"The names of all characters in today's dramatization are not fictitious, and any resemblance to names of living persons or actual places is purely incidental."

So, you want us to "put it in the paper," and want to know why we don't write an editorial or column about this or that." O. K. We said a column, not a book.

You do it! There are no strings attached to this offer, other than common sense. Of course, we bar religion, politics, and reserve the right to read your script to cut libel and personal abuse.

Just because we don't agree with you, won't mean you're K. O.'d, or, if you slam us, we'll take that, too. Naturally, you'll have to sign the article, or column, and we'll give you a "by-line," making you "guest columnist for the edition.

Now, this is your opportunity, and we WANT you to take advantage of it.

Maybe you want to blister some movement, maybe you want to pat 'em on the back—that's your side. Let's have it.

Its bad. Saturday noon, a man came to our back door. From Wisconsin. In Texas 12 years. More than likely, no relatives. Hungry. Was a "pourer" in a niron smelter. Lost an arm, the job with it. We fed him and gave him a "lunch to go." Goin' no place. Grey-headed. Wasnt mad at the world. No one owed him anything. Was going nowhere. Said "education" was what he lacked. It's tragic, and THERE is a lesson if youll get it.

Social Security man reminds for the umpteenth time that if you have ONE employee, you must file Social Security Tax returns. That's Federal, if we're right, not State.

Two schools starting, a Red Cross "Home Nursing" school. For be it for anyone to say anything against anything that can in any way be hooked up, either accidentally, or on purpose, with defense, altho some of them are mighty far away.

We know six or more Conference colleges and universities who are woefully behind with their defense publicity. The other one is just about to win the war its own little self. And, they're telling high heaven how good they are. They are good, and so are the others.

753rd Has Its Charlie McCarthy And Bergen

"Jerry Ignuts" and his mouth-piece, Lester P. Marx are the team making up the 753rd's Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen.

They appeared recently over radio station WHAS, Louisville, on the Ft. Knox Army Parade Program, and Marx has toured Ohio, Illinois, West Virginia, Michigan, and other mid-western states.

Frank N. Martinez, also with the act, hails from Detroit, and is a featured singer of Spanish songs, with the usual equipment, his favorite guitar.

Both are members of the medical detachment of the 753rd, and will probably be billed locally before many days.

Besides being a natural ventriloquist, who performs with "lop movement," Marx has for 10 years run an old fashioned London Punch and Judy show.

Watch for "Jerry Ignutz" and his mouthpiece, Marx, accompanied by Martinez.

MEXICAN TIES ONE UP BY FOOT; SHOOT ANOTHER IN FOOT

Sheriff J. H. Brown's looking for a self-styled "bad man" who's seen too many "horse operas."

This youngster, a Mexican, whose name the sheriff doesn't know, strung one young Mexican lad up by the foot near Pidcoke, the sheriff said, and shot another through the foot.

To make this western story complete, he disappeared in a cloud of dust, or maybe mud, on a "borrowed" cayuse, if our Spanish is correct. This gay caballero has not been seen since.

LIVESTOCK SHIPPERS EMERGENCY COUNCIL MEETS MAY 23

Livestock shippers and producers traffic interests will be aired in Ft. Worth, Saturday, May 23, at the Blackstone.

The meeting, working in cooperation with the Office of Defense Transportation, will work out problems to achieve the most economical movement of farm and ranch products to markets, in view of the shortage of tires and truck equipment.

In a year's report from the Food Stamp Office, the following was disclosed today: Orange Stamps (purchased) issued were $85,000.00, Blue Stamps (free and given to "clients") $66,518.50. Total eating bill, $151,753.50. Boy, that's GROCERIES!

Now, Mrs. W. C. Perry's young hen's made. And she ought to, too! She layed an egg!

It's a big egg! It's a big egg this size: 8½x6½. If you know your egg measurements—that's some egg. Mrs. W. C. Perry didn't say whether this was a "feature attraction" or just one of those "unusuals." Looks like Coryell county is getting just a lot like California. Nearly everything that makes "news" is "unusual," and that's what they say about California weather, altho, according to the censor, weather is taboo in any state.

