WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO? By Maxine Dollins

(Note: The views expressed in this letter are the views of the writer, and are not, necessarily, the views of this newspaper.)

We've all heard and talked war—soap-box orators have gone over the situation from a to z and have come to conclusions no better than you or I might. Our boys realize, of course that we're in war, realize its seriousness, and feel confident of victory, but the thing paramount in their minds is "what are we going to do after the war? Will there be jobs for us?" American youth doesn't value life as much as what can be done with life. What are YOU, Mr. Businessman, going to do with and for our boys after the war?

There are two possibilities which will exist after the war—the first, and the more probable, will be a terrible depression, with jobless disillusioned people shifting aimlessly from one part of the country to another, and plenty of taxes to be faced every day; the second, and the one we all hope for, is a boom in business. No, this isn't entirely impossible. Why? In England at the present time, the people are more united than ever before in all England's history. The so-called classes have been broken down and for the first time, the laborers and nobles have rubbed shoulders and are fighting for their lives, liberty, and for the great English Empire itself, have realized the importance of living and working together, sharing common ideas and desires. After the war, England will be a new country, striving for unity, and will be a more democratic nation. America, as you know, was founded on these principles, but unfortunately selfishness and greed is steadily gaining control of the lives of many Americans. They have become so money-mad and live, speak and think only in terms of money. It not only happens in New York, Chicago, California, but it happens right here! It is this kind of ever-growing madness that the young people fear. The present world condition is attributed entirely to greed. How can one expect the young Americans to make these United States the greatest nation in the world if the older people set such a poor and disgusting example for us?

It is discouraging to the youth to have to fight and give their lives for something so lacking in goodness—such selfishness of money and power mad war-mongers. Practically all of us young people are dependent upon our elders for leadership and guidance in our every day lives—they hold monopoly on business, and control every other enterprise. Some of us are old enough and capable enough to accept leadership in our stride, but at the time when business opportunities seemed golden, war spread to practically every country on the globe and demanded YOUNG MEN. All they have worked for and dreamed for was suddenly and cruelly erased, and the one thought

School No More At These Places; Folks Moved Out

Here are the "extinct" schools of Coryell county, according to information from County Superintendent Ollie Little's office.

They are Maple, Clear Creek, Antelope, Harmony, and Brown's Creek. These are permanently closed, and there may yet be others.

People who were patrons of these schools for the most part have moved to other parts of the county, or out, and their children will be in new districts this next year.

Capt. Hooker "Hooks" 1st In NRA Firing

Captain J. C. Hooker, of the First Tank Destroyer School Orientation Course, which was completed in May, Sunday at San Antonio won first place in the "Rapid Fire Aggregate" firing at the Liberty Pistol Club, in the Texas Championships.

Captain Hooker qualified as "high Expert" with the .45 automatic. He was entered as representing the Tank Destroyer School of Gatesville, Texas.

Other members of the "squad" who fired in Dallas while they were billeted in Gatesville were not with him.

Capt. Hooker, in his letter to the News, said too, that he'd probably be in or around Gatesville before the end of June.

Takes shootin' to win a war, folks, and Captain Hooker can do it!

Ask Any Officer Of the Second TD If It's Hot

They'll tell you, Well, yes!

They got the first taste of Texas summer yesterday, when they first visited Camp Hood in the Second Class of the Orientation Course under direction of the Tank Destroyer School.

There are 234 men in the second class, and more are expected, but not many more.

Brigadier General A. D. Bruce addressed the men Wednesday evening, and the second course is officially "in the groove."

Mr. Officer, Gatesville and Coryell county welcome you, and regret to tell you, it gets hotter the nearer you get to July and August. Just thought you'd like to know.

CORRECTION

It happened in the News office, some how, but Sgt. A. C. Bates, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bates, Sr., has just been promoted to First Sergeant, instead of First Lieutenant. We're sorry to make a "bust" like this, but we're looking forward to writing this First Lieutenant, and not being wrong at it.

Miss Lowrey Burleson, who has been teaching in Orange, is spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Burleson.

Mrs. Jack Bone of Houston is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baker.

Horse Show To Be Feature of Rodeo & Frontier Show

Gatesville's Rodeo and Frontier Celebration will have a new feature for 1942.

