have genius! We must encourage them! We'll shower them with money—so that all those marvelous talents won't be lost to the world—"
His voice was soft now.
"—to a world that's gone mad—It's forgetting the beauty there is in music—... Yes, that's what they'll say..."
Both Frankie and Sucker were asleep.

Softball Notes

In the most lopsided ball game played thus far, "C" Company defeated the "Pillrollers" by a score of 20 to 0. The "Supermen" from Company "C" hit the ball far and wide, gathering twenty hits all total. This feature of this one-sided slugfest was Wilson's homer with the bases loaded. Pitcher Walos also shares the spotlight with Wilson, as he allowed the Pillrollers but two hits. Every man in the "C" Company lineup had at least on bingle.

In an effort to make it two wins in one night, "C" Company challenged "A" Company to play off their postponed game. Although outhitting the "A" Company team, the "Supermen" from "C" Company came out on the short end of the score, 5 to 4. This marked the first defeat for the "C" Company team, and the first setback for Chuck Prantis, who has won four straight games for his club. After losing to Captain Schweha's team by the score of 10 to 1, the Headquarters outfit got back on the team by defeating the "A" Company Giant-killers by a score of 15 to 6. This game was featured by the slugging of Harry Sinclair with a homer and two doubles in four tries.

Both games were postponed last night due to tactical exercises, and will be played at a later date.