Now, you may be getting allergic to these egg stories, but, lookin' at it this way, this is good good promotion for the egg business, and the AF know what that means) program which is most necessary now.

COMANCHE G. JURY LAUDS DISTRICT JUDGE R. B. CROSS

In their grand jury report to the court, the grand jury of Comanche had this commendable comment with reference to District Judge R. B. Cross, according to The Comanche Chief:

"We wish to thank your Honor for the able charge delivered us when empaneled. We would have been glad that every citizen of Comanche county could have been present and listened to this discourse. In these times of war and distress among the nations of the earth we as American people should appreciate more than ever the Democracy we are privileged to live in. As stated in your charge, we feel that we have the greatest government to live for, and if need be, to die for in the entire world, and we recognize the fact that the grand jury has an important work under our law to perform."

There were 12 indictments, of which nine were felonies and 3 misdemeanors, reported by the grand jury.

At the completion of the present class, another will be started immediately.

A MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY WASHINGTON

May 1, 1942

TO THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS:

This week a new campaign for the sale of War Bonds and Savings Stamps is under way throughout the Nation. It is the War Bond Quota Campaign.

It is urgently necessary that you double the rate at which you are now buying War Bonds and Stamps. This will mean the sale direct to individual Americans of War Bonds and Stamps to the amount of not less than one billion dollars every month.

One billion dollars a month is the National quota. It is equal to one-tenth the combined incomes of all Americans.

This money is needed to buy the tools of war for your fighting forces. It will not pay for all of them. Our war expenditures now are at the rate of about FOUR BILLIONS a month, and they are growing daily. But a billion dollars a month direct from the people will make all-out production possible. Without it we cannot do our best; without it we cannot put forth our full effort.

It is desperately needed for another reason. We can't fight a war and at the same time live and spend as usual. There are not enough goods to go around — the things we buy with money. If we go on spending at the 1941 scale, we'll be robbing the fighting men to add to our own comfort or pleasure. We'll be driving up the cost of living for all of us. We'll be imposing dire hardships on our neighbors.

What is asked of you is ten per cent of your earnings — a tithe for Liberty. It is not a tax; it is not even a contribution; it is a loan at interest, for your use and protection later.

Your Government asks you to cut down your expenditures, to SAVE — your boys on the firing line and in the training camps, through your Government, ask you to save so that they may have what they need to win YOUR WAR for you — America asks you to save; to SAVE TO WIN THE WAR; to buy War Bonds and Stamps up to not less than ten per cent of your income.

Is Liberty worth it? Is Democracy worth it? Is America worth it? I think I know your answer.

Sincerely,

W. M. C. Magenthauf

The above letter was sent to this newspaper by Secretary Morgenthau in Washington. We publish it in the interest of the War Bond Quota Campaign and earnestly recommend that all our readers do their share in the tremendous job ahead of financing the War effort.

Timely Tips on the # Use and Care of Your Electric Refrigerator

Uncle Sam wants you to take good care of your electric equipment—to make it last. Here are some suggestions that will help you get longer life and better service from your always economical electric refrigerator:

Defrost whenever frost is about 1/4 inch thick. Frost acts as an insulator—retards cold making.

Be sure door gasket seals tightly. Wipe off any grease that falls on gasket as grease destroys rubber.

Wash inside of refrigerator, including freezer, with weak baking soda solution each time you defrost.

Wash exterior with cloth dampened in lukewarm water and mild soap. If non-porcelain, wax occasionally to preserve finish.

If an open unit model, keep oiled per manufacturer's instructions. Closed unit models need no oiling.

Remove dust from fins of condenser coils occasionally. Keep unit compartment clean.

Don't overcrowd shelves. Air circulation is needed for efficient cooling.

Don't set cold control for lower temperature than necessary. Forty-five degrees is safe.

Cover all liquids. Moisture drawn to freezer speeds formation of frost.

Don't put hot foods in refrigerator. Wait until they cool.

Don't clutter refrigerator with ketchup, canned goods and other items that do not need refrigeration.

Avoid quick freezing as much as possible. It increases running time of motor.

 Everyone knows that food is the keystone in the foundation for physical, mental, spiritual and social health. Parents who want their children to have the same opportunity hundreds of other children to be fine men and women will work together to provide the right food.