This year, in line with the appreciation for better horses (and with gas rationing) a special event for each of the first three nights will be shows of horses from this section of the country.

Scheduled for the first night, will be light type mares with colts at their sides, and the mares will be led at halter.

Second night will show light type stallions, and the third night will be light type horses or mares.

This will only be an exhibition, and there will be no competition. Persons desiring to enter their horses will please contact County Agent Guy Powell, and all men of this section owning horses are invited to show, including the Army Remount Service at San Angelo.

Following up this, John Riley's grand looking Palomino stallion just won a blue ribbon at a recent show in Waco. This horse is a full brother of the Palomino stallion that Lester Manning formerly had.

USO Fund Drive For $2200 Was Opened June 1

Monday, June 1, an organizational drive for $2200 for the United Service Organizations was opened in Coryell county, with Mrs. Turk Brown as county chairman.

The Saturday previous a meeting was called of community chairmen at 2:00 to make plans for the drive.

Temporarily, the USO has taken over the Howard Compton building (Ford) and it is to be re-done for the use of service men at Camp Hood and this vicinity.

The $2200 to be raised in Coryell county will be sent to the national pool to be appropriated back under the regular budgeted program.

No report has been given up to Thursday on the results of the drive, but it is probable that the actual work has not gotten under way as yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Rance Turner, Jr. and baby of Freeport have been visiting here in the Rance Turner home.

Mrs. J. O. Brown submitted to an operation in the Hillcrest hospital at Waco Wednesday night.

USO Takes Over; New Club To Be Built Here

E. N. Cooper, regional supervisor of YMCA unit of USO, and Harvey Smith, architect of San Antonio, who is also a USA regional building councillor, are here making plans for a new USO club for armed forces.

The program of the USO will consist of recreational welfare activities, and Dick Palmatier, formerly of Minneapolis, Minn., has been appointed director of the Gatesville USO club.

Mr. Palmatier is a graduate of Springfield College of Springfield, Minn. He has 15 years experience in social welfare and recreational activities.

Mrs. Palmatier will be here soon and they will establish their home in Gatesville.

Also, an assistant program director has been named and will be located here. This post will be filled by a woman, who has not been announced yet.

Citizens of Gatesville will be called on to help and to direct many activities which will comprise the USO program.

Already, for tonight, a softball game has been scheduled at the athletic field by the USO between the Gatesville Ramblers, managed by "Red" White, and one of the army teams from the 893rd Tank Destroyer Battalion of Camp Hood.

A management committee will be named the first of next week to advise with Mr. Palmatier and to help direct the activities in the club. This will be followed by the naming of an advisory council from existing committees in Gatesville to clarify and direct the activities of the armed forces in Gatesville.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Although Frank Burdon has conceived an immediate liking for Vicky Gow, daughter of the provost of the little town of Baikie, he cannot help disliking her father. Hired as a reporter for the Advertiser, newspaper backing Gow for Parliament, he is instructed to get an interview from Gow and to see that it is set up. The interview is interrupted by Mrs. Hegarty, pleading for the return of her dog, taken by the police for her failure to pay a fine. The provost's brutal handling of the matter so disgusts Burdon, that he prints an indignant account of the incident instead of the interview. He convinces Vicky that his course was dictated by a hatred of injustice. She accompanies him to the Town Hall where the provost is holding an election meeting. Having just returned from a cattle show in an adjoining town, he knows nothing of the newspaper story. The audience interrupts his address by barking, laughing, singing.

Chapter Three

"Daddy couldn't give her a bow-wow, bow-wow. She hasn't got a cat so he couldn't get at that so he took away her bow-wow-wow." The crowd bellowed out the "bow-

There was a furious exchange of threats.

wows" so that they penetrated the thin partitions of the office. Provost Gow's face was white with fury as he read the paper intently. "What is the explanation of this," he asked. Everybody tried to answer at once.

Callendar said, "I never saw the like in forty years of Scotch politics."

"Scottish, man, Scottish," the provost roared. "Who wrote this filth?"

Burdon spoke quietly on the edge of the crowd, "I'm afraid I did."

"You did! You treacherous, little sneaking rat! You snivelling little thug!"

Vicky tried to interpose. Burdon spoke, "You see, Victoria, it's no use."

"Don't you dare address my daughter," roared the provost.

"Oh, shut up," Burdon retorted quietly.

The provost rose and advanced toward him menacingly. Lisbet was hysterical. She shrieked, "Go on, Willie, give the little bounder the hiding he deserves."

Burdon faced him without flinching. "Be careful, damn you, I'm rather good at this," he warned. The provost halted in his advance.

Just then McKellar burst into the room.

"Mr. Provost, Mr. Provost, the sergeant says you must leave the building by the back. The rowdies are getting out of hand."

The provost turned away from Burdon. There was a hurried conference. He would face the crowd, he said. He was adamant on that point. Everybody gathered up their wraps and followed him to the doors.

As they swung open, the provost stepped forward to face the raucous, jeering, shouting crowd. Then with a resoluteness and a gravity that Burdon could hardly credit to him, he stepped forward and walked slowly through the menacing walls of human beings. The balance of his party hurried after him into the waiting cars.

"Scottish candidate barked down," shouted the headlines of the Len-ox newspaper. Provost Gow grab-ed as he read the story. He had already bluntly accused Vicky of disloyalty.

"Lisbet knows how to be loyal," he pointed out. And when Lisbet arrived to announce that Horace had brought Burdon to his office for an interview, they all hurried out after Gow, who was proclaiming, "I'll break that fellow."

The interview was short, acrid, singularly unproductive of results. Gow attempted to cow Burdon from the outset, and when he saw that his plan wouldn't succeed, he said, "How much did they pay you, or was it a fat job?"

"What are you talking about?" asked Burdon, completely non-plussed.

"You needn't act the innocent, we know who's backing you," insisted the provost.

Burdon's expression revealed his contempt. He turned and started out of the office.

Horace and Lisbet rose and cornered him. The provost advanced to his argument again. He was sure it was the opposition that had paid Burdon to discredit him.

Burdon made one more effort to explain. "I came here of my own free will to help you, but after these childish insinuations..."

The provost whipped out a paper. It was a withdrawal of the statements Burdon had written in his article. He was to sign it. Burdon was adamant. Horace jumped into the argument.

"Why not?" he demanded.

"Because every word I wrote was true."

"war—fight—give your life"—took the place of the treasured plans for the future.

Yes, they are glad to fight for our country and to retain its liberty forever, but they want a chance and a job when it's all over!

I recently heard Dorothy Lamour, saleslady of War Bonds for the Treasury Department, via movies, say "When our boys are giving their lives for us, the very least we can do is loan our dollars to the government in exchange for war bonds and stamps." Miss Lamour is right; but, there is something just as important as winning this war, and that is the American future. How can we repay these soldiers for giving us freedom? They do not want medals and glory—all they want is happiness and security above all things! Is that so much to ask? During previous wars, the boys were lauded to the skies, but when they returned home businessmen failed to recognize them—their job was over and well done—yes, and very little they received in return. That is something which we cannot be, and of which we are not proud. What have you personally planned to do for these boys who return after this war? Are you going to be content to give thought only to yourself and let someone else worry about the future of these boys and our country? Remember, we will be in the same place in a few years, and it is up to YOU to give us our right start now! What are you going to do?

Thank you very much for your offer of expressing my views. I think that this not only expresses what I feel, but also a large majority. Possibly there are others who feel the urge to say something, now that I have "broken the ice"—well, why don't you?

WASHINGTON NEWS
FROM OUR CONGRESSMAN
W. R. POAGE

Early this week the House voted 10 to 1 to accept the Senate's action in fixing the pay of privates at $42.00 per month. This vote came on a Conference Committee report. The House had previously voted by a similar majority to fix the base pay of fighting men at $50 per month. The Senate had voted for $42 per month. The Conference Committee had agreed on the Senate figure. The Committee on Military Affairs tried in vain to get the House to agree to the smaller figure. The action of the House means that the Senate must either accept the House figure or ask for a new conference. If a new Conference Committee is appointed, its members from the House will be bound by the vote to insist on the $50 figure. I voted for the $50. I believe that this sum is fair, and I believe that the Senate will accept the action of the House.

Just as soon as it is definitely decided how much the soldiers and sailors are to receive, there will be legislation providing for some kind of allotments to the dependents of men in the service. These allotments will be made by the government to aid the families of men called to the service and will probably require the enlisted men to send a portion of their pay home, but will also provide for the government to add a substantial amount to whatever is taken from the soldier.