Prepare this food in the best way. Help child learn to eat this food. Make it easy to form other good food and health habits.

Eat three regular meals each day. Avoid over eating. Enjoy each meal. Eat leisurely. Get plenty of rest, fresh air, sleep, and sunshine. Learn to enjoy both work and play.

National Cotton Week

National Cotton Week is May 15-23 when attention is called to cotton materials for their longer life and serviceable features thru processes such as vat dyeing, sanforizing, wrinkle resisting, crinkle weaving so they require minimum care to keep their appearance. Reading the labels on materials and garments will give information as to the qualities they possess.

Light weight denim, seersucker, gaberdine, covert and shirting materials make excellent work clothes. For women and girls taking the place of men and boys on the farm and in industry a one-piece garment is suggested. This might be a overall with long sleeves, trousers legs belted in at the ankles, and no large pockets to catch on things. Oxfords, anklets, gloves, wide hat or bonnet complete the costume.

An Idea on Washing Greens

The family washing machine can be drafted into service during cleaning time to wash the greens free of grit, Mustard, turnip tops, and spinach are sometimes stubborn greens to wash and they can be handled in the washing machine much the same as clothes except the soap is not used on them.

Mildew on English Peas
 Some mildew has been reported on English pea vines and control measures recommended for them have been dousing them with sulphur while the dew is still on the leaves.

Removal of Mildew Stains

From Fabrics

Another mildew has been giving trouble on materials lately. It is the common stain on fabrics which is the growth of molds on fabrics which have remained damp for a time. Control measures include: 1. Washing with soap and water and drying in the sun. 2. Soaking in sour milk over night and placing in the sun without rinsing. Repeat if necessary. 3. Moistening the stain with lemon juice and salt and placing in the sun. 4. Old persistent stains may be bleached out of material other than silk or wool with Javelle water (p. 4 in Stain Removal for Fabric bulletin.) Also potassium permanganate or oxalic have been used to remove mildew stains, and directions for using them are in the same bulletin. Available at the County and H. D. A. office.

Dear Wardie:

I sometimes wisnt I was a little bug. I'd crawl in a bugle and go on a big toot.

Uncle Ezra Watkins got shot last week. He's the fother of 14 kids, too. Somebody mistook him fer a rabbit.

He was in that rodeo in San Antone last Sunday. A woman told Uncle Tobias to get off her foot. He said put yer foot where it belongs. She did. Now Uncle Tobe eats a standing up.

Johnny Bridgers told me at the rodeo why the cowboys likes to die with their boots on. It's so they wont hurt their toes when they kicks the bucket.

Eli Bostwick's wife had triplets last week. Hot dog! Six more pounds of sugar!

Uncle Ezra always walks into the honky tonk as if he owns the place Uncle Tobias always walks in like he don't give a dam who owns it. Uncle Ezra gets to stay a little longer.

Wash Kimbers runner away from his wife the other day, and the judge charged him with desertion. Wash said, "Helsafire, Jedge, I ain't no deserter. I'm a refugee."

Say, why don't you run the standing up side down onct, so the Phillies would be in first place?

Lll be a seein' you, Pal. Take keer of your tires, and "Keep 'em Flyin'."

SAMUEL GOLDWYN presents Jascha HEIFETZ They Shall Have MUSIC! ANDREA LEEDS - JOEL McCREA GENE REYNOLDS - WALTER BRENNAN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: In gratitude for the kindness extended to him by Professor Lawson and his lovely daughter Ann, Frankie, a homeless New York urchin, attempts to save the Lawson School for Music from its creditors. Playing before Carnegie Hall, he meets Jascha Heifetz and obtains a promise to help from the great violinist. Peter, Ann's loyal fiance, exaggerates the report to the school's creditors, informing them that Heifetz will play in person at the coming concert, and wins their support. Meanwhile Frankie's East Side pals, anxious to help him, steal Heifetz's famed Stradivarius. When the creditors discover that Heifetz does not intend to play at the school, they plan to stop the concert.

Chapter Five

Peter's arrival at the Heifetz apartment was breathless. Full of hope, he walked straight into the arms of the waiting police, for the moment he mentioned the music school, two detectives took him in arm. He had heard nothing of the theft of the Stradivarius violin, or of the visit of Frankie's friends.

Meanwhile, Frankie grieved over the almost certain fate of the music school, which he had loved had lost a tooth; stuffing the vacant space with cotton seemed the best idea, so it was done.

Outside, the committee of resolute mothers held the fort against Mr. Flower and his legal agents. He had arrived, accompanied by a sheriff's deputy, who was quite helpless before the busom guardians. The deputy moved as though to charge the buttress of matronliness, but was stopped before a blow could be struck. A voice from one of the top steps commanded him to halt, and he did. It was his wife.

Flower sent for the police.

At the police station, Frankie firmly refused to talk, until Heifetz should come. The police said he was on his way, to recover the precious instrument. And then they brought in Dominick, Fever and Rooka. Dominick promptly took the blame, but Frankie protested. He wanted to talk to Heifetz.

The bulwark Captain decided that Peter was innocent of the entire affair, and ordered his release from the cell inside. Coming out, he saw Frankie, and the police told him that Frankie had been caught with the Heifetz violin.

"Him!" Peter exclaimed. "Where'd you get it, Frankie?"

Frankie was weak with pain, but firm.

"I'm not going to say anything until they bring Mr. Heifetz. That's the only way I'll get to

SIDE GLANCES ON TEXAS HISTORY By Charles O. Hucker

ZEBULON PIKE ON THE TEXAS MUSTANG

When you try to describe Texas in terms of its distinctive animal life, you can't be very well satisfied with the buffalo, the deer, or the wild hog. It's the ramous wild mustang you think about with hesitation. That is because the wily little horse has so unique a significance in the early history of the state. For, long before it became world-renowned as an oil land—even before it was known as a cotton land or a cattle land—Texas was fabled for mustangs.

It is a historical fact that the first Anglo-American incursions into Texas, those of Phillip Nolan around 1800, were incited by the lure of its horseflesh; and it is obvious, moreover, that the mustang more than anything else in the territory fascinated young Zebulon M. Pike, discoverer of Pike's Peak, who crossed Texas in 1807 and 1811 gave the United States its earliest first-hand knowledge of the Southwest in a volume entitled "Exploratory Travels Through the Western Territories of North America."

The mustangs seem to have fascinated Pike as completely as they did because they were such perverse creatures. It was well, he intimated, that they were so numerous "as to afford supplies for all the savages who border on the province, the Spaniards, and vast droves for the other provinces of the United States, which find their way out, notwithstanding the trade being contraband." But they were such a nuisance.

Mustangs as Horse-Thieves

"They go in such large gangs," Pike wrote, "that it is requisite to keep an advance guard of horsemen, in order to frighten them away." If you didn't take that precaution, he warned, before you could do anything to stop them they would have swept right by you and stolen your own horses and mules from under your nose. "A gentleman told me," he added as evidence, "he saw 700 beasts carried off at one time, not one of which was ever recovered."

It wasn't enough just to be careful out on the prairies, either, according to Pike. The mustangs oftentimes came right up to the very outskirts of "St. Antonio" to steal away the citizens' mounts.

The Spaniards, however, got their revenge by making a profitable business of mustang-breaking. Pike detailed their method as follows: "They build a large inclosure with a door which enters into a smaller inclosure; from the entrance of the large pen they project wings out into the prairie for a great distance." Then they rounded up a mustang herd and drove it into the large pen.

Technique of the Breaking-In

However, the process wasn't at all simple, for if they happened to start too many mustangs toward the pen it was too bad. Either the horses would destroy the pen utterly and get away, or they would madly trample part of the herd under foot until the dead horses were stacked up so high they formed a stile up to the fence, over which the remaining ones could easily step.

If the horsemen could get about 200 mustangs into their large pen, all was well. "They select the handsomest and youngest, noose them, and take them into the small inclosure, then turn out the others. After which, by starving, preventing them from taking any repose, and continually keeping them in motion, they subdue them by degrees, and finally break them to submit to the saddle and bridle," Pike explained.

"For this business," he concluded, "I presume there is no nation in the world superior to the Spaniards of Texas."