The President has set June 30 as the registration date for young men 18 and 19 years of age and those who have reached 20 since December 31, 1941. Under existing law only those who have reached 20 are subject to military service, but the Army is insisting that it be allowed to draft the younger men. They contend that it will cause much less disruption of industry and in homes to take the younger man than it will to take the older men with dependents.

President Roosevelt has recommended a 61 per cent cut in WPA funds for the next fiscal year, beginning July 1. While unemployment is now at the lowest point in 25 years, there are still many who are incapacitated for work through age, illness, or physical handicap. It has been suggested by the spokesman for the Administration that these people should be cared for under a uniform federal-state contribution system of social security assistance. This is, of course, much closer to the plan I have proposed than the Administration has ever before come. I think that we must make provision to take care of every person who cannot work, but I believe that it will be necessary to establish a system financed entirely by the federal government and payable to all who have reached a given age or who are disabled. I have continued to advocate such a system. When such a plan is adopted, it will be possible for us to abolish the WPA as long as there is work for every able bodied employable citizen. Until such plan is adopted, we will have to continue some part of the WPA, as the present wave of prosperity only makes it harder for one who can't get a job to live.

The House has passed the Patman Small Business Corporation Bill providing a $2,000,000 fund to finance small business. It is said by its sponsors that this bill will enable small business to secure a larger share of war contracts. I hope that it has that result. I voted for the bill, as it may do some good and will do no harm, but I am not very hopeful about its results. So long as the Army and Navy and all of the war production agencies want to deal exclusively with big business, there is little chance for little business. As I see it, big business and the big labor organizations are working together to absolutely destroy all independent business. If they succeed, big business will have destroyed all competition, and labor organizations like the CIO will be in a position to make a few contracts with a few concerns and cover the entire United States. Local AF of L union will be wiped out along with the little business men. I am going to continue to fight this concentration of power.

The House has passed a bill to continue the 3 1/2% interest rate on Federal Farm loans and on Commissioners' loans. We have also passed a bill to make Commissioners' loans for another year. These bills came from my Committee on Agriculture. I supported them. In the past, the president has vetoed the 3 1/2% interest bill, and it has been necessary to congress to override his veto. I hope he will sign it this year.

The Melvin Franks Celebrate Their 25th Anniversary

Sunday, May 17, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Franks celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with sixty-one guests present.

The forenoon was spent in greeting and visiting with friends and relatives, and lunch was served in picnic style under shade trees that were outlined with petrified and odd formations of rock gathered from their farm near Levita. In the afternoon the guests gathered on the front lawn, while these singers, Mrs. Carlton Franks, Mrs. Cecil Guyton, Mrs. Urla Burt, Mrs. Vira Petty, Mrs. Marjorie Brown, Misses Venita Powell, Opal Jordan and Alleen Chambers, sang "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," as Mr. and Mrs. Franks, the honorees, were ushered up the aisle of gathered friends, by their pastor, Elder Jasper Chambers.

The bride was dressed in white crepe, and the groom in a business suit of gray.

Elder Chambers commented briefly on the passing of the past twenty-five years, and recalled that it was his grandfather, A. B. Chambers, who performed the wedding ceremony of the celebrants.

Margaret Franks, niece of the couple, acted as ringbearer, and Elder Chambers lifted it tenderly from the heart of a rose, and passed it on to the groom, who placed it upon the ring finger of the bride.

A very appropriate dedication was composed and read by Mrs. Ida Lowe, and after congratulations and expressions of well wishes for many more happiness to the couple, the guests entered the home, and a beautiful tea set of silver was presented to them by Mr. Franks' father and mother and near relatives, as well as other beautiful gifts from friends. Pictures were then taken of the bride and groom with the wedding cake and the silver service, after which the cake was cut and served to guests. Flowers for the occasion were furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hunt near Oglesby.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Grover Lowe, Mrs. Lawrence Brown of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Defur, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Burt and sons, Bennie and Billie, Mrs. Lillian Franks and son, Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wiegand, Mrs. J. SUGGESTIONS FOR THE CARE OF YOUR

Electric Washer

Your electric washer is a friend in need these busy wartime days. It not only saves you time and energy; it helps you conserve clothes and linens and reduces your laundering costs. Here are some timely hints that will make your washer last longer and give you better service:

Drain washer immediately after washing. Rinse tub thoroughly. Remove agitator or suction cups and rinse.