"Hello, Mr. Heifetz," Frankie smiled. "Remember me?"

so much. Even Dominick had begun to understand. "You liked it there, huh, Frankie? Gee, I wish I coulda got to go."

"It was wonderful—" Frankie mused.

He started suddenly, grabbing a newspaper from Dominick's hands. "Hey, wait a minute. What's this about Heifetz?"

"What's it say?"

"Seventy thousand dollar Stradivarius—stolen—somebody swiped somethin' off'n him. Jiminy, seventy thousand bucks! Gee, I bet if somebody found that thing for him—he could get anything he wanted outa Heifetz!"

"Yeah," said Dominick nervously. "I bet he could. Must be diamonds or somethin'."

"No, look, it's a violin! Whadda ya know about that!"

Dominick's throat closed up; his voice was a whoose.

"Can't be! Not for seventy thousand bucks! Say, I better get goin'—gotta see the fellers about somethin'—"

And suddenly he was off, running like a streak.

Frankie's yelled after him, with no response, and soon he began to realize what had occurred, that he himself had the precious violin. He looked at the newspaper, then at the violin, and his face lit up. He hobbled over to pick up the precious case, and dragged his way down the street, sweating with the pain of his injured leg.

Unable to go on, he stopped at a pool room, and telephoned the hotel where Heifetz was staying.

He spoke to Heifetz's excited manager, who promised that the violinist would be over immediately. But in a few minutes, sirens screamed around the pool room, and Frankie was in the hands of the police, unable to understand why Heifetz had not come. They took him to the police station.

At the Lawson School for Music, the dean, seated in wild confusion, the chairs humped around and humped, the dean entered last-minute orders. The old Professor was dressed in his north-south dress suit, while lovely Ann concealed a talk to him—" And then he heard the violinist's voice.

"Yes. This is the violin. Thank you. Thank you very much."

Frankie dragged himself over to where Heifetz stood.

"Mr. Heifetz. Hello, Mr. Heifetz. Remember me?"

There was no sign of recognition.

"Remember in front of Carnegie Hall? You stopped and talked to us—"

"Yes—" said Heifetz quietly. "You look familiar."

Heifetz's manager was impatient. "Come on, Jascha. We're a half hour late already!"

"Mr. Heifetz, I been tryin' to see you. The school's in a jam—and you gotta help us out!"

"Some other time, Jascha!" the manager interrupted. "They'll be frantic! With the Grand Duchess and everybody waitin'—"

But Frankie would not be stopped.

"Remember you promised to come down, Mr. Heifetz? You said if you got back in time—you'd come to our concert. Well, it's tonight!"

"I'm sorry, my boy. Tonight's impossible."

"But the school needs you, Mr. Heifetz. They'll close it down if you don't come!"

Frankie's voice grew weaker, and the pain was drawing his strength.

"They'll close it down—" he mumbled, and collapsed to the floor. He had fainted.

Peter caught him, and Heifetz bent over the boy. There was concern in his voice.

"Why, the poor boy. We had better get him to a doctor."

"We'll take care of him, Mr. Heifetz," offered the police captain. "Come, Jascha—look what time it is!"

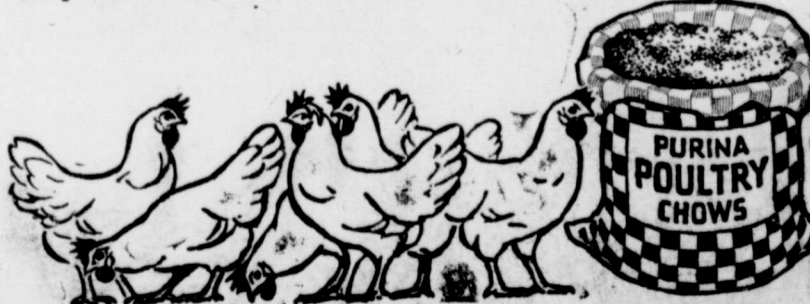

And Heifetz reluctantly turned so go. When Peter looked up, he was out of the door.

"Where's Heifetz! Did he go?" he shouted.

In a second, he was out of the station house, running down the street after Jascha Heifetz.

893D TANK DESTROYER BATTALION

ACCORDING TO SLAMON.....

Saturday was an eventful day for the 893rd Orchestra. Their piano was moved to the new mess hall, so no matter how heavy the Texas dew pours from the skies, the boys are assured of a dry place, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, to rehearse and hold their jam sessions, which are tentatively scheduled for every Thursday night.

Tech. 5th Grade Naylor, the man of many words, and Sammy (Mad Man) Lillibridge, also a man of many words, are threatening to write a new tune, but at this writing haven't as to what type they want. "The Great Gabbo" (Lillibridge) insists on the blues, while Naylor (who hasn't lost his girl) wants a love song. It should be interesting to check the progress of these two distorters of the King's English. Will Naylor lose his girl, too, so they can write a blues tune, or will Lillibridge's girl take him back so they can write a love tune? Only time will tell, so tune on the next issue for the answer to this burning question. Saturday at the broadcast the Hoodmen were visited by Col. Westover, who talked to the boys and encouraged them to carry on the work they have started. Thanks a lot, Colonel; the boys in the band sincerely appreciated your little pep talk.

Johnny Fischette was caught knocking himself out with some long haired stuff the other day—proof enough that jazz and classical music are sisters under the skin.

The band got a wire the other day from Joe Disma who is in the hospital recovering from a motorcycle accident requesting Jackson Williams to sing "My Buddy." Here's hoping for a speedy recovery to you Joe and tune in Saturday at 5:30 and I'm sure the request will be complied with.

With the transfer of Captain Eldredge to the Tank Destroyer Command, Major Hays has again designated 1st Lieut. James P. Ogden to assume control of the camp Post Exchange.

Mobile Bridge Ponton

Massive rubberized cotton pontons like the one above aid in giving added mobility and striking power to U. S. armored forces. By the use of such pontons with heavy steel treadways, new armored force bridges can be erected faster and carry heavier loads than any other military bridge in existence.

OFF THE RECORD

The "Roughriders" (Corporals Felker and McCracken) are temporarily on the shelf due to a slight accident in which Corporal McCracken suffered minor cuts and bruises. Sergeant George (Ace) Carlson, who will soon leave the 893rd for the Air Corps, was heard hollering "Contact" in his sleep the other night. The personnel section has been enhanced with the addition of Pvt. Mertens, who holds a sheepskin from Columbia University.

SOFTBALL NOTES

At this writing, it appears that "B" Company will cop all honors for the first round. However, "C" Company has an equal number of losses, but must play Headquarters and Reconnaissance companies, both of whom have been playing heads up ball and are very capable of knocking off the "C" Company team.

PROVISIONAL TRUCK COMPANY

Another week has passed and each day finds the Provisional Truck Company's Vehicle Operators (streamlines truck drivers) more and more at home in Gatesville, even the fellows from Chicago (.....Yankees) (two words) are finding that the girls are just as pretty and it doesn't take a lot of bright lights, rumbolling street cars and thousands of auto horns blowing all at the same time to make life worth while, no, take a bright starry night, a big Texas moon, the smell of fragrant flowers and one of those "CUTE LITTLE RASCALS" like all the fellows rave about and it makes you forget that you are in the army; then you can recline in your bunk and dream of all the lovely things that happened to you during the events of the evening—but here comes the sad part—the sergeant's whistle sound the time for reveille. Really, folks, the "sarge" isn't such a bad guy; he has a job to do and there is a war to be won, and we are just the guys to do it.

Speaking in behalf of every driver, as well as myself, I wish to express our most sincere appreciation for the splendid cooperation shown by the citizens of Gatesville and surrounding territory for making our convoys much easier, and if at some time or other you can't see any point to what we are doing or why we are holding you at some corner, don't get peeved; just remember, "Sometimes we misjudge what others do, because we know not what they had to do. We'll "KEEP 'EM ROLLING." Bye now.

JACKSON. P. S.—Hear Ye! Hear Ye! All ye softball players, Manager Howie (Homerun) Le Compte extends a challenge to all comers, providing, of course, that they are capable of offering a little competition to the fast moving, hard hitting "10" of the "Provisional Truck Company. So, come on "fellers," let's play ball.