Remove any soap curd or lint that may have remained in tub, agitator or suction cups with soft cloth or sponge.

Rolls and frame of wringer should be wiped dry. Release pressure on rolls when not in use. Saves the spring and the rubber.

Wipe connecting cord dry, coil and hang up carefully. Do not allow to kink and crack rubber insulation.

Leave cover off tub until all dampness has evaporated, to prevent mustiness.

Follow manufacturer's instructions concerning oil-ing and lubricating requirements. Consult dealer from whom you bought washer if in doubt.

If washer is stored outdoors, bring inside and let stand an hour before using in very cold weather. This gives grease in gear case a chance to soften and may prevent a burned-out motor.

Do not overload washer with too many pieces and do not use too much water. Follow manufacturer's directions.

Remove large buttons, buckles, etc., before running clothes through wringer. Otherwise you may break same or chew up wringer rolls.

Put a cover over your washer when not in use, if stored where dust can accumulate.

INSIGNIA—893rd

Numerous requests have been made about our insignia, and we are going to give a history of it. The "Fighting 893rd" insignia is known as a Wyvern or Waevern on a shield of infantry blue. Its interesting history, based on legend, should make the men feel justly proud of such an emblem. The Wyvern insignia was born around mid-June, 1941. It was located in the files of the Library of Congress. This prehistoric and legendary animal, resembling a flying dragon, was emblazoned on the shield of Richard the Lion Hearted. In an unsuccessful encounter between the usurper, King John, and Richard, this shield proved the deciding winning factor for Richard. Later this emblem was seen on the ruling houses of Normandy, France, namely the crests of the Houses of Laurence and Stuart. It later appears on three battle standards over Moscow prior to the inglorious retreat of Napoleon. We shall not fail such an inspiration!

Motor Maintenance Of the Army

One busy place in an army camp, regardless of size, is a maintenance section. The maintenance personnel have a lot to do when it comes down to facts. These men in plain words "keep 'em rolling" in the camp, in the field and in combat. The duties of all men concerned is to know every vehicle inside and out. For example, just think how nice it is when you can call upon the Sir Walter Raleigh of the outfit when your vehicle is in mud up over the wheels. Then the maintenance digs in.

After many a blitz, the men of the Company will be in camp, washing up, leaving for town, when the maintenance comes along dragging some cripples back to the park. Since these men are used to long and late hours, they now can eat and enjoy it just to return and have the vehicle ready to roll at a not too future date.

Along with "keeping them rolling" the maintenance must train the drivers of these vehicles. It is their duty to supervise the training, with the teaching of these men. It might be well to note here the real job these maintenance men. The Battalion received their new equipment just prior to leaving on maneuvers in Carolina, and the time for training was short. With the tireless efforts of these men and the never-ceasing cooperation of the drivers, the Battalion went all through the maneuvers without a single accident.

It is said many a time that the maintenance is a Battalion in itself. It must be ready to roll at any call. It must be able to know where the outfit is and the quickest way to get to any given point in any area. It must be able to furnish its own protection. These men must be all around soldiers along with their most important job of "Keeping 'em Rolling."

Clement Matthew Murdzak, infant son of Corp Murdzak, was an entrant in the Gatesville baby contest.

Pfc. Bob Stone, our erstwhile super War Bond salesman, wandered into the army via Long Island City, N. Y.

Sgt. Nichols of Rec. Co. remains in a critical condition at the Camp Bowie hospital.

"C" Co. has gone in heavily for the bonds. Tech. Corp. Collier has put down in actual cash the tidy sum of $506, which represent around $675 on maturity. He is also getting an $18.75 bond each pa yday. The Battalion as a whole is passing the 60 per cent mark on the purchasing, themselves.

It is a well known fact that "Olaf" Johnson and "Third Gear" Van Wert do not miss Philly any more—could it be Waco?

Tech. Corp. Mociun is enroute to Plains, Pa., to attend the ordaining as a Catholic priest, of his brother.

Due to the promotion of Frank Slamon, Pfc. Joseph I Fox, "C" Co., has been chosen to report the news of the 893rd at Camp Hood.

That loud explosion down the company street the other night was a futile scientific experiment, 'twasn't a 155 going off.

"C" Company's supply sergeant is about ready to pop the question to a certain Washington belle.

Nick Wysochansky (whatta moniker) just broke his own weight-lifting record by hoisting them 200-pounds.

Buzz Brzezinski is still in a fog—about Josie?

Buck Vitchock rides again.

Velma Alexander, Rec. mess sergeant, hails from Austin. The only Texan in that outfit.

The 893rd boasts of its fleet relay team, which was barely nosed out by a powerful Annapolis Mid-dies team, in a track meet at the Naval Academy, Corporals Sherlock, Sterrett, Wilcox and Jones, all of "A" Company, composed the team. Corp. Sytar was an excellent miler. Sgt. Dean of Rec. was the best of the high jump boys. For the baseball throw you could not beat Sgt. Austin's throw of 330 feet. Sahadha was a close second. Racutt and Mamula heaved the shot for "B" Company. They are pretty good "Blozis."

SCHOOL NOTES

Officially due to start on Thursday with an opening lecture by General A. D. Bruce, the second Officers' Orientation Course of the Tank Destroyer School started a bit prematurely Wednesday night.

The School played host to Lt. Col. Warren J. Clear, U. S. Military Observer from the Far East.

Introduced by General Bruce, Lt. Col. Clear told the student officers a vivid tale of war in the far reaches of the Pacific, maked Cby his own narrow escape from Corregidor in a submarine.

Following the fall of Singapore, preceded by the Malayan campaign which Lt. Col. Clear witnessed, his duty carried him to the Philippines. Bataan, and Corregidor afterwards, was a story of the dogged resistance of sleepless, hungry, disease-ridden American soldiers against the relentless pursuit by well fed, numerically superior Japanese troops and guns.

But it was also a story of heroic courage and devotion, and typical American humor under stress, as exemplified by the following story as related by Lt. Col. Clear: One soldier asked his buddy what the devil that lump of meat in his mess kit was. His buddy said it was mule meat, and that he had been eating it for the past three days. "Well," said the first soldier, "I've been beating those darn critters for ten years, and now they are getting even with me!"

Lt. Col. Clear looks back on the Philippines with a "fierce pride," and said that with the proper training, such as will be given in the Tank Destroyer School, there would be no finer soldier in the world than the American soldier. On Saturday morning, May 30, 1942, the first class of the Officers' Orientation Course of the Tank Destroyers School was graduated.

The class was composed of 260 officers from all over the country. And of one month's duration, the course consisted of a series of lectures, discussions, critiques, and field exercises conducted both here in the City Hall auditorium and out at Camp Hood. In the Camp Hood area two battalions, the 753rd Tank Battalion and the 893rd Tank Destroyer Battalion, were used as a school training troops, demonstrating new weapons, engaging in maneuvers, and employing new tactics.

But conscious of the stern task to be faced there was no fanfare or ceremony attending the graduation. General Andrew D. Bruce, commanding general of the Tank Destroyer Command, conducted the last monring' s session. Business-like down to the last minute, exercises consisted of a critique—a summing up of the last month's work.

It may be said that the purpose of the first school of its type in the country—perhaps the world—is to standardize and teach new methods, tactics and principles in the destruction of tanks. As one instructor so aptly put it: "The Tank Destroyer mission is: Find them!—Get to them!—Destroy them!"

At the close of the graduation exercises of the Tank Destroyer School last Saturday morning, Colonel Hammand D. Birks, senior student officer of the school, on behalf of his fellow students paid tribute to the hospitality of Gatesville residents.

Said Colonel Birks: "General Bruce . . . In behalf of the students of the First Orientation Course of the Tank Destroyer School, I want to express our thanks to Colonel Mayberry and his instructor assistants for the splendid efforts put out for our benefit. I know that each one of us will return to our home stations better prepared to perform the tasks that lie before us as a result.

I also want to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to the Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Gatesville for their efficient and courteous management of their end of the undertaking. We have lived in their homes for one month, and I know by experience that the term 'Southern Hospitality' is no idle boast in this community of fine Americans—'Deep in the Heart of Texas!'"
